Suggestion From India Regarding Empire Day-Loss of the C.P.R. Steamer Monterey.

London, Sept. 4. — The Freeman's Journal of Dublin, chief organ of the Nationalists, referring to Mr. Goldwin Smith's article in The Monthly Review on the future of Ireland and her relations to the empire, says Mr. Smith is entitled to the respect of Irish smith is entitled to the respect of Irishmen owing to the attitude he took during the Boer war. There was no other man in the empire, The Journal says, of such standing who so strenuously opposed that war, or who so persistently pointed out its criminal character. It is curious that Mr. Goldwin Smith should express opinions antagonistic to home rule.

TURKISH BRUTALITY.

Villagers Who Surrendered Were Massacred.

London, Sept. 4-The London Daily Mail's correspondent, in a despatch from Monastir, dated August 31, tells of an ineffectual attempt he made to penetrate the Albanian cordon and reach Armensko. He was threatened with death and compelled to return under a guard. He gives numerous instances of Turkish brutality and treach-ery. The villagers of Armensko were massacred before a single insurgent visited the place. The inhabitants of the village of Nevolkas were butch-ered while on their way to Florina, un-der guard, having surrendered on a guarantee of immunity. At Florina, continues the correspondent, the Christians are in a state of abject fear and are handicapped by a bigoted and are handicapped by a bigoted Greek metropolitan, who orders them to stay in the village, and not to flee, with the result that the savage soldiery murder them by scores. The European residents of Monastir, including the Consuls, are in a state of great anxiety. Many, including the Italian Consul, have recently been insulted by soldiers. Operations commenced last Thursday on an organized scale against sul, have recently been insulted by soldiers. Operations commenced last Thursday on an organized scale against the insurgents, and bodies of troops are operating in all directions, but no details have yet arrived. More fighting is reported from the district of Debre. The Turks attacked the revolutionaries at the village of Dambeni, and both sides suffered heavy losses. A company of Albanian troops passing through the valley of Kitschero was slaughtered by revolutionaries. The Turkish troops recently made an attack to take a pass occupied by insurgents through the valley of the Sateska River, but were defeated with great loss.

OPPOSED TO THE G.T.P. Resolution Passed by the Ontario

Toronto, Sept. 4 - Some seventy visitors and as many more residents of the city attended meeting held by the Ontario Conservative Association in Victoria Hall yesterday, and passed numerous resolutions. A portion of the time was spent in discussing ways and means for fighting the bye-elections, and the press was excluded. Mr. J. J. Foy, M.P.P., presided, and was during the afternoon triumphantly re-elected to office.

A resolution prepared by Mr. R. G. Code, and which passed without much discussion, dealt with the Grand Trunk Pacific project, and was as follows:-

That this association declares its firm faith in Canada, and its adherence to the statesmanlike policy of Mr. Borden, which has in view the historic purpose of his predecessors, the building of the Dominion on a firm and rational foundation.

"This association deplores the conduct of the Laurier Government in adding to the proposition of the Grand Trunk Railway Company for the development of another portion of the great northwest a section of railway which, according to the former Minister of Railways and Canals, will cost the people of this country $121, 000,000, and is an 'unjustifiable waste of public money,' serving no business end, destroying the national line upon which $87,000,000 has already been expended, and contributing only to the prosperity of covetous partisans.

"This association congratulates Mr. Borden and his colleagues in Parliament upon the noble fight they are conducting against the gigantic exploitation and its consequent additions to the national debt and to the burden of taxation the people have to carry.

A resolution reaffirming Mief in pre-

YOUNG WOMAN'S BAD HABIT. Wedded Three Times in Two Years-Charged With Bigamy.

Toronto, Sept. 4. - Wedded three times in about two years is believed by the police to be the record of Jane McConnell, who appeared in the Police Court yesterday morning, charged with bigamy. The prisoner, who appears to be about 23 prisoner, who appears to be about 23 or 24 years of age, cried bitterly as she stood in the prisoners' dock and was formally charged with the offence. She was represented by T. C. Robinette, who said his client did not intend to plead.

According to information received by the police, Jane McConnell, who is the daughter of a well-digger living in East York, was married first in November, 1899, to a man named Piper. In October, 1901, a man named Munson led her to the altar, but with him she only lived for a few weeks, for in the following month, November, 1901, she married her present husband, whose name is Wesley H. White.

The defendant says that White wants to marry another girl, and has had her arrested in order to get rid of her. She was remanded until Tuesday next.

ALASKA BOUNDARY COMMIS-SION'S ARRANGEMENTS.

Canada's Attitude of Watchfulness Justified-The Argument to Commence on September 15th-Case of the United States.

London, Sept. 4.—At the first meeting of the Alaska Commission Chief Justice Lord Alverstone was appointed Chairman, and Reginald T. Tower of the British diplomatic service, Secretary. The Assistant Secretaries are J. R. Carter of the U. S. Embassy and Joseph Pope, Deputy Secretary of State. Ottawa. An official reporter from the Foreign Office will take the proceedings. It was arranged that a limited number of press representatives and of the public should be admitted by ficket from the Secretary. The senior counsel for Great Britain are: Sir Robert Finlay, K.C., Sir Edward Carson, K.C., Christopher Robinson, K.C.; junior counsel, F. C. Wade, K. C., Lyman Duff, K.C., A. Geoffrion, K.C., and Mr. Rowlatt. The last named is an English barrister appointed on behalf of the Foreign Office. The British Attorney-General will open, the American counsel will follow, and then Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C. The United States will have an opportunity to reply. The Commission adjourned until the 15th inst. The argument which vice, Secretary. The Assistant Secre-pher Robinson, K.C. The States will have an opportunity to reply. The Commission adjourned until the 15th inst. The argument, which will commence then, is expected to close about October 9.

Referring to the Alaskan Boundary Commission, The Globe says:—"Compromise is the essence of diplomacy, but there is only a too common tendency to exercise it to the deriment of some third party and Canada is Justified in adopting the attitude of watchfulness and even suspicion. Canada is prepared to accept any decision the evidence warrants, but the Canadian press warn us that an unfair triumph of the United States might the Canadian press warn us that an unfair triumph of the United States might prove a staggering blow to British connection. The existence of this sen-timent, together with a feeling, not al-together unjustified, that the mother country was slow to act in the past, renders it important that the matter be settled once for all on the broad principles of law."

