QUEBEC WILL STOP EXPORT OF PULPWOOD

Province Decides To Prohibit Exportation Of Pulpwood Cut From Crown Lands—Increase In Stumpage.

ANADIAN PAPER INTERESTS WIN.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Province of Quebec has definitely decided to prohibit the exportation of pulpwood cut from Crown lands. In September, 1909, the Premier of the province made a promise that the stumpage rates of 60 cents per cord on wood cut from Crown lands would not be raised for a period of ten years. It is intended to carry out this pledge and to increase in stumpage charges will be made until September, 1910.

United States Claim.

The Canadian paper-makers are urging the provincial authorities to stop the exportation of pulpwood cut from Crown lands, but the American owners of rights to cut timber on more than 12,000 square miles of those lands represent that the pledge of September, 1909, implied a right of importation for ten years and that in good faith no prohibition should be made until the lapse of that period. The Canadian paper and pulp interests retort that the pledge specifically related to stumpage taxes, not to exportation and that the extension of that privilege to American owners for another year will retard Canadian plans and discriminate against Canadian manufacturers who now suffer because of the retaliatory clauses of the United States tariff on print paper.

A Question of Dates.

The provincial authorities are balancing the question whether they should prohibit the exportation of Pulpwood on January 1, 1910 or September 1, 1910. They calculate that the new policy will add over $200,000 to the annual revenue. They are informed that the interests controlling the Berlin mills property in New Hampshire are planning to install a print paper mill at that place. Quebec, and that the International Paper Company has prepared plans for numerous locations for paper mills in Canada—that company having a large manufacturing plant at a number of its more expensive mills in the United States.

REGRET DEPARTURE OF POPULAR PASTOR

Residents Of Black River Feel Keenly The Approaching Withdrawal Of Rev. A. J. Myers From Their Midst.

Special to The Standard.

Chatham, N. B., Sept. 13.—Much regret is expressed by the people at the resignation of their popular and energetic pastor, Rev. A. J. Myers, who made an announcement to this effect on Sunday. Mr. Myers will take a post graduate course in theology. During his incumbency a fine new church has been erected, the mortgage on which was burned a few days ago. There was originally a debt of $2000 owing and this was cleared off in three years, a fact gratifying to people and pastor alike.

Department Of Labor In Receipt Of Majority Report In Saskatchewan Labor War—Compromises Suggested.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—The Department of Labor has received from the majority report from the board which adjudicated between the city corporation and its workmen. No agreement was reached on the minimum wage scale and the recognition of the Federal Labor Union.

The majority of the board recommended a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour with 25¢ cents in August. The board declined to recommend work be confined to members of the union on account of the number of members of small means who wish to work in the city at certain seasons of the year.

CHATHAM INSPECTOR IS ASKED TO RESIGN

Scott Act Official Declared To Be A Disgrace To Town And Suggestion Is Made That His Report Be Barred.

Chatham, N. B., Sept. 13.—Tonight's meeting of the town council should be unenlivened by several breezy discussions of the chief of which was one over the Scott Act and its enforcement. This was precipitated by Ald. Logie after the reading of Scott Act Inspector Lawson's report for August.

Four Convictions.

The report showed four convictions for the month of August and a small number were not satisfactory to several aldermen.

Ald. Logie declared the report unsatisfactory. Inspector Lawson in his opinion was going from bad to worse. He was not doing his duty, he was only playing at it. He moved that the inspector be discharged.

Ald. Haley also was not satisfied. He moved an amendment that the report of Scott Act Inspector Lawson be burned. "It is a disgrace to the town of Chatham and a disgrace to the inspector who hands it in," he declared.

Ald. Gallivan thought this was an absurd way to deal with the report.

Ald. Logie then moved, seconded by Ald. Haley, that the services of the Scott Act inspector be dispensed with.

Ald. Gallivan said this was too abrupt. "Why not give him thirty days' notice," said he, "his salary will have to be paid for this month, and the town will therefore be paying two salaries for this work."

He moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Carvell, that the matter lay over until the next monthly meeting.

This was carried. Yeas, Ald. Gallivan, Wyse, Carvell, Cassidy and Williams; nays, Logie, Haley and Tweedie.

MRS. ROGER FLANAGAN DEAD IN BOSTON

Sudden Demise Of Well Known Chatham Lady At Massachusetts Hospital—Relatives Too Late.

Boston, Sept. 13.—Roger Flanagan, one of the most prominent hotel men of Chatham, N. B., accompanied by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Helen Riley, after a race against death, arrived in Boston yesterday too late to see his wife alive. His daughter, Marguerite, hurrying from Albany, N. Y., was also too late to see her mother. Mrs. Mary Flanagan, who died late Saturday evening in a hospital on Newbury street. Mrs. Flanagan came to Boston two weeks ago to undergo an operation for a serious disease. An operation was performed and at first seemed to be successful. Late on Saturday night, only a few hours before the arrival of her relatives, Mrs. Flanagan died. When the three dearest to her arrived at the station, they were met by friends who broke the news to them that their race had been unsuccessful.

PEARY RIDDLED BY A FORMER COLLABORATOR

Former Peary Boatswain Substantiates Cook's Allegations Of Discoverer's Practices.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 13.—Allen Whitten, who was boatswain of the Peary auxiliary steamer Erik in 1905 and again in 1908, adds his quota to the Polar controversy today. On his expeditions, he naturally saw much of Peary and knew Peary's plans. He was also in the Erik in the summer of 1907, when she lay for a week at Sydney alongside the schooner John R. Bradley in which Dr. Cook was starting for the Pole. The Erik that year went to Hudson Bay for the Canadian government. Whitten says that the Bradley was abundantly supplied for Cook's expedition, that not only did the crew of the ship take Cook's supplies that were at Etah, but boats were sent to Anaktok, thirty miles distant to remove Cook's provisions which were stored there.

Strange Proceedings.

Whitten admitted that he did not know whether this removal was by arrangement between Rudolph Francke, who was left in charge of the provisions by Peary or Peary's representatives, but he thought that in any event, it was a strange thing to do, in view of the fact that Cook was then away on the ice floes and that he did not return and find his provisions gone.

The boatswain also made the statement that both Cook's and Francke's supplies were stored in the same place, and that they were of equal value. Instead of Peary's previous expeditions had been the lack of supplies. Instead of remaining away for three years, Commander Peary was compelled to return after about fifteen months, the real reason, Whitten declared, being that he did not have enough supplies to remain longer.

