VICKERS-VIMY BIPLANE STARTS ON ATLANTIC FLIGHT

THREATENED STRIKE OF THE WINNIPEG RAILWAYMEN FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

RAILWAYMEN WHO VOTED TO STRIKE AT WINNIPEG CHANGE THEIR MINDS AT LAST MINUTE

All Trains Leave As Usual With the Exception of the Transcona-Winnipeg Train—Railwaymen Decide To Stand by Brotherhood Organizations When Pressure Is Brought To Bear by Officials.

Winnipeg, June 14.—Although the city council ignored the threat made by the radical element of the engineers, firemen's and trainmen's union to join in the general strike at six o'clock last night if an understanding were not given to reinstate the city police, the council's action had no serious consequences for the railway companies.

A crew could not be obtained for the Transcona-Winnipeg train, but with the exception of the failure of this train to leave the union depot, the railway services were carried out as usual. Several firemen failed to report for duty on some of the Canadian Pacific Railway trains, but their places were filled by men who had been brought up for any such emergency, and trains for east and west got away on schedule time.

At the union depot the regular crews were on hand for the Prince Albert and Vancouver trains. There were no pickets in evidence and the trains got away as though no threatened strike in the running trades had been made. The Grand Trunk train for Edmonton also left the depot with its usual crew on board.

Emergency Men Available.

At the Canadian Pacific Railway depot it was reported that no attempts at picketing had been made. Emergency men were available to take the place of a few firemen who did not turn up, and there was nothing like disorganization of the service.

"Everything is O. K." an official stated. "The trains for Moose Jaw, Toronto, Montreal, Edmonton and the coast have gone just as in normal times. No hitch; no delays."

The full effect of the strike will not, however, be known until this afternoon, that is, if the strike materializes as intended. It was stated in well informed circles that railroad men believe the majority of the men who have voted to quit work had changed their minds in view of the determined stand taken by the high officials of the railroad brotherhoods.

Stand by Brotherhoods.

"The great proportion of the unions concerned," said one official last night, "will stand loyally by their brotherhood organizations and the railway companies. They realize that in addition to being under obligations to continue on duty, they have everything to gain by doing so."

Several of the chiefs of the railroad organizations conferred for several hours with Senator Gideon D. Robertson, minister of labor, last night. No statement was given out after the conference.

PORT ARTHUR MEN AGREE NOT TO JOIN SYMPATHETIC STRIKES

Port Arthur, June 14.—All employees of the Port Arthur utilities, street cars, telephones, water and light, have signed a new wage scale agreement, including a clause that they will at no time engage in sympathetic strikes.

CIVIC EMPLOYEES REFUSE TO VOTE ON STRIKE QUESTION

Victoria, B. C., June 14.—The local Civic Employees' Protective Association, at a meeting last night, refused to take a vote on the question of a sympathetic strike, following a request to this effect by the trades and labor council. The street car employees have not yet been asked to reconsider their decision not to take a strike vote. The electrical workers are not voting until Monday night, which means that any decision here will be further postponed until Tuesday night next at the earliest.

NO SETTLEMENT OF MONTREAL STRIKE APPEARS IN SIGHT

Montreal, June 14.—There are at the present time in the city six separate bodies of workers, numbering over 6,000 men and women out on strike, with little sign of settlement in sight. In addition there are three other groups of workers, totalling over 15,000 men, which have voted to strike if demands are not met. There are the textile workers, the sugar refining workers, and the railway shopmen. The latest date set for any of these strikes is Wednesday next.

A joint committee meeting at which all groups of workers are represented at present on strike is to be held this morning.

Would Act as Mediator.

Rev. Mr. Ballantyne, brother of the minister of marine, offered his services yesterday to act as mediator in the Canadian Vickers dispute, but without result.

The Dominion textile company's officials refused to deal with the committee appointed by the workers, and about 4,000 men will probably go on strike Monday.

The Canada Sugar Refineries and the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company, both have disputes with their workers, numbering about 500 each. In these cases, strikes will also be declared Monday if not settled before then.

TELEGRAPHERS DECLARE MORE OPERATORS ARE JOINING IN STRIKE

Chicago, June 14.—The Commercial Telegraphers' strike now in its fourth day was given valuable assistance, according to union officials, through the order effective today to railroad telegraphers throughout the country to decline to handle messages from the Western Union and Postal Companies. Officials of the telegraph companies said refusal of railroad operators to handle commercial messages would not interfere materially with wire traffic, as only a small part of their business was handled at railroad offices.

Union officials asserted that more men were added to the ranks of the strikers during the last 24 hours, while the company officials claimed that "quite a number," who walked out have returned to work.

To Take Referendum.

The western brokers division on the C. T. U. have decided to take a referendum vote by mail of their 1,500 members on the question of joining the strike.

In connection with the proposed strike of more than 100,000 electrical workers called for next Monday, Charles P. Ford, secretary of the international brotherhood of electrical workers, said today:

"The lid comes off on Monday unless conferences between representatives of the electrical workers and those of the companies bring about a settlement. Twenty-eight settlements have been brought about in various parts of the country, and more than 11,000 men and women will not be included in the strike call.

BRANTFORD WORKERS DECLARE STRIKE IS NOW UNAVOIDABLE

Manufacturers Decline To Make Any Further Concessions.

Brantford, June 14.—"The Metal Trades Council considers that a strike is unavoidable." This was the statement given out by Chairman Harry Harrup of the Metal Trades Council of Brantford this morning.

His official announcement reads: "At a special meeting of the Metal Trades Council, held last night, the communication from the manufacturers, sent in reply to one from the Metal Trades Council, asking for a further conference, was refused. The manufacturers stated that they had conceded all that they intended to concede, and could not see the use of a further conference. The conclusion of the council is that a strike is unavoidable."

Western Wheat Crop Reported To Be In Excellent Condition

Much Needed Rain Has Fallen in Many Places Over Prairie Provinces.

Winnipeg, June 14.—Analysis of replies to nearly 100 messages of inquiry sent to points in the prairie provinces by the Free Press indicates that rain has, within the last few days, fallen over very widely separated areas, and while more is needed almost everywhere, the wheat crop now is in excellent condition and should move forward rapidly. Only one district reports wheat in shot-blade. The extreme heat of the latter part of May affected coarse grains adversely, and in many districts the late seeded oats and barley will be a light crop, even with the best of conditions from now on. Cutworm damage is fairly general, as is always the case in dry weather, but the damage is apparently not excessive anywhere.

Grasshoppers Disappearing.

The plague of grasshoppers has been fairly general along the southwest of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, but is now apparently pretty well in hand. Farm help is scarce at a number of points, and wages are high, running from $65 to $70. Few cases of real damage from drifting with consequent re-seeding are reported. Judging by the crop of 1918 is all out of the farmers' hands.

REV. G. C. LITTLE OF PAISLEY CHURCH TO ACCEPT GUELPH CALL

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Paisley, June 13.—At a special meeting of the Bruce Presbytery, held in Geneva Church, Chesley, today, the call from St. Paul's Church, Guelph, to Rev. G. C. Little, B.A., pastor of Knox Church, Paisley, was sustained by the presbytery. Mr. Little's resignation is to take effect the first Sunday in August. Mr. Little has been pastor of Knox Church, Paisley, for the last ten years, and considered one of the ablest preachers in the Presbyterian Church.

VANCOUVER STRIKERS DEFY LEADERS AND GO BACK TO JOBS

Many Men Who Have Been Out of Work Tired of Situation.

CLIMAX APPROACHING

Large Number of Strikers Assert They "Wish It Was All Over."

Vancouver, June 14.—Strike leaders here were jubilant last night over the decision of the Manitoba railroad workers to tie up trains at 6 o'clock last night, but declined to make comment on the subject of the disavowal of that action by the international officials of the railway brotherhoods.

Indications point to an approaching climax in the general strike called here, more than the unusual unrest being shown by the strikers, who openly assert that they "wish it was all over." In fact, some of them have gone so far, and thus expressed themselves, bringing them into disrepute with the strike leaders, and following this up, many have returned to work.

Telephone Service Good.

Telephone service in this city was not greatly disrupted, business and residential telephones being in operation all over the city.

The telephone operators were called out at 7 o'clock this morning in accordance with an ultimatum given the city council to choose between jitneys and telephones.

Secretary Midgley, who has just returned from the meeting of the one big union in Calgary, gave a comprehensive report of the gathering. He said that the present general strike had not been exactly to the liking of the one big union, as it had been planned to call the contemplated strike of the O. B. U. for a six-hour day on June 1, but the present industrial crisis necessitated a further adjournment.

Songs Before and After Marriage Decidedly Different

"One Girl in a Million" Succeeded by "Sit Down, You're Rocking the Boat."

New York, June 14.—It's a long hark from being the inspiration for the writing by her husband of the song, "One in a Million Like You," and after two years of married life the inspiration for the song, "Sit Down, You're Rocking the Boat."

But that is what Mrs. Helen Clarke alleged today in testifying in the supreme court in her suit for a divorce from Grant Clarke. Her sister, Miss Inez Patten, testified to having discovered in Clarke's apartments here during a raid a striking blonde whom she described as the song-writer's new "inspiration."

"Mr. Clarke and I were married 45 minutes after we met, four years ago in Kokomo, Ind., Mrs. Clarke testified. "He told me I was his inspiration; the wife he had been dreaming about for many years. Before he married me he wrote "One in a Million Like You," and for two years I was the 'you.' Then we had differences, and he wrote, "Sit Down, You're Rocking the Boat."

"About the time he was first seen by my friends with a blonde, he wrote, 'I Love the Ladies,' and 'There's a Little Bit of Bad in the Best Little Girl.' About that time I sued him for divorce, and he wrote, "I Hate to Lose You,' but I didn't know whether he meant me or the blonde."

Decision was reserved by Supreme Court Justice Giegerich.

AMERICAN MAGAZINE WRITER ARRESTED AT REQUEST OF BRITISH

Robert Minor Is Charged With Spreading Propaganda in Dusseldorf.

Coblenz, June 14.—Robert Minor, the American magazine writer and cartoonist, was arrested by the French at the request of the British military authorities, who have been pressing for action against propagandists. Officers who have secured the particulars of Minor's imprisonment, say it is understood that Minor has spent several weeks in Dusseldorf within the last few months, going to that city from Petrograd.

According to information in the hands of Americans he wrote several pamphlets in Dusseldorf and had them printed there, some of them reaching the areas. It is asserted that the pamphlets were of radical tendencies.

It is said here that the British have notified American army officers that they do not desire to take further action in Minor's case. He was still in jail tonight, but it is understood there are no formal charges against him.

Nine men of mixed nationalities are being tried at Cologne by a British military commission in connection with charges growing out of the spreading of propaganda in the British occupied area.

CRERAR'S ACTION ON BUDGET INDORSED BY GRAIN GROWERS

Shaunevon, Sask., June 14.—Grain growers in convention here yesterday decided not to nominate a candidate for the federal seat at Maple Creek, of which J. A. Maharg, the president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers is the sitting member. He came in for some criticism for not voting for the McMaster tariff resolution early in the session, but several speakers held that in following the course he did he took the only sane attitude.

Hon. T. A. Crerar's action in connection with the budget was indorsed by resolution.

Moncton, N. B., June 14.—The New Brunswick Gas and Oil Fields, Limited, in the Stoney Creek field at well No. 18, about 8½ miles from Moncton, in their deepening process have struck the most prolific and deepest oil flows yet found in these fields, at a depth of 2,622 feet. The oil came with such a gush that it flowed intermittently to the top of the derrick, a height of 70 feet above the ground. This is the first gusher struck in this field.

NO TRACE FOUND OF SPEEDING MOTORISTS

Police Know Nothing of Men Who Injured Jenkins.

While Richard Jenkins, 91 Bathurst street, lies severely injured at Victoria Hospital from injuries he received when he was thrown from his dray when hit by motor car speeders at Ridout street bridge at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, the police so far have failed to trace the drivers of the automobile.

Residents in the vicinity of the scene of the accident who found Jenkins lying in the road painfully injured, and who were attracted from their houses by his cries, assert that the police have not yet endeavored to gather information from them regarding the motor car.

Police say that when the automobile smashed into Jenkins' dray the lights went out, and that nobody was able to discern the license number on the car.

Young Man Collapses As Lightning Flashes At Port

Thomas Rowe Jun. Shocked by Electricity in Tea House.

During a heavy electrical storm at Port Stanley yesterday afternoon, Thomas Rowe, junior, 270 Ridout street, was severely shocked while sitting in the London and Port Stanley Tea House, on Fraser Heights. Young Rowe was seated at a table with his back toward a large refrigerator, and after a severe crash of lightning, he was seen to get up from his chair, and fall on the floor in a state of collapse.

First aid was rendered to him by those present, and after being revived, he was conveyed in a motor car, to a cottage on Orchard Beach, where his parents are staying for the summer. His father today informed The Advertiser that young Rowe was feeling much better this morning, and has almost recovered from the effects of his unpleasant experience. It is thought by those present at the time, that a slight amount of electricity may have passed from the refrigerator to the victim, after the flash of lightning, severely affecting his nerves.

However, Mr. Rowe states that his son is naturally timid during electrical storms, and he believes that the lightning itself did not affect him, but following the terrific crash the youth collapsed due to conditions similar to those following shell-shock. No damage was done to the tea house on Fraser Heights by the storm yesterday afternoon.

GOVERNOR LISTER DIES.

HOSTILITIES TO BE RESUMED JUNE 21 IF GERMANS REFUSE TO SIGN TREATY

Reply To German Counter-Proposals To Be Delivered On Monday.

IS REVISED TREATY

Peace Conference Delegates Protest Against "Big Four's" Methods.

Paris, June 14.—Confidence was expressed last night by the British, French and American delegates to the peace conference that the reply to the German counter-proposals will be completed and delivered to the Germans on Monday, with a provision that the Germans will be given two days in which to answer. With three days of grace before the armistice is suspended there would be a resumption of hostilities on Saturday, June 21, if the Germans refuse to sign.

The indispositon of the council of four to submit the revised German treaty to a plenary session of the conference before sending it to the Germans is, however, causing another protest from the small powers, which resent "steamroller" methods. This may force the calling of another plenary session, which would cause further delay. The small powers are dissatisfied with assurances that the changes made in the treaty are slight, and many of the delegates are insisting upon an opportunity to fully consider the treaty before it is presented to the enemy peace misson.

SUPREME COUNCIL EXPECTS GERMANS WILL ACCEPT TERMS

Paris, June 14.—The Council of Four continued the work of editing the revised peace treaty this morning, at the same time enabling Baron Makino, the Japanese representative, to acquaint himself with the document. The work is nearly completed, and it is believed the treaty will go to the revision committee late tonight. It is said that it will be printed and ready for delivery to the Germans on Monday or Tuesday.

Renew Consideration.

It is the present plan of the council to renew consideration of the Austrian terms on Monday. Representatives of Turkey will be received on Tuesday. The allied replies to the German proposals, it developed, will lay particular stress on the character of the permanent reparations commission. It will be explained to the Germans that this commission is not a tyrannical body, but that it will administer its duties in a spirit of fairness and helpfulness, so as to facilitate Germany's economic reconstruction.

Expected to Sign.

It is learned that the short time limit given Germany for a reply is largely due to the Germans themselves. They are understood to have said they would not require more than five days to reach a decision. (Friday night's dispatches said only two days would be given for the answer, with three days of grace, before the armistice has been suspended in the event of a German refusal to sign.) Reports from Germany on the prospects of Germany's signing the treaty are lacking in clarity. It is known that the council is acting upon the belief that there is no general feeling on the part of the masses against German acceptance of the terms. An air of optimism pervades the council in this respect.

VICE-PRESIDENT OF G. T. R. VIEWS LAND AT RECTORY STREET

General Belief That Company Will Extend Yards.

R. S. Logan, vice-president of the Grand Trunk Railway visited London Friday afternoon and inspected the railway yards in East London.

Superintendent Charles Forrester said today there was nothing to report from the visit, but it is generally believed that the company proposes to purchase more property adjoining the Grand Trunk lines near the east end yards, east of Rectory street, for the purpose of extending and increasing the facilities of the yards.

At present Rectory street retards the quick making-up of trains, and the distribution of cars, because it is necessary in shunting to cross the street frequently.

RUSSIAN REDS ARE MARCHING TO JOIN HUNGARIAN FORCES

Galician Boundary Reported To Have Been Crossed by Bolsheviki.

London, June 14.—Bolsheviki are reported to have crossed the Galician boundary and to be approaching Tarnapol, with the evident intention of joining the Hungarian Bolsheviki when the Hungarian frontier is reached, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Vienna under Thursday's date.

VICKERS-VIMY PLANE STARTS ON FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC, CAPT. JACK ALCOCK IN CHARGE

British Machine Leaves St. Johns, Newfoundland, At 4:13 o'Clock, Greenwich Time—Is Equipped With Wireless and Capable of Making One Hundred Miles an Hour.

St. Johns, Nfld., June 14.—The Vickers-Vimy biplane started on its transatlantic flight at 4:13 o'clock this afternoon Greenwich time.

The Vickers-Vimy machine, which started on a transatlantic flight today, has a wing spread of only 67 feet, and is equipped with two 350-horsepower Rolls-Royce motors, said to be capable of developing a speed of more than 100 miles an hour. The capacity of the gasoline tanks was recently enlarged to 865 gallons, and the lubricating oil tanks to 50 gallons, which is believed sufficient to carry the plane 2,440 miles, under normal weather conditions. A wireless telegraph set, capable of sending and receiving messages over comparatively long distances, is part of the plane's equipment.

Capt. Jack Alcock, the pilot, was among the British pioneers in aviation.

He obtained his flying certificate in 1912, and joined the Royal Naval Air Service immediately on the outbreak of the war. He acted as an instructor at first, but was later sent to the Turkish front, where he held the record for long-distance bombing raids. He was later captured by the Turks and held prisoner until the armistice was signed.

Heir To Millions Killed When His Motor Car Upsets

Walter Winton of Scranton, Pa., Failed To Show Up At Curve.

Bellefonte, Pa., June 13.—Walter Winton, heir to $2,000,000, a student at Bellefonte Academy, was killed when his automobile upset today near here. With six other students, Wilton was driving at a fast clip to State College. He failed to slow down at a curve. Two of his companions were injured. Winton's father, a wealthy Scranton resident, died three weeks ago. The son, who was 20 years of age, would have inherited his fortune on his 21st birthday.

AFGHANISTAN RULER COURTING BOLSHEVIKI

Amir Is Endeavoring To Make Things Embarrassing For the British.

London, June 14.—Reuter authoritatively learns that the Amir of Afghanistan has not yet replied to the British armistice terms. Evidence continues to accumulate that the Amir is entering into close relationship with the Russian Bolshevik, who see a unique opportunity for embarrassing the British Empire and spreading their doctrines throughout all the inflammable populations of the Near East. The Afghans have now been ejected from the environs of Thal, and all the ground they gained has been recaptured. Meanwhile the British concentration is proceeding.

CHINESE CABINET HAS RESIGNED

President Also Intimates His Intention to Quit Office.

Peking, June 14.—In consequence of difficulties created by the popular movement against pro-Japanese members of the government, the cabinet has resigned, and President Hsu Shih Chang has also intimated his intention to quit office. It is anticipated that parliament will decline to accept the president's resignation. This would amount virtually to a vote of confidence in the chief executive, which is needed to strengthen his hands in his fight against the militarists. Strikes throughout the country continue. Railway traffic is being impeded. The situation in China is awkward.

