" Bellman, Speed Thee Up the Stair-

Bellman, see! the hour approacheth!— Speed thee up the dim lit stairway Of the beifry gray and solemn. And the bells of rapture waken!

Bellman, tell them of the story
Wonderful, though cent'ry olden—Beautiful, though oft narrated—Trough a thousand times recited;
Spell them with the annal goiden;
Thrill them with the legend truthful of the jubilant rede

Bellman, tell them of the Mighty, of mankind the great Creator— king of whom all kings are fearful; of the Spirit aye existing— of the God of all the ages!

of the God of all the ages!

Tell them how this God all potent Took the flesh of His created;
How within a stable humble—
When the stars, like lamps suspended
From the firmament, glowed calmly
In the stillness of the night time;
When the snow wreaths on the mountain
Glistened like the dews a trembling
On a drift of spray white blossoms;
How, when everything that murmurs—
How, when every agent voiceful—
Steam and leaf, and flow'r and blossom,
Wind and wave, and bird nocturnal,
Beast that in the wild wood trackless
Prowleth slcw, at every motion
Brambles sere and dry leaves crackling—
Seemed as silent as the nation
As it lay in fear prostrated, Waiting the Divine pronouncement;
Tell them how, when earth and heaven
Voiceless hung in expectation, Christ the Saviour was born—
He, the promised One, was orn.

Then, the magic tale recited.

Then, the magic tale recited, Cry, O Bellman! full and solemn-Cry. O Bellman! fall and solem—Cry in accents loud and rousing;
O, ye bells! It go ut your rapture
In a flood of music thrilling.
In a peal of heaven sugrestive.
In a myrlad vibrations!
Till they, from their trance of wonder
By thy tones appealing roused,
Ring in cauticles defigited:
Great the works of God Eternal!
He hath sent to all the nations
Peace long promised and redemption!
He hath sent the Child Redeemer!
Glory to the God of beaven!
Glory to the God of basen!
Glory to the High of Ages!
Glory to the High of Ages!

-T. C. Murray, in Cork Examiner A STAR-LED JOURNEY.

A little Maine poet had written a star-song. A shimmer of starlight was in it, perhaps—she did not know—but ody, a repeated chorus, she sent it to the local paper, as a I, too, -I, too, -I, too, o'er the sands to Bethle-was coming and his readers expected something for the season, he did not care what! So down it went to the printers. To say truth, his literary larder was pretty empty, as its like are apt to be.

The shabby hotel of this eastern town had lost its summer smartness. Kept especially for tourists, its winter patronage dropped with the mercury Therefore, the sudden ap pearance there of a Philadelphian young, handsome and apparently wealthy, with his fine clothing and city ways, drew more notice in December than it could possibly have done the preceding August.

"Name's Ashton. Been here before!" drawled the lean landlord.
Business? Yes. - Ice business.
Goin' daown the Kennebec." And a puzzled lot of native inquirers were

The young man had strolled into a side room to avoid embarrassing inspection and look for a paper. The Boston Journals were all old ones.

'A very ancient muttered the would be reader, flinging them down, disgusted with the literal aptness of his quotation. A cleaner sheet lay beside them. opened it - and lo! the Star Song! His wrath rose; no news, no anything, in this snow buried hole! Trains cancelled on the new narrow guage road ! Snowed up at Mattabumpus," they told him. He raged inwardly ; then, suddenly, laughed at the mix of things. What could be expected of a Maine poet, snowed up at Mattabumpus? But he had not come down into Maine to be grinned at by the natives and read local "poems." Not he! He would drive over to the next station, take Antoine, the silent Canadian, to guide him, and foot it, if need were, through the woods to the nearest point on the Grand Trunk. English and broad guage that, with sure trains!— Comforted by this, he took up the paper again, looking for time-tables.

The Star of Fame, it shineth out
Sharp on the wintry sky;
Yet, through the purple rifts of doubt,
A fairer I descry.
For ah, the poor and lowly!
What softly blesseth them?
But the star Divine that to earth came down
And shone on the Babe of Bethlehem.

The Star of Love, it gazeth down With sweet entrancing eyes; It profers earth a passion-crown Of roses born to die!
Too soon their splendor falleth; O changeless diadem, Tis Thee I seek—I would journey on—I too—o'er the sands, to Bethlebem.

to look about him. He beheld a world in white. Long, exquisite, shadows lay in pearly tones on the snow-crust. He devised a fairy tale wherein he could put the shining road, the silver fields, the hills of pearl and the enchanted pine forest. Now and then the wind sweeping in gusts, would toss the fir-boughs and pine tassels high in the air, whirling down their snow wreaths in dezzling, stinging spray.

The superintendent was plainly a jindeed, in keeping this part of the good man, and from his point of view ——that of a sensible man of affairs—the it is esteemed an honor and a priville Company was doing its full duty to its employes. But did he think so? But did he think so? Slowly this strange company moved that was the question. And would the Christ think so? At the Bar of Divine did the Chr Their giant limbs sprang into intense relief, black against white; each cluster of needles proffered its tiny tuft of glitter. Here and there in the woods a sheltered spot, nearly bare, was beautiful with running evergreen and the miniature ground pine. Papery beech leaves still clung to their tough boughs tinting the white with a russet brown that was close to gold. He bethought him how he had once heard a keen critic say, "No wonder the Rus-sians crown their cities with gay tinted domes and gilded spires. They know, with true instinct, that snow should be wedded with color." The intense purity of it all was only deepened by these stray color-touches. And what was like it? A white dove? a gull's wing? a child's innocence? Yes, a babe — the Holy Child Jesus! and His the whitest ever known on this sin-stained earth. The Star Song

Christmas offering.

The editor, on receiving it, growled out something a good way from gratitude. But then, there! Christmas ready to pray.

lem.

He caught himself up sharply. Why, that was a prayer! And he was not ready to pray.

At the next town he found Antoine his old guide, who reported the drifts deep in the railway cuts and gorges, but not impracticable across open country. So they set out again, with fresh horses, for the longer ride.

They fairly flew over the snow. The every angle vanished, a pale, un-earthly softness held the world. It Early strengthened the nearness of the skies; the steadfast blue seemed close over his head. He was restive, as under the felt approach of One invisible.

off the snow. Pearly, translucent and silent, it lay outspread, and yet that calm crystal was vitalized by a sense the rudest sort for the great gangs of calm crystal was vitalized by a sense of of tidal throb below, swinging on surely to the sea — a felt undertone in depths of darkness—one with the other unseen forces drawing round him. As the horses sped on, it seemed to him like a leaving behind him of life, this winged flight into the great white sil winged flight into the great white sil
the rudest sort for the great gangs of Canadians, employed in the season of cutting and harvesting.

Antoine and the mission priest, the little poet and the wealthy Philadelph ian, that Christmas blessing had alike fallen, in a new fullness of unexpected joy.—Caroline D. Swan in Donahoe's Magazine.

Most of evident of the Court in the existence of a religious order — the final approbation of its full canonicals holding order — the final approbation of the Rule. Finally the community room is reached, and here the procession ranges of the Holy Father in the citem order — the final approbation of the Rule. Finally form of the Sisters of the Precious Blood is—as all things Canadians, on ployed in the season of carried in the certain intervence of a religious order — the final approbation of its full canonicals holding order — the final approbation of the Rule. Finally the community room is reached, and here the procession range of the Holy the Decree of Approbation of the Boly the Holy Father.

Most of our readers are aware that the community of the Sisters of the Precious Blood is—as all things Canadians, belong its and an effigy of the Holy the Decree of the final approbation of the Rule. Finally the community of the Sisters of the precious Blood is—as all things Canadians, belong its and an effigy of the Holy the Decree of Approbation of the Rule. Finally the community of the Sisters of the precious Blood is—as all things Canadians, belong its and an effigy of the Holy the Decree of Approbation of the Rule. Finally the community of the Sisters of the Bloty the Holy Father.

A couple of sharp late and the wealthy Philadelph ian, that Christmas beleasing the full canonical

Still that melody haunted him. It came from somewhere in a very remote past, when he was a small boy and his grandmother "toted him off" to prays er meeting, as he absurdly told himself. But all the same, laugh or not-it wamelody.

"I, too — I, too," it sang with strange pathos in the remembered strain. And why not he, too? He pushed off the idea, but it came back. That Oriental journey was purposeful, he owned that. How unlike his own projected tramp of wilfulness, into these woodlands! They were men of wisdom. But the sharp cold began to penetrate his fur trimmed overcoat, despite paper again, looking for time-tables.

Alas, time and trains were missing; but there was the Star-Song! This time he read it:

1 to sold out in space — his thought ran on — cold everywhere away from God. He is the centre of life, warmth and glory. They were wise, who journey thitherward. But he—he was journeying away—into polar regions, into great desolation!" And he shivered again. 'Confound this ride!" he shouted to the silent Antoine, who gazed at him in pitying wonder. "We sall arrive, in a leetle moment," answered the man in his soft patois. Then, by way of encouragement, he shyly added, "And it ees soon his heart and was caught by the relief.

"It is for the blessed Christmas, Antoine," and with native feeling the guide saw that words were needless. The rest and comfort of the little inn, where he stopped for the night, brought unutterable cheer. A strange brightness had come over everything and a strange, new warmth. "Yes," he said to himself, "I bave indeed journeyed!" How little he had dreamed of this when he left home! "Thou knowest I am glad of thy How little even when snow-bound in How little even when snow-bound in tender tone touched the Philadelphian."

The peatenty when it is sheep-raising parish of Maussane — by sheep-raising parish of Maussane — by a Cure who is at one with his flock in a love for the customs of ancient times. Its origin assuredly goes back far into antiquity; so very far, indeed, that the head of the procession which was making its way through the cloister. As they moved up the staircase, the statue of the Sacred Heart standing in a niche effectively surrounded by inn, where he stopped for the night to reverse his whole life, as it were in a moment, in what seemed such an absurd, improbable way looked at from his old standpoint, but which now came to him as a white, star-lit experience, not without power peculiar to itself. He had journeyed, heaven had led him on and the Christ was found-as of one who sought Him not

Early next morning he took train for the nearest junction; thence, making his way down the Kennebec. But But ah, the poor and lowly—Who softly plesseth them But the star divine that to earth came down he finally reached the great white ice—And shone on the Babe of Bethlehem? houses, sources of easy income to their They came to a small river, now a pale ice floor, the wind having swept capital. All around clustered small, his overcoat.

"Do see him, Bill! Ain't he daisy, though?" "Hush, don't yer know? I tell ye he's the Ice Company, that chap is !'

Paul Ashton also took in details, or his part, but with kindly scrutiny; the shabby clothing of the lads, so poorly protecting them from the sharp river wind, their worn shoes and pinched faces.

"My pa's lame. Awful? Got hurt on the ice," said the older, in reply to a word of questioning. "And ma's a word of questioning. "And ma's sick, too," chimed in the other, yet without excitement, as if both facts were of the sort to be expected.

"I'm glad I came," muttered Ashton. Our superintendent means well, but I shall have to supervise these

It was again the call of human brotherhood, and, this time it definitely called him. This was his field; hese were his own men, his own direct responsibility.

He went at once to the superintendent, a genial man, whom he had met before and been pleased with. kindly optimist-a good manager and maker for the Company thought Paul as the personage in ques-tion proffered cordial welcome, glad to see him and glad to talk about the "Poor fellows! We have to turn a Father, I have found it. The face of the other shone with ympathy as his benediction fell,-

To his life's end Paul Ashton never outlines of walls and fences took on a blurred roundness as they passed, him. Was it not beautiful and gra-Lord's poor, the first his own bounty had helped to brighten. Again, he heard the poet's song,

The Angelus rang out the seraphic greeting of peace on earth, good will to men, from the little chapel; the laterising sun flung gleams of tender rose among the snow tints, and on poor Antoine and the mission priest, the little poet and the wealthy Philadelphian that Christman blessing had alike

a miracle, a way was opened through ceived so soon the final approbation of the dense crowd along the centre of the the Supreme Pontiff, and it is a great nave from the door to the altar, and up happiness to the members to receive this way with their offerings real the Rule almost as it was presented to shepherds came—the quaintest proces. His Holiness. ion that anywhere I have over seen. In the lead were four musicians, playing upon the tambourin, the galoubet, the very small cymbals called palets, and the bagpipe like carlamuso; and event-at the mother house in then, two by two, came ten shepherds wearing the long, brown, full cloaks, weather stained and patched and Y., Oregon, U. S. A. and the last mended, which seem always to have come down through many generations and which never by any chance are be uninteresting to our readers. new; carrying tucked beneath their being celebrated with Exposition of the arms their battered felt hats browned, like their cloaks, by the long warfare with sun and rain : holding in one with sun and rain; holding in one hand a lighted candle and in the other afternoon—4:30. The same ceremon a staff. The two leaders, dispensing with staves and candles, bore garland.

"Thar goes a feller that don't know where he's goin'. Drifted daown to Bumpus past all tellin', Joe sez! Jerusalem! hem cockerels dew take resks — big ones:"

| Warmth. And he was shivering—actually Blessed Mother! Heart in no other way, and at the very time of year when they most need it. When other work fails, ice is sure! the ewe with knots of ribbon and wear-ing about its neck a red collar brilliant And it supports their families. Yes, to behold. Now and then the ewe -big ones:"

"He's goin' after Antoine, he sez. That's hoss sense, anyhow," retorted a sharp loafer, who read the situation in the landlord's crest-fallen face. "I tell ye, Antoine knows aour road better 'I Parson Stubbs duz that to heaven!"

At which hit arose some protest, but more laughter.

The young Philadelphian found the road better than he expected. With careful driving his spirited nag overcame a few big drifts triumphantly and for most of the way he had leisure to look about him. He beheld a world in white. Long, exquisite, shadows fault, his own wilful fault and folly! And it supports their families. Yes, we pay well and try to encourage good men; there are plenty, though, that gamble and drink and make their pay a curse."

Other men heard and came, men in throngs. He thought of the English cathedrals, the crowded churches in Catholic Europe. "I, too, merciful Lord! I cannot live alone, in Thy universe. I, too, would come!" It was his first soul aspiration, his first to look about him. He beheld a world in white. Long, exquisite, shadows house!" he whispered, as a tiny mis- and their offering be made complete, nouse!" he waispered, as a tiny mist and their effering be made complete, sion chapel came in sight, its golden white the other shepherds formed a cross flashing in the transfiguration of semicircle in the rear. The music the sunlight. Some servant of God was stilled, and the priest accepted and was laboring in this cold, dreary field; set upon the altar the baskets; and the remembered that his comrades had called him impulsive—well, perhaps he was "art to flering be made complete, while the other shepherds formed a cross flashing in the transfiguration of semicircle in the rear. The music was stilled, and the priest accepted and was laboring in this cold, dreary field; set upon the altar the baskets; and the remembered that his remembered that his comrades had called him impulsive—well, perhaps he was marking his path, moving straight completed the ceremony. The tam before him. The good priest gave him bourin and galoubet and palets and called him impulsive—well, perhaps he was "a king his path, moving straight completed the ceremony. The tam before him. The good priest gave him bourin and galoubet and palets and royal welcome. What could be more carlamus all together struck up again, the tale of Antoine's patient endurance of hardships and poverty. And the telling brought quiet gold of swift relief.

"It is for the blessed Christmas, Antower of the poor of the files of candle bearers and so out service," he said cordially, "To-morrow is the Eve of Christmas and we all swift in the last sixty years or so this part of the poor of the files of candle bearers and so out through the deor.

Within the last sixty years or so this province of the poor of the files of the poor of the poor of the files of the poor of the files of the poor of the poor of the files of the poor of the files of the poor of the files of the poor of the poor of the files of the poor of the poor of the files of the poor of the poor of the files of the poor of the poo rejoice!"

The young man gave glad assent.
It was too late to reach Philadelphia; besides, his duty was here. Yet the in 1868, and Rognonas in 1894, and the answered frankly:

'Idid not journey into these snow-lands to find the blessed Christmas! ndeed, no! Far from it! - But, my over Provence ended more than four centuries ago.

"The Lord be merciful to thee, my A CANADIAN RELIGIOUS ORDER.

Final Approbation of the Order of the Sisters of the Precious Blood-Cel-ebration in Toronto.

The unusual sight of a convent illuminated from every window might have been witnessed by the wayfarer whose steps led by the convent of the Precious Blood on St. Joseph street, Toronto, on the evening of December

HERDS.

Among the pretty observances recorded in Mr. Janvier's Century article on Christman characters are the condenses of t THE ADORATION OF THE SHEP. having been founded in 1861 at Si on Christmas observances in Provence but one left, Mother St. Joseph, superior is the adoration of the shepherds, which of the order in Toronto. It seems a is interpolated in the Mass. He says:

By some means only a little short of rule of this community should have re-

Three days of special prayer, of praise and thanksgiving have been devoted in every house of the order to the celebration of this auspicious Hyacinthe, Que., at Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Three Rivers, Brooklyn, N. ner of celebration in Toronto may not The triduum began on Sunday, Mass

Most Blessed Sacrament, Benediction being given at the usual hour in the Tuesday, the Feast of the Immaculate ed baskets; one filled with fruit—melons, pears, apples and grapes—and in Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father the other a pair of doves, which with sharp, quick motions turned their treuil, C. S. B., deacon, and Mr. Sulli-The ster's fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The star of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never cease
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never case
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never case
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never case
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never case
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never case
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with never case
To lead our steps astray:
The ster of fedd with the our steps as the word.
The ster of fedd with was of a trained to lead the word.
This poor fellow, in all his poverty, knew its warmth and light. It was a world-wide work in show the main offering.
The sterior can all and bright, beautiful question and the world our steps with their bright, beautiful question and the world our steps with their bright, beautiful question and the world our steps with their bright, beautiful question and the world our steps with their bright, beautiful question and the world with the post.
The Baltimont of world with their bright control and an applies land of the world wore heads from side to side as they gazed wonderingly on their strange surround-

A Flower of the Manger.

Did you ever hear the story Of the little Morning Glory ow it slways bloomed on Christmas when the world was young and fair, White its chalice was, and slender In whose depths a dewdroptender estied, waiting for the advent of the balmy morning air.

Just one day it bloomed—then faded.
But that happy day it shaded, coping o'er the lowly birthplace where the Babe first laid His Head, Planted there by angel fingers, Watched by lightest wind that lingers st between the earth and Paradise, when summer days are dead.

Happy task and happy flower!
Blooming thereformske a bower or the binshplace of the Saviour—just one little day of earth.
Then to fold its silver challes
Leave a world of sin and malice, return again to Paradise where Beauty gave it birth.

While the christians bells were pealing Whispered to the dropping chalice of the world whispered to the christians of the control of the world had the soft, inside morning Glory and the wheel for one brief instant, that its place might, too, be there.

Just a wish! The answer meets us.

Just a wish! The answer meets us,
Where the Morning Glory greets us, riceated in its splendor, now no longer pure and white.
And the fickle winds, whose story
Lured the little Morning Glory, iss no more its tender blossoms as they open to the light,
—Nellie Moriarty in Catholic Columbian.

was formed to visit the different shrines that had been erected in every part of the convent. Processions seem to be the most natural means of expressing publicly the feelings of the heart. They appeal directly to us, hey affect us, they enlist our sympahies with their object as nothing else can, and a religious procession is wonderfully calculated to inspire devotion. The procession of the day was no exception.

The Sisters filed out of the chapel preceding the procession, their oprano voices chanting as they passed on through the house the Litany of the Blessed Virgin, while the refrain a niche effectively surrounded by ruby-tinted gossamer clouds through which glowed the red lights eloquent of burning love, was passed. Up into the corridor out of which the nuns cells open, a shrine was met from which hung scrolls bearing every invocation of the Litany and gleaming with lights. On the procession moves to the extreme east end of the corridor, where another shrine is erected, up another flight of stairs to the top story where two more brilliantly-lighted shrines are visited at either end of the corridor. The procession new returns downstairs; a visit is made to the Refectory, thence upstairs again to the novitiate. Here the centre of the shrine is a representation of the Blessed Virgin as a child of three, when presented in the Temple by her parents. In the corridor outside stands an effigy of the Holy Father in of the community in commemoration of the event. Then back to the of the event. chapel, where the last prayer is said, the final hymn sung. Not all the shrines erected in the house have been visited by the procession; that would be impossible, for in every single room used by the community shrines have been erected, and before them lights are burning.

But the great day must end even though prolonged for the nonce by the very special permission to the community of remaining up till 10 o'clock Down at the mother house in St. Hyacinthe, in Catholic Quebec, day closes with a great nination of the convent, illumination with wonderful transparancies of the Pope and the founders of the Order. There can be no such display here, but a voice asks why not some echo of such demonstration? The word is given and from roof to basement, from turret to turret, the convent for brief hour is ablaze of lights, and then the celebration is over-History has

$100,000 for Bishop Keane's Sermon. Since Archbishop Keene retired from the rectorship of the Catholic University, Mr. P. B. O'Brien, a prominent Catholic of New Orleans, has died, leaving $150,000 to the university.

EMIG'S TONIC Y., Jan. 1894. as so nervounight; when sterling. ve troubles.

cago, III. ttle. Gfor 85 ingston, Ont. LASS

HES. y. & SON RONTO.

ental Trees ENING. TORONTO.

HILDREN, of "Our Boys" sed to be able to autifully illusev. Francis J. ar story-teller,
"Looking for res are: "The ical legend," "Innocence ross the Sea."
ells Tolled for with a large nes, tricks and niversity nd cial College.) , Principal.

COLLEGE

Oct. 19, 1896. h good opporand pupil, E. MCCORD. 947-3

ERS, addressed full be received for the second of the second of the second for the second of t ther informa-contract may ler may be ob-e said services

Æ, AILOR eet. pwards. The EL SPRY, e Inspector.

Embalm-lay. tory, 543. TED. ACHER FOR ED.

Sons,

ENCED IN d competent, for a Catholic ECORD Office. TED.

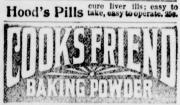

G CORNET; ic. carpenter iculars tapply 's Industrial 939-tf.

of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are mar-They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsapa-rilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made-cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best-in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

ould be used, if it is desired to make the most Class of Gems—Rolls, Biscuit, Pan 193, Johnny Cakes, Pie Crust, Boils ste, etc. Light, week, snow, white and of ed free from alum.

ST. JEHOME'S COLLEGE BERLIN, ONT.

Complete Classical, Philosophical am-Commercial Courses, And Shorthand and Typewriting,

REV. THEO. SPETZ. President

A SSUMPTION COLLEGE, SANDWICE Ont.—The studies embrace the Classica and Commercial courses. Terms, including all ordinary expenses, $150 per annum. For full particulars apply to Ray. D. Cushing U. S. E.

THE PINES URSULINE ACADEMY

CHATHAM, ONT.

e Educational Course comprises every ich suitable for young ladies, perior advantages afforded for the culti-tion of MUSIC, PAINTING, DRAW, and the CERAMIC ARTS, SPECIAL COURSE for pupils preparing for Teachers Certificates Matriculation, Commercial Diplomas, Sten-Matriculation, Commercial Diplomas, Sten ography and Type-writing, For particular address, THE LADY SUPERIOR.

BUSINESS EDUCATION. BELLEVILLE Ensiness College is the most popular Business College in the Dominion,

lege in the Dominion,

(a) The College buildings and grounds are owned by the Principal; consequently it is the most substantial and permanent College in Canada.

(b) The large staff of instructors are experts in their respective departments.

(c) The equipment and iacilities are much superior to that of other colleges.

For circular and further information address: Belleville Business College, 941-12

Belleville, Ont.

NORTHERN/ M

LEGAL.

LOVE & DIGNAN, BARRISTERS, ETC., 418 Talbot street, London. Private funds

THOMAS J. ANDERSON, BARRISTER, Solicitor, etc. Office: Edge Block, South east corner Dundas and Richmond streets.

Mustard - THAT'S - Mustard

MADE ABSOLUTELY PURE FROM RICH FLAVOURED ENGLISH SEED SOLD IN 5c. and 10c. TINS. Ask for Dunn's Pure Mustard THE SAUGEEN MAGNETIC MIN-ERAL WATER

RLOWS FROM AN ARTESIAN WELL fitteen, funded feat deep, and is bottled as it flows from the spring. It is a sure cure for dyspapsia, rheumatism, or any kind of nervous trouble. As a table water it has no equal in Canada. Sold by all the principal hotel and liquor dealers in Ontario, or at the Springs, by Carey & Oreighton, Southampton, Ont.

PLUMBING WORK in operation, can be seen at our wareroom Opp. Masonic Temple.

SMITH BROS.

