Village Council Meeting Mrs. J. W. Griffin Injured by Auto

The village council met on Monday evening as a Court of Revision and for general business, all members being present. Three appeals were heard, but in each case the assessment was sustained. A few names were added to the Roll for the 1920 Voters' List. There being no further business, the Assessment Roll was accepted for 1920.

The council then met for regular business. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. A communication was received from the Women's Institute asking for a clean-up day for Waterdown. Also a communication from G. W. Powell of the Hydro-Electric Radial Association, and one from the city of Galt, the latter was laid over until the next meeting.

On motion of councillors Crocker and Atkins, the citizens are asked to observe the week commencing June 21st, 1920, as general Clean-Up week and the people are requested to co-operate with the council in making a general renovation of back yards, streets, etc. and to cut the weeds adjacent to their property.

On motion of councillors Crocker and Atkins it was resolved that the council pay the regular membership fee of $10 to the Hydro-Electric Railway Association for 1920.

On motion of councillors Griffin and Atkins the Assessment Roll for 1920 was accepted and the Assessor paid his salary.

On motion of councillors Griffin and Atkins the following accounts were ordered paid.

Geo. Potts, second quarter salary as bell-ringer, $15.

J. C. Mcellar, second quarter salary as Clerk and Treasurer, $62.50.

John Smiley, second quarter salary as constable, $18.75.

Mrs. M. Cook, as per bill, $2.30.

Wm. Attridge, for maintenance of High school for May, $500.

Mrs. Sarah Smith, to retire Debenture re Hydro Extension, $203.80.

P. H. Metzger, salary as assessor for 1920, $60.

Hydro-Electric Railway Association, membership for 1920, $10.

Royal Bank, to retire Public School Debenture, S. S. No. 3, $4,602.36.

There being no further business the council adjourned to July 12th.

Holstein Breeders Meet

At a recent meeting of the Wentworth Holstein Breeders' Club committees were appointed to further arrange for the coming consignment sale. The main business of the meeting however was that of making final arrangements for the Field Day which is being held on June 23rd at the grounds of Hamilton Sanitarium. An enjoyable outing is being arranged and all Holstein breeders of the county are urged to attend. After lunch a good program of sports will be held, and later those present will have the opportunity of hearing addresses from prominent speakers on agricultural subjects. While it has become a popular thing in the States to hold a Field Day it has never been followed in this country. It is the intention of the Holstein people to make this, the first outing, so enjoyable that it will become an annual event. A cordial invitation is extended to any who breed Holstein cattle to attend the Field Day and become member of the club.

What might have been a fatal accident occurred on Sunday evening last, when Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griffin were returning home from a drive their buggy was struck by a motor car owned by W. Pegg of Dakota Mills, and driven by his son. The car hit the axle of Mr. Griffin's rig throwing Mrs. Griffin out, breaking her arm near the shoulder besides bruising her up considerably. She was removed to her home, which luckily was nearby, and Dr. J. O. McGregor summoned, who found her injuries as here stated. Mr. Griffin escaped unhurt and succeeded in stepping his team on Mr. Harvey's lawn, but not before they had done considerable damage to the outfit. We understand the damage to the auto consisted of a broken wheel and bent axle.

This is conclusive proof that inexperienced and reckless people should not be allowed to operate motor cars. In this case had young Pegg been attending to his duties, instead of flirting with passing ladies, the accident would never have happened, as at the time Mr. Griffin was driving his team at the extreme outside of the road, giving passing motorists the balance, fully three quarters of the road, to pass in.

We trust this unfortunate affair will serve as an object lesson to other reckless joy riders. The expenses of the accident will be borne by Mr. Pegg, who acknowledges that he was entirely to blame. The accident, which happened in front of Mr. Harvey's residence on Main street, was witnessed by a number of people.

Dykert-Livingston Wedding

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday June 9th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Livingston, Carlisle, when their only daughter, Violet, became the bride of Mr. Clayton M. Dykert, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dykert of Linwood.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Morrow under a pretty decorated arch of blue and white. The bride was given away by her father and was attended by Miss Estella Cairns as bridesmaid. Mr. Milton Dykert, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

The bride was gowned in white satin and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The wedding veil was caught with orange blossoms. The bridesmaid wore apricot silk with picture hat and carried pink carnations.

The groom's gift to the bride was a marabou cape, to the bridesmaid a gold necklace, and to the pianist Miss Evelyn Hopkinson, cousin of the bride, an onyx and pearl ring.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served on the lawn to about one hundred guests, who were from Linwood, Guelph, Galt, Niagara Falls, Hamilton, Stoney Creek and surrounding points.

Shortly after, the young couple left amidst showers of confetti and best wishes of their friends, for their wedding trip to Detroit and Cleveland. The bride's travelling suit was sand chieatone. Many valuable gifts showed the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Dykert are held

Base Ball

(By the Sporting Editor)

Wabbling, unsteady and unfaithful to themselves, as well as to their admirers, the Seniors almost went down to defeat at the hands of the Colts last Saturday. Lack of practice showing clearly by the wild heaving of the sphere, and at times real aerial stunts. Had it not been for their heavy artillery near the end of the game the score sure would have been against them. More practice, and then more practice is the only cure for unsteadiness on the ball field. "Kit" Metzger says he got some good experience in both submarine and flying, as the way the boys were pegging them out to him he had to dig them out of the ground or go up in the air after them. Steward again proved himself to be always up and at them. "Jerry" Burns in the box looked like Walter Johnson of Washington. Newstedt was off color on Saturday but will come back again on the 19th. The material is there, so boys—hard practice from now on. Score, 10 to 9 with Waterdown up.

Real baseball was displayed in the Junior game between Waterdown and Flamboro Centre on Saturday. Capt. Featherston in the box had the F. C. boys whipping the air at all stages of the game, pitching one of best games of the season, and was at all times well supported by his team mates. Ribson on first played sterling ball both at the bat and in the field. Spectacular work by Forth of Flamboro Centre and Harry Slater were features of the game.

Baseball as dished up by the Juniors on Saturday was a pleasure to watch. If they play the same kind of game on the 19th down will come Carlisle from their lofty perch. The score by innings.

SELF FEEDER FOR SWINE

Experimental Farm's Note.)

One often hears the statement that it does not pay to perhaps give pigs more than the most ordinary attention and the farmer can scarcely be blamed in this respect if his hired help is inexperienced and yet has to be paid as high a wage as a real good experienced man.

The keeping of a few pigs is practically always a paying proposition but, to make it more so, means must be resorted to whereby the labor can be reduced to a minimum, particularly as the pigs are apt to receive the scantiest of attention in any case. Towards this end, therefore, it seems only natural to try to find out just how well pigs will thrive if allowed to feed themselves. By feeding themselves is meant the adoption of a "self-feeding" method whereby the pigs are allowed access to a limited supply of dry feed whenever they feel so inclined. This system is of value to the breeder who goes in for swine-raising on a large scale and also to the small farmer who has other countless duties to perform but finds the feeding of pigs the worst chore of all. The latter might find the "self-feeder" of great value particularly in reducing expenses.

With a view to gaining some definite information on the use of the "self-feeder" for swine, experiments have been carried on at the Experimental Farm, Agassiz, B. C. for several seasons. Comparisons have been made in the use of the "self-feeder" as against the trough-feeding method. As far as cost of feed is concerned, results go to show very little difference one way or the other but when the labor question is considered the value of the "self-feeder" cannot be ignored. This comparison of the "self-feeder" with the trough feeding method is being continued until absolute and definite results are obtained, but up to date, however, the advantages of the "self-feeder" have been strikingly evident.

vice can be used to advantage while it also may be made use of in the feeding of young sows up to breeding age. With mature breeding stock, however, it is wise to avoid the use of the "self-feeder."

