Unusual and Deeply Impressive Ceremony in Holy Trinity Church—Presentation to Very Rev. Mgr. J. J. Walsh.

A very interesting and impressive ceremony took place last evening in Holy Trinity Church, when the pastor, Very Rev. Monsignor J. J. Walsh, was invested with the Domestic Prelacy of Home by His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc. His parishioners took the opportunity of reading to him a congratulatory address and presenting to him a well-filled purse. Vespers and the rosary were conducted by Rev. Simon Oram and, after preaching an inspiring sermon, Very Rev. Mgr. Walsh, robed in his mantelletta, celebrated the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

In the presence of a large number of the parishioners of Holy Trinity parish His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc, upon entering the sanctuary, handed the pastoral brief to Monsignor Walsh, and, addressing the congregation, he referred to the fact that only those who had performed deserving services received this great honor and that he wanted to give public testimony to the fact that Monsignor Walsh had rendered very considerable services to the church and to him, personally, especially in his early days as Bishop of St. John diocese, both by his sound advice and by his intimate knowledge of the canons of the church government. The honor had also been bestowed in recognition of his profound theological attainments. He said that he joined with the people of the congregation in congratulating the new monsignor and he concluded by expressing the hope that he would be with them for many years.

them and congratulated him upon the honor which His Holiness had seen fit to confer upon him. After the address Mr. Ramsay presented to Monsignor Walsh a well-filled purse, the gift of his parishioners. Monsignor Walsh then ascended the altar and thanked His Lordship for having recommended him for this new dignity and the people for their expression of kindly sentiments and the accompanying gift. He went on to say that the bishop had decreed the institution in the parish of the Society of the Blessed Sacrament and then he proceeded to preach a short but eloquent and profound sermon on the Blessed Sacrament.

This was followed by the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, celebrated by Very Rev. Monsignor Walsh in the presence of the bishop.

What appears to have been a shrine of the prehistoric people of New Mexico has lately been discovered and is now being explored by a party from the American Museum of Natural History. It is a sealed room in the Pueblo ruin at Aztec, New Mexico.

Dr. Clark Wissler, curator of the Museum's department of anthropology, makes this report on the discovery: "The room is in perfect condition. The interior is plastered and painted in a brilliant white with dull red side borders and a running series of triangular designs. No room approaching this in beauty and perfection has ever been discovered in America. There are several adjoining rooms that seem to have some relation to this, but it will be some time before they can be dug out."

"Our excavations have revealed one or part of the east and north sides were swept by fire. The ceilings were of wood, supported by great logs of cedar and spruce, overlaid by split cedar and bark. These fell down upon each other and lay in the lower rooms in great charred masses. We found the bodies of several unfortunates caught in the rooms."

THE DREAD PYORRHEA BEGINS WITH BLEEDING GUMS

Pyorrhoea's infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proven this. Disposed conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhoea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhoea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhoea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhoea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhoea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

ELPHANTS APPOINTED OFFICIAL EXECUTIONERS.

(London Answers.) The first instance of an elephant being brought to the west was in the year 807, when the Caliph Haroun al Rashid well known to Charlemagne. It was not until 1265, however, that this well known and majestic animal came to England, and it was in that year that the King of France made King Henry III a gift of one ten years of age. It arrived at Sandwich, and was then taken to the Tower of London, where, by the king's command, a house had been built for it. Ten feet high to the top of its back. England's first elephant lived to the age of forty-one years. Its keeper was John Goach.

An elephant's skin is generally of a deep ash-brown, but sometimes it is white or cream-colored. The latter variety is very valuable and highly prized, being one of the attributes of royalty in Siam. One of the titles of the King of Siam, by the way, is "Lord of the White Elephant."

Whilst on the subject, it is interesting to note that in many parts of India elephants have been appointed official executioners of justice. They will break the limbs of a criminal, trample him to death, or pierce him with their tusks, according to their master's instructions.

THE ALLIES AND GERMANY.

At least one American newspaper, the New York Evening Post, is impressed by the unity which characterizes Britain, France and Italy in their dealings with Germany, and regrets that the United States is not with them in the task of ensuring the fruits of victory for the world.

The Post recognizes that the three Allied countries have interests that are identical, and that they may sometimes clash, but points out that in seeking opportunity to play upon these the Germans have greatly erred; for their action has produced exactly the opposite result. With every ally the Allies may have that do not fully harmonize, they are at one so far as the treaty with Germany is concerned, and any attempt by the latter to evade the terms of the treaty brings united action on their part. They are all determined that Germany shall fulfill the terms of the treaty. To yield at one point would result in a demand for further modifications. The Allies are willing to help to finance Germany, and give her the most latitude consistent with a fair acceptance of her obligations, but they do not forget the war and all it meant to them and the world. Hence on vital matters regarding the treaty they stand firm, just as they do with Turkey, which would like to avoid an acceptance of the Allied terms. The Evening Post rightly says that the whole world is interested in what the Allies are doing, and that their united front is the only hope of better conditions in Europe. Of the attitude of the United States the Post says—

Improvement. Carranza has gone, but Villa remains, and many another would-be autocrat who cares nothing for the lives and the happiness of the people.

In a recent address in Guelf, Hon. Manning Deberry said—"I make the statement without fear of contradiction that food production is the greatest problem of the world today. Soil fertility is fundamental to food production. It is of greatest importance, since it lies at the foundation of success in all branches of agriculture. It will be the duty of the department of agriculture to see that our production per acre is increased in every way possible. With this duty will be coupled the bringing in of more people to increase the rural population, and the adjustment of present farm conditions in Canada so as to make them sufficiently acceptable to retain the boy on the farm."

The two hydro-planes which left Halifax on Saturday arrived without mishap at Lake St. John. Journeying by the air route becomes more and more a commonplace in populous centres, and less and less a novelty everywhere. Those who saw the first of the two planes fly over the city on Saturday, at considerable height and travelling fast, felt no thrill of fear for the aviators, but rather envied the experience. Today's despatches announce that an airplane landing place will be constructed on the roof of the Hotel Aston.

