CHAPTER XXII.

Perhaps this struck Mr. Drayton for he shook hands with her warmly, and then, having picked up her rake and hoe, shook hands again, remarking that he would have come on the night before, but had arrived too late, so he took time by the forelock to-day.

"We—my father will be very pleased to see you," said Mary, leading the way in with another blush. "He was wondering last week, if we should ever see you again."

"See me! Why, of course you would. I wanted very much indeed to get here. For, Miss Dacie, I am hoping you can tell me something of your friends at The Dale—of Miss Alwyn, especially."

The bright color left Mary's cheeks with a chill rush. To hear of Sydney he had come. Only that!

"I can tell no more than that she is gone," she said, thankful that on such a theme she might be pardoned sadness.

"And you can't help grieving over it, can you?"

"Indeed, no," turning her head away.

"And I'm sorry too. On your account—he was staring determinedly at her, but Mary kept her face invisible—"and her's too,—my own. I'd have given a good deal to have found her here. Can't you possibly do us all a good turn by putting me on the track to see her?"

"If I could I would, Mr. Drayton (it cost something, that assertion)—"but I have no knowledge of where she is."

"Nor her mother?"

"Mrs. Alwyn was at Zurich a month ago."

"Zurich. H'm! It will be a round-about road if I have to trace her from there. But one or the other I must see. Propriety says Mrs. Alwyn. Preference says Miss. The lady mother and I seemed mutually repellent; while Miss Sydney—Mary swallowed a great heartburning during that pause—she would answer the question I have to put in a moment. You'll give me your good wishes to speed me to her, won't you, Miss Dacie?"

By good fortune in came the doctor and Mrs. Dacie just then. With a murmur of affirmation Mary escaped to the other end of the tidy, shabby room, and busied herself with mending, while the father and mother chatted with their caller.

Of course they had presently their say about the Alwyns, and Mrs. Dacie reiterated her belief that it was an affair of the affections which drove Sydney away—"affection on one side, Mr. Drayton, not here! I'm confident our dear Sydney would choose differently. I'm not a conjurer, but I fancy I know where! Though, perhaps, that's hardly fair, is it?"

But the gentleman was deaf to these last words and their innuendo. Mary had just slipped quietly out of the room, and he expressed a hope that he had not interrupted Miss Dacie by coming so early.

"Oh, no! my daughter is not often long with us in the morning, unless," said poor Mrs. Dacie, half humbled, half proud, at the admission—"unless we mean to go without our dinner."

But, they all seemed vaguely to expect him soon, the year wore out without his reappearing. A note reached the Gate House early in October, saying:

NO ALUM

Don't frown at me, doctor dear! Mr. Drayton knows quite well we are not rich, and that Mary is a daughter of all work."

Possibly the doctor, dreaded more domestic revelations, for hereat, with an apology, he said he must be starting on his round; it was not a long one, but it took him a good while to walk; and he, explained elaborately to the visitor, who volunteered to go with him and lend him an arm, how Punch being defunct they had made up their minds, for various reasons, not to replace him at present. Between the lines of which Mr. Drayton read the truth pretty plainly, and had his deduction confirmed when, the three-mile trudge over, they again neared the Gate House.

For Mary hastened to meet them, exclaiming, "Oh, papa! have you seen the man from Oakleigh Place? No? Ah, then he is gone on to Doctor McAndrew! You were wanted to attend the housekeeper. If only you had had poor Punch, now, you would have been back in time. Isn't it unlucky?"

"As usual," said the poor old supplanter medicus, rather bitterly; and Mr. Drayton left them, to mature a fine design just planted in his brain.

He took another walk by himself that afternoon, and admitted its aim that evening to the rector.

"Your parish spreads so far, sir, you ought to have a good cob for the cutting parts. I looked out such an animal as would suit you to-day at the farm up the road, where you like the people."

"Hammerton's? Ay, they are good folks, and have excellent cattle. But, friend Richard, such a luxury means money; and I've not enough to spare for that. Besides, my exercise would never keep the creature in health."

"Just so, sir. But there's Doctor Dacie killing himself, and losing his patients, for want of a quadruped. Couldn't you and he keep a cob between you? I'll leave you to settle terms (without mentioning me, though, please), but the fact is, I've bought that brown nag of Hammerton's, and I want to get it into the Dacies' stable somehow. I know Miss Alwyn would have managed it. You won't refuse the office in her stead, will you, sir?"

So the upshot of that device was that a few hours after Mr. Drayton left St. Clair's next day ("I'd much rather have stayed longer," he assured Mary; "but I really do so want to find Miss Alwyn. I hope I shall return, with her leave, and tell you what she and I had to talk about before long") a serviceable steed was discovered crunching oats in Punch's manger, and for the present Mr. Vaughan had to carry off his share of the guilty secret as best he could, determining to make a clean breast of the conspiracy the very next time Mr. Drayton came down.

But, they all seemed vaguely to expect him soon, the year wore out without his reappearing. A note reached the Gate House early in October, saying:

"Dear Miss Dacie,—Shortly after leaving St. Clair's I met the Major Villiers whom I had once seen there. By his assistance I was put in the way of obtaining information which I hinted at to you. Unfortunately, I have not had the pleasure of seeing Miss Alwyn at present. I thought you might be expecting to hear this, which is all I feel myself as yet free to communicate. Kindly accept my best regards, and believe me, very faithfully yours,

"RICHARD DRAYTON."

Whatever did it mean? Had he, through her former guardian, offered himself to Sydney and been rejected? Impossible! Was there to be a private engagement? Why, what for? And yet what else could this semi-confidence betoken? Mary read her note fifty times, surreptitiously cried over it; then, in a rage at her weakness, nearly burned it. Relented, hid it in an innermost drawer, took it out and looked at it at night; and continually, with some reason may be, called herself for her pains the very biggest goose, or any other emblem of absurdity, that ever stepped!

CHAPTER XXIII.

That September evening when Sydney went back from Stillcote-Upton to Capel Moor, so grateful had she felt at the manifest desire for her return that she would willingly have taken double duties on herself for Jean Hurst or for her brother. But in one direction this impulse had not only met no response, but was steadily repelled. A curious change came over Mr. Hurst's bearing toward her. He had been always grave, reserved, save when he warmed up to some subject under study, or on those notable occasions when he talked with Sydney on their early morning and homeward walks together. Still, there had been a brightening in all his aspects as the hours he evidently enjoyed came round, and Sydney's apt questionings and pertinent calls upon the wealth his splendid memory held roused him unfailingly to cheerful activity, if not positively active cheerfulness.

