Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only; or, in cloth binding for 50 cents.

Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Author of "HOME SWEET HOME."

The dedication of a monument to a poet gives the commencement exercises of one college a distinction no infrequent in this country, says The Literary Digest New York. Union University has dedicated a memorial gateway on its campus to John Howard Payne. It was here that Payne spent his student days: hence the memorial, which may expand, as the fund seems likely to grow beyond the needs of the cost of the gateway, into the additional establishment of a chair of English poetry. Few men have done less in the way of positive contribution to American literature, or are more widely known than John Howard Payne, the author of "Home Sweet Home," perhaps the best known song in the United States possibly in the English-speaking world.

The contrast between Payne's work and his reputation is heightened by the contrast between his sentiment as expressed in his song and his career. He made himself the most popular minstrel of the home, and spent practically his whole life in exile. He was born in New York City, but his boyhood was largely spent in eastern Long Island. He was a student in Union College, now Union University at Schenectady, New York, but his education was interrupted by the business failure of his father. He then decided to go on the stage, and made his debut at the old Park Theatre in New York City. He was successful, and appeared before large and enthusiastic audiences in other cities. In 1813 he sailed for England and made his appearance at the Drury Lane Theatre, in London, in his original part of Yonny Norval in "Douglas." He had decided talents as actor, manager, and playwright, but was suspiciously lacking in business ability, and was continually in financial embarrassment. He wrote plays, verse, and criticism, and he was skillful at adaptation. "Home, Sweet Home" was written as a song in his opera "Clari, Or The Maid of Milan," which was produced at Covent Garden Theatre in 1822. In 1823 Payne returned to America, and ten years later went to Tunis, Africa, as Consul; he was recalled in 1845, and reappointed in 1851. He died at Tunis in 1852, and was buried in the cemetery of St. George, but his remains were brought to Washington in 1883, and reinterred in the presence of a distinguished company.

Is Impressed By London Strikers.

The steamship St. Paul arrived last night with a full passenger list. F. W. Taylor, of Philadelphia, who was aboard said: "I was in London during all of the strike, and was impressed with the resolute character of the strikers." "At Tower Hill I saw 30,000 or 40,000 laborers from the East End of London in mass meeting, and they took an awful interest in what was being said to them by their leaders." "It was in the operation of the tramway and street railway systems that the people of London suffered most. Londoners don't like to be inconvenienced in their daily routine, and it was a hardship to the masses to have to walk from their business.

"The real cause of the strike was the high cost of living. It was not a political movement, as some of the London newspapers have been telling us. The strike is, no doubt, a victory for labor, and now, for the first time labor and capital have equal representatives on the Conciliatory Boards to deal with their problems."

Another passenger was Miss Percival Allan, of London who is making a trip to America. She has been engaged to sing at a concert at Bar Harbor Saturday.

Has Cast 10,000 Bottles On Sea.

London, Aug. 26. Some interesting stories about the velocity and peculiarities of ocean drifts and currents are told by Captain Alexander Simpson, who is a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society and who in the last twenty-six years has been making experiments in that direction with bottles.

The Captain says that during all these years he has thrown overboard nearly ten thousand bottles with messages enclosed. Nearly one thousand bottles have been returned to him from all parts of the world, and he receives them at present at the rate of about three a week.

"One of the most interesting drifts," said Captain Simpson, "and one of the longest" was by a bottle put overboard 146 miles northwest of Cape Town, which was picked up four and one-half years afterward on the Shetland Islands. Another put overboard east-southeast of St. Helena reached the Norwegian coast in a somewhat shorter time. These bottles are carried by the southeast trade winds toward Cape San Roque, on the Brazilian coast, and passing through the West Indian Islands make the circuit of the Gulf of Mexico. Under the influence of the Gulf Stream they are deposited on European shores.

"Ten bottles put overboard in the vicinity of Cape Horn were picked up off the southern coasts of Australia after journeys from ten to twelve thousand miles at an average daily rate of ten miles, while bottles put overboard within twenty degrees south of the equator in the Atlantic and Indian oceans make an average drift of eighteen to twenty-five miles daily to the west and northward, Resourceful Reporter.

Paris, Aug. 29. People who have been interviewed in strange ways and in strange places. The climax, perhaps, has been reached by the reporter of a Parisian paper. He plunged into the Seine after his victim and interviewed her while swimming. The reporter's prey was Juliette Caro, the plucky little girl of twelve, who swam against the champions of the world, and finished fourth.

When it was known that, with an allowance of some 1,500 yards, the little girl plunged into the Seine at the Font d'Austerlitz at the same time as Ooms, Maas, and the other champions started at Ivry, all eyes were turned towards her.

A reporter plunged in after her as she reached the Pont Royal. He swam up to her side. There was no time to present a card. Just one word, anything she said then and there would do for an interview. She was too busy striking out with her hands and feet. The reporter insisted: "Surely you must feel tired?" he said. "No," was the curt reply: "I am going to finish." That was all he could obtain for his trouble but it was enough. He hid a "scoop."

Cheaper Road Making

(New York Times)
Portland, Ore., Aug. 21. Automobiles and other who want good roads are greatly interested in a new road making machine which has been tested recently on the model road that is being built by Samuel Hill, a wealthy ranchman, from his ranch near Goldendale to meet a country road from that point. Mr. Hill, who is an enthusiastic autoist, has set out to make the finest road of its kind in the country, and he employed S. C. Lancaster as engineer for the work.

This engineer invented the machine for this work. It has been shown to prominent Portland citizens. It takes a load of five tons and a preparation of crushed rock and asphalt oil and disributes it easily and rapidly along the surface of the road-bed. The roller is run along in its wake and completes the task. The great detail of shovelling and leveling by many men is thus obviated.

Frederick V. Holman, a prominent business man of Portland and an autoist interested in good roads, has seen the machine work. "It will revolutionize road building," he says. "The work of a dozen or more men is supplanted by the work of a single man, who has merely to operate the levers that distribute the crushed rock. It works equally well in laying and spreading the first coating of coarse rock unmixd with asphalt. Road work with this method gives a highway equal to the pavements of a city street at a cost of about a sixth."

