55TH YEAR. NO. 22239 THE LONDON ADVERTISER, LONDON, ONTARIO, TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 12, 1918. 112 COLUMNS PRICE TWO CENTS.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS, LISTEN!

Photograph taken especially for The Advertiser.

LONDON'S VICTORY LOAN OBJECTIVE IS $7,900,000. Four million of this was allotted to certain large special subscribers — wealthy individuals and large institutions—and has been all and more than taken up.

Three million, nine hundred thousand was allotted for subscription by the men, women and children of London.

Up to date, London's total subscriptions are $5.725,400, leaving $2,174,600 to be subscribed before next Saturday night.

NOW, THEN, it is up to every individual man, woman and child in London to use his or her last, best effort to nail London's flag to the mast, and keep it there till the last Victory Bond of the $7,900,000 is sold.

This is the biggest thing London has ever tried to do. London never yet has failed in any big thing it set out to do. London will not fail this time. London will do all or better than she promised to do.

London's credit, her good name is at stake. The people of London will see to it that London's name will stand high in the nation's records as "the city that never failed."

FROM NOW till next Saturday night I ask that every citizen will help to make London's Victory Loan objective a reality.

I know that many of our citizens have suffered from the influenza epidemic, that many willing workers have been laid upon beds of sickness, that some have had added expenses to bear.

But it will be all the more to our credit if, in the face of these difficulties, London puts over this big, fine thing.

IF YOU have not been canvassed, call up 7000 and the canvasser will call, or, better, BE YOUR OWN CANVASSER. Make up your mind you will buy to the utmost of every dollar you can rake and scrape in the next year. The banks or your employer will help you with a monthly payment plan. Figure how much a month you will be able to pay, and the bank will help you to buy all the bonds you can pay for on the monthly payment plan. If you haven't bought, do so immediately; if you have, double up.

WE ALL OWE it to London's good name and to our own love of our home city, to our patriotism for our country, to our own material interests, and to our own common sense to buy Victory Bonds to our last dollar we can raise.

Fellow-citizens, let us all together go over the top with the Victory Loan 1918.

With the name of London emblazoned in the history of Canada as the city which carried its banner in the forefront of victory right down to the very last act of the war.

George M. Reid
Chairman Victory Loan Committee.

Bring the Boys Home With the Victory Loan

The Advertiser this evening donates its front page to the cause which now becomes the supreme interest of the country—Canada's Fifth Victory Loan. In order that the demobilization of the Canadian forces may come about as quickly as possible it will be necessary that the Loan be subscribed and over-subscribed. In what finer way could London register its joy and gratitude than to send our city's allotment away beyond its objective? The Advertiser's usual "front page" will be found on Page Three of this edition.—The Publishers.

WILD, JOYOUS SCENES MARK END OF WAR IN WESTERN ONTARIO

Cities, Towns and Villages Turn Out En Masse to Celebrate the Signing of Armistice.

Unparalleled in the history of this country were the scenes that marked the announcement of the signing of the armistice, that practically brought the war to an end, throughout this district.

Western Ontario, faithful and strong in its loyalty in war-time, was just as strong in its enthusiasm yesterday in giving vent to its joy over the fact that hostilities had ceased.

Parades, speeches, prayers of thanksgiving, and bonfires in which the effigy of the kaiser was burned, were the usual forms the celebration took.

DELIRIOUS AT HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, Nov. 11.—Hamilton was thrown into a delirium of joy at 2:45 this morning, when the official peace flash came. Every bell in the city pealed out the tidings while factory and engine whistles shattered the atmosphere. Shrieking fire engines raced through the streets and awoke that part of the populace which did not respond to the first great crash. Crowds that had waited around the bulletin boards for hours assembled at the Gore, where the Highlanders band played the doxology and the national anthem. Mayor Booker proclaimed a half-holiday and arrangements were immediately made for a monster celebration today.

BRANTFORD CUT LOOSE.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 11.—Brantford cut loose this morning with the announcement of the signing of the armistice. Within a few moments the crowd gathered, and events followed in quick sequence. Bonfires were lighted, and a special service of thanksgiving, conducted by Mayor MacBride, Capt. C. E. Jeakins and Rev. G. A. Woodside from the balcony of the Expositor office.

Following this service, which was declared to have been the most impressive ever held here, parades were formed and carried on for many hours.

CHATHAM AT IT ALL DAY.

CHATHAM, Nov. 11.—Chatham has celebrated all day today and is still at it tonight. There have been three parades of a more or less organized nature, and tonight there is a big mass meeting in the armories. The city has been one roaring, gesticulating crowd all day long. Mayor Clements proclaimed a holiday this morning and the people have given themselves over to celebration the entire day. So far no accidents have been reported.

BROKE LOOSE AT SARNIA.

SARNIA, Nov. 11.—Pandemonium broke loose in Sarnia shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, when every whistle on all the factories, both here and in Port Huron, and on all the passing steamers, started up immediately upon the news arriving that the armistice had been signed. Industry was suspended as soon as the word arrived and all factories, stores and other places of business closed up. Even the banks closed their doors at 11 o'clock this morning.

A Merry Throng.

The crowds surged through the downtown streets in a merry holidaying throng. Everything that could possibly be used for noise and jollification was pressed into service. An impromptu parade formed up shortly after dinner, and crowds let loose of their pent-up feelings and joined in the biggest celebration that has ever been held in Sarnia.

Celebrate Today.

The real parade for celebration, however, will be held tomorrow, and Mayor Crawford has proclaimed the day a public holiday, and all business houses will be closed in honor of the occasion.

All committees in charge of the various branches of the celebration held a meeting, and everything was arranged. The monster parade will form at the market square, and after parading through downtown streets will march to the old golf links, where the kaiser will be hanged in effigy. A special gallows has been constructed for the ceremony by the Imperial Oil Company. Thousands of dollars worth of fireworks have arrived in the city, and the fireworks display Tuesday night promises to surpass anything ever held in Western Ontario. A special committee has been formed to produce nothing but noise, and the chairman of the committee promises several new noises, something new and entirely different. Altogether Sarnia will celebrate two full days and probably longer. The crowds are having the time of their lives now after over four years of war, and are in a most joyful mood and enjoying the occasion to the utmost

SWEPT INGERSOLL AWAY.

INGERSOLL, Nov. 11.—Peace celebrations today typified the intense joy that swept over the town when it first became known that war had ceased. The noise of bells and whistles was continued for hours. All work was suspended for the day, and in the afternoon a thanksgiving service was held at Lang and Thames streets, followed by a monster parade, in which factory employees, patriotic workers and others participated.

This evening the Boy Scouts launched their big Victory bond drive. A big parade, in which the Garrison band of London took part. Four thousand people gathered in the Mason Arena, where J. A. Coulter presided. Among those who took part were Mayor Buchanan, Commissioner Hammond, J. G. Gibson and Bob Wilson, entertainer, of Toronto.

HOLIDAY AT HARISTON.

HARRISTON, Nov. 11.—From early morning all the steam whistles and bells in town have kept up the serenade announcing the closing of the war. All places of business are closed and not a wheel turning in the factories. All are out to celebrate, and it is being done royally. At 2 p.m. a grand procession was formed at the market square, headed by the brass band and callithumpian band, followed by the high and public school pupils, the Daughters of the Empire, Boy Scouts and all factory hands.

There were 280 autos in the procession, all beautifully decorated. At 2 p.m. the Clifford band motored down and joined in the celebration, accompanied by the loyal citizens of Clifford. Palmerston is coming up to celebrate tonight, and all will finish up at Clifford.

The town is ablaze with hunting and flags, and this day of peace will never be forgotten.

BIG ONE AT ST. MARYS.

ST. MARYS, Nov. 11.—When the armistice news came into the Stone Town at 6:30 this morning the town bell was rung without intermission all forenoon. Factory whistles blew, sirens shrieked and crowds soon mustered on the streets. The Maxwell Maple Leaf band rendered several patriotic airs, and when at the town hall addresses were given the proceedings were opened by prayer. Bonfires were set going on several streets by enthusiastic juveniles; the latter also paraded with tin pan bands. A general holiday was proclaimed by Mayor Dale, and all factories and schools closed for the occasion. At 2 p.m. a large parade of decorated autos was held, containing the mayor and town councillors, members of the patriotic societies, veterans and civilians and the collegiate institute cadets with rifles. The Maxwell Maple Leaf band headed the parade, with the St. Marys Kilty band in the middle of the immense throng of autos, also the fire brigade.

At 4 p.m. a mass meeting was held in the opera house, which was filled to the doors. On the stage was Mayor Dale, ministers of the several churches of the town and veterans of all branches of the war. The two bands of the town were present, and the proceedings opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Spencer of the Baptist Church, and the following program was carried out: Duet by Messrs. Tovell and Creighton, an address by Mayor Dale, and also the song, "Rule Britannia," with the large audience joining in.

T. L. Wood gave an address on "Women's Part in the War"; song by Mr. Watson of Montreal Bank, "Women in the War"; address on "War," by Rev. (Capt.) Masters, a veteran; selections by bands; benediction by Rev. Mr. Marshall. The boys and girls of the collegiate institute gave in a body an amusing recitation regarding the war.

HOLIDAY AT BLENHEIM.

BLENHEIM, Nov. 11.—As soon as the news was well confirmed this morning of peace having been declared the bells were set ringing on the town hall and churches, and were kept ringing for the greater part of the day. A praise service was held in front of the town hall, at which the clergymen and mayor spoke. A public holiday was declared. The rural mail carriers took a holiday. Tonight a monster procession was formed at the fair grounds, the like of which was never seen here before. Great preparation was made for it by many decorations. The town is wild with excitement tonight.

AYLMER IN UPROAR

AYLMER, Nov. 11.—When news of signing of armistice was received at 5 a.m. today bells began to ring and whistles blow until the whole town was in a uproar of excitement. Crowds in an uproar of excitement. Crowds began to congregate, and by 10 o'clock Talbot street was dense with people. A monster parade was formed, headed by Mayor Wright and Rev. Charles Miles, followed by the citizens' band, the Great War Veterans' Association, the High School Travel Club float, Red Cross float, Women's Institute float and hundreds of decorated automobiles.

The feature of the parade was a float, in which Marshal Foch sat in the front seat, and John Bull and Uncle Sam in the rear, carrying the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes. Suspended from long pole hung out from the float was Kaiser Bill with a banner upon which was inscribed these words: "Gott deserted me." The kaiser effigy was burned in the park at the close of the parade before thousands of people, while the band played. A big torchlight procession tonight closed the celebration.

BEST IN GALT'S HISTORY.

GALT, Nov. 11.—Never in Galt's history has there ever been anything to compare with today's demonstration, following the receipt of the news of the signing of an armistice. From the time the news was received at 4:40 until well after midnight the streets were crowded with a cheering, joyous crowd, and in the early hours of the morning scenes were riotous.

Business was entirely suspended, a holiday being proclaimed. Within ten minutes after the receipt of the official news, which was announced by the ringing of the city hall bells, the streets were black with men, women and children. Bands were out at 5 o'clock and parades under way. At the market square a victory meeting was held, with Mayor Dakin and Rev. G. K. Bradshaw delivering addresses.

Huge bonfires were lighted on the streets, and as the new day dawned the crowds became larger and enthusiasm increased. The climax came at 2 o'clock, with the biggest parade Galt has ever witnessed. Previous to the parade a public meeting was held on the market square, where prayers were offered. The doxology, psalms and patriotic songs were rendered, and speeches were delivered by Lieut. Carson, United States ordnance department; Mayor W. S. Dakin, Pte. D. Findlay, president of the G. W. V. A., and Dr. Wardlaw.

The parade, the finest yet attempted, was headed by Britannia, a tank made by the Goldie & McCulloch Company, which propelled itself, followed by all the war veterans of the city in uniform, and in command of Lieut.-Col. A. J. Oliver, O. C. of the 34th Battalion. Every shop in the city was represented by floats, those of the munitions shops being exceptionally attractive. The employees of the shops marched in bodies, and there were hundreds of automobiles and decorated vehicles. There were a number of bands in the parade, and effigies of the kaiser were prominent.

Parades continued throughout the entire day and into the evening. Tonight the streets were jammed, and the feature of the night celebration was a monster bonfire on the city square, at which an effigy of the kaiser was burned, and a band concert and a special service of thanksgiving was held at Knox Church. Galt will never forget November 11, and indications are tonight that the festivities have not yet ended.

The day of peace was one of sorrow for Ald. Mrs. Mrs. Andrew Oliver, who received word that their youngest son, Driver A. S. Oliver, had been killed in action on October 29.

The only serious accident of the day occurred early this morning when Harley Howes of Water street north, in the excitement pointed his father's revolver at some chums, not knowing that it was loaded. He pulled the trigger, and the bullet pierced the shoulder of his 13-year-old brother, Leslie. The lad is in the hospital, but will recover.

Word came today that Pte. William Rebbeck, another 111th Battalion soldier, had won the Military Medal.

FATALITY AT LEAMINGTON.

LEAMINGTON, Nov. 11.—Oswald Clark, fourteen-year-old son of A. J. Clark, night watchman at the Heinz factory here, was run over by a heavy iron roller which was being drawn in the parade here tonight at 8:30 o'clock and instantly killed.

OWEN SOUND HOLIDAYS.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 11.—Official word was received by telephone at 3:30 this morning that the armistice had been signed, and immediately the town bell was rung, and in a very short time the central part of the town was thronged with rejoicers. An enormous bonfire was made on the market square. It still was dark and very early in the morning, and the crowds were led in the singing of many of the national songs. A proclamation was printed before 6 a.m. to the effect that the day would be a public holiday.

Religious services were had at 8 a.m. In all the churches, and many were crowded. Through the day thousands of decorated autos and trucks proceeded through the streets led by different bands. One auto was handsomely decorated and framed as an aeroplane, while a tractor engine was made up as a tank. Morning and afternoon editions were gotten out by the Sun-Times.

This evening a monster thanksgiving meeting was held on the market square which was of a religious character, all ministers of the town taking part. Numerous national songs were heartily sung by the crowds led by the bands and four hundred of a choir. Fireworks also made a great display with numerous balloons. The celebration continued until late in the night.

NO BUSINESS AT STRATFORD.

STRATFORD, Nov. 11.—This city went wild today in celebration of the termination of the war, and throughout the day crowds paraded the streets in a delirium of excitement. The first news reaching the city, about 2:30, was communicated to the people by means of the previously appointed signal, and before long the streets were crowded with an excited populace. Bulletin advices were soon followed with special editions of the local papers, giving as far as possible the news.

The day was a general holiday. No one did any business. Special services of thanksgiving were held at the city hall, opera house and armories, where thanks was returned for the happy termination of the conflict. All meetings were crowded and addresses were delivered by local speakers.

This afternoon a monster parade was organized. It took an hour to pass a given point, and members of the city council, civic departments, patriotic organizations, etc., were represented. There were a large number of floats of timely design. Quite an appropriate effect was produced by the construction of a large rough box, labelled "Kaiser Bill." In it were deposited the kaiser's last hopes.

Throughout the remainder of the day and long into the night the celebration was carried into various parts of the city under different forms and the kaiser was hanged and burned in effigy many times.

THOUSANDS AT PRAYER MEETING.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 11.—The news of the signing of the armistice was received here at about 6 o'clock this morning, and an open prayer meeting, participated in by thousands, was held on the market square. From that time on the entire population of the city and surrounding country have celebrated in the most hilarious and enthusiastic manner. A parade nearly two miles long was participated in this afternoon, and tonight there seems to be no let-up of the celebration. Not satisfied with three bands, the Kiltie band of London was pressed into service. Tonight a monster meeting of thanks at the termination of hostilities is being held in the arena.

LARGEST CROWD AT FOREST.

FOREST, Nov. 11.—The largest crowd that has ever assembled in Forest was seen here today on the occasion of the demonstration following word of Germany's capitulation. A big procession started from the town hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon, headed by the marshal and the Excelsior Town Band. There followed in the following order, soldiers home on furlough, the town council in a body, the Red Cross workers, members of the Woman's Institute, returned veterans in autos, members of the B. O. H. Club (a patriotic organization), Britannia in a decorated car, the speakers of the day, the Salvation Army Band, decorated automobiles (some 100 in all, and all loaded down), the fire engine, and a wagon carrying three caskets bringing up the rear, in these were the former German kaiser, crown prince and von Hindenburg. These were at the extreme end of the procession, for there were no mourners.

A most impressive service was that conducted at the park. The people were fervent and earnest throughout. The opening prayer was offered by Rev. S. W. Muxworthy, ex-president of the London Methodist Conference; thanksgiving prayer by Rev. D. J. Cornish, Anglican rector and the closing prayer by Rev. Percy Buck of the Baptist Church. The chairman was Rev. John Murray of the Congregational Church, and addresses were delivered by Dr. Hubbard, chairman of the local patriotic committee; Duncan Whyte, Rev. H. D. Cameron of the Presbyterian Church; H. J. Pettypiece, of the Forest Free Press; Richard Palmer and John Farrell.

The day's celebration ended tonight with a dance in the Free Press hall, put on by the young people. There were numerous bonfires and other forms of celebration in the course of the evening.

ALDERMAN KISSED FLAG.

KITCHENER, Nov. 11.—In connection with the unprecedented celebration here this morning, Ald. A. L. Bitzer, with bared head, kissed the Union Jack on the steps of the city hall before thousands of people. The flag was presented for the aldermen to kiss by a returned soldier.

Jubiliation overflowed in the city over the news of the signing of the armistice. A monster parade was held and meetings at which speeches were made. John Schmitt, a local jeweler, also kissed the flag. Residents of the city celebrated the Allied triumph with hearty accord and frantic enthusiasm.

GREAT DAY AT TEESWATER.

TEESWATER, Nov. 11.—One of the greatest days in the town's history, on information of the surrender of Germany, started at 6 o'clock this morning by the ringing of bells and whistles which told the people that the world war had come to an end. The town council met at 8 a.m., and Reeve Ferguson proclaimed a holiday, and a program was arranged which started at the town hall at 1:30, in charge of the local clergy. Addresses were made by Rev. C. R. Durrant and W. A. Bradley. After the service an auto procession of 85 cars, profusely decorated, preceded by royal cavalry, school children with flags, paraded to the park, headed by the brass band and the bagpipes, which discoursed numerous patriotic airs.

In the evening two monster bonfires were lit, and on the top of the larger one sat the effigy of Mr. William Hohenzollern, erstwhile kaiser. Speeches were delivered by G. S. Fowler, Rev. C. R. Durrant and John Skilley. Music was furnished by the Pipers, and choruses by a number of girls. The celebration was colsed by fireworks and the singing of the National Anthem. Rev. W. R. Harding acted as chairman.

BIG NOISE AT GODERICH.

GODERICH, Nov. 11.—From 7 o'clock this morning, when news was received that Germany had surrendered, until a late hour tonight, this town has been wild with enthusiasm. On the arrival of the good word, bells and whistles were a sign for the people to gather on the square, and in a short time about 3,000 had gathered. A meeting was called by the mayor, and all stores and factories were closed by proclamation of the mayor.

About 9 o'clock a parade started at the square of decorated automobiles and every imaginary vehicle, led by the town fathers and the brass band and the pipers. At 11 o'clock a religious and thanksgiving service was held in the courthouse park, and hymns were sung by a massed choir of all the churches of the town. Prayers were given by the ministers, and addresses by Mayor Wigle and Rev. R. C. McDermid, and a general uproar was kept up all day.

In the evening an almost endless parade took place in the downtown section for some time. The crowd gathered at the park, where a large bonfire was lit, in which the ex-kaiser has hanged and burned in effigy. The attendance in the park numbered 5,000.

WILD DOINGS AT WINDSOR.

WINDSOR, Nov. 11.—Surpassing even the wild celebration of a few days ago Windsor today gave itself ever to a general jollification to mark the coming peace. Every business concern remained closed all day while the workers crowded the downtown streets with bands of music and banners.

Soon after whistles of Detroit fire tugs commenced their songs of victory the first parade started in the downtown section. Employees of the street railway company, who were in session at the temple of trades and labor council, adjourned their business meeting and sang "Rule Britannia," and then decided there would be no street car service until Tuesday.

The motormen and conductors headed by a brass band paraded the streets until daylight, while hundreds of factory whistles, church bells and all the din-making devices ever invented, called on the sleeping citizens to come and celebrate.

Before 4 a.m. business streets were thronged with noisy celebrators, rushing autos decked with flags and horse-drawn vehicles from rural districts of Essex County.

Called from his bed, Ald. Fred L. Howell, acting mayor during the illness of Mayor Tuson, summoned the mayors of the Border Cities to a meeting at 9 o'clock, when it was decided to hold an official celebration, commencing with open air thanksgiving service at 2 o'clock.

Opening with prayer by the Rev. Dean Downey, vicar of St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic Church, the service on Ouillette Square was simple and impressive. More than 10,000 persons sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," the band of the Salvation Army leading. Rev. Arthur Carlisle, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church; Rev. H. M. Paulin, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; Rev. H. W. Crews, pastor of Central Methodist, and other ministers, representing all denominations, took part.

Then followed the official parade. Tonight 1,000 decorated autos made a tour of the municipalities.

MEMORABLE AT WINGHAM.

WINGHAM, Nov. 11.—Today was a memorable day in Wingham. Word of the signing of the armistice reached Mayor Binkley over the long distance telephone at 4 o'clock this morning and his worship was the first to the town bell. All bells and whistles opened up early and great crowds of people were out into the streets long before daylight. Arrangements were early made by the town council and the local clergy. People flocked into the town from the countryside and villagers all through the district, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon two union thanksgiving services were held, one in the opera house and the other at St. Andrew's Church. Both places were crowded to the doors and many were unable to gain admittance. At the opera house the speakers were George Spotton, Rev. Mr. Armstrong, Methodist minister, and Rev. Horace Snell, rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church. A large choir contributed fitting numbers and the town band was also on hand.

Rev. Mr. Perry, pastor, and other clergy, were the speakers at St. Andrew's Church. A great procession was afterwards formed on Joseph street in front of the town hall, and headed by several bands, was started. In one of the cars was a life-size figure of the German kaiser. The firemen, in uniforms, were another feature of the procession. At night there was a torchlight procession to the park. Fireworks were displayed. The kaiser was burned in effigy amidst whoops and plaudits of the crowds.

Among the earliest to hoist their flags was "Bill" Sneath, baggageman on "the Bruce" train, who was out raising the Union Jack on his home about 4:30 a.m.

Mayor Horton and Public Men Give Stirring Addresses and Clergy Take Part.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 11.—"The rascal who attempted to dominate the whole world has been given several interesting titles, among them 'Bill the Potsdam Butcher,' but I will give him one that he can take home with him and think about. It is 'The Potsdam Devil,'" declared Ald. Patrick Meehan in the course of a stirring address delivered from the steps of the city hall this afternoon. Ald. Meehan, who is the oldest member of the St. Thomas council, and who has seen 35 years' continuous service, denounced the Hohenzollerns and their kin in no mild terms, but he said that today the "Old Potsdam Devil" was entangled in a web from which he would never extricate himself alive.

Following a monster parade, in which it is estimated over 40,000 people joined, a public service of thanksgiving was conducted in front of the city building. Prayer and Scripture lessons were read by Rev. J. W. J. Andrew of Trinity Church; Rev. G. A. King of First Methodist Church; Rev. S. L. Toll and Lewis C. Hammond of the Church of Christ. At the close addresses were delivered by Mayor Horton, Aldermen Meehan, Shaw and Handford and Rev. L. C. Hammond.

Buy to Limit.

Mr. Hammond in a rousing appeal to his fellow-citizens to buy bonds to the limit of their resources, said that what was happening in Germany today is God's judgment; on the other hand, the Almighty had conferred innumerable blessings on the people of the British Isles and her colonies.

Mayor Horton also urged residents of St. Thomas and of Canada to celebrate the most glorious and memorable event in the history of the world by adding to the list of bond subscribers. Those who had not already sacrificed should as their duty give every dollar they could spare. He himself knew what it was to offer the best he had, he declared, with a sob.

Ald. Handford recalled the time, four and a half years ago, when the war began, and pointed out the great contrast between that time and today. To those who had lost their relatives in the great struggle for freedom he extended his sympathy, but he urged the remaining ones to buy Victory bonds and help to provide for the fatherless children and the widows.

Glorious Experience.

Ald. Shaw said, in opening, that it was one of the most glorious experiences of his career to be able to stand before the citizens of such a loyal and patriotic city as their representative and on such an occasion. He also urged that every man who had a dollar to spare should come forward and increase the sale of Victory bonds.

Each of the speakers drew attention to the fact that their thanks were due to the Almighty. It was he alone who had accomplished the most wonderful victory, and had established a freedom for the world that man could never have done by himself.

The kaiser was then burned at the stake in front of the city hall, but unfortunately a portion of "his majesty" fell on the wagon, and before the flames could be extinguished the carriage on which he was riding was almost completely demolished.

Although little has been said on the subject, it might be mentioned that A. P. Conley of the Hotel Talbot, and Ald. Brinkman of the Pere Marquette, were largely responsible for the success of today's celebration. Mr. Conley had arranged his program a week ago, and was prepared as soon as the word came to start a monster parade. It took the services of Chief Armstrong, Officer Joseph McCully and Ald. Brinkman to handle the crowds at the corner of St. Catherine and Talbot streets.

CATARRH LEADS TO CONSUMPTION

Catarrh is as much a blood disease as scrofula or rheumatism. It may be relieved, but it cannot be removed by simply local treatment. It causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the voice, deranges the digestion, and breaks down the general health. It weakens the delicate lung tissues and leads to consumption.

Hood's Sarsaparilla goes to the seat of the trouble, purifies the blood, and is so successful that it is known as the best remedy for catarrh.

Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens and tones the whole system. It builds up. Ask your druggist for Hood's, and insist on having it. There is no real substitute.

HAD HACKING COUGH

Couldn't Sleep Nights

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed condition.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the most prompt, pleasant and perfect cough remedy known.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes: "Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."

There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c and 50c a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont. N. 12, 26.

