Sir John has three daughters now in Paris at a convent school. The eldest left Tuesday. Lady Thompson has telegraphed that she wished them to remain there for the present.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S MESSAGE TO LORD ABERDEEN.

LONDON, Dec. 13 .- The following is the text of the Queen's message to Lord Aberdeen, through Sir Charles Tupper: "The Queen has personally commanded me to express to your Excellency her deep sympathy with the people of Canada in the sad biow which the country has sustained by the sudden and untimely death of the Pre-

SIR CHARLES TUPPER'S STATEMENT. London, Dec. 13 .- Sir Charles Tupper yesterday gave the Associated Press reporter the following particulars of the Premier's death: "I learn that during the swearing in of Sir John Thompson as a member of the Privy Council, several persons remarked that he looked fatigued.

"However, the ceremony passed off all right, and Sir John adjourned with the others to the octagon room for lunch. About fifteen members of the Queen's household, and the Ministers who came for the ceremony were present. There was no member of the royal family present. Sir John sat between Miss Harbord, the ladyin-waiting, and Lord Pelham-Clinton, the master of the Queen's household. When Sir John swooned, Lord Pelham-Clinton and Lord Breadalbane removed him to the adjoining room, administered brandy and summoned Dr. Reid.

"When Sir John recovered he told Dr. Reid he had only a slight heart attack, returned to luncheon, and was apparently enjoying a cutlet, when Dr. Reid happened to look in his direction and saw the Premier fall against Miss Harboard.

"Dr. Reid instantly caught Sir John in his arms and laid him on the floor. When it was found that his life was extinct there was the greatest consternation. The ladies withdrew at the doctor's request, and the body of Sir John lay on the carpe surrounded by Dr. Reid, Lord Breadalbane and the officers of the household.

"The superintendent of police was summoned and the body was then removed to an adjoining apartment, the red diningroom. The police took possession of Sir John's papers, money, etc. They found a crucifix, a resary and a portrait of the Saviour on the person of the deceased.

"The remains were then carried to a smaller room in the Clarence tower, which is situated at the bottom of the Queen's SENDING THE REMAINS TO CANADA. LONDON. Dec. 13 .- It is learned that instructions have been received from Ottawa to have the dead body of the Premier shipped by the Cunarder Lucania on Saturday next for New York. The body will be in charge of a Canadian official.

AN UNHEALTHY PLACE. London, Dec. 13.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News says that Englishmen and Canadians in Paris regret deeply Sir John's death. The dispatch says: His ill-health dated from the sittings of the Bering Sea court. The weather was extremely hot and trying, and the room was not ventilated. It was either a cave of Boreas or was filled with exhausted air. Moreover, the endless feastings could not be refused. Sir John and his wife, although grateful for the attention, were glad to get

THE LORD CHANCELLOR'S TRIBUTE. LONDON, Dec. 13 .- Lord Herschel, the Lord Chancellor, presided at a meeting of the judicial committee of the Privy Council today. He spoke at length of Sir John's sudden death and the painful shock that it had given his many friends in Great Britain and the colonies. "It is an especially heavy loss," he said, "to the country which he served so faithfully, intelligently and successfully. I desire, on behalf of myself and my colleagues, to express deep sympathy with the Government and people of Canada. We associate ourselves with them in their sorrow."

Mr. Edward Blake, M.P., thanked the Lord Chancellor for his tribute of respect which, he said, Canadians would receive with gratitude.

A REQUIEM MASS. London, Dec. 14.-A requiem mass was colebrated over the body of Sir John Thompson in Lady Chapel in Spanish Place this morning. The service lasted 45 minutes. At the conclusion of the mass the mourners and friends passed around the coffin and looked upon the face of the dead Premier. The coffin is of mahogany, upon which is a heavy brass plate with the inscription: "The Right Hon. Sir John S. D. Thompson, P.C., K.C.T.M.G., M.P., Q.C. died at Windsor Castle, Dec. 12, 1894, aged 50 years. Requiescat in pace." The coffin was removed this afternoon to the private mortuary of Messrs. Garslin & Sons, in Welback street, where it will remain until Dec. 18, when it will be taken to Liverpool and placed on board the steamer Majestic. Two

Upon the pall were inscribed in Latin the words, "I am the Resurrection and the Life." Acolytes carrying lighted tapers and a large cross preceded the coffin up the aisle. The coffin was placed upon a catafalque erected in line with the altar, and standing upon a purple and gold carpet. Six huge candelabra were placed on each side of the coffin. While the body remains in the mortuary in Welbeck street it will be surrounded with tapers, which will be kept burning without intermission.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE PAMILY. OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—At a Cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon, the condition of Lady Thompson and her family was considered, and it was decided that the circumstances were such as to justify the colleagues of the late Sir John Thompson in asking for a national subscription to create a fund for the support of Lady Thompson and her

THE BODY EMBALMED. The body of Sir John Thompson was embalmed last evening by the French specialist, Charles Boyle. It was after-ward placed in a deal shell inclosed in a leaden coffin faced with plate glass. In order that the features may be visible upon the errival of the body in Canada without disturbing the body or opening the coffin, the lid of the mahogany ceffin which inclosed the whole is made removable. It has been decided that the body shall be conveyed to Canada on board a man-of-war.

A WARSHIP TO BRING THE BODY. The admiralty have sent a cable dispatch to the admiral of the channel squadron at Gibraltar instructing that officer to send the cruiser Bienheim to Spithead at once. She is expected to arrive there on Dec. 18 and to proceed at once from that place to Portsmouth, where the body of Sir John Thompson will be taken on board and conveyed to Halifax. NOTES.

Nothing had been done in the matter, he said, and it remained to be seen whether the successors of the late Government would renew the request. Such an appeal from a self-governing colony, he said, was unprecedented. The Government would be unable to take any action in the matter without the authority of Parliament.

Rubber Displaces the Sandbag. London, Dec. 13.-Robberies with violence have been very numerous in Paris since winter set in. The victims have invariably been found insensible on the roadway, but neither wounds nor bloodstains have been found upon them. All the victims have the same account of their trouble. A woman came along and accosted them, and while conversing with her someone crept up behind and dealt them a heavy blow upon the head. Through the confession of a woman who was angered by the desertion of her paramour the whole gang of footpads have been arrested. They are known as the "india-rubber men." The weapon they used is a thick india rubber tube, which is as deadly in its work as the American sandbag.

LOOKED LIKE A MURDER But Turned Out Otherwise-An Indian Roughly Handled.

ARVA, Ont., Dec. 13 .- A startling discovery was made by Mr. John Sinker this morning on the 6th concession, London township, about 300 yards west of the Proof Line adjoining the farm of Mr. Charles Sifton. The find consisted of a cap, pair of pants, boots and socks, a pocket knife and an empty whisky flask. There was blood on the ground and the pants, and evidences of a struggle. A buggy track also showed that it had been backed into the ditch and turned. Marks of bare feet were seen along the inside of the fence and the grass was smoothed down | they were opened. THE EXPLANATION. This morning an Indian called at Mr. John Webb's, 6th concession, about one mile east from the place where the clothes were found. He was badly cut about the head and face, and showed signs of having had a struggle. He was bareheaded and barefooted. Mr. Webb dressed the wounds and gave him a cap and boots. The Indian said he had been clubbed and robbed by two unknown men, which evidently is the case, as his boots and pants had been removed in search for money. A Rush for Admittance to the Scene-History of the Crime-Truskey's Suicidal Attempts.