The provincial and Scotch papers

The provincial and Scotch papers have lengthy cables from Canada, saying that Canadians fear the Dominion will get the worst of the dispute. Washington, Sept. 4—Documents covering the United States presentation of the case are comprised in three volumes, making a total of about 1,100 pages. In addition there also are two volumes of maps. In the first volume the questions at issue, namely, what is intended to be the point of commencement of the line of demarcation between the United States and Canada, what is the Portland channel, what course the line should take to the entrance of that channel, to what point of the 50th parallel the line should be drawn from the head of Portland channel, and other familiar questions, are discussed. There also is extensive discussed. questions, are discussed. There also is extensive discussion of the extent of the strip of territory along the coast on the mainland that Russia conveyed to the United States by the treaty of 1867. It appears from the document that Great Britain concedes that the line begins at Cape Muzon.

He asserted that the statement that he and his associates had a margin of some $15,000,000 upon the financial transactions in connection with these companies, was absolutely without foundation, and insisted that every pound raised by the sale of the bonds and the land grant went into the roads. Moreover, he took credit for himself and his firm for having made a most specesful flotation of the companies. He had nothing to be ashamed of in regard to the affairs.

The Qu'Appelle, Long Lake & Sas-Katchewan Railway Co. had been under charter for many years with a subsidy and no one could be found to build it. Sir John Macdonald was very anxious to have the road built for political purposes, and at his request Mr. Osler to have the road built for politicall purposes, and at his request Mr. Osler said he went to England, where he succeeded in raising the money by the sale of the land grant and the sale of the bonds. As it was understood the road would not for five or six years be able to earn enough money to pay the interest, the bankers who loaned the money required an undertaking from the C. P. R. to operate the road for six years free of charge. A deposit was also made with bankers in for six years free of charge. A deposit was also made with bankers in London for the amount necessary, compounded each year, to pay 6 per cent. interest. To show how utterly wild and reckless the statements of Mr. Scott were, Mr. Osler said that the whole bonded indebtedness of the road is $15,000 a mile, lower than the amount authorized on any earlier seed. amount authorized on any prairie road chartered this session. The whole of amount authorized on any prairie road chartered this session. Mr. Scott, after a protracted debate, accepted Mr. Osler's denial, but point-ed out that the obligations of the com-pany were considerably in excess of the actual cost of constructing the roads, the excess being augmented by the land grants and cash subsidies giv-en by the Government, until it reach-ed the very large sum of $16,000,000. Somebody had derived benefit to that extent out of the construction of those railways, and therefore he insisted that railways, and therefore he insisted that his comparison of the results of railmay legislation by the Conservative Government with the railway legislation submitted by the Liberal Government, and now under consideration, was justified. IMPERIAL PROTECTION

The London Daily Mail, which is strongly Imperial paper and opposed to Mr. Chamberlain's proposals, has been examining the Canadian papers and has come to the conclusion that public opinion in Canada is not only indifferent but hostile to these pro-"Canada," says The Mail, posals. does not wish her recent noble services to the empire to be paid at the expense of the British taxpayer."

If the rest of The Mail's enquiries have been conducted on the same line as is indicated by this quotation, it is not unlikely that it may fall into error. Those Canadians who advocated preferential trade do not take the ground that Canada's services to the empire should be paid at the expense of the British taxpayer. They do not ask the British taxpayer to make any macrifices whatever for the benefit of Canada. Being protectionists, they regard protection as a policy that will benefit of the United Kingdom, j st as it has benefited Canada. A free trader may, of course, argue that free trade is a great benefit to the United Kingdom and that the abandonment of free trade would be a sacrifice demanded for the colonies. But a protectionist does not stand upon that ground at all. He believes that protection would be a good thing for the empire all round, for the United Kingdom as well as for the colonies. But a prefence in the British markets would be only one of the incidental conditions of the plan. It would not be a question of throwing away one benefit for the sake of obtaining another. It would be a question of obtaining all the benefits of a scheme of protection covering the whole empire. Some of these benefits would accrue more largely to the colonies, but no part of the empire would be asked to suffer loss for the sake of another. -Toronto World.

PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITY.

A young man, nineteen years of age named Arthur McHand, pleaded guilty at Montreal of petty theft and was sentenced to serve three months in jail, points out the Windsor Record. As he was about to leave the court he asked the judge to send him to the penitentiary for a term long enough to learn some useful trade. His plea was that having no trade by which he could gain an honest livelihood, he drifted around the prey of other idle companions and his own evil inclinations.

Judge Lafontaine, after getting the prisoner's record from the police officers, complied with the young man's request and sent him to the penitentiary for a term of two years and a half. The youth thanked the judge and said he would come out with a trade learned.

Under ordinary circumstances the person who should have been before the court was that man's father, if he were living. Judging by the request of this youth, there is little doubt that he would have been amenable to parental control and advice. This was a pitiful evidence of parental carelessness, but it is only one example in thousands of such cases up and down our land. We, no doubt, have in this city, and throughout this country many examples of such criminal carelessness. In our penitentiaries and gaols are numbers of gung men, who, under proper parental care would now be honored and industrious citizens.

The plea of that young man to the judge that he might be sent where he could learn a trade speaks louder than words to the parents of this land. Let parents advise with their children and see to it that they are trained in some useful and honest occupation. A parent who neglects this is guilty of neglecting a God-given responsibility.

A special reason why this year's exhibition should make a new record in patronage is the general diffusion of prosperity which marks "the growing time." Work is more plentiful among the laboring classes and wages higher than Ior years, while the farmers are enjoying high prices for nearly all their products, combined with fairly abundant crops. TAMING WYATT EARP

ONCE FAMOUS AS A GUN FIGHTER COWED AT DAWSON.

Coekney Mounted Policeman Puts Bad Man in His Place—Found More Than His Match in a Similar Canadian Bed Coat-Swere to De Great Things But He Gave Up the Gun.

Since Wyatt Earp, once famous as a gun fighter in Arizona and California, went up into the Klondike very little has been heard of him by the outside world. The last exploit that brought him into prominence was his decision in the Sharkey-Fitz-simmons prize fight in San Francisco, when he gave the fight to Sharkey on an alleged foul. For some years before that he had been quite an orderly citizen for one of his reputation as a gun fighter.