The "self-feeder" for swine has many features to commend it, one of the most important being the fact that, of all farm animals, none adapt themselves so profitably to this method as do swine. Where only two or three pigs are kept, the use of a "self-feeder" can hardly be recommended, but with more than ten pigs the adoption of a "self-feeder" is well worth a trial. Finally, as a means towards the reduction of the labor expense, the "self-feeder" has a disinct advantage over hand-feeding. Superintendent, Experimental Farm, Agassiz, B. C. Methods.—K. MacBean, Assistant to

LIME WATER BEST EGG PRESERVATIVE.

The following extracts from a circular by Dr. T. Shutt, Dominion Chemist at the Experimental Farm, advocate the use of lime water for the preservation of eggs. Dr. Shutt says: Experiments in egg preservation were begun at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, in 1908, and have been continued every season since that date. In the course of these experiments it has been made with more than twenty-five different fluids and preparations that have been proposed or sold as egg preservatives. The work of these fifteen years has shown the superiority of lime-water over all other preservatives which we have tested. The following lime-water is the so-called "water-glass" or Sodium silicate. Both, according to our results, have proven effective preservatives, but the lime-water is the one which is easiest to use and is the one which is most effective. It is useless to expect that either can entirely arrest that "stale" flavor commonly found in all but strictly fresh laid eggs.

The solubility of lime at ordinary temperatures is one part in 700 parts of water. Such a solution would form a saturated lime-water. Translated into pounds and gallons, this means one pound of lime is sufficient to saturate 700 gallons of water. In commercial time, it is well to use more than is called for in this statement. It may not, however, be necessary; if a paste of lime is spread, lime can be obtained, to employ as much as was at first recommended, namely, two to three pounds per five gallons of water. With such lime as is here referred to one could rest assured that one pound to five gallons (50 pounds) would be ample, that the resulting lime-water would be thoroughly saturated.

The method of preparation is simply to slake the lime with a small quantity of water and then stir the milk of lime so formed into five gallons of water. After the mixture has been kept still for a few hours, it is allowed to settle. The supernatant liquid, which is now "saturated" lime-water, is drawn off and poured over the eggs, which are placed in a crock or water-tight barrel.

As exposure to the air tends to precipitate the lime (as carbonate) and thus to weaken the solution, the vessel containing the eggs should be kept covered. The air may be excluded by a covering of sweet oil, or by sucking up a quantity of lime in a spread. If after a time there is any noticeable precipitation of the lime, the lime-water should be filtered off and replaced with a further quantity of newly prepared.

It is essential that attention be paid to the following points:

1. That perfectly fresh eggs only be used.
  2. That the eggs, throughout the whole process of preparation should be completely immersed.
- Although not necessary, to the preservation of the eggs in a sound condition, a temperature of 40 deg. F. to 45 deg. F. will no doubt materially assist toward retaining the "stale" flavor so characteristic of packed eggs.

Respecting the addition of salt, it must be stated that our experiments—conducted now throughout 15 seasons—do not show any benefit to be derived therefrom; indeed, salt frequently imparts a limey flavor to the eggs, probably by inducing an interchange of the fluids within and without the egg. Or, in other words, it does not add salt to the lime-water.

FEEDING DUCKLINGS.

Ordinarily ducklings are more easily raised than chickens. If properly fed and cared for they can be put on the market at about 10 weeks of age weighing from five to seven pounds each. If not forced they will get much of their fat from other succulent plants.

Ducklings do not need feed until about 24 hours after which they may be fed five times daily on a moist mash of equal parts, by measure, of rolled oats and bread crumbs, with about three per cent grit. After the first week change to three parts, by weight, of bran, one part green feed, one-half part meat-scrap and about three per cent grit. After the ducklings are a week old the grit or sand may be fed in a mash or in a hopper, instead of the ration given below. In all duck raising, meat-scrap is not usually fed until the ducklings are a week old when about five per cent, is added to the ration and gradually increased to 15 per cent. Gradually increase the proportion of cornmeal and decrease the bran until the ration becomes 75 per cent fatting ration given below for those ducks which are to be marketed. Those to be saved or breeders should be fed the first mash mixture. They should be given a good range where grass and running water are available. If confined to yards, considerable green feed and vegetables should be fed.

The ducklings for market should be fattened for two weeks before selling on a ration of three parts, by weight, of cornmeal, two parts middlings, one part bran, one part meat-scrap, three per cent, grit and about one part green feed. If milk is available with which to mix the mash, cut the meat-scrap to one-half part.—The Ohio Farmer.

PURE BRED POULTRY STOCK PAYS.

The pure bred fowl possesses many advantages over cross-bred and mongrel. There is more reliability in their breeding. Experience has shown that pure bred birds will convert every particle of food and energy toward production. The meat is of improved quality and the flock is superior in every way for table poultry. The uniformity of color and more even and gives better market returns. The eggs are more even in size and color. The fowls present a much more attractive appearance, being uniform in size and color. The eggs and stock for breeding purposes are worth much more than for market alone. The revenue from this source in a good flock is not a small item. The preferred breed may also be selected for the particular purpose to which the farmer of poultry-men wishes to specialize upon.—Nova Scotia Dept. of Agriculture.

Dave, Ont.—"I am more than pleased with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was run-down and so nervous that I could not even stay in the house alone in the day-time and tried every kind of medicine I heard of but got no result. One of my friends advised me to take 'Favorite Prescription,' said that it would cure me, and it did. After taking four bottles I felt like a new woman and it is the very best medicine for a woman bringing up a family. I will recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to any one suffering like I did."—MRS. JOSEPH BEAUDRY, R. R. 2.

WEAK AND NERVOUS

Tilsonburg, Ont.—"I found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription an excellent medicine for the ailments of women. I had become very weak and nervous. I was just miserable when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and it proved most beneficial. It so completely restored me to health that I have never had any return of this ailment. I do advise the use of 'Favorite Prescription' by women who suffer with womanly troubles."—MRS. GEO. WALKER, P. O. Box 490.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root and Oregon grape root. Dr. Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whiskey and morphine were injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it, in liquid or tablet form.

GENIUS AND VANITY.

Schopenhauer Not Afraid to Praise Himself Out Loud.

Schopenhauer, the great German philosopher, afforded one of the most remarkable examples of self complacency that has ever been known. His naive eulogisms on his own productions are almost beyond belief. In writing to the publishers of his work he says:

"Its worth and importance are so great that I do not venture to express it even to you because you could not believe me," and he proceeds to quote a review "which speaks of me with the highest praise as the greatest philosopher of the age, which is really saying much less than the good man thinks."

"Sir," he said, to an unoffending stranger who watched him across a table d'hôte where he acted the part of the local "lion" habitually—"sir, you are evidently astonished at my appetite. True, I eat three times as much as you, but when I have three times as much mind."

Auerbach, the German novelist, also had a great appreciation of his own powers and work, and many stories are told of the obtrusive way in which he displayed his vanity. A German writer says of him: "Every year Auerbach visits three or four fashionable watering places, at each of which the following episode occurs at least thirty times. The novelist indulges in small talk with the little children of the natives and invariably ends the conversation thus: 'Knowest thou who has been talking with thee? Behold Auerbach! Tell them at home!'"

Russian Advertising.

They are not so slow in Russia as many of us imagine. A traveler relates that while in Moscow before the war he one day saw a crowd gathered around a little fellow who was bawling at the top of his lungs. Many asked him what the trouble was, but he kept on crying, and the crowd increased; then all of a sudden he stopped and said in a clear, loud voice, "I am lost. Will somebody please take me home to Ivan Tobinsky, the champagne home to Moscow, who has a full supply of autumn overcoats, suits, neckties, shirts, hats and umbrellas which he will sell cheaper than anyone else in the city."

Ask for Minard's and take no other. CLOSE OBSERVATION.

"Mr. and Mrs. Slocum seem to be an ideal couple. Last night I noticed how their thoughts always coincided."

