TRICKSTER HANDED CITIZENS' REPORTS TO THE FREE PRESS

KEPT FROM ADVERTISER BECAUSE OF WEAKNESS

Ald. Moore Handed Eastman Report to Both Papers at Same Time.

IT APPEARED IN FULL But Other Documents Were Given to His Defender by “Chief Magistrate.”

In last night's issue of the Cataract Power-Blackburn journal its twisting, turning, evading editorial policy was once more evidenced.

The Marshall report upon electrification is so strong and to the point that the Purdon newspaper has refused to print it.

Two days have elapsed since the report was placed in the hands of City Clerk Baker.

One line from the Marshall report itself has yet to appear in the columns of the Traction interests newspaper.

This is of a piece with the treatment that was accorded the Warfield and Eastman reports.

The Traction interests and their friends at the city council held up the work of electrification of the London and Port Stanley Railway last January upon the plea that they wanted “independent” reports.

Three reports have now been submitted by experts employed and paid by the citizens.

Steam Line to Operate Port Talbot to London Surveyors Are at Work

Is Expected to Handle the Coal Business of the Coal Trust By Way of Conneaut—May Be a Mackenzie & Mann Move.

Definite announcement of a steam line to run from Port Talbot to London was made Thursday to a prominent London financial man.

According to the statement given out, the railway is being built for interests that will conduct the entire coal business from Conneaut for the coal trust.

The information was given to the Londoner over long distance telephone from Toronto, and he was assured that the line was far beyond the paper stage, and that it was being constructed for the specific purpose of carrying all the coal that at present comes into Ontario via Lake Erie.

ARRANT KNAVERY PRACTICED BY THOSE WHO SEEK TO PLUNGE LONDON INTO DEBT BY HIDING THE FACTS AS TO ROAD'S DEBT

City Clerk's Year Book Shows That City Must Pay Interest Annually on $2,010,186.00. While All Experts Are Made to Believe That Charges To Be Met Are on Only $765,511—Dishonest and Dishonorable Tactics.

The year book of the city of London contains the official information of charges on the London and Port Stanley Railway, which has so far been disregarded by every “expert” who has been called upon to make a report.

The statement shows that prior to 1903 the indebtedness on the road amounted to $765,511, upon which interest has to be paid.

The report continues: 1903 Statement. The statutes of 1903 adds $567,643 for arrears of interest to the above indebtedness.

First mortgage bonds $1,332,854.00 Such bonds to be paid in ten years with 5 per cent. interest.

In the general statement the road's total liability is given as: Liability. Bond issue of 1903...$1,332,854.00 City interest account... 234,992.61 Capital stock... 442,340.00

$2,010,186.61 Upon every cent of this money interest must be paid by the city of London, and, according to the statutes, no more money may be expended on the road until the bond issue of 1903 is paid up. At 5 per cent. the interest on the city's liability would amount to $100,509 annually in round numbers. This is an amount that has to be paid, and is paid each year. New debentures will have to be issued soon to take care of it.

Yet the Warfield “expert” has the effrontery to allow only $45,686.28 for this amount! His omission is a glaring one. He was in the city and knew the facts. In the brazen knavery of the campaign conducted by Men Friday and Ross Rifles, the other experts may not have had access to these figures.

Not a single expert has shown an honest surplus for the electrification scheme. That statement goes unchallenged. The facts are apparently withheld from some, and with the others they are hidden.

With the interest charges, as set forth in the year book of the city clerk, taken care of, every scheme would show a deficit for electrification of from $16,761 to $70,318.

The Eastman and Marshall reports, the two latest to be received, show beyond any doubt that there would be enormous deficits to be faced each year by citizens if the rosiest dreams of the promoters has been accomplished.

CHURCH ATTACKS HIS FORMER IDOL; HON. ADAM BECK

Toronto Controller Says That Hydro Commission Is Being Sold to Corporations.

THE BLACK APPOINTMENT Public Ownership Men After Power Minister, Accusing Him of Breaking Faith.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, Sept. 12. — The astounding spectacle of Controller Church, of this city, attacking his idol, the Hon. Adam Beck, was given at the meeting of the controllers in Toronto, the following account of which is given in the Toronto News (Conservative).

“Reappointment of Mr. P. W. Ellis as chairman of the Toronto Hydro-Electric Commission was recommended to the city council today by the board of control. The decision was reached only after strenuous opposition by Controllers Church and Foster and sharp, bitter, wordy passages between the controllers.

“Controller Church opened the debate by objecting to the Government's appointment of Mr. R. G. Black to the local commission. “They have appointed a former representative of Mackenzie & Mann,” he said. “The appointment is a poor one. Moreover, the commissioners should serve without any salary, the same as the mayor.”

“Are you not a little late?” suggested Mr. Hocken.

“Corporation Designs. “The controller replied to the effect that the corporations have designs on the local hydro-electric board. “Mr. Beck has receded from his position,” said Mr. Church. “The appointment of Mr. Black is virtually notice that Mr. Beck is satisfied with conditions in the local hydro. The corporation element has control of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. Now they are asking for it in hydro.”

Mayor Hocken interrupted to move the reappointment of Mr. P. W. Ellis as the city's representative. Immediately Controller Church was in arms.

“Hon. Adam Beck has white-washed Mr. Ellis by appointment of Mr. Black. Mr. Beck is not competent. His appointment is the weakest the Government has ever made, and they have made some very weak ones to the railway board.”

“Mr. Foster referred to the charges that certain materials owned by the hydro have mysteriously disappeared. “Such is not the case,” said the mayor.

Mr. Beck was asked to report on the condition of the hydro before appointments were made. Continued on Page Eleven.

“Suggestive” Dances Are Not So Bad

Police Chief Says Barkers Deliberately Give Wrong Impression.

Chief of Police Williams smiled this morning when told that complaints of suggestive dances being performed in one of the tents along the Midway had been made to The Advertiser.

“The dances are all right as far as I can learn,” said he. “My men have investigated them, and found that beyond wearing a few flashy clothes when they appear on the platform before the tent, the women are doing nothing that is outside the law. In fact the performance on the front is far worse than what is seen inside, and as to the ‘barkers’ inviting men only to come in, why, it is that kind of a suggestion that gets the easy-marks to pay their dimes. The men who pay good money to go into such ‘foolish shows are the ones who should be prosecuted instead of the people who put on the shows.”

FIFTH PERFECT DAY MAKES A RECORD-BREAKER FOR THE WESTERN FAIR ATTENDANCE

Fine Weather of the Week Has Made This Year's Exhibition a Bigger Success Than Formerly in Some Respects—Looks Like the Best Year Since 1895.

The weather man has made it five straight for the Western Fair. Five perfect days have helped to make this year's exhibition a bigger success in many ways than it has ever been, and have set a record for weather that will never be beaten, because the score was perfect. Today marks the windup of the big show for this year and already comparisons are being made by the directors with preceding years.

“Eighteen ninety-five was the year of the big rate war on the railroads, and we made a record for attendance then that has been hard to beat,” said Mr. William Moore, one of the directors, this morning, “but I think this year's figures will come pretty close to it.”

Thursday's attendance is admitted to be slightly less than that of Farmers' Day, but both were record breakers, and will help to swell the figures for the week's attendance to enormous proportions.

Seeing it Second Time. The crowd was late in getting to the grounds this morning. Perhaps the festivities of the preceding days had something to do with it, but at any rate the number inside the gates during the morning looked small in comparison with the two preceding days. There was one advantage in this, however, in that those who did visit the grounds during the morning had an excellent opportunity to see all the exhibits, as there was not the accustomed crush in the various buildings. The rising generation was much in evidence again this morning, and no more enthusiastic fair-goers could be found anywhere. Many of those attending today are there for the second or third time, and know just where to find the exhibits in which they are interested. All exhibits are to be left in place until tonight, and the full program will be carried out this afternoon and evening.

The last parade of live stock takes place before the grandstand at 1 o'clock and the last of the speed events will be decided during the afternoon. The grandest display of fireworks ever witnessed in this city is scheduled to bring to a grand finale the Western Fair of 1913.

