Resistance Stifens As Kemmel Height Lost; Enemy Is Held Fast

German Efforts to Follow Up Success West of Hill and South of Ypres Fail

French and British Gallantly Fighting Against Teuton Hordes—Ypres Salient May Be Abandoned But Tactical Advantage Is Costing Germans A Fearful Price—Better On Somme Front

The loss of Mount Kemmel has evidently failed to organize in any way the allied resistance in the Ypres section. The line, in fact, seems to have stiffened since this isolated height was taken by the Germans, and the enemy after a day of desperate struggle yesterday found himself held fast everywhere. Loore, west of Mount Kemmel and Voormezele, two miles south of Ypres, were the chief points under attack by the Germans in their vain effort to develop their success of the previous day. At each, although the fighting fluctuated during the day, the enemy failed to gain his objectives and today is no further advanced toward them than he was yesterday morning.

The French fought with great gallantry in the Loore sector, inflicting severe losses on the enemy in his four attacks, the last of which carried him into the village. Last evening the French counter-attacked vigorously and regained the place.

The British were no less stubborn in their defence of Voormezele, at which point they were obliged to hold fast in the face of the east and north around Ypres was not to be abandoned. Today found them still in possession of the village and holding fast in the wood on the edge southwest of the town. Several hundred prisoners were taken by the British in this fighting.

GIVES UP YPRES?

There seems a quite general disposition on the part of the military observers to forecast the eventual abandonment of the Ypres salient as the result of the fall of Mount Kemmel, but it has been pointed out by the British war office that this result will not necessarily follow. It is likewise observed, however, that should an evacuation of Ypres become necessary, the taking of Mount Kemmel has not destroyed the defensive value of the range of hills to the west, from which it stood out, and which have been referred to as the backbone of the Flanders position. Meanwhile the cost in men to the Germans in the progress that they have made without winning more than a tactical advantage has been enormous.

On the Somme battle front the situation has worked still more in favor of the Allies. The recapture of Villers-Bretonneux and its dominating high ground by the British has made the German ture of Hangard, to the south, extremely precarious, and they have already lost part of the village. London reports a further advancement of the Allied line last night in this sector. An attack by German tanks was broken up by the British fire. More than 900 prisoners were taken by the British in the fighting here.

London, April 27—Continuing their counter-attacks on the front east of Amiens the Allies have gained further advantages in the Hangard-Villers-Bretonneux sector.

The French have recaptured position s from Loocore to Lacytze, in Flanders west of Mount Kemmel.

The fighting on the Flanders front north of the Lys was very severe. The enemy advance was held at all points. Heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans.

The Germans made a heavy attack on the front south of Ypres. There was a long battle for Voormezele, two miles south of Ypres, which the British retained, taking hundreds of prisoners.

Kemmel Hill, a height which has been looked upon as the key to the southern side of the Ypres salient, and one of the most important strategic positions on the northern battlefield in France was captured by the Germans yesterday. Military experts now realize that the whole of the Ypres salient is in danger. (Continued on page 2, sixth column)

Every Man at Post on Land and Ship—German Papers Lecture Holland

The Hague, April 27—The commander-in-chief of the land and sea forces in Holland has provisionally stopped all leave of absence.

London, April 27—Referring to the tension between Holland and Germany, the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he understands that the Dutch government already has taken preliminary steps to bring into force certain military measures.

The Taegliche Rundschau, of Berlin, warns them against Holland becoming a second Belgium, that is to say, a place from which Great Britain may attack Germany. The possibility of such a development cannot, it says, be disregarded and warns the Dutch in their own interest to seek cover.

The clerical Germania says the German demands on Holland are intended to restore the balance of that country which they have shown itself "too conciliatory toward the Entente."

Small British Tanks Did Great Execution

With the British Army in France, April 26—(By the Associated Press)—The slaughter caused by the small British tanks among a concentration of the enemy near Sacy in Wednesday's fighting appears to have been even greater than was originally reported. A few of these little engines, which are much faster than the ordinary big tanks, made the assault so quickly on two or three battalions of the enemy's infantry which were forming for an attack that the Germans were unable to scatter before they were being fiercely deluged with machine gun bullets.

Not only that, but a large number of men were caught beneath the tanks and ground into the earth.

Prisoners estimate that at least two, and probably three, German companies were wiped out by a few minutes. The machines returned in such horrible condition from the shambles that they had to be washed down.

Canadians Give Hun No Rest Constant Harassing and Worrying Tactics; Our Men Dominate No Man's Land

Canadian Army Headquarters in the Field, April 26—(via London, by W. A. Willison, special correspondent of the Canadian Press)—Carrying out a deliberate policy of harassing and worrying the enemy, the Canadians, all along their front, are raiding the Boche lines persistently. Not a night passes without one, two or three raids, some of them of a minor nature, against hostile posts, others in strength, penetrating the enemy's front line and support areas.

Our domination of No Man's Land has never been more complete, nor have we conducted such constant operations of an aggressive character, with less cost to ourselves.

With raids, gas, bullets and shells, the enemy opposite the Canadians is enduring constant hostile activity which must confuse his movements, demoralize his men, and lower the general morale of his forces.

German Losses 500,000 To 800,000; People Gloomy

Despite the heavy fighting for more than a month the British casualties reported are only now beginning to approach the high figures of last year when the British were on the offensive on the western front. The increase recently has been on an average of fifty per cent each week over the week preceding. Last week the aggregate was 12,968, and the week previous 8,129.

GERMANS PLAN A FIGHT IN TRIPOLI

Washington, April 27—German submarines have been landing guns, food and munitions on the coast of Tripoli, according to an official despatch from France. The despatches quote General Nivelle, formerly commander-in-chief of the French army, and now commanding the North African troops, as saying that the situation in the section open to German-Turkish attack on the Tripoli coast is well consolidated against attack from the allied tribes, who have been co-operating with the Germans and Turks.

CAPTAIN AND ALL DECK OFFICERS LOST WITH SHIP

New York, April 27—Captain J. F. Butterfield and all the deck officers of the American steamship Florence H. are now believed to have lost their lives when that ship was destroyed by an explosion on April 17, while off the French coast. A list of survivors received here does not contain their names. Only two of the engine room officers escaped uninjured, the others being reported as badly burned.

Of the men in the civilian crew, twenty-nine are dead or missing, twelve are in hospitals badly burned, two are slightly burned and only thirteen escaped uninjured.

The German minister to The Netherlands is still at The Hague.

Crisis Most Serious Yet

London Papers Call For More Men

Situation Changed Seriously

Discuss What Possession of Channel Ports by Enemy Would Mean—Loss of Mount Kemmel May Mean the Withdrawal of Ypres Line

London, April 27—Commenting on the Flanders battle in serious tone, the morning newspapers contend that the situation imposes upon Great Britain the necessity of putting forth the utmost effort, especially of furnishing more men to supply the wastage in the ceaseless fighting.

"We are faced with a crisis more perilous and momentous than any that has hitherto arisen, even in this appalling war," writes the military correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. "Possession of the channel ports by the enemy would make our task on land and sea infinitely more intricate and costly."