WINDSOR, Dec. 14. - Joseph Truskey was hanged in Sandwich jail at 10:45 this morning for the murder of Constable Lindsay, at Comber, in this county, in May last.

WINDSOR, Dec. 14 .- Truskey was hanged at Sandwich this morning at 10:45, solar time. Bright and early a morbidly curious crowd of people wended their way to Sandwich and assembled at the court house, over which the Union Jack was floating, awaiting the time when the gates of the jail yard would open to those who held tickets. The scaffold was all in readiness, and inside the jail preparations for the solemn event were quietly going on, Just before 10 o'clock the sherift, Rev. Mr. Hind (Truskey's spiritual adviser) and Radeliffe, the hangman, entered the ward in which was the cell where Truskey was confined. Truskey had been freshly shaved,

SANDWICH, Ont., Dec. 14 -The crime for which Joseph Truskey paid his life on the scaffold had its commencement over a year ago, when William Lindsay, of Comber, constable of Essex county, prosecuted Truskey for the brutal killing of a horse, Lindsay's life, and a few days before the murder was committed he went to Detroit and purchased a revolver and cartridges. On the night of May 30 last Truskey, who had been drinking, came out of Pizer's hotel at Comber, and meeting Lindsay fired three shots at him from a revolver. The constable was removed to his house mortally wounded and died a few hours later. Im mediately after the shooting Truskey ran home, told his wife of the tragedy, and declared his intention of ending his own life, but overcome by the entreaties of his child he retreated to the woods on his farm. where he was discovered the next day by the police. He refused to be taken alive and attempted suicide by shooting himself with the same revolver that had killed Lindsay. The shot, although lodging in his breast, produced no serious result and he was taken to the Sandwich jail for trial. The jury after a lengthy trial returned a verdict of murder. During the trial and on several subsequent occasions his counsel advanced the plea that Truskey was an epileptic and had committed the crime while under an uncon-

DIED IN JAIL.

Sad End of Mrs. Elizabeth House.

Eighty-three Years Old and Insane-Was Awaiting Removal to the Asylum-Result of the Inquest.

Eighty-three years of age, insane, with but few friends in the world, and waiting removal to the asylum was the pitiful position of Mrs. Elizabeth House, when she died in the county jail at 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. House was for many years a resident of Adelaide street, just north of the city limits. Her husband died several years ago, and left her a snug ittle house and a sum of money—enough to keep her for the remainder of her days. It is afleged by some that Mrs. House lent a portion of the money, and inability to collect it is supposed to have unbalanced her mind, and on Nov. 17 it was necessary to place her in custody. On that date the old lady was remanded by Squire Smyth, and a week later was committed as insane. On Nov. 27 Mrs. House was, on the testimony of the jail physician, Dr. Macarthur, adjudged insane, and her removal to the today, on trial for the attempted murder of Alexander Wildfong on the night of Dec. sylum was ordered. From the first day of her incarceration, 1, in the north ward. The prisoners pleaded not guilty. Mr. Wildfong, the however, Mrs. House was very sick. She had to be assisted around the cell, and the victim, was put on the stand and related day she was brought before the judge it how he was followed and stabbed in the was necessary for two of the jail officials neck by Przhodda. It appears a row had to help her up the stairway in the court originated down town between the prisonhouse. She gradually grew weaker, deers and other young men, when Happka spite good attention from the physician had lost his hat and had accused Wildfong and the efforts of the two matrons. of taking or knowing where it was. His weeks ago last night she was taken to her evidence was corroborated by C. Englebed, and had been unable to leave it since. hart, who overheard the conversation. She passed peacefully away, with only the matrons present.

As far as the jail officials know, Mrs. House had only two relatives. Mrs. Laughlin, of 144 Ross street, St. Thomas, is a step-daughter. She has been a frequent visitor to the jail since Mrs. House was imprisoned, and had done for her stepmother as much as her means would permit. The other relative is a nephew residing in Jersey City, N. J. He is the proprietor of a large sawmill and is wellto-do. He comes in for all Mrs. House's money and property, and has ordered that be renewed, the blood cleansed of poisonhis aunt be given a respectable burial. Dr. ous material, and the ligaments and Niven, of this city, is a friend of the muscles strengthened and invigorated. The nephew, and besides visiting Mrs. House history of the case of Miss Nettie Freeat the jail kept the Jersey City relative man, of this village, whose life was saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, has had one beneficial effect in that it aroused scores of posted as to her condition. Coroner Flock was notified of Mr. House's death and held an inquest. The following jurymen were chosen: William Spence, J. Gosling, J. Sigsworth, H. E. Parish, James Smith, Fred Onn, Fred Heighway, Chas. Green, Wm. Rose, Geo. Kellan, Arthur Noyes, James Jutt, Fred Lea, Edward Jarmain and Arthur Sains-

Mr. Patrick Kelly, jailer, gave information regarding the woman's condition since her removal to jail. She should have been sent to the hospital instead, as there was not proper accommodation in the jail for

Miss Doyle, the matron, and Miss Harris, assistant, stated that Mrs. House had to be forced to take nourishment. It was very hard to take care of her. Dr. Macarthur also gave evidence to the effect that Dr. Bucke had been informed of the old lady's condition, but it was impossible to remove her self. Then you there was no room. The jury, after short deliberation, returned a verdict that Mrs. House came to her death from old age and other natural causes. They made recommendations that attention be immediately called to the condition of the deadhouse at the jail; that enitable accommodation be provided in the jail for the sick, and that more accommodation be provided for the care of the insane It's just as hard for every thing as it in this district.

The last death in jail occurred on April 20, 1890. Edward Wassell was the unfortunate man.

FOR LAW-MAKERS.

Here Is A Subject Worth Their Serious Consideration.

It Affects the Public Health, and Whatever Affects Health Should be Invest. igated-Cold Facts Blunty and Truth fully Stated-Let the Truth Be Known No Matter Whom It Hits.

To the close observer it often seems as though the days of the secret and worthless compounds are numbered. Every time the worthlessness of a secret mixture is exposed by the medical profession there is a public reaction in favor of the legitimate preparations which really have merit. The public is also gradually awakening to the possibilities, not only of fraud, but of actual harm in many preparations whose proprietors hide behind the inability of the chemist to trace the elements in their nostrums. The result is that people are becoming more cautious about buying new preparations or old ones that are enshrouded in mystery.