VILLIFIED ALDERMAN HITS ACCUSER HARD

Alderman Clearihue Of Montreal On Stand Before Royal Commission Implicates Former Witness.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—There was a sensational incident before the Royal Commission which is investigating civic affairs today when Ald. Clearihue went on the stand and swore that he had been offered $5,000 by Mark Workman, one of the big stockholders in the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company on condition that he vote for that company's tender for the street lighting.

Ald. Clearihue said that he had given Workman a tongue lashing he would not soon forget. Previously A. D. Porcheron, another stockholder, had made him an offer of stock in the company for his vote. Ald. Clearihue was most indignant because last Friday, Mr. McLara, vice-president of the company had gone on the stand and testified that the alderman had come to him looking for graft and that he had refused to pay.

WANKES FOUND ALL IS READY NORTHPOLE BUT FOR OPENING CANADA OWNST OF BIG FAIR

Ottawa Enters Pole Controversy Claiming All Lands North Of United States Border—Question Being Discussed.

CLAIM BASED ON WORK OF BERNIER.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—The Cabinet is understood to have under discussion the discovery of the North Pole, and the placing of the Stars and Stripes thereon.

A question as to the ownership of all the land intervening between the pole and territory now marked as Canadian on the map has been put by Sir Gilbert Parker in the British House and it is understood that the Canadian Government has sent to the colonial office a statement insisting that Canada claims all the land intervening between the United States border and the North Pole.

Taken Possession Of.

All the known islands in the Arctic Ocean west of Greenland were formally taken possession of for Canada two years ago by Capt. Bernier. Commander Peary in his report of his trip does not tell of finding any land north of Grant Land, which is recognized as Canadian territory. From there to the pole is evidently an ice covered ocean. Consequently, although Canada claims all land as far north as the pole as being part of the Canadian hinterland, there is not likely to be any basis for any rival United States claim to ownership.

QUEBEC BANK THUGS ARE STILL AT LARGE

No Trace Has As Yet Been Found Of Robbers Who Entered Bank — Detectives Working On Case.

Special to The Standard.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—The correct amount of money which the robbers got away with at the robbery of the Yamacache Bank, was as follows: Dominion bills to the value of $1,688; Provincial Bank $5 bills, $395; and other bills on other banks to the value of $2,225.

Overlooked $4,000.

When the doors of the safe of the bank were blown in with dynamite $4,000 worth of bills dropped on to the floor and these, in their hurry, the thieves overlooked. Up to the present nothing has been heard of the robbers. Detective Demas of Quebec, who is working on the case, received a telegram, which he believes to be bogus, stating that ten men had been hiding in the bushes on Saturday near Yamacache. The affair has created considerable interest in Quebec, and a thorough search of the district will be made.

It is reported that the robbers were well armed, and it is expected that they will put up a stubborn resistance to avoid arrest.

KIDNAPPING CASE GOES OVER FOR WEEK

Sussex, Sept. 13.—In the case of Mrs. Bridget Humphrey, of Lawrence, against James McManus, of Hampton, this morning, Stipendiary Hornbrook adjourned the case until the 21st inst. after hearing two witnesses for the prosecution. The case promises to be interesting from start to finish. E. S. Ritchie is prosecuting, being associated with Mr. Mahoney, a Lawrence, Mass. lawyer, who is here with Mrs. Humphrey. Mr. Mahoney gave evidence, showing that he was acting in behalf of the estate in the matter of the recovery of the child, who is three years of age. Mrs. Humphrey's evidence was then taken. She deposed that the child had been allowed to accompany its grandmother, Mrs. Humphrey, of Hampton, on a visit one year ago, and it was the intention of the father to take it back, but before this could be done he took ill and died. In March last the plaintiff made a demand for the child's return, but was refused possession, and as a result this action was now being taken. At the request of F. M. Sprout, M. P. P. who is acting for the defence, adjournment was granted. Bail was granted, the amount being fixed at $15,000, defendant in $5,000, and F. M. Sprout and Mayor McLean in like amounts.

MRS. J. PEARY FOUND DEAD IN LONDON

Young American Woman, Sister of Mrs. Julian Storey, Dies While Abroad--Wealthy Husband Now in New York.

PRINCIPAL IN ELOPEMENT AT 18

London, Sept. 13.—A sensation was created at Harrow today when Mrs. Jane Perin, an American woman, was found shot dead at the house of her sister, Mrs. Akroyd, with whom she was staying in this city. Her husband left for America a few days ago and Mrs. Perin had planned to sail today.

The position of the revolver near the body makes it probable that Mrs. Perin shot herself. Mrs. Akroyd, who is a music master attached to the Harrow School, is unable to give any reason why Mrs. Perin should commit suicide. He says she was bright and cheerful when she went to bed, and that she left no letters or documents of any kind to indicate that she intended to take her life.

Mr. Akroyd suggests that Mrs. Perin probably thought she had been burglarized, and that she had taken refuge in the room, and that, having armed herself with a revolver, she stumbled in the dark and accidentally shot herself.

Had Elopement. Sept. 11.—Mrs. Jane Gordon Sartori Perin of this city, who committed suicide in London, was the wife of Lawrence Perin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Perin. She eloped with him several years ago. She was a handsome woman and had a host of friends in this city. According to those who witnessed her performance on the stage, she was one of the most beautiful women of the day, and at the time of her marriage to Lawrence Perin she was only 18 years old.

In Boston the Women's Educational and Industrial Union co-operates with the school board in conducting lunch rooms for pupils. The school board agrees to provide the room, equipment and a certain amount of food, while the union prepares and serves the meals at cost. The union pays the women who manage these lunchrooms $5 a week and their helpers $3. They work on an average of three hours a day.

EXPLORERS PEARY AND COOK MAY SINK THEIR DIFFERENCES, BUT PALMS WILL DECK POLE BEFORE THEIR WIVES AGREE

where my husband was. As if I didn't know he was on his way to the pole. Peary himself said, 'Ah, Mrs. Cook.'

Occasionally Mrs. Cook made further progress by big stories in the newspapers of her husband's daring exploits at the pole. She didn't seek to help herself. She was forced into it to help the proposed expedition for her husband. She made many mistakes in seeking her goal of fame by such statements as 'My husband will find the pole or die,' and 'He can't miss it.'

