CAMPBELLTON IS ENCOURAGED

All Brick Buildings on Water Street Gives New Town Solid Appearance--500 New Houses Under Construction.

Campbellton, Nov. 15.—In looking over the town one can scarcely elapse since the disastrous fire of July 11th, so great has been the progress made in rebuilding. All along Water street solid brick buildings are in course of erection, some of them quite handsome and imposing, while throughout the length and breadth of the town dwellings of all kinds are springing up as if by magic. On the whole the classes of dwellings being erected are more modern in every respect than those destroyed by the fire. Up till a few weeks ago the weather was favorable for rebuilding, but since then there has been a great deal of rain, making it very disagreeable for all concerned.

Contractors have been at a disadvantage from the start owing to the insufficiency of skilled labor as well as the difficulty in procuring lumber to keep up to the demand. Many times during the summer for instance, there was not a matched board to be had in town at any price, even with the surplus stocks of factories and mills all over the country being drawn upon continually. Wages and prices for lumber have, as a consequence, advanced considerably. Bricklayers are being paid from $4 to $5 per day, carpenters, $3 to $4. In spite of these unusual conditions prevailing, the amount of work that has been done is almost astonishing. It is perhaps more perceptible to the outsider, who drops in for a day or two, and in fact, many travelers have expressed their amazement on different occasions.

Slowest in Water Street.

Perhaps the part of the town that will be slowest in rebuilding is Water street, owing to the new fire district regulations which will not allow of anything but a solid brick structure on that street. But those who have found fault with the new regulations and said that they sounded the death knell of the town's future prospects from a business standpoint, have an incontrovertible denial in the fact that so many fine business blocks are already rapidly nearing completion. Perhaps a majority of these are contemplated for next year, in fact with one or two exceptions, every business man is planning for a bigger business than ever.

The delay of the Dominion government in dealing with the matter of interest charges on the town's bonded debt, has undoubtedly had its effect on rebuilding operations to a large extent, but now that there is some assurance that the town will be relieved from this burden for a period of years at least it will certainly be a great stimulus in building operations next season.

500 Buildings.

The number of buildings under construction has been variously estimated from three to five hundred, but in talking with the building inspector, some time ago, he placed the number at about 500. Perhaps a list of those on Water street will be of interest:

- Lonsbury Company, large three story brick building containing offices and warehouses.
- Edw. Sullivan, large brick office, residence and warehouse.
- J. R. McKenzie, two story brick and concrete store and residence.
- Edw. Alexander, two story brick and concrete store and residence.
- H. A. Marquis, two story brick and concrete store.
- Bank of Nova Scotia, three story brick and concrete building.
- A. McG. McDonald, two story brick and concrete building for two stores and offices.
- Bank of New Brunswick, pressed brick with handsome store front.
- Geo. Vermette, large three story brick building, with two story ell, for store, bakery and residence, and suite of offices for rent.
- Dr. L. G. Pinault, fine two story brick residence and office.
- Miss Godfrey, two story brick store and dwelling.
- Joseph Boudreau, two story brick store and dwelling.
- W. H. Wallace, fine concrete residence.
- Dr. A. Martin, two story brick residence and office.
- E. David, two story brick residence and office.

Besides these there are: Wood-working factories of J. D. A. Harquill; foundry and machine shops of McLennan; foundry and machine works and Duncan Foundry; Jones & Schofield, large brick warehouse and office; Shivers Lumber Company, large shingle and tile mill, which will have 20 machines.

New I. C. R. Buildings.

The work on the new I. C. R. shops and roundhouse is progressing rapidly. The walls of the big structure were completed some time ago, and the roof is now being put on. A large force of men have been kept on the job since the start under the supervision of Mr. Burpee, and good work has been accomplished in quick time. There will be accommodation for 28 engines in the roundhouse and the offices and shops in connection will be up-to-date in every particular.

Messrs. Harquill have also completed their contract of building forty houses for the relief committee and nearly every family in town has been provided with winter quarters. There are a number of tents still occupied, however, by laborers and others who have found it impossible to get lodging in more suitable quarters.

No new cases of typhoid have developed for some time and it is thought there is no more danger of the spread of that disease. Although some alarming reports were sent abroad about this matter there was really no ground for them, there being no more than forty or fifty cases altogether, which could hardly be avoided under existing conditions.

The work of the relief committee

MR. HOPKINS ASKS QUESTIONS BUT REFUSES TO TESTIFY

Director Wisely and Clerk Dunham Tell of Financial Dealings With Stand Holders to Satisfaction of Investigating Committee--Subpoena Will be Issued for Stanley Hopkins.

The market investigation was continued last night. Nothing very startling was developed, except a series of questions presented by Stanley Hopkins suggesting that Mr. Wisely, the director, and Clerk Dunham had been borrowing money from, and giving notes to the market people, and giving some stallholders special privileges in the matter of gas pipes. The replies of the director and clerk to these questions seemed satisfactory to the committee. When the chairman invited Mr. Hopkins to take the stand, he left the room.