The model road which Mr. Hill is building as part of his campaign for better highways has presented many difficulties. In many places in the rough country the way for it has been blasted out of solid rock. In time he will connect it with a fine highway that is being pushed along the north shore of the Columbia river, largely through the efforts of Mr. Hill. This road runs on a 5 per cent. grade and the engineering work rivals that of the railroad that runs beneath it. For two miles it runs through deep cuts in solid rock or huge fills of concrete or basalt. It will undoubtedly in time be part of a great highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

HYOMEI! The Breathable Remedy for Catarrh.

The rational way to combat Catarrh is the Hyomei way, viz: by breathing. Scientists for years have agreed on but failed to get an anti-septic strong enough to kill catarrh germs and not destroy the tissues of the membrane at the same time, until the discovery of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-see).

Hyomei is the most powerful yet healing antiseptic known. Breathe it through the inhaler over the inflamed and germ-ridden membrane four or five times a day, and in a few days the germs will disappear.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including the inhaler, costs $1.00 and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost but 50c. Obtainable from your druggist or postpaid from the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Hyomei is guaranteed to cure asthma, croup, sore throat, coughs, colds or grip or refund your money back. Sold and guaranteed by J. Sutton Clark.

RUSSIAN GRAIN KING.

Was Queer Character, But His Business Integrity Was High.

Of a peculiar stamp was the man of millions, Nicholas Boukhroff, the Russian grain king, who recently died. In his external he was a mujik merchant. He wore the top boots, the trader's kaffan—coat and overcoat in one, fitting close up to the neck and reaching to the knees—and the embroidered cotton shirt without attached collar, which are the historic garb of the Volga traders, men who carry as much as 50,000 rubles in notes stuck in the leg of a boot and who distrust the documentary machinery of banks. Boukhroff's great fortune compelled him to handle investments and bank paper, but he was in sympathy with the old simple ways. He was in fact an Old Believer and a devout churchgoer who lived his religion.

In his housekeeping he lived on such the same scale as an ordinary hand worker in comfortable employment. He gave away millions of rubles in charity, but was close-fisted in personal outlays. The porters at Nijni-Novgorod and elsewhere avoided him when they saw him stop from a train. He would never pay them more than 10 cents for carrying his baggage. When he met gr. persons he "thumped" them, as he did everybody else, keeping to the Old Believer, Quakerlike form of address. His integrity in business was of the highest.

He would lecture men in his employment if they spent five kopeks needlessly. His patriarchal ways had sometimes a welcome side. He exacted unquestioning obedience to his instructions; but every now and then a man who served him well for some years would receive a draft for 25,000 or 50,000 rubles with no further remark than:

"Thou shalt now be a Man, too. I know that thou wilt make good use of the money."

"Very clever, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"I'm told that his three older brothers are mentally weak."

"Yes, he's the original sane fourth."

"Shoots Wife Before Child-en," says a newspaper headline. That's a matter of precedence.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Breakwater at Castalia, Grand Manan, N.B.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Wednesday, September 20, 1911, for the construction of a Breakwater at Castalia, Grand Manan, Charlotte County, N.B.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of E. T. P. Shewen, Esq., District Engineer, Chatham N. B., and on application to the Postmaster at Castalia, Grand Manan, Charlotte County, N.B. Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

(New Orleans Picayune)
Col. George Washington Goethals, Chief Engineer of the Panama Canal and general director of the activities of the United States in the Canal Zone, is naturally a personage of some little consequence on the Isthmus, and must maintain a dignified establishment. Not long ago, according to a story told by a visitor at Panama, the Colonel, who is a native of Brooklyn, had a paragon of a butler, a negro from the Island of Jamaica, with the very best English training, air and accent.

One day this paragon appeared before Col. Goethals, and in his best professional manner informed him that he found it necessary to leave. He took the step with deep regret, he said, but he must go.

"What's the trouble?" asked the Col.

"Don't I pay you enough?"

"My salary, sir, is entirely satisfactory. "Is your work too hard?"

"The work, sir, is quite easy."

"Then what in blazes (or words to that effect) are you quitting for?" snapped the Colonel.

"If you insist, sir," the paragon replied, "I will tell you. But I fear, sir, it will offend you."

"Let's hear it anyway," said the engineer.

"Well, sir, since you will have it, sir, it's the 'horrible language you speak. I cannot bear to 'hear the English tongue mangled and butchered as it is in this 'ouse. I 'ave a desire, sir, to seek service with some English family."

"Did you say you were a month in your last place?"

"Yes, madam, a week with the family on the top floor, a week with a lady on the third floor, a week on the second, and a week on the ground floor."

To Mrs. Lizzie Brown
Dear Sister,

We the officers and members of Golden Rod Lodge No. 212 wish to convey to you our heartfelt sympathy in the death of your sister, Edna Wakefield. That we mourn one dear to us whose memory we shall always cherish. While we know that words cannot restore to life one taken from the earth we feel that sisterly sympathy must be expressed in words and that such expression helps one to bear such a loss as you have sustained. We realize the fact that when we are called upon to part with those we love it is hard to say, "Thy will be done, but we feel sure dear sister that if you carry your sorrow to Him you will be given strength to say, "Who doeth all things well knoweth best. A little while and our sorrows here are ended and the glorious reunion above where death does not enter and from whose blissful mansions sorrow flies away.

To Mrs. Emma Cook;
Dear Sister,

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove from your midst your beloved sister. We the officers and members of Golden Rod Lodge No. 212 extend to you our deepest sympathy in the great loss you are called upon to bear. The pain ridden death from where none can hope to escape has taken from our midst Sister Edna Wakefield, one who was a respected member of our lodge. We realize the fact that when we are called upon to part with those we love it is hard to say, "Thy will be done. We trust that you will look forward to a glorious resurrection where we shall meet our loved ones where partings are no more. While we know that death is the lot of all and that sooner or later those who are most dear to us will be taken from us "the blow is none the less heavy when it comes. We trust you will look to Him who knows what is best for us.

Railroad is Sold, Town Abandoned.

Inhabitants Leave Grand Marais, Mich., When Trains Stop Running.

