He joined the fire brigade in 1829 and remained a member of it for 30 years. His father bought the southwest corner of Queen and Bay streets, where Bryth's hotel stands, and the family trade also embraced that of painting and glazing. Mr. Iredale says that he painted and glazed the old Upper Canada college, as well as the Alliance in Moss park, which is 76, but is somewhat deaf and weak-sighted. MILITARY Concert. A large and select audience assembled in the pavilion at the Gardens last evening to hear the excellent program provided by the Royal Grenadiers. The full band of the regiment was present, and under the direction of Mr. Tomlin rendered several selections in a manner which indicated the highest training. The second number, "Sons of ARIA from Il Trovatore" was played so effectively that the audience demanded its repetition. This young lady has developed a fine and powerful bow, and is gaining for herself a high reputation. Miss Morgan sang two solos, her second number, "Sella Condotta by Robandi," was a beautiful and well-sung piece. Mr. Ryan sang "Laddie and Sweet Vision," and these were particularly enjoyable to her full and melodious contralto voice. The song "Me was sung by Mr. Fraser, who also sang songs by Miss Morgan. Improving on Temperance Drinkers. One of the worst features of city drinking customs is that no one as yet has been able to manufacture a palatable and wholesome temperance drink. Nearly all the so-called temperance drinks sold are wily waxy gay concoctions. Latterly, however, the attempts to produce a nice, cooling ginger beer, something after the English article, have been fairly successful, and it appears that the desired result will be reached by some of the city makers.

A HALLELUJAH WEDDING.

UNION OF TWO SALVATIONISTS AT THE BARRACKS.

A Widow and Widower the Contracting Parties—A Crush of Spectators—Ten Cents Admission—The Ceremony. Fully twelve hundred people assembled in the salvation army barracks on Little Richmond street last evening to witness the marriage ceremony between two members of the army. All classes of people paid their ten cents at the door and clattered and fought for front seats. Ushers clad in the regulation army jacket moved rapidly among the people and kept the audience in especial good humor by shouts of "Hallelujah! don't get excited, it'll be your some day." Blushing maidens smiled and smirked while their escorts, at least those who had any, talked of pork and beans, love in a cottage and all that sort of domestic moonshine.

Precisely at 9 o'clock the bridegroom, a boxmaker from Mercer street named Henry Foot, together with the bride, a buxom looking woman of the "fair, fat and forty" species, accompanied by Miss Sarah Ann Leslie, as bridesmaid, stepped upon the platform amid the beating of drums and tambourines, the blowing of horns (not Gabriel's) and the shouting of both the male and female members of the army. Rev. David Gilbert, Methodist minister, was on hand and promptly began the service which was rendered by two souls happy, or otherwise as the case may be. It may be mentioned that this was the gallant bridegroom's third matrimonial venture, and the bride's second. Rev. Mr. Gilbert read the marriage service in an impressive tone of voice, after which he delivered a short lecture to the newly married pair, both of whom paid deep attention to the words that fell from his lips. During the reading of the service Capt. Macdonald would frequently call upon the army to "fire a volley," when such a shout would be completely stopped the proceedings for several minutes. The ceremony over, the bride and bridegroom were heartily congratulated by their friends, and took their departure among loud cheers and hallelujahs from those present.

Dr. Wilson of St. Mark's ward will be purchased in accordance with the recommendation of the sub-committee. After routine business the committee adjourned.

An Answer to Mr. Lovell. EDITOR WORLD: In reply to Mr. Robert Lovell's letter in your issue of this date, in which he makes a pretence to deny the statements made in my declaration, I have only to say that if he desires the public to rely upon what he says let him make his denial unequivocally by a similar declaration in the columns of the World. I regret exceedingly that the investigation could not be proceeded with at an earlier date, as I am fully prepared to substantiate the statements made in my declaration.

Piper presented it to the fire brigade, to be given to the members of the hall selling the most tickets for the Zoo this week, the results to be known at the evening performance on Saturday.

The Lacrosse Match on Saturday. There ought to be a big crowd at the Rosedale grounds on Saturday when the Toronto team will play the Royal Indian team of the Chaghwags. The record of the red men is a good one and we would not be surprised to see them win two, or perhaps three games in the match. They have already beaten the Montrealers this season, and they say they are going to do the same thing for the Toronto's.

Oh, the dust and the heat. The heat and the dust. The dust and the heat again. And the oil that I wear is a little newsway. To stand in the pouring rain. With my head and feet all bare. While the cold drops fell my hair; But alas! I'm a girl—so there. —Jaquette.

