132ND BATTALION OFF FOR VALCARTIER CAMP

Great Send Off Here to Boys of North Shore Battalion—Battalion Route March About Town.

GOOD BYE TO THE NORTH SHORE BOYS

Our sun has set, the cold wind blows, the sky is chill and gray; Come let us drop a tear with those, whose boys are gone away. Our hearts are all in mourning, though we bravely try to smile; We miss the bugle's warning, and the officers, rank and file.

Chorus:—
 Goodbye to Brother, Husband, Sweet Heart, Friend, They've gone from Town and Heavens, till the war is at an end.

Our brave young blood—Now Brunswick's sons, wherever they may roam,
 God bless and keep them for the ones who work and watch at home. They'll do their "bit", with all their heart,
 And North Shore hearts beat strong—Then, heroes to the Boys as they make their start,
 To join the Hero Throng.

And when at last, the war is o'er, And the flag of peace unfurled; Their praise shall ring from shore to shore,
 Around this rugged world. Then let us not with down cast hearts, See our brave lads entrain;
 But, give them a cheer, and bid them go, dear,
 God bring them home again.

COL. C. J. MERSEREAU G. S. A. OF VALCARTIER
 Severely Wounded at Front Over A Year Ago.—A Popular and Capable Officer

Lieut.-Colonel C. J. Mersereau, son of Lieut.-Colonel Mersereau, O. C. of the 132nd Battalion, it is reported, has been appointed general staff officer at Valcartier Camp and left Sackville yesterday to take up his new duties.

Lieut.-Colonel Mersereau was formerly a brigade major under General Currie on the western front, the latter now being in command of a division, and in 1914 Colonel Mersereau was a brigade major at Valcartier Camp.

It will be remembered that Lieut.-Colonel Mersereau was very severely wounded while at the front and for a time had lost his memory as a result of his injuries. He, however, rapidly recovered and is today one of the most valuable officers in Canada, and has splendid executive ability which recommends him for the important position of general staff officer at Valcartier Camp.

The entire town and country turned out Tuesday to bid God-speed to our boys of the 132nd Battalion. Despite the fact that the day broke wet and gloomy, crowds began to gather about noon for the expected arrival of the train conveying the Chatham, Newcastle and Bathurst companies. Every train into Campbellton brought friends from the different sections, until an immense crowd had gathered. The stores were draped with patriotic colors and flags, and altogether the streets presented a gala appearance.

Schools were dismissed at noon, and while business places were not closed, employees were allowed off for a time, to take part in the demonstration.

At about 3 o'clock the troop train from south pulled into the depot, amid a mighty demonstration. Here "A" Company, with the Campbellton Brass Band, were formed up to receive them, and to conduct the entire Battalion on a route march through Campbellton.

After forming up at the depot, the regiment headed by Col. Mersereau, O. C. of the 132nd, mounted and escorted by the Campbellton band, with of people who waited at the depot to see "A" Company off.

Col. Mersereau has under his command, many of our finest young men. He has promised to be a father to them and we feel that in his charge they will be well cared for.

Altogether the day was one which will be long remembered by all.

LIBERAL VICTORY IN NOVA SCOTIA
 Premier Murray Returned to Power With Increased Majority

Halifax, N. S., June 21—The Liberals of Nova Scotia won a great victory in the provincial elections held yesterday, carrying thirty-one of the forty-three seats in the new house as compared with twenty-five seats out of the thirty-eight in the old house. The campaign was hard fought in every county, the Conservatives being assisted by a number of federal members from Ontario. Some of the Liberal majorities were as high as seven hundred.

Premier Murray and all members of his government were returned to power.

One of the surprises of the campaign was the defeat of Charles E. Tanner, the Conservative leader in Pictou County.

FIRST RECEPTION HELD BY MR. F. E. DENNISON Mrs. Frank E. Dennison held her first reception, at her residence, Highfield Street, on Thursday afternoon.

A profusion of tulips and ferns, artistically arranged, were the decorations used in the drawing room; while in the dining room pink carnations, with green and white, together with white ribbons, which were tastefully arranged from the centre of the table below produced a very pretty effect.

Mrs. Dennison wore a handsome reception dress of blue crepe de chene with chiffon, embroidered in silver; she was assisted in receiving by Mrs. G. A. Dodge, who wore black satin. Others who assisted were Mrs. H. R. Allen, who ushered; and Mrs. W. P. Walmsley, who presided in the dining room.

Miss Alice Dodge and Miss Winona O'Brien, served, while little Miss Katherine Allen, prettily attired in white, attended the door.

Mrs. Dennison received again this afternoon, when she was assisted by Mrs. A. E. Killar, who received with her; Mrs. J. A. Ex. Stronach, who ushered; Mrs. A. J. Macgowan, who presided in the dining room; Miss Blanche O'Brien and Miss Elizabeth Davies served; while little Miss Marjorie Macgowan attended the door.—Moncton Transcript.

SAYS U. S. TROOPS MUST WITHDRAW

The Only Way, Mexicans Say, of Avoiding Hostilities

Mexico City, June 20—General Carranza in a statement to the press last night, reiterated his declaration that any movements of American troops, except to the portward, would be considered hostile, and that Mexican command had been ordered to repel the same.

Minister of foreign affairs Aguilar declared that serious complications could only be avoided by the withdrawal of the American troops. He said that he regretted that the United States misunderstood the attitude of the Mexican people who had become distrustful because of the failure to recall the American soldiers.

Editorials in the official organs strongly condemn the Washington administration for refusing to recall General Pershing's column and request the American government to make its "oft repeated protestations of non-interference in the internal affairs of Mexico."

During the demonstrations yesterday, the American consulate was stoned, the stoning occurred while Vice-Consul Rowe was in the building.

REASON FOR LIMIT ON ASSIGNED PAY

Soldiers Sometimes Leave Themselves Without Pocket Money for Necessities

Ottawa, June 14—Some comment has been excited by a recent order-in-council limiting to twenty days' pay the amount of pay which a soldier should be permitted to assign.

A private soldier is paid $1 a day, with an allowance which brings his money up to $1.10 a day, or $33 in a month of thirty days. His wife gets an allowance of $20 a month and in addition a proportion of his pay, which he assigns to her.

If a private soldier in England assigns twenty days' pay, this amounts in a month of thirty days to $20. This leaves him $13 and this sum is paid to the man for himself. While much is provided for him, there are many necessities which he must procure out of his own pockets.

Accidentally, the order-in-council was passed limiting the assignment to twenty days' pay.

If a private soldier in England assigns twenty days' pay, this amounts in a month of thirty days to $20. This leaves him $13 and this sum is paid to the man for himself.

NOVA SCOTIA ELECTION

Tuesday's election in Nova Scotia, resulting in the return by an increased majority of the Liberal government, presided over for twenty years by Premier George H. Murray, can be regarded in no other light than as a remarkable tribute alike to the Premier and his government. Although the opposition had no ground of argument for a change, except the argument that thirty-two years of Liberal rule made a change desirable, they counted on local dissensions in some constituencies and on the race and religion issue, insidiously raised in other, if not to give them a majority, at least to weaken the government. The Nova Scotia election, like the Quebec election, should be read by public men as an intimation of the readiness of the electorate to support a government with a clean record. Premier Murray and Premier Gouin have wisely governed their respective provinces, and have so managed affairs that, neither against the government as a whole nor against individual members, have opponents been able to make charges. No Nova Scotian has been called on to apologize for scandals in the public life of the province, nor to blush when the subject of public morality is discussed. Return to office of the two governments by majorities which have practically extinguished opposition are the evidences of a popular confidence, all the more remarkable in the case of Nova Scotia, because the government has been long in power and under a less able leader would have become the creature of satellites who would have dragged it to destruction, as they did in Manitoba and as they threaten to do in New Brunswick.—St. John Globe.

