CHAPTER XX.
The Dictates of Fate.

This request rather surprised Cyril, and he was silent for a second or two. "Certainly not, if you don't wish it," he said; "but—"

"You're wondering why I should ask you, sir?" said Furlong.

"Well, it does seem rather strange," said Cyril. "I don't see why you should care whether Mr. Wesley knows or does not know that I have met you."

Furlong did not respond for a while, and Cyril felt, rather than saw, him looking at him sideways from under his bushy brows; then he said:

"Strange? Yes, I dare say; but I've got my reasons, sir, and they are not altogether whimsical ones. If you insist upon my telling you—"

"Oh, come," Cyril interrupted him quickly, "I haven't the least wish to pry into your private affairs. If you have good reasons for keeping your movements secret, that should be sufficient for both of us; it is for me, at any rate."

"Thank you, sir," said Furlong, quietly, and not a whit embarrassed. "I dare say I shall be back before Mr. Wesley misses me."

There was silence between them for a while, but Cyril every now and then found his companion glancing at him covertly; and he smiled to himself as he thought that if Mr. Furlong was a bad character, how easily he could deal him, Cyril, a slow blow and ease him of his watch and chain.

But the idea did not alarm him, and he could not get up any definite distrust of that gentleman.

"You're traveling by an early train," said Furlong presently, not curiously, by any means.

"Yes," said Cyril, with a sigh, "I am going to leave England; for some time, I'm afraid."

"Yes, sir? On pleasure, I hope?"

"No; business," said Cyril.

"That's pleasure sometimes," remarked Mr. Furlong, philosophically. They were nearing the station lights, and he stopped as he spoke.

"Going back?" said Cyril. "Well, thank you for your company; I wish you an enjoyable holiday."

"Thank you, sir," said Furlong;

the frank, pleasant way which so quickly wins the liking of poor people. "Well, I hope you will have a good time."

Then he settled himself in his corner, and once more gave himself up to thinking of Norah.

CHAPTER XXI. The Deadly Drug.

Guildford Berton had remained until nearly all the guests had gone; and after Norah had vanished he had, so to speak, transferred his attention to Lady Ferndale, hovering about her and rendering her little services in his peculiarly unobtrusive fashion, so that Lady Ferndale felt almost remorseful for her poor opinion of him.

Indeed, when at last he came up, hat in hand, to take his farewell, she smiled upon him more graciously than she had ever done before.

"You have been very kind, Mr. Berton," she said, with a novel friendliness in her tone. "I don't know how to thank you enough for taking so much trouble."

But even as she spoke she caught herself asking mentally what it was in Mr. Berton's dark, handsome face which jarred upon her.

"I have taken no trouble, Lady Ferndale, but have just enjoyed with the rest what has indeed been a delightful time. I only hope that you are not quite worn out with all your exertions. It is a pity that you could not have retired with Lady Norah, but that would have been impossible, I suppose? I trust Lady Norah will have recovered from her fatigue to-morrow."

"Oh, I hope so," responded Lady Ferndale, and she looked at him keenly, for there was something in the tone in which he spoke Norah's name which caught her ladyship's acute ears.

"So that is it," she murmured, as she watched him walk off in his leisurely, impassive manner. "Yes, he has been paying court to her all day. Poor man, I wonder how he would feel if he knew how much Norah dislikes him?"

Whatever his feelings might have been under such knowledge, Mr. Guildford Berton was in the best of humors with himself as he sauntered out into the cool, early morning air; and as he carefully chose a cigar from his case and cut it, a smile of satisfaction flitted over his dark face.

Every man in the game of life has occasional innings, and Guildford Berton had enjoyed some pretty successful innings that day. Indeed, as he went over it all as he walked along, he was conscious of a feeling of surprise at the good fortune which had attended him.

He meant winning Lady Norah, by fair means if possible, by foul if foul were necessary; and as to scruples—well, no such word as "scruples" was in his lexicon.

Some natures delight in plotting and scheming, and Guildford Berton's was one of them. In the silent solitude of his gloomy cottage he had spent many an hour, since Norah's arrival at the Court, in trying to find some means of securing her; but to-day there had actually been no need for scheming. Everything had played into his hands; even Cyril himself, although unconsciously.

He had feared that when Cyril arrived he would seek out Norah and monopolize her; but events had occurred which, trivial in themselves, had kept them apart, and then had come the scene between Cyril and Becca.

If Guildford Berton could have "staged" it personally he could not have done so to greater advantage to himself. Not only to Norah, but to any one, the placing of the ring on Becca's finger by Cyril would have looked like love-making, and Guildford Berton looked up at the stars with an almost devout thankfulness that his luck had prompted him at that moment to ask Norah to come into the air. To her it must have seemed as if Cyril were carrying on at least a flirtation with Becca, and Guildford Berton knew how Norah would regard such a proceeding.

"I fancy that you have put a spoke in your own wheel, Mr. Burne," he muttered, with a sinister smile. "That little scene with Becca will require a great deal of explanation."

But still an explanation might be offered and accepted, and he knit his brows trying to scheme some way of preventing it. He did not know, as yet, that Cyril was leaving Santeigh by the early train, and might be absent for months, or Guildford Berton's spirits would have risen still higher.

He was a little uneasy, too, about his position with Becca.

Even clever men have their weak moments, and in one of these weak moments Guildford Berton had allowed himself to be smitten by Becca South's black eyes. He had begun by meeting her secretly and flirting with her, and almost insensibly he had drifted into promising to marry her.

She was pretty and fresh; her half-wild, defiant manner had taken his fancy; but some time before Norah had appeared on the scene he had grown tired of Becca, and now she threatened to be very much in his way, notwithstanding that she had been unintentionally of such use to him to-night.

As he walked along he tried to think what he should do with her. Becca was not easy to get rid of. He might, if he had set about it earlier, have procured her a good situation in London, but Norah had, by taking Becca into her service, all unconsciously destroyed his chance of getting rid of her in that way.

As to marrying her! He smiled scornfully at the thought.

The person he meant to marry was Lady Norah, not Becca South, the village girl who had served to amuse him and while away a dull hour or two.

Perhaps, he thought, he might offer her money, but there was not much encouragement in the idea. Becca was not the kind of girl to be bought off; but still, he might try it.

He put her out of his mind after a few minutes, and walked on slowly, smoking his cigar—a very good one—and building castles in the air.

What a fortune and a career lay before him! As the husband of Lady Norah and the owner of the Arrowdale wealth he would be almost the most important person in the county—he, who had been looked down upon by the fellows. He would pay them back in some way when his day came!

He would show them that the steward's son could be as good and as grand a gentleman as any of them.

He was enjoying himself in this fashion when he reached the small door in the high wall of his cheerless cottage, and had inserted the key in the lock, when he felt a touch upon his arm, and a voice said:

"Guildford!"

He turned, and saw Becca standing in the shadow beside him, and with difficulty repressed the oath of impatience and annoyance which rose to his lips.

The touch and voice of the girl he had deceived knocked down his castles in the air like a house of cards, but his voice was as composed and suave as usual as he said in a tone of pleasant surprise:

"Ah, is that you, Becca?"

THE GREEK SITUATION
LONDON.
In view of the definite refusal of the Greek Government to deliver up the islands, and of the demand by the Allies, and of Vice-Admiral Du Fourmont, commander of the allied squadrons, to take action to-day unless the islands were handed over, the news that the Greek Government has acceded to the demands of the Allies, and that a French fleet has arrived at Piraeus to land British bluejackets, the village girl who had served to amuse him and while away a dull hour or two.

THE GREEK SITUATION.

LONDON, Dec. 1. In view of the definite refusal of the Greek Government to deliver the arms demanded by the Allies, and the threat of Vice-Admiral Du Fournet, the Commander of the allied squadron, to take action to-day unless his demand was acceded to, the news from Greece is awaited anxiously. A cabled despatch from Athens late yesterday afternoon showed that preparations were being made to resist the seizure of arms, and that a French transport has arrived at Piraeus to land troops. British bluejackets were ordered to co-operate, and the Admiral gave a warning that prominent personages taking part in any resistance would be arrested. The Greek Government has given guarantees that order will be maintained, but it is feared the calling up of reservists will have the opposite effect. Admiral Du Fournet insisted that 64 mountain guns be delivered to-day. Further time has been given for the delivery of other guns and materials. An Evening News despatch filed at Athens at 1.45 o'clock this morning, says that further reports have been received of forces marching south from Thessaly and other sections of Greece. North of Athens the garrison of Cholios is marching with rifles toward Sminarri. The despatch adds that a minor disturbance occurred last night. A few revolver shots were fired, but no one was injured. Just before the time of filing the despatch, King Constantine notified the Entente Ministers of his definite refusal to hand over the guns.

RUSSIANS ATTACKING.

LONDON, Dec. 1. A Berlin wireless despatch says the battle with the Russians in the Carpathians and Eastern Transylvania, continues with stubbornness on a front of four hundred kilometres (about 248 miles). The despatch adds that the Russian forces are being renewed constantly.