Germany Requests President To Open Peace Negotiations At Once To Prevent Famine

London, Nov. 12.---(By the Associated Press)---Germany has requested the President of the United States, according to a German wireless message from Berlin, to arrange immediately for the opening of peace negotiations, there being a pressing danger of famine.

PEOPLE OF MONS WENT WILD WITH JOY AT DELIVERANCE BY GALLANT CANADIAN TROOPS

Inhabitants of Liberated Town Tendered Great Reception to General Currie and His Brave Boys.

With the British Army in Belgium, Monday, Nov. 11—(By the Associated Press).—The population of Mons today paraded the streets, cheering madly their deliverers. Their glad cries must have reached the ears of the Germans outside the walls of the town.

Early this morning a crisp, graphic order to cease fire at 11 o'clock was distributed to all units, with a further order to maintain defensive precautions, but to have no intercourse with the enemy. The advance continued, the gunners racing forward to the advance batteries, seeking the honor of firing the final shot.

Punctually at 11 o'clock, the firing stopped like clockwork. Fleets of British airplanes dropped showers of signal lights which descended with the momentous message to those below.

There was joy a plenty among the British troops at the first blush of peace, but there was little in the nature of demonstration.

Too Great To Realize.

Tommy Atkins was unable to realize that the conflict was through, although his heart was burning with the hope of going back to his wife and baby in "blighty," so he stood and waited for something to happen, he knew not what.

This could not be the end after all the shambles and terror he had been through.

One of these tattered and mudcaked veterans came to the correspondent's automobile and, as he saluted, asked falteringly: "Is it all over."

Being reassured, he sped back to his companions to communicate the good news.

This afternoon the celebrations and rejoicing were making the old town of Mons vibrate. Bands and pipers led marching thousands about the city.

The reception given the Canadian commander who entered Mons in the middle of the afternoon was similar in its heartiness to the scenes in Valenciennes and other liberated towns.

GERMANY AND HER ALLIES WILL STAND AS PRISONERS AT THE BAR AT "WORLD'S COURT OF JUSTICE"

Great Problems Remain To Be Solved—Europe Must Be Policed for Two Years—Navy Must Sweep Seas Clear of Mines.

Washington, Nov. 12.—America today turned toward the ways of peace.

With the military strength of the central powers shattered and hostilities ceased under terms of surrender that preclude a renewal of the great struggle, the appointed governments today took up the problems of reconstruction.

Immediately ahead, however, diplomatic Washington sees the peace conference—the world's court of justice—before which Germany as the chief criminal, with Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria, will stand as prisoners at the bar. When or where the final peace negotiations will be held officials would not conjecture. Thirty days is the time allowed under the armistice terms for assembling of the peace congress. The armistice, however, includes a provision for its extension. The great interests involved, the many governments and nationalities concerned and the difficulties to be met in convening such a conference in a short time may cause an extension of the thirty-day limit. It was regarded as likely that the peace conference will be similar to the meeting at Versailles, where the armistice terms were formulated. The victors meeting separately probably will decide upon terms, and then the defeated will be permitted to enter pleas of modification.

The United States, entering the war last probably will be called upon to do much of the police and guard duty in France and Belgium. Future events in Russia are uncertain and the small force there may have to be augmented.

Work for Navy.

For the navy also great tasks lie ahead. The sea must be swept clear of mines. Occupation of the German naval base of Helgoland may be necessary as a result of the resolution in the German grand fleet. The newly-constructed and rapidly increasing merchant marine must not only bring the men from France, but to carry to France and Belgium, devastated by the war, to lands of Southern Europe, long unproductive through lack of manpower, and even to the enemy nations, foodstuffs, clothing and the means of keeping alive the war-weakened populations. Food Administrator Hoover and Chairman Hurley of the shipping board soon will leave to survey the situation. The American people from their plenty will be called upon to feed Europe.

Money will be needed to bring the troops home from France and allow completion of the necessary projects under way. Another loan probably will have to be floated. The great revenue bill, placing upon the American people taxes amounting to more than six billion dollars, must be passed by congress.

Industrially the change from war to peace will create as many problems as the change from peace to war.

Bill Hohenzollern's Residence Has Not Yet Been Located

Three Different Country Seats in Holland Mentioned as His Abode.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—A great mystery still is being made of the destination in Holland of William Hohenzollern, the former German emperor. Three different country seats of the Bentinck family now are mentioned as his temporary abode.

Dispatches dated Monday in Amsterdam reported that the former German emperor is to be interned and also quoted the Handelsblad as saying he was not wanted in Holland. Another dispatch said that officials of the Dutch Government and the German minister at The Hague had gone to Eyesden to meet the German exiles.

EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA IS REPORTED TO HAVE QUIT

Dispatch From Copenhagen Quotes Vienna Advices.

RUMOR IS UNCONFIRMED

Abdication of Ruler of Conquered Country Is Again Announced.

London, Nov. 12.—Emperor Charles of Austria has abdicated, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, quoting private advices from Vienna.

The abdication of Emperor Charles has been rumored several times in the past two weeks, but none of these reports have been confirmed. On October 29 it was reported that he had fled from Vienna, but this report was denied by a Berlin newspaper, which said he was at the Austrian capital on October 30, and that he had been cordially received by the people, while going about the city. The most recent report in connection with Emperor Charles was received on November 2, when it was said that he had announced his intention to abdicate.

Emperor Charles I. of Austria, King of Hungary, was an unpromising major in an Austrian infantry regiment when the shot of the assassin which killed the Archduke Francis Ferdinand on June 28, 1914, made him the heir-apparent to the throne in the "Hawk's Castle" on the banks of the River Aar.

Charles Was a Sport.

Charles I. was born August 17, 1887, the son of the late Archduke Otto of Saxony. He married the Princess Zita, of the Bourbon House of Parma (Italian), in 1911. When the Nunc Dimittis was sung for his dead grand uncle, the Emperor Francis Joseph, the only achievements of Charles brought to public notice were that he was a keen sportsman, an excellent shot and motorist. When he acceded to the throne on December 30, 1916, Austria-Hungary, torn by months of war, saw the first faint gleam of possible peace. The course of the new ruler was regulated largely from Berlin, and for the first six months of his reign Austria-Hungary was regarded as a mere German state. Hindenburg's successes in Galicia in 1916, in which Charles shared as a commander in the field, gave the young monarch a prestige which enabled him to hold the Austrians to the central powers until the collapse of Bulgaria and Turkey and the final crash.

Precipitated Bread Riots.

Numerous peace overtures and manoeuvres characterized the diplomacy of the Dual Monarchy after Francis Joseph's death, precipitated doubtless to bread riots and other outbreaks throughout Austria. Unable to maintain his pledge to the German emperor "to continue the war to the end," Charles made use of the famous "Dear Sixtus" letter, an autographed missive written in April, 1918, to Prince Sixtus de Bourbon, for transmission to the French Government, in which the monarch said France's claim to Alsace-Lorraine was "justified."

Although the letter was denounced as a "forgery" in Vienna, subsequent events proved its authenticity. It was the first revelation of the break between the German emperor and his vassal king. Previously Emperor Charles had indicated his desire for peace, however, in speeches before the Reichsrat. In December, 1917, he declared his willingness to conclude peace with the Allies if they would guarantee the integrity of Austria-Hungary.

UNPRECEDENTED PROSPERITY TO FOLLOW WAR, DECLARE THE LEADERS OF FINANCE

Credit May Have To Be Extended in Time to a Democratic Germany in Order That Indemnities Levied by the Allies May Be Collected.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

New York, Nov. 12.—Representative bankers and industrial leaders are confident that unprecedented prosperity can be attained in the coming years, but warn that the days of readjustment to a peace basis are fraught with grave pitfalls and dangers. Their attitude on the economic aspects of the new world situation created by the signing of the armistice and the political debacle in Germany was reflected in statements made today.

Far-reaching changes in the international relations were foreshadowed. In certain influential banking quarters the view was expressed that eventually the United States will be called upon to extend credit to the nations that made up the disintegrated alliance of what was the central powers. George E. Roberts, assistant to the president of the National City Bank, crystalized this sentiment by saying: "The peace settlement should be a just one, and should provide for complete reparation. But after that I think the war in all its phases should end. The German people must have a chance and a hope for development and prosperity in the future. Unless we help them with raw materials and credit facilities they will be unable to pay the required indemnity to France and Belgium."

Must Pursue Wise Course.

Bankers who hold this view emphasized the repugnance that would be felt in extending a helping hand to our former enemies, but pointed out that it would be unwise and inhuman to build a wall around Germany and starve her people by witholding food and raw materials.

It will be stressed that many preliminary assurances of good faith must be given before American aid can be given. In touching on this point, William A. Simonson, an executive manager of the National City Bank, said: "Credit will in time have to be extended to Germany. Just how I do not yet know."

The head of another large financial institution developed this same tangent of reasoning, and argued that American bankers and investors, and not the Government, should be charged with the obligation of financing the European nations in their purchases here. Others who favored giving credit to a democratic Germany would not authorize the use of their names.

ORIGINAL "FIRSTS," MARRIED MEN AND VETERANS TO BE FIRST TO BE BROUGHT HOME

General Policy of Demobilization of Dominion's Troops Both Here and Overseas Is Said to Have Been Decided Upon---Deserters Will Be Punished as Before.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The general policy of demobilization of Canadian troops in Canada and overseas is said here to have been decided upon, but certain details are still to be worked out. Arthur Sullivan, barrister, of Winnipeg, has been appointed secretary of demobilization, having been closely identified with the plans being worked out in England for some time past. In England, an index system has been prepared. The name of every man, together with the occupation which he followed prior to enlistment, are tabulated. When hostilities cease demobilization will proceed according to the demand for any particular class of labor, with consideration, of course, to length of service, domestic conditions, etc. A similar plan will likely be worked out for Canada.

"Original Firsts" First.

Married men, "original firsts," and veterans will be given precedence on the homeward-bound boats. Precedence will also be given to farmers, railroadmen, and others, who may be speedily absorbed by the labor demand on their return. Even after hostilities have definitely ceased, an army of occupation will be necessary with various conquered countries for some time to come. For this work, it is expected many Canadians will volunteer.

Approximately 300,000 men, however, will have to be absorbed once more into civil life. The operations of the military service act, so far as the military service is concerned, are even now in suspension. No more men will be called and all appeals will be dropped. These men who are now in Canada, who were secured under the act, will be demobilized just as their veteran brothers overseas are demobilized. There is no indication that any considerable number will go to Siberia.

Deserters To Be Punished.

There are still a very considerable number of deserters at large in the country, between twenty and thirty thousand, it is estimated. Towards these there is no inclination at present to show mercy or grant amnesty. The punishment provided for deserters will, it is stated, be meted out to them when caught. Disfranchisement for a period of years and the posting of names on public buildings are suggested to those who skulked the duties of war.

It is not intended that the benefits of peace shall be at once accorded.

COST OF WAR TO CANADA TO BE AT LEAST $1,100,000,000

Heavy Expenditures Likely to Continue for Some Time Yet.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The cost of the war to Canada in money is expected to be at least $1,100,0000,000. Up to the end of last month war accounts which had actually passed through the finance department, totalled approximately $1,046,844,000. This does not include deferred pay for soldiers in France and some large outstanding accounts. Some months will probably elapse before the actual cost of the war to the dominion will be known, after the actual declaration of peace. Estimates now given are merely conjectural. Considerable expenditure arising from the war will continue after the conclusion of peace. For the present fiscal year expenditure of the pensions branch was estimated at approximately fifteen millions; that of the department of soldiers civil reestablishment under these boards will be reduced to its minimum, but will continue to be heavy for years to come.

HOLLAND IS NOT SHOWING "BILL" ANY HOSPITALITY

Government Officials Meet Him at the Border and Debate His Case.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—The Handelsblad says it learns the Dutch Government will object to the former German emperor residing in Holland.

Officials of the Dutch Government and the German minister at The Hague have gone to Eysden, on the Dutch frontier, to meet the former German emperor.

It is stated on good authority that the former German emperor will be interned in Holland.

William Hohenzollern, former German emperor, his eldest son and Field Marshal von Hindenburg, it is learned from a reliable source, are in a railway train near the station of Eysden, awaiting the decision of the Dutch Government. The blinds on the train are down.

MILITARY SERVICE ACT PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED SOON

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Plans for dealing with the complex organization built up around the M. S. A. are to be taken up within the next few days. For a week or so no additional draftees have been required to report for service, and the signing of the armistice precludes the necessity for any further calls under the act, but a complex organization for the administration of the act has been built up in every military district. In addition, there is the headquarters organization of the military service branch in Ottawa, and the large staff of the central appeal court. These come within the jurisdiction of the department of justice. There is also the staff of military service police under the department of militia, engaged in the enforcement of the act.

It is felt here that these organizations should not be permitted to collapse completely on virtual suspension of the military service act. The suggestion is made that they should be used as far as possible in connection with demobilization.

TWO YEARS POLICE DUTY YET IN THE EUROPEAN LANDS

William Howard Taft Warns People of U. S. What To Expect.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—William Howard Taft, former president, warned the people in a speech not to expect the soldiers back from France within two years, because of the policing which will fall on the shoulders of the United States.

"The men in France will not return soon," he said. "They will be kept there for some time to do police work, both in the country of our enemies and in Russia. All boats in which the men were sent across will be needed to carry food and supplies to both our allies and our foes."

Peace, Like a Mantle, Spread Over Battlefields

With the British Army in Belgium, Monday, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press).—Peace descended like a mantel over the battlefield at 11 a.m. today. The last big gun crashed its challenge and a great, overpowering quiet replaced turmoil, death and destruction.

Almost coincident with signing of the armistice by the desperate enemy, the city of Mons capitulated before relentless British pressure, Canadian troops under Gen. Horne having captured the place. On this hallowed ground the troops are now resting on their arms, happy in the thought of the achievement of their final triumphs. They had driven the enemy out by the same gateway through which Field Marshal von Buelow and Field Marshal von Kluck hurled their great armies against the valiant little force of "contemptibles" in 1914.

THE WHOLE WORLD CELEBRATES WAR'S END; NO PLACE WITH MORE ENTHUSIASM THAN LONDON

Scenes from yesterday's monster victory parade in which thousands of Londoners took part. To the left may be seen a band of Red Cross workers. In the centre the first of the military section of the parade. To the right is a portion of the crowd of many thousands gathered at Victoria Park after the parade to participate in the monster open air thanksgiving meeting.

LONDON'S DAY OF THANKSGIVING AND REJOICING GREATEST IN ITS HISTORY

LONDON CUT LOOSE IN EVERY POSSIBLE WAY CELEBRATING ALLIES' GLORIOUS VICTORY

Most Wonderful Day in City's History—Monster Parade—Thanksgiving Service — Bonfire and Street Carnival Signalize the Defeat of Kaiser and Crumbling of His Military Machine.

In celebration of one of the most momentous events in the history of the world, London turned out en masse yesterday and did full honors to the occasion. All business was suspended. For the first time in its history the employees of the London Street Railway Company enjoyed the legal holiday, as well as their brother-workers of the shops. For three hours in the afternoon the cars were safely stored in the barns, while the conductors and motormen "walked."

One of the features of the day was the parade, which occupied 1 hour and 20 minutes to pass a given point. Mayor C. R. Somerville, accompanied by Sir Adam Beck, Major Hume Cronyn and members of the council and civic bodies, participated. Music was furnished for the occasion by the following bands: G.W.V.A., W.O.R., C.G.R., 7th Regiment, Hussars, Salvation Army, Sergt. McDonald's pipers, Mrs. Henderson's pipers, Mocha Temple and the Marconi.

A large number of the Jewish residents of the city joined in the celebration, and their Jewish flag was carried. This is said to be the first time this flag has been carried in any municipal demonstration in the city of London.

Finished in Park.

A short program was given in Victoria Park, in which some of the prominent men of London took part. The various bands stationed throughout the park furnished plenty of lively music for the merrymakers. Not satisfied with the afternoon celebration an impromptu one was staged in the evening downtown, in conjunction with the bonfire in Victoria Park.

Greatest Ever Known.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the advance guard of the parade, mounted, left the entrance of Queen's Park, and proceeding westward on Dundas street, cleared the centre of the street in order that the greatest parade that London has ever known, or that she ever may know, might pass unhindered down through the lane formed by the two solid masses of humanity stretching, one on either side, from Ontario street to Richmond street, on Dundas.

And the parade itself one will not forget to his dying day. How wonderful it seemed. More than four hundred veterans with Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles in command, accompanied by Lieut. T. Murray, Lieut. W. L. Aiken and J. W. Cunliffe, who had seen more or less of service in this great war, most of them in the front-line trenches, were out. How proudly they stepped out, happy to think that they had been permitted to have a share in bringing the haughty Prussian to bite the dust of humility. Then the men in training who were willing to lay their lives on the altar of sacrifice for their country; how fit they looked as they marched down the street to the strains of the popular airs. One could see shadows of regrets in their faces that they, too, had not been permitted to visit the scene of action in France or Flanders.

The Money-Getters.

Worthy of mention also are the members of the Victory Loan organization that are performing a service, while not perhaps as dangerous, is nevertheless as necessary for their country in pushing the sale of Victory Bonds. M. Kaplansky and W. Gibson, who were responsible for the "sandwich men" of the parade, wished to impress the people that while the fighting is finished, as well as Germany, the expenses in connection with the war will continue for some time. The boards carried in the parade were covered with 100 per cent flags, which are given to factories and stores and other places of employment where 10 per cent of the annual payroll is subscribed for Victory Bonds or 75 per cent or more of the employees buy Victory Bonds.

All of the subjects of the city organization were in the procession, as well as the members of the executive committee.

Speaking of the ex-kaiser, the boys with the garbage wagons would like to have the job of carting his ashes to the incinerator, judging from the signs they displayed on their wagons. One of them announced to the public: "We are after the kaiser's ashes." In another wagon the kaiser was sitting between two men, who every few minutes would playfully run a sword through him just for the fun of the thing. One could easily imagine that his Prussian Satanical ex-majesty if he were present in person would have received just such treatment as did his effigy.

Red Cross Workers.

Occupying a large part in the parade were the 500 women workers of the various Red Cross organizations of the city. At the head of these was a float carrying boxes of fruit and wearing apparel that had been prepared for the boys overseas. The following auxiliaries were well represented in the parade: North, east, south and west ends, Catholic Patriotic, London Junction, Salvation Army, Smallman & Ingram and the various church auxiliaries and social clubs.

Accompanying these were the little girls from the public schools who have been cooking and preserving for the soldiers every Friday in the domestic science departments of the schools.

Members of the sterilizing department and surgical workers occupied seats on the float.

Board of Trade Float.

Among the floats that of the board of trade made a favorable impression on the public. Inscribed on the banners around the float were messages to London. "Our heroes are coming home. Let us make London worthy of them," was one of the outstanding suggestions. Situated on the truck was a range, and a cook was preparing dinner. The kettle was boiling and the oven was filled with bread, like mother used to bake, only better.

The arch over the top was built on two pillars, which represented Labor, Industry and Agriculture, as the three fundamentals of the prosperity of the country. The keystone of the arch represented the London Board of Trade and on either side of the keystone, education, financial institutions, retail business, wholesale distributors, the trades and labor organizations, and the churches were represented. Rows of colored electric lights lighted from storage batteries were strung under the arch.

At one end of the truck an acetylene welding plant was being operated by a mechanic from George White & Sons' factory. E. B. Hamilton was the designer of the float, and he, in company with John Bridge, was responsible for all the arrangements in connection with the parade.

I. O. D. E. Float.

The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire also had a striking float, with Miss Britannia attended by a soldier, Lieut. A. E. Little, M.M., and Herbert Beswick, a wireless operator, as a sailor. The decorating was done by Mrs. F. J. Greenaway. Representatives of the following chapters were on the float: Sir John Carling, Hamilton Gault, Harriett A. Boomer, Sir George Ross, Lieut.-Col. Campbell Becher and the Overseas.

"Wild" Rotarians.

W. A. Martin was there as large as life with his Rotarians, and as some person remarked, he certainly has them well trained. At every street intersection along the line of march he would lead them in a weird sort of war dance to the accompaniment of a dainty little ballad, describing them as wild little prairie flowers. Judging by their antics they were untamed, but when it comes to comparison to a flower. One remarked that they might possibly be associated with the blossom on a large Canadian thistle. Among the Rotarians were some of the prominent clergymen and physicians of the city.

Employees of the G. T. R. carshops, accompanied by their band, which enlivened the day with patriotic popular songs, were out in force. Everyone was full of joy. One near the front line was what may be described as overjoyed. In fact, he could hardly contain himself, so exuberant was he.

Victory Bonds Featured.

Victory Bonds were featured in the decoration of the Heintzman Company float. A large banner bore the words "The purchase of Victory Bonds spells V I C T O R Y." Many comments were heard as it passed down through the lane of people and no doubt some had the thought driven home that they had not as yet done all they could to insure this victory.

Kaiser Bill on his knees before Miss Britannia on a float of the Smallman & Ingram Company drew prolonged cheers from the crowds that thronged the street.

Among the lodges the Mocha Patrol with its fancy drills, and its band, the I. O. O. F. cantons, and Orangemen were well represented in the procession.

Italian and Greek residents of the city turned out in force with the Marconi band. A large banner was carried by them depicting Italy, the boot, landing with much force on that part of the has-been-but-won't-be-any-more-kaiser's anatomy that bears his weight when he sits down.

The London Spramotor Company in one of its floats exhibited several shells which were labelled "To Kaiser Bill, with compliments." One automobile had on the front a spherical map of the world bearing this inscription, "The world Kaiser Bill wanted, and he got it—in the neck."

Two significant signs were carried by the floats of the City Hydro Department and the London Street Railway Company. That on the truck of the hydro department, which was filled with Canadian boys and girls, announced the fact that Canadian products would feed the world.

Cream of World.

On the other one, which was the work car of the street railway, all bedecked for the occasion, and which was likewise filled with kiddies, were these words, "Canadians: Be Cream of the World. Canada for Canadians, Her Products for the World." These sentiments were jointly assented to by the street railway company and the hydro-electric department, as the names were joined on the banners.

One of McClary's floats bore the following toast, "Here's to the Day—Our Day." Small souvenirs were distributed from these floats, and every little kiddie who was within reach carried home a shovel, with which he intended digging the grave of the kaiser.

George White & Sons had a tank in the parade which was manned by returned soldiers. It was a formidable-looking affair and showed a remarkable family resemblance to its cousins across the pond.

The McCormick Manufacturing Company had a band especially for the occasion chosen from among its many doughty employees. The truck on which the musicians rode was gaily decked with bunting. True to its nature, The Advertiser truck carried much food for edible stuff, with the women's section featured rather more prominently than usual, however.

Buy a Bond.

Trotting along quite unconscious of the fact that it was taking a part in the greatest even of the world, a little pony displayed Victory Bond advertisements upon its body. In fact that was about all that could be seen with the exception of the four feet moving in unison.

Labor took a large part in the demonstration. All the labor organizations of the city were well represented. The trades and laber council was put in full force. The trades and labor officials are grateful to Mrs. H. A. Kingsmill for the loan of a large American flag which was carried by them, and to C. C. Ferguson, who provided the Union Jack for the occasion.

Employees of the H. S. Hall glove factory provided one of the comic features of the afternoon by appearing on the scene dressed as clowns. Ald. P. J. Watt, who had charge of them at Waterloo street until they joined the parade, reports that when he saw what he had to contend with he felt like running away. Overcoming this fear he became well acquainted, and for him at any rate the procession came along too soon.

The aldermen were stationed at the different street intersections to see that the various organizations fell into line in their proper order. Ald. O. G. Keene was at Ontario street, Ald. G. B. Drake at Rectory street, Ald. H. B. Ashplant at English street, Ald. C. G. Moorhead at Glebe street, Ald. S. R. Manness at Elizabeth street, Ald. F. E. Harley at Adelaide street, Ald. F. R. Watkinson and Ald. W. Wilson at Maitland street, Ald. H. Winnett at Colborne street, and Ald. P. J. Watt at Waterloo street.

TEN THOUSAND VOICES JOIN IN HYMNS OF VICTORY AND PEACE AT VICTORIA PARK

As the sun dropped like a great ball of molten gold over the western horizon last night at the close or the world's first glad day of peace, three or four times ten thousand voice were upraised in Victoria Park in the majesty of the hymn:

"Under the shadow of Thy throne,
Thy saints have dwelt secure,
Sufficient is Thine arm alone,
And our defence is sure.

Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting Thou are God,
To endless years the same."

When the last echo died away of the great "Amen" of three or four times ten thousand voices and dozens of band instruments, "The King" called the musical conductor, A. D. Jordan, and in a moment more the National Anthem rang out with a robustness, fervency and triumph such as has never been equalled before in London.

Men bent their bared heads as for once they sang in the spirit of prayer, "God Save Our Gracious King."

Then it was "God Save Our Splendid Men." For the first time in the long weary years since this verse has become inseparable from the National Anthem, thousands were able to sing it without a catch in the throat.

It was towards nightfall of November 11, 1918, and it was the greatest day in all the ages of the earth to be alive and a part of the living throng which joined in the culmination of the civic peace demonstration and thanksgiving service in Victoria Park. It was the greatest and most colorful gathering ever held in London, made up of the 50,000 citizens, old and young, who participated in the parade, and the spectators of the mammoth peace parade.

Choir Appeared.

By 2:30 o'clock the crowds began to assemble in the vicinity of the grandstand in Victoria Park. Shortly after the Musical Art Society choir appeared, then the Hussars Band. In the half-hour which intervened before the outriders announced the arrival of the parade, headed by Brig.-Gen. Shannon, C.M.G., D.O.C., and headquarters staff, song after song was sung which has become a household menu.

As section after section of the procession took its assigned place, more volume was added to the chorus, which sang with vim, "Take Me Back to Dear Old Blighty," "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Smile, Smile, Smile." By special request there was "Tipperary," the song to which London's pioneer fighters of 1914 set out to meet a relentless foe.

It was the veterans of 1914-15 who joined most lustily in "Tipperary," the little handful of veterans of '66 catching up with evident enjoyment the familliar refrain.

World Read Story.