LESS THAN HALF

According to figures compiled by Mr. Oliver Hezzelwood, the Maritime Provinces have enlisted less than half of the recruits required to provide the 65,000 wanted as our share of the 600,000 men Canada has undertaken to contribute to the Empire's cause. Mr. Hezzelwood figures the enlistment of the three provinces to June 1 at 31,061. This is less than one-fifth of the available manhood, which is figured on the 1911 census basis as 161,937. His figures for the various sections show that the Western Provinces have exceeded their quota, that Ontario has done far better than the East, and that in Quebec enlistment is far behind.

Without thinking of what other provinces are doing, Maritime Province men should devote themselves assiduously to the task of securing as speedily as possible the thirty-four thousand men required to complete the expected enlistment.—Ex.

Defy Dyspepsia!

Among the symptoms of Dyspepsia or Indigestion may be mentioned a heavy, cutting pain soon after eating; a distended, full feeling of the stomach and bowels; belching of wind and flatulence; a burning sensation in the stomach, which, in acute cases, adds heartburn; palpitation of the heart; oppression of breathing; pain under the ribs and shoulder-blades; headache through the temples and eyes; dizziness, coated tongue and constipation; sometimes nausea or vomiting.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt is the natural specific for all these conditions. Being an antacid, it immediately relieves the acidity of the stomach and stops the fermentation. It stimulates the secretion and muscular action of the stomach and bowels, and overcomes the constipation. When this salt is kept up the normal action of all the organs of digestion is re-established.

PRESENTATION TO W. J. JARDINE

On Eve of Departure for New Carlisle Is Tendered a Farewell

Newcastle, June 16.—W. J. Jardine, Manager of the Bank of N. S. here, and treasurer, since its organization, of the West Northumberland Patriotic Fund, received a telegram yesterday that he had to leave for his new post at New Carlisle, P. Q., today. A special meeting of the executive of the fund was called last night, those present being: Ex-Mayor C. J. Morrissey (presiding), Revs. Dr. Wm. Harrison, S. J. MacArthur and W. J. Bate; E. A. McCurdy, W. A. Park, A. A. Davidson, R. Corey Clarke, Ex-Ald. David Ritchie, Hon. John Morrissey, J. D. Croaghan, and the secretary, R. A. N. Jarvis.

The president said that the meeting had been called to pay honor to the departing treasurer. Mr. Jardine's task as treasurer had been a difficult and important one, and had been filled ably and entirely satisfactorily. It would be hard to replace a man of his ability. Mr. R. C. Clarke, who was to be the new treasurer, would no doubt do well, but none could do better than Mr. Jardine. It would not be expressing the feeling of the committee unless they gave Mr. Jardine something to take away with him as a remembrance, and he took great pleasure in asking him to accept a club bag, as a token of their respect and good wishes.

W. A. Park said he regretted the departure of such a useful officer. While not in the least losing interest in the bank, no man had taken more interest in the town than Mr. Jardine. He would be successful wherever he went. Rev. S. J. MacArthur said that when a good citizen comes to town we like to have him stay. Apart from interest taken by Mr. Jardine in banking circles, he would be missed as a church member, also as a curier and in many ways. In the patriotic fund, no one realized the amount of work done by Mr. Jardine. He personally would regret his departure.

Rev. Dr. Harrison agreed with all that had been said. While deeply regretting his departure, he was glad that Mr. Jardine's new position was an advancement.

E. A. McCurdy of the Royal Bank had great pleasure in adding his appreciation of Mr. Jardine. He had been very faithful and all appreciated his services he had rendered in all the activities of the town. Curling, Highland Society, etc. He was a very useful member of the Board of Trade. As a fellow bank manager, he was sorry indeed, that the head office had seen fit to transfer Mr. Jardine to another field. He was an ideal business man, and extended all good wishes.

Rev. W. J. Bate said that in the six years he had known Mr. Jardine, he had always found him to be a MAN, and everyone knows what that word means.

Ex-Ald. Ritchie regretted Mr. Jardine's leaving Newcastle. He appreciated the confidence that the citizens reposed in the local patriotic fund. He appreciated the work done by Mr. Jardine. He regretted his departure and wished him success in his new home.

R. C. Clarke spoke in similar strain. Hon. John Morrissey said he would rather have such men as Mr. Jardine coming to than leaving town. Mr. Jardine had been a success. Everyone regretted his leaving. He had been a good churchman, that was a good citizen. He hoped his successor, Mr. Kerr, would be as good a man. The banks want such genial men as Mr. Jardine and Mr. McCurdy, who take such an active interest in things outside the bank.

Mr. Creghan said that when Mr. Jardine first came here he showed faith in the town. He had always taken an active interest in the social and business life of the town. He would be much missed. He was sure Mr. Jardine would be a success in his new home.

Mr. Jardine, in replying, said that words failed him to express his thanks for the kind words that had been spoken. They touched him deeply, and he thanked the members heartily for their gift. He regretted leaving Newcastle and hoped to return. He had many friends here. He deeply regretted leaving the Miramichi, as he saw great development in store here and he had hoped to be able to participate in it. He appreciated the good will of the business men. He was well acquainted with his new field in Quebec, which included four branch banks. His associations with the curling club and Highland Society, of both of which he was president, here, were very pleasant. The Highland Society, of which little is heard, was doing good work, in providing scholarships as well as assisting the Miramichi Hospital. In regard to the patriotic fund, it was his great pleasure to be associated with men who were trying to do their bit in this great war, and when he had been asked to become treasurer, he felt it was his duty to do all in his power to help. In all, $9,789.20 had been subscribed to the West Northumberland branch, exclusive of county grant, and there was now about $1300 being paid out monthly. He was glad Mr. Clarke was to be his successor.

Mr. Jardine will be succeeded here as bank manager by E. L. Kerr, of Sydney Mines, N. S.

VIOLENT FIGHTING AT VERDUN

Paris, June 22.—After violent attacks lasting all night, the Germans captured front line trenches between Fumin Wood and Chenois, in the Verdun sector, according to an official statement issued to-day by the war office. The Germans attacked in force on both banks of the Meuse, after the usual heavy bombardment. An attack on the south slope of Dead Man Hill was checked by grenade detachments, according to the official statement.

On the right bank of the river there were violent engagements west and south of Fort Vaux during which the Germans gained a footing in a corner of Fumin Wood, but were immediately expelled.

Later they returned to the attack when some trenches were captured. A German grenade assault north of Hill 321 was stopped by the French fire.

El Paso, Texas, June 22.—A detachment of American cavalry clashed with Carranza forces at Carrizal, about yesterday, both sides suffering heavy casualties, according to unofficial reports received by Mexican military authorities in Juarez to-night. According to the report, which the Mexican authorities are investigating, forty Americans were killed by machine gun fire in a surprise attack.

Washington, June 22.—General Pershing's interpretation of the fight between Carranza troops and American cavalry near Carrizal, Mexico, yesterday, expected momentarily today, probably will determine largely whether the incident will precipitate immediate war.

If this report declares the American soldiers were attacked in an apparent attempt to enforce General Carranza's demand that the United States troop movements be only north toward the border, it is considered probable the clash will be accepted by President Wilson as an act of war.

Mexico City, June 22.—Extra editions of the newspapers and bulletins posted about the city last night told of the defeat of American troops at what is styled "The Battle of Carrizal." The Americans are declared to have been dispersed and seventeen prisoners captured.

The official version of the clash says that the Americans attempted the capture of the railroad station at Carrizal, and were engaged by General Felix Gomez, who was in command of the Carranza garrison. General Gomez was killed in the battle. It is announced that among the prisoners was an American interpreter, who confessed it is claimed, that the American commander was the aggressor.