Eanitary Plumbers and Heating Engineers London, Ont. Telephone 533, Sole Agents for Peerless Water Heaters,

Pictorial Lives of the Saints

The Catholic Record or One Year For $3.00.

the Piotorial Lives of the Saints contains flections for Every Day in the Year. The flections for Every Day in the Year. The bit is compiled from "Butler's Lives" and ter approved sources, to which are added res of the American Saints, recently lead on the Calendar for the United States special petition of the Third Pienary and of Saints Canonized in 1881 by His Holluess pe Leo XIII. Edited by John Glimary pa, LLD. With a beautiful frontispiece the Holy Family and nearly four hundred the Holy Family and nearly four hundred the Holy Family and heaving bound in ra cloth. Greatly admired by our Holy ther, Pope Leo XIII., who sent his special saing to the publishers; and approved by ty Archbishops and Bishops. The above work will be sent to any of our serbers, and will also give them credit a years subscription on The Catholic Cord, on receipt of Three Dollars. We lin all cases prepay carriage.

FAIR CANADA," 25c -3" A FAREWELL listener, languidly. "Then I only

A WOMAN OF FORTUNE

BY CHRISTIAN REID. thor of "Armine," "Philip's Rest tion," "The Chird of Mary," "Heart of Steel," "The Land or the Sun," etc., etc., etc.

CHAPTER III. .

AN OCEAN ACQUAINTANCE. "Now," said Cecil, "is not this delightful? And do you not feel better already?"

She spoke to a lady who leaned on her arm as they stepped together on the deck of the great ocean steamer, which, with wings spread to the favor ing breezs, was cleaving her way through the outspread liquid plain to-ward the Old World. The long decks were filled with people, for the smooth sea and bright sunshine had brough out ali but the most incorrigible in seasickness. Apparently, however, Miss Lorimer's companion was of the latter order; for as they emerged, she put up her hand to shut out the sight of the dancing, glittering waves, which Cecil found so exhilarating.

"Oh," she said, "I really cannot stand it! You must let me go down again.

No, no," said Cecil, inflexibly "Now that you are here, you must stay. I will make you very comfort able, and you need not look at the waves if you don't like. But where is Mr. Marriott? He ought to be here to arrange your chair.

She looked around, but the person whom she sought was not in sightneither among the energetic prome naders of the deck, nor the loiterers at the taffrail. As she hesitated an in stant, a gentleman standing near stepped forward.

Can I be of any assistance?" he asked, courteously.

'Thanks, yes—if you will be so kind," Cecil replied.

"Please look among those deck chairs "-pointing to a row folded up, standing on end-" for one that has 'Marriott' or 'Lorimer' written on the back, and place it for this young lady

"My dear Cecil, I can never stay !

remonstrated the latter.
"Oh, yes, you can!" Cecil answered, with a cheerful positiveness. That is one of our chairs," she added as the gentleman who had volunteered his services drew one from the ranks. "Now if you will kindly open it?"

He not only opened, but found a secure, sheltered position for it; and when a maid came up with her arms full of rugs and wraps, he assisted very deftly in arranging them for the pale girl, who, finding remonstrance useless, resigned herself, and sank into the seat provided for her.

"Now I am sure that in a little while you will feel better," said Cecil, covering her up. "If you do not, of course we must submit to let you be miserable in your own way; but ever for misery I think this is better than that close state room. Then, having folded the soft wraps all around the passive figure, she turned to the gentleman who had come to their assistance.

We are very much obliged," she said, graciously. "You have been very kind."

"I am happy to have been of use," he answered, lifting his hat.
As he walked away, he smiled a little -a smile that was for Miss Lorimer's princess-like tone. It was neither naughty nor patronizing, but simply that of one who condescended a little in addressing her fellow-creatures - a tone that might have been offensive had it not been so evidently unconscious. But, recognizing this unconsciousness, the man whom she had thought that manner suited her appearance—the appearance which he had admired during the two or three days they had been on shipboard together. He was alone, and not very sociably inclined, so he had the more leisure to observe the beautiful, stately girl, who had indeed been followed by many eyes beside his own, as she walked up and down the deck during the first day or two out, when she was almost the only lady visible. He was himself a man at whom mos women would have glanced twice, and to whom they might have been gracious in a different fashion from Cecil's Tall and slender, with a firmly kni and admirably - proportioned figure, there was a look of distinction about him which was quite unmistakable. The stamp of race was set upon him from the top of his well-carried head to the ends of his slender yet muscularlooking hands. Under favorable cir cumstances he would have been a hand some man, but just now he looked worm and ill; his refined features were sharply outlined, the pallor of his skin was perceptible even through the bronze which the sun had laid upon it, and there was a shadow of sadness or care in his dark, sombre eyes. He found his own chair, and established himself with a book in a quiet orner; but it was impossible not to glance now and then toward the in valid whom he had aided in establish ng, and the graceful, elastic figure that hovered around her-now sitting down for a few minutes, then taking turn or two on the deck ; but whether sitting, standing, or walking, ever full of life, movement, ease and grace. In truth, as Cecil was at that time re-marking, the air of the ocean had upon her a stimulating effect.

"It is so strange to see you lying there pale and indifferent," she said to her friend. "This air acts upon me like a divine nectar and tonic. I do not feel as if pain could exist in the world."

to Ireland, doc; two new and pretty songs.

Send for same to WHALEY, ROYCE & CO., wish I could give you my sensations for a time."

"Poor Grace! I wish I could take them," was the quick answer. "If I only could, you would be on your feet in five minutes, enjoying all this glorious day and scene."

"And you would be lying here? I cannot fancy that. I am sure your will would be strong enough to overcome even a rebellious stomach."

Cecil laughed. "You are getting better," she said. "Until I brought you up on deck you had not energy enough to be sarcastic. But indeed I always felt great sympathy with the character in one of the eerie stories of Poe, with which I used to curdle my blood when I was a child, who declared that 'man does not yield himself to death save through the weakness of his own feeble will."

"Then I shall expect you to be a female Wandering Jew,'

"Am I so very strong in will? Every one accuses me of it; but it is not an amiable or a desirable characteristic."

It is not unamiable-in you, said Grace Marriott. "Most wilful people are very selfish, but I do not think you would insist upon having your own way if it would injure any

"I hope not," said Cecil, seriously. "But one cannot be sure. One is always liable to be betrayed by the defects of one's qualities. I suppose I ought to cultivate humility and deference to the opinions of others, but nature is very strong in me."

"Nature is strong in most of us," said Grace; "but perhaps"—with a glance at the spirited profile beside her —" stronger in you than in most people. If it is true that we can gain happiness and peace only by subdu-ing nature, I am sorry for the struggle that is before you.

Cecil glanced at her with a slightly startled look. "The struggle!" she repeated. "Is there a struggle before me? I am not sure that I care to subdue my natural impulses. So long as they do no harm to others, why should I?"

"The answer to that would lead us very far," said her companion, "and I am hardly in condition either to argue or expound. You remind me of an untried soldier, my dear Cecil-all bravery, ardor, and self-confidence. I am afraid the last, at least, must be a little shaken. But here comes John -in time to put a stop to my prophe-

There was a great contrast between the pale, delicate speaker and the stout, good-looking man on the sunny side of middle age, with his general air of prosperity and satisfaction with who now came up. But they life, were brother and sister, nevertheless, though with a wide gulf of years be ween them-one being the e'dest and the other the youngest of a large family -and a wider gulf of different tastes and sympathies. Sensitive, in-tellectual, artistic to her fingertips, Grace Marriott was now on her way to Europe to complete her studies in art, while her brother was crossing over to visit his familyhis wife finding it more entertaining to live abroad than in America, and having an excellent excuse in the edu cation of the children; while Mr. Marriott was himself one of the obliging husbands who spend their days in the accumulation of means to support an establishment in Paris or Dresden, where they are received as guests once or twice a year.

"So, Grace, you are out at last, are you?" he said as he came up. "I hope you are feeling better? I knew you would once you were on deck. You ought to have let me bring you up yesterday.'

"Yesterday was too rough," said Cecil. "She would not have enjoyed it. But I am sure she is better for being out to-day.

You brought her up, did you?' said Mr. Marriott, regarding the speaker with an admiring smile. "I would have been on hand if I had known; but I fancy you were the best person, after all. You were made to everything before you, Miss

"So Grace has just been telling me," said Cecil. "But I looked for you when we came on deck. I wanted you to arrange the chair and settle her comfortably. I could not leave her to do it, and Maria has not got her sea egs at all."

"I should think not," said Mr. Marriott, with a laugh—for Maria (Miss Lorimer's maid) had been so far conspicuously helpiess. "I went to the smoking room, and I stayed a little longer than I intended," he added: but of course you had no difficulty in finding somebody to arrange things for you.

"Oh, not the least!" said Cecil care lessly. "There is always a man to do such things; but one prefers not to ccept services from strangers.

"That depends on the stranger," pserved Grace. "This one was very kind, and evidently a gentleman."

-"Without doubt," said Cecil; "but one prefers an acquaintance. Now, dr. Marriott, what do you think of a urn up and down the deck?"

Mr. Mariott replied that he would be delighted, having the usual restlessness of masculine humanity on board ship, and being not at all averse to the pleasure of such a companion. after enquiring if there was anything Grace wanted, or was likely to want, and having received an assurance in the negative, Miss Lorimer walked away with him.

They had not been gone very long before a pair of observant eyes per-ceived that Grace's position had become less pleasant. Her chair had at first been placed in shadow, but the sun in travelling towards the meridian had found her out, and shone down ness. She looked around when she became conscious of this, but neither her brother nor Cecil was in sight.

Then she pulled a veil over her face, but the glare was still disagreeable To rise, however, was impossible: she could not have trusted herself on her feet for an instant without support, apart from the fact that she wrapped like a mummy in folds from which she could not have disembarrassed herself without assistance. She antly modulated voice saying over her head : "Pardon me, but I think you are uncomfortable. Shall I not move your chair?" She looked up to see the same dark, clear but face that bent over her be fore. Its kindness and courtesy were alike unmistakable.

closed her eyes, therefore, and resigned herself to the position-but only to be startled the next moment by a pleas-

"You are very good," she said. "I do find the glare disagreeable; but it is so troublesome to rise, and my friends will be here in a short time "There is no reason why you should rise," said the gentleman.

draw your chair into the shade without

He laid his hand on the back as he spoke, and drew it, evidently with ease, a few feet towards the shaded part of the deck.

"I hope that did not discompose you," he said as he paused.

"Not at all," answered Miss Marriott, smiling. "This is vast, ant. Thank you very much. "This is vastly more pleaskind of you to have observed that the

"Oh, I felt myself responsible for your position since I had arranged it. Then, after a brief pause, and encouraged by her pleasant manner, "I hope you are feeling better?"

"Yes," she replied. "I must ac knowledge that being on deck has helped me. I fought against coming, but my friend brought me up whether would or no."

The stranger smiled a little, as h had smiled at Cecil's tone in thanking him. He was not surprised by this report of her arbitrary proceedings, but he made no comment-only remarked that it was always best in case of sea sickness to remain on deck as much as possible. "Especially when the weather is fine," he added; "for in what sailors call 'dirty weather, ladies at least, must stay below.

"I hope we shall have no such weather," said Miss Marriott, anxious-'' Oh, the Atlantic is certain to give us at least one rough tossing before it lets us go,"he answered. "At this lets us go," he answered. season we are certain of nothing but uncertain weather, you know." "And icebergs. All our friends had omething cheering to say about them before we started." "It is too early for any serious danger from ice, I think. The bergs have hardly set out on their travels from the Arctic regions yet." "Apart from the danger, I should like to see some of them," said Grace, with the artist shining in her eyes "They are really not much worth seeing," answered her companion, 'except in extraordinary cases. I you ask our captain, I am sure he will tell you that there is nothing he would not rather see.

"Oh, of course!" she replied, with a laugh. By such easy and commonplace steps these two were advancing toward acquaintance, when Cecil and Mr. Marriott returned. They were astonished to find that Grace's chair had shifted until they young man who stood talking to her. As they approached, Grace said

"Are you surprised to see that mummy can move? But the sun in vaded my corner, and this gentleman came to my assistance a second time, and drew me into the shade.

"Very kind of you," said Mr. Mar riott, turning to the stranger, who or his part bowed and walked away. He did not wish these people to fancy that he desired to make their acquaintance. But Mr. Marriott followed him. "My sister has been twice indebted to you,'
he said. Then he opened a passengerlist in his hands. "When people are shut up on shipboard together they should be sociable," he added. "This is as good an exchange of cards. Here is my name; will you point out yours ?' Is was impossible to resist this frank friendliness, and indeed the other had no wish to do so. He indicated his name, and Mr. Marriott read it aloud.

"Tyrconne!. Ah, yes! A fine name-historical association and all that. Proves Irish descent.

Naturally," was the reply. "I am an Irishman."

"Ah, yes!" said Mr. Marriott again. "Curious this thing of national types," he went on the next mo-ment. "I see now that you could not be anything else.' When he rejoined his sister and Ce cil, he explained his meaning more fully. "Any one who is at all cosmofully.

politan in his knowledge, can generally tell nationality at a glance," he "I have observed that man several times-there's a remarkable distinction about him-and I could not quite decide what he was. He has a monte, lived a little boy with his foreign look, but I saw that he did not grandmother. He was a good little belong to the Continent, and he has too much grace and fire about him for selfish-poor little Todo. Many and an Englishman. But the matter is many a time he gave up his play-time plain now—he is an Irishman, and to run messages for his grandmother, every one knows that there is no finer to go out into the woods and pick up type of gentleman in Europe than the sticks for the fire, or to fetch water, or Irish gentleman."

Mr. Marriott cultivated his new ac-

upon her with uncomfortable bright- further information respecting him to sweetness and modesty of demeanor

"I advise you to talk to that man," he said. "I think he would interest you. He is very cultivated, and has seen a great deal of the world; he is on his way from Australia to Ireland

"Then our voyage is only the end of a long journey for him," observed Cecil. "But one cannot talk to a man who does not give one the opportunity

"I'll provide the opportunity," said Mr. Marriott.

Not many minutes later he per-ceived the man of whom they spoke standing by the taffrail, looking westward, where the sun was going down in the tossing waves with a good deal of sunset pomp, and the long track of foam which the vessel left behind her was gilded with its parting rays. He started a little when Mr. Marriott, with Cecil on his arm, suddenly drew up near him.

" Promise of many more charming days in that," said the former, with an easy nod toward the sunset.

"I am not sure of it," answered the other, lifting his hat to the young lady. "It is not exactly a sky that sailors like, and I observe that the breeze is freshening in the northeast. I fear we shall have bad weather soon. "You seem to be something of a sailor yourself," said Cecil, looking at him. "Oh, no," he replied. "I have only the familiarity with the sea of one who has been on it a good deal."

"I have never been on it for a long voyage before," she said ; " and I do not feel now as if I could ever again be content to be away from it. In fact, I want to take the longest voyage practicable-to go around the world.

"Very easily done in these days, said Mr. Marriott. "But hardly worth doing unless with sufficient time," remarked their new acquaintance. "One should take two or three years for such a journey as that.' "Two or three years!" repeated Mr. Marriott. "Well, if you wanted to take out naturalization papers in every country on your route, perhaps so. But I could do the thing—"

so. But I could do the thing—
"In eighty days?" asked Cecil, smiling. " I should not care to attempt that, but in ten months with ease."

"I suppose it would be very easy to put a girdle around the earth in ten comfort her, and the old woman loved months," she said. "But, you see the sweet little grandson better than my delight would be in the voyage, not in the end of it : so I would like to prolong it as much as possible. wish there was some way to prolong this voyage! Why are people so anxious to reach the shore, where all their cares lie in wait for them? I should think that every one would be glad of the respite of being at sea, and would like to prolong such a period of rest.

"You forget that some of us have people on the shore whom we are very anxious to see," said Mr. Marriott and the rest are in a fever to take up again those cares of which you talk, as if you could know anything about them !"

Cecil lifted her head with the haughtiness which was always a natural impulse with her. What did this man know of her, that he should venture to take such an easy and familiar tone?

"If I knew nothing of human cares I should be a very extraordinary per son," she said, coldly. "But come the sailors to shift the sails. " But here is all a mystery to me, but I like to

While she watched it, the man leaning against the side of the ship watched her-the changing expressions of the beautiful, noble faceand wondered a little what the care could be which she was anxious to prolong her voyage to escape.

TO BE CONTINUED

LEGENDS AND STORIES OF THE HOLY CHILD JESUS.

Il Santo Bambino Dell' Ara Cœll,

Suffer the little children to come unto Me, nd forbid them not, for of such is the king-om of heaven. (Mark x, 14.)

In the Church of Santa Maria Mag iore in Rome is a figure of our blessed Redeemer as a little belpless Child. which is held in great veneration by all devout Christians. For numerou favors have been obtained through in voking our blessed Lord in this holy spot, especially among the sick and inirm, and among the dear children of Him who had not whereon to lay His head—the poor.

Every year at Christmas tide Il Santo Bambino dell' Ara Cœli is honored by processions, devotions, and votive offerings; and inasmuch as He called the little children unto Him and blessed them in honor of His childhood, ittle children sing to Him and speak His praises at this festive season before anto Bambino.

For miles around the Eternal City, he people in the villages love and nonor this devotion, and at Christmas tide flock to Rome to obtain grace and blessing from their Infant Redeemer.

In a little village several miles from Rome, called Sant' Antonio dell' Allierboy, gentle and pious, and most unmany a time he gave up his play-time to run messages for the richer neighbors to gain a few soldi for his Nonna. quaintance after this, and when Cecil He never went to school without havcame on deck in the afternoon, for a | ing heard Mass and paid a visit to the promenade before, dinner, he had chapel of the Blessed Virgin, and his won the love of all hearts for il piccolo Todo.

One winter, however, when he was nine years old, Todo fell very ill, and his grandmother was obliged to put him to bed and call in the doctor child was shivering, and yet burning hot. He could hardly breathe, and a racking cough gave him no rest. The doctor gave him some medicine and the grandmother did all she could to keep him quiet and help him to get well; but on Christmas Eve, Todo lying still as a mouse, the grandmother and the doctor thought he was asleep, and Todo heard the doctor tell the poor old woman that he would not be to save her darling; that he could not last many days longer. The old woman cried and begged the holy Child Jesus to spare her little grandson, but as the hours went by there was no change for the better, and she could not believe there was the least hope of Todo's recovery.

Now Todo lay in bed thinking, and he was very sad. He loved his grandmother very dearly. He had meant to work very hard for her when he grew up, and had decided that when he grew rich she should have a pretty house, nice clothes, and rest all the time and amuse herself while he worked for her.

"Nonna," he called gently to her as she came near the bedside, "why are you crying? Is it true I am so ill?" "Ah, Gesu! Maria!" she cried, the tears running down her cheeks.

"The doctor says you are indeed ill, most ill, my Todo. " Nonna," he said, after a long fit of coughing, "will not the good Gesu hear our prayers, and let me get well? Did you not tell me about the Santo Bambino dell' Ara Cœli? Tell me it again, Nonna mia."

"Ah, Il Santo Bambino," cried the grandmother. "Ah, truly, if we could go to Rome. And now since the wicked woman to whom it was carried when she was ill stole it, Il Santo Bambino is no more carried to the sick at their own homes."

"Perhaps if we prayed He would come to us," said little Todo, his eyes full of tears. "Dear Nonna, He loves us, so we will pray with all our hearts, and who knows?'

The old woman cried bitterly. Little Todo was her all. She had had one daughter only, who, dying, had left her the little dark eyed baby to the sweet little grandson better than aught else in the world. Now she was going to lose him; and the thought of her lonely life pierced her heart like a sharp sword. Her little Todo, with his winning ways, his loving thoughtfulness, was he going to leave her? Must she see him carried out to the cemetery and laid in the ground, and then return to the empty cottage, and drag out the remainder of her life in solitude? But it was Christmas Eve, and she must now go to confession to prepare for the great feast day, and drying her eyes she put little Todo comfortable, and promising to hurry back from church, she went out into the cold night air.

As soon as she was gone, Todo sat up in bed, breathed a prayer from the depth of his heart, and at last slipped out of bed. Then with a great deal of coughing and gasping for breath, he ssed himself, put his little bed tidy, making a heap in the middle to pre tend that he was lying in bed covered with his clothes, and wrapping a sheepskin cloak around him, he opened the door of the little cottage and looked

It had been snowing, and the ground was white and dazzling in the bright moonlight; many golden stars were twinkling in the deep blue sky. They smiled upon him as the angels of God, poor Todo thought. The cold night air brought on a terrible fit of coughing which nearly cost him his life, and for a moment he stood deliberating on the doorstep, thinking he could not carry out his heroic plan.

But down in the village he saw the lights of the church shining through the colored windows, and he remembered the picture on the window over the altar of Jesus blessing little children. The thought of his grand mother armed him with supernatural ourage, and he stepped out into the cold night to trudge to Rome to visit the Bambino dell' Ara Cœli.

The snow was not very deep; it was erisp and hard, but very slippery; in some places it was smooth as glass, for it was a very hard frost. Todo knew the way perfectly well, for in the summer he came very often to sell flowers or fruit from his grandmother's garden in the city, and his gentle manners and pretty face with its large wistful eyes brought him many customers.

But it was very different trudging long the hard, slippery snow, the along the hard, slippery snow, the north wind blowing against him and making him cough at almost every step, to running along in the bright ummer mornings, now and then riding in the cart of one of the market gardeners, now walking in company with other boys when the air was and fragrant, and the sun was just be ginning to dry the dew on the grass by the wayside.

"O Gesu," cried little Todo, "Thou wast a poor child also. Dear Gesu, bring me safe home to the Nonna, my own Gesu, I beg of Thee." Todo had to sit down many times by the wayside, until a fit of coughing had left him. But after two or three hours' walking he found that strength was beginning to fail him, and when at last he came in sight of the great city, and the twinkling lights seemed to mock at him for his weakness, he sank down on the ground and in an agony of grief and pain

"Ah, Gesu! must I die and leave the Nonna all alone? Maria! by the love loved each other, help He crawled on his for a little while, and ward on his face, utt go on. His breath se his eyes closed, a chi over him. He had a ing that this was deal "Thy will be done, "Lord Gesu, recei Gentle arms raised sweet fragrance revi He was able to look at his deliverer.

"Ah, dear Gesu," h hast heard my praye thank thee with all m For he was in the ful angel with robes ness, on whose coun smile of celestial swe passion which comfor Swiftly and noise passed on through great city. The be for midnight Mas through the windows the faithful were hur with joy and thanks, the Saviour of the v passed on with hi Church of Santa Mar entering, he laid th in the place of hearight before the Divi With the deepes Todo thanked the de

Oh, marvel of strength was infuse aching little body Todo stood up - y strong; he could n cracklings in his breathed, his poor, to ache, the fever no heard his prayer, an made quite well for his veins. Then as he knelt his ardent prayer of our compassionate took his hand, led whom the little boy deliverance, while t by as, a witness of th And the priest bade holy table, at the Mass, and as he kn altar and the pries the most holy Comm the little boy as if h rounded by throngs his heart almost br and love.

And when he had into his soul he was vine love, and he k to heart with Jesus i and joy. But as the day b the voice of the joy heaven, calling an brate the birth of thought him of his he left the church a homeward. He heart so light and reached home as his out of the six o'cl not missed him; s a heap in the cent she had fancied t and the doctor ha long, refreshing sl ful for the sick b him come dancing street, she cried ou the ground. "Ah, Todo," sh want to kill thyse thou dance, thou ter even?'

"Nonna mia," singing for very cured-I am cured The neighbors Todo told them of had borne him in and laid him at t

Bambino in Santa mother-she was

is the little childre

"Ah, Gesu!"

that Thou dost lov Amid cries and tions Todo was bo to tell the Fra A minican monk, v boys of the village "And," said T estness, clasping cifix in his hand.

First Communion

yes, I promised

when I grow up trust in Him, the Todo kept his Christmas Day he was not working in study or pr generosity, he that pleased him neighbor. priest, and obta superiors to begi at his heart since day. He took a established a ret most ignorant bo they spent three their First Comm same time some he was obliged make room for sought among t to apprentice the never lost sight once been under father and the little boys who word of kindnes the cares and ha was overburden old age and wa saint by all w and many a hol

tion to the influ Poveri, *as he piccolo ill, and

urning

and a ne and ould to to get mother asleep, uld not he old he holy grand

and she g, and eant to e grew hen he pretty all the ile he her as

so ill?" ed, the leed ill,

g fit of

et well? e Santo me it

ried the nce the sick at would his eyes hearts,

itterly had had g, had baby to n loved er than ught of o, with ve her?

ge, and life in

as Eve,

ssion to

ly, and le Todo hurry

out into eath, he ed tidy, covered bright

rs were

of God,

i night

ife, and ting on uld not saw the hrough

remem-ow over tle chil-

grand-natural into the

to visit

; it was

ry; in lass, for lo knew he sum-flowers

garden

nanners

wistful

udging

nim and t every bright hen rid-market ompany

just be-ne grass

"Thou

r Gesu, nna, my imes by

oughing or three hat his til him,

sight of

Thev

t to the

the Nonna all alone? Ah, Gesu! ah,

Maria! by the love with which you loved each other, help poor Todo."