If the truth were known, there are surprisingly few remedies in the market that would stand legislative investigation. This is made apparent, even to a layman, whenever it is proposed to require all proprietors to give information about their preparations before they will be allowed to offer them for sale. This suggestion, although prompted by public welfare, is as a bomb thrown in the midst of many remedies. This fact shows only one thing, which anybody can

The public has a right to demand thorough understand. investigation of everything sold to benefit health. If there is any reason whatever why any preparation should be taken only on a doctor's prescription, for the sake of public health this fact should be made known. If, on the other hand, a preparation is utterly worthless and will not do what is claimed for it, the public should not be allowed to be deceived. One fact will surely stand. The proprietors who are afraid to have public investigation of their preparations by a national health board created for the purpose, have some reason which makes it all the more imperative for such an investiga-

When the time comes for the public to demand action in this matter on the part of national legislators there is one preparation which will come out with flying colors. This preparation is Scott's Emulsion. For twenty years Scott's Emulsion has had the highest indorsement of the medical world. The formula for making it has been pubto the asylum as lished for years in the medical journals, and as for there being anything sec ingredients, that is impossible, for any expert chemist can find out by an analysis everything that is in it.

Scott's Emulsion is both nourishment and medicine. It presents the medicinal proper-ties of Cod Liver Oil in a form that is easy on the most delicate stomach and sweet to the taste. Scott's Emulsion is good for a dyspeptic person, for it aids the digestion of other foods, and to all persons who suffer from a westing condition Scott's Emulsion from any wasting condition Scott's Emulsion offers the most effective cure.

For all affections of Throat and Lungs, like Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis and Consumption, Scott's Emulsion is invaluable. It soothes the Throat, cures Coughs and Colds, relieves inflammation and possesses the power to overcome the wasting of Consumption up to the last stage of the disease. Persons who have been so far gone with Consumption that they have raised quantities of blood have been entirely cured by this great remedy.

BEAT A BARNARDO BOY.

Joseph Whitton Says Farmer Millson Abused Him.

They Had Several Skirmishes—The Boy Had Been in "The Spikes-The Case Finally Settled.

The ups and downs in a young Barnardo boy's life were elicited by Squire Lacey yesterday afternoon, when the case of Joseph Whitton against Caleb Millson was heard. Whitton is an English lad of 16 years, and was sent to Canada by the Barnardo authorities about six menths ago. Millson is a Westminster township farmer, living on lot 17, con. 3. This is not his first experience with Barnardo boys. Last summer he had in his employ Thomas Scanes, about 13 years old. Tommy and his employer could not agree, and Tommy, claiming to have been ill treated, ran away with Millson's horse and rig. He was captured at Dutton, brought to London and placed in jail. When the little fellow was given a bath at the jail it was found that his back was bruised and swollen. This he attributed to Millson, Tommy was tried for horse stealing, but was taken back to the Toronto home.

Now Millson has differences with his second Barnardo boy. When Whitton was first engaged by Millson everything ran smoothly for a time, but according to the boy's story the lad began to get abused. He put up with it until about two weeks ago, when another difficulty arose, and Whitton had a summons for assault issued. But in the case Whitton did not prove himself a model boy.

"On Nov. 30 last," said the boy in his evidence. "Millson sent me down in his cellar to pick over some apples. There were a lot on the floor and some in a barrel. He told me to first pick those on the floor, but I didn't. I was working at those in the barrel when Millson came down to see how I was progressing. He asked me twice why I didn't do as he ordered. I didn't answer till the third time. Millson then ran at me and knocked me up against the wall. He caught me by the throat then and held me so tightly that I could hardly breathe. I was attacked again, received a blow on the side of the head and was told to put some oil on the swelling so that people would not see it.

"Did he ever assault you before?" asked the magistrate.

"Did he?" said the boy, with a strong English accent, "two or three times. Once he tried to throw me out of a hay mow, and another time he throttled me and nearly choked me.

Mr. Buchner then took Whitton in hand and besides cross-questioning him as to the assault, gleaned something of his reputation in England. "You got word from the home that the authorities would not have anything more to do with you after you left Lewis'?" asked Mr. Buchner. "No, sir, I didn't."

Q .- You said you left Lewis because he struck you? A .- He hit me because a pitch-fork struck him.

Q .- But you ran the fork into him, didn't No you? A .- I did not.

except when he struck me. Q. - When he came down the cellar you struck at him? A .- No; only put my arm up to ward off his blow. He need not have asked me what I was doing; he had eyes and could see for himself.

Q.—Didn't you threaten to break his head with a brick? A.—Never mentioned

Q .- You would have hurt him if you got a chance? A .- You bet I would. Q.-You played the tramp in the old country? A .- Yes.

C .- And you have been in "The Spikes?" A.—Yes, lots of times.
"The Spikes," said Mr. Buchner to Squire Lacey, "is a place where tramps and incorrigible boys are punished. They have to run a treadmill and do other hard

Whitton further admitted that he was born in Dudiey, Eng., but his father died when he was very young. His mother was still alive. Whitton was placed in the Dudley school and served six months at shoemaking. He wanted to see the world, however, and ran away from the school. He was arrested and brought back, but was allowed to go. Whitton said he then started on a six months' tramp, and among other places he visited were Birmingham, Liverpool and London. He was looking for work, but only found it in "The Spikes." Millson was next examined. He denied having struck the boy, but stated that when he went down his cellar, the morning of the row, he could not get an answer from the boy. He drew near to Whitton, and as he did so the youth turned suddenly around and struck out with his fists. A scuffle followed, and they both fell among some boxes and barrels. "While in this position Whitton started to kick, and threatened, if he could get loose, to break my head with a brick. What was I to do?" continued Millson. Defendant claimed that Whitton was dangerous, and all he (Millson) did was necessary for his own protection. Squire Lacey, in summing up, said he thought the offense was proven. Whitton's conduct was enough to aggravate anyone, but Millson should have taken another course. The boy should be protected even if he was bad. The magistrate concluded by saying it was a pity so many of these Barnardo boys should be sent out to Canada.

An arrangement was arrived at whereby Whitton withdrew the charge and Millson paid all costs. "Poor Maria," said Sophia,

"She's as sick as she can be,
"In her coffin, much I'm fearing,
"We shall soon Maria see."
"Sad dilemma," answered Emma;

The older people cannot get out of recognizing the festive season of good-will, even if they would. They have taught the children to look on the season as one of present-giving and presentreceiving, though the greatest of these is giving, and the idea will remain strong in every family till the Santa Claus of 1894 is a person of the past. EXTRAORDINARY CONFESSIONS-SIR JOHN THOMPSON SACRI-FICED TO "POLITICAL EXIGENCY."

From the evidence of his close political associates, it is learned that the late Sir John Thompson had his untimely end hastened by the political straits of his party. While he was known to be in a critical condition of health, the men associated with him in the government of Canada urged him to remain at the helm of affairs, and privately and publicly declared that he and he alone could effectively lead the Conservative party in the coming Dominion general election. It being urged that Sir John Thompson was likely to seek a rest from political turmoil, these same political managers declared that he was in the best of health and had no need for rest

The proof of the two-facedness of Sir John Thompson's associates is borne out by the declaration of Sir Charles H Tupper, who, on being informed at Vancouver, B. C., of his leader's death, made this extraordinary confession:

"I knew when Sir John left for England that he was a doomed man. He had diabetes in its incipient stage. The disease made rapid progress, and his blood being poisoned, paralysis ensued."