All the members of the committee were present with Ald. Potts and Vanwart, and a number of spectators. W. M. Babirik was recalled. To the recorder he said he did not remember exactly whether he paid tolls or not to Mr. Akery at the same time. Mr. Akery's manner of collecting was peculiar. He was under the impression that he did at one time pay both tolls and rents, but was not prepared to say positively.

Q.—Did you have any understanding with anyone before any auction sales that you would not have to pay tolls?
A.—No.
Ald. Jones—Did you have an understanding that if you did not bid on the stands, accommodation would be provided for you?
A.—No.
J. Macfarlane was sworn.

Mr. Hopkins's Questions.

Stanley Hopkins at this point handed a list of questions to the chairman which he wanted put to the witness.

The recorder—Mr. Macfarlane, you have a stand in the market?
A.—Yes.
Q.—How did you get it?
A.—Mr. Dunham assigned it to me.
Q.—Did you pay anyone for the stand?
A.—No.
Q.—Have you been moved about?
A.—Yes.

Q.—Was any suggestion ever made to you that you should pay anyone?
A.—No.
Q.—The committee would like to know what right you have in the market. What business do you carry on there?
A.—I buy hides and sheep skins in the market for wholesale people; I do not sell again in the market.

Q.—Are you in the market to sell anything else?
A.—Yes, butter and eggs. I sell wholesale as far as possible—that is calling a tub of butter wholesale selling.

Q.—Are there others that do the same sort of business?
A.—Not that I can call to mind.
Q.—Was it ever suggested to you that the market was not to sell in the way you are doing?
A.—Yes—I think Mr. Dunham suggested it to me—also Mr. Lyman his predecessor.

Q.—Did Mr. Dunham complain to you about buying in the market?
A.—Yes, he told me several times not to buy.

Q.—Did he ever point to anything in the by-laws prohibiting your kind of business?
A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did Mr. Dunham tell you not to buy in the market?
A.—I don't remember. He may have spoken to me within the year.

Q.—Did you ever make any presents to Mr. Dunham of any kind?
A.—No.

The recorder—I ask that question because it is suggested by Mr. Hopkins that some people in the market have been making presents to him.

Ald. Jones—Why did Mr. Dunham not take steps to put you out, if he thought you had no right there?
The recorder remarked that there was nothing in the by-laws prohibiting Mr. Macfarlane doing business, though the market was not intended to accommodate a business of this kind.

Ald. Potts—I don't think the questions suggested by Mr. Hopkins should be put unless direct charges are made. They are mere insinuations which are bound to convey a bad impression with the public whether they are answered satisfactorily or not.

Questions Unfair.
The recorder said that such questions were unfair because even when there was nothing at the bottom of them, they always left a sting. However, they had been raised and had better be asked.

Lawrence McGrath was sworn. He occupied space in the market. Mr. Dunham assigned him the place. He had not paid the city, Mr. Dunham or Mr. Potts anything for this space. He carried on a meat business using the racks. No complaint had been made to him until recently when Mr. Dunham had sent him to the lower end of the market.

He had never paid money, endorsed notes for any market official, or the lessee of the tolls.

The Director Recalled.
Director Wisely was recalled.
Q.—Was it in May of this year that you first knew that the lessee was charging for space?
A.—Yes.

Q.—You did not know it when Roy Potts took over the tolls?
A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Mr. Dunham said in his evidence that two years ago he knew about it. He said you asked him whether he did not think Potts was charging Mr. Hamm too much?
A.—I don't remember that. It was last spring that I first knew of it. I think I spoke about Mr. Hamm then.

Q.—You say last spring. Did you ever send Mr. Hamm or Mr. Howe to Mr. Potts to get a staff's toll?
A.—I'm sure I did not send Mr.

continues and the first fall of snow which came Saturday brought to their minds with added force their responsibilities. While there is plenty of work the needs of the less fortunate of the fire sufferers will not loom up so large, but when building operations are somewhat retarded by the severe weather and labor is not so much in demand, there may be some suffering and misery.

Hamm. I'm not certain about Mr. Howe.
Q.—Your answer suggests that it is possible that you may have sent Mr. Howe?
A.—I don't remember sending anybody.

Q.—You say you got the idea from Mr. Hamm. Did it strike you as right that the lessee should rent the stands?
A.—I thought it was a matter between Mr. Potts and Mr. Dunham.

Q.—Why then would you send anybody to Mr. Potts?
A.—Yes. After the auction sale I thought my duty was done.

Q.—Did you think it was your duty to see that people who wanted it had space?
A.—Yes.

Q.—But if you allowed Mr. Potts to sell space to everybody the market might be choked?
A.—Continuing witness said he thought Mr. Potts had the right to the stalls not sold.

Q.—Was the evidence in regard to your conversation with Mr. Howe correct?
A.—No. I don't think I had such a conversation.

Q.—Then what did you mean when you said you thought Mr. Potts had the authority to dispose of the stands?
A.—Well I thought he bought this right when he bought the tolls.

