Miss Irene Brown of Portland visited her sister, Mrs. T. S. Kendrick, last week.

Mrs. P. P. Slack, spent last week in Ottawa, in company with her sister, Mrs. D. Derbyshire.

Miss Ethel Arnold has returned home from her visit to Mrs. (Dr.) Murphy, Pakenham.

Miss Minnie Mackie of Smith's Falls is the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hamblin.

Principal McIntosh of the Model School is holidaying at his home at Dornoch, Grey county.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Donovan and children are enjoying the balmy breezes at Charleston Lake.

Mrs. S. H. McBratney and son have gone to Olds, Alberta, for a holiday trip to her husband's ranch there.

The excursion run by Trinity church, Brockville, to-day, over the B. & W., to Delta Park, was well attended.

Miss Hunt of New York, who was recently injured, is reported to be progressing favorably towards recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Coleman and children of Chicago, Ill., are the guests of Mrs. C's father, Mr. G. P. Wight.

In this issue, so that no portion of the serial story now running may be missed, we are mailing an insert as supplement.

Mr. Garfield McVeigh and wife of Boston, Mass., spent Sunday the guest of his uncle, Mine Host McVeigh of the Armstrong House.

The marriage of Mr. Gordon Foley to Miss O'Reilly of Toledo took place on Tuesday. The boys charivariated the young couple last evening.

Mr. Fred J. Blanchard and son Donald of New York arrived here on Saturday to spend a few weeks under the parental roof.

Wedding Bells will soon ring for the marriage of two charming young Athens ladies. The Reporter extends hearty congratulations.

Mr. N. L. Massey, B.A., principal of the High School, Athens, is in Bellville attending the re-union of the Old Boys' of that town and district.

Mr. Gardiner of Lyn has purchased a commodious home in Brockville where he intends to reside with his family at the close of the summer season.

QUARTERLY SERVICES.—The Quarterly Fellowship Meeting will be held in the Methodist Church next Sunday morning. The Communion Service the Sabbath following.

Now that the handsome new town hall is completed the formal opening should be an occasion worthy of the prominent place this building will occupy in the town.

The many friends of Maggie Niblock will be pleased to learn that she is improving as rapidly as can be expected after the recent operation, which was successful.

The marriage of Miss Emma Johnston, daughter of Mrs. Henry Johnston of Charleston, to Geo. P. Chamberlain of Cilliwack, B.C. has been arranged to take place in August.

The Addison Public Library will hold an ice cream and salmon social at Geo. Taplin's residence on August 4th. Messrs. D. Derbyshire, Hon. Geo. P. Graham, John Culbert, and A. E. Donovan are expected to deliver short addresses.

Owing to no issue of the Reporter last week the big celebration of the "glorious 12th" was not written up. It is not our intention at this late date to give an account of it other than to say that it was a big day's outing. The speeches by resident ministers, and a resolution was passed concurring the B. & W. for its Sunday excursion traffic.

Rev. Mr. Matsuo of Japan, in training at Wycliffe College for missionary work in his own country, will preach in the Anglican church, on Sunday next, at 7.30 o'clock.

Mrs. Lou Green has been engaged to teach the North Augusta school after the vacation. She intends to move her family from Athens to the latter place some time next month.

The annual outing of the Sunday Schools of Christ Church and St. Paul's Church, here, was held to Beverley Lake on Monday, 17th. Needless to say the outing was a most enjoyable one.

Mrs. Caroline Bradley, aged 74 years, died at the residence of her son, George, on the Charleston road, on Monday. The funeral took place to the Methodist cemetery, Athens, on Tuesday, and was well attended. Two daughters and one son survive. The sympathy of a large circle of friends goes out to the bereaved ones.

Mining experts are greatly exercised over an episode in Leeds county. Mr. Trotter, of Chantry, was drilling a well, and had gone down 30 feet, when the drill sank through soft rock and lodged. Now it is impossible to lift it, and all known methods to bring it by powerful jack screws and dynamite, have proved unavailing. Experts are puzzled as to what is holding the drill in the rock—Recorder.

The funeral of Miss Pearl Fair took place on Wednesday afternoon last. The service was held in Christ church, and the interment was made in the cemetery at Warburton. The deceased young lady was in her 20th year, and was a bright student at the Athens High School. Her many friends in this section extend their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents and sisters. As a token of the high esteem in which she was held, two beautiful wreaths of flowers, one from the A.H.S. pupils and the other from the members of Christ church choir, were on the casket.

The B. W. & N. W. Ry. Co. have arranged to run special excursion to the annual illumination and electrical display of the Thousand Islands. Special train will leave Athens at 6.15 p.m., Saturday July 29th, and arrive at Brockville at 7.00 p.m., where commodious search-light steamer will be in waiting to convey excursionists to Alexandria Bay, where a stop of 30 minutes will be made. This is a rare opportunity for citizens of Athens to visit the Thousand Islands and witness this wonderful display, which far surpasses anything of the kind hitherto attempted. The very low rate of 50 cts. from Athens to Alexandria Bay has been quoted.

The reception tendered Rev. Mr. Beckstead and bride on their arrival here last Saturday evening in St. Paul's church, was a most hearty one, shared by all the church members. The reception was held in the auditorium of the church and after introductions had been given to all, a social time was enjoyed—music, addresses by local clergymen, an address from the congregation was read by Mrs. W. Johnston, followed by the presentation of a fine piece of furniture by Mrs. Henderson. When this was concluded all present adjourned to the tastefully decorated basement where the ladies had prepared a most substantial repast—and to which all did justice. Mr. Joseph Thompson occupied the chair in his usual well known manner. Mr. and Mrs. Beckstead are now spending a few weeks enjoyin, the breezes and fishing at Charleston lake. The Reporter desires to add its quota of good wishes to the happy couple.

HILL WITH APPENDICITES

We beg the indulgence of many readers for the omission of last week's issue of this family paper. The immediate cause of the unexpected suspension of publication being the illness of the editor, Mr. Donnelley, with an attack of appendicitis. A successful operation was performed on Thursday last by Dr. C. M. B. Cornell of Brockville, assisted by Dr. Purvis of Athens. We are pleased to say that at the time of going to press Mr. Donnelley's condition is quite satisfactory.

LOVE AND A TITLE

"I do, though," says Hal. "Why, she was a perfect picture in herself—and did you notice the way in which she spoke to that young man? An empress couldn't have come it stronger."

white, excepting her lips, which are rather pale. "No," she says, with a faint smile. "I have not been crying."

ed a slight quiver of the sweet-ripe lips, and the faint touch of color which ever and again flitted across her face as she moved toward the stalwart figure awaiting her.

Once, and only once, did she raise the long sweeping lashes, and then it was to glance at the handsome face which was turned toward her with a suppressed smile of pride and impatience.

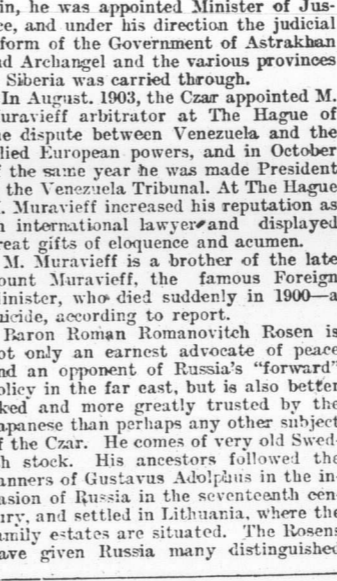

The Peace Envoys.

Antecedents of Muravieff and Rosen, Russian, and Komura and Takahira, Japanese Commissioners.

AMBASSADOR MURAVIEFF, Russian Envoy to Italy and formerly Minister of Justice.

N. V. Muravieff was born in 1830, and is a member of one of the oldest families of Russia, which has been prominent in the empire ever since the year 1488.

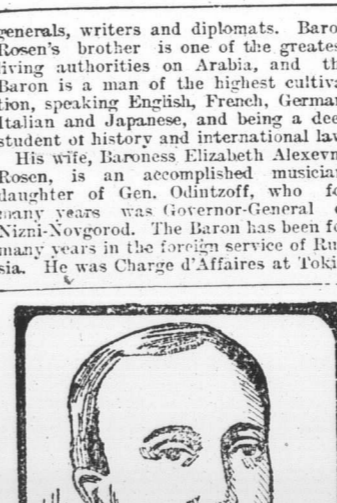

BARON KOMURA, Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Baron Komura was one of the first Japanese to come to the United States for his education, and is said to be the first Japanese who received a degree at Harvard.

AMBASSADOR TAKAHIRA, Japanese Envoy to America.

Baron Roman Romanovitch Rosen is not only an earnest advocate of peace and an opponent of Russia's "forward" policy in the far east, but is also better liked and more greatly trusted by the Japanese than perhaps any other subject of the Czar.

BARON VON ROSEN, Czar's Ambassador and Peace Envoy.

FRESH AIR AND THE BURGLAR. The principles of living as possible in the fresh air should, of course, extend to the bedroom, although there is a common but erroneous impression that night air is unsuitable, if not dangerous, for respiration during sleep.

WHY "DAGO" IS OFFENSIVE.

Derived From Diego, a Very Common Spanish Name. A correspondent contends that the word "dago" ought not to be deemed offensive, as it has what he calls "a very worthy derivation."

"Dago" is undoubtedly derived from "Diego," the dictionaries say it spread over the United States from Louisiana, here as it is first used to describe men of Spanish extraction.

Diego was at one time, and probably is yet, the commonest of Spanish Christian names. Several notable and apparently victorious victories in the century of war with the Moors are attributed to Diego, the Spanish chronicles to the aid of San Diego, or Santiago, or St. James the Elder, who was seen charging the enemy clad in brilliant armor and mounted on a white horse.

JAS. ROSS, OF ATHENS, ENTERS ACTION FOR $5,000

Against B. W. & N. Railway for Injuries Sustained in Acci- dent Last Winter

Mr. James Ross, sowing machine agent of Athens, has just entered an action for $5000 damages against the B. W. & N. Railway for injuries sustained while riding on one of the company's trains last winter. It will be remembered one evening last January, while the regular train was returning from Westport, and reaching a point about a mile and a half west of Lyn, the passenger coaches left the track and laid up against the embankment. Mr. Ross, who was coming to Brockville in his official capacity as D.D.G.M. of the A.O.U.W., was injured by being cut over one eye.
The injury was dressed, and he arrived here during the evening, and attended the meeting.

IN LIFE'S HARBOR

My mid life's bark is anchored in life's harbor bay,
And many ships there be which 'round
it surge and sway,
Mighty ships, and minor ships, and ships in great array.

All is serene and calm within the sheltered bar,
The watch-tower's beacon twinkles like a colored star,
The warning signals flash across the sky afar.

If some dire breeze at midnight should waft o'er the bay,
And snap the anchor chain and bear
my ship away,
I wonder if they'd miss me at the break of day.

Should my ship drift to sea where warring billows roar,
An I'd be cast a week upon some evil
shore,
Would none regret or sigh, would none
my loss deplore?

I wonder if 'twould safely reach that hallowed coast,
Or be a drifting derelict, ill omened ghost!
Beyond the bar would all be well?
Would it be lost?

Sleeplessness
You can't sleep in the calmest and stillest night, if your stomach is weak, circulation poor, and digestion bad.
Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens the stomach, improves the circulation, perfects digestion, and brings about that condition in which sleep is regular and refreshing.
It does not do this in a day, but it has done in thousands of cases.

A Husband's Opinion

of
Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets
For WOMEN

A cross and nervous woman is not a pleasant one to live with.
Husbands know this. But in nine cases out of ten, when men are cross and irritable because they are not well.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets transform cross and irritable wives into bright, pleasant women.

They Make Healthy Women.
Husbands appreciate the change and the remedy that causes it.
The letter of one appreciative husband is given below.

I wish to congratulate you upon the efficacy of Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women. Mrs. Baldwin has tested them, and certifies to their worth. Her experience together with testimony of the others in this vicinity who have been by them "made healthy women," leads me to request you to send three boxes to a relative, Mrs.
_____, who is a sufferer from ill peculiar to women, whom physicians and their remedies have thus far failed to cure.

EXCELLENCE AND ELEGANCE

Mr. G. T. Bell, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System is frequently in receipt of communications from patrons, eulogizing the service that is found on Canada's great double track railway. An unsolicited letter of recent date, reads as follows:
"I have just returned from the Pacific coast and it may interest you to know that my wife and I immensely enjoyed the run over your road, and you must admit that when a woman is pleased and delighted, she receives something that has the classic touch of excellence and elegance. I am inclined to think that the railroad that pleases a woman is pretty near perfection."

Another letter from a physician of Aiken, South Carolina reads:
"I had the pleasure of travelling over your line from Portland, Me., to Detroit, Mich., and have no hesitation in saying that your roadbed is one of smoothest I have ever been on, and the night from Montreal to Toronto, the train was as steady as if one had been in a hotel."

The travel over the Grand Trunk is increasing every year, and as the excellence of this railroad is becoming known more and more, travellers from all parts are taking the opportunity of riding on the fast trains which this line is noted for in Canada and over their double track route between the principal cities of the East and West.

Resolution Re. Sunday Trains

At the large meeting of Orangemen held here on July 12th, 1905, the following resolution was submitted and carried. It was moved by E. W.
Crane seconded by H. W. Burnett and resolved that we, the Orangemen of the County of Leeds with our many friends assembled this day in the village of Athens desire to place on record our strong disapproval of Sunday traffic on the line of the B. W. & N. W. R. R. We declare that our christian sense of right is outraged by this unnecessary desecration of the Lord's Day. We would most respectfully urge upon the Board of Directors that they respect the wishes of their patrons all along this line of R. R., and not invade our quiet Sabbath with Sunday trains. Will the Board of Directors respect the wishes of their many patrons in this important matter.

A SOLUTION OF THE SERVANT PROBLEM

Editor Athens Reporter:
Sir,—It may interest some of your readers, to know that a party of girls from Bridge of Weir, Scotland, is expected at Fairknowe Home, Brockville, about the 18th inst. All who have been promised girls will be notified about that date when to meet them, and any who have not forwarded recommendations as requested, should do so at once. There are still a few girls from 9 to 13 years of age, who are not arranged for. Anyone who wishes to get a child, should apply at once, enclosing a Minister's reference, railway fare and full directions for sending.
Yours very truly,
ALEX. BURGESS.

Meandering on the Farm

Osborne, Kan., News.
A city girl writes: "It is a fond dream of mine to become a farmer's wife and meander with him down life's pathway." Ah, yes, that is a nice thing, but when your husband meanders off and leaves you without wood and you have to meander up and down the line pulling splinters off the fence to cook dinner, and when you meander along in the wet grass in search of the cows till your shoes are the color of rawhide and your stockings soaked, and when you meander out across twenty acres of ploughed ground with a club to drive the hogs out of the cornfield, and tear your dress on the barb-wire fence, when you meander back home to the house, find that the billy goat has butted the stuffin' out of your child and find the old hen with forty chickens in the parlor, you'll put your hands on your hips and realize that meandering is

RUSSIA'S SCHEME COURTS JAP ALLIANCE.

Important Doings at the Zemstvo Congress Held at Moscow Yesterday.

It Drafts Constitution Along Lines of British Parliamentary Government.

Baron Komura, Japanese Plenipotentiary, Has Arrived at Seattle, Wash.

A London cable: The Paris correspondent of the Times cables to-night as follows:

"M. Witte, who arrives in Paris on Friday, will sail from Cherbourg by the German liner on Wednesday next. His arrival is preceded by some interesting telegrams from St. Petersburg, one of which makes the important statement that the Russian plenipotentiary is expected to make light of certain difficulties, even that of a war indemnity, if he can only arrange an alliance with Japan, the theory being that a peace which would imply an alliance could not be regarded as ignominious.

"Allied with Japan, Russia would still hold her own in the far east, and besides, this idea, backed by M. Witte, has so delighted the Government that the question of offering Japan an indemnity is no longer considered insurmountable. The possibility of later coming to terms with England is regarded as feasible and logical.

From Words to Action.

A London cable: The Moscow correspondent of the Times wires to-night regarding the meeting of the Russian Zemstvo: "To-day's congress marks the starting point of a new movement away from the throne and towards the people, and from words to deeds. The temper of the assembly was revealed in a speech by Ivan Petrunavitch, who said that all hope of revolution was inevitable, and it was their duty to prevent, if possible, the accomplishment of bloodshed.

"These words were greeted with a storm of cheering, the singing had at the previous night's sitting declared a wish to boycott what is facetiously styled the Bouliane constitution. An organizing committee had proposed that the congress should take part in the election under the Government's scheme, but the matter was compromised on the understanding that the question should be left open until the Bouliane measure has been promulgated, when the congress would be reconvened by telegraph.