The Daily News in an editorial says the situation has changed seriously for the worse as a result of the fighting of the last two days and that the German drive toward the channel is a matter of serious concern. Nevertheless, it regards the situation as in no wise yet stabilized and says that if the Germans mean to break through they must do it quickly before American reinforcements finally turn the tide."

The effect of the capture of Mount Kemmel upon the situation at Ypres is canvassed anxiously by some papers. The Daily Chronicle thinks that Ypres could be held despite the loss of Mount Kemmel, but the tenure would be costly and precarious. It hopes that it will be found possible to dislodge the enemy at Villers-Bretonneux. Otherwise, it says, a further withdrawal of the Ypres line may be desirable. The Chronicle contends, however, that the present value of Ypres is only secondary.

The Daily Mail says it would be folly to minimize the success the enemy has achieved and if the loss of Kemmel should prove permanent, the difficulty in holding Ypres would be increased materially. It concludes by urging the necessity of maintaining the supply of men.

There were very heavy attacks against the British on the French left all day yesterday. The British immediately began pushing troops down toward the gap after the Germans had driven an entering wedge, and hard fighting ensued. A particularly sanguinary struggle was waged at Vierstraat, northeast of Wytshaeete, and here the continuing troops fought in and out of the hamlet for hours.

The British counter stroke which ousted the Germans from Villers-Bretonneux, south of the Somme, was a great success from the start. The town had been cleared of the enemy by yesterday afternoon with the exception of "pockets" of infantry, one near the railway station and the other near the neighboring monument of the war of 1870.

Large numbers of the enemy were taken in the streets and many were taken prisoners. By Thursday morning those who had been in hiding were crawling out and surrendering freely.

Among the prisoners captured were several young officers, who gave their opinion of things in general with refreshing candor. They were chagrined at the fiasco which the Germans had made of the Villers-Bretonneux attack. Some had unkind things to say of the higher command.

A British officer in talking with one of the young German lieutenants asked the latter to explain why the German submarines had sunk only one American transport.

"That is what we would like to know," the youngster replied.

When questioned as to what he thought the reason for all the world being against the Germans, he gave the same reply. The officer said the Germans had been wondering about these very problems and others of similar nature for some time. The captured officers appeared to be clean cut fellows of good types.

Montreal, April 27—The Gazette publishes the following despatch from Ottawa: It is understood that there may be a new form of taxation announced in the budget speech to be delivered by Hon. A. K. McLean, acting minister of finance, here on next Tuesday.

The proposal is to impose a tax of one per cent on all Canadian commercial transactions, both domestic and export transactions, on the transactions of producers of raw materials, to the transactions of manufacturers, of jobbers and of retailers where purchases amount to $1 or more. In the case of the retail tax it will be paid by stamps affixed to receipts, as stamps are now attached to packages of proprietary drugs.

The adoption of this taxation scheme, it is said, depends upon a decision reached at a conference between the premier and the finance minister at New York.

TAKE LABOR MEN INTO CONFIDENCE, SAYS GOMPERS

Speech at Dinner Tendered Him Last Evening by Cabinet in Chateau Laurier

Ottawa, April 27—Appealing for greater co-operation between the government and the labor party of Canada, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a lengthy speech at a dinner tendered to him by the cabinet in the Chateau Laurier last night, urged that the labor men of this country be taken more and more into consideration and consulted with regard to the policies which it was proposed to adopt. He asked that the men be placed upon their honor and there was not a shadow of a doubt they would do all in their power to assist the government in its undertakings.

J. C. Watters, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, spoke of the cordial relations which now existed between the government and the labor party, stating that it was not long ago that conferences between the two would not have been thought of, but the great humanizing influence of the war had had its effect.

Hon. N. W. Rowell presided and, in addition to the members of the cabinet, a large number of labor officials were present.

AFTER THREE YEARS.

Three years ago yesterday the people of St. John received the first definite word of the second battle of Ypres, in which the First Canadian Division immortalized themselves by holding the line for four days until they were relieved, and by their devotion barred the way to Calais.

Three years of war have passed, and the Germans are again driving toward the Channel ports. The Canadians have thus far been out of the heaviest of the fighting, but we know how they will bear themselves when the test comes.

Yesterday there marched through the city streets, as so many have marched before them, men who ere long will join their comrades at the front. This is our war. We must spare our men and provide food, and so order our own lives as to be worthy of our fighting sons.

Not only need higher skill but will need more of it in proportion to our population and in ever increasing ratio, in the future. The only way in which we can get this skill in grade and volume, adequate to the demands, is to give industrial education to our boys, beginning in the low grades and in making it as free as the air and the sunlight.

The present system in our public schools has been drafted with a view to turning out a product for the universities. From the first book to the high school, the course of instruction lays the foundation for the entrance to college, and a professional career.

My experience during the last year has proven that too many of our business men lose sight of the fact in this enlightened age that education, which is necessary to develop scientific methods, is the backbone of the country, and if we are to maintain the position among the industrial nations, which the war has given us, we will have to take more interest in educational matters and accept the responsibility of, and assist in, developing a more efficient educational system. This is a national duty.

Rev. J. J. O'Donovan, whose death is announced today, was a priest greatly beloved by his people, and held in the highest regard by all who knew the man and his work. His death is a great loss to the congregation for whom he ministered for so many years, and his sincere piety, his never failing smile and kindly deeds will keep his memory green.

A significant proof of the changed relations between governments and the representatives of labor was given last night in Ottawa, when the cabinet tendered a banquet to the president of the American Federation of Labor and had also as guests a large number of Canadian representatives of labor. The war is bringing all classes of the community closer together.

Mr. Gomers' speech, the minister of justice in the absence of the prime minister, who is in New York, welcomed Mr. Gomers on behalf of the government. At the conclusion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the opposition, crossed the floor to extend a personal welcome.

Mr. Gomers went on to say, that in this hour of world suffering there must be unity of spirit among the people of the allied nations. He believed that the time would come when the English-speaking peoples of the world, allied with the other powers of the world, are going to spread this doctrine, even until it reaches the innermost recesses of Germany.

Mr. Gomers continued, "as I know now and am convinced, that the peace which we are to see is not to be the result of a mere armistice, but a peace which will be based on justice and equity, and which will be the result of a just and equitable settlement of the world's problems."

Canada's War Parliament. Ottawa, April 26—Samuel Gomers, president of the American Federation of Labor, addressed the senate and commons this afternoon in a speech which was at once an inspiration and a challenge.

Frederick, N. B., April 26—The second session of the seventh legislative assembly of New Brunswick is at an end. The house prorogued this evening and many of the members were able to catch trains tonight to take them to their homes.

The session has been an eminently satisfactory one to the supporters of the Government. The administration has fully justified its pre-election promises by presenting accounts and reports for the first year in office showing that the affairs of the province had been administered in an efficient and businesslike manner.

The last day was a busy one and a great number of bills were put through the committee stage and passed. Among these were the bills providing for the new assessment system for St. John, and that authorizing a commission to investigate the affairs of the New Brunswick Power Company.