A Visitor From Cochrane.—Mr. Roy Nickle, son of Sergeant of Detectives Thomas Nickle, is spending a vacation in the city. Mr. Nickle is employed with the Trans-continental Railway, at Cochrane and has recently been one of a syndicate formed to drill for oil in New Ontario. The syndicate has 2,000 acres of land under lease, and will endeavor to ascertain whether the oil indications are genuine or not.

HUNDREDS DROWNED WHEN TONGA ISLANDS SINK IN SEA

Several White Men Among Those Lost When an Earthquake Probably Swallowed Up Islands—Steamers Fail to Find Any Trace of Falcon and Hope.

[Canadian Press.] San Francisco, Sept. 12. — Falcon and Hope Islands, of the Friendly or Tonga group, in the South Pacific, have disappeared from view.

With them several hundred natives and a few white men also have disappeared.

News to this effect was brought to San Francisco yesterday by Captain J. H. Trask, of the steamer Sonoma, which arrived from Sydney, via Pago

Pago and Honolulu, Capt. Trask said: “One of the regular trading steamers between Sydney and the Tonga group, reported the sinking of the islands. The vessel steamed to where Falcon Island should have been, but it was nowhere in sight. “Just prior to this the instruments at the Sydney naval station showed that violent earthquake shocks had taken place about 2,000 miles northeast of Sydney.”

RETRACT IT. The Advertiser asks the Free Press to retract the statement that The Advertiser has not printed one of the three recent reports on electrification. If the Free Press will retract its statement that it will find the Eastman report in full, the reason of the other reports were not printed was that the man who occupies the mayor's chair gave these reports to the Free Press, and did not give them to The Advertiser.

A GREAT WORK COMPLETED. The Panama Canal is practically completed. The water has been admitted at both ends. The Atlantic end is navigable, and the blowing up of the Miraflores dyke a week ago lets in the Pacific. There remains now only a nine-mile section where the excavation has been finished, and the machinery is being removed.

Mr. Greenshields, the principal Canadian lawyer for Thaw, declares that he was "paralyzed" by the action of the immigration officials. Would it not be well for the Government to increase the immigration staff with some more of the same kind? A few more lawyers might be paralyzed.

THE DECORATION OF MAN. At the National Association of Merchant Tailors of America, held some time ago, a rash biped of the male sex made the following startling assertion: "It is all about women being in the fair sex. If it was not for hair, which men have to cut off, and complexion may be and dress, women would not be half so good looking as men. Women won't let men wear the bright and beautiful colors, but monopolize them for fear of the truth being discovered."

WAIT TILL WINTER. (Hamilton Herald.) Pena cloth is a transparent Oriental fabric that is coming into use as material for skirts. The phosphorescent skirt is the latest fashion, and is transparent but illuminated. There must be some limit to this sort of thing.

What Was the Agreement? Under the agreement whereby portions of London Township lying east of the city limits, became part of Greater London, factory buildings for the period of fifteen years were to be exempt from taxation. This clause started things.

CHURCH ATTACKS. Mr. Church. 'We have had no report from him.' 'The mayor believed the board should act without further delay. I will not support Mr. Ellis,' said Controller Foster. Mr. Beck has not made a report. Since Mr. Ellis took charge the affairs of the hydro have been in a most unsatisfactory condition.

RECIPROcity IS BETTER. (Hamilton Times.) The reduction of the U. S. tariff on manufactured articles may not make much difference to Canada, but the placing on the free list of wheat, cattle, sheep, etc., should open a profitable market for our farmers, but not so advantageous as the reciprocity compact would have made it for them.

EDITORIAL COMMENT. (Canadian Press.) London, Sept. 12.—The Westminister Gazette's comment this afternoon on the late Mayor Gaynor. "His term in office," the newspaper says, "has shown what a strong determined man can do under difficult circumstances. The best we can hope for New York is that it will find a successor capable of carrying on his policy with the same self-reliance and with indifference to the opinion of the party machine."

Declines To Oppose John P. Mitchel in the Coming Elections. NEW YORK IN MOURNING. City of Liverpool Will Signally Honor Dead Mayor Before Funeral.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Sept. 12.—George McAneny, president of the Borough of Manhattan, and fusion candidate for president of the board of aldermen, was designated today by the Gaynor campaign as the man to be nominated for mayor, to take the place made vacant by Mayor Gaynor's death.

FLAGS HALF-MAST. (Canadian Press.) New York, Sept. 12.—New York was a city of mourning today for its dead mayor, Wm. J. Gaynor. Flags flew at half-mast and public buildings—the city hall, police headquarters, the municipal buildings—were draped in black.

McAneny was quick to decline the designation as head of the old Gaynor campaign, and in a formal statement, "but under no circumstances could I accept a mayoralty nomination in opposition to Mr. Mitchel, the fusion candidate."

Edgar Looked Bad. Edgar Fletcher, when arrested on a charge of being drunk last night, had one discolored eye. When he appeared this morning both eyes presented a vari-colored appearance, and he could hardly see out of them; his face was alluffed out, and he complained that he might be internally injured.

Penitent Too Late. Ross Hall, of Petrolia, got drunk last night and went to the Grand Trunk depot, where he started to raise a row and to curse one of the special officers. IN THE POLICE COURT

There were so many arrested by the police Thursday afternoon and evening that the cells at the police station would not accommodate them, and when it came to getting them into the courtroom this morning it was out of the question. So they were brought in in batches numbered 1, 2 and 3. The magistrate gave decisions in 44 cases, imposed fines amounting to $75, which if they are not paid will entail the spending of 190 days in jail by those found "guilty."

HERE IS THE MOST STUNNING OUTDOOR COSTUME THAT HAS COME THROUGH THE CUSTOM HOUSE
THIS FALL.

It is a Callot model and was built exclusively for one of the most charming of American actresses. The coat is of taupe-gray duvetine, made simply in Russian peasant fashion, with black velvet sleeves set in the long shoulders. A black velvet belt hangs low in front and has one of the new butterfly bows in the back, with one long end of velvet hanging down the back. The hat is a close black velvet, and its only trimming is a couple of black velvet butterflies on the tips of swaying black quills. With this costume is carried a slender black cane. Black low shoes, silver buckles and gray silk hose complete this charming costume.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

THE NEWEST AUTOMOBILE COAT.

How comic are the announcements in the fashion papers! I've just been reading that the very latest automobile coat is of mousseline—thicker than the ordinary mousseline—but still mousseline! And I am assured by the writer that this fabric, "so softly clinging," so "sweetly transparent," is much warmer than it seems. Doubtless—but your fair automobilist would probably bitterly rue her devotion to fashion in a long spin in autumn weather, protected from our shrewd winds only by her very smart motor coat of mousseline! Women have been known to be smothered in sweaters and fur coats, and yet to have returned from the motor side chilled to the bone from the piercing winds—all the more piercing because of the speed of the machine that ran even faster than they. We are assured that its warmth comes from the fact that the mousseline motor coat clings to the figure. It would seem, though, that there is as much warmth in such a coat as there was in the hoop-skirt this coat reaches to the ankles.

About Those Glass Jars.
Dear Miss Grey,—I have just finished reading tonight's paper; at least, I must confess to you that all I have read is that delightful interesting column of yours. "A Reader of the Paper" wants information about "The Diamond Glass Company." I presume she means "The Diamond Flint Glass Company," Toronto, will catch them. I am very glad I am able to tell you something, as you have told me so much. Sincerely,
A.—It is very kind of E. to forward the information. I sincerely trust the inquirer may see it. Thanks are due, as well, to a reader who telephoned from a local warehouse, giving the desired address.

The Poets' Corner
SONG.
O, we go wandering up and down,
Athwart the teeming earth;
Leaf of green and leaf of brown,
Summer smile and winter's frown,
Dreams of new and old romances,
For some a cross, for some a crown,
And that's the boon of birth!

It's you to fare and I to fare,
Along the devious track;
Glimpses of sun or starry air,
Silk or motley for our wear,
Each with his pack of joy and care,
But from the bourne we all must share.
There's never a road leads back!
—Clinton Scollard.

When He Rebelled!

