Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes John E. Moore (20.00), Hon. Wm. Pugsley (25.00), Chas. T. Nevins (10.00), J. Morgan & Co. (5.00), D. Mullin (5.00), J. R. Ferguson (5.00), F. A. Jones (10.00), Mrs. G. B. Cushing (5.00), Alexander Wilson (10.00), Dr. W. P. Bonnell (5.00), D. Arnold Fox (2.00), Dr. James Walker (50.00), Schofield Paper Co., Ltd. (10.00). Total to date $6,604.00.

Previously acknowledged, $6,442.00. Amount yet to be raised, $3,396. Several new subscriptions were added to the fund this morning. Hon. Wm. Pugsley, the sculptor, when seen about noon, said he was very much pleased with the progress he had met with this morning. In addition to those who had subscribed, he had received assurances of support from Rev. G. M. Campbell, James Pender, Rev. C. N. Skinner and others.

It has been suggested that an earnest effort should be made now to raise the balance necessary to carry out the work, as the time set by the dominion government in connection with the grant being available, expires in March. It is urged that the provincial government should make a grant of $1,500 and the city council $1,000 to assist this meritorious undertaking.

MOTHERS WIN CIGARETTE CASE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28. - Fifty mothers with more than that many small boys filed into quarter sessions court to accuse half a dozen storekeepers of selling cigarettes to the youngsters. These were the first prosecutions under the new anti-cigarette law. After arraignment the defendants promised that they would cease to deal in cigarettes altogether. There was such applause from the women that the judge had to threaten to clear the court. As the defendants were all poor men, Judge Ferguson said he would suspend sentence. The new law provides a fine of $300 and not less than $100 for selling cigarettes or cigarette paper to any person under 21.

EVERY DAY CLUB

All men who have signed the roll of membership of the Every Day Club are requested to be present on Thursday evening at eight o'clock, along with any others who desire to see the club made effective as an institution "to help men to be men." Thus far the attendance night has been very large, but there has been a lack of organization, partly due to the fact that so many were present and there was so much in the way of entertainment.

EXPECT THAT THE THAW WILL BE SELECTED TODAY AT THE SESSION

Only Three Remained to Be Chosen When Court Opened-- One Hundred Extra Talesmen Summoned While Thirty-five Remain of Old Panel.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. - It is confidently believed by a certain contingency he will be a witness for the prosecution. Barrington was acquainted with Evelyn Nesbit, when Stanford White made his acquaintance and is familiar with the circumstances under which the architect came to know her. Should any attempt be made on the part of the defense to introduce testimony regarding White's acquaintance with Evelyn Nesbit that would tend to blacken the late architect's memory, it is believed that the actor will be put on the stand in rebuttal. One hundred new jury talesmen were present this morning when the Thaw trial was resumed before Justice Fitzgerald. They were summoned yesterday when it seemed that the old panel of 200 might be exhausted before the jury box could be filled. There were three vacant jury chairs when this, the fifth day of the trial was started and there remained about 35 names in the original jury panel to be called. It was agreed that they should first be examined before calling upon any of the newly summoned talesmen.

HIS NAME IS RODGERS

Identity of Man Who Died in Hospital Early This Morning Is Known Now. It has been learned that the name of the unfortunate man who was rescued from drowning at the Pettinling wharf last night, and who died later at the hospital in the dead end of the wharf, is a native of Newfoundland. Dr. Malcolm, resident physician at the hospital, said that a couple of letters were found in the coat pocket, and in one of them it was announced that his brother had died recently. The body is still at the hospital and Dr. Malcolm is unable to state definitely when interment will take place. He adds that if the man was a sailor he will be buried by the government, if not it will devolve upon the city.

WASTING BY-PRODUCTS

U. S. Consul at Vancouver Refers to Commercial Wastefulness. In the new and rapidly developing country of British Columbia, L. E. Dudley, United States Consul at Vancouver, finds in commercial enterprises a degree of wastefulness that appals one who has been accustomed to a state of economy in other communities. This leads him to write:

"But little attempt is made to utilize by-products in any of the enterprises in this province. I will call attention to a few of the opportunities that exist for making fortune from materials that are being thrown away, more often disposed of at considerable cost of labor and expense. There are in the province about 1,500 to 2,000 oak ovens and the number is constantly increasing, yet there is no attempt to utilize the coal tar, which is available in large quantities. Persons familiar with the numerous valuable articles of commerce which coal tar yields can but wonder that some chemist with capital does not seize upon the opportunity here presented.