For quite a number of years St. John had no Saturday attractions for the people, but now, with playgrounds available, the citizen may choose which ball game or other sport he or she will enjoy without going out of town. By next year we will be attracting people from other places to witness sporting events here. A good sporting town is a live town.

Mr. Walter Runciman tells the English people they must change their habits and practice greater economy. The like is true in other countries, Canada included. There is too much waste and extravagance, and if it continues the people will have to pay the score in a period of hard times to come.

In view of the recent plebiscite, relentless war on the bootleggers should be waged, and if more officers are needed they should be provided. Conditions must be improved. It is idle to assert that the most active violators of the law cannot be discovered.

The death of the youngest son by suicide deepens the gloom that envelops the wretched William Hohenzollern and the ex-empress in their place of exile. The lingering torture of their present life is relieved by no moment of cheer. The souls of the gods are grinding and they grind exceedingly fine.

The citizens today are invited to consider the dimensions and outward appearance of the proposed modern hotel. Such a building would be of immense benefit to the city. The Commercial Club set out to achieve this result and now success is within reach.

New Brunswick athletes did not get a first place at the Olympic trials on Saturday, but they made a good showing. With the reviving interest in athletics here we shall presently develop some surprises for competitors.

"Highly satisfactory" are the crop reports from the west. Which means more export traffic through St. John next winter. Will any more berries be made available on the east side for grain vessels?

An increase in Canada's trade of $186,000,000 in three months is an indication of improvement in the trade situation. Today's despatch does not say, however, how much of the increase is in export business.

The threat of the Allies to drive the Turks from Europe may bring them to terms. They have till July 27 to sign the peace treaty.

It is said that frantic buying has something to do with keeping up the price of coal in the United States. That rule applies to many articles besides coal.

The hope of victory for Shamrock IV in the great cup race seems to have gone glimmering. If she wins it will be unexpected that will happen.

The daily record of murders in Ireland is very unpleasant reading. Peace and good-will cannot be gained by that route.

DEMPSEY DOES NOT DRAW COLOR LINE

New York, July 19—Jack Dempsey is not averse to fighting a negro boxer, according to an announcement here by the International Sporting Club. In reversing his attitude on the color line, the champion said he is ready to make a match with Harry Wills, who is scheduled to meet Fred Fulton on the Newark Sportsman's Club here Monday.

BLESSINGS.

I have so many blessings I cannot count them all, and Fortune's soft caresses upon me daily fall; the sun is busy shining, all clouds have silver lining; yet I find time for whining and putting up a brawl. It takes a lot of hunting to find a good excuse for waving crumpled bunting and weeping like the duce; but I am most persistent; though sorrow may be distant and almost non-existent I'll rope it with a noose. I've all my guff could wish for, I've health and riches, too; the fance I used to fish for now spreads to far Waboo; done are the strife and straining, sweet boons are on me raining; and still I sit complaining, and rise a howling. My car is out of kilter, it seems to lack the power; the milkman ought to filter his juice—it's turning sour; the man who sells me berries and pie, and pink canaries—his system never varies, he sings me every hour. For these and other reasons I sob beside the sea, although, throughout the seasons, the gods are good to me; their gifts they are bestowing, their goodness ever growing; and still my tears flow: I woeen, "Oh, hully chiee!"

NIGHT.

When twilight comes, and misty shadows fall, All lighted by the sunset's shining gold; When birds go fitting through the mystic world, Singing Day's farewell; when young and old Rest from their toil, in tranquil happiness, And all the sorrow, all the pain and strife Die with the day, and all seems sweet and good, And roves heretic and false in all this life, Then comes the Night from peaceful slumbers deep, And robes heretic in dark and lustrous blue; No dress has e'er been seen by mortal eye Of such a sheen and such enchanting hues; Then on her tresses dark a crown is placed Of moonbeams, shining, beautiful and bright; From full-grown moons, that once o'er rolling seas And Oriental sands had shed their light; Then round her throat of perfect, swanlike shape She puts a necklace, with each jewel fine, A gleaming star, plucked from a tropic sky;

A MIGHTY SAILOR DEAD.

(Toronto Globe.) Lord Fisher was one of the most vivid, picturesque and powerful figures in contemporary Britain. No other sailor since Nelson has left so deep an impression on the British navy. His career had every element of sea romance but the actual command of a fleet in his great engagement. He owed nothing to birth, fortune or favor. By sheer ability and courage he rose to the top of the profession through the top through difficulties of which he has left a pungent record. Life in the navy was as hard as Fisher's early days, but he had not a spirit that could be broken or tamed by hardship. His roughest and his most poignant moments came in the great war. At seventy-three years of age he emerged from retirement to direct as first sea lord the mighty machine which he had literally fashioned with his own hands, in the most gigantic conflict in history. A few months later he had to relinquish command because of a collision with the first lord of the admiralty, Mr. Churchill, a man as tempestuous as the first sea lord himself. In his "Memories" Lord Fisher has testified to his grief, but he did not sulks and the admiralty continued to be the benefit of his unrivalled experience.

A TERRIBLE TOLL.

(Montreal Herald.) In the month of June nearly one hundred persons were killed by autos in the city of New York and in the state. This has led to a declaration that America is motor-mad. Be that as it may the automobile is a fixture. It is here to stay, and is worth some of the risks which it entails. It represents undeniable progress. What the public has a right to expect is observance of traffic and speed laws, made to restrain incompetent, reckless or selfish drivers. At the same time an automobile is not as safe unless some speed is got out of it. It has been noticed in Montreal, in some instances, that the pedestrian himself is incautious and will suddenly step from the curb to cross the street in the middle of the block without taking the precaution to look for oncoming cars. This is not fair to the driver who is anxious to avoid accidents. The careful automobilist, respecting the rights of others, will support the enforcement of such regulations as are necessary to ensure the safety of the pedestrian.

DIGGING UP ONE'S PARENTS.