Such remarks made traveling very slippery for Mrs. Peary. They traveled widely apart, but this spring their trails came together again.

Moved to Harspwell Isle. That was only one-half mile from Eagle Island. Here, therefore, this part of the United States was famous for its view of polar explorers, of which there was one—Mrs. Peary. Now it began to look as if the wife of every man who worked out doors in winter was entitled to honors along Casco Bay.

"What does she want to come here for, so near us?" a reporter found a Peary camp. "A nice place to spend the summer," he issued from Cook's camp.

Oh, the bleak winds of telepathy that swept and cycloned that half mile of Casco Bay. Oh, how cold the women happened to go up the bay. Boilers almost froze. Cold came from both ends of the boat, Mrs. Peary usually looking over the back end and Mrs. Cook over the front end. Casco Bay seamen will always talk about these cold spells.

Mrs. Cook's Triumph. One day, from Mrs. Cook's trail, came a cry of joy. It reached Peary's camp. Mrs. Cook had been out on the trail as the wife of an explorer only two years. Mrs. Peary had been out 24 years. But no such cry of joy had ever gone up from the Peary trail.

Very Patronizing. "Mrs. Peary was very patronizing," she said she was sorry I didn't know noble pride in her husband alive

On With the Play LOGS COMES TO ELABORATE GOWN FOR AFTERNOON

Parisian Women Have Their Way With the Modes and Gowns Still Cling--Fashions as Now Revealed.

NOVELTIES IN FABRICS TRIMMINGS & COLORINGS

New York, Sept. 13.—No more mysterious consultations and whispering behind closed doors in the great dressmaking houses. No more excitement and curiosity among buyers, the Parisian openings are over, the buyers have made their choices, gambling upon the whimsical tastes of their home patrons. Every incoming steamer adds dressmakers and importers, bringing with them models which will, so they believe, catch their customers' fancy. Earlier cases may, as has been said, hold few surprises for the observing critic who followed closely the varieties of summer modes, yet the smart frock of this winter season will be easily differentiated from the frock of last winter.

Complicated drapery has not been ousted by devotion to 'la ligne.' It of the afternoon and evening frocks are most skillfully draped, but on the whole the long lines are retained, and bunched up draperies of the true pattern and overskirt type with which the fashion makers coquetted during the summer, have made no pronounced impression, longer and more changing effects being favored even in the most intricate drapery.

All this is good news. Indications point to a winter season of elegance and good taste. There will be no more of one kind and another. There always are, but a large percentage of the handsome models and sketches we have seen achieve grace and distinction without any spectacular freakishness of line.

Moyen age ideas still hold a place, but their extreme form they have been comminuted and caricatured until the ultra modish have grown a little tired of them, and the periods of the Louis and the Fleuris have furnished the largest amount of the ideas for the new season. Straight, slender lines still prevail, yet there is a slight tendency toward closer fitting, and some of the models frankly reveal the waist and bust and hip curves.

After all, there was but little to cause excitement. This statement may bring a groan of protest from readers who have seen so many of these lovely French models, but it is true nevertheless. As we have prophesied all along any cognizant of the late summer modes on the Continent had exercised the largest amount of discernment in the fall models, and where eclecticism was rampant there seemed no ground for belief that there would be a radical innovation swinging in with some one idea newly launched.

Novelties in fabrics, trimmings and colorings are here, but the lines of the new frocks with only digressions of detail to give them originality.

Proved Stubborn. As a matter of fact the Parisian proved stubborn. She liked the clinging lines, they had just been developing to her satisfaction and she did not intend to give them up. Some of the famous dressmakers agreed with her, they had just been in the largest drapery of the tucked up kind would mean a laying aside of entire wardrobe and consequent ordering of new ones to the distinct benefit of dressmaking exchequers.

Then Mrs. Peary's Day. But like the first glimpse of treasure trove, of food found by starving explorers, came the flash of news just five days later to the lonely, desolate Peary camp.

"I've got the old pole." Of all the joys that come to mankind the one that touches her heart's love is greatest. Joy simply beamed, glorified, illuminated, that heretofore lonely trail. Life took on tremendous value like the rest of the world, always after the winner, turned their footsteps from the Cook to the Peary trail, and zigzagged between the two.

"Mrs. Cook wouldn't talk to you, well, I will," she said. And how her words ran.

"I hate you," said Mrs. Cook. "Perhaps she's not used to it," came from Mrs. Peary.

"I'm not afraid of my husband, I'm glad he won and I'll say so. If I say anything wrong I'll fix it up with him afterward."

"I won't answer Mrs. Peary," says Mrs. Cook. "I have too much judgment. This came through Mrs. A. D. Sullivan, Mrs. Cook's friend."

Between these two women stands the North Pole. They are in, perhaps, the strangest position in which two women have ever found themselves. The coldness between them is truly polar. They're the victims of the North Pole search; if you ever see them talking together you can be sure that orchids and fern are growing up there in that country, where every direction is south. There'll be no ice at the pole when they become friends.

This gown is more showy than we've seen of late, and indicates that much more fullness both in waist and skirt will be worn for dress up occasions. However, all the folds are of the softest variety.

Much drapery is seen, and some kind of ribbon sash seems inevitable, as this sketch goes to show. Much ribbon and many folds are displayed on this gown, which will be most befitting for slender figures.

The Napoléon hat, too, should only be worn by the slender-framed woman. The severity of this one is abated by the trimming—the coque feather and the handsome buckle.

The great dressmakers have all their can do in any event. Their patrons are of the class who order new frocks whether their old ones are demode or not. It is the minor dressmaker who profits by a definite resolution in the changes of line which have crept into the fall programme will be enough to keep these minor dressmakers busy.

The Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston has added expert visiting housekeepers to its department of household economies.

For a small fee the visiting housekeepers will drop in and set the machinery of the household running smoothly by exhibiting new equipment or giving aid and instruction in whatever branch mistress or maid may need it.

WITH WOMEN AT WORK: AND PLAY THE WORLD OVER

Interesting Notes of the Doings of Women in Every Line of Endeavor -- Their Whereabouts and Future Plans.

VISITING HOUSEKEEPERS THE NEW IDEA

The National Red Cross has met with such success in the last two years in teaching first aid to the women of the employes of large corporations that it has determined to undertake the work on a much larger scale. It will begin with the United States Steel Corporation and will instruct more than 20,000 employes of that concern.