Seney, Mich., Aug. 28—It is more than nine months since the Manistique Railway, connecting link between Grand Marais and the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railroad, at Seney, was sold under mortgage to the Manistique Lumber Company of Detroit, followed by the announcement that service would be discontinued and the equipment sold.

The announcement caused consternation among business men and residents of Grand Marais. Mass meetings were held and the Railroad Commission was appealed to, without avail. Regular service was discontinued early last fall, although occasional trains were run again this spring. Mills and factories whose timber supply was distant and dependent upon the railway were forced to suspend operations, many men were thrown out of employment, and during the fall and spring a large number of families moved away from the once prosperous village.

The contract for carrying the mail between Grand Marais and Seney was awarded to a stage line, which came into being with the suspension of the railway. With great difficulty and with much hardship to passengers, drivers and horses, a stage service was maintained during the winter months. The Legislature was asked for an appropriation with which to build a highway and thus aid in relieving the situation, but without result.

Since fall several options on the road have been taken, all of which have been Ireland Export $17,000,000 Of Bacon.

(U. S. Consular Report)

The importance of the Irish bacon trade could not be measured in terms of statistics until the Department of Agriculture and technical instruction a few years ago compiled figures of its own, acting for the purpose independent and apart from the organization of the British Board of Trade in London, with which it is identified. The latest returns show that Irish exports of bacon, hams and allied products were valued at $1,671,565 in 1908 and $17,436,031 in 1909.

Ireland imports bacon and hams, but possesses an export balance of over $6,083,125 per annum, judging from the recent returns of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction. In other words, Ireland eats more of American and other foreign produce. Many firms in the wholesale provision centres of the greatest English cities, while buying Irish produce extensively, at the same time forward to Ireland large quantities of American and other produce from Han-

Started With Nothing.

Dr. John T. M. Johnson, president of the national Reserve bank of Kansas City, at a recent meeting of the directors of that bank arose and asked that each one present who had begun business with a capital amount of $10,000 stand up. There was 25 directors of the bank in the room, and their wealth would aggregate about $20,000,000. Not a man of the 25 arose.

Dr. Johnson then put another proposition. He said: "Each of you who had $1,000 stand up." persisted Dr. Johnson.

The directors looked at each other and smiled, but none of them arose.

Dr. Johnson kept putting the proposition, lowering the amount by $100 each time, and when he got down to $150 one of the directors got up and said that was the amount of his capital when he began business.

The majority of the others began without a dollar.

Dr. Johnson, himself, estimated to be worth well on toward half a million dollars, began his business career without even a pair of shoes.

Quite a number of the men of this place went to St. Andrews by motor boat on Saturday to be present at the Conservative meeting addressed by R. L. Borland.

Capt. Dan Thompson, who has spent the summer at Lockeport, N. S. returned home by Simr. Connors Bros. on Saturday and is now seriously ill with typhoid fever.

Russell Paul has gone on a business trip to Yarmouth, Sheborne and other Nova Scotia towns.

Mrs. Geo. H. Tatton and sons Charles and Oran drove to St. George one day last week.

Mrs. James Holmes of Pennfield, accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Barbour of St. John, spent several days last week in the village.

A game of baseball was played last Wednesday afternoon on the grounds of G. A. Eldridge, Moose Island, between the Pennfield and Beavers, the score being 9 to 12 in favor of the Beavers. In the evening a pie social and dance was held in the hall. The sum of $20 was cleared.

On Wednesday the family of Rev. A. F. Brown arrived from Grand Manan by Schrs. "Forest Maid." The Rev. Mr. Brown preaches here each Sunday morning and evening until the Pennfield church is ready for service.

D. G. Cruiser Constance is lying in the harbor to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barry and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson, Blacks Harbor on Sunday.

John McDowell and daughter, Blanche spent Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Bates. On Thursday morning they went to St. John, thence to Fredericton where Miss Blanche will remain to attend Normal School.

Miss Gilmore, teacher at Blacks Harbor, spent Sunday evening here.

Edgar Blaney and Margaret McLaughlin, teachers, spent Labor Day at their homes St. Stephen and St. George respectively.

Burpee Bates in the employ of the N. B. Telephone Co., Campbellton, N. B., is spending a week's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Bates.

Charles Conley spent the holiday with his friend Mr. Blaney.

Geo. S. and Mrs. Best spent a few hours of Saturday in St. George.

Miss Amelia Dakin who has been at Island Falls for a year has returned to spend a month with friends here.

Miss Lena Parker and Myrtle Hatton enjoyed a drive to St. George on Tuesday.

Miss Ina Eldridge arrived Saturday from St. John to spend a short vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Martin Eldridge.

Mrs. Wm. Sparks crushed her finger while skating on Monday.

Mrs. G. H. Tatton and family have gone to visit friends at Grandville N. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Manroe visited friends in a field on Sunday.

Capt. Alfred Wadlin was taken very suddenly and seriously ill on Saturday evening with heart trouble. He was taken to his home, the doctor called, and after a time recovered. The ill turn was due to neuralgia of the heart.

Several of the fishermen have bought large and better boats for the next season's fishing. Among those buying were Capt. Thos. Patterson, Grosvener and Albert Wright, Albert and Neill Cross, and James and Percy Dickson.

James Harvie and Henry Best attended the liberal meeting addressed by Senator King at St. George on Monday evening.

Violet Hawkins left on Saturday for Fredericton where she will attend Normal School.

Mrs. P. W. Connors, Blacks Harbor spent Sunday with friends here.

Cawley-Ramsey.

Holy Trinity church was the scene of a very pretty event Wednesday morning when Miss Edith Teres Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ramsey, of Rockland Road, was united in marriage to Robert I. Cawley, book-keeper with J. C. Mackintosh & Co., stockbrokers of this city. The ceremony was performed at 11 o'clock. Only relatives were guests but friends of the bride gathered to witness the ceremony. Rev. J. J. Walsh, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride was given away by her father and the witnesses to the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kirkpatrick of Pleasant Rock, Mrs. Kirkpatrick being the bride's sister. The bride was very becomingly attired in a pale blue serge suit with large black picture hat adorned with plumes, and carried a large bouquet of sweet peas. Mrs. Kirkpatrick wore a very pretty dress of robin egg blue with a large picture hat to match.