"Yes," but did you observe also that it was always the lady who thought first?"

A Constantinople despatch to the London Times under date of June 7, says there is reason to believe that negotiations have begun at Brusar, Asia Minor, between the Turkish Central Government and the National Assembly.

By a majority of 419 Tillsonburg electors decided to allow the Dominion Natural Gas to increase the rates from 35 cents per thousand to 45 cents per thousand at the first of the year, and 50 cents per thousand the remainder of their franchise.

A severe earthquake shock occurred throughout Formosa on Sunday, according to advices received in Tokio. The centre of the disturbance was near Wyalae, on the eastern coast. There were some casualties and damage to buildings.

REVENUE BOOMS

But Net Debt in May Increased $22,216,764.

Ottawa, June. —(By the Canadian Press)—Satisfactory increases in ordinary revenue, coupled with a dramatic fall in war expenditure on capital account, mark the May balance sheet of the Finance Department. Last month, ordinary revenue was $38,175,292 as compared with $25,553,399 in May 1919. During the fiscal year up to date revenue totals $67,211,075, compared with $46,287,587 in the corresponding period of last year. Ordinary expenditure last month totalled $39,959,355, nearly two millions more than ordinary revenue during the same month. But included in this expenditure are the heavy May interest payments on Victory loans.

In every branch, ordinary revenue shows an increase over last year, despite tariff reductions made last year. Customs revenue is six millions higher than it was in May 1919. Revenue under the heading of miscellaneous—chiefly income and business profits tax—totalled over $10,000 last month. In May, 1919, it was rather more than four and a half millions. The increase in net debt last month was $22,216,764, in May 1919, the increase in net debt was $58,996,154.

HOW THEY THROG TO FASHIONABLE WEDDINGS IN LONDON.

BRITAIN MAKES TERMS WITH SOVIET TRADE ENVOY

Commercial Concerns to Immediately Begin Trade With Russia Under Permits

London cable: An agreement for the resumption of trade between Great Britain and Russia was concluded at a meeting to-day between Premier Lloyd George and other Ministers and Gregory Krassin, Russian Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce. While no official report was issued after the two-hours meeting, I am in a position to state that an agreement was definitely concluded.

Under the terms of the agreement individual commercial concerns will immediately begin dealing with Russia which, it was said, would draw to England $300,000,000 in gold now in Moscow. The only control over the transactions which will be held by the Government will be the granting of permits to companies wishing to trade with Russia, it was said. The consummation of the agreement was greeted in business circles as the most notable commercial and financial victory since the end of the war.

The gold shipments will greatly strengthen the Bank of England's metal reserve, which is now only $70,000,000, it was pointed out.

Krassin assured Lloyd George during the course of the negotiations that there would be no further invasions by Russia, and that Lenin has agreed to the liberation of all British prisoners held in English jails, who will now be sent home. He said also that trade delegates would be ordered to abstain from all Soviet propaganda in Great Britain, France and Italy.

Premier Lloyd George, Earl Curzon, the Foreign Minister, and Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, attended the conference, which was held at the Premier's official residence, No. 10 Downing street. The conference was also attended by Winston Spencer Churchill, the War Minister; Sir Eric Geddes, Minister of Transportation; Arthur J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council; Walter Hume Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Austen Chamberlain and to continue to refuse to trade with Russia so long as the Bolshevik Government is in power would be an act of folly.

"M. Clemenceau certainly opposed recognition of the Soviets' policy, but to urge the impossibility of trading with a Government guilty of atrocities is to rule out more Governments than I dare think." The Premier, who has been subjected to severe strictures in that he has taken on with the Russian negotiations justified his policy. He related the history of the negotiations, showing that the Allies had been unanimous in favor of the attempt to reopen trading with Russia, without, however, to recognize diplomatic relations unless the Soviet Government adopted civilized methods. In contending that it was irrelevant to argue against trading with a misgoverned country, he instanced the fact that England traded with Mexico and Turkey without protest being raised, although, he declared, Turkish atrocities under Abdul Hamid were worse than Soviet Russia's. Britain, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Another conference has been arranged.

LOYD GEORGE'S COMMENT.

London cable says: Premier Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons to-day gave no information as to results of to-day's conference with the Soviet Ambassador. The Premier based his arguments on the absolute need of Russia in the world's reconstruction and the impossibility of fighting and crushing Bolshevism unless prepared to sacrifice hundreds of thousands of lives and add thousands of millions to the national debt. He admitted there were conflicting reports on the amount of exportable commodities in Russia, but said that was not a reason for refusing to trade. He concluded by appealing to the House not to seek quarrels in a world full of explosive matter.

Mr. Lloyd George provoked a hearty round of laughter by remarking: "This country has opened up most of the cannibal trade in the world." He went on: "It is a new doctrine that you must approve the habits and customs of any government trading."

TO AID FARMERS.

O. C. P. Council to Free Formaldehyde Sale.

Toronto, June. —Following the request of Hon. Manning Donnelly, Minister of Agriculture, the Council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy yesterday decided to remove all restrictions from the sale of formaldehyde, so that it might more easily be obtained by farmers to use in combating smut and other diseases of grain and potatoes.

Much business came before the Council yesterday, but the matter that occupied most of its time was the annual financial report. It showed the college to be in a good financial condition, despite the fact that assistance had never been sought or received from the Government. The assets amount to more than $3,000 over the liabilities.

It is likely that the demand of the teaching and office staffs for considerable salary increases will be dealt with this morning, when financial matters will be further discussed.

The Committee of Legislation and By-laws considered the cases of a number of men who had been overseas and recommended that service overseas up to two years be counted as having been spent in apprenticeship.

A resolution was passed strongly supporting the Ontario License Board in its action in dealing with druggists who had broken the Ontario Temperance Act and in restricting the supply of liquor to the offenders.

MAKING HAY IN THE EARLY EIGHTIES.

The picture shows the pasture land and hay field which was situated at the University of Toronto in the early days. The man in the foreground with the scythe is Mr. George Hare, who is still an employee, and who has completed his fifty-fifth year of continuous service there. The picture is really one of the first attempts in Canada at what may be called modern photography. It was taken by Dr. W. H. Ellis, until lately dean of Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering, who though but a student in the eighties had taken a deep interest in the possibilities of the photographic science. Above is a picture of Hart House, the most recent addition to the University Buildings, which occupies the former pasture land.

FARM CONDITIONS

Fall Wheat Promising and Fruits Splendid.

The following is a summary of report made by Agricultural Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. rains on Saturday brought a measure of relief to the needy crops; but while in the eastern part of the Province the rainfall was fairly heavy, in some of the western and south-western counties it was comparatively light, but sufficient in most cases to give the late sown fields a real start, and help pastures. More showers were promising as returns were coming in.

Low temperatures were threatening tender crops in the latter part of the week, but the cloudy nights saved the situation.

Insect pests have been giving more trouble than usual of late. Newly planted corn and other crops have been suffering from the white grub, and the wire-worm is also complained of. Lincoln states that some cabbage patches in that county have been practically ruined by the maggot, and Norfolk also reports injury from this cause.

Fall wheat generally is still promising a good yield, although some of it looks poorly on clay land.

Clover is looking short and thin in stand, and a light yield is looked for. Essex expects to see the first cutting of it about ten days. Alfalfa is making a better showing than clover.

Surar beets seem to be getting more extra attention than any other field crop this season. Several Counties speak of an increased acreage.

Brant is of opinion that the potato acreage will be less than was originally intended, owing to the high value of the seed, which is estimated to be worth from 60 to 80 per acre—and even more if purchased late.

Fruit trees as a rule are laden with setting fruit. Strawberries also promise a big crop, but require more rain.

Live Stock on the grass are not making flesh as satisfactorily as usual owing to the poor condition of pastures. Bacon hogs are selling at from 17 to 19.50 a cwt. Some correspondents report the marketing of brood sows.

