Sermon by Rev. Harry Royle.

AT GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH, SUNDAY, APRIL 21st.

Text, Judges 13: "Then the five men departed and came to Lailah and she dwelt there, after the manner of the Zidonians, quiet and untroubled, and she was not to be named in anything, and they were far from her, and she had no business with any man."

The story around our text is one which may not be as well known as some of the Bible stories, Daniel in the lion's den, for instance; nevertheless it has a strong and direct bearing on the life of the Zidonians, and the part she is playing in this great war now raging.

The story is this: Many years ago, Micah the hero, was born among the hills of Ephraim, at a time when there was no King in Israel. He became a law unto himself, and in the case of Ephraim, each man did as he pleased, since there was no magistrate or, as the text says, no magistrature, or, as the people might say, no magistrature to put them to rights, or to reprove them. This led to lawlessness. Micah grew up in the influence of his environment, by stealing eleven hundred shekels of silver from his mother. The mother, however, returned the money. The father, however, delighted over the son's repentance bought him a household god, and he was at once instituted family priest, securing a Levite as his attendant, for him. Just about this time, the Danites, who occupied the territory adjoining the Ephraimites, cast their eyes upon Ephraim, and in a bold and unprovoked manner, they sent five spies to go over the land and report on the chances of success. The spies came, as our text says, saw the land and the people, and reported that the land was fertile, and the people indifferent and careless, and easy prey. The report induced the Danites to undertake the conquest; they came, they saw, they conquered. Ephraim lost its identity and its independence as a nation. Such is the story. A careful perusal of it will lead one to see, that there is a similarity between the conditions surrounding us in Newfoundland, and those surrounding the Ephraimites.

The Danites are replaced by the Germans and the report of the spies that Ephraim is such the German spies might make of our Dominion to-day. The salient points of the report were: (a) The leaders were traitors in that they failed to lead the people aright, there were no magistrates or legislators, to put the people of the land to shame, or to inspire them and urge them to take the place which they ought to take in the great world struggle. (b) The people, reflecting the attitude of the leaders, were careless, indifferent and shameless. In these two respects our country is like the country called Ephraim, are like it. Let me here state what might seem to be unnecessary, and yet which is of the highest import. There is a war on. This is not generally known. It is known by a few people. Those whose loved ones have been torn away by the moral demands of warfare, and who lie interred in some unknown spot in distant France, and by those whose members of men who spend sleepless nights wondering and praying for the absent. But the great majority of our people have not yet awakened to the realization of the fact. It seems like some far off event and because far off, unremembered. But my friends, we do not eliminate danger. Because the German hordes are not ravishing our women and despoiling our homes, that does not prove that we are out of danger. The foe is at our own gate, and the steel ships afloat under the British and Allied flags, would soon bear the ominous thunder of the big guns, and feel the whizz of the bullets past our heads, or feel their falling within our flesh. The bodies of our own lads form the impassable barrier between us and the murderer's hand. Some look upon the war as a mere commercial fact, a matter of the rise in the cost of living, and while they are able to pay their way, and get enough to eat and wear, they look upon it as a matter of indifference. They have not yet the moral consciousness which is required to see that the Titanic struggle is against principles, against the rulers of the world in high places. They have not yet that righteous indignation which our Lord felt as He beheld the crimes perpetrated by the people in high places in His day. Careless people, superficial. Again there are those who look upon the war as a harvest season, wherein to gather ill-gotten gains by which to enrich themselves. Profiteers. Sometimes we hear the lads who do not volunteer, who are any term too strong to describe those who, out of the brown and blood of their fellows, and out of the life for their nefarious trade, but who are very hard upon the poor. I say, what terms shall we use to describe those who make gain out of such conditions? London Tower is too good a name for them.

Once again, there is a large number of our people in this Dominion who do not know and don't care. There are many such, we regret to say. Men trading officer and then up to the reins to induce their sons to volunteer for King and Country. Hundreds of our young men there are in our ranks, able to go, who would not be so if they were not so completely misled. Some, or both, too indolent, or too careless, or both, to see the need of a little collection in their pockets to bring them to their senses. Why should the sons of one father and the sons of another stay in the reason, what justice, what sense should they play, for their own sake and our church stands? Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Substitutes will only disappoint. Insist on getting what you ask for.

life? It is unfair, it is unjust. Remember a war is on, being waged in defense of all our homes equally, yours and mine, and you should pay your part of the price, just as I am expected to pay my part. And if nothing else will do, you should be made to pay it. Some speak of the war as Armageddon, the last great war, after which Christ shall appear. I am not so sure that it is Armageddon; I am inclined to think it is not. But even if it were, that would not be a sufficient reason for ease or indifference. Have you not already seen Christ in this war? Have you not seen Him in the fire circled camps; in the heroism of our boys, in the thrill of joy in victory, in the business of the sea, and the splendid valour of our men? Then it is not because Christ has not revealed Himself thus, but because you are blind and cannot see.