WARREN-KEATING

The marriage of Miss Fannie F. Keating, of Detroit, England, to Hiram B. Warren, of this city, took place on Thursday last at the residence of W. J. South, Rev. Ann Street, P. McKim, rector of St. Luke's, officiating. The bride was attired in a travelling suit of brown. After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was served, and the happy couple were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts.

McCONAGHEY-MATTHEWS

The marriage took place at Winnipeg on January 19th, of F. J. McConaghey to Miss Nellie Ethel Matthews, daughter of John Matthews, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Sparling, of Grace Methodist church. The bride and groom were both formerly residents of this city. They will reside at 100 Donald street, Winnipeg.

The young people of Galvin Presbyterian church held an enjoyable musical evening in the school room last night. Mr. Murphy presided and an excellent programme was rendered. The evening closed with the singing of the doxology and the benediction.

Mrs. William Thaw is her breakfast. So did Mrs. Harry K. Thaw. Harry himself took some nourishment. The important facts were learned this morning by the careful enquiry of two hundred newspaper representatives, each of whom made an independent investigation. Not only so, but they learned that the Thaws expect to be in fairly good health tomorrow. It is hoped that by tomorrow some member of the family will carry a bouquet, or yawn in court, or whisper to somebody, or do something else of vital importance to a good, readable, thrilling story of the great trial. Stanton White is still dead.

Express Train Struck Special Freight on the Boston and Maine. DEERFIELD, Mass., Jan. 29. - Five persons were killed and several others injured in a collision between an express train and a special freight on the Fitchburg Division of the Boston and Maine railroad near South River today. The killed are all employees of the railroad. The injured included railroad employes and several passengers. The collision was caused by a sudden stopping of the express train, the freight crashing into the rear car before the danger signals could be set. The injuries to the passengers consisted mainly of bruises caused by the sudden stopping of the train and the shock of collision. The wrecked cars at once caught fire and two of the cars of the express were burned.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. - According to a Kingston, Jamaica, despatch to the Sun, under date of yesterday, as a result of the attitude of Governor Swettenham in regard to the American fleet, the British government is likely to order a commission to inquire into the Admiral Davis incident. This investigation will probably be started with a preliminary inquiry by Sydney Oliver, chief of the West India department of the Colonial Office, in London.

UNPARALLELED HEARTLESSNESS

Salvation Army Forced to Bury Body of Deserted Infant They Kindly Cared for-- Why? The body of the homeless babe, who was so cruelly deserted on the night of the 15th of this month, was buried this afternoon, at the expense of the Salvation Army, to whose lot it fell to care for it during its short lifetime. The matron of the S. A. Rescue Home told the Times today that she failed to see why the Army should be called upon to stand the funeral expenses, which would probably amount to ten dollars, and which they were not in a financial position to bear. She adds that the Alms House commissioners should have taken the matter in hand, instead of acting as they have. In all her experience, she says, she has never in any city seen such heartlessness. The body of the deserted little one was placed in a tiny white casket and interred in Fernhill this afternoon. The services were conducted by the matron. Chairman Knodell, of the Alms House commission, said today that had the case been reported to them in the first instance, no matter where the body was placed at the time, they would have inquired into its parentage, and in the event of its being located, they could have been held responsible, though they could have looked to the burial of the child, under present conditions they did not feel justified in doing. Mr. Knodell added that if Coroner Berryman recommended that the child be taken to the Alms House, they would be reported to the Alms House commissioners if the intention had been for them to look after it.

Word has reached the city of the death of James L. Sullivan, ship broker, of Boston, who died suddenly at his home in New Dorchester, Sunday. Thirty years ago the deceased sailed on the coast here. He was a son of Daniel Sullivan, who did business here on Dock street over half a century ago. The deceased married Miss Hayes, daughter of the late Edward Hayes, formerly a baker in this city. Mr. Sullivan is survived by seven children, three girls and four boys. Richard and Henry Sullivan, of this city, are related to the deceased. Interment will be made in Boston. The Truro hockey team are commencing with the Marathon Club relative to games in Truro and here, and in all probability matches will be arranged. ...That... Preposterous ..Will.. BY L. G. MOBERLY.

(Continued.) "I'm sure I don't see what anybody wants to live in a great town for, when they can live in places like this," the girl went on, after another long rapturous pause.

"You talk at random," she said coldly, far more coldly than she usually allowed herself to speak to the rich Miss Hume; "if you want to learn to be a woman of the world, and to behave like other people, you must live in the world amongst people. It is perfect nonsense to suppose you would do any good by sticking yourself down here."