Draft Constitution.

"To-day the committee introduced its own draft constitution, the text of which was published in the Russkiya Vidomosti, by the significant adaptation of the English Parliamentary practice. The draft was passed on the first reading, the congress resolving that it should be submitted to the discussion of all the Zemstvos and Dumas before the second reading at the next congress.

"Messrs Paul and Peter Dolgoroukoff introduced a resolution by which the congress definitely commits itself to an active propaganda among the people, both high and low. Another resolution denounced the outrages perpetrated by the Administration upon the lives and liberties of the people.

"To-morrow the congress will hear a paper from Prince Shakhovskoi on 'The National Assembly,' and another on 'Women's Suffrage,' and will close with adopting an appeal to the nation."

Baron Komura Arrives.

A Seattle, Wash., report: Baron Komura, Minister for Foreign Affairs and vice plenipotentiary of Japan, arrived this morning on the Great Northern steamer Minnesota, and continued his journey over the Great Northern Railway this evening, occupying Mr. James J. Hill's private car. Baron Komura declined all tenders of hospitality while here, pleading special instructions from the Mikado to make all possible speed to Washington.

Baron Komura was one of the most democratic of the Minnesota's passengers. At a gathering Tuesday night he proposed and led in singing Swanee River, a memory of his Harvard days, but the other members of the party also seemed to know the tune if not the words.

China Wants Manchuria.

A Washington, D. C., report: China's official notification to the powers that she will not recognize any arrangement regarding Manchuria unless she has been consulted in advance.

The Chinese communication is pretty worded, and is so expressed that it calls for no reply.

The arrival of the text of the note despatches of the unofficial report reaching Washington recently from Europe, that China had requested that she be allowed to participate in the conference. China's motive in addressing to Russia and Japan such a notification was to remind them that she had never acquiesced in the alienation of Manchuria from Chinese sovereignty, and that she expected as the first result of the war the full restoration to Chinese control of that province. That this position might receive the continued support of the neutral powers copies of the note were forwarded to the other capitals.

To Kill Chief Procurator.

A St. Petersburg cable: A circumstantial report of an attempt on the life of Constantine Petrovitch Pobiedonostseff, Chief Procurator of the Holy Synod, is current in St. Petersburg to-night, but the Associated Press is unable to obtain confirmation of it. The authorities and even the police at the Tsarskoe-Selo railway station here where the attempt is reported to have been made, disclaim all knowledge of any such happening.

According to the report as M. Pobiedonostseff stepped off one of the coaches on the train from Tsarskoe-Selo, where he is residing during the summer, to the platform, a man about 28 years old rushed up with a revolver in his hand but he was seized by a quick-witted passenger before he could shoot, and was turned over to the police. At the time of the assassination of Grand Duke Sergius in Moscow, Feb. 17th last, it was reported that among those condemned to death by the terrorists was the Chief Procurator of the Holy Synod, M. Pobiedonostseff, who was charged with influencing the Emperor to adopt a reactionary policy.

London, July 19.—"Personal friends of M. Witte assure me," says the Moscow correspondent of the Times, "that M. Witte is convinced that the peace negotiations will not last more than three weeks, and if the Japanese demands prove incompatible M. Witte expects to return immediately."

Trepoff's Bad Blunder.

A London cable: One of the topics of conversation at the Zemstvo congress to-day," says the Moscow correspondent of the Times, "was the alleged discovery of a military plot against the present occupant of the throne. After the blunder of interdicting and advertising the congress of Zemstvos and Dumas, the Government perpetrated this afternoon an additional blunder by detaining a few police officers to stop the proceedings.

"The policemen good-humoredly tried to execute their orders, and after waiting considerable time over the incident, the congress resumed its deliberations as if nothing had happened. The Government is now in a ludicrous position. Despite their arbitrary discretionary powers, the police cannot even prevent a gathering of citizens.

"The Government and its arsenal of decrees and circulars no longer command obedience, except when backed by bayonets.

"Will General Trepoff, who instigated this latest demonstration of official importance, venture to resort to force? It is believed the temptation to vindicate the Government's prestige may prove too strong, but if violent measures are taken matters will only become worse.

"The recent persecution brought about the most double the numbers expected to this afternoon's meetings, and the violent measures greatly stimulates the whole of the Zemstvos and Dumas to fight against what numbers of the committee to-day styled the real revolutionary party the Bureauary represented by the Novoye Vremya and Moscow Gazette."

POLICE AT ZEMSTVO.

Take Names of All the Delegates and Hear Discussions.

A Moscow cable: The Zemstvo congress opened at midday in the residence of Prince Dolgoroukoff. The Congress was attended by 225 delegates. Count Heyden, leader of the deputations representing the Congress, recently received by the Emperor, presided.

M. Folvine, President of the organizing committee, had barely started a statement dealing with the obstacles placed in the way of the Congress, announcing that Governor-General Kozloff had promised that there would be no recourse to extreme measures, when the Chief of Police, with numerous commissaries and officials entered the room.

The chief announced that the Prefect had prohibited the meeting of the Congress and ordered the seizure of the documents. Count Heyden protested against the proceedings, but the Chief of Police began taking the names of the delegates. Then cries were raised of "Write down the whole of Russia." Many persons present who were not delegates to the Congress requested that their names also be taken. The police then departed in order to draw up summaries and the sitting was resumed.

Bouliane Scheme Inadequate.

The scheme of a National Assembly on the basis outlined by the commission presided over by M. Bouliane, Minister of the Interior, was minutely and critically discussed, and denounced as totally inadequate to remove Russian grievances because, including a qualification and an election by classes, it prevented the expression of the views of the masses of the people of the Russian Empire.

Some Redemptive Features.

At the same time it was recognized that the proposed Assembly would comprise a considerable proportion of the social forces of the empire and serve the purpose of a social movement which would tend to secure political liberty and regular national representation. Therefore, it was considered desirable that in the event of the carrying out of the Bouliane or a similar project the delegates of the Zemstvos and municipalities should participate in the Assembly to the greatest possible extent with the object of forming a compact group and to obtain a guarantee of individual and public liberties.

Numerous resolutions embodying the foregoing criticism were adopted unanimously; as were also resolutions complaining of excessive administrative and police control of elections, and insisting that publicity be given to the proceedings of the proposed Assembly, which should be in direct relations with the Emperor without interference from the Council of the Empire.

CHINESE WED WHITE GIRLS.

Double Wedding Celebration Last Night in Toronto.

Toronto, July 24.—Chop suey society on York street was excited and elated last night when a couple of white girls became brides of Charlie Sing and Jack King. The festival was at the Chinese restaurant, 190 York street, and until early this morning there was more or less excitement around the place.

The girls are both young and good-looking, but unlike their brides they banded not after any quiet but pretty chattering of the happy event by the society reporter, who got the eye when he extended his congratulations.

Charlie Sing, one of the bashful grooms is a happy sort of fellow, but he has to do what he is told already. He was willing to loosen up a little regarding his embarkation on the sea of matrimony, but after saying he had been engaged for some time a woman with a pretty little Chinese baby, which the policeman said had six fingers, slid into the conversation and Charlie confidences were cut off. He used to live in Clinton.

Numerous Chinamen were asked to relate the romance, but their replies resembled the sound of gravel dropping rapidly into a deep well. The lady with the baby talked light. Charlie Lee was there. He knows what he is talking about if anybody understands him, but he is sore on the papers because they recently misreported him on some matter which seems to have been of great interest in the Chinese quarter, and he didn't want the weddings noticed.

One of the brides plainly expressed her unwillingness to have anything said of the joyous events, and what she said settled it. In the apartment at the back of the restaurant there was a gathering composed mostly of Chinese, who were quietly celebrating. The service of the Methodist Church united the happy couples.

DUCKED, THEN FLOGGED.

Essex Man the Victim of a Gang of White Caps.

A Chatham, Ont., report: Last night near Wheatley the cries of mercy! Dulmage was suddenly attacked by eleven masked men, who wore black slouch hats and black masks over their faces. They dragged him from his bed and pinioned him with ropes, and, despite his vigorous protests, dragged him to a nearby well. Here a long, stout rope was tied around his neck, and he was lowered and soaked for over half an hour. The unfortunate man was sometimes immersed for half a minute at a time, then his head would be released to permit breathing, and then he was lowered again, despite his cries for mercy. During the whole time his body was in the water, and when he was finally raised he was almost numb and half drowned.

Not content with this, the attackers then dragged him to a post some fifty yards away, and thrashed him with a horse whip, which tore his shirt to shreds and cut cruelly into the flesh. When they first appeared on Friday, a physician who examined him claimed he was half dead with pain and exposure.

The alleged reason of the attack is that Dulmage was in the habit of drinking heavily, and then striking and abusing his wife, and that his neighbors have repeatedly warned him concerning this conduct. The case has been reported to the Crown, and Crown Attorney Smith states that the case is being thoroughly investigated, and the guilty parties will be severely dealt with.

SOL'S SPOTTED FACE.

Harvard Taking Great Interest in the Big Sunspots.

Cambridge, Mass., July 24.—In the Harvard Observatory yesterday it was said that sun spots now exciting considerable interest are of unusual dimensions. When they first appeared on Friday, they were not very tangible, but now they can be plainly seen through smoked glass or even with the naked eye when the sun is low.

Although the Harvard observers here do not pay much attention to this particular phenomenon, they took photographs this afternoon.

"Whether the hot weather is caused or affected by sun spots," said W. P. Garrison, of the observatory staff, "is unknown."

The spots on the sun at present are among the largest which have appeared in recent years, although they probably do not compare with those which appeared in 1892. They are close together, somewhat above the centre, and on the right hand side. They are estimated to be 100,000 miles in diameter, twelve times as great as the earth. These spots are supposed to be collections of condensed gas containing solid matter, but scientists are not agreed, and some astronomers think the spots are depressions in the surface of the sun or bodies moving from the earth to the sun.

"WILD BILL" MILLER DEAD.

The Sheriff Who Killed Him Will Get $5,000 Reward.

Grand, I. T., July 24.—As a result of a recent office and the Miller gang the notorious desperado, Wild Bill Miller, was shot and killed in a hand-to-hand encounter with Deputy United States Marshal Jim Davis, of Wilburton. Miller's gang took refuge in the Kiamia Mountains near Wilburton over a year ago, and have defied officials to take their stronghold. Marshal Davis was removed from Columbia, Wilburton for the purpose of breaking up the gang. The body of Miller was turned over to the sheriff of Jack county, Tex., in which county Miller was born and where his first crime, the murder of a sheriff, was committed.

Davis received $5,000 reward for Wild Bill's body, and in addition he will get other rewards aggregating $3,000. Seventeen horses were recovered from the outlaws' camp after the battle. The rest of the gang eluded the officers.

USED CHLOROFORM.

The Trick of Two Montreal Burglars Was Successful.

Montreal, July 24.—Chloroform has been degraded to the rank of a burglar's accessory in this city, and the police are looking for two men who used it while rifling the sleeping apartments of Mrs. E. Labranche's residence on City Hall avenue early yesterday morning. About 3 o'clock Mrs. Labranche's daughter Aline awoke, and hearing a noise in the house, called out to ask who was moving about. A hand was instantly placed over her mouth and a handkerchief, saturated with chloroform, was held over her face until she became unconscious.

The intruders also chloroformed Mrs. Labranche's young son, who was asleep in a hammock. Mrs. Labranche was sleeping in another room, and did not hear the robbers until they were about to depart. She raised an alarm, but they succeeded in getting away.

The police were called in, and a search of the house was made immediately. The burglars had evidently escaped by means of one of the open windows. It was found that they had secured $45 and gold watch, as well as a number of articles of minor value. The young woman and young man soon recovered.

HE TRIED TO KILL FRICK.

Man Who Attempted Life of Millionaire Serves Sentence.

Pittsburg, July 24.—Alex Berkman, the alleged anarchist, who attempted to kill H. C. Frick, the millionaire steel manufacturer during the great Homestead strike in 1892, was released from the Western Penitentiary to-day, and immediately arrested again on a commitment to the Allegheny County Workhouse to serve one year for carrying concealed weapons.

Berkman was sentenced to twenty-two years in the penitentiary, but good behavior earned for him a commutation of nine years, so that he served but thirteen years. During his long imprisonment Berkman devoted his leisure time to study and writing. As he left for the workhouse he said to Deputy Sheriff Haggerty:

"I hope there won't be any notoriety about me. I want to do my little bit and then be a good man and live at peace with the world."

The trip from the penitentiary to the workhouse was without incident.

WIVES SPLIT KING'S GOLD.

His Highness of Yap Left Million and Two Families.

Honolulu, July 24.—Advice from Yap, in the Caroline Islands, say that the contest over the $1,000,000 estate of King O'Keefe, of the islands, has been compromised, the estate being equally divided between the American and native wives. O'Keefe went to the Carolines in the sixties, amassed a fortune and gained great influence over the natives. He built schooners, and on many islands was practically the ruler. He married a native woman, who bore him half a dozen children.

About five years ago he died while returning from Hong Kong to Yap. His fortune was taken by the widow and family in Yap, but it developed that O'Keefe had a wife in the United States to whom he had sent regular remittances. She sent a lawyer from San Francisco to Yap to file the claim, and a compromise was reached when he presented his proofs.

RESIDED IN PITTSBURG.

Former St. Catharines Girl Weds a Wealthy Denver Man.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 24.—William Calvin Nevin, a former Pittsburger, now a resident of Denver, Colorado, was married here to-night to Miss Jessie McIntosh, a pretty stenographer and governess of his eight-year old daughter. Mr. Nevin was a wealthy widower, and the marriage aroused quite a sensation.

Miss McIntosh was formerly a resident of St. Catharines, Ont., but of late years has been living in Denver, where she was employed by Mr. Nevin. The wedding took place at the home of Mrs. W. A. Given, sister of the groom.

Mr. Nevin reached Pittsburg a week ago to attend some sort of a family reunion. With him came his eight-year-old daughter and her governess, Miss McIntosh. The announcement was soon made that Mr. Nevin and the governess were to be married, and the wedding took place this evening.

MR. A. C. LYTLE, MONTREAL, SAVES LARGE SUM OF MONEY.

His Horse Shot and Himself Peppared With Buckshot, He and His Son Got Away With the Satchels Containing the Bills.

Montreal, July 24.—Mr. A. C. Lytle, paymaster of the Oxford Mountain Railway, now building along St. Francis River, near Sherbrooke, returned to Montreal to-day and related the desperate experience he and his son underwent yesterday at the hands of Italian highwaymen, who attempted to rob the pay-sacks of $14,000 in cash. He said: "My son and I were driving along the construction road between Kingsbury and Windsor Mills. On a quiet stretch between two clumps of bushes we were jogging along, when all of a sudden two masked Italians jumped from the bush, one on either side. Each had a shotgun, and each pointed at us and demanded the money. One seemed to boss the job, and shouted to the other to shoot the horse, which he immediately did. The horse dropped dead. It suddenly struck me that now there was only one man with a gun, and he of his guard for a moment. I seized the grip with the money, jumped out and ran towards the bush. My son jumped the other way with a smaller satchel of money. He saw the Italian pointing his gun at him, and at once dropped into the bushes, the charge going over his head. Both Italians then saw I had the big money bag, and started firing at me. But the buggy was between us, and gave me a chance, and the first shot went over my head. I kept running zigzag, so as to keep them busy. Then the other fired, and the buckshot struck the money satchel, fairly riddling it, and swinging it around so hard it knocked me down, while I fell several shot stings in my arm. I was not much hurt, and jumped up and ran on. I was met by an Italian supply man named Baldasario, who grabbed the satchel and helped me to escape. The two highwaymen kept on firing several more shots, and I got several buckshot in my leg and some in the back, while Baldasario got peppered in one leg. After a minute or two, however, they evidently got scared and ran in getting away."

"We took a pretty long chance in getting away, but if the Italian had not wasted his charge killing the horse all we could have done would have been to let them get away with the money, as we were unarmed."

After the shooting was over Mr. Lytle drove to Richmond, where Dr. Johnson, of that place, took a number of buckshot out of his arm. Upon his arrival here he was met at the station by his wife and promptly driven to a hospital. It is believed that the highwaymen were acquainted with the circumstances of Mr. Lytle's trip, and suspects are being watched.

WIFE CAN LOOT POCKETS.

Kansas Judge Finds Custom "Ancient and Honorable."

Kansas City, July 24.—Judge Glover declared in the Circuit Court to-day that he would never interfere with that ancient and honorable right of a wife to search her husband's pockets for loose change. William M. Harving asked a divorce from Ina M. Harving, one reason being because she had a habit of "frisking" his pockets after he fell asleep.