Thank God for the bravery of our boys who have gone, and the heroism of the mothers who sent them, and the fathers who fasten their duty on them, do not bring the people to a sense of shame. Probably the greatest trouble in this Dominion, lies with our leaders, our legislators. They may have some plan for conscription when the House opens on Tuesday next; I don't know. I hope they have. If they have not, they may soon be compelled to deal with it, for have not Grand Bank, Grand Falls, and several Prateral Societies expressed themselves in its favour? Did not the Methodist Conference in July, 1917, pass in favour of it? Shall the country have need to rise and demand it, before our leaders have courage to grant it? What do you want? "This said that they are afraid of losing the vote. What vote? Which is more important, that Newfoundland take the proper place in the Empire, and her Empire in the world's history; or that some poupee politician shall make coin at the expense of his country? Who places personal advancement and enrichment before his true duty to God and the Empire, he betrays both; he is a traitor indeed. There is nothing to be afraid of in the word Conscription; the voluntary service has failed. Comparatively Newfoundland stands no better than Ireland in her quote given to the nation's strength. Every available man, every available dollar, every ounce of strength, and all of our moral, spiritual, nerve, and physical energy, should be, by Act of Parliament, if necessary, but should be, and must be, cast into the business of saving the world for Democracy and God. As time has passed, I have experienced a growing conviction that the struggle is a moral one, that our beloved Empire is in it for Right and God, and her who fights, or helps in any way, to crush the tyrant foe, helps to bring in the Kingdom of Heaven. As Hercules held up the tortoise while Atlas went in search of the three golden apples; as the arms of Moses, the ancient Seer, were held up while the Israelites successfully fought in the valley below; so may we hold up the arms of those who have not counted their lives dear unto them, by every possible means, until victory perch upon our banner. Can you not go and go at once! Can you not go? Then economize and pray, and pray need not stand in this great war, to those who love with a great love; and fight for us: "For greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

May God save our Country from the condemnation which she would merit if she does not arouse herself and take a larger and nobler part, in the great modern world-war.—Amen.

Selective Conscription and a Newfoundland Victory Loan will help win the war.

Always Had Headaches.
Liver Was Torpid and Bilious Spells Brought Sick Headaches — Lost Much Time, But Now Completely Cured.

Here is convincing evidence that however much you may suffer from liver trouble and consequent biliousness there is cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
Over-eating is the most common cause of sluggish liver action. You lose your appetite, have distressing bilious spells, usually accompanied by headache and vomiting, the bowels become irregular, constipation and looseness alternating, digestion is upset and you get irritable and downhearted.
No treatment so quickly awakens the action of the liver and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For this reason this medicine is wonderfully popular and has enormous sales.
Mr. Charles R. Tait, Newtown, N.B., writes: "I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and would often have to stop work for a day or two. I lost many a night's sleep every month with bilious headaches, and although I tried doctors' medicines, and also many other patent medicines, it was without success. When I had these headaches I would vomit, and could keep nothing on my stomach."
I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills from G. M. Fairweather, Druggist, of Sussex, N.B., and after taking one box I was so much relieved that I continued to take them until I am now completely cured. My advice to anyone suffering from sick headaches is to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and be completely cured."

Hr. Grace Notes.

A schooner arrived from across with a cargo of salt to R. D. McEae and Sons yesterday.

Rev. A. A. Holmes is suffering from a severe attack of lagrippe, and was unable to preach yesterday. Rev. F. S. Coffin occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, and Rev. Dr. James at the evening service.

Mr. E. Simmons' schooner Minnie Maud is being prepared for a trip to St. John's, and will sail in a day or two.

Major Peterson is in town to-day on recruiting business. All his old friends are pleased to see him.

In Loving Memory

Of Private George Taylor, No. 2080, Killed in Action, "Somewhere in France," April 23rd, 1917.

Mourn not for the brave,
He who fought in darkest night,
Who fought and died like a hero true,
For liberty and right.

You fought to be a soldier,
You made the sacrifice,
You left your loving parents,
Your little ones and wife.

But, oh, my darling, what a parting,
Its only God who knows the pain;
But you are resting till that morning
When we all shall meet again.

What a meeting and a greeting,
Far beyond this life of care,
Where the circle is not broken,
Yes, we'll meet our darling there.
P. L. HUSSEY.

Not Guilty.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please permit me to use space in your valuable paper for the following word of explanation. While I have no desire to get into the limelight, yet, because of the fact that there came to my ears yesterday the word that I am suspected of being hostile to the British Government my friends have urged me as a duty to God and His cause, to them and lastly to myself, to make this statement.

I was born at Malpeque, Prince Edward Island, an sixty-two years of age, thirty-nine of which have been spent as a minister of God's gospel; have been more than forty years in the U. S. and over five years in Canada. I came here for my health and to engage in gospel work; was at Wabana, Bell Island, from Sept. 30th to Dec. 30th, last, and have been in St. John's since that time. I was inclined to treat the whole matter as a huge joke until I learned that it was started with evil intent and malice aforethought, and for the sole purpose (so far as can be got at) of stopping my mouth as a faithful minister of God. I have, therefore, yielded to the advice of my many friends to say that I have testimonials from places in which I have done my duty to God and my fellows, and which came to me for the most part unsolicited, covering almost my entire life and which I shall be glad to show to the proper authorities at any time. I am at present stopping at the Seaman's Institute.

Obituary.

The Angel of Death which hovered but for a short time over the home of Mr. Joseph Colbourne, entered there on Wednesday the 17th inst., and touched with its wing the faithful husband and devoted father. The immediate cause of his death was blood-poisoning, resulting from an accident caused by the loss of a finger out off by a circular saw.

The transition was peaceful, and in passing was strengthened by the rites and consolation of his religion.