IMPORTANT STATEMENTS

The Ottawa correspondence on another page of this issue, confirmatory of yesterday's despatches, and going into the matter more fully, makes two points very clear. The first is that it is the settled policy of the government at present to continue Halifax as the mail and passenger port. The second is that nationalization of this port is not regarded at Ottawa as something to be accomplished soon, but that in the meantime the government may be induced to do the dredging required, while the city goes on constructing new wharves as needed, and charging wharfage to cover interest and sinking fund.

HOW DO WE SPEND?

People in St. John are considering to what extent they should contribute to a monument to be an ornament to the city. The Boston Journal has a remarkable article on the general subject of spending money and the motives that underlie such action, making a comparison between the sympathy shown for a spendthrift prize-fighter and a great musical composer. Possibly there may be in it a lesson for all of us. We quote:— "Over in New York the other night there was held a benefit for a broken-down little prize-fighter who for years had not done a day's work except that involved in training for encounters with other bruisers. The man had earned thousands upon thousands of dollars in the art of pounding somebody else into insensibility, all of which he had squandered through the dissipation of drink and other sorts of excesses. He should now have been independently wealthy, and would have been had he exercised even the common sense of a squirrel. Instead of which he was a battered and poverty-stricken derelict and his friends—with a loyalty for which we cannot help honoring him—arranged a performance to help him and in one way and another actually got together, it is said, $25,000 for his maintenance. "In a little country town of New England there lives in poverty and the pitiful gloom of a darkened intellect the greatest composer that this western land has ever produced. He is Edward A. MacDowell, whose splendid orchestral works have delighted music-lovers both here and in Europe. He labored for years in the interests of art at salaries that never adequately paid for his genius. But he gave freely the best there was in him, and that best was glorious. Then came a mind diseased and now there is hope only of a long and peaceful twilight. A fund is being raised for him, too, but with all the work of a year or more it has not reached the proportions of the prize-fighter's reward. "Are the people who pretend to love the 'higher things' of life less willing to translate that love into dollars and cents than those who regard a 'mill' as the height of human enjoyment? They have far more money in the aggregate than those who rallied to the support of Terry McGovern, but they have colder hearts. It is a disgraceful commentary upon the alleged regard for culture and the fine arts in this country that men and women all over the land should not at once pour in upon the promoters of the MacDowell fund all the money that the stricken maker of beautiful music can ever need. Certainly the 'dead game sports' have set them an admirable example in liberality and appreciation."

GOVERNED BY COMMISSION

Houston, Texas, is a city governed by commission, and the experiment has proved a remarkable success. Two years ago the city changed from the city council form of government to that by a commission, made up of a mayor and commissioners of finance, streets, police and water. These five persons have for two years conducted the affairs of the city, and at the end of December a monster petition was presented to them, asking that they permit themselves to be re-nominated for their respective offices. Perpetuation of the commission form of government to administrative ability and civic integrity could be offered to the address of the spokesman of the petitioners when they went to the city hall to ask the members of the commission to consent to succeed themselves in office. He said:—