The following is copied from The Advertiser files of ten years ago, being an interesting little incident that occurred at the Western Fair in 1903:

"The first bridal couple to arrive at the exhibition grounds this year, was on hand yesterday morning—that is, they are supposed to have been the first. She was the girl from up there, and he was whatever she wanted him to be.

He bought her red lemande; he took her into the sideshows; he gave her a ride on the miniature railroad, and they were as happy as places before they went to the agricultural building, for they thought they knew enough about that place. However, after they had had lunch at a quarter each, and dissipated on ice cream, besides, they wandered through the building given up to farm products only, as they thought. But the place was more attractive than they had imagined, for they had not counted on seeing in the north wing so grand a display of flowers.

It was just here that the first quarrel arose, for the bride spied the beautiful bridal bouquet. The bride of a day knew at once that a bunch of bridal roses tied with a ribbon was just what she had lacked at their wedding. Of course there had been flowers, but nothing like them, and she wanted them. But when they found that it would cost five dollars, that was an end to it. The groom put his foot down emphatically, and words ensued. That was the turning-point from the man's willing-to-do-everything-for-your-girl condition to the man of the house. And they went along."

About the Care of Books

How to Remove Grease Spots and Restore Shabby Bindings

Books require a certain amount of care even when lying unread upon their shelves. Otherwise dust collects, mold forms and tiny insects take up their abode between the leaves. Bookshelves should be rather deep and the books brought out to the edge of the shelf instead of being pushed to the wall. They are easier to dust when arranged in this way and can not gather mold, supposing it happens to be damp. If the books are tilted forward the dust can be wiped off daily, and to prevent mold from forming it is a good plan at house-cleaning time to spray the shelves and the books with an atomizer containing oil of lavender, oil of cedar or pennyroyal.

A "Book-Worm."
The tiny, silver, fishlike worm can do a great deal of damage to books and papers left long undisturbed. It loves starch and feeds on the starch used in the bindings of books. It will also eat below the surface of heavily glazed paper to get at the sizing. To destroy these pests dust the books, shelves thoroughly with insect powder or cover bits of cardboard with boiled starch paste poisoned with arsenic and place them on the shelves behind the books.

Grease spots on books or papers can be removed by covering them with fullers' earth or French chalk. Then spread over the spots a sheet of brown paper and apply a hot iron. The grease will be absorbed by the heated paper. Should one have the misfortune to spill ink upon a book one of the best erasers is a home-made one. Obtain large crystals of tartaric acid, moisten a rounded corner with water and rub the spot with it, repeating until the ink has disappeared. Dry with blotting paper. Soiled book bindings will usually respond to rubbing with white glue in a pint warm water, and a bit of chamois dipped into powdered pumice stone and passed over the soil will remove it.

Shabby Binding.
Calf bindings that are shabby may be restored almost to newness by applying with a soft brush a solution made by dissolving one ounce of paper glue in a pint of warm water, adding one teaspoonful of glycerine and a tablespoonful of flour mixed to a paste. Before the solution is quite dry the covers should be polished with a piece of chamois.

Torn pages may be neatly mended with tracing paper. Two strips the length of the tear are applied, one on each side of the leaf with a paste made by mixing a little cold water until it is smooth, then pouring boiling water over it until the mixture thickens. Constant stirring is necessary to prevent lumps. As both paper and paste are transparent, the book will have lost none of its usefulness.

Half an Hour With the Cook

Readers of this page are requested to contribute recipes or helpful hints along culinary lines for publication in this column, the desire being to make it one of mutual benefit. Original recipes, or those that are tried and true, will be especially appreciated.

India Chutney.
Two quarts of peeled, cored and chopped tart apples; two quarts of green tomatoes, chopped fine; one pound of raisins, chopped fine; three cloves of garlic, one teaspoonful of ginger, one-half ounce of ground cayenne and one-half pint of vinegar; one gill of salt; one teaspoon of powdered ginger. Mix all together and allow to stand overnight. In morning put into granite pan and set in dishpan of cold water, placed over fire. Heat slowly to boiling point. Boil six hours. Stir occasionally and put into glass jars while hot. Seal and set in a dark cool place.

American Chutney.
Chop half peck of green tomatoes, four large green peppers, two large onions. Mix with one gill of salt, allow to stand three hours. Drain three hours. Put into preserving kettle a half-pint of lemon juice, one and one-half pints of vinegar, one-half pint of sugar, one gill of grated horseradish, one teaspoonful of cloves and one tablespoon of ground cinnamon and allspice. Mix well and add the tomato, onion and pepper. Heat slowly to boiling point and cook one hour. Stir frequently. Put into pint jars and seal while hot.

GIRL SHOEMAKER PLEAS HER TRADE IN LITTLE SHOP.

Did you ever see a girl working at the shoemaking and mending business? We usually think it is a man only who can do this sort of work.

Here is the picture of a little girl who has entire charge of an old-fashioned shoe-shop.

MAKING SHOES.
She knows perfectly well how to patch a hole neatly. She can half-sole shoes as well as her father can.

You see, she has been learning this strange trade for ten years. When she was 5 years old she commenced paying regular visits to the shoe-shop, which belonged to her father.

He picked up first one piece of work, and then another, until now she knows it all. She wears a big leather apron while handling the shoes.

It's a novel occupation, but she thinks it is much pleasanter working in her father's shop than out away from home at something else.

LANGUAGE

We know a man whose language is picturesque and whose remarks are always graphic; but as for his English—well, I believe George Ade would envy him after listening to his slang. It may be English, but it's such lively English and such frightfully new English that ordinary conversation in our mother tongue sounds like a dead language.

Now, this man recently took a trip to Europe with his wife, and with him went a number of letters of introduction to several "personages"—for our friend is a man of some importance in the business world.

He has just returned, and, of course, we have been asking him how he enjoyed it.

"Everything was fine and dandy," he told us, "except for one thing. I went over there prepared to make motions to get myself heard, thinking I'd be up against the usual Dutch and partying, but, bless me! After I'd handed in my little card with a moustache a la

Emperor Bill or a goatee according to old-fashioned doll babies. Some of the character dolls have a womanly expression that invites confidence, and their owners have almost a sisterly feeling for the little playfellows of wood, celluloid, or life-like, painted stockinette. The last-named has a soft, huggable body, and may be taken to bed without fear of injury to itself, its clothing, or to the small child who loves it. The beautiful celluloid baby doll, with a laughing, crying, or smiling face, is a delight at bath time, for it can share its owner's tub without fear of injury or sinking.

Character dolls were first introduced to the world by Marion Kaulitz, a Munich artist and portrait painter. These dolls, which represent the children of all nations, are known by the names they brought with them from their own country. The first idea of the unbreakable doll was conceived in Russia some years ago. The inventor soon came to this country, but later was bought out by one of the leading American toy manufacturers. Then the development of the American unbreakable doll began.

THE EVOLUTION OF DOLLIE.

The doll is in a state of evolution. The frivolous woman has, for a generation or more, been compared to a doll, but from now on this simile will have to be abandoned. According to a writer in a recent issue of the Crocker and Glass Journal the doll has taken on a new character, and it seems as if every one has a different expression and various qualities which endear it

How to Cook a Sunday Dinner on Saturday and Thus Make Sunday Really a Day of Rest

BY MRS. EMILY REISENBERG.

To make a Sunday a day of rest for the busy housekeeper, without curtailing the quality of one's Sunday dinner, that important meal can practically be cooked the day before, especially if such dishes are selected which are just as good, if not better, when reheated. Pot roast, stuffed veal, chicken or filled meat loaf, all are excellent if reheated, and potatoes or Italian pastes, noodles, etc., can be made ready for the finishing touches and fruit compotes, light deserts and salads, all prepared the day before will round out a most appetizing dinner. If you have the knack of systematizing your work half an hour will be sufficient to heat and serve your dinner, and if you expect company this method of meeting the dinner question without the help of a maid, is especially to be recommended, as nothing is more agreeable for guests, than to see the hostess cool and untroubled, serve a meal without apparent effort.

(When using these recipes remember to use a graded half-pint measure.)

Filled Meatloaf.
Ingredients—Two pounds of chopped beef, one pound of chopped veal, one-half pound of sausage meat, one tablespoonful of minced onion, one egg, two rolled crackers, salt and pepper as needed.