And the Ottawa correspondent of the Foronto News telegraphs the following confession by the Conservative organizer

"Hon. J. C. Patterson says that the doctors had a consultation before the Premier left for England, and they gave him only nine months to live at the most. They thought that he was suffering from Bright's disease. It is known that Sir John suffered from heart spasms. Hon. J. C. Patterson was once present when the deceased was seized with a violent spasm in his private

In view of these truthful post-mortem explanations, what can the intelligent public think of the declarations made to them by political associates of the deceased within the last few weeks?

One is loathe to believe that they deliberately misrepresented the position of affairs, but in their dealing with the public with regard to the condition and future of the late Prime Minister, they seem to have followed that course. These men would hate to have it said that in private life their word could not be trusted; but in public affairs, they do not appear to desire a reputation for candor. Honest electors demand that their representatives shall be as candid, as truthful, in public affairs as in private or in social life. Only by so demanding is an honest, straightforward administration of affairs possible. A strong feature of the exposure made by Sir Charles H. Tupper and Mr. Patterson is the fact that the men in power at Ottawa were really afraid to go to the country without the aid of Sir John Thompson. They were, as we have already pointed out, arranging to rush to the country at the earliest possible moment, that they might be able to snatch a verdict before "the doomed man," as Sir Charles H. Tupper called his leader, died, This was but a following out of the course pursued by the same men in 1891. Then, in order to snatch a verdict from the people on an issue which they gnew to be false, and which was certain to be exposed if Parliament met before the managers compelled the holding of a winter fair. With the power of the hereditary parizeault moved in amendment, seconded campaign, and forced the aged Sir John chamber thus curtailed, a truly Liberal by Mr. Kennedy, that the bill be given a chamber thus curtailed. general elections, the hard-beset party Macdonald to undergo exposures in the and progressive programme could be carried six months' hoist.

edly hastened his death. Naturally, while strongly condemning such tacties, intelligent and independent electors will ask, Why are all these unworthy expedients resorted to in order that power may be maintained, if the policy of high taxation is favored by the majority of the citizens? Is it not because high taxation and extravagant and corrupt administration of affairs cannot be defended that candor and straightforwardness are abandoned, and crooked paths to success

-The Canada Farmers' Sun (Patron official organ) says: "The deficit at Ottawa is now figured at about $6,000,000. the real situation will not be told to the public until after the general election,

LORD ROSEBERY'S FUTURE. Lord Rosebery is not dismayed because the Liberal party has lost two seats-one in England and the other in Scotlandsince he was selected as its leader. According to the cable, he spoke with his usual pluck at Devonport on Tuesday night, when he contended that his Government was now stronger than its most sanguine supporters ventured last spring to predict. But for the comparatively small majority at his back in the House of Commons, the loss of a couple of seats in the bye-elections would be of little account, as, unlike our experience in Canada, the fate of the party in power in Britain is invariably to lose in intervening contests. Lord Rosebery very properly maintained that the bye-election record of the Liberals was far more favorable to them than was the similar record of their Conservative predecessors. In nineteen bye-elections that have taken place since Lord Rosebery became Prime Minister, the Liberals have lost two seats. Altogether, the Liberals have lost six seats since the general election and have gained three, making a net loss of three seats. The losses were Huddersfield, Grimsby, Lin- ford, and secured the appellation of Briggs; and the gains, Walsall, Pontefract ing horses. He owns the house and and Hexham. This compares very favorably with what took place when the Conservatives were last in office. The Liberal Government was formed over two years ago, and the losses have been at the rate of one seat a year. During a similar period that the Conservatives held office, 1886 to 1888, they lost seven seats and gained only one, their net loss being six, or at the rate of three a year. The seats wrested from them in that period were Burnley, Spaiding, Coventry, Norwich, West Edinburgh, Southampton and Ayr Burghs, and their sole gain was Doneaster. During the past two years the advantage of attack has been distinctly with the Conservatives, for byeelections have occurred in 41 Liberal or Irish Nationalist constituencies and in only fourteen Conservative or dissentient Liberal constituencies. In other words, the Conservatives have been able to attack 41 Government seats, while the Liberals have been able to attack only fourteen Opposi-

There have been various excuses for the two Liberal defeats recently recorded. Reading the local journals, our belief is that the Liberal candidates were defeated, not because of the unpopularity of Lord Rosebery and his policy, but because, while they were comparatively unknown men, who only appeared in the constituencies a week or ten days before the election, the Conservative nominees were local men, who had been carefully nursing -shall we say wet-nursing?-the ridings for several years. While non-resident candidates of national reputation and prestigeleaders of the people-are always welcomed as candidates in Britain, the day seems to have gone by when any man could pick up his carpet bag and go into a constituency hoping for easy success against a well-known resident. All things considered, Lord Rosebery has probably done as much as a political leader, since he became Premier, as any other statesman could have done. He has been called upon to face great issues which have been ripening for years. It is not easy find trace of her missing husband. It is for any leader to force to a successful understood that Chief of Police Fewings, solution more than one important problem at a time, and yet that is what Lord Rosebery has practically been called upon to do. He has to reconcile his followers to choose one subject at a time, and to be as brief in their advocacy of minor reforms as possible, for, as Lord Rosebery recently informed a deputation that called upon him, brevity is "a great sweetener of a statesman's life." In this breathing spell, Lord Rosebery makes it evident that he desires to fully educate the people up to a realization of how much their interests are placed in jeopardy by the constant vexatious interference with popular legislation by the House of Lords. The British Premier is himself a member of that body, and speaking with the full responsibility of his position, he has declared that the hereditary chamber must be mended or ended. He reiterated this view in his latest address, when he told the electors of Devonport that the Ministers were determined, if the people gave them the right, to deprive the Lords of their absolute power to veto the measures passed by the chosen representatives of the people. Probably the best way to secure the passage of progressive legislation is to restrict the veto power of the House of Lords in accordance with the suggestion made by the late John Bright at a dinner given to Mr. Chamberlain in 1886. Mr. Bright there referred to Lord Rosebery's proposals for mending the House of Lords, and spoke of the present Premier as "a rather lively and plucky young nobleman." He said, however, that he had a better plan himself, and his suggestion was practically that the Lords should be compelled to accept any bill sent up twice from the House of Commous. Nothing short of this absolute curtailment rigors of a Canadian winter that undoubt- out every year. Lord Rosebery does well to recognize what is the chief stumblingblock to progress. Will the constituencies vote to sustain him in removing it? If they again return him to power at the ensuing general election, they will do more for the Liberal Premier than they have done for any Premier for many years past. They generally vote for a change of government every time they have a general election in Great Britain. But they will stand in their own light if they do not make an exception in the case of Lord Rosebery. -Mr. Mackenzie Bowell, who is acting as Premier of Canada pro tem., and may be chosen for the post for a time, is 71 years of age. He is in the Senate, and there is an objection to that fact, especially when the party with a majority at its back has no first-class statesman to lead in the popular Chamber. But that need not disturb the country much. The general elections will soon be here, and then Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will take his proper place as Government leader in the House of Commons. The first Premier of the Dominion was a lawyer; the second was a stonemason and contractor; the third was a lawyer; the fourth was a lawyer; Mr. Bowell is printer.