From the stories that have drifted down from the Klondike in the last few weeks it appears that Earp has resumed a favorite trick of his, known in the west as shooting up the town. He was much addicted to it in the old lawless days of Arizona and California.

Earp was never a man who could

Earp was never a man who could easily be tamed, consequently a story told of his suppression a few weeks ago by a diminutive Cockney mem-ber of the Canada Mounted Police will be found interesting.

Tired of Civilization.

Tired of Civilization.

"Earp drifted into Dawson several months ago full of a determination to get action," said a man in Dawson to some of Earp's old western friends the other night. "Civilization, policemen and pregress generally knocked out Earp's gun fighting game in the States some years ago, and he had been quite ofderly and well behaved for some years.

"But when he got to Dawson he found a settlement like the places in which he had made his reputation as a bad man many years ago. He which he had made his reputation as a bad man many years ago. He found men carrying guns around in their bets and getting drunk and shooting people who happened to displease them, and it gave him the fever to get back into the game in which he was an adept in the days gone by.

which he was an adept in the uays gone by.

"So Earp discarded his store clothes, got himself a flannel shirt, a pair of leather trousers and a sombrero, stuck a gun in his belt, loaded up on bad whiskey and went around the saloons and faro banks ballyragging everybody who would stand for his game, and taking a few shots at some men who resented it. shots at some men who resented it. There were a number of bad men in Dawson who were sufficiently awed by Earp's reputation to stand for him, and for a week he had things pretty much his own way.

Mounted Police Figure.

"Well, the fact that Earp was hit-"Well, the fact that Earp was hitting it up got to she ears of a little five-foot Cockney member of the Canadian Mounted Police, one of whose duties it was to see that Dawson behaved itself. Now, Earp didn't know much about the Canada Mounted Police and the manner of men' who compone it.

"Therefore, when he was interrupted in the gentle amusement of cleaning out a fare bank in Dawson one night by this little chap coming up to him with a request that he give him his gun, he opened his mouth and his eyes very wide, swore a mighty round of oaths, and asked the little fellow in riding boots and cap if he wanted to visit hades at once or wait a few hours.

"Earp was somewhat surprised when the little fellow simply smiled when the little fellow simply similed politely and said:
"You must give me the gun or bury it sir,' and extended his hand for the

"However, a crisis was averted by Earp's putting the gun back into his belt and starting to leave the place. Just as he got to the door the policeman walked over and tapped him on the shoulder.

"I beg your pardon, sir,' he said, but if you come out with a gun in sight to-morrow I shall have to take it away from you."
"Earp turned purple with rage, but he had no nerve left when he confronted that politely smiling face. He roared a few oaths back at the amused crowd in the gambling house, and then went to the Golden Lion saloan, where he took a few. Lion saloan, where he took a few drinks and proceeded to tell what he would do the next day when the Cockney tried to take his gun. "'Why, I'll blow him full of holes,"

Hole in Empire.

"Yes,' said the listener, 'but when you put a hole in him you put a hole in the British Empire, which it will fill with two men If you kill them four will take their places. In the end, Earp, you will have the whole British army here if necessary whole British army here if necessary just to put you out.

"The next day Earp, very sober and very thoughtful, appeared on the streets of Dawson in the store clothes he came to town with. Almost the first person he struck was the Cockney, who had evidently been waiting for him, prepared to take his gun away from him if he showed it. As soon as he saw Earp he stepped up very politely and said;

"Thank you, sir," and then turned on his heel.

"Thank you, sir," and then turned on his heel.
"Earp hasn't been deuca high as a bad man in Dawson since that incident. Incidentally, I might say, if he had elected to mix it up with the Cockney he'd be sleeping under an epitaph to-night; for of all the real tough men I ever saw, either for or against law and order, those Canada Mauntad Police are the limit,"

A Strong Man

Is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from indigestion or some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man doesn't feel just right, when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous and irritable, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength. Such a man needs to make strength. The rore of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, stimulates the liver, nourishes the nerves, and so gives health and strength to the whole body.

Palaces of Waters.
The principal Palace of Waters is an immense hall which stretches in mys terious grandeur far beneath the city of Constantinople. Its roof is formed of wide spanned arches supported on massive marble columns. These stand some ten feet apart, and their capitals are elaborately wrought.

This marvelous building springs from an expanse of waters which un-derlies the foundations of the city for miles. Its origin and extent have been shrouded in mystery ever since its discovery about seventy years ago, when some of the arches gave way. All at-tempts to explore by boat this marvel of construction have been either fatal

Another palace of waters was the stately Palace of Ice which was built in 1739 at the command of Anne, empress of Russia, to honor the nuptials of the Prince Gallitzin and a simple peasant girl. In this novel palace bride and bridegroom were housed, in rooms of which the walls and furniture and bed were constructed wholly

"What do you do with magnets here?" a woman who was being fitted asked.
"We find needles with them."

"How do you mean?"
"Every day it naturally happens that my forty-five assistants drop a great many needles on the floor. To stop and look for these needles would take time. They are all left lying, therefore, till the day's end, when a cleaner goes over the room with a magnet, holding it close to the floor. ANNOUNCEMENTS

"The Buffalo Mystery"-Sept. 8. "Quincy Adams Sawyer,"--Sept. 29 (Supplied to The Planet by Press Agents.)

"The Buffalo Mystery," which opens at the Grand on Tuesday evening September 8th, described as a descriptive, sensational comedy drama, will depict to the play goers of this theatre many incidents new to the stage, together with exciting scenes and climaxes with fitting comedy in-stage management. Not a miscue is made or false blow struck, yet the screaming, shouting, yelling and breaking of dishes, and the blows, feints, and struggles of the contestants, and the general pandemonium that exists is one that causes the audiences in many instances to rise up out of their seats in their excitement. The breakage of glassware and furniture in this scene alone aggregates over three hundred dollars a week. The last act shows the Quarry and the sensational plunge of the automobile and its two occupants to death. In this scene a real automobile is used and two performers make the plunge with it at every performance.

This great play will be seen at the Grand on Tuesday evening, September

Coldstreams at Inkerman

Glorious Tale of Splendid Bravery and Heroism.