Method—Beat the egg and combine with rest of ingredients kneading and mixing until all material is well blended, have an oblong bread tin greased then press meat into bottom and along sides of pan, now place the filling in centre fitting it in well, so as to have a thin layer of meat on all sides, and press rest of meat on top of dressing, bake in moderate heat until meat is done, but do not get it too brown or ter over and keep hot until ready to serve. A crown of toasted bread crumbs, or chopped parsley is an improvement.

Lemon Meringue Pie.
Ingredients for crust—Two cupfuls of sifted pastry flour, a pinch of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of baking powder, three level tablespoonfuls of lard, two level tablespoonfuls of butter, three tablespoonfuls of cold water.
Method—Mix all dry ingredients and rub shortening in with finger tips until flour is like coarse meal. Stir the water in with a fork and if any dry particles remain, gather them up in both floured hands and press together, paste must be like putty, the secret of good pie crust is, to use very little flour in rolling, so be sparing in flouring board or rolling pin, roll crust a little thicker than ordinary pasteboard and line a deep tin, pressing the paste well along sides, then trim around the upper edge with a knife, now roll some long strips of paste and with a pastry wheel or knife cut strips one-quarter of an inch wide, lay these along the rim of tin, then lay thumbs and forefingers crimp into a fluted, upstanding border, pour in the filling and bake until centre of filling is set and firm.

Ingredients for filling—Yolks of three eggs, one cupful of sugar, juice and grated zest of one lemon, three crackers, one cupful of milk.
Method—Scrub the lemon and grate the very outer yellow rind, extract juice and strain, beat yolks well, add sugar and lemon and beat until nice and creamy, roll the crackers finely and add, alternating with the milk, pour into the prepared crust and bake when cold, prepare meringue.

Reilly's Experience in Canadian League Gets Him Better Job

Pitcher Who Was With Several Canadian League Clubs a Short Time Is Grabbed Up by International League Club—He Is Particularly Strong on Fanning Batters.

PROBABLY no player in the Canadian League played with as many clubs in as short a time as did "Bill" Reilly, and yet failed to make good, although he delivered all that could be expected of him or any other pitcher. Bill Reilly, who enjoys this unique experience, is the twirler that Manager Ruben Deneau signed up in mid-season after the Brantford club released him. Reilly stayed with London a week, although in that time he won two games and lost none. He then signed up with St. Thomas, and lasted there two weeks, despite the fact that he won four out of six games he started in, losing only one and being taken out in the other. He was then signed up with Ottawa, but only lasted three days with the Senators, being released in London after the locals had hampered a couple of runs off his delivery.

He Fanned a Good Many. Reilly then went back to St. Thomas and pitched W. O. B. L. ball, and also worked in games against independent teams. Although a frail-looking fellow, he had a lot of stuff, and his games were always featured with a large number of strikeouts. In the Canadian League he struck out eight and nine men a game, and against independent teams he thought it an ordinary performance to strike out fourteen and fifteen batters. When Reilly first came to this city with the London team, he had not recovered from the effects of a fever he had taken early in the spring. It was because of this that Deneau released him. He was sick much of the time with the local club and during the time he was with St. Thomas. However, his sickness did not prevent him from pitching good ball when he was called on to do so, and he seemed to have all kinds of nerve and gameness. For the past month or so he has been pitching ball around St. Thomas. Only recently he defeated a bunch of ringers representing Leamington against Tilbury, and struck out fifteen men. The Leamington team was made up of several Detroit minor league players, including a couple of Canadian League players, while Tilbury had Inker, Gurney, Wright and a few more Canadian League players on its line-up. Reilly was opposed by Kirley, the Toronto International League pitcher, and he easily outpitched the former Guelph star. It is now announced that Reilly has been grabbed up by one of the international League teams, presumably Toronto, and he will be given a thorough try-out next spring. Many local fans who have kept in touch with Reilly's performances, are of the opinion that he was the equal of any pitcher in the Canadian League, and much criticism was levelled at Ruben Deneau for letting him get away from London. Many believe that he can make good in the International League. If he does it will look as though some Canadian League managers were pretty slow on sizing up a pitcher, and some of the clubs overlooked some easy money in letting him get away.

MORE RELATIVES IN CITY EMPLOY; IT'S THE STYLE

Supt. Hodgkinson Has Brother-in-Law Working as Foreman of Water Gang.

HYDRANTS AT AN ANGLE

Placed in Ground at a Drunken Angle in the District to the East.

The relatives of the man who occupies the mayor's chair of London are not the only "family compacts" in the city departments.

Supt. Dodd was appointed to the head of the garbage department because he is the nephew of Mayor Graham. He has previously had a bunk in the hydro-electric department, but the opportunity offering he was given an automobile position.

Had a Precedent. No doubt inspired by the example of the individual who occupies the mayor's chair, Superintendent Hodgkinson, has secured a position as foreman for his brother-in-law, who holds the position of foreman of one of the gangs.

The brother-in-law is not supplied with an automobile, but he agrees on the payroll for a salary of $50 a week, or so. Ready for Dirigibles. It is said that this brother-in-law has been in charge of the work of putting in hydrants in the annexed district, and that some of these hydrants are in the ground at an angle of at least 40 degrees. It is said that the man who occupies the mayor's chair ordered this deviation in order that the pressure at Springbank might be increased and the hydrants used to pour streams of water at a fleet of dirigibles that may make an attack on the city.

Supt. Hodgkinson admitted that his brother-in-law was employed in the department. He had received no complaints regarding hydrants, but some of the work had been done in his (Hodgkinson's) absence.

Bradford Brothers May Have Drowned

Grave Fears Expressed For Safety of Young Canoeists.

[Canadian Press.] Montreal, Sept. 12.—Grave fears are expressed for the safety of the Bradford brothers, two young men who competed in the two-hundred-mile canoe race from Ottawa to Lachine. The other seven crews have all been accounted for, the race being won by W. Bulmer and E. Spicer, of the Riverside Club, Montreal.

The last word received of the Bradford brothers, who composed the Rambler crew, came from Ottawa. W. Bulmer was told by an Indian there that the Bradfords had passed about an hour ahead of the Riverside crew, but apparently in a very exhausted condition.

Bulmer and Spicer estimated that it was with great difficulty they were able to keep their canoe from being swamped during a storm on Lake St. Louis last night; as it was, they shined over two inches of water in the canoe.

A motor boat containing the parents of the missing pair was today scouring the waters of the lake.

Minister Resigns To Be Undertaker

[Canadian Press.] San Francisco, Sept. 12.—Another San Francisco minister is to become an undertaker. Rev. Nat Friend, pastor of the Howard Presbyterian Church, announced today that he would resign his pastorate next Sunday in order to take up the new work.

"The undertaking field," he said, "will give me an even greater opportunity for social service than the ministry. Solacing those in sorrow and caring for the dead has been so much a part of my pastoral work that I do not look upon the change as altering materially the purpose of my life."

Several months ago Rev. Dr. Bradford Leavitt resigned the pulpit of the Franklin Church to become an undertaker.

INSANITY INCREASES

Will Affect Birth Rate Is Prediction of American Expert.

[Canadian Press.] Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 12.—Statistics show that the human race is becoming insane, and the prediction that the time will come when there will be no more births, were features of addresses before the American Public Health Association here last night by J. B. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Mich.

The birth rate, he said, was decreasing in a manner that would bring it to the vanishing point. "To regain our lost estate," he added, "we should get back to nature. We must cultivate health instead of disease."

Dr. W. C. Woodward, of Washington, was elected president of the association.

"Yes," said the fugitive, "I understand. You have five kinds of law that apply to my case." "True," they told him. "And we have ten ways of evading them." "Good," said the fugitive. "Give me about seven of them at the usual market price."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

G. T. P. TRAINS TO CARRY WHEAT INTO COCHRANE

An Arrangement Will Be Made Shortly for Rushing the Export Grain.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Sept. 12.—If there is need, the National Transcontinental will have wheat this winter for export. Rails are now down from Winnipeg to Cochrane and further eastward. The line is not in perfect condition, but it will carry a wheat train.