After the wedding the party drove to the home of the bride's parents in Rockland Road where a tempting wedding breakfast was served. The dining table was beautifully decorated with sweet peas and smilex. After breakfast the party left for the D. A. R. wharf where Mr. and Mrs. Cawley took passage on the steamer Prince Rupert. They will take a trip through the Annapolis Valley and other parts of Nova Scotia, and on

Election Card

To the Electors of the County of Charlotte Gentlemen:-

I have been selected by a very large and representative convention of the Liberal Conservative Party of Charlotte County, to contest this Constituency, at the approaching election of a member to represent the County of Charlotte, in the House of Commons of Canada. I therefore solicit your support at the polls on the 21st of September next.

For nine years I have been honored with your confidence, as one of your representatives in the House of Assembly of this Province, and during that time have spared no efforts to advance your best interests and the interests of this Province as a whole. Should I be honored with enough of your votes to elect me, on September 21st next, in the higher arena, of the Dominion Parliament, it shall be my constant endeavor to advance the commercial and material interests of this County; to promote such measures as will secure to the people of this province a just recognition of their industrial interests and rights; and to support every principle that will strengthen the tie that binds this Dominion to the Mother Land.

I believe the splendid ports of Charlotte County have always been shamefully neglected in connection with all questions of transportation, which have engaged the attention of the Government of Canada. If honored with your confidence, on election day, that all important subjects shall receive my unlimited attention.

I believe that the adoption of the so-called Reciprocity pact, which is an important issue in the campaign, would materially and disastrously affect the great natural resources of Canada, including those of the farm and the forest and the fisheries, that its tendency is to lessen interprovincial trade and trade with the mother land, which have contributed so largely to the prosperity of Canada during recent years, to open the country to the great trusts and combines, against whose exacting the people of the United States have been protesting so strongly of late, and to weaken the imperial tie.

For these and numerous other important reasons, which I hope to have the opportunity of discussing with the Electors of Charlotte during this campaign, I am entirely opposed to the adoption of the Reciprocity Agreement, and if elected as your representative, will use every influence that I can command to defeat that measure.

This issue is a very important one in the history of our Country. I ask you to weigh it well before you deposit your ballots. If honored with your confidence, I promise in the future, as in the past, I will give you the best of what is in me to prove myself worthy of the trust.

I am, Yours Sincerely and Faithfully THOMAS A. HARTT.

Dated August 14th, 1911.

The Great Show Near at Hand.

Tuesday the twelfth will see the gates of the Charlotte County Exhibition thrown open to the public. With full entries in all departments, and the midway attractions are of the largest ever seen here, the race stock with some of the fastest ever trotted down east should give the public four days of real good pleasure as well as a knowledge of what Charlotte County can produce in Agriculture, Horticulture and Stock Raising.

An addition has been necessary to add to the poultry department as nearly all breeds will be on exhibition. In the horse department will be seen some of the best horses that a county of this size should expect to see. In the cattle department with the splendid showing of Dutch Belted and the French Canadian Cattle from the farm of Sir Wm. Von Horne is well worth the trouble to travel miles to see.

The Ladies department will outclass those of former years and space already is at a premium. The Horticulture department will be one of credit to any County, both in quantity and quality, also will be the preserves and pickles, the bread rolls and pastry will tempt the most delicate taste.

The sheep, the importation of the Government of 1910 will be there, so will the offspring of these fine animals. In the swine department the entries are large and a big showing is assured. Besides these named departments there are several other exhibits that go to make up a first class exhibition.

The society have installed a new lighting plant and the building and grounds should be an attraction at night as well as day.

On the midway will be found Ferris-wheels, Merry-go-Rounds, Vauclerville and many other first class shows.

Shaw's Dog Pony and Monkey Circus is a feature that you cannot afford to miss and will delight all who see it. It is of particular interesting to children, and the press speak in the highest terms of it wherever it shows. This is one of the best shows of its size travelling today, the monkeys doing almost human tricks, and see how Mand the stubborn mule is as balky as ever, don't fail to see this great attraction. On the grounds there will be two free acts. One a high dive performed by a man and woman, this dive is one hundred feet high and is a thrilling scene. The other act is performed on the wire and many wonderful tricks are performed. This act is considered one of the best of its kind and should be pleasing to all, these acts are given free thus giving all an opportunity to witness them.

On the trotting track will be found some of the fastest horses now trotting as over fifty entries have been received, thus assuring good sport, among these are some very speedy ones. On the diamond will be found some base-ball that all lovers of this sport will be well paid for their trouble and expenses as the very best teams will contest for first place. A program of the time of the different events will be announced on the grounds each day. A good restaurant as well as an eating house will be on the premises so all may be provided for and none need go home hungry. Cheap excursions have been arranged on all railroads and steam boats, thus giving all an opportunity to visit the great show. Come and meet your old friends and help others to enjoy themselves. The dates are September 12, 13, 14, 15.

The World's Navies.

On Monday, the President of France reviewed the French fleet, which it is declared is the most powerful fleet, the country ever possessed. There were eighteen battleships in line. Powerful as it is, however, it is not considered perfectly strong. The report of the navy Committee of the Chamber of Deputies which has just been issued, provides a programme according to which the effective strength of the Navy shall be 28 battleships, including 19 improved Dreadnoughts to be built between now and 1920. On Tuesday, the Emperor of Germany reviewed a fleet of more than one hundred vessels of the German navy. The display showed a great advance in number and class of vessels, but Germany is far from satisfied, and her naval programme calls for more ships of the Dreadnought type. Austria, Italy, and Russia are also engaged in doubling or trebling their naval power, while Great Britain is keeping at the head of the procession, compelled to do so by the demand that she be vastly stronger than other powers. The prospect is not a pleasant one from the peace standpoint. -St. J. Globe.

NOTICE

Owing to the failure of the Lords Cove Team to keep their engagement on Labor Day or to even notify us as to their intention, so that we could arrange with some other team for the day, and to the fact that we have had several games postponed on account of rain, which we could not arrange later, we have been under more expense than our gate receipts will cover so we respectfully ask all whose names are attached to the Guarantee Fund would hand their amounts to the Treasurer.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

England's Coal and the Future.