ALLIED FLEET BEFORE THE PORT OF ATHENS

Paris, June 22.—An Allied fleet has been ordered to cruise before Piraeus, the port of Athens, according to a Havas despatch from Saloniki. It is said that the fleet eventually will be supported by a landing party.

The fleet, made up of squadrons of the Allied nations, will be commanded by Vice Admiral Moreau. The despatch says the action of the landing party "will depend upon events."

Piraeus, the second largest city of Greece, is five miles southwest of Athens. It is a hundred miles below Saloniki.

Pershing's Report Eagerly Awaited—Incident May Start Immediate War

Buy a Ford, not because it is cheaper, but a better car

Mark well the sterling construction of the Ford car.

The testing department of the Conservatoire National des Arts et Metiers of the French Republic made a highly scientific comparison between Ford constructive material and the material used in another very noted and expensive car. In every test the Ford material proved superior.

The service given by Ford cars in Quebec has fully substantiated the results obtained by these French scientists.

Buy a Ford, not only because its first cost is less, not alone because its maintenance cost is less, but because its quality of service is greater,—because it gives more mileage per dollar invested than any other make of car you can buy.

And if you want your Ford this summer, buy it today to ensure prompt delivery.

ANOTHER FOX FARM FOR CAMPBELLTON

Dr. Sproul Has Established Here a Most Up to Date One

Dr. Sproul who last fall purchased the Ross property on the Lily Lake Road, containing some seven acres, has recently erected thereon an up to date fox farm. About one acre of this property, which is most beautifully situated for the purpose, has been recently fenced in with a high board fence, inside of which another fence, wholly of wire has been erected. Inside the wire enclosure there are some twenty-five compartments where foxes of different kinds are separately kept. In each compartment are well arranged pens for the proper care of the animals. Just outside the wooden enclosure a neat building has been provided for the manager with two windows overlooking the ranch. This enables the manager to at all times protect and care for the valuable stock. Dr. Sproul has already at this ranch two pairs genuine black foxes and several pairs of patch foxes. By next fall the doctor expects to have the ranch well filled with a most valuable stock. A fine brook runs through the property which provides ample water for all purposes.

SMASHING BLOW GIVEN TURKEY

Arabian Rebels Capture the Holy City of Mecca

London, June 22—Reports have been received here that a serious uprising against the Turks is in progress in Arabia and that the rebels have captured the Holy City of Mecca. The London newspapers declare that the rebellion is certain to have an important bearing on the war, especially as regards the participation of Turkey. The Post says: "The uprising is due to recent wholesale executions of Mohammedan and Syrian notables and well-known religious leaders, and also to the spread in Arabia of a feeling that the Turks have abdicated their position as the protector of the Mohammedans and have become the vassals of Germany."

REAL ACADEMIC DIGNITY

Max Miller tells a story of one of Dr. Strachan Davidson's predecessors as Master of Pailion. "Once" when returning from a solitary walk, Dr. Jenkins, whose regard for his own dignity was very great, slipped and fell. Two undergraduates, seeing the accident, ran to assist him, and were just laying hands on him to lift him up when he described a Master of Arts coming. "Stop!" he cried, "I see a Master of Arts coming down the street," and he dismissed the undergraduates with many thanks and was helped on his legs by the M. A.

LT. AUSTIN MURRAY KILLED IN ACTION

Another Popular Campbellton Boy Gives Life For His Country

Dr. Murray of this town received a telegram from The Record Office, Ottawa, dated June 19th, conveying the sad news that his son Lieut. Austin Russell Murray was officially reported killed in action on June 16th. The sad news quickly spread and cast a gloom over the entire town, as Austin, as he was familiarly known, was a great favorite with all.

His father, sister and brother have the most sincere sympathy of all in their hour of sorrow, but the departed has left a record of which any family might well be proud.

Lt. Austin Murray was about 22 years of age. He graduated at the High School here 4 years ago and was Class historian of that year. While attending School he took a course in signalling under Sergeant Lowe, where he led his class and obtained a Grade A Certificate. He also studied photography and telegraphy and became quite proficient in both.

After leaving School he took a Course in Practical Engineering in Boston and subsequently studied for a year in the Engineering Department of the U. N. B. at Fredericton.

As soon as war was declared he was anxious to enlist for overseas service at once, but owing to the illness of his mother, who died very shortly afterwards, his plans for the time being had to be abandoned.

He was no shirker, however, and felt that he had a duty to perform for his country, and in view of his previous training, especially in engineering, he felt that he could do his part better and be of more service to his Country in the Artillery than anywhere else. In order to qualify for that branch of military service he took a course at the Royal School of Artillery at Kingston, Ont., where he obtained his commission as a Lieutenant.

Shortly afterwards, through the authority of Major General Rutherford of Halifax, on the recommendation of Major Ringwood and Capt. Stacey of Kingston, (two of his former instructors) he obtained an appointment with the 5th Artillery Brigade, then training at Sewell Camp, (now Hughes Camp) Manitoba, known as the "Crack Brigade of the West."

He joined this Brigade in Montreal in the early part of August, just as the Brigade was en route to England. He remained in England about 2 weeks, during which time he taught Squad Drill and gave instruction in gunnery to a Section of the Brigade, besides attending evening lectures given by Officers who had returned from the firing line. He was then subjected to a searching examination in the several branches of Field Artillery, after which he was selected with other officers of his Brigade to go immediately to the firing line in France and thence to Belgium, where he arrived about the middle of September, (just five weeks from the time he left home). On arriving in Belgium he joined the 12th Battery, 3rd Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, with the First Canadian Division, as Field Observing Officer and recently was Sectional Battery Commander, where he has been doing his bit for his Country ever since.

He has been in the firing line around Ypres and other points along the Western front for the past nine months, during which time Artillery bombardments were almost continuous. He was slightly wounded twice by shell explosion during the past few months, and was one week in the hospital, but in writing home and to other friends from time to time, he always stated that he was pleased he enlisted, to help in the struggle for liberty and justice in which our country is engaged.

Mrs. Norah Mulvaney one day met her friend, Mrs. Bridget Carr, who had in her arms her twelfth child.

"Arrah, now Bridget," said Norah, "an' there ye are wid another little Carr in yer arms."

"Another it is, Mrs. Mulvaney," replied her friend, "an' it's me that's hoppin' 'tis the caboose."

FUNERAL LATE MRS. STEWART

The funeral of the late Mrs. Matthew Stewart was held at Dalhousie at the Episcopal Church on Friday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock and was largely attended. The remains were brought over from St. Omer. The chief mourners were her husband, Mr. Matthew Stewart and her son, Bruce Stewart. The pall-bearers were:—Mr. James E. Stewart, Mr. Oakleaf, Capt. B. Disbrow, Mr. Thomas Scott and Sgt. Tomlinson. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart resided here for a number of years and all join in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

Lloyd George said the other day: "The church to which I belong is torn with a fierce dispute; one part says that it is baptism in the name of the Father, and the other that it is baptism in the name of the Father. I belong to one of these parties. I feel most strongly about it—I would die for it; but I forgot which it is."

OBITUARY

The news of the death of Mr. P. J. Crowley came as a shock to many citizens Tuesday morning, he having passed away during the night.

About a year ago deceased had taken ill and was obliged to give up his position as head book-keeper for the J. & D. A. Harquail Co., Ltd. Recently he went to Montreal for treatment in the hope of recovering his health of former years, but to no avail. On his return to Campbellton it was quite apparent his remaining days were few, and while his death was not unexpected it nevertheless cast a gloom over the community.

The late Mr. Crowley came to Campbellton about twenty years ago. He leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and devoted husband and father a bereaved wife and six small children. His brothers are Cornelius, of Boston; John and Simon of St. John. His sister, Miss Elizabeth, also resides in St. John. Deceased was seventy-eight.

To the heartbroken family the sympathy of the community is extended in this their hour of sore bereavement. The funeral which was held Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, Rev. Father Wallace officiating, was largely attended. The body was forwarded to St. John for interment.