The country home of Enrico Caruso, tenor, at East Hampton, N. Y., was burglarized and jewels valued at $500,000 were stolen, the police reported. The stolen jewelry included a diamond necklace valued at $75,000.

Daniel McAlpine dropped dead at his work in the Bain Wagon Works, Woodstock.

Our advice to a certain young man in this village, is to return home by the Main street route, and not the Mill street one, as a vicious dog is owned on that thoroughfare who is liable to attack pedestrians. One night last week while this young man was returning home by way of Mill street he was savagely attacked by this ferocious canine who chased him clear down to Dundas street before he could secure friendly shelter from his four-legged attacker. Needless to say he was completely out of breath, and vows to have his four legged tormentor's scalp before many sunsets.

A good time is in store for those who attend the annual Garden Party of Buchanan Lodge A. F. & A. M. on June 19th at the residence of C. A. Alderson, Ryemans Corners, Glandford township. Premier Drury, Hon. F. C. Biggs and others will speak. During the afternoon all kinds of sports will be run off and valuable prizes awarded the winners. The 13th Band will play during the evening and dancing on the lawn will be a feature. Baseball will be played by girls' teams. A good time is promised everyone. A bus will run from the top of the James street Incline to the grounds. Everyone is expected to take in this event and swell the crowd.

A very pleasant gathering was held at the Methodist parsonage last Tuesday evening when about sixty of Mr. Facey's congregation met to say farewell. Mr. C. Richards presided in his usual able manner. A good program was much enjoyed, consisting of instrumental music by Miss Ruby Church, vocal solos by Miss Sinclair and a duet by Mrs. A. Robson and Mrs. J. Prudham. Miss V. Nicholson also recited. Impromptu addresses by several of the men present were also much enjoyed. Mrs. R. Langton read an address to Mrs. Facey while Mrs. A. Robson, on behalf of the W. M. S. presented her with a lovely wrist watch. The Board then presented Mr. Facey with $100 as slight tokens of friendship and appreciation for Mr. and Mrs. Facey's efforts for the past four years. They leave this appointment for one at Hanover, Grey county.

LAST BIG BLOCK Of Canadian Pacific Reserve Farm Lands In Central Alberta and Saskatchewan

We would call your attention to these lands, the last large block of good virgin farm land in Western Canada, which marks the end of wholesale prices for virgin farm lands in the Prairie West.

News of this block being opened up is being advertised throughout Europe and the United States, and is being read by hundreds of thousands of people every week.

The American farmers have been quick to see the opportunities offered in the Western Provinces of Canada in the past, and I am sure that they will see this last opportunity as quickly as any, and that there will be thousands of them going to see these lands as soon as the snow begins to thaw in the spring. It is, therefore, up to us in Eastern Canada to make arrangements to visit the West and see these lands at the earliest possible opportunity, and I cannot urge you too strongly if you are at all interested in getting a farm of your own, to take advantage of this last opportunity. Those who act now and secure some of these lands will reap the benefit of quicker increase in value than at any period in the past, and the land will pay for itself from the crops in a few years.

Those who do not wish to improve the land at once may purchase land on our ten year contract, one-tenth cash, balance in nine equal payments at 6%, which does not require improvement of the land, or you can pay in full if you choose.

Those who get there first will get best selection and best location.

FEW MURDER MYSTERIES.

Eight Unexplained Crimes in Toronto Since 1887.

Is Hamilton in danger of losing first place to Toronto in the matter of unsolved police mysteries?

Many anxious citizens of Toronto are alarmed at the fact that there are on the police books two recent murders in that city, one unsolved shooting, and the disappearance of a prominent millionaire citizen.

That there is no cause for alarm and little room for criticism of the city and county police in all these mysteries is the claim of prominent city police officials and lawyers. A complete list of unexplained and unpaid murder mysteries in Toronto since the year 1887, shows eight. In every one of them, that element of chance which always enters into the relation of crime versus police, was extraordinary. Against eight mysteries in thirty-three years in a city the size of Toronto, there is to be credited the solution of hundreds of murder cases and crimes of violence.

In two of the murder cases, the names of the suspected murderers are known. The fact that both victims and both suspects are foreigners adds to the problem, for a foreigner has advantages of escape and security owing to the clandestine and secrecy of foreign races. On November 19 last, Joe Canardi was killed by a man who struck him on the head with a shovel in a sandy works. Gio Mastriani is wanted for this. On September 24 last, Joe Berlidio was shot, and Frank Lombardo, a well-known Toronto Italian, is wanted in this case. The next mystery is about the only real mystery of recent years. On September 25, 1918, the year before, Dio de la S. L. was shot in the railroad shops at the foot of Spadina avenue. No trace of the murderer has ever been found.

The two chauffeur murder mysteries are real mysteries, and both occurred in the county on the outskirts of the city and therefore come under county robes. But both victims were Toronto men who drove out to the outskirts, as it were, to be murdered. The Toronto police assumed some of the burden in both cases.

On November 5 last, John G. Rowland, a chauffeur, was found murdered in his car out at Leaside. On July 26, 1917, two years before, Carmen Lapello or Ross, another chauffeur, was found murdered and wrapped in a blanket beside his car out at Swansea.

These both occurred out in lonely suburbs. The police, either of county or city, could not be expected to do more than search every available source for motives, which they did. These are the type of cases where the police have to deal with unknown or unknowable quantities. The recent addition of several fast motor cars to the city police equipment gives the police a greater show in dealing with these undefined, detached crimes.

Among other old unsolved mysteries in and around Toronto are those concerning Hugh Hassan, found murdered on the Humber in August, 1913; Frank Malatto, murdered, November, 1917; John W. Dick, who was punched by an unknown man on King street in October, 1911, after the Argonaut-Tiger rugby match, who died; and away back, Frank Westwood, shot, 1894; Rachel Ferguson, murdered at the entrance to the Don Jail in 1894; Joseph Priestman, murdered at the Exhibition grounds in 1887, and Jane Speers, the old charwoman, found murdered apparently from motives of robbery, in 1887.

Lesson XII, June 20, 1920.
The Lord Our Shepherd. Psalm 23:1-6.

Commentary.—I. Our Provider (vs. 1, 2). 1. The Lord is my shepherd.—This general statement expresses the condition of a submissive, trusting child of God in his relation to the great Shepherd. It expresses the author's confidence in Jehovah. The psalm throughout is taken up with the figure of the shepherd and his sheep. The relation is a more tender one. There are mutual confidence and love. The shepherd has full control of the sheep and his great care is for their welfare. What a shepherd was to his sheep in Palestine in David's time, and conditions are still practically the same as they were then, the Lord is to his people now. We note the use of the possessive pronoun, "my," in this clause. David claimed Jehovah as his personal Shepherd. It was not enough to be assured that he was the Shepherd of Israel. That was a great blessing to Israel as a nation, but David was an individual, and as such he craved and obtained the assurance that Jehovah was his Shepherd, and had a care for him personally. I shall not want—in consequence of the relation expressed in the preceding clause, David declared definitely that his needs would all be met. He would not want for provision, for the resources of Jehovah are boundless. He would not lack guidance, for his Shepherd was infinite in wisdom. He would not lack protection, for Jehovah is the Almighty. He would not want for comfort, for God is the Comforter of his people. David expressed full confidence in God. He did not know all that was in the future, yet he was bold to declare that in times of peace or in times of trouble, in health or in sickness, in the strength of manhood or in the feebleness of old age, he should not want.

