TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

Factories to be Supplied With Water at Same Rates in Force Last Year.—Rate of Taxation Fixed.

A meeting of the town council of the town of Bridgetown was held in the council chamber, March 7th at 7.30 p.m. with Mayor Hoyt in the chair and councillors present as follows: Tupper, Craig, Rufee, Dixon DeWitt and Burns.

The following bills were ordered paid, viz. Alden Walker, gravel, $1.00 William Rufee $2.31, Elias Durland $3.56, Clarence Hayes $0.56 and Charles Berry $1.25 all for labor on the streets, J. H. Longmire & Sons $1.69 and $1.00.

On motion to pay the bill of Anderson & Rankin for teams engaged by policeman Eggeshaw it was decided not to pay the same at present.

Ordered that the third and last instalment payable to the Union Bank of Halifax under resolution of the council passed July 3rd 1906 be paid.

Ordered that the rates for water supplied to the factories be restored to the same figures as were in force at the beginning of last year and that this change of rates apply to the water supplied to the factories since last July.

The town clerk laid before the town council the assessment roll for the current year, as amended by the court of assessment appeals, and it was resolved that the town council of the town of Bridgetown authorize the levying and collecting of a rate of one dollar and thirty cents on the hundred dollars of assessed value of the property and income assessed in the assessment roll of the town, to raise the sum required to defray the expenses of the town of Bridgetown for the current year; also a rate of sixty-five cents the hundred dollars of assessed value of the property and income assessed in the town of Bridgetown and county of Annapolis assessment rolls of the school section of the town of Bridgetown, and of all property outside the said school section, liable for taxation to defray the expenses of the public schools of the town of Bridgetown for the current year and also a rate of fifty-eight cents on the hundred dollars of assessed value of the real estate liable to be taxed for the new sewer system; and of thirty cents on the hundred dollars of assessed value of the real estate in the town of Bridgetown liable to be taxed for the old sewer system to provide interest and sinking funds upon the two loans made for sewer purposes.

Minutes read and approved and council adjourned.

Floods Make Many Homeless

Cleveland, Ohio, March 2.—Fully 1,000 persons are homeless, other thousands living in the second floor of their homes, traffic impeded and business demoralized in many places is the situation in Ohio today as the result of recent floods.

Seattle, Wn., March 2.—Water from the melting snows in the mountains augmented by local rains, has made raging torrents of all the streams in central and western Washington, and today, the towns in the lowlands are facing serious floods. From all parts of the state reports are being received showing that the rivers are rising rapidly.

Buried Under Masses of Debris

Wellington, Wash., March 3.—Eighty six names are now on the list of dead and missing passengers, railroad and postal employees who were carried down by the avalanche which destroyed the Great Northern train on Tuesday morning. Statements of the number of laborers fighting the snow who were sleeping on the ill-fated train, vary from twenty to thirty. An estimate of one hundred dead is conservative, it is said tonight.

New Yorkers Flock to See Live Moose at Sportsmen's Show

New York, March 3.—Occupying the entire ground floor of the east end of Madison Square Garden, besieged from three points of the compass by a surging mob, and verily reveling in an environment, distinct as it was typical, the New Brunswick moose was by such experts as Dillon Wallace of Labrador fame, and Oliver Kemp, the well-known artist, pronounced the finest exhibit at the sixteenth annual Sportsmen's Show. Two young bull moose, two bears, one musquash, lor cabin, heads, etc., filled the allotted space. The moose, though not nine months old, attracted great attention and the bear was coveted by all.

Above the cabin is a 6 1/2 inch moose head shot near Little Lake, Sunbury county, N. B., Oct. 19, 1904. The interior contains excellent photographs of mounted salmon, which have attracted much attention. The mounted trout opposite the moose head is fine. The caribou shot by Mr. Nobles on the Intercolonial near Fredericton is also on exhibition.

Nova Scotia, which is represented by Laurie Mitchell and Dr. Edward Breck, stands second and northern Ontario third, while Maine and the Adirondacks and the south are hopelessly distanced.

Aside from the birds, New Brunswick is the only booth having a live game exhibit. As many visitors had never seen a moose they had to ask: "What are these?"

Millionaires Have Narrow Escape

Five boys banded themselves with a solemn oath, and last Saturday went to a point on the New York, New Haven and Hartford tracks near East Port Chester and had there opened a switch a few minutes before the arrival of a certain express train on which E. C. Converse, Wm. G. Rockefeller, E. C. Benedict, J. Kennedy Tod and other well-known New York men ride to their country homes every Saturday afternoon.

The misplaced switch was discovered by a track walker, who threw it back in place in time to avert a wreck, but the boys got away before the man could arrest any of them.

The siding to which the express train would have been deflected but for the track walker ends in a wall of natural rock twenty high.

The railroad detectives then stated that the track walker had recognized one of the boys and had informed his superintendent, who had set the detectives on their trail. They had been looking for the boys ever since and as they thought they had located them, and had come into court to ask for warrants.

Questioned by the Judge, all the boys admitted with tears that they had been in a plot to wreck the train on Saturday and that their object besides their hope of looting the bodies of those killed or injured, had been to see something exciting happen in real life. They all admitted that their band had been formed with all the formalities of penalties for "sneaking."

The boys are all the sons of Slavish parents, and some of them have very slight knowledge of English. In order to give to them a chance to reform no charge was entertained against them for their attempt at train wrecking. Matthew Gydoski, the oldest boy, was bound over for the next term of the Superior Court, Yoski was sent to the State Reform School, and the others were paroled in charge of a juvenile officer.

It came out that their capture had been practically effected by Edward Nedley, a son of the policeman who arrested them for throwing stones at trains. Young Nedley is a student in the Greenwich High School, and having been told by his father that the boys were wanted by the police, he gathered in school and then arranged with them to meet him. His father was on hand at the rendezvous.

The boys have been a menace to passengers on trains going through Greenwich for a long time. It was their custom to stand on elevated ground and hurl stones and pieces of brick into parlor car windows. Within the last month many persons have been struck by the stones and cut by flying glass.

Captain of Schooner Found Dead in Harbor

Head Was Cut and Blood Stains Were Discovered in the Cabin.—Attorney General Ordered an Autopsy.

Mahone Bay, March 3.—His head gashed and cut, the body of Capt. J. Wentzell, master of the schooner Goldie Belle, who had been missing for two days, was found in the dock near his schooner this morning. The nature of the injuries to his head coupled with the fact that bloodstains were discovered on the cabin floor of the schooner point strongly to foul play, and Mahone is greatly excited over the affair.

Mahone, March 4.—Did Captain Wentzell, of the schooner Goldie Belle, meet his death by foul play or by accident? is the question on which a coroner's jury has been seeking light for two days, but on which they are still far from a conclusion. It looks as though the jury's verdict would be that death came from causes unknown. An adjournment was made till Monday evening.

The custom's officers, however found something definite of another character and they acted. The Goldie Belle was seized on a charge of having smuggled liquors and cigars from St. Martin's, D.W.I., and the officers discovered cases of gin and demijohns of other liquors and boxes of cigars on which duty had not been paid and the vessel was seized. The late Captain Wentzell was a part owner and the managing owners are J. Ernst and Sons.

Will Combine to Put Down Prices to Meet the Big Firms

The increasing competition of the catalogue and mail order houses is leading our more progressive local business houses to consider the most effective methods for retaining the trade of which they are being deprived in many cases without advantage to purchasers. The Truro Sun learns that a project is on foot whereby the Truro merchants in the dry goods clothing, boots and shoes and furniture lines will combine to meet any and all prices quoted by the Toronto and Montreal mail order houses, with the additional advantages of being able to effect necessary exchanges without the delays and difficulties now existing.

The idea is to have the orders handled and filled by a capable person who will make selections of goods required from the stocks of those merchants who agree to meet all outside prices. The Sun commends this practical movement of our local merchants and will assist in carrying it into effect.

Sackville Has Electric Power

The Inauguration of Day System Marks an Important Epoch in the History of Sackville.

(Sackville Tribune)

The Sackville Electric Light Company have inaugurated a system of electric power for Sackville. For some time preparations have been going on and Tuesday the current was turned on for the first time. The importance of this event to Sackville can scarcely be over-estimated. Every manufacturer face to face with the power problem. The installation of a power plant is usually a serious matter and the daily cost of maintenance a heavy tax. Electric power is certainly the best that can be obtained. It is always ready; it is practically noiseless it is clean and the cost is not excessive. The ability to secure electric power should stimulate the growth of industries, of which we want an unlimited number in Sackville. The power is now being used by A. E. Wry Limited and The Tribune Printing Co., Ltd.

The local concern is to be congratulated upon this forward step which will mean so much for Sackville.

Sudden Death of Prominent Citizen of Digby

Digby, March 3.—John M. Viets, collector of customs, dropped dead in his private office at four o'clock this afternoon. His sudden taking away in apparent good health has caused great sorrow throughout the community. Always working zealously for the moral, social and commercial welfare of his native town, his death removes a most respected and honored citizen. He was a Freemason, Oddfellow, Forester, and for years superintendent of Holy Trinity Sunday-School, and in respect to his attendance at the several lodges and Sunday-School, it cannot be recalled that Mr. Viets ever missed one session. He was interested heart and soul in his Sunday-School work, and was a pillar in the affairs of the Church of England here. In politics he was an acknowledged conservative.

He held the office of collector of customs for about twenty-five years succeeding his late father, Botsford Viets, at the time of the latter's superannuation. Previous to this he was junior member of the law firm of Wade and Viets, the senior member being the late John C. Wade, Q.C., M.P.