WHERE IS JOHN JONES?

A Stratford Man Whose Disappearance Causes Anxiety.

He Worked in London and is Supposed to Have Met With Foul Play.

A Stratford family by the name of Jones is considerably worked up over the disappearance of the head of the household. The missing man, John Jones by name, "Gips y" Jones by reputation, and a teamster by occupation, left home last spring, but he turned up at his sister's place at Aldborough one Saturday in June and stabled his team. He went out early the next morning to the barn and expressed his intention of coming back shortly. He has

NOT BEEN SEEN SINCE and his horses have not been called for. Jones lived on Mowat street, Strat-"Gypsy" from his penchant for tradconsists of the mother, three girls, and four boys. His disappearance has given rise to considerable speculation throughout the city as to what could have possibly become of him. He was a quiet man, not at all given to drinking or anything of that sort, religiously inclined, if anything. He was a man about 45 years of age, a little over 5 feet 6 inches in heighth, and wore sandy mutton-chop whiskers. What makes his disappearance seem

HARD TO ACCOUNT FOR is the fact that he was preparing to build last fall, having got sand, stone, etc., on his lot for that purpose last winter. He intended erecting a new dwelling house. Mrs. Jones saw her husband at St. Mary's in May last for the last time, having received a letter from him there telling her to come over, as he had obtained a job with either the telephone or telegraph company to deliver poles beween the latter place and St. Thomas, and that possibly he would not be home for some length of After this Mrs. Jones received no word from her husband, and in September she got the letter from relatives in Aldborough telling of his strange appearance and disappearance on June 9 previously. When in St. Marys Mrs. Jones says that her hushusband had all of $400 in his possession, and in addition to that he had a bank account. The wife's story is that Jones left Stratford and WENT TO LONDON, where he worked until some sime in May, when he left for St. Marvs, where he worked for a while, and from there he teamed the poles until he arrived at St. Thomas. Being near his brother's she supposed he had gone there to stay over Sunday. Her belief is that he has been made away with for what money he had on him. She feels certain that if he is in the land of the living he would have written his family long ere this. The idea of his possibly having gone off with another woman was scoffed at as he was not that sort of a man. Jones is a member of Court Good Intent, No. 5,988, of Stratford, and has a $1,000 life insurance. Notwithstanding that he has been away some six months his wife pays his dues at the Foresters' lodge and his insurance. Mrs. Jones said she WOULD GO TO LONDON, where she intended to invoke the aid of Chief of Police Williams to endeavor to also, as it was in that vicinity he was last seen alive.

Chief of Police Williams has not yet been favored with a visit from Mrs. Jones. He states that he will be pleased to meet her, and will do all in his power to find the long lost Jones.

QUEBEC, Dec. 13 .- In the Provincial Legislature today Mr. Allard's private bill concerning the Montreal zoological garden to obtain certain privileges was the cause of a hot debate, in which many members took part. Mackenzie Bowell Asked to Wear it by Lord Aberdeen.

He Accepts the Task of Forming a Ministry.

Will Consult With His Colleagues-Will There Be Opposition to Eim in the Cabinet?

By the death of the Premier the Cabinet is dissolved. The several heads of departments merely hold office till the appointment of his successor. The Governor-General, however, may be relied on to act on their informal advice in the matter of "scudding for" somebody able, in their opinion, to form Government. If that person is now of their number it will be either Mr. Foster or Mr. Bowell, and in that case Mr. Patterson will probably become Minister of Justice, Mr. Bowell of Militia, and Mr. Clarke Wallace will take Mr. Bowell's present department. If the minor portfolio is not awarded to anybody, no harm could be done, and so nobody would have to appeal to the constituency.

SIR CHARLES MAY BE THE MAN. London, Dec. 13.—The Excharge Telegram Company this afternoon says it is informed on reliable authority that Sir Charles Tupper, at present Canadian High Commissioner in London, will succeed the late Sir John Thompson as Premier and Minister of Justice.

IT WOULD BE A SACRIFICE. The Montreal Star's special from London says: "It is safe to say that unless the grave crisis in Canadian affairs demands a personal sacrifice, which is unlikely, Sir Chas. Tupper might naturally feel entitled to hand the burden to younger shoulders. A CABINET GATHERING.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.-The death of Six John Thompson and speculation as to his successor are the whole talk here at present. At the present, with the exception of Sir Chales Hibbert Tupper, Sir John Carling and Mr. Angers, all the Ministers are in the city and met this afternoon in the Council Chamber. Sir Frank Smith and Messrs. Haggart and Patterson arrived from the west this morning. Messrs. Haggart and Patterson today called upon Mr. Bowell, Mr. Angers returned to the city today and Sir Adolphe Caron is expected from New York this afternoon. All the Ministers of the old Government, with the exception of Sir C. H. Tupper, who is on the Pacific coast, will likely be here tonight to watch the political situation during the next few days. BOOMING MR. BOWELL.

An evening paper discussing the political situation says: "Thankless does it appear to speak already of a successor to the late lamented Premier. Nevertheless it is a matter in which the exigencies of politics force discussion, and there is already much speculation about it. If the chance of the party is confined to the Cabinet Hon. Mackenzie Bowell seems to be the likeliest man. There might be some opposition to him on the ground that he might alienate some of the party vote in Quebec, and his selection seems to be doubtful owing to the Manitoba school question. However, Mr. Bowell is very popular among the French-Canadian Conservatives who know him."

OTHER AVAILABLE MEN. Outside of Mr. Bowell, the availables in the Cabinet are held to be Hon, George E. Foster, Hon. John Haggart, Hon. A. R. Angers or Sir Charles Tupper, jun. The first choice they think will be Sir Charles Tupper, sen., who will be asked from London to lead the party. The Governor-General will, of course, send for Mr. Bowell in the first place for advice, as he is acting Premier, and doubtless will ask him to form a Government. It will then be Mr. Bowell's privilege to do so or to recommend his Excellency to call on some of the members of the party. HAMILTON'S CHOICE.

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 13.—Hamilton's representatives in the Dominion Parliament and other prominent politicians here are generally favorable to the appointment of Sir Charles Tupper to the Premiership of the Dominion, butitis the universal opinion that Sir Charles would refuse to assume the responsible position at his advanced age, and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell is looked upon as the coming Conservative leader. MACKENZIE BOWELL THE MAN. OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—About 10 o'clock last night Hon. Mackenzie Bowell was summoned by his Excellency to meet him in his office in the eastern block, whither he at once proceeded, and remained in consultation with his Excellency until 11. The result of this interview, I am authorized to state, was that his Excellency informed him that, after fully considering all the aspects of the situation, he had decided to ask Mr. Bowell if he was prepared to undertake and assume the responsibility of the forma-tion of a new Cabinet. Hon. Mr. Bowell replied, in effect, that, while fully realizing the difficulties and responsibilities of assuming so important a duty, he could not, appreciating the mark of confidence reposed in him by this request, decline the responsibility of acceding to it, and he would at the first possible opportunity consult with his colleagues and report to his Excellency at the earliest possible moment. Hon. Mr. Bowell added that, as some of his colleagues would not arrive in the city until next week, he would have to ask sufficient time to enable him to consult with all those with whom he had been in consultation. This request was readily acceded to by his Excellency.