MAN WHO REFUSED TO STRIKE THROWN INTO RIVER SEINE

FAREWELL LETTER TO FRANK M'CULLOUGH ARRIVED TOO LATE

Vera Lavelle, His Sweetheart, Tries To Cheer Him To End.

LAST HOURS ALIVE

Sang Songs and Prayed Just Before He Went To Scaffold.

Toronto, June 14.—Frank McCullough, the youth who was hanged yesterday morning for the murder of Detective Williams, went to his death courageously.

McCullough did not take any stimulants to strengthen his nerve. He refused morphine when Dr. Perry suggested it.

McCullough ate a hearty breakfast of tea, toast, ham and eggs, and did not leave any of it. He slept well during the night after the crowd had left, kneeling to pray before retiring. Owing to the demonstration outside in Riverdale Park, he was unable to get much rest until about 2 o'clock, when he fell asleep and never moved until 5, when he awoke, got up, washed himself, dressed, and then made up his bed.

From 5 till 6 McCullough sang hymns and songs. His favorite song was, "He Wore a Tulip and She Wore a Big Red Rose." Mr. Nelles, who stayed with McCullough till 10:30 last night, arrived at the jail shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, and spent the last two hours with the prisoner, praying and reading the Bible. Mr. Nelles spent a half an hour alone with McCullough, and in the final hour of his life McCullough wrote several letters, which he gave to Mr. Nelles.

Meets End Courageously.

Standing on the scaffold before the black cap was put over his head, McCullough, smiling, turned to Rev. Bertram Nelles, his spiritual adviser, and said:

"This is going to be harder on you than me," and just as the cap passed over his mouth, he said: "Good-bye, Mr. Nelles, God bless you—Good-bye, boys."

Contrary to the usual custom, McCullough was not immediately buried. He was buried this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the jail yard. A funeral service such as is rarely given a murderer was conducted by Rev. Mr. Nelles, and though a simple one, was just the same as if McCullough had died a natural death.

Vera's Letter Too Late.

Too late for Frank McCullough to read, a farewell letter arrived at the jail this morning from Vera de Lavelle, the woman who remained devoted to him to the end.

The letter, which reads as follows, is dated, probably in error, May 10:

Mon Cher Mari:

Dear, I can hardly realize what it means for you. Even after getting the paper today, and reading of your case, which says but little hope, I dare not think what it means. You are not dejected and alone, as the journal states, for every thought is for you. It is even torture to think of such a fate. But, oh! may God yet keep you. If myself could save you I would not hesitate one minute, but I only am watching you, dear. May God give you courage and strength to stand what is before you, for I know, darling "Mari" of mine, you need it.

It seems to me if they do take your life, dear, there is hardly anything in my life worth living for a moment. If I could only see you for a moment. I would come and see you, but they would never give anyone such a privilege as that, and especially to me.

I have your picture in front of me, and it will always be near me. Sometimes I can see you plainly before me, as if you were there in reality. My dear Frank, my heart is broken. I could never tolerate the thought of your death, and really now I only realize it to be too true.

God has almost always answered my prayers, and if they are not answered this time, I will never believe in religion again. The outside world, dear, has worked splendidly on your behalf, and I cannot realize that Ottawa's answer has really been given out. Anyway, dear, even if you pay the penalty, I know you will go knowing that I love you just the same. Never in all my life on this earth will I forget. Well, "cher de la mein," this w my last letter to you, darling, a God bless you, dear.

Yours always, with love,

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S PICNIC HELD AT SPRINGBANK PARK DRAWS RECORD ATTENDANCE

Day of Day in Kiddies' Lives Sees Over Ten Thousand of Them With Teachers at Picnic Grounds — Street Railway Handles Immense Throng.

Seldom in all its history has Springbank Park entertained such a large or merry throng as that which gathered there yesterday, Friday, June 13, for the annual school picnic.

Twelve o'clock street railway time, or one o'clock daylight saving time, the street railway company had transported to the park 10,000 children of school age, in addition to teachers, hundreds of parents and little tots of pre-school age.

The day was hot, one of the hottest of the summer, to be sure, but even when they had run about until their faces were scarlet and their hair dripping with perspiration, the kiddies didn't seem to mind it. They entered into the races and other events with zest and the will to win; swung until the swings groaned for mercy; they teetered until the marvel was that any teeters were left, or that more little folks didn't tumble down to crack a crown; and between times they darted hither and thither, invading the amusement park, raiding the stores of ice-cream cone and pop vendors, chewing taffy, chocolate, popcorn and chewing gum, hob-nobbing with chums; in fact, doing anything and everything that could make a school picnic memorable.

Anxious Moments.

Street car conductors on open cars and trailers experienced some anxious moments. Billy and Maudie clean forgot that time-honored tale about the boy who, on the way to a picnic, leaned out of the window and got his head snapped right off by a telegraph pole. Whole gangs of bright faced Billies and Maudies leaned out of the windows, singing their school songs, yelling their school yells, waving their handkerchiefs. It was all right if it happened to be your own school, but when it was the school of someone else that was quite another story.

The first car started to Springbank at 9:30 o'clock, which was pretty hard to wait for. At that, the lucky schools scheduled to start first had a good three hours ahead of Wortley road and Rectory schools, which put in an appearance about 1 o'clock. The street car men declared it was 12 o'clock, but the Billies and Maudies knew what time they were accustomed to have dinner, even if they quarreled with the sun.

As each school division was unloaded, teachers and pupils marched to the section of the park allotted to them, two standard-bearers carrying the school banner. Where time permitted, races and other events were run off before the midday meal, several of the schools, including the collegiate institute, being obliged to postpone the sport events until after lunch. Until 2 o'clock the teachers held themselves responsible for looking after the young folks of their rooms and seeing that no one was allowed to go hungry or permitted to get lost, strayed or stolen.

In the majority of cases, the children held "grade picnics," spreading out the white strips of paper obtained for tablecloths, and placing on these the contents of their boxes. In addition there were scores of family picnics, and dozens of little "chum" picnics, where a few young folks got together and ate their lunches out of their own boxes.

Tables Spread.

The Tecumseh Avenue Mothers' Club, of which Mrs. T. Lowes is president, set the pace for mothering the school children for a whole district. The club spread tables in the cool depths of the evergreen grove far westward in the park, and there in the restful glade they served 200 or 300 boys and girls at noon, and a large number at supper-time. Instead of having the Tecumseh boys and girls take their own lunches, the Mothers' Club suggested that each boy and girl contribute 15 cents.

All Thursday afternoon the members of the Mothers' Club were busily engaged at the school making half a dozen kinds of sandwiches and packing ever so many varieties of goodies. The teachers supplied all the lemonade that could possibly be used, and the Mothers' Club added to home-made cooking, ice cream cones and bananas for everybody.

After the sporting events were concluded, the vicinity of the pavilion became a centre of interest owing to the enlivening band concert furnished by the Hussars Band, conducted by Bandmaster Roselle Pococke.

13th No Jonah.

Though it was Friday, the thirteenth, and considering the enormous crowd of children transported to and from the park, and the long day at the picnic, there were remarkably few mishaps.

No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John's Ambulance Association, was, as usual, very much on the job, with an emergency hospital fitted up in the southwest corner of the pavilion veranda.

One of the most serious accidents of the day befell little Eva Plant of Cathcart street, who stumbled as she was running down the steps at the power house and fractured her arm and bruised her head and knee.

Another small girl was carrying home a very sore mouth as a souvenir of the picnic. She fell out of a swing and, striking on her face, knocked out two of her teeth. She was very sick with the shock, pain and fright when carried to the St. John Ambulance Hospital. A number of minor casualties were looked after, such as results of too many good things to eat, cut thumbs, etc.

Baseball Games.

Several baseball games evoked much interest, starting almost as soon as the picnic was well under way and continuing throughout the day.

A woman walking past the high net back of the baseball diamond got a sharp rap in the side from a foul ball which glanced over the net. The pain at first caused her to believe the injury was more serious than it afterwards proved.

Did anybody hear any small boy asking for his hat? A juvenile type hat was anchored to the front of one of the cars in a most suggestive fashion towards supper-time. Somebody's boy was missing it.

Tagging on at the back of this car was a trailer blest with a conductor who remembered that he had been a boy himself once. That didn't keep him from shouting and waving his arms threateningly at the boys who pined to ride on the steps and be real sports. He did some lively sprinting along those self-same side steps as he shooed the boys inside. "Thank the Lord, we haven't had an accident yet," he said as he mopped his forehead. "We won't allow those kids to take any risk. But say, can you blame them? When I was a kid I'd rather have ridden on the roof than inside, wouldn't you?"

Between the care of conductors, the watchful eyes of teachers and principals, and the number of parents hanging around, there wasn't more than a fighting chance of getting into mischief which might involve an accident.

Varied Stunts.

Ever see a padlock picked with a buttonhook? That was one stunt pulled off by a certain amateur cracksman. It was in the best interests of society, however, and at the instigation of teachers.

It happened this way: The tempting supplies of a certain school were all padlocked up in boxes big as wardrobe trunks, and the lady with the key to unlock the storehouse of vituals had disappeared. Mr. Principal struggled with the locks, and the Misses Teacher experimented with them, as they moaned of certain delectable cakes hidden inside, cakes such as there never was before. At this point the hero arrived, and Master Sammie proceeded to give a practical demonstration of a youthful person accomplishing with ease that which was impossible to his elders. Sammy calmly called for or produced a buttonhook. Anyhow, a buttonhook was conjured up somewhere.

"Watch Sammy," the whisper was passed. Sammy was well worth watching. With a skill known only to himself, he inserted the buttonhook in some vulnerable crevice in the lock and then he gave a nonchalant twist of his wrist. Presto, the lock dropped and the lid of box No. 4 was swung back to reveal the contents.

"Nothing at all," assured Sammy, with the real hero's proverbial modesty.

The homeward procession started between 4 and 5 o'clock, and a three-minute service extending over several hours was required to get everybody back home and tucked into bed.

The majority of the members of the school board attended the picnic during the day, and the three women trustees were conspicuous by their presence, and the part they took in making things go pleasantly and smoothly. Among the first to arrive on the grounds were Mrs. Ronald Harris, and the former chairman of the board, Thomas Rowe.

Harold Hicks and Delmer Lewis captained a couple of collegiate teams which did some real ball playing in the afternoon, the Hicks' team winning by a score of 8 to 7.

The Collegiate girls were equally enterprising, the first year girls playing the second year girls and beating them with the score standing at 9 to 6, in favor of the first year girls.

The line-up was as follows:

INSECT CARRIERS OF DISEASE

The lessons of war have confirmed the serious part that insects play as carriers of disease. It is common knowledge that each species acts as a carrier of a particular disease. For instance, it is proven that the common house fly carries typhoid and enteric, the mosquito is a source of malaria, and the bedbug of "black water fever," while it is pretty certain that others of these pests, such as the common black beetle, or cockroach, which taints our food, are also disease carriers.

An unremitting warfare on all such insects is the duty of everyone, and the simplest and safest way to kill these insects is by the one preparation which has stood every test of scientific investigation and that is

WILL TELL STORY OF MARSHAL FOCH

"Marshal Foch" is the subject to be discussed under the auspices of London Council of the Knights of Columbus in the Auditorium of the K. of C. Army Hut on Monday at 8 o'clock, by Dr. James J. Walsh of New York City.

Dr. Walsh in his lecture on Marshal Foch tells the story of the greatest general of modern times, the man who has commanded more men in severer fighting than any other leader in the whole range of history in very simple, direct fashion. Marshal Foch is a typical example for our time. He is the very incarnation of will. We have been occupied so much with intellect as the principal force in life that this great Frenchman should be a stimulus for his generation. He has always insisted that "a battle is a contest of wills. An army is never beaten till it accepts defeat." It was he who at the first battle of the Marne sent the now famous dispatch to Marshal Joffre: "My right wing is crushed; my centre is driven back. The situation is excellent. I attack with my left." As a result of this indomitable courage he succeeded in holding the centre of the French line and became the anvil on which the famous left of the French smashed the German army so effectively. Marshal Foch is an offensive rather than a defensive commander, but it was he who helped to hold the Belgians at the Yser when he told King Leopold: "If you abandon this position you will lose your kingdom." It was Marshal Foch who met Field Marshal French at one in the morning when the British line was pierced and said: "Here are my battalions. We shall throw them in even though we die for it, for to retire now is to be routed." When the great offensive came then Marshal Foch's genius shone transcendent. Never a moment's rest for the enemy, and whenever they tried to reinforce from some other part of the line, then that part of the line was inevitably attacked. He has the prevision of genius as to what the enemy will do. His acceptance of the Knights of Columbus baton gives him a new close interest for members of the fraternity.

Pressure of Work Kept Police Chief on Ground Friday

Might Take Trip With Aviator Today, If Invited.

Pressure of work was all that kept Chief of Police W. T. T. Williams, he said, from taking the airplane flight Friday. The chief was invited to try aviation free of charge by T. W. Logan, manager of the Majestic Theatre, and the chief intimated that he might consent to take a flight later.

Chief Williams is 79 years of age, but does not look it, and he insists that he does not feel more than about 40. Two weeks ago he declared that he was interested in airplanes to the extent that he would consent to fly if somebody could be found who would be willing to take him up.

The funeral, which was of a private nature, was conducted by Rev. Dr. G. B. Sage of St. George's Church, West London.

BURIED AT WOODLAND.

The funeral of Mrs. H. Lowe was held on Friday from the family residence, 703 William street, to Woodland Cemetery. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Canon C. Craig.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon from the family residence at 2:30 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Evangelist Belcher of York Street Mission will conduct the services.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SMITH.

Mrs. Jemima P. Smith, mother of School Trustee Edwin Smith, who died very suddenly on Tuesday in her 80th year, was buried this afternoon in the family plot at Woodland Cemetery. The motor funeral left the family residence, 588 Dufferin avenue, at 2 o'clock, services being conducted at the house by Rev. Archdeacon J. B. Richardson and Rev. G. Q. Warner. Both officiated at the grave.

The pallbearers were Lieut.-Col. Clifford Reason, Harry T. Reason, William Kingstone, W. W. Gammage, Sid Chadwick and John MacDonald. Mrs. Smith was much beloved by young people, of whom she was very fond, and floral tributes in many designs were received from a large circle of friends in the city.

The black casket was covered with a blanket of little red moss roses, a tribute from her sons and daughters. Two beautiful floral tributes were sent from the grandchildren in Ottawa and this city. A cross of crimson roses was sent from St. George's Society.

Mrs. Smith was a native of England, coming from London at an early age and settling in Canada. Controller Frank Plant of Ottawa, a former Advertiser employee, attended the funeral of his grandmother.

PTE. ROBERT McLEOD RETURNS TO LONDON AFTER LONG SERVICE

Pte. Robert E. McLeod, son of Mrs. A. McLeod, 193 Waterloo street, a well-known local boy, returned to this city yesterday, after an absence of three years, 34 months of which was continuous service at the front, in the 1st Battalion, and 1st Canadian Brigade Scout Sections. Pte. McLeod enlisted in the 33rd Battalion, and under Capt. (later Lieut.-Col.) H. L. Nelles of this city, he proceeded to England with the first draft from that battalion in June, 1915. After two months' training in England, this draft was ordered to France as a reinforcement to the 1st Western Ontario Battalion.

Here Pte. McLeod served in the Scout Section for over two years, until transferred to the Brigade Scouts. His service at the front was continuous during this long period, and although wounded in the face and left leg by shrapnel about a year ago, he was returned to duty the same day, the wounds not being considered serious.

This popular local lad brought back from overseas with him, his English bride, to whom he surrendered shortly after the armistice was signed. The young couple will reside in this city, and Pte. McLeod is today busily engaged renewing old acquaintances after his lengthy absence overseas.

Roy McLeod of The Advertiser editorial staff, who proceeded to France with the first Canadian contingent, is a brother.

A brass band formed chiefly of discharged army veterans already has been established and will form part of the G. W. V. A. of Walpole Island.

W. Wright, elected treasurer of the newly-formed branch, was an original 18th Battalion man, who returned to Canada with the 18th.

WONDERFUL STALK OF PANSIES

Phenomenal Growth of Rhubarb and Asparagus Almost Reaches to Level of the Prices Asked for Them

Conversation On the Square This Morning Ignored Produce and Was Confined to the Aeroplanes Overhead and Their Wonders — Butter Caught in Milky Way.

The market was cram full of fresh green things this morning, intermingled with masses and masses of flowers, but the relative prices of these and the peculiarities of the weather hold second place in the conversation which flows like a great stream over the whole of the square, missing no one. What is it all about? Why, the aeroplanes, of course.

In the city, people talk about the giant engine and the wings. But this is what the farmer said: "Do you know? They say it went up so high yesteday that it struck the milky way and when it came down there was butter on the propellor." A scientific mind might jump at this suggestion to decrease the H. C. of L.

Growth and Prices High.

There was a great demand for green stuff on the market this morning, and as if in response to the demand, it was there in large quantities, of phenomenal growth. The continued warm weather has produced rhubarb a yard long and as thick as a man's fist, and asparagus two feet long is selling with the rest. The price of everything is sky high, with no signs of lowering.

Home-grown strawberries are beginning to appear and sold this morning for 30, 35 and 40 cents a box. On account of the dry weather they are good value, containing very little water.

A profusion of flowers everywhere gave to the dingy old square almost a bridal look. Gorgeous peonies in pinks and whites brought 50 cents a dozen, and besides these were those of almost every hue, and thousands of flowering plants. Celery plants made their appearance for the first time, ready for transplanting.

Everything Helps.

In spite of the intense heat everyone was comparatively cheerful. A blind man with a concertina struck up a lively tune once in a while and helped a lot. At least he helped all but those in his immediate vicinity. One of these was heard to remark, as he clapped his hands over his ears, "I'm sure I don't wish that poor fellow any harm, but I do wish he was a little farther away."

One very busy man on the market this morning was W. Eastwood, of the assessment department. He was occupied with the unpopular job of pasting up notices on rented stalls, which mentioned the income tax which the owners of these stalls must pay.

The daylight saving question is still a most unpopular one among the farmers, who, if they desire to do business on city schedule, must turn their watches on an hour. It is rumored that one such farmer went down to the fire hall and attempted to set his watch by the steam gauge. But, of course, it's only a rumor.

WINNIPEG STRIKE NOT ORDINARY LABOR DISPUTE, BUT INVOLVES AN ATTEMPT AT REAL REVOLUTION

So Says Committee of One Thousand in Letter To Chamber of Commerce—Is Issuing Facts of the Case.

That the facts concerning the strike in Winnipeg were different from those reported throughout Canada is the statement which comes from the citizens' committee of one thousand in a letter to the local chamber of commerce, accompanied by a special edition of the Winnipeg Citizen issued June 9 and containing a resume of the articles written during the period of strike. This paper aims at putting the exact facts of the situation as it was, before the people of Canada, and for this purpose is forwarding copies to the various cities and towns, with the hope that the true facts will receive publicity, and so correct the mind of the public in this regard.

The letter follows:

Issues Not Local.

Winnipeg, June 9, 1919.

Dear Sir,—You will find herewith a special issue of the Winnipeg Citizen, containing a resume of articles on the strike in this city. We believe that the issues involved in this strike are by no means local, and that people everywhere are interested.