UNCONFIRMED REPORT.

LONDON, Dec. 1. The Cologne Gazette publishes an unconfirmed report that Russian troops have arrived at Bucharest.

TURKS DEFEATED.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 1. Turkish troops operating in Persia have suffered defeat at the hands of the Russians, who inflicted great losses on the Turks, according to an official concerning operations on the Caucasian front. The statement says on the Persian front our detachment on the left flank during November 25 to 27, conducted a series of brief attacks against the enemy, mostly at night. The enemy on the evening of the 27th was driven across the river in complete disorder and sustained great losses. We captured two mountain batteries, one machine gun and a great quantity of material.

ROMANIANS STILL RETIRING.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 1. After an infantry action we evacuated Campulung, and are retiring in Dumbovitz Valley where before we had been violently attacked.

TROOPS LAND AT PIREUS.

LONDON, Dec. 1. A detachment of Entente troops disembarked at Piraeus, the port of Athens.

CECIL DISCUSSES WAR SITUATION.

LONDON, Dec. 1. The war must be fought to a military conclusion on the east and west fronts, with the blockade playing a second part, said Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, in a discussion with the Associated Press on the latest developments in the world conflict. The condition of Roumania, he continued, causes us grave regret, but there is no reason to suppose operations there will affect the result of the war which must be fought out on the main front. Conditions under which we will accept peace overtures remain the same as outlined some months ago. Asked concerning the origin of the allegations of the Morning Post editorial that Germany offered the Entente generous peace terms in return for a free hand in Central and South America, Lord Robert Cecil said, of course it is well known that Germany had very definite ambitions in Central and South America even before the war, but I am unaware of any peace being offered us on the terms mentioned by the Morning Post. We have no knowledge that such overtures ever had been made here.

"THE CRISIS OF THE WAR IS NOW"

LONDON, Dec. 1. "We are in a position of unparalleled gravity," said Admiral Baron Beresford, in an address to-day before a meeting to support a strong naval policy. "The crisis of the war is now. Since enemy submarines have transferred their activities from headlands and shallow waters to the blue seas, the menace requires new strategy and new tactics to deal with them, but so far no definite and systematic methods have been taken up for suppressing the menace. The Germans are now going to send submarines to the Pacific and wherever British trade routes are." Beresford advocated a continuance of aerial attacks on the German base at Zebrugge and arming merchant ships. "It is a most unsatisfactory state of affairs," he said, "that thousands of tons of food which were waiting to come to England have been diverted to Germany." The meeting adopted a resolution, calling for more effective measures to deal with the submarine question.

GERMAN PROGRESS.

BERLIN, Dec. 1. Progress of the Austrian and German forces in Wallachia continues, and in Dobruja attacks by the Russians and Roumanians failed, says an official issued by the war office this evening. In the Somme district artillery fire was temporarily renewed on both sides of the river. In Wallachia we continue to progress. Repeated hostile attacks against our left wing of the Dobruja army failed. The enemy again used tanks fruitlessly.

MORE STEAMERS SUNK.

LONDON, Dec. 1. A Reuter despatch from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, says the Dutch steamer Kediri, 3,773 tons gross, has been sunk and her crew landed. The Kediri was sunk by shell fire from a large submarine, which was accompanied by a smaller submarine. The smaller craft did picket duty, the despatch says, while the Kediri was being shelled. Lloyd's announces the sinking of the Danish steamer Egholm, 1,348 tons gross, and the French sailing vessel Stansbert, 275 tons.

WILL BE FULLY PROTECTED.

BERLIN, Dec. 1. The Royal Sepulchre at Curtea De Argeis, in Western Roumania, in which the body of King Charles reposes, has been placed under the protection of German troops. Emperor William ordered that German forces which passed through the city shall deposit wreaths on the tombs of the King and Queen.

BERLIN ISSUES OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

LONDON, Dec. 1. A despatch to the Wireless Press to-day from Stockholm reports the issuance of an official statement at Berlin regarding the acquisition of supplies from Entente sources by the Scandinavian countries and Holland. The German Government, according to the statement, is firmly resolved not to allow Sweden, Norway, Denmark or Holland to contract through the medium of Great Britain or other Entente Powers for any purchase of provisions or raw material, the acquisition of which would tend to deprive Germany of these necessities.

ROMANIA.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 1. The violent attack begun by the Russians in the Carpathians, which, if successful, will menace the rear of the Transylvanian Austro-German lines, is expected by military authorities here to relieve the pressure upon Roumania and possibly avert the crisis caused by the concentrated advance on Bucharest of the three groups of the forces under General Falkenhayn and General Mackensen, since the Russian operations are directed at that portion of the front which has already been the scene of hotly contested battles in which the Germans strove to make a breach between the Russian armies and the forces defending Roumania. Military observers believe that the wedge which the Russians are reported to be driving into Dornawatra and Kirilbaba portion is of great strategic importance. Official reports indicate that the Russians by occupying the heights immediately east of Kirilbaba have already achieved considerable penetration of the Teutonic lines and confidence is expressed that rapid progress will be made through the entire region of the wooded Carpathians. In Russian military opinion the logical effect of this manoeuvre would be the forced retirement of General Falkenhayn's forces in Transylvania.

ACCEDES TO REQUEST.

LONDON, Dec. 1. The impression here is that Great Britain has acceded to the second request made by Washington for a safe conduct for Count Adam Von Tarnow, recently appointed Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to the States.

WILL REQUIRE SPECIAL PERMIT.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. No one henceforth will be allowed to go from the United Kingdom to Spain, Portugal or South America without special permission, according to an announcement by the British Foreign Office made public to-day through the States Department.

REICHSTAG PASSES HOME ARMY BILL.

LONDON, Dec. 1. The German Home Army Bill, as adopted by the main committee, has passed its second reading in the Reichstag, according to a Berlin despatch. All amendments were rejected. The Socialists and Labor members voted in the negative.

EXPECT OPPOSITION TO NEW VOTE OF CREDIT.

LONDON, Dec. 1. The Daily Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent says every vote of credit moved by the Government since the beginning of the war has been carried without opposition in the Commons. There is some likelihood, however, that when the new vote of credit is submitted on Wednesday the opposition will make its voice heard for the first time, and some Radical members are even thinking of going into the lobby against it. Their contention is that it is possible to obtain an honorable peace by negotiation, under which the aims of this country in the war could all be realized. Members who specialize in naval affairs intend in the debate on the vote of credit to discuss the changes in the high naval commands, and Mr. Balfour's administration of the Admiralty.

VIOLENT ENEMY COUNTER ATTACK.

PARIS, Dec. 1. A violent counter attack was made by German and Bulgarian troops yesterday on the Macedonian front near Grunshate, east of the Cerna River.

hend. The war office announces that the Serbians succeeded in retaining all their positions except one trench.

NO CHANGE ON FRONT FRONT.

PARIS, Dec. 1. To-day's official report says there was no change during the night in the situation on the front in France.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 1. The Russian offensive has been successful along the whole German frontier, south of Kirilbaba, says the official statement issued to-day by the Russian War Department. In spite of violent German counter attacks, the statement adds, the Russians occupied the whole range of heights.

ENEMY DRIVEN OFF.

LONDON, Dec. 1. Yesterday evening the enemy attempted to raid our trenches south of Neuve Chapelle, but was driven off, says to-day's official report from the Franco-Belgian front. South of Armentieres the enemy lines were entered by us in several places during the night. Beyond the usual artillery activity, there is nothing to report.

BRITISH SUCCESS IN EAST AFRICA.

LONDON, Dec. 1. Conspicuous success has been gained by the British in their campaign against the Germans in German East Africa, the war office announced to-day.

MAKING A STAND.

LONDON, Dec. 1. The mention in the Roumanian communiqué of violent fighting on the Glavatzietzu River is regarded here as showing that the Roumanian retreat has halted and that a stand is being made at that stream to contest the advance on Bucharest from the west. There is nothing to indicate, however, that whether this action is intended as a final effort to save the capital or whether it is merely a cover to permit the main Roumanian forces to take up positions on the Argesche.

"THE LIARS."

This excellent play will be produced in the Casino Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, December 13th, 14th and 15th. "The Liars" was produced at the Criterion Theatre, London, under the management of Sir Charles Wyndham, and ran there for four hundred nights. It was played last year in New York by Miss Grace George, with wonderful success. It is the best comedy written by Henry Arthur Jones. The proceeds will be devoted to the W. P. A. Local Red Cross Fund for Newfoundland Soldiers and Sailors, and the Newfoundland Highlanders. Mr. Angus Reid, the promoter, is ably assisted in the management by Mrs. John Baxter, and Mr. T. H. O'Neill. The cast is an excellent one. The Orchestra is in the hands of our leading artists, under the Directorship of Mr. Chas. Hutton. Needless to say crowded houses will greet the production for the first time in this city of "The Liars."

What Can You Afford?

By RUTH CAMERON.

