Regarding Terms of Peace With the Boers

another big drive, in which seven Lost Without a Division-Untimely, But Its Sentiment Approved.

> Ottawa, April 23.-The discussion of Mr. Charlton's general amnesty resolution in the house today formed one of the most interesting debates of the session. In addition to Mr. Charlton and Mr. Bourassa, his seconder, the speakers were: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Monk, Mr. Monet, Mr. Sproule, Col. Hughes, Mr. Demers, of St. John, Messrs. Oliver Kemp and Robinson. MR. CHARLTON'S RESOLUTION.

On the motion to go into supply, Mr. John Charlton moved the resolution of which he had given notice, the language of which, as he intimated, had been changed slightly, but its purport remained the same. As presented by Mr. Charlton it read as follows: "This house is of the opinion that British supremacy should be maintained and firmly established in South Africa, to which end Canada has cheerfully contributed men and money. view the effect of a policy of magnanimity and mercy at the cession of Canada and at the close of the civil war in the United States, and for other reasons, this house is also of the opinion that in the interest of peace and of future tranquility, harmony and homogeneity in South Africa, the broadest policy of magnanimity and mercy be extended to a brave foe now opposing British arms, upon condition of submission to British control. And upon this opinion, humbly presented with the prayerful hope that it may aid in securing a favorable and honorable settlement of South African difficulties this house invokes the consider. PREPARING FOR CONFLICT culties, this house invokes the considerate judgment of his gracious Majesty

The speed maintained by her The motion was an humble expression after her accident is quite remarkable, of opinion on the part of the house. It she averaging 18 knots an hour, and might be asserted that it would be kept her course perfectly. The liner considered an act of impertinence to kept her course perfectly. The liner offer such a motion here. (Hear, hear.) Had the house not a right to express humbly an opinion as to the proper course to be pursued in securing the The Vienna Neues Weiner Journal settlement of this war in South Africa? The answer was a chorus of "No" characterizes the Morgan steamship combine as "the first world trust," and from the opposition benches. To this Mr. Charlton said that if the honorable gentlemen's policy of imperial defense carried, Canada surely have a voice in the expenditure of that money. The motion, Mr. Charlton continued, might be useless, but the spirit manifested in offering it could not be questioned, and could not be condemned Canada had great interests in this struggle, for she had made great sacrifices to maintain and uphold the integrity of the British Empire. Therefore, she was in a position to ask that an honorable peace be obtained. There should not be a different settlement with the Transvaal Boers and the Boers of Orange River Colony, and the Cape Afrikanders. The latter were an honorable foe and should not be treated as a rebel to hang in chains. The war was one of British against Dutch for the supremacy in South Africa, and a harsh settlement now would only be delaying the establishment of peace and prosperity in South Africa. As a parallel, Mr. Charlton eited the liberal policy pursued by Great Britain towards the 60,000 French subjects in Canada after its cession to England by the king of France.

Mr. Bourassa seconded the motion. He didn't fully agree with all Mr. Charlton's remarks, but he went half way to meet Mr. Charlton, because he believed his position as a Canadian representative demanded it. He had always taken the position that British supremacy must be brought about in South Africa, and the best way to part in an election held in a volost, a bring it about was to act according to the best of British traditions-respect the minorities and generosity towards three roubles because they refused to foes. He claimed that Canada was vote as this representative, called the within her right in offering her advice to Great Britain as to the terms of settlement of hostilities in South ### Africa. THE PREMIER.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had no doubt that the mover and seconder were both actuated by the very best of motives, and he agreed with the terms of the resolution that the war in South Africa be settled on the principle of British supremacy and generous treatment by the victorious to the vanquished, by the British to the Dutch. He did not think any resolution necessary to obtain this generous treatment for the Boer in South Africa. The premier continued: A brave foe always commands the respect of a brave opponent, and that is enough to show that the Dutch will receive generous treatment at the hands of their brave but it is being held back from shiprepublic, which is also in a state of eruption, has not been as active since ago that on the banks of Harts River the earliest Spanish settlement. It ap- a position had been intrusted to a few men, most of them I am proud to say, Canadians. They were assaulted for part of the day by an enemy eighty times their superior in numbers. Each assault was repulsed, but after each assault the thin band of defenders was reduced in numbers, and so reduced were they at last that there was not one man in that small force who had not been either killed or wounded. At last, when the position was carried, there was still a man left standing, proud and defiant, Bruce Carruthers was his name-a name which, I am proud to say, is honored in the hearts of his countryantees that British subsidized steamers men - who by all the rules of war might have been killed. But from the ranks of the enemy, in their symthat the proposed arrangements of the pathy, came the cry: "Do not kill combine do not exceed the limits of him; he is too brave a man; he must live." This, sir, is the lesson of the war, and I have no doubt the victorious British now in South Africa will display the same spirit. I have no doubt they will say: "The Dutch must live; they have earned it by their gallantry in the field." (Hear, hear.) The premier cited the home ered were several articles of gold and right to pass the resolution before the house: and if he thought it would strengthen the hands of the British Government in being merciful, he would not hesitate to pass it. But if the house were to interfere at this moment it might hinder the peace that all desired to see established." Mr. T. Monk, in the absence of the opposition leader, followed. He said it struck him from the first that the resolution was extremely untimely and out of place. Peace terms having practically been agreed upon between the leaders in the field, it was regrettable, whatever our prerogatives might be, to interfere in the negotiations, and perhaps imperil the beneficent work. After several other members had spoken, and mentioned amendments which they were prepared to move, th resolution was declared lost, without a division, and at 10 o'clock the house