(Boston Herald.) A writer in Queen's Quarterly, a Canadian magazine, asks how far an author is justified in making use of characters really identifiable in real life. He offers the practice of Dickens, whose Mrs. Nickleby was drawn from his mother, and whose father gave him the idea of two widely differing persons—Mr. Micawber and William Dorrit. The writer also refers to Leigh Hunt as the original of Harold Skimpole. He might have gone farther in the Dickens gallery. Merdle was John Sadler, who, having committed frauds on a huge scale, poisoned himself. Georgiana Hayman was Mrs. Cooper suggested Little Dorrit. Mrs. Hayman's brother was the original of Tiby Tim, and was Paul's foster mother. Squeers in real life was one Shaw, a Yorkshire schoolmaster. Flora Finching was not unlike a woman of whom Dickens was enamored for a time. Copperfield's child wife is said to have been the wife of Dickens. Walter Savage Landor is introduced in "Bleak House" as the blustering squire. In all probability Dickens did not merely photograph his characters; he made composite photographs with touches of his own exuberant fancy.

CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM.

One of the leaders of British Methodism, Dr. Stifford, in what the Methodist Recorder (London) calls a most remarkable lecture, recently outlined his denomination's after-war message. An interesting point was his admission that there is a place today in society for the Christian Socialist who seeks "not the spoliation of one class at the expense of another, but the uplift of all classes." The speaker's outline of what he thought a Christian Socialist programme could be summarized by the Methodist Recorder as follows:

1. Place a reasonable limit to profits on goods and let the surplus be divided equally between the worker and the state.
2. Let peers and merchant princes be content with one town house and one country house.
3. Let corporations concentrate on the slums and rookeries of our large cities, which are such a disgrace to civilization.
4. Let every worker have a living wage and having such let him be without content.
5. Let every teacher be adequately remunerated.
6. If ministers are worth their salt let them be treated at least as well as the miners.

FIRE DAMAGES SUSSEX CHURCH

Sussex, N. B., July 16—Fire broke out in the Roman Catholic church, Church Avenue, about 9 o'clock this afternoon, caused by lighted candles falling from the chandeliers. A ring from box 83 brought the fire department out and it had a hard fight before the flames were extinguished. The damage was in the vicinity of a thousand dollars, covered by insurance.

It is a novelist who caricatures his parents for the sake of amusing pages and the profit that may accrue less barbarous? "The best proof of the success of the war, and the remarkable extent to which Canadian banking systems," says an American banker quoted in the Tellerhouse-organ of the Sterling Bank of Canada "has been possible in Canada to control the processes of abnormal credit expansion that have recently been working the way it has stood the stress of inflation such havoc in other countries."

Dates for By-Elections May Not Be Announced Before End of the Month

Ottawa, July 19.—While the necessary arrangements are being made for the federal by-elections in Colchester and St. John's owing to the illness of Messrs. McCree and Ferguson, the cabinet has not yet been issued and may not be for several days. It is quite possible that the dates may not be announced until after the Nova Scotia provincial elections which occur on July 27.

Besides the premier only a few members of the cabinet are in Ottawa at present, several of the ministers being absent on holidays or official trips. Hon. J. A. Calder expects to go to Europe in a few weeks and will devote himself while there to a reorganization of the immigration service. Since the war little has been done on the other side except to inspect imperial soldiers proposing to settle on the land in Canada and also the organization of parties of domestic servants. There is a new immigration act which prescribes new standards and makes for a more careful selection of immigrants in future. During the war no propaganda was carried on because it was felt that the Allies needed all their man power while, since the armistice, the principle concern has been over the problem of repatriation. Now that conditions are getting back to normal, efforts will be made to stimulate immigration within the provisions of the act, and particularly to induce the coming of settlers with the means and knowledge for farming and also to serve as farm or domestic help. The new regulations make it necessary that any immigrant shall be possessed of sufficient money to tide him over any period of stringency. It is believed, also, that coming years will see the immigration to Canada of thousands of people of moderate fixed incomes which are not sufficient to maintain the social scale they were formerly accustomed to. This condition is said to obtain extensively not only in England and Scotland but also in France and Belgium. Many of these classes, it is expected, will come to Canada along with army officers. The minister of immigration will investigate the situation generally and also reorganize the various immigration offices.

LEGISLATION FOR THE CONTROL OF FISH PACKING

New Regulations Come Into Effect on the Atlantic Coast, April 1, 1921.—Powers of Inspectors.

Ottawa, July 18.—Legislation passed at the recent session of parliament in the form of amendments to the Fish Inspection Act, making it compulsory to pack, grade and mark fish according to standard, is expected to result in considerable benefit to the trade. Such legislation had been sought in many quarters of the fishing industry for many years. Its urgency is brought home by the fact that Canadian pickled fish is not of as high a standard as the product of other countries less fortunately equipped and this has adversely affected the industry.

The new act becomes operative on the Pacific coast, on November 1, next while on the Atlantic coast it will be April 1, 1921, before it becomes effective. Following these details, an inspecting officer will have power to enter any premises, vessel, or boat where he has reason to believe there are containers, or fish, subject to the provisions of the act, packing and curing houses will also be subject to inspection. Containers packed with fish which do not meet with requirements, it is provided, shall be held by the inspector until the name of the maker is ascertained and properly affixed; and at the same time, the maker is held liable to a penalty.

The outstanding feature of the new law is that it makes compulsory the putting up of pickled herring, alewives, mackerel and salmon, other than mild-cured, according to provisions laid down as to packing, grading, standard of container and inspection. The original act of 1914 made such provisions optional.

CANADA'S TRADE SHOWS BETTER THAN LAST YEAR

Ottawa, July 18.—A betterment of approximately $138,000,000 in the trade of the Dominion for the first three months of the fiscal year as compared with the same period last year is shown in the first monthly trade statement authorized by Hon. R. W. Wigmore, the newly installed minister of customs. The statement which is for the month of June shows a total trade up to June 30, of $291,087,460. For June alone the trade total reached $248,197,288, or over $71,000,000 in excess of June 1919.

Despite the big increase there was a falling off in exports of domestic goods for the three months, these representing a value of $207,286,759. From April to June, last year goods sent out of the

CROP REPORTS FROM CALGARY ARE FAVORABLE

Calgary, July 18.—The Fifth Alberta crop report, of the Calgary Herald, describing conditions existing today says in part:

"Reports received from special correspondents in a large number of centers in Alberta all point to continued satisfactory crop prospects. In some cases, it is said, that the present appearance of wheat and oats, as well as other cereals and grasses, is the best for years.