What can you afford? A man's choices are himself. There is no surer index to personality than things men wear. Some people can afford to wear a suit three or four years, but she has been to Europe and seen the most worthwhile things in this country. She can't afford to give her child a Fair Chance. Some people can afford jewelry. I know a woman who is bringing up her tiny little boy in a tiny apartment six stories up. Its one bedroom looks out on an air-shaft. She says she can't afford to move to a larger apartment in a more open neighbourhood. Yet she can afford two or three very handsome diamond rings. Some people can afford to have money in the bank, and others can encompass such luxuries as automobiles and music machines, but can't afford to have the luxury of this barrier between financial misfortune or sickness, and want. Isn't it funny? But it's true.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."
Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

They Have No Money For Books Or Magazines.
Other people can afford good furniture, nice rugs, expensive bric-a-brac, cut glass, embroidered linen and that sort of thing, but they have no money for books or magazines. I am thinking of a home of this sort. I never visit it without recalling the jest, "What I shall I give Mabel for Christmas?" "Why don't you give her a book!" This woman has more than that; she has perhaps forty or fifty books. There are three leather-covered ones on the center table and one

Obituary.

Killed in action, July 1st, another one of our brave sons who gave up his life for King and Country in the person of Private James Atwill, son of the late Samuel and Charlotte Atwill. The deceased worked at Dowling Bros., South Side, where he was a general favorite with his fellow employees. He lies buried in a foreign land far from those who are near and dear to him, but nevertheless his memory will be forever fresh in their hearts. To the grief-stricken brothers and sisters we can only offer the consolation of our sympathy and that we are assured they have from all the community. When time shall wear off the keen edge of their sorrow they will be able to recall the fact that he laid down his life for the defence of Right and Justice, and his name will be enrolled amongst the thousands of those who have shed their blood for the cause of Empire and Country. He leaves to mourn three sisters: Mrs. Thomas Arnott, 129 Cornwall Ave.; Mrs. Cedric, of Mundy Pond Road; and Miss Nellie, of the Tuberculosis Camp, and two brothers—John, of the Bank of Montreal, and Private Duncan who left here with G Company of Ours. To the sorrowing relatives we tender our sincerest sympathy.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Is it proper to send an acknowledgement of a gift on a postal card," asked Maud.
"It is not. A gift, no matter how small or insignificant, is an expression of good will and kindness, and any indifference or economy of time, does not show the courtesy that is due," answered her mother.

My Message to the Boys.

(By the Rt. Hon. Will Crooks, M.P.)
There is no public man who understands our soldiers better, or who is better understood by them, than Will Crooks, who contributes this week's message to the lads in the trenches. Cheer up, my boys! You are doing your part splendidly, and the munition workers at home are doing their part well. What a time we will have when you come back to us laden with victory! The sweethearts, the wives, and the mothers hope and pray for that day; it is the great festival to which the children look forward. Cheer up, then! Victory will soon be within sight; but let the journey to Berlin be long or short, nothing can prevent you getting there to teach the Kaiser that his terrorism game is over, and incidentally, that the vigor and courage of British manhood never stood higher. The Germans didn't understand what fighting against freedom Britons meant; they will understand before you have done with them. The British breed holds good, Britain is still Britain. So again I say, "Cheer up, my boys!"

Your Boys and Girls.

An ideal way to amuse a child who is convalescent, or one who has become tired from a long journey is to place a picture advertisement over a piece of white paper, then prick with a pin the outline of the picture. When the original picture is removed, the outline can be colored. This will afford pleasure for hours. All "kiddies" like to play in sand and nothing gives them more joy than to handle colored sands. Light sand should be procured and ordinary beet juices will make a beautiful shade of red and the most delicate pink; a drop of bluing will produce light blue and navy, according to quantity; a small amount of coffee will produce yellow and brown, and as these substances are all perfectly harmless, there is no reason why the youngsters should not enjoy them.

HAPPINESS.

My neighbor Johnsing can afford lots of things that I cannot; yet I'm not envious or bored, beneath my collar I'm not hot. My neighbor Johnsing has a roll that's large enough to choke a steers; I contemplate him, and my soul is smiling still, from ear to ear. For one thing is supremely true—as some one said, in ringing tones—that happiness has naught to do with what a human being owns. Old Masters hung upon the wall won't bring a nickel's worth of bliss. The rich man, in his gilded hall, is always saying things like this: "The gladdest time I ever spent, was when I lived in yonder shack, and had to husband every cent, to buy suspenders for my back." I like to have enough to eat, I like to have some clothes to wear, and caskets for my shapely feet, and gasoline to feed the mare. I like to feel, in dismal times, upon the day that's wet and dank, that I have half a dozen dimes in storage in the village bank. Let neighbor Johnsing view his roll, through tears that make his vision dim; I wouldn't touch it with a pole, when seeing what it's done for him.

Swedish Warning to Norway.

Intimation that Former Will be Friendly to Germany.
Stockholm, via London, Nov. 24.—The "Bagdad" in an article referring to the prospects of a crisis between Norway and Germany warns Norway against a "policy of adventure," declaring that Sweden is not prepared to follow Norway in such a policy to the danger of her own interests. The newspaper adds that Sweden must not imperil her friendly relations with the only Power on which she can rely for support if "a certain situation threatening her national existence should arise."

The "Combing-out" process spread not only to the War Office, but to branches of the service itself. It has just been decided that by November 14 all air mechanics under 25 years of age are to be discharged from Adestral House to some other home or abroad, where war clerks cannot be procured, while the end of the month all under 30 to be sent away. These men drawn from classes not fit for general service, but it is felt that more can be made of these than at present. It can scarcely be that the process will be confined to one section of a single Government department, and, therefore, it was seen that a sewer in the House of Commons recently to an identical question to Home Secretary and the President of the Board of Trade suggesting the lease for military service of all up to the age of 25 employed under their authority and their placement by discharged soldiers civilians over 22.

The wet and wintry weather, experiencing in London just now, is cruelly testing women outdoor workers, particularly the omnibus-tram conductresses, and on at least the amount of illness in the employers to decide upon a stoppage of work for all female employees during the rough weather. "It is only that women are unable to the rigours of the weather so the men," a tramway manager says to-day, "but they so seldom take advantage of the protection of their coats. It is intensely difficult for our young women to wear the coats which are placed at their disposal. I believe they are rather catch a cold than look up to they call it."

The "combing-out" process has spread not only to the War Office, but to branches of the service itself. Included among the air mechanics of the Royal Flying Corps are scores of shorthand-typists, and a very large number of these are now employed at Aderstral House, the headquarters of the army, which up to recently was used as a hotel on the Thames Embankment. It has just been decided that by November 14 all air mechanics under 25 years of age are to be drafted from Aderstral House to some depot at home or abroad, where women clerks cannot be procured, while by the end of the month all under 30 are to be sent away. These men are drawn from classes not fit for general service, but it is felt that more use can be made of these than is at present the case. It can scarcely be that this process will be confined to one section of a single Government department and, therefore, it was seen that an answer in the affirmative was quite expected in the House of Commons recently to an interpellation question to the Home Secretary and the President of the Board of Trade suggesting the release for military service of all men up to the age of 25 employed by or under their authority and their replacement by discharged soldiers or civilians over 42.

COLDS PREFERRED.

The wet and wintry weather we are experiencing in London just now is cruelly testing women outdoor workers, particularly the omnibus and tram conductresses, and on one line at least the amount of illness has led the employers to decide upon a shorter day's work for all female employees during the rough weather. "It is not only that women are unable to stand the rigours of the weather so well as the men," a tramway manager told me to-day, "but they so seldom take advantage of the protection afforded them. It is intensely difficult to get our young women to wear the oilskins which are placed at their disposal in wet weather. I believe they would rather catch a cold than look 'ugly,' as they call it."

SMALLER MATCHES.

Match manufacturers in Sweden, from whom Great Britain draws by far the greatest proportion of her supplies, have decided to reduce the size of their matches. The number of matches in each box will, however, remain the same. This Swedish industry has had many difficulties to contend with since the war began, owing largely to the prohibition of the export of timber from Russia. Home supplies of wood have proved insufficient to meet the demand. Of Swedish match production about 92 per cent. is exported. A firm of tobaccoists which has kiosks on the Underground railway stations has for some time sold at three boxes for 1d. specially made midget matches, which have been found to answer very well, and this has not been without its influence on the Swedish manufacturers in coming to their decision.

FAMOUS CHICAGO EDITOR.

Amongst the onlookers at the Lord Mayor's Show in London was one who himself is symbolic of a good deal of the Dick Whittington romance. This is James Keeley, the editor of the "Chicago Herald," and the man who made the "Chicago Tribune" one of the big papers of America, who is now revisiting England. He was born in London, and at one time was a newspaper here. He had a newspaper pitch in Westminster, and often sold papers to Mr. Gladstone. It is difficult to believe, from the appearance of this remarkable man, that he can be over forty, or from his accent that he was London-born. He is a naturalised American.

CINEMA AND CENSORSHIP.