There has probably been much misapprehension as to the exact facts, and we know that in some quarters the conditions have been greatly exaggerated.

No Rioting.

So far there has been practically no rioting, though much intimidation has been practiced. The vital point, however, is that this strike is not an ordinary labor dispute, but involves an attempt at revolution.

Will you kindly give the widest publicity possible to these papers.

Flies to Lakeside And Back Again in Just 37 Minutes

Lieut. Maxwell Makes Rapid Trip To Port Stanley.

Lieut. Roy Maxwell of the Canadian Aero Film Company made a trip to Port Stanley and return this morning in 37 minutes. The distance was at least 56 miles and some time was spent over the port.

Lieut. Maxwell, with Lieut. Tom Terry as a passenger, left the city at an early hour, reaching St. Thomas in eleven minutes and Port Stanley eight minutes later. This time included movements over St. Thomas and the summer resort. The return journey was made in sixteen minutes. Several watchers timed the flight, and all agreed on the speed.

The aviator says the country is the most beautiful over which he has passed, and has many landing places that appeal to flying men. It is possible that he will make a second trip to the lakeside before leaving London tomorrow morning.

Big Hole in Sun Is Said To Guarantee More Extreme Heat

Philadelphia Astronomers Say This Is Certain Prophecy.

A prominent local citizen who recently returned from a visit to the United States, reports that he learned through officials of the observatory at Philadelphia that those savants have discovered a thousand-mile-wide hole in the sun, a phenomenon which they said presaged a very hot summer indeed. They pointed out that on a former occasion a very much smaller cavity resulted in an experience for the earth people somewhat similar to that of the crab being prepared for dinner. Therefore, the inference was that this infinitely larger crater would result in even more immoderate heat than in that historic year.

The astronomers, in spite of all their wisdom, were able only to record the facts, and according to the citizen preferred to make no helpful suggestion for repairing the damage which had been done to the source of light and warmth.

JAMES REID BADLY HURT WHEN CAR CRASHES INTO HIM

Returned Soldier Knocked Down by Port Stanley Car Returning to the City.

James Reid, a returned soldier, aged 28, is in Victoria Hospital suffering from severe injuries received when he was knocked down by a northbound London and Port Stanley car on its return from Port. He suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, and his scalp is badly lacerated. Although in a critical condition, the attending physician, Dr. Spence, says there are chances for his recovery. It was thought when he was picked up that he was beyond medical attention. He appeared to be slightly better this afternoon.

The accident occurred at the No. 1 stop, which is just past Chelsea Green, at 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Reid, with three or four others who were standing around the stopping place, was lying down beside the track, and upon hearing the approaching train, jumped up suddenly in front of it. Apparently, being on the ground, he had not thought that it was no near. Motorman Trigger saw the act, but could not pull up in time before Reid was hit.

He was picked up and made as comfortable as possible, though in a semi-conscious condition, and rushed to Victoria Hospital immediately, where his injuries were dressed by Dr. Spence.

Reid is registered at the Knights of Columbus Army Hut, where he is reported to have stayed for a short time. His home address is not known, and his condition is regarded as too serious to allow questions regarding his personal affairs at the hospital. He is said by other members of the army club to have his home out of this city, and is not well known here.

Giles; highland fling by Anna and Raymond Turner; sailors' hornpipe by Anna Turner; solos by Miss Hedden; Irish jig by Anna Turner; reading by Mrs. Hedden, and solos by Mr. Griffith. Accompaniments were played by Mrs. Whiting. Refreshments were served ae the close.

It was decided at this meeting to hold a picnic on July 8.

COUNCIL WILL MAKE CLEAR SITUATION ON ST. RAILWAY QUESTION

Likely To Issue Statement Telling the Facts.

HIGHER FARES DOUBTFUL

Council Not Expected To Take Chance On Illegal Move.

To purchase or not to urchase; to increase fares or not to increase fares: what to do to secure a satisfactory street railway service. These are questions which are occupying the minds of the city fathers these hot days, and some of them at least will be asked, and perhaps answered, at the meeting of the council on Monday evening.

The attitude of the committee which waited on City Solicitor T. G. Meredith yesterday is that, since the illegality of an increase in fares without the consent of the people, expressed at the polls, has been established, the public should be made acquainted with the city's limitations of power in this respect in order to offset any possibility of using the council as a buffer between the public and the company, by making the issue appear to be one of increased wages for the company's employees.

To Tell Situation.

The committee will report to the council the results of its deliberations with the solicitor, and will incorporate in its report a recommendation that the mayor and city clerk prepare a comprehensive statement as to the exact situation with regard to street railway matters. A resolution also will be submitted by one of the aldermen, it is understood, calling for a conference with a view to discovering just what the street railway company is prepared to give in the way of increased wages and better service in the event of an increase in fares being authorized.

As already stated on the authority of Ald. C. G. Moorhead, if the company were prepared to make a reasonable offer Mr. Moorhead would be prepared to submit the question of increased fares to a vote of the people, and other aldermen are said to stand in the same attitude with reference to the matter.

Increase Unlikely.

That the council at its meeting on Monday will grant an increase in fares, "taking a chance" on the illegality of the proceeding, now seems to be very unlikely. Indications point to the probability that the council will rather endeavor to show to the public just where matters stand, in order that the public may not be misled into lending itself to what is called an attempt to cloud the real issue.

The special committee's report will also contain a recommendation that the company be notified that a breach of its agreement has been committed, and that the service called for under the bylaws must be given. Whether compliance can be forced is another and a moot question.

Purchase Feeling Grows.

The feeling in favor of purchase by the city of the street railway seems to be growing among the aldermen, and it is altogether likely that the special committee will become active in the very near future with a view to ascertaining on what terms the purchase could be made without resort to expropriation proceedings, which would without doubt be lengthy, and which might, in the view of some of the aldermen, result in the city being saddled with a very expensive utility.

One alderman voiced his fear on this score thus: "The company has been complaining for a long time that it is not making money, but directly expropriations were undertaken it is quite on the cards that the company might undertake to prove what a valuable asset the city was trying to acquire, and that the net revenue was much greater than had been supposed."

In any event, the prospects so far as Monday's meeting is concerned is that no decisive action will be taken, and that the matter will be left in what Mayor C. R. Somerville is fond of calling the "quo vadis" until the special committee has ascertained all the facts in the situation.

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS CONCLUDE CONGRESS WITH LARGE BANQUET

First Ever Held by Them in Western Ontario.

E. J. McIVER SPEAKS

Subject "Place of the Underwriters in Reconstruction."

The first educational congress of life underwriters ever held in Western Ontario came to a conclusion last evening after two days of very interesting and instructive sessions. The final phase of the congress took the form of a banquet at the Tecumseh House, and the guests, among whom were a goodly sprinkling of the fair sex, enjoyed not only an excellent dinner, but an exceptionally good bill of fare in the way of addresses and music. Tomorrow those of the delegates who remain in town will be free to take trips as their inclination dictates, and already several parties have been made up for visits to Port Stanley, the ball game, Springbank Park and other places of interest.

Principal Speaker.

The principal speaker at last evening's banquet was E. J. McIver of Newark, N. J., whose subject was "The Place of the Life Underwriter in Reconstruction." He said many people were inclined to protest that they were tired of hearing of reconstruction and the war; they wanted to forget it, but, the speaker declared that we could not and dare not forget the war, and he proposed to talk about it, although not from the historical point of view.

Reconstruction, he went on to say, was a term which had, in his opinion, been commonly used in a rather wrong sense. His opinion was that reconstruction had taken place actually during the war. During that period men's minds had undergone complete change, and the term he would prefer to use for what must come after was "stabilization." Something was needed now to fix our minds in the new lines into which they had been led by the momentous happenings of the last four years.

He expressed a desire to use as a symbolism in presenting the thoughts which he proposed to set forth, a wheel, which, he declared, was one of the most wonderful inventions ever conceived. It did away with the friction incidental to the sledge method of traction, and marked a tremendous development in the progress of science.

Germans Fought for Devil.

Germany in the war fought for the devil and all his works. The Allies, on the other hand, had the privilege of fighting, however blunderingly, however mistakenly, and however unconsciously in some respects, for God Almighty. That thought he suggested might be taken as the hub of the wheel. The rim he likened to the team play, the self-sacrifice, the unselfishness, which had characterized the Allies and which had co-ordinated the various influences, which he proceeded to enumerate as the spokes of the wheel.

The first of the spokes to which he referred was the tremendous power of the people behind the Allied Governments, without which those governments could not have continued to carry on the war. This tremendous power had made victory possible, but continued beyond the rim of altruism, self-sacrifice and team-play it might develop into Bolshevism, and the kind of situation which existed in Winnipeg today.

Another spoke in the wheel was represented by the unity of command vested in Marshall Foch. This centralization of authority in times of crisis had demonstrated its usefulness, but allowed to exceed the limit of the rim it would become kaiserism.

Discipline a Spoke.

Discipline was another spoke linking the hub to the rim. It also had its dangerous potentiality, since allowed to operate beyond the boundaries of team-play it would destroy initiative and individualism, and again would produce Bolshevism.

"The splendid courage shown by the men in the ranks, than which nothing finer had ever inspired a writer to perpetuate it, unconfined by the spirit of team-play and unselfishness would become simple savagery. Lloyd George had said that silver bullets would win the war. Wealth, therefore, was another spoke in the wheel, but it also was an evil when it exceeded the limit of co-operation.

"Germany lost the war because she was wrong," declared the speaker with emphasis. "She reversed all the rules of the Good Book. The Bible declared, 'Blessed are the meek'; Germany said, 'Blessed are the arrogant; 'Blessed are the peace-makers,' Germany transposed to 'Blessed are war-makers.' Instead of 'Blessed are the pure in heart,' she made it 'Blessed are the vile.' But today the Blond Beast of Berlin is grovelling and whining for mercy, as we knew he would, while the beatitudes of the Nazarene live and are as true as ever."

Underwriters Have Opportunity.

Mr. McIver declared that life underwriters had a unique opportunity, coming into contact as they did with all classes of people, of helping in the work which was to be done in the after-the-war period. They had a great responsibility and a great opportunity to bring about a better understanding. Speaking of the one big union movement, the speaker said that if it included all the men in his audience, and all the capitalists, then he was for it, but if it included only the men who worked with their hands, and were intended to crush such men as life underwriters and others between the upper and nether millstones then he did not want anything to do with it. It was in helping to combat any movement tending to set class against class that the underwriters could have their part in solving the post-war problem.

Insurance, he said, had a lengthy history. It dated all the way back to Joseph, who made provision for the lean years during the years of plenty, and it could be traced in larger or smaller jumps down to the time of Marshal Foch, who had shown one hundred million people the dotted line on which they would assuredly sign.

Reviews Congress.

T. B. Parkinson, president of the local Underwriters' Association, reviewed the congress which was drawing to a close, and declared his conviction that it had proved a very successful experiment. He hoped that it would be duplicated many times in the future.

Lawrence J. Lugsdin of Toronto gave an interesting "Half-Hour With Dr. Drummond and His Habitant Poems." Vocal solos were rendered by Percy King and Harry Daykin of Leamington, and a number of choruses were sung by the gathering, led by Percy King and accompanied by Mrs. King.

Rev. D. C. MacGregor, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, briefly addressed the dinner guests, expressing pleasure that they had come together in harmony to discuss in a spirit of co-operation the problems confronting them. A brief reply to the toast of "The Press" was given by H. B. Muir.

Afternoon Session.

At the afternoon session in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium John T. Tory, supervisor of agencies in Western Ontario and Michigan for the Sun Life Assurance Company, was the speaker, and his dynamic address on the subject, "What the man with the rate book must know and do to become a success," was received with a veritable tumult of applause.

Before proceeding to enumerate what he considered the qualifications for a successful life underwriter, Mr. Tory declared that he would not measure success simply by volume of business written. For instance he would not for a moment admit that the man who wrote five hundred thousand dollars worth of insurance, but only secured twenty risks, was a greater success than the man who only wrote two hundred thousand dollars worth, but who in doing so wrote two hundred people.

The first thing a man must know to be a success in the insurance business, he said, was himself. He must know his own weaknesses and his own strong points, in order to know whether he could become a good insurance man. He must also know how to judge men, how to approach them, and he must know current events, in order to be able to converse intelligently on any topic which might ordinarily come up during intercourse with prospects.

He must also know the underlying principle of insurance, which was service in the interests of the widows and orphans and the helpless; and he must know all about his own company and about the good points of other companies. He must also be convinced that no company in the world was better than his own. The man who sought business for any company and who in his heart did not like to work for that company was not only disloyal to the company, but was disloyal to his prospective clientele.

What a Man Must Do.

Under the heading of what a man must do, Mr. Tory put first the qualification of good health. To be a successful insurance underwriter a man must be in perfect health, or as nearly perfect as his body was capable of. He must also be absolutely careful of his appearance, and in this connection he said that a rule of his own office was that no man might go out to interview a prospect in the morning unless he had had a clean shave.

To be a success an underwriter must have such confidence in the broad principle of insurance that he would carry insurance himself to the limit of his ability to pay. He declared that he would not have a man work for him who could carry insurance and was not insured.

Getting prospects was, of course, an essential qualification. This was a matter to be left to every man's individual judgment. He gave, however, a hint from his own experience, and it was that he always jotted down at the first opportunity in a special book carried for that purpose and no other, the names of men which flashed across his mind, as a kind of inspiration, and which he probably would forget if they were not so jotted down.

And, finally, to be successful, a man must inspire the confidence of the public. He must avoid making misleading or untrue statements, for the man who misled his prospects might write them once, but he would never write them the second time.

At the conclusion of the afternoon session the delegates were photographed as a group in front of the "Y" Auditorium, and afterwards, in automobiles, they made a tour of the city, including Springbank Park in the itinerary, which provided a very welcome change from the closeness and heat of the convention hall.

RICH, RED BLOOD MEANS HEALTH

Weak, Pale People Require a Blood-Making Medicine.

It took centuries for medical science to discover that the blood is the life. Now, it is known that if the blood were always abundant, rich and pure, very few people would ever be ill. It was not until the end of the 19th century that an instrument was invented for measuring the red part of the blood. Then doctors could tell just how anaemic a patient had become, and with medicine to make new blood the patient soon got well.

All the blood in the body is nourished and kept rich and red by the food taken daily, but when, for any reason, a person is rundown and cannot make sufficient blood from the food to keep the body in health, then a blood-making medicine is required. The simplest and very best of bloodmakers suitable for home use by anyone, is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When a course of these pills is taken their good effect is soon shown in an improved appetite, stronger nerves, a sound digestion and an ability to master your work and enjoy leisure hours. For women there is a prompt relief of, or prevention of ailments which make life a burden. Mrs. Thos. Kaake, Trenton, Ont., tells how she obtained new health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "The weakness came on me so gradually that at first it was hardly noticeable. But after a time it got so that I could not go upstairs without stopping to rest. Every particle of color left my hands and face, and the least exertion would tire me and leave my heart palpitating violently. I consulted a doctor who told me the trouble was anaemia and prescribed a tonic. I took this medicine for some time, but it did not seem to help me a bit. Then I read of a cure in a similar case through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. The result was these pills made me feel like a new woman. I have gained all my former health and strength, and feel that I owe my present condition entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why You Shouldn't Treat a Running Ear at Home

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

When a child clasps his ear and shrieks with pain, do not delay with home treatments. Let summon an ear specialist or hasten to the ear hospital.

Often the baby will put its hand to the affected ear or bump its head down on the pillow. As a rule, an observant, attentive, intelligent mother at once discovers earache.

Nine times in ten the mother makes the lifelong mistake of treating the child at home. Oil in the ear is an abomination and a physical evil, a fact that I have tried to ingrain into the family habits of my readers.

Running ears and perforated ear drums are proofs in adult life that mothers still risk the sense of hearing in their babies by home remedies, which allow the abscessed ear of the infant to burst—nearly always in the wrong place, instead of calling the ear specialist, whose magic lancet properly perforates the drum. This lets out the matter and eases the pain. The drum heals quickly and no hole is left in it.

What it Is.

Don't let anyone tell you that "a child will outgrow a running ear." In the words of Dr. C. M. Sautter of New York: "He knows very well that when he makes this statement it is an untruth."

A running ear is an abscess next door to the brain. Meningitis, abscess of the brain, a clot on the brain are all or one possible. Mastoid abscess is even more common than these.

A fall or a blow upon almost any part of the anatomy of a person with an untreated running ear may so disturb the balance and continuity as to stir up a sleeping abscess.

A boy whose mother had sent him at the age of 14 with a note to request a certificate to allow him to enter public school, because he could not hear, had been a pupil at a deaf and dumb institute. Nine months before he had been operated on for a mastoid, and two months later for the same thing on the other side.

Consult a Specialist.

On his return from the hospital he was found to be able to hear a moderate whisper in either ear at eighteen feet. Previously he had been very deaf with running ears.

If examined carefully, a person with running or perforated ears is found not to hear well. Many of them do not know it, or from mock modesty and delusive self-sensitiveness refuse to admit it.

However, do not sacrifice your child's future to a false economy or a foolish vanity that you can treat an earache as well as an ear specialist.

Answers to Health Questions

A. M. S.: Q.—What do you think best for hives?

A.—Hives may sometimes be due to hypersensitive state of the human tissues, usually to some particular article of food. It may be caused by berries, fish, tomatoes, beer, fruits, drugs, odors, clams and oysters. The remedy depends upon the thing that is responsible for the trouble, and then to eliminate it from the diet. While looking for this the itching can be relieved by applying a little of the following lotion:

Pink calamine	2½ drams
Zinc oxide	2 drams
Glycerine	2 drams
Phenol	30 drops
Lime water	2 ounces
Rose water	2 ounces

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Madge Listened Fearfully To Dicky's News

"I'd like to be Rita's old-fashioned dad for about fifteen minutes," Dicky growled as we hurried over to our own home to get wraps for the visit to "The Sand Pile" upon which Miss Brown had insisted.

"Why?" I asked ingenuously, although, woman-like, my pulses were leaping at my husband's evidently genuine irritation at the girl whom I so disliked.

"So that I could stand at one end of a good hickory switch, with her at the other, and give her the tanning she needs. Of all the fool stunts this is the limit!"

"I thought you liked an occasional evening in a cabaret," I said demurely, deliberately feeding his ill-humor. I knew I was being cattish, but I felt that I could listen to many more strictures upon Rita Brown with satiety.

What Dicky Declared.

"So I do," Dicky retorted, "but there's a time for all things, as I've heard somewhere, Shakespeare or Scripture—anyway, it's true. Here's one of the most perfect spring days you could find, with a moonlight evening coming on—I'll bet it will be plenty warm enough to sit on that veranda and watch the moon over the lake through the apple blossoms, and nothing will do that blasted cat but a trip to this cafe of all places. Any cafe would be bad enough on a night like this, but 'The Sand Pile'!"

He paused as if he could think of no words strong enough to express his disgust. I slipped in another query:

"Is it so bad, then?"

He turned on me angrily.

"What are you trying to do? Kid me? I'm not worrying about the wickedness of the thing—indeed, if it were clever and wicked there might be some sense in going there if it were in the winter time, or if we were stranded in an apartment or a hotel, and had no place like this to go to. But of all stupid, uninteresting places on the face of the inhabited globe that cafe is the worst.