When the evidence was all in Judge Glover said:

"I want it distinctly understood that I am not granting this divorce because the wife went into her husband's pockets. I shall do nothing to interfere with that ancient privilege of the fair sex. A wife has the right to do that. I grant the divorce for other reasons."

ALIENS BILL PASSED.

The British House of Commons Gives Third Reading.

London, July 24.—In the House of Commons yesterday the Aliens Bill passed its third reading by a majority of 90. The Prime Minister, Mr. Balfour, in winding up the debates on the bill, contended that the proposed restrictions were less severe than those imposed by any other nation. He referred to the American immigration laws, and asked whether anyone would assert that the Americans were indifferent to freedom or looked with unmoved eyes on the suffering and the oppressed, yet the restrictions as well as the restrictions imposed by the British colonies which he said, more severe than those imposed by "this moderate and reasonable bill."

TOADSTOOLS DEADLY.

Killed Two Children and Mother Also Die.

Vineland, N. J., July 24.—Dr. George Cunningham, was called to Friendship, Atlantic county, a few miles northeast of here, to-day, to see the family of Joe Franco, who had been poisoned by eating toad stools. He found a deplorable scene. Two children, aged 2 and 7 years were dead, and the father and mother were writhing in agony.

The family had feasted at supper last night on toad stools which had been taken for mushrooms. The baby ate only the froth on some bread, but died first. The father may survive, but the mother is in a critical condition.

KITE CARRIED BOY.

Pulled Lad From Roof and Let Him Down on Pavement.

New York, July 24.—While flying a kite on the roof of his home at 765 St. Stebbins avenue, the Bronx, yesterday, Robert Mattar, a five-year old boy, fell a hundred feet to the pavement, receiving internal injuries which may prove fatal. He was taken to Lehman's Hospital.

WHEN A SELF SUPPORTING GIRL GETS MARRIED.

"Any girl's an idiot who gets married," said the stenographer, impatiently. "Oh, I don't know," said her girl friend, who had called to take her to lunch. "I don't call myself an idiot."

"Of course you don't," agreed the stenographer. "It isn't to be expected you would. You think you're going to do a sensible thing, I suppose—giving up an $18-a-week job for—well, don't get mad, and I won't say it. But you'll wish you hadn't, my dear. That's a sweet waist. I like that embroidery on it. No, I like my own job too well to give it up just yet awhile. Why, you must be crazy!"

"What makes you think so?" "Look at that waist you're wearing. I'll bet you gave $14 or $15 for that alone." "Eighteen-fifty." "I wouldn't wonder much if you did. I'm going to have the loveliest little party dress you ever saw next week. It's going to be a dream. You must come and see it if you get time. But what I was going to say was that you won't be buying yourself many $18 waists a year or two from now. You won't have any spare bank account to draw on—only a husband, and most of them have got other uses for their money."

"Johnny isn't that kind," said the other girl. "He isn't rich, but—" "But he'll spend his last cent on you now. Well, you'll see. Why, you're having the best possible kind of a time. You didn't have to work too hard. You had your regular hours, and when 5 o'clock came you could go home and if you wanted to go out, and if you time you could lock yourself in your room and rest. There were always plenty of men to take you out anywhere and be grateful for the privilege, and candy, books, flowers—good time generally. If you want anything you could go and buy it with your own money. Don't you think you are a trifle idiotic to give up all that?"

"Of course, I know Johnny's a nice fellow," her friend went on, "but there were five or six other things that seemed to me to be just as nice. They're nearly all nice before you marry them. Now you'll find you've got to fuss around with the house all the time and bother with help—if you can afford to have help—and you'll get tired and you can't go to your room and lock yourself in because Johnny would think you were mad about something or sick, and he'd either pester you or get mad and go away somehow or else to enjoy himself. And when you want any money and anything you'll have to ask Johnny for it and he—oh, yes, he'll hand it right over, and won't want to know what it's for and all about it. That's because he's Johnny. He'll make you a liberal allowance. Johnny's got Tom's and Dick's and Willie's and Jim's don't—at least, I heard they don't. Johnny will take you out places without a murmur, of course, and he'll bring you little presents just the same as ever."

"There goes Mr. Henderson to his work. That lets me out. Wait till I wash my hands and we'll go. But you'll be late. Do you really mean to take them?" "I certainly do," said the other girl decidedly. "You don't understand, that's all. Some day if you are lucky you may."

The stenographer smiled as she took off her paper wristbands. "Perhaps I do now," she said. "You!" exclaimed the other girl, making a dash for her hand. "Let me look. Isn't it a beauty? So you're going to take chances, too, art you?" "I've just as much nerve as you have," said the stenographer, blushing—Chicago News.

EXCELLENCE AND ELEGANCE.

Mr. G. T. Bell, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System, is frequently in receipt of communications from patrons, commending the service that is found on Canada's great double track railway. An unsolicited letter of recent date, reads as follows:

"I have just returned from the Pacific coast and it was most interesting to know that my wife and I immensely enjoyed the run over your road, and you must admit that when a woman is pleased and delighted, she receives something that has the classic touch of elegance and grace. It is an inclination that the railroad that pleases a woman is pretty near perfection."

Another letter from a physician of South Carolina, reads: "The pleasure of travelling over the Grand Trunk is a most interesting one. I have no hesitation in saying that your road is one of the finest I have ever been on, and the night from Montreal to Toronto, the train was as steady as if one had been in a hotel."

The travel over the Grand Trunk is increasing every year, and as the excellence of this railroad is becoming known more and more, travellers from all parts are taking the opportunity of riding the fast trains which this line is operated in Canada and over their double track route between the principal cities of the East and West.

About Old Clocks. In an article on Old-Fashioned Time-Pieces in the August Delimitator, N. Hudson Moore gives some facts of interest, among them being the following: "The origin of the earliest timekeeping device is lost in antiquity, but among the first clocks composed of an assemblage of wheels of which there is no record, as to age, is the clock in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, which was put up in 1284. By 1600 there were clocks made for a moderate price and for the use of the average householder. These were known by the name 'bird' or 'lantern' and 'bed-post' clocks. They were put on shelves or brackets attached to the wall, and were wound by pulling the opposite ends of ropes on which weights were hung. Some of these striking clocks; others were furnished with an alarm and some of them are expected to run for more than thirty years. The pendulum, which was introduced about 1656, superseded the balance as the first form was known as the 'bob' pendulum," which by 1680 was followed by the "royal" or long pendulum. America has contributed many valuable inventions to the science of clock making, the most important being steel springs, which could be produced at a low price, and thus enable the manufacturer of cheap clocks. Another invention was the pendulum covered with goldleaf, which is a necessary part of a regulator clock, and which was made by Silas B. Terry, a son of H. Terry, of Windsor, Connecticut, who was one of the early makers of American clocks."

Raffle for Heirs. One of the oddest wills was one recently executed, by which the estate of W. H. Mainwaring, of Carlton, Victoria, was divided into six equal parcels. The six children of the testator drew from a box envelopes containing numbers corresponding to these portions, and each accepted without question that portion assigned by chance.

SOUTH AMERICAN RHEUMATIC CURE CURES RHEUMATISM.—It is safe, harmless, and acts quick—gives almost instant relief and an absolute cure in from one to three days—works wonders in most acute forms of rheumatism. One man's testimony: "I spent six weeks in bed before commencing its use—4 bottles cured me."

Paper Floors. Wood pulp or paper floors are the latest fad in Germany, and the new idea has many points of advantage over the wooden floorings. A rough board floor is first laid, any sort of soft pine being used, since this is to serve merely as a foundation for the flooring proper. Over this is spread a special preparation of pulp which dries almost as hard as stone, and with an absolutely even surface. When thoroughly dried it can be painted or stained to imitate any wood, and as it is absolutely impervious to water, oil or dirt, it can be kept much cleaner than the best hardwood floor, and the absence of cracks prevents the gathering of insects under the base-board.

It costs but two-thirds of what a hardwood floor would, and it is being adopted in the best houses, as well as in the cheaper apartments, where the item of cost is an important consideration.

Lo, the Poor Millionaire.

Bernard Shaw has been looking into the case of the poor millionaire, and he finds it really pathetic. Looking over the advertisements of the manufacturers, he finds that everything is produced for the million, but nothing for the millionaire. You may search the world over in vain for the special dear line of hats, the cloth-of-gold bicycling suit and the Cleopatra elixir, four pearls to the bottle, can be purchased at wholesale. But there are societies for the relief of all sorts of congenitally handicapped people, discharged prisoners in the first rapture of the luxury of unlimited appetite, but no hand is stretched out to the millionaire except to beg. While he can have the best in the market, he is no better off than the professor of a modest $25,000 or so a year. The only one thing that he can order on a scale of special expensive pomp is his funeral.

Alarm Clocks on Gravestones.

The Indians of Pala, in the foothills of the Coast Range in the southern part of the State of California, were converted to the Catholic faith by the Jesuit Fathers, who founded a mission among them. Though some superstitions prevail, their belief in the resurrection is strong.

Believing that the dead may remain for some time in the grave, they observe exactly the hour at which the spirit departs, and the rude wooden cross over each grave in the cemetery states the exact hour, minute and day on which the person died. Suspended from the arms of one of the crosses is an alarm clock, with the hands set at 6.57. The alarm at the back of the clock had been set for the same moment. The person who placed the clock there believes that at the proper moment the alarm will sound and will awaken the sleeping spirit. Another alarm clock, that once hung from the cross above it, has fallen down, and now lies in a damaged condition on the ground. Bottles, lamps, pitchers and other pieces of crockery and glassware are also seen on the graves. The cemetery is at Agua Caliente, or Warm Spring—American Inventor.

The Blind Minister: Who Cycles.

Lanarkshire has a minister of the gospel who is stone blind, and who in many respects is a marvellous man. This is Rev. Alan N. Campbell, minister of the Episcopal Church in Cambuslang. He is a brother of the Lord Bishop of Glasgow and Galloway, and has only been in Lanarkshire a few months.

When he was ordained to the ministry several years ago his sight was unimpaired, but too close devotion to study and a visit to an English steelwork totally deprived him of the power of vision. Although a Scotchman and blind, Mr. Campbell does not take his pleasures sadly. In the first place he is an enthusiastic cyclist, and it is an interesting sight to see him-touring the country on a tandem, the front seat being occupied by his good lady.

But this is not all the sightless parson does in his time of recreation. In his cosy little study he has fitted up a modern carpenter's bench, and in his spare moments he sits there in solitude and turns out some really remarkable work. It has been said of him that he had fished as a minister he would have made his livelihood as a carpenter.

Mr. Campbell has found a novel outlet for his energy and enthusiasm. He has formed a work party, and with their assistance he has just completed a number of necessary repairs on the church property for the mere cost of the material.

One Experience Quite Enough.

The usual call has gone out of Kansas for the college boys of the east to help it harvest its great wheat crop, but it is safe to say that the college boys who have helped in other years will not respond. They will have to look for the new crop of college boys.

Water and Varnish. Varnished surfaces exposed to wet turn white because the moisture is forced into the composition of the coating, and through its fine division reflects the light, precisely as does sea foam. The varnish is broken up into layers and regains its transparency only when the water has been driven out through the application of oil.

This action of the water upon the varnish is almost precisely similar to the result gained in color photography when a sensitive emulsion is broken into layers of different densities and so reflects various colors. In the case of the varnish the action is almost uniform, and the result is a bluish white reflection.

THIS MUSICIAN IS DELIGHTED.

His Kidney Disease and Gravel Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Tried Many Medicines but Got No Relief Till He Used the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Rosedene, Ont., July 17.—(Special).—Mr. Samuel J. Crow, the well known musician, of this place, relates an experience that adds to the already great popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills in this locality.

"I suffered for years with Kidney Trouble," says Mr. Crow, "which became aggravated with every attack of cold and caused me much agony. The disease developed into Gravel, when I was totally unfit for anything.

"I tried different remedies without the desired result and was in much misery when I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, when to my astonishment and delight I immediately began to recover.

"After using five boxes the ailment had entirely ceased and I was again enjoying perfect vigor all of which I owe to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

The fact that Gravel yields so readily to Dodd's Kidney Pills is good news indeed, as it does away with those terrible operations that were supposed to be the only relief from this trouble.

Perverted Proverbs.

The pension is mightier than the sword. Attorneys will happen in the best regulated families. What can't be cured must be insured. One swallow does not make a dinner. People who live in glass houses should pull down the blinds. Train up a servant in the way she should go, and the first thing you know she's gone. Soap deferred maketh the soap stick. The lover's money is at the root of all evils. 'Tis never to late to end.

Honesty's Opportunity.

Even in these days of widespread and promiscuous food and drink adulteration there must be thousands of wholesome edibles and beverages sold under trade-mark whose purity can be demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt. Some of these articles are extensively advertised; many are marketed in competition with poisonous and deleterious compounds without an effort on the part of those who make and deal in them to exploit their superiority in the public prints. Conditions were never more favorable for the honest manufacturer of honest goods and drinks to take a fair advantage of their dishonest competitors by systematic appeals to the common sense of consumers.

One Schoolboy's Accomplishment.

Briton Riviere, the English painter, sold his first picture when he was but twelve years of age and was a pupil of a preparatory school. Five years later, before he had completed his course, he had two pictures in the Academy exhibition, the proceeds of which formed a part of his entrance fee at Oxford. Sir John Millais did even better, for his first Academy picture was accepted some six weeks before his seventeenth birthday, and before that time he had sold many pictures at private sale.

LAKE GIVEN BY CARNEGIE.

Iron Master's Unique Donation to Princeton University.

A lake three and one-half miles long and costing $385,000 is the unique gift of Andrew Carnegie to Princeton University. The idea that the meadows bordering on the Millstone River and Stony Brook, might be flooded to advantage, is an old one. Mr. Carnegie became interested in the matter two years ago while on a visit to Princeton and decided to buy the necessary land construct the lake and give it to Princeton University.

The work is now in progress. Near the campus, where the lake is 850 feet wide, there will be a number of islands and swimming pools. Stocked with game fish and a race way and lock will connect it with the Delaware and Raritan Canal.

Remarkable Cure.

New Yorkers who have been advised by their physicians to seek outdoor work in the country and who lack either the means or opportunity for making the life-giving change need not despair. Wonderful outdoor cures are being worked right in the heart of the city. A most remarkable case is that of a young clergyman who for the last eight or nine years has been lecturing on a sight-seeing course. Last summer he went to Oxford College, England, for a special course of study, during which his health gave way, and he returned to America with funds exhausted and the verdict of nervous prostration and tuberculosis hanging over his head. His New York physician told him to seek outdoor employment at once, and the young man secured his present position as lecturer to sightseers. At first his voice almost failed him, but as he became accustomed to talking in the cold air the cough stopped and his tones became clear and firm. All winter long he made his daily trip. Now "the spot" on his lung has faded, and in addition to his weekday work in New York he goes to Trenton, N. J., each Sunday to conduct mission services. He intends to remain on the coast until fall, by which time his physician promises that the cure will be complete.

Red Hairs Fewest.

Fair haired persons have a greater number of hairs upon their heads than those with darker tints, but a red headed person has the fewest hairs of all, since it is estimated that not more than thirty thousand hairs are to be found upon the average sized head. If one has black hair the number is apt to run up to one hundred thousand, while a fair haired person boasts of half as many again.

Opal Glasses.

A new use has been found for the mineral called fluorspar in the manufacture of a very beautiful kind of glass. The substance is added to the quartz mixture, and produces an exquisite play of opalescent color.

The opalescence, often very brilliant, of ancient articles of glass, such as those which have been dug up on the Island of Cyprus, is due not to any chemical ingredient, but to a decay of the material, which, owing to this cause, has assumed a laminated structure, being split up into a series of layers. These layers break up the light rays, and in this way give prismatic effects.

A few years ago a well-known amateur in such matters, greatly admiring the opalescent effect in antique glass, set out to imitate it, and after many experiments produced what is now called Favre ware. This ware has a gorgeous iridescence, its hues being sometimes metallic and sometimes counterfeiting mother of pearl. No two pieces are alike in color, each one being made up separately, and the glass is so costly that one has to pay $10 for a single tumbler.

New Drink Cure.

The authorities in Norway have discovered a novel way of curing drunkenness. The "patient" is placed under lock and key and his nourishment consists in great part of bread soaked in port wine. The first day the drunkard eats his food with pleasure, and even on the second day he enjoys it. On the third day he finds that it is very monotonous, and at the end of eight days he receives the wine with horror. It seems that it is the result of the bread, and that this cure gives good results.

Michigan Law Hits Milliners.

