Mr. Tweedie, a bill to enable the school trustees of No. 1 district, Nelson, to issue debentures; Mr. Flemming, a bill to amend the Woodstock incorporation act; Mr. Jones, notice of motion to introduce Carleton County hospital bill.

Redistribution Word from Ottawa.

Hon. Mr. Tweedie said the governme had a further communication from the government at Ottawa, with regard to the redistribution bill. He had a letter today, which sugested that an immediate reference might be made to the supreme court, now sitting, and which would sit next week. The attorney-general was now en-deavoring to have the case ready, so that it might be argued before the adjournment of the court.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley, in reply to Mr. Hazen, said the number of criminal prosecutions he had personally conducted in the courts during the year was three, but that he had given his personal attention to nearly every criminal case in the province—from 75 to 100. In almost every case the papers had passed through his hands, and the coursel who were to conduct them and the counsel who were to conduct them in court had received instructions. Then Mr. Tweedie, in reply to Mr. Hazen, said the only order-in-council passed in regard to the Restigouche & Western.

Hon Mr. Tweedie, in reply to Mr. Hazen, said the only order-in-council passed in regard to the Restigouche & Western and the agent of the executive council have had under consideration the memorial of the Restigouche & Western Railway Ompany, and the recommendation of members of the legislative assembly that aid be given to the road beyond that already authorized. Mr. Smith agreed something should be done to improve the election law.

He thought the leader of the opposition took an exaggerated view of the amount of undue influence exercised on voters. The great evil against which they should endeavor to put down, was bribery. He felt quite sure that the result of the labors of the committee would be to place on the statute book a law that would be creditable to the legis-Cature and satisfactory to the people.

Mr. Fleming said they should have a ballot system that must be secret. He agreed with the attorney general that the present system might be amended

Mr. Barnes introduced a bill to incorporate the Beersville Railway Company. Whitehead a bill to amend the Frederic-ing and development of the water power at Grand Falls, Mr. Copp in the chair. The premier said the great aim of capitalists at the present time is to obtain water power for developing their electricity. Some years ago a company obtained a charter for utilizing the water power of Grand Falls. One of the incorporators was Sir Wm. VanHorne. Unfortunately they did not carry out their agreement. Two years ago their charter was extended on condition that they would spend $100. on condition that they would spend $100, 000 prior to March 3 last. Their charter has now elapsed and it is thought desirpower to lease this power at Grand ralls to any company that should require it. He thought, indeed, that all the important

For instance, the Grand Falls at Nepisguit was held by a company of anglers, who had made large expenditures there and who might object to their fishing being interfered with. It would be necessary to give these persons proper com-pensation and also to guard the fisheries against injuries. He asked if the government proposed to impose a rental to be paid by parties obtaining water power. Hon. Mr. Tweedie thought the sugges private interests should be protected they should not be allowed to override public interests. He would take care that the rights of all should be safeguarded. Hon. Mr. Hill said that the disadvan

The water forming the Grand Falls comes from many water sheds to which no man has contributed and was it not equitable that owners of land on either side of the river should claim that which nature produced? The government should not part in fee simple with the natural resources of and country. They are wealth producers and should in all cases be leased so as to swell the revenues of the province. He was therefore glad to vote for the bill.

Mr. Tweeddale said it was evident that the company whose charter had recently expired had not sought corporation in good faith. What is expected in the leasing of public franchises is the development of industries, thereby enhancing the value of private property. He would not like to see too many restrictions placed on the tion of the government and approve of the bill now before the house. The bill was then read section by sec-

The fathers of confederation had lofty views with regard to the future of the dominion and they fully believed that it would become great and powerful. Their views in the respect have been more than realized but in their zeal for the interests of the dominion they seem to have forgotten to deal prudently and wisely with the interests of the separate provinces.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 8-Justice Murphy

The inquest will probably last two days. It was intimated today that in the event that those interested in the Pennell estate are called upon at an official inquiry to financial operations, an effort will be mad from his friends and relatives was in th nature of legitimate loans. In other word mount of about $200,000 were advanced to him without any security whatever. His attorney, Walface Thayer, admits that Pennell had no security to give for such had no bonds or stocks or montgages.