"Two hat boys from one of the most aggravating restaurants as to price and service in all New York—and that's going some—got so much money planted in their jeans that they didn't know what to do with it, so they started this thing out here. It has all the bad things the New York places have without one of the redeeming features the city proprietors do slip in occasionally when they're asleep. The food is bad, the drinks are worse, the cabaret features vulgar and sensational without a streak of cleverness, and the prices outdo New York.

"You Don't Mean——"

"Oh, it's a fine stunt little Rita has steered us up against, believe me! I'm surprised Alf stands for it. And yet, of course"—with hasty qualification—"he can't do anything else as long as she's his guest. But if this stunt of hers doesn't open the eyes of that anointed idiot—who, between you and me, is just about on the point of taking a jump over the broomstick with the lady—why, he's a goner, that's all."

"Dicky!" I seized his arm impetuously, inadvertently joggling a scarf-pin which he was adjusting out of his hand as I did so, "you don't mean that Alf's——"

"Dippy over the game?" he countered, stooping for the pin with an annoyed grunt. "Why, hasn't your wonderful Sherlockian brain deduced that yet? You're getting rusty, old dear. Better apply the oil can."

He settled the pin carefully, gave his hair a slow stroke or two with his military brushes, selected some handkerchiefs with deliberation, while I mentally danced with impatience to hear his next words.

"What Rita wants of a husband no one knows—for goodness sake get a move on, they'll be waiting for us!" he interrupted himself irritably.

"I'm practically ready," I retorted, "but I won't stir a step until you finish telling me about this."

"Oh, you won't eh?" he teased, tucking me firmly under one arm, catching up my cloak with the other and rushing me down the stairs. "I'll tell you nothing except that for some unknown reason Rita evidently thinks she'd like to try matrimony for a change, with Alf as the goat. And she's pretty nearly got the poor chap lassoed—he's been abroad so long that his perspective's off focus. But I'll bet that coat I can't get into that she queers the game tonight someway."

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JUNE 15-16.

Sunday promises to be a day on which the planetary forces assist the mind to sober and profound thought and introspection, giving but little assistance to purely corporeal affairs, which may be fraught with annoyance and loss as well as with disappointment.

Those whose birthday it is should be careful of their money, attend to business, and be discreet. A child born on this day will be trustworthy, reliable, but prone to extravagance.

Monday is a day of rather weak planetary portent, with matters moving along the usual routine grooves. There is some prospect of a change which ought to result advantageously, although the position is not a very important one. There may be need to guard against sharp words and deeds, which might lead to quarrels, disputes or resort to the law.

Those whose birthday it is may have some change or journey during the year, though none may be of great importance. A child born on this day will not have an eventful life. It will be inclined to be impulsive and impetuous.

The Adventures of Jimmy Coon

JIMMY COON GETS HIS DINNER.

Those two Snow Shoe Rabbits led Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum along the banks of the brook to a place where it widened and made almost a little pond. And here right in the middle of the ice was a little round hole.

Some time in the winter when the ice and snow are everywhere get your father to take you to a lake or pond. Look around, and before long you will find a little round hole just like this one.

"There," said one of the Snow Shoes. "You can fish through that hole. Make it bigger."

So Jimmy Coon scratched at the hole and broke off little pieces of ice. Very soon he could put his little black hand and arm through the hole.

The water was not so awfully cold, as the ice made a blanket for it. But brook water is very cold in summer, and Jimmy Coon, in warm weather, often fished for trout.

Of course, the noise made by breaking the ice scared off the fish for a time, but soon they came swimming back, right under the hole.

Jimmy Coon was a very skillful fisherman, and he pulled out one, then two and three fish.

There was a regular fish dinner, and only Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum ate, because the Rabbits had had their lunch.

My, how they enjoyed that dinner, and they didn't have to bother with a fire, for they didn't have to cook their fish.

They looked all around, and little Peter was not to be seen.

When they had finished there wasn't a bite left.

"This is a nice place to visit," said Jimmy Coon. "Lots to eat, and you don't have to bother to hunt it up. These cousins of Peter Rabbit seem to be very nice people. What did he mean when he smiled that time you asked him why he was afraid of Mr. Red Fox?"

"I don't know. That was a funny thing, and we must watch and see what it means. But what about Peter Rabit? We must not let anything happen to him, for we told his mother we would bring him home safely."

"Of course we will take care of Peter, but where is he?" They looked all around, and little Peter was not to be seen.

"Surely Uncle Snow Shoe will take care of him until we get back," said Jimmy Coon.

"I don't know about that, for I notice that when Mr. Red Fox comes along everyone is for himself and Mr. Red Fox usually catches the hindmost."

Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum would have been horrified if they could have seen what a fix little Peter was in.

What is a double acting baking powder?

A double-acting baking powder is one that starts its action in the mixing bowl and finishes it in the oven.

Ordinary baking powders develop their full strength in the mixing bowl and you have to hurry your cakes into the oven. Then, you are always afraid that the oven is not just hot enough, or that a door will slam or something else happen to cause the cakes to fall.

You don't have to hurry or worry when Egg-O Baking Powder is used. Egg-O rises only partly in the bowl. You may let the dough stand 15 or 20 minutes or longer—doing so will give better results. When put into the oven, Egg-O continues its action—this second action being so steady and strong that a cake is not likely to fall even if it does get an unexpected jar.

EGG-O Baking Powder

is double-acting and just what is needed to make a light baking with the heavy Government Standard flours.

Wonder What Judge Thinks Who Sent McCullough to Pen When 15 Years of Age

It might be said that man has his existence within a kind of moral corral. This fenced-in space is made up of pickets and according to the number of pickets erected is the person safe from wandering astray. There always are the conventional pickets of the law, a formidable barrier, but there are also self-erected sections of the fence which make it easy or difficult to get between the pickets and dash off beyond the law of heaven or earth. One of the strongest sections of the inclosure that restrains the brute in man is that which could be labelled "Thou Shalt Not Kill." It guards a section of the outside that leads to a prison and a gallows or electric chair, and as a man is constituted is the fence high and strong or low and weak. A man of intelligence, for instance, who realizes that heredity or circumstances have given him an uncontrollable temper will make this part of the corral so strong and forbidding that he is certain to find it impassable when the deadly impulse to slay comes into his mind. Not only has the law made this section of the barrier forbidding, but the man himself has strung barbed wire of his own devising along the top. He feels that, come what may, he will never try to break from the fence at that section, because death lies at the passage, and death by violence, death imposed by the community, is the worst fear that can strike the heart of a human being.

Frank McCullough was one of the men who pulled down so many of the pickets in his moral inclosure that the law found it necessary to make the barriers high. When, like a hunted animal, he sought to break through the pickets that guarded the avenues of theft and robbery, he found the law had reinforced these sections and discovered the weak spots in his character that must be guarded. When he ran smash into the law's newly-erected protection and the law was coming for him to tie him up short for a while, he saw the only way out was to break through the section of the fence labelled "Thou Shalt Not Kill," weakened in his attacks on other parts of the structure. So he burst through the last avenue of escape. He killed in order to clear himself of the fate that pursued him. It was then he at his feet on that road which ended in a sudden drop to "the next life" yesterday morning.

McCullough would not stay within the law's inclosure and he paid the penalty. The community has made this inclosure and members of the community have left it at their peril. It is not a matter of choice, or many would be following the course of McCullough. Many men have had blacker murder in their hearts than Frank McCullough, but they did not like to be sent on a certain road that is travelled only by the perpetrators of the ultimate sin. And perhaps it is in the realization of the capacity of men for wrong-doing that the community, knowing human nature, fears to make the punishment for the great crime less drastic and destructive than it has been. Whatever the humanitarianism of the question may be, the community believes that potential murder exists and would express itself but for the fear of the gallows. And while the community, or a section of it, pleaded for the life of this boy to be spared, the truth is that the thrill of the man's escape and the pseudo-love affair interwoven through his prison experience, appealed to people with the same interest as did the dashing figures of crime on the high seas or high road.

The people who asked for a commutation of the sentence of Frank McCullough may be derided as sentimentalists, and there are frequently cases when the sympathy shown for murderers is sickening, but from the bottom of the human heart wells up a surge of feeling for the poor unfortunate, who as a boy seeking adventure, fell in with tramps and was packed into a penitentiary at 15 years of age and given a thoroughgoing education in crime while other boys in different spheres of life were attending collegiate institutes and being guided by fathers and mothers to other destinies. What would Frank McCullough have turned out to be had he been reared in another environment? What would Frank McCullough have been if a calloused judge had not "sent him down" for fifteen years? Perhaps that judge may still be alive, and it may be the part of justice that he should receive marked copies of the newspapers pointing to the wonderful success in crime achieved by the boy he passed into the great university of crime, with only a thought perhaps that this miserable creature before him was delaying his lunch hour or his motor car ride. A distinguished student, indeed! The horror of that thought and the revulsion it arouses against the man responsible is almost as great as the horror of McCullough's crime.

It is a good thing there are few judges of that sort left on earth.

Why Germany Must Sign

From semi-official sources at Paris come reports that the Allies' reply to the German counter-proposals will concede some minor points, but that there will be no altering of the conditions which hold adequate punishment for the Hun and safeguards against another of his criminal world-adventures.

If there be any real surrender to the German bluff and bluster the peace conference will have to face the indignation of a world that has suffered as never before in recorded history. It is not hate that inspires this desire to see the Teuton chastised and chained, but a determination that never again shall humanity be so racked, shaken and wounded as in the past four years. Germany and her partners in the great outrage must be compelled to sign a treaty that will not only strip them forever of power for mischief and provide a measure of reparation, but that will furnish an everlasting warning to any government, imperial or otherwise, that may feel inclined to emulate the Potsdam blow for dominance and glory.

The Winnipeg Situation

A former Londoner who is a member of the executive of the citizens committee of 1,000 at Winnipeg, the league which is combatting the "red" element at the western metropolis, has written to The Advertiser as follows:

"I thought a line on the situation here might be interesting. In my mind, the high cost of living is providing fruitful soil for a number of agitators here to spread their views, which include the taking into their own hands the constituted authority, which spells revolution. The long-suffering general public, including the strikers, is being put to a great deal of trouble, inconvenience and loss, and the end does not seem in sight even yet. I am looking for the loyal, sane element in the labor party, now apparently in the minority, very soon as an overwhelming majority, to make itself felt and take control. That, in my mind, is the best solution of the trouble.

"I have the honor to be on the executive of the Citizens' Committee of 1,000. This committee stands for two things, and two things only. These, they maintain, are not debatable; first, that constituted authority shall govern; second, that the people shall have full use of public utilities such as telephone, fire protection, gas, electric light, distribution of bread, milk, etc. Until these are settled beyond any possibility of doubt, no other questions are in their province."

New State On the Rhine

The passionately-expressed demand of the French people that the peace conditions provide an assurance against another German raid, may be met by the Germans. In that part of Germany that is at present occupied and controlled by the Allied armies—the left bank of the Rhine—there is a definite movement towards the establishment of an independent republic. This would, of course, provide a barrier to another leap of the Hun. Along with Belgium, an independent Rhenish province would make it impossible for France to be trapped by a sudden attack such as that of 1914.

If these Rhenish folk go to the full length of separation they will antagonize the rest of Germany, but as the Allied armies will be in occupation for a period of fifteen years there can be no physical interference. When the time for Allied withdrawal arrives it is to be hoped all Germany will be sufficiently democratic to recognize the self-determination principle adopted on the left bank of the Rhine, but in any event the new state should be able to take care of itself. It is a district rich in industrial cities and towns, and possessing a great population could easily provide necessary safeguards for the time when their present protectors move out.

The progress of this new republic will make an interesting study. It is certain to be influenced by British and French ideas and ideals. This will tend to uproot the spirit of imperialism and militarism so deeply rooted in Teutonic character, and at the same time help check the spread of Red rule. A Rhenish republic would be an excellent object lesson for the rest of Germany and would furnish just the barricade that France and Belgium ask.

U. S. Labor and the League

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, who is leading the fight in United States against the league of nations covenant, maintains he speaks for the majority of the American people in warring on the agreement. Yesterday at Atlantic City the American Federation of Labor put itself on record as strongly supporting the league pact. Will Senator Knox drop his hostility to a pact that has received the indorsation of labor's most powerful organization on this continent? Labor the world over believes the league of nations scheme contains the germ of better conditions for the worker, however weak and inadequate some of its provisions may appear. The covenant, so far as is possible at the present time, assures at least a measure of world-wide peace and possesses safeguards against another world catastrophe. This promises a stability in social and industrial affairs that labor desires, but apart from these, the conditions of the agreement open the way for great advances by labor in all countries, big and little. Wages and working conditions generally are destined under the league covenant to improve steadily. Instead of isolated instances of progress, labor in every land will receive a more just share of the world's wealth because of the league of nations. Yet Senator Knox would have United States stand aside, refusing to be bound by the conditions of the pact. In the event of Congress rejecting the agreement while the other nations adopted it, labor on this continent might be cut off from the great benefits which the league is capable of achieving.

As they have framed the covenant, Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Wilson have kept in mind at all times the interests and influences of the worker. They have recognized the right of labor to a share in the formation of international policies and compacts. But the nation which stands outside cannot expect to have a hand in this work. Knox desires to keep Washington out of old-world disputes and differences, for the handling of which the league of nations was largely formed, but in doing this he would be hampering the American worker, if not seriously injuring his interests. In public life today there is no more clear-visioned, alert-minded man than Samuel Gompers. If he is willing to subscribe to the league of nations covenant as it stands, it must be that it contains benefits for the millions of workers he heads on this continent. Senator Knox should ponder well the significance of the American Federation's resolution in support of the league of nations.

A man in Michigan has lost the use of his hands through handling money. That is a complaint that will not become epidemic.

A western paper opines that Mr. Crerar's resignation is a happy release for that gentleman. And it may prove an unhappy release for the Government.

Old Soldiers Fade Away

Being a Series of Stories, Containing Truth and Fiction, Concerning the Soldier, His Ways, His Thoughts, His Troubles, His Home-Coming, and His Rehabilitation in Civil Life.

By GEORGE PALMER, Lieutenant 1st Battalion.

No. 1---When We Got Back

"When I get back. WHEN I get back"—We used to sing it over there when life was too interesting. We used to laugh as we laid emphasis on the second WHEN. At times we really lost our soldier fatalism and thought perhaps we never would get back; but on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the month, when Lieut.-Gen. Sir Arthur Currie bared his head in that far field at Pecquencourt—when the corps commander said:

"Let us all for a few moments quietly give thanks to Almighty God," we began to think, possibly we might get back.

AND we ARE back.

And again we give thanks to Almighty God.

From Pecquencourt we went to Germany on a forced march beyond the Rhine to meet what might be there; and after a pleasant holiday we returned to become the guests of the poor, dear starving Belgians for a time. Then we re-entered France and looked forward eagerly to crossing the channel.

It seemed we would get back.

And so, having said:

"Bonswar to you Mam'selle.

We HOPE we leave you well,"

we walked aboard a paddle steamer and in the sunlit morning once again we saw old "Blighty," all smiles and feathery breeze for her younger sons who had fought for her.

We were part of the way back.

We bid farewell to the English folk, visited for the last time the old haunts, fought the last fight under the Piccadilly barrage, saw a show or two, had a couple against a dry home-coming, and, thoroughly fed up, we returned to camp in time to parade for the Southampton train.

On the Troopship.

On board the Olympic a soldier remembering the All Highest's boast: "If this is the kaiser's rowboat, he certainly must have SOME ships."

And we went to sleep and sang songs and danced a little, and ate many wonderful meals and performed the odd duties, played bridge, poker, crown and anchor and housey, and then one morning we saw a dirty, rugged outline through the haze, a church spire (it looked like France.)

Then all the little boats in harbor blew their sirens, sending out lines of white steam, which resembled a morning smoke barrage over there. Some person, finding wisdom in speech, maybe, said:

"This is Halifax," and he sighed contentedly.

Could it be true?

It really seemed that it was so.

There was a sign seen a long way off on the dock shed that spelled "WELCOME."

We had seen that word in France and Belgium, sometimes wrongly spelled, and with it "Honor Brave Allies." We had seen it in England years ago and recently.

Therefore, perhaps. Only the master of the ship really knew where we were going. They have spiked toptrees, church spires, and no doubt a welcome sign in Russia.

A man asked a steward who had made the trip before. He said it was Halifax, Canada.

Spied a Real Train.

As he was answering, one person using a pair of German field glasses spied out a train.

"It is Canada, all right," he said. "There is a real train."

He paused a moment and then said: "It is G. T. P."

"Generosity, Thankfulness, Prosperity," I said.

"What?" asked one.

"G. T. P.!" said I.

"Maybe, maybe," he answered, "but years ago, I seem to remember it stood for Grand Trunk Pacific. But perhaps they have changed it," he murmured, after a pause.

"Call it what you like, so long as we get on it," said another, and to this we all agreed.

A short man from behind, who could see nothing at all, asked: "Are they box cars?"

"Eight cheveaux, forty hommes," murmured another joyous heart. And gradually we realized it all. We WERE home. No more guns and soon no more army.

Yes, indeed. "WHEN I get back" had come true.

But even in the happiness, in the realization that the seemingly impossible had come true, there was the memory that fast friends had to part.

We all go our ways over the broad land that is our maple land, and separate from those with whom we have stood in the dirty days when we used to sing:

"Apres la guerre," and "Madam, your beer's no bon." And never more truly was there a time the old song was written for more than now,

"Fare thee well, for I must leave thee.
Do not let the parting grieve thee,
For remember that the best of friends must part."

As we do so we say,

"See you somewhere, some time, good luck, and ——." For that is the soldier's farewell.

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

THE NEW DECORATION.

By Izola Forrester.

The little grey frame house stood behind a row of maples on what people in Bethel called the "old wood road." Laura Coles had lived in it alone since her father's death. In the summer passersby saw her out at the old well sweep, or bending over her flower garden. In the winter she was a welcome aid at the village social centres, pretty, cheerful, tactful, a born organizer.

When the first spring came after the war Bethel as usual felt a tremor of anxiety because it had no soldiers' resting places to decorate. Four miles away was Sanders Points, close to the shore, and here they held services in the little white meeting house, and trailed spring flowers down to the old burial lot to mingle with flags above the mounds there of old G. A. R. former residents.

"It always seems sort of pitiful," Miss Atkins said, folding up her apron the Thursday before, at the close of the sewing circle's session in her home, "sort of pitiful that Bethel has to trot over every year and celebrate at the Point. Where in tunket were all our boys anyhow when the call came in '61? It always riles me when I see the date ahead of me, and know I've got to listen to them folks tell of their heroes, and we haven't got so much as a tattered flag here."

Laura heard from the wall closet, where she was putting half finished summer comforters. The apple trees were in blossom outside the open window and a riotous bluebird swayed perilously near to give her a friendly hail, but she scarcely heard it.

How could they all think of sixty years ago and the little petty rivalries when the great world war was just arm's length away, and they were bringing Walt home that very day? She had passed Elsie driving to the station after him, little Elsie, barely fourteen, with the full burden of the motherless family on her shoulders and a shiftless father to depend upon.

"Going after Walt, Miss Coles," she had called joyously. "He's coming home for good now."

The hot tears stung Laura's eyes as she drove on. Walt, the one standby of the family! They had always been sweethearts ever since the old days of playing postoffice and clap-in, clap-out, at parties. It had been understood that some golden day, when her father was willing to let her go, and Walt had persuaded his father to take hold and work to relieve him, they might be married.