The cinema trade is bestirring itself in the face of criticisms magisterial and otherwise recently levelled against the picture houses, together with the threat of an official censorship to be imposed by the Home Office. A fighting fund has been started and manufacturers, renters, and exhibitors are being exhorted to organise for defence. The interest of the manufacturer is a very real one, because in the event of a film being prohibited before it reached the exhibitors the entire loss would be his. There is a desire in the trade to have the censorship issue fought out now. A public investigation is demanded in order to put "idle charges, slanders, and magisterial twaddle" to the test. Influential forces are arrayed behind General

Sir H. Smith-Dorrien in his campaign for a sweeter atmosphere in the entertainment world. The gallant General is undoubtedly on a firm ground when he assails what passes for entertainment at some of the music halls; but it is maintained that, with regard to cinemas, he has relied on rather vague evidence reaching him from different parts of the country. The trade is very wroth with the "motley throng of clerics, Army Officers, Peeping Toms, cranks and croakers who are firing their pop-guns." We are likely to hear a great deal more about the subject in the near future.

A RECANTATION.

There has been no little amusement over the recantation of Lord Northbourne, of Botesdown, who a few years ago announced his intention of roasting an ox to celebrate the exit of Lloyd George from office whenever that happy event occurred. He is now so enthusiastic an admirer of Lloyd George's patriotic services that he now offers the animal for sale at a war charity auction. Lord Northbourne, of course, notwithstanding his anger at Lloyd George's Budget proposals of other days, was for nearly twenty years a Liberal member of the House of Commons—sitting for Gateshead from 1874 to 1893. Botesdown is a picturesque mansion of the Elizabethan type on the old Roman road between Sandwich and Dover. The position of it suggests that it actually occupies the site of some old station or residence of Roman date.

GERMANY'S POLISH DODGE.

Our enemies' proclamation of a kingdom of Poland has often been predicted. It only comes as a surprise now, because Austria and Germany were known to dispute each other's authority in the occupied territory. Austria long upheld her contention that none of Galicia should be reincorporated in Poland. Austrian Galicia should, on the contrary, said the Austrians, be extended. So one thing clear from the setting up of the new dummy kingdom is that Austria cannot now hold out for a portion of the spoils against Germany. A second point equally clear is that, the Germans at this late day take this step regarding Poland because they expect to leave it next summer and wish to leave the Russians an inconvenient legacy. But they have other reasons still more cogent. Volunteer Polish legions have failed; few Poles would enlist against Russia. Now a dummy Polish Government under a German Prince is to display its gratitude by voting compensation for Poles. By this means the Germans calculate that they may add a million men to their conscript soldiers and labourers.

SOLDIER TOYMAKERS.

The Duke of Connaught's first public appearance on November 10th since he came back from Canada was in the cause of the disabled soldiers. He went straight from the station, on his way to his home from his visit to the trenches, to the Prince's Shaving Rink, London, where he opened the show of Christmas toys made in the Lord Roberts Workshops. The Duke made a particularly earnest appeal for this splendid new work, which is growing fast, and when all the branches in the country are started—there is to be a workshop in Manchester—will Wash Those Pimples Off!

Pimples and ugly face blotches are often cured in a single night with the newly famous remedy for Eczema, P. D. D. Prescription. It is a mild, antiseptic wash that drives out impurities and then soothes and heals the aching skin.

For Eczema, Ringworm, Itch, Acne, Salt Rheum, Ulcers or Ringworm, P. D. D. is a proved and reliable remedy. The very first drops of the wonderful prescription take away the awful burning itch and give you instant relief.

Stop that itch now. Get a bottle of P. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold everywhere. Recommended by T. McMurdo & Co., A. W. Kennedy, M. Connors, Peter O'Mara.

employ five thousand men. The Duke spoke with especial sympathy of what it means to the disabled to have their minds employed. "Some of the cures effected in nerve cases," he said, "are little short of marvellous." What struck one first of the toys was the evidence of minds happily at work, striking out happy inventions that are quite as witty as anything Germany used to send us. The wooden portrait toys are especially jolly, and they have the merit of being cheap and easily made by crippled men. There is a jaunty little Lloyd George with a couple of shells tucked under his arms, and a delightful group, anything but "wooden," of Queen Alexandra taking a bouquet from a small child, a finely posed King Albert saluting troops, and many others. The returned soldiers have put humour and enjoyment into their craftsmanship. They are now tackling with success the stiff problem of making dolls' faces that will satisfy the most fastidious nurse. In the old days it was the proud boast of the Austrian that he only could do that.

THE GROCERY BILL.

The grocery bill is a monthly contribution to the high cost of living which makes father perspire in a heart-felt and enthusiastic manner. Groceries are bought by people for the purpose of prolonging life and keeping the stomach from becoming restless and dissatisfied. If it were not for the countless thousands of grocery stores which dot the landscape and carry everything from lamp wicks to leaf lard, the public health would be as far below par as the Mexican dime. The ease and rapidity with which people can order groceries over the telephone and more out of town the following week is one of the greatest blessings which we enjoy.

A few years ago the Grocery Bill did not bother anybody who intended to pay it. Groceries of all kinds were plentiful, and a round silver dollar would buy enough to subdue a large family for a week. Then the European war broke out. In several spots and created a bottomless demand for everything that is sold in a grocery store except aluminum-ware coupons. As a result, every husband and father is confronted with a bristling, two-fisted Grocery Bill which has the swollen appearance of a fat man with the dropsy.

The scandalous behaviour of the average Grocery Bill, just at the time when soft coal is climbing faster than the winner of a hook and ladder contest, is no doubt responsible for the alarming scarcity of quiet home weddings. It requires the fortitude of an antarctic navigator, for a young man to center up to the hymeneal altar on a salary of $2 a day, in the face of the fact that the lowly and unobtrusive navy bean costs more per pound than a pearl-set in lavalliere.

SATURDAY, Dec. 2nd, 1916.

Capt. Weston March M. C.

His Excellency the Governor was advised by cable yesterday that Captain Wesley March had been awarded the Military Cross and that Captain Bertram Butler, who is already in possession of that honoured military title, has received an additional "bar." As will be remembered, General Cayley in describing the battle of October 11th and 12th, when "Ours" distinguished themselves by capturing German trenches and taking over one hundred prisoners, he made special mention to the gallantry displayed by Captain March and had recommended him for reward. Rev. T. Nangle, C.F., in describing the battle scene on the days mentioned, spoke highly of the gallant deeds performed by Captain March under most trying circumstances. His Excellency is also in receipt of another cable from Capt. Timewell of the Pay and Record Office, reporting that the Distinguished Conduct Medal had been awarded to 267—Lance Corporal Peter Samson, Fox Hr., P.B.
224—Corporal Cyril Gardner, British Harbor.
1971—Private William Bennett, Stephenville.

The last mentioned honours have been awarded to outpost men and is for gallant services rendered on the days referred to. An interesting account published in the Telegram yesterday, taken from an English journal, describes the work performed by "Ours" wherein the above officers and men won and were since awarded the honours mentioned.

Pte. Phil. Jensen on Self-Sacrifice.

The Great War which is casting a shadow of sorrow over our grand old Empire and throughout Europe, is, after all, bringing out some grand traits in the character of our citizens. There is the mother who sends her boy, with a prayer and blessing, though it nearly breaks her heart to do so; there is the wife who sends the bread-winner, and there are those who have no loved ones to send who are making sacrifices too. The great Red Cross Society calls for us all to make our sacrifices. We must give and give of our best; give something that we value, something we shall miss. There is no sacrifice in giving if we do not miss it. In my tour through this country there have been so many instances of self-sacrifice; one I wish to mention especially. After I had finished speaking at an outdoor some time ago, a young girl came to me and handed me a ring. She said: "I want to give this in aid of the Red Cross. It was given me by a great friend of mine years ago." I thought it so splendid of her. Let us hope that a good sum will come to our Red Cross through it.

St. John's Lodge.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

St. John's Lodge, No. 579, R.E., held their annual meeting and election of officers for the ensuing year at the Masonic Temple last night. In accordance with the rules of the Lodge, the election of officers for the following positions took place and resulted as follows:
Bro. Gower Abbotts, W.M.
Bro. R. Wright, Treasurer.
Bro. G. Morris, Tyler.
Under the retiring Master, Bro. F. Rendell, the Lodge enjoyed a very successful year and in the hands of its present Master a full measure of success is anticipated. Bro. John Jeans, Secretary of St. John's Lodge for forty years, announced his retirement from office to the great regret of the brethren. During all those years he has rendered faithful and invaluable services to the cause of Masonry in this country. Of the members who were associated with him when he first assumed office, only seven now survive. A number of Past Masters paid tribute to the splendid services he had rendered the Lodge.

Sunday at the Kirk.

A most pleasing event at the Kirk to-morrow will be the presiding over of both services by father and son, Dr. A. B. Dickie and his son, the Rev. Gordon, who was inducted as pastor last night. Dr. Dickie's subject in the morning will be the "Honest Laborers," and at evening the new pastor will speak on "Service of the Lord." Large congregations will no doubt be present as never has the Kirk had such an opportunity of hearing such a talented family. Strangers will also be welcome, and provision has been made to make one and all feel that "we are all one in the House of God."