When the house reassembled at 7.15 in the evening for the last sitting, the report of the public accounts committee was presented by Fred. Magers. The committee reported that unsupported information regarding improper expenditures on permanent road work had been received and the minister of public works had promised a searching and prompt investigation.

At the close of a somewhat lengthy and strenuous session it affords me much pleasure to express my appreciation of the careful consideration which you have given to the various matters which I have from time to time submitted to you, as well as to other important legislation which has engaged your attention.

Not Absolutely Proven. The freshman class in trigonometry reciting. "And have you proved this proposition?" asked the "math prof."

A Puzzling Problem. Willis—What are you doing with all those charts and time-tables? Gillis—Those charts are lists of the various meals, whistles and butterless days in the various states. I'm trying to figure out a trip whereby I can get a ham sandwich a month.—Life.

New Man—I found this five-dollar bill upon your desk, sir. Employer—I'm glad you are honest. I put it there on purpose to test you. New Man—That's what I thought, sir.—Bystander.

This New Hosiery Fits Perfectly

Mercury Hosiery is fashioned differently from others. The ankles are narrowed and fit without a wrinkle. The toes and heels are perfectly turned. The calves are full fashioned. The tops are widened, therefore more comfortable than any others. It is seamless from toe to top.

While it is only a little more than a year since we started knitting this new Mercury Fashioned Seamless Hosiery it has achieved a wonderful success. Women who have worn one pair invariably purchase more Mercury Hosiery. Such sightly, shapely hosiery has not hitherto been obtainable even in the finest imported lines now off the Canadian market on account of war conditions.

DRILLING FOR GAS

Interviewing M. Lodge in regard to gas prospects, the Moncton Times was informed that the New Brunswick Gas & Oilfields, Ltd., have now started on their season's drilling programme. They will have on the field three drilling crews. It is their purpose to develop further the present known gas area and also to test new districts for further extensions of the gas field.

Lemon Juice Softens and Whitens Rough, Red Hands

Women can make a quarter pint of wonderful lemon beauty cream for few cents. Nothing so good!

To soften, smoothen, and whiten the face, neck, arms, and particularly the hands when chafed, red or rough there is nothing better than lemon juice, but pure lemon juice is too highly acid and often irritating. A splendid lotion is prepared in a moment by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Be sure to strain the lemon juice through a cloth so no pulp gets into the bottle.

House-cleaning and moving naturally interrupts the household system of regularity.

A linoleum on the floor is only half ready for use

Because their porous bodies linoleums and composition floorings should be polished as unfinished board floors, and should be given a fairly heavy coat of Old English Wax. The hard surface gained in this way keeps the dirt from adhering, and it can be easily swept up. Also prevents cracking by keeping water out of the pores. When necessary to clean linoleums, always use Old English Brightener—it keeps the linoleum soft and pliable and protects the surface. Finish your linoleum this way today.

R., has joined the siege battery of the war in popularity and good fellowship of the staff presented to him a very handsome wrist watch on Friday evening. NOT TOOLS BUT DYNAMITE

Valley Railway Sub-Contractor Charged in Police Court—Military Service Policeman in Trouble

In the police court this morning Tony Marshall, sub-contractor on the Valley Railway, was charged with having more than ten pounds of dynamite in the private residence of Mrs. Creamer, 79 Bridge street, last night, without her knowledge. He was declared liable to a heavy fine and was sent inside. According to the evidence, Marshall brought the explosives for railway work, took them to his home on the West Side and put them in a valise. This he purposed to take to the station and put aboard an ordinary freight. Being called suddenly to the city, he went to Mrs. Creamer's house and left the valise there, leaving his name, but saying that there were carpenter's tools in the valise. Being suspicious, Mrs. Creamer looked into and on the advice of friends sent for the police. Detectives Briggs and Duncan went over and arrested Marshall. One man was remanded on drunkenness charge and three men reported for breaking traffic regulations were fined $50 each, all fines being allowed to stand.

A military service policeman was charged with being drunk and using firearms in Union street last night. He was allowed to go on $400 recognisance until next Friday. The prisoner was formerly a member of the Fighting 28th. He pleaded guilty to all charges, including that of assaulting a negro in Union street. Magistrate Ritchie in summing up the case said, "The trouble is not that the man here was a negro, not that the defendant was a Dominion police officer; not that he had a revolver; but that he was drunk. It's only one more trouble that he had. If we were not for rum we'd have precious little work here."

THREE ST. JOHN MEN AMONG THEM

Welcome Given Today to Soldier Home From The War

Returned soldiers who arrived in the city last evening from Halifax were tendered a formal reception at the discharge depot this morning by the returning soldiers' reception committee. His Worship Mayor Hayes on behalf of the people of St. John and New Brunswick welcomed the soldier boys back to their native land. Included in the party were three St. John men, Privates W. Levine, J. Booth and John Bosset.

Private Bosset was a member of the original 28th battalion and on the same ground on which the terrific battle is now being fought. Private Bosset got his first wound. He was wounded twice, once at Kemmel and the second time at Courtrai.

Private Levine of Lombard street crossed overseas with the 140th battalion and was transferred into the 28th. He was wounded twice, once at Hill 70 and a second time at Vimy Ridge.

Private Booth of 227 Wentworth street was a member of the first railway construction battalion. He was wounded by shrapnel in both ankles at Vimy Ridge. He was in France for fourteen months. The ladies of the committee presented to the boys bags containing candy and cigarettes.

GOOD WORDS FOR FERNHILL

Last Post Society, Montreal, Commends Action Relative to Burial of Soldiers Here

A copy of the annual report of Fernhill Cemetery was recently sent by superintendent to The Last Post Society in Montreal, an organization which looks after the proper care and burial of discharged soldiers, and at their annual meeting the following resolution, proposed by Col. J. J. Creelman, D. S. O., was carried unanimously:

"Whereas the 'Last Post' Imperial Naval and Military Contingency Fund, in annual sessions, has assumed the duty of the directors of the Fernhill Cemetery Company of St. John, New Brunswick, have donated a conspicuous 'hall of honor' for the interment, free of any charge for burial, of any officer, or non-commissioned officer or man who has served the empire either at home or abroad;

"And whereas this beautiful burial plot has upon it two field pieces, and a flag staff from which the Union Jack flies on Sundays and other occasions;

"And whereas the 'Last Post' Imperial Naval and Military Contingency Fund has for the last nine years been carrying on a work which they have persistently urged the provincial and federal governments to assume as a national obligation.

"And whereas there is reason to suppose the federal government are at present giving consideration to the matter of assuming the responsibility of according a military or semi-military funeral, when possible to make such an arrangement, in recognized naval and military plots, to any ex-navy or ex-army man who has served with the forces of the empire in the present great war, or in her previous wars, or who has been honorably discharged.

"Be it resolved that the 'Last Post' Naval and Military Contingency Fund desire to convey to the directors of the Fernhill Cemetery Company their sincere appreciation of the sentiment and public spirit which has prompted them to take this action; and be it

Further resolved that the federal government be strongly urged to consult with those who for years past have undertaken from a sense of patriotism a duty which it is daily becoming more obligatory for the government to assume, before taking any definite action in the matter.

