"THE LATE TENANT"

By GORDON HOLMES

David was saved from the difficulty of answering by a feeble indication of Van Hupfeldt's wish to speak. The doctor gave him some water, then a little weak brandy and water. Violet again helped David to hold him, and the unfortunate man, seemingly recognizing her, now turned his head toward her.

"Forgive me," he whispered, with the labored distinctness of one who speaks with the utmost effort. "I have deceived you vilely. I wished to make reparation. I think I know all you wish to tell me," said Violet, bravely, "and, even so, I am sorry for you."

"You heard what the doctor said?" he muttered. "Yes, but you will recover. Don't try to talk. You must calm yourself. Then the doctor will help."

"I know more than he knows of my own condition. I am dying. I shall be dead in a few minutes. It is only just. I shall die here, where Gwen died — my Gwen, whom I loved more than my own soul. May God forgive me."

"Oh, don't," cried Violet, brokenly, the presence of grey death, that last and greatest adjuster of wrong, obliterated many a bitter vow and stifled cry for vengeance in her.

"It is just," he whispered again. "I killed her by that letter. And now she has summoned me to the grave, she who gave her life to shield me. Ah! what a punishment was mine! when I flew here from Paris to tell her that all was well, and arrived only in time to see her die! She died in my arms, just as I am dying in yours, Vi! But she suffered, and I, who deserve all the suffering, am falling away without pain."

Truly, he seemed to gain strength as he spoke; he still fancied he had seen Gwen; the gathering mist clouded his brain to that extent.

Violet's eyes were dim with tears; her lips trembled so that she scarcely could utter a word. The doctor, who was watching Van Hupfeldt narrowly, said to her in a low tone: "Take my advice, and leave us now."

But Van Hupfeldt heard him, and raised himself determinedly for a final effort. Yet he spoke with difficulty and brokenly. "I escaped down the service-lift that night—once again when Harcourt shot at me. I only wished to see her. I made my will—you know—the lawyers will explain. The boy—Mrs. Carter—New street, Birmingham. See to the boy, Vi, for Gwen's sake. Ah, God! for her sake!"

And that was all. Violet, weeping bitterly, was led away from over the mantelpiece the wild eyes of a portrait in chalk of a beautiful woman looked down in pity; it may be, on the dead face of the man lying on the floor. And so ended the sad love story of Henry Van Hupfeldt and Gwendoline Harcourt. In the street beyond, happy people were jingling along, bringing people home from the restaurants. London reeked with the last scene of one of its busy dramas.

Yet it had its sequel in life and love. Violet, her mother, and she were devoted to him; but limited wealth closed when it involved constant obedience to her whims. Yet, rather than lose him to her whims, she agreed to his occasional visits to England during the season, and when hunting was toward. Eager to shake off the thimble of the Straus regime, he then invariably passed under his real name of Van Hupfeldt.

Hence, when he fell in love with Gwendoline, and resolved to make her his in defiance of all social law, he was obliged to tell her that he was also Johann Straus, and under an obligation to the Mrs. Straus who had adopted him. Gwendoline's diary, which, with the certificates, was found in a bureau, became clear enough when annotated with these facts. Van Hupfeldt himself left the fewest possible papers, the letter accompanying the will merely setting forth his wishes, and announcing that he desired to marry Violet, as an act of reparation to the memory of her sister. This had become a manna with him. The unglorious man thought that, this way, he could win forgiveness.

And then the bright world became a Valley of Despair for David Harcourt. During many a bitter hour he lamented Van Hupfeldt's death. Alive, he was a chester Gardens. He knew that in Mrs. Harrod she would find a friend, and it was an added relief to him to discover, after repeated ringings had brought a servant to the door, that Mrs. Mordaunt was there, too.

To save Violet the undue strain of an explanation, there was no need for that. She was down stairs promptly, having heard the imperative bell, certain that news of Violet was to hand.

So he told of the night's doings to a child, A, which is the first quality of this, an extremely rare. The coat and muff illustrated is an attractive example of high class fur garments, many of which will be seen at that great fashionable event, the Horse Show.

Once, he was in a hansom on the way to Enston, telling himself he was going to Enston, to give the gamekeeper that promised licking; but he stopped the cab and returned, saying bitterly: "Why am I trying to fool myself? That is not the David of my acquaintance."

So he went back, calling in at a florist's and buying a huge bouquet of violets, thinking to reach Nirvana by their scent, and thereby hugging himself so egregiously that he was in dependent mood when he set down to a lonely tea in his three long months, nor since he took Mrs. Mordaunt and her to the train for Warwickshire, and, walking armed with Dabbin from the station, started with the fearful news of her intolerable inheritance.

Would Not Talk on SCOTT ACT MATTERS Inspector Dickinson on Moncton Refused to Discuss His Duties With Evangelical Alliance.

Moncton, N. B., Nov. 4.—Scott Act Inspector Dickinson declined to meet the Evangelical Alliance this afternoon and discuss the difficulties of enforcing the Scott act. As the inspector did not reply to the invitation to be present he was called up by telephone but replied he was too busy to attend.

Members of the alliance were indignant at the action of the inspector failing to show up and they decided to interview the council in reference to Scott act enforcement. Ald. Crandall, chairman of the police committee, was present and discussed the Scott act situation with the alliance.

J. C. Sherrin left tonight for Ottawa with a petition praying for a commutation of the death sentence in the case of Thomas Collins, who is sentenced to be hanged by the gallows this month. The petition was presented to the governor-in-council and the doomed man's counsel has strong hopes of being successful.