Miss Jane Wright of Cincinnati has been elected to take charge of the art library of Princeton University. She was librarian at the Cincinnati Art Museum and resigned to go to Princeton. The trustees of Princeton are said to have allowed the place to remain vacant for over a year because they were anxious to get a person who measured up to every particular of the standard which they had fixed.

Mrs. Emmons Crocker of Oak Bluffs, Mass., State vice-president of the Woman's River and Harbor Congress, was the only woman speaker at the National Irrigation Congress at Spokane. She had the chief place on the programme one morning when more than two thousand delegates from all over the world were present. She represented the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Helen Gould entertained 500 tenement mothers with their children at her country home the other day. The party was taken to Miss Gould's estate by the Volunteers of America, who supplied the transportation and lunches besides gathering and caring for the visitors.

Simmons College, Boston, is said to be the only place in this country where women can be trained to plan and manage lunch rooms. The demand for such training is reported to have more than tripled during the last two years, as more and more cities and school boards are realizing the need of providing working girls and boys and school children with healthful midday meals.

The Jewish women in Russia have presented their first petition to the Duma. In this petition they beg that legislation be enacted to prevent women from sending their wives a bill of divorce by messenger. As things are now a Hebrew husband can divorce his wife with the consent of the rabbi by giving her a bill of divorce, and the wife does not wish to be divorced she can refuse to take the paper and it does not become valid without her acceptance. When the bill is sent by a messenger the wife, not knowing the contents of the paper, has no means of protecting herself.

Mrs. Jules Siegfried of Paris is at the head of the Country Holiday Association, whose aim is to secure holidays for the working girls of the French capital. The principal beneficiaries of this association have been girls employed in various branches of the dressmaking trades and in the manufacture of artificial flowers. The wages for their work are so small that the girls are unable to afford to seek rest and recuperation when laid off in summer have often to do with one meal a day in order to keep their roofs over their heads. The wealthy women of Paris who are interested in the Country Holiday Association have not yet been able to purchase or rent a house in which to entertain the girls whom they send into the country. Instead they depend on getting places for the purpose. With the home given rent free the association guarantees to pay the railroad fares and the girls are expected to buy and cook their own meals.

Jury Find Charles Ward Died In Jail from Debility--Inquiry Held Last Evening In Court House.

DID NOT LIVE TO ENTER ALMS HOUSE.

The Jury empanelled to inquire into the death of Charles Ward, who died in his cell in the county jail, on Sept. 11, met in the courthouse last evening. After hearing the evidence they brought in a verdict as follows: The Jury empanelled to inquire into the death of Charles Ward, found that the cause of his death was due to general debility, he being found in a cell in the county jail on Sept. 11. No blame could be attached to any of the defendants.

The following comprised the Jury: Mr. J. S. Carpenter, foreman; Mr. Robert Green, Mr. William L. Hatfield, Mr. Bartholomew Holt, Mr. John Fitzgerald, Mr. Wallace Babkirik and Mr. Thomas X. Gibbons.

Policeman Crawford was the first witness examined by Dr. D. E. Berryman. He told of common vagrancy in the charge of common vagrancy. Ward, he said, had been remanded to jail for inquiries. At the time of his arrest he had been leaning against a telegraph pole near the depot. He was sober, but very weak. He had been taken to Water Street lockup in Ward for some time and did not know of his ever drinking very heavily. He had seen the body in the morgue and had recognized it.

The doctor's evidence. Dr. Jas. Christie stated that he had been called into the jail to attend to Ward on Sept. 7. He appeared to be a man who had reached his present stage through dissipation. Witness had seen the man who was reported to have been sent to the Almshouse, but had not seen there. Witness had received a message to go to the jail as a man who had been taken to the Almshouse on Sept. 11. When he reached there the man was reported to have died on Sept. 9th, but had been seen Ward. He recognized the certificate shown him as the one he had written and which he thought it was not written and which he thought it was not written and which he thought it was not written.

The certificate was indorsed by Hon. J. Ritchie, police magistrate. He stated as to the cause of death Dr. Christie stated that he thought it was not written and which he thought it was not written and which he thought it was not written.

where my husband was. As if I didn't know he was on his way to the pole. Peary himself said, 'Ah, Mrs. Cook.'

Occasionally Mrs. Cook made further progress by big stories in the newspapers of her husband's daring exploits at the pole. She didn't seek to help herself. She was forced into it to help the proposed expedition for her husband. She made many mistakes in seeking her goal of fame by such statements as 'My husband will find the pole or die,' and 'He can't miss it.'

Such remarks made traveling very slippery for Mrs. Peary. They traveled widely apart, but this spring their trails came together again.

Moved to Harspwell Isle. That was only one-half mile from Eagle Island. Here, therefore, this part of the United States was famous for its view of polar explorers, of which there was one—Mrs. Peary. Now it began to look as if the wife of every man who worked out doors in winter was entitled to honors along Casco Bay.

"What does she want to come here for, so near us?" a reporter found a Peary camp. "A nice place to spend the summer," he issued from Cook's camp.

Oh, the bleak winds of telepathy that swept and cycloned that half mile of Casco Bay. Oh, how cold the women happened to go up the bay. Boilers almost froze. Cold came from both ends of the boat, Mrs. Peary usually looking over the back end and Mrs. Cook over the front end. Casco Bay seamen will always talk about these cold spells.

Mrs. Cook's Triumph. One day, from Mrs. Cook's trail, came a cry of joy. It reached Peary's camp. Mrs. Cook had been out on the trail as the wife of an explorer only two years. Mrs. Peary had been out 24 years. But no such cry of joy had ever gone up from the Peary trail.

Very Patronizing. "Mrs. Peary was very patronizing," she said she was sorry I didn't know noble pride in her husband alive

Soap That is Best for the Baby's Bath

Baby's skin is very sensitive to soap; some soaps soothe and nourish, while others inflame and irritate. It is of the utmost importance that you know what soap to use, and to do this you must know what is in the soap.

So let us explain how we make Infants' Delight. We first go for pure vegetable oil to France. There we pay one double what we might pay. But the oil we get is pure enough to use on your table.

Then we go more than 12,000 miles to the island of Ceylon for pure coconut oil. Both oils are carefully tested by chemists and doubly boiled.

Next they go through our own special milling process and fall like flakes of snow into enormous bins. Then they are crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture.

