BALTIC FLEET MAY GO BACK.

Japs Don't Believe It Will Go East. Russians Now Say They Saw Eight Jap Torpedo Boats—Japs Say There Were None.

TOKIO, Oct. 29.—(Noon.)—The reported statement of an officer on board the Russian Baltic squadron, now at Vigo, Spain, to the effect that there were foreign torpedo boats among the Hull trawlers when they were fired upon recently by the Russian warships and that the Japanese government was said to have purchased torpedo boats in England, coupled with the insinuation that the torpedo boats with the trawlers were Japanese has been received in Japan with a mixed feeling of indignation and derision.

TOKIO, Oct. 29.—(Noon.)—A prominent officer of the naval staff said today that he believed the Russian Baltic fleet would not come far on their way east. He did not believe that the Russian government desires to send it at all and it was likely that the trawler affair in the North Sea would be used as an excuse for the recall of the fleet.

PEPPER MESSAGES FROM SPIRIT LAND.

Woman Who Has Been Doing Wonderful Spiritualistic Work in New England Begins in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Rev. May S. Pepper, pastor of the First Spiritual Church of Brooklyn, Madison street and Bedford avenue, gave a demonstration the other night. Pastor Pepper only recently came to Brooklyn. Her home is in Providence, R. I., but that doesn't necessarily mean that the medium has ever received any communications from spirits for Richard A. Cantwell. According to the stories told by her friends the medium has been doing very wonderful stunts in New England for the last six years.

The church was literally packed from platform to vestibule. An admission fee of 25 cents was charged, but no collection was taken up. The services opened with prayer, hymns and the reading of the Scriptures, after which Pastor Pepper preached a sermon, and it was a very good one.

At its conclusion she said she would try to convey messages from the spirit world to members of the congregation. The inquisitive ones sent to the platform by others slips of paper on which they wrote anything they pleased, so long as it conveyed the notion that one dear to them was dead, and from whom they desired to have a word.

The less that was written on these slips of paper the better Mrs. Pepper seemed to like it. It was sufficient for the one desiring the message simply to write his or her initials or the initials the spirit had had.

The little white slips were all gathered up and placed on the reading desk by the medium. There may have been 100 of them. Pastor Pepper transmitted perhaps 25 messages. There was no turning down of lights, no rappings, no cabinet and no slate writings. To all appearances, she simply sat there and waited for the spirits to call.

Picking up one slip of paper and glancing at it, the medium said: "A gentleman has come along here who seems to be a jolly sort of an old gentleman, and he tells me to say to an old friend of his, Captain Joe, is here. Now is there anybody in the room to whom that conveys any meaning?"

A man sitting a dozen seats from the platform and looking as if it would take a good deal to convince him that spirit friends wanted to talk to him, remarked, after a moment or two of silence, that he once knew a Captain Joe.

"Well," inquired Pastor Pepper, "why didn't you speak up and say so? Here's your friend waiting to talk to you, and just by way of a little pleasantry he wanted me to tell you it was Captain Joe, instead of saying that it was Captain Joe Edwards."

"That was a slip through the congregation when the medium announced the names of the famous old skipper of Saginaw who commanded the ship DeWanda Puritan and Mayflower."

"Well," said Pastor Pepper, "the slip wants to say to you that there are some things that are bothering you now that don't need to worry you a bit. He says they're all right and to rest easy. He says he's glad he wonders if you remember that trip to Washington that you and he took together? Do you remember any such trip?"

"The man nodded.

"Well, he says he's glad that old fellow was put out of the department, and that all shipping matters are going better because of his removal. And now, he wants you to get out of that Japan business."

Picking up another slip which may or may not have glanced at, Pastor Pepper said:

"Is there any one in the room to whom the name Rebecca conveys any meaning?"

A young woman in the south gallery admitted that it did, and Mrs. Pepper continued:

"The spirit says that you can't see, I don't mean that you can't see me or that you can't see the church, but that the future seems dark and uncertain before you, and you can't see ahead. Is there anything in that that fits your case?"

The young woman said there was.

"Well," said Pastor Pepper, "your friend wants you to believe that it's all right, and that pretty soon the clouds will break and that there will be a great happiness for you. And now, we are two old gentlemen who seem to be coming along together. The name of one of them sounds to me something like Robinson, and the other one is Samuel Green. Is there anybody in the congregation who recognizes them?"

A young man away up in front said Mr. Robinson and Mr. Green were his grandfathers.