Then he had been with the first of the boys to volunteer, and only his letters from overseas had bridged the time between. She knew when he was wounded, and of the long months in the hospital after the close of the war, but no letter had come to her since he had gone into the last action. Only when Elsie sent her his letters to read over did she know what was happening, and she was too proud to ask why he did not write to her now. Perhaps, she thought, it was another romance that had followed in France. She could hardly blame him. The time had been long.

But now he would come home, and there was no celebration for him, no committee of welcome at the barren little station, no flag wavings, nothing but Elsie driving down in the old ramshackle wagon behind Major, the Barstow standby.

"Think you can give a couple of cakes this year, Laura?" asked the minister's wife, and suddenly the words seemed to fire Laura's tongue with courage. She turned around and faced the sewing circle. Breathlessly she talked, urging, pleading, trying to open their eyes and make them see the new, splendid duty that lay at their door, until finally, when she ceased, Miss Atkins wiped her eyes with a quick little pat and rose to propose they all join in and help decorate the living.

Decoration day was clear and sunny Walt came in from the barn with one of the twins riding his shoulder and kissed Elsie as she slipped by him. His father sat by the kitchen window poring over a timetable. It had been Walt's idea, sending him out to Ohio to visit his brother and get a new angle on life.

"Dad's been tied here for thirty years," he had laughed. "I may have a game leg, but, by jiminy, I think I know how to make the farm pay. I'm going to send Elsie back to school, where she belongs, and the twins can visit grandmother for the summer. We'll put new spirit into things around here."

He had not told them what was hidden in his heart, the hope of putting them all on a safe footing, and then marrying. But when he dared even to think of all Laura had meant to him, the limp reminded him that he had little right to hold her to her promise.

Sue, the liveliest twin, happened to glance from the window, and beheld a strange procession approaching from the road. There were flags waving in the morning breeze, and children with flowers dressed in white. Behind came, in little groups, neighbors, Miss Atkins and her brother, who drove the mail wagon; the minister's wife and her two girls dressed all up with pink sashes and wild crabapple branches over their shoulders; Tuck Fisher and his mother, who always went to the Point because her brother was buried there, these and more.

Walt half shut his eyes, looking at them turn in at the gate, wondering what was up, until he caught sight of Laura's face last of all.

"We thought we'd hold a new kind of decoration, Walt," said Tuck, joyfully, "seeing as how we had a survivor and a hero in our midst, we reckoned we'd come over and shake hands with you, and tell you we're mighty proud of you, boy, mighty proud."

After it was all over, the singing and laughing and eating, Walt found himself out by the old well, helping Laura draw up a bucket of lemonade. And somehow their hands met on the rim of the old bucket, and he found it marvelously easy to tell her all he had not dared to write.

"Because I'll be lame all my life, they tell me, dear, and while I'm going ahead and win out as I never had the heart to before, it's going to be awful if you aren't with me, Laura."

"Coming with that water?" called Miss Atkins, as she balanced two lemons deftly. Then happening to glance toward the well, she gave a hasty exclamation, dropped the lemons and sent Sue and Tommy hustling in an opposite direction.

"Time something was happening sorter definite," she said to herself. "Soon as they get through kissing and tell us we'll celebrate some more. Guess this time the Point is behind old Bethel."

WOMEN AS BRAVE AS THE MEN

THEIR STRUGGLE SHOWS A REMARKABLE SPIRIT.

Talk of the bravery of men, but where can you find a finer spirit than among the half-sick women who are fighting and struggling to do their duty against the terrible odds of ill-health, and who will not give up.

One woman in every three is struggling against weakness. Most of them are not exactly sick, but, oh, how miserable!

The burden and misery of it all has its foundation in the blood which is thin and watery. The red cells are too few. The very stream of life is reduced in vitality. Weakness and inevitable ill-health are the certain result.

Every ailing or weak woman can quickly regain her health in this very simple way. By filling the system with the nutrition that comes from rich red blood, a quick change for the better will result. To accomplish this, take two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets after each meal. You'll feel better immediately for the simple reason that Ferrozone renews the blood. It gives you vim, vigor, endurance, restores a tired, worn-out system very quickly.

You'll feel like new all over once you get Ferrozone working through your blood. It puts color into faded cheeks, brightens the eye, quickens the step, brings back that wonderful feeling of youth.

One of the finest things Ferrozone does is to make you eat lots and digest it as well. With keen appetite, sound sleep, strong nerves and lots of nourishing blood you're bound to regain robust health. Any sickly girl or ailing woman that Ferrozone won't make well must be incurable. There is a secret power in Ferrozone and it is worth a trial at all events. Fifty cents per box, six for $2.50. At all dealers in medicine, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

The U.S. Government's DEMONSTRATION

Some wood decay is not noticeable until the damage is extensive. Column bases and similar places on your house really harbor trouble unless watched and kept protected. The cost of protection is insignificant.

THE United States Government takes good care to protect the surface of the Capitol Dome at Washington. At regular intervals it gives forty painters three month's work providing a weather-proof coat to the surface of the metal. Over 5,000 gallons of paint are used for one coat.

This is an outstanding example of surface protection against rust. It is interesting, but less intimately interesting than the idea of protecting the property of the average householder, to whom the expense of repairs and replacement is even more serious than to a Government. To public and private property of every kind surface protection is fast coming to be uppermost in men's minds.

Wood rots and warps and splits unless its surface is protected, just as metal rusts for the same reason. All kinds of surfaces wear out either to the point of uselessness or extreme unsightliness, if not given surface protection. Inside the house and outside the house the need is the same. If anything is used at all its surface must be used.

Every coat of surface protection is insurance to the property. Insurance in the usual sense is collected only if property is destroyed. Insurance in this sense is collected daily in the prevention of loss which the protective coating affords.

THIS announcement is issued by the Canadian "Save the Surface Campaign" Committee, for the purpose of educating the public in the Preservative and Protective value of Paint, Varnish and Allied Products for the Conservation of Property, and has received the approval of the Canadian Trade Commission in the following words:

"The realization of the above objects will lead to employment during the Reconstruction Period and bears our entire approval.

A SUMMER'S DAY

Summer Gowns Expressing Coolness and Daintiness Are Made in Dark and Light Shades.

(By Mme. Frances, Famous Creator of Fashions, New York City)

When the mercury plays tag with the 100 mark and takes up its summer home at the top of the little glass tube, cool linens, crisp organdies, thin chiffons, soft ginghams and calicoes are the fabrics to which the feminine world turns for comfortable clothes.

A gown may be wonderfully lovely and carefully and expensively made, but unless it expresses coolness, a simple white frock is by far the most attractive on a warm day. Our grateful glances follow the cool-looking woman in the cities and even in the summer resorts when warm days arrive.

For the morning hours simple blouse frocks of voile or "Casaque" models of linen are ideal. Gingham, calico and challis are extremely popular for simple dresses, but challis is to be recommended only for the cooler resorts. Some charming models of handkerchief linen in fascinating shades of old rose, peach pink, lemon yellow, tangerine and orchid are trimmed with hemstitching and tiny bias bindings of white linen on sashes, ruffles, collars and cuffs. Pearl buttons are invariably used on these thin frocks, though they are sometimes varied with Irish crochet buttons.

Peplum Blouse.

The "Casaque" model is an adoption of the peplum blouse that takes its inspiration from the Cossack or Russian blouse which makes its appearance each season in a different guise, but which is fundamentally always the Russian blouse. These "Casaque" models are sometimes cut with the peplum only in the front, making a panel-like finish. They end at the skirt belt in the back, and are finished with leather belts or sash ends.

THE FASHION FORECAST.

Organdie gowns make the most picturesque summer afternoon costumes. Airy frocks of this material will be profusely worn in hydrangea colors and black and white this season.

The opportunity to display effective embroidery, worked up in peasant-like vividness in designs that are copied from Balkan, Hungarian and Russian folk costumes, is given wide scope in these linen blouses which are made up in soft tan, bright green, navy, old blue and white. Violet and orchid linen are embroidered in deeper tones of purple with a dash of black, green and yellow.

I am featuring white organdie made over black charmeuse slips and black organdie made over white charmeuse or net with ruffled underskirts of lace or net that show beneath full tunics.

Pongee in High Favor.

Pongee is in high favor for luncheon gowns because the texture of this fabric especially in its natural tone always suggests coolness. The soft tan of natural pongee makes the perfect background for embroidery in dull blue, rose or red. Emerald green is also smartly effective in contrast with this putty shade.

Black net and point d'esprit are producing spritely dinner gowns which are particularly youthful. A vivid ribbon or sometimes two bright shades are frequently used to span the waistline and give a sparkle of color to these charming black dresses.

A morning dress that displays the attraction of a Russian blouse is developed in white linen of the close texture called the French weave. The blouse is made with a long-skirted peplum which falls over a knife-pleated skirt of linen. This pleating preserves the narrow silhouette and gives free stride to the wearer in any sport, such as golf or tennis, that necessitates either walking or running.

This linen blouse is embroidered in turkey red wool. A broad sash of turkey red taffeta ribbon is embroidered in pink and red wool roses. With this frock is worn a red straw sailor with a band of wool crochet, done in red and white yarn.

Tan Pongee Is Cool.

At the luncheon hour you may appear crisply cool in a dress of tan pongee effectively embroidered in old blue and trimmed with blue bone buttons, the same shade as the embroidery. This blouse is made with a high surplice closing that extends around the back in a bias line, when eventually narrows to the belt width that appears in front, then disappears under a buttonhole only to emerge again and finish at the left side. This surplice line is accented by closely set bone buttons that start at the right shoulder and follow the line of the surplice bodice which is literally wrapped around the figure.

The peplum of this blouse is faced with old blue shaki silk which is a little rougher in weave than pongee. A narrow band of buttons and embroidery runs above the skirt hem and likewise "ducks" between two buttonholes. The open sleeves are a feature of this dress which is worn with a hat of old blue straw trimmed in straps of blue embroidery.

Black Organdie Over White.

Black organdie made over white net produces the smartly picturesque afternoon dress which is worn with a broad hat of black straw faced with black satin. The blouse of this gown is trimmed with tucked triangles of black organdie and black lace insertion. The square "Charles" collar is edged with lace insertion. The girdle is a crushed line of black charmeuse that ends in two long streamers weighted with heavy jet tassels.

The full tunic of black organdie is bordered with triangles if tucked organdie, outlined with black lace and set between rows of lace insertion. The petticoat of white net profusely ruffled is a striking feature of this frock which is both dainty and cool.

In the twilight and evening hours a dress of black point of d'esprit makes a charming choice for a dinner gown.

In one model there is a snug slip of black charmeuse to preserve the depth of tone. Over this is draped a high girdle of point d'esprit which is softly crushed about the figure. Shoulder caps slightly flared are laid over the soft net sleeves. A tiny ruffle of point d'esprit, point edged, runs over the shoulders and softens the lines of the square decolette.

Panelled Overskirt.

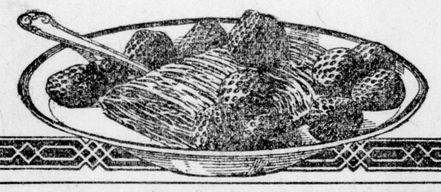

The interesting feature of this gown is found in a panelled overskirt which shortens in the front and back to the depth of two picot edged ruffles and lengthens at the side into two panels which reach nearly to the end of the skirt. The two ruffles of point d'esprit run round and round this unusual overskirt and give an effect of lovely lightness to the costume, which is extremely picturesque and may be found very serviceable on account of the durability of both its material and color.

An oriental turban of black tulle makes an attractive evening hat for wear with this gown. It is "wrapped" around the rolled brim and carries no trimming except two graceful sweeps of black paradise.

In the sheerness of this gown and hat lies their greatest charm. In spite of being all black they give an effect of great coolness.

SCHOOL PICNIC ANXIETIES

The school picnic is over. This occasion is the great day in the school year, brimming over with joy for the children, but fraught with anxiety for mothers and teachers. Just in the proportion which the children shout and laugh with glee, so do the mothers and teachers inwardly quail lest the manifold dangers of the day turn the shouts into silence, and still the laughter into pain. In spite of the excellent manner in which the street railway carries out its policy of "safety first," there is always the possibility of an accident, and careful though the motorists may be, the thousands of children wandering about the park present the possibility of an accident almost every moment. And running its course down below is the river, an ever present reminder of countless drownings.

Yet, in spite of all the care and anxiety and increased responsibility which the school picnic day brings, the teachers and mothers consider it abundantly worth while, because of the happiness it brings to the little ones. "Oh, mother, look! look! I've blowed it bigger'n a punkin" from the tiny tot with her first balloon, and "Did you see me run? I'm the best runner in the whole class" from the boy just entering his teens, are balm for the anxious heart and more than pay for the strain of the day.

When night comes and the teacher has martialled the last of her little flock on the home-returning cars, she heaves a sigh of relief, and the dull throbbing ache leaves her head as at last she throws responsibility from her and rejoices that this day will not come again for another year. Yet somehow she wouldn't wish it away altogether. She's glad it's over. But she is also glad it happened.

Mother is the one who really experiences the crowning joy of the day, however. It is hers to see her babies return home tired and dirty, but filled with the wonderful experiences of the day for her ears to hear. Teddy may be a little cross and push baby-sister out of his way, but mother knows it's only because he is tired out with excitement and exercise. And when at last the pair are clean once more and tucked into their soft little beds, for a few moments the chatter keeps up, each vieing with the other to recount the pleasures of the day. But at last the voices become fainter, and the little hands drop to rest, and mother alone watches them sink into sleep. Her heart is again at rest, and all the little voices of dread are stilled as she proudly looks down on her children, safe and happy and asleep.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 8, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION. [By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.]

Prayer.—Matt. 6:5-15; Luke 18:1-4.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

18. Verse 13. How bad must a sinner be in order that his prayer for mercy will not be heard?

19. On what conditions does God forgive a sinner, no matter how vile he may have been?

20. What is the moral difference, if any, between two men of equal ability and in the same social circle, one converted when a boy and the other after he had spent thirty years in sin?

Golden Text—In nothing be anxious; but in everything, by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God.—Phil. 4:6.

LIVE THE LIFE OF VICTORY.

I ask you to memorize our text, inscribe it upon your mind, and stamp it upon your soul, so you will never forget it. It is more precious than rubies; to practice its exalted teaching is to have victory over all our enemies. It is, in fact, the only way to live the victorious life, to insist upon not being anxious, and to have the habit of taking everything to God in prayer and, with our heart full of thanksgiving, to let our requests be made known unto God. The prayer of faith always comes from a thankful heart; thankful for past blessings, for recognition that from God all blessings come; the consciousness that God in the past has done all things well puts into our request a dynamo of power which is effectual in solving all our problems.

The chapter will devote the proceeds to carrying on its patriotic work.

The home of W. J. Coats was the scene of a pleasant gathering Monday evening, when a reception for Pte. Wm. Longfield, recently returned from overseas, was held. Pte. Longfield spent Monday afternoon visiting with friends at Ingersoll, and when he returned to his home, about 9 p.m., everything was in readiness and the committee waiting at the gate to receive him. The chairman, R. J. Jelly, asked him to come to the platform, and C. E. Cavanagh read an address, to which he made reply and thanked his friends for their kindness.

A program was then given by local talent, consisting of musical selections and addresses, after which refreshments were served. The lawn was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting.

Pte. Longfield went overseas in January, 1916.

"Costume Musicale" Held at 'The Grange' Is Largely Attended

One of Social and Musical Events of This Season.

One of the most brilliant and picturesque musical and social events of many a day in London was the "Costume Musicale" given by Mrs. A. D. Jordan at her home, "The Grange," South London, on Thursday evening, on behalf of the Princess Patricia Chapter, I. O. D. E., the proceeds to go to the aid of Dr. Grenfell's hospital. Mrs. Jordan received her guests, wearing a smart black gown, a lovely corsage bouquet of pink roses and violet sweet peas, sent to her by the Princess Patricia Chapter, adding a pleasing color touch. Miss Eula White, regent of the chapter, assisted in receiving, gowned in black, with sequin garniture.

Sun-Room as Stage.

The sun-room on the east side of the drawing-room, was fitted up as a stage, a setting of dark velour curtains proving an ideal background for the beautiful stage pictures presented as each performer came out in picturesque costume in keeping with the music of the country represented by the music.

Colored calcium lights were arranged above the stage and the skill of the host, Mr. Jordan, was responsible for the footlights.

Miss Elsie Green wore a most becoming English costume, singing a group of old English songs. Miss Muriel Jackson delighted with her rendition of "One Fine Day" (from "Madame Butterfly"), wearing Japanese costume. Miss Irene Parkinson, in Indian costume, sang a Cadman song. Miss Beryl Wainwright, in Italian costume, sang Italian numbers; E. W. Harding, Irish songs; Rev. G. Q. Warner, 'cellist, appeared as an early Victorian clergyman. Miss Edna Bray was equally successful in two roles. In one she appeared as a black mammy, singing a lullaby, and in the other as a dainty Miss Springtime, for the presentation of a spring song.

Dainty Pierette.

Miss Marjory Talbot was a dainty "Pierette" Mrs. Charles Ivey, Jun., violinist, played dashing Spanish numbers, the Spanish costume proving most becoming to her. Carman Learn was also a Spaniard, singing the Toreador song.

Miss Luta Laymon, who looked remarkably well in Russian costume, won quite an ovation by her singing of "Oh, My Heart Is Weary" (Nadescha.)

Miss Isabel Coles, in Hindoo costume, gave a most artistic interpretation of "The Desert Song."

The program concluded with the quartet from Rigoletto, sung by Misses Jackson and Laymon and Messrs. Sinclair and Learn.

The curtains were managed by two young girls in dainty evening frocks, Kathleen Allen and Ruth McLean.

Lanterns and Moonlight.

Following the recital, the guests found the coolness of the lawns most acceptable, exclaiming in delight over the fairy-like picture presented in the light of the moon and scores of Japanese lanterns. Flowers in luxuriant bloom filled the air with fragrance and clusters of these adorned the refreshment tables arranged under the trees and lighted by candelabras.

Mrs. Carling, Mrs. Niven, Mrs. C. B. Hunt and Mrs. Gordon Ingram poured tea and coffee and served ices, Mrs. D. H. Arnott presiding at the lemonade table.

LONDON'S EARLY LEAD DOESN'T AFFECT RED SOX

Knotty Lee's Team Goes Out and Wins Game by Driving Ball to Lot Limits—Both Teams Parade a Pile of Pitchers.

(BY BERT PERRY.)

Hagel's Tecumsehs slightly varied their usual losing performance yesterday afternoon in the West London baseball pasture. Although the Red Sox beat them finally by the score of 8 to 6, the locals worried Knotty Lee and his gang quite a bit before they eventually succumbed. They also gave a few handfuls of fans a touch of nervous prostration, by going out in the third inning and scoring five runs. There have been arguments since the season started as to whether the Tecumsehs were capable of scoring that many runs in one inning. The usual betting is that they cannot score that many in a game, but those skeptics who have been betting thusly would have got an eye-opener yesterday had they been present.

A Parade of Pitchers.