Finally they pass through granite rollers and come out in miles of ribbon. Then they are dried eight times and stamped into cakes that are light as a feather. Isn't it worth while to have soap like this for your baby? Why risk using common soaps when this excellent kind costs no more than others?

This lovely soap leaves the baby's delicate skin as soft as velvet and as smooth as silk. Even the baby knows the difference in this delightful soap—so we call it Infants' Delight.

Baby will like the perfume too. It is so dainty and fragrant—only the exquisite scent of the rose. If this soap is pure enough for the baby's skin it surely is best for your own. Try one cake—you owe it to baby and yourself.

THE QUEBEC BRIDGE.

The Toronto Globe finds the prospects good to have the National Transcontinental Railway opened for traffic in two years and a half—that is at the end of 1911. This is a rosy view. A considerable portion of the road between Quebec and Winnipeg has not yet been commenced. An extent of several hundred miles in the neighborhood of Lake Abitibi has never been touched by the contractor, if indeed it has been determined with the working contract. Judging from the speed with which the remainder of the work has been done there will be no road bed until a good deal later than 1911, and no through trains for some years longer. The Grand Trunk Pacific Company will have the connections with Fort William and Portland, Maine, and will be willing to wait.

But even the Toronto Globe admits that the Quebec Bridge will not be ready. The period before that date says the Globe "leaves a comparatively short time for the construction of such a bridge."

We should say so. It was ten years from the time that the preliminary plans of the old bridge were prepared until it had reached a stage sufficiently advanced to fall down. In January 1908, the company submitted the plan to the Dominion Government for approval. The order approving was signed in May. Specifications were approved in August. The company met with delay in financial arrangements. In April 1909, contracts for superstructure and substructure were made and the work begun on the piers. Construction work had therefore been in progress more than seven years at the time of the collapse. A supplementary contract for the main span was made in 1903 with the Phoenix Company which had been carrying out its first contract in 1901 and 1902. Work on the main spans went on vigorously in 1904, 1905, 1906 and until August 29, 1907.

From August 1907 to September 1909, nothing has been done toward reconstruction. A commission has been engaged in preparing a general plan of the structure. It has not yet settled whether the bridge will be cantilever or suspension, nor is it known how much of the old piers can be used, though it is decided that a large part of the superstructure must be new. Specifications are not yet prepared so that a call for tenders can be made for either a cantilever or a suspension bridge. It seems to be settled that the middle span will be 100 feet shorter than the old one. This will make it 1700 feet or 16 feet less than the Forth bridge. The structure will, however, be wider, and it is promised that it will be as strong and safe as human skill can make it.

We may, perhaps, take it for granted that the new bridge will take as long to build as the old one, and that New Brunswick will not be connected with the Transcontinental beyond Quebec until the year 1917. This supposes that the old bridge would have been completed in another year if it had not collapsed. During these eight years Portland had the winter port of the Grand Trunk Pacific. By that time the company will be confirmed in the Portland habit.

AN IMMIGRATION SUGGESTION.

It occurs to the Montreal Star that the time has come to give more exact information to the British immigrant as to local conditions than he now receives. The Star points out that the West is becoming an organized country with closer settlements than in general, and that in the variety of conditions and localities there are suitable surroundings and circumstances for "settlers" of all tastes, and opportunities matching all capacities and previous training. It is necessary, however, that the immigrant should be assisted to select the place in which he will feel most at home and where he can work to the best advantage. To this end the Star makes the following suggestion:

"A lack in the immigration machine still is an intelligent care for the rights and interests of the immigrant when he reaches Canada. We depend too much on his own power of discrimination and ability to make the right choice. We forget that he is a stranger in a strange land and faced by strange problems—and often the victim of strange devices. Now the successful establishment of the right stamp of British settlers is not a thing we should leave to chance. We should spend money and commission trustworthy representatives to make sure that he succeeds; or at all events, if he fails, to make it clear that the fault is wholly his own. The contented and prosperous British settler is the best immigration agent we can get. His letters home are our best immigration literature. And both the man and the letters can be secured in no other way than by making the British immigrant happy. For this, we might well have an organization in the country, co-operating with the Department of the Interior.

"Such a work would be an effective Imperial policy. It would constitute a genuine contribution to Imperial stability and even to Imperial defence. Every British family we settle in the West is a human buttress of Empire. The children grow up with a personal loyalty to the Old Land; and an appeal to them to support a straightforward policy of Imperial co-operation, would always arouse their enthusiasm and bring a response."

This seems to be sound advice, and though it refers chiefly to settlers in the West, the suggestion is capable of a broader application. There are many families in Great Britain who would do well in Canada without going west at all. Their tastes and training are better adapted for Eastern than for Western life. The Eastern climate is more like their own. Our scenery is more beautiful to them. They wish to be among hills, and see, where they can see running water, and hear the birds sing. They are fond of orchards and gardens, are accustomed to keeping stock and operating a dairy. The finite distances of the West do not appeal to them. There is room and a chance for that kind of people, and immigration authorities should not be devoting all their energies to the task of getting them on the prairie where they do not belong. If any such organization as the Star suggests should be formed, it should be thoroughly national and not simply a Western Immigration Society.

THE POLAR BELLIGERENTS.

The question whether Cook or Peary discovered the pole has been widened to include such questions as these:—Did Cook steal Peary's provisions? Did Peary steal Cook's supplies? Did Peary intercept Cook's letters and read them? Did Peary put his boatwain in a cabin built by Cook giving him a written order setting forth that Cook was dead? Did Cook after his return to Greenland tell his colleague, Whitney, that he had beaten Peary's record, but fail to mention that he had reached the pole?

These recriminations and charges have not been made by Cook against Peary, but they are given out with the authority of a man said to be in his confidence, and to have received them from Dr. Cook himself.

The silent, long-enduring life in Arctic solitudes would be expected to promote patience and reticence. A man who can afford to give years of his time to the search for the extreme North, would be thought capable of waiting a few days for a rival claim to be tested. Instead of two quiet, self-controlled men with the spirit of the awful solitudes upon them, showing the calm patience of their sublime vocation, we have disputings over their rival claims from the Shetlands and Labrador all the way home. Disputings by cable and accusations by wireless are mixed up with two heroic stories of great achievement until people have almost forgotten the discovery in the disputation.

There were in the world as known last year a sufficient number of causes of quarrel. The discoverer, or discoverers of the North Pole have added another. The chief fruit as yet produced from the highest possible latitude is the apple of discord.