Four years ago the world was reading the story as told by a widely-known American writer of the march across Belgium of a million grey-clad, super-equipped and trained representatives of the world's most perfect military machine. Yesterday, banners flying, bands playing, horns blowing, chimes ringing, a great procession swept into Victoria Park to celebrate the overthrow of that great military system of which the million grey-clads which avalanched Belgium four years ago in August were but an advance guard. In the long parade were represented the many forces which have combined to send kaiserism to defeat, men in khaki, broken and spent in doing their bit, London's own "Great War Veterans," men in the army in training, the noble army of Red Cross and Canadian War Contingent workers who have refused to cease work while a sock or a bandage is needed, industrial workers, supporters of patriotic objects, Victory Loan campaigners, the fathers and mothers who have given their sons to the defence of King and country; the nurses, and last, but a very important factor, the school children of London who have knit thousands upon thousands of warm garments, who have preserved and canned and done their utmost to back up the men who have been fighting to make the world safe for little brothers and sisters, sons and daughters.

Throng Hushed.

A hush fell over the vast throng as, clearly and distinctly, the voice of Rev. Canon Tucker, rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, carried far over the sea of people in the words of the thanksgiving prayer as follows:

"Mighty and Eternal God, who is like unto Thee? Glorious in holiness, fearful in praises, doing wonders. All Thy works are truth and Thy ways judgment and those that walk in pride Thou art able to abase. We give Thee humble and hearty thanks for the immeasured and unnumbered blessings Thou hast so bountifully bestowed upon us throughout the course of the war. We are unworthy of the least of all Thy mercies for we have too often forgotten Thee. Hear Thou from Heaven, Thy dwelling place, and when Thou hearest forgive. We bless and praise Thy holy name that our people so willingly offered themselves to come to the help of the Lord against the mighty and that we and our allies have been so closely united together throughout these terrible years. Every good and perfect gift cometh from Thee. We praise Thee for the wisdom of our rulers, the skill of our captains, the heroism of our soldiers, sailors and airmen, and the unshaken fortitude of our people even in the darkest hours. We praise Thee for the glorious victories Thou hast vouchsafed to our arms and for the mighty deliverance Thou has wrought for the oppressed and downtrodden people of the earth. We praise Thee for the rebuke Thou hast given to the lawlessness and outrage. We praise Thee for the wonderful opportunity Thou dost place before us of advancing Thy Kingdom upon earth, in which we implore Thy guidance and help. And we beseech Thee to give us such a sense of Thy mercies that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful and that we may show forth Thy praise not only with our lips, but with our lives. We pray Thee, of Thine infinite goodness, to strengthen the weak, to comfort the mourners, to release the prisoners, to heal the wounded and the sick, to fold the dying in Thy Fatherly arms and to bring back our loved ones safely to their homes. And we further beseech Thee to make us worthy of these, Thy mercies, that we may enjoy at Thy hands a righteous and abiding peace and that justice and freedom and brotherhood may henceforth prevail among men. Accept, we humbly beseech Thee, these our prayers and praises, which we offer in the name and for the sake of Him who gave His life for the world, and who taught us when we pray to say:

Our Father which art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil; for Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever. Amen."

Not Ordinary One.

"This is not an ordinary peace demonstration. It is one of the greatest moments of human history. We are standing today at one of the great divides of life, on one side of which great movements will go out to the ends of the earth, and, we believe, to the blessings of humanity." It was in these words that Rev. Dr. Peever, of the First Methodist Church, representing the London Ministerial Alliance, introduced his address. "We are not any longer citizens of just London, Canada,

MONSTER FIRE AT VICTORIA PARK MARKED KAISER'S END

The home fires were kept burning and there surely was a hot time in the old town last night. Although the bonfire on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets at an early hour yesterday morning was a big one, the fire in Victoria Park last night was several times as big. Thomas W. McFarland suggested it, and also made sure that fuel was brought in sufficient quantities to make the fire the biggest of its kind ever built in London.

All day long boxes, barrels, posts, scantling and other inflammable articles were piled around a green sapling which was erected in an open space from which the sod had been dug. After nightfall the pile was saturated with kerosene, and an effigy of the "Beast of Berlin" placed upon it.

Kaiser's Funeral.

About 8 o'clock the kaiser's funeral pile was ignited. In a few moments the flames were leaping high above the tree-tops, and the crowd which had gathered around was driven back by the terrific heat. Although the noise from the fire was not very loud, A. D. Jordan was on hand with his miniature brass cannon and fired shot after shot (blank) into the flaming ruins, which the kiddies made believe was the royal criminal's palace at Potsdam.

At times the flames were so bright that the moon appeared to be of a pale blue color, and even most of the stars were invisible. "There's another fire in that house on Wellington street," shouted one individual, and not until several friends had proven that it was not a real fire, but a reflection of the one in the park, would the young man believe otherwise.

Was Brilliant Night.

One could easily imagine himself at the burning of a city which had been evacuated by the German vandals. To those who were fortunate enough to have a strong imagination, the martial music in the distance might have been that made by bugle bands of the advancing British, coming to take possession of what remained of the burning town.

The flares and rockets which were set off by the revellers might have been those of the enemy sent up to illuminate the surrounding territory and to seek out and expose the advancing troops so as to allow the artillery to get in its deadly work.

When everything seemed to be "quieting down," the Marconi Club Band took up a position in the bandstand and began to play patriotic airs. The crowd "warmed up" by the fire, sang as they never sang before. However, when the music and cheering had ceased and the fire had begun to die out the crowd dispersed. Although in the years to come, great celebrations may be held, those who took part in the one in Victoria Park last night will never forget it.

He Was Envied.

Singing "Polly, Wolly, Doodle," and such like melodies, the crowds traced and retraced their steps up and down Dundas and Richmond streets and the byways to the park. If there were any policemen they must have all been jostled up in the crowd, for not one was visible. "Yep, Bill, yer a man after me own heart," said one man to another, who had been celebrating with a little of the old Scotch. Lots of the crowd envied this man. One woman standing in what she thought was a secluded spot from the crowd, was holding a bouquet of sunset roses with the Stars and Stripes and Union Jack entwined, when to her utmost indignation, passers in the crowd espied her and soon robbed her of her patriotic bouquet.

Fun and frolic were written in large letters over the faces of this gay populace of London, and never before, and perhaps never again will London see such a celebration.

London Knows How.

"London gets more like New York every day," said one chap, "and if they only had the signs all lit up you would not know the difference tonight. London sure does know how to celebrate."

Very few accidents occurred, and what did occur did not amount to anything. At the corner of Adelaide and Dundas streets one of the horses of the garbage wagon was not satisfied with just being in the procession and walking quietly along, but commenced to do the Highland fling, or the Hun war dance; almost dragging his fellow-chum, who was quite contented to have a walking place in the parade, to the floor. With a little assistance the horse regained its feet and went on.

MERRY AND RIOTOUS SCENES MARKED STREETS LAST NIGHT

Yesterday was the supreme day in the history of generations. Men and women, babies and grandfathers were borne up on a wave of enthusiasm, the like of which has never before touched their lives. Wakened in the dead of the night by news which was more vital than any other, roused out of themselves by the realization of a hope long deferred, they let out their first outbursts of rejoicing over a huge bonfire in the darkness of the early morning hours, hardly yet awake to the great reality. But with the daylight came the wild fun of confetti, firecrackers and shouting, followed by the more orderly parade and civic demonstration in Victoria Park. But all of these were but the murmurings of the great soul of London, soon to be let loose in a wild night of rejoicing.

Not one at which Mephisto was the presiding genius, not sinful orgies, but just a night of happy play, the result of the overflowing spirit of the people held in check for over four long years.

Kindled at the gigantic bonfire in Victoria Park enthusiasm grew as the throng moved toward the business centre of the city, reaching its height in street revelling, largely carried on before the home of The London Advertiser.

Advertiser Pleased.

Here Haviland Nash, Advertiser cartoonist, kept the interest up by his humorous slides of Kaiser Bill and his ilk, at the same time flashing bulletins as news came over the wires. He was ably assisted by W. G. Moore and Rotarians Martin and Nicholl on the street, as well as Harry McLean, who screened the film, kindly loaned by the Majestic Theatre.

A big event of the evening's performance was the film featuring Douglas Fairbanks and advertising the Victory Loan. The Home of National Liberty was pictured afire by the hand of Prussianism, the Allied nations coming to the rescue with fire brigade and hose, finally rescuing Civilization from destruction and bringing Prussianism to its knees. This picture was greeted with cheers by the people, who were by that time keyed to the topmost pitch of their enthusiasm, phophesying a big sale of Victory Bonds today.

Merry Capers in Streets.

A street dance, led by W. G. Moore and Rotarians Martin and Nicholl smacked of carnivals and mardi gras, while others followed in line with serpentine walks, civilians, soldiers and masqueraders all mixed, making the scene noisy and gay. A red spotted clown for a moment forgot his pride over victory and doubled up in the centre of the car tracks to afford still merrier gentlemen an opportunity to play leap frog over his back. Darby and Joan were there, too, in the proverbial old gig with Dobbin to the fore and how stately was their passage through the throng of autos.

The procession, begun in the afternoon, must needs repeat itself at night to boot. Floats as well as decorated cars had batteries cunningly concealed, so that the whole of Dundas street from Richmond far into the east resembled a veritable Broadway with its brilliant lights. The Italian band, enhanced by Japanese lanterns, played its way long in a manner to do credit to any Italian street concert.

Convention Slipped Away.

"Bing, bang, smash! Don't worry about tomorrow. This is tonight," was the slogan of all. Haviland Nash threw it on the screen, thereby giving it voice, and the people were not slow to follow.

The hobo band also caused much excitement wherever it chanced to be, the bandsmen disguised in costume, feeling free to do as they pleased, and after all who didn't. London belonged to the people last night, if it never did before. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning the began to kiss convention good-that by the evening it had been forgotten. Haughty old gentlemen unbent to caper with the rest and even prim maidens so far forgot themselves as to scream frantically and wave their arms wildly in the air. It was a peace celebration.

The very wee small hours of the morning were ushered in before a great number of the revellers became tired, although by midnight the big throngs of people had left the streets. How late some may have kept up the rejoicing in their homes or elsewhere, only the nighthawk could tell. But a whisper says that many refused to lose this great opportunity of making a whole night of it. At any rate the man who did not say good-night, surely was able to say good-morning.

Coughs

Coughs are Nature's danger signal—Nature's way of telling you that in throat or breathing tubes there is something wrong—something needing attention. Perhaps the delicate membranes have been chilled and are inflamed and sore. Disease germs may have lodged there and may be setting up irritation, which if not checked will bring on acute bronchitis, asthma, or even worse evils! So never ignore a cough.

Peps kill coughs because they remove the causes. As soon as a Pep is dissolved in the mouth, powerful, but pleasant, medicinal vapors are liberated. These healing fumes bathe the lining membranes of the throat and breathing tubes, kill disease germs, allay irritation and soothe the inflamed parts.

Peps enable you to end coughs and colds in Nature's way, by breathing in the medicine the same way as the disease germs causing the trouble were breathed in! Isn't this wiser treatment than the swallowing of mixtures into your stomach—which is not ailing?

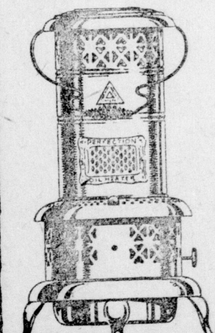

For coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, sore throat, night cough and all troubles of throat and chest, try Peps. Best for children because pleasant to take and free from opiates, etc. All dealers, 50c. a box.

MOVING OF BARNETT LIBRARY TO LONDON NEARLY COMPLETED

Soon 40,000 Volumes Will Be Housed in School.

BUILDING IS TEMPORARY

University Will Hasten Extension Scheme and Include Library of Its Own.

The big task of moving the Barnett library from Stratford to London has been going on quietly but steadily during the last six weeks under Mr. Barnett's personal direction, and will soon be completed. The task of moving a library of over 40,000 volumes is more than the ordinary person would imagine. Each book has had to be handled separately twice, and sometimes three times, care had to be taken in packing and unpacking to see that the classes were not mixed, and at this end there has been much care necessary to get the books on the shelves in position where they will not need to be shifted unnecessarily to make room for others.

Temporary Housing.

While the Cheapside school building is a rather unpretentious structure to house the very valuable collection, it is recognized that this is more or less temporary, and that the acquisition of the Barnett library by Western University will hasten not only the erection of a suitable library building, but of the whole university building scheme as well. Western University is taking a leading place today among the smaller Canadian universities in its library facilities, and it is the intention of the board of governors and those associated with it in this department to continue steadily the unbuilding process. The library is really the heart of real university work, and the effect of the Barnett library in drawing students and investigators to this city will grow more important as its stores become better known.

Opportunities Coming.

The close of the war will bring about a unique opportunity for making large additions to the university library at a cost far below ordinary purchases. In England at the present time there are numerous private libraries, gathered together by specialists, university professors etc., who have been killed or died during the war. These will now be coming into the market, and will be obtainable in some cases at a fraction of their value. If any Londoner wanted to make a valuable addition not only to the library facilities of the university, but through the university to citizens generally, the next two or three years will afford plenty of opportunity in this respect.

Enlightening Incident.

An incident having some connection with this situation was reported recently. The large library of the late Professor Gwatkin of Cambridge, containing a most extensive and valuable collection on church history, was ordered to be sold. An English lady made a public appeal that someone should buy it outright and add it to the new library which is being gathered to replace that destroyed by the Germans at Louvain. So less than four offers reached her at once to provide the money necessary, but to her dismay she found that the time limit had expired and that the library had been sold entire to the University of Michigan. Nothing daunted, she cabled the situation to the American university and promptly received a reply that Louvain must have first place; that the Americans would surrender their purchase much as they desired it. The incident was commented upon widely in the English press as evidence of the real friendship of America. It may be of interest in this connection to state that from this city there have gone several gifts of books for the rebuilding of the Louvain library in Belgium.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC NOT YET OVER BUT IS ABATING RAPIDLY

Still Some Difficulty in Providing Nurses.

In the midst of the peace excitement of the past few days, sight has been lost to a great extent of the influenza epidemic which held the foreground of attention for almost a month. The sick people and those attending them have still reason to know that it is here, and the fact is especially obvious to those who have taken ill in the last few days. There are such cases, one or two at a time calling for the attention of doctors and nurses. The doctors can be found. The nurses are exceedingly difficult to discover.

Helping the Needy.

This week, Miss Friend, public health nurse, has the assistance of two valuable practical nurses, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Cannom, each of whom visits a certain number of homes where patients require attention once a day, after which they can get along with attention from a member of their own family or neighbors who are able to look after them. Several calls, it is stated, have come to members of No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Association for nursing help which it has been impossible to meet.

Conditions Better.

At Victoria Hospital, one new influenza patient was taken in on Monday and seven discharged. There have been no deaths for several days, and the encouraging word is passed along that all remaining are doing well. The number of cases has dropped to 75 in that institution. Of the 75 or so nurses of the hospital who have been ill with influenza, all are now back on duty excepting eleven, and these are convalescing and expected to return before long.

Thirty-Five Remain.

St. Joseph's Hospital admitted one patient on Monday and three on Sunday. Three were discharged yesterday, leaving 35 in the house.

At the No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Association headquarters, at 401 Talbot street, only one of the child patients remains. This is a small boy who has been seriously ill for a couple of weeks. His condition is reported improved today.

G. T. R. PLACED FLARES.—G. T. R. flares placed at intervals about the park early in the evening, were soon seized upon by those inevitable small boys who must handle everything which takes their fancy. And excellent torches they made too, moving about the park and lending brilliancy to the scene.

AGED 93 YEARS, HE CELEBRATES ENDING OF WAR JOINING PARADE

Henry Gardener Says Demonstration Beat Any Held Here.

WANTED MORE NOISE

Had Two Grandsons on Service and Read All War News.

Henry Gardener of 83 Briscoe street, known to all the kiddies in the vicinity as "Grandpa," was perhaps London's oldest man to participate in the peace celebrations of yesterday. In perfect health at the age of 93, except being a little deaf, Mr. Gardner, in the car of his grandson, took in all the sights to be seen and had a place in the parade.

Asked by an Advertiser reporter what he thought of the celebration, he replied: "Well, I have seen a lot of celebrations in my time, but none to compare with that of yesterday.

Different From Others.

"It was different to everything else, and I well remember the goings on after the Crimean and Boer wars, but this beat them all. The only thing I didn't like was that they did not make enough noise; there should have been more cheering. I would not have missed it for the world," said Mr. Gardner.

He did not see the bonfire at night, being too tired after being in the parade all the afternoon, but he saw the bonfire in the afternoon, and thought it was a great idea, "revel old-fashioned way of celebrating," he said.

Grandsons Serving.

Mr. Gardner has two grandsons serving their country. One has recently been invalided home and another left with the Siberian expedition. He takes the keenest interest in all the war news, and reads The Advertiser from the front to the back page. He has lived under the reign of five different sovereigns, and it is a common thing in his home to have him tell the neighboring kiddies stories of the days of long ago.

RECITAL TONIGHT.—The first musical event of peace time in London takes place this evening, the piano recital to be given in Cronyn Hall by Thomas G. Mitchelmee, pianist composer, assisted by Lula Layman, contralto; Florence Eggleston, violinist, and A. D. Jordan, accompanist. While a large advance sale of tickets last week indicated keen interest on the part o fthe music-loving public, the fact that war has closed will odubtless make tonight's recital the most festive event of the kind in years here. A program o fexceptional musical interest and charm has been arranged by Mr. Mitchelmee and his assisting artists.

ECHOES FROM THE GREAT DAY

A little girl was knocked down by a boy on a wheel at the corner of Dundas and Maitland streets when the parade was in progress yesterday. No damage was done, other than a bad scare for both parties.

From above the people looked like an ocean wave, when the mounted military police went along ahead of the parade soon as the police went by the people closed in again.

The civic authorities removed their hats when the band played "O Canada," and also to the returned heroes, as they passed by.

The hydro power station was not without a celebration, even though the men had to work. One of the employees in the afternoon was dancing to the tune of a triangle.

One man in the parade celebrated with the old-time Scotch, and up to the last time seen had missed the eagle eye of the police.

PATRIARCHS SALUTED.

It was with true military precision that the members of Canton London, No. 1, Patriarchs Militant, I. O. O. F., saluted Brigadier-Gen. L. W. Shannon with their swords as the headquarters staff passed the Canton, drawn up in line at William street, waiting to take their place in the parade yesterday. Gen. Shannon took cognizance and returned the salute.

New York, Nov. 12.—Cotton dropped $10 a bale in the market here today. Traders seemed unable to interpret the peace situation in its relation to the staple. The recession of 200 points for the January option was the maximum movement permitted by a rule adopted on October 5 by the board of managers of the Cotton Exchange, designed to prevent excessive fluctuations during

LAWYERS' REPARTEE FEATURE OF POLICE COURT CASES TODAY

Liquor Charge Dismissed by Magistrate.

The war may be over in Europe, but the lawyers still scrap in police court. This morning, W. R. Meredith exchanged more or less uncomplimentary words with R. G. Fisher and Crown Attorney McKillop in the course of two liquor cases before Magistrate Marshal Graydon.

Frank Harris, known as "the chief," appeared in police court yesterday on a charge of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, and asked to have it postponed till today. Mr. Fisher appeared with whiskey bottles for evidence, but Mr. Meredith stated that he had been celebrating like everyone else yesterday and had not prepared his case, and asked to have it adjourned till tomorrow. Mr. Fisher objected.

"I expect to be in the court of appeals tomorrow, your worship," he declared.

"That is an event that ought to be celebrated," observed Mr. Meredith. Mr. Fisher ignored this, but reiterated his statement that he could not be present.

Little Pleasantries.

"I expect to be here in your court, your worship, tomorrow morning," went on Mr. Meredith. "Mr. Fisher could probably make arrangements for someone else to take the case."

"I am sorry, but it is impossible. My junior—," said Mr. Fisher.

"Now don't go on with all these airs, Mr. Fisher," interrupted Mr. Meredith. The prosecution was about to make a reply that would make last night's bonfire in the park look dim, when the magistrate interrupted and called all bets off. It was finally decided, after some more wrangling, to go on with the case this afternoon.

"I have an engagement for this afternoon," stated Mr. Fisher. Mr. Meredith declared that his learned friend seemed to have quite a few appointments.

"Never mind my appointments," shot back the prosecutor. "You seem to very nervous this morning, Mr. Meredith, and you have far too many airs."

Both In Same Boat.

"I think that you both are very disagreeable. You'll have to stop this," cut in the magistrate, who finally poured oil on the troubled waters.

"Will you grant me five minutes' stay while I get a witness in this case," asked Mr. Meredith, who appeared for W. J. Milton and A. H. Burrows, charged under the O. T. A. with having liquor in other than a private dwelling.

"I won't grant you a minute," said Mr. Garydon sharply. "This is the fourth time this case has been before me, and it has got to be tried now."

"I have had so many calls this morning for being airy," continued Mr. Meredith.

"Well, take care you don't get another," replied the court.

Case Disappears.

Mr. Milton told of receiving the two "mysterious packing cases" at the Central Garage, owned by Mr. Burrows. He also told of one of the men receiving a telephone call, informing him that Inspector J. E. Keenleyside was about to investigate the contents. He went over to see Mr. Burrows about it at his house, and when they got back the cases had disappeared.

Mr. Burrows swore in the witness box that he knew nothing of the boxes, hadn't ordered anything from Montreal, and, in fact, innocent of the whole matter.

In the course of the trial Mr. Meredith and Mr. McKillop had a number of little wordy battles, in which three-months-old students were mentioned by Mr. McKillop. The crown attorney called Milton back into the witness box.

He Got In.

"Don't go into the box," commanded Mr. Meredith.

"Mr. Milton, get into the box," snapped Mr. McKillop, and Milton got in.

The court dismissed the case, upon which Mr. Meredith observed that "My learned friend has just been having a little inquiry."

The second charge against Burrows was also dismissed, the latter swearing that he knew nothing about a packing-case full of liquor seized by Inspector Keenleyside in the Canadian Express office two weeks ago. "I never ordered it, and I don't know anything about it," declared Mr. Burrows.

Robert E. Johnston, a former Londoner, died in Chicago on Saturday last. COTTON DROPS $10 A BALE.

New York, Nov. 12.—While the reopening of the cotton market after yesterday's celebration was without any great activity or excitement, conflicting views of peace as a price influence were reflected in violent fluctuations. The opening was firm at an advance of 21 to 60 points on covering, but met a good deal of Wall Street and Southern selling, under which January soon receded from 29.25c to 27.75c, or 150 points from the early high level, and 100 points, or $5 a bale, from the closing price of Saturday. Trading became comparatively quiet at these prices.

BULLETS FROM VICTORY LOAN MACHINE GUN

Do your Christmas shopping early. Buy Victory Bonds. J. G. Tennant sold three bonds Saturday for Christmas present. Great idea.

J. A. Croden met a small boy who signed his own check for $500 and bought a bond. There's a youngster, who knows something that is better than candy.

A man always feels better after a good meal. One salesman turned down before the noon repast, returned after dinner and sold a $200 bond Saturday.

Arthur White, chairman of the industrial group, sends the following message to employers and employees:

"Just one big effort please, as a thank offering. Buy bonds, more bonds, to enable the Government to carry on and to hurry the boys home."

The Rotary Club yesterday was presented with a 100 per cent banner by Mrs. Norman Tovell of Toronto, wife of the city organizer for London. Every Rotarian has bought a bond, and the armistice and this event were celebrated at a dinner in the Tecumseh House. Bill Martin led the boys in the little ditty that became as popular on the streets last night as "K-K-Katy." Here are the words:

"I'm a little prairie flower,
Growing wilder every hour;
Nobody cares to cultivate me,
I'm as wild as wild can be."

J. J. Dyer and E. V. Hessian are leading the industrial teams at the present time, and are setting a terrific pace.

Standing in the Victory Loan League:

Gum Sox	$655,000
Macs	401,450

The Gum Sox declare that they are going to double up on the Macs. But can they?

Saturday night's bond totalling experts were Ald. F. E. Harley, W. O. White, E. H. Lawrence, J. Chiera, W. J. G. Stewart, A. Carswell and R. E. Davis.

W. H. Gibbons, W. J. Norfolk, H. H. Kirby and R. T. Harding were added to the staff of the industrials today.

P. D. Ball led the sales teams Saturday with a total of $18,650. No chance to bawl that chap out.

Salesmen will have their work cut out to make all their calls this week. Don't hesitate; BUY THAT bond when they call. Put another nail in the kaiser's coffin.

The men of the Grand Trunk car works are, indeed, 100 per cent Canadian. The car workers of the Ontario line have subscribed $97,700 to the Victory Loan, while the local plant alone has bought $40,000 worth of bonds. These men also showed their patriotism yesterday when they turned out 500 strong to join in the big parade. Keep up the good work, carmen!

BUY A BOND.
[Adapted by Returned Corporal, No. 1 District Depot, Armories.]

If you want to lick the Hun
Buy a Bond.
If you want to make him run
Buy a bond.
If you want to make him holler
Make him hot beneath the collar,
Make him feel a whole lot smaller
Buy a Bond.

If you want to help the boys
O'er the pond
With their sorrows and their joys
Buy a Bond.
They have fought four years for you,
And real Hell they have been through.
Don't you think it's up to you?
To Buy a Bond.

Stick your mitts down in your jeans.
Buy a Bond.
Pry yourself loose from those beans.
Buy a Bond.
Come across with that spare cash,
Help to cook the kaiser's hash,
Trim the ends off his moustache.
Buy a Bond.

Do you hate these dirty swine?
Buy a Bond.
Will we ever cross the Rhine?
Buy a Bond.
You will hear the kaiser moan,
And old Hindenburg will groan
In a most pathetic tone.

VICTORY!

[By May Kilbourne.]

Victory has come at last;
Let us all our voices raise,
Bells ring out the gladsome tidings
Sounding high to God our praise.

Yes, the awful Hun is beaten,
There's no room for doubt or fear;
Comrades, lift your voices higher
In a shout the world may hear.

Four long years we held the Germans,
Stayed the kaiser's bloody hand,
While shot and shell fell thick and fast
On our devoted band.

