

NO BREACH OF FAITH.

What good can possibly result from the manner in which Mr. Hanington raises questions of veracity between himself and nearly everybody else almost every day, and sometimes three or four times a day? It is not conceivable that when any living creature dissects from Hanington's statements, such dissection must be deliberate falsehood or at least a perversion of truth. Surely there must have been the occasion sometime during the last quarter of a century when the honorable member for Westmorland was in error, when his opponents, though they disagreed with him, were in the right. These questions of veracity are rarely raised by other members. These observations were suggested by the protestations made by the leader of the opposition over an alleged breach of faith on the part of Mr. Blair in permitting the appropriation bills to be passed on Monday. Both Messrs. Blair and Mitchell said that the latter distinctly told Mr. Hanington that the bills, being purely formal, would be put through committee on Monday. To this Mr. Hanington gives a bold denial. He does not even admit that in the course of the conversation he had with Messrs. Blair and Mitchell this may have been said without his catching the remark. He contents himself with what is in effect a charge that the two members of the government stated a deliberate falsehood. The usage of the house would convince any reasonable man that no one would be guilty of the senseless act, which Mr. Hanington charges against the government members. There could be no possible reason for misleading the opposition in regard to the appropriation bills. These are never opposed. The custom used to be to rush them through just as the members were going home at the end of the session. Mr. Hanington does not pretend that he wanted to oppose them. Every item had been passed; there was nothing to oppose. Why in the name of common sense should any one want to mislead him about them? The matter would not be worth mentioning if it had not been heralded all over the country that the government had been guilty of a gross breach of faith. The fact is simply that Mr. Hanington had another of his spasms.

THE UNIVERSITY.

The following are the principal features of the government bill in relation to the university. When the act is brought into operation, which will be by proclamation, the government will appoint an officer, who will be chief superintendent of education and president of the senate of the university. One of the professors will be appointed chancellor of the university of the government, and he will have the general charge and supervision of the university and collegiate school. The faculty of the university, which is to consist of the chancellor and professors, shall have charge of matters of discipline and the management of the lectures and the general organization of the institution in an educational sense. The corporation of the university is to consist of twelve persons. Nine are to be appointed by the government, to consist of the president of the senate, the chancellor, and seven others, who hold office for short terms, but may be re-appointed. The alumni are to elect two representatives to the senate and the provincial teachers' institute one. This corporation shall constitute the senate. By the changes, the university will be brought into close bond with the common school system and made what it should be, the crown of our excellent educational system. The government have put themselves in line with the public opinion by the proposed changes in the law.

ITALY AND THE UNITED STATES.

The action of Italy in regard to the killing of the Italian at New Orleans, seems extreme, or at least hasty. It is, doubtless, quite true that the members of the Mafia were not lynched because they were Italians, but because they were lawless assassins. Most of them were, in point of fact, United States citizens, though of Italian birth, nevertheless the government of Italy is in the right in insisting that the fullest explanation shall be given for the killing of such of the members of the Mafia who were not citizens of the republic. The case is different from an ordinary murder. The victims of the mob had been tried and condemned by the United States authorities, and a foreign nation is within its right in insisting that its subjects shall have the full benefit of the laws of the state in which they reside. A rupture of diplomatic relations, which is what Italy threatens, does not mean war, but it is a dangerous state of things, because where two governments are irritated at each other and the people of one country are incensed against those of another, it is not easy to prevent the occurrence of acts, which must lead to war. The most immediate source of danger is that some hot-headed people in Italy may retaliate upon Americans there. The Italian government, it is said, thinks of dealing directly with the state of Louisiana. If this course is adopted it will be a direct affront to the federal authorities, which they may be disposed to resent.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

HERALD readers have already been informed as to the probability of a shortage in the food supply of the world and warned to be on the look out for high prices. The correctness of these predictions in regard to oats is shown by current quotations. Flour has not shown much disposition to go up, but beef is touching a higher notch from week to week. $8.25 per hundred pounds is the latest quotation in Kansas, and the world is that a further advance may be looked for. Pork is advancing and will be likely to go still higher. Among the causes tending to put up the price of provisions is the condition of farming matters in Europe. The exceptionally hard season just ended has greatly injured winter grain, and the prospects are that both the wheat and rye crop will be short. The American surplus is comparatively small. If the correspondents are right who foretell war this summer, the consumption of grains and meats in Europe will be greatly increased. On the whole, the outlook is for a steady advance in prices, with the prospect, under certain conditions, of a very sharp advance. In our own province there is a shortage of seed oats that will be seriously felt.

THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

The Appropriation Bills - Mr. Hanington's Accusation - The Attorney General Replies - Railway Bill.

MONDAY, MARCH 30.
The house reassembled for the despatch of business on Monday afternoon, deputy speaker Palmer in the chair.
Mr. Russell introduced a bill authorizing Charlotte municipality to place and convey certain lands situate at Seal Cove, parish of Grand Manan.
Mr. Colter introduced a bill further amending chapter 66 of the consolidated statutes of schools so far as it relates to Fredericton.
The appropriation bills were agreed to in committee of the whole.
Hon. Mr. Pugsley committed the bill amending the law relating to proceedings and practice in the supreme court, which was agreed to with a slight amendment.
Mr. Burchill committed the bill in addition to an amendment of chapter 99 of the consolidated statutes of municipalities. The object of the bill was to enable different municipalities to impose taxes on itinerant vendors of goods from place to place throughout the county in the province. He read a petition from Northumberland in favor of the bill. Mr. Wilson was opposed to the bill, and Mr. Phinney doubted the power of the legislature to pass such a measure.
Mr. Hibbard said he was inclined to support such a law if made to apply to non-residents, and if the definition of the word "goods" was plainly indicated.
Mr. Palmer asked for the opinion of the attorney general, and Mr. Blair promised to answer on Tuesday next.
Mr. Labllois was in favor of the bill, and Mr. Palmer questioned the policy of passing such a law. Progress was reported with leave to sit again.
Mr. Russell committed a bill amending the bill incorporating the Chamook water Co., which was agreed to with amendments.
Mr. McKeown introduced a bill establishing liens in favor of mechanics, laborers and others.

CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE.

An interesting sketch of the history of Cleopatra's Needle was brought out by the recent enquiry in the house of commons as to the action of the weather upon the obelisk. Mr. John Dixon, who was employed by the government to make a critical examination, in writing to the London Times upon the subject, says: "After making a careful personal examination of the monument, my critical eye failed to detect upon its surface a sign of any decay whatever. Were there such, there could be no doubt there would be signs of the stone lying on the altar steps and top of the pedestal. I climbed up, and could not see any sign of any decay. I also could see glittering points on the surface of the solution of silica supplied to me by the skilled chemists of the British Museum, at the suggestion of old friends, Sir Richard Owen and Dr. Birch, and of which three coats or washes were given with the greatest care before the monument and fastening for the final lift were placed around it." There is another reason, also, he goes on to remark, "in the natural composition of this peculiar dyed of syenitic granite that crosses the valley of the Nile at the First Cataracts, and from the quarries at the same village of Syene from which all the known obelisks were cut, namely, the total absence of mica in the stone. In all other granites this readily destructible material exists. Moreover, it must not be forgotten the centuries that have passed away since the ancient monument was erected by the Pharaoh Rameses II., at the main gateway of the temple at On, the Heliopolis of the Greeks. There it stood for eighteen centuries, and was about twenty-three years B. C. removed by order of Cleopatra to the place she was erecting at Alexandria for her friend and constant visitor, Julius Caesar. The architect appointed by her was Pontius the father of Pontius Pilate, the governor of Judea. The rounded corners of the bases of these two obelisks had doubtless been chipped off by the gate-keepers at On and sold to the pilgrim visitors. Pontius Architektos had eight bronze crabs cast, and placed them under the round corners of the stones, and on the big claw of the two which alone remained was, when the pedestal was cleared of its surrounding sand, found the inscription: "In the sixth year of Augustus Caesar I, Barbarus, Prefect of Egypt, caused these obelisks to be erected by Pontius, the architect." Since then, after nineteen centuries are passed, and even this 4,700 years of weathering has not erased one single portion of the hieroglyphs."

THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

At a school examination and concert on Tuesday night at the Parron Hill school house, near Liberty, Miss. where Miss Ida Dixon, colored, had just closed a session of the public school for colored children, while the teacher and her pupils were singing in the entertainment of a large audience of colored people and quite a number of white persons, and the improvised auditorium was crowded with teachers, pupils and spectators, a double-barrelled shot gun, heavily charged with shot, was fired into the assemblage by some unknown miscreant, wounding fourteen persons, some of them seriously.

THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

It was thought last week that the death rate had reached its maximum, but when the Register of vital statistics at Chicago, Mr. Tomlinson, closed his books at six o'clock Wednesday evening he had chronicled the death of nearly 300 people for the preceding 24 hours. Never before in the history of the office has it submitted such a statement for one day. It showed that Chicagoans are dying at the appalling rate of one every five minutes. Streets leading to the graveyards are filled all day with funerals.
A desperate battle is reported between strikers and armed guards at Morewood, Pa., Thursday at three o'clock. Three or four hundred strikers approached the works of the H. C. Frick coke company and began to batter down the gates. When ordered to desist they fired on the strikers, slightly wounding several. The latter replied with their Remingtons and killed seven rioters instantly, while many were wounded.
The military tribunal at St. Petersburg has sentenced Prince Vandykey to three years' detention in a fortress for killing Lieutenant Monosoff in a duel.
HOME ONCE MORE.—A party of lumbermen from St. Justine arrived in the city on Thursday, and report operations unusually concluded in that vicinity. The cut will be about seven millions, including the contracts of private parties of the French who have been working at piece work. Most of the lumbermen looked hale and hearty notwithstanding the severe winter, and say they had a good time with plenty of sport.
MAYLE HONEY.—There has been a large quantity of maple honey brought into the city this week, by Messrs. Murch, Bourgoine, Dykeman, and Hayes. The latter has a large camp at Clearwater, and recently purchased 2,000 pairs for manufacturing purposes. Mr. Bourgoine manufactured 200 lbs. of sugar this week, and has a large camp at Kingsclear fitted up with all the necessary appliances.
COMING EVENTS.—Some of the attractions of the future are a variety entertainment to be given by the L. S. C. dramatic company, a dramatic combination at the Carlton street opera house, and an oyster social by the young ladies of the Y's. A concert at Gibson, and a similar entertainment at Kingsclear in connection with the episcopal church, are also on the tapis.
NOT TO BE DRYER.—There was quite a lot of excitement at one of the city mills a few days ago, when the men carrying lumber complained of the proprietor's arrogance. The men said they were prepared to do a reasonable day's work at fair wages but objected to be driven. Several of them left in a body and returned to their homes up river.
THE MARYVILLE BAND.—The band which is being thoroughly reorganized will give some popular concerts during the current season, at the rink which will probably be converted into a roller skating rendezvous for the lovers of sport in this city and vicinity. Prof. Fox of Harvey station has applied for the leadership of the band.

THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

The committee on privileges met on Wednesday morning to consider the case of Mr. LeBlanc, when were present Messrs. Blair, Stockton, Atkinson, Mitchell, Phinney, and Colter. Messrs. Wilson, Hanington, Labllois, Hibbard and Hetherington watched the proceedings. Hon. Mr. Blair stated the subject before the assembly to be the question of Mr. LeBlanc's eligibility to a seat in the house of commons. Mr. Phinney having claimed that the seat was vacant, the matter had been referred to this committee. Mr. LeBlanc in person or counsel would be permitted to state what ground or what action he proposed to take.

They are smaller in physique than the domestic article, but of active and as tame as the renowned tallow.