The glories of English Army history are intimately bound up with the annals of its oldest regiment, the Coldstream Guards, whose splenthe annals of its oldest regiment, the Coldstream Guards, whose splendid band will soon be thrilling the hearts of the Canadian public. Of all the achievements of the Guards Inkerman is perhaps the most heroic. "The conduct of the Coldstream Guards at 'Inkerman," says the Times of November, 1854, "should immortalize their name. The battalion went into action with 17 officers and 400 men; of that number eight officers were killed, five wounded, and inpwards of 200 rank and file were killed and wounded." These few hundred Coldstreams held the redoubt all through that grey but glorious day against as many thousands of Russians. Thrice did the hordes of Russians. Thrice did the hordes of Russians—their natural courage inflamed by fanaticism and drink—rush up the hill on the top of which calm and determined stood the small force of Her Majesty's Guards. Three times were the Russians driven back only with strong reinforcements to hurl themselves again upon the diminished band. The ground was slippery with a hideous crimson slime; men slipped and recovering themselves saw that it was on a dead comrade's body that their feet had found purchase. The Coldstreams' ammunition became exhausted and in place of leaden bullets, the assailants were now met only by heavy stones. ammunition became exhausted and in place of leaden bullets, the assailants were now met only by heavy stones. The struggle soon became hand to hand, the group of Coldstreams fought back to back with elubbed muskets, and succeeded in forcing back the foe sufficiently to form line. Then ensued a companion wonder to that charge of the Coldstreams at Fuentes d'Onoro. The surging crowd of Russians were seen to waver and give way and cleaving through the mass came the remnant of the Coldstream Band with bayonets at the charge and having the mien of men who have worsted death itself.

The Coldstream Band of a later day come now to delight our hearts with their music which will arouse the memories of their brave deeds of yore.

They will annear at the Carand

They will appear at the Grand Opera House, Chatham, Monday afternoon, Sept. 14th, at two c'clock. Sale of seats begins Wednesday morning, Sept. 9th, at 10 o'clock at Central Drug Store.

and climaxes with fitting comedy interspread.

The wildest flights of the imaginative novelist or dramatist are never stranger than the actual happenings of life. What brain could conceive a series of more intensely dramatic incidents than those that comprised the Burdick case which occurred in Buffalo last February. A dramatist has taken these incidents for his groundwork in "The Buffalo Mystery," and with them as incentive has succeeded in building one of the most highly sensational, yet consistent plays, that has been seen on the local stage in many a day. The intrigue of Mrs. Burdick and Pennell, the discovery of their treachery by Burdick and the evening prayers of the latter's children in the face of an impending tragedy, form a few of the incidents in the first act. The second act depicts the home of Pennell, his exposure to his wife, and her utter despair. Then follows the scene of the Turkish den and the murder of Burdick and the return of Pennell to his home with all the terror and remorse attendant upon the realization of his awful predicament. The third and by far the greatest act of the play, shows the Road House with its patrons, waiters, bartenders, and loungers, in attendance. This act closes with one of the most thrilling climaxos a Chatham audience has ever witnessed, a free for all fight in which over thirty people engage, and bottles, glasses, chairs and dishes fill the air, tables overturned, and furniture destroyed. This melee is one of the triumphs of stage management. Not a miscue is made or false blow struck, yet the screaming, shouting, yelling and breaking of dishes, and the blows, feints, and struggles of the contestterspread.

DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS

A BIG DAY

The biggest day's business in the history of the Customs' Department of this port was that of Tuesday of this week, September first. The day's receipts amounted to $4,076.93. Over half of the amount came in for coal through Rondeau, an outport of Chatham, the amount for coal being $2,570.18. The other places donated as follows:-

Chatham, $1,184.68.
Rondeau, $2,570.18.
Romney, $1.05.
Glencoe, $4.45.
Ridgetown, $316.57.
Total—$4,076.93.
Of the $1,184.68, Chatham's amount, $990.48 was received from Thomas $990.48 was received from Thomas Stone & Son, dry goods firm, for goods from the old country.

GENEROUS GIFT

The adjourned meeting of the Library Board was held last evening, with Chairman Charteris, and Messrs. Smith, Sheldrick, Twohey and Secretary Davis present.

A communication was read from the Boston Library Bureau, stating that they were rushing the Library furniture to completion and would ship it on Sept. 7.

ship it on Sept. 7.

The most pleasing event of the evening was the offer of A. H. VonGunten, of VonGunten Bros., to donate a clock to the library. The clock would equal its surroundings in the building. The offer was right readily accepted, and the secretary was instructed to write Mr. VonGungen, thanking him for same.

The tenders for the window blinds were received from C. Austin & Co. and Thos. Stone & Son, the tenders being $50.10 and $43.82 respectively. The latter was accepted.

Meeting adjourned.

SPLENDID PLANT

A deputation from the city of Berin visited Chatham yesterday to inspect the plant of the Chatham Gas, and Electric Light Co. The improvement and remodelling of the Berlin Gas' and Electric Light plant is being contemplated, so the deputation came to visit the Chatham plant and inspect it. The plant of the Chatham Gas Co. is the most modern and up-to-date in Ontario and was considered a model by the visitors. President Wm. Ball and Manager P. S. Coate have good reason to feel gratified at the kind remarks passed by the visitors.

The deputation consisted of W. H. Cone manager of the Barlin Core H.

Cone, manager of the Berlin Gas and Electric Light plant, Mayor John E. Eden and Commissioners C. K. Hodgedorn and C. H. Mills.

POULTRY MEETING

A meeting of the Kent County Poulry and Pet Stock Association was held last evening in the Old Town Hall, with a very good attendance. It was decided to send a committee to meet with a committee of the West Kent Agricultural Society and visit the Fair grounds this evening for the purpose of arranging the chicken house in proper shape for the coming fair. The committee is composed of Messrs. M. Side, George A. Sayer and Wm. Plumeridge. The committee had just been appointed when the fire bell rang, and the meeting made a lightning finish.

WHAT ABOUT IT?

At no place in Ontario, perhaps are the game laws more consistently broken than at Ericau and vicinity. All during August you could hear people shooting ducks on the marshes and now a sunken duck hide has been discovered on the marsh west of the Eau. The Government should have an efficient game warden resident in Chatham and paid a salary to look after the protection of the game in this vicinity. Mrs Quallins is a good man, but he is too far away, and besides he can't be expected to patrol the earth for a salary of $400. The Government gets thousands of dollars from the sportsmen of Ontario and should, in return, do what they tan to protect the game. The general disregard of the game laws bround the Eau is a source of annoyance to the sportsmen who obannoyance to the sportsmen who observe the game laws. port;"

But Skipper McGarvey Sailed his Boat Through the Storm to Safety.