THE PERILOUS FEAT OF A SLEEP-WALKER

Lad Climbs to the Top of a High Barn and Fastens a Tackle Block in Its Proper town, yesterday morning. Mr. Crozier has in his employ, together with several other farm hands, a lad, John Birch, whose parents reside at Wheeler. On Wednesday the farm hands had been engaged in placing in the large hay barn on the Crozier farm a rigging for unloading hay. It was necessary to fasten a tackle block to the highest refter in the harn. This to the highest rafter in the barn. This point could only be reached by crawling from a main beam along an inch board which stood edgewise with nothing for one to cling to save the roof boards, and a fall, should one miss his footing, would mean a plunge of 50 feet. After considerable discussion, in which Birch led, the matter was post-poned until the following day.

Birch stayed awake for some time that night, discussing with his bed-fellow a plan to fasten the tackle block. Birch's companion, a man named Wagner, was awakened at daybreak by Birch getting out of bed. Birch left the sleeping room and Wagner heard the outside door open and close. He sprang from the bed and ran to the window in time to see Birch, attired in a nightshirt, walking towards the barn. Hastily donning his clothes Wagner left the house and followed Birch to the barn. Birch, having several minutes the start of Wagner, was standing on the main beam leading to the narrow board from which it was possible to fasten the tackle. Wagner spoke to Birch and told him to come down and not be foolish as to hazard the attempt to fasten the block. Birch did not appear to hear and slow-ly began walking in his bare feet along the narrow board. One hand steadied his progress by holding to the roof, while in the other hand was held the burch was the large amount of valuable house of Matthew Gehan, with con-tents. Only for the Herculaneum ef-forts of hundreds of men from New-burgh, Strathcona and surrounding country a large amount of valuable house of Matthew Gehan, with con-tents. Only for the Herculaneum ef-forts of hundreds of men from New-burgh, Strathcona and surrounding country a large amount of valuable the tackle block. Wagner thought Birch insane and watched what would be his next move. When he had reached a point midway upon his narrow footing, he inserted the hook in the head of the block, between the roof rafter and the roof board, pulled upon it several times to test his strength, then turned and carefully re-traced his steps. Here he was met by Wagner, who noticed that the lad's eyes were wide open and staring. He spoke to him and he did not answer, and Wagner then realized that Birch was walking in his sleep. Birch returned to the house and retired again to bed. When awakened for breakfast he was told what he had done, but would not believe it. The truth of the story was found in the position of the tackle. Birch has no recollection of

KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

We leave Mr. Demers to describe his own case as he wrote it in a letter to us. Few human beings are ever called upon to suffer as he did from kidney disease. You cannot wonder at it that he is now enthusiastic in the praise of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Thave given him a new lease of life. They Mr. S. O. Demers, Conception Station, Labelle county, Que., writes: "I am writing you in order that others who suffer as I did may profit by my experience. For three years I was obliged to give up all work on account of severe pains in my loins, back and I had become so stiff in my body that I could not lean over without suffering the most excruciating

"I consulted several doctors and specialists, but all of them pronounced me incurable, and could not even give me relief. One had me incased in plaster in order to support the body, for I suffered dreadfully, but this only gave me temporary relief, and I thought myself condemned to die without being able to find a cure.

"About this time I received one of Dr. Chase's books, and found my case described exactly. The sample of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills which came with this book gave me marked relief, so I bought some more and continued the treatment. Gradually the sharp pains in the back and sides grew less severe, and my bowels became regular to Westminster Abbey with her husand active-constipation had been one of my worst symptoms.

"I had also suffered from indigestion and gas on the stomach, pains between the shoulders, in the back, oins and sides, frequent desire to urinate, and pain in making water, stiffness of the body, and all the sufaccompanying derangements of the liver and kidneys.

"Since using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills these ailments have become less and less, until now they have entirely disappeared. I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they have done so and brain troubles. much for me that I cannot say enough in their praise. The people in this county are surprised to see me so well again, and no wonder, for my cure has been almost miraculous."

> CROWNS OF THE EDWARDS. Not one of the Edwards was crowned with his queen in Westminster Abbey, except the first king of that name, and it is furthermore remarkable that the coronation of Edward I. and Queen Eleanor was the first that took place in the present Abbey of Westminster. King Edward II. was crowned alone, for he was not married at the time of his succession; the third Edward was a boy of 14 when he was crowned; Edward IV. was unmarried at the time of his coronation; Edward V. though he was born in the abbot's house at Westminster, where his mother had fled for sanctuary, and was so nearly crowned that even the wild fowl for the coronation banquet had been ordered, was never actually crowned, and Edward VI. was a boy of 10 when the ceremony was performed. Hence, from the auspicious occasion upon which the good Queen Eleanor went band until the present day, no Edward has been crowned with his wife.