TO TAP ONTARIO TOWNS Ontario Government's Power System to Furnish Power to All Principal Towns in the Province

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Surveys of the main transmission lines from Niagara Falls to the municipalities in the western power union have been completed by the engineers of the Hydraulic Electric Power Commission and branch line surveys will be completed in a fortnight. A loop system is adopted in the case of the principal lines, the main loop being 400 miles in length. A breakdown in this made practically impossible. The main lines run from Niagara Falls to Hamilton; from Hamilton to Brantford, Woodstock; from Brantford to London; from London to Guelph, Galt, Berlin, Stratford, St. Marys, London.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babies. The whole-some green leaves and tender stems of a long-healing mountain shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harmful, used in its manufacture. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all druggists.

NINETEEN LOST IN ORION WRECK

Grand Banks Schooner Sunk and All Hands Perished—Other Vessels Missing and Hope of Their Safety Gone.

North Sydney, N. S., Nov. 4.—All hope of ever seeing the Newfoundland fishing schooner Orion, with her captain and crew of eighteen souls, has been given up. The month ago the schooner was last seen off Bath's Harbor, when she was shortly for Grand Banks, her home port.

Shortly after the Orion sailed a terrible southwest gale sprang up, which wrought such havoc to the fishing craft. Since then three gales have swept the coast and in one of them the Orion is believed to have gone down with all hands. The vessel was owned by George Buffett of Grand Banks, and commanded by Edward Evans. All the crew, with few exceptions, leave wives and large families.

Another schooner came to grief during the same storm. The fishing craft Kingfisher, owned by Fred Rowe of North Sydney. At the time the Kingfisher succeeded making Kelly's Cove, but afterwards parted her cables and was driven hard ashore on the beach. The crew were saved safely and walked to North Sydney. The vessel is likely a total wreck, and uninsured.

During the blow four vessels, lying at anchor in North Sydney harbor, had a narrow escape from going to the bottom, as a result of the Nova Scotia schooner lily, dragging her cables and was driven down like a cork. Both craft crashed into Gloucester seiners Priscilla Smith and Victoria, and for a time things looked bad. The Priscilla Smith had the jaw of her foremast torn away, side lights demolished, and the point of her boom broken. This damage was caused by the Madam, which escaped unharmed. The last laden vessel swung around and crashed into the dory and was prevented from doing further damage by jamming between the other two craft.

STENOGRAPHERS WANT MORE PAY Nova Scotia Court Reporters Will Not Work for $10 Per Day.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 4.—The latest industrial strike in Nova Scotia is that of the court stenographers. There are five of them and they refuse to work longer unless the government comes to terms with them.

The stenographers say they will not stand for this. They want to be paid for the time spent in traveling, hence the strike.

The opening gun will be fired before Judge Meserve tomorrow, and when he convenes court in Halifax at 10 o'clock there will be no official to take down the proceedings. What the judge will do about this is causing some interested speculation.

CHATHAM ASSAULT CASE Chatham, N. B., Nov. 4.—The preliminary examination into the charge against man Meserveau on October 25 was held in the police court here for assailing Alder Archibald Frackear for assaulting Alder-ate Commors. R. A. Lawlor represents the crown and E. P. Williston, of Newcastle, the defence.

Several witnesses were examined and testified to having seen Frackear call Alder Meserveau and after a few minutes talk, strike him, knocking him down and then picking him up.

No witnesses were called for the defence and Frackear was committed for trial at the January sitting of the county court. He was allowed bail in the sum of $2,000.

FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL

CANADIAN BANKING SYSTEM BETTER THAN UNITED STATES

Crisis Such As Faced American Banks Could Hardly Come in Canada--Banks Strengthening Themselves--Their Outside Safety Fund Reaches $68,000,000.

(Special Montreal Correspondence of the Boston Transcript.) The main reliance of the banks in case of emergency, is in their foreign balances and loans. Taken together, they amount to $88,000,000 at the end of September, and quite possibly the total has been increased since then. The specie and legal are ample for handling minor disturbances. The foreign credits are sufficient for almost anything that can be conceived as likely to happen. When New York was able to stem this terrible panic with the aid of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 of government money, there is no reason for doubting that the banks in Canada could handle any imaginable crisis here by bringing in only a part of the $88,000,000 they have at their call.

Another thing from which all thinking people here are now drawing great comfort is the fact that the banks are all without exception commercial banks. The great bulk of their attention and resources has always been devoted to financing manufactures and the movement of commodities. They have kept themselves religiously clean from such things as precipitated the runs on the certain New York banks and trust companies that got into trouble. The closest observers rather expect that the happenings of 1893 will in some respects be duplicated. It is felt that now, especially since the clearing house certificates have been resorted to that industrial corporations and firms will have very great difficulty in getting loans of any kind. In 1893 the Montreal banks had very numerous applications from American businessmen who were almost frantic for loans. They offered unimpeachable security and were ready to enter into contracts agreeing to do their banking business in Canada for a term of years. But these applications were not generally entertained as the banks felt that their first duty lay in supporting Canadian mercantile borrowers. The September bank statement, with the usual comparisons, follows--

CANADIAN BANKS table with columns for Capital paid, Surplus, Liabilities, Government deposits, Provincial deposits, Public deposits, Loans, and Assets.