"When nearly two years ago the people of this city, with great unanimity, concluded to change their form of local government from that then obtaining to a commission form of government, they had a right to believe, and did believe, in view of the abuses which had grown up under the former system, that much would be accomplished for the public good. While the people expected much of you, yet they were not wholly prepared for all the good things in store for them. Since you have taken charge of the public affairs of the city the records of your administration will show, and all the people know, that you have not only put the city on a cash basis, but you have anticipated and actually paid every dollar of the city's floating debt; you have not only kept the streets cleaner and better maintained, but you have paved more streets with better material than any of your predecessor administrations; you have not only creditably maintained, improved and bettered the school service, but you have built a number of fine school houses, and all these things have been done without increasing the public debt. You have not only passed wise and wholesome ordinances, but you have fearlessly, without fear or favor, enforced existing ordinances and closed those places of iniquity that prey upon an unsuspecting public; you have not only collected more taxes than any of your predecessor administrations, but you have actually reduced the rate of taxation; you have not only settled the water question and insured to the people of this city for all future time wholesome water, in abundance, but you have actually purchased and paid for the water plant which you could sell today for a half million dollars more than you paid for it. You have not only carefully looked after and maintained the public parks of the city, but in the last few days, by cash purchase, you have presented to the city for public purposes what promises to be one of the most beautiful spots in the city; you have not only suppressed graft in every department of the city government, but you have so honestly and efficiently administered the affairs of this city that Houston and its commission form of government has become a household word in every state in the union. "Under these circumstances you cannot be surprised that the citizens, with great unanimity now call upon you to continue to administer their public affairs. I hold in my hand petitions signed by all classes and conditions of men; by the banker and the wage earner; by the merchant and his clerk; by the lawyer and the physician; in fact from every nook and corner of this city comes up the cry: 'Well done, good and faithful servants, continue in the administration of our affairs.' "In calling you again to this work, we are not unmindful of the fact that each and every one of you are making not only a personal, but pecuniary sacrifice for the public good, but I assure you, the people of Houston appreciate more than you will know the extent and value of your fidelity to the welfare of all the people; they know that in your honor they have the best official head this city can secure; that they can find no one more capable than Mr. Gaston to manage its financial affairs; that no better street commissioner than Mr. Marmion can be found; that no better police commissioner than Mr. Appleby can be had; that no better man in charge of the water plant and the duties incident thereto can be found than Mr. Thompson, and hence it is that the citizens call upon you, one and all, to serve them again. What greater reward than a public official desire than the consciousness of duty honestly performed and the public acknowledgment of his constituency of full appreciation of his work. We know that yours is the sacrifice, but we believe that each and all of you are so devoted to the public interest and the city's welfare and prosperity that you will heed the voice of the people. "In behalf not only of all the good citizens who have signed the petitions which I now hand you, but in behalf of all its citizens of every degree, high and low, rich and poor, I ask you to continue the great work you have commenced, resting assured that a grateful and appreciative constituency will support you in all your undertakings. "There has been at various times talk of government by commission in St. John. If any such results as those achieved in Houston were within the range of possibility, the citizens would not hesitate long before adopting the system."

A BASE BALL CONFERENCE

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 29.—A conference between Presidents Ben Johnson of the American League and Harry Pulliam of the National League, looking to harmonizing the playing schedules of the two associations, so as to avoid conflict of dates or games in cities where both associations have clubs, was begun here yesterday. It was said last night that the schedules were gone over and that the proposed changes will now be referred back to the meeting of representatives of the two leagues in New York on Feb. 25. The two presidents said that nothing would be given out now concerning proposed changes in the schedule. They will remain here today to discuss minor details. It was stated last night that Messrs. Pulliam and Johnson found about sixty conflicting dates in their schedules, and that it is expected this will be reduced to about twenty-five before they finish their conference here.

WHAT THE STATE AND THE DEFENCE WILL FIGHT OVER IN THE CASE OF HARRY THAW

LATEST PORTRAIT OF MRS. EVELYN NESBIT THAW from Painting by Frances J. Ames, N.E.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—It is likely that the taking of evidence in the Thaw murder trial will be commenced about the last of the week. In the five days the case has so far occupied nine jurymen have been secured.

Lawrence White, Stanford White's son, will be the first important witness to testify against Thaw for the murder of White's father.

Young White will be depended upon to prove the identity of the murdered man. This is the first step in a prosecution for murder. He will also be questioned as to the movements and words of Stanford White directly before he was slain.

The Whites, father and son, dined together on the night of the crime. They had a table at Martin's, where Thaw and his wife with some friends, also ate. White Lawrence White quit Martin's to go to a theatrical entertainment farther up town, Stanford White, promising to meet his son later in the night, went directly to the Madison Square Roof Garden, to fall dead fifteen minutes later at Thaw's hand.

Thaw is charged with killing Stanford White deliberately, with premeditation and malice aforethought, on the night of June 25, on the roof of Madison Square Garden.

It is contended by the District Attorney that the evidence which will be presented to the jury will warrant the finding of a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, the punishment for which is death.

The case as it will be presented by the District Attorney is simple and is embraced under the general heads: "The killing; the premeditation; the motive for the crime."

The State's case so far as it bears upon the development of the tragedy, begins with the dinner in the Cafe Martin, early in the evening of June 25, at which were present Harry Thaw, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, Truxton Beale and Thomas McCaleb, dimes of Thaw. Mr. Beale and Mr. McCaleb will be called as witnesses, and the testimony of Mr. McCaleb, it is expected, will throw a clear light on the incident, which immediately preceded the tragedy.

It will be shown by these witnesses that after the dinner party given by Thaw had been in session for some time, Stanford White entered the Cafe Martin and took a seat at a table near by. Thaw's back was toward White and Mrs. Thaw faced him. Shortly after the appearance of White, it will be testified, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw became deeply agitated and trembled so that she could not hold a fork in her hand. Thaw noticed her perturbed state when he returned to the table after speaking to a friend and enquired what was the matter. Witness will testify she made no reply, but when she regained her composure she wrote on a slip of paper furnished by a waiter: "That brute is here."