HARD NAVIGATION.
The ferry Governor Carleton again got into difficulties with the swirl of spring tides in the harbor and on her 8.50 trip to the city this morning was slowed sideways, and found herself unable to enter the slip. She went ahead several hundred yards, but so strong was the current that she again came to the slip out of control. It was more than half an hour before she finally managed to make her wharf.

A HARD TASK TO WIN BACK KEMMEL

Germanes There in Strength With Large Numbers of Heavily Armed Men—Callant British Dash

With the British Army in France, April 26—(By the Associated Press)—The allied armies today were taking the initiative on both the northern and southern ends of the battle front. This morning the British and French troops, acting in conjunction, began counter operations in the region of Mount Kemmel and the neighboring territory which the Germans captured in yesterday's sanguinary struggle. The aggressors at the time of the writing of this despatch have made some progress, but they were battling in the face of great odds and heavy fighting was continuing with the enemy holding the advantageous high ground in strength. South of the Somme the allied forces launched a combined drive against the German positions between Hangard and the southern outskirts of Villers-Bretonneux. The latest reports indicated some progress and the situation was nebulous. The main interest from the military point of view today centred in the northern contest, where the Germans have gain control of the chain of hills, of which Kemmel is one, and thereby threaten the allied positions to the north. At five o'clock it became apparent that the allied counter-attack began at an early hour this morning. While the French infantry drove forward against Kemmel from the west, their British comrades began operations on their left. In the first rush the sturdy British Tommies forced their way forward in the face of a heavy fire and got into Kemmel village. It was a striking exhibition of bravery that took the men in khaki across the open ground that was being swept with machine gun fire. For two hours they held the village while Germans from the neighboring hill poured bullets into the place from rapid fire. At five o'clock it became apparent that it would be useless sacrifice of life to remain longer and the British were withdrawn to safer ground, from which the assault continued. The French were reported to have

SHIFT OF WIND EVEN WORSE FOR BRITISH AT OSTEND THAN IN THE RAID ON ZEEBRUGGE

London, April 26—(via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—In a continuation of the admiralty official report on the raid on the Flanders coast, the following reference is made to the operations at Ostend: "The wind that blew back the smokescreen at Zeebrugge served us even worse at Ostend, where nothing else prevented the success of the operation being disrupted by Commodore Lykes. The coastal motor boats had made a smoke cloud which effectively hid our approach from the enemy. The Sirius and Brilliant were already past the stream bank buoy when the wind changed, revealing our arrangements to the enemy, who extinguished the smokescreen with gun fire. The Sirius was already sinking when a length two ships, having failed to find the entrance, grounded and were forced to sink themselves at a point about 400 yards east of the piers. Their crews were taken off by motor launches under Lieutenants Hoare and Bourke. Motor launches were here under the command of Commander Hamilton Benn, R. N. V. R., while those at Zeebrugge were commanded by Captain Collins, the vice-admiral's flag captain. All other coastal motor boats were commanded by Lieut. Wellman, D. S. O., R. N. The torpedo boat destroyers were also commanded by Captain Tookson. The difficulty of the operation can be judged from the fact that from Zeebrugge to Ostend the enemy's batteries number no fewer than 120 heavy guns, which can concentrate on retiring ships in daylight up to a distance of about sixteen miles.

TO GO OVERSEAS.

Halifax Herald: Dr. W. Stuart Logie, one of the rising and best known physicians of the New Brunswick north shore and who rendered valuable service in Halifax immediately following the explosion in attending to the injured, has received an appointment overseas in connection with the Army Medical Corps and is expected in Halifax in the very near future on his way across.

A FINE EXAMPLE

Sussex has a town improvement association. Its president, F. W. Wallace, says in the Record: "Our aim is in every way to assist the mayor and council board to make our town bright and clean, for our own citizens as well as to those who pass through or visit us; and to show the world that we in Sussex are alive to good citizenship. Knowing as we do the great demands that this war in which our beloved empire is engaged in has made on all, we do not propose to trespass upon the time or ask money of our citizens. We will try to hold what we have and keep our little park in order, plant a few trees and make some rough and unsightly places smooth, cut down some more unsightly willow trees and plant a few maples and elms to take their place, and if we do not banish the burdocks completely, to keep them well in check. We will ask every citizen in town to aid us this year to do something about their own properties to make Sussex even more worthy to live in."

NEWS OF OUR SOLDIERS

Mrs. J. H. Hannington, Scotch Settlement, Moncton, has been advised that her son, Sergeant Walter Hannington, has been wounded in the left leg. Mr. and Mrs. William Watters, 82 Visart street, have been advised that their son, Private James Woodford Watters, Medical Service, has been dangerously wounded. Prior to going overseas he was employed with W. H. Thorne & Company, Ltd. George Stewart, Brussels street, was advised yesterday that his brother, David Stewart, has been shot through the thigh. He went overseas with Major Magee's battery.

"SUBDUED" BATHING SUITS.

It is said among bathing suit manufacturers in New York that the tendency of the buying for the last month or so has been toward the darker and more subdued shades. It is also reported that the more simplified effects are just now occupying the centre of the stage. Satin and taffeta seem to be the leading materials for the fabric suits, but these are said not to be now as popular as the knitted suits. Even where fabric tunics are wanted, they are usually preferred with wool jersey tights to be worn underneath.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Montreal, April 26. To the Editor of the Times-Star: Sir—I have been requested to state publicly my reasons for requesting our government to abolish capital punishment in Canada and in reply would say that the death penalty is in flagrant defiance of the Word of God as contained in both the Old and New Testaments, a relic of barbarism and a relic of slavery and a relic of a power which customs cannot justify. The commandment "Thou shalt not kill" applies equally to the state as to the individual, that imperative command issued amid the thunders of Sinai leaves no room for debate or doubt; it is succinct, positive, direct, and came direct from the Father. The command is still there, old but ever new, immutable, inalienable, inalienable, and leaves no space for quibbling or dissembling. "Thou shalt not kill." In every country and state where capital punishment has been abolished and putting them to some useful work and placing their earnings at the disposal of those whom he has deprived of a bread winner. This would be more humane than sending their unsave souls into Eternity.

There is a superstition, older than history, that if you do something as bad to your enemy as he has done to you, you have squared things up, have balanced the account and are ready to appear before the Throne of Justice with clean hands. In primitive times the doctrine of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth was recognized as sound religion, and was taught from the pulpit on alternate Sabbaths with the statement "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord." Theoretically we still believe in the latter statement. We think that he who taketh the life of another will suffer in the next world and we are impatient with the Lord's slowness; we desire to expedite matters, to help Him out, by sending the offender to his doom as quickly as can decently be done. So we hang him. This would be highly laudable could we exhibit the badge of a Divine Deputy Sheriff, but lacking this it is mere meddling with the affairs of the Almighty and raises the question whether we are not collectively as criminal as the fellow whom we hang. And if we analyse our feelings we are likely to find underneath a distorted idea of ourselves as administrators of Eternal Justice, a large residuum of that very feeling of revenge which is without reason, the relic of savage impulse and often differing little from the motive of the murderer himself. Yours truly, ROBERT BICKERDIKE

People Ask For Rules

Why Not Adopt Food Board Regulations Asks Mrs. Drummond

President of Women's Food Economy Committee, Montreal.