These five runs made the Indians look rather important on the scoreboard for a time, but the Red Sox soon changed all that. In the seventh inning they went out and broke up the old game completely. Manager Hagel trotting out nearly all his pitchers in an effort to find out what kind of twirling the Red Sox couldn't hit. Just why Hagel should remove Foster because he issued a base on balls to the first batter in the seventh is hard to fathom. And then, why he should send in Malloy, who has been going anything but well lately, is another mystery. Old Hank Gero's arm had to be called into play before the Lee gang was finally extinguished, and by that time the Brants had done sufficient damage. But Gero gave way to Scott, who pitched the eighth and ninth and turned the Red Stockings back in order.

A Regular Slug-Fest.

The game was a free-hitting affair, the Indians, strangely enough, lifting the lid on the slug-fest, when they drove Lewis from the mound in the third inning. Gokey, who succeeded him, got by nicely until the latter part of the seventh, when he developed a bad attack of wildness. In this inning London had everything set to pull the game out of the fire. One run had already scored and the bases were full when Knotty Lee called in Estelle, who was playing right field. Estelle is a pitcher and he finished the game in fine style, Grodick hitting into a double play and Koster being thrown out. That ended the excitement, the last two innings producing nothing in the way of a hit or run on the part of either club.

Get Together, Boys.

The fact that the Tecumsehs played errorless ball availed them nothing. The team ought to get together and do some timely clouting and heady work in the pinches. There is a noticeable lack of good judgment on the part of some of the players and at times they seem to cross each other up. Hagel crabbed quite a bit while he stayed in the game, but he withdrew at the end of the fifth and sent Lipski to the outfield. The local manager ought to control his strenuous language, as some of it is not altogether pleasant to hear and there are always ladies in the stands.

Hagel's Good Hits.

Hagel's withdrawal left the team rather weakened, as he seemed to be the only one who could be depended upon in a pinch. He drove in London's first two runs in the third with a clean single. In the first inning, lack of headwork by Vermilly, who tried to go from first to third on a bunt to the pitcher and was caught a mile, prevented Hagel driving in more runs, as he followed Gurney's sacrifice with a clean drive to deep centre that should have been a double. Umpire Burke called him out on a close play at second, though. Gurskey apparently crossed Hagel up in the fifth, when he attempted a sacrifice while the London manager was on first with nobody out. Hagel apparently wanted the hit-and-run, with the result that he didn't get started soon enough and was forced at the keystone sack. That was his last appearance, although he is of more use to the club in the line-up than on the bench.

London's Biggest Inning.

Foster started London's one big inning by getting a life when Murphy booted his roller. Vermilly was safe on a neat bunt, Foster stopping at second. Gurney landed a Texas leaguer in right and filled the sacks. Hagel scored the first two runners with a clean single to centre, and Gurskey's double to centre brought Gurney and Hagel in. An infield out and Koster's hit, which bounced high off the plate, brought Gurskey around.

How the Red Sox Scored.

The Brants got one run in the second on Reeve's double, a sacrifice and Estelle's single. In the sixth they added two more, when Lotshaw walked and Reeves singled. In the seventh Minardo was passed to begin with and Foster was taken out. Malloy started by passing Murphy, then Brady's bunt went for a hit and filled the sacks. Lotshaw dropped a hit in right and the score was tied. Reeves flied out, but Murphy cleaned up the bases with a triple. Malloy retired and Gero took up the burden here. Estelle then connected for two bases and Murphy scored. The next two batters were retired, however.

Another Rally Nipped.

The locals threatened another rally when Vermilly was hit by a pitched ball. Gurney singled to right, Vermilly stopping at third. He counted on a wild pitch. Gokey then hit Lipski and Lee took him out, putting in Estelle. Gurskey filled the sacks when he bunted safely. Grodick drove a liner into Brady's glove and Gurney was doubled at third. Koster was retired on a grounder.

C-H-E-E-R-I-O

By Bert B. Perry

There is no doubt about it, the present London baseball club is breaking all Canadian records for the number of defeats scored against it. No ball club in this city ever got away to such a poor start as the present Tecumsehs. We have had tail-enders here before; in fact, the last year of the old Canadian League saw London down near the cellar pretty well all season. But this team is the limit.

* * * *

And it's rather peculiar too. Hagel has a team that looks as good as some of the clubs that have appeared here. The players are trying hard, and there is no doubt that they are just as anxious to win as the fans are to see them win. The pitching staff looks as good as any in the league and a lot better than some. The club has a couple of good catchers, if not the best backstop in the league in Milligan. And yet game after game goes the wrong way.

* * * *

It's rather a disheartening thing both for the players and the fans and the club owners to have defeat coming so often. Keenan and Mason both failed as managers, but Hagel looks capable enough to fill that position. He knows the game, has the proper fighting spirit and above all is popular with the players. His work in the outfield and with the stick marks him as one of the stars of the league. And yet the club loses. Even on days when the team plays errorless ball like yesterday against Brantford. How do you account for it?

* * * *

Well, we give up trying to account for it. Baseball is a funny proposition sometimes, and it takes some peculiar turns. We have seen most of the games played here at Tecumseh Park, and while the club has been at times lacking in some particular department, one noticeable thing stands out above everything, and that is, the London team has been down on its luck. In only one or two games here can be pointed out an instance where London got the "break" of the luck—where the team was favored by the element of chance. There is no use saying that all these defeats have been due to hard luck. Nothing of the sort. But it is rather remarkable that all the "breaks" have so consistently run against the Indians.

* * * *

After all, if you want a real thrill in aviation you must have two or three anti-aircraft guns popping off at you beneath, with three or four enemy aeroplanes diving down on you from above. Take it from us, it's the real noise in thrills.

* * * *

The Daily Cheer — The realization that we only have to listen to Knotty Lee's coaching for about three days a month.

* * * *

The Frenzied Fan now explains his presence in Tecumseh Park when the ball team's there by stating that the only spot where a gentle breeze flourishes these hot days has been accidently located by him.

* * * *

Some birds can never get accustomed to anything. We often hear some hick ask who won the ball game when they see the crowd coming away from Tecumseh Park.

* * * *

Carl ("Dad") Stewart was among those present at the game yesterday between London and Brantford. "Dad" is looking fine and fit despite his long service at the front. He was one of the most popular players in the old Canadian League, and it would not be surprising to see him breaking into the M.-O. league one of these days. "Dad" was going out west a few weeks ago, but called his trip off owing to the strike conditions in that part of the country. With him yesterday were Jimmy Graney, brother of the famous "Glad," Larry Burke and other St. Thomas baseball enthusiasts.

London Has Secured Noted Bicycle Race

Local Dealers' Association Landed Dunlop Road Race and Canadian Wheelsman's Dominion Championship Meet.

London is going to get some good publicity and incidentally the citizens of London will get some fine sport, when the Dominion Championship Bicycle Race is staged in this city July 1.

Although this is an annual event, it is a good many years since one has been run off in this city, and old-time bicycle and sporting men will remember the last one as being a day of wonderful fun and good contests. In connection with the race meet, the Dunlop annual race of practically twenty miles, which is sought by nearly every city of any size in the Dominion, will be run off.

America's Great Wheel Event.

This race was instituted by the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Company 25 years ago, and is the only bicycle event in America that has been run off every year, regularly for the past quarter of a century. It has been the means of developing more younger riders than any other event ever produced in the country. The Bicycle Dealers' Association of this city made a dead set after it this year, and after much skillful manoeuvring were successful in landing it along with the annual Dominion championship meet which is held under the auspices of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association.

A Big Prize List.

For the Dunlop race, over $500 worth of fine prizes will be presented to the winners, and for the championship races the dealers already have over $600 worth of prizes. These prizes will attract riders from all over Canada and the United States, and will do much to advertise this city as a town of good sporting events and a good town in which to locate. The slogan of the London bicycle men for the first of July, which is a public holiday is: "Stay in London for the First," and they promise a day chuck-full of sport, and a good time for all who attend the meet. London has an opportunity of obtaining many such events if the citizens show their approval by attending, and the chamber of commerce has an opportunity of placing London well to the front by getting behind this, the first event of its kind in years, and giving it a boost towards success.

PITTSURG 3, BROOKLYN 0.

KNOTTY LEE'S PEPPERY PATTER

[Hamilton Herald.]

Some of Knotty Lee's sayings at the ball yard yesterday:

I see they have made a coacher out of Cosey Dolan since I last saw him.

It looks like a garden party all the kids running all over the field.

I may be getting old, but I'm still able to lie in bed and let the 7 o'clock whistles blow. That's more than some of the howling mob in the bleachers can do.

Shag hasn't got Jim Fitzgerald to help him win pennants now.

The press box reminds me of the grandstand in St. Thomas.

Some day when I see a bigger crowd out, I'll go in and give them a treat by playing myself.

Matteson borrowed $4 off me coming down on the car, and then fined me $10. That's hard to figure out.

Losing ball games isn't so bad when you watch the quarters rolling in.

There's only one man in your town I'm afraid of. That's Charley Conkie. The rest of you can come on, one by one.

When Shag was announcing batteries to the bleacherites, Lee added: Lee coaching, Shaughnessy playing first base.

The Shagmen won by a score of 4 to 3, after the Beavers gained a lead in the fifth inning, which looked for a time to be a winning one. Hamilton scored one in the first and went to the front again in the sixth, when hits by Lowry, Carlin, Behan and O'Rourke netted them three runs.

Oh, My! Those Awful Corns! Lift Corns Off With Fingers

Doesn't hurt! Apply few drops then lift a sore, touchy corn or callus right off

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic freezone discovered by a Cincinnati chemist.

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly that old bothersome corn stops hurting, then shortly you can lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

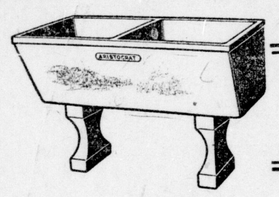

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. Ladies! Keep freezone handy on your dresser. Wonderful!!

GIRLS! WOMEN! DO YOUR LOOKS SATISFY YOU?

Is your color fresh and rosy?

Does the glow of health shine out in your cheeks?

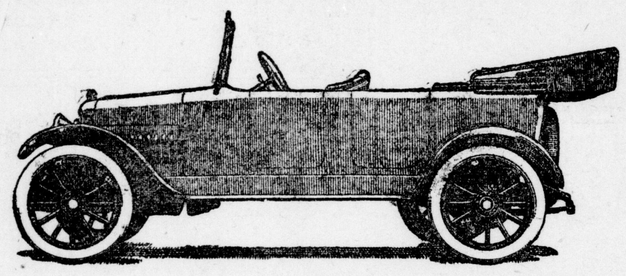

Do your eyes glisten with health, or are they dull, dark circled and tired?

Alas—your bloodless face indicates trouble. Your watery blood menaces your health. What you need is the toning, cleansing assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They will clean out the overplus of bile that makes your skin so murky—they will put new life into the stomach, brace up digestion and make you eat sufficient food to get a blood supply ahead.

Good blood always means more strength and vigor—that's why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are so successful in building up weak, thin folks.

You'll feel better at once, your looks will improve and that half-dead, lazy feeling will depart, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills enliven and fortify every ailing organ in the body.

Ask your friends, your neighbors—most anyone can tell you of the enormous good done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, but beware of any substitute.

Maxwell

—a car having every luxury except one

THAT luxury is brutish bigness, which means weight, which means a large gasoline tank and filled often, and large tires, and several sets a year.

Maxwell is neither a big car nor a small car. The biggest car made is less than 4 feet longer, and costs around $15,000 to buy and $7,000 a year to run.

Most cars are just a foot or a few inches longer.

And others are some smaller—shorter, lighter, less roomy, and hence lack the luxury of a Maxwell.

Nor do they cost, on the average, less to run.

Gas mileage is very nearly the same. Tire mileage is very nearly the same.

But where Maxwell earned its crowning reputation has been its ability to run and run and never quit.

That means repair bills are amazingly low.

You therefore never get mad at a Maxwell—it's the best friend your pocketbook has. And when you stop to think of all those little points of luxury in a Maxwell you're almost sure to whip out your check book and write a check for one.

The 300,000-all-alike idea behind the Maxwell thus, you see, is sound.

SCHRIVE'S GILT-EDGE BALL GIVES SAGINAW A WIN

Pitcher Ferrell Lasted Two Innings—Spencer Pulled Two Phenomenal Catches in Centre.

SAGINAW, June 13.—Saginaw took the edge in the series with Bay City, winning 5 to 1, when the local club supported Schriver in fine shape behind his gilt-edge hurling. On the other hand Ferrell, the Bay City star, lasted two innings, literally jerking himself, when Cristall pulled him after he had thrown his bat at his own dugout when he struck out.

Ferrell couldn't have lasted much longer. Whaley was called in from the field and was clouted when hits were counters. Spencer pulled two phenomenal catches in centre. Bay City's run was a gift when the infield in the first inning allowed Owens to score, while running down Berger for the third out. In the second Command's walk, Gleach's safe on a boot and another error coupled with Shriver's perfect sacrifice produced two runs, and in the fourth Command doubled, Dodson singled and Schriver doubled, and this with an error scored two more. In the fifth Lipps singled, advanced on Weinberg's sacrifice and scored when Spencer let an overthrow to second chase through his legs. The score:

FATE OF HOUGH CUP TO BE DECIDED SATURDAY

STRATFORD, June 13.—The fate of the Hough cup football series will be settled for this year Saturday afternoon, it having been decided to play a sudden death game between Listowel and Woodstock College here tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock.

From information received here both clubs are bringing a large number of rooters, and a close contest is looked for.

Listowel and Woodstock each won their games in the semi-finals by a 2 to 0 score, so that they will go on the field tomorrow on equal terms.

At night New Dundee plays here in the intermediate W. F. A.

These specials include only trains coming from considerable distances in the United States and Canada.

Bee-Keepers Enjoy Field Meet Held At Lambeth

Hear Interesting Addresses by Authorities on the Subject.

Instructive and enjoyable was the day spent this week by beekeepers at the home of D. Anguish of Lambeth, where a field meet had been arranged by the department of agriculture. Over 100 interested persons gathered, much to the delight of the host, and had there been many more room would have been at a premium.

Several addresses were given in the open air, and a basket luncheon was enjoyed.

James Armstrong of Cheapside, specialist in diseases of bees, talked on these troubles, their causes and treatment. One of the Guelph Agricultural College professors gave facts on the uses and disadvantages of certain insects, pointing out the benefit bees were to the country in distributing pollen and "fertilizing" plants.

George Kimball of Bryanston gave a brief address on "Re-Queening," which aroused considerable interest, while others spoke on questions connected with the industry.

G. W. V. A. Members Support Demand For $2,000 Gratuity

Officials Here Have Another Scheme Which They Prefer.

Members of the G. W. V. A. in this city advocate the war gratuity plan as outlined by the Calgary branch of the organization, which recently made proposals to the Alberta Provincial Government to increase the total amount of war gratuity to $2,000 for each man who served at the front.

It is the opinion of officials of the organization here that a system of war gratuity in which the payment of $1.10 by the Government for each day served in the army in the case of men who served in the forward areas, would be a fair and more adequate gratuity.

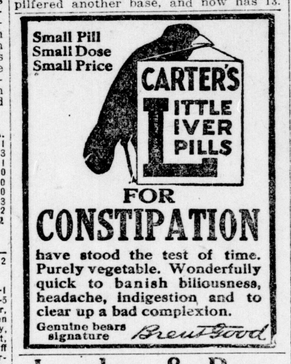

Delegates to the Dominion convention to be held in Vancouver commencing on June 30 will be elected at the next executive meeting of the G. W. V. A. on Thursday. The convention will discuss chiefly plans for increased gratuity proposals to be placed before the Dominion Government.

SISLER COMING STRONG IN RACE FOR BATTING HONORS

Cobb Still Retains His Lead, Though, in American League — Cravath Leads in National.

Chicago, June 14.—George Sisler, the St. Louis star, made the best showing in the American League during the past week. According to averages released today, and which include Wednesday's games, Sisler not only advanced from ninth to fourth place among the batters, but took first honors as run-maker from Weaver, Chicago. He registered 37 times. The St. Louis player also went into a tie with Roth, Philadelphia, for total base honors with 80, the pair relieving Ty Cobb of the honor. Sisler also has the distinction of being a member of the leading home run trio, Sisler, Ruth of Boston and Roth of Philadelphia; each made four homers. Cobb retained his lead among the batters, although he suffered a slight slump. He is hitting .355.

Cravath, Philadelphia, continues to lead batters in the National League. The big slugger, who hits any kind of pitching, has a average of .431 for 24 games. This mark is the result of 44 hits in 102 times at bat. In addition to being out in front among the batters, Cravath went into a tie for total base honors with Wheat, Brooklyn, and Kauff, New York, with 76, the trio displacing Doyle, New York. Williams, Philadelphia, added another homer to his string, and leads with 6. Myers, Brooklyn, remained at the head of the sacrifice hitters with 12, and Bigbee, Pittsburg, leader of the base-stealers, pilfered another base, and now has 13.

A HOT SPOT Chalmers gets the might out of gas

And puts it into action

—on an "impossible" hill

—on the boulevard where a ten yard spurt puts you ahead of a less responsive car

—on a country turnpike when supper is waiting.

On countless other occasions when "a little extra" is asked and "a little extra" is given the great Hot Spot engine supplies what you ask.

Hot Spot "cracks" the prevailing low grade gas into a very fine vapor and Ram's-horn then completes a task not a whit less important.

Ram's-horn gently and quickly "feeds" each cylinder of the six by the short 14-inch route to each and gives the same fresh, "powdered" gas to every cylinder alike.

Unless you're driving the new Chalmers some of your cylinders are often getting a rich gas and some a lean gas.

That makes your engine run choppy on occasions.

A Hot Spot Chalmers runs like silk feels, and you experience a pride in your new Chalmers that is difficult to describe.

One ride generally convinces the hard-headed individual; and once a man is won to Chalmers ownership he'll swear he has one of the few great cars of the world.

ABEL NORMAND IN "THE PEST" AND W. S. HART IN HIS NEWEST THRILLER AT THE MAJESTIC

ograms at Popular Theatre Next Week Include Photo-plays, Harold Lloyd, Charlie Chaplin and Mack Sennett Comedies and Herbert Watrous, the Operatic Star.

Puckers, the torment and delight ll who know her Mabel Normand es to the Majestic Theatre Monday, sday and Wednesday next, in her picture, appropriately named "The t." She is by turns rollicking and tful and displays a degree of pathetic eal which promises to surprise her irers.

ll sorts of adventures befall her, but funniest and most dramatic of all pens when she is invited to a party n by the daughter of the country judge. Vainly she hunts for something with which to cover up her rags, and finally goes to the party wearing the same old sweater and threadbare overalls, with the addition of a cameo ring found among a lot of odds and ends.

Once at the house, Blanche, the judge's daughter (Leota Lorraine), gives Puckers an old dress, expecting her to make a laughing-stock of herself. Poor Puckers does this unmistakably. In the midst of the hilarity, the judge (Alec B. Francis) notices the ring worn by the waif. It is this discovery that starts the solution of a strange mystery which brings about a discovery which takes Blanche from her lofty perch and completely revolutionizes Puckers. "The Pest" is a play which gives Mabel Normand not only every opportunity to touch both extremes of emotion, but presents her in a variety of guises.

CHRISTIE COMEDY IS SHOWING AGAIN TODAY AT THE MAJESTIC.