He crawled on his hands and knees for a little while, and at last fell forward on his face, utterly powerless to go on. His breath seemed to fail him, his eyes closed, a chill faintness came ing that this was death.

"Thy will be done," he tried to say.
"Lord Gesu, receive my spirit."
Gentle arms raised him tenderly, a He was able to open his eyes and look at his deliverer.
"Ah, dear Gesu," he sighed, "Thou hast heard my prayer. Dear angel, I thank thee with all my heart." For he was in the arms of a beautiful angel with robes of dazzling white-smile of celestial sweetness and compassion which comforted the sick boy. Swiftly and noiselessly the angel last time. passed on through the streets of the through the windows of every church, the faithful were hurrying to celebrate with joy and thanksgiving the birth of the Saviour of the world. The angel passed on with his burden to night."

the sake of those who could ill spare which we passed—but oh! the fertility of the land, the beautiful fields of wits did not desert him. Looking grain waving on all sides—the warm sadly into the pricet's face, he said to night."

which we passed—but oh! the fertility of the land, the beautiful fields of wits did not desert him. Looking grain waving on all sides—the warm coloring of the red red ground, and the vellow corp, and then the belief. great city. The bells were ringing for midnight Mass, lights shone passed on with his burden to the Church of Santa Maria Maggiore, and,

heard his prayer, and he begged to be made quite well for his grandmother's

Oh, marvel of marvels! A new strength was infused into the weak, aching little body and feeble limbs. Todo stood up — yes, he was quite strong; he could no longer hear the cracklings in his chest when he breathed, his poor, tired head ceased to ache, the fever no longer burned in

Then as he knelt and poured forth his ardent prayer of thanksgiving to our compassionate Lord, the angel took his hand, led him to a priest, to whom the little boy told the wonderful deliverance, while the holy angel stood by as a witness of the truth of his tale. And the priest bade him draw near the holy table, at the solemn midnight Mass, and as he knelt before the high altar and the priest approached with the most holy Communion, it seemed to the little boy as if he saw his Lord sur rounded by throngs of holy angels, and his heart almost broke with gratitude

And when he had received his Lord into his soul he was wrapped with di-vine love, and he knelt for hours heart to heart with Jesus in an ecstasy of love homeward. He was so strong, his held. heart so light and buoyant, that he reached home as his grandmother came out of the six o'clock Mass. She had not missed him; seeing the clothes in a heap in the centre of the little bed, she had fancied that he was asleep, and the doctor had told her that a long, refreshing sleep was most need-ful for the sick boy. When she saw him come dancing along the village street, she cried out, and almost fell to the ground.

"Ah, Todo," she cried, "dost thou want to kill thyself? and how canst thou dance, thou who wast dying yester even? "Nonna mia," he cried, his voice singing for very joy, "I have been to the Santo Bambino, and see I am cured—I am cured, Nonna carissima."

The neighbors flocked around, and Todo told them of the holy angel who had borne him in his arms to the city and laid him at the feet of the Santo Bambino in Santa Marla Maggiore.

"Ah, Gesu!" sobbed the grandmother—she was weeping for joy—"it is the little children who trust in Thee that Thou dost love so dearly.

Amid cries and tears and exclamations Todo was borne off to the church to tell the Fra Antonio, the kind Do minican monk, who taught the little boys of the village to read and write.

"And," said Todo, with deep earnestness, clasping his little wooden crucifix in his hand, "I have made my First Communion, and I promised— yes, I promised our dear Lord—that when I grow up I shall be a priest and teach other little boys to love Him and trust in Him, the dear Gesu."

Todo kept his promise. From that Christmas Day he spent all the time he was not working for his grandmother in study or prayer. With a noble neighbor. He was duly ordained priest, and obtained leave from his at his heart since his First Communion He took a house in the city and established a retreat for the poorest, most ignorant boys of the city. they spent three months preparing for their First Communion, learning at the same time some useful trade. When make room for more little waifs, he sought among the pious tradespeople never lost sight of any boy who had little boys who had never known a word of kindness before. In spite of old age and was revered almost as a saint by all who knew him. Many himself, where he passed Lent leading and many a holy priest owed his voca- a life of great austerity. Poveri, *as he was called. Many and dians gradually migrated westward, Scotch; and these nationalities were of the humble log hut, the family were mas eyes closses, a clim faintness tailed over him. He had a dim sense of feeling that this was death.

"Thy will be done," he tried to say.

"Lord Gesu, receive my spirit."

Gentle arms raised him tenderly, a sweet fragrance revived the fainting Christmas Eve he was on earth he was clearly and pressure the result of the sense of feeling that this was death.

"Wiscouche, the first settled of these, who were able came from their homes is an extremely neat and pretty village, with a church and presbytery which reflect credit upon the taste and management of the young parish priest, the Rev. John A. Macdon-priest in P. E. Island he worked hard by the result of the salvation of Frank Snake, of whose knavish ways and quick with a church and presbytery which reflect credit upon the taste and management of the young parish priest, the Rev. John A. Macdon-priest in P. E. Island he worked hard by the salvation of Frank Snake, of whose knavish ways and quick with a church and presbytery which reflect credit upon the taste and management of the young parish priest, the Rev. John A. Macdon-priest in P. E. Island he worked hard by the salvation of Frank Snake. Christmas Eve he was on earth he was very weak, but he gathered his boys together and spoke to them with burning words of the love of Jesus. At last he fell back in the pulpit quite exhausted, and the young priest who assisted him begged him to take a little rest and not to tire himself by singing Market and rest midnight.

As we drove through Miscouche on the control of the con ness, on whose countenance played a

He came down to the little chapel at midnight, sang the Mass, gave Com-munion to his dearly loved children, entering, he laid the sick child there in the place of heavenly benediction, and then knelt in the choir to make right before the Divine Child.

With the deepest gratitude little Todo thanked the dear Lord, who had spent all the night in prayer very frequently, took no heed until 6 o'cleck, when the Father was used to say morning prayers with his boys. But when they went to call him, they found it was even as he had said. His dearly loved Lord had called His faithful servant to receive his everlasting re ward.

AT A COUNTRY TEA PARTY IN

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

For the CATHOLIC RECORD. A broad winding ribbon of dull In dian red, edged on each side with soft green sward, such is the appearance of the road leading westward from the little town of Summerside, and which, taking a few miles further up coun-try, the name of the Great West ern Road, leads to the North Cape, the extreme western limit of Prince Ed-

During a boliday visit to the little sea-girt Province last August, it was suggested that we should "take in" one of the country "Tea Parties," which have become quite an estab-lished institution in the Maritime Pro vinces. And it was on a very lovely summer morning, in the most comfort-But as the day began to break, and the voice of the joyous bells rose up to heaven, calling an all the city to celebrate the birth of Jesus, Todo between the country thing of his grandmather, and the country to the c brate the birth of Jesus, Todo be-thought him of his grandmother, and Carmel in the settlement of "Fifteen he left the church and wended his way | Point," where a Tea Party was being

The read along the shore of Bedeque Bay, famed for its oysters at one time, as is Malpeque Bay, which, although on the north side of the Island, is but four miles distant, this being the narrowest part of the Province. The oysters, alas! have, through carelessness and waste on the part of the fishers, be-come scarce, and are now both rare and expensive.

After skirting the dancing waters of Bedeque Bay for a short distance, the road turns north passing through the almost deserted village of St.

model Acadian village of Miscouche.

All this part of the country of Prince Edward Island is of interest to the student of the early history of the Catholic Church in the Maritime Provinces for it was in olden days, the cradle of the Faith in Prince county. Sturdy Acadian farmers here abode in log huts, protected and encouraged in their faith by the Lord of the Manor, one Colonel Compton, who resided in St. Eleanors, and who, though, not himself a Catholic, was the head of a Catholic household, and whose frequent and honored guest was the celebrated Abbe de Calonne, brother to the Finance Minister of France, whose career reads like a long romance, and who lies now at rest under a sanctuary in dancers. the old French Canadian city of Three Rivers, where he breathed out his holy soul in 1823. The Abbe de Calonne came out to Prince Edward Island towards the close of the last century to see about some property there of which his brother was the proprietor. This pro-perty, now known as "the Warren Farm" lies across the river from Charlottetown-but the devoted Abbe de Calonne, when he saw the spiritual generosity, he gave up everything needs of the colony to which he had that pleased him to serve God and his necessary faculties from the Bishop of priest, and obtained leave from his superiors to begin work that had lain Charlottetown, to look after his property, started on a missionary tour throughout the whole Island. He had come from England in the same ship with Colonel Compton, and so well im proved his time that the son and daughter of the gallant Colonel embraced the Catholic religion. Colonel he was obliged to send them away to Compton himself, though admitting himself "almost persuaded," refrained from taking the final step on account of the to apprentice them or place them He political extinction which his so doing would entail upon him, and remained once been under his care ; he was the an adherent of "Church and State, father and the friend to thousands of the while extending a liberal and gen erous protection to Catholics. The Abbe de Calonne was frequently the cares and hard work with which he a guest at the Manor of the Comptons was overburdened, he lived to a good and then, tradition says, that he had a little log but built on the estate for these were all very fair to see.

From the Compton estate the Aca-

We had a good many stoppages on our way, for the Mayor is fond of mushrooms, and those fungi abound in this locality, so that every few moments a tempting patch of them would be espied, and a rapid descent and gathering would follow.

The tea, that had in the local-papers been advertized to be "On the Tables at 10 o'clock," must have been several times replenished when we finally drew rein at Fifteen Point, and the tea grounds presented an animated scene. The entire parish was present, together with the greater number of Miscouche people, and a fair sprinkling from other parishes in the vicinity.

These Tea Parties began their existence as gatherings held with the view of raising money for parochial wants. As such they were patronized by so large portion of the country population that politicians conceived the idea of utilizing them in carrying on their campaign. So, of course, the rival can didates for the coming Dominion election were at Fifteen Point, and s were the various senators and chief dignitaries of the county, and, of course, a goodly contingent of the diocesan clergy.

The picturesque national dress of the Acadian women was well represented on the grounds. In former times all the "Acadiennes" wore this dress Now it is only seen on the old women - and very quaint and pretty it is. Many of these old ladies were smoking, to the great amazement of my little daughter, who struck up an acquaintance with one of

The old woman, delighted to meet with a stranger who spoke her own tongue, grew confidential, and told us

The tea party was held in a large field upon a cliff of red sand stone overlooking the Straits of Northumberland. There was, near the edge of the cliff, a goodly tent in which were tables provided with well-cooked viands calculated to tempt the hungry.

Table number one was the dinner table: it was generously garnished Eleanors, and then west through the others were "twenty five cent tables," cakes and candies.

On the grounds were many boothsone, a dancing booth, wherein the country lads and lasses faced each country reel with the saddest cast of the county. Another booth was for the sale of ginger beer, fruit syrups, soda water and the like. Here it was that the rival candidates were oftenest to be seen, thoughtfully ministering to the thirst of bevies of exhausted

These poor candidates were themselves somewhat in danger of starva tion, as neither could make up his mind to leave the field clear to his rival while he went to refresh the inner man. They would have gone dinnerless had it not occurred to the fertile mind of one of them to invite his rival to dine with him, which was a happy and peaceable adjustment of the difficulty.

The "Merry-go-round" attracted many. So favorite a diversion is this in this part of the world that the proprietor of a flourishing grocery in Summerside recently sold his business and purchased a Merry-go round, he being pretty certain of finding the latter more profitable.

In the centre of the grounds was a band stand, where the Miscouche brass band discoursed sweet music.

Here, early in the afternoon, mount ed two young men with a black board, one of whom announced that an election would take place to ascertain which was the more popular—the leader of the Government at Ottawa, or the leader of the Opposition. The price of a vote was five cents, and at this election the women had the privilege of the franchise. One of the rival candidates naturally the returns showed a majority for the leader under whose banner the bachelor member fought.

Island are divided into three pretty equal portions of French, Irish and just as the huge house halted in front

many of the most neglected, placed by settling Miscouche, Fifteen Point, all fairly represented on the tea the Padre in an honest calling, rose to be prosperous and respectable.

Egmont Bay, and the various French grounds, together with a small parishes which culminate in Tignish, sprinkling of the Indians from their And at last, weighed down by the cares of so many souls and bodies, the Padre del Poveri fell ill himself. Still the worked to the very last. On Christmas Eve all his boys met in the little chapel attached to bis house. All those > to obtain the salvation of Frank Snake, more especially to cure him of his love for intoxicating liquors. On one occasion the priest met Frank in a semi-intoxicated condition, and stopped to remonstrate with him. Frank promised amendment and even Mass at midnight.

"But," said the Padre, "I must the morning in question, it presented bottle that he carried in his pocket, give my children Communion for the last time."

The young priest begged him with tears in his eyes to take his advice for the sake of those who could ill spare their Padre.

"It is finished." said the Fether of grain waying on all sides—the warm of the said on the pattern of the land, the beautiful fields of the land, the land, the land that he carried in his pocket, emptied out into the snow. Just one bedy having gone west to the "Tea week later the pattias (1) met Frank on the same road. The land was even more under the influence of whiskey than on the former occasion, but he same road. The land was even more under the influence of whiskey than on the former occasion, but he same road. "Same old drunk, Father, same old drunk!" Needless to say that His Needless to say that His Grace does not enumerate Frank Saake among his Temperance converts. At the tea Frank was in low spirits. A few days previously Miss Pauline Johnson had visited Summer side, giving one of her beautiful entertainments. Society had made much of Miss Johnson, and one of the eading families of the place had shown the talented young Indian lady much attention. Frank became jealous, as the family in question were his benefactors in the matter of tea and warm clothing. Being asked why he sulked he replied: 'Oh! Frank of no more count now—Mohawk woman come. Mr. — take her for a drive-no more give tea and flannel to Frank-Mohawk all the go now-

Mic-Mac nowhere." During the course of the afternoon we took a walk on the sands, and visited the lobster factories then closed or the season, greatly to the disap ointment of my little daughter wh en promised the sight of a rea live lobster. The beach here is hard shining sands without difficulty. The shore rises in high cliffs of red sandtone in which antiquarians discover marks from the motes of the sea-cow or walrus, for those extinct animals were at one time quite common in these bravely in the sunny waters of the straits of Northumberland.

Some years since there was some talk of a discovery of gold dust in the vicinity, but the rumer died out, and so did the gold dust, and as far as I know the value of land in the neighborhood has not gone up.

The history of the little parish of Mount Carmel is in itself rather interfor how many years that identical pipe esting, as told to me by some of the had been her solace! esting as told to me by some of the oldest inhabitants and by those silent witnesses, the parish registers.

The emigration of Acadians from the chattels in pirogues (2) and, paddling off to sea, made for the point of land jutting into the Straits of Northumbercondiments, and here one could get an excellent dinner for fifty cents. The others were "twenty-five cent tables," and the fare thereon was limited to cakes and capillar. Here they discrebe release and a resident priest may have in the strains of Northumber-limits peacestal, and ferred the ground in fragments. It is now in one of the couldings awaiting either repairs or annihilation whichever the Fates and the fare thereon was limited to cakes and capillar. to work clearing the land. erected temporary shelters which they afterwards replaced by good, warm, other, and went through the steps of a log houses. For the first few years the dwellers in the settlement of Fifteen cream; it was presided over by two pretty girls, the daughters of the newly appointed Acadian Sanator that year he arrived at Fifteen Point. and took up his abode at Firmin Gallanis house, where the missionaries were in the habit of lodging until such time as a presbytery was built for their accommodation.

On the 23rd June two worthy parishioners, Thomas Richard and Suzanne Ancoin, his wife, signed an agreement in which they bestowed upon the Mission of Fifteen Point, otherwise called "The Village of Our Lady of Mount Carmel," a piece of land "thirty yards square," to be used as a site for a church and cemetery. The first church was built of logs, and was pulled down after a few years to give place to one of superior workmanship, which was built by the Rev. Bernard D. Macdonald, afterwards the second | mushrooms.

to wear the mitre of the diocese of Charlottetown Father Macdonald was replaced by Father Perry (Poirier), who added to the church a sacristy, which served both as a vestry and a residence for the priest. Father Perry, who was for many years in charge of this mission, was a representative old Acadian priest, the first of his nation to be ordained for Quevillion, erected a large building, in which he hoped to establish a Christian Brothers' school. This project not being feasible, the building was given to the people of Summerside, and was was a bachelor, and a wealthy one; and hauled there (a distance of about sixteen miles) on the ice. Parochial tradi-tion says that the first resting-place on the road was the abode of one Sam The Catholics of Prince Edward Gallant. Some member of Sam's family had been married that morning, and Old Gold CIGARETTES

W. S. Kimball & Co. ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Retail Everywhere

5C. per Package 17 FIRST PRIZE MEDALS.

Control of the contro

sitting down to a wedding breakfast. The tired teamsters were welcomed with true Acadian hospitality, and in-vited to the banquet, of which, so say the oldest inhabitants, they are every crumb.

Another story of olden days here, is that of some men from an adjacent parish, who, about seventy years ago, crossed over the Straits of Northumberland to New Brunswick in an open boat. Returning late in the fall the were caught in the floating ice and could not make the shore. was not strong enough to bear them and they were in danger of drifting out to sea. Their friends at Fifte Point saw them, and after devoutly praying Our Lady of Mount Carmel, they laid their boards upon the ice the parish was disporting himself on his bicycle, which skimmed over the another until they succeeded in mal another until they succeeded in making a platform by which the sufferers succeeded in landing. An old man still living tells of walking home from New Brunswick on the ice, when he was a boy-but then, he says, the winter was very cold and I was very

The Father Queviller above referred erected a beautiful shrine to Our Lady of Mount Carmel. This was a pillar about forty feet in height, sur-mounted by a colossal statue of the Blessed Virgin.

The statue was a very fine one per fect in outline and with a face of ex-ceeding beauty, the head crowned with a golden crown. The column stood within an enclosure beside the church and could be seen far out to sea. Many a storm-tossed fisherman in the strait owes his safety to the statue of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, and many a Eleanor's fisher farmers left the banks of the little river Platte, crossed to Bedeque Bay, shipped their goods and chattels in pirogues (2) and possible. Unfortunately during a great storm which raged on this coast in the autumn of 1882 the statue was torn from its pedestal, and fell to the ground

The parish of Notre Dame de Mon Carmel is now served from Miscouche. The parish priest is a Scotchman—a near relative of the Bishop. A large proportion of the clergy of the diocese are Macdonalds; in fact they are so numerous that it is the custom to speak of them by their baptismal names, and we hear of "Father Ronald" "Father Gregory," "Father John," etc. Father John of Miscouche preaches in French as well as in English, and devotes himself to the interests of his Acadian flock. He certainly showed a good deal of administrative ability in the management of his tea party, which was a very successful affair and realized nearly one thousand dollars.

The shadows were beginning to lengthen when we drove away from Fifteen Point, and as we passed through Miscouche the Angelus rang out : while just in the sunset rays two figures repeating their evening prayer, in a field near the church, suggested Millet's great picture. Our attention, however, was distracted by familiar white objects along the road side, and the day of the Fifteen Point Tea closed for us with moonlight and

A. M. P. Berlinguet.

1. Mic-mac for priest 2. A sort of boat made of a log hollowed out so as to allow of its floating, called in some places a "dug out."

To the aged, with their poor appe tite, feeble circulation, and impover-ished blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a been beyond price. Its effect is to check the ravages of time, by invigor At intervals other priests served the mission, one, a French Canadian named of the body. See Ayer's Almanac for the new year. Much distress and sickness in children is aused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminater gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

Const. 1 The second second

UNEXCELLED! UNEQUALLED! UNAPPROACHED!

Our Hand-Made Beeswax

CANDLES.

Moulded Besswax Candles. Steario Wax Candles

give better satisfaction than all other makes. Unsolicited testimonials received from

Many new and beautiful designs added

Please write us before placing your orders; you will find it to your advantage. The confidence, so long placed in our candles by our customers, forces us to completely ignore and refuse to carry in stock candles that are not up to the standard, containing little or no bees' wax, and which are temptingly offered as cheap goods.

Our hand-made wax candle is in keep ng with the standard quantity of wax (in each andle) exacted by the Church. If you was tthe best candles in the market, at prices as low as the superior grade of our goods will allow, please communicate with

We solicit your orders for church ornaments stationary and vestments. D. & J. SADLIER & CO.

atholic Publishers, Booksellers and Sta-tioners, Church Ornaments, Vestments, Statuary and Religious Articles, 1669 Notre Dame St. | 115 Church Ed. TORONTO.

New York: Cincinnati: Chicago: 36 & 38 Barclay St. 343 Main St. 178 Monroe St. Sold by all Catholic Booksellers, or sent post paid on receipt of price by the publishers.

COCHEM'S

ILLUSTRATED LIFE OF CHRIST.

Adapted by REV BONAVENTURE HAMMER, O.S.F. With Many Fine Half-tone Illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.25

THIS is an adaptation of the venerable Martin V. Gochem's celebrated "Life of Christ." written over two hundred years ago. That the book has been in constant use during this long time is proof sufficient of its great merits. In this edition the history of Our Lord is mainly given as narrated in the gospiels. Numerous pious legends, however, are also given. Though these are not articles of faith, they have been collected by devout, truthful and intelligent writers, who have between the consideration. Ohristian people for centuries have been edified by them, and have obtained from them more fervor of devotron. The illustrations in this book are exceptionally good.

PLAIN FACTS FOR FAIR MINDS.

This has a larger sale than any book of the kind now in the market. It is not a controver stal work, but simply a statement of Catholic Doctrine. The author is Rev. Geo. M. Searle. The price is exceedingly low, only fifteen cents. Free by mail to any address. The book contains 350 pages. Address Thos. Coffey, CATHOLIC RECORD Office, London, Ont.

180 KING STREET. JOHN FERGUSON & SONS, The leading Undertakers and Embalmers. Open night and day.
Telephone—House, 373 Factory, 542.

CONCORDIA VINEYARDS SANDWICH, ONT.

ERNEST GIRADOT & CO Our Altar Wine a Specialty.
Our Altar Wine is extensively used and recommended by the Clergy, and our Clared will compare favorably with the best insported Bordeaux.
For prices and information address.
Ed. GIRADOT & CO. E. GIRADOT & CO.

French Bordeaux Clarets 398 Richmond St., London. 'Phone 650.

inkling for his ground nd pain

nd leave

it has been announced

byterian office in To ceived a letter from or missionaries in which charges are virtua

though on very fals

Whe Enthalic Liecord. Wablished Weekly at 488 and 488 Richmond street, London, Ontaric. Frice of subscription-32.00 per annum.

ETICS OF SAIRSTIPHONISM. OF ADMINISTRATION OF THE SAIRSTIPHONISM. BEV. GEORGE R. NORTHORAVES, Author of "Listates of Modern Insidela." THOMAS COFFEY.

Publisher and Froprietor, Thomas Corpey

MESSES. LUKE KING, JOHN NIGH. P. J. NEVEN and WM. A. NEVIN, are fully author-ized to receive subscriptions and transact all Cther business for the Catholic Record.

Rates of Advertising—Ten cents per line each sertion, agate measurement. Approved and recommended by the Archishops of Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa, and St. toniface, and the Bishops of Hamiton and Settleboro, and the clergy throughout the

Correspondence intended for publication, as rell as that having reference to business, should a directed to the proprietor, and must reach condon not later than Tuesday morning. Arrears must be paid in full before the paper

London, Saturday, Dec. 26, 1896.

A NOBLE CAUSE.

The Catholic people of Manitoba are now obliged either to send their children to the Public schools or establish and maintain, with their own funds, a system of Catholic schools. This entails a double tax, which is not only a great injustice, but will cause considerable hardship. Indeed, so slender are the resources of many of our people in the prairie province that it will be almost impossible for them to bear the burden thus placed upon their shoulders by Mr. Greenway's tyranni cal legislation. Catholic education in Catholic schools is the object aimed at by the ecclesiastical authorities of Manitoba. To carry out this purpose assistance is sorely needed, and Catholies throughout the Dominion ought surely contribute of their means to their brethren in the assist in this their time of need. We shall be happy to receive contributions from our subscribers, all which will be duly acknowledged in the columns of the CATHOLIC RECORD, and the money forwarded to the motive, however, this is wrong and Most Rev. Dr. Langevin, Archbishop of St. Boniface.

CHRISTMAS.