Conservation is Necessary.

The London papers are impressed by the prediction in Sir Wm. Ramsay's presidential address at a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Portsmouth, that unless the present rate of consumption is retarded, England's coal fields will be exhausted in 175 years. The editorials strongly support Sir William in urging the government to follow the example of the United States and adopt measures to conserve the natural resources.

As England's coal supply is admittedly the concrete basis of the national wealth and power, Sir William's address draws attention to the fact that the country is living on its capital and that bankruptcy is in sight within a few generations. Sir Wm. did not leave radium out of consideration in his forecast. On the contrary, he suggested wonderful possibilities that would eventually follow were it possible to discover a method of harnessing that element with its enormous stored up energy. "If," he said, "the energy in a ton of radium could be utilized in thirty years instead of being evolved at its slow rate of 1,760 years for half disintegration it would suffice to propel for that time a ship of 15,000 tons with engines of 15,000 horse-power at a speed of 15 knots an hour. To do this now requires a million and half tons of coal. If we know, said Sir William, that radium and its descendants decompose spontaneously evolving energy why should not other more stable elements decompose when subjected to enormous strains? This leads to the speculation whether if the elements are capable of disintegration the world may not have at its disposal, a hitherto unsuspected source of energy."

Sir William did not see much hope in this direction, however, for he concluded: "If radium were to evolve its stored up energy at the same rate that gun-cotton does, we should have an undreamed of explosive. Could we control the rate we should have a useful and potent source of energy provided always that a sufficient supply of radium were forthcoming. But the supply is a very limited one, and it can safely be affirmed that the production will never surpass half an ounce a year."—Ex.

CAMEO KIRBY

By Booth Tarkington AND Harry Leon Wilson Adapted From the Play of the Same Name by W. B. M. Ferguson

Copyright, 1909 by the Amalgamated Magazine Company

"PERHAPS WITH ONE WOMAN HE COULDN'T BE HAPPY."

"I don't know why Life dealt me the hand I hold. All I know is I've got to play the cards according to rule. Sometimes I've found that mighty hard. I keep wishing and wishing there'd be a different hand dealt, but wishing won't change it. It was the shuffle that settled it long ago."

"I don't think, sir, that you've said anything that concerns you and me very much," she commented, glancing up shyly.

"Concerns you and me?" he echoed sadly, and rising, he began to pace the room. "Miss Randall, let me tell you something," he added at length, halting and regarding her fixedly. "One evening toward sunset I was leaning over the rail of a Mississippi river steamer, and, not finding much pleasure in what I was thinking about, I put my hand casually into my pocket and drew out a deck of playing cards, cards that had been used—well, considerably. I contemplated them a moment and then let them fall from my hand. They dropped into the water in a kind of little shower. And then a curious thing happened. Those shabby old playing cards floated along side a rowboat in which sat some body had evidently plucked too near a caving back upstream. It seemed as if they kind of hoped to go along with it on its journey, but it didn't look right. The rowboat was too pretty for bad companions like that. And then, one by one, those shabby playing cards, lying on their backs in the water, began to sink under and down. Then along came an eddy and caught that pretty rowboat and swung it out into the current, and away it went down the stream, happy and proud in just a glory of sunshine and sparkle. It served those old playing cards right. They ought to have been drowned for trying to keep company so high above them. That's what I thought looking down from the boat's rail."

Without conscious effort or any attempt at evasion Kirby had told the little allegory with simple feeling and sincerity, his manner growing more abstracted until at the conclusion it seemed as if he were speaking to his inner self, taking counsel with all that was best in him. Silence ensued, while Adele looked dreamily away, and he continued to stare at the cards, but seeing them not.

"Does a man always stop to think whether he has a right or not?" she ventured at length, speaking so low that he strained forward to catch the words.

"Doesn't a woman always want him to?" he gravely returned.

"Ah, but there is something a woman wants a man to do more than that—she wants him not to give up anything till he is beaten," she whispered.

"Suppose he is the kind of man that ought to be beaten?"

She arose, throwing the scarf about her shoulders, and walked meditatively to the door.

"But mightn't it be perhaps—perhaps with one woman," she whispered, "he couldn't be beaten even then?"

Astonished at her own daring, she gave a little gasp, then inconspicuously hid, while Kirby stood staring after her, fearing to interpret her words. He turned with a start as Bunce strode through the balcony window.

"Well, have you told her goodby?" snapped Larkin, who had interpreted the foregoing passage as a species of farewell.

"No," said Kirby violently, irritated at the interruption.

"Well, I reckon it's about time to sit down and take a good hard think," warned the other, pacing the room like an excited sentry. "Do you think you could get this girl?"

"How about it when she finds out who you are—Cameo Kirby?"

she finds out who you are—Cameo Kirby?"

"Easy on that name, Larkin!" Bunce, appealing to the ceiling. "Why it's been shakin' through this house ever since you got here. There's been two fellows within ten feet of you all the time who never took their eyes off you—that young Veaudry and Aaron Randall. Do you reckon they think you're Colonel Moreau? Why, I seen them leave the house a short spell back, and I'd be willing to bet my immortal soul they're on to our misdeeds and are plannin' to raise a—well, with us. I tell you this place is gittin' too hot for Larkin Bunce. You haven't said goodby to her? Well, then, I'll say goodby to you. Somebody's got to be loose. I wouldn't be no good to you nor to me either—in jail. For the last time," he pleaded, making an imploring gesture with his trembling hands, "are you comin' with me?"

Kirby, who had quietly resumed his place at the table, now slowly shuffled the deck and carefully inspected the card that had turned up.

"No," he said, with grave finality. "I'm not going with you, my friend. The hand's dealt; I'll play it out."

"For God's sake, Gene," implored Bunce, "let's go to quit you. You know what this means to me," he added despondently. "I hate to go, but there's no sense in my stayin'."

"No. And I thank you for stayin' as long as you have," interrupted Kirby, with a smile, rising and placing his hand on the other's shoulder. "I'm afraid I haven't been thinking very much of you, old partner. But I'm going to stay—call it what you like. However, this is not your hand, Larkin, and I don't want you to help me play it out. Go by all means, and at once. Did you get a fresh horse?"