Now this was altered. As unobtrusively but completely as when between eve and dawn myriads of silent snow-flakes spread a white shroud over the living earth, so some spell was cast over these signs of reawakening interest in existence. The books began before were finished, certainly, and not a shade of his usual attention of thanks did Mr. Hurst remit. A chair would be always placed for his interpreter of pages, in warmth and light between fire and window, though he, no longer seated near, would listen, shoulder up against the book-case, as far off as the room permitted. The volumes needed would be relayed for Sydney, he trained his touch to that task without taxing Jean's assistance. Punctilious he grew that Miss Grey should not read on into the hour allotted to her midday walk. But the zest their occupation had seemed acquiring had somehow died down. When Sydney had tried to win it back, reading her very best, her mind set keenly on her work, her reward was curious. Mr. Hurst would for two or even three days break through the routine, and betake himself to the river-side, leaving her mornings purposeless and void. And if she halted to have knotty points disentangled, she was not answered at once by a clear viva rose explanation, but referred, more politely but coldly, to some authority among the tomes hard by.

Herein was something amiss, Sydney divined. The fervor of her helpfulness was damped. Wistfully she waited, hoping every day the cloud would go by. Forbidden by instinct as by position to seek the cause of the change, never had she felt so much the stranger in the strange land as now, and she was even thankful when Miss Hurst volunteered her private opinion on the matter, wide of the mark though it might be. They were sitting, one October afternoon, in the drawing-room that looked east up the long room. Sydney had used her undusted leisure, to write a letter, which was to reach Mary Dacie via Paris, where Mrs. Alwyn sojourned; and she now assisted Miss Jean to wind off links

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- etable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

of Welsh wool, casting from time to time a glance through the opposite west window toward the orchard, where Mr. Hurst's tall form passed and repassed on the nearer side of the fruit-bereft boughs.

Miss Hurst followed one glance, and smiled sagaciously.

"My brother is not quite so wedded to his beloved 'ologies' as he was," observed, mild exultation in her tone. "I thought it was a wonder is that incessant listening did not wear itself out soon. I must say I am glad it has."

"Oh, why?" Sydney could not forbear asking—"You seemed so gratified that Mr. Hurst should get back to his old pursuits."

"So I was. I thought it a very good thing, in moderation. But lately, Miss Grey, I was getting jealous. Not of you—oh, no, no!" laughing, for Sydney opened such an astonished pair of eyes—"not that, the least; but jealous of all those clever things I can't enter into. I was afraid he would get wrapped up in them, and presently grudge such a dunce as me any of his company. You see, Miss Grey, I have no one but him, now, to lean to. The more dependent on me he is, the more I feel him my very own. Whatever came between us, whether it was a person or a thing, I couldn't help hating!"—stopping to wipe away a tear.

"I don't think," said Sydney, comfortingly, "you need fear anything at all of that sort."

"No? Well, I flatter myself you are right, Miss Grey. You see how ready he is to get off his reading now, and you must be so glad of the rest, so—not heeding a negative shake of the head—"we are all satisfied. For," moralized Miss Hurst, sagely, "the very best of books can not completely satisfy a man's wants. No books, for instance, can talk to Gilbert as I can! And it's a great comfort to me to find he realizes this. Have you not noticed lately how much less he seems to care for 'remains,' and 'roofs,' and goodness knows what stuff? And how often he'll turn the conversation to the apples or the weather, or something he knows I feel an interest in? And have you observed how often he says, now, 'Are you not coming to sit down, Jean? Don't be long away. Science and art are all very well, but they're not a man's sister, Miss Grey. Honestly, I rejoice at poor dear Gilbert's finding out it is me he wants most of all!'"

New Glasgow, N.S.

Dear Sir,—
I wish to state that I am well satisfied with the results which your Company have given me in connection with my Endowment Policy No. 47,775, which matures on the 17th of March.

I find that the returns give me over $424.00 more than I have paid in premiums, in addition to the protection that I have had during the Policy term. I consider this all the more satisfactory taking into account the fact that the dividends were applied as a Bonus every five years. I, therefore, received a return beyond Bank interest, in addition to the protection.

Yours very truly,
JOSEPH STEWART.

Will Ease Your Throbbing Head— And Stop Droppings In The Throat

To Cure Sniffles and Clear Stuffed Nostrils Nothing Equals "Catharhozone."

You can end a cold mighty quick—cure it completely—by Catharhozone. Any sort of Catarrh, whether in nose, throat or bronchial tubes, can be driven forever out of the system by simply breathing in the healing vapor of Catharhozone.

It's in the nostrils and air passages that Catarrh germs breed. The germ-killing vapor of Catharhozone means instant death to these germs—means that a healing process is started throughout all the sore membranes, thereby effectually ridding the system of the real cause of the trouble. Catharhozone promptly opens up clogged nostrils, takes that irritating pain out of the nose, prevents the formation of hard painful crusts. If there is a nasty discharge it disappears with a few hours' use of Catharhozone Inhaler. If a bad cold keeps you sneezing, if you have dull frontal pains over the eyes, you'll get the speediest cure possible with Catharhozone.

Years of wonderful success in Europe and America have proven Catharhozone a specific for all catarrhal, throat, bronchial and breathing-organ troubles. Simple, pleasant, safe and sure. WASHINGTON, May 6.

President Wilson will voice the Nation's tribute to the marines and blue-jackets, who died in the occupation of Vera Cruz, at a memorial service to be held in the Brooklyn Navy Yard on Monday.

SABLE ISLAND, May 6.

Capt. McDonald, the chief engineer, two officers, the Marconi operator, and nine members of the crew of the Columbian, have been saved by the steamer Manhattan, from New York to Antwerp. A wireless received in an explosion, and one drowned picked up one of the boats with these men aboard. One engineer was killed in an explosion and one drowned while leaving the ship. The Manhattan is still searching for the other boat, in which are the first and second officers and 17 men. When the first boat was picked up it had been adrift for more than fifty hours.

LONDON, May 6.

It is reported here that the British playwright Sir James Barrie, will soon be married to Lady Scott, widow of the Antarctic explorer. Lady Scott denies the report.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.

Details of a raid made by Chinese pirates on the steamer Shingtai, on March 31st, in which a number of the ship's officers and crew were killed, and $30,000 stolen, were brought here yesterday by the Japanese liner Nippon Maru. The Shingtai, was a Chinese-owned vessel, flying the British flag. She sailed from Hong Kong in the evening with 17 passengers, who proved to be pirates. Three hours after leaving port, at a pre-arranged signal, the pirates drew their pistols and knives and attacked the four soldiers who had been supplied by the Canton Government to guard the vessel's treasure. One soldier was killed and another wounded. The pirates then rushed into the engine room and took charge. The keeper of the ship's stores was killed. By disguising himself as a coolie, the Chinese skipper escaped with his life. According to the Maru's officers the entire coast of China is infested with pirates, the Government being without funds to operate the coast patrol, and powerless. Thus far only native vessels have been attacked.

WASHINGTON, May 6.

Renewed efforts by the South American envoys to bring Carranza into the preliminary mediation negotiations, came as a swift turn in events, and excited interest in the Mexican crisis to-day. While it had appeared that Carranza had been eliminated temporarily from mediation proceedings because of his refusal to declare a truce, it developed to-day that the envoys were seeking to induce him to send an agent to a conference between representatives of Huerta and of the United States to begin at Niagara Falls in Canada on May 18th.