Besides a widow, two daughters and five sons, an aged mother and two sisters survive. The sisters are Miss Adelaide, at home, and Mrs. Smith, of Chelsea, England, wife of the late Dr. Smith, of Digby. The widow was Miss Roberts, of Liverpool. One daughter, Kathleen, is wife of W. E. Tupper, local manager of the Union bank. The other daughter, Miss Caroline, is at present in Boston. One son, Guy, is manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Glace Bay, and only left here yesterday for a trip to Boston. Another son, Robert, of Ottawa, is private secretary to Hon. W. S. Fielding. The other sons are Alexander, of Outlook, Sask., Harry of Brooklyn, Gerald, of Kipewa, Quebec, and the latter sons also hold prominent positions with their respective employers.

Mr. Viets was seventy-one years of age. The funeral is to be held Sunday afternoon, and will be under the direction of King Solomon lodge, A.F. & A.M. St. George lodge of Oddfellows will also take part in the obsequies.

Avalanche Descends

Walla Walla, Was., Feb. 28.—A special from Wallace, Idaho, says:

With a furious blizzard blocking efforts of rescuers progress in recovering those buried in last night's avalanche is almost impossible. Five hundred men sent from this city had recovered only twelve bodies at 3.30 a. m. It is practically certain that more than one hundred persons have perished.

Mace is divided into nests known as Upper and Lower Mace. The catastrophe occurred in Lower Mace, where are quartered about three hundred miners employed in the Standard Mines.

Most of these men are unmarried and live in the Hotel Standard. Messengers reports by telephone to this city are to the effect that this hotel was in the path of the avalanche.

Though first reports of the disaster were that the town of Gem, Idaho, located a mile of this place, on the same side of the canon, had been overwhelmed, later news seems to indicate that this town escaped.

Mace has a population of a hundred, all miners with the exception of a few storekeepers and school teachers in the employ of the mine. Two box cars containing fifty section hands in employ of the Northern Pacific Railroad were standing on the sidetrack when the slide occurred. All of these men are supposed to have lost their lives. Fifteen houses have been swept away according to latest information. At the Mace boarding house the snow is thirty feet deep and all of the flat from the boarding house to end of the town towards Burke is buried beneath the slide.

In the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia there are three vacancies, those caused by the deaths of Hon. Robert Monk, and Hon. William Chisholm, Halifax, and Hon. Mr. Ray, Annapolis.

ROCKEFELLER PHILANTHROPIES ORGANIZED

An Organization of the Philanthropic and Charitable Funds to Be Known as the Rockefeller Foundation

Washington, March 4.—The senate was stirred today by information that John D. Rockefeller proposes to give away a great share of his millions in educational humanitarian and philanthropic undertakings. This news came through the introduction of a bill by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire for the incorporation of "the Rockefeller foundation."

There are already several kindred institutions in Washington and elsewhere, but the Rockefeller foundation is to be conducted on a more comprehensive scale and will develop a much broader field than has heretofore been attempted. The Smithsonian institution was founded by an Englishman more than half a century ago to encourage the diffusion of knowledge.

The Carnegie foundation, endowed with many millions some years ago for the relief of superannuated college professors and teachers, and for purposes of scientific research, was incorporated by congress and has recently moved into a splendid new building on Sixteenth street. In 1903 congress incorporated the general educational board, a national project to which Mr. Rockefeller has devoted about $50,000,000.

It is altogether likely that congress will incorporate the Rockefeller foundation. It will have headquarters in Washington, which fact is hailed with assurance regarding the future of the national capital as a great educational center.

The incorporators named in the bill are John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Fred T. Gates, Starr J. Murphy and Charles O. Hoyt. These incorporators are authorized to select associations, not to exceed a total of twenty-five and it is provided that there shall not be at any time fewer than five.

It was stated by Senator Gallinger today that Mr. Rockefeller already had given away $52,000,000 and that he was seeking a method of disposing of his fortune that would benefit mankind. The foundation is organized on lines similar to the Carnegie Foundation, for the advancement of teaching. As in the case of the latter institution, the Rockefeller Foundation will be authorized to receive and dispense gifts of money other than those obtained from the ordinary endowments, the amounts of which have not been fixed.

The scope of the foundation is very broad, although embraced in a very short section of the bill. The section reads:

"That the object of the said corporation shall be to promote the well-being and to advance the civilization of the people of the United States and its territories and possessions, and of foreign lands in the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge; in the prevention and relief of suffering and in the promotion of any and all of the elements of human progress."

Regarding the bill, Senator Gallinger said:

"I am not authorized to speak for Mr. Rockefeller. But there is no doubt that Mr. Rockefeller intends to give away his money on a scale greater than any other living man. I am not acquainted with all of the details of Mr. Rockefeller's plan, but it is expected that Washington will be made the headquarters."

Steel Company Settles its Claim Orchard and Garden in March

Will Accept Eight Hundred Thousand And Coal Company Will Pay It at Once.

Montreal, March 4.—The entire back dividends on the preferred stock of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, amounting to thirty-one and a half per cent., has been declared, and will be paid on the first day of April.

Then an agreement has been reached as to the claim of the Steel Company against the Coal Company for although the claim was for $1,200,000 they have agreed to accept $800,000 and that will also be paid at once or after some little financing has been done. The regular quarterly dividend of one per cent. on the Coal common was also declared, and will be paid next month.

As for the merger it is officially stated that the accountants will have completed their work in two weeks time, and then the directors of the two companies will get down to work. It is generally believed, however, that both the coal and steel will be taken into the merger at par, and that the new stock will be put on a four per cent. basis. Steel Common closed at seventy, and Coal Common at eighty.

"Prune fruit trees, shrubs and hardy roses. Graft fruit trees with better varieties. Prepare for sprouting. Sow seeds of tomatoes, cauliflower, etc., in the hotbed. Start flower seeds in boxes in the house. Re-pot geraniums, ferns and other plants for summer decorations." These are some of the things that gardeners and fruit growers can do this month, according to the March issue of THE CANADIAN HORTICULTURIST. Among the contributors in this issue are Miss Eunice Watts, Waterville, N. S.; Mr. G. N. Gordon McKeen, Milford, N. S.; Mr. J. C. Gilman, Fredericton, N. E.; and Mr. J. A. Moore, Hazelbrook, P. E. Island.

Among the many topics discussed are lime-sulphur vs. Bordeaux for spraying, low-headed peach trees, kind of apple trees to plant, raspberry culture and the growing of tomatoes, onions, potatoes and cauliflower. The leading article tells how fruit growers can make the concentrated lime-sulphur wash at home.

Amateur gardeners will find much to interest them in articles on pruning rose bushes, sowing garden seeds, hardy shrubs, peonies, annuals, tree planting, polyanthus and many others. The issue is well illustrated. Samples of THE CANADIAN HORTICULTURIST may be had on request. It is published at Peterboro, Ont.

MONITOR OFFICE

A POPULAR SOLDIER.

Col. Steele, Who Succeeds Gen. Buchan, With the R.N.W.M.P.

Lieut.-Col. and Hon. Col. S. B. Steele, C.B., M.V.O., has been selected by His Excellency, the Governor-General for the position of Honorary Aide-de-Camp, made vacant by the death of Brigadier-General Buchan. As the title itself implies, the appointment of Honorary Aide-de-Camp is entirely an honorary one, the only duties attaching to it being to attend His Excellency at state functions, such as the opening of Parliament, state dinners, etc. But it is one of the very few honors which the Governor-General has the privilege of personally conferring without consulting anybody, and as such it is very highly regarded in the force, although there have been some absurdly injudicious awards of honorary aide-de-campships in years gone by. There will certainly be no grumbling over the last appointment, for there is no more popular soldier in Canada today than Col. Steele. Most Canadians consider Col. Steele as a contribution of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police to the Canadian Militia. He was so long in the red-coated police, and was so closely identified with some of its most stirring episodes of service, that it has been generally forgotten that he had seen considerable service in the Active Militia before joining the Mounted Police. It will be remembered that the organization of the Mounted Police in 1873 and 1874 was entrusted to Lieut.-Col., now Major-General, Sir George French. This officer at the time, was inspector of artillery and commanded A. Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, then quartered at Kingston. The recruits for the chief detachment of the Mounted Police force were marched to Toronto, and French naturally drew up on the non-commissioned officers of his battery for instructors to knock the recruits into something like shape before entraining them, unarmed and uniformed for the long trip to Manitoba frontier via Chicago and St. Paul.

Col. Steele was then a sergeant in A. Battery, and it did not take much persuasion to induce him to enlist for the new force. He was posted as Troop Sergeant-Major to A. Division of Troop, and so was part of the force detached under Inspector Jarvis to proceed via old Fort Carlton to Edmonton, while French with the main body struck out for the whisky trader's district in what is now Southern Alberta, Jarvis, on reaching Fort Edmonton, Oct. 27, 1874, wrote a lengthy report to headquarters in which he specially brought Troop Sergeant-Major Steele's services to official notice. He wrote: "S. M. Steele has been undeviating in his efforts to assist me, and he has done the manual labor of at least two men." It might be explained that for two or three hundred miles of the last part of the march the detachment had to make its own roads, including considerable bridges and long stretches of corduroy, and the horses could not be used to any great extent, as they were half-starved, there being no oats for the last five hundred miles. After his record during this march, his promotion appeared inevitable, and it came in due course, with the first increase in the establishment. Being considered a man for tough jobs he was given charge of the little force of police entrusted in enforcing British justice at and in advance of the railhead during the construction of the C.P.R. through the old Northwest Territories.

Blasted Away Falls.