On Friday the Catholic Church will observe the great festival of Christmas with the solemnity usual on that joyful occasion. It is easy to understand why the Nativity of our Lord is commemorated with an inpual feast, reckoned to be one of the two greatest festivals of the year. It is because it is instituted in honor of the event most important to us in the great work of our Redemption, the incarnation of the Son of God, and his coming into the world for our salvation.

Oar Saviour was born in an obscure stable, the place of shelter of animals, in order to teach us to be content with poverty and suffering, and to bear patiently the tribulations of life; but the event was of too much importance to the world to be entirely concealed. and so it was announced to the shep Lord, around whom shone a bright but they were encouraged by the hibitions, and it is a grave crime t celestial messenger to lay aside their fears, as the tidings he brought to them were such as should cause joy

For this day is born to you a Saviour who is Christ the Lord, in the city of David: and suddenly there was with the Angel a multitude of the heavenly army praising God and saying 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will."

The shepherds as they were watch ing their flocks being further told by the Angel where Christ was to be found, namely, in a manger, made haste to find the truth of what had been told to them, and on discovering the infant in the place described they offered their homage and praised Almighty God for having shown His mercy by sending the great teacher and king who had been foretold by the prophets as He through whom "transgression may be finished, and sin may have an end. and iniquity may be abolished, and everlasting justice may be brought, and vision and prophecy may be fulfilled, and the Saint of saints may be anointed." (Daniel ix).

We have all the same cause for joy which these shepherds had, for it was not for them alone that Christ was born, but that the whole world should rejoice in receiving and welcoming our Sauour who came unto men on so important a mission. We should, therefore, celebrate the great feast of Christmas with joy, and should profit by the graces which Christ came to confer on all mankind.

To receive these gifts in a proper manner all Catholics should be careful all means for obtaining the grace of denuded himself of his spiritualistic God. Especially should every one re- trappings. ceive the sacrament of penance and express our earnest hope that all our material means." readers will celebrate it through these means.

readers many such happy reunions, and all have our cordial wish that they may spend a happy Christmas

THE SPIRITUALISTIC FRAUD.

We have from time to time earnestly warned our readers against the spiritualistic fraud, but notwithstanding repeated warnings in our columns, and in those of other journals, spiritualistic mediums are still to be found especially in our cities, and in some places they have established regular weekly, or more frequent meetings for the purpose of propagating their principles and making their superstitious rites take the place of a religious worship, and even the the sacred Lord's day is profaned by the holding of such meetings.

Not long since it was announced that regular meetings would be held in Toronto for this purpose, and we understand that though they are not largely attended a certain number of people are in the habit of assembling on these occasions. Very few, if any, Catholies are to be found among those who attend habitually, but some do so at times, probably rather through a desire for amusement or curiosity than from any other motive. Whatever may be dangerous.

The Apostle St. Peter warns those who "as irrational beasts naturally tend to the snare and to destruction, blaspheming those things which they know not, shall perish in their corruption." (2 Peter, ii., 12.) These words are certainly very applicable to those who take part in spiritualistic seances, which have become a species of religion which, it is supposed by their promoters, will supersede Christianity. Attendance at such seances is, therefore, a real danger to a Christian, and a co operation in the evil object proposed to be attained.

There are two elements which are possibly combined in these seances, imposture certainly, and probably also diabolism.

If they consisted merely of tricks of acknowledged prestigiation it would be no worse than foolishness to take part in them, provided the performances were only for amusement, and not for a deception on the public, but herds of Judea by an angel of the they are claimed to be a revelation from the other world, and so they come light, at which they were much afraid, into the category of blasphemous excountenance them. It is an undoubted sin against the first commandment to consult fortune tellers or the dead, and it was punished severely under the Old Law in which it was commanded, 'neither let there be found among you any charmer nor any that consulteth pythonic spirits, or fortunetellers, or that seeketh the truth from says: "Although I have shown that a ertain per cent, of manifestations are fraudulent, yet the greater part is the work of demons, and those who think they can meet spiritualism with the ery of fraud, and make it down at their bidding, will find their lance shivered in the first onset, for they will meet foemen worthy of their steel, and nothing but truth can stand."

A former spiritualist, E. F. Hanson, of Maine, in a book on spiritualism

We shall not enter upon the enquiry how much of Spiritualism is Demonology, but we have here the declar ation that it is a combination of the two elements we have described, and whichever element predominates its seances should be avoided. That the New Law the grace of repentance fraud has a large share in it, however, is undoubted. A few days ago evi- through the intercession of the Blessed dence of this was given at a meeting ! in a spiritual Temple at Boston, where at a preconcerted signal six stalwart young men suddenly came forward to great doctor adds: the stage at the moment when a spirit form appeared enveloped in a white of our sins, and in thee is our most robe, and with a lace drapery about happy expectation of rewards. its head. When the onslaught was made the spirit made a sudden exit was St. Augustine's meaning, and the from view, but was seized by the to put themselves into the state of young men and found to be the out Mary's intercession sinners cannot grace, and should receive the sacra- medium himself dressed for the occa- expect to obtain the grace necessary to ments, which are the most powerful of sion, but he was seized just as he had enable them to return to God.

The young men obtained the spirit robe, which was without sleeves, and It is also the pleasing custom for made of imitation silk. It covered the Church, and weknow that it is the custom families to hold a reunion on Christmas whole person of the medium, and of Presbyterians to claim him as belongday, however distant from each other among the paraphernalia for persontheir individual members may be, ating various dead people there were We hope there will be among our other devices, as a wig, whiskers and a moustache.

It will be readily understood as matter of course that the spiritualism both now and for many years to come. which is demoniacal is much worse than that which is merely fraudulent.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S TESTIMONY

The Presbyterian Review announces with quite a flourish of trumpets a glorious victory obtained by the notorious apostate "Pastor "Chiniquy, at Oban, Scotland, by occasion of a lecture which he delivered there on "his favorite theme," which is abuse of the Catholic Church, and misrepresentation of her doctrine.

Mr. Chiniquy had said in a lecture that when I was in the Church of Rome, I had to repeat every day the following prayer from my Breviary : Mary, thou art the only hope of sinners. That is not Christianity, it is paganism and

The Rev. Father Begue of the pro-Cathedral of Oban thereupon published a letter in which he challenged Chiniquy to give the place in the Roman Breviary where that prayer is to be found, and offered to hand over a cheque for £150, all that he possessed in the world, if Chiniquy could prove his assertion.

The challenge was accepted, and at a crowded meeting in Oban the parties appeared on the platform to settle the dispute.

A large number of Protestant ministers accompanied Mr. Chiniquy, among whom was the Rev. Ambrose Townsend, who read from the Breviary the words "because thou art the only hope of sinners."

These words occur in the Breviary not as a prayer, nor are they daily repeated as Chiniquy had stated, but they are part of a sermon by St. Augustine, and are read on the 9th of September as part of the sermon from which an extract is given, the sermon being mentioned from which they are

Father Begue called upon Mr. Townsend to read the title, but he refused to do this, and maintained that Mr. Chin. iquy had proved his point. Hence, the Review tells us that "Mr. Townsend declared the victory lay with pastor Chiniquy." It will be seen from our plain statement of facts that Chiniquy's assertion was proved to be a falsehood, and that Parson Townsend declared in his favor simply because he was a partisan. But, it may be asked, how could St. Augustine use such words, and why have they found a place in the Catholic priests' Breviary? To this we answer that we must discover the sense in which they are used to ascertain whether or not they are justifiable. They are certainly not used to exclude God as the Great First Cause, and the only ultimate hope of sinners and of all Christians. But this does not exclude the intercession of either pious persons on earth or saints in heaven. We have even God's own assurance that there are occasions when He will not hear the direct prayers of the grievous sinner, so that recourse must be had to saints as intercessors, and therefore He refers Eliphaz and his two friends to Job as an intercessor for them, and: "My servant Job shall pray for you his face I will accept that your folly be not imputed to you; for you have not spoken right things before me, as my servant Job hath." (Job, xlii., 8)

It is a common and allowable opinion among Catholic theologians, though not asserted by the Church, that under is to be obtained from God only Virgin. The passage in question would lead us to believe that St. Augustine was of this belief, and the

" By thee (Mary) we hope for pardon

We incline to the opinion that this passage would then signify that with-

If this was not St. Augustine's meaning, we should be compelled to admit Before the appearance of the sup- that his words were an oratorical have been separated by sin. A good manager of the scance to the dress But even as an hyperbole they are not confession and a worthy Communion which the spirit would wear. "The to be austerely construed and conare the best preparation for the due color of the spirit robes," he said, "is demned, but to be regarded as a form observance of the great festival we are of silvery white, and is of such an of speech which orators frequently use about to celebrate, and we desire to appearance as cannot be produced by to signify the great power of Mary's prayers to her divine Son.

> St. Augustine was a very early and a very learned Father of the Christian ing to them. It is for them to show how it occurs that St. Augustine, who only pronounces the received doctrine of the whole Christian Church in the fourth century, has such a high estimate of the power of the Blessed Virgin's prayers in heaven, if the Christian Church were Presbyterian at that time, as members of that Church would have us believe.

THE SO-CALLED SETTLE-MENT.

The Globe of the 18th inst. has another editorial on the proposed Manitoba settlement, which is in part intended as a reply to recent articles on the subject which appeared in our

We are told in the first place that we should be satisfied with the agree. ment between Messrs. Laurier and Greenway because: "The School law of 1890 put Catholics in as good a position as they occupy all over the United States of America, where they do not complain that they are suffering an intolerable grievance." Hence we are given to understand that in the proposed settlement Manitoba is not "in the position of a repentant culprit" endeavoring to atone for an injustice inflicted.

We admit that the injustice perpetrated in Manitoba is also inflicted upon Catholics in the United States, but two wrongs do not make a right, and there is this difference between the two cases, that there was no solemn compact entered into in the United States, such as was incorporated into the British North America and Manitoba Acts, for the purpose of bringing about the Confederation of the divers populations of Canada under one Government. This makes the Manitoba Acts of 1890, which are so highly esteemed by the Globe, a gross violation of honor and good faith, holding up Canada before the world as a country where promises are but words,

And words but wind. Too feeble instruments to bind.

The Globe finds it convenient to shut its eyes to the fact that these promises were made, but it is undeniable that the fact has been plainly declared by Sir Donald Smith, it was acknowledged by the members of the Government and of the Parliament which passed the Manitoba Act, and it has been recorded in the second judgment of the Privy Council, wherein the existence of a grievance has been recognized. It was in consequence of this promise that the Manitoba Act was accepted unanim ously by the Manitoba Legislature among the first Acts passed by it on its being called into existence, and without recalling now the dispute concerning the Bill of Rights, which appears to have contained the demand of the people of Manitoba, it cannot be denied that the passing of the School Acts of 1871 constituted a compact between the people of both religions in that Province that Separate schools should be a permanent institution therein, whether the contingencies of the future should decide that the majority in the Province should be Catholic or Protestant, and this is the basis of the decision of the Privy Council that there was a compact which put it into the power of the Dominion Government and Parliament to intervene.

It is somewhat curious for the Globe to comment on this decision thus: "The Dominion Parliament has on paper the right to pass educational laws for Manitoba, but the right exists on paper alone."

Are the Constitutional educational guarantees a mere farce? Or are they intended to be exercised solely for the protection of Protestants whenever they think proper to say they are aggrieved by Catholics?

Sir A. T. Galt, applying the educational guarantees, when the interests of the Protestants of Quebec were concerned, said:

"It must be clear that a measure would not be favorably entertained by the minority in Lower Canada which would place the education of the children and the provision for their schools wholly in the hands of a majority of a different faith. It was clear that in confiding the general subject of education to the Local Legislature, it was absolutely necessary that it should be accompanied by such restrictions as would prevent injustice in any responsibilition with God, from whom we posed spirit attention was called by the figure of speech, in fact an hyperbole. The sacrament of penance and respect from being done. Now this fail to do its duty in this regard, we reasons of conscience.

We are led to recall this matter, as Now this applies, and with equal force, to Upper Canada and the other provinces, for in Lower Canada there is a Protestant minority, and in the other provinces a Roman Catholic minority. The same privileges belong to the one of right here as belong to the other of right elsewhere. There can be no greater injustice to a population than to compel them to have their children educated in a manner contrary to their own religious belief.

According to the Globe's reasoning, educational guarantees were to be employed only for the protection of the Protestants of Quebec, and Messrs. Laurier and Greenway have made the happy arrangement with the Globe's approval, that the Catholics of Manitoba are to have no consideration under them. But should not the Manitoba Catholics be contented with the Public schools and with a modicum of religious instruction where the trustees are kind enough to grant it, as the socalled settlement provides? We say decidedly not. We do not deny the right of the State to insist upon it that the children be properly educated, but if the Government insists upon excluding religious teaching from the schools, or hampers the schools wherein religious teaching is given, by conferring undue advantages upon godless schools, or State schools which have little or no such teaching, it does a gross injustice to conscientious parents. Thus Lord Salisbury said in one of his speeches given on this very subject :

"Numbers of persons have invented what I may call a patent compressible religion which can be forced into all consciences with a very little squeezing; and they wish to insist that this should be the only religion taught throughout the schools of the nation. What I want to impress upon you is that if you admit this conception you are entering upon a religious war of which you will not see the end. There is only one sound principle in religious education to which you should and that is that a parent, unless he has forfeited the right by criminal acts, has the inalien able right to determine the teaching which the child shall receive upon the holiest and most momentous of sub jects. That is a right which no expediency can negative, which no State necessity ought to allow you to sweep The Globe declares that in this matter the hierarchy of the Church are not to be regarded in any sense as a party to the union of the Canadian Provinces, and that they are not to be the judges before whom this cause must be tried. We say that they have authority to of Catholics, and they are besides representatives of Catholic sentiment on the subject of religious education. They are not to be silenced in so important a matter by any bullying, and if they and been consulted the unsatisfactory measure which the Dominion and Provincial Governments have agreed and Mr. Laurier would have been spared the mortification of seeing his Evangelization Society. agreement rejected by those whom it most concerns.

THE LETTER OF CAUSIDICUS.

We publish in another column a second letter from Causidicus in reference to the Manitoba school question. It will be noticed that the esteemed writer no longer disputes the sole point in our articles on the proposed settlement, which gave occasion to his previous letter, which was to the effect that the settlement falls far short of restoring to the Catholic minority in the Province the most important privileges they enjoyed previously to the school legislation of 1890.

As we are not the political advocates of either the present or the late Government, we shall not follow Causidicus' arguments regarding the course the late Government ought to have taken. Neither have we ever maintained that the Remedial Bill was a perfect measure, though we believe it to have been far preferable to the proposed settlement, which is no settlement

Our correspondent takes pains to show that the "authorities" in making any settlement are not bound to re-enact the entire School Act of 1871. We admit that the Parliament and Government of the day are the judges of last resort to decide what redress should be given, but we may point out that they have the jurisdiction to deal with the matter only in the case when constitutional rights have been violated. As the Privy Council declares that they have jurisdiction in the present case, it follows that Constitutional rights have been violated, and they fail to do its duty in this regard, we reasons of conscience.

another which will fulfil its natural obligations.

We shall make a remark on one other point in our correspondent's communication. He takes issue with us on our statement that Mgr. Langevin was not consulted in regard to the settlement. He quotes Mr. Tarte to prove that he was consulted, but we have the assurance of His Grace himself that such was not the case. It ap-Sir A. T. Galt was wrong. These pears from statements made in Western papers that Mr. Tarte called upon Archbishop Langevin twice after the whole matter had been announced to have been substantially settled. One of these visits was merely formal, and the school question was not even spoken of, and as the second visit lasted only about fifteen minutes, there could have been very little done by way of consultation. Causidicus appears to be somewhat sore because we made any allusion to " political leanings." We meant no offence, but we think the political leanings were manifested in his letter plainly enough to justify the expression. They are still more plain in the second letter.

A VOICE FROM HONAN.

Some months ago we had occasion to notice a statement which appeared in the daily papers to the effect that Catholic priests at Honan, China, were guilty of seducing converts to Presbyterianism to become Catholics by objectionable methods.

Other communications have indicated that these methods are the furnishing of the converts with money, clothing, or food, or by representing that by joining the Catholic missions they would be under French protection, which claimed to be more powerful than English or American, and by other false representations of various kinds. The communications making these announcements came from the Presbyterian missionaries at Honan, and it was said that the members of the Foreign Mission Committee, which has its headquarters in Toronto, were very indignant at the conduct of the priests.

We pointed out that it is not customary for Catholic priests to follow such methods as were attributed to them. It is well known, however, that these are exactly the methods commonly pursued by Protestant missionaries in their attempts to evangelize Catholics. These means were extensively employed in Ireland, bowls of well-made soup speak on the conscientious obligations from the proselytizing soup kitchens being the usual inducement used there to induce the Irish in time of famine to abandon their religion. The Indians of the West were tempted by like means, and even by the misused authority of the United States Government to take their children from Catholic schools, and in the Province of upon would never have seen the light, | Quebec similar efforts are made, especially by the Presbyterian French

> It ill behooves the Presbyterian missionaries of Honan to complain of the success of the priests there in converting the Chinese from Presbyterianism, as they themselves do not hesitate to attack Catholics and Catholic doctrines with the greatest virulance, and even by gross misrepresentation, as we have frequently proved in our columns.

> We may be sure, however, that no such unworthy methods as those indicated are employed to bring about conversions, though it may be inferred from the complaint made that many who have been Presbyterians have become Catholics. There are other reasons for this than the employment of means which Christian missionaries ought not to use. Protestant missionaries themselves have frequently told us that the inconsistencies of .Protestantism, and the multiplicity of contradictory doctrines taught by the Protestant sects, is a most serious obstacle to the progress of their work. It cannot be doubted that many of the quickwitted Chinamen readily see through the fallacy of a system which is based on incongruous principles, and to this fact may be attributed their abandonment of Protestantism for the purpose of adopting a consistent Christianity, if they wish to be Christians at all.

We do not mean to deny that Catholic missionaries would willingly receive Presbyterians into the Church, but it would be only after due preparation, and on their being satisfied that the converts applied for admission to the Church from conscientious motives. Catholics believe that there is but one true Church, the Catholic Church, and it would be a palpable lack of regard are bound by every principle of honor for their duty to refuse to instruct in and justice to restore them fully. If the Catholic faith and to receive into one Parliament, or one Government the Church those who desire it from without any specification would sustain the char The Catholic Regi had also repudiated th tions and assertions of and this accounts for the Register in the which the following sta "The Catholic Regi Foreign Mission Comm dignant at the conduc Honan and seeks against the charge but it is impossible the how the priests con-China. work published, no write to the newspape as the Protestants mis The missionary wh very ill-informed, as gress of Catholic mis gularly by the priest

the Propagation of Catholic journals, journals of those cou the missionaries hav appear frequently journals of this co United States.

EDITORIA Ir has been annou

as the the Irish mem Parliament assembl meeting of Parlia Dilion as leader of party will formally Healy and those w return to their alleg rule, and if they schism they will be Nationalist party. one of last resort, a necessity in orde strict discipline wh a parliamentary pa be hope for the suc There is but little Mr. Healy will yie that he return to has endeavored to Dilion's efforts to of a general subscript the Nationalist Pa To effect this obj counter-subscription pect to obtain sum in this wa greatly diminish would be contribut tionalist fund.

evangelists working an opportunity to o only twenty five b during the year, i the reported p exaggerated, thou as quite correct, remarkable showi efforts. There ha ment during a nu Baptists and Prest in different fields seemly rivalry. little to either den of belief their con vided they only s the Catholic Chu success is very d the complaint m verts are obliged country, owing t This is a lame ex fact that the ratio denominations is Province from ye

THE Baptists cla

report on the Evan

Canadians to have gregations in the

with stationary p

a divorce was uni horror, but the which was at fice give relief in cas married couple grievous crime impossible for th as husband and steps become so States that decr now granted on Evangelist Mood days ago at his services that the thousand divorc country, and so obtained that issued by a j twenty-five min enterel. The to be a civil stroyed the sacr tie, and the only ing evil is to re occupies in the sacrament and

It is but a few

1896, its natural

rk on one lent's com-

ue with us

Langevin

ard to the

. Tarte to d, but we

Grace him-

se. It ap-in Western lled upon after the nounced to

led. One

ormal, and not even cond visit

utes, there

e done by somewhat allusion to meant no

e political his letter

the expres-lain in the occasion to ppeared in t that Cath.

ina, were to Presby

es by objec-

e indicated furnishing

, clothing,

g that by sions they protection.

powerful

n, and by

of various ns making from the

at Honan,

bers of the

which has were very

the priests.

not custom-

follow such

d to them.

that these commonly onaries in Catholics.

ely employ-

-made soup

ip-kitchens

used there of famine

The Indi-

ted by like

e misused

es Govern-

from Cath-rovince of ade, espec-

in French

terian mislain of the in convertyterianism, hesitate to ic doctrines

, and even

as we have er, that no

those indi

about con-

be inferred that many rians have are other mployment

nissionaries

nt missionuently told of .Protest-

y of contra-

the Protest-obstacle to

It cannot the quick-ee through ch is based and to this ir abandon-the purpose

hristianity, that Catho-gly receive arch, but it aration, and theconverts

the Church

es. Catho-

ut one true

rch, and it

of regard instruct in receive into sire it from s matter, as s at all.

lumns.

NAN.

portionate to the number of children between the ages of five and fifteen recommended to disallow it.

course would afford the Roman Catho lies of the Province of Manitoba the relief prayed for by the petition of sand others presented to the Government in September, 1890, five months federation Act on the Governor General and the exercise of the power in this instance would preserve to the Catho lics of Manitoba their rights and priv ileges, and cause less irritation than the course which the Government saw proper to adopt. There is no doubt but that the request for the disallow-ance of the Act was made of the gov-ernment. Sir John Thompson, the then Minister of Justice, referring to the matter says: "There were at that time before Council and referred to me for report two different classes of petiof the legislation, and the other asking

You seem to think that a bill declaring the readiness of the Dominion Govtions, the one asking for disallov for remedial legislation.

This

it has been announced that the Pres-byterian office in Toronto has re-To this position it was raised by Christ, duced the bill as a government meas-only instead a portion of said grant promissionaries in which the former joined together no man should put that an army would be required to encharges are virtually reiterated, asunder. though on very false grounds, and without any specification of facts which would sustain the charges.

The Catholic Register, of Toronto. had also repudiated the false suggestions and assertions of the missionaries, and this accounts for the mention of the Register in the recent letter, in which the following statement is made:

"The Catholic Register objects to the Foreign Mission Committee feeling indignant at the conduct of the priests in Honan and seeks to defend them against the charge of proselytizing; its own terms with its officials, we canbut it is impossible that it should know how the priests conduct business in China. There are no reports of their with the unpronounceable name write to the newspapers and magazines as the Protestants missionaries do."

The missionary who thus writes is very ill-informed, as reports of the progress of Catholic missions are sent regularly by the priests to the Annals of the Propagation of the Faith and to Catholic journals, especially to the journals of those countries from which the missionaries have come, and they appear frequently in the Catholic journals of this country and of the United States.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Ir has been announced that as soon as the the Irish members of the British Parliament assemble in London for meeting of Parliament, Mr. John Dilion as leader of the Nationalist prelate, to whom he is especially atparty will formally summon Mr. T. Healy and those who follow him to return to their allegiance to majority rule, and if they persist in their schism they will be expelled from the Nationalist party. This step will be one of last resort, but it seems to be a necessity in order to preserve the strict discipline which is so needful to a parliamentary party that there may be hope for the success of its cause. There is but little expectation that Mr. Healy will yield to the demand that he return to submission, as he ment on its unsatisfactory character. has endeavored to circumvent Mr. Dilion's efforts to obtain by means of a general subscription, an increase of the Nationalist Parliamentary fund. To effect this object he has started a counter-subscription. He cannot expect to obtain any considerable sum in this way, but he may greatly diminish the amount which would be contributed towards the Nationalist fund.

THE Baptists claim in their recent report on the Evangelization of French Canadians to have nine French congregations in the Province of Quebec evangelists working wherever there is the following reference to the new an opportunity to obtain proselytes. As Bishop: an opportunity to obtain proselytes. As only twenty five baptisms are recorded during the year, it would appear that made on Monday morning, that the made on Monday morning, that the made on Monday morning that the made on the reported progress must be exaggerated, though even if taken as quite correct, it is not a very content of the progress of as quite correct, it is not a very remarkable showing for sixty years' efforts. There has been an arrange- Buffalo. It told that the long widowment during a number of years that hood of the diocese had practically Baptists and Presbyterians shall work in different fields so as to avoid unseemly rivalry. It appears to matter little to either denomination what form of belief their converts take up, provided they only succeed in weakening the Catholic Church; but that their success is very dubious is clear from the complaint made that their converts are obliged to emigrate from the country, owing to social persecution. This is a lame excuse to cover up the fact that the ratio of Protestants of all denominations is decreasing in the Province from year to year.