But now they have retreated.
Beaten, broken, headlong, blind,
And the bells of joy ring blithely
For the armistice is signed.

Mothers, yours the bitter weeping,
When the day of war was young,
Feelings of despair and sadness,
Never told by mortal tongue.

Now to lift the torch of gladness,
And to sing the triumph song,
Is your right and is your privilege,
Ye who sad have suffered long.

Sweethearts, sisters, aged fathers,
Children "lightly drawing breath,"
Welcome to their homes your loved ones,
Coming back from fields of death.

Sing in triumph, all ye people,
Lend your voices to the din,
Till our now victorious army
Dines at Christmas in Berlin.

RECRUITING LIKELY TO BE STOPPED IN VERY NEAR FUTURE

Officers Expect Orders, But Some May Go Overseas.

That recruiting for the Canadian army will be stopped almost immediately was the opinion of a number of officers at militia headquarters today.

"There doesn't seem to be much sense in getting more men into the army now," said one officer. "England has stopped recruiting, and I expect that we will shortly get orders here to follow suit.

"There is a chance, though, that the men here will be sent overseas to take the places of the boys there in order that their trip home may be accomplished as quickly as possible. You understand that there is nothing official in this, but there is always a chance that this may be done."

FORMER LONDONER DIES AT KAMLOOPS

Advertiser Illustrations

In the death of William Summers, who died of pneumonia at Kamloops, B. C., on November 3, London loses another of her sons who has made good in other fields. Mr. Summers, who was in his 53rd year, was employed by Grafton & Company before going west, about eight years ago. For two years after his arrival there he was manager of the Hudson Bay Company store. Leaving the employ of this company he engaged in business for himself in Kamloops.

While in London he was a prominent member of King Solomon's Lodge A. F. and A. M. Besides his widow, he is survived by one sister, Edith of London, and five brothers, Percy and George, overseas, and Lew, Gilbert and Frank of this city. The latter are engaged in the grocery business in this city.

TROOPS IN THE FIELD ORDERED TO BE READY AT ALL TIMES

Special Emphasis Is Laid on Fact That Arrangement Is Armistice Only.

NO CHANCES ARE TAKEN

All Communications With the Enemy Are Absolutely Forbidden.

With the American Forces in France, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press).—Orders announcing that the armistice between the Allied powers and Germany had been signed, and giving directions as to the future conduct of Allied soldiers along the line, were sent to every corps this morning. They were transmitted to the units in the front ranks. The orders follow:

1. You are informed that hostilities will cease along the whole front at 11 o'clock a.m. November 11, 1918, Paris time.

2. No Allied troops will pass the line reached by them at that hour in date until further orders.

3. Division commanders will immediately sketch the location of their front line. This sketch will be returned to headquarters by the courier bearing these orders.

Communication Forbidden.

4. All communication with the enemy, both before and after the termination of hostilities is absolutely forbidden. In case of violation of this, severe disciplinary measures will be immediately taken. An officer offending will be sent to headquarters under guard.

5. Every emphasis will be laid on the fact that the arrangement is an armistice only, and not a peace.

6. There must not be the slightest relaxation of vigilance. Troops must be prepared at any moment for further operations.

7. Special steps will be taken by all commanders to insure strictest discipline and that all troops be held in readiness fully prepared for any eventuality.

8. Division and brigade commanders will personally communicate these orders to all organizations.

INTREPID EXPLORER VISITING FRIENDS IN CITY FOR FEW DAYS

Capt. H. T. Munn Back From Far North.

WILL RETURN TO WORK

Only White Man Who Has Explored Southampton Island.

From the regions of ice and snow of the mysterious northland, home of the polar bear and aurora borealis, there arrived late this summer in Canada a distinguished English-Canadian explorer and mineralogist. For two years he had been cut off from communication with the outer world, engaged in the mission for which he leaves behind home, friends, the comforts and pleasures of civilization, namely investigating the frozen desert with a view to the development of its mineral resources.

No one joined more fervently in the peace celebration in this city yesterday than the explorer-mineralogist than Capt. H. T. Munn, who is in town for a few days, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bowker.

Late in Hearing of War.

He considers himself rarely fortunate to be back in the world of men and affairs at such a momentous time in the world's history. Going into the far north land early in the summer of 1914, on behalf of the Canadian syndicate, financed by English capital, which he represents, it was not until his arrival back late in 1915 that he learned of the world war. Postal and telegraph communication or even wireless haven't arrived on the north shore of Baffin's land, away up about latitude 73, where he has been establishing trading posts among the natives, and exploring and conducting his mineralogical investigations. After provisioning in England, he left on his latest trip to hob-nob with the north pole in July, 1916. That was the last he heard of the outer world for two whole years. It was impossible to come out in 1917, owing to shipping conditions.

Have Hazy Idea.

"Do the natives up there know about the war?" he was asked today by The Advertiser.

"They have a very hazy idea about it, and, in fact, everything in the outer world," he replied. "The names Europe and America are about the same thing to them. They both stand for the "White Man's Land."

After provisioning at Halifax, Capt. Munn proposes going back to his work of making the north yield her fruits and employment for the native population as soon as his boat can make its way through the ice next summer.

"The most important that I should get up there next year," he said, "for the reason that the natives are getting very short of ammunition, and that means hardship and possible starvation. A thousand miles north of the north shore of Hudson Bay, the tree line and all vegetation has been left far behind. The natives are dependent for life upon fishing and hunting, largely upon walrus and seal."

Native Foods.

"What do you get to eat up there?" he was asked. Laughing, he replied, "Much the same sort of thing as the natives: seal, walrus and things like that."

"How do you like seal steaks for a steady diet?" Whereat the man from the northland laughed again. "Well," he replied, "there is one thing. There is it."

While the ambition of Capt. Munn has not yet caused him to consider seriously a dash to the North Pole, he has been "trying to do a bit of exploring."

As far as he knows he is the only white man who has explored Southampton Island. Last winter he went over there, taking with him what he terms "some of my own natives," and natives from the mainland. Up and down the length and breadth of the island he explored, traveling some two hundred miles from east to west, and about one hundred and twenty from north to south. He makes a point of trying to have at least one other white man along with him.

"You will require to know a good deal about medical science," was a comment made. "Not much," he said. "There is very little sickness up there. Of course, if you get sick up there it is quite probable you will die."

Gets Into the Blood.

"How do you like the life?" the reporter inquired.

"Well, you know, that sort of a life sort of unfits a chap for anything else." But to be sure he enjoys the fleshpots again for a time, even the wartime fleshpots, which would spell riotous luxury on the north shore of Baffin's land. He goes back after wintering in Halifax to take ammunition to the natives, establish more trading posts and to continue explorations for gold or tin. He isn't especially interested in the iron, graphite and things like that which capricious Mother Nature has poked in such a tantalizingly out-of-the-way corner of the globe. It wouldn't pay to develop anything less than gold or tin for obvious reasons.

Getting shipwrecked is one of the little excitements of the northern explorer's life. He had a big one on his first trip up in 1912, when the steamer chartered and provisioned in St. John, Newfoundland, was wrecked, and himself and 23 others stranded on the ice with their boats. They made the mainland and fortunately "another ship happened along. Anyway, it was all in the day's work."

An Englishman by birth, Capt. Munn lived a number of years in Manitoba, but hasn't yet had the pleasure of meeting the famous polar explorer, Stefansson, who claims that part of Canada as his home.

REEVE N. J. TAYLOR OF BLYTH KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Overturned at Bridge, Breaking His Neck.

Blyth, Nov. 12.—A most regrettable automobile accident occurred last night four miles from Blyth, when a car driven by Neil J. Taylor, reeve of Blyth, overturned, breaking the neck of the owner and thereby causing his death. Mr. Taylor had been out participating in the peace celebration at Blyth, after which he offered to drive friends, H. McGee and wife, to their home near Auburn. On his return trip, about 10:30 o'clock, the car hit a bridge four miles from Blyth. H. Schultz, a farmer living nearby, heard the noise caused by the accident, and on visiting the spot found Mr. Taylor dead.

Mr. Taylor leaves a widow and daughter and two brothers, J. A. Taylor, inspector of schools, St. Thomas, and Alec Taylor of Port Stanley. He was about 50 years of age. Previous to coming to Blyth eight years ago he was reeve of Morris Township.

This death, coming as it does on the very heels of the proclamation of peace, seems more than ever deplorable.

SOLF APPEALS FOR HELP, FEARING FOR STARVING MILLIONS

Asks Relief From Fearful Conditions in Conquered Country.

FORCED TO ACCEPT

German Foreign Secretary Asks Wilson to Intercede and Mitigate Conditions

PRESIDENT RECEIVES APPEAL.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The appeal of Dr. Solf, foreign secretary at Berlin, for intervention by President Wilson for mitigation of the armistice terms to save Germany from starvation was delivered to Secretary of State Lansing today by Minister Sulzer of Switzerland. It was sent immediately to the president.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Dr. Solf, the German foreign secretary, has addressed a message to Secretary of State Lansing, requesting that President Wilson intervene to mitigate "the fearful conditions" existing in Germany.

Dr. Solf says, according to a German wireless dispatch received here today, that he feels it his duty to draw President Wilson's attention to the fact that the enforcement of the conditions of the armistice, especially the surrender of transport, means the starvation of millions, and requests that the president's influence be directed to overcoming this danger.

The president, he points out, has declared that he did not wish to make war on the German people, and did not wish to impede its peaceful developments.

"The German Government has received the conditions of the armistice," continues Dr. Solf. "We had to accept them, but feel it our duty to call the president's attention most solemnly and with all earnestness to the fact that the enforcement of the conditions must produce among the German people feelings contrary to those upon which alone the reconstruction of a community of nations can rest, guaranteeing a just and durable peace.

"The German people, therefore, at this fateful hour address themselves to the president with the request that he use his influence with the allied powers in order to mitigate these fearful conditions."

TEXT OF SOLF'S APPEAL.

London, Nov. 11.—The full text of the German wireless dispatch giving the message from Foreign Secretary Solf to Secretary of State Lansing follows:

"Convinced of the common aims and ideals of democracy, the German Government has addressed itself to the President of the United States with the request to re-establish peace. This peace was meant to correspond with the principles the president always has maintained. The aim was to be a just solution of all questions in dispute, followed by a permanent reconciliation of all nations.

"Furthermore the president declared, he did not wish to make war on the German people, and did not wish to impede its peaceful development. The German Government has received the conditions of the armistice.

"After the blockade those conditions, especially the surrender of means of transport and the sustenance of the troops of occupation, would make it impossible to provide Germany with food and would cause the starvation of millions of men, women and children, all the more as the blockade is to continue.

"We had to accept the conditions, but feel it is our duty to draw the president's attention most solemnly and in all earnestness to the fact that enforcement of the conditions must produce amongst the German people feelings contrary to those upon which alone the reconstruction of the community of nations can rest, guaranteeing a just and durable peace.

"The German people, therefore, in this fateful hour, address themselves again to the president with the request that he use his influence with the Allied powers in order to mitigate these fearful conditions."

HARD COAL DUE TO JUMP $1 A TON AT ANY MOMENT NOW

Possibility Exists That Rise Will Not Remain.

The price of hard coal is due for an almost immediate advance in London and other parts of Ontario. The anthracite commission, under U. S. Fuel Controller Garfield, has decided to advance the price by $1, and this will mean $12 coal in the city, and perhaps more. Local dealers are expecting to receive the new scale of prices almost at once.

Before the war ended, some local dealers predicted that the bottom would drop out of the coal market in the event of peace. The recent order was probably made before yesterday, and it is possible that conditions will bring about a lower price before long.

Some local dealers expect shipments to be more frequent during November and subsequent months.

ONLY ONE MOTORING ACCIDENT ON MONDAY

No Serious Mishaps Reported During Great Celebration.

London auto owners proved yesterday that they are among the finest drivers on the continent. All day long machines bowled up and down Dundas and Richmond streets, and "nary" an accident. The four policemen stationed at the main corner kept all the cars moving along in fine style during the whole day.

The only auto crash that was reported to the police took place on Otaway avenue between Wellington and Waterloo streets, at 9:30 o'clock last night when Percy Fuller, colored, smashed into a car owned and driven by Wilbur Archer, 16 Erie avenue. Mrs. Archer was badly shaken up and was carried into a nearby house, where she received medical attention before proceeding to her home. Fuller was placed behind the bars at the Carling street court on a charge of drunkenness. He was discharged this morning, the evidence not being sufficient for a conviction.

As per usual, the St. John Ambulance Division No. 1, was right on the job all day, and didn't even take time to join in the parade. Five cases were treated by Mrs. J. F. Thomson and staff. James O'Sullivan, an aged man, residing at 319 Ottaway avenue, was brought in early in the morning by the firemen. His leg caught in the fire hose in some way when the bonfire at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets was being extinguished, and he was thrown heavily. He was able to proceed to his home at noon.

Mrs. Bishop of Proughdale was seized at Victoria Park in the afternoon with an attack of heart trouble. She was rushed to the St. John quarters at the corner of Dundas and Talbot streets, as were also the following cases of collapse in the street during the evening: Misses Ethel Evans, 486 Quebec street, and Eva Bird, 931 Dufferin avenue.

One young girl who refused to give her name was almost blinded by talcum powder, thrown by a rowdy youth during the evening's revel. Her eyes were attended to and she was later able to make her way home.

JAIL GETS FLAG.

A new flag was purchased by the authorities at the jail Monday and some of Governor Carter's guests were allowed the pleasure of running it up the flagstaff. This is the only part they were allowed to take in the celebration, although several of them would probably have liked to "break jail" for the occasion.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION
Create Gas, Sourness and Pain —How to Treat.
Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.
Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advt.

THE ARMISTICE TERMS.

WHATEVER they may seem to Lord Milner, the armistice terms which Germany has accepted will receive the fullest approval of the Entente peoples. The conditions make it absolutely impossible for the enemy to resume the struggle with any hope of success. Under the conditions of the arrangement German's fighting capacity is hopelessly crippled. She is compelled to hand over such great numbers of guns and such vast quantities of munitions and war supplies generally that the armies will be stripped of any power to come back, while the pick of the fleet and most of the submarines passing under Allied control will make the possibility of any resumption of warfare on the waters too remote to be a menace. But the Allies are taking no chances. The main crossings of the Rhine and all strategic points along the frontier are to be occupied by Allied troops, while the blockade of the enemy's ports will continue until the pace exact is signed.

Gone are the pawns by which the Entente was to be forced into a compromise peace, and not the smallest bit of plunder is Germany permitted to keep. The evacuation of Belgium, France, Luxemburg, Russia and Rumania is to take place at once, and all prisoners in German hands are to be repatriated as well as interned citizens of the Allied nations and those of countries occupied by the Prussians who have been deported. But the Allies are free to retain German captives if they see fit. The Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk peace treaties are to be cancelled and the seizure of supplies in Rumania and Russia to stop. Gold stolen from the banks of Belgium, Russia and Rumania is to be returned immediately and no financial legislation affecting the overrun lands is to be put through without the consent of the Allies. Every possible loophole seems blocked by the thirty-five conditions of the armistice. At every point Germany is made helpless.

Prussia has been brought as completely to her knees as were Bulgaria, Turkey and Austria. The Entente are now guaranteed absolutely against any successful resumption of the war should Germany find the terms of the peace pact too harsh. Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Wilson will hold unshakeably the upper hand at the peace table. There will be none of the bargaining that a few months ago seemed inevitable. The Allied will will rule there as it has on the battlefield, and dictation rather than discussion will prevail.

THE REVOLUTION.

MANY MONTHS ago, one who knew Germany thoroughly said that it was more than probable the war would end with a terrible revolution in Germany, but, he added, displaying an insight into the soul of the German people, "that revolution will not come until the German armies suffer a decisive defeat." Today that decisive defeat has been inflicted and Germany is in the throes of a revolution.

Beyond a doubt the prophet was correct in the order in which he placed coming events; the defeat was not occasioned by the revolution, but the revolution was a direct result of a series of overwhelming defeats.

What, then, was the goad to revolt? Not repentance for sins, certainly. Not a long-delayed but convincing realization that Wilhelm and his militarist satellites were fighting against the God whom with their lips they professed to worship. Not a suddenly-acquired belief that the German aim was wrong. None of these brought about the uprising, but perhaps the knowledge that the war was lost and that all the people had undergone, the suffering and the sorrow, had been wasted. Then the populace turns on the men whom it holds responsible and endeavors to rend them. The German revolution is not the work of brave men, but of cowards, quitters, trying to "get from under" by joining the enemy in crying "Down with the kaiser and all who have held power." The Germans have been traitors to the world for years; now they are traitors to their own late idols. The men who have committed the atrocities of which the Huns have been guilty and the women, garbed in the Red Cross uniform of mercy, who would dash water away from the lips of thirsting wounded Allies have no claim to sympathy from any Allied man or woman.

Rebellion appears to have owed its inception to the men of the German navy. It would be pleasant if one could believe that these sailors, coming in touch before the war with the outside world, had seen in its true light the hideous unrighteousness of the German cause and had turned in loathing away from it. Unfortunately it must be remembered that these German sailors manned the submarines which sent women and children to their doom. It must be recalled that, when the submarine was proving a real success and the Allies had not yet devised efficient means of fighting it, there was no lack of volunteers for the dastardly work. It was only when the danger of the undersea warfare became too grave that they became reluctant to enlist for it.

Possibly the truth is that the German sailors were merely opportunists, recognizing that in revolution lay their only chance of gaining preferential treatment from their conquerors. Probably hunger and misery were the propelling powers which drove the German people to join the movement. To impute higher motives were to earn derision. As one feels sorry for the wretch, guilty of foul murder, who has paid the penalty, on the grounds that it is a terrible thing for man to have to face the wrath of the Almighty with such a sin on his soul, so one may feel sorrow for the Germans who must endure part of the punishment their deeds demand at the hands of the Allies. The revolutionists, with some few possible exceptions, have no claim on the world's sympathy.

LONDON CELEBRATES.

LONDON has proven that it knows how to celebrate the greatest occasion in the history of the world. In a welling up of feeling that came from the heart of the people, for many hours the city expressed its joy over the great news. Only the graphic stories in the news columns can commence to give an adequate conception of a day and a night crowded with all the thrills of which the emotions are capable.

When the news flashed over the city the people sprung to wakefulness as though by magic. First a solitary man appeared in front of The Advertiser. He whooped for joy as the news appeared, and then a telephone operator, keeping the lone vigil of the morning hours, heard the glad tidings, and realized that she was the first person in London to be informed over the telephone. With extras in the hands of newsboys, the few night workers of the city and those who had remained awake in order to receive the news at once commenced to gather, and before many minutes a small parade of patriotic Americans appeared. They were the first organized celebrants in the city of London, but with a lightning momentum the volume of the crowd was swelled. The fire siren was heard about the city; the telephone exchange was swamped with calls, and some motor cars commenced to run wildly.

Girls were among the first to appear, girls and women, some of the latter with grey hair. By 8 o'clock the flood of humanity was sweeping over the block in front of The Advertiser and a veritable bedlam had broken loose. Until noontime the informal celebration continued, and such a forenoon was never known in this city before.

The afternoon was given over to a dignified and impressive celebration, which did the city proud. The procession of soldiers and patriotic societies was a sight to inspire, and in every sense the parade was worthy of the city.

The evening was devoted to free and easy celebration and citizens from almost every home thronged the streets. The fun was in the purest good nature and the day closed with a realization that London had loosed its pent-up feeling in the greatest cause for celebration the city and country have known.

THE RHINE IS THE WEST FRONT.

THE WESTERN front now extends along the River Rhine and No-Man's Land is a strip of land in German territory. The Allies hold the bridgeheads and strategic points and Germany holds nothing but those things which are hers by the grace of the Allied nations.

Four months have wrought the transformation, from the moment when we seemed to visualize a German occupation of Paris with the bully Hindenburg's threat in mind, until the trip-hammer, guided by Marshal Foch, held in suspense until the metal was hot for the striking, smashed upon the mass until it was pounded into shape for disposal.

Last night the lights of old London were ablaze again, Paris was in a delirium of joy, the whole American continent was a carnival of thanksgiving, and the most spontaneous world celebration ever known was indulged in by millions upon millions.

It is a wonderful thought—the western front is now along the Rhine.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Have you given to the war? If not, lend.

It's to be a just peace, but not a German peace.

These king-makers seem to be roughly handled by history.

Alexander came nearest of anyone to realizing William's dream.

And Kaiser William promised 'Tino he'd get him his throne back!

The only thing wrong with Germany's "will to victory" was that it wouldn't.

Count Reventlow, the war-like, flees to Denmark. He knows something better than fighting.

If there is anything that will arouse the enthusiasm of a nation more than war, it is peace.

It is a great victory for Britain and the United States, but greater far for France and Belgium.

The Hohenzollerns are reported to be in Holland, but no matter where they go they are going to be "in Dutch."

Wilhelm shivered when he signed his abdication, a thing he has never been reported as doing on seeing the casualty lists.

Headline says the clown prince has signed away his right to the throne. Objection! For "right" substitute "claim."

If the high cost of living would only step down from the throne that would be the most popular abdication of them all.

Overseas Dominions are to have a big part in the peace talk, and Canada will be quite satisfied if her part is as big as in the war action.

There has been a lot of red and white flag waving in Germany of late, but blue would probably more accurately reflect the feeling in Germany today.

If Germany were sane, this would be a time of great rejoicing in the land. She is on the eve of achieving real progress and happiness and has her first and perhaps her last chance.

Wilhelm didn't want to abdicate and "turn his people over to the merciless Entente." Whilst he was talking thus he knew the Entente nations were working out a scheme to feed Germany's starving millions. As a "bunk artist" Bill stood supreme.

AN EXPLODED MYTH.

[London Daily Mail.]

The last four years have been hard on supermen. The carefully-cultivated myth of Germany superiority, which gained adherents easily when nobody was particularly interested in examining and exposing it, has been blown sky high through the efforts of men who were compelled by necessity to exert all their power. It can never be restored.

LOVE'S SECURITY
By Bertha R. McDonald.

"I always told your mother that she was a little fool to marry a man old enough to be her father!" exploded Jane Portsmouth.

"But, Aunt Jane, father and mother were ideally happy."

"Happy enough—yes—but the difference in their ages made him shelter and shield her from all sense of responsibility, until now, when he's gone, the two of you are left with next door to nothing and neither of you any more fitted to earn a living than a butterfly!"

"Please don't say that. I know mother isn't strong, but I am and I'm going to find some way to keep the wolf from the door, too."

"Don't worry about the wolf. You can sell your house and come and live right here with me. I'll tell you, Beth, why don't you set your cap for the young doctor that's just bought your father's office?"

"Don't ever mention such a thing to me again, auntie! I'm not going to marry anybody, and besides, if I were to set my cap for Dr. Danforth and he saw fit to be caught he'd be taking me out of sheer pity, I'm sure."

"There, little girl, I didn't mean to be hard, but I would so like to see you nicely settled, and that doctor man certainly is charming."

Neither of them heard the approach of the visitor who now appeared and coughed to attract their attention.

"Oh, good morning, Dr. Danforth," greeted Miss Portsmouth. "I was just congratulating Niece Beth on the good hands into which her father's business has fallen. Will you have a chair?"

"No, thank you, Miss Portsmouth," replied the young man, openly admiring Beth; "I've only a moment. I called to ask about Dr. Longstreet's office safe."

"What is it you wish to know?"

"Your father's safe—do you wish it sent to your home?"

"The safe was included in the purchase of the office, and I went through the contents before I turned it over. I bid you good morning."

She sailed past the astonished pair down the flower-bordered path toward the gate, and Dr. Danforth was about to speak to Miss Portsmouth, when a frightened cry caused them to turn just as Beth fluttered into a senseless heap beside the path.

The young doctor flew down the path, and lifting the limp figure in his strong young arms, bore her tenderly into the house. Cool water quickly revived her, but an examination and the discovery that her ankle was really broken sent her promptly into another faint, which lasted until her Aunt Jane had made her comfortable in the little guest chamber off the parlor. When she regained consciousness this time Dr. Danforth was sitting beside her with one of her hands in his.

"Home—I must get home to mother!" she moaned.

"You must lie right here for a few days. Your foot turned on one of the cobblestones in the walk and your ankle has been broken. Miss Portsmouth has telephoned your mother and I am going to bring her over this evening in my runabout."

"It will not be necessary to trouble you. Mother can come over with Joe Mead when he goes to the station for the mail."

"Please don't be unkind, Miss Longstreet. It really doesn't seem like you, and my heartiest wish is to be of some service to you and your mother."

"I—I didn't mean to seem ungrateful, or rude, but I——"

In another moment she was sobbing among the pillows, and, while the man longed to stay and comfort her, the physician knew it was best to leave her alone just now, so he slipped quietly through the door to the porch, just as Aunt Jane came in to take his place. While he was drawing on his gloves he heard her cry out hysterically:

"He'll think I did this purposely—he'll—he'll think I'm setting my cap for him, like all the rest of the silly girls in town."

The man on the porch smiled and thought, "How I wish she would!"

Beth's ankle kept her at her aunt's for almost a month, and during this time she was under Dr. Danforth's constant care and attention. Gradually, day by day, he managed to penetrate the reserve behind which she had intrenched herself, and then one day when he was taking her for a little spin into the country, he asked her to marry him.

"But, doctor—Ned—I can't marry anybody. Mother and I haven't a cent. If dear old dad hadn't lost what he had put by to protect mother and me things might have been different, for I do like you, Ned."

"What did your father lose, and how?"

"Oh, some papers—stocks—securities—bonds and things, I guess. Whatever they were, he had the papers out on his desk one day when he received an urgent call, and while he was out the colored man who took care of the place 'straightened up.' When daddy came back the papers were gone. We questioned Jackson, but he swore he put everything back into the safe, and there you are. Jackson was too ignorant of their value to take them, so after a fruitless search we decided they must have blown out the window."

"You are sure you have examined the safe thoroughly?"

"Absolutely. There's another thing of dad's I haven't been able to find—a copy of the first edition of 'The Vicar of Wakefield,' of which he was very fond."

"But—you aren't going to make this final, are you, Beth?"

"Please, Ned, don't ask me again until I've found some way to take care of mother."