"Do you consider that he could borrow $200,000 from friends and relatives without giving security far in excess in value of $200,000?" Mr. Thayer was asked.

Mr. Thayer says that he had not yet opened the sealed instructions left him

"Pennell left written orders that they should not be opened until the insurance money was paid in," said Mr. Thayer. "I Jesus' Family Trouble," the Theme of Rev. B. N. Nobles in Sermon to Our Readers Today.

Mark 6—4: "A prophet is not without honor, but in his own country and among his own kin and in his own house." A range of hills extending east and west forms the northern boundary of the plain of Esdraelon. About half way from the Jordan to the Mediterranean there is a cleft in this range which soon widens into a little valley well nigh surrounded by hills. This is supposed to be the crater of an extinct velcano and built upon the side of one of these hills which rises some 500 feet above the valley, is the little town of Nazareth.

Its streets are narrow and the houses flatroofed, small and built of white stone. Of public buildings there is a church, a mosque and a convent. In the aris around the houses grow the orange and fig tree, the pomegranate and the olive, while on tree branch and housetop may be seen cooing doves and roller blue birds

Such is the Nazareth of today as travellers describe it and such it was substantially when Joseph and many dwelt there 1900 years ago and reared their family. Here with his four brothers, James, Joses, Simon and Jonas and his two sisters whose names according to tradition were Esther and Thamer-here with these his half brothers and sisters and Joseph and Mary whom he doubtless called father and mother Jesus lived in sweet and loving harmony as boy in village school and later as carpenter in shop making yokes and plows and axles. If ever brothers and sisters lived together happily I judge these did. If ever a brother loved brothers and sisters I am sure Jesus did and if, according to tradition and inferences drawn from the silence of scripture regarding Joseph, he died early in the life of the family leaving a dependent household, then Jesus, the eldest son had occasion to show his devotion and love while he wrough with besweated brow to support mother and the little ones. But has it ver occurred to you, my brothers, that this happy unison of love did not tinue. Much as Jesus loved his brothers and sisters, much as he teemed their fellowship and sympathy yet was he not permitted to enjoy ese for with his entrance upon his public ministry alienation began and the breach widened and widened until it separated him altogether from

The alienation began probably with his spending two months beyond fordan where John was baptized when in the judgment of the family he ould have been at home attending to his business in the carpenter shop o far as we know Jesus was the only one of the family who went to hear this great prophet of the wilderness. After having been baptized of John n the Jordan, the sacred writer says the Holy Spirit descended upon him the visible form of a dove as he was coming forth from the water, and orthwith led him into the wilderness where amid great temptations and without food Jesus endured for forty days. Returning our Lord seems to have spent a few days in Judea during which time he drew to himself riples. With this little band he returned to Galilee after an abnce of two months. Instead of settling down to work and sending these men off about their business, which doubtless was the mind of his brothers he kept them in his home for a few days, then went down to Capernaum whence after a brief stay he went up to Jerusalem to keep the passover.

In view of statements made later in the parrative concerning the feelings intertained toward him by his brothers, I judge the alienation began with his neglect of his business. When they found he had no intention of resuming work in the carpenter shop but had entered upon the life of a prophet and teacher, the breach widened. Then when they heard how during the passover week he had entered the Temple and with a scourge of small cords had driven out the buvers and sellers, they in their unbelief must have looked upon such a course as most unwise and presumptuous.