An important feature of the Michigan game law passed by the last legislature is that it absolutely prohibits the sale of the plumage of non-game birds. This will hit milliners who have been using birds feathers and skins for trimming women's hats. The law critics what shall be considered as game birds, such as quail, partridge and others, and then says:

"No person within the State of Michigan shall kill, catch or have in his or her possession any resident or migratory wild non-game bird, living or dead, or purchase, offer or expose for sale any such wild non-game bird, after it has been killed or caught, and no part of the plumage, skin or body of any non-game bird, protected by this act shall be sold or had in possession for sale, and this irrespective of whether said bird was captured or killed in or out of this state."

Market for Tree Stumps.

A new industry in the region at the head of the lakes is the gathering of the tree stumps for use in the Maine shipyards. A large number of wooden ships are built every year, and it has been found that the most efficient corner braces are those made from these stumps and hundreds are shipped east every day. The roots of the trees and a short section of the stump are used in making the braces, and stumps from trees about a foot in diameter are found to be the best. The stump is taken from the ground and roughly hewn into shape before being shipped. After its receipt at the shipyards it is made into a perfect brace. The cost of a carload of the stumps is close to $400, and the freight charges run over $100 a car.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

A man is in great danger when a girl begins to let him know she is afraid of him. It is as bad for a woman to be too thin where it doesn't show as too fat where it does. No man can ever make love to a girl in all the different kinds of ways she thinks he ought to. When a man is looking at the queer way a woman's hat is kept on her head it is mighty easy for her to think he is marveling at the lustre of her eyes. After she had been married seven years and had five children a woman begins to know almost as much about managing a family as she thought she did week before her wedding day.—New York Press.

Natural Soap.

Nicaragua boasts a lake so strongly impregnated with bicarbonate of potash and soda that when rubbed into greasy hair a natural soap is formed. Not only is the water used as a shampoo, but the addition of some grease to the hands enables one to dispense with soap entirely. The diluted water is said to possess medicinal properties, but no effort has been made to build up a trade, the exports last year being four demijohns sent to Guatemala.

LOVE AND A TITLE

At the long list of names, in place of the simple Vernon Vane, every one looked up, excepting Jeanne, and there was a slight rustle of surprise; but Vane's face was calm and composed, and Jeanne's turn came to make the usual assertion. Only for a moment did she pause as he held out his hand and in that moment she looked up at him, a look which he remembered ever afterward, a glance at once appealing and confiding; a glance which he could not understand then, but which, in the momentous after-time, he credited with a mistaken significance.

She did not look up again, not even when, with the usual blundering, he slipped the wedding ring on the wrong finger. It was a trifling mistake, and not an uncommon one, but Mrs. Lambton shuddered, and Maud and Georgina sobbed. With a little blush Jeanne held out her hand and Vane transferred the ring to the right finger.

The little accident took only a moment or so in the transaction, but it upset Mr. Bell, and the rest of the service was almost inaudible.

Then, with her hand on her husband's arm, Jeanne retraced her steps to the vestry. Vane, as a rule, are never large enough for the swinging of a cat, without imminent peril to that domestic animal, and Bell, when he came in, could scarcely make his way to the table for the little crowd of satin and lace.

But when he did, he held out his hand timidly to Jeanne, and grasped hers. "I—hope you'll be happy, Jeanne," he stammered, and with an amount of daring which astonished him for the remainder of his life, he raised her hand and kissed it.

Jeanne blushed, but embraced as Vane, putting his arm around her, drew her toward him, and kissed her. "This, of course, was the signal for the rest of them, and Jeanne's bouquet and lace were considerably crushed.

"It's rather well," said Vane, looking at the bride, "said Hal, in a stage whisper. Then Bell turned to Vane.

"Will you sign the register?" he said. Vane made his way up to the table and signed, and Jeanne followed. The room crowded forward also.

"I say, Vane," said Hal, "what a lot of names you've got. Liberal kind of people your godfathers and godmothers must have been."

"Some of them are purely ornamental," Hal said. "Are we ready?"

There was a general move toward the door, Jeanne, on Vernon's arm, leading the way.

Then the group of children, who had been impatiently waiting, threw down a shower of flowers, and upon these Jeanne, with a sudden tremulous smile, stepped into the carriage. The other carriages followed close after, and in a few minutes, the wedding party, full of his novel dignity, had arranged the guests around the table, and the wedding breakfast commenced.

Georgina and Maud had dried their tears by this time, and were radiant with smiles as they fussed about Jeanne and arranged her veil. Uncle John and Mr. Lambton looked on approvingly. The latter gentleman was in great form that morning, and looked, in his new blue coat and brass buttons, as if he had never seen London in his life.

It was quite a treat to see him bustling about the room, to the imminent danger of the elaborately-laid table cloth, and making his old-English-gentleman laugh rang among the glasses. Bustling about, he made his way to Vane, and in bluff and properly-descending tones, exclaimed, as he shook him by the hand:

"By jove, sir, you're a lucky dog! You ought to be a happy man! You've got a treasure, sir, but I advise you to take it easy, look here, he added, drawing Vane a little aside by a buttonhole, but speaking so that every one in the room could hear, "if you ever want a friend, don't forget the old spinster. I dare say I can find room for a picture or two—half a dozen of 'em—up in the Park. And good prices for 'em, too. Dang it, I like to encourage 'em! and give a 'elping 'and to strugglin' genius. When you want a friend, don't forget me, Mr. Vane. I can't say more, eh, can I?"

"No, indeed," said Vane, shaking hands, "and I am very much obliged to you."

"And as for Jeanne—Mrs. Vane, eh?" he corrects himself, with a chuckle, and a sly dig at the side of Vane's frock coat, "why, I look upon her as one of my own darters, always have, by George. I wish you joy, and with a benevolent old-English-gentleman chuckle, Mr. Lambton sank into his chair, delighted with himself, and, in consequence, everybody else.

"Mark my words," whispered Hal, to Vane, "the old man is going to make a speech! I can see it in his face. You won't cry will you, Vane?"

Vane laughed and pushed the boy into his seat.

"You've got to make a speech yourself, Hal," he said, at which Hal trembled visibly. Crying is an exhausting operation, and the two bridesmaids, much abetted and encouraged by Hal, attacked the usual vands with surprising heartiness, considering their heart-broken condition; mingled with the clatter of the knives and forks, there was a great deal of laughter and talking, and two persons only seemed to be smitten with heaviness, and were Jeanne and Bell.

van bless my soul, it—it can't be true!" Bell waved his hand and pointed to the license.

All eyes were turned to Vane, who, calm and composed, with a grave smile upon his handsome face, and with his hand still holding Jeanne's, looked up.

"You have sprung a mine upon us all, Bell," he said, with a slight tone of reproach; then he turned to Aunt Jane, and said, quietly:

"What Mr. Bell has said is true, Mrs. Dostrell. Will you forgive me for concealing my real identity from you? It was done with no unworthy motive, and I trust you will not regret your gift to me to-day because I asked for it in a feigned name—scarcely feigned, though."

To Jeanne, the whole scene seemed like the unobtainable episode in a dream, and every now and then she caught herself glancing up at the handsome face beside her, as if to assure herself that her lover, her husband, was there. Every now and then, too, Vane's and would seek and hold hers for a moment beneath the table; and once, as he bent down, he whispered: "My Jeanne! and Jeanne's heart leaped gladly.

Never had Vane—the once silent and reserved—appeared in such light spirits and buoyant happiness.

"Isn't he quite too charming?" whispered Maud to Bell; "so distinguished-looking, too. No one would think he was only an artist—would they?"

At which poor Bell, who had been staring absent at his plate, started and turned pale.

Presently Vane glanced at his watch, and Hal, who had drowned his shyness in champagne jumped to his feet, and would seek and hold hers for a moment beneath the table; and once, as he bent down, he whispered: "My Jeanne! and Jeanne's heart leaped gladly.

The Disturbing Vision.

The carriage drew up at the door of the little school house and she alighted with a swish of silken skirts and a waiting odor of some subtle perfume, a vision to note and to remember.

"You can go down and leave this note at the rectory, Fluke," she observed to the smart young groom in attendance.

"And be here to take me up in about half an hour." Then she opened the school door without knocking and walked in. Had she not the right to do so? Had not her father built and endowed the building? Did it not depend for its very existence upon his bounty? She did not think of this, however, as she swept across the threshold and presented herself a radiant vision, to the delighted gaze of the scholars. For they all loved her, and her entrance was a welcome break on a sultry July afternoon when lessons had become a drag.

Behind the desk the little school mistress smiled, too, for she was tired, and she often called her friends, albeit the gulf between them was marked enough. As they stood side by side the difference between them seemed very wide. The little school mistress was no longer young, a few gray threads were visible at her temples, and a meagre, unsatisfying life, albeit lived patiently and always bravely, had left some few lines on her broad, thoughtful brow.

"Let them out, Rhoda," said the vision imperiously. "I want to talk to you." A wave of the hand was sufficient, and they trooped delightedly into the playground, while Cecily with her parasol and the windows open to their widest limits.

"Ugh, how close and stuffy it is! And quite time you had your holiday, Rhoda. You are as pale as a ghost."

"The heat is tiring," she explained, in her quiet, pleasant voice. It reacts on the children. The mental condition is always dependent on the physical one."

"Is it? I hardly think so. Take me, for instance, I am perfectly well. I have ridden twenty miles on the moors this morning, and I am never tired, but at the present moment I am pretty miserable, I can tell you."

"What is wrong, dear?"

"Everything." She leaned her arms on the desk, and looked across into the face of the little school mistress, who said: "Did you know that Mr. Clephane was dining with us last night?"

The school mistress shook her head. "I have not seen him, and even if I had, he need not have mentioned it to me. Papa likes him so much, he will keep on asking him, Rhoda; he says he is a scholar and a gentleman and that he had no idea a Dissenter could be so—so cultivated."

"The lip of the little school mistress faintly curled, but the young beauty, absorbed by her own thought, did not notice it.

"He will keep on asking him, Rhoda, then what will become of me?"

"I don't understand you, dear?"

"Oh, yes, you do; you understand quite well; only you wish to make me speak out quite plainly. I have never met anyone like him. Why has Heaven been so cruel? He might just as easily have been rector of Donithorpe, or Canon at Norwich, instead of pastor, as they call it, of that horrible tin Bethel in Rockbridge, I never pass it without a shudder."

"I don't think Mr. Clephane is ashamed of his work, or his tin Bethel," observed the little schoolmistress, a trifle dryly.

"He isn't," he glories in it, positively glories in it, and speaks about all these impossible factory people as if they were his dearest friends. It is because he is different from every other man that I want to know him better, Rhoda, and yet—and yet it is not wise."

"We have met quite a lot of times lately," she went on, presently. "And, somehow, I can't help thinking it is his existence which is strong, Rhoda; when he looks at me I feel like clay in the hand of the potter. This morning when I was riding I met him on the High Moor, and we talked for one long hour."

"What of?" asked the little schoolmistress, dully.

"All sorts of things, a good deal about religion. His religion is like yours, a thing I cannot understand. It simply glues his life. I went home feeling that my horse, and my music, and my frocks, and all the things I have loved most, were so many hindrances to—my full growth—these are his words, Rhoda."

"Mr. Clephane said you had no right to enjoy these things, Cecily, he was wrong," said the little school mistress, with a rising color in her cheeks. "You were made for them, and you do as much good with your smile, perhaps, as with his stern words. I do not agree with his austere doctrines. Creatures like you are made for the sunshine, and God wills that you shall have it. He and I are the workers, and there is need and room for all."

"Why, Rhoda, you could be almost a preacher yourself. We talked about you, too, and he thinks you are certainly the best woman in the world. Well, I've come to say good-bye, dear, for the day after to-morrow I'm going to Scotland, to my Aunt Horatia."

"Day after to-morrow! Surely you are earlier than usual!"

The girl leaned forward suddenly, and gave the little schoolmistress a quiet kiss.

"I'm running away, Rhoda. It's an awful confession, but true. I'm getting too much interested in Mr. Clephane, and I am afraid he knows it, and the tin Bethel and the factory workers and Rockbridge generally, as these quarters appal. So I am going, and when I come back, if Aunt Horatia can manage it, I shall be engaged to Lord Letbridge."

No, I shall not be particularly happy, but at least I shall please papa, and uphold the tenets of my own order."

She turned about slowly and then with another kiss, disappeared.

The lesson dragged that afternoon, and the scholars were early released. Hard by the school was the little white rose-covered cottage where the schoolmistress had her home—a veritable bower of a place, beautiful without and cosy within. She was alone there in the late evening, when there came a low tap at the door. She knew the knock; it had always the power to thrill her, and she set her heart beating wildly as she started up.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Cure Hot Weather Ailments and Summer Complaints.

In the hot weather the little ones suffer from stomach and bowel troubles, are nervous, weak, sleepless and irritable. Their vitality is lower now than at any other season. Prompt action at this time saves a precious little life.

Baby's Own Tablets is the best medicine in the world for little ones. They speedily relieve, promptly cure and give sound refreshing sleep. And they are guaranteed free from opiates and harmful drugs. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm, and no home should be without the Tablets, especially during hot weather months, when dangerous troubles come suddenly and almost unobserved.

Mrs. Adam Martineau, Chloredy, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for diarrhoea and stomach troubles and always with the most perfect success. They are better than any other medicine I know of."

Sold by mail at 25 cents a box by writing to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. See that every box bears the name "Baby's Own Tablets" and the picture of a four-leaf clover on the wrapper. Anything else is an imitation.

Animal Homes for the Aged.

The Hindus, notably thoughtful of animals, have established a rest home for decrepit beasts not far from Calcutta.

A high salaried manager rules a staff of eighty servants, while there is a house veterinary surgeon to look after those patients suffering from disease.

Every sanitary precaution is taken and the stables are models of their kind.

A recent census showed that there were 973 pauper inmates, including 129 bulls, 307 cows, 171 calves, 72 horses, 13 water buffalo, 69 sheep, 15 goats, 141 pigeons, 44 chickens, 4 cats, 3 monkeys, and 5 dogs.

Little red tape is required to secure admission to the home, and the cattle have an especial rest time since at certain seasons they are made the objects of veneration and are visited from far and near.

The institution is supported entirely by gifts from the natives, and after a certain number of years is to be a thriving condition, with funds ample to meet any demands made upon it.

Newest Bible.

The latest version of the Bible is one just completed by Samuel Lloyd, of the British Bible Society. For years he has worked upon a version of the New Testament in the modern tongue, and after laborious comparisons with the ancient Greek and Latin he has at last produced a New Testament in which the obscure phrases have been made clear and words to which another meaning is now assigned are given their new form.

As an instance of the manner in which the work has been done, the word "publican" may be taken. By common usage a "publican" is now the keeper of a public house, or, in other words, a saloon keeper. In the Bible, however, the word is used in a different sense, and the latter word is now used. It is the most radical changing of the text of the Scriptures that has ever been made, but the version has the approval of the clergy, who declare it to be a decided advance over the modernized form of the King James version.

South Pole is Warming.

Since the first visit to the ice cap of the south pole was made, some fifty years ago, there has been a steady recession of the belt of some thirty miles, and it is argued that in the course of time it will be possible to make approach to the pole itself and that the land in that vicinity may even become inhabited.

It is now believed that the ice cap is but the remains of the glacial period, and that when the ice shall finally have melted it will not form again, the waters then being subject to only such ice formations as occur in any sea in wintry weather.

It is therefore possible that in spite of the few attempts made to reach the south pole in comparison with the many endeavors made to reach the north pole the former will be the sooner discovered. There is believed to be plenty of land about the south pole, and in the course of time this may become the ruling country.

van bless my soul, it—it can't be true!" Bell waved his hand and pointed to the license.

All eyes were turned to Vane, who, calm and composed, with a grave smile upon his handsome face, and with his hand still holding Jeanne's, looked up.

"Lucky," she said; "yes, I am lucky, because I am happy—because he loves me—not because he is a marquis. Why do you look so, and talk so strangely?" she said, standing in the middle of the room, with questioning eyes and parted lips.

"You have sprung a mine upon us all, Bell," he said, with a slight tone of reproach; then he turned to Aunt Jane, and said, quietly:

"What Mr. Bell has said is true, Mrs. Dostrell. Will you forgive me for concealing my real identity from you? It was done with no unworthy motive, and I trust you will not regret your gift to me to-day because I asked for it in a feigned name—scarcely feigned, though."

"And the tears sprang to her eyes. "My dear Jeanne," muttered Maud, reproachfully, "it—it sounds wicked. To wish yourself plain Mrs. Vane, instead of a marchioness. Oh, ma'am."