A Word for Mr. Jones.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Reading your Journal of last evening, I perused an item, not with the gusto which I would have done otherwise, had I noticed the name of Mr. Jones as being the newly appointed Secretary and Business Manager of the Grenfell Institute. Let me conscientiously assure you, Sir, that I have not the most meagre animosity toward Dr. John Grieve, the new appointee. On the contrary, I have no heart and soul in the good work which my friend Dr. Grenfell is engaged in, but I could not let pass this opportunity to remark that I would have been pleased and so would hundreds in this city had the name of Mr. Jones appeared. Since the inception of the institute nothing has been omitted to make the fishermen free and happy on their arrival at this philanthropic institution. Sundays as well as Mondays, Mr. Jones has endeavored to put to the highest test the energy within him. Many will be disappointed on that point but that he will be a progressive man in his new sphere. Further I am hearing that he has been passed over.

With thanks, I remain,
Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

An Appreciation.

To those who were personally acquainted with the late Mrs. John Anderson (nee Miss Amelia Murray) her passing away will come as a shock, as in the natural course of life, with ordinary good health, she might have lived years before reaching the allotted span of life. But the inscrutable wisdom of Providence decreed otherwise. An internal malady, against which she struggled bravely for several years assisted by the skill of the world's best surgeons and physicians, finally triumphed over an indomitable will and stout heart.

She died in Edinburgh surrounded by loving relations and friends, resigned and peaceful. Her body was consigned to mother earth in the beautiful cemetery of Warriston at Edinburgh, far from her island home, but in the land where dwelt her Scottish forefathers of long ago.

Mrs. Anderson's large circle of friends will mourn the loss of a trusty and true personality, and those most who knew her best. Unobtrusive and retiring by disposition, she endeared many by her sincerity and truthfulness and helped with all her heart any deserving cause without ostentation, preferring rather to do good by stealth. By temperament she was of the artistic type, and some beautiful poems from her pen show her mental bent. Some of these have been set to music. She was educated in St. John's, Edinburgh and Germany, and by her scholastic achievements did full credit to her teachers.

Many of her contemporaries now 'getting on in life' who see with sadness that 'From Love's shining circle the gems drop away' all too swiftly, will be sorry to hear of dear 'Amelia's' departure, and will hope to meet her in the 'Sweet bye-and-bye.'

As old Omar Khayyam says:
 "So! some we loved, the loveliest and the best
 That Time and Fate of all their Vintages past
 Have drunk their cup a round or two
 And one by one crept silently to rest."

Wanted, An Electric Light.

An electric light is badly wanted at the corner of King's Bridge and Circular Roads. Some years ago an electric arc light was put in position there but was later removed—why, nobody knows. The residents of the roads in question are debating the advisability of petitioning the Council for an electric light, and it is hoped their reasonable request will be granted.

Skin Boots Exported.

On making further enquiries this morning we learn that by almost every outward mail and freight within the past two months packages of skin boots are forwarded to Canada and the United States. Seeing that this article is already made by several firms in the Dominion, the importation of the "Newfoundland turn-out" speaks well for home manufacture, and with all things taken into consideration, why should it be otherwise? Our local tradesmen are fully qualified to turn out as fine an article in any class as his foreign competitor. Which reminds us that those who can afford, and have not already done so, send a pair of the much desired skin boots to their boys in the trenches should do so. They will be glad, and so will you, and so will the Telegram for reminding you.

BIG OUTWARD CARGO.—The S. S. Sheba will get away for New York direct some time this evening, taking a large fish shipment, sent by various concerns here.

TO LOAD HERRING.—The American schooner Louis R. Silver has arrived at Wood's Island from Gloucester to load herring.

Woman Thrown From Carriage.

A woman named Kelly, of the West End while driving down Water Street, opposite the Gas Works, was thrown from her carriage shortly before noon to-day, when the pony which she was driving took fright at the municipal steam roller and bolted. The carriage striking a "hopper" the woman was thrown to the sidewalk but fortunately escaped without breaking any bones and with the exception of several cuts on her face and body she was otherwise uninjured.

Schooner Caught Fire

Deputy Minister of Customs LeMessurier received a message to-day stating that the schooner Rupert, 78 tons, Capt. J. Vardy, caught fire on Nov. 28th in Trinity Bay while on the way to St. John's. The schooner made towards the land and sank near Ram Head. The vessel and part of her cargo were insured.

PERSONAL.—The Misses Irene and Rose Forward, accompanied by their cousin, Mrs. A. Pearman, are leaving by to-morrow's express en route to Montreal where they will reside in future.

ANOTHER DAILY.—And now somebody says we are going to have another daily newspaper about the beginning of next year, presumably a morning edition. There are now five daily papers published, and the approach of the sixth sheet will possibly make the thoughtful man sit up and ask, "What is it all about?"

BETTER EACH YEAR.—Last year's Christian Brothers' collection was the largest yet realized, the sum exceeding by over two hundred dollars all former collections. The good Brothers are doing great work for the youth of the city, and may to-morrow's sum be so large as to show the appreciation of all kinds and classes.

MUD IS THE NAME.—Owing to the recent wet weather parts of the streets and sidewalks which had been recently opened for the repair and laying of water pipes are in a sorry condition. In many places the ground has sunk several inches, with a surface of mud remaining to remind the stepping-over pedestrian that he must be careful of—his language.

SMALL FISH CARRIER.—It is said that one of the smallest vessels to leave here with a fish cargo to go across the "herring pond" is the Ophelia, which sailed yesterday for Oporto with two thousand quintals of fish. The Ophelia is 58 tons nett.

Our Lavender Water is something really choice. Made from the finest English (Nutcham) Oil of Lavender, from that part of England long famous for producing the best Lavender in the world, the product is carefully made and well matured until the peculiar pervading odor is brought out to its fullest and sweetest degree. Among many good and charming toilet perfumes of more modern vogue, there is none that gives quite that suggestion of distinction which goes with the use of good Lavender water, and those who have used this product put up by us in our own name testify to its pleasant odor and extraordinary lasting properties. Price 65c. a bottle.

Admiralty Accuse Buns of Murder.

London, Nov. 25.—Not a life was saved when the British liner Rappahannock, from Halifax, bound for England, was sunk by the Germans in the Atlantic, the Admiralty fears. An official statement issued yesterday says that there is no longer any hope that any of the officers or crew were saved, unless they were taken aboard the submarine or another vessel.

Berlin has already announced the sinking of the liner. The official statement issued here points out that the German pledge not to sink merchant vessels without providing means of saving the lives of those aboard is evidently flagrantly broken in this case.

The following is the official statement:

"The Furness-Withy liner Rappahannock left Halifax for England on Oct. 17th. Nothing has been heard of her since. A Berlin official announcement of November 3 stated that the ship had been sunk.

"Unless any of the officers and crew, who numbered 37, were taken on board a submarine or transferred to another vessel—neither of which courses was followed, as far as known—there is no longer any hope for their safety. If the crew were forced to take to their boats, it is clear that it must have occurred so far from land or in such weather conditions that there is no probability of their reaching shore.

"The German pledge not to sink vessels without saving human lives has thus once more been disregarded, and another of their submarines has been guilty of constructive murder on the high seas."

MAN MEETS WITH ACCIDENT.

A machinist named Northcott met with a serious accident while working at a drilling machine at the munition works at 11 o'clock last night. It happened that his apron got caught in the drill and drew his body with great force towards the machine inflicting several cuts about the left shoulder. Several workers who were operating various machines nearby rushed to his assistance and picking him up did everything possible to relieve the pain until the arrival of Dr. Roberts who attended to Northcott's wounds and ordered him to be sent home. The victim is doing well to-day and within a few weeks will be back at the job again.

WAR BUDGET.