LONDON, May 6.

Although the Budget overshadowed the Irish question for the moment at Westminster, the Ulster problem is still uppermost in the minds of many members. A statement has been made on good authority that Asquith will fathom Irish opinion regardless of party or geography. The Daily Mail has forwarded to the King a petition with 300,000 signatures, praying that he withhold the royal assent from the Home Rule Bill until an election is held. The petition was merely acknowledged and laid before His Majesty. As a matter of fact the prospects for an election seem to be receding, and even such papers as the Pall Mall Gazette speak as though it may not come until next spring. An autumn session is being mentioned, but whatever arrangements the Ministers may make will be subject to Ulster's attitude. That province is unlikely to remain patient and quiet for several months unless satisfied with the Government. When the Government on Monday next introduces the procedure resolution for dealing with the remaining stages of the three important Bills now being legislated under the Parliament Act, in which resolution the committee stage is omitted and the time for third readings is defined, it is expected that a suggestion stage will be provided for the Home Rule Bill, although this will probably tend to bring on progress of the conversation on the federal idea which has been strongly seized upon by members of both parties. This may be gauged by the fact that petitions to the Premier urging a settlement on the basis of the exclusion of Ulster, pending all-round federal legislation, have been signed by seventy Liberals and sixty Conservatives.

Next to stock and bond brokers the proprietors and partners of business concerns ought usually to be the most expert judges of investment values. They should, therefore, be able to obtain a yield beyond the reach of persons of less experience.

Business men particularly are invited to investigate the 4 p.c. Preferred Stock of the Maritime Mail Company. This stock is par with a 40 p.c. bonus of Common Stock. We'll gladly assist in such investigation by sending complete reports.

Joseph F. Ross At The Nickel Theatre.

"The Power of the Cross" was the principal attraction at the Nickel Theatre, last evening, and it delighted the hundreds who saw it. The story is a two-act feature by the Lubin Co. with Arthur V. Johnson, the matinee idol in the leading role. The drama is centred round a young clergyman whose wife proves faithless, and as the result of her conduct their home is broken up, and both husband and wife take to drink. Both have strange experiences, and the husband finds himself on trial for murder. He is proven innocent, and realising the power of the Cross, he returns to the straight path. The final scenes in this great drama are thrilling and greatly impressed the audience. Everyone was charmed with the film and pronounced it one of the finest they had ever seen. The other pictures were of a high class. Joseph F. Ross, who is just back from Montreal was present last night and his effects were a great drawing card. He is even more at home with the drum now than ever, and his work made a great hit. This evening the pictures will be repeated and we advise all our readers to attend.

The Voting Remedy.

If voting could make us joyous, we'd all be as gay as geese; no troubles would e'er annoy us, and there'd be no end of peace. The orators oft implore us to vote for some certain jay, and then all the woes that bore us will wither and blow away. We vote as we are requested, the jay to an office goes, and still we are all infested by numerous grills and woes. We list to language jammers, who labor with tireless jaws, when we should be out with hammers or axes or plows or saws. I look on my home—'t's paid for—my garden, with beans and peas; my pines, you'd like to trade for—and voting brought no end of these. I look on my well set table, with beefsteak and pie and cheese, and "would be a messy fable to say that my vote brought these. I look on my pile of stove-wood which says that I shall not freeze, and nary a truthful cove would say voting brings sticks like these. My pipe-dreaming neighbor hollers, "Come in, for the voting's fine!" I labor and earn the dollars, and pickle the same in brine. My load I am daily toting with chores instead of tears; that's better than all the voting you'll do in a thousand years.

THURSDAY, May 7, 1914.

It will pay you to keep in the house a bottle of Hydrogen Peroxide Solution. As an antiseptic, as a mild disinfectant, as mouth wash, as a lotion for cuts and wounds, as a styptic for slight cuts and scratches it is very generally useful. A four ounce bottle costs only fifteen cents and there is a considerable amount of using in a bottle.

Dental Floss, if used regularly, will greatly help to prevent decay of the teeth. It is quite apparent that small fragments of fish, meat, etc., getting between the teeth are largely out of reach of the tooth brush. If left there any length of time these particles soon start trouble, and help to hasten of the enamel. Dental Floss cleans all these morsels away, and keep the spaces between the teeth in a clean and aseptic condition. Price (for spool of 12 yards of Waxed Dental Floss) 15 cents.

To My Lost Letter Friends.
By RUTH CAMERON.
There must be some among my on e-time letter friends who are not my friends any longer. I often feel sad when I think how they must dislike me. The people I refer to are those who ask me to answer some question or write upon some subject which particularly interests them, and whose requests I ignore. Now, I do not mean to be rude. The point is this: I'm writing not for any one person, but for thousands. Of course it wouldn't be fair to gratify one person and bore nine hundred and ninety-nine. I receive a great many letters asking me to write upon subjects which interest the writers, but which are not of general interest, and upon which I do not think I have anything of particular value to say. For instance, a young girl and her father have had a discussion as to whether it was proper for a young lady to be out after eleven o'clock. She holds that when she goes to the theatre or to parties at her friends' homes, she cannot get home before eleven without leaving before the play is over or breaking up the party. He thinks she ought to be home by eleven under any conditions. Now, in the first place, this is a matter in which circumstances alter cases. I would not like to say that it is always right, nor always wrong, for a girl to stay out after eleven. It depends on the girl, her age, her education, the nature of the party, etc. Therefore I don't feel like laying down any rule. Furthermore, I'm not sure there would be any general interest in this subject. If the girl had signed her name I should have been happy to have written her a brief note telling her my opinion in her case. Perhaps she was afraid that I would publish her name, but she need not have been. Neither names nor letters will ever be published when the writers ask that they be withheld. Don't be afraid to write me. I like to hear from you all. I love to know when some subject particularly interests you, and I especially like to hear the opposite point of view when you look at a matter differently. We must each speak from our own experience, and your experience may sometimes contradict mine, and mine yours. There are two sides to everything. Let's have them both whenever possible. And if you ask me to discuss something of general interest and something on which I have some opinions worth expressing I shall be happy to discuss it. But when you want my opinions on merely personal matters please sign your name and when possible I'll answer you in a personal note, especially if you enclose a stamp. And now I hope my lost letter friends who had decided that Ruth Cameron was rude and disagreeable because she did not respond to some request, will read this, understand and forgive and become my friends once more.
Ruth Cameron