"That's it," said Pastor Pepper. "Now, these two old gentlemen have got something to say to you. Old Mr. Green wants to know how his little granddaughter is. Is there a granddaughter? (There was). Well, the old gentleman is very fond of that granddaughter, and he wants you to be very careful of her, because if you don't you're going to lose her. She'll go to join her grandfather. There is something the matter with her heart, the old gentleman says, and he wants you to see to it that the child doesn't get love-cold, and he wants you to care for her very tenderly."

Tears came into the eyes of the young man as the medium talked, and when she asked him if that meant anything to him, he simply bowed his head in his handkerchief. He appeared to be utterly overcome.

A BARGAINER.

(Washington Post.)

Postmaster-General Payne was endeavoring to reduce the foreign mail rate from five to two cents. He dismissed the matter with some reporters recently.

"I suppose, sir," said one of the reporters, "that you have to use a great deal of ingenuity and discretion in compassing an international postal-measure."

"Well," said the Postmaster-General, "I shan't obtain the reduction we desire by the method that an Ashfield boy employed to get a reduction in school rates."

"This boy and I were neighbors, and he entered a 'ool on the same day."

"How much is the charge?" the lad asked the teacher.

"It is twenty dollars the first quarter, and ten the second," the teacher answered.

"Then, by sorry," said the boy, "I'll begin the second quarter now."

USING FINGER PRINTS.

New System for Detection of Criminals Is a Great Success.

The interesting statement is made in the official review of last year's crime, issued yesterday, that at the close of 1903 there were 60,000 sets of finger-prints registered with the police at New Scotland Yard.

Since the official report was closed some thousands of additional records have been obtained, and an Express representative ascertained yesterday that the register is now increased to the average of 350 weekly.

The commissioner of police states that as a system of crime detection it is showing excellent results. The system is thoroughly established throughout England and Wales, has just been introduced into Ireland, and many police officers have come to London from the colonies to study how it is worked at Scotland Yard.

A wing of the Scotland Yard building at Westminster is specially set apart for this finger-print museum—it is officially designated the convict super-division office. In the quietude of this block of offices, inspectors and their staff are daily classifying, pigeonholing and re-examining their prints of the finger-prints of the habitual criminals of the United Kingdom.

The record room is pigeonholed elaborately, as a chemist puts away fatal drugs, every criminal in his own little receptacle; all criminals whose finger-prints show corresponding characteristics brought together, until about 1,024 pigeonholes have exhausted all the subdivisions of finger characteristics which the scientific examining of human fingers has been able to discover.

Soon this system may yield a complete index to all our professional criminals—An index almost infallible, owing to two established facts: First—Each individual's finger differs materially from the fingers of all other persons.

Second—The thin capillary ridges on the tips of the fingers undergo no natural change of characteristics from the cradle to the grave.

Identifications are increasing annually. Last year 3,342 recognitions of criminals were obtained, of whom 2,000 were in London; in 1904 there were 1,722.

Last year the police tried the system for recourses twice. A special detective was sent to Epsom for derby week, and also to Ascot. Finger-prints were taken of all persons arrested on these courses. The impressions were delivered at Scotland Yard the same night, and in the morning the police were able to inform the magistrate that they had recognised 27 of the men captured at Epsom as thieves, and nine at Ascot.

Scotland Yard is so pleased with this achievement that finger-print detection will be continued annually at the chief race meetings.

The most remarkable criminal case for the finger-print system will be tried at the next Old Bailey sessions, and it will be followed by all experts—legal and scientific—with interest.

The police will for the first time endeavor to convict a man of burglary on the sole evidence of his finger-prints.

The facts are: A house in St. Peter's Square, Hammermith, was burglariously entered last August by a man who, after collecting his booty, poured himself out a glass of wine. He is believed to have held the glass with his left fingers while filling it, and to have transferred it to his right hand for drinking purposes.

Inspector Collins had all the fingerprints on the glass photographed, and also took impressions of the finger tips of a laboring man who now stands committed for trial on comparison of the two sets of records.—London Express.

QUITE SPEEDY ON THE KEYS.

Trenton Lady Breaks World's Record for Typewriting.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 23.—The world's typewriting record has been broken by Mrs. Margaret Cunningham, nee Feltz, stenographer in the supreme court here. It was only recently that Miss Olive R. Cameron, of Tennessee, employed by the Patent Office in Washington, broke all records by rattling off 23,000 words in one day of seven and a half hours.

The laurel did not last long with Miss Cameron, for Mrs. Cunningham in six and one-half hours wrote 21,000 words without making a single error or omission. Had Mrs. Cunningham worked the same time as Miss Cameron she would have written 24,222 words in the same time that Miss Cameron wrote 23,000. Miss Cameron wrote at the rate of 3,000 words per hour.