"A fresh horse? Why, I wouldn't even dare to ask for the one I come on," cried Bunce, mopping his face. "You don't seem to rightly size up the mess we're in, Gene. I'll be lucky to get out on my own two feet. I don't even know where they put my hat, and I'm skeered to ask for it. Then it ain't no more use my askin' you to come?"

"No more use than in your stayin'," said Kirby.

Bunce hesitated for a moment, then thrust out his huge hand.

"Goodly, you durned fool!" he gasped, choking up.

"Goodly, Larkin, but don't bet that it is goodly. They won't get me. I'll ride your horse into town for you to-morrow."

Bunce bestowed a final helpless appeal upon the ceiling, gave his partner's hand a farewell wrench, then lumbered hastily from the room, while Kirby, humming softly to himself, strolled to the open window and, leaning indignantly against its frame, gave himself up to retrospect.

He wanted to be alone; he wanted to think, to dream, to go over and over again every word that Adele had spoken, every smile, every gesture. His thoughts were solely of the immediate present and past. For the future he did not care—neither Tom Randall's homecoming nor his own inevitable unmaking. He reasoned what he would have been, what the end would have been, had his early life been laid in pleasant lines—less harsh, less lonely. Yet, after loneliness was a great and sinister factor in molding man's destiny. What if the last of the Kirbys had proved an honor to the old name, instead of a professional river gambler? And why was he remaining? Was not the allegory of the rowboat too terribly true? Why had Adele said those last words? But mightn't it be perhaps with one woman he couldn't be beaten, even then?

Yes, it might be, and it would be, and the truth of it had been proved since the beginning of time. But, even if she were willing and knew him for what he was, could he rightly ask the sacrifice? Yet those words had awaked a fierce longing, had held out a promise of hope. And he could not utterly renounce, not just yet. Perhaps—

He turned as a hand tugged at his sleeve, turned to confront old Croup, who had stolen noiselessly to his side.

"Marse Gene, fo' Gawd's sake look out!" whispered Croup, his face gray with anxiety, his voice trembling with suppressed excitement. "I's feared it's too late to go to get away. Marse Anatole done ride out de stable lak he's crazy, an' it yo' listen to de quiet out yonah yo' kind hear hosses a-comin' down de big road, an' dey comin' on de gallop. Marse Gene, old Croup mighty skeered fo' yo, honey?"

"Ah, but there is something a woman wants a man to do more than that—she wants him not to give up anything till he is beaten," she whispered.

"Suppose he is the kind of man that ought to be beaten?"

She arose, throwing the scarf about her shoulders, and walked meditatively to the door.

"But mightn't it be perhaps—perhaps with one woman," she whispered, "he couldn't be beaten even then?"

Astonished at her own daring, she gave a little gasp, then inconspicuously hid, while Kirby stood staring after her, fearing to interpret her words. He turned with a start as Bunce strode through the balcony window.

"Well, have you told her goodby?" snapped Larkin, who had interpreted the foregoing passage as a species of farewell.

"Well, I reckon it's about time to sit down and take a good hard think," warned the other, pacing the room like an excited sentry. "Do you think you could get this girl?"

"How about it when she finds out who you are—Cameo Kirby?"

CHAPTER XII.

"BUT, Marse Gene, honey," implored the old negro, "yo' sho'ly is gwine to make"—

"Some attempt to escape," smiled Kirby. "Not any, Croup. For one thing I don't wish to, and for another I think it would be wasted effort. The moon is very unaccommodating," he added cheerfully, peering out into the darkness, "but still it seems to me that there are shadows out there not formed by trees. At least they appear somewhat artificial."

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Biggest Battleship Launched Today.

Built in the United States for Argentine Republic.

Quincy, Mass., Aug. 26—Declared to have no equal afloat as a first-class fighting machine, the Dreadnought Rivadavia, the largest ship of war now building or under design, and the first battleship ever built in the United States for a foreign power was successfully launched from the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company today.

The Rivadavia is being built for the Argentine Republic. A sister ship, the Moreno, is under construction at Camden, N. J., and will soon be ready for launching.

As the big hull started down the ways with the golden sunburst on a field of blue and white, the colors of the republic of Argentina, flying from the stern, Senora de Naon, wife of the Argentine Minister to the United States, broke a gayly beribboned bottle of champagne against the keel of the great ship and spoke words that gave the vessel its name. In performing the christening ceremony Senora de Naon acted as Seucra Rosa Saenz Pena, wife of the President of the Argentine Republic.

Thousands cheered and waved their hats as the giant hull rushed into the water. Among those who witnessed the spectacle were a number of the South American diplomats who are spending the summer in New England, together with numerous naval officers from Charleston, Brooklyn and elsewhere and experts from the naval department and various shipbuilding companies, all of whom have been greatly interested in the construction of the Rivadavia, which is of a type which has come to be known among ship-builders men as a superdreadnought.

Externally the Rivadavia closely resembles the British battleship Lion and the Arkansas and Wyoming of the United States navy. In heights agrees with several of the latest English and American battleships.

Her large displacement of 26,500 tons is expected to make her very seaworthy and insure a high offensive and defensive efficiency. Her length is 385 feet, beam 98 feet, and normal draught 27 feet 6 inches. Her height above the normal water line at the forecastle will be 25 feet 6 inches, amidships 22 feet 8 inches, and stern 17 feet 1 inch. The superstructure on the upper deck will be completely suppressed to avoid obstruction of the arc of fire of the main guns.

The main armor belt has a uniform thickness of 12 inches, and is 200 feet long, extending 4 feet 9 inches above and 3 feet 4 inches below the normal water line. In general, the arrangement of armor follows English, American and Japanese ideas, but as regards thickness and distribution it resembles what has been adopted on the Japanese ships now building.

The vessel is divided into numerous watertight compartments, fitted with electrically driven centrifugal pumps which can be operated even when the compartment is completely flooded.

The motive power is steam turbines and the coal bunkers have a capacity

How to Address The Duke of Connaught.

The Duke of Connaught, Canada's next Governor-General, is not to be addressed as Your Excellency, and neither can that title be properly applied to the Duchess of Connaught, according to instructions which have been received from the Secretary of State at Ottawa. Both the Duke and Duchess must be addressed as Your Royal Highness.