"Keep your pledge cards in the window for as long as the war lasts. Don't take them down because you happen to be spring cleaning. They are the visible token of your good intentions and of your support of the Canada Food Board. More than that—they are your pledge of honor to save for the men at the front."

Mrs. Huntley Drummond has been the first lieutenant of food conservation in Montreal for months. As president of the Women's Food Economy Committee, she has championed the cause with no little ardor, and, along with Mrs. V. Y. Henderson, secretary of the committee, successfully conducted a pledge card campaign which swept in 25,000 signatures, representing something like 100,000 people, when all the occupants of the home were taken into consideration. As she confesses herself, all her thoughts and energies are turned towards the food question these days. She believes that the more publicity it gets the better, and it is a distinct disappointment to her to open a paper and find nothing in it on this all-important question.

"Of the food pledge campaign in Montreal she says: 'I feel that in spite of anything that has been said to the contrary the campaign here has been a very great factor in the saving of foodstuffs. There was little intelligent opposition.

and we found great willingness to cooperate. One of the foremost Montreal bakers declared that he could notice a tremendous difference in the ordering of bread after the cards had been signed. The people who filled them in should remember that they pledged themselves to follow the dictates of the food controller, and they are under moral obligation to observe all the regulations as they come out, no matter how far-reaching they may be in scope. 'Keep your pledge cards in the window for as long as the war lasts,' advises Mrs. Drummond. 'Don't take them down because you happen to be spring cleaning. They are the visible token of your good intentions and of your support of the food board. More than that—they are your pledge of honor to save for the men at the front.'

Mrs. Drummond believes that city people are apt to give the farmer more blame than he deserves. To her mind waste in the city is much more distressing than in the country because in the first instance it goes to the incinerator, while on the farm it always goes back to the pig or to some productive source. 'Of course, I am not holding a brief for waste of any kind when I say that,' she added. 'There is just as much need for the farmer to exercise care as the city dweller, but what I do contend is that he is unjustly belabored on all hands. 'All economy at this time helps; all economy is necessary. The more we save the more we have to give to the things that are going to help bring the end of the war nearer. It would be a poor thing if we were saving only for ourselves. There should be nothing selfish about our war-time saving. It is for the common good—and for the sake of the men overseas. To quote Shakespeare: 'Tis not a time for private stomachs.'

Mrs. Drummond confesses to wondering frequently why the people who are forever clamoring for rules to go by do not adopt the regulations issued from time to time by the food board, taking them as orders, whether they are intended for public eating houses or for private homes. 'If you have a cook—take her into your confidence,' she says. 'As soon as the hotel regulations came out I consulted with mine and we immediately adopted them as if we had been ordered to do so. Following the example set by Government House, we have absolutely no cream on our table now. Wheat, too, has been absolutely forewarned. All our sauces are made of potato flour. Meatless days I interpret to mean that fish, vegetables, nuts, peas and other substitutes are to be used. I don't even compromise on chicken, but use fish. We have no beef or bacon whatsoever. I do not wish to claim any particular virtue for doing without these things. It has been no real hardship whatsoever, and it is ridiculous to talk of 'sacrifices' in this connection. 'Have you noticed how hard it is to make people think on this food question?' enquired Mrs. Drummond. 'If they could see actual starvation around them it would be different, but it is another matter when it comes to exercising a little imagination. They need to be led pretty much like children, because they hate to do their own thinking. It's such an important question now that every woman should give it constant thought, systematic thought. This would lead to results in the home. There would be less waste, more substitution.'

In this connection Mrs. Drummond thinks that public food demonstrations are the finest things in the world for educating all manner of women to their responsibility. She particularly commended the work of this kind done by members of the Housewives' League through the medium of the smaller churches in Montreal. Mrs. Drummond knows more about the conservation than the production end of the food question, but she is keenly interested in the 'farmerette' and, indeed, has her own 'patriotic acre,' in which potatoes and other vegetables are grown.

BABY SAVING AND GOVERNMENTS

"There is no young creature in the world so ignorantly and cruelly nurtured as the average infant."—Dr. King of the Karitana-Harris Hospital.

Infantile mortality in Prussia, 140 in 1,000.
Infantile mortality in England, 111 in 1,000.
Infantile mortality in New Zealand, 61 in 1,000.

The belief that baby saving is an imperative duty has not taken firm hold in any powerful nation. Isolated groups, here and there, over the world, have established model clinics and saved babies within that radius, but the nearest approach to a nation-wide campaign is that carried on in New Zealand.

The N. S. statistics prove that the same condition exists in Canada. The Women's Council which met recently in Ottawa specified the conservation of baby life as one of the important questions calling for early consideration.

England is already beginning to work seriously but through private initiative. One model clinic is already in existence and it has been decided to raise funds to provide 5,000 such clinics where mothers and babies may be helped. This campaign is in the hands of leading English women who are donating their most precious jewels which are to be sold and the money turned over to the "Children's Jewel Fund."

Every detail of the New Zealand movement is interesting, but the main points are that the scheme can be worked out in England or Canada as easily as in New Zealand and that it holds every community to its plain duty of saving the babies. The scheme is ideal in that it combines voluntary individual effort with government co-operation. For ten years this union has existed. Without government co-operation even the most self-sacrificing and enthusiastic committee would not be able to rise superior to a financial deficit.

Before the "Karitana" movement started New Zealand had careful registration of births and deaths, a national system of hospital and charitable aid and state registration of nurses. In the suburb of Danedin Dr. King's theories as to caring for babies were first worked out and the name of the cottage given to the system. Lord and Lady Plunket were thoroughly interested in the scheme and because of Lady Plunket's aid her name is given to one body of nurses and, frequently, to the system as well.

"Plunket nurses" are certified hospital nurses who supplement that training with from three to six months in the Karitana hospital. They then go to different parts of the Dominion where they work under the direction of some one of the twenty-four branches. Their services are free for rich and poor alike and their motto is: "Help the mothers and save the babies."

A second class called "Karitana nurses" are without previous training, but take a year of training at the hospital and then go out as nurses in private families. Since the war these nurses have assisted and often taken the places of the Plunket nurses. Many young women who have no idea of earning their living take this training as preparation for social service work.

During the first year the government support was £100 to each of four centres to be applied to the salaries of the nurses. The second year £500 was granted to the hospital for its up-keep. The grant is now permanent and each Plunket nurse receives 24s. on a £1 subsidy up to £104 an any branch employing her. The public health department inspects the finances of the branches and also issues some of its publications. A very important aid is the support given by the principal newspapers where a weekly column "Our Babies," supplies information as to infant welfare. In this way 200,000 persons are reached each week, many of them beyond the reach of the Plunket nurses.