Quite unexpectedly Father Paradis has afforded an early solution to the drainage problem in the Porcupine country by blasting a channel at High Falls on the Frederickhouse River and drawing the water away from a considerable area of country. As his action was an unauthorized interference with the waterways, the Federal Government has sent a man to report on the results and more may be heard of the matter in a few days. The result has been apparently an injury to the canoe routes, while it has to some extent removed apprehension as to practical difficulties that were believed to threaten the gold mining industry in this locality. By blasting out the falls Frederickhouse Lake has been reduced to an unimportant little stream, and Night Hawk Lake has dropped until miles of its beach has been left dry and exposed. The High Falls are 42 feet above the lake level, and banded back the water, preventing it from running freely away from the height of land. The blasting away of ten feet at the falls has released the waters of Frederickhouse Lake until it went dry, and the waters of Night Hawk receded a mile and a quarter from the shore. It is said to be possible to walk along the bottom of Wilson Creek from the railway to Frederickhouse Lake. Whether the act of Father Paradis has had a serious or beneficial effect will be decided by the Government inspector.

A Free Trader.

The new member for North Essex, Oliver J. Wilcox, in his maiden speech in the House the other day, gave some interesting reminiscences of other days in that constituency. Among them was the story of Mr. McGregor, the Liberal candidate in 1896, who made his campaign on an absolute free trade policy. He called upon the people to rise in their might and drive thence the customs officers stationed along the Detroit River. The day after the Liberal victory of 1896 many of the electors who had listened to Mr. McGregor's free trade speeches and had probably voted for him, journeyed to Detroit and returned heavily laden with purchases. They flatly refused to pay a cent of duty. Their free trade cause had won, was their answer. To crown all this, the same Mr. McGregor was later himself appointed a customs official.

Welsh Man Arrested as Lunatic.

A Welsh immigrant who visited the immigration hall was arrested on a charge of insanity the other day. He was gesticulating wildly, and no one seemed to be able to understand him, or to make him understand them. It developed that he had been only trying to make himself understood in his native tongue.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

GRANDMA'S NEW YEAR'S CALLER

(By Helen H. Thomas, in the 'Christian Herald'.)

In her youth great preparations were always made for the first day of the year, especially as to one's attire. For New Year's greetings commenced in the morning and lasted until midnight, if one had an extensive acquaintance, as had Grandma.

So the woman who had long since left her youth behind her and who like most elderly people lived much in the past, did not take kindly to the change which the shifting years had brought, and usually said to her friends, as each year drew to a close:

"Remember, my latch-string is always clear on the first day of the year, if on no other; for I am an old-fashioned woman and always keep open house."

Because of that, and because of the warm place this sweet-faced Grandma held in the hearts of old and young alike, she was always given the opportunity to greet a portion of her friends at least, with "I wish you a happy New Year!" which she did with old-time grace, in spite of advancing years.

The story-teller rarely let slip the privilege accorded Grandma's friends. Being absent from the city, however one New Year's Day, she called at the earliest opportunity to extend greetings, and was met by:

"It isn't too late to wish you a happy New Year, dear, but I missed you!" "Oh, well," was the laughing rejoinder of the one who received the warm hand-clasp. "I fear you don't want to look a little wan, and now you must tell me who they were."

"She had one too many, and that is what ails her," remarked Grandma's care-taker, in a low tone, "but she'll tell you about him, for she talks of little else."

"Well, I had called same's usual," remarked Grandma in an absent-minded way, "that is for these days, but I'll have to think 'em up, I guess, for my first caller but every one else out of my mind."

Why, he must have been one of your admirers in the beautiful long ago about which you talk so much," was the laughing retort.

"That it was no laughing matter to Grandma, however, was evident, for she met the foregoer with a shake of the head, and, in a very serious tone said:

"No, no, dear, he was unlike any caller I ever had before, and I never can forget him, never!"

It was plain to be seen that Grandma, for once, was not in a mood to live over the days of Auld Lang Syne and, too, that she was eager to talk of what was uppermost in her mind: so her questioner settled back for the recital.

"Well, it was like this, dear," said the old lady, as she leaned forward in her customary story-telling attitude. "I couldn't sleep the last hours of the closing year, for I got to thinking over how the Lord had led me, and of all his goodness, until my heart was that full of eratitude that if it hadn't been for waking folks up I'd broke right out singing."

"You know I keep my old room down stairs, while the rest sleep on the second floor. They've tried to make me think it isn't safe, but I like to be alone so I can talk out loud without disturbing anybody."

"Well, when my clock told me that the New Year had come, I began to think how good my Lord was to spare my unprofitable life to see a New Year, and I sung right out, 'Praise the Lord!' And then I heard a noise like something had dropped, and I opened my eyes and saw someone at my bureau, but the light was so dim I thought at first some of the family was looking for something."

"Then I made out that it was a man and that he had his cap so drawn down over his face that I couldn't have made out who it was even if I'd known him."

"Why, Grandma!" was the startling exclamation; "you must have been nearly paralyzed with fear."

"Ah, but you forgot, dear, that I had just been so full of praise that there was no room left for fears of burglars, even. But I had my wits about me, though I tell you. Sometimes I think it was a miracle, too how much sharper they were than common."

"Anyhow, it all come over me like a flash, how, when I cried out, that man had been startled and dropped something and how he wasn't there for any good. Now, I was not a mite afraid of his hurting me, or of losing anything I had in my room; but I thought of the precious ones up stairs and I determined, God helping me, to get the burglar out of the house before he'd gone to the second floor."

"I always lie bolstered up in bed on account of my cough, so I didn't change my position any, but reached out my hand and said, 'Come here son, Grandma wants to talk to you.' And, would you believe it, he heaved his way up to the bed and let me take the hand hanging by his side, just as if he was a little boy and good at minding. He wasn't much but a boy either, it seemed to me. He came anyhow, and I wouldn't let go his hand but held it tightly as I said:

"When I was a girl I sometimes began to have New Year's callers pretty early, but you've beat the record, so you must excuse my not being ready to receive callers. But all the same, I wish you a happy New Year."

"Why, Grandma; to think of anyone as love shielded as you are, alone talking to a burglar like that! How could you?" cried the guest in a shocked tone.

"I don't know, dear: I am weak now whenever I think of the risk they all tell me I was running; but I had only one thing in mind then, and that was the safety of my loved ones, so I forgot my own, and I firmly believe I was given courage and wisdom to act wisely by the One who never sleeps."

"Then next I said, just as if I had been talking to my grandson, when he had gone wrong."

"But it hurts me, son, to have to tell you that my wishes can't make it a happy one if you go on like you've started out."

"He hung his head when I said that and acted so ashamed like that I said: 'But, somehow, I don't feel as if you were an old hand at slving into people's rooms, stranger. I think you are some mother's boy who got stranded in this big city, and I'm sorry for you Sav, now son, I know you don't want to look Grandma in the face, or let her hear the sound of your voice, but when she asks you questions just shake your head, or nod, and she will believe you. And now, is she not right in thinking that midnight calls like this are something new to you?'"

"Then my caller nodded his head, and at the same time I felt his hand tremble, which encouraged me to preach to him a little bit. I can't repeat all I said to him. I talked fast, I tell you, and the words just came to me then as they never will again. I'm thinking; but I know I pointed to the clock and told him how God had just given him a clean white page to write on, and I begged him to resolve that the first stain on it would be the last, and while I pleaded with him tears fell from the eyes I could not see."

"Then I thought how perhaps hunger led to his wrong doings, and so I put my hand under the mattress, after releasing it for the first time, and took out five dollars and offered it to him, saying:

"I feel that you are in a tight place and this may help you to start right." But he shook his head and continued to do until I told him that he might look upon it as a loan. At the same time I took my address from my pocket-book and gave it to him with the money, which was taken with evident reluctance. Then I sprang from the bed and grasping him by the hand again I said, with a nervous laugh: "I always like to see my callers to the door, and I must see you off."

"He required no urging, but started to go to the rear of the house where he entered, as we learned later, but I was so distressed for fear he wouldn't get out before he was heard, that I drew him to the side door near my room, and slipping the bolt let him out, saying: 'God bless you, son: my prayers will follow you.'"

"Well, there isn't much more to tell except—"

"Except that Grandma's nerve forsook her then," added her care-taker: "for after calling for help she collapsed entirely. At first we all thought she was suffering from the effects of a bad dream, but there was sufficient proof of the contrary, however, and I tell you she has been looked upon as a heroine ever since."

"You deserve to be, Grandma!" cried the one who had listened to the story for the first time. "Not one in a thousand would have acted as wisely as you did under such trying circumstances."

"But I give all the credit to One who has never failed me in any emergency," said Grandma, as she wiped away the fast falling tears. "And now you must know the sequel to my strange experience."

Saying that, the speaker drew from her pocket a letter and handed it to her caller—a well written letter which was both undated and unsigned, and read as follows:—

"Dear, Kind Grandma,—If I had the courage to face you I would try to tell you how much I owe you for making me see my wicked course that night; but as it is I will only return the money loaned and thank you from a full heart. Yes, I was hungry, and desperate, too! and you know the rest. But I had a grandma once whose idol I was, and when you cried 'Praise the Lord!'—which was so like her—I dropped the silver vase I was about to pocket and when I faced you I was as weak as a rag, your resemblance to my grandmother was so striking.

"Well, as the result of your kind advice, after breaking a long fast, I took the first train for home and mother. And here on the farm I am going to try and live the clean life you pictured. I told mother all about it, and she says 'Tell her I will try to thank her when we get over yonder!' I will, too, if I am ever worthy to be found in such company."

"At any rate I got a glimpse of heaven that night, and I can now better understand how God can forgive such sinners as I, when you so warmly clasped the hand of the one who had meant to rob you, and instead of calling me a thief, wished me a 'Happy New Year,' and called me 'Son.' May your God reward you, for I never can."