2. maketh me to lie down in green pastures—This and the following verses of the psalm follow up the general statement made in the first verse and give the particulars in which Jehovah acts as the Shepherd of his people. It was no small task for the shepherd to find always suitable pastures for his sheep. The figure here denotes an abundance of rich herbage. This is an expressive figure, as we consider conditions in Palestine. During the months when rain falls, there is a plentiful growth of grass and there is no difficulty in finding pastures; but during the long period of rainless days and nights, the vegetation is dried up and the ground is parched. Then the shepherd must exercise great care to find pasture for his sheep. In the figure there is plenty of food, and in the figure there is plenty of water. The shepherd must lead down in the grass. He leadeth me beside the still waters—Pasture and water meet the needs of sheep as far as sustenance is concerned. In Palestine during the dry season there are comparatively few living streams. There are many wadies, or water-courses, which are torrents in the wet season, but are dry in summer. The shepherd must take care that during the latter part of the day he may lead his flock to a supply of water. There are streams that are swift. Sheep are timid creatures and helpless as well, and must be led to quiet waters to quench their thirst. Hence the shepherd knows where there are wells or fountains at which his sheep may slake their thirst, and this whether it is in the dry season or in the wet. In the great Shepherd is abundantly able to provide for his sheep at all times.

II. Our Guide (vs. 3). 3. He restoreth my soul.—The Syrian shepherd knows his sheep by name, even though there may be hundreds in his flock. He watches carefully lest one should stray away and go into danger. If one should become injured in any way the shepherd nurses it carefully and seeks to restore it to strength and health. In a spiritual sense the Lord refreshes the weary. He gives "power to the faint." If one should fall out by the way, the great Shepherd seeks after the lost one in an effort to restore him. He leadeth me—Shepherd life in Syria is very different from that with which we are familiar. Here, sheep are placed in enclosed pastures and provided with food and water. No wild beasts or robbers threaten them and they are not in need of constant guidance to lead them into places of pasture, water and safety; there, no flock is seen grazing without a shepherd. The shepherd goes ahead of his flock and the sheep follow. In the paths of righteousness for his name's sake—Whatever God may give us to do, we would do it, led by his love. Some Christians overlook the blessing of sanctification, and yet to a thoroughly sweetened heart this is one of the sweetest gifts of the covenant. If we could be saved from wrath, and yet remain unregenerate, impenitent sinners, we should not be saved as we desire, for we mainly and chiefly pray to be saved from sin and led in the way of holiness. All this is done out of pure, free grace: "for his name's sake." It is to the honor of our great Shepherd that we should be a holy people, walking in the narrow way of righteousness.—Spurgeon.

III.—Our Protector (vs. 4, 5). 4. Through the valley of the shadow of death—One needs to see Palestine in the summer season to appreciate the force of this expression. There are deep ravines, with dangerous precipices and infested with wolves and other wild beasts, and where robbers lurk, into which the sunlight comes but little. Outside of these ravines the sun shines and its glaring light falls upon the bare soil and rocks, and the contrast is so great that the deep ravines are fittingly called the valley of the shadow of death. This represents the times of distress in the Christian's life when the trial of faith is great and such time comes to all. I will fear no evil.—There is danger but the shepherd guards his flock as a whole and each sheep in particular and the sheep hear his voice and trustingly follow him. There is danger of the Christian's falling at such times as are here represented, but with confidence in God and a heart made clean through the blood of Christ he can say, "I will fear no evil." For thou art with me.—This is the explanation of the assurance of safety. The presence of the great Shepherd makes hard places easy and dangerous places safe. God ever says to his true followers, "I am with thee." The rod is a shepherd's weapon to ward off robbers and wild beasts. It is a heavy club two or three feet long. It promises safety and hence is a comfort. The staff is the shepherd's crook. It is six or seven feet long and has a hook at the upper end. With this the shepherd draws back the sheep from danger or places or guides it in the right direction. With it he may pull the sheep out of a pit or cleft of the rock.

5. thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies—Some think the figure changes here and the children of God are enjoying a banquet of spiritual good, but it seems rather that it is the continuation of the former figure, and that the shepherd leads his sheep into a good pasture and they feed in safety, although there are robbers and wild beasts around them. God supplies his children with grace and joy in the face of the assaults of Satan. thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over—Here begins the beautiful picture at the end of the day. The psalm has sung of the whole round of the day's wanderings, all the need of the sheep, all the care of the shepherd. Now the scene closes with the last scene of the day. At the door of the sheepfold the shepherd stands, the shepherd stands, turning his body to let his sheep pass; he is the door as Christ said of Himself. With his rod he holds back the sheep while he inspects them one by one as they pass from the fold. He has the horn filled with olive oil and he has cedar-oil, and he anoints a knee bruised on the rocks or a side scratched by thorns. And here come one that is not bruised, but is simply worn and exhausted; he bathes his face and head with the refreshing olive oil, and he takes the large two-handed cup and dips it brimming full from the vessel of water provided for that purpose, and he lets the weary sheep drink. There is nothing finer in the psalm than this. God's care is not for the wounded only, but for the worn and weary also.—Knight.

IV. Our Comforter (vs. 6). 6. goodness and mercy shall follow me—As God has blessed David in the past, He would continue until the end of life. The past was a pledge for the future. The blessings represented in the psalm are spiritual. The author had confidence that he would have an eternal home with God.

QUESTIONS.—When and by whom was this psalm written? What portion is maintained in this psalm? In what sense is Christ a Shepherd? How does an Eastern shepherd care for his sheep? What is meant by still waters? In what sense does the Christian's "cup run over"? What is meant by dwelling in the house of the Lord?

PRACTICAL SURVEY.
Topic.—Our divine Shepherd.

1. Guidance and guardianship. Mr. Spurgeon calls this the "pearl of pearls," and it well deserves the title. It follows the "psalm of the cross," which bewails the woes of the shepherd, while this joyfully describes the blessedness of the flock. We can not know the sweetness of the Shepherd's care until we have seen the sword awakened against him and know the virtue of "the blood of the cross." In its scope the psalm embraces all earthly conditions and reaches out into the eternities with inspiring assurance. Perhaps no single portion of God's word is more universally and deservedly familiar or unfalling in consolation for his people. It has been said that 250,000 books have been written on this psalm and its truth and beauty are still unexhausted. There seems no question as to the authorship. Composed in his mature years, some commentators conclude as a companion to psalm forty-two, when he was a fugitive from Absalom, it was born of David's shepherd life on the hillsides of Bethlehem, while happily unfamiliar with camps and courts. The beautifully appropriate imagery is common to both the Old and New Testament Scriptures.

I. Guidance and guardianship.—David well understood both the needs of the flock and the manifold cares of the shepherd. All the former are included in the latter. Whatever the believer's place or position, "he is under the pastoral care of Jehovah." "He leadeth me." No assurance is more needed or more comforting than that of divine guidance for God's people. They walk with confidence, for his are always "paths of righteousnessness." The good Shepherd always leads, never drives, the flock. "He goeth before them," both to direct and to protect. David was as insured to the dangers, as accustomed to the delights of the shepherd's avocation. The security of the flock depended solely upon his vigilance and devotion. To defend them at the risk of his own life was recognized duty. His boyhood victory inspired confidence in the conflict with the Philistine giant. Jesus said, "The good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." Isaiah beautifully expresses divine care for the feeble of the flock (Isa. 40:11) and the apostle enjoins "bearing up with those 'weak in the faith'" (Rom. 14:1-4).

II. Restoration and provision. To restore is to bring back the individual possession. God has not relinquished the original ideal (Eph. 1:4). Spiritual recovery is the foundation and pledge of the final, complete restoration of the entire being. Grace restores the soul to original moral conditions, relations, enjoyments and destiny. The hand that first rescued would recover from any subsequent wandering, to which there is always a liability. In the parables of the lost silver and sheep and the prodigal son, Jesus beautifully expresses divine solicitude (Luke 15:4-17). The green pastures, prepared table and over-running cup represent the abundant, available and satisfying benedictions of grace. The gracious visitations of the Spirit like "still waters" refresh, revive and purify the soul. The "anointing" with the "oil of gladness" and the joy of the Holy Ghost belong to the heritage of God's people.