"There is not at the present time any dearth of labor, but there is prospect of a shortage at harvest time."

BANK OF ENGLAND COULD BREW AND SELL BEER

London, July 18.—The Bank of England, which there is talk of rebuilding, counts among its distinctions the rather strange one of being the only unlicensed premises in London with the right to brew and sell beer. This privilege was allowed the bank by the charter of incorporation in 1694, presumably with a view to the needs of the staff, but if they wished the directors could open a public bar on their premises now.

Beside her parents, she is survived by three brothers, Robert, Murray and Gregory, and two sisters, Helen and Constance. On the first charge Walter Wall, said that the glasses had been entered through an upstairs window and a pair of field glasses and flash light taken. Mr. Wall said the goods produced in court were similar to those missing. The case was postponed until Wednesday morning for other witnesses. Eight men charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and were remanded.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

The Junior Boys' camp held this year at Chipman June 25 to July 12, was considered the most successful camp ever held in connection with the local Y. M. C. A. Thirty-five boys were in attendance, two were from Hampton, five from Upper Keweenaw, and the remainder from the city. The camp was in charge of Capt. S. B. Stokes, assisted by Herbert Norton and Robert Cochrane. An excellent programme was carried out, consisting of baseball and volley-ball leagues, observation hikes, instruction in all branches of camp craft, first aid, and a course of Bible study on "The Boyhood of the Old Testament." Sunday morning services were held with sing-songs in the evening around a camp-fire. The camp-fire programmes were held when weather permitted, consisting of storytelling, night, joke night, stunt night and a very successful taffy-pull and other treats given by the president of the association. Yasper service was held on one evening. The camp was divided into three tribes, Micmacs, Iroquois and Chipewas. Night raids were common, the camp being divided against itself and unable to stand.

POTATOES BROUGHT NINE CENTS A POUND

New Record for Old Stock at Indiantown - Notes Along the River.

Capt. Flewelling of the river steamer Oconee had three bags of old potatoes to sell for an up river farmer on Saturday morning at Indiantown.

"How much?" queried a dealer. "Nine cents a pound," said the captain. "I'll take them," said the dealer, and the deal was closed. It worked out at the rate of $14.45 a barrel. The captain still wonders how much more he might have asked and received.

This is a record price for potatoes at the steamer. About three years ago Captain Flewelling sold the last of the season's river potatoes at 85 per barrel and that was regarded as a phenomenal price. The Oconee was crowded with passengers on Saturday afternoon. At every place where they disembarked large numbers of city people in summer costume of bright and varied colors awaited them. The river flag was dotted here and there with motor boats, yachts, rowboats and canoes. At Belyea's Point a very stout citizen in bathing costume, rowing some children in a boat, and revealing masses of muscle that would be the envy of a prize-fighter, was enthusiastically greeted by acquaintances on the steamer. A solitary girl in a canoe at Walter's Landing lay out in the stream waiting for the exhibiting experience of being tossed by the waves in the steamer's wake. Here and there white figures stroled along the shore or children were seen bathing on pretty beaches. Following the Oconee the Dream had also a good list of passengers. The Saturday afternoon trips of the Dream up the river are successful to Perry's Point are a great convenience to people living along the route as well as to city folk who want a pleasant excursion. There was considerable freight for Moss Glen and Perry's Point on Saturday. There is now an Indian encampment near Public Landing. The Indians have two large tents near the shore, and have a motor boat as well as a canoe. They are moving from point to point along the river, and pitched their tents at the landing on Friday.

Wild raspberries are now to be had for the picking. Picking has begun. The grass-hats thickened up wonderfully in the last two weeks. New potatoes and peas are to be had from the gardens. There were dances as usual on Saturday evening at the Landing and Belyea's and the managers of Wednesday night at the Landing promises to be very enjoyable. The river yesterday was dotted with motor boats, while quite a number of yachts were out with a fine sailing breeze. A continuous procession of cars swept along the highway throughout the day.

HAPPY CADETS AWAY TO CAMP

A very jolly party of about 200 lads comprising the various cadet corps of the city left by special train at eleven o'clock this morning for Sussex where they will remain in camp until Saturday, returning to the city Saturday night. The following corps were represented: Alexandra school, Winter street school, King Edward school, St. Michael's school, King George school, St. Peter's school, High School, West St. John, St. Andrews school and Knox church. The camp will include corps from other parts of the province, the boys from the western end of the province coming at noon and proceeding to Sussex on this afternoon's train. At the request of the military authorities a Y. M. C. A. hut will be maintained on the grounds in charge of Raymond Pendleton and Herbert Morton. There will be baseball and volleyball leagues and evening sports such as the hundred yards dash, high and broad jumps and throwing for distance. Moving pictures will be given in the evenings in the Y. M. C. A. hut and it is planned to put on at least one local talent concert. Writing materials will be supplied as well as magazines and indoor games have been arranged in the event of wet weather. The boys "fell in" outside the station at 10:15 and after roll call boarded the train singing and cheering. Their special train consisted of a baggage car, five passenger cars and a van. About eleven o'clock the train pulled out bearing its freight of irresponsible youth with the holiday spirit running riot in their veins. For the information of parents it might be added that there is both a Catholic and a Protestant chaplain in the camp as well as a medical staff to care for the welfare of the lads.

WAS NO RACE ON SATURDAY IN CUP CONTEST

Sandy Hook, N. J., July 18.—Expiration of the sailing time limit saved the Lipton challenger Shamrock IV from apparent defeat at the hands of the cup defender Resolute, in the second meeting yesterday of the 1920 regatta for the America's cup.

The defender had put more than a half hour's sailing between her and the challenger and was breathing home under main sail, club topsail and balloon jib when the race was formally declared off at 12:25 o'clock.

Under the rules, the thirty mile triangular course had to be covered within six hours by the leading yacht to make it a race. The time limit would not be reached until 1:46:28, but a little more than 20 minutes before that hour Resolute still had nearly eight miles to go.