The foregoing letter was read through blinding tears, and when the reader finished she looked lovingly into the sweet face which had so appealed to the writer of it, but could only trust herself to say:

"That will surely be another star in your crown, Grandma."

A happy sigh alone broke the stillness for a little, and then the aged heroine evasively rejoined: "Now you can understand, dear, why I can talk only of my first New Year's caller."

BACK ACROSS THE OCEAN RATHER THAN MARRY DRUNKARD.

New York, Feb. 25.—A young English woman who was a second cabin passenger on the Umbria and traveling alone, told the immigration boarding inspector she expected to meet her betrothed at the pier and that they would be married immediately after landing if it was necessary under the immigration law.

The young man was on the pier in a befuddled condition. The young woman would not permit him to kiss her and told him flatly that she would never marry him. Then she went back aboard the ship, saying that she would return to England single rather than marry a drunkard.

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism is simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment. All that is needed to afford relief is the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. Give it a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the quick relief which it affords. Sold by all dealers.

Which do YOU buy, Mistress Housewife? Flour on a GUESS? Or Flour on a GUARANTEE? When you hand over the Hard-Earned—suppose you guessed wrong?

Madam, Stop Buying Your Flour on a Guess

Which do YOU buy, Mistress Housewife? Flour on a GUESS? Or Flour on a GUARANTEE? When you hand over the Hard-Earned—suppose you guessed wrong?

If you can purchase flour that is guaranteed positively, surely you will not buy a "guess" brand which leaves you no recourse in the event of dissatisfaction or loss of good material.

As a thrifty kitchen manager, Madam, YOU will buy FIVE ROSES flour every time—the only "money-back" flour where you take no chance since every sack is warranted. We know, Madam, FIVE ROSES will save you time, trouble, disappointment—ay, and MONEY, too.

We know what it is doing for thousands of happy housewives, in Canada, in England, in Scotland, even in South-Asia.

A household help for 21 years.

The label on every sack or barrel is your absolute guarantee, as redeemable as a signed statement, that the flour is RIGHT, the packing right, the baking right, the results right.

When we say FIVE ROSES is right, we mean it is all right. Not one pound, or two pounds at the top of the sack, but the whole sack, the entire barrel from the first cupful to the very last grain at the bottom.

Even if it takes you six months to reach the bottom, the guaranty still holds—the strongest guaranty ever given by any miller anywhere.

FIVE ROSES, Madam, will "make good" every time. Try it for bread, cakes, biscuits, puddings, pies, puffs—anything you like.

Use it down to half the sack. Then if you don't want the flour after that, your grocer will take it back and refund the full price charging you nothing for the flour used.

Surely, that's fair enough, isn't it?

Do you know, Madam, why the LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, a responsible and honorable concern backed by 21 years of "square" dealing, can give this binding pledge, which no other miller in Canada cares to give? Because FIVE ROSES doesn't need a guaranty.

Decide NOW, Madam, whether to continue buying on a GUESS—Or—Get FIVE ROSES which guarantees YOUR success every time.

Our town council have the matter of road construction to deal with this year. Wolfville has ordered an outfit of necessary machinery for road construction at a cost of $4000.00.

This includes a 10 ton Waterous steam traction roller, price $3000, and a No. 3 Canadian Good Roads portable crusher with elevator. "This outfit," says the Orchardist, "can be placed in the town, and rocks hauled and crushed at a small cost above the cost of the stone or set up at Deep Hollow or some other place where stone is at hand and the crushed article hauled and placed on the roads."

If Bridgetown concludes to follow the same system, doubtless some deal could be made with Wolfville by which both towns could use the same equipment.

The boy problem has been emphatically brought to the notice of our people during the past few weeks. It is stated that the habit of drunkenness among young boys is increasing at an alarming rate most of the liquor being obtained from the house of a woman whose arrest and escape is noted elsewhere and who has been dealing out poison to these boys in the shape of an intoxicating beer made by herself. The two young men out of their teens, whose escapade at burglary has cost them two of the best years of their lives in the confinement of a penitentiary, were said to have been in an intoxicated condition when they committed the crime, on liquor supplied them by this notorious woman, who was driven from the limits of the town proper some months ago after a term of imprisonment in the Annapolis jail. It is time our people awakened to the sense of danger that besets us through having our boys ruined soul and body.

The habit of viewing things cheerfully, and thinking about life hopefully, may be made to grow up in us like any other habit.—Smiles.

And now come a fish "Merger." In le every codfish and haddock in the course of a few years it is probably will be wearing a "trust" hat.

DEATH OF HOWARD L. NOWLIN.

Digby, March 1.—In the twenty-eighth year of his age Howard Nowlin passed away at his home here today.
He was a printer by trade, and previous to being stricken ill six months ago, held a responsible position in Boston. The deceased was possessed of a fine bass voice, and his vocal powers made him a valued member of several church choirs and musical organizations of Boston. He is survived by a father, mother and two sisters, Miss Alice at home and Miss Ada, of Truro, formerly of Kentville.
The father, Mr. W. H. Nowlin is foreman of the Digby Courier.

MR. GIPKINS EXPECTS GOOD TOURIST SEASON

E. G. G. G. of Kentville, N. S., general manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway arrived in the city today says a St. John exchange, and is at the Royal. He will leave this evening for Boston on a pleasure trip. Mr.
Gipkins said today that prospects for travel between this port and Nova Scotia looked very bright, and he thought there would be an increase.
He said there would be a slight change in the time table, now in vogue, in that the D. A. R. boats would leave here later in the morning than formerly.

Mr. G. G. said that there was no truth in the rumor that McKean & Mann were to take over their line no matter how persistently the report had spread. Speaking of the passenger service he said it would be about the same as usual.

Obituary.

MRS. JESSE B. GILES
After a brief illness from pneumonia
the death occurred, on Saturday morning last, of Mrs. Giles, wife of the Rev. J. B. Giles, superannuated Methodist minister and registrar of deeds for Annapolis County. Mrs.
Giles has for the past year carried on the business of her husband's office owing to his inability through illness he having suffered from paralytic shocks which have left him almost entirely helpless. This additional strain of care and anxiety doubtless enfeebled the naturally delicate constitution of Mrs. Giles, who thus succeeded readily to the attack of acute disease. Deep sympathy is felt for those who mourn the irreparable loss of the brave and tender wife and mother, whose unselfish efforts in behalf of those dependent upon her have been noted and appreciated by all,
and her demise is sincerely regretted.
Besides her husband Mrs. Giles is survived by two daughters and one son. The eldest, Miss Frieda is assistant in her father's office. The son, Rex, is just recovering from a critical attack of pneumonia and is now convalescing in the home of Dr. M. E.
Armstrong. The little daughter Edith is spending the winter with her mother's relatives in Bermuda. Mrs.
Giles' father, the Hon. Joseph N.
Hayward and two sisters are residing in St. George's, Bermuda, which was the home of her youth, while a brother is living in New York City.
The funeral will take place from the home this afternoon at half past three.

MRS. JAMES L. GILLIATT.
Mrs. James L. Gilliatt passed away on Thursday, March 3rd, after a few days illness. Mrs. Gilliatt was formerly Miss Jerusha Kinsman, of Upper Canada, Kins Co., and came to Granville to live about fifty-five years ago.
Had she lived until April she would have been ninety-four years of age.
For the last ten years she has been deprived of her sight, but during her affliction has never been known to murmur. She possessed a very amiable and loving disposition which won for her many friends. In her early life she united with the Presbyterian church in Upper Canada, and lived a consistent Christian life. She leaves an aged husband and one daughter, Mrs. George Armstrong, of Round Hill, one son, Walter, who pre-deceased her two years ago.—COM

Mrs. Henry Calnek is recovering from a severe attack of bronchitis.
Mr. and Mrs. LeBaron Troop entertained a few of their Thursday evening of last week.
Miss Mabel Troop has gone to Stanley, N. B., to resume her work as milliner, in that town.
A number of our residents have been on the sick list of late, viz. Mrs. Jos-Troop, Mrs. Reid Willett, Mrs. Albert Withers, Mrs. Norman Willett.

ing drive during the moonlight nights hospitably entertained by Rev. an'

Mrs. W. T. Snelling.

COLDS ARE CATCHING.

"The evidence that I have been able to sift," writes Dr. Seymour Taylor senior physician to the West London Hospital, "convince me that the specific organism obtains its entry to the system through the mucous membrane of the nose, or occasionally of the mouth. That is to say, the disease is air borne, and should it enter by the mouth it is through its inhalation with open mouth, and not by food. If this be granted, it is obvious that the sooner the public recognize that a cold is a catching, and also a preventable disease the better for the comfort, the health and happiness of the community. A cold is exactly 'catching'; and the sooner the public know, and the sooner our authorities act on this fact, the better it will be for the community. When a lady says to her friend, 'Do not come to our house at present,' she recognizes the infectious character of the disease, and she speaks sound prophylaxis. And where another says
'Do not come near me, for I have a bad cold,' she is," says Dr. Taylor
"equally wise in her precaution though the advice is not always followed. Yet I have no hesitation in saying, that, according to my experience, no one of the infectious diseases is more likely to spread in a house or in a community than is a 'cold.'"

Digby Doings

Digby, Feb. 28.—A merger of Digby's fresh and salt fish interests will come to a head if present signs count for anything. A big fish buyer of Montreal, A. H. Brittain, is here, and holding private conferences with the local wholesale fish firms. Upon his arrival by the St. John boat he was met by Howard Anderson and H. B.
Short, two of Digby's leading fish dealers. Everything is being kept quiet, but the public can surely look forward to something definite within a day or two. It is said Mr. Brittain is here in the interests of capitalists who have no connection whatever with the recently formed Collas-Whitman-Jones syndicate.