Desperately the Roumanians, probably aided by the Russians, are defending the southern and western approaches to Bucharest while the Teutonic advance continues to press more closely on Roumanian capital from the northwest. It is unofficially reported from London that Russian troops have arrived at Bucharest to aid the hard pressed Roumanian forces. Progress for advancing German-Austro-Hungary armies in Wallachia and South Bucharest is reported by Berlin, which says Roumanians continue to offer resistance. The Roumanians apparently are on or near the line of Argeshu, as Petrograd says the invaders have occupied two towns south of Bucharest and near that river. Field Marshal Von Mackensen, Berlin reports, has thrown an army across Niaslov low lands which would be approaching Argeshu in the direction of Bucharest. Advancing southward from Campulung Pitești region the Teutonic invaders have taken prisoners and cannons and much other equipment from the retiring Roumanians. In the fighting reported in the latest communique, Berlin says the Roumanians have lost more than 2,500 prisoners, and 21 cannon. The Russians continue aggressively their offensive against Austro-German lines from the Carpathians to southern Transylvania. Berlin states the Russian attacks, which are declared to have been along a front of 186 miles from Jablonitza to Kotelni Vasarbel, resulted only in small advances which is declared not to be commensurate with the cost in men and ammunition. Petrograd admits repulse southwest of Vakarka in the Carpathians, but records capture of ridge heights south of Kirikibaba. Fighting in Dubrudja has become more intense, and Bucharest announces violent attack along the whole front in that region. Berlin declares the attack against Bulgarian left wing in Dobrudja failed and that British tanks are being used by the attackers. In Galicia there has also been a re-awakening activity. Petrograd records that Austro-German attempt to take the offensive north of Tarnopol Zlochog railway has been repulsed. In Macedonia in France, and on Austro-Italian fronts there has been no important change in the situation. Artillery activity on the Somme front, northern France and Trentino and Carso region of Italian theatre is reported to be increasing. Both Berlin and Paris claim repulse of attacks northwest of Monastir in Serbia. Admiral Du Fournet, Commander of the Entente Fleet in the Mediterranean, reported to have landed troops at Piraeus, Port of Athens. French, British and Italian contingents are said to have been included in the landing party. Aside from the report that Greek troops are being sent toward Athens from north of Greece there are no indications as to what measures the Greek Government will take to comply with or oppose Admiral De-Fournet's demands for the turning over of Greece's arms and ammunition. An Associated Press despatch from London says that a strong impression is prevalent there that Great Britain will grant the request from Washington for consideration of refusal of safe conduct to Count Tarnowski. Von Tarnow was recently appointed Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States.

FIGHTING IN GREECE.

LONDON, To-day.
A despatch to the Daily Mail from Athens time 11.45 a.m. on Friday, says firing has taken place between the French sailors and Fenariots on the slopes of Acropolis. Passengers from Piraeus say when passing through the railroad station they witnessed fighting. This fighting, according to other information, was between French sailors and Greek troops. Panic has begun in Athens and crowds are rushing through the streets and shops are being closed. Two French cruisers have entered Piraeon Harbor.

CENTRAL POWERS TO HELP GREECE.

LONDON, To-day.
An Amsterdam despatch to the Times says that it is reported in certain circles that the Central Powers intend to offer assistance to the King of Greece. The despatch says that it is suggested that the Greek refusal to surrender arms and ammunition would be followed by a declaration of war against the Allies.

GREECE WILL GIVE UP ARTILLERY.

ATHENS, To-day.
The King of Greece has agreed to give up the artillery as demanded by Admiral Du Fournet, and the Allies troops are withdrawing from Piraeus. On the intervention of Spanish and Dutch Ministers, the entire Cabinet and the Entente diplomats met at the French Legation at 8 o'clock last evening to discuss the possibility of an agreement; an armistice was finally arranged and firing ceased.

CANADIAN AND BRITISH PRISONERS SENTENCED BY HUNS.

OTTAWA, To-day.
A number of Canadians are included among British prisoners of war in Germany who have been sentenced by the Huns to twelve years' imprisonment; offence is not stated. The affair came to light through a notification to the Red Cross Society that food and comforts for prisoners could not be forwarded to those who were under conviction. The military department has not been advised of the names or any information regarding the case.

MARINES LANDED.

ATHENS, To-day.
Admiral Du Fournet landed some four hundred marines at an early hour and marched toward Athens, seizing Phopaphos Hill overlooking the city Briage.

ITALIAN FRONTIER CLOSED.

ROME, To-day.
The Italian frontier has been closed since Wednesday. Letters, newspapers and parcels have all been held up by the censor at Domedessola, Italy, and the courier service between Lomacarne, Switzerland and Domedessola has been suspended.

AMERICANS WANT ARMISTICE.

NEW YORK, To-day.
Resolutions urging President Wilson to do all in his power to arrange an armistice between warring powers of Europe before Christmas, were passed last night by the Central Federal Labor Union with 500,000 members in the Metropolitan district. Another resolution called upon all unions in the United States to take similar action.

True Bill Against James Bellman.

In responding to a summons issued to the Grand Jury yesterday, they assembled in the Court House this morning and listened to the evidence in the matter of the Crown vs. James Bellman, captain of the schooner "Lizette M. Stanley," who is charged with visiting the home of Catherine Ryan at Port Saunders on the night of Aug. 30th, 1916, and assaulting the said Catherine Ryan. Hon. M. P. Gibbs, K.C., appeared for the Crown; Mr. L. E. Emerson for the accused. On being asked by the Clerk of the Court if such was the case he pleaded not guilty. His Lordship the Chief Justice, who heard the evidence, ordered that the case be tried before a special jury on Friday next.

Hanged at St. John's P.O.

21-Year-Old Murderer Pays the Penalty—Feeling so Strong Against Him That There Were Fears of Lynching.

St. John's, P.Q., Nov. 24.—After a full confession of his guilt, Dollard Lepine, alias Jean, alias Paul Renaud, the 21-year-old murderer of Albert Wing, a St. Luc farmer, paid the penalty in the yard of the St. John's jail at 8 o'clock this morning. Outside the jail gates Lepine's aged mother, who had tried in vain to gain admittance all night, wept bitterly, standing alone among a crowd of at least 1,500.

The execution, which was performed by Arthur Ellis, who has officiated at so many, passed without accident and was carried out expeditiously. The body, after the inquest, was given to the boy's mother.

A large crowd gathered around the jail building, and was held back by a guard of 120 soldiers with fixed bayonets, in charge of a number of officers from the St. John's barracks.

Sandy McTavish Had His Revenge.

Hired German Street Band to Play "God Save the King" in Chicago Saloon from Which he had been Ejected.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Straits of "God Save the King," played by a German band in a German saloon, gave pleasure to Sandy McTavish, a Scotchman from Canada, if to no one else in the crowd. He hired the band in revenge for having previously been ejected from the saloon.

When McTavish first dropped into the saloon, which is on South-Clark street, some Germans were "toasting" Capt. Hans Rose, of the U.S.A. The Scotchman refused to drink the toast.

"My name's McTavish—Sandy McTavish—Wee Sandy, they call me, and I'll give ye a toast," he shouted.

"Here's to King George!"

It took five Germans and the porter to put Sandy out.

Two hours later he was back with the little German street band and led it into the saloon. The musicians played the British national anthem four times before the Germans recognized it. After that it was the street for Sandy and his band.

Prisoner of War in Germany, Writes Home.

Under date of October 23rd, Mrs. Barron, of Holytown, has received from Giessen, Germany, the accompanying letter from her husband, Private Peter Barron, of the First Nth. Regiment, who was taken prisoner by the Germans last summer in France, a few days before the "big drive". The letter reads:

"Dearest Wife,—Just a few lines, hoping to find you and the children quite well as I am. I was glad to receive a letter from you on the 19th of October, but I have not received parcel yet from home. Dear wife, I have written three or four letters and I hope you have received them by this time. I am glad to tell you I am getting parcels from London through the Canadian Contingent, so you need not worry as I am getting on all right. Do not send any money, as I do not need it. This is as I have to say this time. With fondest love to your and children. So good-bye, I will write again soon. I am, your loving husband, P. BARRON.

P.S.—Dear wife, will you please send on yours and the children's photographs, as I would like to see them very much.

[It will be noticed that Pte. Barron has not received any parcels from home, though his wife informs us that she has sent four parcels, valued at approximately $10. It is gratifying, however, to note that Pte. Barron has been receiving parcels from London.]

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

BREAD.

I find that in my article last week on Bread that at least one other baker besides Lynch's, had, to that time, kept up the weight of their loaves. This was the Anglo-American Bakery. It is better also to say that Mr. Lynch did not know that I was going to write about bread, or did he inspire the article. I have been careful to get his case and it is this: that as long as he had flour which was purchased at the low rate, he gave the public the benefit of it by neither altering weight nor price. As soon as he had to enter the market and buy high-priced flour, he had to fall in line with the other bakers who had reduced the weight of the loaf.

The bakers considered that it would be better to keep the price the same, and I am informed that though there is a law standardizing the weight of bread, it is about 40 years old, and is considered unworkable.

SLIDING.

I am glad to add my word to the timely article by the Editor of the Daily News about the harsh law, and the harsher penalty-threat of the regulation against sliding on the streets of the city. A great many people will often speak against the tearing down of an institution before some other is ready to take its place. Confining the sliding places to one in the extreme east and one in the extreme west and is not providing adequate facilities for this innocent pastime, which is enjoyed in almost every street now. The crowding together on Robinson's Hill of all the slides is going to prove far more dangerous to life than at present, and it will mean that smaller children will not be permitted to go there at all, as most parents cannot go sliding with their children. Children must play, and must play for the most part around their own doors. If their enjoyment of sliding a few yards is taken from them, what will be the next prohibition. And why is this prohibited and at the same time motorists are allowed to speed up hill and down and around corners and no one dares to say Boo, to them?

Before this law was put in force, there should have been much more consideration shown for the children. I can imagine that on some hills there is danger, but at the moment I cannot think of one accident caused by children sliding.