Shamrock reached the mark half an hour later, and her tug immediately took her to town. The yachts will meet again on Tuesday over another triangular course.

A HOHENZOLLERN SUICIDES WHILE AT POTSDAM

Berlin, July 14.—Prince Joachim, of Hohenzollern, youngest son of former Emperor William, committed suicide today at Potsdam.

Later advice says Prince Joachim shot himself Saturday in his residence, the Villa Legation, Potsdam. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he died a few hours later.

The only member of the former Imperial family now in Potsdam is Eitel, Frederick, the former Emperor's second son.

Among the areas to be investigated in these surveys will be Chip Water, between Edson and Ennisville; Big Lake, near St. Albert; Low Water Lake, south of Wabamun; Cypriat west of Red Deer. These are classed as unajar schemes, and there are small schemes as well.

WOMEN HAVE NOT CHANGED

(New York Evening Post.)
As archaeologists dig up more and more information about women from the clay records of ancient Babylonia and Sumeria-Akkadia women of today are more and more portrayed as the similarity between pre-Biblical and modern women and at the progress of the feminine contingency in the countries of 3700 B. C.
We are inclined to look upon these females as votaries, giving up their lives to strange rites in the temples of the land or as slaves, really or figuratively, chased in the slave market. It is true that many Babylonian ladies consecrated their lives to the service of their gods, and it was a very splendid thing, one done usually by women of high birth, and marriage was bought about by purchase. But it was not as bad as it sounds.
Women three and four thousand years before Christ had attained a high degree of independence and equality with men, as attested by decipherments and translations of cuneiform tablets being made by scholars all over the world today. The marriage purchase so often spoken of to combat archaeological claims for her emancipation was little more than the French idea of dot or dowry, and she was well protected by law in it. Under certain conditions her husband had to return the marriage sum to her or to her father, and her whole fortune was not her husband's, she could buy and sell houses and land and slaves; she could hold property in her own right; she could inherit; she could borrow money and give her note for it; in some legal or commercial transactions it was necessary for her to give bond, in a most modern way, and men went up on her bond.

Proofs of all this are contained on clay tablets in Babylonian collections, notably in the one at Yale University. Undoubtedly, even Babylonian men did not have the vote, so the women did have it. But there must have been some kind of politics. Records unearthed from temple archives show frequent changes of administration and of policies, with new staffs of workers to mark the changes, obviously political.
In the temple schools, girls studied side by side with boys, and their education was quite modern—spelling, geography, history, mathematics, botany, astronomy and (later) engineering and agriculture. Women worked with men in the temples. They were scribes, archivists (our librarians), registrars; they received equal pay for equal work, and insuperable wage lists show. Women were promoted over men.
These were, perhaps, the bread earners. The sheltered women played a social game indubitably. They all wrote letters on wet clay tablets with a sharp stylus, dried the letter in the sun or in an oven and then put it in a clay envelope, stamped it with a seal ring and sent it out to some friend, inviting her to a "game" or to drink afternoon something. Tea had not been invented, but a card game was played.

U. S. FACTORIES HERE.
More and more United States firms are establishing branch factories in Canada, and the movement is attracting attention on both sides of the ocean. Recently, the Manchester Guardian spoke of the development as "one of the most notable features of the year." Commenting on the matter, the Union Bank Monthly says that before the war 200 American manufacturers had "taken advantage of the opportunities they believed Canada to offer, and had built Canadian plants and established purely Canadian businesses." During 1919 more than 200 more had taken similar action.
"In this task of making herself self-sustaining, Canada is being helped by the course of events," says the Monthly. "Canada is an exporting nation of importance, and this development is making it increasingly possible for Canadian manufacturers to produce commodities in quantity and bring down initial costs. The development of Canada's export trade has stimulated the imagination of the Canadian manufacturer; he sees more clearly his opportunities in the world's markets and he is filled with an ambition to make the most of these opportunities. The inevitable outcome will, of course, be greater ability on the part of the Canadian manufacturer to hold his own domestic markets against outside competition, even that competition which he has most to fear—American competition. This will mean less buying in the U. S. as time goes on."

DEATHS FROM WHITE PLAGUE FEWER BY MANY

Maine Making Steady Progress in Campaign Against Tuberculosis—Figures for Past Year Break Records.

(Special Correspondence of Bangor Commercial.)

Augusta, Me., July 15.—According to records filed at the office of the Maine State Department of Health, there was a phenomenally low figure of tuberculosis deaths in this state for the past 12 months.

The total of deaths from tuberculosis in all forms in Maine during the past year was but 789 of which were of the pulmonary type. Just how markedly downward is the tendency of this "white plague" can be shown no more strikingly than by quotation of the figures of 1919, the year when Maine was first admitted to the federal registration area, and the first recorded statistics were made. For that year there were 1,618 tuberculosis deaths of which 1,322 were pulmonary. These figures indicate that the disease has been reduced practically one half in the last 28 years and brings the hopeful message of still further reduction which can be safely predicted for the future.

It was in 1912, that the number of tuberculosis deaths fell below 1,000, never to exceed that number again, and the decrease in the last decade has been uniformly steady except in 1918, the influenza year, when an increase by 50 deaths, was recorded. The figure for the past year of 789 is indeed a record breaker.

Pulmonary tuberculosis which is by far the most prevalent type, has followed closely the record of the general figures of the past quarter century and the past year for the first time numbered less than 700 deaths, having dropped almost an entire hundred from 721 to 688 in the past year.

INSPECTOR INJURED AT RACE TRACK

As the horses were coming in on the home stretch in one of the races at Moosepath, on Saturday, the prevailing excitement among the spectators communicated itself to horse breeder which Sub-Inspector McAlish had driven to the races. The inspector had perched himself on the base of the seat in the wagon in order to better view the races and, as the horse bolted, he fell backward, hitting the ground with such force that his left shoulderblade was broken. Eye witnesses say that it was a wonder his neck was not broken as he was thrown from the seat with tremendous force. He was taken to the hospital by William Doherty in a car, and a doctor, who was summoned, set the broken bone, and last evening he was reported to be resting fairly comfortably at his home.