Under the branch system of Canada this disturbing factor would be entirely lacking. If all the branch banks in the country are controlled, absolutely, from the centre. No money whatever would be sent to places where there was no disturbance. The cash would be kept at the points where it was needed; and practically every dollar would do duty in the fighting line. In view of the panic of depositors in New York more than the usual attention was bestowed on the September statement of the Canadian banks. It is eminently reassuring from the depositor's point of view. Beginning in April of this year strengthening banks themselves. At the end of March their proportion of available cash assets stood at 16.88 per cent. In the September statement each consecutive month since then, without exception, shows a gain in strength. By the end of September the percentage had increased to 17.75 per cent. Since the end of March their liability has increased $15,000,000, but their cash resources increased in the same time $15,000,000. The increase has taken place in the highest class of quality assets, viz: Mar. 31, 1907, 17.97, 16.88, 17.07, 17.12, 17.15, 17.18, 17.21, 17.24, 17.27, 17.30, 17.33, 17.36, 17.39, 17.42, 17.45, 17.48, THE ASSESSMENT LAW The city council is apparently very reluctant to take any further action in regard to the proposed new assessment law. The reason for this disinclination is not very clear. The action of the legislature at the last session need not necessarily be regarded as final, and there is the same crying need for a new law as when the council appointed the commission which drew up the bill rejected by the legislature. The board of trade has given attention to the matter and its taxation committee some months since prepared a series of amendments to the bill. The aldermen have been urged to consider these amendments and confer with the board of trade committee in the hope that such amendments may be jointly agreed upon as will make the amended bill satisfactory to the legislature. The aldermen can scarcely do less than take up the question and give it careful consideration. They owe this duty to themselves and to the other taxpayers of the city.

BOURASSA DEFEATED The Bourassa movement in provincial politics in Quebec received a severe check in yesterday's by-elections. It was generally believed that Mr. Bourassa would make a better showing in Bellechasse, although he was opposed to a man who had represented the constituency for fifteen years and who had been twice elected by acclamation. Of course the government candidates in Bellechasse, Nicolet and Montmorency were all ministers, with portfolios, which gave them a great advantage. The Gouin government is nevertheless stronger as a result of these successes, and it will be interesting to learn what now will be Mr. Bourassa's attitude with regard to provincial politics. He is not dismayed by defeat, and is young enough to be able to look forward to a future day of success. For the time his crusade in the realm of provincial politics has lost interest. It does not follow that the principles he advocated will be forgotten by the people. He has given the politics of Quebec a much needed shaking up, and the general result will be beneficial, even if he for the time goes down to defeat. His sincerity is undoubted, his ability beyond question, and he is enough of a philosopher to bide his time. It is still true that Henri Bourassa is one of the strong men of his race, and a potential influence in the politics of Canada. On the other hand Mr. Turgeon has reason to rejoice in his personal vindication, and Hon. Mr. Gouin in the vindication of his course as premier.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION Ninety per cent of the pupils in the schools must, when they grow up, engage in the practical affairs of the home, the farm, the workshop or other occupations than those of the learned professions. The report of the United States Education Commissioner for 1904 shows that the necessity to labor for subsistence, or other causes compels or induces 98.6 out of a hundred pupils to stop short of a college course, and 94 out of a hundred to stop before leaving the primary grades. What does this imply? Simply that important as may be higher education the great work of the schools must be done in the common schools. Training in the mechanical industries and home economics must not be withheld from pupils in the primary schools if the great mass of children are to receive the training that should fit them to labor in the fields, the shops and the homes.

This is the fact set forth in the clearest manner in an address delivered by W. M. Hays, assistant secretary of agriculture, and published by order of the U. S. department of agriculture. While the subject of the address is Country Life Education, it treats generally of the whole system of training and the development of technical education in the United States. Mr. Hays points out that in education the first step was the establishment of private schools. Then gradually followed free primary schools, academies, colleges, city high schools, normal schools, state colleges and universities. The old system was confined to classical learning, and when technical education was introduced it was in a graduate course, and thus confined to college men. Mr. Hays shows how tenaciously the school men cling to the old ideas, and how it was due to practical men of affairs, through legislation, that scientific, technical and industrial studies were brought into the system. He deals with the development of the consolidated school in rural districts as a necessary part of the new system, and strongly supports the contention that the federal government should grant aid to agricultural high schools in all rural districts. The following summary of what has been accomplished in the United States is interesting and very encouraging to the friends of the practical in education: "While Congress inaugurated industrial education; while Minnesota has the credit of designing a successful course of agricultural high-school work; while a number of our cities, as Philadelphia, Brooklyn, St. Paul, St. Louis, Chicago, and Menominee, have proven mechanic arts high schools to be practicable; while Ohio, Indiana, and other states have made practicable that most difficult of changes, the consolidation of the rural schools; and while Alabama has the credit of being first to locate an agricultural high school in each congressional district, the great Southern State of Georgia has the proud distinction of first proceeding to finance a system of agricultural high schools throughout the state. Last July the legislature of Georgia passed an act authorizing Governor Terrell to locate an agricultural high school in each of the eleven congressional districts of the state, and turned over the funds reserved as tag taxes on fertilizers and oils for their use as an annual support fund. The act required the people of the respective districts to furnish farms, buildings, and equipments. Governor Terrell secured experts to aid in the selection of farms suitable for school and branch experiment-station work. He employed an architect to prepare a bird's-eye view of campus and buildings, and he called upon educators to aid in devising a course of study devoted especially to agriculture and home economics, and articulating with the rural schools below, and with the farm, at the same time leading toward the collegiate agricultural course in the University of Georgia. "The people of Georgia were thus so fully aroused to the importance of these schools that the bids of different cities and counties for them reached figures which put our rich northern states in the shade. All but one of the eleven schools have been located, and what will be the bid of the last one is pretty well known. The total thus given, almost wholly by individual subscribers for the 200 or 300 acre farms, for buildings and equipments, amounts to over $800,000—more than $70,000 with which to equip each school. Is it any wonder that this magnificent response by the people of Georgia to his appeal to thus use modern technical education to bring still higher her rising industries and home making led Governor Terrell to suggest to his congressmen to secure a federal grant for more money with which to supply these schools, and for a branch experiment station at each school, a more nearly adequate annual expense fund?"

