The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Library of Congress
Photoduplication Service

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol  $\rightarrow$  (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol  $\nabla$  (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Library of Congress
Photoduplication Service

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole  $\rightarrow$  signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole  $\nabla$  signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

MEMORIES of those seething torrents, pouring as they have poured through countless ages, are ever fresh and heightened by the impassioned terror of the roar of the cataracts. That roar continues in the ears, even as does the turmoil of cities. The one is the hum of humanity; the other is the eternal hum of Nature. In the one we feel foreboding pity; in the other we place our faith, knowing man is mighty, but knowing that Nature is mightier than man.

At the Brink.

No BROOK flows more peacefully. Only from below arises the ceaseless plunging of the waters. Emerald green and blue slightly tinge these Falls, breaking upon the lesser crags in its descent; the spray, gleaming in the rays of Sol, again breaking into the diamond dust of the mist. Afar off, the Horseshoe Falls, with their unalterable azure green, entice one onwards, lest the flow subside ere the sight is satiated.

from Prospect Park.

*R*ECEDING, only the gentle flow remains to thrill the ear, as if the enchanting voice of the sirens whispered. "Come back, come hither, come back!" Yonder are other sirens; heed not the recall.

The Bridge from Bath Island to Goat Island.

EVERYWHERE such falls as these command our obeisance to Dame Nature, who adorns great wonders with the beauty of majesty, and her lesser marvels with the beauty of simplicity. The lichen-covered rocks gleam beneath the crystal water, which dashes into foam o'er every jag and through every crevice.

BENEATH the bridge, the sere rocks, dripping with spray, the overhanging weeds, the glimpse of the pines, the bleak ledges o'er which the water flows,—these are the simple charms of a beauty undefiled by the touch of man.

Looking up the American Rapids.

*H*ERE the water, twisted and hurled hither and yon, scuds around Brig Island, a mere clump of dingy rocks and luxuriant pines and birches.

From Goat Island, North.

NEW charms to win the idolatry of mankind, are everywhere. But the spirit of man must be in sympathy with the spirit of the hour, awakening to the sweetness of Virtuous Beauty.

The Parting of Waters.

IT is more impressive than the sea, whose upheavals are terrible, whose calm is monotonous. It entrances the ear with its melodies amid the uproar, its erratic leaping, its harmonious sway from ledge to ledge.

THIS rock imperial guards the plunging waters at the left of the American Falls. The spray constantly shrouds it with a veil of sublimity such as only the Rock of Ages vies with. Past it, the seething torrent flees, like an army before the roused citadel of some feudal prince.

The Last Descent into the Cave of the Winds.

How the water plunges with a resounding knell!
-The spray idly dashes upon the jagged sides;
but, pass adown the path a few rods, and the might of a thousand tempests is upon you, with its foreboding promise of eternal torment. Only beneath the Falls is the majesty terrible.

The Pathway from the Cave of the Winds.

TURN about, and the tranquil river seems not to have been fed with the incessant flow. The returning path from the place of torment is not alone worn by the tread of feet. Above, the precipice somewhat overhangs the ledge. From it, the tears of many hidden springs boze out. Still the azure green lures us onward.

The Falls Over the Cave of the Winds from the Canadian Side.

THE true observer must pass and repass o'er the paths which never become too familiar: he must look, not once, but many times, and even as the last look is the clearest, the first vision is the judgment gauged with the imagination.

The Horseshoe Falls from Inspiration Point.

SEE the mist aspire to obliterate the azure green of the waters! Ah! but look upon it once, and that one vision will be the ideal which will never change. These Falls represent the sublimity of motion, even as Mount Washington is the symbol of rest.

Looking South from Dufferin Island.

FAR away the white mist arises, shifting from east to west, and from west to east again, yet ever present for one's eyes to linger upon as a mark of identity with his own nature.

NATURE seems to have strewn a careless garland before this honorable boulder, set aside on little Sister Island, by the Canadian Rapids, in their flight. The spray sprinkles the rock at times, when it seems bedecked with jewels.

The Canadian Rapids.

WHEN the sun illumes the ripples and the spray,
and the songs of the lesser falls are interpreted to the ear of man, then alone is he susceptible to the majesty of the scene.