KATHRYN KIDDER TONIGHT. "The Country Girl," in which Kathryn Kidder will appear at the Grand tonight, is claimed by dramatic authorities to be one of the funniest comedies ever written. The play has been amusing its audiences since 1675, when it was originally produced at the Theater Royal in London, The comedy, which was the work of William Wycherley, was first known by the title of "The Country Wife." In 1766 another version appeared, this time by the title of "The Country Wife." In 1766 another version appeared this time called "The Country Girl." The reviser was David Garrick, the most celebrated actor of his time, and in some respects the most distinguished disciple of Thespis who ever trod the boards in England. There have been many productions of the play in America and on the other side of the Atlantic, and the revival has always met with popular favor. There

Watkin-Mills' Canadian Tour. On April 8, commencing at Halifax, N. S., Mr. R. Watkin-Mills started on his tour of the leading cities of the Coast. It may be expected that this tour, like others of this famous artist, Dominion, going through to the Pacific will be eminently successful, and as on all previous occasions, Mr. Walkin-Mills will sing at every concert before one of the famous Heintzman & Co. ### GROWTH OF WEALTH IN GREAT BRITAIN

An Account of British Revenue and Expenditure for Forty Eight Years.

Sir Robert Giffen read before the Statistical Society an interesting and instructive paper on the growth of revenue and expenditure during the tress spring beds, goose-feather pillows past forty years. The whole paper is cause thereof, and if practicable offer worth study. But perhaps one of the some measure of legislation that will most interesting things brought out is the growth of wealth. Sir Robert says, speaking of the increase per head of the population in Great Britan alone, that is, including Ireland: "It cannot, in my view, be less than 25 per cent, in face of the figures showing the growth of income tax assess-ments between 1861 and 1901 from £335,500,000 to £788,000,000, or over 130 per cent, as compared with a growth of population, reckoning Great Britain only of 60 per cent. This would imply an increase of 40 to 50 per cent per head, and would certainly more than justify the assumption of an increase of 25 per cent only, which is necessary to the doubling of the resources of the country. Reckoning, moreover, the changes in the income tax recountry. by which the amount is understated, as compared with what was the case formerly, that is, adding nearly £40,000,000 to the above figure of £788,000,000, the increase would be no less than 140 per cent; as compared with an increase of 60 per cent in population, and would Denver, Cheyenne and points east, imply an increase of wealth per head passing through Ogden or Pocatello to of over 50 per cent.

Remodeling Digestive Vigor. Malt Breakfast Food

DOES THE GOOD WORK. Remodelling Digestive Vigor A breakfast grain food that can remodel impaired digestion is surely worth trying. Malt Breakfast Food does this good work in a way that cannot be accomplished by any other breakfast food seeking public recognition. A noted city physician, an authority on scientific dietetics, recently asserted that the majority of prepared grain foods tended to indigestion and stomach derangements, for the reason that these foods contained too great a quantity of insoluble starch and other elements difficult to digest. Malt Breakfast Food, partially cooked and predigested, is free from insoluble starch and other ingredients that hamper digestion. It has given new digestive vigor to thousands of dyspeptics and banished their troubles.

The Temperance Movement.

"You never miss the clock till stops ticking" is a Welsh apothegm. We have so long been accustomed to good government in the Province of Ontario that we take it, like the tick of the clock, as a matter of course that it will go on always. Sir Oliver Mowat is an ideal man as well as an ideal statesman. His aims were high, and he took public opinion steadily up with him. Around him were always found good men, such as the late Hon. T. B. Pardee, Hon. C. F. Fraser, Hon. A. M. Ross, Hon. S. C. Wood and their successors down to the present time, including Hon. A. S. Hardy and Hon. ernment of holding a club over the G. W. Ross, and it is safe to say that heads of the Canada Copper Company. among all the men by whom he has been surrounded in these long and prosperous years, no one stands out more prominently than Hon. George W. Ross, the present premier.

In that class of legislation that may resolution strongly, and it found hardly be called moral legislation there is no country in the world in advance of this Province. The Hon. George W. Ross has never been a laggard in this resay about the course of Mr. Whitney spect, certainly not on the question of advancing the temperance sentiment. piece of gross deception to try to put The change that the introduction of the Manitoba act would bring is not total prohibition, although it is as far in that direction as the Province has the situation neatly. How could the the power to go. It would not prohibit electors, he asked, be expected to place the manufacture or importation or any confidence in a party whose leadthe sale, subject to certain restrictions. We grant at once the difficulty of foreseeing the result of any act-time alone reveals that-but we have the past to guide us. The Scott Act in many parts was a decided and distinct injury. Would the Manitoba act be better or werse than the Scott Act? Would the his opinions to his face and practically Manitoba act improve or injure the prospect of ultimate and absolute prohibition? Which will soonest bring the highest state of temperance attainable by any people, the Manitoba act or a continuance in the future of the progress upward, made in the past, and acknowledged to have been genuine golden net over the sea as well as the and lasting? ### A Life Insurance Problem.

every well-wisher of this country.