"Do not look so agitated, all of you," he said, with a touch of kindly impatience. "I am not changed by having a few extra names and a title. Pray let me remain Vernon Vane, and let us remain on the old footing. The reason for this concealment, Uncle John, I will write and tell you, or, better still, Jeanne shall do it. Now, Mr. Lambton, let us take a glass of champagne together," and, with a laugh, he filled Mr. Lambton's glass; but the worthy pillmaker could not be put at his ease quite so quickly.

"Jeanne is quite right," said Aunt Jane drying her eyes. "I know what she means. Don't cry, Jeanne. It will all come right. It is plain that Vane loves you, or why should he have done this? But—but I'm all dazed, and all your boxes are labeled 'Mrs. Vernon Vane,' too."

"Cer—certainly, my lord, with pleasure," he said. "Delighted, I'm sure—bless my soul—my lady, your ladyship's very good health!" he gasped, looking at Jeanne, not with the old, patronizing smile, but with a reverential, almost frightened, expression.

"Hal," she cries, and the next moment she is in her lace and satin. "Oh, Hal!"

"Now, Aunt Jane," said Vane, "fill up your glass, come—"

"All right, Jeanne!" he says, brightly. "Don't cry, Jen! It's all right. We're a bit knocked over at first, of course, and you're upset; but Vane's none the less, not with the old, patronizing smile, but with a reverential, almost frightened, expression."

"Well," he said, giving it up as a bad job; "I see you want to have a chat with Jeanne. Suppose you ladies run away and leave us gentlemen to have a quiet glass to ourselves? Go, my darling," he murmured in Jeanne's ear, "and don't forget that we have only just half an hour."

"That's the most sensible speech I ever heard at a wedding breakfast," said Aunt Jane, smilingly.

The Disturbing Vision.

The carriage drew up at the door of the little school house and she alighted with a swish of silken skirts and a waiting odor of some subtle perfume, a vision to note and to remember.

whom they had spoken in the morning, entered the little room, and seemed to dwarf its contents. For he had a noble presence, a fine head, and a general air of power and strength. Outwardly, at least, he seemed an ideal leader of men.

"You can go down and leave this note at the rectory, Fiske," she observed to the smart young groom in attendance.

"I have come to you, Rhoda, because you are the only friend, the only true friend, I have in Rockbridge, or Donalsthorpe. Can you spare me just a moment?"

"And here to take me up in about half an hour. Then she opened the school door without knocking and walked in. Had she not the right to do so? Had not her father built and endowed the building? Did it not depend for its very existence upon his bounty? She did not think of this, however, as she swept across the threshold and presented herself, a radiant vision, to the delighted gaze of the scholars. For they all loved her, and her entrance was a welcome break on a sultry July afternoon when lessons had become a drag.

"You think there is so much difference?" he said, with a kind of wistfulness. "Of late I have been depressed, thinking the work was standing still, and small wonder if I did, seeing the worker is no longer single-minded. I have fallen away from grace, Rhoda. To-night I am nothing less than a selfish, miserable, selfish, sighing creature, for the fleshpots of Egypt. I am beginning to hate my work, and the folk who have been so good to me. It is time that I went."

"Let them out, Rhoda," said the vision imperiously. "I want to talk to you."

"It is not possible, for the cause cannot be removed. I will tell you, I came to tell you, I have learned to care too much for Miss Donalsthorpe. You remember how pleased we were when I was first asked to the Hall, and how I rejoiced I was to be able to interest the Squire in my work. He has been one of my best friends, and has made me welcome in his house. I have availed myself to the full, with the usual result. I think of her, and nothing but her. She comes between me and my work, even my very soul. It is time for me to go, Rhoda, before the cause suffers, and I have asked to be relieved."

"What is wrong, dear?"

"Back to Manchester, to the sins and sorrows of the city, where my own will sink into insignificance. I have obtained permission, and will go back next month."

"I will write," she answered steadily, and even with a slight coldness, which for the moment wounded him. "Perhaps I, too, may leave Donalsthorpe. I have been thinking lately of joining my sister in South Africa. I would get something to do there, and it seems needless for us to be parted by the whole breadth of the sea when we are the only two left."

"Where will you go?"

"I am right. I will throw myself heart and soul into the work there, and peace will come. I shall never marry, I know now, so I shall be able to devote my whole life to the work. You will wish me God-speed, friend, and sometimes write to cheer me, as you have cheered me here?"

"I will write," she answered steadily, and even with a slight coldness, which for the moment wounded him. "Perhaps I, too, may leave Donalsthorpe. I have been thinking lately of joining my sister in South Africa. BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Cure Hot Weather-Attendants and Summer Complaints.

In the hot weather the little ones suffer from stomach and bowel troubles, nervousness, sleeplessness and irritability. Their vitality is lower now than at any other season. Prompt action at this time saves a precious little life. Baby's Own Tablets is the best medicine in the world for little ones. They speedily relieve, promptly cure and give sound refreshing sleep. And they are guaranteed free from opiates and harmful drugs. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm, and no home should be without the Tablets, especially during hot weather months, when danger of trouble crosses into the face of the little schoolmistress.

"Did you know that Mr. Clephane was dining with us last night?"

"The schoolmistress shook her head. "I have not seen him, and even if I had, he need not have mentioned it."

"Papa likes him so much, he will keep on asking him, Rhoda; he says he is a scholar and a gentleman and that he had no idea a Dissenter could be so—so cultivated."

"The lip of the little schoolmistress faintly curled, but the young beauty, absorbed by her own thought, did not notice it."

"He will keep on asking him, Rhoda, then what will become of me?"

"Oh, yes, you do; you understand quite well; only you wish to make me speak out quite plainly. I have never met anyone like him. Why has Heaven been so cruel? He might just as easily have been rector of Donalsthorpe, or a Canon at Norwich, instead of pastor, as they call it, of that horrible tin Bethel in Rockridge. I never pass it without a shudder."

"I don't think Mr. Clephane is ashamed of his work, or his tin Bethel," observed the little schoolmistress, a trifle dryly.

"He isn't," she glories in it, positively glories in it, and speaks about all these impossible factory people as if they were his dearest friends. It is because he is so different from every other man that I want to know him better, Rhoda, and yet—yet it is not wise."

Power of Prayer.

The Rev. P. G. Eison, who conducted a revival at the Baptist Church here several years ago, and who is well known to Reidsville people, is a firm believer in prayers, and those who agree with him will not be surprised to hear of this incident.

Mr. Eison went to the ticket office at Danville and called for a ticket to Franklin Junction. The agent politely informed him that all but the fast train had departed and that it would be impossible for that train to stop there.

Mr. Eison told him that he was assisting in a revival and had an appointment at 3 o'clock that afternoon at Franklin Junction. His persuasive powers were of no avail to the ticket agent, but when No. 36 pulled out of Danville it contained the Rev. Mr. Eison as a passenger, who, when the train was leaving the city, fell upon his knees and began to pray. As soon as he completed his prayer he arose and peeped out of the window to find that the train had come to a standstill just opposite the place at which he had an appointment. It was learned that the train was stopped on account of a hot box—Reidsville correspondent Charlotte Observer.

They Are Moderate. Americans spent $1,700,000,000 for drinks last year, but had each man spent for liquor as much in proportion as did the English the sum would have been increased to $1,810,000,000, as the expenditure per capita is much greater in England than in either Germany or America, though the cost is less. The Germans spent but $1,050,000,000 last year for drink, but had each spent as much as the average Englishman $600,000,000 more would have been spent. Both Germans and Englishmen spend more per capita for drinks than the Americans, and in the list of nations the United States stands well down toward sobriety.

No More "Don't Worry" Clubs. The "Don't Worry" Clubs which were once so popular are never heard of now. Instead of trying to make themselves believe there is nothing to fret about people now resort to sane methods to remove the source of worry. They cast the burden of their little cares upon the "Wart" columns of a big daily newspaper. These columns constitute a clearing house for trouble, whether those who want to dispose of services, accommodations or commodities and those who want to procure the same resort for a mutually satisfactory adjustment of their burdens. Ever try a "Times" Want Ad as a remedy for worry?

Newest Bible.

The latest version of the Bible is one just completed by Samuel Lloyd, of the British Bible Society. For years he has worked upon a version of the New Testament in the modern tongue, and after having a comparison with the ancient Greek and Latin he has at last put forward a New Testament in which the obscure phrases have been made clear and words to which another meaning is now assigned are given their new form.

As an instance of the manner in which the work has been done, the word "publican" may be taken. By common usage "publican" is now the keeper of a public house, or, in other words, a saloon keeper. In the Biblical sense a publican was a tax collector, and the latter word is now used. It is the most radical changing of the text of the Scriptures that has ever been made, but the version has the approval of the clergy, who declare it to be a decided advance over the modernized form of the King James version.

South Pole is Warming. Since the first visit to the ice cap of the south pole was made, some fifty years ago, there has been a steady recession of the belt of some thirty miles, and it is argued that in the course of time it will be possible to make approach to the pole itself and that the land in that vicinity may even become inhabited. It is now believed that the ice cap is but the remains of the glacial period, and that when the ice shall finally have melted it will not form again, the waters then being subject to only such ice formations as occur in any sea in winter.

Going Home From Church. Respectable Deacon—I wish that young Canon Mayberry weren't obliged to preach to such a small congregation. Frivolous Wido—So do I. Every time he said "Dearly beloved" this morning I felt as if I had received a proposal.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. VI. AUGUST 6, 1905

Josiah's Good Reign—2 Chron. 34:1-13

Commentary.—I. Josiah's character (vs. 1-11). Josiah—The fifteenth son of Judah (not counting Athaliah, the usurper), son of Amon and Jedidah. He was married at the age of thirteen to Zebudah. 2. Did... right—He grew up into a noble life in spite of the worst influences of an immoral and idolatrous court and the example of an idolatrous father. Let us learn, 1. That a child may begin to serve God early. 2. That a child may serve God when the world is most attractive. 3. That when a child begins to serve God early he will be likely to become honorable and useful. Ways of David—The character of David was the standard by which the sacred historians were in the habit of trying his successors. His father—His ancestor. Turned not aside (R. V.)—This phrase implies an undeviating obedience to all the commandments of God. Idolatrous images destroyed (vs. 11-13).

3. Eighth year—When he was sixteen years old. Began to seek—It is quite wonderful to see this young man in the midst of the temptations of an idolatrous and corrupt court begin, at the first dawn of his manhood, to destroy the Lord with all his heart. Those dwelling under unfavorable influences should take courage. Began to purge—The condition of things in Judah and Jerusalem at the time of Josiah's conversion was most deplorable. For nearly seventy years idolatry had prevailed, except during the few years of Manasseh's later life. Amon in his short reign had again fully established idolatry. Immorality was rampant. Jerusalem was filthy and polluted. Crimes of violence, death and oppression, and shameful vices abounded everywhere.

In the twelfth year of his reign, and the twentieth year of his age, Josiah set out in earnest to destroy the idolatry of his kingdom. In 11 Kings xlii. 3 the date given is the eighteenth year of his reign. It is probable that the work was begun in the twelfth year and completed in the eighteenth year.

4. They brake down, etc.—The temple was cleansed of idols, the molten images, idol altars and Asherim were ground to powder and their dust sprinkled on the graves of their worshippers in the king's presence. 5. Burnt the bones—This was predicted of Josiah more than three hundred years before this time (L. Kings xiii. 1, 2). The bones of the idolatrous priests, with the one exception of the prophet of Bethel (see 1 Kings xiii. 1, 2), were burnt. 6. Disintombment and burial upon their own altars.

6. In the cities, etc.—The northern kingdom was now under the Assyrian Government, but the remnant of Israel maintained close relations with Judah and looked to them for their natural protection. Josiah used his influence and what power he had in removing the idols from the land of Israel. The Assyrians probably did not trouble themselves about his religious reforms.

III. The temple repaired (vs. 8-13). 8. Eighteenth year—When he was twenty-six years old. This was the year in which the great work began six years before it was fully carried out. Urged—The urging of the temple and probably began the first work. From purging he proceeded to repairs; and these had evidently been carried on for some considerable time before the particular occasion. Goad, Shaphan—Called scribe in 11 Kings xlii. 3. The office of secretary was on an equality with the governor and royal recorder. We may think of the scribe as the king's secretary writing his letters, drawing up his decrees, managing his finances. The scribe became a high officer of state. It was his duty to transcribe and record and put in writing what had been handed down orally; then to preserve the sacred books, the laws, hymns, prophecies of the past. Repair the houses—The repairs were to be carried away the impediment and purge out the evils that had gathered in and about the house of the Lord. But all this is of little avail without repairing the temple, and renewing the service of God. The people must be taught and trained in religion, or they would soon go back to idolatry. To cut off outward sins, is but the beginning of a true reformation. The essential work is the forming a new heart and character and the cultivating a new and better life. First dig up the weeds, but it is good seed from which the good crop is to come. Levites—had gathered—the money was collected not merely at the temple, but also by collectors who visited all parts of Judah and Israel for the purpose of soliciting contributions. This work appears to have been done well and thoroughly. 10. The money was placed in the hands of the overseers and they paid it to the workmen.

11. To floor the houses—To make beams for the houses.—R. V. By the houses we are to understand the houses and chambers of the priests in the temple and its courts.—Whedon's Com. 13. In this verse we are told that the Levites there were scribes, and officers and porters.—Here we have come to a new order of things. An order of scribes forming a distinct division of the Levitical body, has been instituted.

PRACTICAL APPLICATION.

Josiah was the son of a father who walked in wicked ways. It is thought that he received good instruction from his mother. But it is certain that men devoted to the service of God helped him to follow in the footsteps of the King of whom the Lord said, "I have found David a man after mine own heart" (Acts 13:22). Josiah's father should we labor with prayer for and encourage those children whose parents give them neither prayers, nor help, nor sympathy.

And he did that which was right in the sight of the Lord and walked in the ways of David his father (vs. 21). As we live so will others. That we may be a good example to those who look to us we must show a perfect model. Josiah's father's example was a good one. Josiah's father's example was a good one. Josiah's father's example was a good one.

FAMOUS "RUBENS" FOUND.

Portrait of Charles the Bold Lost for 254 Years. London, July 24.—According to the Daily Mail, Rubens' posthumous portrait of Charles the Bold, which has been missing for 254 years, has been found in London. The portrait was catalogued among Rubens' effects when he died in 1640, but it was lost in 1611. It seemed that it passed into the possession of Philip IV. of Spain. It was probably taken by one of Napoleon's generals to France, and thence to England. It is still in excellent condition. Dr. Rooses, of Antwerp, a leading authority on Rubens' work, declares that the portrait is undoubtedly the long-lost No. 26 in Rubens' catalogue.

Doob's Kidney Pills are the only perfect pattern the world has ever seen.—Jeans. To be like him we must study his life, his words, and his deeds. We must think often of his loving patience, his wonderful humility, his self-sacrificing diligence, his acts of self-sacrifice for others, his mode of reasoning and his ways of working. And declined neither to the right hand, nor to the left' (v. 21). Mary will watch our lives, therefore, we will not study God's words only for a moment.

Balfour Cabinet Meets Defeat.

Has a Minority of Three on a Resolved Amendment.

Much Excitement in the House When Result is Announced.

Government Won't Resign and Refuses an Adjournment.

A London cable: The Government was defeated in the House of Commons at midnight on an amendment offered by John Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, to reduce the Irish land commission. The vote stood 199 in favor of the amendment and 190 against it. Intense excitement followed the announcement of the vote. The Liberals and Irish members stood for some minutes cheering and shouting "Resign!"

When the tumult subsided, and the usual motion to adjourn the sitting was put, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the leader of the Liberals, asked whether, in view of the defeat of the Government had any statement to make. Sir Henry was loudly cheered. Prime Minister Balfour replied that it was impossible to make any statement at present. John Redmond, amid Irish cheers, reminded Mr. Balfour that he had repeatedly declared that he would resign if he were defeated in the house. He said that if Mr. Balfour disregarded this vote of want of confidence it would be contrary to all precedent. Redmond asked if he were going to swallow this humiliation as he had swallowed every other during the last few years. He declared that if the Government clung to office, despite the vote, it would be the duty of the Opposition to use every means to prevent such an outrage.

Balfour Was Cool. Mr. Balfour, speaking with his accustomed coolness, said that Mr. Redmond greatly agitated himself about a matter which would be settled in due time.

This statement caused an uproar. Continuing, Mr. Balfour said he was unconscious of any humiliation. (Here the uproar was renewed with added vigor.) The Government hitherto had received the unfeigned support of the party which constituted a large majority of the House, but it would not be required to consult his colleagues first. He would make a statement Monday, when, by a coincidence, there would be an opportunity provided for deciding whether the Government enjoyed the confidence of a majority of the House.

This was a reference to the fact that the Government had allotted Monday for a vote of censure previously moved. The House rose at 12.49 o'clock amid loud Opposition cries of "Resign!"