They also suffered a great shock when that Sabbath day in the vnagogue he read Isaiah 61-1-3 and publicly announced himself, the fessiah of whom the prophet spoke. Such pretensions seemed the acme folly to his fellow-townsmen and doubtless seemed so to his brothers Iso. That he who had wrought with them in same shop, dwelt in same nome, ate at same table—that he, their brother, good and true though he ras, should be the Messiah of prophecy was beyond belief. So the alienation continued and the breach widened. Nor did Jesus fail of recognizing he fact for it was early in his ministry when Jesus in explanation of the reatment he was receiving said, "A prophet is not without honor save n his own country, and among his own kin and in his own house." As he weeks and months passed by and his brothers heard of and saw his trange conduct, how he disregarded traditions of the fathers; how he efused to observe the weekly fasts and set at naught the Pharasaic laws f Sabbath observance; how he kept company with publicans and sinners nd uttered bitter accusations against scribes and Pharisees whom he lenounced as hypocrites, the breach widened still further. They conclud-d his fanatical zeal had got the better of his judgment. Their explanaion was, "he is beside himself." So they determined, according to Mark, to lay hold upon him"-to take him home with them and keep him ecluded from the public eye until his mind should regain its balance. But when his mother and brothers sought him for this purpose and it ras told him they were "without desiring to see him" he paid no attention ave to declare "whoesoever shall do the will of my Father who is in eaven the same is my brother and sister and mother." Thus again did e intimate that he felt his family were not in sympathy with his words nd works-that they were alienated beyond recall.

Later still, after spending some months in Galilee with his disciples comparative retirement because of his waining popularity, his brothers eem to have gone so far as to cruelly mock him. John's explanation of heir conduct is that they "did not believe in him." Thus the alienation ontinued and the breach widened until with the exception of Mary his amily seems to have forsaken him altogether, leaving him to his fate. Vhen in Gethesmane, when before Annas and Caiaphas and Herod and ilate, when on the cross dying, when laid in grave no brothers or sisters ttended him. All alone he endured.

And how all this must have grieved him. Are not the sympathy and pproval of those you love among the strongest stimulants to persist in he course one judges right? And what can tempt a gentle, affectionate oul to desist from his course like the opposition of loved ones. Think I Job trusting God in his trials while his wife bade him curse God and ie and Whitfield stoned for his plain preaching and his wife bidding him lay the man and declare the whole counsel of God. Job was surely at a lvantage compared with Whitfield. So far as it was possible for Jesus feel temptation he must have been specially tempted to refrain himself hen he saw his brothers and siters were opposed to him and becoming lienated. It would have been hard enough for Jesus to bear the misunerstanding and unbelief and opposition of other men, but doubly so hen James and Joses and Simon and Judas—his own beloved brothers, ere among the unbelieving ones. How keen his grief when he saw these ithdrawing their sympathy and fellowship and he unable to prevent it r error and superstition had to be exposed—truth had to be exalted ne world must be redeemed—the kingdom of heaven set upon earth. To this he had been commissioned, to desist he could not though it cost im the sympathy and friendship of his family. Oh, how keen must have en the suffering of the sensitive, affectionate heart of Jesus! Hard enagh to be rejected by his own nation, but to be rejected by his own kith ad kin! To have his own brothers and sisters withhold recognition and mpathy and leave him to his fate among his enemies, who can measure ie sorrow this caused him.

The reconciliation, however, came at last for St. Luke writing about e protracted meeting which continued from the day of our Lord's cension until Pentecost mentions among those present "Mary, the other of Jesus, and his brethren." So it came to pass that his brethren d come to believe in him and their estrangement ceased. But the reconliation came too late to be of service to Jesus in his hours of trial, too te to relieve and comfort his overstrained heart.

All those weary months he longed for the love and fellowship that id been withdrawn-longed to enter home as he once did and feel at se, but the alienation of his brothers forbade him. Not until he had assed through his darkest way, suffered his keenest pangs and through ath entered into his glory did the estrangement and unbelief give place faith and reconcilation. After his resurrection when it became noised out that he had risen and been seen of the disciples, I judge their undief began to give way, but his appearance unto his brother James set- valuable.

TESTED SEEDS

We have been in the seed business in Toronto for over thirty years and have built our business solely on selling reliable seeds. The shrewd buyer recognizes this and buys our seeds because he knows our reputation depends on selling seeds that grow that are prolific producers and give abundant crops. The responsibility that attaches our being the "Greatest Seed House in Canada" is appreciated by us. All our seeds are thoroughly tested before they leave our hands. We have gained our position in the seed business through our customer's satisfaction. There are no crop failures resulting from Steele, Briggs' Seeds.