Mrs. Cunningham was handicapped by having to make eight manifold copies, whereas Miss Cameron was working on a single sheet. The manifold necessitated the handling of 930 sheets, for which the fair allowance of one and one-quarter hours was made. In the same time that Mrs. Cunningham worked the same time as Miss Cameron she struck the keyboard more than 150,000, or 266 times a minute.

A JOCKEY'S INCOME.

For the past two years George Odum, the leading jockey of America has been under contract with Capt. J. S. Brown, the Pittsburg millionaire who pays him an annual retainer of $15,000. Then he sells what is known as the turf as "second call" to John Mahan, for an amount approaching half of the first contract price. When neither owner is starting a horse Odum has the privilege of accepting outside mounts. From this source a rider of his skill accumulates as much money as he receives from regular contracts. In gifts and prizes in special races he receives an additional amount. Odum cannot give the exact figures of his income this season until the end of a year, he has summed up his outside amounts and perquisites. Surely he may count on $20,000 as the figure, which he may credit for one year of wearing the silks and eating and riding American race horses to splendid and sometimes unexpected victory.—Everybody's Magazine.

CONSERVATIVE TIDE OF VICTORY SWEEPING CANADA.

Nothing could better bear out the last remark of the old warden than the scene which presented itself to the reporter's eye. It was in the Conservative club rooms, King Square, around a half dozen long tables sat men, young and old, bent over intently studying the electoral ward lists.

The committee work in all the wards is well under way, and in some almost completed. It is the object of all the committees to have their work completed a day or so before election day, as this will give them the opportunity of putting on some finishing touches which mean much. Probably without one exception the committees will achieve this object.

IN VICTORIA AND MADAWASKA.

(Special to the Star.) ANDOVER, N. B., Oct. 28.—The Liberals of Victoria-Madawaska are parading and are holding two meetings each night, giving the electors double doses of fiction. Mr. Costigan is shutting up and down the railway like a rattle-drum. He consents to address meetings this time. The opposition are working steadily and well. A splendid meeting was held at Kibarra last night, the speakers being Messrs. Carter and Craig. Mr. Manzer, who has been visiting Madawaska, brings good reports from there. Victoria will give a good majority for Manzer.

LIKED THE SPIRIT.

Puck relates a story concerning the late Senator Alexander T. Goodwin of Utah, who let behind him the reputation of never having been so true to his job to give or take a joke. During his late illness a relative, knowing the senator's extreme fondness for brandied peaches, sent to his sickroom a small jar of the most delicious variety. A few days later the relative called and was admitted to the sickroom. Quickly turning to the jar, he said, "I don't want any of those delicious brandied peaches." "If I thought you would appreciate them," Alexander, returned the caller, modestly. "Ah, yes," which broadened and finally broke into a chuckle that seemed almost noisy in the hush of the sickroom. "And how much more I appreciated the spirit in which they were sent."

ST. JOHN STAR. ST. JOHN, N. B., OCTOBER 29, 1904. DANIEL AND STOCKTON.

A week ago the Star was constrained to warn the Conservatives of St. John that their supreme confidence in the result of the election in this constituency was apparently causing them to take things too easy, while the Liberals, desperate with fear, were leaving no effort undone that would bring them an extra vote. Many a race has been lost by over confidence and there appeared to us to be danger that, while the Conservative workers dreamed of majorities, their rivals might gain upon them even to such an extent as to threaten their success.

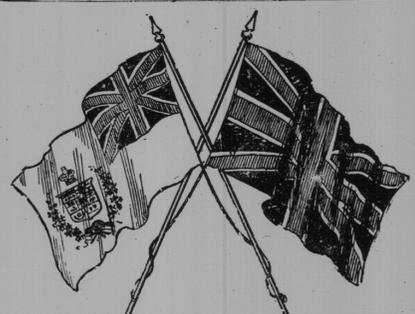

The Liberals, in their papers and their posters, by garbling and misquoting certain phrases of that article out of their connection, have sought to make political capital for themselves, with the result of greatly intensifying the effect hoped for. A week of better and more effective work than the one closing today has never marked a Conservative campaign in this city. Every night the committee rooms have been filled with enthusiastic workers; every day the canvass has been carried on energetically and the lists marked and re-marked with scrupulous care. And as a result the party is even more confident than it was last week. But the confidence this time is not the dangerous kind, because it is not based on deductions but on facts. Last week they argued that defeat would be impossible because of this and that. Today they know it is impossible because they have been over the field and have counted the combatants. From the opening of the campaign we have thoroughly believed that both Conservative candidates would be elected. But at first there was little actual knowledge concerning conditions in the county and it was doubted that Dr. Stockton's majority there would be as great as Dr. Daniel's in the city. But from absolutely trustworthy information at hand today we are convinced that Mr. McKewen's certain defeat will be just as decisive and overwhelming as that of Mr. O'Brien, whose chances the more reasonable Liberals freely admit are nil.