COAST TO COAST MOTOR TRUCK TRIP

The world's record for a coast to coast trip by motor truck was established recently when a three ton truck, equipped with pneumatic tires, arrived in New York from Los Angeles, Cal., having made the entire distance of 8,421 miles in thirteen days thirteen hours and fifteen minutes. The entire trip was made on one set of pneumatic tires without change.

This remarkable trip demonstrates the long distance hauling possibilities of motor trucks equipped with pneumatic tires. The previous record, made in 1918, for a coast to coast trip, stood at seventeen days three hours. One of the most interesting things about the record is the fact that it was made by a truck which was not especially constructed for the test. This truck had already rolled up a mileage of over 120,000 miles. It was originally planned to make the trip from Los Angeles to Akron, Ohio, but when the truck reached Akron it had made such good time that it was decided to send it on to New York for a coast to coast record.

KOREA GROANS BENEATH YOKE OF OPPRESSOR
Medical Man From Seoul
Voices Nation's Cry for Liberty—Victim of Aggression.
(Toronto Globe.)
Japan's policy in Korea was vigorously assailed in an address delivered at the Central Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon by Dr. Frank W. Schofield, a Presbyterian medical missionary who has recently arrived in the city from Seoul, Korea. The Japanese treatment of Korea was described as worse than that of Russia in the time of the Czar, and the Japs were also charged with having introduced the old Russian spy systems, including torture, in order to terrify the Koreans and force them to adopt Japanese customs, language and nationality.
Dr. Schofield described the Koreans as primarily pacific. The Japs, he said, were especially militaristic. "Korea is formed geographically as the Koreans are psychologically," he stated. "A range of mountains runs along the east coast, making the coast rockbound and forbidding, while on the west the fields stretch down to the ocean. The country turns its back to Japan, whom it hates, and faces toward the Chinese, whom it loves."

A Sober People.
He stated that the Koreans were a lovable race, tall, strong and robust. He also went into their history, extending back for 4000 years, and stated that even as far back as 88 A. D. the Koreans had prohibition. As one instance of the sobriety of the people, and the stern manner in which prohibition was enforced, he told of the governor of a province in his year 1822 who was beheaded because the emperor found him inebriated, and his head exhibited all over the province he ruled. "We could hardly introduce as stern measures here," remarked the speaker.
Some 400 years ago the Koreans suffered an invasion by the Japanese. The Japs intended to attack and conquer China, and Dr. Schofield declared that they still cherished the conquest of China as their ambition. Korea had then saved China, as Belgium saved Europe, but the country was ruined in doing so.

and had never recovered. "Near Tokio they have a mound underneath which are buried the ears of tens of thousands of Koreans taken home by the Japanese conqueror," he stated, "so you can see how hard it would be for a Korean to love Japan. Yet they are trying to turn them into Japanese."
Refused Her Independence.
He told of the Japanese war with China and Russia, described by the Japs as a fight to keep Korea independent. The Koreans had helped the Japs against Russia. Then Japan refused them independence and established a protectorate, although an American missionary was already securing a protest from the United States government. The Korean army, ill-disciplined and worse armed, had withstood the well-armed Japs for eighteen months after an order came for them to disband. The Japs had murdered the old Queen of Korea, who opposed them, and then deposed the emperor to put his imbecile son on the throne. They had used force to secure the signing away of the country's sovereignty by the cabinet.
The Koreans invited paper, they invented movable type and they had a widespread system of education," stated the speaker. "In some cases the schoolmaster took precedence over even the emperor."
Abused Under Japan.
When the Japs took the country they loaded it with engines, police and soldiers.

The police not only had the power to arrest, but also to imprison, flag or torture with only a police trial. "People are groaning over here and say their liberty is being taken away because they have to pay taxes. Let them go to Korea where a country is being assimilated by force and see how they like it," remarked the speaker.
"The Christians have always led in the movement for independence," stated Dr. Schofield, "particularly the women. We are making converts in the prisons; in fact, I might say that the native converts are making Christians among the men and women imprisoned faster than the churches." He told of the burning of many Christian churches by Jap police and firemen, and how his protests to the authorities brought the extreme that was Korean agitators who were responsible, even though he showed proof to the contrary.
He also described the tortures inflicted by the police upon both men and women who took an active part in the revolution of last year. This revolution was a peaceful one, in that the Koreans contented themselves with parading and cheering for Korea. They were met with charges by the police and military, with wholesale arrests and with the burning of churches. The women had been particularly badly treated. "In Seoul it is not so bad, because there are too many foreigners there," he stated, "but in other parts of the country conditions are fearful."
Koreans had come to him and showed him President Wilson's speeches on the right of self-determination for small nations. They thought that the United States would help them to secure independence. "I told them that there was nothing but selfishness in the world and that they could not hope for anything from the League of Nations," stated Dr. Schofield. The Koreans had thought him imperialistic because he was an Englishman but were specially undecieved when they approached the Peace Council with their plea.

He told of instances of torture, including a nurse who was burned with hot iron. When he approached the authorities they denied the existence of torture, nor could he ever get them to admit it either officially or unofficially. However, he had written articles for Tokio newspapers on the subject. He had also had an interview with the Japanese Premier. Korea was deluged with spies and every prominent man was closely watched.
Pleads For Justice.
Dr. Schofield was at one time associated with Dr. Amyot on the Provincial Board of Health, and as for some time back been bacteriologist at the Union Hospital of Seoul. His lecture was on "Another Alsace or Poland," and he intended to give further addresses pleading for justice for Korea. Later the Japs had decided on a policy of conciliation. While Koreans themselves admitted that the Japanese had made many reforms in the country where the aristocracy had ground the common people

BIG INVESTMENT

Shipbuilding Industry in Cumberland, N. S., Represents a Lot of Money.

A few days ago an American newspaper representative had occasion to interview a well known shipbuilder in Pairsboro with a view to finding out the extent of the ship building industry in Cumberland county.

Since the year 1914, there have been built in Cumberland county, along the harbours and rivers, in the vicinity of the coast, a number of steamships, of sizes varying from 500 to 900 tons, but averaging about 400 tons.