ANIMAL AND TEMPERATURE

Why Creatures of Tropical Climates Always Have Dark Skins.

Animals are not so easily acclimated as most people think. For instance a monkey used to living in the trees in the shade, if exposed to the hot tropical sun, will die within three hours. A rabbit will be acted on in the same way. It has been shown that these particular animals have not developed a sufficient supply of perspiration glands. An animal with a plentiful supply of these glands can stand almost anything in the way of heat, for the evaporation of perspiration has an enormous cooling effect. Therefore animals used to living in trees or in the shade, not having the glands, cannot stand tropical heat.

Another peculiarity is that animals acclimated to tropical heat always have dark or reflecting skins. All animals domesticated in the tropics that did not have them before have acquired dark skins. Black skins absorb more heat than white skins, and it would therefore seem to be the wrong color for the tropics. But the absorption of heat by the black skin produces excessive perspiration and consequent cooling by evaporation, so it is really a blessing. A reflecting skin would not absorb much of the heat rays. Such a skin is like a mirror, and is possessed by sleek animals.

Black skins, while they absorb heat more quickly than white, also lose it more quickly when the animal gets in the shade. As a matter of fact, nearly all dark skinned animals of the tropics hide during the day time and come forth only at night, simply because they are not supplied with glands and not because of their black skin.

Animals in general cannot easily adapt themselves to a new climate, but it has been proved that man can adapt himself to any climate, whether his immediate ancestors were ever subjected to it or not. The reason is in the wonderful heat regulation of the human body.

When a man is hot in the summer time and needs cooling he perspires freely and the sweat evaporates and cools him. When he gets cold the pores close up and do not let the sweat come out and cool him. This regulation is minute and involuntary and is on the job every minute of the day. A man can go naked in snow and not suffer much discomfort. The pores close up into tight knots (gooseflesh), and thus have the body covered with a skin almost airtight.

Fish Eat Other Fish.

When a codfish eats it takes an oyster in its mouth, cracks the shell, digests the meat and ejects the shell. Crabs crack the shells of their smaller neighbors and suck out the meat. This accounts for the mounds of shells which are found beneath the waves. And, as further illustrating the constant destruction going on in the ocean's depths, it is said that if a ship sinks at sea it will be eaten by the fish with the exception of its metal portions.

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. A high mortality among children is traceable to worms. These sap the strength of infants so that they are unable to maintain the battle for life and succumb to weakness. This preparation gives promise of health and keeps it.

Indian Proverbs.

The coward shoots with shut eyes. Small things talk loud to the Indian's eye.

The paleface's arm is longer than his word. When a fox walks lame, the old rabbit jumps.

A squaw's tongue runs faster than the wind's legs. There is nothing so eloquent as a rattlesnake's tail.

The Indian scalps his enemy. The paleface skins his friends. Two men will live together in quiet and friendship, but two squaws never.

When a man prays one day and steals six, the Great Spirit thunders and the evil one laughs.

Corns are caused by the pressure of tight boots, but no one need be troubled with them long when so simple a remedy as Holloway's Corn Cure is available.

Sleep Talkers.

"It is much more usual for people to swear than to sing hymns in their sleep," says Dr. E. Coplans in a letter to the British Medical Journal. Dr. Coplans has been a patient in a military hospital. "The percentage of talkers is astonishing; 60 per cent. of the men in my ward indulged in it. The maximum period is from 1 to 2 a.m. Often a sentence is begun clearly, but trails off in a blur. One patient, a by no means pious Scotchman started me by singing in a stentorian voice, 'Able With Me.' The melody and words were perfect. One speaker will start another going in an adjacent bed. Your sleep talker will answer a question, and there is no doubt that people give away secrets."

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

BUSINESS GIRLS AND TEACHERS

BUFFER FROM OVERTAXED NERVES AND OFTEN A COMPLETE BREAKDOWN.

Thousands of earnest intelligent young women who earn their livelihood away from home, in the school room, in public offices and in large business establishments, are silent, suffering victims of over-taxed nerves and deficiency of strength. Weak, forgetful and nervous, they work against time, with never a rest when headaches and backaches make every hour seem like a day. Little wonder their cheeks lose the glow of health and grow pale and thin; their eyes are dull and sunken and beauty slowly but surely fades. Business women and girls because of their work and worry, look older than their years. What they need is the frequent help of a true, strengthening remedy to carry them through the day. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are like actual food to the starved nerves and tired brain of the business girl. By making rich, red blood they supply just the kind of help girls need to preserve their health and energy, and their good looks. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills bring bright eyes, rosy cheeks, high spirits and thus make the day's duties lighter.

Miss Mary H. Hunt says: "Many people think of the life of a school teacher as one of comparative ease, with short hours and holiday plentiful. But the reverse is the case. When one has to stand day after day, year in and year out, with the worries great and small, from handling children, it begins to tell upon even the strongest, and especially upon the nerves. I had been teaching about five years and was then located at Springfield, Ont., when I found I was far from having the vitality I started out with. Before my term was out I had a complete nervous breakdown. I tried doctor's medicine and it helped, but only for a while. I then tried osteopathic treatment but with no better results. I suffered from loss of appetite, slept poorly, was nervous, and troubled with severe headaches. Holidays came and I tried a change of schools, but got into a harder place where I had over fifty pupils under my care. There were days when it seemed impossible for me to carry on my work. At this stage my sister, who had also been a teacher, strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took the advice and by the time I had finished my second box, I felt that the pills were helping me. I was on my ninth box when I decided there was no necessity for continuing the treatment, so I had never felt better, and had gained twelve pounds in weight. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, with plenty of fresh air, worked wonders in my case and I should advise the use of them to any other girl down teacher."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Giant Sun.

Canopus, the giant of the solar system, is, according to a recent calculation, 49,000 times as bright as the sun. Its diameter is 134 times that of the sun; it is 18,000 times larger in volume. The distance of it from us, according to this calculation, is 489 light years.

"Suppose," says another authority, "that instead of being at this enormous distance it were placed in the centre of the solar system, in lieu of the sun? It would then occupy 85 per cent. of the space lying within the orbit of Venus, and as seen from the earth, would subtend an angle of about 70 degrees of arc. Thus, when its lower limb was on our horizon, its upper would be within 20 degrees of zenith. Needless to say, no life could exist on earth with such a neighbor."

After 10 Years of Asthma Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy proved the only relief for one grateful user, and this is but one cure among many. Little wonder that it has now become the one recognized remedy on the market. It has earned its fame by its never failing effectiveness. It is earning it to-day, as it has done for years. It is the greatest asthma specific within the reach of suffering humanity.

NOT SERIOUS.

"Excuse me," said the detective as he presented himself at the door of the music academy. "But I hope you'll give me what information you have, and not make any fuss."
"What do you mean?" was the indignant inquiry.
"Why, that little affair, you know."
"I don't understand."
"Why, you see, we got a tip from the house next door that somebody was murdering Wagner, and the chief sent me down here to work on the case."

An Oil of Merit.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the curative qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it won and kept public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

Righted in Time

And a sudden little sob swelled her throat. If she could only do that! Then her heart beat wildly. Why not? She caught her breath. Why not? "Because I haven't the courage, I suppose," said Moya, on that sob. "Because telling the truth would mean losing his respect and love. Because now he thinks me true and worthy, and then he would know me as I am. Yes, that is what it all is, the beginning and end of it. I haven't the courage."

Because she had not the courage she had run away. I know this that she might not have to say good-bye to him. Mangled pride and shame still fought for mastery. Pride that he loved her, pain that she was not the least worthy of such deep love, she so frivolous, who had played with love as with some game.

"But he doesn't know that," said Moya to herself. "Better that he should think anything but that."

But, then, looking up, her sad eyes

I've felt fairly desperate at times, for I was losing the little that I could at least call my own—your society and your companionship. Una, is that all I can claim as mine?"