Hon. Frank Cochrane has just returned from a trip over the line. He went in a train of five cars and a locomotive. Though there are temporary treaties where later there will be steel bridges, and though there are some sink holes which cause trouble in spots, the line carried the minister's train, and can carry loaded grain cars should the pressure require it.

The line is not completed, and therefore the Government could hardly require the Grand Trunk Pacific to operate it. But it is believed that there will be some arrangements made which will enable the Grand Trunk Pacific to move this fall wheat from Winnipeg to Cochrane, where trains will be switched to the Ontario Government Railway, which will again transfer them to the Grand Trunk Pacific at North Bay, and the Grand Trunk can then have the wheat to Montreal and Portland for export. The line, though not completed, is advanced to a point where it can be used.

No Other Way

BY GORDON HOLMES.

Author of "A Mysterious Disappearance," "The House of Silence," Etc.

Of course, none of the three gave credence to Waverton's presence of a lost memory, and it was almost amusing to them personally, though their set faces were masks of indifference, when the suspect kindly into angry annoyance at hearing his name mentioned.

"Nonsense!" he cried fiercely, without waiting for the interpreter to explain what Villino had said, and he sprang upright, all aguilver with wrath and resentment, feeling dilly through a flat and dreary country, who finds himself suddenly on the brink of an unfathomable abyss.

"You must not interrupt the witness," said the coroner, glancing sharply at the tall, thin, well-dressed individual who had been thus stirred into activity and discomfiture.

"There is some ridiculous error," cried Waverton in white heat.

"Are you represented by a lawyer?" "No. If it was intended that this cock-and-bull story could be made public today, why was I not warned of it?"

"No comments, please," said the coroner. "When the witness has concluded his evidence you can question him, if you so desire, or wait until another occasion, when you will have proper legal assistance."

Waverton sat down with an impatient gesture, and now at last the interpreter was free to go on with the Spaniard's statement. Up to this point the court was ignorant of Waverton's identity, and wondered why the stranger had protested so vehemently.

During this somewhat striking scene Mrs. Delamar had endeavored to catch Waverton's eye, but in vain. Though she had the aspect of a woman stretched on the rack, she strove to conquer her agitation and hastily scribbled a note, which she asked Clancy, of all men, to hand across the table to the witness. He obeyed with a smile, and Waverton opened the folded paper. He read:

"Please try and recollect that you did buy the poison. The man is telling the truth. I can explain everything. I'll be damned if I'm not sure that three pairs of watchful eyes saw which hand he used, and seemed not to pay the least regard to it, devoting himself rather to a close following of Villino's words."

"You are sure of the name?" went on the coroner, blandly resuming his task as though nothing remarkable had happened.

"Yes, the witness had copied it from the gentleman's card."

"Do you see him in court?"

"Villino did not wait for the interpreter. 'Certainly, that is he, only thinner and greatly changed since his arrest,' he said, and he pointed to the man who had been sitting in the witness's chair. 'You are sure of the name?'"

"Then he looked at Waverton, and it was not to be doubted that he was telling the truth. Every eye was bent on the bronzed man sitting in the chair, but he only smiled scornfully and met Villino's mild gaze without flinching."

"Are you positive on that point?" persisted the coroner.

"The drugist gratified the court by indulging in a real Latin phrase with outstretched hands, palm upward and wide apart. 'The person of scientific mind avoids the presence of a single hair of taint,' he said, 'I used the word 'certainly,' I admit; but I only meant that I think this gentleman is better able than I to judge if he spoke in Spanish, because my customer asked for the drug in that language.'

Waverton, with fine self-control, waited until the interpreter had finished, and the coroner had ceased writing, then he stood up. "Will you allow me to exchange a few words with the witness in his own tongue?" he asked.

The coroner hesitated. He saw that Forbes was ostentatiously making notes, and that Fraherne was waiting to move. "I think the course you suggest would be reasonable," he said. "It would help Villino to be more definite."

Waverton at once asked the Spaniard if the man who bought the poison spoke like an American possessing an ordinary command of the language, or was his diction as fluent and his pronunciation as good as his (Waverton's).

"It was distinctly amusing to watch Jose Villino's face when he heard the accents of his native tongue delivered with the accurate ease of one who spoke it without fault or effort. He gazed spellbound at Waverton, and then turned appealingly to the coroner.

"See here a mistake the most unfortunate!" he cried. "This is not the gentleman who came to my establishment. This one is a veritable Argentine; the other was altogether American. I see now that I was in error, but permit me to observe, Senor Judge, that I remarked on the habit of the Argentine mind to forthwith translated Waverton's question and the witness's answer, and now that I have resumed his seat again, and favored Steingall with a satisfied smile. At the same time, I would avoid Mrs. Delamar's glance, and he read therein a profound amazement which conveyed a warning that the price of creating active distrust in a far more dangerous quarter. But he was evidently a man of singular strength, for he looked fully satisfied with his achievement, and the angry flush raised by the unexpectedness of his name quickly gave way to a contented expression, which, to Mrs. Delamar was almost more bewildering than the ticklish turn taken by the evidence."

Prompted by Forbes, the prosecutor hammered in the drugist's disclaimer. "You believe now that the Claude G. Waverton present in court is not the Claude G. Waverton who bought the crystals of nicotine?" he asked.

"But no, senor," was the answer, and Waverton's brow frowned again, because, perhaps, of the awkward manner in which the prosecutor had framed the question.

He took thought while the coroner's pen scratched industriously, and broke in when the lawyer was about to proceed. "That is a somewhat unreasonable way to establish the fact aimed at. Why not ask the witness to state that if I am Claude G. Waverton, the person who purchased the poison must have delivered him by using my name?"

"You can put that point when I have finished," said Forbes.

"But I protest now against the method you are adopting. There are not two Claude G. Wavertons."

The attorney declined to appear interested. "We are not settling a matter of title to the Waverton property," he said. "The witness has stated that Claude G. Waverton came to his shop in Palm Beach, and you have not him to say that you are not the Claude G. Waverton in dispute. What more do you want?"

"I want you to remember that you are representing the state, and that you have no right to distort the evidence from the meaning honestly attached to it by Senor Jose Villino."

"How dare you say that I am distorting evidence?"

"And how dare you hint that I am not Claude G. Waverton?"

"I did nothing of the sort."

"What, when you flippantly allude to 'settling a matter of title,' and that I am 'not the Claude G. Waverton in dispute?'"

"Have a care. If a mid-eyed sheep, tied to the slaughtering block, were suddenly to scarily hiss the slaughterer with steam and words of hot indignation, the worthy tradesman thus confounded could not be more surprised than Forbes and the two detectives. The lawyer had certainly gone rather far in his diatribe of one whom the legal mind now regarded as an impostor; but he no more expected this fiery denunciation than that the coroner should have an inkling at him.

Even Steingall was momentarily stupefied, but Clancy kept his head and flushed at a glance imposing caution, so Forbes temporized.

"I am not moved by fear of criticism," he said, addressing the coroner, who, for his own reasons, let the fight it out; "but I may as well explain that Villino's working himself into a passion about nothing. I was seeking only to emphasize a point in his favor. You must do it differently, then," interrupted Waverton, and his contemptuous tone brought a flush to the lawyer's forehead.

"Of course, I cannot be dictated to," said Forbes hotly.

The coroner raised his hand. "I see no objection to a subsidiary question, framed as Mr. Waverton suggests, being put to the witness," he said, and he blessed the worthy man under his breath.

This was done, and the witness reiterated that the buyer of the poison did not resemble Claude G. Waverton, and that his (the witness's) altered belief arose largely from hearing Waverton speak Spanish so well. He wanted to know, too, why New York officials should appear in a New Jersey court, and threatened to have the proceedings quashed as irregular.

But neither Forbes nor Waverton paid heed to this hot-spitting, and Fraherne subsided. Forbes simply demanded that the address "Asphodel House, Palm Beach" be given by the person who described himself as "Claude G. Waverton" (whereas the bearer of the name did not resemble the man who had bought the poison) be permitted to retire.

To Be Continued.