Popular Conductor Turns Out to be an Old Mariner-Gave Baggageman an Awful Fright.

There's a certain sturdy Scottish trait in the character of the popular Conductor McGarvey, of the Ericau excursion train, that never says die. Other fellows may get discouraged at difficulties and quit—but not so Mac. He'll conquer or know the reason why Mac. He'son why.

So yesterday afternoon, during the wait of fits train at the Eau, no one was surprised when the genial conductor again offered to take the boys for a sail.

Baggageman Fisher, they say, was still suffering from occasional strokes of nervous prostration from his previous strenuous sailing experi-ences, but he wouldn't be bluffed and said he'd go along.

said he'd go along.

Engineer Charley Pink, who was never tired in telling of his love of sailing and his boating abilities, was also invited but explained that he wasn't well and regretted that he'd have to stay behind. But he said he'd take a stroll out on the pier and "encourage the boys."

Brakeman Bob Wardle looked first at the Skipper and then at the Bornel the Born at the Skipper and then at the Bag-gageman and shook his head. He'd added that he guessed he'd also stay behind.

Nothing abashed the train started forth. A comely little single sticker was

A comely little single sticker was commissioned and the two marines headed for the channel. Gradually a spanking breeze sprung up and when the engineer and brakeman reached the piers the craft was bounding along in most seaworthy fashion. Conductor McGarvey sat at the tiller with a smile of serene complaisancy, while Baggageman Fisher huddled in the stern hanging desperately on to the main sheet.

All went well till the boat struck the head wind in the channel. Then there were doings.

there were doings.
Engineer Pink on the pier came to the rescue with his nautical genius.
Taking a hitch in his trousers, he sang out:
"Ahoy! Ahoy! Take a tack, ye landlubbers."

There was a moment's silence ere Fisher's agonized voice responded, "Can't find one. Ilere's a spike. Will that do?"
"Put your helm to starboard," shouted the engineer.
"Can't see any semaphore," was the anxious response.
"Come about, I say," shrieked Pink.
"Ain't that what I'm trying to do," came the indignant reply.
"Better gybe your sail," called Charley.

Charley.

"You can do all the jibing you like," responded the skipper. "It don't bother us."

Finally the cowcatcher bumped against the pier. Both mariners clung to the uprights and began to pull themselves along by their hands. "Now I understand it," said Brakeman Bob Wardle, laughing. "They're reaching."

reaching."
"Oh, I don't know," replied Engineer Pink. "I'd call it sailing close

Finally they struck the lake, where a smart wind was blowing and a choppy sea was in evidence. The sails filled and the boat bounded over the billows at wonderful speed. The swell was a heavy one and the craft rose and fell and rocked and plunged.

Out, out, they headed. Fisher was now clinging to the mast and the popular conductor looked a bit anxious himself.

The engineer made a funnel of

"aren't we going fast enough now."
And the boat sped on towards the horizon.

"Port your helm," screamed the man on the pier. + And the winds wafted back an agonized, "Where in helm's the Gradually it again neared the piers, where quite a throng of interested spectators had joined Charley and Bob ready to extend congratulations.

"I tell you how it is," exclaimed Fisher, as he bounded ashore, "Mac's so used to the tail end that he couldn't handle the front end."
The conductor wined the persuits.

The conductor wiped the perspira-tion from his forehead. The conductor wiped the perspiration from his forehead.

"The difficulty was with poor Fisher," he said sympathetically. "The poor fellow was so frightened that I couldn't do a thing with him. Simply had to manage the boat alone. There's no doubt it's a great mistake for an old salt like me to take a poor fellow like him out and get him both frightened and seasick. It was too much for him. Next time I go for a sail I'll take Alex. Bartlett and Archie Skirving along. It will add much interest to the spectators."

"All aboard," cried the conductor. "Cast the buoy, Charley, and throw out your sails."

"Ay, ay, sir," answered the engineer and the train moved off for Chatham.

Chairman Dr. J. L. Bray, just before the meeting broke up, produced from his vest pocket a clipping containing an intervview from The Planet, and read it out.
"There's not one word of truth in it from beginning to end," commented the chairman. "There's no friction between the Council and the Water Commissioners, and the Dowsley people have never been asked for a cent. In fact we havven't been in a position to render an account to them. Just lately we have put a meter on their main and expect shortly to be able to estimate the amount of water that has been used."

Commissioner W. D. Sheldon said:

Commissioner W. D. Sheldon said "The city as a whole voted free water for the Dowsley Works, and it is only fair that the city as a whole should pay for it and not place it all on the shoulders of the water patrons." SPECIAL VALUES IN

The Beauty of Ashcroft...

By MARTHA M'CULLOCH-WILLIAMS

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure ******

Ensley was in the middle of presentation commonplaces when Bernice interrupted with, "Do you care to earn my everlasting gratitude?"

"Certainly. Only tell me how," he said lamely, taken all aback. She smiled at him, a faint, odd smile. more of eyes than mouth, as she answered, with the least possible shrug: "Say that you have heard of the beauty of Ashcroft and are captive in advance. Everybody says that in course of an hour and when things become chronic I like to get them over with." "Who is the beauty of Ashcroft?"

Ensley asked, with eyes of wide inno-cence, yet a suppressed inclination to chuckle. Bernice shrugged again. "You do it very well," she said—"much better than common. Still I know you "Prove it" he said still trying hard to look puzzled. She laughed and asked demurely. "Is not this Ashcroft

"No," he said promptly. "That is good people are wrong. They told me it was Ashcroft, and, behold, I have ound out better within the first hour." "You are giving yourself room to say it is fairyland instead and that you have found the fairy queen," Bernice said solemnly. "That sounds new and original, no doubt, to you, but really two other men have said it, since—well, since I've been the beauty."

"Oh, so it is you! A thousand pardons. Pray forgive my density," Ens-ley implored. Bernice gave him a long look, then said, "I wonder if you have the courage for a great experiment."