After a lingering and painful illness of nearly three years, Clementine England, wife of David Fraser of Metapedia West passed away at her home on Saturday, June 17. The deceased, who was fifty-nine years of age, was born at Metapedia West, where she has lived all her life and where many friends are left to mourn her loss.

Throughout her long illness she showed the quality of Christian fortitude and was always patient and cheerful in spite of pain.

She leaves to mourn her loss a bereaved husband and eight children, seven daughters, Mrs. Gordon Ferguson of Kedgewick; Mrs. John Murray of Patapedia; Mrs. William Ferguson of Flat Lands, Mrs. James and Richard Fitzgerald residing near the old home, and Misses Laura and Effie and one son, Murray living at home; also three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Moore of Tustan, Cal.; Mrs. J. E. Plasket of Snochomish, and Mrs. Marjorie White of Maine, and two brothers, John and Gordon England, both of Seattle, Wash. The funeral, which was held on Monday, was largely attended and many beautiful flowers were sent.

MRS. A. B. MCKINNON

The death occurred early Sunday morning at the residence, Queen St., of Mrs. A. B. McKinnon, from acute indigestion and heart failure. Mrs. McKinnon had been down to the park to hear the band concert Saturday evening and was taken suddenly ill. Doctors Loggie and Duffy worked with her until midnight, when she became unconscious, dying about two hours later. Her husband, Mr. A. Burnet McKinnon was in Dalhousie and was coming down on Monday. He had taken a house there and had it all furnished ready to go housekeeping.

Mrs. McKinnon was a bright, lovable girl, always the picture of health, and her sudden death came as a great shock to her friends. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. John Cameron, one brother, Alexander, and two sisters Mrs. H. Eldon Prescott and Mrs. Fred A. Prescott, both of Boston, who arrived home Tuesday morning—World.

Mrs. McKinnon spent the winter at Dalhousie with Mr. McKinnon, and made many friends in Restigouche, who will regret to learn of her untimely death. Mr. McKinnon has the sympathy of all in his sudden bereavement.

MURDERED BY THE GERMANS

Ghastly Story from the Front

Ottawa, June 19.—Surgeon General Jones has reported to General Hughes the murder of wounded Canadians by Germans in the recent fighting.

"I have heard to-day," he says, "a ghastly story about Capt. W. R. W. Haight, medical officer from British Columbia. He was reported missing at first, but when the lost ground was regained the regimental aid post was found to have been filled with wounded. One and all—patients and medical officer—had been bayoneted and done to death in a most brutal manner."

THIS IS GREATEST AUTOMOBILE YEAR

Fredericton, June 17.—Almost 2,000 automobiles have been registered in New Brunswick during the present year, according to figures to be published by the Glenner today. The present season has been the greatest in the history of the province from an automobile standpoint, and up to June 10, 1916 cars had been registered, of which 569 are new cars, as against 881 up to June 10 last year. Receipts have jumped correspondingly this year, and upwards of $24,000 has been paid in at the department of public works in licenses up to date, as compared with $15,000 last year.

A literary critic of doubtful ability, has lately risen on our horizon, and if we are any judge, his career will be a meteoric one. The truth must out, when the one signed "ratepayer" had to employ outside talent to defend him, but as we plainly stated in other issues, that he had no ability, it is useless to waste further words, but turn our attention towards the "echo of those distant hills."

We were expecting to learn something, as the word was passed that an interesting article was to appear, but the condensed form of the writer gives us no new information. He advises the correspondent to fall back to the elementary studies, which possibly he needs going over himself. Clemency in the choice of words is generally determined by the ability and popularity of the writer, and while we presume this is his first effort, we think he has made a poor showing. He is certainly lacking in diction, as the word doggerel is applicable only to verse; and if our friend can make three errors in the choice of words in as many lines, we think he had better abandon his new field. We cannot agree in his statement that we were hasty. We have people in this town who have been through incorporations and who have lived under their conditions, surely they are better able to judge an issue of this kind than our friends, who has never had any practical experience whatever.

In a short time we will be enjoying all modern conveniences and paying less than 20% of the total tax. In other small incorporations towards the ordinary ratepayer has to shoulder all, but here the Company is paying 85% of all, then our friend tells us we were hasty. What do you think of him? Animated mind! In fact we cannot find words strong enough to express our disgust. He is trying to cover his tracks, but men of sober judgment see through his diplomacy.

THE DANGER OF TYPHOID FEVER

Those Going Out of Town Warned Against Impure Food and Drink

(New York Times)

A very careful study regarding the source of typhoid fever in this city has just been made by the Health Department, which shows that of the 2,456 cases reported last year 372 came from an out-of-town source. Statistics show that there is a slow, but constant, improvement here in so far as typhoid is concerned. It is pointed out by the health authorities that it is extremely difficult to trace the disease to its true source. In 1915 the Health Department had to specify 1,522 cases as of unknown origin.

Dividing the cases into causes other than from out-of-town sources, the department records for 1915 that 165 cases came from direct exposure and 165 from milk that was contaminated after pasteurization or infected by water used; 98 from food contaminated by flies, 118 through disease carriers, and 12 from eating watermelon that had floated in contaminated harbor water. Not a single case is recorded as being caused directly from water or oysters.

The analysis, Dr. Havens Emerson, the Health Commissioner says, supports the contention of Dr. Rollman that up to now the typhoid fever of most large cities in this country has been very largely rural in origin.

"In this city," said Dr. Emerson, "an enormous reduction of typhoid fever of rural origin has occurred, and this is undoubtedly of all Croton water and the effective pasteurization of the city's milk supply. The lesson taught by the figures is clear and may well be studied by other American cities which desire to act effectively with typhoid fever—the national disgrace."

The small proportion of cases due to exposure to another case, and of those due to fly transmission, are very creditable, and speak well for the prevailing sanitary conditions and for the medical supervision of the cases in this city. Nevertheless, the fact that typhoid fever immunization is now everywhere recognized as an efficient preventive of infection should cause all who are called upon to treat typhoid fever to insist on the use of this valuable prophylactic to the end that the occurrence of infection through direct exposure will be reduced to a minimum.

PAPER FAMINE IS THREATENED

Paper Mills Closed Down, Owing to Floods and Western Papers Reduce Size of Sheets

The scarcity of news print paper threatens to become very serious in Western Canada. Owing to floods, paper mills located at St. Francis may be compelled to shut down for sixty days, and a large paper mill on the American side, which receives power from the same source, will be similarly affected, practically putting out of business some 65 newspapers in the United States.

The quantity of news print paper required to meet such a situation is so great that it cannot be met by the eastern paper mills.

E. H. MacKlin, president of the Winnipeg Free Press, who has been in Toronto looking for relief, has wired his paper instructions to make material reductions in the size of the paper, in anticipation of the crisis. All the Winnipeg papers and many of the western papers, who receive their supply from the same source, will be forced to take radical steps to meet the threatened paper famine.

"Don't you think Miss Howler has wonderful control of her voice?" "No, I don't. She sings every time anyone asks her to."

"Has Dasher increased his literary output since he adopted efficiency methods?" "Yes; he saves all of the phrases discarded in the final draft of his stories, combines them in dozen lots, and sells them as Vers Libre."

VIVIDLY DESCRIBES

MIRAMICHI FIRE

Interesting Excerpt From Historical Work by J. F. W. Johnson.