Q.—When did you get the idea that the lessee had the right to dispose of the unsold space?
A.—Years ago.

Q.—Before Akery's time?
A.—But you say you never knew of the lessee selling space all this spring?
A.—Yes. I learned it from Mr. Hamm.

Q.—Then what do you mean when you say you thought the lessee had the disposing of the stands?
A.—I thought he made what he could out of them.

Q.—In 1909 Mr. Fenwick said he spoke to you about a stand. You told him that if Mr. Potts would not let him have it you would let him have it.
A.—I don't remember that. I may have referred him to Mr. Potts, but I am positive I never told him I would let him have it. I had no authority to do so.

Q.—Then a year ago you had the impression that Mr. Potts had something to do with the leasing of the stands?
A.—Well, sometimes Mr. Potts, in the absence of Mr. Dunham, acted as clerk.

Ald. Potts Takes Exception.
Ald. Potts interposed, saying that he had not acted in that capacity for two years and that formerly he had acted only in the case of transients.

Q.—How could you refer anybody to Mr. Potts on the strength of what came in your mind last spring?
A.—I couldn't say.

Q.—Have you ever borrowed any cash from any stall holder?
A.—I have.

Q.—Who?
A.—I think it would be fair for Mr. Hopkins to bring the men forward.

Q.—I am sorry to have to put this class of questions, Mr. Wisely. The question has been raised and you will serve your interest by answering frankly. What stall holders did you borrow from?
A.—I borrowed a little money from O'Neil Bros.

Q.—Any other stand holders?
A.—John McDonald, Jr. and Christie Kane.

Q.—Any others?
A.—No.

Q.—Did you borrow on any note or endorsement from stand holders?
A.—No.

Q.—Have you borrowed money, note or endorsement from other occupants?
A.—No.

Q.—Have you had any financial transactions or dealings with others?
A.—Or with Mr. Dunham?

A.—Yes, I think I obliged him a few years ago in a small way.

Q.—Yes, but they had no relation to the market.
Q.—Is it true that you caused or ordered gas to be piped to a certain stall in the market?
A.—No.

Q.—Did you have a gas pipe cut out?
A.—No.

Q.—Did you give any occupant any special gas privileges?
A.—No.

Q.—Had you financial transactions with any clerk or market employee?
A.—No.

In reply to further questions Mr. Wisely said his financial dealings with O'Neil Brothers were for small amounts, and his answers in this connection appeared to be satisfactory to the committee.

Mr. Hopkins Declines.
The Recorder asked Mr. Hopkins to take the stand. Mr. Hopkins refused, saying that he would not give evidence till the investigation had proceeded further.

JOHN BULL ON U. S. ELECTIONS

WELL REALLY I CAN'T HELP LOFFIN.

you borrowed notes or money from any other aldermen in the council?
A.—Never.

The Recorder—What was the extent of your dealings with Ald. Potts?
A.—Some time ago, about one year, I think, I borrowed $100 from him and gave notes. He paid something on the notes as they came due. I owe him now about $35.

The Clerk Recalled.
Mr. Dunham was recalled.

Q.—When did you first know of the lessee receiving money for the stands?
A.—About two years ago.

Q.—Do you know of anything happening that would bring that to your knowledge of Mr. Wisely?
A.—Three years ago, Mr. Wisely came up on a Saturday morning. That day we had a large market. Mr. Wisely asked what I thought Frank would get in tolls. I said about $25.

Mr. Wisely said that they had given Mr. Potts the privilege of getting all he could out of the stands that were not sold.

Q.—Although the director told you that you had no knowledge of actual cases of leasing till 1909?
A.—No. I first heard from Mr. Hamm in 1908. He complained Mr. Potts was charging too much for the space he had.

Q.—Yet you said in your evidence before that you did not know the stalls sold till 1909?
A.—Yes.

Q.—How do you reconcile that with what Mr. Wisely told you in 1907, and Mr. Hamm in 1908?
A.—I don't understand that Mr. Potts was taking more money from Hamm than he ought to—that he was collecting tolls and charging rent as well.

A.—Well, I've known it in a way since 1907.

Q.—Do you remember Mr. Dickson complaining to you that Mr. McDonald was cutting meat in less than a quarter and selling it?
A.—Yes. I told Mr. McDonald to stop it. I had to complain to him twice. I didn't want to report him.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Bell to go to Mr. Potts if he wanted a stall?
A.—Mr. Bell came to me in May. I told him that the director had given Roy Potts the right to dispose of the stalls.

Q.—When did Mr. Wisely tell you that?
A.—In conversation with Frank and Roy Potts, when the latter took over the tolls.

Other Violators.
Ald. Hayes—When informations were laid the other day against Mr. Hopkins and others, were they the only violators?
A.—Well, one cannot keep his eye on everything.

Q.—Were they laid in consequence of any influence brought to bear on you?
A.—The chairman told me to take action; he did not say against any party.

Q.—Did you ever borrowed any cash from stall holders?
A.—None, but what I paid back.