IT IS but a few years since the idea of a divorce was universally regarded with horror, but the divorce legislation, which was at first intended merely to give relief in cases wherein one of the married couple had been guilty of grievous crime which made it almost impossible for them to remain together as husband and wife, has by rapid make any reference to "political steps become so lax in the United leanings," I had hoped that both of steps become so lax in the United States that decrees of separation are now granted on the most trivial pleas. Evangelist Moody announced a few days ago at his New York revivalist services that there are now twenty-five thousand divorces per annum in the country, and so readily are the decrees so deceived when they were given to obtained that last week one was understand that the provision in the Act of 1890 came before the Minister of issued by a judge in Chicago just twenty-five minutes after the suit was stroyed the sacredness of the marriage tie, and the only remedy for the existing evil is to restore it to the position it occupies in the Catholic Church as a sacrament and a religious bond which entered. The lowering of marriage ing evil is to restore it to the position it occupies in the Catholic Church as a sacrament and a religious bond which ceived a letter from one of its Honan who declared that what God hath

HERMAN WARSZAWIAK, a convert But Mr. Amyor, an ardent supporter of as compared with the Catholic popula the Bill, and a hater of the Greenway tion, the appropriation was, compar has been for some time in charge of the American mission to the Jews of the law could not be enforced while of the School Board became dispreper-the law could not be enforced while of the School Board became dispreper-friends of the Liberal party in the tionately large for that reason. How to the ministry by the Presbytery of House (of Commons) led the Manitoba eyer, legally speaking, this reduction, the city, on the plea that he objects government. the city, on the plea that he objects government. to having the Presbytery control his work. He declares that he will have no master but God. While we do not dispute the right of the Presbytery as a merely human institution to make not see any reason why Mr. Herman work published, nor do the priests should not enter into the ministry of his own accord without any ordination from the Presbytery, which has no pretence to any more ministerial authority than merely human assumption of the office. If Mr. Warszawick should claim to be a divinely appointed minister, the Presbytery has not the shadow of a right to dispute his claim, as his self-appointment would be just as valid as that of the Presbytery clerics, who pretend to have the right of the keys in their possession.

> THE Catholics of the Dominion will all be grieved to learn of the serious illness of his Grace the learned and venerable Archbishop Fabre of Montreal. Archbishop Langevin of St. tached, as it was from Archbishop and subsection of section 22 of the Fabre he received his sacred orders, Manitoba Act." beth as priest and Archbishop. It is said that the Bishops of Quebec will take the occasion of Archbishop Lange. that they will unite in a pronouncetheir intention to pronounce plainly against the capitulation of Mr. Laurier. We have little doubt they will do this if they make any pronouncement on the matter, but we are certain they will do nothing to justify the fears that some journals express that it is their intention to enter upon a partisan

BUFFALO'S NEW BISHOP.

Father to succeed the late Rt. Rev. S fully in the cause of God and human-

THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUES-

Antigonish, Dec. 8, 1896.

giving space in your issue of

1. The word "legislature" in the should be "legislation," and was so

I submit if it was necessary to us might discuss this question without imputing any political predilections were deceived by Sir Charles Tupper's Upper and Lower Canada, why were government into the belief that the Act of Union secured them Separate wards acquired by succeeding legislaschools; but I did state that they were clause referring to education met their ure.

5. "Causidicus" does not believe were redressed by a Remedial Bill. Protestant population of the Province

est enemies of Catholic education, and here is the grievance which Catholics wish to be remedied and the remedying of which the Privy Council declares to be within the power and right of the Archbishop Tache and over four thou Dominion Government and Parliament." Your view is correct in the abstract. But to what extent the after the passage of the Act. The grievances can be remedied involves Government of the day has been difficult legal questions which cannot blamed, and I think, justly so, for not be discussed within the limits of an adopting this course. The power of The disallowance was conferred by the Con ordinary newspaper article. The Privy Council in their judgment say:

'The sole question to be determined | manifestly to meet cases of this nature is whether a right or privilege which the Roman Catholics previously enjoyed has been affected by the legislation of 1890. Their Lordships are unable to see how this question can receive any but an affirmative answer.

On the point of jurisdiction the Privy Council say :

"Their Lordships have decided that the Governor General in Council has jurisdiction, and that the appeal is well founded, but the particular course to be pursued must be determined by the authorities to whom it has been committed by the statute. It is not for Boniface is now visiting the invalid this tribunal to intimate the precise steps to be taken. character is sufficiently defined by the

Here comes the difficulty when the said "authorities" begin to act by virtue of the general character so defined by the Act. What do the Privy vin's presence to meet to consider the Council mean when they say right course they will pursue in regard to after this decision: "It is certainly the Manitoba school settlement. It is not essential that the statutes repealed by the Act of 1890 should be re enacted understood that they are of one mind or that the precise provisions of these in condemnation of the compromise statutes should again be made law? agreed upon by the Dominion and If would seem to me as if the Privy Provincial Premiers, and it is expected | Council entertained doubt as to whether or not the Governor-General in Coun cil and the Parliament have power to re enact the repealed statutes. Some journals have asserted that it is phase of the question might require their intention to pronounce plainly another reference to the courts. In your editorial reply the point is conceded that the School Act of the

Manitoba Legislature passed in 1871 practically became the basis of the Constitutional guarantees. No Constitutional guarantees were secured by the Union Act. But if the Catholic members-and particularly the French Catholic members - of Sir John A Macdonald's government which framed and passed the Act, were as solicitous for the educational priviliges of their coreligionists and co-patriots in the North West as the Protestant Sir Francis Hicks was for his co religion ists in the Province of Quebec Separate schools would have been secured to the former by the Act establishing and providing for the government of the Province of Manitoba, as well as had been secured to the latter by the pro-

Separate schools and school trustees of the Queen's Roman Catholic subjects be and the same is hereby extended to the dissentient schools of the Queen's Protestant and Roman Catholic subjects in Quebec.

By substituting the word "Manifor the word "Quebec placing the subsection so amended after 1) in section 22 of chapter 3, 33rd Vict: (1870), the rights of the minorities in Manitoba as regards education would have been completely secured. But when one recalls the circumstances and troublous times connected with the btaining the consent of the Red River settlers to the admission of the North West Territories and Ruperts Land into the confederation such a distinct declaration of educational privilege might embarrass the government of the Hence the reason for deceiv day. ing the Catholic settlers into the be lief that the trifling amendment of adding the word "practice" after the word "law" in subsection 3 of section 93 of the B. N. Act and incorporating the amended clause into the Manitoba wished to have secured. The Privy Council in Barrett vs. the Queen decided that this amended subsection was of no practical benefit to the minority in their contention.

As the same rights and pivileges were not secured to the minorities-or them for any mistatement which they different denominations—in Manitoba as were secured to the minorities in tion of the Province, protected by the desire on this score. This point I shall | 1890 was only amending and consolidwas in parliament in 1895 6 no ignorant and erring, because he him-Remedial Bill would have been introself is also encompassed with impunity. the law could not be enforced while friends of the Liberal party in the House (of Commons) led the Manitoba government.

6. You endeavor to make the point that "it was this school law (Act of 1871) which Mr. Greenway's Government repealed at the suggestion of the bitter-est enemies. beyond doubt, established for himself the reputation of being one of the first, if not the first, constitutional ture, than which nothing is more dan lawyers in Canada, as well as one of her most just and honest statesmen and tolerant citizens, stultify himself by advocating in parliament a measure similar to that introduced by the late Government under the name of the Remedial Act (Manitoba)

Yours, etc., Causidicus.

CATHOLIC PRESS.

The missionary work of the Paulist to devote themselves almost constantly to it in future. Others of the secular priests are announced as about to enter he same field, among them Father Price, of North Carolina. The mis ions of the Paulists have been directed very largely to Protestants and have undoubtedly accomplished an enor-mos amount of good. In dealing with those separated from us by a different faith much ignorance of the Catholic that they have never had an opportunty of knowing differently. - Baltimore

The Dublin Nation, organ of Mr. T. M. Healy, pretends to think that Hon. Edward Blake is in need of financial The sight of the venerable pastor aid as a "recompense for his prolonged solemnly reading the Commandments and unsuccessful efforts in behalf of every Sunday, must have been an his party." Mr. Blake fortunately is impressive one for old and young." above any danger of want. His devotion to Ireland is perfectly unselfish. As a Canadian, honored by his countrymen, and as a Protestant in a nation where religious lines are drawn over closely, he might have attained any reward of ambition, but he chose the part of an Irish patriot; and he receives from men like Mr. Healy the usual recompense for that thankless duty. If there is any Irishman in public life who is entitled to pecuniary ompensation it is Mr. T M. Healy himself; and, the exact sum, following precedent, should be thirty pieces of silver. - Boston Pilot.

The Athenaum is usually goodnatured when speaking of things Catholic, but there is a suggestion of displeasure in this announcement, made in the current number: "A Roman Catholic-Mr. F. Urquhartship at Balliol. This is the first intance of a Romanist being elected to such a position. Strange to say, he is to be a tutor in History." "Romansts" were once plentiful enough at Oxford. They founded the University, and mercy. - Catholic Columbian taught in it and studied in it until an English King fraudulently deprived them of it with other Church property. But it seems they are getting back in-to it by slow degrees. For a few hundred years history has been very badly taught at Oxford, but the selection of Mr. Urquhart seems to indicate a disposition to amend. - Ave Maria.

Wo father would tolerate that a ilthy-spoken reprobate should go into his home in his absence and tell stories giving exhaustive details of infract ons of the sixth and ninth Commandnents to his young sons and daughters. But, we regret to say, that Catholic parents see no harm in permitting heir children to read the secular press the columns of which reek with lubric ty. Such fathers who permit this class of printed corruption in their households and do not encourage the reading of Catholic books and have much to answer for. Let them remember that they are the direct cause of giving scandal to their little ones, and that it is written in the Caspal. But ha that skell many the scale of the cause of giving scandal to their little ones, and that it is written in the caspall. But ha that skell many the scale of the capacity of witness, counsel or papers amongst their offspring will Gospel: But he that shall scandalize one of these little ones that believe in Me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea."-Michigan Catholic

"My experience, "says Cardinal Gibbons, 'isthat the confessionalis the most powerful lever ever erected by a merci ful God for raising men from the mire of sin. It has more weight in withdrawing men from vice than even the In public sermons we scatter pulpit. the seed of the Word of God, in the confessional we reap the harvest. In sermons, to use a military phrase, the men that they have never heads complaint until they came to listen to the debates in this house during the debates in this house during the go home to the heart of the sinner. fire is at random, but in confession it is being made to blush because of his those grievances in the press, pub. The confessor exhorts the penitent, lished in other provinces. I do not I cautions him against the frequentation desire on this score. This point I shall be able to prove further on.

4. The quotations from the Hon. Mr. Foster's campaign speeches were not intended by me either to suggest olics acquired under the provisions of sertions which have been made to discuss that question. I cantions him against the frequentiation of dangerous company, or other occasions of sin : or he recommends special practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of piety suited to the peningent of the first statement by these gentlemen, but I do practices of practices against the assertions made upon pretty summer's day listening to the stories high authority elsewhere than on the of sin and sorrow and misery. It is floors of parliament. This high only the consciousness of the immense authority is no other than the late good he is doing that sustains the con-Archbishop Taché. Tessor in the sacred tribunal. He is If Sir John Thompson had lived and one who can have compassion upon the ents especially, would exclude from their homes all manner of vile literagerous to the moral health of the young. The abomination of Sunday newspapers reeking with every de scription of literary filth scavenged from the four quarters of the earth and served up with an extravagance of deail and particularity openly appealing to the most depraved tastes and basest passions of their patrons, came in for a just scoring. It is astounding that such an admonition should be needed by people who call themselves godfear-ing, knowing as they must, what fear-Fathers has been so successful that it ful peril lurks in these interminable is not surprising to hear that they are pages of printed nastiness dished up for Sunday readers. - Catholic Uni verse.

We take the following suggestive paragraph from the Arrow, the organ of the Episcopolian society called the Sons of St. Sebastian. In Anglican Churches, the Ten Commandments are read every Sunday, at Mass. A Rom-an paper, the Ave Maria, bears testifaith much ignorance of the Catholic mony to the value of the practice. Church is to be met and much prejudice It says: We cannot help thinking to be removed. The most absurd that it was not a bad custom which a good old priest introduced of reading about Catholics—due solely to the fact the Commandments of God, and the good old priest introduced of reading the Commandments of God, and the Precents of the Church, on Sundays and holy days of obligation, before beginning his sermon. The divine law was known in that parish, and no doubt it was all the better observed -Church Progress.

> Rudyard Kipling is hardly the sort of a writer from whom one would expect a tribute to the Blessed Virgin. Yet in his latest published volume of verse, "The Seven Seas," just issued, we find this verse in the poem entitled ' Hymn Before Action :

Ayinn Belore Action:

Ab, Mary pierced with sorrow,
Remember, reach and save
The soul that comes to morrow
Before the God that gave!
Since each was born of woman,
For each at utler need—
True comrade and true foeman, Madonna, intercede!

It is one of the prerogatives of the mmaculate Queen to elicit eulogies from all classes and conditions of men. Articles, in fact volumes, have been written, or might be written, of the praises bestowed upon her by non Catholics. Byron, Wordsworth, Tennyson, Longfellow and numbers of other Protestant poets have paid tribute to her, and now the best story teller of English tales to day, as Kip-ling is often called, adds his meed of praise and recognizes the potency of her intervention at the throne of grace

What a sad story this is! Are you sure that your own children will con-tinue in the faith? Is the Catholic spirit cultivated in your home? Your children go to church, but are there influences in the household which cul-tivate Catholic conviction, influences which interest your children in Cathoic questions? influences which ap peal, both to the mind and the heart, in behalf of religion? An eminent hurchman has written these words: 'In an age and country characterized as this is, by indifferentism toward re-ligious belief and laxity of principle in social morality — when reading of all kinds finds its way into the household, and fathers and mothers and sons and danghters meet all sorts of people in their daily associations — a religious journal is a necessity, absolute and positive, in every Christian home."-Catholic Citizen.

agent, in all the most important acts of civil life. He is a man without whom no one can enter the world or go out of it. He takes the child from the bosom of its mother and leaves it only at the tomb. He blesses or consecrates the crib, the bed of death and the bier. He is a man that children love, fear and venerate, and to whom unknown persons speak as "Father." At his feet all classes of people come to deposit their secret thoughts, their most hidden sins; he is the consoler and the healer of the miseries of soul and body. Through him, rich and poor are united; at his door they knock by turns, the one to deposit his secret alms, the other to receive it without need. A man himself of no social rank, he belongs to all indiscrimin ately-to the inferior and superior. In fine, this man from whose hallowed lips words of divine wisdom flow is the priest. - Young Catholic Messenger.

David Hume declared that he would rather possess a cheerful disposition, inclined always to look on the bright side, than, with a gloomy mind, be master of an estate of ten political campaign.

We learn from the Buffalo Union and Times that Rev. Dr. Quigley has been appointed Bishop of that diocese. In its last number that paper made

V. Ryan as Bishop of the diocese of come to an end, and that the Bishopelect was the idol of the priests and laity of the diocese, and more especially of the city of Buffalo, where his boy hood days had been chiefly spent, and where he had labored long and fruit-

TION.

To the Editor of the CATHOLIC RECORD Sir-Permit me to thank you for inst., to my communication of the 23rd While I do not complain of your criticism of my letter I beg to say that the construction put by you upon some of its passages and the application of some quotations used by me, is not warranted.

econd sentence of the third paragraph intended in the manuscript, otherwise the sentence would be meaningless.

to one another. I did not state that the Catholics

ernment to protect minorities against oppression is preferable to an arrange ment which largely removes this oppression: that it exempted Catholics from taxation for schools which they would not use, that it would in time have the effect of securing more com plete justice. If such a declaration solemnly passed into the form of a legislative enactment which could not receive the sanction of law highest object at which the aggrieved party was aiming to attain, their sympathizers in the Maritime Provinces have been entirely misled. As to exemption from taxation for the Public schools I do not think the Federal parliament has the power to pass such law and thereby oust the exclusive power of the Provincial Legislature in relation to direct taxation within the Province in order to the raising of a revenue for provincial purposes. As to the effect of securing in time more complete justice I think it would have the contrary effect. As the Parliament of Canada having no jurisdiction in the first instance, only acquired power to pass a remedial law upon the happening of certain events, so upon the power being exercised in doing so it is exhausted.

It is contended that the settlement of the difficulty should have been submitted to His Grace the Archbishop of has been elected to a Tutorial Fellow-St. Boniface, who is the guide and spiritual adviser of the minority, especially on matters of education. Hon. Mr. Tarte says His Grace was consulted on the subject of the proposed settle-ment. Members of the Dominion Govgave more importance to the opinion of the representatives of the people in parliament than he did to the representations and statements of the late Archbishop Taché. The latter wrote the Minister under date of 4th January, 1894, in reference to the school ordinances of the North-West Legislature.
The Archbishop said: "I therefore The Archbishop said: strongly urge the disallowance of the school ordinances of the North West Territories enacted in 1892, also of the amendments of said ordinances passed in 1893 and No. 23. "May I be allowed to add that this rouble in the North-West is the result f what has happened in Manitoba. The letter from which I quote the above extracts was read on the floors f parliament during the debate on the motion for papers, etc., in reference o these school difficulties; and Sir John Thompson, speaking to the motion, said

"Now the first series of complaints relate to grievances which are said to exist by reason of certain regulations in the territories. I do not propose to deny that those exist. We have here Union Act was sufficient to ensure them hon, gentlemen representing the ter-theeducational privileges they so much ritories; they have as good constitutional right as any man in this house to say whether complaints are rife there, become they repre-sent immediately the people of the Territories, they have their confidence now, and they are responsible to may make with regard to the state of affairs in their constituencies; we have statements made by these gentle men that they have never heard a intend to discuss that question.

GOING OVER TO ROME.

March of Anglicans Begun Sixty Years

Before the Cathedral Reading Circle in Hartford was read lately the follow-ing paper, which has been published in the Connecticut Catholic :

The recent pronouncement of our Holy Father, Leo XIII, on Anglican orders, recalls a chapter in the history of the English Church which marks the beginning of that institution's march towards Rome. It was not yesterday or the day before that the members of that communion turned their eyes longingly to Peter; it was neither Lord Halifax's pamphlet nor Mr. Gladstone's letter to Cardinal Rampolla that first gave evidence of the unrest and disquietude which had settled upon the minds of English churchmen. Sixty three years ago the summons came to begin the march, and with the Oxford movement the Establishment took a first step forward of a journey in which the second and perhap final pass has just been made.

It is well, then, at this time, to be come retrospective. To night we will neglect the present and think only of the day when a brighter light began to dawn upon many sincere Christian souls.

The Oxford or Tractarian Movement began in the year 1833. Shortly be-fore this occured the French Revolu-The Reform agitation followed and the Whigs came in power. Imme diately on the passing of the reform Bill a general attack seemedi mminent on the Church of England. Her position was to be defined as the servant of the State. The Church was to be looked on as a political body of Christians whose government and discipline were in the hands of the State. It was reported that parliamentary commit tees were to revise the prayer-book and remodel the creeds. The moving spirits of this triumphant political party were opposed to the very exist-ence of the Church. In fact there were serious fears afloat that Church reform might end in the actual abolition of the Establishment.

In this state of things, while the authorities of the English Church remained powerless and inert there arose from the eager and earnest thinkers of all schools a protest on one hand and on the other. Sides had to be taken for or against the Revolution.

In the midst of this general upheaval occurred what is known as the Oxford Movement.

The Movement began in a vigorous effort for the defence of the church of England against serious dangers which threatened it at the time. It was at Oxford, July 14, 1833, that John Keble preached his sermon on "National Apostacy." Among his hearers was John Henry Newman, already a well known man in his college, and destined to play an important part in the movement of which that day was the birthday. This memorable sermon was a protest against the suppression of ten Irish Bishoprics in defiance of Church opinion. It was a call to face in earnest a changed state of things, full of immediate and pressing danger : to consider how it was to be met by Christians and churchmen, and to watch motives and tempers.

But if Mr. Keble's sermon was the first word of the movement, its first step was taken in a small meeting at Hadleigh. From this meeting reed the "Tracts for the Times." From this meeting result-The tracts were short papers, in many cases mere short notes, on the great ques-tions which had suddenly sprung into such interest. They were designed to strengthen the Anglican Church against the inroads of "Popery," and were written with ahope of rousing mem bers of the Church of England to comprehend her alarming position. These tracts were the first public utterance The first three of the movement. tracts bear the date of Sept. 9, 1833. For the most part these early tracts were written by Dr. Newman, though Mr. Keble and one or two others also helped. Afterward other writers joined in the series.

The first year after the Hadleigh meeting passed uneventfully. The tracts were steadily swelling in num-ber, and they had begun to excite interest and give rise to questions. But they were not the most powerful instruments in drawing sympathy to the movement.

Dr. Newman was at this time Vicar of St. Mary's, Oxford, the Church of the University also. He preached regularly from this pulpit. To hear these lectures was the great intellectual and spiritual treat of the week. While men were reading and talking about the tracts, they were hearing the sermons, and in the sermons they heard the meaning and reason and bearing of the tracts.

The great need of the movement was the sanction of some well-known authority. Keble and Newman had at that time only a university reputation. This need was fully answered when Dr. Pusey joined them in 1835. His influence was felt at once. It was through him that the character of the tracts was changed. In place of the short and incomplete papers such as the earlier tracts had been, Nos. 67, 68 and 69 formed the three parts of a pamphlet of more than three hundred pages. The tracts henceforth were grave and carefully worked out es-

About this time Dr. Pusey wrote his tracts on fasting. Shortly after he published his elaborate treatise on bap tism, which was followed by other tracts from different authors.

A cry was heard on all sides that the and the writings of the Fathers would lead the members of the move ment to become Catholics before they were aware of it.

were heard in 1838. At that time the Bishop in charge made some reproofs on the tracts. The Bishop, however, did not require their withdrawal and for a time all was quiet.

The following year, 1839, Dr. Newman received a serious blow to his ecclesiastical views. For the first time doubts of the tenableness of Anglicanism were beginning to dawn upon him. While he was reading the history of the Monophysites a triend placed in his hands Bishop Wiseman's article on "The Anglican Claims." In it he found the key to the Monophysite difficulty. For a moment the veil was lifted and he felt "that the Church of Rome will be found right after all. Then it darkened again, and, disgusted with himself, he resolved only to trust to reason.

He mentioned the doubt at the time to only two persons, but he could no longer speak with the same clearness and confidence as to the validity of the Auglican position. Before August, 1839, he had always strongly condemned the Roman Church. He no longer attacked Rome as schismatical. His new position was that "Rome is the Church and we are the church," and there is no need to inquire which of the two has defected most from the apostolic standard. This is the view which he puts forward in the article on "The Catholicity of the English Church," which appeared in January, 1840, and was the first result of his restored tranquility of mind.

On the appearance of the celebrated tract 90 early in 1841 the suspicions and alarms which had long been smouldering among those in power, at last flared up, and a storm burst over the heads of the party.

This tract was written by Dr. Newman to prove that the Articles do not contradict Catholic teaching, that they but partially oppose Roman dogmas, and for the most part are directed against the dominant errors of Rome. He at once wrote a letter to the Bishop expressing his readiness to comply but vindicating the tracts in general. and tract 90 in particular, from the charges brought against them. This was the end of the controversy so far as Dr. Newman himself was concerned.

Between July and November of this same year, 1841, he received three blows which crushed him. In translating St. Athanasius, the old doubt returned. In the Arian history more clearly than in the Monophysites the truths lay with the extreme Church, and the thought "that the Church of Rome will be found right after all returned. He was in the misery of this new unsettlement when the second blow came. The Bishops one after another denounced the tracts. Dr.

Newman recognized it as a condemna- great organized ministry of women in tion. At first he intended to protest, but gave up the thought in despair. But under the third blow he could not remain silent. This was the celebrated Jerusalem bishopric. He made solemn protest and sent it to the Archbishop of Canterbury and also to his Bishop. From this time Dr. Newman ab stained more and more from taking an active share in the movement. He had to consider before all things the effect of his action on a large party which had hitherto acknowledged him as their leader, and which an important step on his part might break up and disorganize. When the Roman question became more and more pressing he was torn with conflicting attractions and motives. He could not go to Rome "on account of the honors paid to the Blessed Virgin and the saints. His great desire was for union with Rome as Church with Church. During this time he held back others from Rome for many reasons. Some, he thought, were acting through excitement, others again had been intrusted to him by their Anglican friends or guardians. Of course he could not advise others to do what he could not do himself.