The late Mr. Colbourne was a man of exemplary character, always ready to lend a hand in time of need. Neighbors and friends will long retain kind recollection of him, who from early days had been ready to help in any good work in the community. While waiting for interment many friends of all religious denominations called at the home, to pay a last tribute of respect and speak words of consolation to the bereaved family. The floral wreath that rested on the casket were tributes from the bereaved family and kind friends.

The funeral took place on Friday, April 19th, at St. James' Church (of which he was clerk) at 11 o'clock, and was a large one. The pall bearers were members of the C. E. A. A. who recited strings in this great war, to those who love with a great love; and fight for us: "For greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Major Peterson is in town to-day on recruiting business. All his old friends are pleased to see him.

Green, of course; and when the Ulster Orangemen joined the Irish Nationalists, calling themselves the United Irishmen, in 1798, they adopted a green flag as an emblem of unity, and it was then "The Wearing of the Green" was sung by all the four provinces of the "distressful country."

It is said, however, that white is to be the new Irish flag, with a red cross of St. Patrick and a golden shamrock in each corner. But where is the harp? Irishmen are not half as fond of the harp as Britishers imagine. They say it belongs to Little Wales. But it was the Irish poet Tom Moore who sang "The harp that once through Tara's halls the soul of music shed," and Tara was supposed to be the seat of the old Irish kingdom. But they are thinking of leaving the harp out, all the same; so it Wales would like to swap her loek for a harp, she can have it at a bargain.

Blue is Ireland's Colour
How The Green Got In.
"The Wearing of the Green" is usually considered to be rather a revolutionary song, and at one time it was an offence to sing it, and might get a man into sad trouble. Yet, as a matter of fact, it is a song of union.

Everybody is aware that the colour of the Ulsterman—not the colour of his skin, but the colour of his principles, the hue he swears by—is orange; but few people are aware that the traditional heraldic colour of the Emerald Isle is blue! Yes, blue is Ireland's national colour, not green.

Then how did green become synonymous with nationalistic Ireland? Take your paint-box and mix blue and yellow and see what the result is.

Score Two for The Evening Telegram.

The two chief features of the 'Win the War' policy of the Government, Selective Conscription and a Newfoundland Victory Loan, are the result of the TELEGRAM'S advocacy, and naturally the management of this paper feels proud.

The Governor's Speech.

The Address from the Throne, with which the 7th Session of the House of Assembly was formally opened yesterday, contains nothing that was unexpected, and is not in any way remarkable.

That the fisheries of the country have been conducted with more than ordinary success during the war, and that the Government has been successful in looking after its own interests first, but what about the people, who caught the fish? Have they received more than the ordinary value, in proportion to the advanced cost of living?

Story of the Blocking of German U-Boat Bases. Gallantry of Canadians In Fighting of Every Kind.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

LONDON, April 23. The Admiralty, in supplementing the Admiralty report in last night's raids against Zebrugges and Ostend, said: "It was giving the House of Commons such information as had come to hand of this extremely gallant and hazardous raid. I ask the members to appreciate that most of the officers and men from whom we have got to date information, have been fighting the greater part of the night, and that some of them are not yet in. The raid was undertaken under command of Vice-Admiral Roger Hayes, commander of the Dover French destroyers, and the British forces, co-operated with the British forces, the oblique cruisers all from twenty to thirty years old, took part in the raid. They were the Brilliant, Sir-Isidore, Intrepid, Thetis and Thetis. The first five of these were fitted with concrete and were to attack in the Channel and entrance to the ports, if this possibly could be managed. The vindictive working with two ferries carried storming and demolition parties to storm the head of the Mole which runs out from Zebrugges. The landing storming parties were specially armed for the purpose, with flame throwers, Stokes mortars, and that sort of thing. They were employed on the block ships, and in the storming and demolition parties on the vindictive were blue-jackets, and marines, picked from the grand fleet and naval marine depot. There was great competition for the undertaking, and we could only use a very small proportion of those who volunteered. There was a light covering force belonging to the Dover command, and Harwich forces, under Admiral Tyrwhitt, covering the operation, in the north. A force of destroyers together with a large number of small motor boats took part in the operation, which was particularly hazardous, and had to be worked to a fine shakedown, and involved delicate navigation, on a hostile coast without light, and largely under unknown navigation conditions which have developed since the war, with the added danger of mine fields. I should like to mention that the officers who were killed in the operation were killed. The high development of scientific use of the smoke was one of the essential to success. It was more for than smoke, which combined with certain wind conditions was essential for the operation so as to protect the operation from batteries which might have flaked it. The plan was, after an intense bombardment of Zebrugges the vindictive, with auxiliaries, was to run alongside the Mole and to attack with gun fire as they approached. Storming and demolition parties were to be landed. Meanwhile three block ships, assisted by motor boats, were to make for the entrance to the Canal, run aground and be blown up. Two old and valueless submarines filled with explosives were to run against the pile work connecting the masonry with the shore, in order to cut off the Mole from the shore. At Ostend the operation was more simple but the conditions were considerably increased by mist, rain and low visibility, and consequent absence of aerial co-operation. The results so far, are known to be two block ships run aground, and blown up at Ostend. It is too early to say definitely, whether they accomplished their objective, but as far as the officers could see in the darkness, they were slightly off the mark. At Zebrugges, two or three block ships attained their objective, and were blown up at the entrance of the Canal. The third block ship, which was in a certain amount of damage, the extent at present unknown, was done by gun and torpedo attack on an enemy destroyer and a motor boat report having torpedoed an enemy destroyer which was blown up and scuttled. One of the old submarines gained its objective and destroyed the piling apparatus to the Mole. Storming parties landed on the vindictive and ferry boats attacked under an extremely heavy fire, and fought with the greatest gallantry, maintaining their position alongside the Mole for an hour, causing, it is believed, much damage to the enemy and inflicting considerable losses. The objective for the storming and demolition parties on the Mole, were the enemy fortifications on the battery upon which the destroyer and submarine were blown up. After re-embarking the three vessels intended to engage the attention of the block ships, thereby allowing the vindictive to enter the Channel. The casualties to personnel were not expected on an hazardous adventure of this kind, were heavy in proportion to the number of men engaged. Up to to-day, the British losses reported, are one destroyer sunk by gun fire and two coastal motor boats and two launches missing. We have sufficient information to show that the entrance to the Bruges Canal probably was effectively blocked, and that material damage was done and that the greatest credit is due to all ranks for their gallant try.