Regarding the future of the ship building industry, the prospect is perhaps not quite so promising as the past. In fact it is the consensus of opinion that the boom in the industry may be attributed to several causes among which, the high cost of building materials, and the fact that the demand for tonnage is rapidly going back to a pre-war basis, are the most direct reasons.

There is a fair volume of business being done in machine tools, although none of the dealers have anything in the line of large orders for equipment. Several firms hold the belief that an ending of the price of building will be a good thing for the sale of machinery, as an order for a large amount of equipment generally means new housing for it.

There is a dull market in the scrap metal trade. Some dealers have had to come out and buy this week, but they have done it at a fraction under the quoted prices. As a general thing those having material to sell are advised to hold, as there may be an improvement in the market.

SEALED TENDERS marked "Tender for School" will be received by the undersigned until Wednesday, the twenty-eighth day of July at 12 o'clock, noon for the erection of Brick School Building at East St. John, according to plans prepared by Garret W. Wilson, Architect, and to be seen at his office, 60 Princess street.

A certified bank cheque for five per cent to accompany each tender, that of accepted tender to be held without interest during contract.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

IRON, STEEL, METAL

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets for week-end, July 15, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following comments:

The Canadian industries are displaying a small amount of enterprise and ingenuity in trying to keep a sufficient amount of material coming to their plants. The old order of things is quite reversed, and it is now a case of a firm not only ordering material, but spending money, and lots of it, too, in making sure that it comes to other premises, as well as between the other producing centres and the border.

There is a fair volume of business being done in machine tools, although none of the dealers have anything in the line of large orders for equipment.

Says Window Dresser Should Be an Architect

Some exceptionally interesting facts were brought out at a recent meeting of the Eastern Arts Association, held in Boston.

Erna Ramlin delivered an address on "How to Reach the Public Through Artistic Display of Merchandise," and, among other points interesting to the retailer, said:

"Women are not as conservative as they used to be and how dare to wear gowns of striking hues, when only a few years ago they would accept only subdued tints. Their taste is now about evenly divided between toned shades and the most daring tones of the Orient."

The development of the art of window decoration was traced by Mr. Ramlin, who explained that while ten years ago the object of the window dresser was to get as much of the store front into the window as possible, the present-day window dresser must know something of architecture and interior decoration, and must also display marked creative ability.

One Obstruction That is an Advertisement. A package conveyor system is used in Bullock's, in Los Angeles, to carry packages from the departments to the shipping room. This requires one on each floor that take up a certain amount of space and might mean merely an obstruction were it not for the ingenuity of the firm.

Each case is fitted with a glass window. The patron, as they pass along, may thus get a view of the package running along to the basement. And when more than the rushing stream of packages-for a sign is lettered across the glass:

This conveyor is helping to rush your package out to your home.

The Lady of the Sponges. When one of the Liggett stores in New York decided to make a special drive on sponges they dressed a special figure in sponges and chamois skins, and she attracted so much attention that the sales of these articles were more than tripled during the week.

LOCAL NEWS

Friends of I. J. Goldberg, Lombard street, will be pleased to hear that he has recovered after a serious operation in the General Public Hospital.

The railroad between St. John and Moncton was first opened thirty years ago yesterday and that day was observed as a great celebration. The St. John terminal was in the vicinity of Gilbert's Lane for more than twenty years.

More than 1000 passengers from the United States arrived here on Saturday and many came in yesterday and if this continues the Halifax Fair may have to run in two sections.

Word has been received in the city that the operation performed on Rev. A. W. Mesian in Boston, on Friday, was not as successful as had been hoped and that his condition was not encouraging.

Miss Hazel McCall, superintendent of Women's Institutes in New Brunswick, is expected in the city early this week. She will discuss with members of the local Women's Institute arrangements for the annual convention which is to be held at Moncton this year.

Great expectations are being held for the coming sugar crop in Cuba, and the local representative of the Cuban government, Senor Armando Lopez, is confident that the summer 1920 will even surpass the splendid returns of last year.

Camille Williams of St. Anthony, Kent county, formerly of St. John, has brought suit for $2,000 against the General Fire Insurance Co. of Paris. Williams' house in St. Anthony was burned on March 4, and the suit is the result of the failure of the company to pay the insurance on building and furniture.

The best isn't the only thing that's been creating comment in Chicago during the last fortnight. Sell Bros., local jobbers, have also got into the spotlight with their "Skirts for Men" stunt. The Windy City isn't advocating that the male sex appear in swishing garments nor yet that they give an imitation of Julian Eltinge. Sell Bros. sprung the idea as a blow to Costo-living, and as an alternative to the 20-per-cent-off movement.

Every purchaser of a man's suit is offered a tailored skirt without charge, the idea being that it will encourage Mr. Buyer to see that her husband wanders to Sell's for his summer outfit—thus saving a single bill. This divorce action he just tracked out and clipped me on the jaw and knocked me down. Then he slammed the door. I walked around awhile and brushed my husbands on buying expeditions. He came out and said: "Oh, you're here again, are you?" and he took me by the collar and threw me down a flight of stairs. So I guess there's nothing doing on getting anything out of him, boss. "I'll come right in."

"No!" said the city editor. "You go back and tell that bloater he can't infiltrate me.—New York Tribune."

At last on the screen! Sir Arthur Pinero's greatest play, with beautiful Elsie Ferguson in the leading role. An absorbing drama of a "second wife"—one who was always measured by the perfection of the first—always found wanting—driven to fight for a place in her own family, until in desperation, she revealed what the first wife really was; who that "model mother's" son was!

Electric Reduction of Iron Achieved By New Method

Production of Steel From Ore by Electric Furnace, in Combination With "Reducing" Furnace, Covered in Patents Taken Out By Toronto Man

(Toronto Globe)
In connection with the press reports of Prof. Stanfield's investigations into the reduction of iron ores, it is interesting to note that similar investigations have been carried on in Toronto for some years past. These have led to a series of successful conclusions, with great commercial possibilities and economies, and patents have already been obtained in Canada, the United States and other countries, covering both process and apparatus.

Toronto Man Strikes on Method.