Mr. Bowell is not yet Premier de facto and will not be until he completes his Cabinet and has it approved by his Excellency. Sir John Thompson was charged with the task of forming a Ministry Nov. 25, but did not complete his "slate" until Dec. 6, when he became Premier. If all his old colleagues consent to enter the Bowell Ministry there will be no necessity for any changes and none will be made. Mr. Clarke Wallace had a prominent hand in yesterday's negotiations, as it was felt that he was the man to pledge the support of the Ontario members of Parliament. Whether Mr. Bowell will secure the consent of the Quebec representatives to enter his Cabinet is a question which a few days will decide.

Wrestling Match Between Canadian and Michigan Champions.

ATHLETICS. A DRAW.

Ingersoll, Dec. 13.-The wrestling match between J. C. Comstock, champion of Michigan, and G. Perry, champion of Canada, took place in the town hall tonight and resulted in a draw.

Comstock won the first fall in about half an hour, and Perry the second in about five minutes.

In the third round, which lasted about 55 minutes, neither won, and it was finally declared a draw. John Richardson, of Ingersoll, acted as referee. A return match will be held in London, for a purse of $500, soon.

WHAT DUN & CO. SAY In Regard to the State of Trade in

TORONTO, Dec. 13.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly statement of trade in Canada says: General trade in Toronto has been dull the past week. The mild and unseasonable weather has militated against the movement in merchandise, and the next six weeks are not likely to see any improvement in wholesale departments. Many of the merchants are now engaged in stock-taking. The season's trade has not been prolific in large profits, although many houses express themselves as satisfied with the result. Leather dealers have not succeeded in putting up prices in accordance with their wishes. There is apparently too much competition between dealers, many of whom are only too anxious to reduce stocks. At current prices of hides, however, it is difficult to see where the profits are in leather. The cheap money offering on choice collateral accounts for the strength of securities dealt in on the Stock Exchange. There is said to be a good deal of British money offering on shoice properties, and the outlook is favorable for a continuance of the low rates. Although small it is pleasant to report the increase in the earnings of the two railway systems of the Dominion for the first week of December. This increase in traffic is a favorable feature, as indicating some prominence in domestic business. While the earnings of the Canadian Pacific increased $2,000, those of the Grand Trunk are augmented by $7,000 for the first seven days of the current month.

The failures for the week are 40, the same as the corresponding week of last

HIS LAST DAY.

Murderer Truskey Visited by His Wife and Son,

He Says He Would Have Been All Right Had He Left Liquer Alone,

WINDSOR, Dec. 13.-This is Joseph Truskey's last day on earth, and all Windsor and Sandwich are in a state of suppressed excitement, while the gossips are eagerly questioning one another regarding the most minute details of the closing hours of the man who is already entering into the valley of the shadow.

Mrs. Truskey and her 12-year-old son came to Sandwich this morning and went to the Dominion House. The poor woman is broken-hearted. "I'll see my husband this afternoon," wailed the poor woman between her sobs. "I can't see him but once," and she broke down completely. Her brother, James Latimer, tried to comfor her, but she would not be comforted. During the entire heart-breaking scene her son sat on a sofa, apparently unable to appreciate the awful fate in store for his father. Truskey this morning again expressed his conviction that he was going to heaven, Whosoever shall believe in me," has a marked fascination for him, and he reads the verse containing those words of the Christ over and over again.

James Latimer, Truskey's brother-in-law, called to see him this morning, and the two men spent half an hour together. Truskey urged him to do whatever possible for his wife and son, and repeatedly declared he would have been all right had he let liquor alone. "It's hard to die," said Truskey in parting, "but I'm prepared."

"I do not fear the hanging," said
Truskey, "that will not hurt me and will be soon over, but I do dread parting with my wife and child today; that will be the hardest part of the whole business."

FORCED TO FLEE,

Disastrous Earthquake Shocks in the New Hebrides.

From 60 to 75 Lives Lost-The Natives Flying in Terror from Their Homes.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 13.—The steamer Warimoo brings news that most of the islands of the New Hebrides group are having severe earthquake and volcano disturbances. The very existence of several of the largest and best islands, including Ambrym Island, celebrated for its coffee, is threatened. An entire native village on Ambrym Island was recently carried into the sea. The loss of life is estimated at from 60 to 75. Fatalities are reported from other islands. A layer of ashes from two to six inches deep covers many fertile fields in Ambrym. An earthquake on Nov. 2 opened a new crater on the west side of the island. The whole island trembled all of the next day. Since then craters have opened in five or

The island of Epi had 63 distinct shocks up to Nov. 7, and for weeks had been covered by clouds of ashes and smoke. Travelers and planters living on Ambrym Island have fled, abandoning all their possessions.

The death of Gaul, one of the noted Sioux chiefs, is reported from Standing Rock Agency. A dispatch from Cape Town says slight shocks of earthquake were felt there yesterday morning. During the recent floods in the Thames Valley soup was made daily at Windsor Castle for the sufferers. The inundation was the greatest since 1742. Serious depression prevails in the English alkali trade. The United Alkali Company's works have been shut down and several thousand men are idle. Another story was sent out from Seattle on Thursday to the effect that Mount Rainer was seen in eruption this morning.

There is no truth in the report. The peak is covered with snow. John Worthy, of Chicago, died at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York, on Wednes-day evening. Mr. Worthy was president of the Metropolitan Elevated Railroad and president of the Commercial loan and Trust Company, one of the strongest financial institutions in Chicago. Julius Dunkiel, of Big Rapids, Mich., was accidentally killed Wednesday afternoon. Wm. Morman, a farmer, went to his barn to shoot a hog. The gun was ac-cidentally discharged, the bullet going through the side of the barn and striking Dunkiel on the back of the head.

MARRIED BY MISTAKE,

The Maiden Wife of a Young Man in Brooklyn Secures a Divorce.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 .- Justice Gaynor, of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, has annulled the marriage of Frances E. Schuster, formerly Miss Bancello, to Jacob E. M. Schuster. In 1889, when Miss Bancello was in her 15th year, she was asked to assist as bridesmaid at the marriage of Miss Nellie Noble and John Bartow. Young Schuster was Mr. Bartow's best man. When the ceremony was over Miss Bancello was surprised to learn that a double marriage had taken place and that she was the bride of Schuster. At the trial of her suit she declared that she had never lived with Schuster and never recognized him as her husband. Schuster disappeared not long after the marriage, and did not make any defense in the annulment proceedings.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

McCarthy Meeting at Aylmer, Ont.— Peter White's Constituents Renominate Him.