Q.—The amounts, and time before repaying, please.
A.—About $5 usually. I paid back in a few months. I borrowed $15 from John McDonald junior—that, I think, was the highest.

Q.—Did you borrow notes?
A.—I got a note from John McDonald for $40.

Q.—Was it in consideration of anything connected with the market?
A.—Not at all.

Q.—Had you any financial transactions with Ald. Potts?
A.—Yes. I took out a note with him—a divided note.

Q.—How much do you owe Ald. Potts?
A.—It was a divided note. We both owe the bank. The note was for $60.

Q.—Had you financial dealings with Ald. Potts any relation to the purchase of stalls?
A.—No.

Continuing witness said several stall holders cut the gas pipe to connect with the stalls. The plumbers did this on their own initiative—it was the easiest way. As soon as he knew of it, he notified the director. In each case the stall holders had put in meters.

made by an alderman to you that he was led into this investigation under pressure?
A.—Ald. Jones said he was led into it innocently.

The Recorder—That is what I said. When I went to the market with Ald. Vanwart, what I heard was all new to me, and I thought the statements I heard required an investigation.

The chairman again asked Mr. Hopkins to take the stand. Mr. Hopkins again refused.

The recorder said the committee was a court, and though it could not commit for contempt, as Mr. Hopkins had not been subpoenaed, it could prosecute him before the police magistrate in the morning.

The chairman, at the request of the Recorder, again asked Mr. Hopkins to take the book, but he hastily left the room.

The committee then went into private session. Mr. Hopkins will probably be subpoenaed today.

TOLSTOI AND WIFE ARE RECONCILED

Another, this is considered a very satisfactory report, particularly in view of the high temperature which was maintained yesterday and the symptoms of mental distress which Tolstoy's literary legacy, Tchertokoff, Countess Sophia Tolstoy after the first shock caused by her husband's sudden abandonment of his home and family, displayed astonishing energy.

Countess Sophia Tolstoy after the first shock caused by her husband's sudden abandonment of his home and family, displayed astonishing energy.

The illness of the great author brought about the reconciliation between the Countess and Tchertokoff, whose embittered feelings in recent months, have caused Tolstoy much anguish. Count Tchertokoff was summoned by telegram to Yasnaya Polyana where he joined the Countess and her sons. Tolstoy himself in a letter had expressed a particular desire for Tchertokoff's presence.

The difference between the Countess and Tchertokoff arose over Tolstoy's literary legacy. Tchertokoff had collected a large quantity of unpublished material, copies of Hadji Murad, Tolstoy's latest work, and other stories, as well as various documents which he has been forwarding for safe keeping to England. These he intended to offer for free publication in pursuance of the author's wishes.

Forbidden Access.
The Countess Tolstoy, in behalf of the family, has been insisting that Tolstoy should procure a copyright for all his publications, the returns from which would serve to aid the very numerous family instead of falling into the pockets of the publishers. Three months ago, when the administrative order expelling Tchertokoff from Yasnaya Polyana, was repealed, he visited Yasnaya Polyana, but left hurriedly as the Countess had peremptorily forbidden him access to the grounds. Tolstoy thereupon visited Tchertokoff on his estate, three miles away in Moscow province in spite of the attempts of the countess to dissuade him.

The health of the countess suffered seriously and a professor of nervous disorders from Moscow visited her several times prior to Tolstoy's pilgrimage.

GOVERNORSHIP CAMPAIGN HIGH FOR E. N. FOSS

Boston, Nov. 15.—The campaign of Eugene N. Foss for the governorship of Massachusetts, cost him $37,000 according to his sworn return filed with the secretary of the commonwealth late today. This is exactly 20,000 more than was expended by Governor Eben S. Draper for re-election, who was defeated. Mr. Foss paid $31,000 of the amount to the Democratic State Committee while the balance of $6,000 went to the Democratic City Committee of Boston.

DEATH GAME IN BARROOM

Bangor, Maine, Nov. 15.—Thomas Guitteaud, aged 25, a woodsman, came to his death in an Exchange street restaurant tonight, in a peculiar manner. Guitteaud was in the barroom, where he had an altercation with James Walker, 25. As the latter started to leave the place Guitteaud seized him by the arm, holding on as Walker backed rapidly away. Guitteaud struck at Walker, lost his balance, and fell, his head striking first upon a partition and then upon the floor.

Death ensued instantly. Walker is held by the police and Coroner Fineman has taken charge of Guitteaud's body. The coroner is of opinion that Guitteaud's death resulted from heart failure, caused by the excitement, and the effects of liquor, and it is not likely that any inquest will be held.

SHOTS FROM TRUCKET GIVE CLUE TO YEGGS

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 15.—Five shots fired from the thickets into which the three bandits disappeared after holding up Paymaster Hines, of the Worcester Construction Company, and robbing him of $20,000 in cash and checks, Saturday, at a gang of Italians who were laying rails near where the holdup took place, late today, gave new impetus to the search for the bandits. One of the shots struck Veto Martamalli in the wrist and piercing entered his abdomen. He is in a critical condition at a Pittsfield hospital tonight.

