"NATIONAL HERO SERIES" NO. 2

GARIBALDI—ITALIA'S GREAT PATRIOT

IN the cause of Personal and National Liberty this modern Rienzi of sunny Italy would have gladly laid down his life. It inspired him to deeds of immortal grandeur, of superb valor and of boundless suffering. Garibaldi would not have legislative tyranny of any kind enter into his own private life any more than will our millions of liberty-loving Italian citizens. His flaming soul scorned any legislation which would prohibit ALL because ONE man out of thousands imbibes in gluttonous quantities. He knew that the light wines of Italy and the barley brews of Germany are beneficial to humanity.

Upon an old Germanic basis 57 years ago Anheuser-Busch, brewers of Budweiser, established their brand. The Constitution of the United States is the sole authority upon which they launched their business in America. Every day of these 57 years has been devoted to the brewing of an honest Barley-malt and Saazer Hop brew—the kind that spells Temperance throughout the world. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to keep pace with the public demand for Budweiser. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

The Earl's Son; OR TWO HEARTS UNITED

CHAPTER VII.

"Oh, he's a kind of protegee of Veronica's. Don't like his manner?" "Discharge him?" My dear Talbot, if we discharged every servant whose manner we didn't like we should be left to wait upon ourselves, clean our own boots, and protect our own game. What the devil has a keeper to do with manners?"

Talbot bit his lip. "I told the fellow he was to go," he said, suavely enough; but the earl looked from under his shaggy brows at him with a grim smile.

"My dear Talbot, you really must not trouble yourself with the servants—yet. You will find it bad enough when you are obliged to do so! I have a fancy—a foolish one, no doubt—for employing and discharging my own servants, or having it done by the proper persons. In this case, Burchett will—Who's that crossing at the end of the lawn?" he broke off shading his eyes with his hand.

Talbot frowned. "The fellow himself," he said, with an affectation of indifference.

"Ah! Call him!" said his lordship. Reluctantly, Talbot sauntered to the head of the steps and called to Ralph in a voice that he sincerely trusted would not be heard; but Ralph's ears were those of a scout, and he looked up and came towards them. Veronica, from where she stood hidden from the two men in the stone door-way, saw that Ralph's face was perfectly calm and serene, fancied, indeed, that she detected, even in that distance, a faint smile of humor in the eloquent eyes.

Ralph came up the steps and stood waiting, his eyes fixed on the earl's which peered at him angrily.

"So, sir," he said, sternly, in his thin, clear voice, "you are pleased to be insolent, it seems!"

Ralph's gaze did not falter from the earl's or turn to Talbot, who stood behind the chair eyeing him with a haughty displeasure which was only thinly divided from hate.

"Who says so, my lord?" he asked. The earl leant forward suddenly and gazed at him still more intently. "Do you bandy questions with me, sir?" he said. "My nephew, Mr. Talbot, here, complains of your manners."

"I'm sorry, my lord," said Ralph, quietly. "I think Mr. Talbot has made a mistake. I was never insolent but once; that was when I was a boy; I suppose it was the licking I got then that taught me not to try it again. I fancy Mr. Talbot took me for a poacher; and of course that's enough to upset the temper of any man, especially a gamekeeper."

"Eh, Talbot? What? What do you say?" asked the earl. Talbot Denby forced a smile.

"Perhaps that explains it," he said. "at any rate, I accept the man's apology, sir."

At the word "apology," Ralph's brows went up, and his eyes leapt to the dark ones above the chair, then he smiled and looked at the earl again.

"Do I understand that I am to leave, my lord?" he said. The earl hesitated a moment. "Eh? By gad! I suppose you ought to be sent packing; but—you may remain. Use your time to mend your manners. What have you in that basket?"

"Trout, my lord," replied Ralph, and he came up to the chair, swung his creel round to the front of him and opened it. His Lordship bent forward and looked at the fish, then up at the handsome, tanned face.

"That's a fine fish. But I've caught finer—" He sighed, and his eyes, still on Ralph's face, grew sad with the sadness of age looking back at its youth.

"They'd be finer if the weir were mended," said Ralph, casually. "Eh, what? What's the matter with the weir?" demanded the earl, with interest. "It's old and almost useless in this weather. It wants rebuilding," said Ralph.

The earl seemed to be listening to the musical but manly voice. "Rebuild it," he said, laconically. "Tell Burchett it is to be done. Have you any other suggestions to make?" he added, and though the tone of the question was sarcastic enough, it was not bitter nor contemptuous.

"About the fishing, my lord? Oh, well, the weeds in the small pool ought to be cleared. As to the game, it would be a good thing to cut down the trees between our wood and the Saintsbury's. Our birds would keep our side, then."

He spoke respectfully enough, but quite frankly, and with the self-possession which had surprised Veronica and stirred her pride. The earl stared at him; then he laughed shortly.

"By gad, the fellow's right! Go in to the house and ask for Miss Veronica—" "Allow me to go," murmured Talbot; but the earl ignored him. "—And ask her to give you a letter to the steward. You can take it and explain."

"But Mr. Burchett—he's the head-keeper, my lord," said Ralph. The earl's face was a study.

"Upon my word, my man, your manners are as much in need of improvement as my preserves appear to be! Go and do as you are bid! Go in there!"

Ralph raised his cap and entered the hall. Its subdued splendour caught his whole attention and held it; and for a moment or two he was unaware that Veronica was standing looking at him with astonishment; she had not waited to hear the last part of the interview. Ralph started slightly, and, cap in hand, approached her and delivered his message.

Veronica colored, and seating herself at a writing-table, wrote the note and extended it to him in silence. He had been watching her, with an attention as absorbed as that which had been claimed by the sight of the hall, and he took the note rather absently and looked round.

"Can I get this way to the servants' hall?" he asked. She pointed to a door without a word, and with a "Thank you," he was going, but she stopped him by a gesture.

"Why are you going there?" she asked. "To take these trout," he said. "There are only three, but they are a good size."

With a touch of color in her face, and her eyes looking straight above his head, she said, icily: "You may leave two of them, the other you may take to your friend—Fanny—Mrs. Mason. I imagine it will not be the first present of fish you have given them."

Now, if she had left out this last sting, the man half frozen by her voice and manner would have gone in silence; but it turned the ice to fire. "What!" he said, in a low voice, his eyes flashing. "Do you mean that I steal the fish—the game—"

Inwardly Veronica walked before his just wrath, but outwardly she was calm and scornful indifference. "That is the door!" she said haughtily.

Ralph gazed at her indignantly and his lips opened; then he seemed to swallow something, and with one more look he turned on his heel.

CHAPTER VIII.

Ralph left the Court with every nerve in his body tingling. Of course he knew, he thought, the cause of Miss Gresham's treatment of him. She was a great lady, and resented his rough-and-ready way of protecting her against blood poisoning.

"I suppose she'd rather have died," he thought, bitterly. "She looked as if I had contaminated her; she spoke to me as if I were a dog, and I suppose, in her estimation, I am very little better."

Then his mood softened a little. "After all," he said to himself, "she's only a girl, though she is the niece of an earl and as proud as a queen; and girls are shy—and touchy. How beautiful she looked! To feel her eyes blazing at you was like having the light from that great painted window in the hall dazzling you! It's lucky that haughty young gentleman, Mr. Talbot Denby, wasn't looking on; I should have lost my head and blurted out—something I should have been sorry for all the rest of my life. Yes, she's as beautiful as a picture. Strange, she didn't seem so angry just after I'd done it. I suppose she'd had time to realise the enormity of my offence. Perhaps she was wild with me for having quarrelled with her cousin; he is her cousin, I suppose. Oh, dash it, I can't fathom a woman's moods! All I know is that I feel as if I'd been beaten all over."