AYLMER, Ont., Dec. 13 .- A meeting of the supporters of D'Alton McCarthy was held today for organization. There was a slim attendance, most of those present being from St. Thomas. The rural section of East Elgin was not represented. Mr. L. D. Tilget, who was called to the chair, explained that the object of the meeting was to organize the McCarthy party in East Elgin for the approaching Dominion campaign. Two or three other speakers made brief addresses, and the meeting adjourned till Jan. 10.

The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affec-tions of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

AND ONLY 12 YEARS OLD. A Brantford Girl Charged With Arson. BRANTFORD, Dec. 13 .- Pearl Soules, the 12-year-old girl who was before Col. Shaw, justice of the peace, on Tuesday charged with arson and remanded until today, was committed for trial before the first court of competent jurisdiction. In his judgment the justice of the peace said that while the evidence of the prosecution was not very strong, still it had not been contradicted on any points. There appeared to be a feeling of animosity between the prosecutors and the defendant, also the stepmother of the child, there being a strong bond of affection between Mrs. Miller and her adopted child. He also said that this was the most remarkable case which had come under his jurisdiction, and that he was loth to believe that the little girl, if she had burned the barn, had done so with felonious intent. The trial will be with Judge Jones at 11 o'clock on Saturday.

manan shops. The shops in Italy are a startling surprise to travelers. There is a dazzling window display that is impossible to resist, and the traveler enters the shop to see the magnificence that must be beyond it. Nothing is there but a small dark room in which the family of the shopkeeper lives. The whole stock in trade is in that one window. Behind it sits the owner, his wife or clerk, peering out at the passers-by like a spider watching for the unwary fly. The twinkling dark eyes might easily be mistaken for sparkling jewels, as they flash out from among the beautiful wares.

Said to Be 133 Years Old.

George O. Sharpe, of Elyria, O., claims his grandmother, Mrs. Crittenden, who lives with G. H. Sharpe ten miles southeast of Cleveland, is the oldest woman in Ohio. He gives her age as 133, and says she is healthy and cheerful and does not look to be over seventy years old. She is somewhat deaf, but can see well and gets around with comparatively little attention. She does considerable reading, but attempts only light work. Sharpe says her mother, in Scotland, whose home was eight miles from Aberdeen, was 146 years old when she

Nearly $400. The result of the week of self-denial in the ranks of the local branch of the Salvation Army was made known at the usual meeting in Salvation Citadel last night. Last year the corps raised $180, and this year the sum reached the magnificent total of $355 73. Then the social branch gathered in $44 more. The returns from the Rescue Home have yet to be made known, and several districts are yet to be heard from. The forthcoming amounts will easily place the total on the other side of $400. The result demon trates one of two things, or probably both Either the Salvation Army precticed | more self-denial this year than last, or else the citizens have responded more generously. The army authorities desire to thank the citizens who helped them to raise $150 more than the target called for-namely, $250.

Kicking About a Drain, "Our client's land is now useless, and he has a claim for damages against the city in connection with the construction of this drain." The above was the concluding sentence of a letter read at the meeting of No. 2 committee last night. It was from Lawyers Rowan & Ross, of Toronto, and was on behalf of a client named Mr. John Hill. The latter owns two lots on Briscoe street, South London, through which a claims that the drain is a nuisance and greatly depreciated the value of his property. He was informed that it was laid by the city. Engineer Graydon had stated that it was not, but further inquiry had convinced Hill that it was. He wanted the matter brought before the council. The engineer informed the committee that the drain was a continuation and outlet of the Langarth street drain and was constructed by Westminster township with the consent of the late Charles Hutchinson, who owned the property. It was quite possible and more than probable that the drain was already laid when Mr. Hill purchased the land. The engineer was instructed to make further inquiries on this point. The engineer gave the following as the cost per square yard of street pavements: Asphalt, $2 50 to $2 75; vitrified brick, $2 to $2 20; macadam, 50 to 55 cents (without curbing). The members present were: Ald. Thos. Jones (chairman), Taylor, Dreaney, Shaw, Engineer Graydon, Secretary Bell and Commissioner Owens,

"He's a better friend to them than they are aware of. Miss Mary, if ever there was a Christian man on earth, it is Richard North. His whole life has been one long thought for others. Who else has kept up Dallory Hall? Who would have worked and beleved on and an art for himself, but to slaved on, and on, not for himself, but to maintain his father's home, finding money for madam's wicked extragavgance, to save his poor father pain, knowing that the old man had already more than he could bear. At Mr. Richard's age, he ought, before this, to have been making a home and marrying; he would have done so under happier cir-cumstances; but he has had to sacrifice himself for others. He has done more for the men than they think for; ay, even at the time that they were bringing ruin upon him -as they have done-and ever since. Richerd North is worth his weight in gold. Heaven, that sees all, knows that he is; and he will sometime surely be rewarded for it. Mrs. Gass knew what must be meant as certainly as though it had been spoken. She turned cold, and hot, and cold again. For once language falled her.

CHAPTER XXV.

Pacing the shrubbery walk at Dallory Hall, a grey woollen shawl wrapped closely round her flowing black silk dress, her pale, sweet, and sad face turned up to the lowering sky, was Ellen Adair. The weather, cold and dull, gave signs of approaching winter. The last leaves left on the trees fall duttering to the certh, the the trees fell fluttering to the earth; the wind, sighing through the bare branches, bore a melancholy sound. All things seemed to speak of death and decay.

This ungenial weather had brought complication with it. Just as Sir Nash Bohun was about to quit Dallory Hall, taking Arthur with him, the wind caught him in an unguarded moment, and laid him up with inflammation of the chest. Sir Nash took to his bed. One of the results was that Arthur Bohun must remain at the Hall, and knew not how long he might be a fixture Sir Nash would not part with him. He had come to regard him quite as his

Ellen Adair thought Fate was cruel to her, taking one thing with another. And so it was, very cruel. Whilst they were together, she could not begin to forget him. gether, she could not begin to forget him: and, to see him so continually with Mary Dallory, brought her the keenest pain. She always keeping to the right in walking the was but human; jealousy swayed ner just as it sways other people. Another thing was beginning to trouble her-she did not hear from Mr. Adair. It was very strange. Not a letter had come from him since that containing permission to marry Arthur Bohun—as Mrs. Cumberland had interpreted it-received at Eastsea. Ellen could not understand the silence at all. Her father had always written so regularly.

"He ought not to remain here," she murmured passionately as she walked, alluding mured passionately as she walked, alluding Arthur Bohun. "I cannot help myself; I have nowhere else to go: but he ought to eave, in spite of Sir Nash." A greyer tinge seemed to creep over the sky. The shrubbery seemed to grow tarker. It was only the first event of twilight, falling early that melancholy even-

"Will there ever be any brightness in my life again?" she continued, clasping her hands in pain. "Is this misery to last for ever? Did any one, I wonder, ever go through such a trial and live? Scarcely. I am afraid I am not very strong to bear things. But oh—who could bear it?"

She sat down on one of the benches, and bent her aching head on her hands. What with the surrounding gloom, and her dark dress, some one who had turned into the walk, came sauntering on without observing her. It was Arthur Bohun. He started when she raised her head; his face was every whit as pale and sad as hers; but he could not help seeing how ill and woebegone she looked.