Swimming.
By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Swims."
Swimming is the art of making a noise like a fish in the water. Man was not designed for swimming and is about the poorest living performer in the water. When the untaught man is dumped into a river he acts very much like a flatiron and usually does not survive more than a minute. However, a man can be taught to swim if he is persevering enough and does not mind getting water in his ears, nose and lungs during the process. After a man has succeeded in keeping himself afloat for a few minutes he becomes very arrogant about it and goes through life telling non-swimmers that the art is as easy as breathing. He also exhorts all mankind to learn how to swim for self-protection and severely criticizes those parents who do not take their boys and girls to the nearest pond at an early age and dump them in. There is much to be said on the value of swimming. If a man knows how to swim he is much safer while on the water is steamers which are equipped with cast-iron life preservers. He also feels better during a storm on the deep, knowing that if he is at the worst, is only 5,000 miles away. He is also so safe in a row-boat that he usually handicaps himself by putting on heavy hunting boots and going out in weather which causes the timid landlubber to sit on the shore and hold on to a tree for protection. About this point the swimmer begins to become too blase. Half the lives which are saved from the hungry deep are saved because of a knowledge of swimming, while half of the lives which are lost are lost because of that same knowledge. When a man has travelled a mile or more through cold water by kicking his legs like a frog he becomes over-confident, and some day when he is greatly in need of land he is unable to discover any except that directly beneath him. Thousands of happy men and boys go swimming industriously every year and hundreds of them are fished out of the water later by their sorrowing relatives. They did not go swimming in order to save their lives, but because they knew how to swim. Swimming is just about as dangerous a form of safety as aviation is, because it is indulged in too extravagantly.

Dangerous Throat Trouble Prevented By Nerviline
IT ENDS MISERY OF COLDS QUICKLY.
Don't wait till night. Get after your cold now,—this very minute, before it grows dangerous you should apply old-time "Nerviline."
Rub your chest and throat, rub them thoroughly with Nerviline. Relief will be immediate.
Nerviline will save you from lying awake to-night, coughing, choking and suffering from congestion in the chest and acute pain in the throat. Nerviline will break up that dull neuralgic headache—will kill the cold and chill at its very beginning—will save you from perhaps a serious illness.
To take away hoarseness, to break up a grippy cold, to cure a sore throat or bad cold in the chest you can use nothing so speedily and effectively as Nerviline. For forty years it has been the most largely used family remedy in the Dominion. Time has proved its merit, so can you by keeping handy on the shelf the large 60c. family size bottle; small trial size 25c., sold by any dealer anywhere.

Household Notes
Put cauliflower in plain water to draw out any insects. After the insects have come out, put salt in the water; it will kill them.
It is a good idea to rinse muslin hangings, children's dresses and pinafores in alum water. It will render them non-inflammable.
Good flour adheres to the hand, and when pressed tightly, remains in shape and shows the imprint of the lines of the skin of the hand.
Brass fenders and fire irons can be lacquered with a special preparation which will prevent them from requiring constant polishing.
Before broiling ham, it should be soaked one hour in lukewarm water. Then drain, wipe and broil three minutes. The slices should be thin.
Wax candles which have become dusty can be made perfectly white by rubbing them with a clean piece of flannel dipped in spirits of wine.
Tomatoes are delicious broiled. Cut them in thick slices and broil them over a hot fire; when they are done, butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper.
When frying fish, have the fat boiling hot before putting the fish in the pan. When the fat is in the proper condition, a blue smoke will be rising from it.
Paint marks can be removed by soaking them for a short time in benzine or turpentine, then rubbing them with emery paper or a little pulverized pumice stone.
If you wish your green vegetables for salads to be crisp, throw them in to ice water for an hour, then dry carefully on a soft towel, being careful not to bruise them.

Fruit jars should be sweet and clean before they are put away. Put a pinch of soda in the jar when you give it its final rinsing. This will destroy all old flavors.
If dumplings are kept boiling steadily from the time they are in the pot until they are taken out, they will be much lighter. Do not take the lid off often than necessary.
The important point about cooking peas is to have plenty of water, boil rapidly and drain as soon as they are done. Peas cooked in this way will retain their color and sweetness.
If making mayonnaise in warm weather, it will take only half the time if you put the dish in which you make the mayonnaise on a piece of ice. The oil and eggs should also be cold.
Cheese is our most concentrated food. It contains almost twice as much nutriment as any other known substance. Being difficult to digest, it should be taken only in small quantities.
Barley is so good in clear soup, but it should be cooked a long time. It is best to put it on to boil in a separate vessel and cook it until it is soft; then add it, water and all to the soup.
To preserve eggs it is only necessary to close the pores of the shells. This may be done by varnishing or by dipping in melted suet, and then packing in salt with the small end downward.
If you are so unfortunate as to get stale or wilted peas, shell and throw them into cold water one hour before cooking and add a teaspoonful of sugar to the water in which they are boiled.
It is very convenient when sewing on the machine, to have a bag for scraps, hung somewhere about the machine, and as the trimmings collect they can be tucked in the bag instead of falling on the floor to be picked up afterward.
Pinch Hitter.

Red McGhee says:
The hero in the t e n-twent-third, w h o's always there to save the skirt who's just about t' die, e'd make you laugh or weep or clap. We kids just idolized t h a t chap—he surely was some guy. But those ol' meller drummer days have gone an' somehow movie plays don't have the ol' time punch. The villain's hiss ain't there no more, an' you can't hear the buzz saw roar or hear the train's brakes crunch.
But if you want the old-time thrill, just hop a rattler with me, Bill,—this one that's marked "Ball Park." Well, here we are. It's two an' two. The home team better push one through—Who's that on second—Clark?—Tough luck, they've bagged Big Sammy's fly. One down—What! Did he fan that guy?—Good night. Our pitcher's up. But wait a bit, they've called him back. They're sendin' up Pinch Hitter Jack! Come on, boys, whoop'er up.
What's that—a strike? You pirate shark!—Look, look—He's singled—look at Clark come tearin' for the plate. He's beat the ball, he's safe!—Say, Bill, I ask you where you'll get a thrill like that one? Ain't it great? There's heroes for you, boys like Jack, who wallop that ol' ball a crack that fills the fans with joy.—What's that you say? You're still in doubt? Suppose Pinch Hittin' Jack struck out?—Git out, you ol' killjoy.

MISS ASHMAN, LOG CABIN, WRITES:
J. M. DEVINE, "The Right House," St. John's.
Dear Sir—I have the Savory Ronster and can unhesitatingly recommend it to everybody anxious to improve the cooking of meat.
Where did you get it at all? 'Tis the greatest thing yet. One could never imagine meat could be improved so much. What I like most about it is, that it does the basting and browning itself. Grand idea.
You are at liberty to use this testimonial as you please.
Yours very truly,
(MISS) A. ASHMAN,
Log Cabin.

Municipalization of the Telephone.