RATHER AMBIGUOUS.

TORONTO, To-day.

Unmarried in category A, between the ages of twenty and twenty-two years, will not be put into uniform, it is possible, until the unmarried men in category B of the ages of twenty to thirty-four inclusive, who fall three to thirty-four inclusive, have been called into the army. General Newburn, Minister of Militia, who passed through here last night, stated that the proclamation calling up men of the age of nineteen years, and men who reached the age of twenty years, since the thirteenth of last October, would be probably ready for issue to-day.

GETTING TO WORK.

OTTAWA, Ont., To-day.

The first of the new draft of men called out, will join the colors early next week. Instructions have already been given to all registrars under the military service act, that exemptions in class one, men between twenty and twenty-two years of age, inclusive, are cancelled. These men will now be notified by the registrars to report. In each district the men will be called up in batches, as required by the General Officer Commanding the military district, and as they can be handled by the military authorities, seven days will be generally allowed to a man, in which to settle up private affairs before reporting for service.

CANADIANS IN THEIR ELEMENT.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE.—(By W. A. Wilson, Canadian Press correspondent), April 23.—

Raided in no less than seven places gassed with thousands of lacrymatory and lethal shells, harassed by special artillery shoots, his trenches swept by machine gun and rifle bullets, his front line hammered by trench mortars, the enemy for the past twelve hours has had a lively time at the hands of the Canadians. From dusk until dawn the whole front has been lively north and south of Lens. The ceaseless rumble of our heavies, which are neutralizing hostile batteries by calculated and continuous shelling, has been accompanied by the sharper chorus of our field artillery carrying out a particularly harassing fire programme. Our artillery fire has reached a barrage intensity in support of raiding parties. Regularly the Boche lines have been lit up with scores of flares, betraying the nervousness which has been produced among the enemy by such an activity as he has not known on his front for weeks. The enemy has been forced to fight with his guns under gas clouds and in gas masks. He has betrayed the effects of our tactics by the diminishing column of his fire, but he has made answer to our general raiding and gas activities by projecting tear gas against our positions north of Lens. This projection was bigger in volume than anything ever attempted against the Canadians by the enemy. Its effect, beyond discomfort, was slight. The weight of evidence gathered from enemy sources gives every ground for belief that it must be far otherwise with the Boche: his gas is not so effective and his masks are not so good as ours. Of the batteries bombarded by our gunners during the past twelve hours, many will not be heard from for some time. Continuous forcible feeding for such a protracted period, on lethal and tear gas, with high explosives, has proved too successful for him to doubt its destructive virtue now. Unable to secure rubber to give the masks the close fit which is essential for full protection, the Germans' protective measures fall short of ours, and the enemy gunners must have suffered heavily under our bombardment, for we used nearly six thousand shells against some thirty battery positions. Our 4.5 howitzers secured six direct hits on concrete shelters in the Avion district. In some instances in our raids which were all supported by artillery, our men were unable to locate the enemy. In others sharp fighting developed, particularly in one case, where protracted hand to hand fighting took place. So close was the struggle that we were unable to take any prisoners. Our seven raids netted us altogether five prisoners and two machine guns. Two prisoners have since died. With fair weather succeeding the cold dark days of last week, our airplanes were busy. With reckless regard for the regular machine gun or rifle barrage, a patrol of four of our machines flew up and down the enemy trenches, for no less than 15 minutes, at altitudes of from 50 to 100 yards, emptying machine gun drums into the enemy front line, and at midnight one of our planes bombed the hostile fringe trenches, encountering gas. In raiding operations one of our patrols, consisting of one officer and ten other ranks, donned masks and proceeded into the enemy trenches, until they encountered a hostile party of fifteen. A lively fight ensued with bombs and rifles. Early in the morning another one hour battle occurred between patrols, under cover of a smoke barrage from grenades. Our men entered the enemy lines, bombed a dug-out and killed two and wounded one, and also secured valuable information.

WORTHY OF NELSON.

LONDON, To-day.

Two destroyers got inside the mole at Zebrugges and blew up the dock gate, the correspondent at Dover of the Daily Mail reports. The fact, he says, seems incredible but there seems to be no doubt about it, some of the men who took part in it say they saw the water of the Bruges Canal running out of the gate after it was destroyed and the vessels in the dock straining at their hawsers.