The movement in the United States to secure federal aid for technical education has been followed by a similar movement in Canada. At the meeting of the maritime board of trade in Amherst two years ago Mr. W. Frank Hatheway strongly urged this course, and in other parts of the country similar advocacy has been heard from time to time. Resolutions from various bodies have urged the federal government to deal with the question in a practical way, and there is reason to hope that these representations will ere long produce the desired result. Lieut. Gov. Tweedie will address the Canadian Club in Keith's Assembly rooms next Tuesday, on the subject of our forest wealth and its conservation. The subject is one of very great importance in New Brunswick at the present time, and the governor has had special facilities for years past to make himself thoroughly conversant with its varied aspects. If the forest wealth of the province were more wisely conserved there would not be such conditions in the lumber industry as exist at the present time. The burning of the river steamer Springfield removes one of the oldest craft on the river, and she is the second of the river fleet to be destroyed within a few months. While there will be some inconvenience, the close of the season is so near at hand that business will not be so much affected in the district the Springfield served as if the accident had occurred at an earlier date.

President Falconer's plea for breath in national life may well be heeded by all Canadians. In this vast country, so wide in area, so varied in resources, and filling up with people from so many lands, there is need of men with broad views and high ideals. Capt. Bernier is still eager to go to the north pole, and is not discouraged by a frosty reception at Ottawa.

The C. P. R. Montreal train was three hours late yesterday afternoon. The delay was said to be caused by the hold-up in traffic at a collapsed bridge near Sherbrooke (P. Q.). It was found necessary to use the Boston & Maine line via Newport Junction, in order to keep communication open with Montreal. Commencing today the main line of the C. P. R. will be open again.

AS OLD AS MAN.

An old physician of the last generation was not at all brusque in manner and old-fashioned in methods. One time a lady called him in to treat her baby who was slightly ailing. The doctor prescribed castor oil.

WHY HE DEPARTED.

The elder Sothara, the creator of the Lord Dunsbury fame, was extremely sensitive to interruptions of any sort. Seeing a man in the act of leaving his box during the delivery of one of the actor's best speeches, he shouted out: "Hi, you air, do you know there is another act?"

AS IT WILL BE.

"Will you have this here woman to be your lawful wedded wife?" "That's what I loved I would." "Will you love honor and obey her?" "Ain't you got that switched 'round 'round?" said the bridegroom. "John?" said the bride-elect, "don't you reckon the parson knows his business? Answer the question!" "Yes, air," said the bridegroom, meekly. "I reckon I'll have to!"—Atlantic Constitution.

A BORDEN CHALLENGE (Montreal Gazette).

Mr. Borden's speech at Winnipeg will make it harder for the government at the next session of parliament to refuse an enquiry into the source of the campaign funds used by the two parties in the parliamentary election of 1904. Mr. Aylesworth and Mr. Pugsley have returned to the Conservative fund and reproached Mr. Borden personally in the connection. Mr. Pugsley especially has spoken as from personal knowledge and authority, where it came from and what was done with it. Mr. Pugsley is a man of weight and a leader of his party, speaking with the authority and responsibility of a minister. Mr. Borden tells him, and all others, that if an investigation is desired he is ready to do it in, provided, of course, that both funds are dealt with. Mr. Borden favors a royal commission rather than a parliamentary committee for the work. The body to conduct the enquiry, however, is a matter of detail. The point of importance is that the leader of the Opposition, responding to the attacks of ministers, declares his readiness to go the whole length in finding out the origin, amount and use of campaign funds. He also promises to tell what he knows about the Conservative fund. The government can hardly avoid meeting this challenge, which its own members provoked. If it does meet it and there is a real enquiry, it may safely be said that some remarkable disclosures will be made, and some now prominent men will be laid low.

WEDDINGS Howe-Chipman

Sussex, N. B., Nov. 4.—(Special)—Joseph Howe, the celebrated athlete and graduate of Acadia, now principal of the Grammar school here, shipped quietly away on Thursday last to his home in Kentville (N. S.), where he was supposed to spend the Thanksgiving holiday, and in addition to his holiday he got married and arrived here Saturday with his charming bride. The event was a great surprise to the teaching staff, pupils and public generally. The interesting event took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Chipman, of Chipman's Corner (N. S.), when their daughter, Miss Annie S., was united in marriage to Joseph Howe by Rev. D. E. W. White, of Kentville. The bride was attired in white silk and her traveling gown was of a blue broadcloth with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Howe will reside on Main street, Sussex.

QUEBEC GOVERNMENT WON IN ALL FOUR CONSTITUENCIES

Mr. Turgeon Defeated Mr. Bourassa in Bellechasse by 772 Votes--Strong Rebuke to Policy of Nationalism Is the General Opinion.

Quebec, Nov. 4--Hon. Adolphe Turgeon, minister of lands and forests, was re-elected in Bellechasse county today by an overwhelming majority. According to the most reliable returns, he polled about 772 votes more than his opponent, Henri Bourassa, who met with a crushing defeat. The result of the election was beyond the expectation of Hon. Mr. Turgeon, who reckoned on a majority of not more than 600 votes, while on the other hand it must have given a disappointment to Mr. Bourassa, who hoped, at least, to reduce his opponent's majority, if not to defeat him.