Elsewhere we publish a communication from "Theobald," who suggests that the Citizens' Committee take up the matter of the Telephone, with a view to the installation of a Municipal system. He is of opinion that the Committee should approach the Government to forestall any chance of a contract being entered into by the latter with a foreign company. He believes that an up-to-date system, at lower rates, with profits kept at home could be run by the municipality. Like him, we would prefer to see a Municipal Telephone System in preference to one run by a new franchise given to a foreign company, which would carry the profits out of the country. But we would much prefer to see a national system introduced and worked by the Postal Telegraph Department, with long distance connections with the city. The difficulty in reference to any new system seems to us to arise out of the fact that the Anglo-American have a system in existence, and any new system would lead to two systems in competition with each other, for it should be remembered that the Anglo-American have telephone rights in Newfoundland, and they would continue to have these rights, although a franchise was given to the municipality or to another company. If either the Government or Municipality take up the telephone business, some efforts should be made to induce the Anglo-American to withdraw from that business. Rather than to see a foreign company brought in, we should prefer to see some understanding arrived at with the Anglo for an up-to-date city system and the idea of a long distance telephone system either given up or left to the Postal Telegraphs to work out. The Municipalization of the telephone system would of course require new legislation, for the Municipality at present has neither money to invest in such a venture, nor power to invest if it had the money, nor authority to go into such an enterprise. That could, of course, be easily met in the new Municipal Bill which is contemplated.

 George A. Monlon vs. Fred G. House.
 On motion this cause is set for May 11th.

REPORTED BY WIRELESS.—At 2 o'clock this morning the Allan Liner Sardinian was 120 miles West of Cape Race in a dense fog, a wireless message having been received to that effect.

Another Kick.

We've been kicking some time both in prose and in rhyme
 Against ills that are many, 'tis true;
 But, good people, once more
 Your staunch aid I'd implore:
 In a deed I'm anxious to do.

Yes, ye citizens all,
 On ye wildly I call,
 For the sake of this staid little town,
 For the sake of good cheer
 To the girls we love dear,
 Who for weeks now've been wearing a frown.

For the sake of all things
 That the sunny day brings,
 One more vigorous kick let us try.
 Let us start with the morn,
 Ere worse weather be born,
 To kick a blue hole in the sky.
 SUNNY JIM.

Haynes Confesses

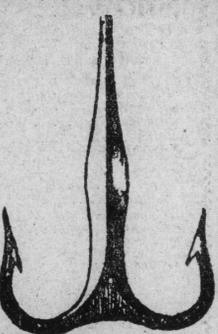

Implicates Wife of Murdered Man and Donalds, an Insurance Broker.

SYDNEY To-day.—With the shadow of the gallows looming over him, realizing that all efforts to save him from execution had failed and the muffled thud of the guillotine was heard within thirty-six hours for the murder of J. S. Atkinson, Frank Haynes broke down, made a full confession, on the strength of which Mrs. Tena Atkinson, widow of the murdered man and John Donalds, Insurance Broker, were arrested last night for complicity in the crime. A stay of execution has been asked for. Haynes is now ready to assist in the prosecution of Mrs. Atkinson and Donalds, whom he charges with being an actual participant in the crime. Mrs. Atkinson, he claims, instigated the whole plot, paid him a sum of money, said to have been one thousand dollars, for committing the deed. For some time past it has been reported Mrs. Atkinson was shortly to be married to John Gannon, North Sydney. This is believed to have been one of the motives that impelled Haynes to confess, as he has been suspected of having desired to marry Mrs. Atkinson himself.

Celebrated Norwegian Jigger

Fishermen should use these Jiggers and rig them with swivels same style as in Norway, then the Jigger acts like a minnow and when spinning attracts the fish, so that instead of jiggering they really snap the Jigger and in this manner you never fail to catch them. Ordinary leads can be used, but the Norwegian style seems more simple and easily made. Our fishermen should try this great Norwegian fish killer.

Mr. Frank Macnamara received a message from Mrs. Macnamara from Chicago to-day saying that she had been successfully operated on by the world-famed specialist, Dr. Murphy. It will be only a matter of a few weeks when Mrs. Macnamara will be able to return completely recovered.

We know who he will buy it for? But who will he buy it from? Hundreds of Engagements and Weddings are sealed yearly in Newfoundland with Trappnell's Solid Gold Rings. Hundreds of friendships and tokens of affection, sweetheart, wife, mother, sister, friend are embodied in lasting mementos with Trappnell's Rings, the purity of which is based upon their quality, finish and variety and beauty of design. Rings for men, women, baby and miss for every occasion. Gem Rings, Chased Rings, Signet Rings, Birthday Rings. Should you have a desire to get a ring of such design as you may create yourself, or that you had seen somebody else wear, just take your design to Trappnell; there is nothing impossible along these lines for his talented workmen. A splendid assortment of unset stones can be seen if your design calls for a Gem Ring. Ask to be shown the new White Sapphires. They are hard and brilliant like diamonds, so much so that they puzzle experts.

AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS.

A representative and appreciative audience attended the charming variety entertainment and delightful comic opera given by the pupils of St. Patrick's Hall and Holy Cross Schools at the Casino Theatre last night. The hall was filled to overflowing. Amongst those present were His Excellency the Administrator and Lady Horwood, attended by Major Davenport, A.D.C., Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V.G., Rev. Frs. McDermott, Sears, Drs. Kitchin and Greene, Rev. Bros. Ryan, Kennedy, Ennis and a number of other clergymen and Christian Brothers. Part I of the programme was:—
Chorus—"The Bells of Shandon;"
Class.
Recitation—"The Owl Critic;" Master James Kelly.
Manual and Physical Exercises—School Cadets.
Solo—"Eileen Alanna;" Master S. O'Leary.
Recitation—"The Lady of Providence;" Master A. Snow.
Two-Part Song—"The Bell March;" Holy Cross Boys.
School Boy Patter—"The Truant;" Master J. Hearn.
Recitation—"The Dying Chief;" Master Robert Redmond.
Club Drill Exhibition—Class.
Piano Selections—Master J. Hickey.
Next was the Operetta, entitled "Breaking Up," in which the characters were cleverly represented by Masters O'Leary, R. Rolls, W. Wallace, T. Walsh, L. Payne, W. Spratt, R. Redmond, J. Rodgers, W. St. Croix, A. McDonald and J. Kelly. The boys were trained perfectly and the histrionic ability displayed by them would do credit to our ablest amateur performers. The singing of Master O'Leary, who possesses a remarkably sweet voice, was delightful and won well merited encomiums; Master J. Hearn made a most original truant school boy and his acting brought down the house. Masters Wallace and Rolls, Professor and Doctor, respectively, made a decided hit. On the whole the operetta was highly creditable, and is well worth repetition. Especially pleasing were the manual and physical exercises by the boys; equally good was the club swinging, for which credit is due Mr. H. B. Chafe, Instructor. To the efforts of Mr. Hutton, who trained the pupils and to Mr. J. C. Pippy, as general manager, the success of the operetta is mainly due. Gratitude is also due Mr. Kelly for the free use of the hall and to the C.C.C. Band for discouraging selections. The programme concluded by the united chorus of "A Nation Once Again," "The Flag of Newfoundland" and the National Anthem. The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the Holy Cross Extension Fund.

Ready for Rehearsals.

At the end of the week, after Marian's last dramatic lesson at the Hartmann studio, her teacher gave her a note to the booking agent, which read: "Miss Winthrop has developed remarkably, and I am sure that she will now fill your requirements to perfection."

He bade his pupil a cordial goodbye, wished her success in her part, and asked her to drop in and see him whenever opportunity afforded.