The shots apparently came from the densest part of the swamp and nothing could be seen of the persons responsible. As a result, however, an armed posse was immediately organized and once again started to thrash through the underbrush.

The only result was the discovery of freshly loosened earth which had the appearance of having been turned over today and which the officers are inclined to think marks the spot where the money was hidden. It was gone, however, before the place was found. Another indication that it may have been used as a hiding place, for the stolen funds was the finding of a small white rag tied to a bush which overhung the spot as though to prevent the possibility of the robbers being unable to find the place themselves.

$25,000 LOSS IN ELEVATOR FIRE

Boston, Nov. 15.—Spontaneous combustion in the grain of the Boston Ice Company's grain elevator on Rutherford avenue in Charlestown, destroyed the elevator and an adjoining blacksmith shop tonight, causing a loss of $25,000. The fire was discovered by an engineer of a passing locomotive, and the tooting of the locomotive whistle brought the firemen, after which two alarms were rung in.

Death of Sir William Agnew Recalls Robbery of Gainsborough Portrait--King George as Collector of Postage Stamps--Rage in Furs Leads to New Occupation.

London, Nov. 8.—The death of Sir William Agnew, the head of the well known firm of art dealers, has recalled one of the most famous picture robberies on record. In 1876 Messrs. Agnew bought Gainsborough's "Duchess of Devonshire" for 10,000 guineas, and ten days afterward it was exhibited at their Bond street galleries. A week later it was gone, and was not until 1901, a quarter of a century later, that the picture, which had been taken to America, was restored to its owners.
 The Agnew firm was founded 100 years ago by the father of the baronet who has just died. He was a young Scotchman who left Ayrshire and came to Manchester in search of a living. For twenty years he worked in partnership with an Italian clock dealer named Zanetti. About 1825 Zanetti retired and Thomas Agnew began to deal in pictures and prints. About 1860 he took his sons, William and Thomas into partnership. The old man died in 1866, leaving the firm with a big Lancashire base. The merchants of Lancashire had then begun to realize that their fine houses should be decorated with line, or any rare expensive pictures, and the Agnews supplied them with what they wanted.
 Shortly after the death of the father the younger son, Thomas, realized that the firm's purchases in London, at Christie's, had been a great metropolitan advertisement. He persuaded his brother William, who died a few days ago, to open a gallery in London and from that time on the firm was as well known in London as in Manchester. In the years that followed the Agnews formed many collections, almost exclusively of modern English pictures, for rich commercial men. These were the palmy days for the living English artist. The time came when the Agnews turned to the "old masters." Modern artists complain that nobody now buys their pictures as the Manchester men used to forty years ago. In particular, some one pointed out: Those happy days long fled. When Willie Agnew fed. Not wholly on the dead.
 The British baronet has celebrated the firm of Agnew in one of his characteristic limericks:— There are dealers in pictures named Agnew, Whose soap would make an old rag new. The Father of Lies With his tail to his eyes, Cries: "Go it Tom Agnew, Bill Agnew!"
 King George's keenness as a collector of postage stamps is well known. His collection is soon to be removed to Windsor, where, it is hoped, arrangements may be made for it being open to public inspection. It is not generally known, however, that the king always has a keen interest in the finest collections of naval books and pamphlets in the world. This library, consisting of some thousands of volumes, is at present in a York cottage, but its transfer to Windsor Castle, where proper space can be given to it, has just been ordered.
 For years past a firm of West End bookellers has had a standing order to submit to the king's inspection all new books dealing with the navy of any country. Many, of course, are in French and German. But in cases where the language is one with which the king has not so familiar an acquaintance special translations are made for him.
 The British barrister has a somewhat strange place in the eye of the British law. He alone may plead in cases tried before judges of the high courts. The lower branch of the profession, the solicitors, deal directly with the client, but if a case has to go before one of the higher courts, counsel must be briefed for both sides unless the prosecution or defendant elect to conduct their own case. The position of the barrister is thus a privileged one, and his services command a high price. First of all, there is a fee on acceptance of the brief, and then the daily "refreshers" as long as the case lasts. It may seem strange but these fees are not recoverable at law. If you do not pay your counsel, he has no legal means of making you do so. It was doubtless owing to this fact that up to quite recent times the barristers' fee and refreshers were paid daily, and the olden days still remains in the black gown worn by all barristers in court. What looks like a long narrow streamer hanging down in front from below the shoulder is a bag into which the counsel put his ready money fees before he began his work. Today the barrister employs a clerk who as one of his most important duties has to collect fees from those solicitors who do not send along a cheque with sufficient promptness.
 The British artist work correspondent, who died Saturday morning, had a long record of active service. He represented the Illustrated London News for 24 campaigns, besides several revolutions. His first foreign service was in the Ashanti war of 1817. In the following year he was in the thick of the "Carlist" rising. He saw the Herzegovinian, Servian, Turkish, Kafir, Boer, Zulu and Boer wars, the Egyptian campaign, the Sudan expedition, the Burmese war, the rebellion in Yonah, Brazil and Argentina, the Matabele and Afrid wars, the northwest frontier campaign in India and the Cuban insurrection. In 1892 he was in a somewhat expensive tour in the Herzegovina, Servian, Turkish and Boer wars. He was not seeing service in the field. He was in the line of duty, and saw the destruction of Baker Pasha's army at Tel Teb.
 Prior used to tell a story of how a dandy once saved his life. On his way to South Africa he dreamed that he saw himself shot and witnessed his own funeral. Later after his arrival in South Africa he received a letter from his mother describing the same dream and begging him not to go to the relief of Ishone. He was so impressed by the coincidence that he gave up the idea and was firmly convinced that by doing so he saved his life.
 Furs are so very much the rage in London this season that a brand-new enterprise has been started for the lending wraps, coats and muffs at a moderate price to those whose means do not admit of their buying what they want. For instance, if a woman is going on a motor trip and wants to wear a warm and rich-looking fur coat, she has not money to invest in one, she can hire one for whatever time she wants it at so much a day. Of course one must give impeccable references for the woman who is running this business is not taking any more risks than she has to. Already the idea is meeting with great favor among the middle-class women, who cannot resist paying $25 to wear a $2,000 coat for a short time. The ordinary $100 fur cloak is most in demand, however, and such a one can be had for an afternoon's motoring or an evening at the opera for $2.50.
 One stipulation the proprietor of this fur-renting establishment always insists upon is that no perfume shall be used on the furs, as she declares that it is months before the scent fades away from furs, and she finds that the perfume one woman likes is obnoxious to another woman, who will not rent the fur because of its odor. Muffs and boas of chinchilla, ermine and sable are in great demand, and there are women who come regularly to the establishment to hire the same sort of furs in which to make calls or go to matinees.
 The wedding of General Sir Archibald Hunter and Mary Lady Inverclyde was celebrated all around a sentiment in English breasts. Sir Archie is a popular hero, and Lady Inverclyde was a sweetheart of his years ago when they were boy and girl, before she married and before he went campaigning in India, the Sudan and South Africa. FOOT-BALLER'S BAD KNEE HEALED