Hon. Mr. Turgeon has been representing the constituency of Bellechasse for the last fifteen years, having first been elected in 1892, by a majority of 18 over Zephirin Audelet. On May 1897 Hon. Mr. Turgeon was again returned by a majority of 434 over Francois Catouguay, the Conservative candidate. In the elections of 1900 and 1904 Hon. Mr. Turgeon was returned by acclamation on both occasions. His appearance before the electorate was the outcome of a change of maladministration made against him as minister by Le Nationaliste, a French weekly of Montreal. These changes finally led to the placing of the editor on trial for libel at the June assizes. Relying chiefly on alleged copies of letters and a defence attempted to establish that Hon. Mr. Turgeon, with the connivance of other members of the cabinet, requested a contribution of $60,000 to the election fund from a certain Belgian syndicate with which the government was negotiating the sale of a 900,000 acre concession in the Athabasca region. This contribution according to the allegation of the editor of Le Nationaliste, was to be paid above the price of the land. The jury, however, failed to agree with the result that the paper returned its attack on Hon. Mr. Turgeon and a campaign headed by Henri Bourassa, then M. P. for Labelle, was started against him last summer.

The minister of lands and forests finally had recourse to the civil courts pending the editor's second trial at the assizes and upon obtaining judgment in his favor resigned his seat in Bellechasse, challenging his opponent to run against him. Mr. Bourassa accepted and resigned for the purpose of opposing Hon. Mr. Turgeon on his own ground. It is generally held that the crushing defeat of the editor for Labelle will at the same time prove a deadly blow to the cause of nationalism and together with the resignation of the editor will considerably strengthen the present provincial administration. Hon. Mr. Turgeon said last night that he was extremely touched at the great confidence in him which was manifested on this occasion by his electors and that an overwhelming success was scarcely expected, he said, considering the worth of his opponent and the strenuous character of the fight on both sides, still he had not hesitated a few days ago to inform friends making inquiries that they could wager for a majority of over 800 votes.

Hon. Mr. Turgeon tonight staying at St. Raphael, the county town where he went to await the election returns. His opponent, who passed the day at St. Charles, came here tonight by train. He does not appear to be affected by his defeat, contrary to the attitude of some of his supporters, but smiles and jokes the same as before. "It is not my policy to talk after an election," he observed in a jovial mood, when asked if he had anything to say. He, however, admitted that the result of the election surprised him a little. As to his intentions for the future the ex-member for Labelle would say nothing save that for the time being he would return to Montreal to look after his business. Mr. Bourassa declared, however, that he would always be ready to champion the cause of nationalism in any constituency, if called upon to do so. There is some talk here that he may possibly run in Chateauguay, but this is not confirmed. Mr. Bourassa was the object of an adverse demonstration when he boarded the train at St. Charles. Senator Choquette addressed the gathering, declaring the victory was an indication that Hon. Mr. Turgeon was most likely to succeed. Hon. Lower Gouin is premier. The remark elicited loud applause.

According to the latest returns which, however, have not been officially revised, Hon. Mr. Turgeon polled a majority of 1,077 votes in eight parishes, as follows: St. Michel, 138; Beaumont, 118; St. Valier, 177; St. Raphael, 214; St. Charles, 201; Buckland, 64; Armagh, 130; and St. Philomen, 30. Mr. Bourassa polled a majority of 905 votes in the six remaining parishes namely: St. Germain, 129; St. Nere, 73; St. Lazare, 44; St. Damien, 19; St. Magloire, 32; and St. Camille, 14.

Hon. Mr. Turgeon succeeded in obtaining a substantial majority at Bouclard, where he polled 564 over Seigny, Conservative. In Montmorency Hon. Alex. Taschereau, the new minister of mines and colonies, was elected by 825 over Bernier, Conservative. In Rimouski, Danjou, Independent Liberal, was elected by a good majority.

The Liberals of Quebec are organizing a demonstration to Hon. Mr. Turgeon, in Montmorency and Chas. R. Devlin, who won in Nicolet, for tomorrow night will all three are expected back to the city. In Nicolet, Hon. Chas. Devlin, the new provincial minister, was elected by 1,077 over Seigny, Conservative. In Montmorency Hon. Alex. Taschereau, the new minister of mines and colonies, was elected by 825 over Bernier, Conservative. In Rimouski, Danjou, Independent Liberal, was elected by a good majority.

