Suppose now, for example, that any given lumber operation pays merchant reperator, or both, thousands or hundreds of thousands of dollars, does the operative receive a proportion ate share of the gain? Oh no! he mere' receives the wages agreed upon, rarely more, often much less. Well, then, if the operative is not entitled to share in the profits, why in the name of Justice should he per more in the losses? It wild be remembered, too, that the laboring man's hire is his only income, on which slender lucome, in many cases, a wife and helpless family depend for subsistence, so that if he I depend for subsistence, so that if he loses his wages the staff of life is literally taken out of his hands. Some legislation to remedy this gross injustice is loudly called for.

Yours truly. Renous River, June 13, 1884.

I, among many others, very much regret the appearance of the late articles in the "Advance," and beg to assure you that much symputhy is felt for you by a large majority of our people. Of course it was unfortunate that the coalled "Grand Musical Concert" was overlooked in your locals, but your apology, showing how the omission occurred was considered quite satisfactory, and was so looked upon by right thanking people. The opportunity afforded Mr W. Robinson for notoriety just suited his intermeddling garrulity, incited thereto by an influence of which I may have more to say at a future time, and he was only too eager to take advantage of what he thought was a grand chance to stir up ill feeling, and do his little all to induce others to take part in the narrow minded and bigoted opinions held by him, the would be champion of an influential body of christians. But his efforts lamentably failed as they deserved to do. It is not the first time he has got hi uself and others into trouble by repeating private conversation with copious additions of his own until he made a mountain out of a mole hill, and then tried his best as in this case, to shift the responsibility from his own shoulders by accusing of ere of repeating private conversation when he alone was the guilty party.

own shoulders by accusing of erest of repeating private conversation when he alone was the guilty party.

Your prompt and straightforward course in pointing out who was the mean and despicable repeater of private conversation, (while he was trying to hide behind another individual who had been foolish enough to take up the cudwels in his behalf and for which he is not by any means commended, struck dismay to his heart and stirred up his animosity and bile until he was fit for anything, and your pointed statement that W. Robinson was not the writer because he had not ability to enable him to do so only added fuel to the fire, as did the statement that he was a "blacksmith" when he is ambitious to rank as a "carriage builder," and he boasted that he would let you see whether he could write or not. After making several attempts which were such lamentable failures that he gave it up as a bad job and concluded to make use of somebody else's brains, as his own had failed him. He accordingly went to Chatham and the result can be seen in the lucubration which appears over his signature in the last "Advance," in which D. G. Smith sticks out more plainly than if his signature were signed to it instead of the poor deluded gossiper who peaks so "knowinely" and feelingly of FAILURE and FRAUD. Such a rare chance for the "Advance" of display his venom seldom comes within his each, and his promptly took up this case and produced an effusion, the spirit of which is so truly wenthisted in the closing sentence, and which is discreditable to the person whose name is attached tunerto. If Mr. Robinson is not now ashamed of such a statement the more's the pity.

Believe me to be, yours truly,

A PRESBYTERIAN.

That the human system requires ren the Spring is proved by the loss of appet of almost everyone: Aware of this if was the custom of our grandmothers to prepare decoctions of Burdock, Dandelion and Cherry Bark for the purpose of restoring the stomach to a healthy tone, and purifying the blood, but the medical skill of the present day finds such things ineffective and sometimes injurious, Hanington's Quinine Wine and Iron, used in conjunction with Hanington's Tonic Dinner Pills, restore the appetite, invigorate the system and purify the blood immediately and effectually, as thousands testify who have been benefitted by their use.