Mr. James F. W. Johnson, in his "Notes on North America," Volume II, gives a vivid description of the great fire of the Miramichi in 1825. As accounts of this fire are very rare, it may be interesting to reproduce this one as it was taken down from the lips of a Mr. Rankin, who personally saw the fire. The account in Volume II of the work named reads as follows:

"In describing my previous journey down the Miramichi, I have spoken of the burnt lands through which we passed, and of the bleak and desolate appearance they still presented, though the great fire which desolated them happened five-and-twenty years ago. In the course of this evening Mr. Rankin, in whose memory all the horrors of that time are still fresh, interested me much by graphic details of his personal experience when the fire appeared among them. It was an excessively hot summer and fires were burning in numerous places upon the Miramichi and St. John rivers and their tributaries, and the air was everywhere hot, and obscured by smoke. But on the 7th of October, it began to blow from the southwest, and the fire to spread over the country in the same direction. The wind increased gradually to a hurricane, and the fire advanced with proportionate rapidity. At one o'clock in the afternoon, it was still seventy miles up the river, and in the evening, it was at Douglastown. It travelled eighty-five miles in nine hours, so that scarcely on a fleet horse could a man have escaped from it. Lumberers already in the woods were caught, and solitary settlers with their families; and while all their property was destroyed some saved their lives by rolling themselves in the rivers, till the scorching blast passed over them. Instances of miraculous escape he told us—of parental devotion, and of selfless devotion, and of the most striking things, he mentioned, were that the flame, as it advanced, was twenty-five miles in breadth, that coming from the west, it rushed past the towns of Newcastle and Douglastown, leaving a green margin of some miles in breadth between its southern edge and the river; and that when in its easterly course, it reached Burnt Church River, the wind lulled, turned round, and drove the fire up the river again. It then came back along the green fringe it had left as it descended, and by the way loked up the towns of Douglastown and Newcastle—of the first houses leaving only 14. It was doubtless the rushing of the sea wind from the Gulf of St. Lawrence into the huge fiery vortex, that drove back the flame when it had reached the open mouth of the Miramichi River.

"At these towns men and cattle rushed into the river, and though a hurricane was raging on its surface, people hurried into vessels and boats and across were eagerly thrust off from the land. The lesser dread was forgotten in the presence of the greater. But although so huge a flame was raging, there was no light. Showers of ashes and burned twigs and still burning brands and thick smoke, filled the air; and for two days, afterwards, amid a perfect calm, the darkness on the river was such that a bell was kept tolling on each bank to indicate the size of the ferry, that people might know where to steer to.

"The town of Chatham, on the opposite side of the river, in a greater extent occupied; but the Nassau Settlement, six miles behind it, was burned to the ground—the settlers only saving their lives by rolling themselves in the river till the flame passed away. In many streams, where the native woods still overhung them, the water proved insufficient to preserve human life; and the thousands of salmon and other fish found floating on their surfaces showed how intense and penetrating the heat must have been.

Over many other parts of the province, great fires raged on the same day, and the loss to the province, not only in private property, but in the public forests consumed, was immense. The loss of private property at Miramichi alone was estimated at $228,000. Nor, in such burnings, is the public injury confined to the old forest trees consumed, which it will take many years to replace, but the soil itself is permanently injured by every such visitation. The clouds of ashes borne away by the wind are an actual ebber by nature, and an exhaustion of the land. It is in this way, no doubt among others, that land is destroyed as the provincials term it, by frequent burnings.

"On this occasion, cinders and smoke were observed at Quebec, on the banks of Newfoundland, and even as far off as the Bermudas."

Rivers—How did Wedrox get his start? Bridges—He married the first dollar he ever earned. "Here's a scientist thinks all idiots ought to be killed off in their infancy." "Good heavens! Isn't this war reducing the world's population fast enough?"

special literature regarding them will be sent on application to the Carrite-Paterson Mfg. Co., Ltd., St. John, Halifax and Sydney.

STEEL SHIP BUILDING, ONE OF CANADA'S INDUSTRIES WITHIN THE NEAR FUTURE

A number of letters dealing exclusively with facts, are reproduced below: Office of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries of Canada, Ottawa, 17th May, 1916.

Dear Sir: I am in receipt of yours of the 11th inst., and in reply thereto may say that the Dominion Government has not yet come to any conclusion with reference to the encouragement of ship-building in Canada. It, however, purposes to give thorough consideration to the matter during the Parliamentary recess.

The financial situation is the great deterrent to any present action, as the war is making tremendous demands upon the country's resources and thereby restricting expenditure in other and less pressing directions. Yours very truly, J. D. HAZEN.

H. H. Blanchet, Esq., Halifax Hotel, Halifax, N. S. Where the ship plates, castings and forging will be made. New Glasgow, N. S., May 28th, 1916. H. H. Blanchet, Esq., Amherst Hotel, Amherst, N. S. Dear Sir: Your letter of this date to hand this P. M. and noted. In reply to your question, which I understand to be, that in the event of the Dominion Government's persuading a ship yard to start building ships in Nova Scotia by giving a subsidy covering a period of fifteen years, would we put in a rolling mill to manufacture ship plates up to any size required for modern merchant ships.

Second, would we undertake to make forgings and casting required for these. In reply, desire to say that this company have many years been in position to roll sheets up to fifty inches in width and from one eighth to one half or five eights inch thick. Further the Dominion Steel Corporation, Sydney, have on the ground for ten years past a modern plate mill with a capacity for sheets ten feet wide and running anywhere from one quarter to one and one quarter inches thick. This mill has not been installed simply because they did not see sufficient business for it.

While we have no authority to speak for them, we have very little doubt that they would set up this mill if sufficient business warranted. We are in a position to supply all the forgings of every description required for steel steamers up to dimensions very much larger than are likely to be built in this country for many years to come. In fact we have shipped upwards of 5,000 tons of every heavy marine forgings fifteen tons in weight.

With regard to your request that we supply you with a letter to friends in New York who secure information in regard to German shipbuilding subsidy policy. We regret that we are unable to do so at present, as we are unable to whom we could refer you in a matter of this kind. Yours respectfully, THOS. CARTHAY, President and General Manager. What the British Ship yards say: H. H. Blanchet, Esq., Amherst Hotel, Amherst, N. S. Dear Sir: With reference to your letter of May 29th, I have had some correspondence with England, but have not, as yet, located any firm there willing to branch out at the present time. A number of the steel ship building firms are now busy at munition making, and it is claimed that the rolling mills in Great Britain are unable to turn the ship plates for the amount of work that is now in the ship yards in that country.

Only yesterday, I received a letter from one of the largest ship building firms there, in which they stated that it is the opinion that everyone connected with the ship building industry in Great Britain is so fully occupied at the present time to preclude him from entering into any projects outside the local sphere of action, but when matters have become normal and the manufacturers of steel plates, and consequently material, in this country, are in a position to supply promptly and cheaply, the requirements of a local ship building industry, undoubtedly some will be quick to realize the possibilities and establish new works. This firm was kind enough to say that, in their opinion Halifax Harbour is undoubtedly the best for such an industry.

If there is any additional information you may require, I will be pleased to correspond with you at any time. Yours very truly, E. A. SAUNDERS, Secy. The Only Way. 1st. Must have the approval of Agriculture vote. 2nd. Arranged to get the mutual support of the big railway interests.

OFFICER TELLS OF SUB. IN COLLISION

Graphic Description of Effect of Striking Mine

Jane Anderson, writing in the London Daily Mail, says: In a certain dockyard in England is one of the finest of His Majesty's submarines, which with her bow twisted and bent as the result of a collision with an enemy mine in enemy waters, covered a distance of almost 300 miles under her own power and arrived safely in a home port.

Through the courtesy of the British Admiralty I was permitted to see her and talk with her officers and crew. Her bow plating is torn into strips and two of her torpedo tubes are crushed. Two of her bulkheads are broken away at the bow, but in the tubes are two unexploded torpedoes. Their casing is twisted and stove in, but the quality of the high explosive and the mechanism controlling it prevented an explosion, thus saving the vessel from total destruction.