WHAT HAYS SAYS. In a recent letter to Senator Templeman, President Hays, of the Grand Trunk Pacific, says: "So soon as the progress of the surveys in British Columbia will permit, construction will be commenced from the Pacific end of the road and be carried on continuously in an easterly direction until the road is completed. In fact, such action will be necessary to complete the road within the time limit."

This letter was read at a Liberal meeting in Victoria, B. C., last Thursday. The significance is plain. If the road is commenced at the western end and carried eastward, the prairie section and the middle section will be completed before the section which is to run through New Brunswick. Thus, long before there is any means of carrying the western traffic of the G. T. P. to maritime ports, that traffic will have established a regular channel over the present lines of the Grand Trunk—which will tap the western and middle sections of the Grand Trunk Pacific to Portland. And once such a channel is established, St. John would have given any chance ever of the rest of the G. T. P. were some time completed.

THE ALTERNATIVE. In addition to the good Liberals who have given public evidence against the government they helped to elect and those who have determined quietly to vote against it, there are hundreds who while utterly disapproving some sections of its policy, approve of others and find difficulty in deciding whether their approval or disapproval should have greater influence upon their vote. In those cases where the disapproval is based on the Grand Trunk scheme there is no good reason for hesitation. Suppose a man thoroughly in accord with the government's tariff policy, a disbeliever in high protection, but convinced that the G. T. P. scheme if carried out will be altogether disastrous to Canada. Can there be any doubt how he should vote when he remembers that if the Conservatives are returned and their tariff policy proves injurious they can be turned out again and the country, little the worse, can begin again where it was interrupted, while if the Liberals are sustained they will fasten upon Canada a burden which it must bear, for which there is no possible relief, for a century.

The government is pledged to the G. T. P. scheme which, unless it is stopped right now, will place Canada for a hundred years at the mercy of a great and unscrupulous corporation, will tie up Canadian trade for a hundred years to American channels and Liberal-Conservative Candidates: DR. J. W. DANIEL For Saint John City. A. A. STOCKTON, K. C., LL. D., For Saint John City and County.

Has it done any business? Not much. Where did Mr. Blair expect to get traffic for the wheat and elevator? From the Grand Trunk. Why? He says the company promised to give traffic to the Intercolonial. Did the company keep that promise? No. What did the Grand Trunk do with the traffic that Mr. Blair expected. Sent it to Portland. Where was the freight obtained that did come to the elevator and to Halifax. From the Canada Atlantic. Will there be any more from that source? No. Why? Because the Canada Atlantic has been sold. Has the government buy it to get traffic for St. John and Halifax? No. Who bought it? The Grand Trunk. Where, then, will the traffic go? To Portland—Sun.

PARTY TIES BREAKING. Never in any previous election campaign in the city have there been so many men forced by a sense of the ruinous nature of their party's policy to sever their connection with that party and to announce publicly their intention of casting their votes and their influence against it. In addition to the number of prominent Liberals whose names have been published in this paper as supporting the Conservative candidates, Conservative workers in every ward bring long lists of men, many of whom have all their lives been recognized as stalwart upholders of Liberal doctrine, for the first time in their lives feel constrained to make a separation from a party in which they no longer have confidence. This condition is by no means peculiar to St. John. Every constituency in Canada duplicates it to an extent unparalleled since 1874. The number of names published in the various papers of those who have to be elected to leave the Liberal ranks is almost enough to turn the scale against the government and when it is considered that each of these acquiescences brings many others by his influence to the Conservative side and that to every Liberal who declares himself publicly there are many who will be content to simply vote against their old party, there is revealed one of the reasons why men who are in touch with political affairs all over the Dominion are so confident of the government's overthrow.

BEWILDERED LIBERALS. So bewildered are the Liberals in their effort to convince themselves and others that the government's railway policy is perfectly harmless that they present, as in its favor, facts and arguments which work exactly the other way. For instance they frequently point to the fact that the G. T. P. is required to charge the same rates to Canada as to American sea ports though the distance, by the route proposed, is much longer. Look at that, they say. Isn't that proof that the traffic will come our way? Well, look at it. St. John, by the G. T. P. route, is about three hundred miles farther away from Montreal and about two hundred miles farther from Quebec than Portland is. Suppose the G. T. P. has a carload of grain at Quebec, for instance, which its owners want to export. For hauling it to Portland the company will get a certain sum. For hauling it to St. John, two hundred miles further, it can charge not one cent more. Now, is it much of a problem to find out which route that grain will go?