Zam-Buk Once Again the Only Cure.
 Mr. H. Allison, of 457 King street, London, Ont., says: "While a member of the East Kent Division Football Team, and during a rough and exciting game of football, I fell on the hard ground, sustaining a badly lacerated knee. This required prompt medical attendance, as sand and gravel filled the open wound, which was very painful at first.
 "For several weeks the doctor treated me well, but it was thought to be well healed over; but no sooner had I begun to move about than the skin broke, and I suffered more than at first. For seven long weeks I was actually laid up. It then developed into a running sore, and I was alarmed for fear the result might be a permanently stiff knee. The doctor's treatment failed to heal the wound, so I procured a supply of Zam-Buk. "It was almost magical in its effect on the sore. The discharging soon ceased. The soreness and pains were banished and perseverance with Zam-Buk made the badly-lacerated knee as good and firm as ever. Zam-Buk has no equal in clearing and healing open wounds, and I recommend it to all athletes and sportsmen."
 Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, eczema, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell it. Get the box, or send free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes. See the registered name "Zam-Buk" on every package before buying.

WOULD LIKE TO SEE GAME

Lydia Lipkowska.
 Lydia is a Russian singer in the Boston opera company this season. See the ribbon about her hair. See the priceless earrings. See the wonderful silk gown. She has a wonderful collection of jewels and a reporter who interviewed her was quite overwhelmed with the variety and richness of the diamonds, pearls and sapphires, etc., which she showed him. One casket in particular, was a veritable mass of diamonds.
 Despite all this display of wealth Lipkowska is not happy. She wants to see the Harvard-Yale football game Saturday and she can't go for two reasons. She must sing at a matinee and there are no seats left at the game. Her escort, quite naturally, is not a graduate and could not secure a place in the stadium.
 I would gladly give my day's salary, she said, if I could see the game. This means something, as madame receives the price of an ordinary apartment house for each appearance.
 "Too bad Lydia."

is a leading figure in England's younger generation of scientific soldiers, and is capable of conducting negotiations of the most delicate diplomatic nature as he is of leading troops in the field. In South Africa even his enemies, the Boers, had only praise for him, while it is known that it was his example more than anything else which encouraged the garrison at Ladysmith to bear all the privations of that siege with courage and cheerfulness. King George is a great personal friend and admirer of this soldier hero, while the Kaiser has begged him to come as guest to the German court whenever he chooses.
 Another interesting feature of the wedding was the presence of Lord Kitchener as best man, a capacity in which he had never acted before in his life. When Sir Archie announced to a group of friends that he was going to ask "K. of K." to support him on the occasion of his wedding it was generally agreed he might as well expect an acceptance from the sphinx. Lord Kitchener, however, to every one's amazement, agreed to act as best man, and performed his duties admirably. Such crowds gathered around St. George's church the day of the wedding that the police had difficulty clearing a path for guests to get to the church.