AND THE ENGLISH BURY HUNS WITH HONOR. FAUGH!

LONDON, To-day.

Seven prisoners of war were burned to death at Brandenburg, Germany, and the men were prevented from escaping by the sentinels. Several witnesses assert that when the prison took fire, the Germans made no attempt to rescue the seven inmates, but they forcibly prevented other prisoners from going to the rescue, and that when the endangered men tried to climb out through the window, a sentry bayoneted them, one after the other, and they fell back into the flames. The British Government has issued the affidavits of the Spanish eye witness. The German Government admits an English sailor was burned to death, but denies that there was any loss of life.

CASUALTIES LARGER THAN EXPECTED.

LONDON, To-day.

Archibald Hurd, the well known writer on naval subjects, reviewing the naval raid on Zebrugges in the Daily Telegraph, says: "The sea was smooth and the wind favorable, but unfortunately the wind changed after the operation was begun, with the result that the ingeniously devised smoke screen was less effective than was hoped, and the British casualties were consequently increased. Although the desperate fighting on the breakerwater resulted in severe casualties, the losses in the desperate exploit of sinking the ships in the entrance of the Canal were very light."

MUSIC HATH CHARMS.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE (By A. P. To-day).—The fighting continued yesterday in the region of Aveluy Wood, and near Albert the British advanced their line south of the Wood some 250 yards, along a front of 1,000 yards, thereby improving their positions. Otherwise there was no change in the situation yesterday, or last night. In virtually the whole line from north to south everywhere was found a feeling of optimism. Yesterday as the shell shaken town of Villers Bretonneux was reached, a British military band in a camp not far away, played an amusing march; it was a small incident but it is indicative of the men, and it is by such things as this that the morale of the troops may be judged.

MORE DETAILS.

LONDON, To-day.

In the British attack on the Belgian Coast, according to reports from the Celand Frontiers, transmitted by the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, several German batteries at Ostend and Zebrugges were silenced by the bombardment from the sea, and there was also much aerial fighting. The attack began at midnight, the report says, and until two o'clock in the morning the German batteries fired continuously.

Railway Tragedy.

Section Man Killed and Two Others Badly Injured, When Hand Cars Collide Near Whitbourne.

As the result of a collision between two section cars near Whitbourne at 11 o'clock last night, Sectionman James Flynn now lies cold in death and two fellow-workers, Messrs. Peddle and Greenfield at the General Hospital in a critical condition. The news of the fatal tragedy was received by the clerk in charge of the Reid Nfld. Co's. Dispatching Department shortly after midnight. He immediately acquainted Mr. H. D. Reid, President, and the proper authorities of the happening. The facts as far as can be ascertained are as follows: At 11 o'clock last night three crews of section men, totalling twelve all told, were returning to Whitbourne from a point several miles east of that place, and when within two miles of the town the second car collided with the leading car, striking it with such force that the occupants of both cars were thrown from the car platforms. As a result of the blow Flynn became unconscious and passed away within an hour. On examining the body it was discovered that his head, arms and legs had been badly bruised and that the victim was beyond all earthly aid. Sectionman Peddle was found to have a broken leg and several nasty cuts on his arms, other leg and body. Sectionman Greenfield was also badly shaken up and is suffering from internal as well as external injuries. The two latter arrived by the local train to-day and were conveyed to the General Hospital for surgical and medical treatment. The late James Flynn was a son of Section foreman Flynn of Whitbourne, who for many years had been employed by the Reid Nfld. Co. He was 28 years of age and unmarried. On hearing of the sad affair President Reid ordered that a handsome casket be sent to Whitbourne and that everything possible be done for the comfort of the injured. Our sympathies are extended the relatives.

Following the retirement of His Excellency, Hon. W. J. Ellis moved a series of resolutions which was seconded by Hon. John Anderson. The President then addressed the House after which Hon. Mr. Mews moved and Hon. P. McNamara seconded that a committee be appointed to draft an address in reply to the Governor's speech. Hon. Mr. Gibbs, leader of the Opposition, sharply criticised the speech, contending that it contained nothing of a constructive policy or one of any future good for the Dominion. The Latest Call--Startling--But True!

Reinforcements urgently needed to keep the Royal Newfoundland Regiment in the Front Line.

Men of Military Age! What About It?

Don't You Hear It? Won't You Heed It?

The sentiments of the majority of the people in this Dominion are strongly in favor of keeping our GLORIOUS REGIMENT at full strength and in the Front Line by voluntary enlistments if possible--if not--by some form of conscription.

Young Man! What Will You Be--A Volunteer or a Conscript?

Mismeasuring Time.

By RUTH CAMERON.

something Always Takes Longer Than She Expected.

I have a friend with whom I have made perhaps a hundred appointments. I doubt if she has been prompt half a dozen times. She is a busy person and I always urge her to get a time late enough to allow for what she has to do, and she is always sure that she has given herself plenty of leeway. And then she meets me breathless and overflowing with explanations of how this or that took longer than she expected. A young married friend of mine often plans to ride out from town with her husband after an afternoon's shopping. The other morning they were making one of these appointments. "Oh, I'll be through about five o'clock," he said, cheerfully. His wife laughed in that tender way of wives and husbands who know each other foibles, and love each other in spite of (or is it because of) them.

He Always Thinks He Will Leave At Five.