Marian started at once for the booking agent's apartment to perfect final arrangements for rehearsals of the vandyke sketch. She had memorized its intricate part letter-perfectly. She was anxious to know what sort of people the remainder of the cast would comprise. In her intention to make ready for her opportunity, she had given the matter of who her associates would be, no especial thought. She now began to feel nervous about it, and it began to occur to her for the first time that her fellow players might be anything but satisfactory. Whoever they might be, she reflected, she could put up with them for a while in any event, and long enough to obtain some of the practical stage experience she needed.

She hurried into the moth-eaten hotel, and up the dingy corridor. The same pale, plain-faced girl looked up with a tired glance, and Marian inquired for the booking agent.

"He's out," was the answer. "He back in about half an hour. Will you wait?"

"Yes," answered Marian, and sank into one of the office's unsteady cane-bottomed chairs.

Fifteen, thirty, forty-five minutes passed, and still the booking agent did not arrive. Marian bit her nails impatiently, and listened eagerly for approaching footsteps in the corridor without. At last, when twilight had begun to settle over the city, her waiting was rewarded with the entrance of the booking agent.

"Ah, Miss Winthrop," he said, recognizing her at once, "been waiting long? Come in," he added, ushering her into his private office.

She handed him the note from Walter Hartmann, which he scanned with interest. "Good teacher, isn't he?" he remarked. "He's a corking coach. I knew he'd be able to brush up your work. I am sorry to have to tell you, however, that I have a bit of bad news for you, Miss Winthrop. A most unfortunate thing has happened. I had a wire last Tuesday from our Boston manager insisting that the sketch I had in mind when I spoke to you, be rushed on to the boards at once. One of the acts on the New England circuit closed because of the sudden illness of one of the players, and there-

"I am sorry, Miss Winthrop, but I have had to cast another woman for your part," said the stage manager.

There was nothing for me to do but slap the sketch into shape and rush it into service. I had no way of reaching you in a hurry, and had to cast another young woman for the part. I'm very sorry. Leave your address with me, and I'll notify you the minute I can do something for you."

If the building had suddenly collapsed without warning over her ears, Marian could not have been more astounded and hurt. She gave the other her address and telephone number mechanically, and, stunned by the blow of the disappointing announcement, she left the premises.

Mr. J. A. Barron

Wins Laurels at Dalhousie.

In the Dalhousie University pass list, published in a recent issue of the Halifax Herald, we are very pleased to notice that Mr. J. A. Barron, one of St. Bonaventure's most brilliant students, has ably sustained the reputation of his "Alma Mater." At the close of a very brilliant scholastic career, Mr. Barron won the Rhodes' Scholarship, and thus entered Dalhousie to study law, which is to be his chosen profession. In the recent examinations on the second year's course, Mr. Barron appears in Class I. in Equity (1), Shipping, Evidence, Insurance and Bills and Notes; the latter in which he came first. This is a portion of the curriculum for the third year. He also passed successfully in Partnership and Companies. Mr. Barron is now here on a vacation as the University usually closes from May to October, principally to enable those students who are working their way through to raise funds, which they do by taking up various kinds of work during the vacation period.

Decline to Discuss Tariff

At the meeting yesterday, the Employers' Protective Association had before them a letter from Mr. Gibbs, the Union Solicitor, asking that the Association receive a delegation from the Union. The meeting declined to accede to the request. Their first answer set forth their attitude towards the new tariff, and they see no good purpose to be served in discussing it. The Solicitor of the Employers' Association, Mr. Blackwood, was present for a time, and a reply to Mr. Gibbs' letter was sent this morning.

Erik Receiving Repairs

The S. S. Erik, which was damaged above the water line during the recent sealing voyage, is now undergoing repairs. The damage is on the port side and was caused by collision with a small berg. The timbers now exposed appear as sound as when first put in the ship forty-two years ago.

Here and There

SEALERS LEAVE.—Thirty-five of the sealing crew of the S. S. Diana returned to their homes by last evening's express.

HAWK ON DOCK.—The S. S. Hawk is now being docked for repairs, preparatory to taking up the Bell Island service.

A QUICK TRIP.—The coaster Portia is making an exceptionally quick round trip and is expected back from western ports on Saturday morning.

SHENANDOAH LEFT LONDON.—The S. S. Shenandoah left London yesterday afternoon for this port, taking about 1,000 tons of general cargo.

NOT YET ARRIVED.—The Furness Liner, Digby, which is now eleven days out from Liverpool, was 150 miles S. E. of St. John's at noon yesterday.

ROSINA LOADS MOLASSES.—The barq. Rosina, Capt. Sinclair, is now at Barbados whence she will take a cargo of molasses to this port for Alan Goodridge and Sons.

She was not garbed in silks or laces, that may be bought at many places, but with costume and hose so becoming, making all who saw her hum this summing, she must have bought at Rodger's.—May 7, li

NEW LAUNDRY.—There is now being erected on Knight's Street, a new laundry which when finished, will greatly improve the locality, so some residents say, although there has been some opposition to its erection.

HERRING SCARCE.—Messages received from Hr. Breton, yesterday, say that herring are very scarce. The banking schooner Metamora is now at Hr. Breton waiting for bait to sail for the Banks.

ICE DETAINS PROSPERO.—The s.s. Prospero, is yet unable to sail for the northward owing to ice conditions. When she does sail it will be several days before she will get far north as there is quite a deal of ice on the coast. The steamer is heavily laden with freight which will be gladly welcomed at present by many northern business people whose supplies are now exhausted after the long winter.

PURCHASED VESSEL.—Messrs. James Baird, Ltd., have purchased the 'Madeline A.', a two-topmast schooner to replace the Annie E. Banks, which foundered in mid-ocean last year. The Madeline A. is a 90-tonner and a staunch vessel. She will be used in the Southern American fish trade and will be commanded by Capt. Pearey, of Grand Bank, who with his crew is now ready to leave Halifax on the vessel.

ROBERT BROWNING born 1812. English poet. His shorter poems are the most popular as he introduces many of his philosophical ideas into the longer poems. He is not appreciated by some but as he says "I never pretended to offer such literature as should be a substitute for a cigar, or game of dominos to an idle man."

LORD ROSEBERY born 1847. An active Liberal politician and statesman of his day but has held aloof from his party since 1896. He is considered to be one of the outstanding orators of the day.

Citizens' Committee.

The Citizens' Committee will lose one of the greatest opportunities that will come their way if they do not ask the Government to allow the City a chance to add to its income by taking over the new Telephone system. It is not likely that any contract has been made with a foreign company yet, and even for the sake of keeping the money in the Colony, the municipalization of such a public utility ought to commend itself. Municipal ownership has not always proved a panacea for all ills, but it has invariably meant cheaper rates, and under such conditions as can obtain here, the installation of an up-to-date plant, the profits from which will go directly to the people, means a chance in the City's lifetime that may never come again. Come, good sirs, you will need money. Let us advance, and don't "ring off" this proposal until you consider it well.