WHO DID IT? Who built the Short Line to St. John? The conservatives. Who opposed it? The Liberals. Who says now that he is sorry it was built? Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Who gave the first winter port subsidies to St. John? The conservative government. Who gave notice that there would be no more subsidies to the Portland service? The conservative government. Who recalled the notice and renewed the contract. The Laurier government. Who built the grain elevator? Mr. Blair.

After Nov. 3rd, the letters G. T. P. will be marked on the tombstone of the Liberal party, signifying that they have Got Their Punishment. The People vs. the Corporations. What will be the verdict of the labor men on the Jury? Vote for a national railway, a national tariff and for national ports. What we must pay for, let us keep. Advertisements of the leading business houses in St. John are to be found in this paper.

LABOR MEN RESENT SIR WILFRED'S INSULT. Trades and Labor Men Say that Public Ownership Plank is Not a Populist Fad. Leaders of organized labor are far from pleased at being told by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that the public ownership plank in their platform is not a British idea but a Populist fad, conceived in the iniquity of United States politics. Sir Borden's campaign against Mr. Borden's scheme of government ownership of the new trans-continental railway has alienated much of the support in favor of public ownership of the premier's attitude. FLETT FAVORS BORDEN. John A. Flett, of Hamilton, past president of the Dominion Trades Congress, and organizer in Canada for the American Federation of Labor, says: "Organized labor has proclaimed in favor of public ownership of railways and telegraphs on many occasions. This principle has been adopted as one of the planks in the Declaration of Principles of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and any party that would favor public operation and ownership, all other things being equal, will receive the approval of the organized working people of this country. Sir Borden's policy concerning the railway bill in this particular than that of Sir Wilfrid's, the latter gentleman being opposed to government operation and ownership, all other things being equal, would be to continue the Intercolonial railway right through to the Pacific coast."

LABOR TO STAND BY PRINCIPLE. Another who takes exception to the premier's utterances is David A. Carey, Mr. Carey is past president of the Dominion Trades Congress and is the district officer of the American Federation of Musicians, representing Canada east of Winnipeg. He says: "Since the Trades Congress of Canada at its recent meeting has gone on record in favor of public ownership of not only railways, but all other things being equal, I can not see anything for the labor organizations, who have repeatedly affirmed their loyalty to that policy, to do than to oppose Sir Wilfrid Laurier. I am personally of the opinion that the labor organizations will uphold the party which advocates this policy. I can't see why any labor man can vote otherwise when it is considered that the rank and file of the labor movement in this country have always on all occasions approved of the policy adopted by their chief legislative body, the Dominion Trades Congress. Personally I am strongly in favor of such a policy."

PREMIER'S INCONSISTENCIES. James Wilson, editor of the Toller, admits that it is hard for workmen sometimes to get away from old political affiliations, but as a matter of principle they are bound to support the party that advocates the principle of public ownership. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his speech at Massey Hall, was very inconsistent. He denounced the public operation of railways, yet almost in the next breath he convulsed government ownership of the telephone and telegraph. "I believe," said Mr. Wilson, "that the working people will support the principle of public ownership."

The young people of the church had some special music prepared for the occasion, mostly patriotic pieces. A reception entitled Canada for Me was given by Miss Hazel Phillips. The young people's association of the Brussels Street Baptist church held a pleasant social gathering last evening. An impromptu musical programme was given by some of the boys of the society, and the evening was passed very pleasantly in games and conversation. Refreshments were served at the close.

FELL NEARLY THIRTY FEET.

Harold Barnaby Had a Narrow Escape While at Work Yesterday. A serious accident occurred in the building of Manchester, Robertson & Allison yesterday afternoon, when H. G. Barnaby, son of W. H. Barnaby, a member of the firm, had an experience which he will not soon forget. The lad, who is nineteen years of age, fell twenty-seven feet to the foot of the elevator shaft. He was attempting to step from the door of the pit room, leading to the elevator, across the pit to the carpet room, when his foot slipped. He thought the carpet room door was unlocked and would readily push open with the weight of his body. In this he was mistaken, for it was locked. The other door—the carpet room has double doors—was open, which allowed the young man to catch hold of the edge of the locked door. He was unable to hold on, unfortunately, and fell backwards. Down into the pit he fell, striking on his right shoulder. Strange to say, he was able to get up himself. Two of his friends carried him upstairs and a doctor was telephoned for. After waiting some time Mr. Barnaby had his son removed to his home in a coach, where Dr. Walker examined him. No bones were broken, but the lad is suffering from severe bruises.