She struck a mine head on, the explosion sent the crew sprawling. The motors did not stop and the dial did not cease to register. She dropped to the bottom of the sea and the water flooded in under the doors of the torpedo tubes. But within ten minutes she had been righted, had come to the surface and turned her nose toward home.

When I looked at her it seemed incredible that she had been under the coast guns of the enemy and that she could have returned safely with the information she had been sent to obtain. Added to this was the fact that she had been on a voyage in a high sea and that for twenty hours, forceless, she evaded the enemy patrols.

I had heard stories of German submarines sunk by a single shot, so I asked one of the officers how his boat had survived the tremendous shock of a mine explosion. "She held because of her strength," he said. "It broke her bow and it tore off two of her bulkheads. But the last one held. The efficiency of her pumps was not impaired. Within two minutes we had them working."

He asked me if I would not come below. I went, and could see no traces of the accident. Only the wheel controlling the bow rudder was not true. CHILLING MOMENTS "You see," one of the officers explained to me, "we don't know what had happened—the water spurting in and broken glass everywhere. We didn't know how much of her was gone. We knew that every man aboard her had been knocked flat on his face, that the glass off the dials was rattling about under foot. But we didn't know what was to become of us. We were far down as we could be, and as for getting up—well, it didn't look like much of a chance."

"It was fine to see the crew. They got on their feet and at their stations before the commander had time to order them there. In two minutes the order to rise had gone through to the engine-room, and the pumps were going. But whether we were going to rise or not remained to be seen. w-AJTHEHf kaw L- altSo.

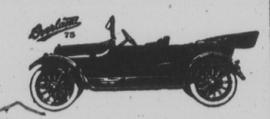

"It was still enough down there after all the noise of the explosion. You could hear the motors turning—it's not much of a noise they make. But we were glad enough to hear it. And when we saw that the bubble in the clinometer (which shows the angle of inclination) was registering, and that the inclination was becoming less, we knew that matters were not as bad as they had seemed. "WE WERE MOVING."

"Then they reversed the motors. We waited. That was a bad minute. Then the broken glass began to rattle about again. We were moving. "We weren't long in getting up. At any time there's nothing like coming over the top of the waves after a bit. But this was different. Yes, this was a bit different. . . . We came up. In the silence-room there was the noise of the wireless sparking. The operator was testing it. At any rate we were floating. So we started looking her over for her damage. "We found out what we'd come into, knew that there was no mistake about the mine. . . . Things didn't look particularly promising. But it all came down to whether we could make a port alone or whether we couldn't. "The wind was working better. That is, we could send; we couldn't receive. We took a look at the bow plating and at the bulkheads. They looked pretty bad, hanging loose in strips. But we decided we could make it. The engines were right, nothing broken there. The periscope was true. It was only her bow and her rudder that were gone. So we braced back. The waves broke over the bridge and pounded on the one bulkhead we had left forward. And so we came home."

I looked again at her smashed bow and torn bulkheads, and I remembered that she had dodged the patrols; that she had sent no message asking for help, had come back broken and battered. But the work she had been sent to do she had done.

AT SHERIFF'S SALE

By Catherine Channer.
Five years after John Morton left Prineville he had become a successful civil lawyer with some very big names on his list of clients. With professional success had come also social recognition and establishment in exclusive bachelor quarters. All this had kept him so occupied that scant time had been left to keep up friendly intercourse with the Prineville people, and since the death of his only Prineville relative, John Daniels, the lawyer with whom he had first read law, had not been back to visit the little county seat town.

Seated in his book-lined office one summer morning, John Morton was going over his personal accounts, and certain items of his living expenses rather staggered him. He got to thinking of the vastly smaller sums he had spent for similar items five years before.

"It's a pretty stiff pace I'm going," he mused, "but the real point is where will I land if I keep up the pace? Is it worth the price?"

Just then the postman came in and deposited some mail on John's desk. There were some letters of professional import, a club notice of a banquet for a distinguished visitor to the city, a legal publication or two, and the little home paper from Prineville, with its four pages tightly folded and enclosed in a manilla wrapper.

Many a copy of The Weekly Argus had gone into the waste basket unopened, but on this particular morning it was the paper that claimed precedence over all the other mail. John tore off the wrapper, spread the small sheets before him on the table, and smiled at the familiar names and the accounts of trivial movements of various leading citizens.

Over in the right-hand column of the third page was a row of legal notices, and a glance over these brought an in-drawn whistle of surprise from John. He smoothed out the paper impatiently with one hand, while the other hand went to his head and rubbed up his well-brushed hair.

The cause of his agitation was this notice: Pursuant to the order of the County Court, I the undersigned, Sheriff of Cornwall county, will, on Monday, June 12, at the north door of the courthouse, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, sell at public sale to the highest bidder for cash certain property of Barbara Anderson, consisting of the following: there followed a detailed description of what John readily recognized as the old Anderson homestead, which stood on the outskirts of Prineville, and which he recalled as the scene of many a lively tennis game with Barbara. With his elbows on the desk and his head in his hands, John sat staring at the notice, but what he really saw was a thousand incidents of summers gone by.

He also thought of the friendly correspondence he had kept up with Barbara when he first came to the city, and he winced as he realized that it was largely due to his negligence that the correspondence had entirely died out. Other causes were that he had been busy with his profession and Barbara had been tied down by the in-firmness of her mother. Following the shock of her father's death in a railroad accident,

He shook his head ruefully, for he knew that this relinquishment of her old home must be the climax of a long series of smaller sacrifices. He reproached himself that he had not written to Barbara after her mother's death, but weakly defended himself on the ground that he had not heard of it until a month after its occurrence, when he felt that to write to her might reopen a wound which had begun to heal.

He still sat staring at the little country newspaper fifteen minutes later when his stenographer returned from the law library, where he had sent her on an errand. In the little ante-room to his office she began clicking out a bill of particulars, and John resumed the opening of his morning's mail. The envelope at the top contained a draft for five thousand dollars, his fee for the successful handling of a case involving titles to valuable residence property. He looked long at the check, then suddenly pocketed it and began to sit about among the papers on his desk. He called the stenographer in and let loose such an avalanche of rapid dictation that she had to bend over her note book with flying fingers and start every now and then to catch up with him.

At 10 o'clock Monday morning enough of her whirlwind notes still remained to be transcribed to keep her busy all day, but there was no danger of her work being augmented for John Morton was a hundred miles away and was at that moment alighting from his dusty roadster in front of the old Anderson homestead.

He removed his linen duster, slipped it at his dusty shoes, and went striding up the walk to the front porch just as Barbara looked out of the window for the expected drayman who was to convey her trunk to the station. As her eyes were misty with tears, she failed to observe that the approaching man was other than the stalwart son of the drayman. When she opened the door to admit him she was speechless with surprise, but when John took both her hands between his and looked with friendly inquiry into her eyes, mere speech would have been an inadequate form of express anyhow.

With a directness and determination which had in five years' time put him on a professional plane with men ten years his senior John had in five minutes' time told Barbara that success had brought him nothing that took the place of their comradeship of five years before, and he begged her to renew it and to let him be a frequent visitor at the old home, as before.

"You'd always be welcome, John," she said cordially, but sadly, "but the old home is being sold this minute at the courthouse door. If it brings enough to pay the mortgage and to keep me in New York some, I can qualify for office work, I'll be in luck. You see, I couldn't leave mother to earn anything, and to give her the comfort she needed the home was heavily mortgaged. Perhaps you didn't know of her death."

John was ready to begin an explanation when the telephone rang.

"It's the sheriff, I'm sure," said Barbara nervously. "He is to call me up to say when and where to come to sign

NEW MACHINE GUN IS A MARVEL OF ITS KIND

Centrifugal Force Furnishes Power for Bullets—There is no Powder and no Smoke—It Would be Difficult for an Enemy to Withstand a Rain of Missiles From this Weapon.