FARMERS NEED ORGANIZATION

Also Vocational Training To Get the Best Results

Views of an Educator

State Superintendent of Maine Schools Urges Bureau of Corporations to Prevent Stock Watering; Middlemen Get Too Much; Good Schools and Good Roads Needed

One of those who addressed a meeting of farmers in Maine last week was Dr. Thomas, state superintendent of schools. Dr. Thomas spoke of his interest in vocational training and stated that he always visited mills and factories whenever opportunity presented itself that he might keep informed upon questions connected therewith.

In England and France compulsory education extends to the age of twenty. A bill is pending in congress relative to extending the age of compulsory education and he liked to study the problem.

In Maine there are said to be 24,000 people who can neither read or write. Iowa stood first in the union as a literate state, Maine was seventh on the list and he hoped Maine would reduce the percentage of illiterates before the next census.

He congratulated the grange of Maine upon the work it is doing, saying that in his home state, Kansas, is slow about grange work and gave an account of its gradual growth.

Dr. Thomas stated that he was born, bred and buttered on the farm. Farmers never organized. He thought the farmers should have welfare work, and he told of the crude efforts to set broken bones without the doctor in his early days—citing instances of his personal experience—in fact, he had had three legs broken during his youth.

His father placed the bones in position, whitened out the splints needed and bandaged the break. Fortunately he came out of the experiences all right, but others had not been so fortunate.

Takes the Other Man's Price. "The farmer," said Dr. Thomas, "is the only man who when he sells takes the other man's price, and when he buys pays the other man's price." The speaker believed in just compensation for every worker. He cited milk as an illustration believing that at present cost of keeping a cow not enough was received for it.

The grange had done much for the social life of the farmer—and he spoke highly of its work. There was a necessity for reorganization. Other trades had had their working hours shortened.

How many farmers have had their days shortened? he asked. The first alarm went off at 4 o'clock. The second alarm was of a different nature and was quickly heeded.

The farmer takes all the chances. If the United States holds supremacy as a great world power it must make the most of its farm production. Food production has been decreasing. Farmers are going off the farms to work in factories. Among the things that hinder the farmer are the drudgery and scarcity of labor. The next generation of farmers will meet four factors which will contribute to successful farm production: 1, toil; 2, recreation; 3, education; 4, control of markets.

The farmer should be highly educated technically and Dr. Thomas recommended moving picture films for showing all kinds of industrial progress.

Good schools, good roads are a necessity, and of our 24,000 miles of public highway every mile should, he thought, be made good as rapidly as possible.

He had in his life grown corn to sell at 14 cents a bushel and he wished he had some of it now to aid the young people grow their pigs.

The law of supply and demand has been overturned in late years because of people holding up the products to create an artificial market.

Dr. Thomas believed thoroughly in the United States but he could see some faults—for instance, he believed that it ought to be impossible for great corporations to water stock and then get 40 per cent dividend upon it. Neither should great corporations control the price of pork and beef. The speaker believes that the time will come when there will be a bureau of corporations so it will be known what corporations are doing.

Dr. Thomas cited instances of undue profits and declared that the farm must be made safe for the farmer. Farm products cost last year $6,000,000,000 and sold for $18,000,000,000.

The speaker stated that there is a bill pending before congress granting an appropriation of $100,000,000 for educational work. Maine's share would be $700, 000 and much of it would be used to benefit the rural schools.

Dr. Thomas was interested in the up-building of rural life. He would have out of door life as enjoyable as indoor life.

Maine used last year 2,311,000 bushels of wheat and raised 184,000 bushels, showing that wheat could be grown in the state. She raised 850,000 pounds of wool when she might easily have raised 10,000,000 pounds. She raised 7,000,000 bushels of apples and yet in some parts of the state where he had been he could only find western fruit. Maine could raise a million and a half tons of hay.

Dr. Thomas stated that the war is on and touched upon conditions confronting American troops, foodstuffs and war munitions must be transported across the United States, and the ocean to Europe. The woman who bought a thrift stamp instead of a hat, the man who bought a Liberty bond instead of new clothes would help win the war.

William Kerr of Hardwick passed away on April 20, aged forty-eight years. Much sympathy is felt for his aged father, who, in the death of his son, has seen the last of his family pass away.

BRITISH WOMEN ARE DEMANDING RIGHTS

London, April 26.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—British women are demanding greater consideration from the courts. The council of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Society has adopted a resolution protesting against the attitude of the bench and prosecuting counsels in recent cases in which soldiers guilty of murder or brutal attacks upon their wives, have been discharged or condemned to merely nominal punishment on the grounds of allegations of the immoral conduct of their victims.

The council denounced "the assumptions involved that a married woman is a chattel without rights to the full protection of the law, and that violence and brutality of a husband towards his wife may be condoned on such grounds."

A resolution also was adopted pledging

High Power from Low-grade Gas

To-day's Chalmers has a remarkable engine. It is a great engine because it has conquered low-grade gasoline.

Many other fine engines are falling off in performance because of poor gasoline. The great Chalmers engine thrives on it.

Chalmers owners get such spirited performance as used to be obtainable only from good gasoline—and only in summer weather. The Chalmers is powerful, alert, flexible. On cold days, it gets started quickly. There is no waiting to "warm up." It uses any grade of gasoline and turns it into high power.

The reason for this is clear.

In the Chalmers engine, gasoline of any grade is vaporized to the last drop. It goes into the cylinders hot and rare, just right for perfect combustion. None is trapped and cooled on the way. So, raw gasoline is not carried to the cylinders.

For, the great Chalmers has two features. One, the "hot spot," breaks up the gasoline into the finest vapor. The other, the "ramhorn" manifold, carries the vapor directly to the cylinders. Not a short bend, corner or crevice in this manifold. No place for gas to cool. No "condenser" for raw gasoline.

You can see these features and understand them.

Come down, by all means, and let us show and prove this great engine. Drive the new Chalmers yourself.

If you are looking for high-grade performance in an economical, business-like car, you will be delighted with today's Chalmers. If you are a critic of motor performance take a turn at the wheel and let the great Chalmers engine tell its own story. Anytime.

Basic Facts About Belting

AND PARTICULARLY

Dunlop "Gibraltar RedSpecial" Frictioned-Surface Transmission Belting

A Worthy Product

Years of careful study of the high-power belt original Red Face Rubber Belting of Canada—a problem have enabled Dunlop Laboratory experts product worthy of the Dunlop Factors and of the quarter-century record of success back of them.

"Gibraltar RedSpecial" Virtues Are Real

Dunlop "Gibraltar RedSpecial" Belting is to-day widely used in a multitude of ways in the many varied industries in this country. It owes its success, not to any illogical deductions or fantastic analyses, but to the simplest causes—causes so simple that they are now, always have been, and always will be, in our opinion, the bedrock of success in belt-making—Power, Speed, Service—in actual use as well as in the test-room.

Permanent Elasticity Means "Life" in Belting

In producing this new, this original, this master, red belt, our object has been to have the friction coefficient of rubber between the plies such as will retain its life indefinitely, and to have a quality of rubber with long "fingers," and not a quality of rubber the elasticity of which has been sacrificed to obtain the so-called high-pulling test.