A unique life insurance problem was presented to the manager of a British company recently. He received a letter from the holder of a policy for $20,-600, saying that his physician advised him that an immediate operation for appendicitis was necessary, involving, with hospital expenses, an outlay of $800, which the writer had no present means of paying. The letter continued: "I am sensible that I owe it to you, who have so large a pecuniary interest in my life, to give you the option to pay the cost of this operation to save my life, that I may continue to pay you the yearly premiums on my policy (I believe that I am otherwise strong and healthy), or in the alternative to pay the £4,000 to my beneficiary within a few weeks."

At last accounts the manager was debating whether it would be a good how abiding is the fame of Scotland's investment to advance the money to national bard. the policyholder, and perhaps postpone the payment of a larger sum to the beneficiaries. The incident suggests a probable extension of the field for insurance companies. At the same time It may be taken for granted that the average man will take pretty good care of members is 1,572,861, and the aggreof his own life without calling in the mid of the insurance company. The first with 162 unions, and Lancashire policyholder who, to save paying premiums, will resign his mortal being without making every effort to prolong it, is perhaps too rare to enter into insurance calculations. Neither is all not registered under the Friendly Sotruism so common that many would shorten their careers to let their relatives have the insurance money sooner. However in these days, when insurance companies are issuing policies on almost any contingency, there would seem to be an opening in the realm of Why not have appendicitis policies, for example? We suppose it would be difficult for the actuaries to compile a mortuary table based on the results of surgical operations.

FUNSTON MUZZLED BY THE PRESIDENT.

U. S. Army Officer Has Been Boing Too Much Shooting With His Mouth.

Washington, April 24.-By order of the president, Gen. Funston has been directed to cease further discussion of public questions. The president has telegraphed Funston not to speak at the Middlesex banquet in Boston.

Walter Wellman, in the Chicago Record-Herald, says: Members of the cabinet say President Roosevelt has for some time felt annoyance over the free and easy manner in which Gen. Funston was talking, and that he was particularly displeased with the statement credited to the general at Denver a few days ago that "Senator Hoar was suffering from an overheated conscience." In President Roosevelt's opinion this was in bad taste and altogether beyond the proper function of an army

President Roosevelt has also been disturbed by the criticism that he permits Gen. Funston to talk with the utmost freedom, because he stands up for the army end of the Philippine discussion, while he censures Gen. Miles for doing the same thing, only on the other side. The president wishes it to be distinctly understood that his rule to army and navy officers is "Don't talk unless you are officially called upon to do so," and that it does not matter what their views may be. It is safe to say that nothing further will be heard from Gen. Funston for some

BLAMES THE REPORTERS. Denver, Colo., April 23.-To a representative of the Associated Press, Gen. Funston said, with reference to the statement from Washington that the president had directed him to cease further discussion of public questions, that he had not as yet received any such order from Washington. Continuing, the general said that in future his public utterances would be free from any reference to the Philippines, and intimating that his speeches as printed were as a rule full of misstatements and very badly garbled.

LOOK WELL BY THE TONGUE.

If Furred and Coated, the Liver Needs Attention.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

THE POPULAR SPRING MEDI CINE CURES EVERY FORM OF LIVER TROUBLE.

A Victory Over an Insidious Disease After the Failures of Physicians.

The liver is the great housekeeper of our health. On its right and proper action depends our enjoyment of life. One of the commonest indications of a disordered and diseased liver is a nasty tongue-furred and coated. Such a condition is positive proof that the liver is not working well. Other sympoms are as follows: Nauseous taste in the mouth, pains under the shoulder lades and in the region of the kidneys. Frequently the mental symptoms of liver trouble are more dangerous than the bodily ills. Sufferers experience mental anguish, gloomy forebodings, melancholy, and a general feeling of disgust with life.

When these bodily and mental troubles are experienced, your liver tells you it needs immediate help. If the proper medicine is not used at once, sickness and death follow.

Paine's Celery Compound is the one great specific for the cure of liver troubles. It always acts gently and effectively on the root of the evils, driving from the system accumulations of morbid poisons that give rise to your suffering. Soon every organ is infused with new life, the skin is fresh and clear, and you enjoy perfect health.

Mrs. G. Durant, of Elma, Ont., cured by Paine's Celery Compound after suffering for years from severe liver troubles, writes thus: "For many years I have been a sufferer from liver troubles, and have doctored with several physicians, but only found relief for a very short time. My husband advised me to try your Paine's Celery Compound. I did so, and found so much relief from the first bottle that I continued, and am now using the third bottle. Your Compound has done more for me than any physician. For months before using the Compound I never had one night of sound sleep; but now I can go to bed and sleep soundly and naturally, and feel like a new creature in the morn-