Under the provisions of the Bank Act directors of banks are prohibited from declaring a dividend or bonus which will impair the paid up capital, and if any dividend or bonus is so declared or made payable, the directors who knowingly and wilfully concurred therein are held liable therefor as a debt due by them to the bank. If any part of the paid-up capital is lost, the directors shall, if the subscribed capital is not paid up, forthwith make calls upon the shareholders to an amount equivalent to such loss. It is noted in this connection that the action of the directors, heretofore referred to, must be knowingly and wilfully done. When the Yarmouth bank failed it was shown that dividends had been paid which impaired the bank's capital, and that there had been gross negligence on the part of the directors in the management of the bank. Thereupon an action was instituted on behalf of the shareholders against the five directors of the defunct bank, asking that the defendants be ordered to account for dividends improperly paid, by which the capital of the bank was impaired, and also for an accounting for the dealings with the Reddings, to whom large sums of money had been loaned which were in reality investments. The defence to this was a denial of knowledge that dividends were paid out of the capital of the bank, and that the directors employed a manager in whom they had implicit confidence, and that they were deceived by him. Judge Mr. Justice Townshend, who held that in the absence of fraud the directors could only be held liable for gross negligence. They could not be held liable when they had used reasonable diligence and had acted in good faith, neither could they be held responsible for losses arising out of mere mismanagement. They could be held liable, however, for losses arising out of recklessness or lack of reasonable business prudence. If the directors had knowledge of the condition of the bank's affairs, and with that knowledge in their possession permitted it to continue, and year after year sanctioned the declaration and payment of dividends, it would, in his opinion, constitute gross negligence on their part, to render them liable for losses, at any rate such losses and dividends as happened after it came to their knowledge. Similar judgments have been rendered elsewhere in other cases, and the question arises "What are the bank directors for?" The success of banking institutions depends upon the good management and the confidence of the public. The latter is due, to a large extent, to the reputation of the directors for business experience and commercial ability. Take away this latter feature and the bank will certainly go to the wall. If, then, the directors are not to be held responsible for wrongs virtually committed by their officers and virtually endorsed by the former, confidence will lose its hold. The public expects that directors will, at least, know what they are doing, and if they declare a dividend out of capital they should know whether it has been earned. The Bank Act uses the words "knowingly and wilfully." If bank directors do not know a bank's actual financial condition--if they do not know what the public expects them to know, they are unfit for the position; but it unfortunately happens that the shareholders are kept in the dark until, and sometimes long after, the mischief has been done. We fear that in some instances too much is left to the managers. They should at least be subjected to close supervision, and the danger of misrepresentation to them should be averted. This can be done and is done in our larger institutions. It should also be done in the smaller ones, where the existence of exclusively one-man power is fraught with jeopardy. The Canadian Bankers' Association, which has done much to increase public confidence in our banks, might consider the question, and recommend to the government any amendments to the Bank Act which they consider desirable.

YOU CAN MIX THIS YOURSELF Easily Prepared at Small Cost and Many Swear By It. Mix the following, by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from any good prescription pharmacy. The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness. Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

SMALLPOX IN TORONTO Toronto, Nov. 4 (Special).--A case of smallpox was discovered in St. Michael's hospital, and one ward with eight patients is quarantined. Mrs. May Cooper, of Hopland Landing, the patient, was removed to the isolation hospital. The family of B. P. Green, of North Weymouth, were suddenly awakened a few mornings ago at an early hour by a blow which latter feature and the bank will certainly go to the wall. If, then, the directors are not to be held responsible for wrongs virtually committed by their officers and virtually endorsed by the former, confidence will lose its hold. The public expects that directors will, at least, know what they are doing, and if they declare a dividend out of capital they should know whether it has been earned. The Bank Act uses the words "knowingly and wilfully." If bank directors do not know a bank's actual financial condition--if they

NEW SUGGESTION FOR A HELICOPTER

The Idea Is That the Two Propellers Be Placed On a Walking-Beam Arrangement.

A correspondent of the Scientific American offers the following solution of the problem of aerial navigation: The aeroplane is a long step in advance of the dirigible balloon, but it suffers two disadvantages--the necessity for high speed in starting and maintaining flight, and the great risk in alighting. I consider the gyroscope the most promising form of machine to which attention can be given. Is not a gyroscope a number of gliding planes arranged in a circle? In revolving a horizontal fan across the air, a number of small planes set in motion, and will not their pressure in forcing the air downward be just as effective as if they were driven forward in a straight line? Any heavier-than-air machine must raise itself by forcing the air downward, and the most effective way will prove to be by the horizontal fan or gyroscope. If a single fan were operated from the centre of the car, the moment the car left the ground it would spin in the direction opposite to the propeller. Two propellers have been tried, one above the other, driven in opposite directions. Unfortunately the lower propeller works in the current of air driven downward from the upper one, and so is very inefficient. My suggestion is that two propellers be placed one at each end of a walking beam or whiffletree arrangement, with the car swung pivotally from the centre of the beam like a pendulum. If a propeller were attached to a mast at each end of a long car, it would be difficult to distribute the weight and adjust the lifting power, and the machine would turn turtle. But with the car swung like a pendulum from the centre of the beam, balance could be maintained by automatic devices to control the air as it is forced downward, but a large percentage is thrown off horizontally by centrifugal force, and so wasted. If two hands, one above the other, encircled each fan and curved downward, the air escaping to the sides would be deflected downward, and so in part check this waste.

To this the Scientific American makes the following comment, editorially: Our correspondent advances ideas that are generally supposed to be correct, but are disproved by experiment. His notion that when two propellers of a helicopter are superposed and revolved in opposite directions, the thrust of the lower one is seriously interfered with by its downward draft, from the one above, has been disproved time and again in practical tests. His idea of placing runs upon his propellers to keep the air from being thrown off by centrifugal force is not based upon the facts, for by holding a handkerchief or strip of paper beside a rapidly revolving fan, it can readily be seen that the draft of air toward the centre of the fan is produced near the tips of the blades, instead of the air being thrown out by centrifugal force. Second, the idea of having a fan having a multiplicity of blades encircled by a rim is not as efficient as an ordinary two-bladed propeller. The idea of having two propellers attached to a walking-beam seems, however, to be novel.

DECEMBER 4 THE DATE FOR HAZEN BANQUET J. D. Hazen Accepts Testimonial Which Will Be Tendered in Keith's Assembly Rooms.

The banquet to be tendered J. D. Hazen, K. O., leader of the local opposition, will be given in the assembly rooms of Keith's theatre on Wednesday, Dec. 4. At a recent meeting of the supporters of the local opposition held in this city, it was unanimously decided to tender Mr. Hazen this mark of appreciation and a sub-committee was appointed to consider details. Yesterday the committee consisting of seven members, waited on Mr. Hazen and formally asked him to accept the proposed banquet as a mark of appreciation and esteem which was felt for him as the leader of the party. Mr. Hazen graciously replied expressing his pleasure in accepting the committee's pleasure. Among those who will be present will be the members of the local opposition in the New Brunswick and all the candidates who have been nominated in the interests of the party in the various constituencies. Supporters of Mr. Hazen from both the federal parties will be among those in attendance. The banquet is being looked forward to with much pleasant anticipation.