That night Dr. Danforth sat alone in his office, trying to study, but the pages were filled with visions of Beth. His mind wandered to her story of Dr. Longstreet's investments, and he began to wonder if possibly there might not be some far corner of the safe which had not been explored. He took his flashlight, and, kneeling before it, began half-heartedly to pile the contents on the floor. He sighed as nothing came to light, and began to put the things back. The first thing he picked up was a box of rubber stamps, and feeling they would not be needed soon he thrust them as far back into the safe as possible. In doing so his hand was scratched by a piece of the zinc lining of the safe, and using his flashlight to see how badly it was torn he discovered the end of something sticking up behind it. He pulled it out and found it to be a copy of "The Vicar of Wakefield."

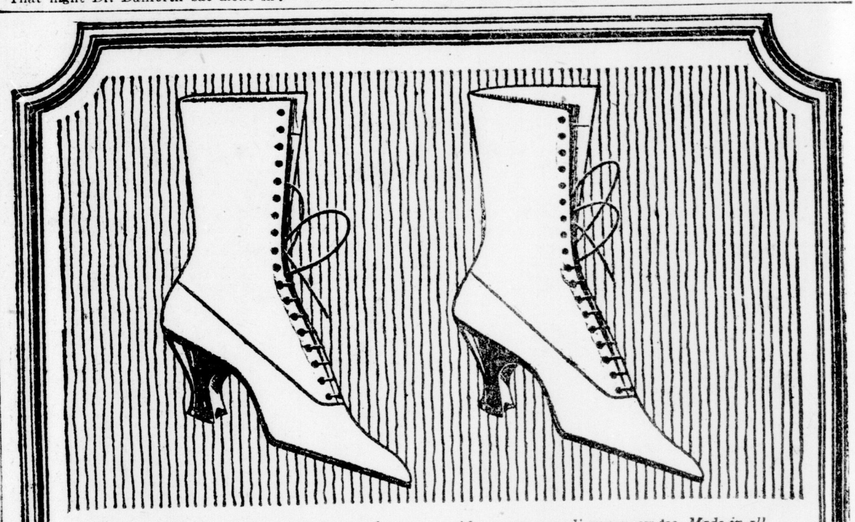

The next day was the one set for Beth's return to her home, and Dr. Ned was to take her in the runabout. He found her waiting for him on the front steps, and she looked so like a breath of spring as she sat there that he leaned over and kissed her without a word of warning.

"I'm asking you again, Beth, in spite of what you said, to be my wife. Before you answer this time look through this old book."

She took the book wonderingly, and opened it. "It's dad's 'Vicar of Wakefield'!" she cried. "And what are all these papers, Ned?"

"Don't you see, dear? They're the papers which we all thought were lost. Jackson must have placed them between the leaves of this book and the book got wedged in behind a torn place in the lining of the safe. Now you don't have to find any way to take care of your mother."

"Ned, you—you darling!"

Do More with your Shoe Dollars

EVERY shoe-dollar that is spent for real service-value helps to keep prices down and to conserve our precious supply of leather. Every dollar spent merely for show helps to send prices still higher and to make leather harder to get.

It is a small matter to the individual, but in the aggregate it is important. Happiness does not depend upon fancy tops to your shoes. It is no hardship to buy for service rather than merely for "looks," and you get better value for your money. Every pair of shoes bought on this basis helps to solve the nation's big shoe problem.

Look for the manufacturer's trade-mark on the shoes you buy. It is your safest guide in securing neat and attractive shoes for service and economy.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate To Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION.—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.—Advt.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE IN A PANIC.

The Beavers had repaired their dam, and the water was beginning to rise to make a new Mirror Pond. And now Father Beaver was rushing work, and urging his family to hurry up, and save the little folks stuck in the mud, at the bottom of Mirror Pond.

The Beavers saw the water rising rapidly; and this was an awful danger to the little people. For you know that the Minks, Otters and Muskrats are wonderful swimmers and divers, and that they can stay under water much longer than other people. But they drown if they are kept under water too long.

The little folks were now in great peril, and they were all calling for help. Benny Mink was near his chum, Dick Otter, and he cried out, "Dick, give me your hand, quick, for I am sinking fast in the mire! I'm all under except the tip of my nose. Give me your hand, quick."

Each little head went under the fast rising water.

And Dick clasped Benny's hand tightly, and gasped, "Benny, I'll do my best to save you, but I can't find anything to stand on. The bottom has dropped out of Mirror Pond, and I'm going under too, and I can only get the tip of my nose out of the mud and water, to get a breath of air, but I'll help my f—f—f—" and Dick's voice choked and no further sound was heard. You see he tried to say: "My friend."

The two chums, Benny and Dick, went down together into the water, which was now rising rapidly, and they were seen clasping hands, trying vainly to help each other. And all the little heads now disappeared; and only bubbles appeared on the surface, where each little head went under the fast rising water. The Bluejays, and the other bird friends of the little folks, flew wildly over Mirror Pond, crying out and calling to everybody to come quick and help the Little People.

The Beavers were working awfully hard and fast to save their little neighbors. And they had been cutting down trees, and cutting off the branches, and working faster than they had ever worked before. And you know the Beavers are very fast workers, yes, very fast workers indeed.

Well, you ask, what could the Beavers do to save the little people with trees? These wonderful engineers had a splendid plan. No one else in the Great Forest could have done such a wonderful thing. In a few minutes they had a life-saving station, at the dam on Mirror Pond. They had made many lifeboats in a very short time. And I wish you could have stood on that dam and could have seen this wonderful sight. For now every Beaver dragged his lifeboat into the water, and they all rushed their boats to save the little folks, who were now all under water and in awful danger of drowning.

Destitute Children Transformed by Care of Salvation Army

They were taken in charge by the Salvation Army in Winnipeg, and are now well developed and cured of the diseases which had crippled them. The upper picture shows the children as they appeared when rescued from their shack; the lower picture shows them as they appear today.

Shoulder roasts	40c "	Pig tripe	10c per lb.
Shoulder chops	42c "	Ox tail	15c "

The above tables of current retail prices for popular cuts and offal provide a striking contrast. Pork liver at 7 cents a pound is as nutritious as anything on the other table.

"The people of France could live comfortably all the year 'round on the food that is wasted on the North American continent for the same length of time."—Madame T. Chase Casgrain.

"Three days' waste from the abattoirs of Toronto would feed everybody in the city for a week."—Chef Leony Derouey, Commodore Hotel, New York.

Severe condemnation from out of the mouths of natives of the thriftiest of nations! Yet, when we look around us, we have to confess that it is true. And when the retailer, to whom the public taste is as an open book, states definitely that expensive cuts of meat were never in greater demand than now, the evidence is conclusive.

"The preparation of tasty stews and soups seems to be a lost art in Canada," declares the man across the counter. "It makes one sad to witness the ignorant and thriftless buying of meat that goes on at a time when 'stretching' is so necessary. You find young brides fixing their minds on T-bone steaks, which are really only meant for one, and if you try to give them advice—well, they put you all in the wrong. Steaks they must have. You can't convince them that liver and kidney are just as nutritious."

"What accounts for this attitude in war time?" was the question that naturally arose.

"Loose purse-strings and plenty of cash flying around," was the terse reply.

But is it this, or rather a lack of training on the part of the women? It is easier to make a tempting dish out of beefsteak than out of liver. Therefore the busy woman selects the steak. Canadian women could never be accused of being particularly venturesome in their kitchens. On the other hand, madame and mademoiselle experiment, create and economize in the kitchen with the same facility that characterizes them in the realm of fashion. It is a matter of native temperament and training—very largely the latter.

There is an incisive dividing line in the meat trade of Canada. On one side of the fence are arrayed the cuts of "good standing," or, rather, the popular cuts. On the other side is the "waste." The funny part of it is that much of what constitutes our "waste" is considered excellent fare in Britain and other European countries. Canada ships her offal overseas while she uses up her beef and bacon—and Britain finds that quite acceptable. The war has not meant the termination of this trade, valuable though shipping space is.

But why don't Canadians use more offal? Why don't women find out more about it instead of shuddering when the internal economy of the cow, the pig or the sheep is mentioned?

There is always much ado about the high cost of everything, and meat comes in for a fair share of the brickbats that are thrown. But few people stop to consider that a greater use of offal would mean the steadying of prices. Animals are bought by live weight. That is to say, the dealer pays as much for the offal as for sides and back. If he cannot get customers for the offal it stands to reason that he has to even things up by charging higher prices for the portions that sell readily.

A little first-hand acquaintance with offal is sufficient to convince the people that prejudice has been cutting them off effectively from a channel of food supply too long neglected and despised. Practical demonstration is the finest means of emphasizing the possibilities of the "castaways" of the abattoir, and Toronto and Ottawa have had a unique opportunity to appreciate this fact through the recent visitation at the exhibitions of Chief Leony Derouey of the new Commodore Hotel, New York. Perhaps it is hardly fair to estimate the possibilities of offal for general use from what one sees—and tastes—at the hands of M. Derouey. Pastmaster in his art, wizardlike, he transforms lungs and hearts and brains into delectable dishes such as any cook might envy or epicurean pine after.

It is the flavor! Like the true son of France, he knows how to use his condiments and how to extract the last ounce of value from the most unpromising material.

"Ah, that is what ces ze matter," he says with a dramatic gesture. "Ze people here know not ze secret of flavor, ze feelip!"

Assuming that it is largely prejudice that keeps the housewife from extending her menu to include so-called "offal"—what then? She need have no fears of a hygienic nature. The veterinary director-general sees to it that nothing unwholesome gets on the market. Indeed, Canada is particularly well protected in this regard, and certain things are on the proscribed list of the Dominion that are in common use on the other side of the Atlantic.

A trip through an abattoir, where the whole process may be followed from the time the animal comes in to be slaughtered until the finished product is ready for the market, is a revelation, and the cleanliness, system and care throughout warrant the approval of the most fastidious. The slaughterhouse of a huge Canadian plant, with a capacity for handling 1,000 cattle per day, 1,000 sheep and lambs, 300 calves and 2,000 hogs, is a strange but interesting sight. There is no suffering, for all the animals are stunned before being killed.

The most gratifying sight in an abattoir today is the rows upon rows of carcasses ready to be shipped overseas and bearing the stamp of the British ministry of food. It is important to remember in buying meat that the lighter grades should be asked for, because the heavy carcasses are needed for overseas. Britain will take nothing less than a 500-pound beef carcass.

In the course of a sojourn through an abattoir you are subject to sudden and disturbing changes of temperature. For instance, you go from the midday heat of an extra warm autumn day to the frigid interior of the room where frozen tripe is being packed for shipment. The pipes are coated with frost. You can see your breath forming feathery clouds in the air and the packers make you think of winter's chilly blasts with their fur caps, mittens and long-pointed skin shoes.

The offal room is the most interesting of all. Orderly rows of liver immediately suggest numerous possibilities, although your guide informs you that only a tithe of the quantity that might be used is bought by Canadian housekeepers. You see brains done up in pails or lying loose, coated with their protective membrane. There is a satisfactory demand for ox-tails—indeed, a greatly increased demand since war broke out. Beef hearts are excellent and contain little fat or bone.

The abattoirs, of course, are under Government inspection, and there is always a sedulous weeding out of the unfit or diseased. It is estimated that 1½ per cent of the carcasses are thrown away because of some defect. Government inspected meat carries its own guarantee and is infinitely safer than that promiscuously handled product. This is a point for the housekeeper to remember.

Of ox tongue there is an actual shortage now. It has to be pickled for fourteen or twenty days to be made into jellied tongue. Again, one is reminded of the needs of Europe upon seeing great quantities of bacon ready for shipment and done up in wire-bound boxes containing over 500 pounds each. In the sausage department a remarkable gas oven is in operation, driven by an electric motor. The oven trays are continually rotating to insure uniform cooking. Girls are at work preparing the macaroni and cheese loaf, the veal and ham loaf, the spiced beef and the bologna, with which we are all familiar. This is a war time industry for them, as the shortage of men has made it necessary to employ girls in new capacities in the abattoirs. A number of them are engaged in sewing up the meat to be shipped overseas.

An emergency hospital on the premises caters to a large clientele every day, for there are sundry minor accidents in handling the complicated machinery of the abattoir.

A glimpse of quantities of offal, viewed en masse, scrupulously clean and well-ordered surroundings, serves only to strengthen the conviction that in Canada we are neglecting a very important source of food supply that is inexpensive, patriotic, and readily accessible to everyone.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE READINGS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION.

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

Jacob Fleeing From His Angry Brother.—Genesis, xxviii., 10-22.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

5. Verse 12—WHAT REASON, IF ANY, IS THERE TO BELIEVE THAT ANGELS ARE ALWAYS GOING AND COMING BETWEEN EVERY SLEEPER'S PILLOW AN HEAVEN? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

6. Where is heaven?

7. Verse 13—God clothed himself in the body of Jesus. Would that indicate that God may have taken a body in his appearance to Jacob, and to others in the olden times? Give your reasons.

8. Explain how and when the land on which Jacob then slept was given to him and his descendants.

Golden Text: He hath not dealt with us after our sins, nor rewarded us after our iniquities.—Psalms ciii., 10.

GOD MAKES THE CROOKED STRAIGHT.

It frequently happens that men are muzzled and do not denounce evil, and evil-doers, because they know they themselves live in glass houses and are therefore afraid to throw stones. It is gloriously true, however, in God's wonderful economy of grace, that the guilty may have their sins forgiven, and that people, naturally crooked, may be made morally straight. When a man's guilt is purged, and his conscience made clean, he regains his courage, and whatever evil he has done in the past he endeavors to counteract, while the future for him means right-doing. The grace of God changes the bent of men's lives, and whereas before they lived in sin and delighted in evil, they now hate everything in the nature of wrong-doing.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL-BOX

Joins the Happy Bunch.

Dear Miss Grey,—We thought we would join the "Happy Bunch." We have had the advantage of so many good things and wondered if anyone had ever made a crumb cake. Have you or any of your readers any good recitations? I will inclose a stamped envelope. I am a high school girl, and will sign myself, ERSULA.

Crumb Cake—Two cups or flour, 1 cup of white sugar, ¾ cup butter. Rub to crumbs. Take out one cup of the crumbs, mix the rest with 1 cup of sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 egg, 1 cup raisins. Sprinkle cup of crumbs on top of cake, put in oven to bake.

Ans.—You're very welcome, "Ersula," crumb cake and all. I've listed your address away quite carefully, so if any recitations are received, I'll be able to forward them at once.

Knits and Bakes Bread.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I trot in for a wee chat with you and your large family? It is a long time since I wrote before, so I hope you will not chase me out with the broomstick. I saw F. C. Smith's address in your column and sat right down and wrote to him.

Have you got Andy McD.'s and E. B. F.'s address? If you have, would you please send them to me?

I am now on my seventh pair of socks and love knitting. I have also made several scrapbooks for the soldiers. I am 14, and can make bread. Mamma was away for a few days not long ago, and I decided to make an attempt at war bread. I made four loaves, and they were pretty good for a new beginner. Now, don't you wish that you had happened in for a slice? I tried your recipe for cocoa cake, which you printed for "The Canuck Girl," and found it very good. I saw where "Miss Billy" wants someone to correspond with. As I am 14, you may send her my name and address. I wish that I had been there to give "Ibea Nother" a push when she started down hill, and perhaps she would have won in the race.

Well, I had better trot back again, as it is time I was snoozing in bed. I will sign myself, PUSSY WILLOW.

Ans.—Good for you, little knitter and baker. It is nice to hear of "our girls" learning these domestic arts. I am not sure whether I can find the addresses of these lonelies or not, but shall have a thorough search through my lists. Very pleased to send your name on to "Miss Billy."

An English Cake.

Dear Miss Grey,—Could you, or any of your readers, give me a recipe for raisin wine? I, in return, will give you a cake recipe, without any eggs, and that is a consideration these days. It is an English one, and mother used to make it often, and it is good:

Sponge Cake—Two cups flour, 2 cups sugar, 1-2 cup syrup, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 1-2 ounces butter or shortening, 1 teaspoon ground ginger, milk to make a stiff batter.

Yours truly, A. R.

Ans.—The eggless recipes are always welcome. We have a rule not to publish wine recipes in our column, but if anybody supplies a recipe, I could forward it to A. R.

We'll Send It Anyway.

Cynthia, Dearie,—I'll give you a farm when Lake Erie dries up if you will forward this letter to "Ibea 'Nother," or if you wouldn't like the farm, why, I'll give you a quarter first time I see it rolling up the hill. Yours, munificently inclined, URA KIDD.

Ans.—Just between us, Mail-Box folks, I fear my chances for either a farm or the quarter are very slight, indeed! However, to show our good-nature, we'll post the letter anyway.

Leaves Her Address.

Dear Miss Grey,—Is there any room in your column for me? I have some patterns; one is a filet lace pillow crochet pattern, another is a pattern for a yoke for an 8-year-old child's dress. I also have the directions for knitting a boy's sweater. Any reader desiring to borrow these will be welcome to do so. I will leave my address with Miss Grey. If any kind reader has a nice Christmas recitation, I would be pleased to get a copy of it.

Please, Miss Grey, could you tell me the meaning of the following names: Ruth, Sarah, Doris, Florence, Jean?

What do you think of my writing for a girl of fourteen? What are my faults?

I remain, MAYWEED.

Ans.—I have "Mayweed's" address if anybody wishes a pattern or can send her a recitation. Ruth is from the Hebrew, and means beauty; Sarah (also a Hebrew name) means a princess; Doris means a gift from God; Florence, blooming or flourishing, and Jean, the same as Doris.

2. Writing is very neat and shows signs of care. If you always do as well, I shall not find much fault.

Mashed Potato Recipes

We speak of mashed potatoes, but the thing that makes mashed potatoes what they should be is not mashing down, but beating up, whisking to a light and smooth and creamy product. The best double service utensil for this creaking up of the potato which must precede the whisking, is the wire masher with a firm wooden handle.

We have no vegetable which can be made more showy than velvety, smooth potato. It is no trick at all to put it through a pastry bag with a fluted point, in roses and borders or what we will. These may then be brushed with milk or butter, and browned a bit under the broiler, and, behold, we have with our economical bit of meat or fish what looks like a pretentiously prepared dish. It is the least work for the greatest effect of almost any manipulation I know of.

There are no end of ways in which mashed potato may be used. The more cream or butter or fat substitute we add to it the more of an energy food it is, and the more egg we add the more it is like a meat.

Potato Roses.

Cream mashed potato thoroughly by beating until as smooth as possible, and fill a pastry bag with the mixture, first having inserted in the bottom of it the desired point. For general service the fluted point is best. Twist the top close and hold with the right hand, while the left hand is held under the bag near the point to guide. The forcing out should be done with the right hand entirely, and the bag held in an upright position. For fancy forms like bow knots, force on to a buttered tin and brown in the oven. For borders a push and a stretch, or a little squeeze and push down and then quick tipping by raising and purling away the point, give ornamental effects. A funnel of heavy brown paper with the tip cut off for the insertion of the point, may be used instead of the bag. It does not have to be washed as a pastry bag should be, instantly after it is used.

Potato Muffins.

It is not necessary to use eggs to make a potato muffin when enough cream has been added to make it of the requisite smoothness, since with a good beating it is as light as needs be. Butter small muffin rings or molds, fill them with more of the potato than one uses for a batter, and bake for thirty minutes in a rather hot oven. A tablespoon of grated cheese may be put to the muffin ring before adding the potato. Use with any meat gravy, or even with an onion flavored white sauce, or to garnish any savory meat dish. Easier to succeed with than a dumpling, and may be used in the same way.

Potato Omelet I.

Melt a tablespoon of butter or other edible fat in a frying pan and add either hot or cold mashed potato in a thin cake, brown and fold like any omelet.

Potato Omelet II.

Of the many ways of using potatoes in an omelet like dish, that in which the potato is really used to extend the egg seems the most substantial to most people. Make of any size, allowing for every egg one small cold boiled potato; grated or mashed potato may be used. Beat the yolks of the eggs well and with them a tablespoon of milk or cream to each yolk, then add the potato —cold riced potato will answer—and finally the well beaten whites just at the minute of putting the omelet into the pan. A tablespoon of fat heated to bubbling point prepares the pan. Prick with a fork like any purely egg omelet, until the egg begins to set. If this is done the omelet will puff up beautifully. Cook until well set, turn one-half over the other and serve immediately.

Potato Puff I.

Here is a good way to use a left-over white of egg, say after making mayonnaise dressing. Beat it stiff and add it to any moderate amount of creamy mashed potato, put whole into small buttered baking dish and bake until brown and puffy.

Potato Puff II.

Shape hot creamy mashed potato into balls the size of an egg, put on buttered tin plate, brush over with beaten egg, and brown in the oven. Serve with meat or fish balls for luncheon, preferably with a sauce.

Duchesse Potatoes.

Duchesse potatoes are often prepared by using the whole raw egg instead of the yolk merely in the conventional way. Mix it with the mashed potato thoroughly, with the help of a wooden spoon. A little flour may be used on the pastry board in molding it. The mixture may be made into a large roll, flattened, cut into heart shaped pieces and other shapes, the surface criss-crossed with a knife or with a mold made for fancy cooky surfaces. Ten minutes is about enough to bake such cakes a delicate brown. One yolk of egg, half a tablespoon of butter, and the same of milk to one large potato is a proportion for rather rich cakes. The mass may simply be pressed flat and smooth and then cut into squares cooled to stiffen and then baked to a delicate brown in a quick oven.

Vienna Potatoes.

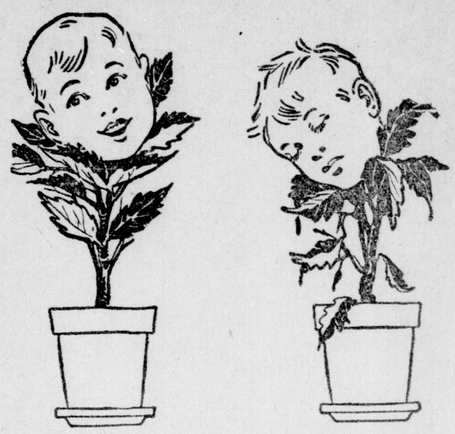

Mold mashed potatoes into the shape of Vienna rolls, about four inches long, brush with beaten egg, make a crease across the roll with the back of a heavy knife, brush with beaten egg after placing on greased and inverted tin. Brown in oven.

Potato Stuffing.

Miss Farmer's recipe for this stuffing has been much used and copied. Here it is: Two cups of hot mashed potatoes, one and one-fourth cups of bread crumbs, one-third cup of butter, one egg, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of sage, one-fourth cup of finely chopped fat salt pork, one finely chopped onion. Add to the potatoes the other ingredients in the order in which they are given. I would leave out the sage and today we use butter substitutes. A little nutmeg is not noticed as such in that it improves or gives more character to the stuffing.

MUTT AND JEFF.—And Then the Germans Had a Target To Shoot At. - - - - (Copyright, 1918, by H. C. Fisher. Trade mark registered in Canada.) BY "BUD" FISHER

Big Boom in Sports Is Expected Shortly

Old-Time Ball Games and Fast Hockey Matches May Again Be Held in the Forest City.

Now that the boys at the front have it the German nine out in one, two, three order in the first of the ninth, and then followed up with a four-bagger by Foch, the gang will be looking for other fields to conquer, and where will they find an outlet for their exuberance and pep? Why in the field of sport with a capital S?

Sports of all kinds, which were bound to be on the wane until the war ended, will receive an impetus that one can hardly realize at the present time. We'll bet dollars to pickles that our old friend Knotty Lee will be around, trying to revive the Canadian ball league for 1919, and his chances in London at least look very bright. Baseball will come back into its own, and the crowd will file over the old Dundas street bridge to Tecumseh Park as in the days of 1913, when Shag and his Ottawa crew nailed the flag.

Just watch the hockey situation this winter. We'll gamble our little old last year's straw lid that the O. H. A. has one of the best years in its history. Especially will the juniors flourish. Preparations have been quietly going on for some time to give London a good fast bunch of juniors this winter, and the local kids will give Billy Breen's Woodstock's "Woodens" the chase of their young lives. Bill is some coach, but he will need to use all his cunning to push his kids out in front of the local bunch. This is not a threat, Bill, just a friendly warning.

Curling, skating, in fact every sport known from dominoes to hockey and back again, is bound to shoot along at express rate. The boys are there with the enthusiasm that only soldiers know, and we at home are going to reap the benefit of it. Three cheers for the sports and the sport page. The old sheet will soon take on a new appearance. Let's go.

WILLARD AND DEMPSEY BOUT MAY BE ARRANGED

Promoters Say That Fight Would Net $200,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Possibly Governor-Elect Alfred E. Smith will favor a new boxing law in this state. If Willard should plead for more time and the Albany Legislature should pass a bill during the early part of the next session, a ten-round fight with Dempsey, to be held in Madison Square Garden some time in March, might be arranged.

Experienced boxing promoters say that Willard and Dempsey would draw nearly $200,000 in the big amphitheatre. The bout would be the juiciest plum ever know in the boxing game, easily surpassing the Willard-Moran affair of 1915, which attracted more than $150,000.

PRO HOCKEY LEAGUE TROUBLE ENDED AT MONTREAL MEETING

Only Three Teams May Be Entered in League.

A TWO-PART SCHEDULE

Will Continue to Play Six-Man Hockey—Rules Are Amended.

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The proposed new hockey league bubble burst at the postponed meeting of the National Hockey League at the Windsor Hotel on Saturday afternoon. The clubs decided to band themselves together for a period of five seasons, and Frank Calder was elected president and secretary for that period.

The startling announcement was made by T. P. Gorman and Ted Dey, who represented the Ottawa Club, that they were assured the use of the Arena ice of that city for the next five years, and that the contract between the two parties had been signed by each of them. Charlie Querrie also announced that the club controlled by him was assured of ice for the same period at Toronto, which eliminates all chance of a new league operating in either place in opposition. George Kennedy claims to have privileges at the Jubilee Rink, so that puts Montreal in the schedule again.

Puts It Up to Mr. Quinn.