Thaw was greatly excited, so much so that, it will be shown, he left the restaurant without his hat and had to return for it. He did not approach or look in the direction of White.

It is contended by Mr. Jerome that Thaw, in the Cafe Martin, determined to kill Stanford White that very night. Truxton Beale accompanied Thaw and Mrs. Thaw to the Roof Garden. Witnesses will tell of Thaw's actions on the elevator and of a talk with Mrs. Thaw, and his movements will be traced from the moment he left the car.

Twelve witnesses have been secured by the District Attorney who actually saw the shooting and the death of Stanford White.

They all agree that White was seated at a table with his elbow leaning thereon and his cheek resting on his hand. Those who saw Thaw before the shooting will testify he left his wife and Mr. Beale and walked nervously up and down the aisle in the rear of White.

Suddenly he wheeled into the aisle where White was sitting. His eyes were blazing and his face had the pallor of death. No one actually saw him draw a revolver, but the witnesses will testify when he passed White and turned quickly he had a revolver in his right hand.

Standing within a few feet of White, the witnesses all agree, Thaw raised the revolver and appeared to take careful aim before sending the fatal bullet into the brain of his victim. The first shot over the eye killed White, and the two others were fired rapidly, but were useless in aiding the murderous design.

Some of the witnesses to the shooting will testify that White at the time appeared to be smiling at some incident in the stage performance, and all agree that he did not raise a hand or make a move to show that he had any idea that he saw Thaw or was aware that he was about to be attacked. Jerome will contend that White never knew what struck him.

A special feature that will be developed to its fullest extent in showing the mental state of Thaw is the casting out of the remaining cartridges in the revolver, after White fell dead at his feet, and holding the empty weapon above his head. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was present in the Roof Garden at the time of the shooting and Mr. Jerome will probably call her as a witness if the defence does not. It is a common impression that a husband and wife cannot be called as a witness in a criminal proceeding involving either of them, but Section 715 of the Penal Code provides: "The husband or wife of a person indicted is in all respects a competent witness at the trial, but neither husband nor wife can be compelled to disclose confidential communications made during marriage."

Mr. Thaw, grief-stricken and appalled by the terrible tragedy, was called three days after the shooting by the grand jury, but was excused without being asked anything pertaining to the death of White.

It has been vaguely rumored that one witness is ready to testify that Mrs. Thaw, when the three shots startled the large audience, exclaimed: "My God! he has shot him!"

Police men and citizens will be called to tell what Thaw said in the theatre and in the Tenderloin police station immediately after his arrest. The policeman who arrested Thaw will testify that when he said to Thaw: "Why did you do this?" Thaw replied: "I killed that man because he ruined my wife."

While Jerome is confident that Thaw will be shown by evidence to be guilty of murder, Clifford W. Hartridge is just as confident that Thaw will be acquitted. Mr. Hartridge has been associated with Thaw from the day following the tragedy and has done the bulk of the work in laying the foundation for the defence.

To save the prisoner's life the dearest friends of Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be given to the world. And no one could be more bravely willing to sacrifice herself upon the altar of her widely affection than Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who has brought the joy and sunshine to Thaw's cell since his confinement in the Tombs.

Insanely will be the plea of the witness in the law, who know that the "unwritten law," which is the hope of Thaw, has no place in the Penal Code or rules of evidence in this state.

Thaw has been humored by his lawyers as the easiest way to avoid a similar outbreak to the one which led him to dismiss Black, Olcott, Gruber and Bonny as counsel after they had practically perfected the defence of insanity, backed up by the opinion of the most noted experts in New York state.

the testimony of the lay witnesses is to be called to testify to the facts, as she knows them, which made Harry Thaw insanely angry at White and, if asked, she will lay bare her life to the jury. All who have heard the story of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw declare that it is the most remarkable recital that ever fell from human lips and that the roof garden tragedy was only a terrible climax in a life which has been far from the butterfly care-free existence which many have imagined.

carefully guarded by the lawyers for Thaw and even the agents of the district attorney whose work has been to find out what the defence is doing have not been able to get a suggestion of it.

The defence will wind up its case by an array of alienists such as was never seen in any court, who will testify that Thaw was insane when he killed White and will give in detail all his physical and mental symptoms to sustain their opinions.