Ever since the struggle between nations began the human mind has been busy trying to perfect such instruments of destruction that an army equipped with them would find it comparatively easy to conquer the foe. The engines of war in use today mark a wonderful advancement in military equipment. The weapons of the present might have been considered utter impossibilities a hundred years ago. However, our present instruments of destruction do not mark the last word in their line. New ideas are constantly being advanced, and new weapons are being perfected, and in view of this it might be prophesied that some day war will be impossible on account of the deadly tools that have come to the front.

In this connection it might be stated that a new type of machine gun has recently been invented and it is built on entirely new and radical lines from the machine guns in use to-day. This new gun is noiseless, smokeless and powderless and has a destructive force that might be considered greater than a body of thirty thousand men. We know of few inventions of modern times which have such great possibilities as has this weapon.

Centrifugal force is the power behind the bullets in this case. No explosive powder is necessary nor is there any need for shells. Hence there is no noise, no smoke, no flash or report and there is no recoil. The gun never gets heated and it cannot explode. It only takes two men to operate it. The weapon has a muzzle velocity of from 800 to 1,500 feet per second. To give the readers some idea of the gun's destructibility and economy to the nation that might adopt it, may be stated that this machine gun will discharge approximately a quarter of a million bullets per hour. The expense of discharging this number of bullets would be less than twenty dollars. Compare this with the expense of firing a similar number of projectiles of the ordinary or regulation calibre, where powder and shells are required. Salvos firing a quarter of a million bullets would cost about $5,000. This centrifugal machine gun can be built in sizes that shoot bullets ranging from three-eighths to one-half inch in diameter. The circular casing containing the rotating arms can be of any size up to three feet in diameter. The casing has a thickness of about one inch.

Mr. William A. Mills, of 171 Madison avenue, this city, is introducing this gun and he told a reporter for this publication, the other day, that a perfect working model has demonstrated the efficiency of the invention. Steps are being taken to interest the several Governments in the gun, and Mr. Mills hopes that Uncle Sam will come into possession of this deadly weapon which should prove very effective in times of war.

What the possibilities of a gun of this kind will mean for any nation that might come to own it can hardly be realized at a glance. The gun can be mounted on an automobile truck made to run from fifty to sixty miles per hour. The power which runs the automobile runs the mechanism of the gun that causes the propulsion of the bullets. These are poured into a hopper on top of the gun and are fed as fast into firing chambers as the demand is required. There is no heat nor recoil regardless of the speed with which the bullets are fired.

The barrel of the gun has an easy lateral movement and can swing from one side to the other like a hose playing a stream of water on a fire. One of these weapons could face an army of, say, thirty regiments of soldiers or thirty thousand men and could mow down the entire body of soldiers as easy as a scythe cuts a swath in the grass. There would hardly be an earthly possibility for an army to face successfully the fire from a gun of this kind which pours a veritable hailstorm of bullets into the attacking force who would either have to sacrifice their lives or beat a retreat.

The gun has an effective range up to one and a half-mile and hence it ought to prove very valuable in trench warfare. Since the velocity of the bullets can be regulated, their speed can be so diminished that the missiles would only injure and not kill the enemy.

"How does the breakfast suit you, John?" inquired the young bride anxiously.

"It's just right, dearest," said her husband. "It may be plebeian, but I'm awfully fond of calves' liver for breakfast."

"So am I, dear," said the wife. "Oh, John, don't you think it would pay us to keep a calf? Then we could have liver every morning for breakfast."

John wants something with the home that is worth more than any number of thousands. The man who bought it was acting for me, and what I want above all else is you."

After a few blissful moments had passed in silence, John asked: "If we were married before we sign the deed, what would be a joint ownership. What do you say?"

What she said was not audible, but John rightly understood it as an affirmative answer.

A GOODLY HERITAGE—FOR WHOM?
By G. B. H. Brooke.

The Drama Evolving

Now we will turn to the happenings of to-day—the Titanic—struggle on which, as we said, the attention of the whole world is focussed now. It is a struggle for world-power, or more properly speaking, it is an attack on the possessor of world-power by another Power who wants to be dominant. Nothing can be clearer than the constant emphatic declaration in German papers, that they are determined to wipe from England the world-power which she has held since Waterloo.

Germany has no illusions as to the Roman world-power being still in existence. She knows that it is England and England only that bars the way to all her aspirations and struggles for power. "Turn which way she will," so says a German paper, "there is a lion in the way, the lion of the British Empire." Yes, the great lion of Britain's vision, crouching and lying down, certainly, but still there. Who shall stir him up? Germany has done so, and he will not lie down till he eat of the prey and drink the blood of the slain. For he is the young lion also of Michael, S. "who if he go through treadeth down and breaketh in pieces and none can deliver."

Since her success in the French war, Germany has deliberately planned to subvert England in every way, in commerce, manufacture, sea supremacy, and influence, and she was fast doing it when this war stopped her. But if England has had and still has this world-power, and Israel was the nation God "tended it for, how are we to reconcile prophecy and fact? Easily. England must be Israel in disguise, and so she by many certain marks, which cannot be here enumerated. And if England is Israel, by the certain sign of the company of nations, she must be Ephraim. And if she is Ephraim, where is Manasseh? Not far to seek, there across the water is brother Jonathan—brother, not daughter like Canada—of the same origin and ancestry as England, and proud of being Saxon—not British, but Saxon—as England is. And Saxon is a word supposed to be derived from Isaac. If so, Jacob's prediction is fulfilled, that the name of Isaac should be named on Joseph's two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim.

There stands brother Jonathan eagerly watching the conflict here. Will he be drawn into it? Can he keep out of it? That is the question the world is asking to-day, and his destiny as Manasseh bears on the answer. So far the outcome of the war has

CANADIAN PRISONERS ARE CHERISHED BY THE BELGIANS
Remarkable Scenes in Town Held by Foo

London, June 18.—"Soldiers returning to Courtrai from the front on Wednesday declared that the Canadians fought like demons until they recovered the trenches lost during the previous week," writes a correspondent of The Amsterdam Telegraph, who adds that the German losses were heavy during the British bombardment preliminary to the recovery of the ground. The correspondent saw people from Courtrai who described the scenes there after the German defeat.

"I saw the German prisoners, taken from the British ambulances brought to Courtrai, and long the Rue de Lille and on the market place, where the wounded, dripping with blood, inhabitants at Courtrai rejoiced at their safe return, as on the previous Sunday they were eagerly forbidden to cheer when 200 Canadian prisoners were marched through Porte de Menin.

After being given some food in the city schoolrooms, the prisoners were taken to Ghent, and were cheered occasionally when the Belgian women caught sight of them. Not even the brutal punishments of the Huns prevented the Belgian women cheering. On Monday 57 men Canadians came through, but neither party had any officers, and no General was seen with them.

been to demonstrate the solidarity of the British Empire and the distinctiveness of its units—the tie that binds them together is one of blood and sentiment only, without a shadow of compulsion. And yet the tie has proved stronger as iron, in spite of Germany's plots and intrigues. Even in India, where the tie of blood is wanting, the bond of sentiment has held. Gratitude, India says, to England has kept her loyal, gratitude for her protection. Germany talk about England's oppression of India, but India knows better. But this tie of blood and sentiment that holds so strongly now, snapped in the case of America in 1783 under very slight strain. How can we account for that? Passing by lower political causes, we go straight to the fountain-head. "This thing is of Me," America's revolt from England just as much as Israel's revolt from Jeroboam. It was meant that America should work out on different lines her destiny to become a great people. A Republic, not a Monarchy—there could not be two thrones of the Lord—no State Church, perhaps that the benefit of one might be more clearly perceived. These are the principal features of America's new lines, and yet with it all it is an essentially English line that she has developed. Of the same language, laws and religion, it was indeed a New England that was founded in the New World. "Whatever good we have we owe to England," is the testimony of an American bishop.