LORD ROSEBERY.

Lord Rosebery made a strong anti-budget speech at Glasgow but there was about it the aspect of inconclusiveness which seems to happen to all of his great speeches. He had nothing but condemnation of the measure, and drew heavily upon his splendid vocabulary of disrespectful terms in discussing it. But when the time came for saying what ought to be done Lord Rosebery met what Mr. Churchill would call his shortfall. He said that the Government wished the Lords to throw the measure out, and then asked the Lords are they not likely to do what is expected of them. The impression created was that Lord Rosebery will not advise the Lords to reject the measure or any part of it, and that he will not himself vote against it. It may be that he does not agree with the view that the House of Lords has a responsibility in the premises.

If the budget and all that goes with it is passed by the Lords the elections may not come off for three years yet. The Government has a large majority, so large that it cannot possibly be destroyed in by-elections before the close of the parliamentary term. Nothing but an extraordinary secession of Government supporters in the Commons can disturb the ministry, and the budget does not appear to have caused any such serious movement. In three years the effect of the budget scheme may be pretty well tested, and that should not be a bad thing.

It is pointed out that the disputants for the honor of finding the pole have more than honor at stake. Large gains are to be made from the lectures which the successful explorer gives, and for the book which he publishes, giving an account of his adventures and discoveries. Nansen did not reach the pole, but he was an exceedingly popular lecturer, and wrote one of the largest selling books of the year. Moreover he paved the way for the highest political position his kingdom could offer. The man who finds the pole last cannot expect so much popularity as he who finds it first. The man who only pretends to have found it would hardly expect to sell so many books as the one who was there.

But on the lecture platform the two explorers would earn the most money by appearing together and debating the case. It might not be thought dignified but it would certainly be more becoming than the present controversy. Joint meetings would draw great crowds.

The Clerk of the Crown in Chancery has been making up detailed returns and calculations concerning the last Federal election. He finds that the average number of votes polled in each contested Quebec constituency was 4,394, whereas the average in all the other provinces was 5,781. As the average population of constituencies must be the same in Quebec as in other provinces the conclusion is that there were some 1,300 more who stayed at home in the average Quebec riding than in those of other provinces.

Western papers say that Reginald Hunt, an Edmonton man, has been inventing and building an airship all by himself. The other day Hunt started to fly and sailed over the houses of Edmonton in various directions, remaining in the air thirty-five minutes at a height of thirty-five to fifty feet above the house tops and then settling down gracefully near his own home. This machine and operator should have been at the Rheims contest.

The release of Cuba from Spain does not change the policy of Cuba in the matter of lotteries. The national lottery is still held, the profits going to the state treasury. A drawing took place last Saturday with the result that the Government made a net gain of $100,000. The Havana lottery profits by the fact that the United States has suppressed a similar enterprise formerly conducted at New Orleans, and known throughout the world as the Louisiana lottery.

Mr. Winston Churchill's invention of the term shortfall for treasury deficit has led to a wide discussion. It seems probable that the minister's use of the word was inadvertent. The revenue falls short and the man speaking of it refers to the shortage as the shortfall. In the same way he might have designated the money that fell in as an infall, or the amount by which the revenue fell off as offall.

The Sackville Tribune, noting Mr. Pugsley's promises to the North Shore, says that if he is looking for other opportunities of satisfying needs he will find some at Sackville, where the wharf has been much neglected. If the Tribune can only get Mr. Pugsley to Sackville in person the promises will be given. The Sackville will be in the same position as the North Shore.

It is suggested that Hon. Mackenzie King arbitrate the Peary-Cook controversy. This suggestion is premature. The time for the Minister of Labor to arrive on the scene is when the dispute has been settled. Then he will arbitrate and give himself abundant credit for ending the trouble.

Premier Asquith proposes to make his budget speech at Birmingham on Friday of this week. Mr. Balfour is to offer some remarks a few days later.

They were fined $3 and told that they were liable to an additional penalty of two months for leaving their ship.

Found Dead in Bed. Mr. Frederick Belyea was found dead in his room at 197 British street yesterday morning. He had been ailing for some time past, but nothing of a serious nature was anticipated. He retired apparently in good spirits. His father going to call him in the morning was horrified to find the young man dead. Coroner Berryman was notified, and gave permission to prepare the body for burial. No inquest will be held.

as we do it, is not a matter of trying on a number of pairs of ready made glasses and of selecting that pair which seems best. It is not guess work. CLOSING STOCK LETTER.

New York, Sept. 13.—Prices in both London and New York were material-ly lower at the opening today, supposedly because of a withdrawal of banking support, which was so liberally vouchsafed following Mr. Harrison's demise, which was no longer to sell at the lower levels established and the broad trend was toward a higher range of prices, with some notably wide advances, interspersed through the list. Reading was the bull leader, advancing several points to the accompaniment of a number of bull rumors. One of these was the long predicted increase in the dividend on Jersey Central, the majority of which stock is held by the Reading. Another was the fact that there had been a change of attitude on the part of big interests with regard to the segregation of the anthracite properties. The especially market Lehigh Valley scored a big advance, talk of an extra distribution to stockholders in some form. There was a cessation of bullish activity in Union Pacific. This was regarded as a logical consequence of the recent extraordinary operations in the stock which sent the price up 15 points. The announcement of representatives of the large banking house long identified with the property and of prominent Standard Oil interests had a stimulating effect, especially as it refuted rumors of a contest for control and the election of a director representing once rival interests.

CLOSING COTTON LETTER.

New York, Sept. 13.—Our market was adversely affected this morning by what appeared to be heavy liquidation of Southern long accounts. Close sales were directly traceable to this source. On this pressure our market opened 15 points down and declined further when Houston receipts of 22,500 bales were posted. The impression appears to be gaining force that there can be no immediate improvement in prices, however small the crop, as long as the staple continues to move as rapidly as at present. A reported report of weavers in one of the large Fair, River mills was another bearish influence. The rally of 10 points appears to have been the result merely of room short covering. We see no reason to depart from our position we have already taken—that any permanent improvement of any consequence is impossible until the movement diminishes and spinners become more liberal buyers.

NEWS SUMMARY.