"I am a rank coward every way, but ready to dare all a coward may," Ens-ley said, pressing the hand he still held softly between both palms. Bernice made to draw it away, but he kept it fast. They were in the bay window niche, well sheltered from curious glances. "You were made to be loved. That goes without saying," he whispered; "also to be made love to. Tell me, though, did any of the others ever take fire quite so suddenly"-

"Suddenly!" Bernice's tone and look were withering. "Dear me! You ask that after wasting five long minutes before discharging the whole duty of Ensley flung back his head, laughing heartily. "Quarter! I cry quarter!" he said. "But if I must do penance for my misdeeds, please remember that even injustice needs a tempering of "Mercy would be wasted here," Ber-

"Mercy would be wasted here," Bernice said severely, though with twinkling eyes. "Your sentence is to speak and behave sensibly toward me, no matter what I may do, the whole time you stay in Ashcroft."

"I shall serve it manfully," Ensley said, smiling quizzically. "But there will come a day of reckoning, later. and I shall be in it."

Ensley kent his word throughout the Ensley kept his word throughout the fortnight's visit, albeit Bernice did her best to make him break it. In spite of fairly haunting her, seeking her out morning, noon and night, he showed himself always and only a sprightly and entertaining comrade, taking chivalrous account of her womanhood, but none whatever of her youth and charm. It was wholly a new experience. Men had been prostrating themselves to worship her ever since she was in short frocks. The men had been very plenty. Her father, bluff and hearty Squire Elton, was the soul of hospital ity no less than the great man of Ash croft. His big house, although it stood well outside the village, was the social center. Whoever had his good word and countenance was welcome anywhere roundabout.

Naturally Bernice, sole daughter and helress to the Elton thousands, who had grown up motherless, was a triffe spoiled—notwithstanding a fine young creature, honester with herself than is the wort of womenkind. Therefore, aren before brain makind. even before Ensley went away she had begun to ask herself if it was wholly pleasant to have him sensible rather than foolishly adoring. He had not been gone two days before she had an-swered her own question with a decid-"No." and, further, had made up her mind that when he came again she would not flout his lovemaking, no matter how earnest it might be. She could not of course admit even to her image in the mirror how impossible she found it to get him out of mind, nor how long and dull the short winter days were now that he no longer claimed much more than half of them. Somehow she had a fancy that he would surely come back for Christmas.

Her father, she knew, had pressed him, and she herself had smiled invitation, though she had said nothing outright. But it took her all aback to have Peggy Glenn run in and say: "Only think, Ber ry! All of us wasted our sweetness on an engaged man! Frank Ensley is a wretch of the first water! Brother Jack has a letter from him saying, 'I expect to be married early in the new year, so will gladly let Ashcroft delights beguile my impatience for the happy day. Now, what do you think of that?"

"Oh, that it is-characteristic," Ber nice said, the least possible break in her voice. Peggy stared hard. "Jack must be right after all," she said. "I was dead sure Ensley was courting you hard, but that brother of mine said all along you were only chums."
"Jack is a good fellow and discriminating," Bernice said, smiling, although she saw things through a mist and felt her pulses beat all over. Somehow she held herself steady until Peggy went off to spread the news. How she fought through the next hour only the soul of infinite compassion will ever know.

The news came in mid-December. Ensley was to follow it. The day before Christmas Bernice had herself well in hand. She loved him, faced the knowledge of it as became a thorough bred and was resolved to break her heart, if it needs must break, with laughing lips. She would wish him joy, clear eyed, clear voiced. She would even affect to have discerned his estate of bondage and claim to have saved him from farce comedy perfidy. Notwithstanding, twilight of the winter solstice found her very low and miserable. The day had been lowering and sodden, full of gusty rains and shrieking elfin blasts. By way of offsetting the gloom Squire Elton had heaped logs on the big andirons and lighted all the candles in the big silver sconces while it was still but murk outside.

Then he had bustled off to see after some of his poor neighbors. Bernice was alone except for the servants, who had been there ever since she was born. She sat, wan and drooping, staring into the heart of the fire as Ensley came noiselessly through the door.

"I will not offer a penny for your thoughts. I know exactly what they are," he said, stepping to her side, but not offering his hand. "You are conning the pretty speech you mean to make me. That is wrong. You should not felicitate me until you hear whom I am going to marry."

"Is there more against her than having accepted you?" Bernice asked, with a flash of her old spirit. He stooped and half lifted her to her feet before "She is 'that impossible answering. she, the sum of all perfections in a wo

A Record In Servants.

"My wife and I," said a Germantown man, "have been married a little over five years. We have no children, there are just two in the family and we have use for but one servant, a girl to do general housework. One would naturally think that such a job would be a sinecure for a girl at $4 a week, the wages my wife pays, and yet in those five years we have had no less than sixty-three separate and distinct girls. How do I know the exact number Well, I keep a diary, and among other things I have jotted down the numerous changes in servants. Some of them have stayed a day or two, the longest term of service being six months. Some have been discharged, some have gone out and failed to re-turn, some have left because the work was too hard, some have married, one was arrested on a warrant sworn out by a former mistress whom she had robbed. It seems to me that sixty-three servants in five years is about the record, and yet I don't think we are hard people to get along with. If I didn't own my own home I'd give up housekeeping and board."—Philadei-

A Tempest In a Teapot. What war was caused by a clay tea

Prosperity leads often to ambition, and ambition to disappointment.

when a boy turns his bulging pocket inside out we marvel at the quantity and variety of articles he has stowed away. Off lengths of string, marbles, a horse-chestnut, a top, brass nails, hickory-nits, an apple, and many more articles are garnered by this "snapper up of unconsidered trifles." We think the collection must be hard on a boy's pocket. And it is. But do we ever think of the variety and miscellany of the substances we put into the pocket of our stomach? There's the apple and the nuts, and things besides quite as indigestible as brass nails and with no more food value than so many marbles. And yet we wonder that the stomach "gives out." When the stomach breaks down under the strain of careless eating we wonder that the stomach breaks down under the strain of careless eating and irregular meals it can be perfectly and permanently restored to health and strength by the use of Doctor Pierce's Medical Discovery. The action of this medicine on the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition is so marked, that relief from disease is at once experienced, and the headaches, liver "troubles," kidney disorders, skin eruptions and other symptoms of a diseased stomach are quickly cured. Whenever the use of a laxative medicine is indicated, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They act in harmony with the "Discovery" and assist its action by purging the bowels of foul accumulations. to, Buffalo.

DIMINISHED VITALITY.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality.

They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depend. Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer. Truth does not need any proof of evidence, for the real truth is self-evident. Use Lever's Dry Soap (a powder) to

THE THINGS WE LEAVE UNDONE.