Redmond's Motion. The House was in committee of supply when Mr. Redmond made his motion.

Mr. Long, the president of the Local Government Board, had been making a general statement of the working of the Irish Land Purchase Act of 1903. The applications under the act, he said, had reached nearly £26,000,000, but the money to meet them did not reach £10,000,000. It was desirable to raise a loan to meet the deficiency, and he proposed therefore to amend the act so as to enable the vendors to take two-thirds of the purchase money in stock. He was aware that the landowners were opposed to this, but he hoped they would reconsider the matter.

Mr. Redmond followed, opposing Mr. Long. He declared that the act had completely broken down, financially and otherwise. It had not dealt with the problem of congested or re-inhabited estates who had been evicted from their holdings. He moved to reduce the vote as a protest. The debate dribbled throughout the evening. There was a thin attendance of members.

There is nothing indicative of the course the Government is likely to take in view of its defeat. It is a fact, as Mr. Balfour stated, that Governments have often been defeated on the estimates without resigning, and many parliamentarians believe that the Cabinet is not likely to abandon office.

The Times, which usually supports the Government, points out, however, that although the incident is not necessarily decisive, it is unquestionably serious. The vote cannot be represented as a snap division. It was taken when nearly four hundred members were present, and at the end of the sitting when a division was to be expected. Its significance is apparently increased by the fact that it occurred only two days after the Prime Minister had convened a meeting of his party and warned them of the necessity for close and regular attendance for the remainder of the session, and followed upon an important statement by the Chief Secretary for Ireland proposing an amendment which would require bills for its realization.

Majority accidental. On the other hand, it may be argued that the majority against the Government was almost certainly accidental, for it is certain that the bulk of the Unionists cordially approve the Government's Irish policy, and that if the vote of which the Government was defeated were resubmitted it would almost certainly be carried by the full Government majority.

The Times thinks there are very serious reasons that may determine the Ministers to resubmit it, for which there are plenty of precedents. It is of national importance that the extremely important negotiations pending with Japan to prolong and extend the treaty of alliance should be concluded before the Government resigns. There are also other foreign and colonial subjects to be considered.

LIGHTNING STRIKES POWDER HOUSE.

Six Men Blown to Pieces by the Terrific Explosion.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 24.—An explosion is reported to have taken place this morning at the west Riverside Coal Mine, two miles west of the city. Five or six miners are said to have been killed.

A telephone message from the mine states that lightning struck the powder house shortly after 6 o'clock. The building contained a considerable quantity of dynamite and the explosion which followed was terrific. Other than the six men reported dead, it is stated that the wounded may number twenty.

Thousands of Women ARE MADE WELL AND STRONG

Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Res't Upon the Fact that It Really Does Make Sick Women Well

Thousands upon thousands of Canadian women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be a fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine, and compared with it all other medicines and treatment for women are experiments. Marvellous cures have been reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures, and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration, or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Anyway, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

A BRUTE'S CONFESSION

DENIES HE WAS INSANE AND IS WILLING TO SUFFER PENALTY.

Oswego, N. Y., July 24.—Defying the efforts of his own lawyers to save him, Henry W. Manser, on trial for the murder of Cora Sweet, said to-day when his defence offered evidence to prove his insanity at the time of the murder: "I was not insane for a minute, and I am willing to suffer death for my act."

Market Reports

OF The Week.

Toronto Farmers' Market. Trade at St. Lawrence market continues very quiet, owing to the light receipts. There was little offering, even at the stalls, and everything was cleared up early.

Dressed Hogs—The market is firm in tone and unchanged at $2.50 per cent. for heavies and $3 for choice light weights. Butter—Had a firm tone, receipts being light. Prices ruled about 20 to 25c. Eggs—Held fairly steady at 22 to 24c per dozen.

Poultry—Trade is quiet and prices unchanged. Hay—Only about five loads of No. 1 timothy were offered. Prices are easy in tone at $12 to $12.50 per ton.

A SOCIALIST APPEAL.

JOURNEYMAN BAKERS WANT MUNICIPAL BAKESHOPS NOW.

New York, July 24.—The Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners' International Union of America is now sending an appeal to all bakers' unions in America calling on them to assist in the establishment of municipal bakeshops in all cities of the United States, Canada and Mexico. "Along with the public utilities," says the appeal, "the food product industry will be the one that will become the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor of the people. It is now possible to put the control of the railroads, street railways, the post office, the telegraphs, the manufacture of tobacco, and the transportation of the mails and even the savings institutions in the hands of the State or municipality, as is the case in many European countries and partially even in the United States."

"SCOTTY" PLANS NEW BUST.

To Be More Substantial Than Present Meteoric Sprees. New York, July 24.—"Scotty," the lively and picturesque miner from Death Valley, it was reported last evening, may have a portrait bust of himself executed in pure gold taken from his mines. To indulge in this artistic fancy, it will be necessary for him to "loosen up" to the extent of $50,000 to $500,000 for the gold alone.

The sculptor who will execute the statue will be Frederick E. Triebel, a member of the National Sculpture Society. Mr. Triebel called at the Herald Square Hotel this morning to arrange with "Scotty" for the first sitting. "Scotty" head appeals to the sculptor for his full of character, signifying lack of intelligence and determination. It is said this will be the only gold portrait bust in the world.

DISORDERS IN SPAIN.

MADRID LOOT SHOPS AT SEVILLE AND SALAMANCA. Madrid, July 24.—Serious disorders have occurred at Seville and Salamanca arising from the general distress.

Four hundred farm laborers invaded Seville, looted the bakeries and shops and committed other depredations until they were dispersed by a strong force of police and gendarmes.

A mob stormed the City Hall at Salamanca, broke into the building and sacked it. A member of the municipal Council fleeing from the rioters, jumped from a window and was killed. The Republicans are summoning mass meetings in Madrid and elsewhere. The Government fears a spread of the disorders and is taking precautions.

Mr. Cawthra Mulock, Toronto, was fined $25 for driving his automobile above the legal speed.

Bradstreet's on Trade.

Montreal trade reports to Bradstreet's say: The trade situation here generally is unchanged from that of a week ago. Holidays are the rule in every line of wholesale trade and little is moving but small sorting orders. The industries generally continue busily engaged and outside of the wholesale trade there seem to be no complaints regarding quiet conditions. Values are generally steady to firm. Sugars are unchanged and active. Cotton yarns have been advanced 10 per cent., while there are few price changes to report in other lines. The shipping trade is active. Cattle shipments to Europe are expected to be large and space is well taken up.

Toronto reports to Bradstreet's say: For the present season of the year there is a fairly good volume of trade moving. Groceries are quiet, although there is considerable activity in the demand for sugar. At Quebec reports from the eastern section of the province show little change over that of the preceding week. City collections are reported extremely slow. The outlook for fall business is encouraging.

Winnipeg trade reports say: There is an excellent tone to all branches of trade here. A good business is being done for fall delivery of drygoods and the hardware trade continues active with values firm.

Reports from Victoria and Vancouver to Bradstreet's say: Wholesale business here continues to hold a fairly good tone, indeed some improvement is noted over that of a week ago.

Hamilton trade reports to Bradstreet's say: The volume of wholesale business continues light, although the retail trade shows some improvement. Country trade is a little quiet, while collections are fair. Receipts of country produce have fallen off since having been but prices are steady. Trade reports from London to Bradstreet's say: There is a fairly good business doing in all lines of trade, although the wholesale trade is of the light sorting variety.

Never Delay

We cannot help but seriously think what an unpleasant task it would be to hold over the stock that the backward season has caused.

We decided to make an extra appeal to shrewd buyers in general to come and secure their present needs at actually their own reasonable offer.

Just Try Us

You cannot possibly lose anything by it, and stand a good chance of making some money by it.

DISTRICT NEWS

MORTON

Mrs. MacDonald of Almonte is visiting at the home of her son, Rev. J. A. MacDonald.

Mr. Loyd of Gananoque has moved in Mrs. P. Jones' house.

The stone crusher is here, crushing large piles of stone, to repair the road between Morton and Elgin.

Mrs. Bothe of Brockville is the guest of Mrs. Willis.

A large number from here attended the celebration at Athens on the 12th and report a good time.

FRANKVILLE

Mrs. Wm. Hanton has passed away after a lingering illness. She was over seventy years of age and left to mourn her loss three sons, viz: Richard, Samuel and Matthias and three daughters Mrs. Clarke, Dakota, Mrs. Morrison, Brockville, and Maggie at home. She was loved and respected by all who knew her.

Rev. Mr. Oliver left on Friday for Saskatoon to visit his son and look for the body of the one who was drowned. George left home a little over four months ago to join his brother.

Mr. Brown of Lyndhurst visited Mr. Hanton on Sunday.

Mrs. Beerman of Ottawa, sister of Rev. Mr. Oliver, is here at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow of Smith's Falls spent Sunday here.

Mrs. R. Richards leaves for Plyssus this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Haskins.

Quite a number from here celebrated the 12th by going to Athens and Carleton Place.

CHARLESTON

Rev. S. J. Hughes and family are occupying the Wilson cottage.

Automobiles are quite familiar things on our streets this summer.

Miss A. Plunkett, Ogdensburg, was a recent visitor.

A great many spent the 12th at Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hanson and son arrived on Saturday and are spending a few days at Cedar Park Hotel, before taking up their abode at their beautiful island home.

Mrs. A. W. Johnson and daughters spent the 4th at Ogdensburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Decker and family arrived last week from New York and are occupying the cottage at King's island.

The blueberries and raspberries are both very scarce this season.

We congratulate Miss Maggie Findlay and Master George Heffernan on their success at the examination.

Mr. Thos. Heffernan purchased from Mr. Jerry Curtin a very handsome Heintzman piano.

Some time ago Koblar Wiltse sold his cottage to a New York gentleman. The cottage has been moved back and a new one is being constructed in its place. This will further add to the beauties of our lake.

NEWBORO

Miss V. L. Cochrane of Charleston, West Va., and Ben Lyons of Richmond, Va., formerly of Newboro were married at Charleston on Wednesday last. The many friends of Mr. Lyons wish him many years of conjugal bliss.

Miss Carrie Monahan is seriously ill in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Brockville.

Mr. Fred Graham lost a valuable horse by drowning last week.

Mr. Jos. Bolton is in town on a vacation.

Mr. John Green, Texas, is the guest of his brother.

Mr. F. Kennedy, Westport, spent a few days in town last week.

Dr. Von Spiegel and party are camping at Grass Point.

Sisters Ida and Hamilton of the House of Providence, Kingston, were the guests of Mr. John Hamilton a few days last week.

Miss K. Moriarty, Bedford is the guest of Miss M. Moriarty.

Misses Lena Mulville and May Donahue and Mr. F. Renand, Westport, were in town on Friday evening.

Mrs. J. A. Flood is visiting her parents at Soperton.

Westport and Newboro opened the Leeds County Intermediate League here on Saturday afternoon. The game was fast and scientific, but the locals managed to win out by a score of 15-4. The result was mainly due to the curves pitched by Moriarty and Spicer and to the fact that Dier of Westport was handicapped by a badly sprained ankle. Mr. J. Whaley, Westport, made a most satisfactory umpire and showed that he understood all the points of the game.

BY ROYAL WARRANT MILLERS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES

Royal Household Flour Yields Most Nutriment.

Only when flour is absolutely pure do you get highest nutriment and least waste.

Purity in flour is secured only by the highest development of the science of milling, and the makers of Royal Household Flour have developed milling to the highest point of perfection in this country.

The Royal Household Electrical Purifying and Sterilizing Process is the most thorough in the world—it is controlled exclusively in Canada by the Royal Household Mills—and that is why Royal Household quality cannot be duplicated in Canada.

That's why Royal Household Flour is the richest in nutriment, greatest in purity—That's why it is the flour every family should use—the kind that gives the sweetest, best flavored bread and most toothsome pastry.

If you want that kind of flour see that you get Royal Household, then send for the recipes so that you may use it in the Royal Household way.

G. F. Moore and W. M. Justice have each purchased a hay loader which they find of very much assistance in doing their haying.

Mrs. Parthena Blanchard has returned home from a trip to Brockville and vicinity, but we are sorry to report that her health is not much improved.

J. W. Hannah is putting extensive improvements in his mill.

We are sorry to report that Mr. G. F. Moore's condition is not improving as fast as his many friends desire it should.

Mr. Watts has erected a hay fork in both of his barns and he and his sons are now enjoying the comforts of the finest building in the settlement.

The mechanics are pushing to completion George Taplin's barn which when completed will be the largest for many miles around, being 100 ft. by 40 ft.

Mrs. W. G. Olds is visiting friends in Brockville at present.

Miss Ellen Wallace is spending her summer vacation in Cape Vincent.

Mr. A. Root is busy crowding a large number of dry measures of completion for shipment.

We are much pleased to see Mrs. Charles Taplin, whose maiden name was Landon. She was formerly a resident here.

The building operators on the church ground have taken a change. Instead of building a new hall it is proposed to finish the hall which was erected some years ago and erect a new shed on the opposite side of the grounds.

HAS TRIUMPHED OVER AND VANQUISHED CONSUMPTION

Had Galloping Consumption Twelve Years Ago—Lives To-day Through Using Psychine.

"It is twelve years ago since Psychine cured me of galloping consumption. I caught the cold working as fireman on the C.P.R. The doctors said there was no hope for me. I had Night Sweats, Chills and Fever, and frequently coughed pieces of my lungs. I was fast sinking away. Was advised to try Psychine and two months treatment put me right on my feet again. Have had no return of lung trouble since Psychine saved me. To-day I work on my farm near here. I am six feet tall and weigh over 175 pounds. Use my testimonial and photo if you so desire."

THE PRINCE OF MONTENEGRO.

The post-Queen of Romania is not the only sovereign in Europe who writes verses and leads an intellectual life.

So St. Patrick stooped to the earth and picked from the green sod—which is so softly green because there is not much sunshine and a good deal of moisture—a shamrock.

He held this trefail up before the people and bade them behold one in three. The chief was at once convinced, and were all his people, and they straightway adopted the faith preached by the interesting saint, so the legends run.

FEEDING CHILDREN. Suggestion for Proper Diet to Busy Mothers.

Do not forget that the baby outgrows his food just as he does his clothes, and that timely additions to his dietary are a valuable means of preventing scurvy, rachitis, diarrhoeal disturbances and other diseases of dietetic origin.

Many children are peevish and ill-tempered because they are improperly nourished. A revision of the diet, with suitable additions, will satisfy the child and transform him into a happy, growing youngster.

It is better to overfeed than to underfeed a growing child, says the Medical Brief. Overfeeding is less apt to occur with a properly selected diet, for the child will be satisfied with a lesser bulk of food.

—The new adv. of the Brockville Business College explains why this College has become so popular. Colleges that rush pupils through without proper instructions are not worth much. The Brockville College is noted for thorough work hence the success of their graduates.

—A. A. McNish of Lyn Agr'l Works has in stock metal wheels to fit standard axles 3 1/2 x 12 and 3 3/4 x 12, also has rims ready and can make hubs to fit any axle, to order, on short notice. When you get tired pitching into your high wagon try a set of his low broad-tired wheels and save a lot of hard work.
Elmer Scott, the 14-year-old son of Mr. Alpheus Scott, of Athens, has been missing from his home since June 18th. He left the parental roof ostensibly for the purpose of going to Sunday School but has not been heard of since. Anyone knowing anything of this present whereabouts will be doing a favor by communicating with his parents.

—Mrs. Samuel Morrison, wife of a cheese manufacturer at Frankville, may lose one hand as the result of an accident last week. Her husband had machinery in operation for making cheese boxes, and Mrs. Morrison going around gathering kindling wood, placed her hand near a small saw, which she did not observe running swiftly. The result was that her hand was almost severed at the wrist. The Reporter tenders its sympathy.

An Ounce of Prevention

IS BETTER THAN
a Pound of Cure
Farming, like all other business, has proved a science. Fortunately all farm produce is commanding a remunerative price. Good results can only be had from any source when we have done our best toward obtaining them. The most successful farmers have proved beyond doubt that profitable results come from feeding Poultry and all other Stock not only good grain, hay and ensilage but such Blood-makers and Tonics as

Herbageum, International Stock Food, Poultry Food, Kow Kure, Horse Tonic, Linseed Meal, Oil Cake, The Great English Calf Food - Cream Equivalent, Granulated Bone & Oyster Shell for Hens.

All of the above are guaranteed to produce results that will pay a good dividend for the cost of them.

DISTRICT NEWS

MORTON

Mrs. MacDonald of Almonte is visiting at the home of her son, Rev. J. A. MacDonald.