AMERICAN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Bull enthusiasm was paramount in all speculative pits on the board of trade today. The influence was a well developed weather scare, and shorts were the sufferers. Trade was excited in general, and stuff which held so lightly that when the bull movement got into swing prices advanced with big jumps. Wheat made gains of from 2%c to 2%c, corn 2%c to 2%c to 2%c, and oats 1%c to 1%c. May wheat closed 2%c up, May corn 2%c higher, and May oats 1%c advanced; provisions closed 15c to 17c and 30c higher. The wheat traders were seriously aroused over the critical condition of the crom and bought with the conadvanced; provisions closed as to 71c and advanced; provisions characters were seriously aroused over the critical condition of the crop, and bought with the conviction that there "was money in it." Trade was enormous, possibly as large as on the large bull campaign last December. There was practically no time when the market was not advancing, and at big jumps. May opened 1/4c to 3/4c up, at 74/5c to 75c, and soared to 77c, closing very strong and excited, 21/4c up, at 76/5c; July closed 23/4c up, at 78/4c. Local receipts were 26 cars; Minneapolis and Duluth reported 109 cars, making a total for the three points of 135 cars, against 144 last week and 286 a year ago. Discussed in Committee-Bell Telephone Bill Dissected and Revised.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Ont., April 24 .- At the railway committee, the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway Company's bill for the amalgamation of that company with the Erie and Huron Railway Company came up for discussion. The company asked that the agreement be-by the committee. Mr. Stephen asked that before the bill was passed a clause should be inserted compelling the company to carry out the agreement between the city Railway Company to locate their shops in Chatham.

Mr. Lash, K.C., said that the bill did not affect any agreement which that company might have with Chatham. The courts would decide that. There was a long discussion on the bill, which also asked for two years' extension of time to begin and five to complete their road. The bill was held day evening, in the Bijou Opera House. over for further consideration. BELL TELEPHONE BILL.

The Bell telephone bill was up before the senate committee today, when a whole batch of technical amendments were proposed. Some of them were carried and some of them were defeated. The main point at issue and the control of rates by the governorin-council was accepted in the committee and formulated in a clause, which was satisfactory to those representatives in the municipalities. It is provided that the rates in any municicipality may be increased or diminished from these now existing upon the presided. application of the company or any interested municipality. The Rev. J. B. Stillson, of Rochester, N. Y., "the man who discovered Moody," gives the following account of

I ascerin West Victoria. Tomorrow night he tained from him where lay the worst quarter of the city, and I began to vote my spare time to visiting among its residents, talking with them whereever the opportunity offered, and distributing papers for them to read. I had been at this business for three or four weeks when one Sunday, having followed the river up as far as Van Buren street, I turned into a lumber yard, just about noon. There I ran across a young fellow dressed in grayspun, with brogans on his feet, but clean, every inch of him. He, too, was engaged in distributing papers. "What is your name?" said I. "D. L. Moody," was the reply. "What's your name?"

I told him, and then asked him where he came from. "From Boston," said he. "Where do you come from?"

He was back at me like a flash with every question which I asked of him, and seemed determined to know as much about me as I should concerning I told him that I came from Roches-

"I don't know nobody," he replied, "but Mr. Henderson. Who do you know? It was hard work to keep my face straight at these counter-questions, but he was too sincere to laugh at, so I replied as best I might, and inquired if the very air is filled with gas, knew his parents were living. "Mother is-father's dead," was his laconic response, "Your folks livin'?" I asked him where his mother lived and he replied, "In Northville, Mass."

I asked him if he knew how far it was from Chicago to Boston, and Moody replied that he had no idea. "Well." said I, "you're just about a Bright's disease, dropsy, diabetes, etc. thousand miles from your mother.' Then the thought came to me with overpowering force that if I had a boy thousand miles from home and mother I'd be mighty thankful if some Christian man would pay a little attention to him in a city like Chicago. I invited the lad to accompany me in my walk. When we reached my hotel, on Franklin street, I invited Moody to come in and have dinner with me. He glanced down at his rough homespun and hesitated.

"Come in," I urged; "I'll be real glad to have you." With that, his reluctance vanished and we went up to my room. I suggested that since we had been about the Lord's work we might kneel down and ask his blessing upon our efforts.

OIL DISCOLORS COINS.

"Money is curiously colored in the oil regions," said a gentleman from Beaumont, Texas, "and during my recent mont, Texas, "and during my recent experience in the Texas city I could not really tell whether I was getting good money or bad half the time. The good money or bad half the time. The street; two cottages on Briscoe street, Nos. 169 and 171 and vacant lot; also two-story brick house, No. 48 Craig street. appearance of the silver in circulation | See poster. in and around Beaumont was a revelation to me, but, of course, men who have been in oil regions before where just why it was. Shiny dollars are really very rare now in the Texas oil belt. The black oxydized dollar is the rule. The dimes, quarters and halves CRADDOCK, architect, Albion building, are black. It is marvelous how quickly the silver will become oxydized. I was talking to one of the men who was actively engaged in working at one of the wells, and just for my benefit he made a little experiment. He searchmade a little experiment. He searched around until he got a new looking dollar, one that had just arrived and had not had time to be affected by the oil and gas of the place. He put the dollar in his pocket and went to work at one of the manholes. He did not remain there a great while. When he returned he pulled out the dollar and handed it to me for inspection. It was handed it to me for inspection. It was black enough, and it had not gotten out of his pocket until he gave it back to me. The gas simply permeated the man's clothes, got into his pocket, and when it struck the silver the chemical processes were set in motion to leave the dollar colored. All the silver which

Max sat down again.