During all these years a change had taken place in the movement. A new younger body of men had come into it, cutting across the old line of thought and bending it to their own. Dr. Newman's restraining hand was removed in great measure from the extreme party it at once came more prominently forward and asserted its Roman tendencies. Dr. Newman had resigned the editorship of the British resigned the editorship of the blitter.

Critic, which had passed into the hands of Ward and Oakley. This review was the prinipal public medium through which Ward and Oakley urged their views upon the Oxford party. Ward's writings may be said to have consisted in a prolonged com-parison of the English Church with the Roman Church. And in the general result the comparison became more and more in favor of the Roman complaints which did not become less fond as time went on. In 1843 the review came to an end, and its place was taken by the Christian Remembrancer, which was conducted by the more moderate party or the Pusevites.

This same year, 1843, Dr. Newman took two very important and significant steps. In February he wrote a retraction of all the hard things he had ever said against the Church of Rome, and in September resigned St. Mary's, including Littlemore.

The Puseyite Review caused a great of a Christian Church." This was published in June, 1844, and from Kettle river country the line crosses university authorities. A committee is now well known, is to day one of of the board examined the book. A the greatest gold and silver-producing

The first threatenings of the crisis | number of startling propositions were with ease picked out, and they sub-mitted it to convocation. On Feb. 13 convocation met. Mr. Ward's book was condemned and he was deprived of all his university degrees. Feby. 13, 1845, or the day on which Ward and his book were con-demned, is looked upon as the conclusion of the first stage of the movement. From that moment the decision of a number of good and able men who had once promised to be among the most valuable servants of the Church of England became clear. If it were doubtful before in many cases whether they would stay with her, the doubt existed no longer. It was only a question of time when they would break the tie and renounce their old allegi-In the bitter and in many cases agonizing struggle which they had gone through as to their duty to God and conscience a sign seemed now to be given them which they could not mistake. They were in-vited on the one side to come; they were told sternly and scornfully on th other to go. It was no secret what was coming. Through the autumn and the next year friends whose names and forms were familiar in Oxford one by one left it. In September Ward was received into the Catholic Church. The following October Newman asked admission to her fold. Then Faber, Manning, Spencer, Oakley, Morris and a host of others followed.

There is no sadder passage to be found in the history of Oxford than the behavior and policy of the heads of the University towards this religious movement. The movement was for its first year a loyal and earnest effort to serve the cause of the Church. Its ob jects were clear and reasonable. It aimed at creating a sincere and intelli-gent zeal for the Church. Its leaders were men of learning who knew what they were talking about, men of religious and pure and severe lives. They were not men given merely to specula tion and criticism, but men ready to forego anything, to devote everything to the practical work of elaborating re ligiousthought and life. Some could not understand how these reasonable men could become Catholics. They ac counted for it by supposing a hankering after the pomp of Catholic worship. worship. Their thoughts dwelt con-tinually on "image" worship and the adoration of saints. But what really was astir was something much deeper. The men who doubted about the Church of England saw in Rome a strong, logical, consistent theory of religion, not of yesterday nor to day, in full work and fruitful in great results. There was also the immense amount which they saw in Rome of self-denial and self devotion, the surrender of home and family in the clergy, the works of mercy; the resolute abandonment of the world and its attractions in the religious life. If in England there flourished the homely and modest types of goodness, for the heroic men must look to Rome, to the rock built Church of Christ.

VANCOUVER, VICTORIA AND EASTERN RAILWAY AND NAVIGATION CO.

As a bill to incorporate the above Company is now before Parliament, i may not be out of place to state briefly the object the promoters of the enter-prise have in view in coming before Parliament asking for articles incorporating them into a Company for constructing, operating and maintaining the aforesaid Railway.

It is proposed to begin the said Railway at a point on Burrard Inlet, in the City of Vancouver, in the Province of British Columbia; thence to run in a southerly direction to and across the Fraser river; thence through the municipalities of Delta, Surrey, Langley, Matsqui, Sumas and Chilliwack to a point near the village of Hope; thence across the Cascade range of mountains, and through the southerly portions of Nicola Okanagan valley into the great mining districts of Rock Creek, Kettle River, Boundary Creek and Trail Creek river ; thence easterly to the boundary of the said Province, a distance of about six hundred miles; with branch line from some point on the main line south of New Westminister City to some point at or near Point Roberts, with a ferry across the Gulf of Georgia to Sydney, thence over the Sydney Railway to the City of Victoria. Crossing the south branch of the Fraser river, the road then passes through about one hundred miles of a well-settled and rich agricultural country before the first mountain range is reached. This section has no rail way communication at present with either the coast cities or the great mining regions in the interior of British Columbia. After crossing the first mountain range the line passes through the beautiful fertile valleys of the Nicola and Okanagan, which for richness and climate equals anything n the world. After crossing the Okanagan river the line will enter the great mining country of Boundary Creek and Kettle river districts, where thousands of mineral claims have been discovered and located, among them being some of the largest and richest in the world; but owing to lack of railway communication they deal of excitement and alarm among the Romanizers. Party feeling was with profit or advantage: but as soon the Romanizers. Farty feeling was with profit or advantage; out as soon as this line is constructed there is no doubt but that this district will have to work and wrote his famous "Ideal the largest ore producing camps the that date till the following December the second mountain range and enters no official notice was taken of it by the the great Kootenay country, which, as thousands of people are residing in the towns of Rossland, Trail, Nelson, New Denver, Nakusp, Kaslo, Three Forks, Sandon and other localities, and their numbers are daily being augumented. New towns have sprung up, and are springing up every year, until the trade of that district is now one of the greatest in Canada. Owing to the lack of railway facilities in that section of British Columbia, the trade is largely monopolized by the City of Spokane, and other cities across the boundary in the United States. Although British Columbia has the mines, the United States cities get the benefit of the trade. It is true that the Canadian Pacific Railway, by a circuitous route, has a connection with a part of Kootenay, but the distance is so great, and the freight rates so high, that the merchants and others of the coast cities, in British Columbia, cannot compete with the traders of Spokane, Seattle and Tacoma, in the United States. Consequently the greater part of this great trade is lost to Canada.

The main object of this enterprise is to bring the great mining trade of Boundary Creek, Kettle river and Kootenay, to the coast cities of British Columbia, by the shortest possible route, and thereby preserve the min ing trade of that section of the Province for the people of Canada. the shortest possible route to Kootenay, at present, either by the Canadian Pacific or the Great Northern Railways with steamboat connections on the inland waters, is takes about three days from Van-couver to reach Rossland, but by the construction of the projected road it can easily be done in twenty hours. thereby giving the cities of that Pro vince direct communication with Kootenay, and the control of a trade which is now going to the United States—a trade which is unlimited in its extent and will increase from year to year to year, as new mines are developed and new districts are opened up. Under the present conditions in ootenay the greater part of the ore is shipped to the smelters of Great Falls coma, Everett and Butte, in the United States. Any person can see that though British Columbia has every facility for doing this business, yet, owing to the absence of railway connections, they are prevented from utilizing what is their own. By the construction of this railway it is certain that a new era would dawn, and the mining trade of the Province would be kept within its own boundaries. They would then enjoy what they claim to be their heritage. The ore which is now smelted in the United States would be either smelted on the ground or in the coast cities. All the freight which is now shipped into Kootenay at an enormous expense would be taken in at one-half the cost, over the proposed road, and in one quarter of the time. The trade is now established and is only waiting to be carried to the great trade centres of British Columbia.

As projected the line passes through at least two hundred miles of magnificent farming country, one hundred miles of which is at present settled up, and the remaining one hundred miles will be speedily settled as soon as an outlet for the products is assured, while the other four hundred miles traverse a mineral and timber country without an equal on the continent. Boundary Creek and Kettle River camps are de pending on this road for the opening up of that wonderful country, as without it very little can be done for the enormous mountains of ore lying dor mant in these sections of the Province. The line, after crossing the Cascade mountains, will run south easterly about one hundred miles south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Rail

Others have found health, vigor and vitality in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it surely has power to help you also. Why not try it?

Fifty Years Ago.

Grandfather's hat! And within it you see, Grandfather's favorite cough remedy Whether 'twas Asthma, Bronchitis or

Or baby at night waked the house with a With Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Gran'ther That no cold or cough would e'er fail of a