That "Friction Pull"

When you are informed that such-and-such a belt has a "friction-pull" of abnormal poundage, do not imagine that you are getting a quality friction. What you have to secure in a belt is a friction full of elasticity. There must be between the plies of duck only a certain class of rubber to give uniform strength and pliability.

Resilient Quality Must Not Be Sacrificed To Excess of Friction Strength

To obtain high figures, such as referred to above, in belt frictions you have to take away from the elasticity of the friction; hence, there is a happy medium, and this medium we have obtained through our laboratory experts. It ensures for you a belt, the friction of which will hold the plies together and will be sufficiently elastic in its properties to allow for the give and take necessary in rounding the pulleys.

Universal Recognition of "Gibraltar RedSpecial"

To cite the names of users of this famous, red frictioned-surface belt would necessitate the use of much space. We have on file recommendations from almost every type of industry requiring "Gibraltar RedSpecial" Belting in widths varying from 1 1/2" to 48". These testimonials are available for your perusal at any time.

The Original "Red"

"Gibraltar RedSpecial" as noted previously, is the Original Red Rubber Belt—and like most things that are original, its success is of the kind that endures.

ers, held at this time and at which Arthur P. Gorman, afterwards United States senator from Maryland, was elected president, there were no fewer than 237 clubs represented from the following states: Connecticut, twenty-two; Illinois, fifty-six; Indiana, twenty-one; Maryland, twenty; New York, twenty-four; Ohio, forty-two; Pennsylvania, twenty-seven; Wisconsin, twenty-five.

In 1867 our national game had swept out into the west, in a way as it were, over night, for out of 237 clubs represented, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin accounted for 145 in the total which was in itself nearly double the membership of the year previous, 1866. 'Twas it well to see that it was destined to do in the development and advertising of the rapidly growing prairie west of the United States. While this was going on and rapidly increasing interest in the game was taking place throughout the Western States, clubs were in formation in the Mississippi Valley and even beyond the Rocky Mountains.

Do not for one minute imagine they were teams made up altogether of bunches of farm lads. Their games were of that class, that the best of the acquiring their services when occasion required. It may be interesting for the old time fan still living to know that among the great players in the past at this period could be mentioned Harry and George Wright (brothers), Al Reach, Joe Start, and Bob Ferguson. And, believe it or not, each and every one of them was of the greatest players of their time. The Wright brothers a few years later played on and managed at different times the Philadelphia and Boston teams, while Joe Start was with the Providence champions of '79 and later with the Chicago White Stockings, then under the management of Cap. Anson. Bob Ferguson, too, was considered by many to be one of the greatest all-round players the game ever produced. He could play any position equally well. As a youngster I have a vivid impression of each of these players in action, and I can safely say I never saw a more finished

Constipation Cured in His 78th Year Without Drugs

Did you ever know any person who was permanently cured of Constipation by taking drugs of any kind? Drugs seem to assist Nature at the time, but as time goes on larger doses are necessary until the trouble becomes chronic. Internal Bathing is the only real cure for Constipation. It keeps the Colon or Lower Intestine free from all accumulation. Soon the system performs its regular functions unaided, and there is no further trouble.

CANADIAN CENSOR ENDORSES THIS MORAL PLAY

Montreal Ministers Endorsement

The Methodist Union of Montreal Montreal, April 4, 1918.

Through the kindness of Mrs. B. C. Paxton I have been able to see the play entitled "Her Unborn Child." From the first to the last moment my attention was held and my interest increased until the plot unfolded. It is one of the most impressive productions that I have ever witnessed and cannot fail to do good. It is most timely in its lessons when dangerous teachings are being propagated regarding birth control. It teaches the sacredness of life, the sacredness of motherhood, the sacredness of sex relationships. It seeks to promote a greater confidence and fellowship between parents and children and to impress the necessity of self-control during the most susceptible and critical period in the lives of young people.

I hope that arrangements can be made to have the play produced in every city and town in the Dominion. (Signed) E. I. HART.

Calvary Church, 4201 Dorchester Street, Montreal, April 2, 1918. To Whom it May Concern—

It is with pleasure that I take the opportunity of commending the play "Her Unborn Child" which I have seen in this city and taken friends to witness during the past week or ten days. The subject treated is a difficult one to stage, but it has done in a truly successful fashion. There is not a trace of indecency from first to last. In these days when the stage is becoming so powerful to enforce moral lessons, its presentation throughout the Dominion can do but good. Mrs. Paxton has given herself to the task of propaganda with the ardour of a crusader, and every lover of Canada should be thankful that the subject is in hands that are so capable. (Signed) T. W. DAVIDSON. Minister of Calvary Congregational Church.

MR. JOHN H. ROBERTS, Montreal play censor, temperance reformer and president of the Dominion Alliance, arrives from Montreal today and will have something of interest to say about this remarkable drama which will be most convincing to those who are surprised at the unusual title.

CONVINCING EVIDENCE

Vancouver, B. C., June 29. Mr. George L. Driscoll, His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, P. Q.

Dear Sir—"Her Unborn Child," now playing in this city, is best play of season. Title is bold but play is moral and highly approved. Nothing of an offensive character appears in the play.

CHAS. E. JONES, License Inspector.

To the President of the Y. W. C. T. U. Montreal, April 14, 1918. Toronto, Ont.

It is with great pleasure that I add my testimony of appreciation to the many others that have been published re the play "Her Unborn Child" which has recently been so splendidly put on in our city. Mrs. Paxton is to be congratulated on being so successful in introducing a subject in such a delicate, though convincing way, which has so long been ignored by our educationalists. While the cast is an excellent one, and the attention of the audience is held spell-bound by the intensely interesting plot, the lesson of the solemn duty of motherhood and of manly honor, is also conveyed in a way to leave a lasting impression.

All young people of either sex should hear this play, which would impress them as neither book, lecture or sermon could do, towards building up a strong, pure manhood and womanhood. (Signed) DOROTHY M. SPROULE.

DECARIE BEST AT WEIGHT-LIFTING Carried Off the Honors by a Margin of 207 Pounds in Two Nights Montreal, April 24—By lifting a total of 1,787 pounds in eight feats of strength, Decarie, of Sorel Park, Hector Decarie won the honors by a margin of 207 pounds over Gendron, his nearest competitor. Decarie outdid his opponents in the majority of the tests on both nights. Although beaten for the honors, Gendron, who weighs only 145 pounds, being the smallest man in the contest, made even a more remarkable showing than the winner, who is a much larger and more experienced man. In the second feat Decarie established what is claimed a new world's record, raising a bar-bell weighing 150 pounds, eight times from the shoulder. The exhibition given by Travis, the winner of the Brooklyn tournament, was most impressive. Lying on his back he raised with his feet a piano with two men on it, and at the same time with his hands he lifted a bar-bell with three men on it, giving him a total lift of over 2,000 pounds. His finger lift was his best effort. He lifted 501 pounds with one finger, which is close to the world's record. "Our Duty Not To Send Men or Food, But Both Men and Food"

Hon. N. W. Rowell's Great Speech on The New Military Service Measure; "The German Must be Defeated;" What Great Britain and Other Overseas States Have Done in Providing Man Power

(Toronto Star Report.)
 Hon. Newton Rowell, in what was admitted to be one of the most masterly speeches of his political career, told of the conditions under which the troops in France are fighting and read an order of the day sent to the troops by Gen. Currie, who is in command of the Canadian corps. He declared that responsibility rested upon the government of Canada to see that these gallant troops were properly reinforced.