He went quickly to the hut. Burchett was cleaning a gun, and looked up from under his brows at Ralph with grim interrogation.

"Afraid I shall have to hand in my resignation," said Ralph, with anything but a mirthful glance. "I don't appear to give satisfaction," as the servant-maids say."

Burchett eyed him gravely. "Where have you been?" he said. "To the Court; and I wish I hadn't. The fact is, I'm not used to the ways of gentlefolks, as you call them. Over there—" he jerked his head—"we don't put up with insolence from any man—or woman, for that matter; and I've had a double dose this morning."

In sharp, laconic phrases he told Burchett of the incidents of the morning, but said nothing of his quick and ready operation for the prevention of blood poisoning; somehow or other that seemed sacred to himself. "It's strange," he said, with a short laugh, "you have treated me well enough; it was reserved for these great people to treat me like a dog."

What is that "Medicinal Brandy Sanator"?

WHY SANATOR? WHY MEDICINAL?

The answer is indeed easy:

Sanator (a Latin word) means: that cures. Medicinal means that the Brandy although being not a properly so-called "medicine" is composed with the best known growths for their tonic, digestive properties and of course can be used for medicinal purpose in the family like the Hospitals.

When you taste it, it is quite a revelation and people are accustomed to say: "I have never tasted so fine, so rich Brandy."

When you are sick, weak, suffering with a cold or with bad digestion, try the medicinal Brandy "Sanator" and you will be surprised of its good effects.

That can happen at every moment: ask to-day from your dealer a bottle of Medicinal Brandy "Sanator": it is prudent to have it always on hand.

Why that Corn?
Why that pain, when Blue-jay would stop it instantly?
Why have a corn, when Blue-jay would remove it in two days?
Why that discomfort, when millions of people could tell you a way to get rid of it?

These are the facts: Blue-jay is applied in a jiffy, and from that instant all pain is stopped.

Then, while you work or sleep or play, Blue-jay undermines the corn. In two days you can lift it out, without any pain or soreness.

Think how easy, how simple.

While you pare corns, or doctor them in other petty ways, Blue-jay is taking out a million corns a month.

It is simply folly, in these modern days, to suffer from a corn. A single test will prove this.

Technical School Formally Closed.

The St. John's Technical School, which has been in operation at St. Mary's Hall, Southside, during the past few months, was formally closed for the term last night, by His Excellency the Governor, who, with Lady Davidson, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Hon. John Harvey, Rev. H. Uphill, the Superintendent of Education and other prominent citizens who attended, showed a marked appreciation of all that had been done since the school opened. Following the report of the Principal, Mr. D. James Davies, B.Sc., F.C.S., which dealt with the work accomplished, His Excellency and party inspected the library and apparatus, after which His Excellency delivered an address on Technical Education. He stated that during his recent absence he had endeavored to get some philanthropist to endow a Technical School here, and though his efforts so far had been unsuccessful, he hoped to eventually elicit the support of some person in this matter. Upon visiting the Orange Institute at New York, he was more than ever impressed with the imperative need of something of the kind for Newfoundland. It was his desire to see such an institution established during his term of office, and he hoped that his name might be associated with such an establishment. Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris spoke along the same lines as His Excellency, and expressed his sympathy with the movement. The principal intendment to establishing Technical Education on a firm basis was finance. He expressed his appreciation of the good work done by Mr. Davies with such limited time and opportunities. Hon. John Harvey moved a vote of thanks to His Excellency and expressed the appreciation of all present to Lady Davidson who so kindly lent encouragement to the movement by her attendance.

Personal.

Mr. Bernard Ayre, the youngest son of Mrs. R. C. Ayre, of Circular Road, has just graduated at Cambridge University in the Honours School. Mr. Ayre was a pupil of The Leys School, Cambridge, one of the public schools of England. Mr. B. Ayre is studying medicine and his success in Arts augurs well for a similar success in the Medical School. We wish him every success and congratulate him, his mother and friends on the scholastic success he has already won.

Witless Bay Notes.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—During the past few days the prospects of a good fishery are becoming brighter. A number of men have their traps set, and some good fish have been taken. About the best catch for this place during the present season was made by Christopher Walsh, this morning. He secured about eight quintals, and since setting his trap Monday last, has salted twelve quintals.

The people of this place were very much shocked to hear of the sudden death of one of our most respected residents—Mrs. Margaret Tobin—who died about 5 a.m. Wednesday. Her age was fifty-eight years, and up to a few hours before her death, she seemed to be in normal health. Her loss is mourned by many here, and great sympathy is felt for her husband and family.

The English eat dogfish and seem to appreciate it, judging from the sales in 1913, which aggregated 5,500,000 pounds, valued at $80,000. Secretary Redfield does not approve of a bounty for dogfish, as he thinks the fishermen would realize more if the masses were educated to the idea of using it as a food fish. The Canadian Government only gets 250 pounds of scrap from a ton of these fish. He therefore does not see how it would prove a good investment for our Government to offer a bounty on them.

Extent of Nova Scotia Fisheries

From the recent annual report of the Department of Marine and Fisheries it appears that during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1913, 28,538 persons were employed in the fishing industry in the Province of Nova Scotia. The division of employment was as follows: Number in vessels, 5,678; in boats, 15,765; in canneries, fish houses, etc., 5,995. Vessels and rigs numbering 758, valued at $1,983,318, were used, besides 8,742 gasoline and 9,812 sail boats, with a total value of $959,116. In addition to the foregoing, the following amounts of capital are invested in the fishing industry of the Province: Gill nets and seines, $614,923; lines, traps, pound nets, weirs, etc., $270,140; lobster plant, $928,762; salmon and other canneries, freezers, fish houses and fixtures, $1,775,231.

Buck Herzog.

Red McChes says: As a kid I know w a y back in school when fists gave kids the right to rule as bullies of the bunch, paraded 'round t r o m morn 'till night jus' achin' fer a chance to fight an' try his knockout punch. H i s shoulder always had its chip an' he was strong on givin' lip to any one he met. He'd mix in on a private fight an' blacken' some guy's orbs o' sight. I guess he's fightin' yet.

Buck Herzog makes me think o' him. When Buck saw Tinker in the swim with 'Bridget's' Reds, with his fist fights every day or so, Buck figured it the place to go an' smash a couple heads. The Gants' gang was purty rough but their fights weren't n' enough, so when Joe pulled his stakes Buck angled out the leadership o' Cincinnati's baseball ship an' prayed to get the breaks.

But strange enough when Buck took hold that fistiana stuff went cold—Buck got another hunch. He sprat around his fightin' steam to all the members of the team an' gave the Reds the punch. Buck left his oil of polish at third an' shortstopped like an oil time bird—'n' now look what he's done! His fightin' spirit harnessed in has showed those Reds the way to win an' Buck enjoys the fun.

Household Notes

Hair brushes can be successfully cleaned by putting ammonia in cold water and dipping the brush in, being careful not to allow the wood to go into the water; then rinse in clear cold water.

Early in the season, when apples are scarce, the windfalls make excellent apple sauce. Cut out all the wormy portions and cores, but do not pare them; then cook and rub through a hair sieve.

To clean a raincoat, it should be dipped in cold soft water, spread on a table and scrubbed all over with a large nail brush and soap. Then put it on a coat hanger and, if possible, dry in the open air.

A delicious Turkish dish can be made from left-over roast beef, tomato sauce and rice. Chop the beef and heat together with the rice and tomato in a saucepan; season with pepper and a dash of curry.

Bacon drippings are excellent to use in the making of waffles instead of butter, also in the sautéing of almonds; in fact, anywhere that shortening is needed, the result will be better than when butter is used.