Another bomb burst when it was decided to issue an ultimatum to Percy Quinn and his Shamrock Club of Toronto, giving him until tomorrow to decide what he intends to do with the franchise. If he does not send an answer the Quebec Club will be asked to operate a franchise, and, should they refuse, a three-team schedule will be played, as last winter.

Several changes in the playing rules were adopted, which will no doubt prove beneficial, and Ted Dey was elected a member of the board of directors in place of Martin Rosenthal of the Ottawa Club, who has retired from hockey. The following amendments were adopted:

Penalty Rules—In view of the fact that clubs do not suffer any hardships under the present penalty rule, as substitutes are allowed, it was decided that in future for all minor fouls a substitute would not be allowed until the penalized player had served three minutes of his penalty on the bench and the team had played short of the services of one man for that period.

In major fouls substitutes will not be allowed until a player had served five minutes of his penalty. In match fouls substitutes will not be allowed at all, the offending club to finish the match short of the services of the penalized player or players.

No Offsides in Mid-Ice.

Other playing rules were changed so that a space in the centre of the ice will be marked off and offsides and accidental kicking of the puck will not be penalized. This is the adoption of a rule used by the Pacific Coast League for the past four winters. In the opinion of those in attendance it will have a tendency to make the play faster, and will do away with the past tedious dragging caused by penalties for offside play. The clubs will continue to play six-man hockey.

Split Schedule Again.

The schedule will be divided into two parts, as in the past two seasons, and the winners of each will play off at the finish of the second half. A series of three games will be played, and the club winning two out of the three will earn the title, results to count, and not goals, as formerly.

Those in attendance were: Ottawa, T. Dey and T. P. Gorman; Toronto, Charlie Querrie; Canadiens, Geo. Kennedy and President Calder.

No schedule has been arranged, but the season will likely open December 18.

JABS AT SPORT

The St. Thomas Collegiate rugby squad is getting stronger. The Railway City lads defeated the Woodstock College team at Woodstock on Friday last.

The Jefferson Park track at New Orleans will open on November 23.

City League bowling games which were to be played at the National alleys Monday evening by the Brunswicks and Irish Rangers were postponed. These games will be played later on in the season.

Latonia race meeting will open tomorrow. The meet was scheduled to open a few days ago, but owing to the "flu" the ban was not lifted in time.

J. W. McIlmurray, the Toronto owner, has sold the promising green jumper, Smithfield, who ran fourth in the Manly Memorial. Smithfield was bred by Joseph E. Seagram of Waterloo.

J. K. L. Ross, the Canadian owner, is the leading winning owner this year on the continent, with $98,777. Last year he won $22,196, his chief money winner being Priscilla Mullens. This year Cudgel is his biggest winner. A. K. Macomber is the second largest winner, with $82,977, while H. P. Whitney is third with $70,309.

Nine of the twenty stallions nominated by various horsemen for the first running of the Pimlico breeders' remount purse, a $2,500 race and a mile for stallions three years old and upward, have passed as worthy to enter the service of the Government remount breeding bureau as potential sires of military horses. They are J. W. Bean's Captain Rey, Robert A. Smith's Don Jose, the Crown Stable's Greek Legend, Jefferson Livingston's Lion, Edward Beale McLean's Peerless One, J. H. Wood's Trial by Jury, Samuel Louis' Valais, George Peterson's Grey Eagle, and A. A. Doctor's Prunes.

RANGERS ARE LEADING THE SCOTTISH LEAGUE

GLASGOW, Nov. 11.—The result of the games in the Scottish League yesterday does not affect the standing of the teams to any great extent. Rangers, who won from Clyde, 3 to 0, hold a commanding lead, their nearest rivals, Celtic, sharing only the points with Hearts. Partick Thistle, by reason of a win over Third Lanark, 3 to 1, are now tied with Celtic in second place. The scores:

Queen's Park	3	Morton	3
Clydebank	1	Motherwell	1
Clyde	0	Rangers	3
Third Lanark	1	Partick Thistle	5
Ayr	1	Airdrieonians	4
Hearts	1	Celtic	1

LOCAL RUGBY SQUAD GETTING READY FOR GAME AT ST. THOMAS

Workout at Tecumseh Park Wednesday—Woodstock Game Unlikely.

The Collegiate rugby team will hold a practice at Tecumseh Park on Wednesday at 3 o'clock to prepare for an exhibition game with St. Thomas Collegiate squad.

The workout which was scheduled for yesterday was called off.

It is expected that St. Thomas Collegiate field day will be held Friday, and if so the Collegiate team will journey to the Railway City and put up a game. The St. Thomas lads were defeated by the locals some weeks ago by the score of 11 to 1.

It is doubtful if the Collegiate team and the Woodstock College will play a home-and-home series. If the locals play at St. Thomas on Friday they will be unable to play again Saturday, and by playing a home-and-home series after that date would bring the games into the early part of December.

Coach J. J. Syme stated that the St. Thomas game would likely wind up the season for the Collegiate team.

The team that goes up against St. Thomas in the next game will not be as strong as the team which won the game some time ago. Gillies will be missing from the backward division.

Coach Syme is anxious to have all the members of the team out at the workout Wednesday, and a signal practice will be held Thursday afternoon.

WEALTHY TURF MAN QUITS RACE GAME

Macomber, After Winning $80,000 This Year, Turns Thoroughbreds Out.

"A. K. Macomber will not race a string of horses next year," said Walter Jennings, his trainer, the other day. "I have orders to turn out the thoroughbreds at Silverbrook, the old stud farm near Red Bank, N. J., which was once owned by Appleby & Johnson, but which is now owned by F. Henshaw of New York. There are eight horses of Mr. Macomber's at Silverbrook. I have seven head at Pimlico, which, unless I sell them in the next ten days, I will ship to Red Bank as soon as Pimlico ends. Despite some hard luck, some of which was due to human beings, I have had a good season. I have won in round numbers $80,000, which heads the list of winners for the year up to date. Commander J. L. Ross is a close second to Mr. Macomber, and now that he has my three fast horses—War Pennant, War Marvel and Motor Cop—it may be that Trainer Bedwell, if he has good luck, will beat me out for first money.

"When Comanander Ross bought War Pennant, War Marvel and Motor Cop, he purchased three of the finest thoroughbreds in America. Unless War Pennant meets with some accident this winter he is certain to be one of the best, if not the best, 3-year-old of 1919. He has a fine disposition. A little boy can jog or canter him around the track. Motor Cop is the fastest horse in the country over a short route. He breaks so fast at the start that he gains an advantage that no horse can overcome. I understand that Commander Ross nearly won his purchase price out on Saturday.

"I don't expect to train next season," he concluded. "Circumstances and the war will control my actions. I have worked hard for many years, and I think I will take a rest. It may be that I'll purchase a few horses for myself. I bought a great many winners for Mr. Macomber, and I think I ought to have equal luck in picking good horses for myself. War Cloud and Hollister will be shipped to California, where they will be placed at the head of Mr. Macomber's band of brood mares."

CANADIAN TURFMAN HAS MADE $200,000 PURCHASE IN YEAR

J. K. L. Ross Pays Out Large Sum for Race Horses—Has Famous Trainer.

Commander J. K. L. Ross of Canada, who is among the newcomers in racing, has spent nearly $200,000 for horses within the past year. Ross' ambition is to compete successfully with the biggest men on the turf. Ross is known as a heavy better, although at first he started out with extremely modest wagers. Winning races and backing his horse, therefore, provide expensive recreation.

He first attracted attention when he paid $25,000 for Cudgel, which looked like a champion handicap horse early this year. But when Cudgel had sustained several defeats, Ross decided to invest in some high-class two-year-olds. He bought Sir Barton from John E. Madden for $20,000, and the colt ran second in the futurity. Then he paid $27,500 for the famous Billy Kelly at Saratoga and quickly recovered this sum in winning wagers. Ross also handed over nearly $10,000 to Madden for the two-year-old Milkmaid, which soon developed into one of the best of the season.

Still dissatisfied with the strength of his stable, Ross obtained Motor Cop, War Pennant and War Marvel from A. K. Macomber for $75,000 recently. Motor Cop is one of the star three-year-olds, particularly in sprint races, while War Pennant, which didn't show first-class quality until the recent fall meetings here, is regarded as among the leading two-year-olds. Ross also is the owner of Dottie Vandiveer, a good two-year-old filly; Boniface, Wigstone and Imp. Canso, all three-year-olds; Monomoy, Valais and Dearcroach, useful selling platers; Dramaturge and Early Sight, jumpers, and other horses of known ability.

Ross' trainer is H. G. Bedwell, who is noted for patching up cripples. Bedwell got into some difficulty with the Kentucky turf governors several years standing.

ALLIED BOXERS TAKE PART IN BIG BOUTS IN LONDON, ENGLAND

Yankee Boxers Will Fight for King's Trophy.

A big boxing tournament with an international tinge is to be held at the National Sporting Club, London, Eng., December 12 and 13. It will be for boxers of all the Allied navies, and they will compete for the King's trophy, which has been presented by King George to the club for competition. The entries will come from the British, French and United States navies, although the Italians also may be represented.

Admiral Sims, who is in European waters with the Yankee fleet, has sent word to the naval stations in the United States for the best entries of marines. It is likely that Joe Welling, who is with one of the battleships in the east, will be nominated, and the San Pedro station in California probably will select a boy like Jack Malone for the welterweight class.

Word was received by Commander John B. Kaufman, of the Great Lakes station, of the proposed tourney and requesting that the station be represented. Dr. Kaufman has in mind the sending of four men—Ritchie Mitchell, of Milwaukee, in the lightweight class; Pal Moore, bantamweight; Cal. Delaney, lightweight, and Vincent Porkorni, welterweight.

There are many good boxers with the Yankee fleet "over there," and the chances are that those lads will be given permission to take part when the time comes; in fact, many of the U. S. A. boys have been participating in the weekly shows given at the National Club in London for the entertainment of the American boys on the other side. Ritchie Mitchell and Joe Welling would make two worthy representatives for the "States" and would come near carrying off the prize in their class. They have met twice in ten-round matches and each time Mitchell was the winner on points.

BASEBALL LIKELY TO BE CONTINUED NEXT SEASON

Big Leagues Will Hold Annual Meeting Next Month.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—When the National and American Leagues hold their annual meetings next month there is no doubt that they will make plans for resuming the pennant races next summer. With the end of the war baseball officials who have been opposed to trying to start the season of 1919 have changed their views, and by the time the club owners get together it is believed that they will be unanimous in the decision to continue the game.

What Is the True Meaning of the Victory Loan?

We are within sight of Victory, and now, less than ever, can we afford to rest in a false atmosphere of security.

Now is the moment for a grand rally, an irresistible push forward with men and money.

The men are there—and always fresh ones go. They must continually be fed, clothed, and supplied with ammunition. The work of supporting them, the EASY PART, is ours. Shall any of us fail them at this end?

NO, A HUNDRED TIMES, NO!

And what are we asked to do? What is it that Canada asks of us?

Simply to LEND to our own country, more money, that the great fight may be finished for us, and that the sacrifices made for us in four years of war shall not be in vain. No thinking man or woman who realizes this can fail to respond to the limit of his or her ability.

Dempsey Eager To Meet Willard in Sport Drive

Jack Willing To Give His Share of the Money to Soldiers' Funds or Charities.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—If Philadelphia boxing fans don't see a bout between Jess Willard, the heavyweight champion and Jack Dempsey, the aspirant for the title, it will not be the fault of the latter, as he is willing to meet the champion in a bout here for any number of rounds, and if the affair is for the benefit of the soldiers or for the war fund campaign, the Red Cross or for any charitable fund connected with the war, then Dempsey will box for nothing and donate whatever might be coming to him to the charity that will conduct the contest. Such was the substance of the statement made last night by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, shortly after he arrived in this city from a trip to Milwaukee, where he and Dempsey had spent several weeks defending a lawsuit brought against Dempsey by John A. Reisler, a New York sporting man and former manager for Dempsey, who is suing the latter for breach of contract and claiming damages for the modest sum of $100,000.

Dempsey Wants To Aid.

Kearns had just heard through Tom Walsh of Chicago, who is now a shipyard worker here, that it was proposed to hold a series of boxing bouts throughout the country for the United War Charities, and that committee, headed by James Coffroth, had proposed a bout between Dempsey and Champion Jess Willard, with the idea that if Willard would agree the bout would be conducted in a New York amphitheatre, possibly Madison Square Garden. Kearns had not received any request for Dempsey's services, but he said that it could not come too soon, as Dempsey was ready to box Willard or any other man who would be selected. He had only one suggestion to make regarding the proposed bout, and that was, should Willard agree to box Dempsey, that the bout be held in Philadelphia for as many rounds as the police department would permit.

Philly is Jack's Home.

Kearns had a double reason for suggesting this city as the place for a Willard-Dempsey bout. He said that the latter had selected this city as his home while in the East, and intends to remain in this vicinity indefinitely. He has made a host of acquaintances here, and feels if the meeting with Willard is fought here that Dempsey would be boxing among friends. Kearns' second reason for suggesting Philadelphia as a battleground is that he believes the bout could be handled here so as to draw more money than it would in New York.

Kearns contended that so long as Dempsey would be boxing for nothing—and he will box Willard free of charge for the proposed charity—then he thought he would like to see the bout conducted in the place where it could be boxed free of any legal entanglements, as there is no law against boxing in Pennsylvania, while the sport is illegal in the Empire State, and therefore the match could be conducted without any fear of police interference. Kearns said in conclusion: "For Dempsey and myself put it as strong as you like." "Will Dempsey box Willard for the war charities fund?" "Yes, in Philadelphia any time, any number of rounds, and Dempsey doesn't [illegible] a cent, but cheerfully gives [illegible] free of charge."

Three months ago the United States Government placed an embargo upon the use of steel for making pulleys, except for war orders.

Since that time the difficulty of securing steel pulleys has been so great that some shop superintendents have been forced, against their better judgment, to buy Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys.

But a curious result has come about from this necessity.

Their experience with the Dodge Wood-Split Pulley has been so satisfactory that they are now specifying Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys instead of metal pulleys, both as regards replacements and new equipment.

They have found that the face of a Dodge Wood-Split Pulley provides greater adhesion, consequently there is less belt slip; and, our pulley being lighter and better balanced, there is less weight friction. These advantages effect a saving in power and coal.

They have also found that Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys may be run at higher speeds than metal pulleys without danger of bursting.

In short, the Dodge Wood-Split Pulley has proved that it will do all that any metal pulley ever did, and do it better, at a less cost.

Add to this that you can get a Dodge Wood-Split Pulley of any diameter, from 4 inches up to 6 feet, on the day you order it, and the arguments in its favor are complete.

Solving the Dress-Economy Problem With a Suspender Frock.

It's a pity that we haven't used more often the so-called suspender dress. For in these days when one wants to make a small wardrobe go further than ever before, the suspender dress is an excellent ally.

The foundation costume can be worn with a sombre blouse, or one to match its own dark hue, and be suitable for street wear. Or, by the use of a light-colored waist it can be transferred into a frivolous little frock, something suitable for an afternoon tea or even for a dinner gown.

We have passed through an era when we thought to economize by making one dress do for several occasions merely by hanging the collar a bit, or reversing the cuffs, lengthening sleeves, etc. In fact, for a time there threatened to be a great vogue for the economy dress that could be used in three or four ways, and be made to serve several occasions on the same day without change.

But the great objection to this type of costume is that it defeats the very purpose of changing a frock. The reason we wish to change a frock during the day isn't altogether vanity or display. To a great extent it is the impulsive wish to get into something different, something fresh, something that hasn't been with us during the cares of the day.

When we drop off the dress that we've been wearing all day, have been fretting in, perhaps, we also drop from our minds the cares that accompanied us during the day. A fresh frock means a refreshed disposition, too. It is, therefore, not an extravagance to wish to change the frock during the day, and if we are ingenious about it we can change the frock without making necessary an extravagantly generous wardrobe.

The suspender dress is one method. Three or four different blouses with one suspender dress make you feel as though you possessed three or four different complete gowns, and to all appearances they are different.

Here is a blue gabardine suspender dress which lends itself beautifully to almost any kind of blouse. It can be worn with the same color, with black, white or some more frivolous chiffon or georgette, perhaps, with a shadowy figure in it. As illustrated, this dress has a blouse of black satin, which with the blue gabardine gives the effect of something sombrely rich. To give it an air of elaboration the suspenders are embroidered in black braid, and a note of color is introduced by the red cord which fastens the blouse in front.

The sleeves are long and rather tight, with a plain cuff of black satin, unrelieved by any other color. However, this can be worn with a white organdie cuff or even red cuffs if one's taste turns to red splashes of color. A narrow belt of black patent leather clasps the waist loosely and fastens at the side.

The necktie of this blouse is extremely simple—rounded and collarless. For it's advisable not to wear a collar with this type of frock, as it destroys the sweep of line from shoulder to waist which the suspender produces.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Turkish Customs Still Rule the Mind of Another Nation and Girls Make Their Locks Longer With Horsehair.

For half a thousand years Bulgaria lay a captive under Turkish rule, yet she has been—through glowering at her ancient enemy —an ally of Turkey through her alliance with Germany. Yet in the Bulgaria of before the war there were evidences still existing of the Turkish rule.

Some of these were picturesque. Others were strange and not understandable to western minds. For instance, there was and is the contrast between the Bulgarian treatment of pigs and their treatment of draught animals.

Almost any market day you could see gaily dressed girls plodding to market with a pig slung over each shoulder, held by a rope tied so tight that it cut into the flesh to the bone. Head down they were carried, their eyes sometimes popping from their sockets at the end of the journey that may have consumed three or four hours. But on hot days one often saw girls with tin dippers in their hands throwing water over the sweltering buffaloes to make them comfortable.

This startling contrast between the treatment of pigs and buffaloes is traced to the Mohammedan ideas that still survive in Bulgaria, for the Mohammedans almost revere the buffalo, while their religion abominates the pig.

But from just where Bulgarian women acquired the habit of piecing out their own hair with hair that looks for all the world like horsehair might be difficult to discover. Usually short, the Bulgarian maiden's hair with this appendage invariably falls below the waist.

Once possessed of such an aid to "beauty," the Bulgarian girl will spend hours splicing the horsehair into her own locks. Then she makes a score or more of tiny plaits that she spreads over her back, joining them together in loops at the end.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Seivert

DORIS AND HER WINTER GUEST.

Doris watched the grey clouds go sailing by. Mamma had told her that it would probably snow before morning, and Doris wondered what the poor little crickets would do then.

"Mamma, where do crickets go in the winter time?" she asked when Mamma brought out a shawl and wrapped it around her shoulder.

"Most of them stay in their little homes under the ground, unless they can find a corner in some one's fireplace," replied her Mamma. Telling Doris not to stay out too long, she returned to the house.

From over in the meadow came the soft chirping of a little cricket.

"I wish one of them would come and live in our fireplace," mused Doris. "Wonder if it would chirp in the winter evenings for me."

"She certainly would," exclaimed a squeaky voice, and Doris' little friend, Happy Giggles, from Makebelieve Land, hopped upon the step beside her. "And they say a cricket on the hearth brings good luck, too."

"Oh, do you think Mrs. Cricket would like to live in our fireplace!" cried Doris. "Please, Happy Giggles, let's go and ask her."

"All right," laughed Happy Giggles, who always loved to see children unselfish. "Mrs. Cricket has had one sorrowful day. Her home was destroyed and all her winter supplies taken, and she really doesn't know just what to do, for her baby isn't old enough to take care of itself yet."

"And she's still singing so merrily, with all her trouble!" exclaimed Doris. "Poor dear!" Before she could blink her eyes she and Happy Giggles were standing before what was left of Mrs. Cricket's once happy home.

Mrs. Cricket was rocking back and forth in a tiny rocking chair made of grass blades, singing her baby to sleep.

"What good would it do to fret and cry over my trouble," chirped Mrs. Cricket, merrily. "It only makes matters worse. All I want is to build another home before it snows."

"Doris came to invite you to live in her fireplace this winter," laughed Happy Giggles. "A cricket brings good luck, you know."

"Luck, nothing!" laughed Mrs. Cricket, merrily. "Luck comes to the happy home, always. But I'd only be too glad to move over there if I'm really wanted."

"You certainly are wanted!" exclaimed Doris. "I'll consider myself lucky if I can hear your merry chirping all winter. It will help pass away the days."

"Anyone who tries to help others is bound to find happiness," said Happy Giggles, as they all went back to Doris' house. "And where there's happiness, good luck will surely follow."

Doris placed Mrs. Cricket and her baby in the chinks of the fireplace, and Mrs. Cricket repaid her with merry songs all winter long.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13.

The planetary forecast for this day points to brilliant and happy accomplishments. The two great benefics, Jupiter and Venus, are in trine aspect with the Moon, than which there are no greater tokens among the stellar figures for success, advancement, increase of fortune and all 'round pleasure, happiness and prosperity. In all respects it is a time for forging ahead and pushing the affairs along all lines of human interest—commercial, professional, social domestic and romantic. New, powerful and pleasant friendships are indicated, Sol parallel Neptune may give some peculiar of extraordinary complexion to most experiences.

Those whose birthday it is have a very promising anniversary with every prospect of advancement, increase of fortune, happiness and new, agreeable and influential friends. A child born on this day will be kind, affectionate, generous, popular and will succeed in life.

There is more special grace requisite and manifest in watchful perseverance in little kindnesses and habitual patience at home, in abstinence from conversational disparagement of others, and in resistance to habits of sloth and undue self-indulgence in private life, than in the performance of great public duties under the observation of multitudes.

Every person has two educations—one which he receives from others, and one more important, which he gives himself.

Why Your Mouth "Waters" at the Sight o. "Good Food"

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D., (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

"Ah-h, that makes my mouth water," you say, as you sniff the aroma of a juicy steak on the gridiron. If your mouth really "watered," it is one thing. If the fragrant vapors urged your dilated nostrils to flash a message to your gourmand of a stomach and incite an appetite there, that is another thing.

When your belt is loose, your alimentary canal slim and vacant, and your muscles lean and tense, the tang of fresh bread or the smell of roast beef may literally invoke saliva to form in your mouth and hydrochloric acid and pepsin in your stomach. So when you aver that your "mouth waters," you understand only that you are a bit greedy and desirous to have a taste of what you see or smell, irrespective of real hunger.

Actual hunger from a long interval without food, such as an enforced fast or starvation, will at the sight, smell or taste of food arouse the digestive glands of the mouth to pour forth saliva, and the peptic acid glands of the stomach wall to spout gastric juice in anticipation of the needed feast to assuage the famished tissues.

Effects of Emotions.

Contrary to this "mouth-watering" state of alimentary affairs is the dry mouth of the victim of stage fright. Just as pleasure and happiness are apt to inaugurate an extra amount of saliva and gastric juice, so fear and grief check their output to the extent of causing a dry mouth and a hungerless stomach.

The stellar role played by those physical whips and mischief-makers, the emotions, upon the productive tissues of the animal anatomy are perhaps nowhere emphasized more than in the tears, saliva and gastric juice.

The effect of the emotions on the stomach is indicated when many persons tell you they prefer "home cooking" to hotel and restaurant meals. It is the glow and satisfaction, the joy and contentment of the family circle and the motherly and family associations of the home which help the digestive juices to do more than their part.

A Household Contrast.

Home cooking "tastes good" because the excitement, worry, rush, annoyances, business problems and other irritations are all left behind in the balmy comfort of the home.

On the other hand, the mother and housewife seldom eats her own cooking with zest or pleasure. Her mouth does not "water" for the treasured delicacies her son or husband would travel miles to eat. It is because her stomach has "had such a fill" of the odor, tastes and sight of the good things in course of their preparation that she is surfeited with them and cannot enjoy them as they deserve to be enjoyed.

It is on this account also that the man of family may wax fat and lazy, while his worried, busy, industrious housewife remains gaunt, thin and spare. The husband enjoys his wife's appetizing meals to the utmost, and his digestive powers need no artificial urging. The very happiness of his home makes his stomach digest and absorb the delectable foods his spouse sets before him.

The wife, however, frets, stews and worries over the kitchen range. These emotions, the very contradictory of the husband's, give pause to her salivary and stomach glands. Because she does not half-digest her rations she fails to take on flesh or to have the good digestion which waits an appetite.

The remedy is plain and is to be found in the facts. It is up to the all-too-comfortable husband to make it easier for his wife.

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. W. J. A. Q.—Kindly advise what to do for a goitre. Also what to do for head noises.

A.—There are various kinds of goitre. Some require treatment, but most of them require an operation, which is the only cure.

There are a great many origins of head noises and a careful examination by an ear specialist can find the precise cause. Unless the exact cause is found nothing can be done.

JOE. Q.—Kindly advise what to do for pimples.

A.—Apply a little of the following to the affected parts:

Balsam peru	½ dram
Camphor	½ dram
Green soap	1 dram
Lanolin	½ ounce
Vaseline	½ ounce

J. S. Q.—Kindly advise what to do for a backache.

A.—A backache may have its source in the internal structures, such as the muscle strain, constipation and others. Change your mattress, your bed, and the room you sleep in. Go to bed early and take a hot bath before bedtime. Keep your bowels open twice a day, and use a vibrator or a small electric battery on your back. Change your posture, and, if possible, your occupation, but have the internal cause sought and removed by an examination.

MY SOLDIER HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S CONTINUATION OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Is Lillian's Real Guess About Dicky?

I quickly negatived Lillian's query concerning the possibility of getting Dicky's checkbook for her.

"Impossible!" I said decisively. "He was so angry at finding it in my possession that he has even gone to the ridiculous length of having a padlock put upon his desk."

My cheeks flamed at the confession. Lillian checked an amused laugh as she saw them.

"You mustn't take it that way, child," she said seriously. "Even if you had taken his checkbook from his desk—which his mother fortunately saved you the trouble of doing—you would have been perfectly justified in the act. Dicky is no more reponsible than a child these days, and we've simply got to get him on his feet again.

"I've been a regular little ferret since I've been you, and I've found out that our Dicky-bird stands mighty well with the powers that be, and has some crackerjack friends who think he's the snowiest of all the white-headed boys going. If his eyes don't go back on him, they're ready to give him a chance for service here, until he's in shape for the overseas work. But, of course, they can't wait forever, and in the meantime the Dicky-bird's overturning the well-known apple cart just as fast as he can. We've simply got to call a halt on him in some way. Now listen."