The Duke's official titles fill nearly half a page, beginning with Duke of Connaught, Field Marshal, His Royal Highness Prince Arthur, William, Patrick, Albert, Duke of Connaught and of Strathearn, Count of Essex, etc.

But in official addresses a shorter form may be used as, for example, Field Marshal, His Royal Highness Duke of Connaught, Knight of the Garter, etc.

This communication from the Secretary of State has been forwarded to the Lieut.-Governor of the province, written in the French tongue and was dispatched by His Excellency to the Mayor of Montreal.

The Duke of Connaught sails for Canada, according to an announcement already made, on October 6, about which time Lord Grey will leave for England, by which arrangement they will pass each other in mid-Atlantic.

Municipal Indebtedness.

(Haverhill Gazette)

From a table showing the municipal indebtedness of the cities of the United States it may be gathered that the cities of the country are spending money right and left. Their net debts have grown by leaps and bounds. In eight years' time they have more than doubled. In the past five years they have increased more than 55 per cent. This is true even though there has been a tremendous increase in their revenues also. In a measure, of course, the large debts came with the rapid growth of the cities of the country, but that does not account for the fact that the increase in municipal indebtedness has been much greater than the increase in municipal revenue. The percentage of revenue to debt is now only 30.41, where it was nearly 40 per cent. a few years ago. Revenues naturally increase with the growth of cities, but not as rapidly as debts, and that suggests extravagance and a deterioration of financial conditions in the cities. Here, there and everywhere the time is at hand to consider how taxes may be reduced, not increased. The need for that sort of thing serious.

"Spring Maids" to serve Water in Hotel Foyer.

New York is going to have a novelty in the form of real "spring maids." The Sanitary Code ordinance abolishes drinking cups in public places October 1. It will affect the hotels, public schools, railroads and theatres, and the hotel men especially are trying to solve the problem of how to serve drinking water to the public without violating the law.

How many places will have "spring maids" is not known, but the Waldorf-Astoria will be the first. Girls will be stationed at the four drinking fountains in the foyer attired in suits of white with aprons and caps to match. Each glass will be rinsed and dried after use.

The Hotel Knickerbocker will discontinue fountains, but will serve water free in the restaurants and the bar. Water will be served from pitchers at the Plaza and St. Regis and there will be enough glasses constantly on hand.

Many other hotels have not yet decided on what course to pursue, but it is probably a number of them will do away with the public drinking fountains. Employees must either go to the bar to be served when the fountains are abolished or carry individual cups.

Individual paper cups are to be obtained at the Pennsylvania station by dropping a coin in a slot and this plan will also be followed at the Grand Central. Children in the public schools will be asked to provide their own cups and the theatres will serve water as before by boys. Cups were removed from cars of passenger trains by order of the Interstate Commerce Commission last month.

The new law is expected to be felt most in the schools and factories. It is a violation of the law for a person to loan his or her cup.

French Engineers Will Study In United States.

Paris, Aug. 23 The French Government has decided to establish in the United States a permanent mission for the study of industrial, technical and commercial methods. Mons. Leclere de Palligny, chief engineer of the bridges and roads of France, has been named by the Ministry of Public Works as the head of the mission, which will leave for New York on September 1 and take up a residence in New York City.

After Mons. de Palligny has studied the field a number of young engineers will be sent to work under his direction. Each must remain in the United States two years and agree to remain in the service of the government ten years after returning to France.

They will be assigned to various posts in the Ministry of Works, city administrations, railways and great industrial establishments.

It will be the first mission founded abroad under the law adopted in 1906 that authorizes these missions.

Pitchforks Used To Repel Women.

Paris, Aug. 29 Processions of women some of them 2,000 strong, are marching again this evening in the cities and towns of Northern France protesting against the high prices of provisions.

At Lille, Cambrai, Douai, Valenciennes, Bethune, Lens and at many smaller places a species of anarchy prevails because the police are insufficient to protect the dealers of food from the destructive impulses of the manifestants.

The processions in some of the northern departments are marching from village to village, running over farms and damaging dairies and vegetable gardens to indicate their sense of grievance against the high cost of food.

As each village is descended upon the ranks of the manifestants are steadily augmented, and occasional incidents are reported of conflicts between the marauders and farmers, armed with pitchforks.

Dire Extremity.

(London Telegraph.)

"I want a pair of gloves for my 'Enevry," said the lady from Whitechapel, bustling into the outfit-fitter's shop.

"About what price, madam?"

"About fourpence."

"The cheapest we have in stock are one shilling a pair, madam."

"Oh, that's too much. 'Enevry's going to a ball, and he'll only wear them once."

"That's the best I can do, madam. 'Then there's no help for it. 'Enevry will 'ave to wash 'ands, that's all."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McDowell of Pennfield spent Sunday with Mrs. Giles.

The many friends of Mrs. M. Giles are glad to know that she is improving from her long illness.

Absent-Minded Men.

Absorption in their work is often carried to such extremes as to make men of genius strangely oblivious as to what is going on around them. Many amusing stories are told illustrative of this tendency to "absent-mindedness." According to Sir David Brewster, when Newton left a room to get anything he usually returned without it.

The physicist Rouelle was notoriously absent-minded. One day while performing a laboratory experiment he said to his students:

"You see, gentlemen, this capiron over the flames? Well, if I were to cease stirring it an explosion would at once occur that would make us jump."

As he spoke he involuntarily ceased stirring and his prediction was fulfilled. The explosion took place with a frightful noise, every window in the laboratory was broken, and Rouelle's audience fled wildly outside.

Buxton, the mathematical prodigy, during a visit to London was taken to see Garrick in "King Richard III."

Afterward, being asked how he liked the play, he said he really did not know what it had been about, as he had been too busy counting the word spoken by the different actors, and the number of times each went in and out.

Amperre, in a moment of preoccupation, pencilled a problem on the back of a cab standing in the street, and was vastly astonished when the starting of the cab caused his problem to disappear. Lombroso says that much the same thing happened to Gioia, who, in the excitement of composition, wrote a chapter on the top of his bureau instead of on paper.—Ex.