In hats the styles change, but the records will show Coughs are cured as they were 50 years ago.

~~~~~ Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has no equal as a remedy for coughs, colds, and lung diseases. Where other soothing elixirs palliate, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral heals. It is not a cheap cough syrup, which soothes but does not strengthen; it is a physician's cough remedy, and it cures. It is put up in large bottles, only, for household use. It was awarded the medal at the World's Fair of ninety-three.

It has a record of 50 Years of Cures. The First of these Monthly Competitions will commence January 1st, 1897, and will be continued each month during 1897.

$1,625 IN BIGYCLES GIVEN FREE AND WATCHES FACH MONTH As Follows:

Bicycles and Watches given each month . .

Total given during year 1897, $19,500 HOW TO OBTAIN THEM.

HOW TO OBTAIN THEM.

Competitors to save as many "sanlight"

As a Wapper sa they can collect. Cut of desires, prize will be awarded as follows:

The top portion of each wrapper-that, portion, containing the leading "s N 114, 43 T

The top per top sent enclosed with a sheet of paper on which the conjugation of the pons" are to be sent enclosed with a sheet of paper on which the conjugation of the pons of the pon Western Ontario, consisting of Counties York, Simcoe & all Counties W. and S. of these East'n Ontarie, consisting of Counties On-tario, Muskoka & all Counties E & N. of these competing.

4. A printed list of winners in competitor's district will be forwarded to competitors 21 days after each competition closes.

5. Massrs. Lever Brothers, Ltd., will endeavor to award the prizes fairly to the best of their ability and judgment, but it is understood that all who compete agree to accept the award of Messrs. Lever Brothers, Ltd. as interest. Province of Rue bec Province of Nova Scotin and Prince Edward Island
Syracuse, N.Y., & Toronto, Out. Each wheel is guaranteed by the makers and has complete attachments way, and about one hundred and fifty miles north of the Great Northern Rail way (in the United States).

This territory, tributary to the Van-couver, Victoria and Eastern Railway, will prove to be a profitable one for traffic purposes; but without railway facilities it will not develop, as it is believed it will do once there are modern facilities afforded to the settlers and miners of the several districts it is proposed to tap, to reach the markets with their produce, cheaply and expediously.

In reference to the great benefits which will accrue to the farming community along this line, it may be stated that last winter hay was selling in Vancouver and other coast cities for $5 per ton, while in the towns of Kootenay it was quouted at $28 per ton; yet, owing to the enormous freight charges, t coud not be profitably shipped into he mining country at this latter price It is also a well-known fact that the farm markets of British Columbia are limited, and any outlet provided for the agricultural produce of the interior will be hailed with approval, particularly when such an outlet can be found within their own Province. By the construction of this road the farming industry of the country would receive a new impetus, and holdings that are now lying dormant, would again come to life, and live and prosper on the trade which is now supporting the farmers of the State of Washington.

Along the line of the proposed rail way are also to be found immense coal deposits which are believed to be the largest undeveloped areas in Canada, if not in America. In fact everything necessary to operate the mines of British Columbia is to be found along the route of the said railway, and instead of bringing coke from England, as the smelters are compelled to do at present, at an enormous cost, it could be tained within easy reach, together with everything else which is required for smelting purposes.

The undertaking has everything in its favor, and although the construction of the road will be very expensive through the mountain regions, yet the possibilities and the advantages to be derived by the whole community are great and mean everything to the people of Canada, and British Columbia in particular.

The enterprise has been endorsed by resolutions from the Councils of the City of Victoria, the City of Vancouver and the Municipalities of Delta, Surrey, Langley, Matsqi, Sumasand Chilliwack being nearly all the corporations interested along the line of the proposed railway. These are doing everything possible to assist the undertaking, and all join in urging that the charter be granted at this session, if possible, so that operations on construction may begin and be carried to completion without the least possible delay

Companions of the Holy Saviour.

A new order of ministers of the Protestant Episcopal Church has been recently established in Philadelphia. In its name, rules and objects the order esembles the orders of the Catholic Church. It is known as the Congregation of the Companions of the Holy Saviour.

It has been established with the full knowledge and consent of Bishop Whitaker, and has at present eight novices, who have taken the vows of poverty, charity and obedience for the period of two years. At the end of their novitiate they will take the same vows for life. They will receive no salary for their services and can accept nothing for themselves individually—everything they receive becoming the properity of the order. The objects in view include the teaching of theology, preaching and the direction of souls. They will devote themselves wholly to the ministry, and all candidates for membership must be able to read Latin and Greek. Most of the novices understand French also. According to their talents they will be assigned to teaching schools of divinity, to preaching, conducting retreats and to the "direction of souls." latter phrase was found on inquiry to "hearing confessions," Rev. Mr. McGarvey says, is practiced more or less in at least three fourths of the Episcopal parishes of that city, though confession is not made obli-

Perfect and permanent are the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it makes pure, rich, healthy, life and health-giving BLOOD.

THE WILL & BAUMER CO.

Bleachers and Refiners of Beeswax, and Manufacturers of

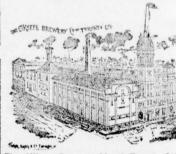

The Celebrated Purissma and Altar Brand . . . . .

and Baumer's Patent Finish Beeswax Candles. . . . . .

Acknowledged by all to be the best, and in use upon the altars of the Catholic churches throughout the United States.

Samples and prices will be cheerfully sent

The Will & Baumer Co. 943 13 SYRACUSE, N. Y.

The O'Keele Brewery CO. of Toronto, Ltd. SPECIALTIES: Righ-class English and Bavarian Hopped Ales; XXX Porter and Stout. Pilsener:Lager of world-wide reputation. E. OKEEFE, W. HAWKE, J. G. GIBSON, Pres. Vice-Pres. Sec-Tres

High-Class Church Hobbs Mfg. Co. London, Ont.

ASK FOR DESIGNS.

-OBJECTS OF THE-

The object of this Agency is to supply, at the regular dealers' prices, any kind of goods imported or manufactured in the United States.

The advantages and conveniences of this Agency are many, a few of which are:

1st. It is situated in the heart of the whole-salejtrade of the metropolis, and has complete such arrangements with the leading manufacturers and importers as enable it to purchaselis any quantity at the lowest wholesale rates, thus getting its profits or commissions from the importers or manufacturers, and hence—

2nd. No extra commissions are charged its patrons on purchases made for them, and giving them besides the benefit of my experience and facilities in the actual prices charged.

3rd. Should a patron want several different articles, embracing as many separate trades or lines of goods, the writing of only one letter to this Agency will insure the prompt and correct filling of such orders. Besides, there will be only one express or freight charge.

4th. Persons outside of New York, who may not know the address of houses selling a partisular line of goods, can get such goods all the same by sending to this Agency.

5th. Clergymen and Religious Institutions and the trade buying from this Agency are allowed the regular or usual discount.

Any business matters, outside of buying and selling goods, entrusted to the attention or management of this Agency, will be strictly and conscientiously attended to by your giving me authority to act as your agent. Whenever you want to buy anything send your orders to New York Catholic Agency

THOMAS D. EGAN, Datholic Agency, 42 Barclay St. New York, NEW YORK.

REID'S HARDWARE

For Grand Rapids Carpet Sweepers Superior Carpet Sweepers Sinceperette, the latest Wringers, Mangles Cutlery, etc.

118 DUNDAS STREET, North Side. LONDON, Ont.

DR. WOODRUFF, NO. 185 QUEEN'S AVE, Defective vision, impaired hearing, nasal catarrh and troublesome throats. Eyes tasted, glasses adjusted. Hours, 12 to 4.

the place to serv Such, brethren, Year's Day. Th point of the whole appreciate that t ent time, is of g past and the futi right. We shou proper condition fering, the joy a: ing year; and should use the p that it is worth. this is the day of you a happy Ne heard and said and that is a g wishes don't put or pay off the mo or even put a fa They are pleasar we repeat, they the better if, as are likely to be

DECEMBER

FIVE-MINU

Sunday within th

THE ACCE

be as good a Chi because I am too vou see he takes by saying, "I the Christian." He tioned by our one who says, L into the kingdon adds, "but he v Father who is i Saviour shows t the one who say -the good-wish Don't you see the you are putting God? Can't vo think more high tertain to day t whom you pu First come, fi comes before C created you. created you. (you. God the you. Is any b tion, redemptio But somebody that is all true, religious duties My occupations I must wo family will suffe must be someth Is it really poss positively cann night and mor attend at Mass-If so, then yo have been class situated, but th cause they rel effective measu and succeeded tried? Have y off work to at duties? Are day's wages of tions. Be hon not blame you yourself until quest and been

The time to the place is r principle upo school teacher industrious yo They find tim help parents ar dren of the par be said of the gentlemen of t Conference, th others who un in this parish and practical, They a their neighbo and doing it r It is in this hope all the g New Year ma day and that in body and and among ye

Catho

A Governm

the Protestan

growing evil on the teachin on the Sacram Large an ber of divorce it is an under for the wide Roman Catho would be mu of the Cathol doctrines of t that one of the Church marriage as when census in no other m unquestional the volume of beets assumi It is the me Eve, muscle, ent and stre h and health sease will soon willa has po and during t

FIVE-MINUTE'S SERMON.

1896

NTH

vor to award nd judgment, ree to accept

ER CO.

tent Finish

.. . . . . .

heerfully sent

Terente, Ltd.

n Hopped Ales;

26 BELLS

TIMORE, MD.

Class

Ont.

OR DESIGNS.

C Agency
o supply, at the d of goods imnited States, iences of this h are:
t of the wholehas completed ding manufaeto purchase is sale rates, thus sale rates, thus sale rates, thus server and giving experience and arged.
everal different separate trades only one letter orompt and corides, there will arke.

arge. York, who may selling a partic-n goods all the us Institutions his Agency are ount.

of buying and te attention or vill be strictly by your giving
int. Whenever your orders to

EGAN,

t. New York.

rpet Sweepers ers

North Side.

UEEN'S AVE. ired bearing. throats. Eyes , 18 to 4.

ARE

mer Co.

the best, rs or the shout the

Sunday within the Octave of Christmas

THE ACCEPTABLE TIME. The time to serve God is now, and the place to serve God is right here. Such, brethren, is the lesson of New Year's Day. This day is the starting-point of the whole year, and we should proper condition for the labor and suf-fering, the joy and sorrow, of the com-ing year; and that means that we years old. The Angel of the Lord told should use the present moment for all that it is worth. Of course, brethren, this is the day of big wishes: "I wish you a happy New Year," we all have heard and said many times to day; and that is a good thing. But good wishes don't put money in the bank, or pay off the mortgage on your home, or even put a fat turkey on the table. They are pleasant and charitable, and, we repeat, they are good things-all the better if, as a matter of fact, they are likely to be fulfilled.

Now, many a one says: "I cannot be as good a Christian as I should wish because I am too busy just now." you see he takes it out in good wishes by saying, "I wish I could be a good Christian." He is one of those mentioned by our Saviour: "Not every one who says, Lord! Lord! shall enter into the kingdom of heaven"; and He adds, "but he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven." Thus our Saviour shows the difference between the one who says and the one who does the good-wisher and the well door. Don't you see that by simply wishing you are putting your business above God? Can't you understand that you think more highly of the guest you entertain to day than you do of the one whom you put off till to-morrow? First come, first served: and who comes before God? God the Father created you. God the Son redeemed you. God the Holy Ghost sanctified you. Is any business equal to creation, redemption, and sanctification? But somebody might insist: Father, that is all true, and yet what I say is true. I am too busy to attend to my religious duties, and I cannot help it. My occupations force themselves upon me. I must work as I do, or I and my family will suffer. I answer. There must be something wrong about this. Is it really possible that you are compelled to work in such a way that you positively cannot receive Communion a few times a year; cannot say your night and morning prayers; cannot attend at Mass-is this really the case If so, then you are a slave. There have been classes of men among us so situated, but they are not so now, because they rebelled against it, took effective measures to remedy the evil and succeeded in doing so. Have you tried? Have you asked leave to get off work to attend to your religious duties? Are you willing to lose a day's wages once in a while for the love of God? Think over these questions. Be honest with yourself. Do not blame your employer or excuse yourself until you have made your request and been refused.

The time to serve God is now, and the place is right here. That is the principle upon which our Sunday-school teachers act. They are busy, industrious young men and women They find time, however, not only to take care of their own souls, but to help parents and priests to save the chil dren of the parish. Much the same may be said of the members of the choir, the gentlemen of the St. Vincent de Paul Conference, the Altar Society, and all others who unite themselves with us in the good works of religion and charity in this parish. To such souls, active and practical, every day is New Year's Day. They are always beginning or carrying on some good work for God, their neighbor, and their own souls, and doing it right here and just now It is in this spirit, brethren, that I hope all the good wishes of a Happy New Year may be received by you to day and that you may be truly happy in body and soul, in your families, and among your friends. Amen.

Catholics and Divorce.

A Government inspector writing to the Protestant Church Review of the growing evil of divorce has this to say on the teachings of the Catholic Church on the Sacrament of marriage :

'Large and increasing as the num ber of divorces in the United States is it is an undeniable fact that were it not for the widespread influence of the Roman Catholic Church the number would be much greater. The loyalty of the Catholics to the teachings and doctrines of their Church, and the fact that one of the cardinal doctrines of the Church is that Christ instituted marriage as a holy sacrament, which when consummated can be dissolved no other cause and and in no other manner save by death, has unquestionalby served as a barrier to the volume of divorce, which, except among the members of that Church, is and during the past twenty years has beets assuming ever-increasing pro-portions throughout the country."

is the medium which carries to every we, muscle, organ and fibre its nourished and strength. If the blood is pure, and healthy you will be well; if impure, sase will soon overtake you. Hood's Sarsailla has power to keep you in health by ging your blood rich and pure.

OD'S PILLS are easy to take, easy to te. Cure indigestion, biliousness. 2

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Childermas.

Oaly three days after Christmas the Church calls us to keep the Feast of the Holy Innocents. In old times this day was called "Childermas," and is to honor the memory of those dear little children who were snatched from their years old. The Angel of the Lord told St. Joseph to take the Blessed Virgin and the Infant Jesus into a distant country, and He was gone when the little children were murdered. This lovely band of infant Martyrs now stand before the throne of God, and thank Him that they were permitted to suffer for Christ's sake; and you, too, dear boys and girls, though you may not be called upon to die for your dear Lord, have your little sorrows and sufferings, which you may offer to Him with the sufferings of Jesus, and your offering will be accepted.

How the Christ Flowers Came.

It was Christmas Eve in the Black Forest. The whirling snow touched the tree tops; the starry flakes clung to the branches or fluttered down, pure as rose petals wafted about on the breath of angels. Soon the frozen earth was hid from view and a great white world waited, in solemn expecta-tion, the coming of the Christ-Child. Silence lay upon the forest. The charcoal burners tended their smoldering fires and dreamed of home, or, with simple faith, listened for the shep-herds' message and the angels' song. When the midnight hour was nigh a ound broke the stillness, the wail of a child in distress. The charcoal burners crossed themselves, and huddled "'Tis the cry from Bethlehem," said ohann reverently. "The Christ-Child is born."

"No child of the Black Forest would be abroad to night?" asked Hans, un-easily. "It might not be one of our little children ?"

"Not so," asserted Michael, a sturdy giant. "No hausmutter in the Black Forest could be so careless. Content thee, Hans, thy little ones snug in their cot dream of the angels, while thy good frau guards their sleep. It is, as Johann says, the echo from Bethlehem, or mayhap we have nodded and dreamed.

Hans was silent, but presently stole away into the snow-wreathed depths of the forest. A voice in his heart was urging him on.

"May the star of Bethlehem guide me aright," he prayed. "If a child be abroad this holy night, lead me, dear God, to Thy little one."

Again the wail of distress smote upon his ear; a sob was the answer to his prayer; and stooping down the charcoal burner lifted from the snow a babe, scantily wrapped in swaddling clothes. Its feeble strength was almost spent, so placing it in his breast Hans ped through the forest toward his

The hausmutter sat by her babes, her ant in the glow of the Christmas lights

Gretchen looking on, a great content in their hearts.

Suddenly a radiance not of earth illumined the humble abode; the waif was encircled by a glory that deepened and spread, till the charcoal-burner's hut became as an ante-chamber of heaven. Hans and Gretchen fell on their knees in adoration. The babe they had harbored was passing from their vision, floating upward as if borne on angel's wings, his tiny hands outspread in parting benediction.

The children wept for the loss of their playmate.

"Hush thee, my darlings," whispered the mother. "Know you 'twas the dear Christ Child, who came to us, and hath returned to heaven. To morrow thy father shall show thee the spot where he found the Holy Babe.'

When the morrow came Hans led the little ones into the forest, and where had been a bed of snow, low! flowers bloomed, great waxen blossoms with hearts of gold and petals like silken

"The Christ flowers!" cried little Greta, and kneeling before them, as at a shrine, the peasants solemnly recorded a vow to succor each Christmas Day some poor child in honor of the Holy One, who had been their guest. And so, in the Black Forest, is still told this legend of how the Chrysan-themums or Christ flowers came. —

Mary B. O'Sullivan in Donahoe's Magazine.

So thorough is the excellence of Ayer's Hair Vigor that it can be used with benefit by any person, no matter

CHATS WITH YOUNG MEN.

"The devil has planted his own especial sin deep in the heart of every man: and the hardest struggle of all, in the saints' lives, has been the struggle against pride. There is no greater heroism to day than that of the point of the whole year, and we should appreciate that the day itself, the present time, is of greater value than the past and the future. We should start right. We should get our minds in a proper condition for the labor and suffostered and watered by the breath of public opinion. How the devil must laugh to see the sin that caused him the loss of eternal happiness in the sight of God, elevated, enthroned and worshipped as the highest of all virtues

Looking for "a Soft Snap." "I have tried five different employments," says a correspondent, "and I haven't found one that suits me. What shall I do?"

Take a big dose of stick at it iveness. You lack persistence. You are looking for a work that has no drawbacks. every other business. As there is none such, the followers of every pursuit have to endure its disadvantages as well as enjoy its pleasant fruits. Sclect the most congenial employment and then keep everlastingly at it until you have mastered it and gotten up at the lead of the profession.

Affable Manners.

There are thousands of engaging ways which every person may put on without running the risk of being deemed either affective or foppish. The sweet smile, the quite cordial bow, the earnest movement in addressing a friend, or more especially a stranger who may be recommended to us, the graceful attention which is so captivat ing when united with self possession these will insure us the good regards which, in either man or woman, adds a charm that is even more irresistible than beauty.

The Value of Opportunities.

A few paragraphs from Michael J. way, because they arrive on the scene fluence and command the respect and just as it has taken its departure, to extort the approval of all men. quote from the article, into the realm of the bygone, from whose bowers it ner to their fellows. Genius, talent, wealth, social position, are gifts that carry shining opportunities with them easily and naturally, but the experience of the world demonstrates that enable any one to turn existence to the highest possible advantage. The best opportunities are those which a man makes for himself, and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is, that a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most encouraging feature of the subject is a man cau so mould his life and the most face, beautiful with mother-love, radi- will land character, that opportunities will spring up around him, created by burning on the humble tree.

And so Hans found her.

"I have brought thee one more, Gretchen," he said as he placed the babe on her bosom. "Succor it for the Christ Child's sake."

"I have brought thee one more, Gretchen," he said as he placed the babe on her bosom. "Succor it for the Christ Child's sake."

"I will spring up around him, created by his own native energy and will force are the levellers and equalizers of men. Their potency in material affairs has never yet been exhausted. They have elevated the patient plodder of times played about him merrily, Hans and of human progress and development, Gretchen looking on, a great content oftentimes when the luminous intelects, which might have cleared and made easier the path, were content to onceal their light and confine their resources beneath the bushel of indifference or sloth."

Self-Analysis.

"If people could only see themhat often goes up from some would-beeformer. This is, of course, impossible : but I believe we may see ourselves as we really are, whether others see us thus or not. See ourselves as others see us would be but a kaleidoscopic view at best, since all are not apt to see us alike. But surely, we who are really behind the scenes must know ourselves better that they who judge only from appear-We know our motives for our ances. actions, and, though we may be doing our best that seems possible to our fal ible judgment, our motives are often misconstrued by others.

We often see things done by our neighbors which we feel prone to critiize, when if we had done these same things ourselves they would have appeared all right to us. And since we know this to be true, why can we not ms best to them?

should doubtless grow dissatisfied with our narrowness of soul, and be led to aspire to greater magnanimity.

But the trouble is, we don't do this often enough—wedon't make that rigid self-examination. We all, doubtless, have a vague, ever-present knowledge of our temperament ; but we don't ex amine deep enough. If we did we couldn't be satisfied with ourselves, but would strive to be something noblerto overcome selfishness, to conquer the brute in us, to subdue sensuality, to be If there were any such occupation, all more generous and kinder to others; the world would take to it and quit and, in earnestly striving, we would eventually become so.

No one can know us so well as we might if we would but take the trouble to become acquainted with our own characteristics. If we don't do this it is our own fault; but we can do it only by putting ourselves through a course iously, perseveringly and consistently he carries out his design, or what apparent success he may achieve, he will never exert a proper influence on those about him, or give meaning and completeness to his life, if he be destitute or dignity and force of character, said Bishop Byrne, of Nashville, to the manner which should be cultivated, and factor in all the great revolutions of the world, whether social, political or religious, because it is the only true our calculations, whether in A Description of this famous Mexican Pilgrimage. sympathies and aspirations of truth. If his sympathies be with the innocent Dwyer's article on Opportunities in and oppressed; if his aspirations rise to bonahue's Magazine are worth repeat what is honorable and noble, then will ing for the benefit of those who think his life possess a latent force and a that the opportunity to be good, or gracious charm which will attract and great, or useful, never comes their subdue those within the range of its in-

A man of sterling integrity of character will be impressed with a vivid consciousness of what is due to himself. will never return.

"It is a mistake to suppose that consciousness of what is due to himself. He will be self-respecting; never doing opportunities come alone to the se whom nature has blessed in a superior manto do before the world; never squandering his love and lavishing his attentions on strangers, reserving only the poverty of his heart and vulgar side of his nature for those who should be near and the dignity of a saint. est and dearest to him on earth; never

We hear it sometimes said that it will not do for a Gatholic to openly avow his convictions; that his religion will close against him the avenues of honorable ambition. It cannot be denied that there exists a prejudice against babe on her bosom. "Succor it for the Child's sake."

Inever yet been exhausted. They have elevated the patient plodder of times above the genius. They have made the mother, gently, and her love flowed out to the waif, warming it back to life.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and, seeing the stranger, rose from their cot, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and, seeing the stranger, rose from their cot, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and, seeing the stranger, rose from their cot, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the hut.

The slumbering children stirred and wakened, and presently the superior of the post to the attent that a very large proportion of nominal Protestants, for one reason or other, rarely if ever enter a church or come under any Christian in its essence and therefore to be preferred to infidelity or to mere religious indifference.

The slumbering children stirred and point its at large extent at least Christian in its essence and therefore to be preferred to infidelity or to mere religious indifference.

The slumbering children stirred to infidelity or to mere religious indifference.

The slumbering children stirred to inf Catholics; that it is active without being apparent; that it pervades our wakened, and, seeing the stranger, rose from their cot, and presently the hut again that the race is not always to the rang with their rejoicing. The lights on the tree twinkled like stars. The children bore their guest towards it, loaded him with its choicest gifts, and presently the human programs and development. and expensive dissipation; if his associates be of the honorable, the virtuous and the wise; if he live not like a papan, while proclaiming himself a Catholic; if his conduct be an exemplification of his professions; if his life e such that he can stand before the world with pure heart and clean hands and challenge its malignity; then I say that in these days and in this land his religion will be no bar to his advancement in any business or profe sion that is worthy of engaging the thoughts or the energy of man. religion of Mr. Taney did not prevent him from reaching the distinguished position of Chief Justice of the United States: and neither did that of Mr. Charles O'Conor prevent him from reaping great emolument from his pro fession and winning the splendid repu tation of being the first lawyer of the land.

There is nothing so commanding, nothing so enduring, nothing that shines with so steady a lustre as nobility of character. It clothes men with a serene majesty and an austere simplicity, the value of which the world recomings as a believe to the service of the se recognizes as being incomparably greater than the bare possession of towering talents. That Franci Bacon was one of the greatest geniuse be charitable enough to give other the world has ever seen there can be people the benefit of the doubt and no manner of doubt; and there can be no manner of doubt; and there can be suppose they do in good faith what just as little doubt that he was one of the most despicable of characters. Not to know our own characteristics While Bacon is remembered partly for can only be possible because of a lack his splendid endowments and partly of self-analysis. It is not a great deal for the dishonorable use he made of of trouble to put ourselves through a course of rigid self examination; and if we are fair-minded we will do this.

Surely we all have a desire to know what may be the condition of the hair, torking who have had experiences can and, in every case, it occasions satisfaction and pleasure, in addition to the boon, pain with them off—pain night and daynt relief is sure to those who use Hollay's Corn Cure.

What may be the condition of the hair, ourselves as we are, and it seems that admired in every country of Europe, has come down to us, not as the representative and embodiment of the culture of his age, but as a great and inventory of these frequently we

THE CATHOLIC HOME AN

Tells You all the Feasts and Fasts Provides an Abundance of Stories. Over 70 Illustrations of Rare Merit.

Parents and Children will be Interested and Instructed by this Really Fine Publication.

A LIST OF THE ATTRACTIONS:

FIRST-PRIZE STORY, "ELIZABETH." . By Marion Ames Taggart, A story of the affections, written with all the power and dramatic ability of this author.

A TRANSATLANTIC MARRIAGE, . By Maurice Francis Egan.

A faithful picture of life in the French quarter of New York.

A breezy frish story by this well-star of self-analysis.

Character the Chief Thing.

No matter how well or how wisely a young man plans his life, or how labor long man plans his life, or how labor longly parseveringly and consistently

A Breezy frish story by this well-star of this wonderful discovery.

A popular account of this wonderful discovery.

By His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons.

With Portrait.

tute or dignity and force of character, said Bishop Byrne, of Nashville, to the graduates of the Christian Brothers' Academy, at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime forter in all the great revolution of the Christian Brothers' Academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime forter in all the great revolution of the Christian Brothers' Academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime forter in all the great revolution of the Christian Brothers' Academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' Academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' Academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' Academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' Academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis, a few weeks ago. Character has been the prime for the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis and the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis and the christian Brothers' academy at Memphis and the christian Bro

THE MIRACULOUS STATUE OF THE INFANT JESUS OF PRAGUE.

word or deed, of man's convictions, sympathies and aspirations of truth.

If his sympathies be with the innocent

AND MANY OTHER ILLUSTRATED STORIES, as "Under the Snow," "The School of Sorrow," "The Fool of the Wood," "Sabine," etc., besides historical and descriptive sketches, anecdotes, poems, etc.

We will Send a Copy of the Catholic Home Annual by Mail Postpaid to any of our Readers on Receipt of Price, 25 cts. Postage Stamps taken.

Address, THE CATHOLIC RECORD, 482 RICHMOND STREET, - LONDON, ONT.

A GOOD WORK.

work that Mr. Moody, the Protestant evangelist has been engaged in in this city. That does not, of course, mean that a Catholic can assent to Mr. and practice of any form of Protestantism is to a large extent at least Chris-school period has been passed. ministers do not and cannot reach these great numbers of unattached and these great numbers of unattached and therefore it is that so many of these so called "evangelizing" methods are employed "Salvationists," "Volunteers," "Praying-bands" and the like.

The temptation. Say nothing to others that you do not think, and play no tricks with your mind. Of all the evil spirits abroad at this hour in the world, insincerity is the most dangerous.

Now most of these irregular methods of gathering unattached Protestants, so s to bring for a time at least religion open to various objections, among which is that most of them tend to bring religion into ridicule and con medicine.

We hear a great deal about purifying the blood. The way to purify it is to enrich it. Blood is not a simple fluid like water. It is made up of minute bodies and when these are deficient, the blood lacks the life-giving principle. Scott's Emulsion is not a mere blood purifier. It actually increases the number of the red corpuscles in the blood and changes unhealthy | The London Business University action into health.

If you want to learn more tells the story in simple words.

212-214 Dundas Street.

We solicit the same liberal patronage which the readers of The Recond extended to us in the past. Satisfaction guaranteed.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville, Ont.

beautiful moral character, or, as Macaulay calls him, "one of the choice speciments of human wisdom his Protestant auditors back from their and virtue," who, rather than assist at the coronation of Anne Boleyn and thus compromise by one tithe the constant selves permanently to some form or victions of his faith, laid his head upon other of Christianity, even though it the block with the courage of a martyr and the dignity of a saint.

be one of the defective forms that compose the Protestant sects. And it is to be added as greatly in his favor that Mr. Moody has all along through Every Christian must commend the lasted now very many years, been not only courteous and magnanimous, but even cordial in his references to the Catholic Church and religion.
When one reflects how many Catholics there are in all our large cities who the Christian religion. But all Catholics acknowledge that sincere belief in audiences, there arises a feeling of re-gret that we Catholics have not some

Be honest with yourself, whatever

The Children's Enemy.

Scrofula often shows itself in early life and is characterized by swellings, abscesses, hip diseases, etc. Consumption is scrofula of the lungs. In this class of diseases Scott Emulsion is unquestionably the most reliable preclicing.

bring religion into ridicule and contempt because of the sensationalism that forms a part of most of these methods.

But for Mr. Moody it can be said that he is sincere, is earnest, pious, really appears to love God and the cause of Christ as he understands it, and is eminently successful through cases of deafness being cured by the use of this medicine."

The Best Pills—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sydrey Crossing, Ont., writes: "We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best Pills we ever used." For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have peen saved if proper remedies had been used. In attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

Rich red Blood is the foundation of good health. That is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier, gives HEALTH.

and Academy of Shorthand . and Typewriting . . . . . al College.)