He saw the force of the lawyer's arguments, and also that his sympathies were with him and his mother, notwithstanding he meant to do his duty conscientiously by his client.

The young man was half stunned by what Mr. Field had said regarding the doubt upon the validity of his mother's marriage; yet he felt that he must face this terrible something that threatened to so seriously affect the reputation of his dearest friend.

"Am I to understand you to imply that my mother's union with Mr. Remington

"She claims to be his Methics." relationship does she claim to Mr. gton?" Max inquired. claims to be his ligitimate daughby a previous marriage."
ow that word 'legitimate' stung

Max! It implied so much—a stain upon his mother's reputation, and that the child for whom she had so long mourned had not been ligitimate. How would the proud woman ever bear it? He could ill bear it himself, and bad to clench his hands and swallow two or three times, to prevent himself from giv-ing verbal expression to the anger that had been aroused within him.

Mr. Field drew some papers from an in-side pocket and laid them upon the table beside him.

"Do you happen to know the date of your mother's marriage to Mr. Remington?" he inquired, as he began to unfold one of the documents.

"No; but it is recorded in that Bible over yonder."

Max crossed the room, took the great "No; but it is recorded in that Bible over yonder."

Max crossed the room, took the great family Bible from its table, found the record, and laid it before the lawyer.

"October 15, 18— Maxwell D. Remington to Adele Fontain," he read aloud.

"Yes, this corresponds with the record that Miss Pomeroy gave me; she doubtless copied it from this page. Now, can you tell me whether Mr. Remington had been abroad previous to this date?"

"Yes," Max answered, his heart growing heavy with forebodings; "I have heard my mother say that her acquaintance with him began on board the steamer in which they were both returning to this country, only a few months previous to their marriage."

Mr. Field closed the Bible and pushed it aside. Then he laid before the young man the document which he had previously unfolded.

Max bent to examine it, and he grew very pale as he mastered its contents.

It was a certificate recording the marriage of "Maxwell D. Remington to Anna Pomeroy," and dated a little over two years previous to the date written in the family Bible.

There was a painful silence in the family Bible.

There was a painful silence in the room for several minutes, during which the young man's eyes seemed glued to the fatal paper, while he seemed to grow suddenly years older as it flashed upon him what the result of all this would be

"Can this be true? Are you sure that this is a bona fide document?" he at last asked, in a hoarse, unnatural tone.

"There can be no doubt of the fact; if there had been I never should have come here with it," Mr. Field replied, with a positiveness that carried conviction to Max's sinking heart. "Miss Pomeroy came to me some time ago with her story, and the documents to prove it, and I have taken pains to thoroughly sift it. Maxwell D. Remington and Anna Pomeroy were married in a small town in New York on the date you have read there. It was a runaway match, but it there. It was a runaway match, was none the less legitimate on that ac-count, for it was properly licensed and recorded. The couple sailed almost im-mediately for Europe, where they lived recorded. The couple sailed almost immediately for Europe, where they lived together only a few months, when, for some reason that has not been made quite clear to me, Mr. Remington deserted his wife, and she never saw him again. She was left almost destitute, but, upon appealing to her friends at home, some one—a half-brother, I believe—settled an annuity upon her. Not long after Mr. Remington's disappearance, on August 12, 18—, she gave birth to a daughter, whom she named Laura. Mrs. Remington never returned to this country; she was too proud to figure here as a deserted wife, and preferred to live in England, where her uncomfortable position was not known. Utterly loatning the man who had so heartlessly forsaken her, she dropped his name and called herself Mrs. Pomeroy, and being a live, energetic woman, she took up the millinery trade, which, together with the annuity she received, gave her and her daughter a handsome living. She had millinery trade, which, together with the annuity she received, gave her and her daughter a handsome living. She had never heard one word regarding her husband, until one day, her daughter, Miss Laura, returned from an excursion to the Isle of Wight, and informed her she had met a Mrs. Remineton and her son. Isle of Wight, and informed her she had met a Mrs. Remington and her son, whose name she had learned was 'Maxwell.' She had also learned that they were Americans, and were stopping at the Langham, and by some means—I know not what—ascertained that you and your mother were wealthy people. Amyou know that a will, rightly executed, is stronger than blood."

Mr. Field listened to all this with the utmost patience and calmness, but when Max concluded he very quietly remarked:

"Miss Pomeroy claims inheritance of this property through kinship with the late Mr. Maxwell D. Remington."

"Ah!" This was a new thought to Max, and for a moment he was silent, and a trifle startled; then his face clouded, and he remarked: "That seems very stranged —very improbable, and I do not understand how such a claim can benefit her either, since Mrs. Remington became the direct heir to her husband's property through the birth of her child."

"That would depend upon certain circumstances," said Mr. Field.

"What circumstances," Max questioned, a trifle impatiently.