"This government is pledged," he continued, "to the House and the country to maintain our divisions at the front with adequate reinforcements. We cannot consider the issue before the House and the country today in the light of the situation that existed a year ago. We cannot consider it in the light of conditions that existed even when the parliament opened one month ago. The whole world situation has changed within the last thirty days. This is the all-sufficient reason for the resolution now before the House. We must consider it in the light of the present war situation."

Mr. Rowell went on to point out that every man in Canada was born under a law which gave the state the right to call him out for military service at any time. As regards bringing the matter before Parliament in the form of a bill, rather than as an order-in-council, he reminded the members that under the Militia Act there was really no need to introduce the matter at all and that in the present emergency the government was adopting a wise and thoroughly constitutional course.

"I wish to emphasize for the moment another matter which we must keep in mind because one sometimes hears contrary views expressed. It is sometimes said that Canada has done enough or that we should let the United States help us. My view is that this is Canada's war just as much as it is Britain's war or the war of France and Belgium. There is no duty, no responsibility resting on Britain, France and Belgium, that does not equally rest upon the Canadian people in this great war conflict."

"It is true that we went into the war because we are part of the British Empire, but I venture to say that if we had been an independent people we would have been compelled to enter the struggle to defend our own liberties and to protect our citizens. We would have been forced into this war just as the United States has been forced into it."

"Our duty is not to send food or men, our duty is to send food and men. We do not wish to take men from the farms. We did not decide on the form of this order-in-council without considering the food situation in all its aspects. In view of the paramount necessity for more men, everything else must yield individual preference and everything else to provide the necessary men. Our real war effort is measured by the men we send overseas, plus the number we have available who may be sent overseas. Our war effort measured by the men permanently withdrawn from civilian life and sent overseas or still here and who may be trained to send overseas, represents less than 400,000 men, or approximately about 5 per cent of our population, if you take our population at nearly eight millions. Compare with Canada's 5 per cent of her population Great Britain's effort of 12 per cent of her population, and still calling for 500,000 more men."

"No one is proposing to draw upon the people of Canada to the extent that the people of Great Britain have been drawn upon. No one is proposing to increase our forces by 500,000 men. What I submit to the House and the country is that we can send the additional men necessary to reinforce our men at the front and by utilizing our forces at home the man-power and the woman-power, we can maintain production and all other essential industries."

Compared With the Anzacs.

"I venture to say to this House that if we sent across the seas 100,000 more men our contribution in men would not then exceed Australia's contribution up to the present time."

"New Zealand has maintained one division at the front, with a population of about 1,000,000 or 1,300,000, since the outbreak of the war. On the basis of population, that would make at least seven for us. We would have to send overseas between two and three hundred thousand more men to make our contribution in proportion to our population equal to the contribution of New Zealand."

"If we take into consideration the men that South Africa put into the war in German South-West Africa and German South-East Africa, as well as the men she has sent over the seas, we would have to make a still larger contribution in order to equal that of South Africa.

"What I want to say is this: If the Motherland, Great Britain, Ireland, Scotland; if Australia, the great Commonwealth in the East; if New Zealand, and if South Africa, one of the latest members of our Empire, composed of diverse races which until recent years were warring against each other, could get together and send into the fighting line, for the defence of the flag of liberty, these great numbers of men, should the largest, oldest and wealthiest of all the dominions of the Empire hesitate in this hour of the Empire's crisis?

Woman's Opportunity.

"They have 2,352,200 women in war service in Great Britain. They have in banking and finance, 980,700 women; in the civil service, 168,000; in commerce 820,000; in munitions, 700,000; in national factories in the metal and chemical trades, 918,000; in shipbuilding, in July, 1917, 16,500; in agriculture, 270,000.

"The women of Canada want only the same opportunity. The hearts of many mothers in Canada lie buried with their boys in graves in France and Flanders. We only have to speak a word and the mothers and sisters of our soldiers will undertake any work that this nation calls them to undertake, in order that the boys may be reinforced and victory achieved."

"What I said of Great Britain is equally, if not more, true of France. The women of Europe do more on the soil than do the women of Canada or the United States. I submit that without detriment to any vital interests we could close up many of the non-essential industries of Canada and relieve the men therein engaged for war work. Canada has not yet got down to this war as the nations of Europe have, and the time has come when we must realize the urgency of the situation and be prepared to deal with it as occasion requires."

"We have heard this afternoon of unity of Canada. I believe Canadian unity is possible. I ask: How can we achieve Canadian unity? We can achieve it just as our English and French-Canadians achieve it at the front by marching together to a great objective, seeking to serve and sacrifice together, and if, under this resolution, the sons of Ontario and Quebec go forth to fight for the homes and liberties of Canada, and if they fight and die together on the fields of France and Flanders and mingle their blood in a common grave, the men who return to Canada will put an end to racial strife in this country; they will stand together for a united Canada. I believe, with the cheerful acceptance of this proposal, with the going forth of men of Ontario and Quebec, you have started the unity; our future, our liberties, the cause of you have started the men together in a course which will result in binding together the different interests, the different races and the different creeds which inhabit this country. Canada stands at the parting of the ways."

After a tribute to the heroism of the men gone from Canada, Mr. Rowell ended with:

"Canada must and will stand by those men to the limit of Canada's resources and ability. The issue may determine humanity and civilization each one of us has the great privilege in this critical hour of human history to make a contribution to the future welfare, not only of Canada, but of our race. Are we going to do it, do it as men do it, as our fathers did a century ago? The German must be defeated."

Come for a Spin in a BRISCOE

YOU would purchase the Briscoe "on looks"—if that were your only guide to car value—its chassis and body design form a combination of grace and refined elegance. But you would never choose a car for beauty alone—the Briscoe has earned its supremacy on the strength of its "half-million dollar motor"—a motor that makes possible from 30 to 86 miles on a gallon.

A sturdy car that asks no favors of the road it travels on—through the mud and over the ruts, its powerful engine drives it, with a steady propelling force that instantly responds. At a touch of the accelerator, your Briscoe leaps forward with willing response—at your command, it drops to a crawl.

The Briscoe can be turned, without "backing," between the curbs of the narrowest city street—which means ease of handling and safety in congested traffic.

A car that gives you power, plenty and parlor-car comfort—at a price the average man finds quite enough to pay. And for that price you get more than you usually get when you buy a car; there are no "extras" when you invest in a Briscoe.

Permit me to take you for a spin in a Briscoe. Touring Car or Roadster, $1,025.