Even keener must have been the regret of these brothers. Their sorrow, however, could not alter the facts that without a brothr's sympathy and companionship, Jesus passed through all his trials. In Gethsemane before the Sanhedrin and at Pilate's judgment seat he endured alone, no brother or sister near. On the cross suffering, no brother or sister spoke kindly words and wiped away his sweat of agony and after death no brother asked his body for burial. Reconciliation came, but too late to be of any service to Jesus in his trials—too late to save him from that consuming heartbreaking sorrow his family's alienation had brought him. My brothers, you hearts are touched as you think of Jesus misunderstood by his own family, rejected by them, an outcast from home and all alone enduring. But did it ever occur to you that you were grieving him. Some of you are estranged from Jesus. You are unbelieving, you persist in misunderstanding him and misrepresenting him. You turn your back upon him. You treat him as your enemy. You refuse his friendship and your alienation makes him a man of sorrows even now. 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF MR, AND MRS, J A. GOSLINE

Newtown, Kings Co., April 8.—The 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gosline was observed at Mrs. John A. Gosline was observed at Newtown, Kings country, on Tuesday evening last. The wish of parents and children was fully realized in that all were present, and in addition a large number of relatives and friends combined to make the occasion pleasant and profitable.

The family, consisting of the following, were present: Mrs. S. R. Wilcox and husband, Newtown; D. P. Gosline and wife, Boston; W. A. Gosline and wife, Apohaqui; Rev. J. C. Gosline, ir., Cambridge (Mass.); Geo. H. Gosline and wife, Worcester (Mass.); Mrs. Thos. Hill and husband, Congo (Africa); W. J. Gosline, Cambridge (Mass.); Mrs. Cuthibert Clark and husband, Blaine (Me.), and Miss Blancie Gosline, the last remaining at home. There were also present three sisters and one forther of Mrs. Gosline, besides many other of Mrs. Goslme, besides many iends.

After a bountiful colation was served After a bountiful colation was served and enjoyed by all present, the presentation of gifts of family and friends was made by Rev. J. E. Gosline in a neat address, and feelingly accepted in a few well chosen words. The rollowing toasts were then proposed and responded to:

Albsent Ones, Thos. Hill who was called upon and referred beautically to the many what world be present and were unavided. who would be present and were unavoid ably absent and also read letters of regre and expressions of good will and best wishes from several. Mr. Hill also gave some of the ludicrous side of their missionary work on Congo.

The Ladies were handsomely referred to by G. H. Gosline, who took occasion to say some good but "sincere and heartful words of praise of the good woman and devoted mother.

A solo was then well rendered by J. A Gosline, jr., the sentiment of which found a response in every heart and following was sung The Old Oaken Bucket.

Antiversaries was next well dealt with by Rev. J. E. Gosline, who briefly reviewed those happy occasions (all eclipsed by the present one) and paid a fitting trib-ute to the success and fidelity of those whom they were assembled to honor. Home and Parents was recalled by Mrs. C. Clark and evidently the recollection of all were carried back to the old loved spot and many tender priceless incidents as well as some ludicrous stood out again in the memory of the hearers.

as the later days of his experience and recited some of the old boyish tricks as well family he evidently believes in and enjoys the same, since he took special pains t ment a won hy uncle now in his 70th year with the newest edition to the family.

The Babies found a ready champion in the person of Q. P. Knollin, who took occasion to refer to the beginnings of families and paid a handsome triubte to the guests of the evening in the right education of shill are tion of children.

Remarks were also made by A. S. Mace,
Cuthbert Clark and William Venning, cach and all expressing their pleasure to be present. After a vote of thacks to Mr. and Mrs. Keith, who tendered their larger house to accommodate the company, and also to the ladies for the excellent supper, the parity began to disperse, but many lingered for a social hour and the gathering broke up about, midnight. All went away feeling that a pleasant and profitable evening had been spent.—Com.