Increase. Action on the Part of the Heart. the Heart

Blushing is not an art, neither is it a sign of ini-breeding, as some unkind people maintain. The fact is, it is just as natural for some persons to blush as it is for others to turn pale. The same laws of nature which govern the one rule govern the other. The capillaries, or small blood vessels which connect the arteries and veins of the body, form, particularly over the cheeks, a network so fine that it is necessary to employ a microscope to distinguish them. Ordinarily the blood passes through these vessels in normal quantities, leaving only the natural complexion. But when some sudden emotion takes possession of the heart its action increases and an electric thrill instantly leaps to the cheeks. The thrill is nothing more than the rush of blood through the invisible capillaries just nothing more than the rush of blood through the invisible capillaries just beneath the delicate transparent sur-beneath the delicate transparent surface of the skin.

The causes that bring about this condition in the circulating system are called mental stimuli. They consist of joy, anger, shame and many other emotions. Sudden horror, remorse or fear, on the contrary, influence the nerves which control the blood vessels, and the face becomes white. Blushing and pallor result from the sudden action of the mind on the nervous system. So if the mind be forewarned and prepared for emotions, both habits can at least be partially overcome. But when the be partially overcome. But when the nervous system is highly strung it would be a life-long if not a futile task to endeavor to effect a perfect cure. It is the sensitive, nervous girl who blushes easily, while the girl stolid by nature, or who by conven-tional education has her nerves under perfect control, seldom blushes.

A Grusseme Collection. Perhaps the most gruesome collec-tion ever gathered together is that of an English official at one time connected with the Chancery Division of the Law Courts, who bears a very honored legal name. This collection honored legal name. This collection consists of the small square pieces consists of the small square pieces of black material which constitute the "black caps" assumed by judges when they sentence a human being to suffer the last dread penalty of the law. The collector, one of a line of judges and lawyers, has succeeded in acquiring the caps made use of by many of the judges of the last three decades; living and dead, and to each specimen is attached a printed slip setting forth the trag-ical occasions when it has been used. All the caps are mounted with these slips in a glass case in the gentleman's study, and there are over thirty of them in all. One has been assumed on nearly three-score occa-sions, it having been passed from one great judge to another.

An Interesting Exhibition.

Prof. Flinders Petrie, the Egyptologist, recently opened in London an interesting exhibition of the results of his diggings in Egypt last win-ter. These latest excavations go back farther than any hitherto made, ter. These latest excavations go back farther than any hitherto made, and deal mainly with the times of Manah, the first King of the first dynasty, and with the stone age which preceded him. The neolithic lasted until very varying dates in different parts of the world. In some parts of Scotland flint instruments were used even until last century; but in Egypt it ends many hundreds of years before Christ, when Manah probably ruled. Prof. Petrie, perhaps, is on the verge of a highly interesting discovery if he follows a clew which appears to show the existence of Indian influences in Egypt in very early times. Notably will this afford explanation of some references of St. Paul to "certain new-fangled doctrines," such as abstinence from flesh, which is a characteristically Buddhist tenet. Buddhist tenet.

Deep Plewing.

Much of the advice in favor of deep plowing is out of place on whill farms with the top soil only six to eight inches deep. Plowing which brings much subsoil to the top is not desirable. But there are many fields with good depths of rich, dark loam that have never been properly worked. Such lands need never be worked. Such lands need never be called worn out until thorough plowing and harrowing again and again have enabled the plant roots to get at some of the locked up fertility in the bottom layers. Simply the bottom layers and then to bring up the lower soil and then to turn it down again the following to turn it down again the following season is not needed so much as to thoroughly twist and fine the soil, exposing it to air and sun. For potatoes and root crops deep plowing is desirable, also to loosen the soil for root and tuber growth.

Fond of Walst.

An old maiden lady who had been passionately fond of whist, and who had outlived most of her friends, was one day walking through the churchyard of St. Andrew's Cathedral. Going to a spot with many graves, she yard of St. Andrew's Cathedral. Going to a spot with many graves, she said, ruefully shaking her head to the friend who accompanied her: "Ay, ay, there lie the auld whist party. There's Miss So-and-So's grave," pointing to a tablet at hand; "and there lies Mrs. So-and-So' printing to another; "and here lies dear auld Miss Something Else," pointing to a fourth grave. "Ay, ay," she explained, with another doleful shake of the head, "there they all lie waiting for the last trump."

Tact and Talent.

Tact and Talent.

"Tact is greater than talent" is an old-time saying, and it is one that holds good to day as well as on the day it was written. Tact is a great thing for one to carry through the world and it pilots one overmany rough places.

There is a woman who says it is better to tell people pleasant than unpleasant things, and she lives up to it, and people are glad to see her wherever she goes.

I believe she is right. People are better for a little appreciation, honsely expressed, and a kind word is an inspiration to do better things.

It's better to say kind things when you can say slight, and tell the irath.

It isn't the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The sower you might have sent, dear,
Are your haunting ghosts to-night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way,
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say,
The loving touch of the hand, dear,
The gentle and winsome tone
That you had no time or thought for
With troubles enough of your own. These little acts of kindness

So easily out of mind,
These chances to be angels
Which even mortals find,
They come in night and slience,
Each chill, reproachful wraith,
When hope is faint and flagging
And a blight has dropped on faith.

For life is all too short, dear,
And corrow is all too great
To suffer our slow compassion
That tarries until too late;
And it's not the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone
Which gives you the bitter heartachs
At the setting of the sun.

Sawdust and Fish Life.

"Sawdust and Fish Life" is the title of a brochure recently issued. A reprint from the Transactions of the Canadian Institute, it is the record Canadian Institute, it is the record of a series of experiments made by Professor A. P. Knight, of Queen's University. An ancient feud subsists between the angler and the sawmill owners, and Professor. Knight's investigations will be watched with great interest by the parties thereto. His conclusions go to show that there are two sides to the question, and also that there is need of further investigation. Undoubtedly, strong solutions of sawdust are deadly to fish life. But the weakest of the solutions which he used was thirty or forty times as used was thirty or forty times as strong in sawdust extracts as the water immediately below a specimen mill on the Bonnechere River, and in water immediately below a spanding mill on the Bonnechere River, and in this water chub and brook trout, were found. "No stream," he says, "can be pronounced off hand as poisoned by sawdust. Each stream must be studied by itself, and the varying conditions must be thoroughly understood before a judgment can be pronounced. The chief things to be considered are (1) the quantity of sawdust, and (2) the volume of water into which the sawdust is discharged. Subordinate conditions are the rapidity or sluggishness of the stream, the amount of sunlight or shade, and the character of the water, whether from agricultural lands or from primitive forests.