During this somewhat striking scene Mrs. Delamar had endeavored to catch Waverton's eye, but in vain. Though she had the aspect of a woman stretched on the rack, she strove to conquer her agitation and hastily scribbled a note, which she asked Clancy, of all men, to hand across the table to the witness. He obeyed with a smile, and Waverton opened the folded paper. He read:

"Please try and recollect that you did buy the poison. The man is telling the truth. I can explain everything. I'll be damned if I'm not sure that three pairs of watchful eyes saw which hand he used, and seemed not to pay the least regard to it, devoting himself rather to a close following of Villino's words."

"You are sure of the name?" went on the coroner, blandly resuming his task as though nothing remarkable had happened.

"Yes, the witness had copied it from the gentleman's card."

"Do you see him in court?"

"Villino did not wait for the interpreter. 'Certainly, that is he, only thinner and greatly changed since his arrest,' he said, and he pointed to the man who had been sitting in the witness's chair. 'You are sure of the name?'"

"Then he looked at Waverton, and it was not to be doubted that he was telling the truth. Every eye was bent on the bronzed man sitting in the chair, but he only smiled scornfully and met Villino's mild gaze without flinching."

"Are you positive on that point?" persisted the coroner.

"The drugist gratified the court by indulging in a real Latin phrase with outstretched hands, palm upward and wide apart. 'The person of scientific mind avoids the presence of a single hair of taint,' he said, 'I used the word 'certainly,' I admit; but I only meant that I think this gentleman is better able than I to judge if he spoke in Spanish, because my customer asked for the drug in that language.'

Waverton, with fine self-control, waited until the interpreter had finished, and the coroner had ceased writing, then he stood up. "Will you allow me to exchange a few words with the witness in his own tongue?" he asked.

The coroner hesitated. He saw that Forbes was ostentatiously making notes, and that Fraherne was waiting to move. "I think the course you suggest would be reasonable," he said. "It would help Villino to be more definite."

Waverton at once asked the Spaniard if the man who bought the poison spoke like an American possessing an ordinary command of the language, or was his diction as fluent and his pronunciation as good as his (Waverton's).

"It was distinctly amusing to watch Jose Villino's face when he heard the accents of his native tongue delivered with the accurate ease of one who spoke it without fault or effort. He gazed spellbound at Waverton, and then turned appealingly to the coroner.

"See here a mistake the most unfortunate!" he cried. "This is not the gentleman who came to my establishment. This one is a veritable Argentine; the other was altogether American. I see now that I was in error, but permit me to observe, Senor Judge, that I remarked on the habit of the Argentine mind to forthwith translated Waverton's question and the witness's answer, and now that I have resumed his seat again, and favored Steingall with a satisfied smile. At the same time, I would avoid Mrs. Delamar's glance, and he read therein a profound amazement which conveyed a warning that the price of creating active distrust in a far more dangerous quarter. But he was evidently a man of singular strength, for he looked fully satisfied with his achievement, and the angry flush raised by the unexpectedness of his name quickly gave way to a contented expression, which, to Mrs. Delamar was almost more bewildering than the ticklish turn taken by the evidence."

Prompted by Forbes, the prosecutor hammered in the drugist's disclaimer. "You believe now that the Claude G. Waverton present in court is not the Claude G. Waverton who bought the crystals of nicotine?" he asked.

"But no, senor," was the answer, and Waverton's brow frowned again, because, perhaps, of the awkward manner in which the prosecutor had framed the question.

He took thought while the coroner's pen scratched industriously, and broke in when the lawyer was about to proceed. "That is a somewhat unreasonable way to establish the fact aimed at. Why not ask the witness to state that if I am Claude G. Waverton, the person who purchased the poison must have delivered him by using my name?"

"You can put that point when I have finished," said Forbes.

"But I protest now against the method you are adopting. There are not two Claude G. Wavertons."

The attorney declined to appear interested. "We are not settling a matter of title to the Waverton property," he said. "The witness has stated that Claude G. Deer Hunters Plan To Go North Soon

Game Is Reported To Be Plentiful in Many Districts.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, Sept. 12. — With the near approach of the hunting season many are the plans that are being laid by the sportsmen of the district. Very little shooting is done until Oct. 15, the opening of the partridge season. Formerly many of the sportsmen commencing their vacation the 15th of September, but with the change of the game laws the vacation period has been extended to correspond.

From reports it would seem that game is fairly plentiful in the surrounding districts, and local sportsmen are anticipating the open season with more than usual interest. As in previous years a large number from Ingersoll and vicinity will go north in quest of deer.

Commencing Oct. 1 evening classes will be started at the Ingersoll Industrial and Art School, which is being established under the auspices of the board of education. The committees in charge are composed of six members from the board of education and six others chosen from the different industries.

It is expected that a large number of the young men and women will take advantage of the school, as the training offered will be strictly first-class. The matter has been talked of for some time, and now that the initiative has been taken in advertising the courses interest is becoming somewhat general.

AN APPRECIATION OF LATE T. R. PARKER

Christian Guardian Says He Was Whole-Souled and Devoted in Church Work.

Referring to the death of Mr. T. R. Parker, formerly of this city, the Christian Guardian says: "For many years Mr. Parker was a leading member and official of the First Methodist Church, London, acting as class leader and taking special interest in the financial affairs of the church. He was convinced that the church suffered greatly through the want of up-to-date business method and system in its work, and he strove to meet the deficiency in his own church in London. Later the need of a more far-reaching reform in this matter throughout the church at large came to him, and the zeal and ardor which he showed led to his appointment three years ago to the office of secretary of the department of finance of the church.

To his work in this office Mr. Parker gave himself up with whole-souled energy and devotion. And the service which he has rendered even in the few years granted him in this work will bear much good fruit in the years to come. It was one of the crosses that he had to bear that so many within the church did not see the need for the reform in the financial work of the church as he saw and felt it."

Sheep receipts, 18,000; market steady; native, $3.90 to $4.75; western, $3.60 to $4.70; yearlings, $4.25 to $5.00. Cattle receipts, 15,000; market steady; heavy, $5.75 to $7.60.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Union Stockyards.—The run here yesterday totaled 127 cars, containing 2,353 cattle, 352 calves, 1,616 hogs, 1,669 sheep and lambs and 24 horses. For a closing day run today's broke all records this year. In fact, throughout the week the runs have been very persistent, and dealers declare that there has never been a larger number of cattle shipped in. In spite of this fact, though, the market remained firm and the trading was brisk. All butcher grades were a very good sale at the opening quotations, while export grades remained steady. There was a good demand for stockers and feeders, and all offerings on this market found a ready sale. Nearly every choice offering was sold long before closing time, and the residue from this week's market was comparatively small. Sheep also took a surprising turn for the better today, and after having dropped 2 1/2 during the week regained the opening price, at which it closed. Lambs, however, closed about 10c below the opening quotations. Calves, as usual, continued very firm, and sold readily at the record prices asked. There was no change in hogs, today's large run evening up for the smaller one of Wednesday.

The week has certainly been a banner one for the live stock market. The runs have been exceptionally large, but in spite of this only one market closed below the opening price, and that market—lamb—only registered a decrease of one cent. Sheep, on the other hand, were advanced on the closing day and finished steady with the opening. Hogs opened at about 15c below last week, and held that price to the end.

The outlook for next week is good. When the market is able to successfully handle a larger run, as it has this week there need be little fear for the following trade. The only market which is liable to show a decrease is hogs, but this is not expected. Sheep may also open a little below the level, but it is hardly probable that this will be the case.

PRODUCE. TORONTO, Sept. 12.—The local markets are quiet, with no changes in cash stuff. Manitoba wheat futures a trifle weaker. The Liverpool and foreign markets were quiet. Girl Asks $5,000 Breach of Promise [Special to The Advertiser.] St. Thomas, Ont., Sept. 11.—Chas. Popham, Wabash engineer, who married a St. Thomas girl a few days ago, faces a $5,000 breach of promise suit. Damage to that amount is being asked for by Miss Zaida McGugan, also a St. Thomas girl, who alleges Popham promised to marry her on two different dates, both of which he failed to fulfill. She also claims he has been paying her attentions since 1906, with a view of marriage. The case will likely come up at the fall assizes in St. Thomas.