Since 1883 debts have been incurred by the subsidizing of railways, but this has been done under an act passed prior to Mr. Blair coming into power and for which he is not responsible. He simply carried out the legislation of his predecesors yet even if he had been responsible for the policy the people have approved of it. They demanded railway facilities and it was a wise policy to grant them. If the province possessed the means he would even go further in railway expenditures and build a line up the St. John valley from St. John to Woodstein and the life," etc., were read as a processional. Astonished Him.

He had heard with astonishment the statement made by the leader of the opposition that the proposed readjustment was unfair to New Brunswick. Instead was unfair to New Brunswick. Instead of that being the case the larger provinces had dealt most generously with this province. New Brunswick would receive under the new arrangement $1.34 per head of population, while Ontario and Quebec would receive less than $1. Surely in this case there has been no injustice to New Brunswick. With regard to the amount for the support of the government and legislatures, this province would receive $180,000 a year, while Quebec and Ontario with five and six times our poulation with five and six times our poulation would receive only $240,000 a year. resolutions that the province should be ceive 80 cents per head on their actual population in addition to this legislative subsidy was a most just one. alderman to $200, the council has decided to petition against the bill.

Mr. Jarvis Speaks Pointedly.

The president said that he regretted that the funeral of the late Dr. I. Allen Jack, whose death they all so deeply regretted, had kept away several members of the board; also, he said, the lamented death of Franklin Stetson had caused several members to be absent, as they were attending a meeting of lumbermen in connection with his death.

The meeting was important, because it was the first held since the delegation sent last month to Ottawa, and as chairman of that delegation, he wished to say that not only had the delegates been most cordially received, but that they had found everywhere that St. John was being more and more recognized as of growing importance in connection with the transportation system of the dominion. They had been able to point out that the tonnage of steamers loaded during the winter months at St. John had increased from 50,892 tons in 1805-6, when the winter export trade began, to 275,746 tons in 1901-2, and to express their hope that this winter would show a much larger tonnage, while the cattle exports would be nearly double those of last year. And their statements had been received by mimisters and others with an appreciation which could not but be most gratifying to all who had the welfare of the port at heart.

It was important, too, because the council had to regert their action in connection determined to make it $200, and the majority took the street railway are running deeper and deeper into debt. The very aldermen who proposed to vote themselves $100 more apiece, proposed also to increase the assessments in almost to the common connection with the transport of the dominion. They had been able to point out that the tonnage of steamers loaded during the winter sport trade began, to 275,746 tons in 1901-2, and to express their hope that this winter all who had the welfare of the port at heart.

It was important, too, because the council had to report their action in connection with the proposed Winding Ledges dam, designed, under the specious pretext of some local advantages to a part of the county of Madawaska, to seriously injure the lumber trade of the lower St. John, to divert the lumber business at the head waters of the river to the State of Maine, and to interfere with the ocean traffic now being developed, since, if the effort to legalize the dam succeeded, it must deprive the ocean steamers to a large extent, of the lumber shipments, which could not be forgotten he tried to give the library contract to a New York architect. Mr. Jarvis thought, too, the city was going to much into the real estate business.

Where was all this to end? Were there no men who would step forward and offer themselves for the common council to leaven the present lump? They had, he believed, an excellent mayor, and some of tent, of the lumber shipments, which could now be utilized, with the grain from the west, to make up the cargoes consist taken in the matter of railway passes, at the west, to make up the cargoes consisting partly of cattle or package goods.

President W. M. Jarvis, at the monthly meeting of the board of trade, hit a hard blow at city aldermen and officials, who accept and use passes over the street railway lines. He also had some sharp remarks to make about the conduct of some city affairs in general, and urged that some new men come out in the civic elections, soon to be held.

Mr. Jarvis presided at the meeting, and those present were G. Fred. Fisher, F. A. Dykeman, Thos. Dean, James Oborne, of the C. P. R.; T. H. Estabrooks, J. A. Seeds, W. H.