EGG RECEIPTS THAT ARE USEFUL

Eggs in Potato Cases.—Allow a medium sized good shaped potato for every two people. Wash well, dry and bake until mealy, then cut each in half, scoop out the mealy portion which mix with a tablespoonful of cream or rich milk and a little butter, season with pepper and salt and put over boiling water to keep hot. Line each potato shell with a little chopped meat or sausage, drop in next a poached egg, then cover with the mashed potato, smooth with a knife blade, sprinkle the top with buttered bread crumbs and put in oven until tops are browned. If a bit is cut off of the ends of the potatoes and filled cases will set firmly on a napkin laid on a platter. Garnish with sprigs of parsley. If a meatless dish is desired chopped spinach cooked until soft may be used instead of the meat, and is even nicer.

EGG CREAM ON TOAST

Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a skillet and mix with it a level tablespoonful of flour, then remove from fire and add a half cupful of rich milk. Stir until creamy, having returned the skillet to fire and simmering contents. Separate yolks from whites of three eggs, beat whites to a stiff froth. Beat yolks slightly, then mix with the cream sauce, having again taken skillet from fire. Season with salt, pepper and a little cayenne if hot dishes are liked, then fold in the whites of the eggs and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley or chives. Have ready slices of thin buttered toast and on these pile the mixture, heaping it high, then bake in a hot oven until golden brown and serve at once. This is a delicious and very digestible dish.

SCALLOPED EGGS

This is as hearty as a meat dish and suitable for lunch or supper. Boil six eggs for twenty minutes, then shell and mix with it a level tablespoonful of butter and the whites of three eggs. Skell the eggs and cut in crosswise slices. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a skillet, stir in a level teaspoonful of flour, then add a half cupful of milk and cook for five minutes, stirring all the time. Add a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and season with salt and pepper, so like a little nutmeg. In an earthenware dish which has been buttered put a layer of bread crumbs, then a layer of egg slices, then moisten with some of the white sauce. Repeat until all the egg and sauce are used, finishing with a topping of bread crumbs over which put dots of butter and bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven. Serve hot in the baking dish.

RICED EGGS

Boil three eggs for half an hour, then shell, chop the white very fine. Make a white sauce with a tablespoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of flour and a cupful of milk. Season with salt and pepper, and the egg whites and pour over triangles of buttered toast, then rub the egg yolks through a sieve over the top and put in the oven for a minute to heat through.

"BRITISH NAVY'S RATING NEVER STOOD HIGHER"

King George Addresses Jellicoe's Men While Visiting the Grand Fleet and Thanks Them

London, June 18.—An official communication issued this evening gives an account of a recent visit by King George to the Grand Fleet and an address by the Monarch to the representatives of the units of the fleet on parade. In his address King George said:

"Admiral Jellicoe and officers and men of the Grand Fleet: You waited nearly two years with most exemplary patience for the opportunity of meeting and engaging the enemy's fleet. I can well understand how trying was this period and how great your relief when you knew, on May 31, that the enemy had been sighted. The unfavorable weather conditions and approaching darkness prevented that complete result which you all expected. But you did all possible in the circumstances. You drove the enemy into his harbors and inflicted on him very severe losses. You added another page to the glorious traditions of the British navy. You could not do more. For your splendid work I thank you."

At the conclusion of his visit the King sent the following message to Admiral Jellicoe:

"I am thankful that I had the opportunity of congratulating you and the Grand Fleet on the result of the recent engagement in the North Sea. Assure all ranks and ratings that the name of the British navy never stood higher in the eyes of their fellow-countrymen whose pride and confidence in their achievements are unabated. Good luck and Godspeed. May your future efforts be blessed with complete success."

King George left London Tuesday evening to visit the fleet, and returned to London to-day. During the course of his tour he inspected the whole of the Grand Fleet and visited all of the wounded men from the Skagerrack fight in the various hospitals.

FOOD RIOTS AGAIN IN GERMANY

More Evidence of the Increasing Economic Pressure Upon the Teutons

London, June 20.—(New York Times).—Evidence of increasing economic pressure in Germany and Austria, due to the allies' blockade, comes from various sources. The Daily Telegraph's Rotterdam correspondent says: "The Berlin meat ration for the week beginning yesterday is 10½ ounces a head, as compared with 12½ ounces last week. The official explanation is the number of cattle at its disposal will be smaller this week than last, but the truth is that in the latter period very many people were unable to obtain the quantity to which their meat cards entitled them."

The shortage of potatoes continues. The ration allotted for the period, June 17 to June 23 was 5 pounds per head, but the authorities now admit the available supplies are not adequate to this allowance, and announce that those unable to obtain potatoes claim an extra quantity of bread.

Serious disturbances took place in Aix-La-Chapelle Sunday. Thousands of people gathered in the streets and marched in procession. Afterward they assembled in large crowds, which had to be dispersed by police charges. Almost complete absence of foodstuffs caused the outbreak.

BANK AFTER WAR

New York, June 17.—The London correspondent of the Tribune says: "I learn from high authority that the British government is contemplating a project which is likely to have enormous effect on trade after the war. With the co-operation, it is hoped, of France and Russia, the government intends to establish an international bank with branches throughout the world, for the sole purpose of increasing and facilitating allied trade."

Tommy (to Jack, on leave).—What about the lingo? Suppose you want to say egg over there, what do you say? Jack.—Ye just say "Ooof." Tommy.—But suppose you want two? Jack.—Ye say, "Twa cofs" and the siller sold fule wife eies ye three, and ye just gie her back one. Man, it's an awfu' easy language.

MORE INCREASES OF PAY FOR C. G. R. EMPLOYEES

Mr. A. R. Mosher, President of the C. G. R. E., Reports an Entirely Satisfactory Interview With the General Manager—Increases of From 20 to 40 Cents a Day Granted to the Men.

A committee from the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees interviewed the General Manager of the Canadian Government Railways Wednesday morning regarding a new schedule, covering rates of pay and better working conditions for certain classes of employees.

The committee report that they had a very favorable interview with the General Manager, and succeeded in getting increases of pay, ranging from twenty to forty cents per day, for daily and hourly paid men, and $5 per month for all monthly paid men, under the jurisdiction of the Brotherhood. This will include clerks, freight handlers, roundhouse employees, and the laboring classes in general, on the entire Government railway.

The Brotherhood also made an agreement with the Manager to discuss a further increase and better working conditions within sixty days, and if they failed to agree with the management, the question will be left to arbitration. The committee naturally feels very pleased to be able to announce this, and to announce the very pleasant manner in which the General Manager met and discussed the questions at issue, and no doubt the employees affected will greatly appreciate the advanced rate of wages, considering the increased cost of living.

The Committee included: A. R. Mosher, Grand President of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, who acted as chairman; C. E. Cole, chairman of the General Committee; C. H. Kilmear, secretary of the General Committee, and others.

"If you have a muddy complexion and dull eyes, you are constipated. Six glasses of water daily one or two laxative Orderlies at night correct this condition and make you as fit as a fiddle. It's a good one, all it's said to be. Thos. Wran, druggist."

"I can't understand Jimmy and his wife falling out. She used to call him the light of her life."

"Yes, she did; but he went out too often."

It is true--the Ford car is best adapted to Quebec roads

Over the rough roads, through the sandy country highways, up the steep Quebec hills past the laboring heavier cars, the Ford goes easily, speedily, without fear or hesitation.

It is so strong—so light! The Ford engine has more power per pound weight of car than any other automobile engine made.

More Fords are being bought in Quebec this year than all other makes of cars put together—unquestionable proof that the Ford has given the greatest satisfaction for service over Quebec roads.

The demand for Fords is so great that production capacity has been strained to the utmost. If you want a Ford this season you should get your order in immediately—a day's delay may bring disappointment.

Why not see us to-day?