When you wish to break a bottle evenly, soak a piece of string in turpentine and tie it around where you wish the break to come. Then fill the bottle up to the point with cold water and set fire to the string.

Spread one or two rashers of lean bacon on a baking tin, cover it thickly with slices of cheese and sprinkle a little mustard over it. Bake it in a slow oven for half an hour and serve the bacon slices on dry toast.

Soiled dancing slippers of light color can be successfully dyed in ink. Either blue or black ink produces a pretty art blue shade. Ink must be fresh and applied with a small pad of cotton wool. One application is sufficient.

When black silk or woollen dresses are stained with mud, first let the material become absolutely dry and brush off the mud. The stain that remains should be washed with a piece of flannel dipped in hot coffee, to which a little ammonia has been added.

There is true economy in having all the conveniences like polishing mops and dusters, vacuum cleaner or the latest gas range. Anything that saves time and labor will make the work go much more quickly and easily.

If your family is small and table scraps not numerous, the easiest way to dispose of them is to put them under the back lids of the stove to dry out. When dry, they should be raked forward on the bed of coals and burned.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.

The Growth of an Idea

It was on the 14th of August, 1913, that we announced the institution of our Partial Payment Plan of purchasing good securities on easy terms.

As with all other reform measures, people were at first rather skeptical of its ultimate success. But we firmly believed it to be a sound business method on our part and the fulfilment of an actual need of YOURS. And our faith in the Plan has removed mountains of indifference and prejudice.

Although the Plan has only been in operation for ten months it has grown to be a very important feature of our business. Yet there are still many who are not familiar with its advantages who should have the explanatory booklet which we are always glad to send upon request. Ask for a copy now.

St. Bon's Alumni.

Arrangements for the celebration of St. Bon's annual re-union, are now practically complete. Many prominent members both clerical and lay have taken out their certificates, and have intimated their intention of being present at the Feast. The certificates, by the way, are very artistic, and are fitting and appropriate souvenirs of the old school, and are designed with a view that they be preserved by ex-students, as a pleasant reminder of boyhood days in the Old College. It is the intention of the Council to hold a meeting at an early date, to receive new members, many ex-students having become eligible during the last year or two. In the meantime any applicant can procure his certificate by corresponding with either Secretary J. J. McGrath or Treasurer W. J. Carroll. It is just possible that if the Duke is in the city on the night of the 14th of July, he may be a guest of the Association at the Band Concert on the Campus.

Gunmen at Work.

Two Men Killed and One Man and Two Children Injured at New York.

New York, June 15.—Gunmen killed two men in the east side yesterday, seriously wounding a third, and straying bullets from their revolvers struck two children, causing superficial wounds. Revenge is assigned as the cause for both murders. Salvatore Pelligrino, thirty-two, a rooming housekeeper, and his brother William, twenty-two, were shot down by a gang of gunmen being lured from their home by acquaintances. Salvatore died in an hour. Several shots fired by gunmen at the brothers went wild and two children playing in the street were hit, one in the left leg. The second murder was that of James Costaro, who was killed by two gunmen at a birthday party at which he was a guest.

The murderers, after seeing their victim fall mortally wounded, ran through the house threatening other guests and escaped.

Torreador Injured.

In Bull Fight and Will Probably Die.

Algeiras, Spain, June 15.—Rafael Gallo, a famous torreador, received injuries during a bull fight here yesterday which probably will prove fatal. The enraged bull charged upon Gallo, tossed him in the air, and then gored him in the left side. In addition the walls of the man's chest were crushed in and numerous other bones were broken. The surgeons who are attending Gallo hold out little hope for his recovery.

Saved His Wife and Child.

But is Drowned in Front of His Home in LaHave River.

Bridgewater, March 30.—A drowning tragedy occurred in the LaHave River here yesterday under particularly sad circumstances, when David Gideon Richards, of Pleasantville, perished in sight of his own home after heroically rescuing his wife and infant child from death.

The trio started to sail down the LaHave River to spend Sunday afternoon with Richards' parents, and just after starting out, the dory capsized as Richards was endeavoring to set the sail.

All were thrown into the water, but Richards managed to place his wife and baby on the bottom of the overturned dory, but sank exhausted himself. His body was recovered later in the day.

Richards was but 35 years old, and had been married about two years.

Few will escape a cold this winter, but alas! many colds run into Catarrh.

Neglected Catarrh is the straight gateway to consumption.

Catarrhose is a germ-killer—destroys microbes that cause Catarrh.

It heals and soothes, relieves the cough, gives throat and lungs a chance, cleanses the nostrils, clears out the phlegm.

You feel better in an hour.

In a day you're greatly relieved, and on goes the curing of Catarrhose till you're well.

No treatment so direct. Catarrhose goes right to the spot—acts quickly cures thoroughly catarrh, bronchitis and all throat affections.

"Nothing could kill a cold so fast as Catarrhose," writes Amy E. Shelton, from St. John's. "Last month I had a frightful cold in my head, suffered from itching nose, running eyes and torturing headache. Ten minutes with 'Catarrhose' inhaler gave relief and in one hour I was well of my cold. Catarrhose I consider a marvel."

Carry 'Catarrhose' inhaler in your pocket or purse—take it to church—to the theatre—to work—use it in bed. It prevents and cures all manner of nose and throat troubles. Complete outfit, guaranteed $1.00; small size 50c.; sample size 25c.; at dealers everywhere.

At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the Municipal Council took place yesterday afternoon. The following letter, received from His Excellency the Governor, was read:

June 18, 1914.

Sir—

In terms of the arrangements arrived at yesterday, I have the honor to request that you will arrange, together with the Municipal Council, to meet in office, to meet His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, at the King's Wharf at 9 a.m. on Wednesday the 25th of July. After the Mayor and Council have been presented to His Royal Highness, an address of loyalty and welcome is to be read on behalf of the citizens of St. John's.

It is hoped that the citizens will support and co-operate with the Government in giving His Royal Highness a hearty welcome to the capital of Newfoundland, and that the citizens will decorate the principal buildings in the main thoroughfares.

The Light House, Buchanan St., and Thursday, the public buildings will be illuminated in honor of the Royal Guest. It is hoped that arrangements may be concluded for declaring Wednesday, the 15th of July, to be a public holiday, so that everybody in St. John's, that morning, see His Royal Highness as he passes through the streets or when he inspects the Cadet Corps at St. George's Field. In the afternoon it is hoped that there will be a large concourse at Bowling Park to meet and greet His Royal Highness.

I have the honor to be, Sir, Your obedient servant,

(Sgd.) W. E. DAVIDSON.

His Honor, The Mayor of St. John's.

Shopping as a Business.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Why will women waste so much time running around department stores?" a man said to me the other day. "Go in town any day and you will see crowds of them parading in and out of the shops. Haven't they anything to do at home?"

I quote this remark because it is typical of the habit men have of accusing women of wasting time in shopping.

Not long ago a business man was talking to me about one of his employees. "I don't know what we'd do if anything happened to Mr. K.," he said. "He's the man the whole business depends on."

"What does he do?" I asked.

"Oh, he does the buying," answered the business man. "He buys all the raw material. If he didn't buy right we might not have any profit at the end of the year. The buying is the most important part of the business, you know."

Now, the managing of the home is, or should be, a business. Preparing food, keeping a house in order, making clothes—all these are necessary parts of the business. But the buying of supplies is another part, and by no means the least important. Economical buying, as well as economical using, is necessary in a home where money counts. And economical buying takes time.

Men make fun of the woman who looks in a dozen places before she buys. How unreasonable. There may be a few women who enjoy that sort of thing, but the majority are forced to it. There are mighty few women who wouldn't prefer to go to an expensive shop, pick out what they liked best and say, "I'll take that," without asking the price.