"My dear," she said to me, "he hasn't left his office at five o'clock a dozen times in five years. Once in a long while it's half past five, but usually it's six. But I never yet asked him what time he was coming home that he didn't say, 'Oh, about five o'clock.'"

The other reason that I have for knowing this type of optimist is that I am one of them.

My favorite mismeasurement is in regard to the amount of work I can accomplish in a given time. When I am going to town for the afternoon, I offer largely to do errands for all my relatives and neighbours. A whole afternoon seems such an indefinite amount of time. And then I find that I do not get in until two o'clock, and that I ought to start home before five, and rediscover (each time to my vast surprise) that an afternoon is only three winged hours.

Where Has This Afternoon Gone!

Again, I will plan my work as follows. I will write such and such a thing, answer that bunch of letters, do some darning and go to walk. And, lo and behold, before I have gotten half through that bunch of letters, the shades of night are falling fast and I am saying, "Where has this afternoon gone?"

So much to do and so little time to do it!

And yet I wouldn't swap with those people who don't need to be optimistic about time because they have so much time and so little to do in it, for the world.

Would you?

Gentlemen--I had my leg badly hurt, the pain was very severe and a large swelling came above the knee. I expected it would be serious--I rubbed it with MINARD'S LINIMENT, which stopped the pain and reduced the swelling very quickly. I cannot speak too highly of MINARD'S LINIMENT.

The Right Spirit.

Gordon Smith, son of Thos. Smith, Baine Harbor, who recently enlisted returned yesterday from a visit to his parents bringing with him three recruits. Pte. Smith, who had only one day at his home out of ten days furlough, devoted the greater part of those few hours to placing before his comrades at home the claims of the Regiment upon them and urging all eligible lads to come along with him and join the colors. The disorganization of the South Coast steamship service deprived him of a few days at home as the whole of the time, except one day was taken up going and returning, otherwise this enthusiastic young volunteer would have added a few more comrades to the ranks. Pte. Smith has the right spirit and says he believes every man in khaki should be a recruiting officer whenever opportunity offers.

Shower of Socks.

In response to several requests from Outpost branches, Miss Harris, Acting President of the W. P. A., has extended the time for sending in the socks until May 10th. Will all workers please note the change. Miss Harris would like, if at all possible, for the shower to include 2500 pairs--100 pairs for each year of Her Majesty's married life. With everybody helping this should not be an unattainable goal. Workers will also note that wool spun locally is as good as any for the socks. Don't forget the date--May 10th.

Francis Joseph.

Old Francis Joseph's sleeping, removed from grief and worn, while nations, worn and weeping, through war's grim motions go; he's sleeping with his fathers, who kicked up all the potholes; no more he frets or bothers--it's well for Francis Joe.

tool of Bill, the Kaiser, he let war's bloodhounds loose, he was no sinner, wiser, than thus to raise the deuce; but now he's all unworried; he's resting, calm, unfurled, his sideboards neatly curried, he's found the final truce. Oh, lucky, lucky ruler! Forgotten is the foe; enjoying in your cooler, the sleep that dead ones know; how many monarchs, signing, and sick of death, and dying, are you with envy eyeing, O fozzy Francis Joe? How many kings would barter their finest motor car, equipped with patent starter, to slumber where you are? Methinks that Carl and Billy, whom blood has rendered silly, would love your chamber chilly, with marble gates ajar. Oh, still on France's meadows the crimson vanelets flow; and still, like stealthy shadows, men's ghosts move to and fro; the fighting men are leaner, war's strategems grow messier; you do not care a wincer, or pretzel, Francis Joe.

Correction.

The Soldiers desire us to say that in the Reid Newfoundland Company article in the daily paper, kindly placed at the disposal of the Regiment by that Company, is inserted an extract from a poem entitled "MOTHER OF MEN," the author of which is anonymously signed herself "One Boy's Mother." Through a typographical error when sending the "copy" to the newspapers the word "that" in the second line was printed as "that" which makes it read rather unintelligibly.

Don't Forget the Soldiers.

We learn that tickets for "Myles Aron" at the Casino Theatre tomorrow night, are not being disposed of so rapidly as they might. As the management of this play is putting it on solely for the benefit of the soldiers it might be suggested that between now and tomorrow "a run" on tickets take place and that bookings be made for the fullest capacity of the theatre. Don't forget the soldiers who fought for you when you couldn't fight for yourself.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

Published by Authority

Owing to the collapse in Russia, which allowed Germany to remove the main part of her Army from the Eastern to the Western front, the Allies have been severely handicapped in meeting the greatest offensive of the war.

There is an urgent call to all parts of the Empire for men. In the United Kingdom steps are being taken to conscript all men up to the age of 51 years.

As a self-governing Dominion Newfoundland has been called upon to do her part at this full war strength. Three hundred men (300) are required immediately and sixty (60) men additional per month. The need for these men is set forth in the despatch received Tuesday, April 23, from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, which reads as follows:--

"April 9th--Statement has been received from Army Council to the effect that the Newfoundland Regiment in France is now short of the authorized War Establishment by 170 men, and that the number of men under training in England is not sufficient to make up this deficit. Since very heavy fighting must be anticipated, at least 300 men will be required from Newfoundland as early as possible in order to bring the Battalion up to strength and an additional sixty men per month will be required to maintain it in the field. H. M. Government trust that your Government will be able to supply these men. (Signed) LONG."