IRRITABLE THROAT CAUSES CATARRH

But the worst of it is this—Not only your throat but nose, bronchial tubes and lungs are sore, too. The germ is spreading—it's gaining a stronger hold every day.

Destroy it with "Catarrhose," the greatest healer and antiseptic ever known.

No case of Catarrh it won't relieve in a day—no case it won't cure. Remember this—you don't TAKE Catarrhose—it ISN'T a drug—it's a healing vapor, and consequently gets at the very kernel of the disease.

A direct treatment—one that kills the germs, heals the sores—stops the cough—cuts on the phlegm—such is "Catarrhose." Results talk—and that's where Catarrhose wins out—it does cure—the others relieve.

In Catarrh, irritable throat and bronchial trouble, your cure is inevitable with Catarrhose.

PAYING THE TOLL "Pay the toll," the grimly spectre cries, "To all who cross the mournful Bridge of Sorrow."

"A toll of blood from every heart must pour Ere ye will pass to yonder gloomy shore. And as he cried there passed an endless throng."

In fevered haste, who fought their way along And tramped down the weak with maddening tread, They might cross and be among the dead.

The vision seemed a horrid fearful sight, And that harsh voice did fill me with affliction. Then, as I looked toward the glittering bridge, Over the bridge there passed a mournful band.

With faces pale, whose eyes did wild glare, While on they toiled to pass without the gate. With trembling limbs and slow and painful tread They dragged their way o'er ghastly piles of dead.

What do they seek? I asked myself aloud. "No, no, join this never ending crowd. Why this mad noise like ocean's angry roar?"

What may they have on yonder distant shore? An angel form before me then did stand, With look of scorn toward that hurrying throng. And said—"These souls are cursed with wretched wrong."

On Dead Sea frown would they forever feed. They think this bridge will lead to pure delight. But woe and pain will every pleasure blight.

Ambition's voice, like siren's music sweet Leads on the dire and restless multitude. Who castles high that in the distance shine. Are phantoms, but upraised with ill design; And hallow within boom like music's hoarse din. Which they do grasp at, embracing but their doom.

Not o'er the bridge in folly goes mankind, Sweetest pleasure seek, but only sorrow find; Their golden dreams, like mists, are blown away. To lure them on and fill their life with woe. And Avarice, deep hell's most hideous ghoul, Reigns there the king and lord of every soul. J. L. W.

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1907.

NATIONALIZATION IS A VERY LONG WAY OFF FOR PORT OF ST. JOHN

Ottawa Feels That Government Should do the Dredging Needed But the City Should Build the Wharves--Halifax Settled as the Mail Port But St. John Will Continue to Get the Freight.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—Your correspondent talked today with Hon. Mr. Emmerson and others concerning the C. P. R.'s application for running rights over the Intercolonial and several other questions affecting St. John, including harbor improvements.

It may be well to say at the beginning that opinion in Ottawa and in St. John concerning some of these things differs materially. It will be remembered that the minister of railways when he saw a committee of business men at the board of trade rooms the day before the banquet at the Union Club, frankly told them he regarded Halifax as the natural mail and passenger port, while St. John was the natural freight port of the dominion in winter.

He thought St. John would be unable to strive for the passenger and mail business as well. This is referred to here as helping to explain Mr. Emmerson's present view of the C. P. R.'s proposals about running rights.

It is now, and has been his view, that all the mail steamers should dock at Halifax, land mails and freight from St. John, and wish to go ashore there, and then come on to St. John with freight. That is what will be done, as the C. P. R. discovered recently that they must dock at Halifax the same as the Allan, who really hold the mail contract.

As for the C. P. R. and the Intercolonial, it remains to be seen what terms the Canadian Pacific will get. It is a good guess that they will be stiff, and that nothing will be done of it before next winter, at least.

On the motion to adjourn the house to-night Mr. Stockton said: "Before you leave the chair I would ask the minister of railways a question about a matter which is occupying a good deal of attention in my province with respect to a reported arrangement between the government and the C. P. R. to conveyance of mails and passengers over the Intercolonial to Halifax and by that means to the coast."

Mr. Emmerson: "No proposition of that kind has been made in connection with the use of the Intercolonial, nor is there any suggestion that the port of St. John should be left out in connection with the steamers that are now plying to that port for transatlantic service."

"I may say, in order to clear up the mind of my honorable friend and to inform the people of New Brunswick, that there has been a suggestion made by the C. P. R. to the department of railways to hold a conference with a view of giving the C. P. R. on certain terms, certain running rights over the Intercolonial between St. John and Halifax. This is a new suggestion. There has not been a suggestion of the kind before."