Another phase of shopping which men don't understand is the time it takes to buy little things whose purchase involves more time than money. If a man needs anything of this sort, he turns the buying of it over to his wife. She buys for him, and for the children, for herself and for the house. Her shopping list often includes a dozen uninteresting little things, such as stockings for her husband, a bit of ribbon to match for a child's dress, a tin of some particular size for the kitchen, etc., etc. She may have to go to half a dozen places to match the ribbon; she may have to wait at crowded counters until she aches with weariness. Do you think she likes it? Not unless her home life is one of such deadly monotony that it is a case of out of the fire into the frying pan.

I will admit that there are some women who spend more time than they should in just looking at pretty things. I will confess that I wish women in general would give as much attention to the economical buying of provisions as they do to clothing. But it's all nonsense to say that the average woman wastes time in shopping. Shopping is part of a woman's legitimate business, and the woman who puts time and intelligence into reading advertisements, studying values and learning to buy intelligently is a good business woman, and deserves praise, not blame.

The Tarantula.

By GEORGE FITCH.

The tarantula is a very large spider with very efficient poison fangs and a jumping record.

When seen at a distance which is the proper way to view a tarantula, he consists mostly of legs. He has eight long hairy legs surrounding a body almost as large as a peanut. Altogether he is about as big as a small plate and as pleasant to look at as a rattlesnake.

Uncle Tom's Cabin

In Three Reels at the Crescent.

The much spoken of and extensively advertised southern drama in three reels, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be presented at the Crescent Picture Palace on next Monday and Tuesday. The great story which is one of the strongest dramas we have seen is composed of many stirring situations. The scenes of Uncle Tom when undergoing the harsh treatment at the hands of his owner is very appealing. It is a story that was the principal cause of the Civil War and will ever be historic. A road comedy follows Uncle Tom's Cabin, and Miss Louise Arkandy will be heard in a beautifully illustrated song. The admission prices will be the same as usual, afterwards, five cents; evenings, ten cents.

The Financial Difficulty

We notice that Sir Edward Morris last night told those who assembled for the closing of the St. John's Technical School, that the principal difficulty in promoting Technical Education in Newfoundland was one of finance, that it would be for the public advantage, if joint action were taken in Technical Education, and that he thought there should be some point of contact between the Technical and regular school system. With much of this we agree. Elsewhere, where Technical Education is in vogue the need of school preparation for it was rapidly learnt. When the great School of Technology was established at Manchester it was found necessary to establish a special large central Preparatory School, and moreover the Municipality leavened their common school system with industrial training.

Among the suggestions offered by Mr. Barnes in his report on his visit to schools across the Atlantic, we find these:—

"That some form of manual training such as paper folding, card board work, basket making, clay modelling, etc., be taken in every school."

"That the teaching in the elementary schools should, as far as possible, be given an industrial bent, and that pains be taken to arouse a special interest in the various industries of the Colony."

"That the business houses be invited to co-operate with the educational authorities in the establishment of Evening Continuation Commercial, and Industrial Classes in St. John's and the large outports."

The St. John's Technical School so far as it goes is on the lines of the latter suggestion. But what about the large outports? Now as to lack of Government aid, we take the following from a Memorial of delegates of the Roman Catholic, the Church of England and Methodist denominations presented to the Executive Council. It will be observed that the joint action spoken of by Sir Edward has not received much encouragement from any recommendation made by the Government to the Legislature.

"That the grant for Industrial and Manual Training is altogether insufficient. The present grant, which is only $3,767.00, is almost entirely consumed in connection with the industrial and manual training schools in St. John's for boys and male pupils, leaving little or nothing for girls or for doing anything in the outports. The several denominations have united in operating in St. John's a Household Science School in which all the female pupil-teachers take a course and for which there has been no provision made by the Legislature. This institution has now gone beyond the experimental stage: it is an accomplished fact that it would be a great misfortune if, for the lack of funds, this auspicious beginning of a joint educational work amongst the denominations should have to be abandoned. Your petitioners are of opinion that the grant should be made sufficient to maintain these most useful branches of education and to extend them to outport schools."

The financial difficulty, to which Sir Edward refers, arises largely from the extraordinary borrowings and expenditures which have occurred under his own regime.

BLACK HOLE OF CALCUTTA 1756. The years 1756-7 are memorable as the years in which England established her supremacy in India. Surajah Daulah, the ally of France, seized Calcutta and threw his English prisoners into a small and stifling room, since known as the "Black Hole of Calcutta." Of 145 Europeans 23 only survived—one a woman. In 1757 Clive defeated Daulah at the Battle of Plassey, and won for England the Indian Empire.

Gallician Murders Wife and Child.

Keewatin, Ont., June 15.—At 9.30 last evening a Gallician named Frank Mert murdered his wife and 2 year old child and then committed suicide by drowning. The tragedy took place within a stone's throw of deceased man's home and was witnessed by two men, who did not realize what was happening until it was too late to take any action to prevent it.

Mert was employed by government road inspector James Fraser on the road which is being built to Manitoba boundary. No explanation can be given for the terrible deed, which is all the more horrible from the fact that a two weeks' old infant was left in the house and is totally unprovided for. It is at present being taken care of by friends of the parents.

Objections Overruled.

The six lads who assaulted and robbed an outport man came up for sentence to-day. The objections raised by Counselors McGrath and Emerson, who acted for some of the accused, against the confessions that were taken by the police not being allowed to go as evidence, was overruled by the Judge, who quoted the latest authority for his decision. The lawyers then put up pleas for mitigation of punishment, after which the lads were taken below to the cells and will be sentenced this afternoon at three o'clock.

Divorced Life

by Helen Hanson Fuestle

Marian Gets the Worst of It

On Monday morning at ten Marian entered the theatre, hoping against hopelessness that there would be a part for her in the drama scheduled for rehearsal that week. Rankling memory of the scene the previous Saturday night with Ratzenbauer, the manager, still flapped its black wings in the chambers of her mind.

Another worry was on her mind. She had lost the check she had received in payment for her services the previous week. She recalled looking at it on the street car on her way home on Saturday night. When she had reached her room it was nowhere to be found. Early this morning she had telephoned the bank on which it was drawn to stop payment on it, having been advised to do so by her landlady, who she had told of the mishap.

Wiltree the star, nodded pleasantly at Marian as she entered the theatre at the hour of rehearsal. Ratzenbauer, who was talking to Wiltree, saw her, but paid no attention to her. When the two separated Marian crossed to Ratzenbauer.

"Will you be able to give me a part?" she inquired.

"No," he answered shortly. "I'm surprised to hear you ask for one. Aren't you a little too swell to be doing any work around here?"

"I don't understand you," she answered, stung by the cool rebuke.

"Give it a guess, why don't you," he added turning on his heel.

"Just a moment, Mr. Ratzenbauer," she continued, following him.

"Well?"

"I've lost the check I received on Saturday. I've ordered payment stopped on it at the bank. Can I get a duplicate check?"

"We've paid you once, Miss Wiltrop," said the manager. "You can't expect me to keep on handing you one check after another. Who do you think I am? Rockefeller?"

"I'm merely asking for what's due me," retorted Marian angrily.

"I paid you, didn't I?" demanded the manager testily.

"You paid me yes—but—"

"Well, what's the matter with you then?" he interrupted.

"I tell you, that check is lost. I've stopped payment on it. My salary isn't paid until I've got the money."

"I'll have the matter looked up, I'm busy now."

He started to walk away. Marian, with tears of wrath rushing to her eyes, remained at his side, saying:

"Busy now or not busy, I want that money. I've earned it. I've stood for your impudences as long as I could, and I'm not going to be bluffed like this."

"Far be it from me to bluff you," Miss Wiltrop, smiled the other archly. "You seem to forget that you signed a receipt for last week's pay. We're no charitable organization, you know."