MAY NOT RECOVER Strassburg Postmaster Was Kicked in Face by His Horse. [Special to The Advertiser.] Berlin, Sept. 11.—Aaron Cressman, postmaster and farmer, was probably fatally injured at his farm in Strassburg today, when a fractious horse he was unbiting kicked him in the face, breaking the lower jawbone. He suffered an injury to his brain, and his right side is completely paralyzed. Doctors entertain little hope for a recovery. He has been unconscious since the accident.

BADLY SHAKEN UP Belmont Engineer Fell Eleven Feet When Ladder Broke. [Special to The Advertiser.] Belmont, Sept. 12.—While adjusting a belt in the Canadian Milk Products yesterday, Cyrus Smith, the engineer, met with a painful accident. The ladder on which he stood broke, and he was precipitated to the cement floor, falling about eleven feet. His injuries consist of a badly sprained wrist and a general shaking up.

The Pride of the Kitchen:
PENNANT TWO-FUEL RANGE
WILL BURN ANY KIND OF GAS, COAL OR WOOD

We Are Sole Selling Agents in London
Someone who is more interested in selling you something else may say to you that the chamber containing the top burners cuts off the coal fire and will cause the stove to work badly. Well, look into the flues and see if it does. You see this chamber is cunningly devised so that it presents only a very narrow division between the two top flues. It is pointed on the end like a boat, so as to split the current of draft without friction. As it spreads out a little on each side the flues at each side get a little deeper, so that the same flue space is preserved right along. The heat from the flues covers the oven top from front to back and the gas burners are left right in the range—not touched.

An hour later the steamer W. S. Mack, also bound up, collided with the steel drill boat No. 1, which is at work on Ballards Reef. Apparently neither vessel was seriously damaged.

BITTER FIGHT IS BEING WAGED BY CONS. FACTIONS

Party in East Middlesex Is at "Sixes and Sevens" Over the Nomination.

THREE ARE IN THE RING Glass, Piper and Robson Likely To Be Balloted Upon at Saturday's Convention.

Credentials of delegates to the East Middlesex Conservative convention to be held Saturday afternoon are coming in but slowly. This morning Secretary S. F. Glass, of the association, had received hardly half a dozen. This, however, is not indicative of the interest that is being taken in the convention. The bitterest fight in the history of the party is now being waged by the following of the would-be nominees for the East Middlesex riding in the Federal House. Fair week has interfered to a considerable extent with the delegates' meetings, and it is expected that the majority of them will be held tonight.

Expected Full Attendance. Secretary Glass anticipates a full attendance of delegates. His anticipation is confirmed by the fever-hat interest that is rampant throughout the Conservative ranks of the county. "We will have a full attendance," said Secretary Glass this morning. Wednesday and Thursday having been farmers' days at the Fair, practically all the farmers of the riding have been in the city. That has delayed the delegates' meetings, until later in the week, and I expect that the majority of them will be held tonight, and that I will receive the credentials tomorrow."

The fact that the delegates' meetings have not yet been held, for the most part, makes the race of Saturday all the more problematical. The instruction of the delegates at these district meetings is the weathercock that tells which way the political wind is likely to blow at the succeeding convention.

The Biggest Winds. R. M. Piper, ex-warden of the county and ex-reverend of Westminster Township, might be termed one of these winds. All Frank Glass, of London, is the other. Which way the convention ship will be blown by these respective winds is the question that the entire riding is now asking itself. There will be, or at least better be said, there may be some cross-currents, winds—representative of other candidates who will enter the convention arena, but the majority of the riding will line up behind the Glass or the Piper banners.

The possibility of Capt. Tom Robson, county clerk and ex-M. P. for East Middlesex, entering the lists again has not yet been settled either one way or the other. Until it is the decision of the party is hanging in the balance in a more than unsettled way.

Robson Is Undecided. Capt. Robson is still undecided as to the course he will pursue at the convention. According to his own statement, he made it up this morning, he has not yet made up his mind to stand or to withdraw. That his name will be placed in nomination is a foregone conclusion.

"I have been too busy at the Fair to consider the question," said Capt. Robson today. "I have not yet made up my mind as to whether I will stand for election or whether I will decline to enter the fight."

Capt. Robson has a strong following from the northern section of London Township particularly. It is a known fact that he would like to redeem himself for the defeat he suffered at the Liberal benches during the Ross regime in the Ontario House. His decision to allow his name to go before the convention would draw considerable votes from the other aspirants. What the final result on the convention's decision this would cause is one of the problematical parts of the party convention that can be at the best only conjectured, until the convention is concluded.

Geary Again in the Field. On the best of authority it is decided that John Geary, of the London Township, will be another to allow his name to stand at the next convention. He did so at the one of two weeks ago—the famous one that ended in such a voting fiasco, and was the runner-up until the semi-finals. James Priddy and R. H. Guest, both of London Township also, went down at the first ballot. Geary went down at the second, leaving Piper and Glass in the ring. With Captain Robson in the field as well, some of Mr. Geary's friends declare that he has even a better chance than ever of securing the party nomination.

HERE AND THERE AROUND THE GROUNDS

Kids—little kids, big kids, short kids, tall kids, fat kids, lean kids, dirty-faced kids, clean kids, kids with shoes, kids without, yellow kids, white kids, black kids, every kind of kids. They were all there. It was KIDS' DAY.

Decision of the directors to strictly enforce the "No Smoking" rule had an appreciable effect.

To some of the more studious of the public school pupils, the exhibit of the Ontario department of education in the Main building was a great attraction.

Dodging in or climbing the fence, was the manner observed by some at least of the small kids yesterday. They seemed to enjoy the fair that much more as a consequence.

Universally throughout the different buildings, the exhibitors are pleased with the fair. Orders booked and prospects secured are for the most part greater than ever before according to the men in charge of the different exhibits.

BOILER BURST KILLING ONE

Another Man Is So Badly Hurt That He May Not Recover.

LOSS WILL BE $20,000

[Canadian Press] Oshawa, Ont. Sept. 12.—The boiler at the gas works, recently purchased from the town of Oshawa by the Sherrill Gas Co., burst this morning at 9:30. Thomas Buckley was instantly killed, and Daniel Anderson lies so seriously injured that he is not expected to recover. The only employee who was in the building just prior to the explosion had stepped inside an instant before, and escaped injury.

A large number of windows in the neighborhood were broken, and the entire city got a bad shaking. Two large gas tanks, one containing 60,000, the other 20,000 cubic feet, in close proximity to the exploded boiler, fortunately escaped damage, or the disaster would have been much more serious.

The building is a total wreck, and the loss will probably reach $20,000.

"SNAP" ALL CHINESE FOR CERTIFICATES

Will Enable Celestials To Be Identified When Leaving or Entering Canada.

All new certificates issued to Chinese immigrants will be adorned with photographs of the holders in order to make it easier for them to identify themselves when leaving or returning to Canada.

Immigration officials, who are urged to take advantage of all Chinese in Canada exchanging the present certificates which they hold for new certificates, and provision is also made for some reason have not received the certificates they are entitled to. Students who have surrendered their certificates, which are made out in the name of the holder and one of copy, which he retains, sending the other to Ottawa.

Not Compulsory. The order for the new pictorial certificates is not compulsory, but recognizing the advantage of the new style of certificates the Chinese in London and other cities are preparing to comply with the necessary steps, including having "their pictures taken," in order to receive the new certificates.

Mr. Lu-Ping Tien, Chinese consul at Ottawa, in conjunction with the immigration branch of the department of the interior, has arranged for the new issue of certificates.

MUSICIANS ARE INTERESTED. More than a passing interest is being shown by leading members of the music profession in the 1914 Player-Piano of Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, which was exhibited at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. The new models are now in the warehouses of the firm, 242 Dundas street, and music-loving people everywhere for that matter—are invited to call and see them and learn for themselves how widely they differ from other player-pianos.

Want Pond Drained. A deputation from the north end of the city waited on the board with a request that the overflow water from Bennett's pond, at the northeast corner of St. James and Adelaide streets, be drained to the city sewers. The request was laid over after the explanation had been made that the sanitary sewers were already over-taxed, and the proposed relief would mean only additional flooded cellars. It was promised that the question would be considered with the storm water sewers.