Max looked up, with a strange light in his eyes, at this.
"Did she mention that we were on that "Did she mention that we were on that same steamer?" he asked.

"Yes, I believe that she did say something about it," Mr. Field admitted.
"I am inclined to believe sir, that Miss Laura Pomeroy is something of an intriguante," Max returned. "Did she tell you how she wormed herself into the confidence of my mother and myself, representing that she was an orphan coming alone to this country in search of her uncle, who also lived in Chicago? Did she tell you how we, out of kindliest sympathy, took her under our protection, brought her here to our own home, where she has remained our guest until a week she has remained our guest until a week ago? Did she inform you of the misunderstanding which aroused her ire and caused her sudden departure? From that hour we knew nothing of her movements until how when she fired this home uncome. until now, when she fires this bomb upon

Mr. Field looked surprised at these queries.

"No," he said, "she has told me nothing of this; she has simply acquainted me with the facts relating to her claim to this fortune, which, as matters now stand, is certainly a very strong one."

It certainly did seem so, and Max's dejection was apparent. He could not be reconciled to the thought that his sensitive, beautiful mother must be doomed to such a fate as seemed to lie before the fit Laura gained her case; to suffer the shame of having her marriage proved unlawful; to learn that the husband whom she had always loved and honored had been an unprincipled wretch, and to have to surrender the fortune which for so many years she had believed to belong to her!

"Is there no way out of this fearful tangle?" Max cried, great drops of perspiration breaking out upon his foream afraid not, Mr. Remington; and "I am afraid not, Mr. Remington; and it does seem hard, I must confess, to have to surrender a handsome fortune after having been reared to believe it was to be yours," Mr. Field sympathetically remarked.

"Oh, it is not so much the giving up of the fortune as the taint that hurts," Max said, with a groan. "I would gladly resign a dozen fortunes, if I had them, if I could but keep from my mother the knowledge of what has been told me. I cannot believe it possible that Mr. Remington would have dared to marry her cannot believe it possible that Mr. Remington would have dared to marry her while knowing that he had another wife living. There will be no need to climb trees and injure the eyes with looking through holes in the fence, or stand on top of grocery wagons, for the price will be low enough to allow everyone to go through the gate and watch the game with an abundance of comfort.

A LAWYERS' HARVEST. A LAWYERS' HARVEST.

St. Louis, Mo., April 24.—Proceedings were brought in the circuit court yesterday by attorneys representing President Robison, of the St. Louis National League baseball club, to restrain, Harper, Wallace and Heidrick from playing with the American League St. Louis team. The cases against Harper and Wallace were brought up before Judge Talty and that of Heidrick before Judge Fisher. Judge Talty postponed the hearing of the case of Harper and Wallace until next Monday. Judge Fisher refused to issue a temporary injunction against Heidrick, of Harper and Wallace until next Monday. Judge Fisher refused to issue a temporary injunction against Heidrick, ordering him to appear in court this morning and show cause why a restraining order should not be issued. In his petition asking for an injunction against the players, President Robison alleges that Harper signed in 1901 to play with the St. Louis National League club at a salary of $2,500 a year, and that Wallace and Heidrick each signed a two-year contract in 1900 for $2,400 a year. The last two named have each been paid $600 bonus, which, the petition relates, is still retained by them.

HEARD IN BUFFALO. Manager George T. Stallings, of the Buffalo baseball team, was much interested when told that the supreme court had reversed the decision of the court of common pleas, and held that the National League contract reserve clause was legal and binding. He said very little, but he laughed long and loudly. "It'll put an awful crimp in the American League if it goes," was Mr. Stallings' only comment. The decision hung on the case of Napoleon Lajoie, who jumped the National League club for the American League team in Philadelphia, and, by the way, the following regarding Lajoie appeared in yesterday's Detroit Tribune:

"There's only one man in baseball Pierce's Fa-I'm afraid of, and that is Lajoie," said vorite Pre-Virgil Garvin, the White Stocking pitcher the other day.
"You are not the only one in that frame of mind," replied Callahan, who was at the table with the "Navasota tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the "Pitchers fear him, but there's one ball he cannot hit, and that's a low, slow ball, near the plate," resumed Cal-lahan. "You know, all ball players have a weakness when at the plate. Some can hit a high ball and others a low one; some want it inside, others want it outside; some want it fast and some slow. It's the pitcher's business to study out, and, above all, remember all these batting idiosyncracies of the ball players, and this one ball is Lajoie's weak spot. It's a hard one to get over, but if it's placed right he's not a dangerous man."