Many people will remember the young theatrical employee, Al. Christie, who lived in this city some few years ago. Few know, however, that Mr. Christie has become one of the greatest film comedy producers in America, his comedies being presented in the leading theatres throughout the country, and gaining a world-wide fame for humor, beauty and wonderful scenes and settings. The Majestic Theatre management has just contracted for the new series of comedies which Mr. Christie is producing. The first, "Sally's Blighted Career," will be shown again today. In "Sally's Blighted Career"—the first and a special production—Mr. Christie shows thirty of Ziegfield's Follies beauties, with charming dainty young Fay Tincher and three of the best and most popular comedians of the screen. It is a laugh-producer which you will heartily enjoy in every respect, and remember for some time as the best comedy film you will have seen in many a day.

METROPOLITAN OPERA STAR AT MAJESTIC THEATRE NEXT WEEK.

Mr. Herbert Watrous, basso profundo of the Metropolitan Opera, and last year with the American Society of Singers, is announced to sing at the Majestic all next week. It took some splendid manoeuvring and persuasion from the management of the Majestic Theatre to induce Mr. Watrous to break his holidays with a vaudeville engagement, but we are assured at last that another great artist has been added to the galaxy of splendid attractions which the Majestic is presenting. Mr. Watrous is the possessor of the most remarkable bass voice in America, and is ranked as one of the greatest artists who have ever appeared on the American operatic stage. It is a delightful surprise that so great a celebrity is to appear in London.

MISS ESTELLE CAREY AT THE MAJESTIC FOR LAST TIME TODAY.

Seldom have Londoners the pleasure of hearing so beautiful a voice from so charming a singer as Miss Estelle Carey, the dainty little soprano, who is singing at the Majestic today for the last time. Even amongst the great artists who have appeared at this popular playhouse lately there has been none who have so golden a voice and so charming a personality as this little lady. Her numbers are exceptionally well selected, and she well deserves the tremendous applause the audience greets her songs with, although it seems a little unfair to demand so many encores as the patrons seem to wish.

CHARLES RAY IN "THE BUSHER" AT MAJESTIC SOON.

The season is open—the game is on. But it can't be really on until it is opened by Charles Ray, Thomas H. Ince's wonder star, in "The Busher," which will be shown at the Majestic June 26, 27, 28.

Remember "The Pinch Hitter"? This is much better. No ball player in the world, mateur or professional, could equal Charles Ray in a part like this. He is the Ty Cobb of the movies, the .425 hitter in the Entertainment League.

With a story like "The Busher," coming at a time when the spring sap starts to run and the whang of the ball-bat is heard in the land, exhibitors can cash in on Charles Ray and this fine Thomas H. Ince production.

In this story of the hired man with the walloping right arm, Mr. Ray is supported by Colean Moore, who supported him in "The Girl Dodger," and by Otto Hoffman, who gave such a remarkable portrayal of the crippled villain in "The Sheriff's Son."

REX BEACH SUCCESS COMING TO MAJESTIC ON JUNE 23, 24, 25.

Typical of the virility, the humanity and the appeal of all the former Rex Beach screen productions in his latest, "The Crimson Gardenia," a picturization of one of his widely-read works. Its delicate human touches, stirring suspense, carefully-wrought climax, unusual scenic beauty, and excellent all-star cast could only be the work of Rex Beach, peer of American novelists.

Following close on the unprecedented success of "The Brand" and Rex Beach's many others, "The Crimson Gardenia" promises to set a new mark in the hall of fame. It has every element of popular appeal, in addition to exquisite touches of artistry such as only Rex Beach can achieve.

The story is of perhaps even greater appeal than the foregoing Rex Beach productions. Its locale is in quaint New Orleans at the most picturesque season of the year—the Mardi Gras. Dramatic values obtain from the opening. As the plot unfolds, and the mysteries of the underworld deepen, the suspense is heightened. "The Crimson Gardenia" is a drama that grips, thrills, holds.

An extraordinary cast, headed by Owen Moore and Hedda Nova, and including such players as Tully Marshall, Edwin Stevens and Sydney Ainsworth, portray with aplomb this drama of a civilization as old as the thirteen colonies, in which the author has combined the fierce passions of a semi-foreign race with the ideals of inherent Americans.

Showing at the Majestic on June 23, 24, 25.

At the Majestic in his big seven-reeler again today. Performances commence for today at 2:45, 6:45 and 8:30 o'clock (standard time).

W. S. HART IN HIS NEWEST PHOTOPLAY, "THE MONEY CORRAL."

William S. Hart's new Artcraft picture, "The Money Corral," will be shown at the Majestic next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It is announced that in the making of the big rodeo scenes for this film, all the cowgirls, punchers, Indians and Mexicans within a hundred miles came to take part in the episodes that required fast riding, shooting, roping, etc.

Bill Hart is prominent in these scenes himself. Later the story takes the principal characters to Chicago and the western hero is introduced to the underworld crooks. He bests them, saves a trust company, wins a charming girl for his wife, and is presented with a ranch in Montana by his grateful employer, the president of a trust company.

Mr. Hart collaborated with Lambert Hillyer in writing and directing this picture and this combination assures the acme of thrill and human interest for both men are famous for their capable work.

Mr. Hart declares that the production comes up to his expectations. "The rodeo scenes will only occupy a few hundred feet of the film," he observes, "but they are worth all the trouble and time, for they mirror faithfully the real life of the West."

A lot of the wild horses brought in from the ranges were too much for even some of the crack riders and a few bad spills occurred. But the excitement is said to be intense as a result of this genuine replica of a frontier week in the open country.

At the Majestic next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

At the Majestic on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next.

ANITA STEWART IN 'MARY REGAN' A SUPER-PICTURE SHOWING AT GRAND ON MON., TUES. AND WED.

New York Life and How "Big Business" Relaxes and Spends Its Swollen Profits Shown in Brilliant Photo-play Based On Popular Novel.

How "Big Business" relaxes and spends its swollen profits on the midnight pleasures of Broadway is vividly shown in "Mary Regan," the First National feature which is to be seen at the Grand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

When the capitalist and his son, and their friends so relax and so begin to squander the money which has come without exertion there creep in from the underworld creatures hideous of soul, but with the brains of diplomats who begin cunningly to plot the reaping of a dishonest harvest.

Such is the stage upon which is set "Mary Regan," Anita Stewart's newest picture. Miss Stewart has the part of a girl whose mother was a society woman, and whose father is serving a penitentiary sentence for theft. She has determined that she shall live a lawful life to repay her father's debt to society. Unwilling to force a husband to share the stigma of her father's name, she has refused to marry a young detective.

Peter Loveman, an attorney, is the head of one of the gangs which, dressed in evening clothes, and surrounded by splendor, prey upon the wealthy. He sees in Mary an ideal tool. She is young, beautiful, educated and refined. He decides to use her in throwing his net over Jack Morton, the son of a rich man. Young Morton is inclined to be wild.

Loveman induces young Morton's father to send him away to the mountains under the care of Bradley, an agent of Loveman. Loveman takes care that the resort to which young Morton is sent is that at which Mary Regan is spending a holiday. They are thrown together, and Mary, while knowing Loveman is plotting against both herself and the boy, forms an attachment for him, seeking to save him from the reckless pace at which he has been going. When he becomes infatuated with her she agrees to wed him, and they contract a secret marriage. At a seashore hotel, the elder Morton comes upon them within a few hours after their marriage, and, because Mary has agreed not to tell of their relation, the father forces them apart.

From this time forth, the story resolves itself into Mary's attempts to keep her young husband out of the hands of Loveman and his crowd, who are trying to get his money, and still to keep secret her marriage to Jack. Loveman constantly threatens her, but her good friend, Clifford, the detective, always has an eye to her safety.

At last, however, the Loveman crew get Mary and Jack together in a private room at a big Broadway cabaret, where they are ready to make way with the girl and clean up the last of the young man's money, when the detective plays his master card.

The Grand Topical Review will complete the bill.

Anita Stewart in "Mary Regan"

Showing at the Grand next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in conjunction with five vaudeville acts.

"FOLLIES OF TODAY," BIG MUSICAL COMEDY, AND THE GREAT KOBAN AND CO. NEXT WEEK'S HEADLINERS

Vaudeville Attractions at the Grand Next Week Include Maybelle Phillips, Galletti Marks, Al Shayne, Morris Manley Trio, Boothby and Everdean, and Anita Stewart and May Allison in Photoplays.

The Moore-Megley Company, responsible for many of the best musical comedy acts that vaudeville has ever known, will present their very latest, "Follies of Today," as the headline attraction at the Grand on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Hal Sherman, well known through his connection with several of the leading musical successes of the past few seasons, is the principal funmaker, and he is assisted by such other exceptional talent as Rose and Evelyn Bunnin, besides several very pretty girls. "Follies of Today" is an attraction upon which the producers have lavished money and effort without stint, and the result is an offering that will be a delight to all lovers of wholesome comedy, singing and dancing. Among the musical hits of the offering are "Hello, People, Hello," "It Might As Well Be You," "Hot Dog's Ball," "Spring's Flower Song," and "After You're Gone."

The Sunshine Comedienne.

Maybelle Phillips, "The Sunshine Comedienne," in happy stories and exclusive songs, will be another big feature of this bill. This purveyor of sunshine has a way peculiarly her own in singing her songs, that will unquestionably appeal to all. Miss Phillips, unlike other comediennes, uses her own original material in songs and stories; every number she sings is written for her exclusive use, and her stories are in the same category. There is something in her manner, and a perfection in her voice that many other artists lack; therefore, when you see and hear this "sunshine" girl you are going to have a most amusing and entertaining few minutes that will live with you always.

Galetti's Monks.

Galetti's Monks in "Monkey's Day at the Races" is a screaming riot of laughter that will not only amuse the children but the grown-up folks as well. Galetti's name is famous as a trainer of monkeys and a producer of novelties; his animals may not be as intellectual as some human performers, but they do eclipse others. His present offering, which shows a race track scene, with trained dogs as the horses and monkey jockeys, is unquestionably one of the greatest animal acts yet produced.

Other Big Acts.

Other acts on this bill will be Burt and Burt, a duo of clever comedians, who will offer a budget of new songs and sayings, and La Mont and Wright, in an unusual offering which they bill as "Novelties of 1920," an act that for real variety and entertainment would be difficult to duplicate.

THE GREAT KOBAN AND COMPANY IN CLEVER ACROBATIC ACTS.

At the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Great Koban and company will be the headline attraction on a varied bill of top-line vaudeville features. Under the billing title of "Wonder Workers From the Land of Cherry Blossoms," these exceedingly clever Japanese artists will present a combination novelty offering embracing, foot juggling, contortion, electric fire spinning and their own original conception, "The Bicycle Perch," a feat of daring ingeniously performed by Yamata, the only man who has successfully accomplished the difficult and thrilling feat of cycling upside down. A metal pole is used, eighteen feet long, from the end of which a bicycle is balanced, the Great Koban holding this pole, while Yamata, without the use of his hands, pedals the machine at an unusual velocity. Many other wonderful stunts are introduced, the electric fire spinning is a new oddity, strictly of Japanese origin and conclusively original. It is a most interesting and highly entertaining act with just enough sensational daring to make it exciting. The costuming is lavishly Oriental and beautiful to behold.

Comedy Singing Act.

An extra feature will be Al Shayne, in a comedy singing offering that is sure to prove the laughing hit of the bill. Al Shayne, formerly of the team of Mathews and Shayne, is now a vaudeville headliner, and as such describes himself as "The Singing Beauty." Al has other shining qualities besides beauty and voice, he is brimful of comedy. Authorities contend that he has the most pliable facial expression of any character comedian today on the stage, an assertion that will be easily verified after witnessing his performance.

Boothby and Everdean.

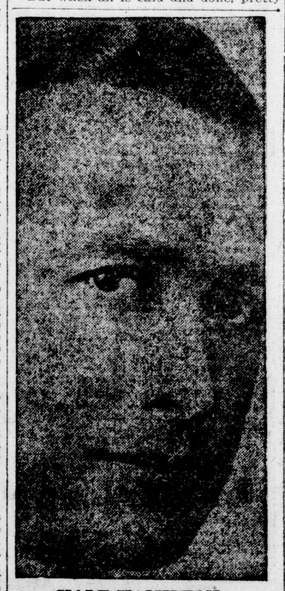

Boothby and Everdean have an offering which they present under the title of "Novelty Songs and Travesty" that is a riot of laughter and good cheer. Both members of this team are exceptionally clever performers, Miss Boothby is a comedienne in all the name implies. As travesty artists they do not lack any essential, consequently one can feel assured of being well repaid by witnessing their act.

Morris Manley Trio.

The Morris Manley Trio will offer a comedy variety mixture, featuring little Mildred, the phenomenal child vocalist. The offering is said to be one of the speediest novelties of the season.

Breath From the West.

"A Breath From the West" is the title of the unusual offering to be presented by La Hoen and Du Preece, who will also appear on this bill.

HALE HAMILTON.

In his newest photo-comedy, "After His Own Heart," showing at the Grand today in addition to five acts of vaudeville.

MISS RAE SAMUELS AND 'RAINBOW REVUE' AT THE GRAND TODAY

Five Good Acts and Hale Hamilton in Photoplay.

Miss Rae Samuels, who, during her stay in this city, has endeared herself to the hearts of countless vaudeville patrons, will today conclude a most successful week's engagement at the Grand. Miss Samuels' exclusive and clever song numbers, coupled with her winning personality and remarkable talents as a character songstress, have made her a favorite who will long be remembered as the most popular "single" singing act that has ever visited London.

"The Rainbow Revue."

A special feature of today's bill is "The Rainbow Revue," a musical comedy offering featuring eight talented principals. Up-to-date and catchy songs, original dance steps, an abundance of wholesome comedy, exquisite costumes, novel scenic and electrical effects, and the cleverness of the artists all combine to make the offering a distinct hit.

Comedy Sketch, "Remnants."

Everett Byington and Elizabeth Shirley will present a quaint little comedy sketch entitled "Remnants," which tells the story of a young country boy who undertakes to succeed as a traveling salesman. The play is full of genuine humor and pleasing conversation, and will be relished by all.

"The Effervescent Pair."

Comedy, singing and eccentric dancing are the offerings of Harry Welton and Marjorie Marshall, "The Effervescent Pair," who also appear on this bill. The offering has class, ability and youth, a combination that always guarantees delightful enjoyment.

"Joy a la Mode."

HALE HAMILTON IN "AFTER HIS OWN HEART."

Hale Hamilton, Metro's handsome and popular screen star, will be featured again today in the delightful comedy romance, "After His Own Heart." The story, which first appeared in the All-Story Weekly, introduces Mr. Hamilton in a role distinctly different to anything he has hitherto done. The play contains many amazing incidents, which lead to an unexpected and powerful climax, and although filled with laughter, it shows a romance of beautiful heart interest.

The Ford Educational Monthly is an interesting feature of the bill.

Weekly Theatrical Letter

[By Brett Page.]

NEW YORK, June 20.—The latest of the summer shows opened at the Liberty Theatre the other day, accompanied by a wave of appreciation that is unusual. Called "The Scandals of 1919," and opening on the same street and within a few doors of the theatre in which Ziegfeld's "Follies" have been perennial favorites of the summer season, and "beating" the latest edition of those "Follies" to an opening, it seemed that here at last was a competitor. Just what would "The Scandals" diclose—how would they match expectation?

Those who have revelled in the "Follies" season after season, knew that "The Scandals" would have dancing, much dancing, but perhaps no one imagined there would be so much of the "light fantastic." There's dancing and dancers galore in "The Scandals"—indeed in more than one mere way, they supply the "kicks" of the show.

In two acts and eighteen elaborate scenes this first of the big summer revues begins in the unusual way. The first scene is described as "the playground of the immortals on the planet Mars." Perhaps the authors really mean Venus, for most of the inhabitants are girls and wear costumes consistent to many a picture of that fair lady after whom the star is named. Then the oldest inhabitant appears and brings with him a telescope. This he focuses on the earth, and the scenes that follow are what the Martians are supposed to see through that telescope.

Ann Pennington in Lead.

Seventeen scenes follow, and many of them deal with the woes of some mortals after July first. Indeed, at times one wonders if the drinks would ever run dry in the play. Some of the scenes are devoted to vaudeville, others are burlesque views of theatrical tendencies during the season, but in every one there is dancing and music and songs. There are some merry quips and jests, but rare, indeed, is there a joke.

Chief among the eighteen principals are Ann Pennington—once a heralded delight of the "Follies"—and George White, part-author and producer of the show. Both are dancers of no mean merit, and both are favorites with large followings. Most spectacular, as well as most noteworthy for her work in this production, is La Syiphe. She dances with strange and sometimes awe-inspiring kicks. How she ever contrives some of them the audience wonders, even after she amply demonstrates that she really can "do" them. Not the least of the attractions is a chorus that is exceptionally pretty, who appear in a variety of gorgeous gowns, and dance with spirit and seemingly keen delight.

But when all is said and done, pretty as are some of the scenes and filled with dances as all are, one wonders why there isn't an honest-to-goodness laugh. "The Scandals of 1919"—whose book and lyrics are by Arthur Jackson and George White, and whose music is by Richard Whiting—is, well a "dancing show."

Season Coming to Close.

Every season must come to an end sometime, even though this season seems without termination. So, even though many theatres still are open—some of them doing tremendous business even though the streets are "roasting hot"—let us for the sake of custom declare that for our own intents and purposes the season 1918-1919 is a thing of the past. For this gives us the opportunity to give some measure of credit where credit is due, and consider the entire year in brief retrospect.

The most "contrary" season—for it is the fullest of contradictions and contrasts—the theatrical business has ever known, the season just ended may long remain a marvel in the show game. It began none too auspiciously in the midst of war, and business declined as the war progressed. Then, hit by the influenza epidemic that closed theatres all over the country, the managers and the performers faced the ending of the year with fear. But as the armistice was signed and our men slowly began to return, business picked up most amazingly to reach unique records. Financially there never has been a season so rich as this.

What the artistic record of the season may be is a matter of opinion. While it is quite true that there were not as many plays produced as under ordinary circumstances might have been expected, the reason for the long runs of some must be attributed to unprecedented business that made even near-successes financial hits. On the other hand, there were more than the usual number of successful plays. And a few of these may rank high in the estimation of later years.

"The Jest" of a Tragedy.

In the realm of tragedy "The Jest," with Jack and Lionel Barrymore, takes rank as the best of new productions. Walter Hampden in "Hamlet" most assuredly scored the greatest individual hit among tragedians. In the division of motion pictures "Broken Blossoms" stands alone in the field of tragedy, and probably will be remembered as unique.

"The Better 'Ole" stands in an odd niche this season and other seasons—in the field of comedy. Of farce most certainly "I Love You" will hold the lead. And in that section where brightness of dialogue is recorded, "Tea for Three" certainly stands by itself. The greatest personal success achieved in the field of comedy was that of Frank Bacon in "Lightnin'". And yet William Gillette in Barrie's whimsical "Dear Brutus" assuredly will long be remembered.

Of melodramas "The Woman in Room 13," is recalled as perhaps the most gripping. Still there are those who declare that strange creation "The Unknown Purple" gave them greater thrills.

While one may have adored the musical comedies "Sometime," "The Velvet Lady" and delighted in "Listen Lester" there is no question, but that the Cohanized opera comique "The Royal Vagabond" must be awarded the palm.