Practical Sympathy.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The enclosed copy of letter from His Lordship the Bishop of Montreal, to the members of the Church of England in Canada within the diocese of Montreal, will, no doubt be of interest to our people at this time, showing, as it does, that spirit of practical Christian sympathy which should bind us together. Might I suggest the publication of this letter in your next issue.

Yours faithfully,
J. R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary.

CIRCULAR.

To the Members of the Church of England in Canada Within the Diocese of Montreal.

My Dear Brethren,—You will all have learned with the profoundest sorrow of the terrible disaster which has overtaken the Sealing Fleet in Newfoundland. Hundreds of breadwinners have been lost, throwing their families upon the sympathy of their fellow-citizens. It is one of the greatest disasters which has befallen our countrymen in Newfoundland. I do not need to dwell upon the duty and privilege of the Christian, showing the love of Christ in a practical way, for I know you will gladly do what you can to help those sorrowing ones in their need. "The love of Christ constraineth us."

Envelopes are being sent out with this letter, which will be left in the pews; all contributions enclosed therein and put upon the offertory plate will be sent through the Synod Office to the Treasurer of the Relief Fund.

I am your friend and Bishop,
JOHN MONTREAL.

P.S.—If possible, kindly send your contributions before the 26th May, as the Treasurer of the Fund hopes to make a remittance by that date.

P.S.S.—Cheques should be made payable to the Synod of the Diocese of Montreal.

Clean-Up Preparations.

The Municipal Council have acted wisely by commencing the "Clean-Up" on the higher levels. A number of men and horses are now employed in the vicinity of Summer and McNeil Streets, removing the debris scattered around after the winter, which the residents very much appreciate. The work is being done under the supervision of Mr. N. Murphy, the newly appointed Inspector, who is proving himself to be a hustler.

THE PRINCE'S PIPE.

The Prince of Wales is back after his Scandinavian visit and spent Easter at Windsor Castle with his parents. Some of the papers are commenting on the fact that he was photographed smoking a pipe, and the impression was given that this is something new. The Prince like most salaried men took to the pipe as soon as he was free of the rigorous rule of the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth. The students are not allowed to smoke till they go to sea. Many officers combine the cigarette habit with that of the pipe. The Prince does so to some extent being different in that respect from King George, who does not like cigarettes but loves a pipe. I have known him when Prince of Wales beg a fill of tobacco from a man on the road side. He was an old pedlar who was in the habit of working round the villages on the Royal estate at Sandringham and smoked strong black shag. When on a second occasion the Prince asked him for a fill he remarked that he hoped he wasn't expected to keep the Royal Family in tobacco. King George was much amused and presented the old boy with a pouch. The Prince is following in his father's footsteps in using a pipe. Curiously enough, among the men of the Fleet the cigarette is becoming more and more common. Cigarettes are very cheap on board ship and they are handy for a surreptitious whiff at times and, he whispered, in places which are forbidden.

AND HIS COMING CRUISE.

The cruise of the Prince of Wales is shortly to take in company with his brother Prince Albert, on board the latter's ship H.M.S. Collingwood, is to be a short pleasure trip and the Her-Apparent will not be attached to the ship's company on this occasion, nor be called upon to undertake any duties. It is not considered probable that the Prince will remain at sea for more than a fortnight at the outside, but this will involve his return to Oxford being delayed, so that he will not be present at the opening of the term. This cruise is being undertaken, it is understood, at his desire, he wishing once more to see something of the life of the Fleet at sea. The Prince of Wales and Prince Albert

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Good Digestion Follows Right Food. Indigestion and the attendant discomforts of mind and body are certain to follow continued use of improper food.

Those who are still young and robust are likely to overlook the fact that, as dropping water will wear a stone away at last, so will the use of heavy, greasy, rich food, finally cause loss of appetite and indigestion.

Fortunately many are thoughtful enough to study themselves and note the principle of cause and effect in their daily food. A young woman writes her experience thus:

"Sometime ago I had a lot of trouble from indigestion, caused by too rich food. I got so I was unable to digest scarcely anything, and medicines seemed useless.

"A friend advised me to try Grape-Nuts food, praising it highly and as a last resort, I tried it. I am thankful to say that Grape-Nuts not only relieved me of my trouble, but built me up and strengthened my digestive organs so that I can now eat anything I desire. But I stick to Grape-Nuts."

HOUSE OF COMMONS TALKATIVENESS.

Periodic protests against the Parliamentary loquacity of their colleagues have been both facetiously and seriously registered by members of the House of Commons almost since time immemorial. It is always the "other fellow" who offends. He it is who, having armed himself with a monumental manuscript, the product of several days' profound cogitation, is resolutely determined, having once "caught the Speaker's eye," to fire off the whole of the composition—and nothing less than the whole of it—in spite of the obvious impudence of his rivals, similarly equipped to take his place. Neither the silent reminder from the clock nor the audible hints from his restless audience that he is occupying too much time—time which in the opinion of his successors could be utilized to better purpose by themselves—acts as a restraint upon the flow of his eloquence. He pursues his way unconcernedly, unmoved by the growing signs of indignation, knowing full well that when the last word of his peroration has been uttered and he resumes his seat his place will be immediately taken by another who will proceed to repeat the offence for which but a moment before he was ready to condemn his predecessor to perpetual exile. And so the merry game goes on. But a time comes when the House rebels against these prodigiously long orations, and sends forth a heartrending prayer to the Government of the day to do something, no matter how drastic, to curb the loquacious member. Such a moment has again arrived. The length of the speeches in the Home Rule debate just concluded passed all reasonable bounds. The average length of a speech was about 45 minutes and many members found it impossible to say in an hour all they intended to say. Hence, for good reason, the renewed petition for a curtailment of speeches. The matter is to be raised in the House in a week or two by Mr. Leach, a Liberal, who intends to move a resolution placing a time limit of 20 minutes on speeches in the House and of 15 minutes on speeches in committee, with an exception in favor of Ministers, ex-Ministers, and movers of bills and resolutions. Every member would vote for this estimable motion were the clause of exemptions extended in a direction which it is not necessary to particularize. But human nature being what it is, it may be confidently anticipated that Mr. Leach's well-meant effort to reform his fellow-members will share the fate which has befallen similar heroic proposals in the past.

FOR THE BLIND.

C. A. Pearson is one of the wonders of the journalistic world here. Trained under Sir George Newnes, who was not Sir then, on "The Bits," he started on his own journal and thus laid the foundations of a great publishing business and private fortune. He has never bulked so largely in the popular eye as his two great rivals Alfred Harmsworth, now Lord Northcliffe, and Newnes. Now he seems to be making up for lost time. In every rank of society and department of social and national activity he is winning unstinted praise for the way in which he is working with all his wonderful industry and ingenuity to make a success of the fund for cheapening Braille Books for the Blind. Everywhere we are being met with the question, What book will you buy the blind man? His latest suggestion is that golfers this season should devote any little stakes they may have on the game to the fund. Mr. Pearson himself is an expert reader of Braille.