The demand of W. E. Collins for $300 compensation as a result of injuries sustained through stepping into a hole in a sidewalk on St. James street, was referred to the solicitor. Among "identical" cases that were included in the Collins' claim was one for spilled paint, he having been carrying some when the accident occurred.

Fiske O'Hara Again Packs Grand

Fiske O'Hara the noted Irish tenor in his new play "In Old Dublin" last night for the second time this week packed the Grand from top to bottom. The engagement of this popular player has proved one of the most successful of recent seasons. Western night Mr. O'Hara was again in splendid voice, while the appealing story carried the big audience with it every moment from the first to the final curtain. Three more opportunities will be given London theatergoers to see this production, performances being given tonight and Saturday afternoon and evening.

BICYCLE AND MOTOR SALES COMPANY.

The well-known Brantford bicycle in all the different models and styles, in which it is made, is a feature of the fine exhibit at the regular Fair of the Bicycle and Motor Sales Company, of 369 Clarence street, in the main building, on the north aisle. The Brantford bicycle is the oldest make of bicycle in Canada, having been manufactured in the Dominion for 25 years.

All Brantford bicycles sold by the Bicycle and Motor Sales Company are sold fully equipped at the regular un-equipped price. This is a great advantage to the purchaser, as all the necessities of bicycle equipment are included among them, a large tire pump, luggage carrier, bell, gas lamp and cyclometer. This means that the first cost is the last cost.

The Bicycle and Motor Sales Company has sold about 200 Brantford bicycles this year. This goes to show the excellence of the Brantford wheel, else so large a number would not have been disposed of by one agency in one season.

Mr. George Hardy is in charge of the Western Fair exhibit of Brantford bicycles, a visit to which will amply repay anyone interested in bicycles.

Board of Works Selects Delegation to Represent City at Detroit.

London will be represented at the American Good Roads Convention in Detroit, on Sept. 23, by Chairman R. W. Bennett, of the board of works, Aid. J. H. Saunders and City Engineer W. N. Ashplant. This was decided at the meeting of the board Thursday night. At the same session it was decided to allow the city blacksmith and all ward foremen two weeks holidays, with pay, each year. A suggestion by Aid. J. H. Saunders along the same lines, to the effect that all city employees should be given a week's holiday was laid over for further consideration.

The storm sewer-West London break-water question was raised, but lay over, no further reports on the bylaws and needed information have yet been completed by the engineering department. These have been promised for an early date.

CITY OF LONDON
Notice to Property Owners

It is the intention of the City Council to pave Worley road, from Stanley Street to the city limits, at an early date. Owners of property abutting should immediately have laid any required water, gas and sewer connections, to avoid undue disturbance of pavement when constructed, and the extra cost to owners then requiring the above-named services.

Glauzitz's Irish blood led him to make the color scheme green. However, the city hall is losing the variegated appearance that it has sported since "our mahler" ordered the city officials to move, a month ahead of time.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. For sale by W. T. Strong, London.

Excellent Work of Ambulance Assn.

Emergency Hospital at the Fair Attends to Many Minor Injuries.

One of the most commendable features at the Western Fair is the emergency hospital and ambulance tent maintained by the Forest City Ambulance Corps, No. 1, and St. John's Ambulance Association. As many as a dozen cases of minor injuries and illness are attended to in a single day and innumerable cuts and bruises receive prompt attention that if neglected might prove serious. Night and day staffs are on duty at the tent and accidents are thus provided for no matter what time of the day or night they happen.

The tent is in charge of Mr. W. Loveday, secretary of the St. John's Ambulance Association and Mr. W. B. Clark, superintendent of No. 1 division. Dr. H. A. Stevenson has assisted in the good work to a large extent, having attended a great many cases handled by the association.

First Aid Workers Busy at the Fair

The St. John's ambulance tent at the Western Fair grounds has been a busy spot during the week, and numerous cases of illness have been treated there.

The work is voluntary on the part of the men who are out there, and Wednesday night two of them sat up all night with James Chandler, of Woodstock, who was kicked by a Clydesdale stallion and seriously injured.

Chandler was working in the stall of the beast, when it suddenly reared and planted one of its heels on his forehead. He was carried to the tent, and Dr. H. Stevenson summoned. The men worked over him all night, and early Thursday morning he was sent to his home.

Thursday afternoon two visitors, one a woman of 70 years, and the other a clergyman, were overcome on the grounds. They were carried to the tent and given first-aid treatment.

Thursday night about 9 o'clock, Mrs. M. A. Dadd, of the Victoria, was seized with an attack of weak heart, and after being taken to the tent and treated, was removed to Victoria Hospital in a private ambulance.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Harold Jarvis, wife of the well-known tenor, died yesterday at the family residence, 39 Atkinson avenue, Detroit.

Mrs. Jarvis had been ill for over a year and a half and it is thought that grief on account of the death of her only child, Harold Reginald Jarvis, in Germany, three years ago, contributed to her demise.

Mrs. Jarvis was a daughter of Dr. W. B. Geikie, late dean of the medical faculty of Trinity College, Toronto, and married Mr. Jarvis in Toronto 21 years ago.

Rope Tightened Around Painter's Body When He Fell Off Ladder.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Sept. 12.—A peculiar fatality occurred on Craig street last night when a painter by the name of Daly fell from a ladder upon which he was standing to paint the cornice of a building. He had a rope tied around his waist for safety, but as he fell the loop tightened, and the appliance intended to save the man's life in the event of a fall, caused his death. He died before he could be got into an ambulance.

Thousands Interested in New Invention

Thousands of people and hundreds of telephone workers and operators were attracted by the Chisholm-Dunn exhibit of telephones and attachments at the Western Fair. DUNNING--MCKINNEY

Pretty Wedding Was Celebrated at Bride's Home in Aylmer.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Aylmer, Sept. 12.—A pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Dunning, Talbot street, west, on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Olive Jacquetta, was married to Edward McKinney, manager of the Aylmer Condensed Milk Co. Rev. A. E. M. Thompson, M.A., B.D., pastor of the Methodist Church, performed the ceremony in a room prettily decorated with white and pink aster.

The wedding march was played by the bride's sister, Miss Jean Dunning, and the bride was given away by her mother.

The groom's daughters, Charlotte and Mapine McKinney were the pretty little flower girls. During the signing of the register, Miss Bavin sang "Bek It Is Morn," and later in the evening "Because."

After a dainty dining breakfast had been served Mr. and Mrs. McKinney motored to St. Thomas, where they took the train for Chicago to spend a brief honeymoon.

Among the beautiful presents received by the bride were a cabinet of silver containing forty-eight pieces from D. Marshall, M.P., and J. J. Nair. Several substantial checks and a cut glass berry bowl from the Methodist choir, of which the bride was a valued member.

In the long run it pays the retailer to give his customers the best in tea, as in other articles. "SALADA" does not show as large a profit as other packet or bulk teas, but it pleases the consumer and ultimately is more satisfactory to the dealer.

Steady Increase in Scale of Wages

Statistics Show That American Workmen's Salaries Are Climbing Steadily.

[Canadian Press.]
Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—There was a steady increase in the scale of wages paid to labor in this country in the past six years, and this was accomplished in the face of a steady reduction in the working hours of labor.

Statistics published today by the department of labor indicate that labor now is receiving more remuneration for fewer hours of toil than ever before. The figures are based on comparisons of union wage scale agreements, trade union reports and working contracts in central cities throughout the United States from 1907 to 1912.

The bakers appear to have carried off the cake in the distribution of good things, for their wages were increased 22 per cent in the six years, while their working day was shortened nearly one-fifth. Stonecutters and newspaper compositors are the lowest in the scale in the matter of reduced hours. The stonecutters also received the lowest rate of increase, a rate not shared, however, by the compositors.

The inquiry was an elaborate one, and the result is the most comprehensive document of its kind yet issued by the Government. It was prosecuted by segregating the trades under the general divisions of baking trades, building trades, marble and stone trades, and printing trades.