Unfortunately, accidents from other means of "travelling" are growing far too common. Regulations may be necessary but not too narrow ones.

THE MIGHT OF RIGHT.

If there is any one belief which is unconquerable and undying, it is the belief that somehow, somewhere, Right thinking, Right acting is going to spell the true success. We cannot, unfortunately, see much in the world to warrant this belief. We have glimpses of it now and again. But success as the world spells it, means the greatest accumulation of material possessions. It places not only a first burden (necessary as far it goes) upon the human race of having to work for food and clothing and shelter, but it makes it a first and last burden that takes most men all their time and all their lives to support. The world has been rating men according to their money and according to their desire for money. This has permeated all societies. There are few churches who preach with any earnestness to "take no thought for the morrow, what ye shall eat or what ye shall drink." "If God so clothe the grass of the field . . . shall He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?" What was meant was summed up in the phrase: Ye cannot serve God and Mammon. But I doubt not at all that most of us are serving Mammon. The system that forces a child into a workshop instead of a school means that there is a mammon-serving somewhere. No one is cautious enough to say that everything is satisfactory in the world; that there are not wrongs to right; that justice is supreme.

We have tried to solve the inequalities by what we call Charity. But in most cases, our Charity prolongs the disease and does not cure it. Help which does not help a man to help himself affords only temporary relief. Temporary relief is necessary, but it must be followed up by a very real interest, and it ought to be as much a duty to make men self-reliant, strong, home-loving, and happy as it is for a country to produce articles for commerce that are pure, well-made and worthy. But we have got accustomed to compromise with the good. Our daily life, our necessity to provide food and shelter, have forced us to wink at wrong-doing. Some men have been honest enough to say that they cannot conscientiously partake of the Sacrament and continue to go to their business and carry them on as they have in order to make them pay. Now I know that this cannot be altered in a day. I have always felt that reforms that come slowly come surely. Sudden revolutions are temporary in many cases. But—the world and the Colony need men who are "too conscientious for their own good." Where shall we find these who will place their own interests last?

We owe most of the liberties we enjoy to those who were called "rickers" and revolutionists in their day. These men and women were not all saints. "All have sinned," but that does not mean that we should therefore go to the bad altogether. Even the devil, perhaps, sometimes has his hopes. The strength of a man may not equal his desires, but that does not discount the value of his aspirations in themselves. Behind all the physical and the exercises of a church service, hidden perhaps from you and forgotten, alas, even by some clergymen, is the divine essence of God. It is there, and if you seek it, you will find it. So in this work-a-day world, hidden by the selfishness of many which breeds poverty, misery and disease, there is the germ of that possibility to create a happy people. The trouble is that we are afraid to test the truth that Right is Might, but just as soon as our educationists declare that the principal qualification of a scholar shall be a moral consciousness and a disregard of consequences if an action be Right, so will we come to realize in very truth the Might of Right.

AU REVOIR.

And with this "Thought," I come to the point where "Theobald" says "Good-Bye" to The Evening Telegram and its many readers, especially those who have followed his "Thoughts" during the past year or more.

I took this name because I saw one day that its meaning is "Bold for the People." Where I have felt it my duty, I have endeavoured to live up to the name and this privilege I hope to retain in the future as in the past.

In Milady's Boudoir.

CARING FOR THE EYES.

A woman is as old as her eyes. They are indisputable evidences of the years she has lived and the experiences she has passed through. The complexion may be managed and tinted to look like a baby's but alas for the utter sophistication in the eyes under the babyish, flower trimmed hat.

You should take two courses of treatment, one for the physical attributes of the eyes and another for their spiritual aspect. Kind thoughts, tolerance, high ideals, unselfish deeds, devotion to the beautiful in art, literature and music, and most of all, sympathy for every living thing; all these, if a constant habit of mind, will give the eye the beauty that charms, and draw young and old who come within their radius.

Now for the physical treatment. The eyes must be kept bright and lustrous for only so will they suggest youth. They must be kept from sinking, for sunken eyes suggest ill health and old age. Their lids must not be permitted to become red rimmed, nor may their lashes be allowed to thin out, as lashes will, after twenty five with most people.

If there is the slightest tendency toward swelling of the lids particularly of the skin under the eyes, consult a physician, for this condition is usually the outward symptom of more or less serious internal disarrangement. Hollows, or blue or purple shadows, beneath the eyes are also signs of inward trouble and should not be neglected.

A cloth wrung out in hot water in which bicarbonate of soda has been dissolved, and laid over the closed eyes for ten minutes, will remove the traces of even a hard crying spell. The arch of the brows also is most important to the beauty and expressiveness of the eyes. Cultivate the habit of keeping the brows quiet when talking, which only makes wrinkles in the forehead.

Fads and Fashions.

It is said there is a great season coming for lace.

Suit coats are frequently of fingertip length.

Many blouses are made to wear outside the skirt.

Hats are taking a slanting position on the head.

Belts are not fashionable unless they slant a trifle.

Skunk fur is often made up in crepe with fur ends.

Dresses are effectively trimmed with bead embroidery.

The most fashionable gowns are very simple in outline.

Tunics of colored tulle are worn over white satin skirts.

Tones of mole or tete de negre continue to be favorites.

Some of the newest collars fasten close around the throat.

Military braiding persists in a quiet way as a decoration.

A coat frock can be worn successfully almost anywhere.

Many afternoon princess frocks have the normal waistline.

You may have bouces on your skirt and still be in fashion.

Some of the new slippers have straps high above the ankle.

Long Russian effects continue to be favoured for evening dress.

Bronze green and brown are charming for afternoon dresses.

Fur-edged "muff pockets" are seen on Russian fashioned coats.

The classic or Mojan-age type of gown absolutely compels a long skirt.

WINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

Christmas in War Time

Christmas has ever been associated with the thought of peace, while our minds are filled during these critical days with ideas of war.

How to celebrate the Christmas anniversary at such a time as this is a serious problem: many feel that it is not a fitting time for festivities of any kind, excepting for children.

We know that it is not a time for the reckless expenditure of money, but rather for careful conservation of private as well as public resources.

For our soldiers at the front and in the hospitals, and for their needy families at home, it would be fitting to spend money generously.

But for our own purposes luxuries should certainly be avoided and expenses confined to necessary things.

Among these, life insurance policies should occupy a leading place, and at this time no gift could be more appropriate for a wife or other beneficiary than a life insurance policy.

The merit of a life insurance policy as a Christmas gift is that it diffuses its benefits throughout the whole year, protecting the household both night and day.

A Life, Limited Life, Endowment or Life Income Policy in The Mutual of Canada is without an equal as a Christmas gift in war time.

Mutual Life Policies, besides protecting the home, are good investments. The splendid profits earned by the Company go to the policyholders exclusively, so that a Mutual Policy "blesses him that gives and him that takes."

Fads and Fashions.

Many novel cravats are worn. Long overskirts are still with us. Russian blouse coats are still in favor. Blouses are of transparent material.

Belts are very important this season. High white shoes are very fashionable. All the pile fabrics are still in high favor. The fan grows more important every evening.

Tailored garments have full-length sleeves. There is a possibility that skirts will be longer. Voile blouses are trimmed with soutache braid.

If a Man should Write "Santa Claus" with the simple faith that his Children do, he would probably say something like this:--

Dear Old Chap,—For ages you and I have been filling the stockings of the children. You have attained unlimited fame which I don't envy a bit, but if it hadn't been for my hard earned dollars, they'd have attached your sled and reindeer for debt.

Friends are going to give me something this year, as usual, but tell them that I am not collecting curios.

I do not want a new collar for the dog, a box of flowers, a box of candy, a bottle of perfume, or some 5c. cigars; but there are things I do want, some of them I must have, others I should like to have, but wouldn't buy for myself; if somebody would only give them to me, it would be great! So will you kindly give this list your attention, old friend.

I should like some new Neckties. Nobody ever has enough Ties (40c. to $1.40), and some nice Shirts—every man likes to have plenty Shirts, 75c. to $3.80.

A House Coat, Smoking Jacket or Bathrobe would be a big improvement on the old coat I wear around the house, $7.80 to $12.00 each.

My Hat is a little behind the times ($1.40 to $2.20), and I never did have a Dressing Case, $2.80 to $4.20.

A Silk Umbrella ($2.10 and $3.00). I could then leave the old one down at the office in case I was caught there in a storm.

It is about time I had a new pair of Gloves (95c. to $4.00); Motor Gauntlets ($1.20 to $2.80); but unless some one gives them to me I shall probably have to go on wearing my soiled ones.

A good Smokers' Outfit, such as Bishop's keep, would be a delightful treat, $1.95, $4.00 and $5.30.

Many a night at home I would be more comfortable in a pair of Slippers. I like the leather kind best ($1.20 to $2.70).

I could be made very happy with a new pair of Gaiters ($2.70 and $3.15), and if any one wants to save me money as well as improve my appearance, I am needing a Raglan ($11.40 up) or Waterproof ($4.20 to $17.00).

Yours hopefully,

A MAN.