"Well, I prefer to watch him as second baseman," cut in Garvin.
"Go on, he couldn't hit you; you're only a streak of light in front of him,"

"But I'd rather have Lajoie at the plate in a tight pinch than McGraw," insisted the lank Texan. "Lajoie is a great striker, but the fielders have a chance with him, and when he's hit he's shot his bolt. Not so Muggsy Mc-

DALY HAS CROOKED FINGERS. "Look something like a battle-scarred veteran, don't I?" remarked Daly at Excelsior Springs the other day. But I'm not. The ball player of more than a decade ago, as a rule, marked HIGH CLASS OF HORSES FOR WINDhimself up more than he does now. "About the time I quit catching they were using the big mitt. One day, down at Brooklyn, a man induced me to have an X-ray of my catching hand shown for the entertainment of some of the boys. I'll give you my word that the bones of my crooked finger looked like one of those buzz piles the farmer permits to grow up beside his woodpile-a heap of gnarly old sticks of cordwood. But baseball is not as bad as football." A short time after that Daly tried to catch a ball near the park fence, and added another scar to his knuc-

She has not yet realized that the general health is so intimately related to the local health of the womanly organism, that weakness must follow womanly diseases. Restoration of the general health invariably follows the use of Dr. Pierce's Fascription. It regulates the periods, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

There is no substitute for "Favorite Prescription," for there is nothing "just as good " for womanly ills.

"I wish to advise the suffering women of this great land, of the good I have received from Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' writes Mrs. Mary Shappell, of Columbus Grove, Putnam Co., Ohio. "For four years I had been a sufferer from female troubles, and at times was unable to do even the housework for three in the family. I had such pains that I suffered almost death dozens of times, but after taking five bottles of your medicines I can truthfully say that my health was greatly improved. I have a good appetite and am gaining in fiesh right along. This apring is the first time in five years that I have done my house cleaning all by myself and without the least fatigue whatever. I hope all suffering women may find relief as I have done.

"My gain in weight has been just ten pounds, and I am still gaining."

"I take my pen in hand to inform you of the great cure effected by your medicines. Some time ago my husband was taken down with lung fever. It came on him with a chill in the night. It happened I had a supply of the medicine in the house at the time. I rubbed his chest and back with the Radway's Ready Relief. I gave him a teaspoonful in a little hot water to drink, to help warm and stimulate him, and in about half an hour three of the Radway's Pills. By the time the doctor came the next morning he was much better. The doctor wanted to know what I had been doing. I told him. He said that was good; that they were good medicines. Another case I had was with my little nephew. He was taken with the croup. I rubbed his chest, throat and back with the Ready Relief, gave him doses about an hour apart, followed it by a dose of pills. By the next day he was about all right. I have been using this medicine, with my family and neighbors, for about thirty years, and never knew it to fail. Jury's Recommendation in the Alexander Inquest.

Verdict Attaches No Blame to Railway Crew, as Customary Warnings Were Given.

The death of Mrs. Caroline Alexander, run over by a locomotive and three cars on Adelaide street, on Tuesday evening, was investigated last night by Coroner Ferguson and a jury, the train crew from blame, but recommending the maintaining of watchmen at all railway crossings within the city.

The witnesses examined included Charles Alexander, son of the deceased woman; Wm. J. Ball, G. T. R., yard George Powe jun., John Shelforeman; Thomas W. Stanfield, and drake, B. G. Clampitt, Robert Cadforeman; Thomas W. Stanfield, and Robert Radcliffe, driver and fireman of the engine; Drs. Drake and English, who attended Mrs. Alexander, and A. Hockin, an eye-witness of the accident. Alexander said his mother was rather deaf, but that her eyesight was good, deaf, but that her eyesight was good, though she wore glasses. She never indulged in stimulants. The railway employes all testified that warning was given Mrs. Alexander by the blowing of the whistle, ringing of the bell,

A CHINA HEAD Comes From Tea Drinking.

A lady writes from Shanghai, China, "In the summer of '98, husband and I were traveling through Northern Europe, and I was finally laid up in Rome with a slow fever. An American lady gave me some Postum Food Coffee which I began using at once. It was my sole breakfast and supper. In a short time the change in my physical condition was wonderful to see. I will never travel again without Postum. When we arrived at Shanghai we were in an English community and found ourselves in the midst of the four o'clock tea system. Before long

WARD'S LICENSE TO BE CUT OFF

Commissioners Will Adhere to Decision of Last Year.

Ardent Wishes of a Large Section of Church Workers Will Be Satisfied at Last.

An open meeting of the license commissioners for the city of London was held at 4 p.m. yesterday, at Inspector Robert Henderson's office. Chairman Robert Reid, Secretary C. H. Elliott, said, life is free and natural and Mr. James H. Brown and Inspector happy, more so than in any other Henderson were present. The usual country in the world. pire, Canada would hold a unique place p.m. Only one petition against the granting of a license was presented. It was signed by the pastors, chairmen of the governing bodies and prominent workers of the following churches: St. Andrew's, Wellington Street Methodist, Southern Congregational, Adelaide Street Baptist, Chalmers Presbyterian, Christ, Dundas Center and the First Congregational, and asked that the shop license of James Ward, corner of Simcoe and Maitland streets, be cut off. The petition was supported by a deputation composed of Rev. Messrs.

Claris, T. S. Johnson, Bishop and Mof-fat and Mr. Wm. Bowman. They advanced many reasons why the license should not be granted. The commissioners promised to give the matter full consideration and the deputation withdrew. The license was issued last year on the understanding that it would not be renewed. One of the commissioners told The Advertiser this morning that the board intended London conference of the Methodist to adhere to its decision of last year,