The electric smelting of iron ores has been the subject of much investigation, and has been the cause of much money spent by various parties. The process is a difficult one, and a successful process has only recently been devised. This process is the invention of a Toronto man, James W. Moffat, M. E. I. C., and is the outcome of a protracted and difficult series of investigations extending through a number of years. The earlier attempts not proving commercial, the process is an extremely simple and feasible one. The outcome of these investigations is an entirely new line of successful process on entirely new lines in which is capable of handling any ore in any physical shape. The elimination of sulphur is readily accomplished, and the production of pig or cast iron and steel of any desired carbon content is readily accomplished below that of the blast furnace and open hearth.

Discontinuous Process Evolved.

The process for which patents have been granted in Canada, the United States and foreign countries makes use of two distinct steps: the reduction of the ore and the melting down of the metallic sponge thus produced in the electric furnace. The process is a discontinuous one; that is to say, the materials are fed in batches, and the steel or iron produced in separate heated vessels. This has been found to be the only method by which steel can be successfully made, and the use of individual heats is necessary for the refining operations. The open hearth, the Bessemer converter and other older steel-making processes are all of this type. The blast furnace used in the production of pig iron is, however, a continuous process, and previous attempts along the lines of electric smelting have endeavored to follow the same principle. It should be noted that no intermediate step is necessary in the production of steel. When the ore is reduced it is at once converted directly into steel.

Utilizes Carbon-monoxide Gas.

Heat is necessary for the reducing operation, and the use of electric heat for this purpose has been proven to be very expensive. During the reduction of any oxide ore, carbon monoxide, an inflammable gas of high heat value, is given off, and in present day practice full use is not made of this source of heat. Blast furnace gas is used, mainly to heat the enormous volume of air passed through, and previous electric furnace reduction processes have made little attempt to conserve this source of heat. In the present process full use of this by-product is made to such good advantage that theoretically no fuel beyond that required for reduction is needed. In practice, however, a small amount of heat must be added by a further consumption of fuel, oil, gas or coal, to take care of heat losses, etc.

It is one of the main advantages of the process will lie, since the consumption of fuel and electrical energy will be very much lessened. The amount of coal or other carbonaceous fuel can be reduced to one-quarter to one-third of that required by the blast furnace.

Can Develop Smaller Properties.

The blast furnace is an enormously expensive thing and can only be built in large sizes. The present reduction process is applicable to the requirements of any plant and is capable of handling as large or as small an output as desired. This fact makes it of much economic importance to Ontario, and will prove to be the means of developing the smaller mineral properties and waterpowers with which the province abounds.

Details of the Process.

An outline of the process will be of interest to readers of The Globe, and in any one certain preliminary steps are necessary. If it carries very much rock matter or gangue it is first crushed and concentrated, the major portion of the foreign materials being thus removed. In every case it is necessary that the ore be reduced to a state of fine subdivision, and in this state it is charged into the reducing furnace. Here carbon is added and removes the oxygen from the ore by a number of chemical reactions which are controlled by very fixed physical laws. The carbon contact does not to any great extent reduce the ore which is done by carbon monoxide gas. This gas in absorbing the oxygen of the ore is converted into carbon dioxide gas, which is again in turn charged back to the carbon monoxide through taking up carbon. The excess gas given off during reduction is used in the supplying of heat necessary for the reaction. The now metallic iron still in the form of fine

BRITAIN'S SPEEDY TRADE RECOVERY

Explained by Bankers' Trust Company of New York

Her Hold on World Markets and Financing, Export Trade Never Relaxed During the War.

New York, July 17.—British total export trade for the first half of 1920 amounted to almost three and a half billion dollars, or approximately one and a half billion dollars more than the amount of exports for the first six months of 1919.

Moreover, British exports for the first half of the current year exceeded in money value the export trade for the entire year 1913.

How has Great Britain, in so short a time after the war, succeeded in making so great a recovery of her world trade? One explanation is furnished by the steps which England took at the start of the war to protect her exporters and to hold their trade for them so far as possible during hostilities.

A study of "English Public Finance" by the Bankers' Trust Company of New York gives the details. "On Nov. 3, 1914," says the study, "a very interesting arrangement was made between the government, the banks and the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom to promote the export trade. To solvent traders were to be advanced funds equivalent to 50 per cent of moneys owing to them by debtors resident abroad, these advances to be used by the traders to continue their business and pay their commercial debts to other traders and manufacturers."

"It was understood that the moneys provided were not to be taken by the banks to reduce loans or overdrafts or to pay bank acceptances, but were to be solely a new credit free for meeting the purely trade obligations of the borrower and in pushing his business as rapidly as possible. Any loss was to be borne, 75 per cent by the government and 25 per cent by the accepting banks.

"Similarly, the cotton trade was encouraged. The government arranged a fund to be used to enable borrowers to meet market differences. The payment of the advances was guaranteed as to 50 per cent by the government, 25 per cent by the Liverpool Cotton Association and 25 per cent by the lending bank."

Further protection was afforded to traders by a limited moratorium declared by the government. This, the study shows, extended over a period of three months at the outbreak of the war. During that time creditors could not demand payment of bills, which gave business an opportunity to adjust itself to the war conditions. In addition, action was taken to protect bills of exchange.

"This was necessary," the Bankers' Trust Company explains, "because for years London had been the banker of the world. A dealer in China might sell his tea in New York but he would arrange for payment through London. To meet his obligation the New York buyer would perhaps buy a bill which a wheat grower in Minnesota was drawing on London to pay for wheat which had gone to France.

"These bills coming in from all parts of the world were mutually cancelling each other. During the period they had to run they were considered the choicest, the most liquid asset, next to cash, which a bank could hold. But when war came the banks found these assets 'frozen'—entirely unavailable.

"The Bank of England made provision to discount pre-moratorium bills, whether drawn by enemy aliens or others, without recourse to the holder, giving the acceptor the opportunity of postponing payment, interest being payable in the meantime at 2 per cent over bank rate."

"At the close of 1914 it was estimated that some $400,000,000 of special loans of various kinds were being carried for the government by the Bank of England. This total included pre-moratorium bills and advances to traders."

Thus, England is making a speedy trade recovery because, even during the war, her hold on world markets and the financing of her export trade never completely relaxed.