The Three Functions of the Liver

1. It manufactures the bile essential in the process of digestion.
2. The starch and sugars derived from the food are stored in the liver and sent to the tissues as needed.
3. It detects and destroys poisons.

Dire Results of Overeating

From the standpoint of health man's cardinal sin is overeating.

The digestive system can look after a certain amount of food, but when continually crowded the food mass is delayed in the alimentary canal and what is not digested ferments.

In other words, this food spoils or rots, and poisonous bacteria are given off.

It is the duty of the liver to destroy these poisons. It usually succeeds, but after a time it tires, increases in size from overwork, and finally fails.

What Failure of the Liver Means

The poisons then hurry through the liver and into other organs or tissues.

Then you have torpid liver, indigestion, headaches, bad breath, bilious spells and irregular action of the bowels.

This condition is described as auto-intoxication, or self-poisoning by food.

Cirrhosis of the liver follows. Complications set in. Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries, apoplexy are natural developments.

But these conditions do not come on you suddenly. You have months or years of warning.

How to Get the Liver Right

The thing to do is to keep the liver active and the bowels regular by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and you will then run no risk of such serious developments.

This medicine acts directly and specifically on the liver. By promptly awakening the sluggish action of this all-important organ a good flow of bile is ensured. This is poured into the intestines, where it acts as Nature's cathartic in keeping the bowels regular.

Prevent Host of Ills

Such a multitude of ills arise from sluggish action of the liver, kidneys and bowels that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are considered a household necessity wherever their merits are known.

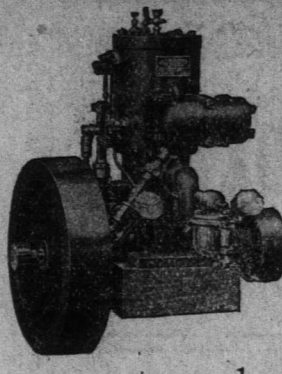

By all means regulate your diet to your needs.

Then remember that when your liver does get wrong and threatens to upset the whole digestive system Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will afford quick relief and prevent all serious complications.

One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

GEO. M. BARR, St. John's

King, God Bless Him,
THE HEREDITARY PRESIDENT OF THE BRITISH REPUBLIC.

By Horatio Bottomley (Editor of "John Bull").

The whole country will respond to this eloquent and timely appreciation of the splendid part which His Majesty the King is playing in the hour of his Empire's trial. Coming from the pen of the Tribune of the Man in the Street, Mr. Bottomley's glowing tribute may be taken as expressing the sentiments of the whole nation—and no writer is more fitted for the task. Indeed, the article may well become a classic on kingship.

"Gentlemen, the toast is 'His Majesty the King.' Do you know, my friends, I never hear those words at any public function without a certain quickening of the pulse? There was a time, as I think I have said before, when, as a very young man, I called myself a Republican, and liked to think that every crossing sweeper was a potential president of the British Republic. NOW, I don't. True, I still cherish the idea of a great and mighty commonwealth—a true republic of the empire; but I like the idea of having an HEREDITARY president. For one thing, it saves the trouble of bad feeling of a peridical election. But that is but one—and perhaps the smallest—of its advantages. By the way, I observe that that phrase—"Hereditary President of the British Republic"—like "Business Government," and one or two other terminological inventions of mine—is now being freely adopted in the press. I must think of some others!

Well, to-day I want to talk about the King—our King; that gentleman of high estate around whom all our love of country and of empire is focussed—the fountain of honour—the pivot of our power; who "rules" us only in the sense that he lets us rule ourselves—wherein lies his wisdom; who in his own home life symbolises the domestic genius of his people—wherein lies his hold upon their hearts; and who, ever silently, and without ostentation, applies an sacrosanct himself, day in and day out to the demands of his exalted office—wherein lies his true greatness. I am neither sycophant nor courtier, but I "honour the King." I believe the institution of kingship to be deeply embedded in the character of the British race. Indeed, it is a fundamental human instinct; the Throne, the Crown, the Scriptures and the Flag are the emblems which draw us to a common centre—to the great spring whence flow all the currents of our patriotism and our pride.

Of his Majesty, as an individual, I have little claim to speak; and, indeed, it savors almost of impertinence to belaud his personal claims upon the regard and gratitude of his people; and let me say, incidentally, that I am sure nothing would be more distasteful to him. But we live in strange and wonderful days—and in the clash of arms and the booming of guns, and the general turmoil of the times, we are apt to forget that behind it all is one silent, suffering, soul-wracked man, charged with the duty of holding firmly the sceptre of our island power. What strain that task involves is known best to those who are in close contact with the king. But we can all form a fairly accurate idea. Ignore, for a moment, his duties of state—daily conferences with ministers, perusal of dispatches, promulgation of orders in council, receptions of foreign representatives, and all the rest of it—and just glance at his other activities.

It is well that we should do so. Here are some of them: Periodical visits to the front and the fleet; almost daily visits to the wounded in hospital; entertainment of the convalescent; inspections of camps and huts; attending charity performances and memorial services; receiving and decorating war heroes, and every day sending special messages to all parts of the world. Then, too, what an example he has set in the way of practical help—£5,000 to the Prince of Wales' Fund, £5,000 to many gifts to the Red Cross, and £100,000 from his privy purse, which, believe me, is much lighter than the general public thinks, and is strained at times to keep pace with the demands upon it—despite the fact, well known to all of us, that the domestic life of the Royal Family is the essence of simplicity. And reflect, for a moment, on the manner of his great gift—"It is his Majesty's wish that this sum, which he gives in consequence of the war, should be applied in what ever manner is deemed best in the opinion of his Majesty's government." I wonder how the Kaiser would have announced such a donation!

Do not let us forget, too, that the king inherits the sporting instincts of his great father; and on that side of his nature I can speak with knowledge. I can see him at Epsom, the day King Edward—then Prince of Wales—won his first derby with Persimmon. How he cheered and waved his hat as the gallant horse, with stately stride, nostrils distended and eyes flashing, kept his noble head in front of that of St. Frusquin, in a struggle worthy of Marathon, till he fell past the post, a gallant winner of the classic race, the blue ribbon afford some guarantee for the peace of the world; and, indeed, until the mad ambition of the Kaiser broke the tradition, that principal had worked well for many years. We all know how, again and again, the powerful influence of both Queen Victoria and King Edward averted European rupture—but they were senior in years to William of Germany, who "broke not" the moment their restraining bands were removed. Still, apart altogether from any such consideration, the fact remains that an Hereditary President of a free Republic is the ideal form of government.

Just as in the spiritual life of a people they instinctively yearn for an altar or a shrine, so in the mundane affairs of the world we want an emblem, an embodiment of ourselves—whose power for good is in exact proportion to the dignity and, in the best sense, the aloofness of its environment. You get that "atmosphere" which surrounds the Throne, in no other place in the secular world. Only in the presence of the king do you discard do you surrender yourself; your ego—your Karma—flies to the magnet formed by the voluntary investment of His personality, on the part of the people, as the repository of the spirit of their national aims their traditions and their ideals. Thus, in "honoring the King" we honor ourselves. And once again you get a light from the old past in the injunction—"Fear God, and Honor the King." It is only when kings endeavor to impose that first injunction upon their subjects that they are doomed to disaster.

But our King has never been guilty of that mistake. He has played the role of a constitutional monarch with a fine sense of the great dignity and responsibility of its office, but always with a scrupulous regard for the rights and feeling of his loyal subjects. "The King can do no wrong" is a phrase which has a truer meaning with us than with any other nation. Thru his ministers he acts, and leaning always towards the good of his people and thinking only of the "Empire," the occupant of the throne is ever ready to give respectful attention to his advisers, but at the same time to exercise his great personal influence against violent changes by whatever party in the State they may be proposed. And so to-day we honor the King—honor for all for which he stands.

"The I have but the body of a poor weak woman," said Queen Elizabeth on a great occasion, "I have the heart of a King, and of a King of England, too." Not always have the sovereigns of Britain risen to the height of their great calling; but at this supreme moment in the nation's history, the throne richly merits the loyalty of every subject. Many circumstances have helped towards this happy consummation, but chiefly it is due to the personal qualities of a monarch who "belongs" to us, perhaps in a closer and more intimate sense than any previous occupant of his exalted station. When Queen Victoria lived there was, in early days, at any rate, a vague feeling that Teutonic influences were hovering around the Throne. The court to-day is ALL-British, and there is in the consciousness of our King no obstacle to the full play of his great influence as ruler of the destinies of an Imperial people.

There is, of course, irony in the fact that the son of "Edward the Peacemaker" should be destined to become the central figure in our Empire's greatest war—but who shall explain these things? It is his destiny and it is his ours; we stand or fall together, and it is his pride and comfort to know that the ties between the People and the Throne were never closer, never stronger, than they are to-day. Gentlemen, I give you "The King—God bless him."

Girls! Thicken and Beautify Your Hair And Stop Dandruff

Try this! Your hair gets wavy, glossy and abundant at once.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.