Encouraging Progress Made in Fight Against Tuberculosis

Continued from page 1. A good tuberculosis exhibit is much needed as an illustration of these lectures and as a means of appealing at once to the ears and sight of the public.

In the speeches that have been delivered by the Rev. Mr. Boyd and your president a strong emphasis has been made that it is the duty of the municipalities to provide for the care of advanced cases of tuberculosis among the poor.

Ontario has set a good example in this work by the erection of a Municipal Sanatorium. In many cases two or more counties have combined in the erection of a joint institution.

For this literature we are indebted to the Central Board at Ottawa and for which we beg to tender our best thanks. Your executive begs leave to call your attention to the necessity that exists to replenish our nearly exhausted treasury.

At that meeting a request was made that the Central association should send Dr. Bourgeois of Three Rivers to lecture to our French speaking fellow provincialists.

The report of the treasurer was read by Dr. Silas Alward. It showed receipts of $501.51 of which nearly $400 was in large sums constituting the donors life members of the association.

Rev. Chas. R. Flanders was then called upon as the first speaker. He dealt with the theme "The ravages of tuberculosis and referred to the fact that there had been 107 deaths from this disease in St. John during the past year.

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes: "For many years I have been troubled with chronic constipation."

benefit the weak and improve their chances of living. St. John had a right to give to all its citizens a square deal—the right of equal sanitary conditions. He was glad to say the conditions in St. John had improved and cited cases to show the good work being done in this regard.

Dr. Smith Walker's Address. Dr. Smith Walker, of Truro, was then called upon and spoke eloquently. He said in part: "The campaign against tuberculosis is important on account of the number and the character of those who die of this disease."

Expenses Too Great. The expense of maintaining an institution for the treatment of tuberculosis would be a greater strain upon the finances of the province than the province could stand.

Mortality Among Breadwinners. "Of every 1,000 German workmen between the ages of 20 and 30 years, who are rendered unfit for work, the cause in 55 cases, is consumption. Seventy-five per cent. of the deaths from consumption are of breadwinners."

Report on Convention. He then dealt with the introduction of the bill appointing the anti-tuberculosis commission and related what the commission had done in the way of visiting sanitariums in other centres and searching for a suitable site for a sanitarium in this province.

What Has Been Done. He then dealt with the introduction of the bill appointing the anti-tuberculosis commission and related what the commission had done in the way of visiting sanitariums in other centres and searching for a suitable site for a sanitarium in this province.

Should Be Public Charge. "The nature and extent of this campaign is readily seen to be beyond the capacities of local associations or philanthropic societies. All prominent commissions on this subject have come to this conclusion: that it should be fully for the people in these provinces not to profit by the lessons learned in several states where the burden of the work is now being taken up by the state."

stumpage dues, mines and inland fisheries of the province had been increased through efficient management. Dr. Walker, in the course of his remarks, there was always an increase in demands.

As to the cost of such a plan as had been suggested by Dr. Walker, he instanced the case of the provincial hospital for nervous diseases. In this institution there were 540 patients and the outlying in which they were cared for represented a capital expenditure of $250,000.

DR. TORREY ASKS FOR INSTANT DECISION

Says There Can be No Question of Delay in Answering Question What Shall I Do With Jesus?

"What shall I do with Jesus?" was the text of Dr. Torrey's sermon last evening, one of the most powerful he has yet delivered here.

You must either accept Him or reject Him. Jesus Christ is here and now offers Himself to every man and every woman in this building as your Savior and Lord and Master and unless you definitely accept Him as such you definitely reject Him.

No Neutral Ground. I said, "I understand nothing of the kind; Jesus Christ offers Himself to you, and you do not accept Him, and you refuse to accept Him, and you are going to accept Him, and you are not going to accept Him tonight, but you want me to understand that I do not reject Him."

CHARLIE GRIFFIN A BEAU BRUMMEL

CHARLIE GRIFFIN.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—None of the "good dressers" among the pugilists has anything on Charlie Griffin, the Australian lightweight. In his palmiest days "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien was a piker, compared to the dapper little man from the land of the kangaroo.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The sporting world has been surprised with football, boxing and other forms of sport and awaits with interest the Derby autumn meeting, which will open tomorrow. The races which are for fairly big stakes, include the Chesterfield Nursery Plate handicap for £1,000, Markeaton Plate handicap for £500, Rangoon Marden stakes, Osment Nursery Plate handicap for £1,000, and the Quarndon Maiden Plate (apprentice) for the year olds.

HOW TO MEASURE TREES AND RIVERS

To measure distance fairly accurately you must cultivate a uniform step and then learn how many steps you take to a given distance, which should be 100 yards or more.

This will set you facing at right angles to the line AB. Standing thus bring your palms together fully extended. A sight taken over your thumbs will give you a line AD, at right angles to the line AB.