The three Scott Act cases in the police court today, one against a dry goods merchant, the second against a fish merchant, and the third against a fisherman, resulted in the conviction of the two former and the acquittal of the latter.

A steady downpour of rain for twenty-four hours flooded cellars, culched sidewalks and caused other damage.
The wind blew from the southwest with hurricane force, uprooting trees blowing down telephone and electric light wires. After repairing the Fairway buoy, off Digby Gut, the government steamer Stanley went to sea
this afternoon.

THE STRUGGLE WILL BEGIN AFTER EASTER.

When the British house of commons meets after Easter it will take up the struggling to revolutionize the British government system. Resolutions will be presented to deprive the house of lords of all authority over finances and also of the power of vetoing the measures of the lower house, leaving to the lords only the functions of delay and discussion. If the plan succeeds the government proposes next year to proceed with the transformation of the house of lords from an hereditary to a democratic body.
Such was the program the prime minister unfolded and he and Chancellor Lloyd-George declared that the government staked its existence upon it.

In the meantime the budget stands side-tracked. It is likely that when it is taken up it will combine the budgets of two years, shorn of the features objectionable to the Irish members.

DON'T PET NOR SNUB IN PUBLIC.

"The Drovers!" ejaculated a young man in response to a query as to whether he intended accepting an invitation given by mutual friends. "No, indeed I shan't go! I can't stand the way Mrs. D— slobbers over poor Dover and calls him by private net names in public. It makes a fellow feel so jolly uncomfortable to have to keep looking away all the time."

Another marital habit to be avoided even more assiduously than sickly public displays of affection is the 'snapping habit,' which comes as easily to some wives as to some breeds of turtles.

It isn't that they feel in the least irritable or resentful, or that there is any lack of real appreciation for the patient, tired man who has been taken for better or for worse, but it is that by quelling his jokes, stifling his anecdotes, and combatting his opinions, a certain position of feminine superiority is evidenced.

It is tantamount to saying: "Now this is the man I have married. Just see how I can do what I like with him I can treat him just as I please, and he is so devoted that he puts up with it without a murmur. He is my property; I am boss!"

Don't

- Don't promise in your advertising what you cannot fulfill.
- Don't promise the earth and deliver the moon.
- Don't draw men and women to your store on pretense and fail to make good. They will remember it after you have forgotten.
- Don't blame advertising for your failure if you do not do what you promise.
- Don't expect more OUT of advertising than there IS IN IT.
- Don't advertise for a week and because your store isn't crowded say advertising is no good.
- Don't expect to reap the harvest before the seed is well in the ground.

The Quebec Bridge

The Scientific American of February 12th discusses the Quebec bridge, about to be built for the Transconti-ental, in its leading editorial.

Its opinions respecting this great undertaking which is to cost when completed $17,000,000 are important coming as they do from as high an authority.

The Scientific American does not believe the bridge will be trustworthy when completed if a cantilever is decided upon. It has many other criticisms as well. So serious are they the government should certainly go very carefully before giving another contract.

The editorial which is long and exhaustive concludes as follows:—

"For the credit of the profession of bridge engineering in the New World;
for the prestige of the great and growing people of Canada; and above all,
for the safety of the public at large,
we trust that, before the final plans of this great bridge are adopted, the Canadian government will take steps to make it certain that the final bridge will, from every point of view, Engineering, Architectural and Artistic,
be the noblest work of its kind yet erected in any country."

Cheer up! Mud is the harbinger of spring.—Colliers.

Mr. Cameron has been connected with prominent firms in his line of business, being lately associated with A. O'Connor, in the ladies tailoring department, also previously with E. Maxwell & Sons.

Walter B. Scovil, a well-known commercial traveller, shot himself in the head, in his room in the Norfolk House, at New Glasgow, N. S., on Saturday night. He was dead when found. No cause for the act is given. He formerly lived in St. John, but of late years resided in Chatham, where his wife resides. They have no children.

The fourth and final of the series was to have been given by Rev. E. The rate of taxation for the town for the current year has been fixed at $1.95. There is an additional rate of fifty-eight cents on the hundred to apply to owners of real estate served by the new sewer system. This system extends from Hoyt's Hill to the Arbutau on Granville street, and includes Queen street and some of the cross streets between the limits mentioned. Also thirty cents on the hundred to apply on real estate liable to be taxed for the old sewer system.

Station were up before Judge Pelton at Annapolis yesterday and sentenced each to two years in penitentiary. At the same time Jas. Austin McLaughlin, a resident of the vicinity of Middleton, was tried for forgery of a promissory note and was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary.

Mr. Ritchie, the National Y.M.C.A. Boys' Secretary of Canada, and Mr. Hibbard the Maritime Boys Secretary were in town on Monday. It having been thought best to abandon the Bridgetown branch of the Association for lack of means, a Boy's Club was formed, comprised chiefly of the members of the former association, which which should be self-governing with a chosen leader and under the supervision of an advisory board. The Monitor is unable to give further particulars this week but will do so in a later issue.

Judgment was filed a few days ago by the Chief Justice in the cause of Wm. Troop vs. J. Norman Robinson, being an action brought by Mr. Troop to set aside two deeds made by the late Elizabeth R. Troop, of Cornwallis a few days before her death, to the defendant who was her cousin and one of her heirs. Subsequently Mr. Troop executed a release of part of his claim and as the defendant contended that the release extended to Mr. Troop's whole claim the action was brought for the balance of the claim. The Chief Justice finds in favor of Mr. Troop. Mr. F. L. Milner brought the action for Mr. Troop and Mr. H. H. Wickwire, K.C., of Kentville acted for Mr. Robinson.

Evidences of the illegal sale of liquor especially to minors resulted in a warrant being served on Mrs. Levinia Cuff, a colored woman living on the railway track just outside the town limits, a short distance below the railway station, for violation of the Canada Temperance Act. Mrs. Cuff was brought before Stipendiary Magistrate F. R. Fay on Monday last. Two witnesses were examined and they both swore they had purchased from her several bottles of beer which had made them intoxicated. A fine of fifty dollars or three months imprisonment was the sentence imposed by the magistrate. The woman took her departure by night and has not yet been located, though Constable Crais has traced her to Granville.

On arrival at Lawrencetown the Masons took charge of the services of interment.

On the strength of the subscriptions already in hand as given below, Mr. Hiltz has secured building materials and is ready to put in the foundations of the new building. Annapolis County has already reason to be proud of her institutions for the care of her unfortunate. The buildings are splendidly equipped and under capable and humane management. Indigestion Cured

This disease from which so many suffer gives the average physician a great deal of trouble. The best medical men have endorsed PSYCHINE, and recommended it in scores of the most obstinate cases. It has never failed in a single instance to give prompt relief. When directions have been followed, a few doses will remove that tightness and weight on the stomach. Taken regularly it positively cures General Distress, Flatulency, Nervousness, Coated Tongue, Heart Burn and Palpitation. If you have never used PSYCHINE, don't hesitate a moment longer. Try PSYCHINE to-day.

Mr. Arthur Tennison, 68 London Street, Toronto, says: "For six or seven years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia. Too much acidity of the stomach the doctors said, originated the troubles. I tried scores of remedies without avail. Eventually I used PSYCHINE and this brought immediate relief and cure."

NO HOME SHOULD BE WITHOUT PSYCHINE

It prevents the children taking cold, wards off that terrible malady, La Grippe, and completely fortifies them against disease. It should always be used for colds, weakness, loss of appetite, bronchitis and weak lungs.

For sale by all druggists and dealers, 50 cents and $1.00.

THE MYSTERY.

"Tain't me," says the farmer.
"Who's gettin' th' stuff."
"Tain't me," says the packer:
"I get just enough profit.
As far as can be."
And all of them chorus
Together "Tain't me."
"Tain't me," says the tanner.
"Who gets the high price.
For high shoes and low ones.
For slippers and ties."
"Tain't me," says the rancher
"I live and that's all."
"Tain't me," says the dealer:
"My profits are small."
"Tain't me," says the canner:
"My margin's the same."
"Tain't me," says the huckster.
"Who's bracin' the game."
"Tain't me," says the gardener:
"I'm poor all th' time."
"Tain't me," says the gardener:
"I ain't seen a dime."
It's surely a puzzle
To know where it goes:
No maker or seller
Or any of those

So they all agree:
And I'm a consumer
I'm certain "Tain't me."

WANTED ALL TO UNDERSTAND.

A tiny girl of seven gave a dinner-party the other day, for which twelve covers were laid, and that number of small maidens sat down to dine. It was a real little girl's dinner, and the hostess herself presided, sitting at the head of the table. She had been very anxious, in looking forward to it, to do everything as it should be done.

"Mamma," she asked, "shall we say grace?"
"No," said mamma, "it will be a very informal dinner, and I think you need not do that."
That meant one ceremony the less to go through, and was a relief. But the little lady was anxious to have all her guests understand it.

So, as they gathered about the table she explained:
"Mamma says that this is such an informal dinner that we need not have grace today."

William, a little country boy of six, was snowbound with his mother at the home of an aunt, twenty miles from his own home. The two, who had driven over in a sleigh just to spend the day, were forced to remain three nights and were supplied by the hostess with garments to sleep in. There being no small boys in his aunt's family William was put to bed in one of his little cousin Deborah's nightgown very indignant at having to wear anything with so many frills and lace trimmings around the neck and on the sleeves.

"I won't stand it, mummer," he loudly protested on the second night. "I won't wear anything so girly! I'll run away, you see if I don't, and perchance in a snowdrift before I'll put that thing on again. Why rather than wear that—that Valentine sightgown—I'll sleep raw!"—New York Times.

AROUND AND AROUND.