She had listened, doubtfully, half-steeling herself against it. She turned now, and the color stole up her cheek.

And all at once she ceased to wrest her hands from his grasp. He drew her nearer, nearer.

"You don't love me surely?" he said in a low, awed whisper. "Una, I know I'm not good enough, and yet—dearest!—my own heart's darling."

There was silence for a moment as his lips found hers. "Of course, I love you," said Una then with a ripple of the softest, sweetest laughter running through it, in tune with the rippling river that ran at their feet. "Of course I do, you blind, stupid boy."

I wonder how it came about that there was such tenderness in those last teasing words, that it satisfied Barry more than any mere praise could have done! But so it was. He said grudgingly—

"But you haven't forgiven me yet."

"No," smiled Una. "I shan't forgive you for a long time. I have all pretence, and all deception. You know that. Besides—"

That one last word concealed such pain and struggle ever since Moya had announced her engagement, and still more ever since Una had guessed and grieved over the fact that they suddenly widened. For Guy himself was coming along the sands. He came slowly and quietly, and the calm in his bearing quieted the agitated beating of Moya's heart.

"I've come to say good-bye," he known it for some time now. That you've come right into my life, and are the spring and centre of it."

"Oh," cried Una faintly. She put out her hand gropingly as if for support and shrank away as he caught it. "Oh, how can you? When there is Moya!"

"Moya! All that was unreal. A pretence!"

Una tried to shake off his hand. "I will not listen. Oh, Barry at least I thought you honorable. And now you—"

"Tell you the truth," he finished. "What you would have known long ago if I had had my way. Well, I can keep silence no longer. Not even for Moya's sake. Our engagement was pretence from the first. She asked me in fact, to help her—to save her pride, she called it. She thought Guy Berkeley was coming down here or the purpose of marrying her as a sort of reparation for her lost fortune. were not happy together in their engagement.

"And Guy?" demanded Barry jealously.

"Guy!" echoed Una absently. She seemed to have forgotten all about Guy. Of course Guy was a very splendid sort of man, but he was older than Barry, grey-haired, worn with life. And Barry was radiant with strength and young life. He had the making of a man in him, rather than the accomplishment. And Una thrilled to the thought of that making, to the future. She was not like Moya, who needed, and knew she needed, strength to lean upon. Rather Una had strength to give, and tenderness in plenty to bestow on this her "blind, stupid boy," who had so nearly missed love.

"Oh, don't let's talk about Guy," protested Una.

"About what then?" asked Barry. "About those old maids who once lived here?"

"My poor silly little girl," Guy's voice was tender, there was no note of laughter in it. But Moya caught her breath on a sob that turned to a laugh.

"Yes, that's what I am," she whispered. "So silly—you can't love me any more when you know what I am. Not the least like the girl you thought me. And yet, oh, I did not want to lose your love!"

"And so this was all it was! And you would have let me go away, Moya, grieving for you, because I could see your engagement was not happy. Ah, I could have borne everything if I had known you two were happy. And yet you would have let me go away grieving."

"I did not think of that," she owned, "but I could not bear your going away, blaming yourself. Guy, I could not bear that. I could bear better losing your love."

"Do you think anything you could do would cause that?" he asked gravely. And she heard the conquering love in his voice.

"I deserve it," she protested. "I'm not the girl you loved."

But then Guy laughed. "You must leave me to judge about that," he said. "And you were afraid to tell me? I've been an ogre all along; I see that. A bogey before you saw me—when you had to get yourself engaged at double-quick speed for fear of finding yourself engaged to me. And a bigger bogey still when you did see me."

"I don't know now however I could have been so foolish," sighed Moya. "And I thought it such a good joke at the time."

She looked up at him timidly. He did not seem so very angry after all.

"You'll have to teach me so much," she said softly. "Perhaps you'll get tired of teaching me."

"Perhaps I shall," agreed Guy with a smile. "But then it's just quite possible you have something to teach me, too."

She laughed at that. But his smile was grave. "Happiness," he said, "and love. I never learned either of those before I saw you. Moya, why do you look so doubtful? Dear, don't you know we learn best from mistakes?"

"Do you think we go?" she asked.

Her voice was tremulous. "But we lose so much, too."

"And gain," he finished. "Lose perhaps what we are best without, and gain what we need most of all. Moya, let us think of the future, not the past. Do you know you will marry but a poor man?"

There was teasing in his smile now. She met it hesitatingly, as she thought of her mother's ambitions.

"Yes, poor," said Guy. "You will do well to think of that. We shall have the spending of much money, it is true. And there is joy in that spending. I know. Yes, the purest joy. Nevertheless, I call myself a poor man."

"And I think you are the richest man I know," she said softly.

"There are several ways of looking at that," he smiled. "Yet at this moment I'm inclined to believe in what you say. Well, think it over, Moya. Spending one's all for others, living poorly that others may not be poor, if you call that riches—"

She looked up at him anxiously. "Why do you ask me this?" she cried. "Do you think I should fall in such a test?"

"No, a thousand times, no!" he answered. "It is because of what I do think about you, Moya, that I have the courage to call you to such a life, and know you will come."

To call her. Yes, she thrilled to that call. Because it meant that he trusted her, that he thought her worthy in spite of all. And to that call rose all the best in Moya, all that had been hidden in her heart, waiting for the voice to rouse it into life.

The call of love! It came and claimed her. And Moya answered the call in the fullest trust and joy.

VARIOUS FRUIT RECIPES.

STEAMED ORANGE PUDDING.

Put a cupful and a half of scalded milk in a cupful of sugar. Add two table-spoonfuls of butter and let stand 15 minutes. Beat four eggs with one-fourth cupful of boiling water and strain. Add a cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful of coloring to tint a deeper pink. Chill lemon juice, the peach pulp and fruit in a pan of ice water and when quite thick beat with a wire spoon until frothy, then add the stiffly-beaten whites of three eggs and beat until stiff enough to drop. Have ready a mold lined with halves of peaches with blanched almonds arranged to look like the pits. Turn the mixture into the mold, chill and serve with rich cream, plain or whipped.

DATE TAPIOCA.

Four three cupfuls of boiling water over one-half cupful of minute tapioca and boil the whole for 15 minutes, or until clear. Cool about half and then stir into it one-half cupful of stoned and cut-up dates with from one-half cupful to one cupful of sugar, according to taste. If the tapioca has a noticeably starchy flavor when cooked, more than a half cupful of sugar may be needed; otherwise this amount is sufficient. Serve with cream for a delicious dessert of high nutritive value.

APPLE INDIAN PUDDING.

Put one cupful of soft bread and one cupful of soft butter in a pan and beat together. Add one cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, one cupful of molasses, and one cupful of raisins. Bake in a greased pudding dish. To be eaten hot or cold with cream.

COMPOSITE OF PEARS.

Cut about a dozen large pears in two lengthwise, leaving on the stem, pare and core them. Cook in a little water until tender, then drain. To the liquid add sufficient hot water to make a cupful and a half in all. Add a cupful of sugar and a small teaspoon of nutmeg. When the syrup boils, skim, add the pears and cook slowly until the fruit is tender, then lift each piece out carefully and arrange on a glass serving dish with the stems pointing outward. Add the raisins and a dozen or more blanched almonds to the syrup, boil it down until quite thick, then pour over the fruit, chill and serve with cream.

APPLE CHARLOTTE.

Cook pears and sliced apples, stirring constantly in butter, until soft and dry, adding sugar as you cook. When done, mix with flour and sugar and mix well. Put in a greased pudding dish, one layer of the slices, then a layer of sugar and nutmeg, and so on until the bottom of the mold is reached. Bake for half an hour in a hot oven. Serve with sugar and cream, or hot sauce.

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE SAUCE.