"I fear you are not well," he stopped to "Oh-thank you-not very," was the con-used answer. "This is a trying time. Heaven knows l would save you from it, if I could; I would have died to spare you. I would die still, if by that means things for you could be made right. But it may not be. Time alone must be the healer."

He had said this in a somewhat hard tone, as if he were angry with some one or other; perhaps with Fate; and went on his way with a quicker step, leaving never a touch of the hand, never a loving word, never a tender look behind him; just as it had been that day in Dallory Churchyard. Poor giri! her heart felt as though it were break ing there and then.

When the echo of his footsteps had died away, she drew her shawl closer round her slender throat and passed out of the shrub-bery. Hovering in a side walk, unseen and ansuspected, was madam. Not often did madam allow herself to be off the watch. She had seen the exit of Captain Bohun; she now saw Ellen's; and madam's evil pirit rose up within her, and she advanced

"Have you been walking with Captain Bohun, Miss Adair?"
"No, madam." with a dark frown.

"I-thought-I heard him talking to "He came through the shrubbery when I was sitting there, and spoke to me in pass-

"Ah," said madam. "It is well to be careful. Captain Bohun is to marry Miss Dallory; the less any other young lady has to say to him, the better."

To this speech-remarkable as coming rom one who professed to be a gentlewoman-Ellen made no reply, saving a bow as she passed onwards, with erect head and self-possessed step, leaving madem to her

There was no comfort, no solace anywhere. Ellen could have envied Bessy Rane in her

And the farce that had to be kept up before the world. That very evening, as fate had it, Captain Bohun took Miss Adair in to dinner and sat next to her, through some well-intentioned blundering of Richard's. It had pleased madam to invite seven or eight people; it did not please Mr. North to come into dinner as he had been expected to do. Richard North had to be the heat and to take in a start ladvirus be the host, and to take in a stout lady in green velvet, who was to have fallen to his father. There was a moment's confusion; madam had gone on; Richard mixed up the wrong people together, and finally said aloud, "Arthur, will you take in Miss Adair?" And so they sat, side by side, and no one observed that they did not converse together, or that anything was wrong. It is curious how long two people may have lived estranged from each other in a household, and the rest suspect it not. Have you ever noticed this?—or tried it? It is remarkable, but very true. After dinner came the drawing-room; and the evening was a more social one than had been known of late. Music, cards, and conversation. Young Mr. Ticknell, a relative of the old bankers' at Whitborough, was there; he had one of the sweetest voices ever given to man; and delighted them with his singing. One song, that he chose after a few jesting words with Ellen, in allusion to her name, two of them at least had not bargained for. "E'len Adair." Neither had heard it since that night at Eastsea; so long past now, in the events that had followed, that it seemed to be removed from them by

They had to listen. They could not do otherwise. Ellen sat at the corner of the sofa in her black net dress with its one white flower, in the middle of the corsage; and nothing, as usual, in her smooth brown hair; he was leaning against the wall, not far from her, his arms folded. And the verses went on to the last one.

"But now thou art cold to me.

Ellen Adair:

But now thou art cold to me.

Ellen my dear. Yet her I loved so well.
Still in my heart shall dwell.
Oh! I shall ne'er forget

A Wonderful Cure.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vege-TABLE DISCOVERY. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DIS-COVERY, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilicus habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little affect. But since using three bottles of the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is

This is what thousands mean who have no remarkable story to tell of a marvelous cure, for they had never any dreadful disease to be cured, but say, We cannot keep house without Pond's Extract." ### HOG CHOLERA.

Remedy Tried by United States Govern-ment Agents Found To Be Efficient. WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 .- With estimated losses of between $10,000,000 and $25,000, 000 from hog cholera and swine plague in the United States the discussion of the treatment and means of prevention of these diseases in a bulletin issued by the agricultural department is of great value to the farmers of this country. The burean of animal industry has been conducting an exhaustive investigation of this subject, and finds that the agents which destroy the germs of one of these fatal diseases are also effective in the destruction of the germs of the other. Both are spread by infection and their course varies from one day to three weeks. Both are caused by bacteria. The germs of hog cholera, says the report, are very hardy and vigorous, while those of the swine plague are very delicate and easily destroyed. The latter are found to be present in practically all herds of swine, but the former must be introduced from infected herds. The most efficient remedy tried by the Government's agents is the following: Wood, charcoal, sulphur, sodium sulphate and antimony sulphide; one pound each; sodium chloride, sodium, bi-carbornate and sodium hyposulphite, two pounds each. These are to be completely pulverized and mixed and a daily dose of a large tablespoonful for each 200-weight of hogs given. The medicine may be used also as a preventive of these diseases. It should be put in the food of the whole herd. To insure successful treatment the animals should be kept in dry and comfortable quarters away from drafts of air. Five or six months should be allowed to elapse after an outbreak before new hogs are purchased or any of the old herd are sold. The report recommends a rigid quarantining of newly bought hogs and the prevention of their joining those already on the farm for at least six weeks. During the warm months of the year the swine should have plenty of young grass or clover; crushed or rolled wheat should be fed to the growing animals.

Golden Wedding. Rev. W. F. and Mrs. Clarke, of Guelph, had a quiet celebration of their golden wedding on Tuesday. Mr. Clarke is well known in this city, having filled the pulpit of the First Congregational Church for several years, as did his father before him. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke married young, and have had nine children, one of whom (a son) died in infancy, while another found a missionary's grave recently in West Africa. There still survive three sons and four daughters, all of whom are married and settled, leaving the aged couple to their "two selves," as they were 50 years ago. There are 26 grandchildren living and two great grandchildren. Owing to the reverend gentleman's family being so widely scattered, and for other reasons, a general gathering was not practicable, but four generations were represented on the interesting occasion. A Boon to the Y. M. C. A. The "At Home" held at the residence of Mr. W. R. Hobbs, Wellington street, last night, was a magnificent success. It was under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., and the receipts go towards the furnishing fund for the new building. The attendance was large and everybody spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening. The Italian harpers were present, and rendered sweet music. During the evening one gentleman donated $500 towards the new building fund and another $50. The free-will offering also amounted to $30. The fund was thus swelled $630 as a result of the affair. A pleasing diversion to conversation was furnished by Miss Clara Owrey, who recited "Aux Italiens," by Owen Meredith. She was accompanied by Miss M. He writes: "For ten years or mere I have been a sufferer with dyspepsia, and doctored with six of the most skilled doctors in this part of the country with but little relief and no benefit in return for the very large doctors' bills that I paid. I tried almost every conceivable remedy but all to no purpose, until April. 1893, when I took to myself a wife, and it so happened that three years previous to our marriage she had been in poor health, and used part of a bottle of Royal Crown Remedy, and, knowing of its excellent qualities, she prevailed upon me to give ita trial. I purchased one bottle of the Remedy and Pills, and by the time I had them used my general health was much improved, and by the time I had taken three bottles I was restored to good health, and my neighbors say that I am looking better than I have done for years. I believe Royal Crown Remedy to be the best value for the money on earth, and am thankfully yours.