FOR MORAL AND SOCIAL REFORM Church Conference in Toronto Makes a Move for Co-operation.

An important inter-denominational conference on moral reform took place last week in St. James Square Church, Toronto, when nearly thirty ministers and laymen agreed upon concerted action in several directions along lines of social and moral movements. The churches represented were the Anglican, Baptist, Methodist, and Presbyterian. Rev. Mr. Silcox was to represent the Congregationalists, but was detained at another meeting. The subject of co-operation in general was considered at length, and a motion was unanimously carried appointing a committee, with Rev. Dr. J. G. Silcox as convener, and consisting of the chairman and secretary or two other representatives of the moral reform committees of all the churches, and other organizations, such as the Lord's Day Alliance and the Dominion Alliance, to consider how far and in what ways the churches can cooperate for moral and social reform, and to call another inter-denominational conference at some future date, to which the committee will report. It was further unanimously agreed that the secretaries or other representatives of all moral and social reform committees should be requested to meet and unite in presenting before the provincial and dominion government a request for moral and social reform legislation of a reform character on all points on which they agree.

THIS EVENING

The Every Day Club meets as usual. W. S. Watkins Co. in the Little Minister, at the Opera House. Motion Photographs, Illustrated Songs, and orchestral music at the Nickel. The Cedar Moving Picture Theatre. Performance at the West End Nickel. The Princess Motion Picture Theatre. R. K. Y. C. quarterly meeting at 8 o'clock. Natural History Society, monthly meeting.

LATE LOCALS

The quarterly meeting of the R. K. Y. C. will be held this evening (Nov. 5th) at 8 o'clock. Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways will be in St. John next week on a tour of inspection. Walter Sears, an employe of Stetson, Cutler's sawmill was injured yesterday by being caught in a belt and whirled around. His legs were badly injured. He was attended by Dr. J. McIntyre and afterwards taken to the hospital where he is reported to be resting easily.

Jeremiah Keleher of Market Place, Carleton, fell forty feet from a ladder on Rodney wharf yesterday afternoon. Keleher is employed by the U. P. R. and was climbing the side of the wharf when he lost his balance and fell, striking his head. He was taken to Dr. F. L. Kenny's office and afterwards to the public hospital. Under the auspices of the Men's League of the German street Baptist church of Thursday evening at eight o'clock, T. S. Simms will deliver an address on his tour around the world. The meeting will be held in the school room of the church. No admission fee will be charged, and all are welcome.

In county court chambers, yesterday, Judge Forbes gave decision in the case of Goggin vs Whittaker. He valued the value of furniture and other property. His honor decided in the defendant's favor and the case will probably be taken to the supreme court. W. H. Truman represented the plaintiff and W. B. Wallace, K. C., and G. H. V. Belyea represented the defendant.

THE BENCH SHOW

Entries Closed Yesterday and All the Classes Will Be Well Filled.

Entries for the approaching bench show to be given under the auspices of the New Brunswick Kennel Club closed yesterday, and to less than 150 local dogs have been entered. This number, which exceeds the most sanguine expectations of the committee, eclipses the Hamilton Ontario dog show which was regarded as an excellent one with 150 entries in all, and the club has been established some five years ago. A notable feature is the large number of ladies who have entered their dogs for the show. This is the first annual show to be held here and will be conducted along precisely the same lines as those given at Madison Square Gardens, New York, in Toronto and other large cities. Exhibitors will find their names in the marked catalogues in the respective classes they have entered. Relative to outside entries it is worthy of note that one upper Canadian exhibitor alone is bringing down no less than twenty-five dogs. This, however, will not affect any of the local classes.

Local dog fanciers are enthusiastic over their first annual bench show and are anxious to show upper Canadian dog fanciers that there is every possibility of the permanent establishment of a first class kennel club in St. John. There will be every opportunity for local exhibitors to dispose of their canines, as there will be plenty of visitors on the look out for something good. Among the visitors will be a representative of the famous Sabine Kennels, Texas. This man is an expert judge of fox terriers and never misses a chance to pick up a good one. So keen is his judgment that he has been known to buy a dog for $10 and then, in a side of a month, sell it for $500. His eye is trained to the requirements of breeders and his judgment relied upon by dog fanciers, who will cable any amount of money at his word.

IS A DETECTIVE NOW

Ex-Policeman Robert Crawford Enters the C. P. R. Service at Sand Point.

Ex-Policeman Robert Crawford was yesterday afternoon sworn in as a detective for the C. P. R. He will do special work at Sand Point during the winter port season. Crawford, it will be remembered, was always considered by the chief of police to be an efficient officer, and resigned while under consideration for calling the magistrate an obnoxious name.

Yesterday Crawford went before Magistrate Ritchie with F. R. Taylor of Weldon & McLean, solicitors for the C. P. R., and the magistrate was asked to appoint Crawford as special detective to the C. P. R. The magistrate, however, refused to do so on the ground that Crawford had been dismissed from the force. This Crawford denied, and went with Mr. Taylor before Chief Clark, who stated that Crawford had voluntarily resigned. Under the railway act, special railway police may be appointed either by a magistrate or by two justices of the peace, and the latter method was adopted in the case of Crawford, who went on duty last night.