The utility of further argument was obvious to Marian. She turned on her heel and left the theatre, mortified and humiliated at her inability to cope with this man. She hated herself for the patience with which she had submitted to some of his earlier attentions. She loathed him. She hungered and thirsted for revenge.

She left the theatre with a beaten feeling. She hadn't the slightest idea what to do or whether to turn. What a world! What a frightful thing to be a woman in it!

She had once heard the statement: "Right or wrong, a woman gets the worst of it every time." Never had the force of this truth struck her as now. She wished she were a man. She did not wonder that there were bad women in the world. That there were any good women in the world amazed her.

Musings on a Belated Train.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Life seems to be a checker-board on which we, as men, are placed. We start our game in all faith, with high hopes and good intentions. On and on we play. But our opponent, Fate, seems to be getting the better of us, and yet we fight! Finally we reach the double corner and there circumstances follow us and we are barred. But this does not happen always nor forever. Next time we can watch our moves and profit by experience. True, "experience is a dear teacher, but fools will learn from none other." Not only is this true, but also it is of should be an effective one. Long fellow has said: "Let the dead past bury its dead," yes, that may be good enough, but as the past may be it can teach us many useful lessons, and surely can stand out as beacons warning us in the future.

"Was my—shall I say?—good luck to arrive at Lewisporte a few days ago. I decided to leave again by Wednesday night's train. Yes, but a poor creature didn't get along till Thursday a.m. A young English clergy once said to a Newfoundland woman, a few months after his arrival: "Do you know your train, are mentioned in the Bible?" "No, I didn't know that; I don't think they are."

"Well, man, creeping and crawling things are there mentioned, and if your train don't creep and crawl, then I know nothing."

Well, now, I suppose we must not be too hard in criticising our humble servants, but when one is sitting all alone with "sleep, gentle sleep, Nature's soft nurse" putting in her claims one finds the inconvenience of "creeping" trains. However, we are sometimes led to believe we are the creatures of circumstances. Are we? In many cases, yes. Philosophers tell us to do this and that, to hope, and work, to be up and doing, with a heart for any fate, but Goldsmith gave good, yea, philosophical advice which he apparently never followed. Advice may come from brains, but to follow it requires pluck, nerve, and ability. Have we these? Yes, in some degree, small though that be. Finally our humble friend crept in sight and we left for our destination. A veil hides the future from us. Presently the future becomes present and its hidden mysteries are unravelled before our eyes, and whether it be the expected or otherwise it brings a certain degree of surprise. And so in this case. After a few hours' journey we met the west bound train which kindly informed us that she had left a detailed car for us to set right. What can we do. Pass we cannot; so do the work we must. True resignation and a spirit of optimism are indeed a great boon to their possessor. To him who expects and works for and hopes for order to come out of chaos, to him circumstances cruel and unwelcome bring no terror or dissatisfaction or wrong. But we are not all born optimists. Here we are. We have stomachs, the R. N. Co. have the food; we have pockets, have we money in them? Never mind. I am sitting here in the first class car. I hear one gentleman humbly asking another: "Why we're here? Not because we're here," but because that wayward car has gone into forbidden paths. Never mind, above the beautiful sun is sending his cheerful rays through the blue ether, and a gentle zephyr fans our cheeks and around the trees and wild flowers show us that summer is near, they are resuming to life again. What a beautiful day. Really one must enjoy the sight. But alas! signs don't fill the stomach nor compensate for days of dreariness and dollars and cents. Listen! I hear a little bird perched on a tree top, it is pouring forth strains melodious. It certainly must claim us "How happy it seems! How happy it is! But those little flies—mischievous things—are they—are getting around, yea, and making themselves felt in no uncertain way. But the poor men are working away at the car. I am encouraged (?) by the very recent information that they may be here all day. Never lose

T. A. Meeting.

The adjourned quarterly meeting of the T. A. and B. Society was held last night. The chair was occupied by the President, Mayor Elliot, and a large number of members were in attendance. Reports from the different branches of the Society showed all to be in a satisfactory condition.

The President congratulated the Society on the part taken in connection with the recent scaling disaster, and endorsed the billiard players for the unselfishness displayed with regard to their proposed annual dinner, as they had devoted the money collected to the Disaster's Fund.

It was decided that the hall would be decorated and illuminated on the occasion of the visit of H. R. H. the Duke of Cornwall, and that the Society would take part in any public demonstration that would be arranged for the occasion.

Hr. Grace Notes.

One of our West End citizens was very much worried yesterday morning, having lost some money from his pocket. He happened to mention the matter to Mr. Joseph L. Pumphrey, who immediately restored it to him, having picked it up near his grocery store on Water Street.

A young man with an over-dose of fire-water, appeared on Water Street on Wednesday night, and seemed anxious to have a fictitious encounter with anyone or everyone. Constable Dooley was the first man to accept the challenge. The constable had some difficulty, but with the assistance of Head Constable Sheppard, who happened along just then, the disturber was quickly locked up. In court, yesterday, the "Head" gave evidence that in his over thirty years of police duty, he has seldom heard such low language as that used by the prisoner. The court imposed a fine of $15 or in default 30 days "behind the bars." The fine was paid as the party was about sailing for the Labrador.

Mr. Robert Brazil was seized suddenly last night with appendicitis, and as the case is a serious one no time could be lost. So Drs. Parsons and Stenford is operating on him today.

The schooners Elizabeth, John Keefe, master; Cleopatra, Edward Taylor, master; Mary F. Harris, M. O'Brien, master, and Ruby, Thomas Davis, master, all sailed yesterday for the Labrador.

By a letter received a day or two ago by a friend, from Mrs. W. H. Thompson, who is at present visiting her brother, Mr. F. Scott, at Fogo, we are pleased to learn that she is very much improved in health, something that will be learnt with much pleasure by her host of friends here and at St. John's.

A fairly good sign of codfish was in the market this morning.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Sheppard, yesterday. Congratulations.

Miss Mazie Gordon, who was seriously ill with pneumonia a few days ago, is now slightly improved, and we hope will soon be fully recovered.

Judge Oke was at Bay Roberts yesterday, on court business.

Harbor Grace, June 18, 1914.

Tourists much impressed.—The tourists who arrived by the Florida spent a very enjoyable day yesterday visiting the points of interest in the city and suburbs. Many went to Bowring, Park and were much impressed with its scenic beauties.

Fishery Reports.

(From Gaultois to Hermitage.) The total catch is 560 quintals, and for last week 35. One boat is fishing and 100 dories and skiffs. Prospects are very bright, but being very scarce. The lobster catch is poor so far. There is a sign of caplin and boats at Hermitage had about 1/2 qt. of codfish for one day. Some of the fishermen at Gaultois did not have a single fish for two days.

(From Channel to Port aux Basques.) Codfish and lobster prospects are very poor and no bait is obtainable. Fourteen dories and skiffs with one boat are fishing. The total catch is 3,996 quintals of codfish, with only 2 for last week and 2,000 pounds of halibut. No bankers or schooners at present are had. The summer fishery has not been carried over very extensively and at present there is not much doing in the fishing line.

(From Grand Bank.) The one trap out has taken no fish. The total catch is 5,160 quintals. Fourteen bankers have arrived with fares of from 200 to 1,000 quintals, an average of 440. Prospects just now are poor and bait is scarce, there being no caplin yet. Lobsters are scarce and only three men are fishing here. The weather generally has been fair, but cold. The bankers have been hampered by very rough weather and the spring trips will be far below the average of recent years. Nothing is being done locally with cod.