The Arresting Name.

She whipped out the tiny notebook, without which she never goes anywhere—I have accused her of taking it to bed with her—and poising her pencil above it spoke quickly, decisively.

"With your memory we don't need the checkbook if you've once looked it over. Now tell me the names of the people to whom he gave checks, the amounts and purpose, as far as you know."

"I won't be able to do it so completely," I protested, "because I didn't expect to memorize them when I looked at them, and therefore did not concentrate upon them. But I can give you the most important ones I am sure."

"All right. Go to it," Lillian retorted impatiently, and for the next quarter of an hour I recited names, approximate dates and amounts of the check stubs I remembered seeing, while Lillian jotted them down.

At my first mention of the name "E. Stern," to whom Dicky had checked out so much money, she raised her head quickly, while her pencil for a moment remained inactive. I was sure that there was something about the name that she recognized, but the next moment her pencil was lowered again, and she was saying with an assumption of misunderstanding that seemed to me to be a trifle too obvious:

Lillian's One Demand.

"B. Stearns, did you say S-t-e-a-r-n-s?"

"No, E. Stern, S-t-e-r-n."

"How stupid of me! Is there any address?"

"Only New York city."

"H-m!" she commented. "All right. Go on."

"I might as wel tell you now, Lillian," I said, "that there are any number of checks to this same person, and that they're the only ones which have no notation as to the reason for their issuance."

She laid down her notebook abruptly. "The colored gentleman in the woodpile has emerged," she said, adding reproachfully. "If you'd told me this at first, Madge, we'd have saved a quarter of an hour's work."

I flushed painfully, but did not reply, for I had no defence except my own lack of vision.

"Forgive me, dear," she said contritely. "Of course, you couldn't be much else on your mind. And I'm getting awfully cranky and impatient lately. Guess I'm getting old. But we mustn't waste time on ourselves. Tell me the sum total of those checks to Stern and the date on the last one."

I told her and she jotted them down and—as if forgetting that I existed—computed rapidly with her pencil for several minutes. Then she cupped her chin in her hands and with her elbows on her knees stared at the fire. I waited quietly until she sprang to her feet, always the signal that she had worked out a problem.

"Madge, I've got to see Dicky's cancelled checks if I have to commit burglary, arson, mayhem and murder to do it. Take me to his room, and let me see the padlock he's got on his desk. Ten to one I can duplicate it and the key at the local hardware store. And believe me, if I can't, I'll smash the lock, and have it out with Dicky-bird afterward. I'm not going to see him ruin his whole future career for the sake of a scruple or two."

Writes About "Men Who're Telling Their Ages."

Copyright, 1918, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

Well, well, what do you think?

The men are beginning to be sensitive about their ages—and we women have begun to find it out.

It's all coming out through the draft boards.

The other day a man went into the draft board in one of the great cities and said he was in trouble.

He was 51 years old, he said, and—a and—a—

But the woman who was helping to make out the registration card told him that she was not settling troubles just then and that at that present moment she was only interested in men who were under forty-six years of age.

The man hung around and hung around, and wouldn't go, and at last he came out with the amazing truth.

"Four months ago," he said, "I married a very young woman. She wasn't 20 and her friends said I was too old for her, so I told her I was 39.

"Now she's worried to death for fear I'm going to be drafted.

"Cries about it all the time, and every time the telephone rings she thinks it's someone ringing me up to tell me my number has been called.

"And today she's worried because she thinks I haven't registered, and she just knows I'll be arrested for a slacker, and she simply can't stand that.

The Cold Registrar.

"I am really 51, and I can prove it, but, of course, I can't tell her that."

"Well," said the woman at the draft board, "what do you expect me to do about it?"

"Well," said the man, "I thought you'd maybe fix me up with a little card or something that I can take home and show her and then she'll let me alone."

But the woman at the draft desk was as cold as a stone. She told the man that he had done very wrong to deceive his wife about his age, and that the only thing for him to do was to go straight home and tell her the truth.

Ever since the woman at the draft board told me this story I've been wondering what the young wife said when her husband had to tell her the truth about his age, and what difference it will make in her affection for him.

This is just one man who asked for the card, but thousands of men are telling the plain truth about their ages for the first time—right now.

I know a man who is in a terrible situation.

When the war broke out he was perfectly crazy to go. He thought he would die if he couldn't enlist, so he said—but, oh, the tragedy of it!—though still nothing but a boy in his heart, still overflowing with the vital enthusiasm of youth, he was three months past 36—and that settled it.

Everyone felt so sorry for him, he was such a big, husky, athletic chap, the very figure of a soldier. All the girls were quite broken-hearted about it; some of them felt so sorry for him that they did their best to comfort him in every way.

No Camouflaging Ages.

The other day, when the 45 draft age went into effect, the poor man was drafted and really had to go, and the worst of it was that it turned out he was 43 all the time, or has been since the first draft.

"A man is as old as he feels, and a woman is as old as she looks." That's what they used to tell us. But, dear me, the census reports and the army board don't seem to pay the least bit of attention to these pleasant little proverbs. Heartless, unfeeling things that they are, they're dragging poor, shy, inoffensive creatures right out into the public light and making them confess their ages—just as if they were women and had a whole family of relatives keeping tab on them from the minute they were born.

No more camouflaging of the ages, gentlemen.

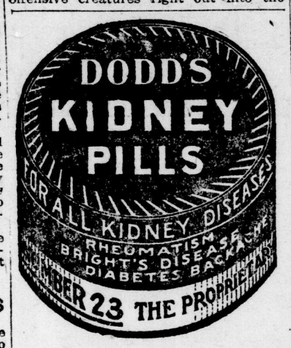

Let's have the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth—that's what you've been demanding from us since Eve handed Adam the apple, and turn about is at least going to be fair play.

The Australian eucalyptus—otherwise the gum tree—has a world-wide reputation. It has been grown successfully in many countries, and in New Zealand it has been found that its growth is, in favorable spots, faster than in Australia. In Brazil, in which country the eucalyptus was first introduced a quarter of a century ago, the authorities have come to recognize its intrinsic value for timber which is eminently suitable for railway-sleepers and also for fuel for railway locomotives.

As long as idleness is shut out from our lives all the sins of wantonness are prevented and there is little danger of temptation.

Incompetence, slackness, ignorant neglect are the causes of half our woes. Let us be informed, let us be determined, and we shall not fail.

"With you I rejoice. Thank God for the victories which the Allied armies have won and have brought hostilities to an end."---King George.

GERMANY IS STRIPPED OF POWER TO RENEW THE WAR; HUN TROOPS MUST RETIRE 18 MILES EAST OF RHINE

Teutons Must Surrender Large Part of Fleet, Munitions and War Materials and Make Ample Reparation For Damage Done---Allied Prisoners Must Be Given Up and All Gold and Securities Stolen Must Be Returned as Provided in the Terms of the Armistice.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Terms of the armistice which ends the world-war, because they strip Germany of the power to renew it, were announced by President Wilson today in an address to Congress, assembled in joint session.

Evacuation of all the invaded territories, including Alsace-Lorraine, reparation for all damage done; occupation by Allies' forces of principal gateways to Germany, handing over of the principal units of the German high seas fleet, surrender of enough war materials to practically disarm the German forces, and the occupation by American and Allied forces of strategic gateways to Germany to force the fulfillment of the terms are the principal features.

War Machine "Scrapped."

Complete destruction of the German military machine, which brought on the war, is provided for, and the way paved for reparation for the damage it wrought.

Germany must get out of Russia entirely and leave territory now occupied open to the Allies The map of Europe, during discussion of peace terms, will be restored to the lines of 1914.

Germany must return the thousands of unfortunates she deported into slavery from France, Belgium and the other invaded countries; she must return the gold taken from Russia, Rumania and Belgium, and she must make good for the property removed by her troops.

Russia and Rumania Free.

The treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which delivered Russia into Germany's hands, is to be abandoned; the "peace" dictated at Bucharest, which prostrated Rumania, is likewise to be abandoned.

American and Allied prisoners of war are to be repatriated without reciprocal action. What German forces remain in East Africa are to surrender unconditionally.

Guns, airplanes and other engines of war, numbered by the thousands, are to be turned over to the associated governments, with their accoutrements. No further destruction must be wrought by the retreating German hordes, and vast supplies of coal, iron and other war-making materials in the territories they occupy must be handed over undamaged.

No Scrap of Paper.

Germany is to pay for the maintenance of the troops the associated governments will place at strategic points in the Rhineland to assure that her promises shall not be a "scrap of paper." German merchant ships are to be handed over undamaged, that they may be put into the numane work of relieving the distress of her civilian population, which the victorious Allies will at once undertake 'n a spirit of mercy.

In the Black Sea, as well as in the Baltic, the tentacles of the German military machine are to be clipped by the surrender of forts and ships. Everywhere on all the fronts Germany is required to deliver her sword, while the American and Allied troops take positions to enforce her agreement.

Everywhere the great military power which set out to conquer the world in a saturnalia of frightfulness stands humbled before the crusaders for righteousness.

Foch Puts Clamps on Germany

Immediate evacuation of Belgium, France, Alsace-Lorraine and Luxemburg.

Repatriation of inhabitants of above countries in fourteen days.

Surrender of 5,000 guns; 3,000 minenwerfers; 30,000 machine guns and 2,000 airplanes.

Germans must destroy nothing nor remove or harm inhabitants in retiring.

Surrender of railways and rolling stock in territory to be evacuated.

Allied prisoners of war to be delivered by Germany; Allies to hold German prisoners.

All German troops must leave Russia—the pre-1914 Russia.

Full reparation for damage done.

Return of money taken from Belgium and all stolen securities.

Restitution of Russian and Rumanian gold yielded to Germany.

Germany to release all neutral vessels seized.

All Allied merchant ships in German hands must be returned.

Allies reserve right to occupy Helgoland if mutiny interferes with delivery of warships.

Armistice effective for 30 days, with option to extend.

Failure to execute any clause may result in denunciation of armistice on 48 hours' notice.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11.—The Grand Duke of Oldenburg has been dethroned and the Grand Duke of Mecklenberg-Schwerin has abdicated, according to dispatches from Hamburg.

The Hamburg Nachrichten, which reports the abdication of the grand duke, says that a government for Mecklenberg has been forced by a workers' and soldiers council.

In many towns of Northern Germany the military has refused to recognize the soldiers' and workers' council. In these places the local administration has been taken over by a commissary.

FIGHTING IN BERLIN.

BASEL, Nov. 11.—Fighting between revolutionary forces and imperial troops was still going on in Berlin Sunday morning. The struggle which began Saturday evening broke out afresh at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

SEAPORT TAKEN OVER.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 11.—Describing the situation in Berlin late Saturday, the correspondent there of the Handelsblad says:

"Since morning the aspect of Berlin has changed completely. Carriages filled with soldiers and civilians moved slowly through the streets crowded with sightseers, who are not yet able fully to comprehend. Soldiers carrying red flags shouted, 'Long live the republic!' and sang the 'Marseillaise.' There are no police, but soldiers are keeping order. The sightseers today concentrated on the Under den Linden and the Schlosspatz and were remarkably quiet. On the imperial palace, the palace of the crown prince and the Government Buildings red flags were waving. There were hundreds of processions throughout the city, in which civilians and soldiers joined."

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advt.

Yanks in Front Line Rejoice on Receipt of News

Peace News Spread Like Wildfire Among Troops.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE MEUSE AND MOSELLE FRONTS, Nov. 11, 11:50 p.m.—(By the Associated Press.)—News that the armistice had been signed spread like wildfire along the American front on the Moselle River to the region of Sedan. Reaching the various headquarters early in the day news passed by wire and wireless to division and regiment and finally from mouth to mouth to the boys in the forward lines.

It was among the boys in the foremost lines who had been under shell fire for days that there was the most genuine rejoicing.

LONDON LIGHTED FOR FIRST TIME SINCE AIR RAIDS STARTED

Lid Was Off All But the Coast Towns Last Night.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Tonight London will be better lighted than at any time since the first air raid by the Germans. Coast towns, at the request of the admiralty, will remain in darkness for a short time. An order was issued today that screens might be removed from street and house lights, but owing to the coal shortage the number of lights must not be increased yet. Restrictions regarding the use of fireworks have been removed.

KEEP THE BOWELS REGULAR AND YOU WON'T BE SICK

If the bowels do not move regularly, they will, sooner or later, become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this, one of the most important organs of the body. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apartments, Calgary, Alta., writes: "I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WILSON SEES NEW PROBLEM IN GERMANY

"With What Government Are We To Deal."

ALLIES MUST GIVE AID

Hunger Breeds Madness and Germans Must Be Saved.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—After announcing the terms to Congress the president said:

"The war thus comes to an end; for, having accepted the terms of the armistice, it will be impossible for the German command to renew it.

"It is not now possible to assess the consequences of the great consummation. We know only that this tragical war, whose consuming flames swept from one nation to another until all the world was on fire, is at an end; that it was the privilege of our own people to enter it at its most critical juncture in such fashion and in such force as to contribute in a way, of which we are all proud, to the great result. We know, too, that the object of the war is attained; the object upon which all free men had set their hearts; and attained with a sweeping completeness which even now we do not realize. Armed imperialism such as the men conceived who were but yesterday the masters of Germany, is at an end, its illicit ambitions engulfed in black disaster.

Now, to Secure Democracy.

"The great nations which associated themselves to destroy it have now definitely united in the common purpose to set up such a peace as will satisfy the longing of the whole world for disinterested justice, embodied in settlements which are based upon something much better and more lasting than the selfish competitive interests of powerful states.

"The humane temper and intention of the victorious governments has already been manifested in a very practical way. Their representatives in the supreme war council at Versailles have by unanimous resolution assured the people of the central empires that everything that is possible in the circumstances will be done to supply them with food and relieve the distressing want that is in so many places threatening their very lives; and steps are to be taken immediately to organize these efforts at relief in the same systematic manner that they were organized in the case of Belgium.

Will Rush Food to Them.

"By the use of the idle tonnage of the central empires it ought presently to be possible to lift the fear of utter misery from their oppressed populations, and set their minds and energies free for the great and hazardous tasks of political reconstruction which now face them on every hand. Hunger does not breed reform; it breeds madness, and all the ugly distempers that make an ordered life impossible. For, with the fall of the ancient governments which rested like an incubus on the people's of the central empires, has come political change not merely, but revolution; and revolution which seems as yet to assume no ordered form, but to run from one fluid change to another, until thoughtful men are forced to ask themselves, 'With what governments and of what sort are we about to deal in the making of the covenants of peace?'

"With what authority will they meet us, and with what assurance that their authority will abide and sustain successfully the international arrangements into which we are about to enter? There is here matter for no small anxiety and misgiving. When peace is made, upon whose promises and engagements besides our own is it to rest?

Anarchy Is Bad Rule.

"The peoples which have but just come out from under the yoke of arbitrary government, and who are now coming at last into their freedom, will never find the treasures of liberty they are in search of if they look for them by the light of the torch. They will find that every pathway that is stained with the blood of their own brothers leads to the wilderness, not to the seat of their hope. They are now face to face with their initial test. We must hold the light steady until they find themselves. And in the meantime, if it be possible, we must establish a peace that will justly define their place among the nations, remove all fear of their neighbors, and of their former masters, and enable them to live in security and contentment when they have set their own affairs in order.

"I, for one, do not doubt their purpose or their capacity. There are some happy signs that they know and will choose the way of self-control and peaceful accommodation. If they do, we shall put our aid at their disposal in every way that we can. If they do not, we must await with patience and sympathy the awakening of recovery that will assuredly come at last."

Congressmen Approve.

Unanimous approval of the armistice terms imposed on Germany was voiced today by members of Congress.

President Wilson's suggestion in his address informing Congress of the armistice terms, that the victorious nations extend aid to the peoples of the central powers in their efforts for self-government, and to prevent them from further suffering for want of food and other necessities of life, also was commended.

WHAT WAITING FOR GOOD NEWS MEANT IN THESE OFFICES

Few Facts About Long Hours Spent in Work.

All Advertiser employees excepting the editorial staff enjoyed a half-holiday yesterday, with the result that the last edition was published at 12:30 o'clock noon.

Advertiser carriers were called to report at the office to deliver the earlier edition and most of them responded, despite the counter-attractions of the day. One or two boys failed to put in an appearance, and for several hours subscribers called up reporting non-delivery. When the circumstances were reported most of the readers accepted the situation like "good sports." When they were told that the evening paper printers had insisted on the half-holiday, subscribers said: "Don't blame 'em. You gave us the big news anyway."

A few were inclined to the belief, apparently, that no newspaper employee, no matter for how long hours he may have worked during the days of suspense that followed peace negotiations, was entitled to a holiday, but they were the exceptions. Indeed, any kind of "grouch" was an exception yesterday.

THIS MEANS WORK.

Probably the record for constant service during what amounts to a crisis in a newspaper office was won by Charles Case, Canadian Press operator, who usually copies the news reports from 6:30 in the evening until 2:30 in the morning. Mr. Case stayed in The Advertiser office for as long a period as 48 hours, without leaving his wire for more than a moment, and had his first real rest yesterday following the receipt of the signing of the armistice. Harold Tanton, day operator of the Canadian Press, also was at the wire almost constantly. He worked one "stretch" of 36 hours, and would have been on the job longer if necessary.

Mr. Case was required by The Advertiser more constantly because of the difficulty of securing a relief operator during the daytime from the telegraph offices or stock brokers. H. S. Easton of Thomson-McKinnon and G. A. Coates of the C. P. R. Telegraph Company's staff, assisted on the wire at The Advertiser, which was manned every minute for more than a week. Editorial employees were almost as constantly "on the job" to get out the editions with the necessary mechanical co-operation.

The Advertiser's force was devoted and loyal during the whole period of suspense. No newspaper ever had a more willing and self-sacrificing crew of workers. Reporters and "desk men" put their hearts into their "stories," and printers and "make-up" men, stereotypers, pressmen and mailing room and carrier crews worked with every ounce of energy and speed to get the news to the people.

Right to the newsboy who sells the paper, The Advertiser got a response to the big opportunity for newspaper service. And as scores of telephone calls and personal interviews testify, the public was pleased with the service, and more than ever willing to acknowledge its appreciation of journalistic effort.

A Mistaken Notion.

One phase of such an occasion in a newspaper office that might be remarked upon is the belief existing among a section of the public that the sale of extra editions makes a harvest for a newspaper. This is an entirely erroneous idea. In the first place a newspaper never receives more than one and one-third cent from a newsboy or more than 2 cents from the public over the counter. The cost of the newsprint in the paper takes that amount, and in addition there are expenses which run into hundreds of dollars a day. During a period such as the present the overtime bills of a newspaper run into a large amount.

The Advertiser has been glad to have the opportunity to spend what was necessary to "cover" the events—and a little more. The only reason this statement is made is to clear up the misconception existing among a certain number of people (who are usually those who do not buy "extras") that the sale of papers is exploited merely to make money.

TAKING NO CHANCES

American Naval Units Will Not Relax Vigilance a Trifle.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Until German submarines and other war craft designated in the armistice terms have been surrendered and the remainder of the enemy's naval forces disarmed, Secretary of the Navy Daniels said today, the American navy will in no way relax its vigilance. Instructions to this effect, following those given by General Pershing to the army in France are assumed to be already in the hands of the commanders of all ships.

PUBLIC LIBRARY OPEN

Many New Books Put on Shelves During Closure.

The public library was reopened this morning in accordance with the ruling of the board of health, and hours at both the main library and esat branch will from now on be as usual. During the time that the library was closed the staff prepared a large number of new books for circulation, and much work was also done in connection with the reference department. The reference department is prepared at all times to render assistance to anyone making investigations of any kind, preparing addresses, papers, etc., material required on any subject will be gathered together.

Present plans are that the south branch will open in less than a month. A large number of the books needed for this new branch were made ready during the last three weeks and others will be added steadily.

TIME TO PREPARE FOR RETURN OF SOLDIERS TO CIVIL LIFE OF DOMINION

City Clerk Advises Council and Board of Trade to Get Busy.

Something should be done immediately by the city council and the board of trade to start some action towards trade expansion and to provide employment for the men as they return from the battlefields, says City Clerk S. Baker. The city is facing problems upon the solution of which will depend to a great extent the growth of the city during the next few years, he thinks.

In connection with this problem of reconstruction, a membership dinner is being planned by the board of trade, when the members will be asked to express any ideas htey may have formulated as to what course should be taken. The principal speaker for the occasion will be one who will have just come from a meeting of the National Association of Secretaries of Chambers of Commerce of the United States, at which the main topic for discussion will be the problem of reconstruction. It is anticipated that he will have some plans that are worth putting in effect.

CONSERVED SUGAR.

During the month of October, the various units of the militia in London conserved in the neighborhood of 50 per cent of the standard ration of two ounces per day per man. The boys managed to remain sweet through it all, too.

PRESIDENT POINCARE CONGRATULATES FOCH

Paris, Nov. 11 (Havas).—President Poincare received Marshal Foch today and congratulated him warmly on the signing of the truce.

NO CARS AVAILABLE FOR INVALIDED MEN IN BIG PROCESSION

G. W. V. A. Tried to Secure Some for Them.

"It was a crying shame," said J. W. Cunliffe, secretary of the G. W. V. A., when asked if there was any truth in the statement made by several people today that the returned disabled men felt that they should have been provided with some means of transportation, so they could have joined in the parade yesterday.

"Was anything done to secure automobiles for them?" the scribe queried.

"Yes," he replied. "I tried to get some cars, but in every instance but one I was told by the owners that their cars were engaged for the parade.

Men Feel Sore.

"I told them that the boys who left arms and legs on the battlefields of France and Belgium did not consider their personal interests when they volunteered for service, and I thought selfishness should have been banned yesterday. The men feel rather sore at the treatment, as they, in many cases, did more than hundreds in the parade towards the winning of the war and they think they should have been given a place in the procession."

City Clerk S. Baker said that the committee, composed of Mayor C. R. Somerville, Ald. F. E. Harley and himself, decided that no cars should be in the parade. "Of course, when the members of the headquarters staff arrived in automobiles, we could not turn them out."

A Mix-Up.

Mr. Baker said in explanation it had been decided to provide seats for these men on the site of the proposed federal square, but the returned heroes did not want this, and the matter was finally left to Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles with power. When spoken to about it, Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles said that he and Controller J. M. Moore were on the committee to arrange for the soldiers from Byron Sanatorium to see the parade, and he understood from Mr. Moore that the matter had been settled.

Stranded On Top of High Building; Scribe In Misery

Friend Releases Him After Few Hours of Nervous Tension.

To be stranded on the roof of a four-story building with no visible means of escape other than by a nice long drop was the thrilling experience of Russell Boyd, an Advertiser scribe, late yesterday afternoon. Mr. Boyd thought that it was impossible to get a good view of the parade from The Advertiser windows, owing to them being all reserved earlier in the day, so traveled around the block till he got to the rear of the building opposite The Advertiser, and then started the daring climb upwards, over roofs and up brick walls. He found an old ladder and started to scale the 20-foot wall which would bring him to his destination. All went well so far. He viewed the parade from a height of 65 feet, and after the parade had gone by, the perilous descent had to be started. When the scribe came to the edge of the roof, behold the ladder instead of standing up was lying on the lower roofs.

Boyd traveled all over the roofs, but found no visible means of escape. At one place he tried to get down, but slipped, and with great difficulty managed to work his way back up again. He tried all manner and ways of signalling to other reporters in the editorial rooms of The Advertiser, but still no assistance came. At last in looking over the edge of the building he saw Dan Break, one of the scribes, going down the street, and as a last resort made a noise which was heard over the din of the celebration. Break, turned, realized the trouble, and came to the assistance of Boyd, whose nerves were at the breaking point.

TWO DERAILMENTS.—There were two cases of derailment on the Grand Trunk system in London today. This morning about 8:40, passenger yard engine 1430 ran off the track a few rods west of Richmond street. As a result, both main lines were blocked for about three hours. About 11:30 o'clock, however, the auxiliary arrived and re-railed the engine. Outside of the traffic blockade, no damage was done. This afternoon a car was off the track near Rectory street for about ten minutes. It was placed on the track again without the aid of the auxiliary.

LONDON ND PARIS WILDLY CELEBRATING

Signing of Armistice Followed by Unrestricted Outbursts of Joy.

"ENTITLED TO REJOICE"

Was Premier Lloyd George's Message — French Cheer Foch and Clemenceau.

LONDON, Nov. 11, 1:55 p.m.—Speaking from the balcony of Buckingham Palace, King George said:

"With you I rejoice. Thank God for the victories which the Allied armies have won and have brought hostilities to an end. Peace is within sight."

Waving flags and cheering, an enormous crowd pressed into Downing street before noon today shouting "Lloyd George! Lloyd George!" Finally the cheers and shouts brought the premier and Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, to a second floor window of the premier's residence. When they appeared pandemonium ensued.

Jolly Good Fellow.

For five minutes the crowd cheered and waved flags frantically and then they sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The premier stood passively and unsmiling, but his face was serene. When order and silence had been secured he began to speak as follows:

"You are entitled to rejoice. The people of this country and of their allies and the people of our overseas dominions and of India have won a glorious victory. It was the sons and daughters of the people who have won it. It is the most wonderful victory for liberty in the history of the world. Let us thank God for it."

Lord Mayor Speaks.

The lord mayor of London, who, in response to calls from the crowds, came to the front of the Mansion House, said:

"Citizens of London: Let us congratulate ourselves on the great news that our four years of strenuous work has now come to an end and that we see before us the result of the strenuous labor of Great Britain and her allies.

"Let us not forget that there is still work for every loyal and patriotic citizen in the reconstruction and many other problems which must arise. I will only say now let us give three cheers to his majesty."

To this there was a great response.

Cheer Navy Heads.

At the admiralty there were calls for a speech from Sir Eric Geddes, the first lord. The crowds had collected there and hastily improvised platforms were erected for the first lord and the members of the board of admiralty. Sir Eric Geddes was called for three cheers for Vice-Admiral Beatty, commander of the grand fleet, and these having been given with great fervor, the crowds again asked for a speech, but the cheering drowned all else. The first lord called for cheers for the bluejackets.