Mr. Emmerson: "I am glad to hear that you are not disposed to withhold those rights providing the terms were such as would protect the interests of the Intercolonial."

MISS MADEIRA DAY The part-song "A Yonder Rock Reclining" between Miss Day and Mr. Nelson in the first act was a gem and both singers were heartily applauded. Mr. Nelson was obliged to respond to an insistent triple encore.

LORENZO was well sung by Jethro Warner, while Miss Barton put much vim into her delineation of Lady Allan. Fra Diavolo, Mr. Nelson was even better. His several solos were splendidly rendered and he acted well, his work in the death scene in the final act being exceptionally fine.

MEASURES Henderson and French had the comedy parts and did them well. The chorus work was good and the settings and costumes in excellent taste. The work of the house orchestra was good.

A King's Circus Having overheard one of the courtiers tell another that cabbage grew head downwards on trees, the King took a walk into the country one day to see for himself. As he haltered the door of a peasant's cottage, four or five bumble bees came drowsing around, and he asked of the peasant who came out of the house: "Prize, my friends, but hath those birds a name?"

SEVEN or eight bumble bees of good size. "Firstly, I did not know that warts the King, secondly, birds are not bumble bees, and thirdly, I do not know what you mean by that." "Shouldst thou know the difference, peasant? Speak ere I telephone to thy wife."

THE NEW PRIMA DONNA Mabel Day and Frank D. Nelson Divide Honors at the Opera House.

It was an even division of honors at the Opera House last night between Frank D. Nelson, the splendid baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Miss Mabel Day, the company's new prima donna. The opera was "Fra Diavolo," the bill in which Mr. Nelson is heard to best advantage. Miss Day sang Zerlina, and she made more out of it than is usually done. Her singing throughout was superb, and the finale, the meso-act, she won most enthusiastic applause from the large audience present.

The new prima donna is petite and pretty, with a charmingly dainty stage presence and a sweet, clear voice of good range, her upper register notes being particularly sweet. Moreover she sings with correct expression and precise judgment.

PANAMA CANAL WILL OPEN NEW MARKET FOR NOVA SCOTIA

Great Field for Fish, Lumber etc., on West Coast of South America Can Then be Reached in Eleven Days from Halifax.

A correspondent who signs himself J. M., writes as follows to the Halifax Chronicle: "Very little interest seems to be taken at the present time in the Panama Canal, whether it is progressing favorably or otherwise. The press is silent on the subject. Few people can realize the wonderful change which will accrue to both this city and province on its completion. It will open up a trade route to South America. A fast line of boats running from this port to Colon, thence through the canal to Callao, a distance of 750 miles, where six miles inland is the City of Lima, with 200,000 inhabitants, who can be reached in 11 days from this port, not one in a thousand of whom have ever seen a pickled herring or a salt codfish. Of course they have fish there in plenty, but as it is near the equator it is impossible to cure them.

"Then there are many other cities and towns on the coast with a trade undeveloped as far as Nova Scotia or this city is concerned. It would be well for our board of trade and others throughout the province to investigate and send delegates to Peru and Chili. By this canal being opened it would bring us to a market for all the fish and other products of the province in eleven days. Now is the time to consider the subject before others enter the arena and block the trade.

"Of course it is utterly impossible to control the whole fish supply to Peru from this province or city, but in event of securing a portion of the trade we have not the facilities or ways of catching fish to fill the demand at the present time. Steam trawlers would have to come to the front and trawl on Barque, Sable Island and other fish banks and also on the north side of Prince Edward Island. There are great possibilities ahead in that respect for the port and province and we may yet live to see a fleet of swift steamers clearing for Callao with dry and pickled fish and also lumber and the varied resources of the province, and return cargoes of the varied resources of Peru and Chili—and in a few years Halifax would regain her supremacy as a fish distributing center."

SIR WILFRID'S FAITH IN US Believes Maritime Provinces Will Show Big Growth in Next Census.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—In the house today Mr. Hughes of Prince Edward Island moved that an address be presented to the imperial government, praying that it may cause a measure to be submitted to the imperial parliament for the purpose of amending the British North America act so that the maritime provinces of the dominion, comprising the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, shall not at any time have fewer representatives in the house of commons than the number that was assigned to each when it entered the confederation.