W. N. YEREK, Principal.

BANNERS, COLLARS, FLAGS, EMBLEMS FOR BRANCH HALLS GAVELS, BALLOT BOXES, CUSHING'S MANUELS.

CATHOLIC SOCIETY REGALIA OF ALL KINDS C.M.B.A. REVERSIBLE BADGES FOR EASTER COMMUNIONS A SPECIALTY

F. P. Tansey, 14 Drummond-st., Montreal, Que.

I. C. B. U. RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

Paris, 18th Dec., 1896.

At the last regular meeting of the Paris branch of the I. C. B. U. the following resolu-branch of the I. C. B. U, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove by death the beloved mother and brother of our pastor, Father Keogh,
Resolved that we, the members of this branch of the I. C. B. U., tender to our esteemed pastor our deep sympathy in the loss sustained by him in the death of his mother and brother, Resolved that the members of this branch here assembled, offer to God our fervent prayers for the repose of the souls of said diseased. Be it, further,
Resolved that a copy of this resolution be mailed to Father Keogh and a copy forwarded to the CATIOLIC RECORD for publication.
Thos. Murray, Pres.
Edward J. Stapleton, Rec. Sec.

C. T. S.

ST. MARY'S BRANCH, TORONTO.

The regular monthly meeting of the branch was held in their hall, Bathurst street. The attendance was very large, and for the future the society will find it necessary to secure a larger hall, and it is to be hoped that such will be the case before the next meeting. The branch has made marvellous strides during the year past, the membermeeting. The branch has made marvellous strides during the year past, the member-ship now numbering about two hundred persons.

Reports were brought in by the following committees: The hospital (Miss M. Kelly, convener); the prisons (men), the prisons (women, Mrs. Haines, convener); the flower committee (Miss Teresa Clark, convener); the magazine (Miss K. Clarke, convener); to the effect that visits had been made to the different bosnitals and prisons, and about six the magazine (Miss K. Clarke, convener); to the effect that visits had been made to the different hospitals and prisons, and about six hundred prayer books, newspapers, devotion al articles, magazines, etc., were distributed to the Catholic inmates. Motions were presented dealing with the increase of the membership fee (which was defeated), and also with the establishment of a "question box," and the closing of the business of our meetings at 9:15 p.m; both of which were carried. Nominations for the different effices were then received, with the result that the entire list of efficiers for the year 1866 were elected by acclamation to fulfil these duties for 1897; The efficers are as fellows, viz.: Patron, His Grace, Archbishop Walsh; Honorary President, Very Rev. J. J. McCann, V. G., President, Dr. A. J. McDonagh; Vice Pres., Mr. John Doyle; Rec. Sec., Miss K. O'Rourke; Fin. Sec., Miss Teresa Clarke; cor, Sec., Mr. W. E. Blake; Treas., Mr. B. J. Cronin; Chaplain, Rev. Wm. McCann. The conveners of the different committees are yet to be appointed.

Rev. Father Cline, of St. Paul's parish delivered a very interesting and amusing address. The Rev. Father cartivated his audi-

Rev. Father Cline, of St. Paul's parish delivered a very interesting and amusing address. The Rev. Father captivated his audience, and will always be a welcome visitor to the meetings of the branch.

Vocal selections were admirably tendered by Miss Emma Flannery and Mr. J. J. Walsh, the accompanist being Miss Teresa Clarke, who filled her position with much satisfaction.
Mr. H. O. Vosburg, a talented elocutionist, lats of Buffalo, N. Y., won golden encomiums by his renditions. Mr. Vosburg will undoubtedly prove very popular during the season, and in concert work will without doubt be a drawing card. His rendering of "The Settler's Story" was a splendid piece of "The Settler's Story" was a splendid piece of work, and we bespeak for him a successful future.

K. S. J.

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 17, 1896.

St. Patrick's Commandery No. 212 of the Roman Catholic Union of the Knights of St. John, brought to a close their work for the year 1896 by a social meeting, at which were present members of the Provincial Commandery and representatives from the following subordinate Commanderies: Leo, No. 2; St. Paul's, No. 122; St. Mary's, No. 216; and Columbus, No. 219. The principal features were a sumptuous feast, under the direction of Sir Knight Jas. Nolan, and speeches and songs by prominent members of the order.

After the regular meeting, and after the members had partaken of the lunch, our President, Sir Kright Wm. J. O'Reilly, opened the proceedings by calling upon Bro. John J. Landy for a song, which he rendered in first-class style.

Our Spiritual Director, Rev. Father Hayden, was then asked to address the members, which he did. Among other things which Rev. Father Hayden said was that the Ladies' Auxiliary which St. Patrick's had organized was on a fair road to becoming the Banner Auxiliary which St. Patrick's had organized was on a fair road to becoming the Banner Auxiliary of the union, the members having shown a zeal which nothing could stay. He said that he was pleased to see such a large meeting, and wished the Knights a prosperous and happy New Year wished the Knights a prosperous and happy New Year

Brother Wm. Byron gave a couple of songs, after which Ald. Wm. Burns spoke in the highest terms of the Knights of St. John, and wished them every success.
It remained for Bro. James Burns, of Commandery 219, to captivate the meeting with a stump speech. Bro. James is an ever-ready man and is always in demand.

Speeches by Organizer Hogan and Brother Sec. Moylan, and a song by Col. Kelz, brought the proceedings to a close.

The President, Wm. J. O'Reilly, closed a most er joyable meeting by thanking the members who had contributed so ably towards making the meeting a success, and

St. Joseph's Branch, No. 26, Stratford. Chaplain, Very Rev. E. B. Kilroy, D. D.; President, N. La Marche; Vice Pres., J.
Kastner; Rec. Sec., E. J. Kneitl; Fin, and Ins. Sec., S. Hickey; Trezs, P. Wahl; Stewards, J. Mcl'hee, M. Wick and P.
Golder; Marshal, D. Waters; Asst. Mar., H.
Durkin; I. Guard, J. McGrue; O. Guard,
J. Wick.

Sarsfield Branch, No. 28, Ottawa. Sarsfield Branch, No. 28, Ottawa.
Chaplain, Very Rev. Canon McCarthy;
Chancellor, R. Tobin; President, E. A.
Mara; Vice-Pres, W. J. Keenahan; Rec.
Sec., A. Pegg; F. Sec., J. B. Sullivan; Inc.
Sec., E. Deitz; Treasurer, D. J. Harris;
Stewards, J. Berrigan, J. Dodd. J. Bennet,
J. Carroll, W. J. Keenahan, R. Tobin, M.
Killeen and J. Johnston; Marshal, J.
Maroney; Asst. Marshal, J. Duffey; I.
Guard, W. Curley; O. Gaard, J. Burke.

St. Cecelia's Branch, No. 29, West Toronto Junction. Junction.

Chaplain, Rev. Father Bergin; Chancellor, J. Walsh; President, J. Fahey; Vice Pres., J. Blaney; R. Sec., W. Baylan; Fin. and Ins. Sec., J. Farrell; Treasurer, C. Kelly; Stewards, P. O'Neill, and M. Ward; Marshal, N. Doyle; Asst. Mar., J. Gunning; I. Guard, H. McDonald; O. Guard, C. Kelly.

St. Cecilia's Circle, No. 3, West Toronto

Junction.;
Chaplain, Rev. Father Bergan; Chancellor,
Miss J. Kelly; President, Mrs. C. Kelly;
Vice President, Mrs Baker; Rec. Sec., Miss
M. O'Neill; Fin. Sec., Miss M. Boylan;
Treasurer, Miss Murphy; Stewards, Miss
N. Gunning and Miss N. O'Neill; Guard,
Miss M. Kelly.
W. Lane, S. T.

C. O. F.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

At a regular meeting of St. Leo Court, No. 581, Toronto, Ont., held December 16, 1896, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst the beloved wife of Alfred Demill, a zealous member of St. Leo Court, No. 581, Catholic Order of Foresters, therefore be it

Resolved, that we, the officers and members of St. Leo Court, deeply deplore her death, and we extend to our fellow-member, Alfred Demill, our heartfelt sympathy in his sad affliction, and pray that God may give him strength to bear his loss with Christian fortitude. Be it, further,

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the brother, and that copies be sent to the Catholic Register and CATHO LIC RECORD for publication.

J. T. Loftus, Rec. Sec.

DIOCESE OF LONDON.

ORDINATION.

ORDINATION.

In St. Peter's cathedral, on Saturday, Dec. 19. His Lordship the Bishop ordained to the priesthood, John Joseph Hogan of Ashfield, Ont. His Lordship celebrated the Mass at 10 o'clock, being assisted by Rev. Fathers Noonan and Downie (Stratford). Rev. Father Tobm, of the cathedral, acted as master of ceremonies, and Rev. P. McKeon assisted the candidate. Seated in the sanctuary were: Revs. N. Dixon, P. P., of Ashfield (the home of the newly ordanied priest); Albert McKeon, Strathroy; Theo. J. Valentin, of Zurich; L'Heureux, and McCormack. As is customary the congregation filed to the altar-railing after Mass to receive the young priest; blessing.

Rev. Father Hogan made his classical course at St. Jerome's college, Berlin, Ont.; his course of mental and moral philosophy at Assumption College, Sandwich, and his theological studies at the Grand Seminary, Montreal.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENT.

Several improvements have been recently made in the church of OurLady of La Salette. The slated roof, which was damaged by storm, was overhauled and repaired by Brown Bros. of Brantford, the furnaces were altered and their heating capacity increased and the interior of the church was tinted and decorated by D. H. Lane of the W. Wright Decorating Co. of Detroit. Last Sunday, Rev. D. P. McMenamin, P. P., Simcoe, after celebrating Mass at home, drove to LaSalette and preached a most eloquent sermon, in which he congratulated the people on the improvements in their church and praised their zeal for the beauty of God's house.

ARCHDIOCESE OF TORONTO.

The entertainment given by the pupils of St. Joseph's High School (girls) at the De La Salle Institute on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 10, was one that will long be remembered by the parents and large number of friends who make a cream.

The cultertainment grown by the predict of reversible and mobile and the properties of the continuate Commanderies: Lee, No. 21 st. Leept's High Schold (girls) at the De Light and mobile and mobiles, No. 219. The principal features of the order. And mobiles, No. 219. The principal features is a second of the continuation of the continuation of the continuation of the continuation, and mobiles, No. 219. The principal features are all properties of the continuation of the continuatio Nevin, Moriarty, Morgan, Neales, O'Keefe and Rush. Certificates for perspective draw Nevin, Moriarty, Morgan, Neales, O'Keefe and Rush. Certificates for perspective drawing, awarded to the Misses Cahley, G. Costello, Daly, Dulan, Flanagan, Hayes, McNevin, Moriarty, Norris, Oster, Rush, A. Ryan, Stewart and Woods. Certificates for model drawing, awarded to the Misses Cahley, Dalton, McNaulty and Rush. Certificates for memory drawing, awarded to the Misses Colgan, Glockling, McGrath and Moriarty.

Before the close of the entertainment the Archbishop expressed his pleasure at being present to have witnessed such evidence of the pupils ability. He urged the young girls to continue their work so that they, with their teachers, the Sisters of St. Joseph, would ever have pleasant remembrances of the happy hours spent in the class-room.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH FANCY FAIR.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH FANCY FAIR.

Everything in connection with St. Joseph's Church Fancy Fair is now in full swing. The ladies and gentlemen having charge have exerted themselves to the utmost and have spared neither pains nor expense in procuring everything that would contribute towards making the bazaar a success.

Tuesday, the 22nd, was the opening night, and the Catholic Order of Foresters had the honor of presenting a programme which reflected the greatest credit on that organization and helped in a large measure to swell the proceeds at the Fair. The Knights of St. John appeared on Wednesday night, and their handsome uniform and splendid appearance excited the admiration of all present. Tonight (Thursday) is reserved for the children of St. Joseph's and St. Anne's schools, while for the programme for Saturday will be arranged by the Ancient Order of Hibernians. The C. M. B. A. have made arrangements for Tuesday, the 29th, and the I. C. B. U. for New Year's Eve. The drill corps from Blantyre Park will also appear in their new uniform.

The bazaar will continue until New Year's,

Blantyre Park will also appear in their new uniform.

The bazzar will continue until New Year's, and will be open from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Poulton's Hall, cor. Bolton avenue and Queen street east, which has been secured for the occasion, has been tastefully decorated, and everthing presents a brilliant picture indeed. The proceeds will be applied towards the liquidation of the church debt.

ST. PETER'S MISSION, MONTANA.

Boston Pilot.

Boston Pilot.

"Lift up your eyes round about and see; all these are gathered together. They are come to thee. Thy sons shall come from afar and thy daughters shall rise up at thy side."

These thoughts were uppermest in my mind as again it became my privilege to stand in the cedar scented chapel of the Ursuline Nuns of St. Peter's Mission, Montana. The worst storm in November records raged without. The snow was piled white and deep, at some points along the road in huge drifts, fifteen feet high and more, and so compact that they had to be blown up with dynamite. No pick or shovel could make an impression on them. The thermometer stood twenty three degrees below zero, but within, this Polar cold was forgot. It was the happiest, sunniest day for thirteen novices of the time honored Ursuline Order. As I entered, I beheld them grouped in a large U across the chapel. In a few short moments when the solemn words of consecration would be spoken which bring down upon our altars the King of heaven and earth, other words of consecration would fall from these young lips: "Poverty, chastity, obedience and to employ myself in the instruction of young words, especially in the Indian Missions."

To us of the world how mysterious, yet how wonder working! Beheld them nailing their employ myself in the instruction of young girls, especially in the Indian Missions.' To us of the world how mysterious, yet how wonder-working!* Beheld them nailing their cherished souls to the Indian Missions in a wilderness, amid the furies of a Polar winter, in face of persecution! The Government has ruthlessiy cut off the contract of St. Peter's Mission, and these ladies—nobly born and come from afar, afar indeed from their dear Indian children, in their education and their native laud—these ladies must henceforth live on alms.

their native land—these ladies must nence-forth live on alms.

Certainly the arm of God is not foreshort ened, and the Providence which teeds the birds and clothes the lilies will not fail them; but what privations, what anxiety such a invalias!

but what privations, what anxiety such a implies!

Many things change and pass away and are forgotten in this old world, but there are two things that are eternal—monks and oaks.

These young novices—some of whom, as I narrowly observed them and listened to their sweet voices singing—I found it to grace the noblest court. Their countenances, sweet and radiant with holiness, had studied religious life in all its bearings. To them the hard sayings of the Master are a living, practical, every-day reality, not a poetic myth, and as they advanced to the altar railing with modest, eager step, to bind themselves forever to the religious life and the Indian Missions, it was evident that this sublime courage sprung from the truest, strongest love of God. Our readers are familiar with the religious ceremony we are describing. Many have witnessed the like. All have read of it. We shall not therefore enter into detail, but shall merely point out the striking features of this one enacted amid the snows far away from civilization; i.e., the sublime courage and trust it displayed, the numbers consecrating themselves so joyously to God—the beautiful singing of the striking features of this one enacted amid the snows far away from civilization; i. e., the sublime courage and trust it displayed, the numbers consecrating themselves so joy onsly to God—the beautiful singing of the brides-elect. If God loves the cheerful giver, then certainly His Sacred Heart loves these young missionaries.

The names of the new Ursulines are: The Misses Ryan, Kearns, Kelly, Kenny, McDonald, from the old country, bearing respectively the names: Mary Josephine, Justina, Juliana Lucia and Barbara; Miss Dorsey, of Maine; Miss Seery, of Connecticut; Miss Fleshman, of Pennsylvania; Miss Prown, of Georgia; Miss Wahlgemuth from Prussia. Miss Mary Carmen Dunne and her sister Hilda, daughters of the leading Catholics layman, Judge Dunne, of Jackson ville, Florida, and Miss Helen Sheble, a hily culled in the garden of the St. Louis elite; Sisters St. Eulalia, Rita, Hildergarde Philippa, Annunciata, Dolorosa, Amata and de Merici.

To me it was most touching to see these novices as they stood at the foot of the altar and sang out of the exultant joy of their hearts: "Suscipe me, Domine, et non confundas me!" pleading to be wedded to the Lord in a community without income, whose work is hard, unremitting, humble, despised. As we have said, we have often one in which ladies of exalted rank and distinguished education heroically embraced all that our holy Gospel has most austere. We left St. Peter's Mission, the radiant moonlight glinting from snowpeaks, with the thought uppermost that had led us to the sanctuary: "Lift up thine eyes round about and see; all these are gathered together; they are come to thee; thy sons shall come from afar, and thy daughters shall rise up at thy side."

Catholic Indian education, though a suffering cause, is not abandoned. God has brought to it sons and daughters from afar, and with the lavish profusion with which the architects of old spread their most beautiful touches where the eye of God alone could behold them, these sainted souls are shedding upward to the skies on sno

NOTE-The Misses Dunne mentioned in the foregoing will be remembered by our readers in Ottawa, as being two of the five motherless little ones who were placed by their father, in 1882, under the kind motherly care of Rev. Mother St. Cecilia, Superior of the convent of la Congregation de Notre Dame, Gloucester street, where they spent the many years of their childhood. They are the daughters of the Hon. Edmund F. Count Dunne, ex Chief Justice of Arizona, U.

In those things in which a man has mere sinned, shall he be more heavily punished.

—The Imitation.

A FORWARD STEP.

Catholic Missionary Union Organized

Articles of incorporation of the Catholic Missionary Union were filed Friday in the county clerk's office in New York city. Its object is to procure the serv-ice of clergymen and laymen of the Roman Catholic Church to teach and preach as missionaries of the faith in the United States; to purchase and lease lands and buildings for such purposes, and publish books and pamphets in connection with such work and to assist the Bishops in carrying on home missions in their jurisdictions.
The directors are Archbishops Corrigan of New York and Ryan of Phila delphia; the Rev. Edward R. Dyer, Matthew Taylor and A. F. Hearts and A. P. Doyle and Walter Elliot of the Paulist Fathers. THE WORK ORGANIZED.

Thus the work of missions to non-Catholics which has been carried on individually by Father Elliot and others now takes an organized form with full powers to enter on any line of work which will aid in the conversion of non-Catholics. Already a great series of missious has begun in New York city and will be kept up during the entire winter.

Upon Father Walter Elliot will rest the chief burden of the new undertaking. "The purpose of these missions," says he, "is to explain the Catholic doctrine and to disseminate a better knowledge of the teachings of the Catholic Church. Our meetings will be in no sense controversial and will contain no attacks upon other forms of religion. The general scheme of the work is to give free lectures in halls and Catholic churches. according to circumstances. We shall distribute a large amount of literature, leaflets, pamphlets and books to the congregations, and the topics of discussion will be such as will inter est the people."

THE PLAN PROPOSED. The Missionary, the official organ of non-Catholic mission work, in a recent issue thus described the contem

"A short resume of the progress of the work will be interesting. A few months ago Archbishop Corrigan made a special request of the superior of the Paulist Fathers to have some one delegated to inaugurate the work in the rchdiocese of New York. Father Elliot was immediately selected for this special duty. At the close of the summer a band of missionaries, with Father Elliot, began a series of missions in the metropolitan diocese. Archbishop Corrigan's attitude toward this new work from the very begin ning has been one of approbation and active encouragement. He warmly commended the work to the clergy of the diocese in his address at the synod last fall, asking them at the same time to interest themselves in it and encourage volunteer action on these

"During an interview with him, shortly after Easter, he gave his express permission to any priest in the diocese of New York, with the exception of the officials of the diocese whom he could not spare, to devote himself especially to this work ; and in order to encourage them to do so he guaranteed to any pastor who would volunteer for this abor, to hold his parish open for a year, appointing an administrator in the meantime: and to any curate who would desire to devote himself to this special missionary work, for every year that he spent in it a gain of two years of seniority in the diocese.

IN OTHER DIOCESES. Under these very encouraging conditions the work has begun York this fall.

These are presented in The Missionary the reports of the work that has been done during last three months. The band of mis sionaries laboring in the Cleveland diocese has met with very encouraging results. The Pittsburg band is duly organized, has completed a number of successful missions, is now settled in its own home, and has the warmest sympathy of the priests of the diocese. The missionaries look for ward to a career of great usefulness during the months to come

. The Way to Celebrate.

If Christ is not born in our hearts, in vain is Christmas Day with its gifts, its greetings, and its good cheer. not merry if the soul has not the best part of its mirth. It is not rightly celebrated if the Lord Himself is not "Very often," said St. Bernard to the people of his day, "do I revolve in mind the arder of the desire with which the patriarchs sighed for the coming of Christ in the flesh; and I am filled within myself with confusion. and penetrated with compunction, and even now scarce am I able to contain my tears; so much am I ashamed of the sloth and lukewarmness of these wretched times. For who amongst us now conceives such great joy from the presence of this grace as the promise of it inflamed desire in the ancient saints? Behold many indeed will re joice in this festival; but I wish that it were on account of the festival, not on account of vanity.

Go to Communion, blot out enmities, succor the destitute, sanctify the day with spiritual and corporal works of mercy-that is the best way to celebrate the birthday of the Lord. That will make the presents of luxury still more precious and give unwonted relish to the delicacies of the season .--Catholic Columbian.

Misunderstandings and neglect occasion more mischief in the world than even malice and wickedness.—Goethe.

MARKET REPORTS.

London, Dec. 24. — Wheat, 78 to 81c per bushel. Oats, 153 10 to 20 25 per bush. Peas, 35 to 45c per bush. Barley, 19 15 to 31 15c per bush. Barley, 19 15 to 31 15c per bush. Barley, 19 15 to 31 15c per bush. Rye. 28 to 30 45c per bush. Corn, 22 25 to 33 35c, per bush. There was a large supply of meat, and good beef sold for $4.50 to $5.50 per cwt. Lamb, 6\(\frac{1}{2}\) to 7c, per pound wholesale. Calves, 6c a pound. Dressed hogs, 45.50 to 5 per cwt. Lamb, 6\(\frac{1}{2}\) to 7c, per pound wholesale. Calves, 6c a pound. Dressed hogs, 45.50 to 55 per cwt. Turkeys were pleniful, at 7 to 8c. a pound. Geese, 5c a 1b., and 50 to 75c apiece Ducks, ranged from 55 to 7ce a pair. Botter was flat, at 14 to 15c, a 1b. by the basket. Fresh eggs 20 to 22c. a doz. Packed eggs, 16 to 17c. a doz. Potatoes, 30 to 35c a bag. Hay, 87 to 28 a ton.

Toronto. Dec. 24. — Wheat, white, 88 to 89c.; wheat, red, 87c; wheat, goose, 55 to 69c.; bar-ley, 27 to 31c.; rye, 350c.; peas, 44 to 15c; buck-wheat, 34; oats, 21 to 24c; turkeys, per 1b., 6 to 7c; ducks, spring, per pair, 40 to 56c; chickens, per pair, 30 to 40c; geese, per 1b., 6 to 6c; batter, in 1b. rolls, 15 to 16c eggs, new laid, 20 to 22c; potatoes, per bag, 40c; apples, per bbl., 40c to 8150; hay, tumthy, ser apples, per bbl., 40c to 8150; hay, tumthy, ser apples, per bbl., 40c to 8150; hay, tumthy, ser apples, per bbl., 40c to 8150; hay, tumthy, ser apples, per bbl., 40c to 8150; hay, tumthy, ser apples, per bbl., 40c to 8150; cheef, fores, 2 to 4c; lamb, carcass, per 1b., 55 to 8c; cali, carcass, 5 to 8c; matton, per 1b., 4 to 5c; dressed hogs, 44,50 to 80.55.

6c.; mutton, per lb., 4 to 5c.; dressed hogs, $4,500 $5.25.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—Peas continue quiet, at 48 to 49c; buck wheat at 34 to 35c, and maning barley at 45 to 47c, Manitoba wheat was steady, dealers and millers paid 65 to 67c for No. 1 hard at interior points in the province yesterday. Oatmeal moves in small lots at 83.40 to 3.50 for rolled. Feed was fairly active at $10 to $10.50 for Manitoba bran, and $0.25 to $9.50 for Ontario. Baled hay was unchanged at $11.65 to $11. All kinds of provisions continue nominal. Dressed hogs were steady at $4.75 to $5 in jubbing lots. Cheese remains quiet and purely nominal at 1½c for finest kinds. Butter was dull and easy at 18 to 18½c. Eggs were quiet at 13 to 14 for Western limed. Montreel ditto selling at ½ to 2c advance on these prices. Active trade was done in poultry, choice, fresh killed turkeys selling at 7½ to 7½c. an advance of ½ to ½c; frozen, ditto, 9½ to 7½c; ducks, 7½ to 5c; and chickens, 6½ to 7c. Potatoes were steady at 40c in car lots, small quantities necessitating 5c advance.

PORT HURON.

PORT HURON.

Port Huron. Mich., Dec. 24.—Grain—Wheat, per bush. 83 to 85c; cats, per bush. 15 to 17c for new; 22c. for old; corn., per bush., 22 to 17c for new; 22c. for old; corn., per bush., 22 to 25c per bush.; barley, 50 to 55c per 100 lbs.; peas., 30 to 35c per bush.; barley, 50 to 55c per 100 lbs.; peas., 30 to 35c per bush.; abeans, unpleked, 50 to 60c a bushel.

Produce.—Butter, 12 to 14c per lb.; eggs, 16 to 18c per dozen; lard, 5 to 6 cents per :pound; honey, 8 to 10c per pound; cheese, 34 to 10c per pound; stard, 27c to 88.75 per ton in car lots; straw, $4.00 per ton.

Vegetables and Fruits.—Potatoes, 15 to 18c per bush.; apples, green, 15 to 25c per bush.

per bush; arpies, green, 15 to 25c per bush, dried, 4 to 5c per bound.

Dressed Meats. — Beef, Michigan, $4.50 to $5.50 per cwt. Live weight, $2.50 to $3.00 per cwt.; Chicago, $5.00 to $7.00 per cwt. pork, light. $4.25 to $4.50 theavy, $6.50 to $4.20 but in light demand; live weight, $5.00 to $3.25 per cwt.; matton, $5 to $6.00 per cwt spring lamb, dressed, $6.50 to $7 per cwt.; liv weight, $2.50 to $0.00 each; veal, $6 to $7.00 per cwt.

ewt.
Poultry—Chickens, 6 to 7c per pound; hyns,
5 to 6c, per pound; alive, 4 to 5c per lb., tur-kevs, 9 to 10c per pound; pigeons, 15c per pair, alive; ducks, 9 to 10c per pound; geese, 6 to 7c per pound.

Hides—Beef hides, No. 1, 7 to 7½ per th: No. 5 to 6c. per lb. for green; calf skins, No. 1, 8 per lb. No. 2, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; shearlings, 15 to 6c each; lamb skins, 25 to 50c. each; tallow

Latest Live Stock Markets.

Latest Live Stock Markets.

TORONTO.

Toronto, Dec 2:.—There were no distinctive Christmas cattle worth speaking of, and the best price paid this morning. Was 35c. per lb. for a few choice selections: in one case we believe an additional five cents, to not case we believe an additional five cents, produced on a certification. The trade was brisk, professional everything here was sold by 10° clock or a little after. For choice stuff quotations ranged from 3 to 35c, and 38c for the top; medium sold at from 2½ to 3c, and inferior at from 2 to 2½c, per lb. There was a genuine demand for more cattle of better quality to day

EAST BHUFFLO.

East Buffalo, N. Y., Dec, 21.—Cattle—Receipts, 20 cars; market slow; Vorkers, fair ochoice, 83.40 to 83 45; roughs, common to fair.

28 0 to 83.10; pigs, common to fair, 5.5 or 63.65. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 15 cars; market fairly active, lambs, good to choice, $4.50; sheep good to choice handy weight wethers, $3.85 to $4.25; culls and common, $2.50.

A promise should be given with caution and A promise should be given with caution and kept with care. A promise should be made by the heart and remembered by the head. A promise is the offspring of the intention and should be nurtured by recollection. A promise and its performance should, like the scales of a true balance, always present a mutual adjustment. A promise delayed is justice deferred. A promise neglected is an untruth told. A promise attended is a debt settled.

Sects on the 2nd and 4th Thursday of svery aouth, at 8 o'clock, at their hall, Albion Block Richmond Street. G. Barry, President I. J.O'Meara ist Vice-President; P. F. BOYLE Seconding Secretary.

VERY LIBERAL OFFERS

An Opportunity to Possess a Beautiful Family Bible at a Small Outlay.

Containing the entire Canonical Scriptures, according to the decree of the Council of Trent, translated from the Latin vulgate, D. ligently compared with the Hebrew, Greek and other editions in divers languages. The Old Testament, first published by the English College at Douay, A. D. 1699. The New Testament, by the English College at Reims, A. D. 1582. Revised and correct ed according to the Clementine edition of the Scriptures, with amotations by the Rev. Dr. Challoner, to which is added the History of the Holy Catholic Bible, and Calmet's Il lustrated and Explanatory Catholic Dictionary of the Holy Catholic Bible, and Calmet's Il lustrated and Explanatory Catholic Dictionary of the Holy Catholic Bible, and Calmet's Il lustrated and Explanatory Catholic Dictionary of the Holy Catholic Bible, and Calmet's Il lustrated and Explanatory Catholic Dictionary of the Holy Catholic Bible, and Calmet's Il lustrated and Explanatory Catholic Dictionary of the Holy Catholic Bible, and Calmet's Illustrated and Explanatory Catholic Dictionary of the Bible, and prepared under the Special Seminary of St. Charles Borromeo, Philadelphia, and prepared under the Special Seminary of St. Charles Borromeo, Philadelphia, and prepared under the Special Seminary of St. Charles Borromeo, Philadelphia, and prepared under the Special Seminary of Philadelphia, With references, an historical and chromological index, a table of the Epistics and Gospels for all the Sundays and Holydays throughout the year and of the most notable Fessis in the Roman calendar, and other instructive and devotional matters. With elegant stee structive and devotional matters. With elegant steel plates and other appropriate engravings.

This Bible will prove not only a blessing in every Catholie household, but an ornament as well. The size is 12½ x 10½ x 4 inches, weighs 12½ pounds, and is beautifully bound. For Seven Bollars (cash to accompany order) we will send the Bible by express to any part of the Dominion, charges for carriage prepaid; and besides will give credit for one year's subscription of The CATHOLIC RECORD. The Bible and the Record for a Year for Seven Bollars. Subscribers who live where there is no express office can have book for warded to the one nearest their residence. Please note that if, on examination, anyone is dissatisfied with the purchase, the book may be returned at our expense, and the money will be refunded. Bibles similar to these have for years been soid by agents for tendense cach.

THE HOLY BIBLE

(A SMALLER EDITION)

Translated from the Latin vulgate. Neatly bound in cloth. Size 10 x 7 x 2, and weighs 3 pounds 6 ounces. This book will be sent to any address on same conditions as the larger edition for Four Pollars and a year's credit given on subscription to THE CATHOLIC RECORD.

It is glways better to send remittances by money order, but when eash is sent the leiter should in every case be registered.

Address-THOMAS COFFEY,

Catholic Record Office, - LONDON, Ont.

BLAINE, N. Y., Jan. 1894.
I couldn't sleep nights and was so nervous that I felt like flying day and night; when I closed my eyes it seemed as if my eyeballs were fairly dancing to get out of my head; my mind ran from one thing to another, so that I began to think I had no mind. When I had taken Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic only two weeks I felt like a new man, and now consider myself cured. Have recommended the Tonic to others, and I always had the desired effect.

Minister's Evangriance.

A Minister's Experience.

On account of my vocation and sickness in the family I suffered considerably from nervousness and siecplessness, and often severe headache. Since I took one bottle of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tome I am entirely free from above troubles.

REV. F. LOEB.

A Valuable Book on Nervous Discass and a sample bottle to any address. Poor patients also got the medical service of the free.

This remove has been prepared by the Rev. Father Locals, of Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1856, and is now ander his direction by the KOENIC MED. CO., Chicago, III. 49 S. Franklin Street. Sold by Druggista at 61 per Bottle. 6 for 55. Large Size, 51.75. 6 Bottles for 59. J. B. McLeod, Kingston, Ont.

STAINED GLASS

FOR CHURCHES Best Qualities Only. Prices the Lowest. McCAUSLAND & SON

.. WANTED ..

76 King Street West, TORONTO.

A MAN for every unrepresented district in Canada, to sell our Canada, to sell out High-Grade Canadian Trees, Berry Bushes, Roses, Ornamental Trees,
Hedges. Seed Potatoes, iEtc.
NEW SEASON JUST OPENING.

Thus you have choice of territory if you apply NOW. The only Canadian house paying salary and expenses from the start. Liberal commission paid part-time men. Stone & Wellington, TORONTO. Over 700 acres under cultivation.
MENTION THIS PAPER.

A TREAT FOR THE CHILDREN.

We have now on hand a supply of "Our Boys" and Girls' Annual." and are pleased to be able to and Girls' Annual," and are pleased to be able to tell cur young readers that it is beautifully illustrated throughout, and is replete with interesting and charming stories. Rev. Francis J. Finn, S. J., the children's popular story teller, contributes a delightful tale "Looking for santa Claus." The other stories are: "The Robber's Hospitality (a biblical legend)." The Story of Ladye Lifte, ""Innocence Rescued," "How Small Birds Cross the Sea." "Dog Labor in Belgium," Bells Tolled for Jack Frost, etc., etc.; together with a large (Illustrated) assortment of games, tricks and puzzles. illustrated) assortment o puzzles. Price, 5 cents per copy.

O. LABELLE, MERCHANT TAILOR

372 Richmond Street. Good Business Suits from $15 upwards. The best goods and careful workmanship.

BROCKVILLE BUSINESS COLLEGE $1,000.

Chicago, Oct. 19, 1896.

Mr. C. W. GAY,

Brockville Business College,
Dear Str and Friend:
1 suppose you are aware that I have secured a position with Messrs. Armour & Co., of this city. a Desition with Steeler Transition of the City.

My salary is $1,000 a year, with good opportunities for advancement.

Your friend and pupil,

CHAS. E. McCORD.

947-9

MAIL CONTRACT.

SEALED SEPARATE TENDERS, addressed

Printed notices containing further informa-tion as to conditions of proposed contract may be seen and blank forms of Tender may be ob-tained at the Post Offices on the said services and at this office.

DANIEL SPRY.

nd at this office.

DANIEL SPRY,
Post Office Inspector.

Post Office Inspector's Office.

London, 11th December, 1896.

EALED SEPARATE TENDERS, addressed CEALED SEPARATE TEXDERS, addressed to the Postmaster General, will be received at Ottawa until noon, on Friday, 8th January, 1807. for the conveyance of Her Majesty's Mails, on three proposed contracts for four years 6, 6 and 12 times per week each way, respectively between Evelyn and London, Fernbill and London and London, Fernbill and London and London, Formal Michigan Central Railway Station, from the 18th April next.

Printed notices containing further intormation as to conditions of proposed contract may be seen and blank forms of Tender may be obtion as to conditions of proposed contract may be seen and blank forms of Tender may be ob-tained at the Post Offices on the said services and at this office.

DANIEL SPRY.

Post_Office Inspector Post Office Inspector's Office. London, 27th December, 1893. , 947.8

TEACHERS WANTEL

TEACHER WANTED FOR 1867 FOR Junior division, Separate school, Brechn, holding 2nd or 3rd class certifica e. 2pply, stating qualification, salary and experience, to M. McGrath, Sec. Treas., Brechin P. 6., Ont.

A FEMALE TEACHER HOLDING A 2nd or 3rd class professional certificate, to teach R. C. S. S. Section 3 and 4, of Anderdon Applicants to state salary. Duties to comence after holidays. A. C. Mailloux, Sectress., Amherstburg P. O., Ont.

WANTED A QUALIFIED TEACHER FOR the Catholic Separate school, No. 22. Gioucester, Out. Apply, stating salary, Michael Kenny, Secretary, Orleans P. O., O

BANDMASTER WANTED.

A BANDMASTER, PLAYING CORN, single man preferred, mechanic, carrly or shoemaker. For further particulars to Rev. Principal, St. Joseph's Inditt. School, Dunbow P. O., Alta.