(From Argentea to Long Hr.) Prospects are very good at present. Bait is fairly plentiful and has been so here all spring, but the weather has been so very rough that the fishermen got very little chance to give the grounds a trial. There is a sign of caplin to-day. The lobster catch is poor and no traps are out. Eight codfish are in the water. The total catch for 24 dories and skiffs is 765 quintals, with 34 for last week; for 24 boats, 360 and 60. Ten schooners have returned from the grounds.

One of the poles supporting the electric wires and situate west of the Queen Theatre suddenly snapped off below the cross-bars yesterday evening and was held in position by the wires until the necessary repairs were effected. Many other poles in the city are affected with dry rot and should require immediate attention.

Marine Notes.

The s.s. Digby leaves Halifax to-day for here.

The R. M. S. Sardinian leaves Philadelphia to-day for here.

The brig, Galatea sails from Placentia to-day with codfish from G. C. Fearn, and will proceed to Gibraltar for orders.

The s.s. Stephano leaves New York to-day for this port via Halifax. Pole Snapped Off.

Magic "Nerviline" Ends Stiff Neck, Lumbago.

Any Curable Muscular or Joint Pain is Instantly Relieved by Nerviline.

GET A TRIAL BOTTLE TO-DAY.

You don't have to wait all day to get the kick out of a stiff neck if you rub on Nerviline. And you don't need to go around complaining about lumbago any more. You can rub such things away very quickly with Nerviline. It's the grandest liniment, the quickest to penetrate, the speediest to ease muscular pain of any kind.

One twenty-five cent trial bottle of Nerviline will cure any attack of lumbago or lame back. This has been proved a thousand times, just as it was in the case of Mrs. E. J. Grayden, of Caledonia, who writes:—"I wouldn't think of going to bed without knowing we had Nerviline in the house. I have used it for twenty odd years and appreciate its value as a family remedy more and more every day. If any of the children gets a stiff neck, Nerviline cures quickly. If it is earache, toothache, cold on the chest, sore throat, Nerviline is always my standby. My husband once cured himself of a frightful attack of lumbago by Nerviline, and for a hundred ailments that turn up in a large family Nerviline is by far the best thing to have about you."

INFECTIOUS DISEASE.—No cases of infectious disease have been reported within the city limits during the past week. While a few cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever are being treated at the hospital, there are none at present.

GOOD HEALTH

With good health at your back, you can do anything. If you are troubled with Headache, Dizziness, Biliousness and kindred ailments, you can expect to accomplish much.

LONDON, To-day.

A demonstration of British sea power by an Empire cruise of Imperial Conference next year is suggested by the Daily Telegraph as being because the problem of naval defense will form one of the main subjects of discussion at the Conference. The Telegraph anticipates that owing to general improvement in the international situation and the early delivery of ships, the Admiralty will be able to accelerate its plans for sending a battle squadron of Dreadnoughts to the Mediterranean. In view of the accession in strength in ships of the swiftest class, it is hoped the Admiralty may determine on a base at Gibraltar. Three or four battle cruisers are now in the Mediterranean, together with the gift ship New Zealand as nucleus of an Imperial squadron. Although these ships would cruise in the Atlantic or Pacific as required, the Imperial Conference will undoubtedly be marked by a great awakening of imperial sentiment, says The Telegraph. The readjustment of our strength in the Mediterranean and the improved international outlook, says the Telegraph, offers the Imperial Govt. a unique opportunity of illustrating the ubiquity of British sea power, the unity of the sea force, and the strategic principles which the Admiralty recommends as the foundation of Imperial security, and the desire of the Mother Country to do honour to the statesmen of the self-governing Dominions.

QUEBEC, To-day.

The alleged defective steering gear of the Empress of Ireland and the rapidity with which she went to the bottom after being struck by the collier Stordard formed two most conspicuous details connected with the calamity enacted into yesterday. On the first of these two points evidence was submitted by a number of sailors and a pilot, Napoleon Lapierre who were on the collier Alden which was passed by the Empress around the time that she was said to be steering badly by James Galway, Quartermaster, who claimed yesterday that the liner's helm jammed for three minutes on the night of the disaster. These witnesses all agreed that the Empress, as the pilot put it zigzagged down the river, though they all had to confess that while still a good distance away, she showed red to red, in conformity with navigation laws and passed more than a cable length away. A piece of small but substantial evidence, corroborating the conclusion of Capt. Kendall that his ship was struck amidships, will be put in as an exhibit to-day. It is the first cabin door, with number 328 on it, and was picked up on the Stordard. The only cabin of this number was on the starboard side of the ship near the first funnel and some fifteen feet from the skin.

HALIFAX, N. S., To-day.

Nova Scotia has been hard hit by the Hill Crest disaster. Probably 75 miners from this Province worked in the colliery, and until official list of dead is available there will be grave anxiety in every colliery town in the Province. There were forty to fifty men from Glace Bay and surrounding districts and twenty or so St. Hartland and Westville men at Hill Crest.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percival Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Farewell Concert.

The Royal Gwent Welsh Singers gave their final concert last night in the Methodist College Hall. A large audience enjoyed the treat given them, which consisted largely of Scotch and Irish airs. The Soldier's Chorus was again given and met with a pleasing reception. "Marie, My Girl," an Irish solo, met with well merited applause. Mr. Arthur A. Smith opened the second part with a pianoforte solo. The Company followed with the "Dear Little Shamrock." W. Gwynn Jones gave "The Storm." I. Jones stirred the audience with "My Ain Folk." and J. L. Doh in "Mary of Argle" carried three encores. Then came the chorus of the "Destruction of Gaza," and the concert closed with "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King." There can be no doubt that music lovers of the city have received a treat from the Welsh Singers.

Awful Mining Disaster

Thirty Men Rescued, 32 Bodies Recovered, 170 Missing.

Special to Evening Telegram.

CALGARY, June 19. Probably one of the worst mining disasters in the history of the Crow's Nest Pass district occurred this morning, when 200 men met death in the Hillcrest Mine.

Immediately following receipt of news of the explosion, a rescue car was rushed from Blairmore, while a special left Calgary at 1.30 for the scene, carrying doctors, nurses, medical supplies, and newspaper men.

The following statement dealing with the disaster at Hillcrest collieries, was issued to-night by J. M. MacKie, Managing Director: "We received a wire here this morning advising us of an explosion at the mine, stating the extent of the damage as unknown at present. We have 271 men on our pay roll, including office help and outside labor. It is probable 250 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion. A wire received at the C.P.R. Offices here, states that 65 men had been taken out alive, but at this writing we have no direct report. Our men doubtless are too busy at rescue work to communicate with us in planning our mine we constructed two distinct entries about half a mile apart, which are connected underground. Great precaution has always been taken in ventilating the mine. Our engineers' weekly report just received, states 'Ventilation good in all parts. We are at an utter loss to understand how such a catastrophe could have occurred.' Later in the evening, Mr. MacKie received a wire as follows: 'Explosion was in No. 1 mine. This is the mine where most of the men were at work. No. 2 mine is where our new development is going on; two hundred and thirty-two men went into the mine this a.m. at 7 o'clock. The explosion occurred at 8.30 o'clock. At 4 o'clock p.m. thirty men had been taken out alive; 32 bodies recovered. The missing at present number 170. The mine is progressing steadily, and artificial respiration is constantly and vigorously applied to those brought up. Excellent order prevails and the best equipment is available for rescue work.'

Cable News

WINNIPEG, June 19. Later information received at the C.P.R. Office here, states that a terrific explosion shattered the interior of the Hillcrest Mine, at Hillcrest, Alberta. Six hundred miners are reported killed. The report states that a terrific volume of smoke is coming from the mine's mouth accompanied by flames.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 19. The reply of the Turkish Government to the note of Greece, is conciliatory, and expresses the hope that Greece, like Turkey, will take steps to restore order, but it evades the specific demands of Greece for the reinstatement of Greek emigrants, and the restoration of the property of Greeks in Turkey.