Mr. Hughes quoted from the proceedings in which he set up in connection to show that the framers of the constitution entertained the idea that there should be no decrease in the number of representatives. Mr. Daniel, St. John, supported the motion, and said that the delegates from the maritime provinces who were at the confederation conference never expected there would be a reduction in the representation. When the boundaries of the province of Quebec were increased in 1854, should have been made for the other provinces.

Mr. Aylesworth spoke at length on the terms of union. P. E. Island had made an objection to representation on a population basis at the time of confederation, but the other provinces had not and consequently should not complain now.

Mr. Crockett (York), Mr. MacDonald (Picton) and W. F. MacLean spoke along the same lines, Mr. MacLean advocating maritime union.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke at length. He said that personally he was inclined to favor the resolution. Dealing with the future of the maritime provinces, he said: "Well, the population of the maritime provinces has not kept pace with the population of the other provinces, and under the terms of the B. N. A. act their representation in this parliament has been decreased. But is that to go on ever? It is to be anticipated that in future the maritime provinces will not make the same rate of progress as the other provinces of the dominion. For my part, I hope better for the maritime provinces. I hope better for my country generally. I have no doubt, and I hope my view is shared by every member of the house, that after the next census it will be found that the population of Nova Scotia has increased proportionately to that of the other provinces, and that she will be able to at least maintain her present representation in this house."

"The same thing I hope will apply to New Brunswick and the same to P. E. Island. I trust it will be found that these provinces have not only retained their present representation but they will have gained the ground they have lost. It may be that I am too sanguine, but I do feel that the fate of the maritime provinces in the past two decades is the result of accidental and not permanent conditions. The house adjourned without action being taken."

At a meeting of the St. Stephen's Church Guild last evening Rev. Dr. G. M. Campbell delivered a most interesting lecture on Our Canadian Heritage and its Responsibilities. At the close a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Campbell was moved by Dr. McArthur, seconded by J. F. McIntyre, and cordially rendered by Rev. M. Dickie, who presided. A vocal solo was sung by Mr. Bonnell, and a duet by Miss Irvine and Prof. Titus.

CAPT. FERRIS WON HIS CASE

Harbor Master's Suit Against Furness Liner Results in His Authority Being Recognized.

The case of Harbor Master Ferris against the Furness liner London City came up in the police court yesterday morning before Judge Ritchie, and after some explanation was dropped, with the understanding, practically, that Captain Ferris is cook of the vessel.

Police Clerk Henderson conducted the prosecution and J. H. M. Baxter appeared for the defence.

Mr. Henderson said that the penalty for the first offence, that of taking a berth not assigned, was $30, and for the latter, disobeying the harbor master's instructions, was $100.

Mr. Baxter said that the captain of the London City was not aboard when the vessel, the first officer being in charge at the time, and there was really no dispute as to damaged regulations. They admitted having transgressed.

Captain Ferris, when asked if he assigned incoming vessels to specific berths, said that the west India boats were always given one berth.

The harbor master said he would drop the matter on condition that the offence should not be repeated and his instructions be carried out. He had taken the matter into court to ascertain whether he was running the harbor or someone else.

WHERE DID HE GET THAT KIND

One Man Who Found a Tipple That Made Him See Red Devils with Green Eyes.

Edward Mulcahey said he was all at pieces last night and got stuck together again so that he could come into court this morning.

The unfortunate man called at the north end police station last night and was detained, as he was supposed to be violently insane.

His honor said that the charge against Mulcahey was a new crime to him, and he was remanded to jail on advice of Dr. Berryman.

There is some question as to what will be done with him, as he is said to be neither a fit subject for the asylum nor can he be allowed at large.

Richard Roake, charged with drunkenness, was fined $4 or ten days.

John Daley was fined $8 or thirty days on a similar charge.

Guy Gregory, charged with drunkenness and profanity, was fined $8 or thirty days.

ANOTHER FATALITY

Another Added to the List of Violent Deaths in St. John

There is a stranger lying dead at the General Public Hospital, as the result of falling off the Pettigill wharf between the wharf and the steamer London City last night about 12:30 o'clock.

When the accident occurred the tide was well out, and it is thought that the unfortunate man struck his head on the fender.

While being hoisted to the deck after the accident a flask of whiskey dropped out of his pocket and another was also found on him.

THE DECEASED. The deceased was the youngest son of the late Patrick Herbert, and had been engaged for a number of years in a foundry, but on account of ill health he was obliged to retire from his field of labor.

Leaving the church the body was still accompanied by a large number of friends to the cemetery, and there placed in the reposing vault, pending final interment in St. John in the spring.