Mr. Loyd of Gananoque has moved in Mrs. P. Jones' house.

The stone crusher is here, crushing large piles of stone, to repair the road between Morton and Elgin.

Mrs. Boothe of Brockville is the guest of Mrs. Willis.

A large number from here attended the celebration at Athens on the 12th and report a good time.

FRANKVILLE

Mrs. Wm. Hanton has passed away after a lingering illness. She was over seventy years of age and left to mourn her loss three sons, viz: Richard, Samuel and Matthias and three daughters Mrs. Clarke, Dakota, Mrs. Morrison, Brockville, and Maggie at home. She was loved and respected by all who knew her.

Rev. Mr. Oliver left on Friday for Saskatoon to visit his son and look for the body of the one who was drowned. George left home a little over four months ago to join his brother.

Mr. Brown of Lyndhurst visited Mr. Hanton on Sunday.

Mrs. Boerman of Ottawa, sister of Rev. Mr. Oliver, is here at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow of Smith's Falls spent Sunday here.

Mrs. R. Richards leaves for Plyssus this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Haskins.

Quite a number from here celebrated the 12th by going to Athens and Carleton Place.

CHARLESTON

Rev. S. J. Hughes and family are occupying the Wilson cottage.

Automobiles are quite familiar things on our streets this summer.

Miss A. Plunkett, Ogdensburg, was a recent visitor.

A great many spent the 12th at Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hanson and son arrived on Saturday and are spending a few days at Cedar Park Hotel, before taking up their abode at their beautiful island home.

Mrs. A. W. Johnson and daughters spent the 4th at Ogdensburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Decker and family arrived last week from New York and are occupying the cottage at King's island.

The blueberries and raspberries are both very scarce this season.

We congratulate Miss Maggie Findlay and Master George Heffernan on their success at the examination.

Mr. Thos. Heffernan purchased from Mr. Jerry Curtin a very handsome Heintzman piano.

Some time ago Kohlar Wilcox sold his cottage to a New York gentleman. The cottage has been moved back and a new one is being constructed in its place. This will further add to the beauties of our lake.

NEWBORO

Miss V. L. Cochrane of Charleston, West Va., and Ben Lyons of Richmond, Va., formerly of Newboro were married at Charleston on Wednesday last. The many friends of Mr. Lyons wish him many years of conjugal bliss.

Miss Carrie Monahan is seriously ill in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Brockville.

Mr. Fred Graham lost a valuable horse by drowning last week.

Mr. Jos. Bolton is in town on a vacation.

Mr. John Green, Texas, is the guest of his brother.

Mr. F. Kennedy, Westport, spent a few days in town last week.

Dr. Von Spiegel and party are camping at Grass Point.

Miss E. Gallagher is attending the A. M. S. Reunion at Delta Lake this week.

Sisters Ida and Hamilton of the House of Providence, Kingston, were the guests of Mr. John Hamilton a few days last week.

Miss K. Moriarty, Bedford is the guest of Miss M. Moriarty.

Misses Lena Mulville and May Donahue and Mr. F. Renand, Westport, were in town on Friday evening.

Mrs. J. A. Flood is visiting her parents at Soperton.

Westport and Newboro opened the Leeds County Intermediate League here on Saturday afternoon. The game was fast and scientific, but the locals managed to win out by a score of 15-4. The result was mainly due to the curves pitched by Moriarty and Spicer and to the fact that Dier of Westport was handicapped by a badly sprained ankle. Mr. J. Whaley, Westport, made a most satisfactory umpire and showed that he understood all the points of the game.

BY ROYAL WARRANT MILLERS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES

Royal Household Flour Yields Most Nutriment.

Only when flour is absolutely pure do you get highest nutriment and least waste.

Purity in flour is secured only by the highest development of the science of milling, and the makers of Royal Household Flour have developed milling to the highest point of perfection in this country.

The Royal Household Electrical Purifying and Sterilizing Process is the most thorough in the world—it is controlled exclusively in Canada by the Royal Household Mills—and that is why Royal Household quality cannot be duplicated in Canada.

That's why Royal Household Flour is the richest in nutriment, greatest in purity—That's why it is the flour every family should use—the kind that gives the sweetest, best flavored bread and most toothsome pastry.

If you want that kind of flour see that you get Royal Household, then send for the recipes so that you may use it in the Royal Household way.

Ogilvie's "Royal Household" Flour.

GREENBUSH

Haying is under full swing.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston of St. Williams have returned home. Miss Ella Kerr has accompanied them to spend her summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath of N. Y., have gone to visit friends at Jasper.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith have been visited by a little girl who has decided to reside with them in the future.

G. F. Moore and W. M. Justus have each purchased a hay loader which they find of very much assistance in doing their haying.

Mrs. Parthena Blanchard has returned home from a trip to Brockville and vicinity, but we are sorry to report that her health is not much improved.

J. W. Hannah is putting extensive improvements in his mill.

We are sorry to report that Mr. G. F. Moore's condition is not improving as fast as his many friends desire it should.

Mr. Watts has erected a hay fork in both of his barns and he and his sons are now enjoying the comforts of the finest building in the settlement.

The mechanics are pushing to completion George Taplin's barn which when completed will be the largest for many miles around, being 100 ft. by 40 ft.

Mrs. W. G. Olds is visiting friends in Brockville at present.

Miss Ellen Wallace is spending her summer vacation in Cape Vincent.

Mr. A. Root is busy crowding a large number of dry measures to completion for shipment.

We are much pleased to see Mrs. Charles Taplin, whose maiden name was Landon. She was formerly a resident here.

The building operators on the church ground have taken a change. Instead of building a new hall it is proposed to finish the hall which was erected some years ago and erect a new shed on the opposite side of the grounds.

PSYCHINE

HAS TRIUMPHED OVER AND VANQUISHED CONSUMPTION

Had Galloping Consumption Twelve Years Ago—Lives To-day Through Using Psychine.

"It is twelve years ago since Psychine cured me of galloping consumption. I caught the cold working as fireman on the C.P.R. The doctors said there was no hope for me. I had Night Sweats, Chills and Fever, and frequently coughed pieces of my lungs. I was fast sinking away. Was advised to try Psychine and two months treatment put me right on my feet again. Have had no return of lung trouble since Psychine saved me. To-day I work on my farm near here. I am six feet tall and weigh over 175 pounds. Use my testimonial and photo if you so desire."

ENGLISH SPAVIN LINIMENT

Removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, ringbone, swellings, stifles, sprains, sore and swollen throats, coughs, etc.

Do not forget that the baby outgrows his food just as he does his clothes, and that timely additions to his diet are a valuable means of preventing scurvy, rachitis, diarrhoeal disturbances and other diseases of dietetic origin.

Many children are peevish and ill-tempered because they are improperly nourished. A revision of the diet, with suitable additions, will satisfy the child and transform it into a happy, crowing youngster.

It is better to overfeed than to underfeed a growing child, says the Medical Brief.

Children often eat too much meat, resulting in abnormal stimulation of the body. This is often a cause of bed-wetting, cereals, potatoes, whole-meal bread, milk, eggs, cheese, the pears, nuts, green vegetables and salads furnish the elements of growth and repair in a satisfactory form.

Children who are properly fed will suffer little, as a rule, from toothache, headache, nerves, broods, etc.

Lever's Y-Z (Wine Head) Disinfectant Soap Powder is better than other powders, as it is both soap and disinfectant.

WAITING TO BE SOUGHT. Taking it for granted that every woman has secret hopes of a husband and home of her own, many a girl looks at the thought that some other may consider every man they meet in the light of a probable suitor.

Success. A failure was talking about success, says the Chicago Chronicle.

BRUSH YOUR STRAW HAT.

That is the Way to Keep It in Fair Condition. "Yes, I know," said the hat man, to a New York Sun reporter, "people never think of brushing their straw hats, the straw doesn't seem to be a hat made to be brushed, the dust doesn't show on it so much, and so they brush all their other hats and let their straw hats go."

DR. AGNEW'S CATARRHAL POWDER. Rev. W. H. Main, pastor of the Baptist Emanuel Church, Buffalo, gives strong testimony for, and is a firm believer in, Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

San Francisco's Beautiful Harbor. If you should look at a detailed coast survey chart of San Francisco, you would observe that the broad peninsula extending southward like a sheltering arm between the ocean and the inner bay is creased and dimpled in a great confusion of mountains, hills and valleys.

THINGS ORIGINALLY DO COME FROM THE SOUTH

M. DE WITTE APPOINTED TO REPRESENT RUSSIA.

The Czar Signs His Appointment as Russia's Chief Peace Plenipotentiary.

He is the Leading Liberal Statesman in Russia and His Appointment is a Good Augury.

Gen. Treppoff Doomed by the Terrorists—He Will Die at the Post of Duty.

A St. Petersburg cable despatch says: Emperor Nicholas has signed the appointment of M. Witte, president of the committee of Ministers, yesterday to be chief plenipotentiary representing the Russian Government in the peace negotiations to be conducted next month in the United States.

PAY TOO POOR. One Reason Why Muraviev Did Not Want to Go to Conference.

A Paris cable: The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris, stated that the discrimination of M. Muraviev to lead the Russian peace mission was based partly on his state of health and partly on the fact that his allowance for expenses was only 15,000 roubles, which amount is considered insufficient owing to the great cost of living in the United States.

M. Witte has refused to become the successor of M. Muraviev on the mission on the ground that he did not wish to be a mere figure head in the transmission of Emperor Nicholas of the peace terms offered by the Japanese. His selection therefore cannot but be taken to mean that the Emperor has yielded to his insistence that real powers of a plenipotentiary be conferred upon Russia's principal representative in the peace commission.

Sergius Witte, the chief of the Russian plenipotentiary, may be regarded as the leading liberal statesman of Russia. He is about 56 years old, and has worked his way up from the position of an underpaid railroad clerk, who occasionally acted as porter to that of the leading statesman of Russia, in spite of the fact that his enemies are numerous and include some of the most powerful men in the empire.

During his trip to Port Arthur in 1904, De Witte was invited by the Japanese Government to visit Japan, which would indicate that the Japanese probably will welcome his selection to conduct the peace negotiations in behalf of Russia, knowing that De Witte is a decided ally of the Russian statesman who best understands the situation and is more likely to reach an agreement naturally advantageous.

TREPOFF DOOMED. But He Will Die at the Post of Duty—May Be Minister of the Interior.

A St. Petersburg cable: The resignation of M. Lodiin, as Minister of the Interior, is expected daily. Gen. Treppoff, the assistant minister of the Interior, probably will be his successor. The terrorists have recently removed their warnings against Gen. Treppoff with ominous persistence. The General is constantly in receipt of letters signed by the organization threatening him that his hour has come. A remarkable feature of all the communications is that the writers take pains to say that no safeguards will be taken to avert his impending doom.

The terrorists seem to take pride in issuing a challenge involving a demonstration of their power and recourse to portents of their doom. Moreover, Gen. Treppoff knows enough of the resources and desperation of the organization. He makes no concealment of the fact that he expects to be killed, but his nerve is unshaken. He says: "I will at least die at the post of duty." Gen. Treppoff takes a gloomy view of the future of the country, in which he if given untrammelled power he could restore the old status quo in year, but the recent vacillation he thinks will end only in ruin. A representative assembly no matter what its initial character may be, is convinced will soon be transformed into a constituent assembly which will give the death blow to absolutism.

JAPS ON THE MOVE.

Jap Tommies Anxious for Peace—Oyama's Glowing Appeals. A Sipinghau, Manchuria, cable: Quiet continues along the front, but the Japanese are still moving in Corea. The Russian trains move as far as Changchun. Information from the Japanese lines indicate that the rank and file are exceedingly anxious for peace. To counteract this feeling Field Marshal Oyama is continually issuing glowing appeals to the patriotism of his armies.

HIDING HIS IDENTITY.

Assassin of Schuvloff Said to be a Very Important Person. A Moscow cable: The authorities here decline to disclose the identity of the assassin of Prefect of Police Schuvloff, but it is said that a very prominent and important political figure has been made. After the prisoner escaped from the police station where he had been confined as a political suspect some days previous to the assassination of the prefect, Schuvloff set all the police of Moscow at work to effect his recapture. The prisoner, in the meantime, shaved off his beard and while the police were searching for him everywhere the man went to the prefect's office and committed the crime for which he will be tried. The bullets of the revolver used by the prisoner were filled with poison. The crowd in the dining room of the factory set upon the assassin, who was dragged into the street and terribly beaten.

GERMAN-SWEDISH BOND.

A Report That Emperor William Seeks New Relations. Stockholm, July 17.—The Associated Press is able to state on good authority that a German-Swedish alliance is seriously contemplated. The question, it is said, was discussed at conferences between Emperor Wilhelm and King Oscar on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern at Gelle today. The conferences lasted from two to three hours.

King Oscar and his party will remain with Emperor William until he departs for Gelle on Friday afternoon. Besides Emperor William's personal visit, Germany will soon make the greatest naval demonstration in its history in Swedish waters. On July 20 six battleships will arrive at Gelleborg and eight cruisers at Uthelvalva, while on August 3, seven battleships, ten cruisers and a torpedo boat squadron are due at Stockholm and Norrkoping, and five battleships at Karlskrona. The Government has granted these squadrons permission to enter war ports.

Gelle, Sweden, July 18.—King Oscar and Crown Prince Gustave arrived here this afternoon and visited Emperor William and Prince Valdemar. The German Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, Emperor William gave a dinner on board the Hohenzollern to the King and Crown Prince, who will return to Stockholm tomorrow.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

Takes Child From Beer Garden and Supports Mother. Cleveland, O., July 17.—John D. Rockefeller's heart has been touched by a boy's voice in a simple song. Harry Dean is a handsome little boy, but has been supporting his mother by singing wherever he could get an audience. Some time ago he sang at Keith's theatre and just before the death of Manager Erick a full body of men, who were singing, were being introduced. Harry is a tall, thin, boy, with a good voice and a good face. He is looking at the Dreamland casino, the "Money Island" of Cleveland. He sang there several times and the men and women who sat at the tables enjoying the show looked up at the earnest little face as the boy stood upon the seat and poured out the beautiful tones. Harry received an invitation to sing last Sunday before the Sunday school of the First Avenue Baptist Church of Cleveland. He sang "The Old Folks at Home" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Responding to the invitation and having no knowledge of the great audience, Harry mounted the platform and sang an old hymn. It may have been a favorite hymn of the millionaire. At any rate he bowed his head while the boy was singing.

"What a friend we have in Jesus, Our sins and griefs to bear, What privilege to carry, Everything to God in prayer." The sweet voice rang out in the stillness of the auditorium. The children were spellbound. Their parents marvelled at the sweet tones and the innocent face. The message went down into the heart of the hairless old man in the superintendent's chair. When Sunday school was dismissed, Rockefeller made inquiry about the boy and was told that he sang in public gardens where beer was sold. In the Sunday school room Harry and his mother were presented to the millionaire. "Cancel the boy's contract, madam," said Rockefeller. "Do not let him sing in amusement houses. His voice must be better served. I shall pay all the bills and support his mother until Harry's education is complete." The mother and her little son went to the managers of the Dreamland casino and told their story. Grasping Harry's hand and his mother's hand, the manager said: "Cancel the contract; of course we will cancel them. Good for you both."

EMBARGO A LIVE ISSUE.

Liverpool Post Finds in It a Bond for Empire.

London, July 17.—The recent statements in the Canadian press that the Liverpool Daily Post thinks it affords a simple and obvious means of bringing the Canadian farmer to the mother country, yet the Government, under Mr. Chamberlain's guidance seem to be protesting by swift steps, the conclusion that this end is only to be attained by taxing the British workman's bread. The truth seems to be that the British stock raiser is largely represented in the Government, and the House of Lords does not want Canadian competition. Lord Balfour of Burleigh has given notice of a pointed question to be asked in the House of Lords on a date not yet named: "Is it policy of colonial preference, which involves a fresh taxation of staple articles of food, accepted as that of the Government, or is it not?" "Are those who are asked to accept a free and unfettered commerce between representative of the United Kingdom and the colonies to be held in any way committed to the policy of preference?"

London, July 18.—The Daily News reiterates the opinion expressed yesterday in other papers that the reason for the Canadian cattle embargo is to protect the British stock-raisers against colonial stock. "An incident," it says, "shows the hostility of this country to the Canadian Government taking in one breath about grasping hands across the sea, and in the next refuses to remove an embargo so irrational and indefensible on the ground that the Canadian Minister of Agriculture is a friendly man, and Canadian manufacturers declare it the most serious difficulty now existing between the two countries."

Y. P. C. UNION.

FIRST DAY'S SESSION OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION, HARTFORD.