PERSONALS

Charles Stubbs of the Bank of New Brunswick staff has returned after spending Thanksgiving with his brother at Millerton. Mrs. F. Nicholson and Miss Lawrence, who have been on a visit to New York, will return home today. Miss May Kirby and Miss Hazel Coy left yesterday morning for Gagetown after spending Thanksgiving with Mrs. Hennigar, Orange street. Archbishop McCarthy will leave Halifax this week on an episcopal visitation to Bermuda. Hon. H. R. Emmerson, of Dorchester, is at the Royal. Judge Landry, of Dorchester, was at the Royal yesterday. Mrs. Fred A. Estey arrived home last evening after a very pleasant visit to Mrs. F. W. Emmerson, Moncton. Miss Helen Lockhart returned to Sackville yesterday to resume her studies at Mount Allison. W. C. Pugsley and Maurice D. Coll returned last evening, after attending the big automobile meet at New York.

PROPERTY TROUBLE WILL GO TO COURT

Litigation Expected Between W. V. Hatfield and White Candy Co. Ltd.

Evidence of friction between the White Candy Company and W. J. Hatfield have existed for some time, and there have been several police court cases in which Mr. Hatfield has charged the company with dumping coal on the sidewalk and now other litigation threatens. Mr. Hatfield declares that his daughter and himself are the largest individual property owners in the block, and he falls to see any trouble or inconvenience that would result to them from the double tracking. He thinks the people of the district should apply for an injunction restraining the White Candy Company from keeping the sidewalk in a filthy condition. Mr. Hatfield adds that he will keep on reporting the company until he has enough fines registered against them to justify an injunction being granted and for which he will apply.

The company, through their lawyers, Burin & French, have notified Mr. Hatfield to move a gate post from their property and he in turn has had Mr. D. Forbes write them a letter requiring them to straighten the wall of their factory under pain of an action for damages and trespass. Both the intending litigants were seen last night. Each is firmly convinced that he is right and the result is likely to be an action in which some nice points will come up for settlement. Mr. Hatfield says that the wall of the factory overhangs his lot some six or eight inches. He does not specify just how this is an injury or a trespass but he says that he wishes the question settled now if the wall was allowed to remain in that condition for twenty-one years without a complaint being entered he could not compel them to rectify it.

Thomas F. White, manager of the candy company, says he has received a letter from Mr. Forbes containing notice of the impending damages. He did not admit that there was a bulge in the wall, but stated that if there is one it was there when the wall was first built, over thirty years ago. He charges that Mr. Hatfield is trying to force them out of the building. He adds that, should Mr. Hatfield succeed, the only thing to do with the premises would be to make them over into a cheap tenement for twenty or thirty families at $4 or $5 a month.

Six or seven years ago, Mr. White said, the condition of the wall was first brought to his notice by the building inspector, who claimed it was unsafe and ordered strengthening rods to be put in. At that time he protested and secured G. Ernest Fairweather to make an examination. The result of this was that Mr. Fairweather gave it his opinion that when built, in spite of this, Mr. White says, he put in the rods to the satisfaction of the inspector and employed, Mr. Hatfield to do the work. "However," he concluded, "as I said, I am not worrying. I have already had one from two different towns to move my factory there and only waiting to see what inducements they hold out. I don't in the least know why Mr. Hatfield is persecuting me so far as this is concerned. I am not at all the little bit of coal spilt on the sidewalk. I ordered him to take his gate post down the idea that I might compel him to dump his coal on the sidewalk and let him know how it feels. "Still, I think that he will have quite a job to compel us to take down our wall and even if he is successful in driving us away the fact of so many cheap tenements being next door will not increase the value of his property."

THE EVERY DAY CLUB

Singing Class Started Last Evening Under Most Favorable Conditions.

The Every Day Club received a strong infusion of new blood last evening, and the new singing class was started under most favorable conditions. There were about thirty in the class, and as the first lesson will be gone over again next Wednesday evening the number will no doubt be further increased. While some voices may fall out there will still be material for a fine male choir. The singing lessons will be given from 7 to 8 o'clock on Monday and Wednesday evenings, and a business meeting of the club, which will use more than fifty active members, will be held each Monday evening at the close of the singing lesson.

As the weather grows colder the reading and game rooms are more largely patronized. It has been decided to open the reading room on Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and keep them open until the temperance meeting is held at 4 o'clock. At the business meeting last evening a committee of most optimistic spirit prevailed and the older members were greatly encouraged by the outlook. The rooms are open every night as usual to every man.

ARTS AND CRAFTS SHOP

A new enterprise has been entered upon by the Women's Art Association of this city—an Arts and Crafts Shop. This is to encourage home talents and industries in the shape of lace, embroideries, leather, bead, iron, brass and wood work; drawn rugs, home-spun, anything beautiful or useful made by hand. All work sent in must be the best of its kind, as judges decide about admitting work, the association realizing that they must keep faith with the public as to the quality of goods. Any one may send a vase, tin, and a small percentage will be charged on sales. The association hope to make the Arts and Crafts a permanent thing, but in any case it will be open until Christmas, at the studio, 140 Union street, every afternoon, Saturdays and Sundays excepted, where all information may be obtained.

THE HAMPTON SCHOOL

Dr. J. R. Inch, chief superintendent of education was in the city yesterday and returned to Fredericton this morning. He will attend the formal opening of the Hampton Consolidated school on Thursday. Mr. G. W. Tweedie and members of the local government will also attend. Dr. Inch said everything was working harmoniously at the Hampton school. He is about ready to issue the assessment list and states that the taxes will not be over $1.25 on each $100 valuation. The doctor is in accord with the teachers' pension scheme and thinks it should be administered by the government.