THE HOLLY TRIP SLIP. Pump brothers, pump, pump with care. Pump till you find out who is the bribe. An engine we must have, but will have it on the square—Canadian or Yankee, Holly or Huntair. Twice quite too thin entirely for the Holly man to dare. To tempt Toronto aldermen their honor to forego: So pump, brothers, pump; pump with care. Pump till you find the "approched" and the "approchate." —Jaquette.

BOOM OF THE INSECTS. Now, on their airy way, mosquito huns. And in the sleeper's ear incessant druns. Now on the kitchen floor, again black beetles crawl. Now is the hired girl incontinent to squall. Now is the siren when the cockroach flies. With swift winging aim right in the eyes. And the red ant with malice gaily creeps. Up the picnicer's pants leg as he softly sleeps. This is the time of year when horrid wapes frequent the sunny places of the coxses. And as for lucious raspberries you reach Apply their salt and—they make you "screech." Now, also, you will find the busy flies; Feasting alike on the cold meat and pies; Turning the syrup to a loushness mess. Making the busy housewife "oos," not bless. "Now is the very summer of their full content." And on all sorts of mischief are they bent: To vex mankind, their very lives they'll stake. And in a cup of tea, a bathing place will make. —George H. Canfield.

THE HOUSE THAT DAN BUILT.

BY B. R.

"Yes, it should be a cottage," said Dan Berkeley, laying down his rule, and beginning to chalk out a diagram on his carpenter's bench.

"And Dan Berkeley, looking his best, was not to be entered at. I assure you. It is not every day that one meets such a handsome fellow, or one so manly and noble."

"The subject was one of great anxiety to Dan. He spent a great deal of time planning and contriving how he could raise money enough to build a cottage like Ben Morrill's."

"Dan, I want you to build a house for me," said Uncle Nathan, "and I'll promise you to work at Uncle Nathan's cottage within a month from the day it is finished."

"That is none of your business," said Uncle Nathan, "I'll leave it to you to judge and taste. Make it just such a house as you like for yourself. And you are not to bother me about it. Take it entirely into your hands. Hire all the workmen you want, only do it done as soon as possible. Call on me whenever you want funds. I'll be glad to help you."

"Uncle Nathan, I do believe you are going to get married!" laughed the astonished nephew.

"Uncle Nathan's eyes twinkled as he answered: 'You build a pretty house, and I'll promise you to work at Uncle Nathan's cottage within a month from the day it is finished.'"

"That evening Dan told Ermina about the cottage which he was to build, and that he believed Uncle Nathan had matrimonial intentions toward her."

THE FEDERAL BANK OF CANADA.

Proceedings of the Tenth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders Held at the Banking House, in Toronto, on Tuesday, the 29th of June, 1884.

On motion, duly seconded, the chair was taken by the president, S. Nordheimer, Esq., when the General Manager read the following REPORT:

In submitting to the shareholders the result of the business for the past year, your directors regret that the period covered by the annexed statements has not proved so profitable as those of former years.

The net earnings for the year ending 31st May last, after deducting charges of management, paying interest on all interest-bearing accounts, reserving interest on all outstanding deposit receipts, reserving for exchange, and providing for bad and doubtful debts, amounted to $312,334.00; added to this balance carried forward from last year, $34,156.95, making a total of $346,490.95, applied as follows, viz:

Dividend No. 18, paid 1st December, 1883, 1st June, 1884, 187,510.50
Dividend No. 19, payable 1st June, 1884, 188,104.15
Added to rest account making that fund, 170,876.30
Balance of profits carried forward, 30,000.00

The average paid capital during the year was $2,892,585, the net percentage of profits on which was 10.73. The appropriations for bad and doubtful debts for the year just closed have largely exceeded those of previous years.

The had harvest of last year, with over-productions in manufactures, together with the natural reaction and depression in Manitoba, all pointed to the necessity of a general curtailment in business, and while for the time being this lessens considerably the earning power of the bank it places it in a position to take advantage of any revival in business which may reasonably be expected should the prospects of a bountiful harvest be realized.

The different officers of the bank, including head office, have received periodical careful inspections by officers appointed for that purpose, in addition to the close supervision of your directors, who have devoted much of their time to the important duties devolving upon them.

The various officers of the bank continue to perform their respective duties to the satisfaction of the board.

Catarrh—A New Treatment.

Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern science for catarrh. Out of 2000 patients treated during the past six months, fully ninety per cent have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less startling when it is remembered that not five per cent of the patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefited, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never result in a cure at all.

Marrying a homely girl is the highest form of charity.