He is now almost completely blind, but he began to learn Braille three years ago when he still had sight to read with. He declares that he never knew what will power meant until he began to learn Braille. The difficulty was to keep his eyes from helping his fingers. The temptation was almost irresistible. Anyone who has tried to learn the "touch system" of typewriting will understand.

THE LONDON SEASON.

With the reassembling of Parliament the London season proper may be said to have begun, and this year's season to all appearance will beat everything in the way of rush and scramble. For there is this remarkable anomaly about the season, that of late years it has both declined and increased. It has declined from the highest state it once held, when "to miss the season" was a social misfortune even to the greatest, from which they took long to recover. It has increased in the sense that the circle of those who affect to be "doing it" have grown out of all recognition. Not many years back the meaning of the London season was the gathering of the great territorial families who lived for the rest of the year on their remote country estates. Once a year they repaired with their marriageable offspring to London to enjoy the society of their kind, a few balls, dinners, and luncheons, a little Hurlingham and Ranelagh, a state ball and garden party at the Palace, and then returned home, with Lady Elizabeth suitably affianced and the Hon. Tom "practically engaged" to a really nice girl. Nowadays things are very different. A great number of notabilities stupidly avoid London from May to August like the plague, while countless families with the smallest social pretensions amaze their neighbors in the smallest cities of the kingdom by informing them that they are "going to town for the season"—and by going there. The season, therefore, is now split up into at least a dozen seasons, with the result that balls are now so numerous that it is possible for almost any girl to be exclusive and not go to many, while the once exclusive polo clubs round about London are becoming as accessible as Hyde Park. Whatever the season may have lost, it is now a more complex, vital, and subtle affair than ever it was.

THE GREATER QUESTION.

At this season of the year for Farmers with up-to-date ideas is, what is the best means to use to get the best returns from the land.

Fertilizers must be used liberally if large returns are looked for. There are several good chemical fertilizers which may be recommended, but Sulphate of Ammonia has been proved to give the best returns, and is the most valuable and economical source of Nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

For vegetables, grass, and all leafy crops, about one and a half cwt. per acre is the best quantity to use, and this should be applied when the plant is making its growth, as well as before sowing the seed.

If a liquid manure is preferred, a ½ oz. of Sulphate to one gallon of water should be used, and applied once a week for a month. This quantity should not be exceeded.

It is a good plan to reduce the Sulphate to a fine powder, and mix with four or more times its own bulk, for the purpose of diluting the manure, which is very powerful.

For potatoes the following mixture is strongly recommended:—
40 lbs. Superphosphate.
25 lbs. Fine bone meal.
10 lbs. Carbonate of Magnesia.
15 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
21 lbs. SULPHATE OF AMMONIA.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to 43 square yards.

The use of Carbonate of Magnesia, in conjunction with Sulphate of Ammonia, is of great importance in potato culture.

For turnips use the following:—
55 lbs. Superphosphate.
13 lbs. Fine bone meal.
13 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
20 lbs. Sulphate of Ammonia.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to square yards.

Sulphate of Ammonia of excellent quality is now made by the St. John's Gas Light Company, and may be obtained on very reasonable terms.

Full particulars may be obtained at the Gas Works, or at the Board of Trade Building. Ask for special booklet on the use of Sulphate; it will be found of great value in securing the heaviest crops.

The Scotch Bill At The Crescent. Large audiences saw the big performance at the Crescent Picture Palace yesterday. "Shon the Piper" was an ideal Scotch photo-play that set them all going. The second picture, "The Banks of the Ganges" was a splendidly scenic subject and as comedies "His Brother's Wives" and "Puzzle Mad" were very laughable. To-day the same show is repeated. Sidney Earnshaw in singing that ever popular Scotch ballad "The Bonnie, Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond," scored a big success. On Friday and Saturday five big pictures will be presented, the principal "The Mask," in which Lois Weber, Phillips Smalley and Rupert Julian are the foremost actors.

WALT MASON'S DAILY STORY.

SAFE DEPOSIT

"I really think we ought to have some sort of a strong box in the house to keep our valuables in," said Mrs. Jamesworthy. "There have been many burglaries in town recently, you know. I was talking with Mrs. Gangling this afternoon, and she says her husband bought a small safe, and now she can sleep at night with a feeling of security."

"If any misguided burglars want to break into this humble abode, let them do it," replied Jamesworthy. "I'll make a desperate effort to overpower them and rob them of their tools and such other valuables as they may have on their persons. As for their carrying off any property of ours, I wish, Mrs. Jamesworthy, that you would mention something in this house which would be attractive to any sane yeggman. Of course, there's the piano, but it's out of tune; and there's the bookcase, with a few excellent volumes in it, but the tastes of burglars do not run to literature. All the things worthy carrying away are too large to move without a derrick. I worry about a good many things first and last, but I never have lost five minutes sleep worrying about burglars."

"The burglars worried you as little as they did me until Mrs. Gangling told you that she had a safe in the house. Then all at once you realized the imminent peril in which we stand. You reflected that some malefactor might break into our home any night, and steal the tomcat or the bootjack."

"Had Mrs. Gangling told you that her husband had bought a stuffed alligator, you'd have come home full of the conviction that we'll be ostracized by the best society unless we order a stuffed alligator at once. If a neighbor gets something that we haven't got, you are persuaded at once that life will be a total loss without insurance until we get the dead mate to it. A woman of your years and experience should have more sense, Mrs. Jamesworthy. You know that I simply dislocate my knee caps and sprain my back toiling to provide for this household, and instead of guarding the treasury, you want to melt down our ingots of gold and silver and use the liquid to blow bubbles with."

"Mrs. Gangling is a cheap woman whose highest ambition is to stir up envy in the bosoms of her neighbors. Her story about buying a safe to protect her valuables is a palpable bluff, Mrs. Jamesworthy. If she really has a safe she hasn't anything but her false teeth to put in it. If a person really has valuables, the worst thing he can do is to buy a safe to hold them in. Every self respecting burglar looks upon such action as a challenge to him, and he will cancel a good many more important engagements in order to save a hole through the door of that safe. If the Gangling really have bought a safe, some poor but respectable yeggman will blow it open one of these nights, and we can imagine his feelings when he finds nothing but Mrs. Gangling's false teeth."

"If I were so weak as to yield to your arguments and buy a safe, I know just what would happen. For about twenty-four hours you'd be delighted, and then I'd come home and find you weeping bitterly because you had such a dear, sweet safe, and nothing to put in it. You'd begin quoting old women of the neighborhood, who assured you that we ought to invest in a few diamonds, as such stones are advancing in price right along. That's the way it goes in this house. When I bought you a new refrigerator last summer you bought about a ton of high-priced strawberries and such things, just so the blamed thing wouldn't be standing vacant, and when the grocer's bill came in I fell swooning to the floor."

"Let the burglars come, Mrs. Jamesworthy. There's a welcome on our doormat for them all. We should be thankful that we have no safe for them to steal."