The Circle Railroad in London describes a circle whose diameter is about ten miles. In the car was an old and very obese lady, who expressed the utmost solicitude lest she be carried past her station. A passenger assured her that her station was half a mile away, and that he would tell her when they reached it.

"Thank you very much, sir," said the fat old lady, "but whenever I get out bein' as I'm so 'eavy, I backs out 'an I ain't more than 'arf way out afore along comes the guard an' 'e says: "Look lively, there, mum," says he, "look lively," an' 'e pushes me back in again, an' I've been around the circle three times this mornin'."—Circle Magazine.

WHERE IT STOPPED.

The story is rather against us, but one tells it for the sake of its wit. "How are you going to begin your leader tonight?" said one journalist to another. "Well, if I were writing a leader," was the reply, "I should begin by saying, 'The rot has stopped.'" "But," said the other man, "don't you think you had better keep that for the end?"—Westminster Gazette.

Ran Twenty Miles Without Tire

Halifax Night Express Stuck to Rails.

When it is considered that a broken tire caused the terrible wreck at Folleigh on Sunday night, in which three lives were lost the experience through which the passengers and crew of train No. 9, the night express from Halifax, passed on the preceding Friday night must be ranked with the most remarkable things which have taken place in the railroad history of the provinces.

For at least twenty miles the express ran with a driving wheel the tire of which had not been broken merely but had come off and disappeared entirely. Its condition was not discovered until Folleigh was reached. As the train was passing DeBert the driver felt a jar, but did not then know what the trouble was. That the train went on without leaving the rails is regarded by railroad men as nothing less than miraculous.

The results of the run-off would have been terrible, as the train passed through a country very similar to that where Sunday night's accident took place. In the stretch covered with the driving wheel tireless is the Londonderry bridge, a long structure over two hundred feet above the water.

Mystery No. 1 is as to how the train kept the track. Mystery No. 2 is as to how the tire came completely off the wheel and disappeared. A locomotive driving wheel is no toy. It is of steel three inches in thickness, six inches in width, and its circumference is that of a wheel as high as a man's head. Outside the wheel is the driving rod. No railroad man can understand how the tire could get past this without throwing the locomotive off the rails. There seems no chance for it to do so. Even if the tire broke in two places at once, it is hard to understand how it got clear. The fate of the train must have been decided in a very small fraction of a second. So far as railroad men in this section know the incident is unique in railroad annals.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD ROLLS.

Some women cannot understand why it is their bread is so dry. It is because the dough is not mixed properly. They have poured the flour into the liquid all in a heap and then attempted to stir the mixture. The result is that a part of the flour is not moistened at all and a stiff stringy mass of dough is produced with the use of much more flour than is necessary. The flour should be sifted slowly into the liquid and stirred constantly to insure a perfect hydration of every particle. Here is a recipe from which very palatable rolls and buns may be made. The ingredients are: two cups of milk, four teaspoons lard, butter or other fat, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons or more of sugar, one cake compressed yeast, and flour. Scald the milk and pour it over the butter. When luke warm, add the sugar, yeast and salt which has been dissolved in half a cupful of lukewarm water. Sift in the flour, beating constantly, until the dough is stiff enough to handle. Then on a floured board knead until smooth and elastic. Return to the bowl set in a warm place until the bulk is doubled. You then have the dough from which you can make finer rolls and hot cross buns. Never set your pans on the bottom of the oven. Place it on a shelf and allow the air to circulate under it. That will keep the bottom of the bread from cooking faster than the top and eventually burning.

Shiloh's Cure

The Montreal ice carnival was a fizzle. Even the weather conspired against it, and laid siege to the so-called ice palace with balmy springlike air, until it nearly fell down, it is too bad that it did not, so long as nobody was injured, because it would have been the very best kind of an advertisement for Canada. The winter this year has been so mild that it has been difficult to secure good ice for skating let alone to provide the material for ice palaces.

"Going Out of Style"

A writer in a Halifax Exchange says:—

Whiskey drinking is on the decrease in Halifax. The habit is rapidly going out of style. It was considered the correct thing a few years ago to visit the bar-rooms day and night. It is not so now. The drinking men are 'getting on to themselves,' and I have it at first hand that the bars—especially the leading ones—are being very poorly patronized. It is the result of no crusade, no denunciation of the liquor traffic. It is simply because the custom is dying out and the people find better use for their time and money.

The closing of the bar at an early hour and on Sundays has helped the drinking man. The closing of the bars on the holidays I have specified will help him still further.

The surest kind of prohibition is that which the individual adopts. When he says he will not permit whiskey to pass his lips, and when he sticks to that resolve, he is the best kind of a prohibitionist. Let us try and make a lot of them. The drinking man will stand any amount of curtailment of the traffic. The desire to get away from drink is in the air. Why not make the best of the opportunity?

I know my ideas will not meet with the approval of the so-called temperance agitator. They are for practical and not political use. The great drawback in the cause of temperance is the desire and endeavor to use it as a vote-catcher. They do no good, not even to the political party they are working for.

Give the tippler a chance to begin year right. Ask the legislature to amend the temperance act, and so close the bar-rooms on New Year's day, Christmas and Good Friday. The legislature will soon be in session. This is a point likely to be gained. It won't likely defeat the government but that is no reason why it should not be accomplished.

REFORMER

The Veteran Boarder

"As I look back," said the veteran boarder, "I find the one common complaint that everywhere crops out to be of cold plates and cold food. Here is something that every boarder's house keeper has quite within control but which is nevertheless commonly neglected. Many a boarder has been lost by serving to him cold food on cold plates. The boarder with or it may be without, reason may have been disgruntled about other things and yet may stay, but let him get a succession of cold dinners and some day he says at last: 'Well, I can't stand this any longer; I'm going to quit,' the cold plates and cold food being the last straw that breaks the camel's back. What is needed is grace in the kitchen; grace and thoughtfulness; grace to serve things in a way to make them attractive and pleasing to the eye and thoughtfulness to keep the food and the plates hot. I have always thought and I still think that if I kept a boarding house or a hotel and I had nothing but hasty pudding give my people to eat I would shape it in pretty moulds before I sent it to the table, and above all things I'd serve it hot and give them hot plates from which to eat it. I know you will agree with me that so served the simplest food would be far more pleasing to the palate and the fancy. Hot food and hot plates would promote peace and happiness and bring to many a boarding house prosperity."—New York Sun.

the Tea that satisfies

UNION BLEND TEA

YOUR DECISION IS FINAL

THERE is no appeal for me from your decision—Union Blend Tea has to stand or fall on your judgment. Yet, such absolute confidence have I that it is all I claim—that it is better than other teas, that I am not only willing but anxious to have my words put to the test. If you are disappointed, I can never expect you to buy again—but I'll take the risk. Won't you try a single pound—or even a half pound—if you prefer?

I DO wish I could make you realize with this advertisement what personal selection of fine, tender young tea sprouts—hill-grown, mind you,—means to the quality of Union Blend Tea. Then I would feel satisfied that the great expense and trouble entailed thereby was not in vain. Selected fresh at the very spot where they are grown, my expert blenders devote their entire time in producing what Canada delights in—UNION BLEND TEA—rich, fragrant and sustaining. With thirty years' practical tea experience I don't honestly know how UNION BLEND TEA could possibly be improved. And when Union Blend Tea comes to you, you get it with all the tea-ness in it—in a hermetically sealed packet that is proof against dampness and atmospheric changes. Look for my picture on the end of the packet— that's your guarantee of quality.

Make your own tea-cup convince you.

Plenty of Play for Children

It is startling to learn that town life under even the best conditions is apt to make children unstable in mind. Yet this is the conviction of Dr. T. S. Clouston, a noted Scottish alienist, whose remarks on the subject are reported by a British exchange. Dr. Clouston makes a plea for good food, plenty of fresh air and sunlight, and the fullest opportunities for play and exercise. No city or town or rural community for that matter is entitled to regard itself as modern which does not possess adequate playgrounds for the children. Dr. Clouston.

It is becoming more and more apparent that while we have little or no control over heredity we have everything to do with environment. We can make our mar the mental development of a child, may equip it physically to face the world and its work with ease or leave it a relatively miserable and incapable anaemic. The possibilities should be remembered, whenever the question of establishing, maintaining or acquiring playgrounds is made an issue. As the city grows the problem will become more difficult but so also are the people becoming more intelligent, less unintentionally brutal, more alive to the importance of economy in human life.

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all dealers.

KEEP THE SINK CLEAN.

Greasy sink's breed many things besides roaches. Tonsillitis, diphtheria and other diseases have been traced to unclean sinks. One cannot be too careful to keep every waste pipe in the house thoroughly clean. They should be scrubbed with a scalding water once a week, and if the habit is inculcated in the household it will soon become part of the daily routine. A pair of boiling water in which three pounds of washing soda have been dissolved will cut through almost anything that is apt to stop up a waste pipe and will carry away with it all impurities. Every kitchen sink should have its accompanying brush and scraper, and a careful servant leaves not one particle of grease or food in the sink when she has finished for the night.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are safe, sure and reliable and have been raised by thousands of women who have been restored to health through their gentle and curative properties. Sold by all dealers.

Acting upon rumors that have been circulating for some time respecting violation of the Game Law. Game Inspector C. O'Dell, of Annapolis Royal with L. D. Mitchell, of Mill Village, Game Warden, visited Sable River last Friday and arrested Tom Labrador and son, William, accused of killing seven moose in close season. The prisoners were taken to Shelburne and lodged in the jail there until trial tomorrow. Several others are suspected of a like offence, and are to be looked after.

GREENWOOD'S COURTESY.

Woman Journalist's Adventure With the Young Canadian M.P.