In London main factors are easy condition of money market and very large savings available for investment in United States and other countries. Public Service Commission states that New York street railways carried more passengers than any railway of any other city in the world and 18 per cent of the street railway passengers of the United States. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers will meet at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 19 to arrange for convention of delegates early in October to agitate for shorter hours and increased wages. The prominent features in the copper is reported to be current production for 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 in excess of future consumption. Iron movement continues to show increased activity.

THE ENGLISH LUMBER MARKETS

Supplied The Standard by Messrs. Churchill and Son. London, Sept. 12.—The wood market during August, both in London and elsewhere, has been dominated by the effect of the strike in Sweden upon the building trade in that country. That effect has not yet been fully felt; the importation into London during August has been a normal one, but the consumption continues to decrease. It is believed that there is no reason for a rise in prices. The knowledge however, that so many thousands of standards a week are not being prepared for shipment this autumn, is increasing the displacement of the forests for the open water, which gradually spread and importers have not been slow to pick up every advantage in increasing the displacement of this curtailment of such an important source of supply, especially on open contracts, the market has not still under-estimated the work that is to be done in the autumn, and is likely to come to an end in the hard current month, while every week that it lasts in increasing the displacement of normal conditions. The factor, however, which has so far kept the home markets quiet is the lack of local demand owing to the seemingly hopeless condition of the building trade. Know anything approaching return to an ordinary rate of consumption the small stocks of wood in this country and the shutting down of a great part of the Swedish supply would send our markets very far indeed. In the meantime the deliveries from the docks and overseas during August are nearly 5,000 standards less than the rest of the last year; and prices are being quietly firm without any tendency to excitement. The dock stocks may be estimated at some 17,000 or 18,000 standards less than in 1908.

Supplied The Standard by Messrs. Smith and Tyrer. Liverpool, Sept. 1.—There is a better tone prevailing, and although we cannot report any revival of activity, our position is decidedly hopeful and the work for improving trade. Stocks generally are within a reasonable compass and there is no pressure to sell, apparently, in the market. The Knowlton Pine—The firmness of prices at the shipping ports is greatly restricting fresh business, but it is not unwelcome to the importers, as it is believed to be a sign of a steady market. Hewn Timber—Has been bought sparingly. Sawn Timber—Is practically at a standstill and consists mostly of consignments parcels. Rio Prime Deals—Prices are firm, but the demand is quiet. Prime Lumber—The demand is slack; but shippers are maintaining their prices. Kiln Dried Saps—Have not responded to the spur to the shippers' side, and prices are now easier to meet the market. Oregon Pine—The demand is mainly for special requirements. U. S. A. Hardwoods—The supply is again coming forward freely, and values are not so firm. Spruce Deals—Have been a little firmer, but the holidays have interfered with business. Stocks are light, and prices should be fully maintained if the import continues moderate. Birch—Continues in an unsatisfactory position, values both of logs and planks being weak, the demand slow. Pine—Is weaker with a poor demand. Hemlock—Has been a little more interested for.

From the St. Lawrence the importation has been: Pine deals, 359,000 pieces, against 295,000 pieces in 1908. Spruce deals, 400,000 pieces, against 405,000 pieces in 1908. Birch planks, 152,000 pieces, against 95,000 pieces in 1908. From New Brunswick, etc.: Pine deals, 30,000 pieces, against 29,000 pieces in 1908. Spruce, 274,000 pieces, against 373,000 pieces in 1908. Birch planks, 17,000 pieces, against 121,000 pieces in 1908. There has been a moderate addition to the stock of pine deals in London during August, but the market and size.

STOCK MARKET REGAINS ITS EQUILIBRIUM

New York, Sept. 13.—The dull trading and the narrowing price fluctuations in today's stock market marked the normal rate of subsidence from the violent contortions of the adjustment of last week's leading event. No one supposed that the death of a capitalist of Mr. Harriman's power and grasp contained any positive force for betterment of values of securities. The early termination of the headlong advance of Friday was expected, therefore, and the agency of the uncovered short interest in causing it was quite justly recognized. The reactionary tendency which developed on Saturday was pushed by various professional devices today in the effort to widen the spring of the price movement on which professional trading profits depended. The growth of the market was manifest in the restrictions of the reaction and the later vibrations of prices. Such a movement represents the settling down of the market to await the developments. The remaining new developments of the coming week are expected to be: (1) The election of new members of the board of directors and of the executive committee were regarded as the board to put a stop to some of the rumors of alleged contemplated changes. The expectation that a member of the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., was to be admitted to the board was thus disappointed. The unsettled in the market was aggravated by rumors that embarrassed the member of the board of directors, which threatened a consequence of the recent past. The denial of these rumors gave the market its show of strength during the mid-session, but a fresh reaction of the board of directors proved its influence on the general list still maintained. While firmer rates in the money market are quite generally expected, bankers do not anticipate tight money. The fall in Union Pacific, allowing for the dividend of today, carried it off 7% from the high point of the rally touched on Saturday. The closing of the books today for the coming annual meeting ends any demand for representation at that meeting. Bonds were weak. Total sales, par value, $3,556,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

TORONTO IS INTERESTED IN NEW DEAL

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Important Toronto interests are concerned in the merger of the cast iron, porcelain and enamel manufacturers of Canada, which was accomplished in Montreal on Saturday. The consolidation in which the factories making porcelain, stoneware, and other goods of a similar character in this country, the two dominant institutions being the Standard Ideal Company, of Amherst, N. S., and the Toronto plant employs some six hundred men and about two hundred and fifty mechanics engaged at the works in Amherst. The merger was effected through the Royal Canadian Company, of Montreal, Mr. W. M. Aitken, who has been a prominent figure in a number of recent consolidations recently conducted the negotiations. The capital involved is two million dollars. It is said the consolidation of the Canadian manufacturers has been hastened by threats of more formidable invasion of the Canadian markets than has been on the other side of the line.

ENTRY LIST FOR FREDERICTON RACES THE ANNUAL M. P. A. A. SPORTS

Cameron Wins Five Mile Race at Meet

Stirring finishes witnessed at Annual M.P.A.A.A. Sports Held Yesterday--Cameron of Amherst the Star--Club Honors Go to the Abegweits of Charlottetown.

Special to The Standard. Halifax, N. S., Sept. 13.—The twenty-second annual championship Amateur Athletic Association were held this afternoon on the Wanderers' grounds. The weather was ideal and some 800 people were present at the sports. While no records were broken outside of the five mile run, which was close and interesting, some stirring finishes were witnessed in the sprints. The only thing that marred the afternoon was the breakup of the one mile bicycle race, when four of the competitors were thrown completely out of the race by colliding with one another at the start of the second lap.