In the Arms of Morpheus.—It is reported that a resident of Morpheus' mill had recently slept for four consecutive nights and days without taking any nourishment. Such a condition often follows an attack of the gripe and a similar case occurred last week when a sufferer from that disease slept for two consecutive days. Another case occurred a month or two ago in this city.

Seriously Unwell.—Frank Berton of the N. B. University who attempted a few days ago to skate from this city to St. John is seriously unwell at his home at the latter place. The long walk of ten miles across the ice, the blinding snow and sun which has effected his eyesight, and a bad chill has completely incapacitated him, and he lies in a complete state of prostration at the residence of his parents.

Log Drivings Sale.—On Wednesday the contract for the log driving sale was awarded to Frederick Moore whose tender was the lowest. The contract is for four years as follows: From head of Grand Falls, 20 cts; from Salmon Falls, 15 cts; from Astobuck boundary, 20 cts; from mouth of Tobique, 10 cts; from Presque Isle mouth, 13 cts; from mouth Beaguinnac, 13 cts; from Meduxnekeag and below, 11 cts.

As Easter Sale.—The sale of fancy and domestic articles held in the lecture room of the Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon and evening was well attended, and brisk business was done by the children of the X. L. mission band, with the help of a few ladies of the congregation. The sale was very successful realizing nearly $100. The room was very tastefully decorated. Refreshments were on sale.

All Fools Day.—On Wednesday the old time custom of practical jokes was carried out upon unsuspecting citizens. All sorts of messages and notices were received and given, and the juveniles bowed with delight as the unwary traveller was told to look for the article he had dropped on the sidewalk. It was a merry time, and custom was kept up until noon when according to rule the practice of fooling ceased.

The Government Horses.—The government horse sale at the city hall on Tuesday last did not attract a large number of buyers, and several valuable horses had to be withdrawn. In the perchion list, Zephyr was leased to the Hon. D. McLellan for $200; Prefere to the Sunbury society for $100; and Deacon to T. Hetherington, M. P. P. for $200; Knight of Chester Glydesdale was leased to the Prince William society for $155, and the Hackney horse, grandeeur went to Mr. Theriault for $170. It is the intention of the government to dispose of the remaining animals by sale outright. The advertisement will be found elsewhere.

The Easter Services.

The special services in the churches last Sunday were largely attended. The rendering of appropriate Easter music by the choirs, the pleasing floral decorations, and the instructive Easter sermons, all combined to make Easter Sunday truly a day of spiritual enjoyment.

A CURIOSITY SHOP.

A Sketch of a Nashwaakia Abode and its Proprietor.

On Monday last THE HERALD man was attracted by a veritable curiosity shop situated on the Nashwaakia road. It was a peculiarly shaped cottage, built out of slabs, shingled and sheathed, and covered with a french roof. A motley collection of rustic seats and a summer house stood in the front garden. The house was built in sparsely odd hours by the proprietor who is a well known job painter. The building is evidently intended for a fanciful advertisement by the owner, for every three feet of the exterior is covered with paintings exhibiting the varied colors of the rainbow. On each small oblong is painted the owner's name, and the words "cheap store," "boys' clothing," "paint and varnish," "old junk taken," "cash store," "goods exchanged," with fanciful repetitions of the owner's name. The painting is not very artistic but all the colors of the horizon at dawn are represented.

The interior is as fanciful as the exterior. The rooms are painted and varnished in various imitations of fancy woods. The store is replete with every variety of article known in the junk business from a scrap of old iron down to gold watch. The proprietor is a character in his way, and many are the anecdotes related of his eccentricities. He is a tall spare man with a ruddy countenance, and possessed of great strength and endurance. Once he was working in the lumber woods on the Nashwaakia, he was seen without a hat, and the shirt he was working in was cotton. The subject of the shirt became quite a joke as the eccentric owner had to go bare on washing a day in the camp. Nothing daunted, he procured a sack and making some improvised arms, invented a protector against the cold. For economy, he procured a sack and making some improvised arms, invented a protector against the cold.