Now we know that each of the five inches in the line AC stands for 100 yards on the ground. So if our ruler shows us that the line AB is seven inches long we know it is about 700 yards from A to B.

Records made this season in field and track athletics. Team Riley, Bromilow, Sheppard and Riley, two mile run, 22:25.

ALL SIGNS INDICATE DEATH OF MR. BURNS

Aged Caretaker of Suspension Bridge Had Not Returned to Home Last Night and Hope is Given Up.

There seems to be little doubt that Robert Burns, the caretaker of the Suspension Bridge, was killed yesterday, shortly before noon in a fall off the rocks between the bridges.

An investigation was begun and it was learned that Mr. Burns was missing. He had been making some repairs to the rear of his house, which is near the eastern end of the Suspension Bridge, and about 3 o'clock it was discovered that the platform was broken and that there was a track in the earth to the water below, a distance of about 30 feet.

It is thought that when the platform broke, Mr. Burns was dashed down the steep embankment, and was killed before striking the water in the falls.

Mr. Burns was 65 years of age, and had a wife, a daughter, Mrs. Tower, and a son who resides in Milford. The police are making an inquiry into the matter and stated last night that the caretaker had not been located.

Mr. Burns had been in charge of the bridge for a number of years, and during his time there, he had saved many persons from the death which he himself is thought to have encountered.

The Opera House was filled to overflowing last night with a delighted audience on the occasion of the grand concert given by the members of the City Cornet Band in celebration of their 36th anniversary.

The following was the programme: Opening Address—His Worship Mayor Frink. Paraphrase—"Silver Threads Among the Gold," Danks.

Grand Pageant March (from the Opera Tannhauser), Wagner. Overture—"Lutspiel," Keler-Bela. Song—"Foreword Song (from Opera Carmen), Bizet, M. T. Morris.

Selection from "The Merry Widow," Lehár. Song—"Vorrei" (Coudé), Thos. Marzials, Miss Cassie R. McQuade.

Cornet Solo—"Grand America Fantasia," Rollinson, Soloist, D. J. Gallagher. Song—"Eleanore," Coleridge Taylor, J. A. Kelly.

Selection—"From Rigoletto, Verdi. Song—"He was a Prince," Lynes, Miss Bessie C. Wetmore. Monologue—"S. Matthews. Reading—"A. W. Baird.

The entertainment concluded with a musical extravaganza entitled: "The Skidmore Guards." About 20 young men took part and performed a most difficult drill.

Before the entertainment closed James Connolly, the president, made a brief address, thanking the friends of the band for the large attendance.

INSANE GIRL BROUGHT HOME FROM BOSTON

Conveyed to Vancuboro by Immigration Officials and Passes Through on Return to Old Home at Tracadie.

On the arrival of the Boston Express in the I. C. R. depot last night there was considerable commotion caused by a young woman who was insane. The girl is a native of Tracadie, but for some time has been a resident in Boston, where a few weeks ago she lost her reason.

On Monday she was taken in charge by the United States Immigration Officials and was conveyed from Boston to Vancuboro. While on the way east she was quite violent and attempted to jump from the train on a number of occasions, the officials having considerable difficulty in controlling her.

She was held at McAdam for inspection by the Canadian officials and was met there by her brother. In company with her brother she arrived here last night and was reported to have acted quietly during the run down from McAdam.

On leaving the train here to board the Halifax express she became quite violent and resisted the conductor and her brother. She said she wanted a ticket to return to Boston and it was finally found necessary to forcibly place her on board the train. As the train pulled out of the station the brother and another man were having considerable trouble in holding the woman in the seat, she was struggling hard to get off the train.

WOMAN BURNED AT BEAVER HARBOR

Mrs. Charles Paul Found in Her Yard With Fearful Burns Which Resulted Fatally—Had Been Alone.

A sad tragedy was enacted at Beaver Harbor on Monday evening, resulting in the death of Mrs. Charles Paul, a well known resident of that place. Mrs. Paul was burned to death, but as she was alone in her house at the time, what happened can only be conjectured. A neighbor, Mrs. Martin Eldridge, called at the Paul home about 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon and was surprised to find the kitchen full of smoke and two covers off the stove, in which a bright fire was burning. She noticed that one of the covers had fallen into the flames.

Mrs. Paul was nowhere in sight, but Mrs. Eldridge, hearing groans and moans from the yard, hurried out and was horrified to find her neighbor on the ground, the clothes completely burned off, and her body terribly scorched.

The deceased lady was one of the best known residents of Beaver Harbor. Her husband is employed by the Beaver Harbor Fishing Company and is now somewhere in the Bay. An only son, Allen, is on the Cruiser Curlew, which happened to be at Black's Harbor, and he was notified, reaching home a short time before his mother died.

Mrs. Paul was about 50 years of age, and was a Miss Eldridge. Brothers are: Fred, George, Allen and William, all of Beaver Harbor, and Mrs. Howard Traynor, of Penfield, is a sister.