The feature of the afternoon, however, was the five mile race, not the race itself but the marvelous running of Fred Cameron, the Amherst flyer. The race was a cinch for the fair-haired boy from the manufacturing town, who was out after the Maritime record, which he got, and came within four-fifths of a second of beating the Canadian mark made this summer at the Canadian championships at Winnipeg. It he had had some one to push him he would hold some of the Canadian record today, for he was never taxed to his limit and finished with a wonderful spurt that brought the crowd to their feet. Cameron is a sturdy young fellow standing five feet five inches, weighing some 140 pounds trained. He runs a strong, graceful and even gait and possesses great stamina and qualities of the stuff essential to a successful distance runner, called grit.

Two years ago, on Labor Day of 1907 the Hammonds holding some field sports on their grounds in Amherst, and among the starters in the half and one mile runs was a sturdy fair-haired, rather pale-faced young man whom no person took any special notice, and who was at most unknown. He aroused a sort of morbid interest in the crowd by finishing second in both the half and one mile runs, saw anything about him above the average runner and he was forgotten.

If ever a runner deserved words of praise it is Rogers, the Crescent runner who held the running strong, was seized with cramps of the stomach in the start of the ninth lap and topped over. He was being dragged helped up and then he broke loose and started again. He ran another lap at great speed, but at the end of the lap his knees wobbled and he dropped, falling flat on the track, after one of the most plucky efforts ever seen on the running track.

R. Paul, the Truro Indian, who finished second, was over a lap behind Cameron, showing what a clip the Amherst wonder was setting.

PROSPECTS FOR FOOTBALL ARE MOST BRIGHT

Now that the baseball season is on its last legs the sport loving public are looking forward to the Saturday afternoon football games and there is every promise that some good gridiron battles will be contested in St. John this fall. The Algonquins are already organized and getting in shape, while the Carleton team has also taken the field and a team combined representing St. Josephs and St. Peters is reported in process of organization. T. W. Waters is booming the sport in Carleton and has associated with him a number of players who have booted the pigskin in bygone days. These include Baker, Ring, Harry Pike and others, and the team from the West Side is always an awkward proposition to handle.

The teams got down to the scrimmage work with a will and after half an hour's play it was found that Jersey's combination had scored five touchdowns to Thorne's one. The men are working out well and this year it seems to be the case of the manager picking his team. On Wednesday evening from 5.30 to 7 o'clock practice will be in progress and any player desiring to play is invited to attend. The intermediate league will be cleared up at a meeting of all those interested in forming a league to be held in the Y. M. C. A. building at 8 o'clock this evening.

The Standard presents today, the list of entries for the Fredericton 1909 Exhibition races, which will take place on September 16th, 17th, 18th, 20th and 21st.

Arrested On Several Charges. It is not often that a drunken man will come to the Police Station to create a disturbance, but this is what Jowett Jewett of Simonds street did last evening, and contrary to his desire was locked up. Jewett who is a big husky man came to the station complaining that his wife was not "giving him the life of a dog," and he wished to have her arrested. The police, however, knew him of old, and ordered him to clear out. He refused to do this, and Officers Finley and Hamm had to resort to force. They succeeded in putting him out onto the street, but he stayed there creating a disturbance, being drunk, resisting the police, and using profane language.

ONCE MORE GRIP TRUSSES OF THE LAW ON THEFT CHARGE

Young French Canadian Who Was Let out on Suspended Sentence Arrested Last Night on Red Head Road--Suspected of Stealing Money and Jewelry from James Connell.

Not profiting by his previous experience with the police when he was released by Judge Forbes on suspended sentence after pleading guilty to stealing, Joseph David was arrested last evening on suspicion of stealing a pocketbook containing $3 from James Connell's house on the Marsh road.

David is a young French-Canadian who was employed during the summer as a teamster for Mr. W. H. Bell of King street. About a month ago, Policeman Scott arrested him on the charge of stealing clothing valued at about $25 from his employer. He was sent up for trial and pleaded guilty before Judge Forbes at a special session of the county court. In recognition of his previous good character, the young man was given his liberty but it has developed he made bad use of his freedom. He engaged to work with Mr. Connell, but only stayed a few days, leaving in the morning of Saturday, Sept. 13th.

Money and Jewelry Missing. Mr. Connell discovered soon afterward that a sum of money, the exact amount of which is not known, and a quantity of jewelry was missing. He reported the matter to the police.

After close investigation it was learned yesterday that David was employed on the farm of Messrs Barrett about four miles out on the Red Head road. Officers Scott and Lucas chartered a rig at weatherhead's stable and left the city at 9 o'clock for the purpose of locating the man. They found him at the first house at which they stopped coming upon him as he was engaged in unharnessing a horse. Mr. Barrett who was in the barn was much surprised to see his new farm hand in the grip of two burly officers. David made no resistance and did not express any desire to make a statement.

Rings Found. The charge against the prisoner reads "arrested on suspicion of stealing a pocketbook containing about $3, the property of James Connell, from the owner's house on the Marsh road." In view of the fact that two ladies' rings were found in David's possession when arrested, and that Mr. Connell reported his wife's jewelry missing, it is thought that David may be charged with stealing a much greater amount.

The list of articles found on his person were a watch, box, harmonica, three pocket books, 13 cents, two rings, bunch of keys, jack-knife, fountain pen, lead pencil, pencil sharpener and a quantity of papers.

FOLEY ARRESTED ON ROBBERY CHARGE LAST EVENING

Identified By Mrs. H. B. Schofield As Man Who Snatched Handbag Saturday--As Sault Alleged.

The police believe they have in the person of Thomas Foley, aged twenty-nine, the perpetrator of the bold highway robbery in Wellington Row Saturday evening, when Mrs. H. B. Schofield's handbag and purse were snatched from her by a man who got clear away at the time.

Following up the clue given by Mrs. Schofield's description of her assailant and also aided by the story of other eye-witnesses, Deputy Chief Jenkins was engaged on the case and last evening fastened suspicion upon Foley as the thief. Foley lives at York Point, and has been under the eye of the police for some time. He was quite unassuming, however, that he was wanted, and made no attempt to get away. When the evidence against him became complete the arrest was made at 6:15 last night.