"What Is the Press?"

The Levis Quotidien has discovered the answer to the question, "What is the Press?" As it is calculated to give a new sense of dignity and superferity to aven the invite sense. give a new sense of dignity and superiority to even the junior reporter, we reproduce it herewith, somewhat damaged in translation, says The Toronto News: "The Press is one or more men who pass their lives, like hermits, in a solitary chamber,
thinking and writing in the interests of the fellows, who, more fortunate than themselves, are frequenting concerts, theatres and so on in the sole intent of procuring their ewn dethan themselves, are frequenting concerts, theatres and so on in the sole intent of procuring their own delight. The journalist, too, goes to the theatre, to the concert, the circus, the public festival; but he goes in a frame of mind quite different from that of the ordinary spectator. He goes in duty bound, to see that which is reprehensible, is evil, is calculated in a word to compromise the honor, the dignity, the morality of man. He takes his notes and returns to the office, not to surrender to delicious reflection on the beauty, his eyes have seen and the charm his ears have heard, but to set forth and put down on paper what there has been of good and of evil, to the end of warning and instructing the public, of keeping it so far as may be in the right way. In one word, he preaches in his newspaper a lay sermon."

Canada Outstrips the States. Most of us to the southward of the border have been so occupied with our own individual and national affairs that we have failed to note what has been done by our Canadian neighbors, says the New York Sun. In energy the Canadians are now our rivals; in achievement they have perhaps outstripped us. If the Sun. In energy the Canadians are now our rivals; in achievement they have perhaps outstripped us. If the foreign commerce of the United States, per capita of total population, corresponded with that of Canada, our exports and imports would aggregate six billions of dollars per year instead of their present two and one-fourth billions. In other words, the total foreign commerce of the United States approximates $30 per capita, whereas that of Canada approximates $80. Her railway activity, in its proportion to population, within recent years has outstripped our own. Nor have we ourselves been blind to the fact, though as a nation we have done little to advertise our sylvan wares. Year by year, however, the fame of Canada's summer glories is spreading. Quiet acoks where we used to sprawl in lazy enjoyment are taking on the hectie appearance of fashionable resorts. IUMPED FROM MOVING TRAIN Three Desperate Men Make a Daring Escape. Toronto, Sept. 4. — Four prisoners on their way to Kingston Penitentiary from Fort William, three of whom escaped, made a daring leap for liberty yesterday afternoon in Paskdale from a train travelling at the rate of 25 miles an hour. It was a cleverly planned piece of work, and the nerve displayed by the desperadoes in leaping from the moving train was nothing short of marvellous. The plans for the escape were carried out in such a remarkably cool manner by the prisoners that the Sheriff and constable in charge of the quartette were fairly dumbfounded for the time be-

The escaped prisoners are: Thomas Burns, sentenced at Fort William to four years in penitentiary for larceny. Harry Jansen, sentenced at Fort William to five years for housebreak-William to five years for housebreaking and robbery.

John Foster, the young fellow who did not succeed in making his escape, was sentenced at Port Arthur two weeks ago to two years in Kingston for highway robbery.

The prisoners were travelling in the smoking apartment of the strengther.

The prisoners were travelling in the smoking apartment of the steamboat express, on the C. P. R., from Owen Sound. They were in charge of Sheriff Thompson of Fort William and Constable Hessom of Port Arthur. Everything went smoothly until after the express passed the station at Parkdale, where a stop had been made. The train had started, and was going at a rapid rate, when the constables, who had been conversing with the prisonere, were astonished to hear the prisonere, were astonished to hear one end of the chain attached to the handcuffs fall on the floor.

Without a moment's warning two of the men, Duncan and Foster, made a smoking apart ment, and the other two leaped through the two windows, beside which they the two windows, beside which them were seated. Duncan succeeded in getting out of the clutches of Sheriff Thompson, and ran through the coach towards the front end of the car. In trying to get through the door he collided with the conductor, who was coming from the baggage car, and an altercation ensued. Duncan struck the conductor on the face, and jumped into the siding in front of the glass works, near Struchan avenue.

The Sheriff called to Constable Hesson to direct his attention to the men getting out of the window. Burns had fallen from the window into the long or as heade the tracks, but Jansen. fallen from the window into the long grass beside the tracks, but Jansen, who is a stout man, experienced some difficulty in getting out of the window, and was about half way out, hanging head downwards, when Hesson grasped his right leg. Jansen kicked viciously, and almost stunned the constable, who received a painful kick in the right jaw. The Sheriff, on seeing that the constable was in trouble, instructed him to come and hold Foster. Jansen then dropped to the ground.

PURITY.

"The Beer That is Brewed in Glass

Ours is the only plant in Western Ontario having a glass-lined, closed tank tem, which is the only system affording absolute security against pollution of system, which is the only system affording absolute security against pollution of the beer.

Wood rots, green wood rots faster than dry, quickly seasoned wood rots quickest of all, and when exposed to air and water in Brewers' cellsrs wet rot comes on rapidly, and the beer brewed in open tanks is injuriously affected by it.

Our tanks are like a bottle inside, clean, no mould, no slime, no chance for rot. Which is better, beer made in a closed, glass lined, steel tank, or in an old mouldy wooden one?

Color is no indication of strength as producers of thin, washy beer resort to coloring matter and other materials to conceal its weakness. A good beer gives a "full mouth" feeling when drank.

A heavy foam is no indication of good quality, in fact in many localities they demand less foam and more solid beer. Brewers of weak beer often try to tempt the consumer by furnishing a beer charged with Kreusen (beer 24 hours old) and having a beautiful cream, but if used to any extent is sure to produce sickness.

Poor goods are nasty competition and the public should sustain those producing the better goods.

A pure beer is a pleasant beverage and very healthful and should always give off a delicate aroma of hops and malt only. Any other smell or taste is almost POSITIVE EVIDENCE OF AN INFECTED AND IMPURE BEER. Demand Walkerville Beer and You Will Get the Purest and Best