A special service of prayer was held at St. Paul's in the afternoon, the lord mayor and sheriffs attending.

Factories Closed Up.

Col. Winston Spencer Churchill, minister of munitions, was given an enthusiastic ovation when he approached the ministry in an automobile. The crowd stopped the car and climbed over it, and Col. Churchill was compelled to make a brief speech.

Some factories and munition works gave their employees a holiday immediately the good news became known.

When the House of Commons met today, Premier Lloyd George, after the opening prayer was said, moved that the House adjourn immediately. He proposed that the members proceed to St. Margaret's Church, on the western side of Westminster Hall.

MARSHAL FOCH RECEIVED.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Marshal Foch was received by Premier Clemenceau at 10 o'clock this morning.

Official announcement of the signing of the armistice and the termination of hostilities at 11 o'clock this morning was given to the Paris press at 11:30 o'clock. Flags speedily began to appear and preparations were begun for a demonstration.

Scenes of the wildest enthusiasm were enacted in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, when Premier Clemenceau read the conditions of the German armistice. The whole chamber rose to greet the premier, while the galleries, in which was a predominence of soldiers in uniform and women, cheered for several minutes.

Cheers and Cheers.

Prolonged cheering greeted the announcement that Alsace-Lorraine would be occupied, and the name of Marshal Foch as the signer of the document was lustily received.

Premier Clemenceau received the newspapermen this morning, addressing them as follows:

"This is a great pleasure to receive you. I thank you for the visit.

"The armistice was signed at 5 o'clock this morning, Germany accepting all the conditions with slight modifications. We have to be very careful about the food problem in Germany. We cannot let the nation suffer famine. We must endure ourselves, and at the same time keep our military superiority.

Seized Locomotives.

"We have seized all locomotives and other means of transportation. The terms of the armistice will be officially announced this afternoon in the Chamber of Deputies. Thank you, gentlemen. France has done wonderfully through four long years."

As soon as the official announcement was made of the signing of the armistice all official buildings, embassies and legations in Paris were bedecked with flags, and church bells were rung. Workers flocked from offices and shops, and formed processions which paraded through the principal streets of the capital. The marchers sang Allied national hymns and carried Allied flags.

FEW AT HYDE PARK.

HYDE PARK, Nov. 11.—Hyde Park has been remarkably fortunate as regards the influenza epidemic. While many deaths have been reported in neighboring villages, Hyde Park has escaped well. There have only been two cases in the village, and only a few cases in the country district. Some have been quite serious, but all are reported to be doing well.

Black squirrels are reported to be plentiful in this district this fall. But the hunters are rather more plentiful than the squirrels.

GET YOUR BUTTON!

For the Honor Flag to fly in London to show that we have done our best to meet our country's call through the Victory Loan of 1918, all that is necessary is just this:

GET YOUR BUTTON.—The Victory Loan Button shows that YOU are a purchaser of Victory Bonds, 1918. Your name on the honor list of your place of business will be an inspiration to others. If every man and woman in London wears a Victory Button, our success is assured, and $6,000,000 will take its place with honor on the list of places which deserved and gained the Honor Flag.

To win our Honor Flag we are asked to reach the amount of $6,000,000. We must do better than that—for every 25 per cent over the quota we shall be entitled to show a crown on our flag. How many crowns can we win? All that is necessary is just this one thing

GET YOUR BUTTON!—Lend your money to Canada—the safest and best investment in the world—the repayment of your Bond absolutely assured at the end of a definite period, and interest at the rate of 5½ per cent paid to you semi-annually while you hold it. If all investments were as good as Victory Bonds we would be better off today.

NOW, ALL TOGETHER!

A Business Proposition

Canada looks to YOU for help in making this great Victory Loan a success.

Canada needs your MONEY.

Ours is a country whose individual citizens are more prosperous than those of any other country in the world.

Canada has come to YOU—her citizens—with a straight business proposition.

That proposition in a nutshell is this:

"I need Three Hundred Million Dollars to help finish up my business over in Europe. Lend me the money for a short time at 5½ per cent interest, payable half-yearly, and I pledge the return of every cent of your loan."

Plan to take all the Bonds you can possibly pay for. The payments are as follows

10 per cent on application.
20 per cent December 6, 1918.
20 per cent January 6, 1919.
20 per cent February 6, 1919.
31.16 per cent March 6, 1919.

"MUTINOUS" GERMAN SAILORS PLANNING TO RESIST ALLIES

LONDON, Nov. 11.—By the Associated Press.—The admiralty intercepted a German wireless message addressed "from the command and soldiers' council on the cruiser Strassburg," to "all ships, torpedoboats, destroyers, and submarines in the North Sea."

The message refers to the terms of the armistice and declares:

"This would entail the destruction of us all. German comrades! Defend our country against this unheard-of presumption.

"Strong English forces are reported off the Skaw. All submarines in the Baltic, except those on outpost duty, assemble immediately in Sassnitz harbor."

Sassnitz is a watering place on the east of the Island of Ruegen, Prussia.

GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Opening: Corn—December, $1 18; January, $1 19¾.

Oats — December, 70¼c; January, 69¼c.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Corn advanced in price today, despite the fact that fighting with Germany had stopped. Commission houses were active on the buying side of the market, and there were but few speculators who showed a readiness to sell in the face of a recent decline of more than 50c a bushel. It was quickly evident that the trade regarded peace as having for the present at least been fully discounted in advance. Opening prices, which ranged from ¾c off to 1¼c advance, with December at $1 18 @1 19, and January at $1 19@1 20¼, were followed by a material upturn all around, and then something of a reduction.

Oats took an upward swing with corn. Trade was fairly active. After opening ¼c lower to 1c advance, with December at 69½@70c, the market scored a moderate general gain, and then sagged back.

INSPECTORS FORCED TO USE GUNS TO KEEP THE WHISKEY

Peace Celebration at St. John Fraught With Sensational Incidents.

St. John, N.B., Nov. 12.—A peace celebration almost came to an untimely ending this morning, when the Dominion bonded warehouse on Symthe street, wherein is stored all the liquor seized under the prohibition act in New Brunswick, was broken into. The building was guarded by two liquor inspectors. A crowd of 300 stormed the place, demolishing the plate glass windows with stones and fired revolver shots. The inspectors within were compelled to use their guns, and several shots were fired, at first in the air, but later closer to the crowd. A bullet went through one boy's hat. When the police and military pickets arrived the crowd dispersed.

Today there is a public holiday, with organized celebration.

UNION SERVICE TO RENDER THANKS FOR PEACE IS ARRANGED

A union service to offer up thanksgiving and praise for peace will be held under the auspices of the London Ministerial Alliance in the First Methodist Church on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. A committee was appointed at a special meeting of the alliance, held on Friday forenoon last, to arrange for a religious service to take place in one of the largest churches of the city in event of peace being proclaimed. An invitation has been extended to the Roman Catholic clergy to participate.

At least one service of thanksgiving was held in a city church on Monday. On Sunday, Rev. J. Leslie Armitage, rector of St. James' Church, South London, announced to his congregation that when the news of peace was given out and the bell in the tower of St. James' Church heard to ring, it would be the signal to gather for a service. From 6 to 7 o'clock Monday morning, the bell of St. James' pealed out joyously and by the time the hour of 7 struck, two hundred or more people had assembled. The church was left open during the day and many, it is stated, dropped in for a few minutes of devotion during the entire day. The remark has been made that it might have been well to have opened all the churches of the city in this way on the first day of peace to afford the many who might desire to do so to express in the quiet of the churches their thanksgiving to the giver of peace.

MAY CONTINUE MANUFACTURE.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Manufacture of passenger automobiles after January 1, the date fixed for 100 per cent curtailment, is likely to continue because of the sudden collapse of the war and the consequent expected lessening of the Government's steel demands. This intimation was given today by the war industries board.

BEAVERBROOK SLOWLY IMPROVING.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Lord Beaverbrook's physician, Dr. George W. Badgerow, has issued the following statement:

"Lord Beaverbrook is suffering from actinomycosis of the throat. He was operated on by Mr. Trotter and Mr. Herbert Bruce. Infection is clearing up slowly. Some time must elapse before the patient will be free from the resulting enlargement of tissues. We are confident of complete recovery. Nothing has developed of a malignant character.

LIEUT. L. BRINKMAN IS ILL IN ENGLAND

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 11.—Ald. F. L. Brinkman of this city has received word that his son, Lieut. Leslie Brinkman, is seriously ill with pneumonia at a military hospital in England. Lieut. Brinkman went overseas last spring from Queen's University and has been stationed at Seaford Camp. He is exceptionally well known here and only a year ago was married to a well-known Kingston woman.

Good Advice to the Man Who Begins To Feel Old

Or the Woman Who Is Tired Out.

Probably the hardest time in a man's life is when he begins to realize that he is getting old, that he is no longer capable of meeting younger men on common ground, that he is unable to enjoy to the full, the pleasures, excitements and adventures of youth, that he has lost his ability to fulfill to the limit of his personal satisfaction the work and duties of life, that he gets tired easily and is being outstripped in the rush of business, the whirl of social activities, even in popularity, by younger men.

At such a time, he feels the need of something to brace him up and to put new life and vitality in his veins. That something is now obtainable. It is Brigham Young's Invigorator, which all good druggists carry in stock. It is made according to Brigham Young's original and private formula and is now obtainable by the public for the first time. The first treatment will show astonishing results, yet it is not a dangerous stimulant or a narcotic, but a safe, harmless strengthener and invigorator, which has been approved by Dr. Brake, Dr. Spelly and other well-known physicians. It makes it unnecessary for any man to feel he is "gone by" or for any woman to feel played out.

It is guaranteed by the makers, Thomas Chemical Company, and is supplied only by reliable druggists, who will give you your money back if it fails. —Advt.

ZAM-BUK

This illustrates but one of the many uses to which Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm, is daily put. Accidents will happen, especially where there are children. Mothers should never be without Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is the best "First Aid." Its strong antiseptic properties kill all germs, preventing blood-poisoning and inflammation. Its rich, herbal essences quickly ease pain and build up new healthy tissue. Zam-Buk is entirely different from all other ointments. It is purely herbal and contains no poisonous coloring matter. Take no substitute. See the name on every box before paying.

ZAM-BUK HEALED SEVERE CUT

Mrs. J. E. Bierwirth of Carnduff, Sask., writes: "My little son cut the end off his finger. As it was such a severe cut, I was going to take him to a doctor, but in the meantime to ease the pain, I applied some Zam-Buk. This stopped the bleeding and gave him such relief that he ceased crying and seemed quite at ease. I therefore decided to see if Zam-Buk would heal the wound. Next day I replaced the dressing, and continued to do so each day, using nothing but Zam-Buk. Complete cure resulted."

Zam-Buk sold by all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c box.

MAYOR HORTON TO RETURN, SAYS RUMOR

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 11.—Although definite information cannot be obtained for a few more weeks, it is considered an established fact here now that Mayor Horton's right to another year as head of municipal matters will not be challenged in the coming municipal contest. The mayor has made a host of friends, and at the present time, it is said, there is no one either within or without the precincts of the civic building who would care to oppose him.

There are to be some new members at the council board, however, and there are going to be a large number according to rumor. Even the aldermen are adverse to such conditions as have existed during the last year.

"If I thought there would be as much squabbling over petty matters of little importance during the coming year, I would not attempt another twelve months," stated one alderman today.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

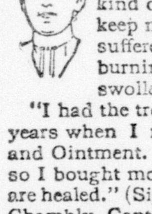

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

SKIN TROUBLE FOR 25 YEARS

On Hands and Fingers. Could Not Work. Cuticura Healed.

"After vaccination I was affected with skin trouble on my left arm and later it set in in both hands and my fingers. I suffered so much I was unable to do any kind of work, and it used to keep me awake at night. I suffered an awful itching and burning, and my fingers were swollen.

"I had the trouble over twenty-five years when I read of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I tried it with success so I bought more, and now my hands are healed." (Signed) Miss A. Cadieux, Chambly, Canton, Que., Mar. 25, '17.

Features: Prominent

Description: When last seen was on his way to hospital. Used to weigh 185, had florid complexion, good appetite and enthusiasm for work. Six months ago began to have irregular bowel movements. Took pills. Lost weight—still irregular. Took salts—violent results. Had medical examination: doctor diagnosed case as self-poisoning, due to clogged, decaying food-waste in large intestine; said pills and purges had weakened the intestinal muscles so they would not function. Man protested violently that he was not sick. Doctor replied that he had been sick since first bowel irregularity. Prescribed complete rest and the Nujol treatment. Said if he had cultivated regular habits with Nujol he would have had no more trouble—now, however, he was an easy mark for the poisoning he was allowing in his own body.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS SCORES GREAT HIT AT THE MAJESTIC

Famous Star at Popular Playhouse Again Today and Wednesday.

JACK KING IN VAUDEVILLE

Comedy, Travelogue and Other Features Complete Excellent Bill.

Appearing in a new and distinctive characterization, that of an athletic, husky tramp, Douglas Fairbanks scored a triumph in his new Aircraft photoplay, "He Comes Up Smiling," which was shown for the first time in this city at the Majestic Theatre yesterday. This is an admirable screen adaptation by Frances Marion of the celebrated stage success of the same name produced at the Liberty Theatre, New York, on September 16, 1914, and in which Mr. Fairbanks played the stellar role and which made a hit all over the country.

The admirers of Mr. Fairbanks have come to look upon every new production in which he appears with absolute confidence that they will not suffer disappointment, and it is a safe prediction that his latest photoplay, not only does not disappoint, but it serves to enhance his popularity as a screen favorite of the highest class. Can you fancy Mr. Fairbanks as a tramp—a really novel

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

An ARTCRAFT Picture
At the Majestic Today and Tomorrow.

Knight of the Road—a dare devil, as full of fight as an egg is of meat, and a Chesterfield in rags? Well, he is that and more in "He Comes Up Smiling," which is in fact, a delicious creation from beginning to end.

To reveal in detail the story of Jerry Martin, a bank clerk, who develops into a hobo and who after many startling and surprising adventures finds wealth and love, would be unjust to those who prefer to learn the facts by seeing the picture for themselves. It may be said, however, that in point of novelty, the new vehicle provided for this athletic star occupies a place all by itself. There is a wild and in many respects a remarkable chase after a canary, which brings Jerry into his new environment. Then there are wild automobile rides along perilous mountain paths, not to speak of leaps across wide creeks and the like. Independent of the usual Fairbanksian athletic stunts which this screen player has made famous, the story of the photoplay is not only novel but dramatic and appealing.

Mr. Fairbanks' support is as usual, of the best. His leading woman is Marjorie Daw, a delightful actress, and Frank Campeau, Herbert Standing, Bull Montana, Albert McQuarrie, Jay Dwiggins and Kathleen Kirkham, all players of ability, have splendid roles.

JOYOUSNESS HAS DAMPING EFFECT ON VICTORY LOAN

Yesterday's Total of $6,859,650 by Far Smallest Yet in Ontario.

TOTAL IS $321,178,250

Only Five Days in Which to Bring in $85,000,000 Needed.

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—Reports from the Victory Loan are very incomplete tonight, owing, no doubt to the canvassers being too excited over the news of the signing of the armistice to turn in their figures. In the province of Ontario no less than fourteen districts had not been heard from at headquarters here up to midnight, and these include some of the largest cities. The total given out for the Dominion tonight was $321,178,250, as against $213,666,400 last year. For Ontario they were $165,735,600, last year's figures being $110,867,150. Toronto put its total to $64,202,950 today with a contribution of $2,501,450. At this stage last year, its record was $43,746,000.

Only Five Days Left.

"We have but five days of canvass, and we still require about $85,000,000. This implies a stupendous task for even this wealthy province.

"Today's total of $6,859,650 is by far the smallest we have had since the campaign opened. The people of Ontario should realize the seriousness of the situation, and workers and citizens unite to see that no effort is spared to reach the $250,000,000 objective by Saturday night."

10,000 VOICES

or even the empire, but citizens of the great world, the empire of humanity. We are standing in the death chamber of autocracy. We are at the birthplace of world democracy and brotherhood. We believe that with God's blessing, world democracy has been made safe for all time to come. We are here not alone to celebrate peace, but to acknowledge and bless Almighy God that the experience of the past four years has borne out the words 'except the Lord be in the house, they labor in vain that build it.' We are here as an evidence of the truth of God's word. God is our refuge, our strength, and to bear testimony to the truth of God's word. 'Whatsoever a man soweth, he shall also reap.' The kaiser today is reaping the fruits of his will to power and his sovereignty has collapsed because of the reaction of the military system which he built up in order to achieve power by military force.

"We have three things for which to thank God today (1) peace to the warring nations; (2) answered prayer; (3) victory to our arms. It is our privilege as a Christian people to become a part of the federation of nations to usher in the kingdom of Christ."

Mayor Gets Cheers.

The chief executive of the city, Mayor C. R. Somerville, was greeted with rousing cheers when he rose to speak. "The message which has been flashed to us today is the greatest message that has come to humanity since the message which was sounded out in Palestine 2,000 years ago," he said. Dwelling upon what this message means to the boys at the front, he prophesied that in years to come through the ages that are to be of Canadian history, by Canadian firesides will be told and sung the stories of gallant deeds of the great war, ranking with those of Thermopylae and the outstanding feats of bravery of all history. He added: "We rejoice that Canada has felt and done her duty to the motherland (cheers); that autocracy has been defeated and democracy triumphed; that the nation which made military success its objective has been defeated by our civil soldiery. The spirit of thanksgiving dominates this occasion which will stand out as the greatest and happiest that we have known until the boys come home. I hope that time will not be long."

Cheers for Gen. Shannon.

Deafening cheers from soldiers and civilians alike greeted Brig.-Gen. Shannon, C.M.G., G.O.C., the man who has been at the helm of military affairs in the No. 1 (London) Military Division since practically the outbreak of war.

"As representatives of the citizen army of Canada" (the plural including his fellow-members of the headquarters staff), "we wish to express our pleasure at taking part in the celebrating of peace," he said, continuing: "Canada is a peace-loving nation. We don't want militarism. We want to pursue our lives and fortunes under peace conditions. Yet, when the time came that the Empire was in danger, Canada sprang to help. Canada was the first colony to the field to offer the assistance of a citizen army. The army of men from all peaceful walks of life has proved equal to any soldiers of the world. They have made the name of Canada live through history. Our citizen soldiers do not love war. Those who know most about it are most pleased to be here to attend a peaceful demonstration, at the time when the work is finished. And the work has been finished. (Cheers.)

"Autocracy has been dethroned in this war, and a new era is opening to the world. We hope it will never again be necessary to take men from peaceful occupations to go to war."

Three for the King.

Scarcely had the applause died away when the mayor sprang up and called, "Three cheers for the King, and a tiger!"

Following in rapid-fire succession jubilant cheers rang out for Marshal Foch, for Lloyd George, for Sir Arthur Currie, for Sir Douglas Haig, for the army and navy, and most enthusiastic and reverberating of all, cheers for the Red Cross and "Our Returned Men."

After that the greatest gathering in all the history of London dispersed, many pausing as they passed to do homage to the monument erected years ago to the gallant lads of London who fell in the South African war.

German Soldiers In Hope of Reaching Home In 2 Weeks

BUY BONDS AND HELP BRING 'EM OVER ATLANTIC

So Declare Workers in Big Victory Loan Drive.

PEACE NEWS ADDS SPIRIT

London Workers Took Holiday to Celebrate—Middlesex Adds $75,000.

As with everything else a holiday was proclaimed for the Victory Loan yesterday. Headquarters and salesmen all took the day off and were prominent in all phases of the celebration. Today they are going to make up for the lost day, however. Extra salesmen will be pressed into service, and if the people buy bonds in the same spirit that they celebrate London will not only gain its objective, but go considerably beyond.

Salesmen and citizens alike are buoyed up with that fine patriotic spirit that has made the present end to the war possible. The boys at the front have given their all, declared one of the workers yesterday. It's up to the people at home to hasten the lads homecoming, and the only way possible is by buying Victory Bonds. It will take cold, hard cash to bring the boys home.

Bond Grease Skids.

"Let your bond grease the skids in order that the boys from London may slide into town in double-quick time," he added. "Buy a bond today, and bring 'em home. Buy two and feel right about it. Buy three and make absolutely sure that YOUR money will be on the job helping to bring the boys in khaki over the old Atlantic, across Quebec and Ontario, to home, sweet home, London, the good old Forest City."

"The bottom of your pocket is none too deep to go for these boys that are coming back. An extra bond or two or more will give you that comfortable, restful feeling that you have done your bit up to the very end. Obey that impulse and buy that bond today. You need that specially attractive investment, and the country and the boys need your money. You couldn't turn down one of the boys today if he asked you a favor. It's not a favor, but a duty to help 'em back to home sweet home. They're thinking of home right now, so give the lads a start. It can only be done with Victory Bonds. Double up and get the boys back on a special. Buy another bond," he reiterated.

$75,000 Came Monday.

Monday morning's mail brought in some $75,000 to county headquarters. It was just as welcome as the war news to County Organizer Cork, who was early on the job. This brings the Middlesex total to $1,078,900.

Lucan celebrated by gaining its objective of $50,000. The village, which has a population of 643 went $77.75 per capita, a record that is one to be a good deal more than proud of. "You've got to hand it to that great trio, Canvassers, Aljoe Stanley, Charles Hobbs and James H. Ross, chairman of the publicity committee," said a headquarters man last night.

The Canada Milk Products Limited, with factories at Glanworth and Belmont, both get 100 per cent banners. The employees, everyone of whom bought a bond, subscribed 18 per cent of their annual payroll.

SHANTYMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION REQUIRES FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Field Secretary Is Here Hoping to Raise $1,500 for the Work.

Now that the war has been brought to a victorious close, pre-war activities will be carried on with more vigor than ever before. One undertaking which claims the financial aid of which it is in need is the mission work among the lumberjacks of the country. This work is under the direction of the Shantymen's Christian Association.

Rev. Thomas Joplin, field secretary of the association, is now on his annual tour of Canadian cities. He is now in London, and will remain here for a few days during which time he expects to raise $1,500. At 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening he will speak in the First Methodist Church, and on the same evening he will conduct a brief service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Work in Lumber Camps.

This year Mr. Joplin is sending out two French-speaking missionaries into the lumber camps of the Province of Quebec, whose salaries are to be increased on account of the high cost of living. While one of the forestry battalions which is now overseas was in Canada, he worked among the members of it, holding services and distributing copies of the scriptures.

Last year, which was the tenth anniversary of the S. C. A., 545 camps were visited, 30,256 men being reached by the missionaries. There is still a great work to be done, as there are 200,000 lumbermen who have not yet been visited.

Socialist Opposition.

Very often the missionaries meet with the greatest opposition in the carrying out of their work. This is due to the distribution of Socialist literature among the men, says Mr. Joplin, adding that the churches as an important part of constituted society are singled out for attack by the lumberjacks whose minds are filled with the teachings of the anarchist propagandist, that society is wrong and must be destroyed in order to build up fresh conditions "where their class shall be the owner and ruler. "Every church should be burned and every minister put out of his job," said a lumberman to one of the S. C. A. missionaries.

Like Salvation Army.

The only exception they make in their denunciation of Christian churches and people is in favor of the Salvation Army, because they do not have expensive churches and the members go out on the streets to reach men and women. So when a man dressed like themselves, and with a heavy pack on his back tramps into camp, and announces that he is a missionary belonging to an association that does not take up collections and does not sell anything, the arguments of the agitators do not apply, and the very man who has been denouncing the churches hastens to say: "You're all right."

So there is a great work to be done, and it is such organizations as the Shantymen's Christian Associations that are most capable of handling it. In order that the pioneers, lumberjacks and others in the sparsely populated districts of the country may receive the gospel, it is necessary that the people in the older and more orderly parts of Canada do their "bit" towards providing funds for the carrying out of this most important work.

CRAZY ANSWERS

Advertiser reporters answering telephone calls will be forgiven if they were a trifle facetious in their replies yesterday to those inquiring. Some of the questions and answers were as follows:

Q.—What's the war news this morning?
A.—There isn't any war news, for there isn't any war.

Q.—Is there any news today?
A.—There is a little bit. The war is over, that's all.

Q.—What's all the noise over?
A.—The noise is over because the war is over.

Q.—Can you tell us where the kaiser is?
A.—Yes, call up Hell!

Q.—Why are the whistles blowing? Has something happened?
A.—You betcha; it's all happened.

Q.—Is today a holiday?
A.—Not for us. Crash!

Q.—Can you tell me if the bars are open?
A.—Not on E. B. Smith's windows.

"THE DAY!"

THE WAR IS WON!

---the guns are silent
---the trenches are vacant
---bloodshed has ceased
---democracy is triumphant
---freedom is assured

Germany, the beaten, whimpering bully of the nations, lies stripped of power, whining for mercy, shudderingly awaiting the righteous retribution to be exacted for his fiendish crimes against an outraged civilization.

A war-worn world is nursing its wounds and planning for a future of peace and universal freedom.

In this day of thankful joy and glorious triumph let us not forget the imperative duty lying immediately before us.

Let us manfully, dutifully and determinedly round out the nation's splendid effort.

Let us be as big in this triumphant day as our men have been heroic in the fiery din and bloody peril of battle.

The Victory Jubilee Carnival which will take place at the Winter Garden Thursday and Friday night of this week will surpass any event yet held at this popular amusement place. One feature of the Jubilee will be that of awarding prizes for the best representations of Gen. Foch, Lloyd George, Gen. Haig, Gen. Pershing, Gen. Joffre. There are some men in London and vicinity who look enough like one of these men that only a little make-up would be necessary for them to cop the prize. The decorations for the occasion will be a most gorgeous display of red, white and blue, arranged in beautiful designs throughout the hall. The music of the Princess 10-piece orchestra will be of the stirring kind—that sort we love to hear when victory has perched upon our banner. Everyone, both old and young, who goes to the Winter Garden on Thursday or Friday night will no doubt witness a sight not soon to be forgotten—the evening will be one of continuous pleasure up the time when the orchestra bids us goodnight with the beautiful strains the "Perfect Day Waltz."