Conscription prevails throughout Canada and the United States, and Newfoundlanders in Canada are being conscripted. Under the War Measures Act the Newfoundland Government have ordered:--

That no unmarried man between the ages of twenty and thirty-five, who is eligible for the Army or Navy, shall be permitted to leave the Dominion.

That no person whosoever shall be allowed to leave the Dominion without a Passport. Newfoundland must do its part, and cost what it will, the Regiment must be maintained. Our Regiment will perform deeds of valor equal to any in the history of the British Army.

Its gallantry in the field has won the recognition of the King by the bestowal of the glorious prefix "ROYAL".

It has earned so many encomiums from the Commander in Chief, the Divisional and Brigade Generals, that we cannot allow it to be withdrawn from the scene of conflict. It has placed the name of Newfoundland on the Honour Roll of the nations. It would be an eternal disgrace to the eligible men of Newfoundland to allow the name to be erased from that Honour Roll by failing to keep the Regiment up to its full fighting strength.

An opportunity is now afforded the young men of the country to join the ranks. On St. George's Day, the 23rd April, the Legislature will be convened, and immediate attention will be given to the consideration of the steps to be taken to maintain the Royal Newfoundland Regiment at full war strength.

In the meantime the need is urgent, and every effort should be made to answer the call from His Excellency the Governor and from the War Council, to enlist as many men as possible.

W. W. HALFYARD, Acting Colonial Secretary, Dept. of the Colonial Secretary, April 11, 1918.

British Bottle Zebrugge

By Sinking Five Old Concrete at Harbour Not Effected by Situation Ireland

Blocking Sub. Channels.

LONDON, April 23. British naval forces to-day raided German submarine bases of Ostend and Zebrugge, the Admiralty announced. Five old cruisers which had been filled with concrete for use in blocking the channels were run aground, blown up and abandoned by the crews. The statement reads: "Early this morning a naval raid was made on Ostend and Zebrugge which were being used by the enemy as depots for submarines. A further communication to far received is to the effect that the raid met with a reasonable measure of success. With the exception of covering ships the force employed consisted of auxiliary vessels and six obsolete cruisers. Five of these cruisers filled with concrete were used as block ships, and after being run aground were, in accordance with orders, blown up, and abandoned by their crews. A further communication will be issued when a report has been received from the ships which are now returning to their base. No report of the casualties has yet been received."

Part of the Campaign.

WASHINGTON, April 23. News of the British raid upon the German U-boat bases at Ostend and Zebrugge and of the attempt to blow up these harbors, was received with great interest by the Navy Department. The move was taken as a further definite step in the carefully planned campaign against the U-boats which has been repeatedly predicted to begin to show material results about this time.

Particulars of Raid.

LONDON, April 23. In all probability the entrance to the Bruges Canal has been blocked effectively in consequence of the naval raid, Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced to-day in the House of Commons. While the operation was in progress British parties were landed to distract the enemy. The officer who developed the scheme of attack was killed. Storming parties were landed on the mole from the cruiser Vindictive. The casualties to the personnel, he said, were heavy to the number of men engaged. A destroyer was torpedoed at Zebrugge. Two of the blockading ships were sunk and blown up at the entrance to the canal. One of the ships was landed on the mole at Zebrugge and filled with explosives. Casualties to the British craft were not reported, and two coastal motor boats sunk and two launches missing. At Ostend one of the blockading ships were run aground and blown up.

British Official.

LONDON, April 23. (Official)--As a result of a successful operation carried out by us last night north of Ostend, a German U-boat was destroyed and captured 60 prisoners. A number of prisoners were taken by us also in the neighborhood of Zebrugge, and the both of which areas local fighting ensued to our advantage. In the neighborhood of Zebrugge one of our landing parties entered the harbor, and penetrated his support lines. The hostile artillery was active yesterday afternoon and during the night west of Ostend. We are in the latter part of our front from south to north. Concentrations of hostile troops observed in the Vierschaux sector and in the neighborhood of Zebrugge were engaged by our artillery.

Still Holding Back.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, April 23. (Via Reuter's agency)--The concentration of men and guns in various points, the Germans still remain from striking. Prisoners released from trench feet and an armistice, adding that the rations are meagre. An interesting document found which throws a light on the situation. Baron Von Richtofen's destruction group commander to the first squadron. It reads: "The airman here is in a westerly direction because of the strong enemy opposition. It is back in order that reconnaissance may be carried out. Reconnaissance is to be carried out. More concrete testimony to our activity in the morning we carried out successions east of the Clarence with the object of straightening the line."

Declare War on Germany.

LONDON, April 23. (Official)--The Argentine Government has declared war against Germany at 12 noon, according to Reuter's agency. The German newspapers have notified to prepare the people for developments.

Filling the Gaps.

The Regimental Recruiting Roster.

Oh, man o' mine in olive drab,
So handsome, brave, and strong,
You're bound for "somewhere" there
In France, to join the fighting throng.
To join the fighting throng.

Oh, man o' mine, from out your heart
Your eyes speak brave and true;
You'll do your patriotic part
For, man o' mine, that's you!

For liberty you're going, man,
And honour—therefore go!
But, oh, my man, come back, come back,
Because I need you so.

I know the horrors you will see;
I hear the bursting shell;
But, man o' mine, you'll do your part,
And do it more than well!