A former president of the Canadian Women's Press Club, who is widely known by her pen name, Mary Markwell, tells the following story:

"When I was in London a couple of years ago, the opening of the British Parliament seemed to be something I ought to see. Being the 'President' of the Canadian Women's Press Club, I considered it only necessary to send my 'official' card to the Lord High Chamberlain and forthwith receive a card of admission to peerage seats!

"I awaited this recognition of my own importance until two days before Parliament opened; the last mail brought me nothing—the official Source of Parliamentary favors had, probably, let his official pipe with my official card! Nevertheless, I began to realize how very big the British Parliament, and, incidentally, how very small the 'President of the Canadian Press,' etc., was. But the Canadian spirit dies hard—I wanted to witness this pageant of pageantry!

Then I remembered:

"Wasn't Mr. Hamar Greenwood a House member? More, wasn't he a Canadian? I sat down and wrote Mr. Greenwood the following note:

"Dear Mr. Greenwood—Parliament opens to-morrow. I am a Canadian woman in London. I want to see my King, and the Lord High Chamberlain—some-thing-or-other won't let me; can you help me? Signed M.M."

"That night I cried myself to sleep in my S. W. Kensington lodgings, feeling that this talk of the 'Imperial spirit' wanted some of its 'air' 'at home.' Or, rather, I was 'nobody'—why should the great Lord High Chamberlain recognize in poor me my great-grand-mama's right to Debreit? How I hated Lord High Chamberlains!

"Next morning dawned in a deluge of rain. Clad in wetting, I took the penny bus for No. 12 Charing Cross, where, day after day I was enlightening 'decayed gentlemen' on chances in Canada. I had given up all hope of seeing my King in his royal robes, and I had too much Canuck spunk left to go out in a rain-coat and 'gloshes' to see him passing by. I went to my desk and set about opening a Vesuvius of mail enquiries.

"Suddenly the office door swung open and in whirled a strikingly handsome man, silk hat in hand and swinging a gold-headed cane-umbrella.

"Are you Mary Markwell?"

"Yes."

"My name is Greenwood. I got your note yesterday, but I wasn't able to secure you a ticket of admission until about an hour ago; by happy chance I got it for you" (extending an official looking envelope).

"Oh, Mr. Greenwood (this in a despondent wail) haven't got a decent hat—it's miles to Kensington—and—and—(here the tears came), and it's after ten o'clock—and—Parliament—opens—at—eleven—a—m."

"I'll call a cab!" said the gentleman briskly; "get ready—whirl home and get your hat" (consulting his watch with tremendous gravity), "we're just forty minutes left, and you can make it if you try."

"Then Hamar Greenwood, British M.P., silk-hatted and dressed for the great function, stepped to the door, summoned a hansom, which whirled me to S. W. Kensington and back to the British House of Commons in time to see Edward VII. open Parliament in the year 1907."

Mary Markwell, in telling the story, adds: "The only time I ever felt like joining the 'votes-for-women' order, I would like to be able to vote for Hamar Greenwood!"

A Hero of Paardeberg.

Major J. Cooper Mason, son of Col. Mason of Toronto, B.A. of the Royal Grenadiers, was severely wounded the first day at Paardeberg (Feb. 18, 1900), and was awarded the D.S.O. in recognition of his services. In the earlier phases of the action he acted as the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, under Lieut.-Col. Aldworth, to reinforce the point in the firing line where he happened to be by causing the men under his command to open steady volley firing so as to cover the Cornwall's advance. When the charge took place he was one of a party of four officers who were near each other. Of these two, Lieut.-Col. Aldworth, of the Cornwall's, and the adjutant of the same regiment, met death, and the other two Lieut. Mason and Lieut. Money penny, of the Cornwall's, were wounded. Lieut. Money penny subsequently died of his wounds. That was perhaps the most desperate corner of the fight, and there the losses were the heaviest. One section of the Cornwall's lost eleven killed and ten wounded out of twenty-five men. After being hit, Lieut. Mason continued, as well as he was able, to direct the men who were near him. The point where he fell marked the extreme limit of the charge as a general advance. He was the last of the officers to fall and the furthest forward. Although seriously wounded, Lieut. Mason insisted upon joining his regiment at the earliest possible moment. In his report of Jan. 25, 1902, Lieut.-Col. Otter mentioned "The indomitable pluck of Lieut. Mason who, still suffering from a severe wound, forced his way to the front and took part in the battalion's last series of marches." I believe this is the only existing case of a man having father and son wounded on service in the militia of the Dominion.

Wily Talleyrand.

Louis XVIII, complimenting Talleyrand one day upon his abilities, asked him how he had contrived first to overturn the directory and finally Bonaparte.

The wily diplomat replied, with charming simplicity: "Really, sire, I have had nothing to do with this. There is something incredible about governments that neglect me."

A Shivery Jest.

"What does chivalry mean, Tommy?"

"Please, ma'am, it's when you feel cold."

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

MINISTER AND ZAM-BUK

Cured Him of a Bad Sore Which Defied All Other Remedies For Two Years.

Rev. Charles E. Stafford, of Bridgewater, Ont., says: "I have been much troubled for over two years with a sore on my left cheek. I tried all kinds of salves and lotions, but nothing I procured seemed to have the least bit of effect towards healing the sore. Hearing of Zam-Buk, I decided to give it a trial and see if it would bring about a cure, as so many other things had failed. I purchased a supply, and commenced with the treatment. After several applications, to my great joy, Zam-Buk has effected what for two years I tried in vain to bring about—a complete cure."

Case after case could be quoted, in which, as in above instance, Zam-Buk has worked cures when everything else tried had failed. There is reason for this. Away back in the days of Roman gladiators, secret balms were used for the healing of cuts and injuries sustained in the arena and in battle. Then came a period during which external balms were neglected, followed by a period in which all the salves and embrocations had Zam-Buk marks a new epoch. It is absolutely devoid of all animal fats, all mineral coloring matters, and is composed entirely of rich medical herbal extracts.

Skin diseases, such as eczema, ringworm, salt rheum, and prairie itch, are speedily overcome by it. For piles it is fine—easing the pain and inflammation, and hastening a cure. It also cures burns, scalds, cuts, ulcers, children's sores and eruptions, blood-poisoning, scratches, old wounds, varicose ulcers, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box, or post free, for price, from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Co-operation in Eggs

A Suggestion to Cheese and Butter Factory Patrons.

W. H. Olds, Vice-President of the Norfolk Fruit Growers' Association is of opinion that as satisfactory results would be obtained by applying the co-operative principle to the handling of poultry and eggs as have been obtained by the application of the same principle to fruit growing.

"Beginning in this direction said Mr. Olds, 'should be made in the dairy districts. Where cheese or butter factories are already established eggs could be collected daily by the same men who haul the milk or cream to the factories and these factories could be made shipping stations for eggs as well as for cheese or butter. The machinery is in existence; all that is required is a little extension of the organization already created."

There is no doubt producers, as well as customers, would profit by the application of the co-operative system in this way, as it would ensure the placing of the product in the hands of customers in better condition than now, while the uniformity in grading, as to both color and size, would secure better returns for the producer than are obtained at present. Incidentally losses by breakage in shipping would be greatly reduced by arranging for grading as to size. Where large and small eggs are in the same cases the covering is bound to be in some cases too tight, and in others to issue till it ends in a final victory.

Are you frequently hoarse? Do you have that annoying tickle in your throat? Does your cough annoy you at night, and do you raise mucus in the morning? Do you want relief? If so, take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you will be pleased. Sold by all dealers.

MUST FIGHT TO A FINISH.

Winston Churchill is quoted as saying that the fight against the House of Lords must be begun by the Liberals the moment the House of Commons meets and then pursued to the bitter end, however long the struggle may take. It may take years and several elections to defeat the Lords, but it must remain the dominant party issue till it ends in a final victory.

HARRY REID KNOWS

S. N. Weare, the druggist does not guarantee Parisian Saze to grow hair on every bald head, but if there is any life left in the roots of your hair, Parisian Saze will stimulate the hair bulbs and cause your hair to grow again. Here is one case. "I am now using the second bottle of your Parisian Saze, and can notice a new crop of hair appearing. I am glad to say it is a darker color than my hair was before I became bald." Harry Reid 10 Manhattan St., Rochester, N. Y.

Don't wait till you're bald before using Parisian Saze, use it now. Kill the dandruff germ and prevent baldness. S. N. Weare, the druggist, sells Parisian Saze at 50 cents a large bottle, and he guarantees it to cure dandruff, stops falling hair, and cures all diseases of the scalp, or money back. Parisian Saze is a delightfully invigorating hair dressing; it makes the hair soft, fluffy and beautiful.

CANADIAN TREASURES.

Montreal Home of D. R. McCord is an Aladdin's Cave.

There is probably only one private house in all Canada in which a fire would prove a national calamity, says a writer in The Toronto Globe. That house is in Montreal and it shelters the quietest, the most delightful, the most original, and the most interesting Canadian gentleman it has been my lot to meet. David Ross McCord is his name, and if you ask him his profession he will tell you he is Canada's only salmon-fly maker—which description requires a little explanation, especially as he happens to be entitled to put the letters M.A., B.C.L., and K.C. after his name.

He is not a salmon-fly maker in the sense in which good old Isaac Walton was. His salmon-fly—the term is his own—takes the form of begging letters of the most alluring description and of the highest literary polish. With these as his bait he is constantly getting the most exciting sport, and landing gorgeous and valuable quarry. Begun as a pastime, this sport has become a perfect passion with him—so much so that, although he is a King's Counsel, he will be no more known to posterity as a lawyer than Isaac Walton is known as the London linen-draper that he was.