WASHINGTON, June 19. To free the North Atlantic of icebergs, the revenue cutters Seneca and Miami, early in July will establish an international patrol in these waters, as authorized by the International Maritime Conference in London last year. At present the two cutters are working out of Halifax, to warn vessels against icebergs. As soon as the danger of icebergs is passed, they will search for derelicts which imperil shipping. One of the cutters will make her headquarters somewhere in the Azores, and confine her duty to the European and trans-Atlantic routes. The other will make her headquarters either in Newfoundland or Nova Scotia, and limit her efforts to the American end of well-travelled courses.

QUEBEC, June 19. At the Empress Disaster Inquiry this morning, George O. Donovan, engineer of the Empress, said he was in charge of the steering gear and inspected it every day, but he had never found anything wrong with it and never had any complaints. He was in the stockhold when the ships hit. About twenty seconds after the impact, the water rushed through the

The Faithful Few.

When the meeting is called to order and we look about the room, we are sure to see some faces that from out the shadows loom. Who are always at the meeting and stay till it is through: The ones that I would mention are the always faithful few.

Fill the vacant offices. They're always on the spot. No matter what the weather. It may be awful hot. It may be damp and rainy. But they are tried and true. The ones that we rely on are the always faithful few.

Then there are lots of neighbors who come when in the mood. When everything's convenient they can do a little good. Of course they're always welcome and are necessary, too. But the ones that never fail us are the always faithful few. If it were not for these faithful, whose shoulders to the wheel keep the order moving onward without a halt or reel, what would be the fate of others who claim so much to do? They surely would go under. But for the faithful few.

Work at Port Nelson

Bonaventure and Bellaventure Chartered—Navigation of Bay Rendered Less Dangerous by Work of Capt. Andersen.

To assist in the work of construction of the terminals at Port Nelson, Hudson Bay, a number of steamers either owned or chartered by the Department of Railways and Canals will set out from Halifax next month for the North.

It is hoped that there will not be a repetition of the failures and disasters which occurred at Port Nelson last year.

To prevent a repetition of these catastrophes there will shortly be issued a chart of Port Nelson and its approaches. This chart was completed several months ago by Captain Andersen of the Government naval steamer Acadia which boat spent last summer in Hudson Bay.

The Government steamer Minot will sail from Halifax early in July for the North. Her first work will be to place buoys in the vicinity of Port Nelson to mark the channel of the harbor. She will also establish a light on Nelson Shoal. Afterwards she will sail for Hudson's Strait and will place temporary lights on the various points of that portion of the coast. The Acadia will also set sail from Halifax early in July and will operate Hudson Bay and Strait, for the purpose of investigating and improving the existing charts for navigation, and defining the islands and points. The chart of Port Nelson, which Captain Andersen of the Acadia compiled last year, has been in the hands of the printers for some time and it is hoped that it will be ready to issue in the course of a few weeks, so that shipping in those waters this summer may reap the benefit of it.

The Government auxiliary schooner Burleigh will sail from Halifax early in July to carry on investigation into the fishing industry in the Hudson Bay and Strait.

The British steamer Durlay (line was recently purchased by the Department of Railways and Canals and is now in Halifax preparing for a trip to Port Nelson. She will carry supplies and construction material from Halifax to that port. The steamers Bellaventure and Bonaventure which were used by the Department for this purpose last summer, have been chartered for the coming season, and will load supplies, etc., at Halifax. It understood that the Department will have two other steamers on the service this year.

The Department have established an office in Halifax of which Mr. Edgitt is the head.—Halifax Chronicle, July 17.

POEMS.

THE SITE OF WATERLOO.

[There is a danger that the field of Waterloo may shortly be cut into plots and sold to the speculating builder.]
 Forbear! This plan is still too dear with cries,
 This soil too sanguine for thy stucco lies.
 Shall Earth where reeled The Guard
 thy villa penn,
 Where nations groaned be heard the cackling hen?
 A mansion mark where in the gathering murk,
 Those terrible grey horsemen so did work?
 Here wilt thou dare to live where such men died
 And on that memorable dust reside!
 Here only ever let the solemn moon
 Uninterrupted weave a spirit-noon;
 Here only falter down a pensive dew
 From skies too wistful to be purely blue.
 But shouldst thou build on consecrated ground,
 Then be those houses filled with spectacular sound
 Of clashing battle and the ghostly war,
 Of charging hosts against the battered door!
 Let solemn bellow of hollow cannon boom.
 A dreadful cavalry invade the gloom!
 Until in awe of those who fell or fled
 The living flee from the more living dead!
 That silence now too conscious is for-
 sound,
 It broods upon itself and is self-bound.
 Then let no builder of this field have lease,
 'Tis let to Time, the Property of Peace!

STEPHEN PHILLIPS.

A CHILD.

Her voice was like the sound of birds;
 Her eyes were like the stars;
 Her little waving hands were like birds' wings that beat the bars.

And when those waving hands were still—
 Her soul had fled away—
 The music faded from the air,
 The color from the day,
 —Richard Watson Glider.

GOALS.

Ah, well for him who knows, when each new goal
 Eludes his steps, 'tis only that the soul
 To farther goals may speed, and that the eyes
 May thus be lifted toward a fairer prize;
 Who, called at eve to lay his hopes away,
 Knows higher hopes shall come with breaking day.
 —Thomas Curtis Clark.

MY CREED.

I do not fear to tread the path that those I love have long since trod;
 I do not fear to pass the gates and stand before the living God.
 In this world's fight I've done my part; if God be God He knows it
 well;
 He will not turn His back on me and send me down to blackest hell
 Because I have not prayed aloud and shouted in the market-place.
 'Tis what we do, not what we say, that makes us worthy of His grace.
 —Jeannette L. Glider in Putnam's Magazine.

CURFEW.

Solemnly, mournfully,
 Dealing its dole,
 The Curfew Bell
 Is beginning to toll.
 Cover the embers,
 And put out the light;
 Toll comes with the morning,
 And rest with the night.

Dark grows the windows,
 And quenched is the fire;
 Sound fades into silence—
 All footsteps retire.
 No voice in the chambers,
 No sound in the hall!
 Sleep and oblivion
 Reign over all!

The book is completed,
 And closed, like the day;
 And the hand that has written it
 Lays it away.
 Dim grows its fancies;
 Forgotten they lie;
 Like coals in the ashes,
 They darken and die.

Song sinks into silence,
 The story is told,
 The windows are darkened,
 The hearth-stone is cold.
 Darker and darker
 The black shadows fall;
 Sleep and oblivion
 Reign over all.
 —Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

SLANG.

Slang has been used by the best authors, as witness these examples dug up by the comic paper Puck:
 "Forget it—cast it away."—Hawthorne's "Marble Faun."
 "She was a respectable old guy."—
 Thackeray's "Vanity Fair."
 "It's a sure thing."—Goldsmith's
 "She Stoops to Conquer."
 "Twenty-three."—Dickens's "Tale of Two Cities."
 "Gave Hector a gift—a gilt nutmeg
 —a lemon."—Shakespeare's "Love's
 Labor's Lost."

Keep your Temper. It is worth more to you than to anyone else.

Mill on the New Testament.

The letters of John Stuart Mill have just been published and deal with many notable themes. Here is a letter from Mill to Carlyle on religion, in which Mill confesses that he only just read the New Testament for the first time:
 "Apropos I have been reading the New Testament; properly I can never be said to have read it before. I am the fitter to read it now; perhaps there is nobody within the four seas so utterly unprejudiced on the subject. I have never believed Christianity as a religion, consequently have no habitual association of reverence, nor on the other hand any of contempt, like so many who have become skeptics after having been taught to believe; nor have I, like so many, been bored or disgusted with it in my youth. As far as I know your impressions about Christ, mine from this reading are exactly the same. How strikingly just, for instance, is your contrast in your last letter between the Christ of the Gos-

The Progress of Co-Operation.