'Tis such as you they want, my man,
To stem the tyrants' greed;
But, oh, my man, come back, come back,
My love, my strength, my need.

THE SOLDIERS ASKED FOR 300 MEN BY YESTERDAY—ST. GEORGE'S DAY!
THEIR APPEAL WAS ANSWERED BY 485 YOUNG FELLOWS, ALL ANXIOUS TO HELP OUT THEIR BROTHERS "OVER THERE."
OF THIS NUMBER ONLY 248 COULD BE ACCEPTED, THOUGH PARTIES OF RECRUITS NOW EN ROUTE FROM THE OUTPORTS WILL DOUBTLESS MAKE UP THE REQUIRED NUMBER.

240 ADDITIONAL GAPS ARE TO BE FILLED NOW SINCE THE HEAVY CASUALTIES THAT HAVE BEEN REPORTED IN THE LAST FEW DAYS.
THE VETERANS ASSOCIATION, WITH THE SOLDIERS NOW IN TRAINING, MAKE THIS APPEAL TO YOU THE REGIMENT MUST BE BROUGHT UP TO FULL STRENGTH IN AS SHORT A TIME AS IS POSSIBLE, AND THEY WANT "VOLUNTEERS" SO THAT THEY WILL BE ABLE TO SAY TO THEIR PALS "OVER THERE"—
"YOU ASKED FOR REINFORCEMENTS, HERE THEY ARE!"
THIS IS THE LAST CALL FOR VOLUNTARY ENLISTMENTS: IT'S UP TO YOU!

WE WHO ARE LEFT BEHIND.
Our boys go off and we see them go,
With heart that breaks and tears that flow.
They're just "our boys," and we love them so
We who are left behind!
But England calls them to join the strife,
And mother, sister, sweetheart, wife;
We're proud to be linked to a soldier's life.
We who are left behind!
Coats of red and packets of blue,
Soldiers and sailors tried and true,
God help us all! We'll be brave, too,
We who are left behind!

WOMAN SLEEPS FOR 32 YEARS.
Regina, Texas, March 25.—Rip Van Winkle's long nap has had several counterparts in real life, the most notorious being the long distance sleeping record established by Caroline Olsson, a Swedish woman, who fell into a trance on Dec. 24, 1875, and did not wake up until 1907.
On the day before Christmas, 1875, she returned from school slightly ill, and went to bed. Although the following morning ushered in the greatest holiday of the year, Caroline slept on, and all efforts to awaken her were futile.
Physicians were unable to diagnose her case, which, after she had been asleep a year, was the subject of interested study by all the medical men of Europe. Caroline slept from girlhood to womanhood, being kept alive by the administration of two or three glasses of milk daily. Two or three times during her sleep she was aroused sufficiently to take a step or two, but always fell back unconscious and continued her sleep. In 1905 a gradual improvement in her condition was noted and one day in 1907 she suddenly recovered consciousness. She was able to recall every detail of her youth and showed no physical weakness or mental defects from her long sleep.

known as the German mind. One of the principal objects of the system of education that the military masters of Germany have imposed upon the German people, is to get them to believe that they are not as other men; and in this they have certainly met with brilliant success. The belief in German superiority is fundamental; it is boisterously vocal; it is "shouted from the house-tops."

The ancient Greeks had the same belief, and they used a term "The Barbarians" to designate all peoples who were not Greeks. And that wonderful race was so greatly superior in art, letters, laws, ethics of conduct, and many other things that are implied by the term civilization, that the distinction was fairly well justified.

But the very standards by which we endorse the Greek assumption of superiority, create in us only derisive laughter when we apply them to the Prussian of to-day. Had the Prussianism of Wilhelm, Hohenzollern, Kluck, Hindenburg and Trepitz been the controlling spirit of any race of people contemporary with the Greeks, we may be pretty sure that they would have been reckoned as among the barbarians—and very low down upon the list at that.

But what has all this got to do with the bombardment of Paris by a super-range gun? It has just this much to do with it: that the gun was conceived, built, and is now operating, because the Prussian, even at this late day, is possessed with the idea that he can frighten people into submission.

For it is a fact that this gun, which is receiving a great deal more advertising than it is honestly entitled to, is of practically no military value. The construction of a gun capable of throwing a projectile seventy miles and more, is of course on the face of it, an engineering feat of magnitude, proper credit for which we would be the last to withhold. But this gun was designed to be, and the Prussians believed it would prove to be an instrument of terror, a dramatic and awe-inspiring demonstration of the fact that the German arm is long, can reach far, and strike hard. So the super-man set out to build a super-gun with which to strike terror into the hearts of his enemies. And everything has come through strictly according to plan and schedule—except the terror. However, the Prussian, judging from dispatches, has at least afforded some entertainment for the good citizens of Paris, and has added, in a sense, to the gaiety of nations at a time when a touch of humor such as this is only too welcome.—Scientific American.

"O! broken woman I, my treasured only son;
Still would I not have ought than he himself has done!
Pitying I see them look sometime as I pass by,
But I have borne A MAN,—tears do not clog my eye.
For I might pitied be, mine perhaps might be the slur
Had I A MAN not raised, but just a yellow cur;

And I a title bear—what ask you then?
I'm of that Motherhood, those who are MOTHERS OF MEN,
Which mothers send their boys—MEN—forward to the fight
To help all mothers' boys who battle for the right."