Coming of a legal family of much distinction in the city of Montreal and the Province of Quebec, and being himself a man of unusual gifts, ready wit, and great culture, Mr. McCord could undoubtedly have piled up a big fortune if he had chosen to devote himself to the legal profession. But then "Pooh! what's money, after all?" That is what he says. His fortune, however, is his desire, so like Isaac Walton, he withdraws from the crowd of haunts of men, and takes wholeheartedly to "the excellent art of angling."

Unlike Isaac Walton, however, he does not distribute his time among his various interests, but he has landed during close upon half a century's ardent angling has been jealously seized and carried off home for preservation. As a result, his house has long since ceased to be a mere residence, and has become a museum, crammed with a collection of "catches" of extraordinary variety and value.

To put it plainly, Mr. McCord, who was born with the attributes of a historian, started out with the laudable desire of preserving for posterity the landmarks in Canadian history. Then he became seized with the collecting mania and gradually got possession—very largely by means of the aforesaid salmon-fly—of every possible thing of historical value on which his eyes ever rested. Now he aspires to get his collection housed in a public building, and officially called "The National Museum of Canada."

When he more, he says that, in Rooseveltian phrase, he will do it or bust. As his collection is one of great educational as well as monetary value, he wants it to be made available to as large a public as possible. Thus, he intends that its permanent home shall be in either Montreal or Toronto. Let it be given official standing as "The National Museum," and he will bestow it as a free gift on the city. He does not care which. First come, first served.

The house where this collection is at present stowed stands among the trees on the mountain slopes just off the Cote des Neiges road, in Montreal. It is an imposing structure, not unlike a Grecian temple in appearance, indeed, the resemblance was acknowledged by the owner in giving it the name of "Temple Grove."

When I called at Temple Grove a short time ago, the owner, a dapper little man in shirt-sleeves, with an alert, inquiring air, and an old look of youthfulness, despite his grey hair and beard, answered the door. The information that I had called to get I obtained in about ten minutes; yet it was close upon three hours before I got away—or wanted to. I was shown room after room crammed with historic treasures. Every cupboard in the place was filled with them; every table and every chair was piled up with them; every wall was hung with them. Something of value in connection with almost every great event in the history of Canada seemed to have found its way here. There were Indian relics innumerable, historical documents by the score, ancient costumes and armor, newspaper cuttings covering the best part of a century; portraits, pictures, autograph letters, rare old books, and so on by the hundred. To attempt to give even a partial list of this remarkable collection would be impossible.

She Can Sail Any Ship.

Mrs. Agnes J. Connell is the only woman in America who has papers permitting her to navigate a steamer of any class in any ocean. She is known all over the world, for a steamer is her only mode of travel. She has sailed everywhere with her husband, Capt. William J. Connell.

She was born in the Thousand Islands, and grew up with the youth whom she later married. For a while she stayed at home while he made voyages, but she soon tired of that, and for the past twenty-two years she has sailed with him.

As a result of her knowledge and experience in seamanship Mrs. Connell received her sailing master's certificate from the port of San Francisco in 1901. She is an accredited pilot for the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, and also holds a Government license, entitling her to navigate any kind of a craft in any waters. At any time she can relieve her husband, if necessary, handling the big 5,300-ton steamer with ease. On one occasion they ran into a spell of rough weather, accompanied by an almost impenetrable fog. After the captain had spent three days and two nights on the bridge without sleep she forced him to go below, and brought the ship into port herself.

THE LAST RESORT

When all else failed, the Doctors said, "try Fruit-a-tives"

And "Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Cadieux

PLANTAGENET, ONT., JANUARY 31st, 1910.

"About March 1st 1909, I was taken deathly sick with Stomach Trouble, Backache and General Breakdown. I failed from 125 pounds down to 80 pounds, was confined to bed for eight weeks, and was unable to eat or keep anything on my stomach, vomiting nearly all the time. I expected to die, and took many remedies as well as employing different physicians. The doctors said they could do nothing for me and, as a last resort, one of the doctors told me "to try Fruit-a-tives—if they would not cure me, nothing would."

MDE. LAURENT CADIEUX

My husband bought "Fruit-a-tives" from Mr. Arthur Kolcau, merchant of Plantagenet, and I started taking them at once, and inside of ten days, I was able to leave my bed. My stomach got strong and I could eat and retain my food. I gained rapidly and soon had my usual good health back again, and today I weigh as much as ever, 125 pounds.

MDE. LAURENT CADIEUX.

Even the doctors are recommending "Fruit-a-tives". They realize now that these wonderful fruit juice tablets will positively cure all Stomach Troubles, Indigestion and Dyspepsia—and they are using "Fruit-a-tives" in their practice.

Few people realize the vital importance of keeping their blood pure. Impure blood is the chief cause of Stomach Trouble, because it is from the blood that the stomach obtains the fluid which digests food. When the blood is laden with impurities, the dissolving fluid (or Gastric Juice) will be impure. These impurities may come from a congested liver, from Constipation, from weak kidneys, from an inactive skin, or from all four. Naturally, the ordinary "digestive powders" and "pepsin tablets" will not cure the trouble, because they only help to dissolve the food—they do not get to the seat of the trouble. "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest remedy ever discovered for all forms of indigestion, Dyspepsia and other Stomach Disorders, because "Fruit-a-tives" is unequalled as a blood-purifying medicine. "Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver, regulates the bowels, strengthens the kidneys, stimulates the skin, and thus rids the whole system of all impurities. "Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure you of any kind of indigestion. "Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. If you are unable to obtain "Fruit-a-tives" conveniently, do not accept substitutes but send to "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa and the regular size packages will be mailed you, postpaid, on receipt of price.

LAND OF THE CARIBOU

NEWFOUNDLAND IS THE PARADISE OF THE HUNTER.

Thousands of the Indians of the Islands Get Their Livelihood From the Pursuit of the Animal—American Sportsmen and the Fishermen Are His Two Greatest Enemies—Always a Needless Slaughter.

Famous among modern nimrods is the caribou hunting territory of Newfoundland. It furnishes food for thousands of Indians of that island and Labrador and sport for hundreds of hardy hunters, who like nothing better than "roughing it" for a few weeks in those parts.

The Newfoundland caribou is lighter in color than his relative further east and north in Canada, and his antlers are shorter and more massive. So numerous are these animals on the island that they are frequently hunted on the barren open hills.

Two annual dangers harass the caribou. In the late summer and fall hunters from all parts of the United States—of the eastern section, at least—are after them with guide and rifle. During February and March the great yearly slaughter by fishermen takes place.

At that season the fishermen find their stock of winter provisions running low, while the ice king still holds the waters in his relentless clasp. Food must be had, and so the people turn to the caribou herds for fresh supplies.

A great many more animals than are needed are killed at these periodical slaughters. The nearly starved beasts are poor at best, and frequently the hunter will kill one that is little more than skin and bones. These are left lying where they fall.

Then, too, the methods of killing are by no means sportsmanlike, and hundreds of caribou escape the hunters to die of their wounds in the forests. Firearms of the fishermen, as a rule, are ancient, being loaded with handfuls of buckshot, iron balls and slugs.

Not a clever marksman at best, the native gets as near a herd as possible, and lets fly one of these broadsides at the mass. When one animal is killed, several others may be badly wounded.

Withal, the caribou is more numerous in Newfoundland than in any territory of equal size in the world, perhaps. They have over 30,000 square miles of moss-strewn barrens for pasturage, wolves harry them but little, the Indians, formerly mighty hunters, are diminishing in numbers, and the climate is milder than in the same latitudes on the mainland.

Venturing into this land of game for the first time, the hunter will experience trouble in finding a good guide. Most of the natives are fishermen, knowing little and caring less for the art of hunting.

Their services may be had at a low figure, however—a dollar a day and supplies being the usual charges—and they are useful as packhorses. They will carry heavy loads day by day without objection and endure hardships without a murmur.

Before the novice starts for the Newfoundland wilds, he should pick up all the information he can regarding the habits of the game he is seeking.

He may have hunted the white-tail deer or even the moose with success, but lessons learned upon those trips are not sufficient in the caribou country.

During the sultry weather of summer deer and moose may be seen in the daytime along almost any wild stretch of water in New Brunswick, Maine or the Temagami Lake country. They seek the water in order to cool themselves and secure protection from the flies.

For a similar reason, the caribou of Newfoundland take to the dense spruce thickets in hot weather, coming out at dusk to spend much of the night browsing over the moss rocks. The hunter who waits until after August will have a better chance of getting his coveted pair of fine antlers.

It is almost useless in hot weather to attempt to hunt the caribou during the day. Many a novice has learned this to his cost, after tramping under the blazing sun for miles, day after day, without seeing a single stag.

So alert and wily are the animals that it is difficult to approach them at best. A caribou can scent a man at almost incredible distance, and once he catches the scent, he is promptly off for another locality. The hunter will have much better success if he patiently waits for the game to approach him.

As soon as the first rays of the dawn day fling their rosy fingers over the horizon, the hunter must be off to the likely places. At sunset he should take his stand where the signs are plentiful and await the coming of game. During the remaining hours he can lounge peacefully about camp or go fishing.

But even in camp the utmost precautions are necessary, if one does not wish to clear the vicinity of game. If a fire is lighted, it should be a very small one, for cooking only. The slightest alarm or the faintest scent of a man will serve to send the animals scurrying to distant hiding places.

Believe Girl Has Evil Spirit. Word comes from New Zealand, a remote settlement in Eastern Prince Edward Island of a demand by the simple farmer and fisher-folk that Father Walker of Rollo Bay dispossess a young woman of an evil spirit. Her name is Chenec, and she is 23 years of age. Her parents are dead, and she has been keeping house for a brother. When he announced his intention of getting married, she declared she's as soon have a devil in the house, and her subsequent demeanor has convinced her neighbors that she should be exorcised by the church.