The co-operative societies of the United Kingdom have for many years made a practice of meeting together in Congress at Whitsuntide, and each year the chairman of the Congress is able to point to the increasing prosperity of the movement. The aggregate turnover of the various societies has now reached the huge total of £130,000,000 a year, distributed over 5,000,000 members. These figures—even after allowance has been made for the purchases of non-members—seem to show that the average of the yearly purchases of each member at his co-operative store is between £35 and £40. That is certainly a high average, and it is possible that the £130,000,000 includes the dealings of the co-operative wholesale with the retail societies, as well as the dealings of those societies with their individual members. In any case, however, the value of business is colossal and furnishes remarkable proof

USEFUL KNOWLEDGE.

WHEN TO WATER FLOWERS.
 Watering in the evening, besides aiding in the spread of fungus diseases, also causes "damping off." Watering should never be practiced during heavy, cloudy weather. Shade, heat, and light should be considered. Plants growing in the bright sunlight in the shade, for evaporation and transpiration are always greater under such circumstances. Midday watering, when the sun shines directly on the foliage, will burn the foliage of many of our common house plants. Shading during excessive heat will strengthen the plants and assist in retaining moisture.

KEEPING FOOD.
 The preservation of food is a matter of great anxiety to those living in flats and houses where the architect happened to forget that people must eat to live, and usually desire to keep a few articles of diet from day to day. First. Never mind what cupboard or shelf acts as your larder. See that it is at least clean—that is the main point. Wash it each day.

Second. Put all scraps on clean dishes, and remove at once anything that is in the smallest degree tainted or sour.
 Third. Keep meat, game, poultry or fish, whether raw or cooked, covered with wire gauze covers or muslin, to keep off the flies. Dust pepper or ground ginger freely on the covers.
 Fourth. It is better to partly bake or boil meat or fish, if it must be kept, than to risk it becoming tainted.
 Fifth. Put all stocks or soups into clean bowls, straining out the vegetables, otherwise they will often be sour in the morning.
 Sixth. It is wisest to scald milk over night; it rarely keeps. Jugs and pans require thorough cleansing and sweetening each day.
 Seventh. Burn at once all scraps and refuse that are impossible to use.

LESSENING FATIGUE.
 It is well known that it becomes fatiguing to carry a heavy weight in the hand, such as a valve, for any considerable distance, especially because it hinders the movement of the lower limbs. A Frenchman has found a way to prevent this inconvenience, which is as simple as it is practical, and all that is needed is to put under the arm a bulky packet, which is made up of a dozen newspapers fold-

Fault-Finding.

Is one bound to risk losing a friendship for the sake of trying to effect a moral improvement in a friend? If one reads the Gospel, one finds there is a good deal about loving other people and supplying their needs, but there is very little indeed about the duty of finding fault, or lecturing them, or improving them. There is a blessing on the pure-hearted and on the peace-maker; there is no beauty for the reprovor and for the rebuker. In the parable of the Prodigal Son, the father is, of course, the hero of the story. It is a pity that the parable was ever called the Prodigal Son, because he is quite a subsidiary character, and his motives for repentance are frankly deplorable. But the father has not a word of blame for the offender; the poor wretch has been punished enough, and the father leaves it there. He does not rub in the heavy lessons of experience, or even express a hope of seeing a real amendment. Without exhortation, he takes the unhappy creature back to his heart, and bids the minstrels do their best to cheer the simple feast.
 —A. C. Benson.

Place this tube into a glass of water and agitate as you would a spoon. The water is rapidly chilled. The nitrate of ammonia salts can be bought at any drug store. This is a far better way of cooling water than putting ice in it.

WALKING AND WALKING-STICKS.

In a book recently issued—"Holidays and How to Use Them" (J. W. Arrowsmith)—Dr. Charles Musgrove gives some excellent advice to walkers. An obvious disciple of Thoreau, Cobbett, Borrow, and other children of the open air, his hints are well worth consideration. To keep the feet in a straight line, or nearly so, so that the body falls forward at each step, adds, says he, to the ease of walking in a manner that is simply incredible until one has experienced it. He argues that one should never attempt to average a greater speed than a mile an hour less than one's capabilities. Thus, if you can walk a mile in twelve minutes, don't attempt more than an average of four miles an hour; if you are only a moderate walker, and take fifteen minutes to the mile, an average of three miles an hour is sufficient for you. "You are going for pleasure," says he, "and not to win a race." Many other wise saws will be found in the book, which should be in the hands of all who walk for pleasure and recreation.

I am sometimes asked whether it is advisable to carry a walking-stick when rambling. While admitting that this is largely a matter of personal inclination, I utter an emphatic "No!" in answer to the question. A rambler is not out with the permanent idea of gathering his whorls away from the top of the bush, or of robbing apple-trees of their fruit. If nature had intended people to walk on three limbs the extra one would have been supplied. A walking-stick is a most uncomfortable encumbrance when surmounting stiles or field-gates, and may easily cause such an accident as may prevent the user from ever rambling again. I strongly urge all walkers to "taboo" such aids (?) to progress, and to let their hands swing free; they will find that in this way they can better expand their lungs and obtain greater benefit from their walk.

(The following is a copy of an ancient manuscript which was picked up from the street a short while ago. Does any one know if the Association was formed?)

ASSOCIATION OF UNITED NATIVES — GENERAL DECLARATION.

At all times nothing can be more natural, and at this time nothing can be more reasonable, than that those who have common rights to protect, and common interests to defend, should act together and know each other. In this our Island home it must be obvious to every native, and reflecting mind, that a union of intelligence, an increase of means, and a knowledge of each other are essential. The Association of United Natives is formed by Natives of the Island of Newfoundland desirous of supporting to the utmost of their power native interests, afford assistance to distressed members of the Association and otherwise to promote such laudable and benevolent purposes as may tend to the amelioration of our people.

"Safety First"

Some men, sometimes, can board the flying street car or "monkey with the buzz-saw" in a mill or factory, and get away with it. But that's how accidents happen. Some men, sometimes, can shave with an open blade razor and avoid cutting themselves. But thousands agree that the chances are against it.

Gillette Safety Razor

was the practical forerunner of to-day's "Safety First" movement. What engineers are doing now to safeguard tools and transportation, King C. Gillette did ten years ago for that much used tool, the razor. And while he made the razor safe, he also made it keener, harder and handier than the old open blade. That thin, electrically tempered blade, gripped rigid in the adjustable holder, gives the cleanest, smoothest and quickest, as well as the safest shave man has ever enjoyed.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessary this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world famous firm in Newfoundland.

The Tobacco Habit.

"Oh, Clarence, do not learn to use those foulest weeds that grow; the foolish youth who smokes or chews is storing future woe. For years I've spent my hard-earned wheels to keep my brain fed; I always smoked save when at meals, or in my truckle-bed. And t'other day the sawbones came, and took my works apart, and said, while pawing o'er my frame, "You have a cabbage heart. It's fierce," he said; "never seed such wild, spasmodic thumps; unless you quit the noxious weed you'll surely bump the bumps." Ah, now I've quit; life's on the blink, the world is dear, my friends; and I can only sit and think of fancy Turkish blends. My nervous system is a scream, the tears stream down my cheek, and in my fevered sleep I dream of burley and perique. My agony is too intense to be before you lugged; I feel like twenty-seven cents, and every penny plugg'd. So Clarence, do not learn to smoke, and keep no joke when you must cut it out.