Among the notable efforts in the field of the unusual, chief place must be given The Society of American Singers and Composers, who presented an extraordinary number of the finest light operas with unusually noteworthy casts at the Park Theatre. Another effort The Theatre Guild deserves place because it presented St. John Ervine's "John Ferguson."

Not one war play—though a few were produced—achieved success save the comedy "Friendly Enemies." But we had all too many bedroom farces.

Writting of The Society of American Singers recalls the pleasant face, that this organization is to return to the Park Theatre on October thirteenth. The plans announced are even more pleasing than those so successful last season. Twenty different operas are to be given during the first twenty weeks. Each opera is to be presented exactly seven times, with no opera repeated on the same night of any week.

The stars in many instances are the same as those last season, with some additions of widely famous personages. There is to be an all-American chorus of forty persons. And the operas range from "Gondoliers" to "Thais," from Mikado" to "Madam Butterfly."

"The Red Lantern."

A few short weeks ago Hugo Reisenfeld, managing director of the Rialto Theatre and Rivoli Theatre, broke a precedent by repeating at the latter house a picture that previously had been shown there. This picture—together with the entire show that surrounded it—was Nazimova in "The Red Lantern."

And then, having broken one precedent, Mr. Reisenfeld featured another. At the Rialto Theatre where no picture had ever before been repeated, Mr. Reisenfeld repeated Douglas Fairbanks in "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo." This program also included the last comedy made by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

One of the interesting sidelights of this season is the fact that of 103 plays, 74 were written by Americans. The "day" of the American dramatist would seem to have arrived, for surely we could not neglect the best play of other countries. The percentag would seem "about right."

Richard Watson Tully, one of th really above-the-average successfu playwrights and producers of this cou try, has never presented a play abroa And so Mr. Tully sailed for London few days ago with manuscripts which Guy Bates Post will again seen next season—"Keep Her Smiling "Omar, The Tentmaker" and "Th Flame." Probably the first to be pro duced will be "The Bird of Paradise.

PATENT YOUR INVENTIONS

AN interesting and encouraging thing about these fortune producing inventions is that most of them are of ordinary or minor value in themselves. If you have a notion that you must invent a big thing to make money, get rid of it at once. Many of the Patents that have made their inventors millionaires are those which contained very few entirely new ideas. The simplest ideas have earned fortunes for their patentees. The safety razor, the sanitary drinking cup, the hump hairpin, the demountable tire rim—any of these could have been invented by a man of average ability. In your every day life, at home, at your office, in your shop you handle any number of articles that are subject to improvement. If you can think of a way of improving some article or process already in use, or if you can invent a new useful device or process or article of manufacture, you are on the road to fortune. Dennison made a fortune from a single shipping-tag. Prepare now to meet the demands of Industry in All Fields for New Ideas and New Inventions. Before sending your invention to any attorney or manufacturer or disclosing your invention, write for our free blank form PROOF OF CONCEPTION in order to protect your invention and secure your rights.

WE ADVERTISE our Clients Inventions Free in INDUSTRIAL CANADA, which is the Official Magazine of the Canadian Manufacturers Association. It pays to have Shipman's Service. Ask for our new Booklet "Patent Protection"

PRESENTED WITH GOLD WATCH BY FRIENDS

INGERSOLL, June 13. — The presentation of a gold watch to Charles White, who for 21 years was manager of the local branch of the Imperial Bank, and who was recently superannuated, took place at a banquet tendered him by a number of his friends tonight.

Following an extended illness death occurred in Dereham ... yesterday of Walter Alexander. He was 45 years of age and known in the district.

Wedding Bells

JUNE is here—the time when love, youth and nature are all in tune—the ideal wedding month.

Many new homes are being established at this season—young men and women are entering upon their married life full of enthusiasm and confidence. The wife's desire is to please her husband, the husband asks for nothing more than the privilege of protecting his newly-made wife.

Every man who assumes the responsibilities of marriage requires ample life insurance protection. He may maintain his home in the greatest comfort while he lives, but in the event of his death, what then? Who will keep that dearest spot and provide for his loved one? There is no other friend of woman as dependable in the great crisis which removes her natural protector as life insurance.

The gift of a Mutual Life policy could not possibly be excelled as a proof of undying affection, for when the husband is no longer near to extend protection, the insurance will be a tangible token of his love long after he has passed into the world of Light.

WEST MIDDLESEX LIBERAL ASSOCIATION HOLD THEIR MEETING IN CARADOC HALL

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture For Alberta, Was the Principal Speaker.

(By Staff Reporter.)

MOUNT BRYDGES, June 13. — The annual meeting of the West Middlesex Liberal Association was held in the Caradoc town hall here this afternoon for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend the Liberal convention at Toronto on June 25 and 26, and to elect officers for the ensuing year. The delegates appointed to attend the convention for this riding were: Mrs. John Campbell of Lobo, Mrs. W. Stuart of Glencoe, George Innes of Mosa, and Silas Hyatt of Caradoc. Henry Johnson, Isaac Watterworth, Miss M. McGougan and Mrs. John McFarlane were appointed to act as alternatives. Geo. Innes of Mosa, president of the association, occupied the chair, and he was re-elected to office at today's meeting, as were also all the acting officers, Mrs. W. Stuart and W. Moss continuing as vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively for the ensuing year.

The president in his opening address stated that the citizen of the present day was confronted with a serious situation, throughout the Dominion there being great unrest socially, politically and industrially. He urged the large number of members present to consider all the problems of the day, and do their utmost to overcome this serious situation of unrest.

Hon. Duncan Marshall.

The Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Alberta, was the principal speaker at the meeting. In his opening remarks he stated that he was born in Ontario and had always been a farmer. He readily won the confidence of those present by his unassuming yet convincing manner, and his speech was a treat for all Liberals at the meeting. Mr. Marshall stated that there was a serious situation to be faced in Canada, in the near future. "In the liquidation of the debt brought about by the war," he asserted, "agricultural products must be prime factors in discharging the public liabilities. As a duty, the Government owes, it should lift the burden of the tariff off the back of the Canadian farmer and give him a chance to discharge this debt.

"The second duty of the country, and this time it is that of the Provincial Government, is to bring agricultural education up to the standard, which, should have been done years ago. The capability of every man and woman on the farm is greatest. The lawyers' medium is the farmers' or should be. Why not a graduation in scientific agriculture" he asked.

Attitude of Government.

"The attitude of the Government in this matter today needs a revolution. The average farmer's child is told in school that if he or she studies hard, they will pass their high school entrance, and later become school teachers, and perhaps attain a permanent profession. That is the ambition preached to them. They are never told that farming is a good business. It is such work as this that is destroying agriculture today and depopulating our farms of Ontario.

"The average farmer's children figure that they know nothing of agriculture, being condemned to it by accident of birth. We have to get rid of that belief. In Belgium, where the greatest advances in world horse-breeding were made in the past 25 years, the school children are taught agriculture. Farming is the only business in the world worth while," asserted the minister for Alberta. "There is more pleasure to be derived from it than any other business. The old habit of driving the farm lad is no good. Train him in a school. There are six agricultural schools in Alberta, and to the girl and boy graduates this scientific study brings enjoyment."

Agricultural Institutions Essential.

"I continually preach this as my gospel," concluded the speaker, "that agricultural institutions are essential throughout the province, so that the young lad on the farm will know why he is plowing, and harrowing, and his reason will not be 'Just because the old man orders it to be done.' Farming is the most important business in our country, and the scientific study of it is necessary just as college work for law and medicine. There is more research material available in farming than in either of the above professions, and agricultural study is a vital necessity to your province."

J. C. Elliott, M. P. P. for West Middlesex, then addressed those members of his constituency who were present. He expressed his satisfaction at the large turnout of farmers at the meeting, during the busiest time of the year. He stated that this was an important gathering, and compared the outlook today to that of the last annual meeting held here, when the nation was in the midst of the great war.

Tribute to Warriors.

In a tribute to those young Canadian heroes who had been killed, or maimed during the war, Mr. Elliott stated that it was the bounden duty of every elector throughout Canada, to see that these maimed heroes and the dependents of the fallen soldiers were amply provided for by way of pensions.

"It is our duty to minimise our difficulties," he said. "The only way to discharge our debt is to create wealth. We should lay out, and decide upon the best policy in the interests of all citizens. The differences now are among ourselves. The labor party has a great difficulty to face in the future. The future is not far distant, when labor and capital will realize that their differences are greater than ever before. We will not solve the difficulty by jumping at one another's throats. The only solution is for representatives of capital and labor to find the middle way that is best for both.

"Nothing will solve our difficulties," asserted the member for West Middlesex, "like the splendid agricultural production during these trying years of unrest. We must increase the per capita of each man, woman and child, and get a balance on the right side before many years. Along these lines is the best solution to our present problems."

Transportation a Factor.

The speaker also stated that transportation to the cities was an important matter to be considered in the near future. Good roads are essential, but he stated that the Government was inclined to be premature with their proposed provincial highway. He maintained that estimates should not be passed in the House until the route was mapped out, with census of traffic determined, and actual cost per mile for the highway. He stated that he voted down, and would continue to vote down this project until the above information was available in the Provincial House.

At the conclusion of the above speeches the various Liberal committees of the constituency were drafted, and passed, after which the meeting was brought to a conclusion.

Baldwin Mine

SAFETY FIRST—No reputable broker can afford to handle doubtful stocks. His reputation would not be safe, and this is the first consideration. A business built up by patient labor and honest effort can be maintained only by the same means. A broker must make money for his clients in order to make money for himself. Hence we make a very careful investigation of every mining stock in which we deal. If not safe and profitable for our customers it is neither safe nor profitable for us. But a stock that will make fair profits is always safe for both parties. In this respect the BALDWIN GOLD MINE fills the bill.

The shaft is now below 200 feet. Cross-cutting and drifting are proceeding on the 100 and 200-foot levels. A mill test shows value of $13.30 per ton, and the ore body is unusually large. There is a splendid power plant and general equipment, and the T., and N. O. Railway crosses the property. The BALDWIN has all the elements of success, and a phenomenal rise in the price of the stock is probable in a very short time. Important developments are now pending.

BACK FROM SIBERIA, NO ONE MEETS THEM

Nine Men Arrive Without Notice Before Noon.

A party of soldiers numbering nine arrived in this city via C. P. R. today at 11 a.m. from Siberia, and owing to insufficient notification of their arrival there was no reception committee or representative of the military authorities on hand to meet them. The Siberian veterans reported a good trip to Canada on the S.S. Empress of Russia, with first-class food and quarters. They stated to The Advertiser that the weather here was very distressing to them after almost one year's service in Siberia.

Once Ordered Out.

One member of the party stated that although their duties in Siberia consisted mainly of guards and fatigues, they were twice ordered out with Japanese troops to disperse Bolsheviki forces, but Allied battleships completed the work by shelling before their arrival on the scene.

The nine soldiers boarded a street car for Carling Heights, there being no other transportation facilities available, and upon arrival at Tecumseh Barracks they were dispersed and allowed to proceed to their respective homes, civilians once more.

Nearly All Americans.

The party was made up almost entirely of American boys, the following soldiers arriving today: Ptes. E. W. Pelke, West Moncton; John O'May, Baltimore; W. F. Brownhill, New Orleans; H. E. Rawlings, 128 Langarth street; A. J. Landers, Utica, N. Y.; L. B. Turner, New Orleans; E. C. Allen, Sarnia; M. C. Stevenson, Detroit, and T. C. Talbot of Rockwood.

GRAIN.

Chicago, June 14.—Opening: Corn—July, $1 73¼; September, $1 66¼. Oats—July, 69⅛; September, 68½c.

Chicago, Ill., June 14.—Fresh strength developed in the corn market today, owing largely to crop damage reports, it was said excessive moisture had made replanting on an unusual scale requisite especially on bottom lands.

Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1¼c higher, with July, $1 73@1 73½, and September, $1 66@1 66½, were followed by slight further gains, and then something of a reaction.

Oats partook of the firmness of corn. After opening ⅛c off to ⅜c advance, including July at 59@59¼c, the market held within a narrow range.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, June 14—Wall Street, 10:10 a.m.—Prices opened with a downward surge on the stock exchange today, with various specialties showing pronounced weakness. Texas Company dropped 3½ points, Crucible Steel ½ point, International Harvester 1¾, and Studebaker, Sinclair Oil and Bethleheim Steel each a point.

10:30 a.m.—Liquidation of speculative issues and offerings by professional traders were the dominant factors in initial dealings on the stock exchange today. Several of the stocks which figured conspicuously in yesterday's drop lost a point or more, while a few others reflected temporary support, notably General Motors and Mexican Petroleum. United States Steel sold off ⅝ to 104¾, but the independent steels suffered greater declines. Secondary prices were somewhat better in some instances, but buying operations were conducted with caution.

New York, June 14.—Bidding up of certain of the motor and rubber issues, together with a rally of a point in United States Steel, infused momentary strength into the trading on the stock exchange today after an opening display of weakness. Buying for both accounts was encouraged by belief in some quarters that the week's liquidation had improved the technical condition, and that a rally was due.

Later, selling of oils, shippings, U. S. Alcohol and motors, including a seven-point fall in General Motors, undermined the list again. In the final dealings, the copper shares were run up sharply. Sales approximated 600,000 shares. The closing was irregular.

New York, June 14.—Trading on the stock exchange this week was influenced by the money situation. The federal reserve board's inquiry provoked heavy liquidation on Tuesday, and on each succeeding day there was a rise in call money rates, serving further to depress prices, which receded from 5 to 20 points among those specialties which had for a long time been leaders on the advance, notably oils, shippings and motors. The decline was influenced in part by belief that the speculation on the long side had been over-extended and that the market was ripe for a downward reaction from the recent high levels, and there was much of realizing and professional short selling. After the market had adjusted itself somewhat to the new situation there was decidedly vigorous rallying for a time.

Simple Home Remedy For Wrinkled Faces

Thousands of the fair sex are spending fortunes in frantic efforts to remove the signs of premature age from their faces. Such women willingly pay almost any amount of money for worthless wrinkle removers, of which there are many.

If they only knew it, the most effective remedy imaginable is a simple, harmless face wash which can be made up at home in less than a minute. They have only to get an ounce of powdered saxolite and half a pint of witch hazel at the drug store and mix the two. Apply this daily for a while as a refreshing lotion. The effect is almost magical. Even after the first treatment a marked improvement is noticed and the face has a smug, firm feeling that is most pleasing.—Advt.

An increase in salary— But are you better off?

"The more I make the more I spend," has been a young man's cry for generations.

When many a man's salary is $15 a week he lives up to every cent of it, putting off the time to start a savings account until his wages are increased to $20.

But when the $5 a week increase comes, does it go into the bank? Not very often.

Make that salary increase do something for you if it is to be of any benefit. Deposit it in The Bank of Toronto each week.

War Memorial To Be Unveiled by General Shannon at St. Johns.

All roads will lead to St. Johns in London Township on Wednesday, June 18, when the big centennial celebration and picnic is being staged there.

The day has been declared a holiday by Reeve J. L. Robson, and in connection with the event, a memorial tablet will be unveiled in honor of those who have fallen, and an honor roll of those who have served their country in the war.

The picnic takes place in W. R. Westlake's grove, St. Johns, London Township. The event is a free-for-all picnic, and it is expected that the grove will be thronged for the event.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE AT SCHOOL PICNIC

St. John Ambulance members had a busy session yesterday during the school children's picnic at Springbank Park. No less than 22 cases were looked after by the nurses of this organization. Of this number fifteen were lost kiddies who had strayed from those in charge.

During the day Miss Hardy, one of the nurses of the order, while about to board a car, was thrown heavily to the ground and badly shaken.

BAPTIST CONVENTION HELD AT AILSA CRAIG BROUGHT TO CLOSE

AILSA CRAIG, June 13.—The forty-sixth annual meeting of the Middlesex and Lambton Baptist Association was brought to a close here on Thursday. In the afternoon session the meeting opened with Bible exposition by Rev. Robt. White of Brantford, after which reports were given by the resolution committee and state of religion committee, followed by a stirring address by Rev. Mr. Tighe of Hamilton on western missions.

Rev. L. C. Haverstock addressed the conference. Rev. R. R. McKay, B.A., Sarnia, gave the report on the state of religion.

Rev. G. A. Ltirhliter, M.A., of London gave an address on "The Triumph of Truth." Supper was served by the ladies of the church. The last session of the three-day convention started with a praise service, followed by an address by Rev. A. J. Loveday on "Young People and Christian Service." Also an address was given by Dr. E. G. Smith on "Foreign Missions." This was followed by a closing address by Rev. Robt. White of Brantford, which brought the convention to a close. It was considered a most successful session. There were 185 delegates present from Middlesex and Lambton, which is more than a year ago. Reports from all churches showed increases.

MADGE KENNEDY AT PATRICIA IN HER NEWEST PHOTOPLAY

"Daughter of Mine" Is an Entertaining Goldwyn Picture.

The schatchen, or marriage broker, naturally plays a prominent part in Madge Kennedy's new Goldwyn picture, "Daughter of Mine," because much of the action of the Hugo Ballin comedy-drama transpires in the tenement district of New York. There this institution flourishes, as everyone knows. In reality the schatchen is many a girl's horror, but in "Daughter of Mine" he becomes an amusing, rather than a sinister figure.

The father (played by Tully Marshall) of Rosie Mendelsohn (Miss Kennedy's role), wishes her to marry a man of his choice, rather than the young fellow she really loves. In his effort to bring about what he thinks will be a desirable match, the old man consults a marriage broker. The latter, eager to make a match and earn a neat fee, displays his wares. Many amusing scenes follow.

Well-Known Actress Is Not Appearing in Vampire Part.

The William Fox version of D'Ennery's famous drama, "The Two Orphans," which differs radically from the stage version in power, life and color, calls for the services of an altogether exceptional cast, headed by Theda Bara and Jean Sothern, as Henriette and Louise, the "two orphans." The part of Henriette is a radical departure from the vampire parts with which Miss Bara's name has become associated both here and in Paris, where she was leading woman of the Theatre Antoine. Her splendid artistry, however, renders the French actress capable of giving an unusually powerful rendition of the character and she succeeds admirably in bringing out the deep emotional side of Henriette. Jean Sothern, one of the most winsome and beautiful of the younger American actresses, gives an appealing performance of power and pathos as Louise, the blind girl. Miss Sothern makes her screen debut in this part.

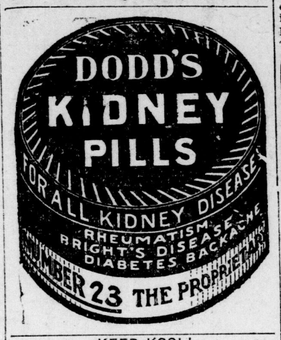

Herbert Brenon, the director of "The Two Orphans," himself portrays Pierre, the cripple, who loves Louise with the

LATE STRAWBERRIES BLIGHTED BY RAIN

HYDE PARK, June 13. — Mr. Bailey, who represents the Northern Aluminum Company of Toronto, gave a very interesting demonstration this week at the home of Mrs. Alfred West.

It is supposed that the heavy rain storm which swept through this district when the strawberries were in bloom, has been the cause of a blight on a large portion of the late berries. In some localities where the patches are shaded, there will be practically no late berries.

Some farmers favor stabling their cattle during the afternoon, as a few hours respite from the torment of the fly pest. It is a pitiful sight to see whole herds running at a frantic rate in the extreme heat, not being able to either eat or rest in the shade. But in the stable they are free from the pest.