Hartford, Conn., July 17.—Devotional service led by Mrs. Laura I. Kendall, of Massachusetts, opened the first day's session of the National Convention of the Young People's Christian Union here today. The convention organized for business at the close of the devotional service by President Lewis Annin, of New York City, calling it to order. The roll call by States brought responses from all sections of the United States. In the report of National Secretary Harry Adams Hersee, the figures submitted by State Societies showed membership of approximately 9,000, of which number 6,500 were in the senior and 2,500 in the junior union. The year's gain in membership has been about 1,000. Financially the year has been a satisfactory one, the total receipts exceeding those of 1904 by $634.

DALRYMPLE REPORT WITHHELD.

Expert's Opinion of Chicago May Be Disappointing. Chicago, July 17.—The long expected report from James Dalrymple, of Glasgow, Scotland, as to municipal ownership of street railways in general, and those of Chicago in particular, has reached Mayor Danne. The mayor, however, said he could not give it out until he had read it thoroughly and claimed he had not had assistance to do it during the day. "From what I have been able to learn of Mr. Dalrymple's communication from the cursory looking over I gave it, I would hardly call it a report," said the mayor. "A letter might be the better word. I can say nothing about it just now, however, as I am not thoroughly enough acquainted with it. I cannot discuss it."

The inference was that from what the mayor had learned from the letter he was not entirely satisfied with it. It was hardly expected he would be after the publication of Mr. Dalrymple's ideas made while the Glasgow expert was in this country.

MURDERER LYNCHED.

Negro Who Killed Eleven Killed by Enraged Natives. New Orleans, July 17.—The steamer Combar, from Honduras, brings the news that Robert McGill, the negro who killed the entire crew and all the passengers save one of the ship Olympia, near Uthia, was lynched by a mob of Uthians by the natives. McGill was captured at El Bivalon, taken thence to Ceiba, and finally surrendered to the authorities of Uthia for imprisonment there. A large mob of natives surrounded the jail and demanded the prisoner, who was finally surrendered to them. A disposition was shown at first to burn him at the stake, but the more conservative citizens prevented this, and the negro was lynched. He is described as being a giant in size and a very powerful man. The execution of McGill was a public punishment, and the only punishment for McGill's eleven

LOVE IS A GREAT LEVELER.

Quick Lunch Waitress is Won by a Millionaire.

Pretty St. Louis Maiden Becomes Mistress of Mansion.

Romance Reads Like a Page of the Strangest Fiction.

St. Louis, Mo., July 17.—From waitress to millionaire's wife—love, the leveler of all ranks, has added this as its latest exploit. As a result pretty Martha Mathilde Demark, St. Louis, Mo., now Mrs. James R. Broderick, will have a superb mansion to look after at Paradise, Baltimore County, Maryland, and her mind will be henceforth taken up with conquering the lines of the social world as she formerly made every customer of the restaurant in which she was employed in St. Louis, her slave. Her husband, James R. Broderick, is a consulting engineer who has acquired a large fortune.

Romances there have been plenty of the kitchen. More than one housekeeper has stepped from being bossed by a mere man to be his helpmeet. But this is the first instance on record of a millionaire marrying a waitress in a popular-priced restaurant like this one.

Several years ago business called Mr. Broderick to St. Louis. His concern, Broderick & Wind, had several contracts in view there and he went to overlook the field. Drooping with the frame, Miss Martha Mathilde came to the attention of an Eighth avenue restaurant. The long trip had fagged him out and he wanted a chop or two, some coffee and a smoke.

The place was crowded. Black-robed, white-capped waitresses dashed hither and thither and he seemed ignored. But the scene was different enough from the tiresome rife to interest him and he was in a reverie, when suddenly a sweet voice at his elbow aroused him:

"Your order, please." Broderick turned to look into a pair of the sweetest blue eyes he had ever gazed upon. He blushed, mumbled out his order and the little waitress hurried away, paying no more attention to him than she had to the other customers who were in her row of tables.

But though the waitress paid no attention to her customer it made no difference to him. He followed her toward the ordering counter with his eyes. Miss Martha Mathilde, accustomed as she was to the sometimes annoying stares of her customers, found little enjoyment in this. What James R. Broderick ate that day he doesn't recall. Indeed, he remembers very little of what happened there, but he really did eat. But he paid his bill and went away, the haunting memory of those blue eyes, those charming dimples and sweet lips refused to be shaken from his thoughts.

He was glad if the next day when he discovered his work would keep him in the month city at least a week. And twice, sometimes three times a day, he dropped into the Elbow and ordered Martha's meals. So long as Martha Mathilde waited upon him he was satisfied. But one evening she was not there. He became alarmed.

"Where is my regular girl?" he asked the waitress. "I am writing by this post to Mr. D. Holloway, also to Mr. Hunt, to see what can be arranged, as it would be no use going to Canada without some definite plan on arrival. You might simply be refused a landing if you had no money, and I will let you hear again later on. Sincerely hoping this may be the beginning of a happier time for you, and that you may even yet make a success of your life in a commercial way, for in manual labor brains and strong endeavor tell. Yours truly, Cecilia Oliver."

DETERMINES TO MARRY.

When he left the restaurant that night he knew that his waitress was Martha Mathilde Demark and that she lived in a small cottage on Caroline street and helped support her aged mother from another sister. Her father had been dead some years. When Broderick left the month city he took his last meal at the restaurant. When he concluded he said: "Good-bye, I'm going home." Martha Mathilde knew the rules, too, that she should not speak to guests, but there was something in the serious tones of her customer that prompted her to say: "Good-bye, come again."

"That was the first and only thing Martha Mathilde had said to him except to repeat his order and Broderick went away happy. The long trip to Baltimore seemed short, indeed, for he was haunted by the recollection of the dimples about Martha Mathilde's lips as she bade him "come again."

"Whenever he could Mr. Broderick visited St. Louis and the little restaurant on Eighth avenue. Martha Mathilde was always there, always politely greeting him but nothing more. Then came last summer and the big world's fair. By this time Broderick had realized one thing about all others—that he loved his little German waitress and he determined she should be his wife. But no engineering problem gave him half as much vexation or worry. The fair lured him. He suggested to Martha Mathilde that she should go with him. He had lots of work there and was constantly on the scene. Finally, after much argument she was persuaded. She had known him then over two years, but that made no difference. She knew his name was Broderick, but that was all. When she did consent to go with him it was with the strict understanding that her sister always accompany them as chaperon. Willingly, gladly Broderick consented to this and the Demark sisters and the tall, serious-looking, bearded contractor became well-known figures on the grounds.

"Go home," she said quietly, "think it over. Then, if you still think you love me, let me know, and—well, then, we'll see."

Broderick went home. He thought, indeed, he did not think. Then when she wrote to request his proposal, Martha considered it; considered her position, of how her mother was to get along without her, of how she might help her little family by marrying this noble, serious contractor, for she did not know how the big means which would lift her mother and sister to affluence. Then she thought of his manliness, his goodness, his loveable ways and ended as all other loving women have, by saying "Yes."

At Home in Baltimore. But Martha pleaded for time—and got it.

Therefore it was not to be wondered at that her former mates in the restaurant soon heard of her good luck and congratulated her accordingly. From the moment her engagement to the contractor and engineer was announced, and a big diamond sparkled on her finger the amount of Mr. Broderick's fortune increased until it finally reached millions.

Not long ago the wedding took place at the bride's home. All of her former fellow employees were present, as were many of her former customers. They all sent presents, too, and congratulations were heaped upon the lucky pair even to the Pullman.

At the station Broderick embarrassed by the attentions of his bride's friends, lifted her bodily from the platform to the Pullman and they became lost. Then the train whirled east.

In Baltimore suburbs is a handsome country home called Paradise. Here Mr. and Mrs. Broderick will remain through out the summer and possibly next winter, although there is talk of their living in an apartment hotel.

Paradise, with its great and grand appointments, is a bit different from the similar home of the bride's mother in St. Louis, but she is expected to grace it even as she did her former home.

A BULLET IN HIS HEAD.

H. Marryat Martin Ends His Life in High Park, Toronto.

Toronto, July 17.—With a bullet through the heart, a cigarette between the stiffened fingers, a revolver and a flask about three-quarters full of whiskey lying beside it, the dead body of H. Marryat Martin, an Englishman about 35 years old, was found yesterday afternoon in a secluded spot beneath some bushes in High Park. It had been there evidently for several days, for the body was partially decomposed. Upon the body was found a card upon which was written: "H. Marryat Martin, nephew of the late Sir Martin Holloway and grand-nephew of the late Captain Marryat, R. N., educated at the Philosophical School and was on the staff of the Echo newspaper from 1898 to 1901."

The revolver lay beside the body and a whiskey flask nearby and a cigarette in his fingers indicated that the man had been drinking and was probably smoking when he fired the shot which ended his life. A search of his clothing revealed a number of letters leading to his identity and some personal effects. One letter written by "Cecilia Oliver, of 14 South Parade, Bath, England," on May 19, 1903, and was evidently in reply to a letter from Martin.

The letter read: "It was not on the chance of finding employment, but on the assurance of Mr. Hunt that on your arrival in the colony you should have an opening and be started fairly. It really means what you say. I am still willing to give you another chance, for no one more sincerely wishes you to do well than I do, hence my interest all through this depressing and disappointing time. I am writing by this post to Mr. D. Holloway, also to Mr. Hunt, to see what can be arranged, as it would be no use going to Canada without some definite plan on arrival. You might simply be refused a landing if you had no money, and I will let you hear again later on. Sincerely hoping this may be the beginning of a happier time for you, and that you may even yet make a success of your life in a commercial way, for in manual labor brains and strong endeavor tell. Yours truly, Cecilia Oliver."

FRENCH DEPUTIES IN ROW.

Paris, July 17.—Parliament adjourned for the summer recess tonight, after an exciting scene in the Chamber of Deputies over the clause in the amnesty bill passed by the Senate Wednesday, relating those convicted of drawing up secret reports concerning the conduct of army officers, during which M. Loubet, minister-president, and General Andre, minister of War, signing him a reprieve.

A Former Minister of War Called a "Reptile."

M. Bertaux, the Minister of War, vigorously defended his predecessor, and stated that he declined to continue his support of the Government's amnesty bill in consequence of the Chamber's vote. The Minister of War's action aroused such confusion that the sitting was adjourned and the bill was not brought up until it was decided to withdraw the bill. The resignation of the sitting Premier Rouvier announced the prorogation of the Chamber, thus annulling the amnesty bill. However, it is expected that the bill will be brought up on the occasion of the national holiday tomorrow. It has been arranged that the amnesty bill will be granted by Presidential decree. It is thought that such a resolution is unlikely.

30,000 MEN ARE WANTED

To Harvest a Hundred Million Bushel Wheat Crop.

Estimate of Mr. William Whyte of the Canadian Pacific.

Fifty Thousand Head of Cattle to be Shipped.

Toronto, July 17.—Mr. William Whyte, Second Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and manager of the western division, arrived in the city yesterday from Winnipeg. To a reporter Mr. Whyte predicted that the wheat crop of the west would reach, possibly exceed, one hundred million bushels. His statement was based on the fact that there are four million acres under wheat, and he expects that the average yield will be equal to that of 1902, when 25 bushels to the acre was the average. West of Portage la Prairie, he said, the crops were never better. East of that point the fields were spotted in places owing to too much wet. The damage was not serious, however, and the loss would be immaterial. Continuing, Mr. Whyte stated that there was a large increase in the acreage under barley and oats. "The Canadian Pacific Railway," said Mr. Whyte, "is making every preparation with a view to handling this stupendous crop. New locomotives and cars of largest capacity are being delivered every week, and by the time the crop is ready for movement we will be able to handle 400 cars each way per day from Winnipeg to Lake Superior."

"We will want thirty thousand harvesters in the west this year," said Mr. Whyte, emphatically.

Prices, on the whole, he predicted, would be good. The war in the far east had prevented the peasants from putting in their crop, and Russia would not have an average crop, certainly not for export. "The United States would have an average crop, but in the republic to the south, he pointed out, the new acreage had not increased in proportion to population, and this would limit the volume of wheat for export from that country. Another feature of the development was the live stock trade of southern Alberta. The cattle had had a good winter; the grass was good, and there has been an absence of flies which had worried the animals and affected their condition. "We ought to," said Mr. Whyte, "take out of the cattle range country about 50,000 head for Toronto, Montreal and the European market. In addition to that, from 10,000 to 15,000 on the hoof or in the carcass would be shipped to British Columbia and the Yukon."

The sheep industry, too, has grown very rapidly, and with mutton and wool prices high, the Canadian rancher and the country generally will benefit as a result. Dealing with the question of immigration, Mr. Whyte expressed his gratification that the new arrivals were the best type of rural American and British people, intelligent people of strong physique, who could make their way in the new country. The foreign element, too, was of a very satisfactory type.

"Will the C. P. R. use Canadian coal on its western divisions?" asked the reporter. "Mr. Whyte replied that the company had been making tests of all the western coals, and so far as these tests had advanced, they had led him to believe that they can supply coal in the west as cheaply as the American coal, making all allowances for constituent differences. "We are working to develop a great Canadian industry," said Mr. Whyte. "Every dollar that is spent in Pennsylvania coal or in the American coals that carry it is capital taken out of the country, which we should keep for building up the west and incidentally traffic for the road."

SHE WAITED IN VAIN.

St. Louis Man Hits Toronto Girl at the Altar.

St. Louis, Mo., July 17.—Six months ago Miss Alice Caldwell, of Toronto, came here to visit the family of J. W. Swanger, of Lewis Place. During her stay here she met a young Arthur Martin, son of one of the wealthiest financiers of the city, and became engaged to him. Today was to be their wedding day, and while minister, bridesmaid, best man, and attendants were waiting at the altar, a messenger hurriedly to the Swanger home and delivered a message. It was addressed to Miss Caldwell, who at the time was in her room. She read it and dropped to the floor in a faint. It was hurriedly written and was as follows: "Dear Alice—You must consider our acquaintance and engagement a thing of the past. Between our love and the goodwill of my mother I must decide. Good-bye." "Arthur Martin," (signed), "Arthur Martin." Young Martin's mother was present to witness the ceremony which was to make her son and Miss Caldwell man and wife. She was much agitated by the shock. Private information is to the effect that the young man's mother had objected to his union with Miss Caldwell. However, this was denied by her, and she said there was no truth whatever in the report that she had threatened to disinherit her son if he married against her will.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Western Section Construction Will Begin Soon.

Winnipeg, July 17.—Construction on the western section of the Grand Trunk Pacific is to proceed immediately, and tenders will be called for this month. The route is definitely located westward to the intersection with the Regina & Prince Albert branch of the C. P. R., and provisionally to Edmonton. Construction will begin in the vicinity of Portage la Prairie, and the first contract will cover a section 400 miles in length. The reason for starting so far from Winnipeg is the fact that terminal facilities have not been settled definitely.

The new adv. of the Brockville Business College explains why this College has become so popular. Colleges that rush pupils through without proper instructions are not worth much. The Brockville College is noted for thorough work hence the success of their graduates.

A. A. McNish of Lyn Agr'l Works has in stock metal wheels to fit standard axles 3 1/2 x 12 and 3 3/4 x 12, also has rims ready and can make hubs to fit any axle, to order, on short notice. When you get tired pitching into your high wagon try a set of his low broad-tired wheels and save a lot of hard work.

Elmer Scott, the 14-year-old son of Mr. Alpheus Scott, of Athens, has been missing from his home since June 18th. He left the parental roof ostensibly for the purpose of going to Sunday School but has not been heard of since. Anyone knowing anything of this present whereabouts will be doing a favor by communicating with his parents.

Mrs. Samuel Morrison, wife of a cheese manufacturer at Frankville, may lose one hand as the result of an accident last week. Her husband had machinery in operation for making cheese boxes, and Mrs. Morrison going around gathering kindling wood, placed her hand near a small saw, which she did not observe running swiftly. The result was that her hand was almost severed at the wrist. The Reporter tenders its sympathy.

An Ounce of Prevention

IS BETTER THAN
a Pound of Cure

Farming, like all other business, has proved a science. Fortunately all farm produce is commanding a remunerative price. Good results can only be had from any source when we have done our best toward obtaining them. The most successful farmers have proved beyond doubt that profitable results come from feeding Poultry and all other Stock not only good grain, hay and ensilage but such Blood-makers and Tonics as

Herbageum, International Stock Food, Poultry Food, Kow Kure, Horse Tonic, Linseed Meal, Oil Cake, The Great English Calf Food—Cream Equivalent, Granulated Bone & Oyster Shell for Hens.

All of the above are guaranteed to produce results that will pay a good dividend for the cost of them.
