A VILLAGE EPITAPH. [J. W. Foley, in New York Times.] Sort o' jollied along

In th' iolliest way, With a smile or a song And a kind word to say; Never had a harsh word If a fellow went wrong, All the good in you stirred As he jollied along.

Bort o' easy and free, With a word o' good cheen Kind o' helpful to me And inspirin' to hear; Didn't take it to heart If a thing should go wrong, Said he made it an art Just to folly along.

Put a flea in your ear As he chanced to go by, With a voice full o' cheer And a wink of his eye; If you reckoned you went At a pace quite too strong, But you knew what he meant

As he jollied along. Or the sky might be gray, But he brought you good cheer If he happened your way; For he gave you a laugh Or a snatch of a song.

And your woes went like chaff As he jollied along. And I've missed him today-Somethin' friendly an' sweet Like a flower gone away

And they told me his smile Was so sweet-and a song When he jollied along.

So Says Current Literature for March, 1907.

When you see a brand of goods advertised with us, it generally means that this brand has been on the market some time, that the goods are made with all the economies possible to the large producer, that they are already more or less established in public favor, and that a responsible firm is willing to back their merit with its money. In fact such articles, you have every reason to believe, have exceptional merit."

"HARVEST QUEEN" FLOUR, even if he has to pay a little more for it than for an ordinary flour. The extra price paid is one of the best investments he can make.

"FIVE ROSES" and "HARVEST QUEEN" are milled from selected Manitoba Hard Wheat, by the best processes known, and therefore excel in uniformity, strength and nutritive value. By reason of their uniformity, baking with them is quick and easy, and the results are uniformly the best. Working expenses are cut down, and there is no spoiled bread.

On account of their strength, they will absorb more water,

Bread made from them, besides being sweeter and tastier, is richer and more nutritious than that made from cheaper flours. The public is quick to appreciate these qualities in bread, and the use of "Five Roses" and "Harvest Queen" will bring to any good baker a steady and permanent increase in trade. He will reap a rich harvest from the dollars he has sown when he bought these to take the heart out of Roberts, who did the box-work for the foundrymen. Roberts did not get down to real hard work in the opening inning. He was hit safely three times, by Lynch, Buller and Harris, and these bingles, coupled with an error by Flynn, at shortstop, netted three runs.

From that inning on Roberts was all to the good, the Stars being unable to do anything whatever with him. No less than ten fanned the breeze.

The Wortmans chalked up a run in he seventh inning, and another in the ninth. Although they made a total of seven hits, Waud prevented them at all stages from becoming too familiar with his slow curves in any inning. J. Mc-Connell was the only player who appeared to find him without difficulty, three hits-one of them a double-being chalked up to his credit.

The Stars were in vastly improved form, playing with a vim which stamps them as a very capable nine.