Take one quarter a pint of sweet apples, slice them evenly in a quart cupful of sugar. Then pare and quarter a pint of sour apples, piece evenly on the sugar and sprinkle over them two-thirds cupful of sugar. Add a large cupful of water, cover with an earthen plate and cook in a moderate oven for six hours. When cool serve with cream.

GRAPE FRUIT SALAD.

Peel the fruit, separate the sections, remove the skin and take out the seeds. Blanch Malaga grapes by throwing into hot water for a minute, cut in two and remove the seeds. Mix with the grape fruit and serve with mayonnaise. Garnish with lettuce and celery.

Poor remedies have given Catarrh the reputation of being incurable. But it is curable, easily and quickly, if the right method is employed. Snuffing a powder or ointment up the nose, douching, or stomach medicines cure. These treatments fail because they only affect local conditions, they do not remove the cause, which is germ life established in the lungs, bronchial tubes, and nasal passages. Ordinary remedies do not reach those remote parts, but Catarrhazone does, for it is breathed through the inhaler into every air cell in the lungs, into every air passage in the head and throat. No matter where the Catarrh is Catarrhazone will reach it. It kills the germs, heals sore spots, clears the nose and throat instantly. Universally used; pleasant and clean; guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

Don't be an object of aversion to everyone you meet—get Catarrhazone to-day and use it regularly; it will cure your Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat, Trouble, spitting and gagging. Large size lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller size, 50¢; sample size, 25¢; at all dealers.

A Dog and An Egg.

A farmer in a western state possessed two dogs, a big one called Alice and a small one that was named Billy. Alice, greedy creature, was fond of fresh eggs. When she heard a hen cackle she always ran to look for the shed. One day she found one under the shed. She went away and soon returned with Billy, bringing him just before the hole.

Billy was stupid and did not understand. Alice put her head in and then her paws without being able to reach the eggs. Billy seemed to understand what was wanted. He went under the shed, brought out the egg and put it before Alice, who ate it with great satisfaction, and then both dogs trotted off together.

Neat Blarney.

"Why does your horse go so slow?" asked a tourist one day in the Glen of the Downs, Ireland, of his driver. "It is out of respect to the beautiful scenery, yer honor—he wants ye to see it all. And then he's an intelligent baste, and appreciates good company, and wants to kape the like of ye in ould Ireland as long as he can."

JOY AND GLADNESS FOR THE CHILDREN

Every child—whether it be poor or rich—is entitled to joy and gladness. Health is the birthright of all, and there is absolutely no doubt that the healthy baby is a happy baby. It is the baby's nature to be happy—not cross. Only the sickly baby is cross. The well child is a joy to the home—it is a laughing, purring, happy little piece of humanity which drives dull care from the household. The steady baby is the opposite—he is cross and peevish; cries a great deal and is a source of constant worry to the mother. But, mothers, there is no need of your little ones being sickly. Regulate the baby's bowels and sweeten his stomach with a gentle but thorough laxative and baby will soon be well and happy again. Thousands of mothers have proved this through their use of Baby's Own Tablets—there is a smile in every dose of the Tablets. Give them to your baby and make him happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PHUBARB DESSERTS

This excellent spring tonic may be just as healthful served stewed as first course for breakfast, but it has many tasty possibilities for other places in the daily menu. Half a dozen delicious desserts can be made from it, without causing the family to say, "What, rhubarb again!"

RHUBARB PIE DE LUXE

For a company dinner try this way of preparing your rhubarb pie: Make a fairly thick under crust and brush it over with white of egg to keep it from getting too soggy. Fill with partly stewed and sweetened rhubarb in which an egg has been whipped, half a teaspoonful of butter added and a few drops of lemon juice. Put the top crust on in laticed, trips and bake till done. Then make a meringue of the white of one egg, slightly sweetened, put a dab of the meringue in each open square between the strips of crust, brown for a few minutes in the oven, and you have a pie fit for a king.

RHUBARB JELLY

Skin and cut a pound of rhubarb in small pieces, cook with a cupful of sugar until soft, but not broken. Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in half a cupful of cold water until soft, then strain into the hot rhubarb with two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Pour in a mold and chill. Serve with whipped cream and sweet crackers.

RHUBARB PUDDING

Line a bowl with a good short pie crust. Fill with sweetened leftover rhubarb to which a third the quantity of raisins has been added. Put a pastry covering on the pudding, pinching the edges together well to keep the juice in. Tie the bowl in a pudding cloth and plunge in boiling water to cover. Boil for about two hours. Turn the pudding out carefully and serve with hard sauce or cream.

Speaks Right Out and To The Point

MISS LADERONT SAYS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS HELPED HER KIDNEY DISEASE.

Bigwood Lady Points the Way to Health to the Weak, Weary, Nervous, Run-down Women of Canada.

Bigwood, Ont., June 14th (Special).—"Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me of kidney disease."

That is the statement of Miss Laurence Laderont, a highly esteemed lady living here. It is short and to the point. There can be no misunderstanding of its meaning. It is a clear and ringing message to women all over Canada. It tells them where they, too may find relief.

For ninety per cent. of the ills from which women suffer come from weak or diseased kidneys. They are the organs that strain all the impurities, all of the seeds of disease out of the blood. If they fail in this work the impurities remain in the blood and are deposited all over the body. The results show themselves in weakness, weariness, nervousness, headache, backache, drowsy and rheumatism.

Ask your neighbor if all these diseases cannot be avoided by using Dodd's Kidney Pills to strengthen the kidneys.

QUEER COINS.

The great war brought into circulation some very odd kinds of money. There was lack of copper and nickel throughout Europe, owing to the demand for those metals for munitions, etc.; and, to aggravate the situation people everywhere took to hoarding coins.

Germany issued hundreds of millions of five-pfennig and ten-pfennig iron coins coated with zinc to prevent rust. Iron coins were likewise minted by the Governments of Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

The Germans issued one-pfennig pieces of aluminum, and in Algeria also aluminum coins of five centimes and ten centimes made their appearance in circulation.

Germany issued mullin notes, and the local governments in that country and in Austria printed paper money of the smallest value ever known, representing one-fifth of a cent.

Even more curious was the paste-board money issued in some of the enemy-occupied cities in France. It was in denominations up to five francs, and was of different colors and shapes—square, round, octagonal, oval and diamond shaped. This "card money" was guaranteed by the local municipalities, and was good only for use in transactions with merchants of the town where it was issued.

Meanwhile, the clever Japanese bought up in China nearly all of the visible supply of "cash"—the copper pieces with square holes for string, for them together. At the enhanced price of copper they were worth considerably more as bullion than as money.

PROBABLY Miss Smith's "Mond" was found to be as twenty-five when she was that "pleb old man."

Miss Smith: "Oh, I suppose she made a discount for cash!"

Indians in France.

The American Indians in France quickly adjusted themselves to the conditions of the country. They soon became just as cunning as in their native western haunts. This is illustrated by an incident which occurred when the Germans were withdrawing across the Marne. Indian scouts were sent over the river to ascertain the German movements and other details.

At one crossing three Indians improvised a raft and chained it to the north side of the Marne. They hid the raft and then started on an exploring expedition. The Germans discovered the strange footprints on the river bank, and came upon the raft. They awaited the Indians' return. But, after reconnoitering, the Indians approached their hidden raft cautiously and scenting trouble made a hasty retreat.

The Germans recognized that the strange red men were not of their kind, and must therefore be an enemy and began firing. The Indians ran through the woods like deer, and finally struck for the water, in an endeavor to reach the south side.

These Indians, reared along the rivers, swim like Hawaiians, and are able to remain below the surface for a long time. The Germans saw splashes in the water and began firing. The Indians dived and swam downstream under water, only coming to the surface for a brief breathing spell.

Finally the Indians reached the south bank far below the Germans, the current assisting them materially. The Germans, thoroughly angered, shot the raft to pieces.