Indigestion.

If you are suffering from indigestion and the attendant distressed stomach, you should give Mio-na, the guaranteed remedy a trial. Mr. Shafer of 230 Queen's St. Berlin, Ont., says: "For years I have been a sufferer from acute indigestion, which caused the most distressing pains in my stomach. I decided to try Booth's Mio-na Tablets and they have done me more good than anything I have ever used. I am now more free from this than I have been for years. I am pleased to endorse and recommend this remedy to all who suffer with stomach trouble."

Remember Mio-na Tablets are guaranteed to cure acute or chronic indigestion and turn the old stomach into a new one in a few weeks. All druggists 50c. a box or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Sold and guaranteed by J. Sutton Clark.

The Toll of the Sea.

Averages Show Two or Three Vessels are Lost Every Day. (Harper's Magazine.)

Careful French Statisticians compile each year for the "Bureau Veritas" a record of the accidents and losses suffered for a twelve-month by the merchant marine of all nations from which data are obtainable. The yearly summary put forth by the "Bureau Veritas," its record of the tolls gathered by that complacent sea down—far down—below the rails.

Nine hundred and eighty-six vessels of the world's merchant marine—steam and sail—totally lost in the year 1908, say these careful French statisticians; and this fully recognizes only steam vessels of over one hundred tons' burden. Such the record of complete destruction, and the following the count of damage not irreparable; 4,273 steamers injured by fire, collision, stranding, stress of weather, and other causes. The destruction varies from year to year: in 1907 there were 1,104 total losses among merchant ships; in 1905, 1,038 steamships and sailing vessels gripped by the sea.

No count is kept of the men who go down in the ships that are lost. The statisticians deal only with commercial values. No bureau in the world finds profit or incentive in keeping count of the thousands of sea-workers who are claimed as toll by the sea we reckon tamed. Only this is taken in count: that every day in the year somewhere on the restless wastes of the seven seas two—in some years three—ships are snatched in greed by the power that tolerates the many. So the average has it.

The sea takes most of its tithe by stealth. A bandage of fog about the navigator's eyes, a racing moving unseen beneath the marked innocence of flat water, a knife-edge reef, or sand that yields until a keel is fairly trapped—then destruction. Not quite 400 of the 986 vessels lost in the year 1908 were wrecked through stranding; 158 of these were steamships, superior as they were over the barks and schooners subject to the whims of the wind. Collisions sent ninety craft to the bottom. Fire destroyed thirty eight. Ninety-three filled and foundered. Under the head "missing," which means that not even careful French statisticians can divine the secrets of the deep fifty ships were registered in the 1908 records of disaster.

"Would you like a fine family cow?"
"That thing? She can't give more than four quarts."

"Tain't the milk. She'll git right in front of an automobile, an' she's good for $200 damges a season to any family. Judge."

Among the coronation gifts of George and Mary was a pack of playing-cards. The gift was not so humble as it might seem. The cards were made by the playing-card makers' guild, from a design by a member of the Royal Academy. The workmanship was elaborate.

"Here, Willie, you come right away from that bad boy!"

"He sin't a bad boy, mamma. He's a nice boy. He gave me half his change an' a big bite of his candy."

"Mercy, the child is a Socialist! Come away from him this moment!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A CAUCASIAN MARRIAGE.

A Piece of Sugar Put to Lips of Bride to Sweeten Tongue.

In the Caucasus the marriage ceremony everywhere are of the great extravagance in regard to length and the amount of feasting. In Mingrelia large tents are erected for the wedding guests, and the smallest number invited comes to two or three hundred. An interesting and pretty ceremony is the going forth of the bridegroom's mother to meet the bride, to whose lips she puts a piece of sugar, wishing her happiness and joy, and hoping that her tongue may always keep the sweetness of sugar. In the marriage procession all the guests and wealth of the family make an appearance. An elderly lady, generally the bride's nurse, plays an important part throughout the ceremonies. She sits by the bride, who neither laughs nor cries during all the merriment and feasting. A meal is served in the nuptial chamber, to which the matron conducts the bride. The bridegroom is refused admission until he buys his entry from the matron. This old lady remains a week in the house, and when she departs the bride breaks into loud lamentations. For a year the young couple are full of respect and attention for their parents, never sitting down in their presence and submitting to their wishes in everything.

TOO MANY GERMANS IN CITY OF PARIS.

PARIS, Aug. 12. We are being constantly reminded of the fact that there are far too many prosperous Germans in Paris. The late Morocco crisis has once more made this a subject of actuality. Much as their presence is objected to, they cannot well be expelled, as that would probably provoke war quicker than anything else. What annoys the French people most is that Germans succeed in business where they fail. The German comes to the French capital not only to stay but to make money, and plenty of money, it must be admitted, he succeeds in making, thanks to his working cheaper than anybody else, and to the fact that he is far more enterprising than Frenchmen amongst whom he lives more or less in comfort. It is estimated that there are 105,000 Germans in permanent residence in Paris. These Germans of Paris have their own clubs and schools, their religious and charitable establishments, their journals and their theatre. The more wealthy Germans reside in the third and tenth arrondissements, the districts in which are situated the Place de la Republique and the Bateau-Lavoir (East Paris). Those who occupy a humbler sphere are found in the fourth and eighth arrondissements, the former has the distinction of possessing La Morgue, while in the latter is situated the Montmartre Cemetery in which so many French celebrities are buried. In these two wards are whole streets in which nothing but German is spoken. The "Pariser Zeitung," published in Paris, has been in existence for ten years. Apart from the news which this sheet contains, it serves as a connecting link between Germans who have settled in France and those who come here in search of employment. In a recent issue it was stated that a powerful commercial corporation of Hamburg had opened branch establishments at Bordeaux, Lille, Marseilles and St. Etienne, "in order to give employment to its compatriots." One can hardly credit this.

Thanks to the associations which group Germans residing in Paris, etc., together and keep them in touch with one another, friendly societies, choral and gymnastic societies, the matras, d'hôtel, goodness and nursemaids, waiters in restaurants and cafes, are accomplishing the methodical invasion of France. The pretext is a simple one: the German tourist visiting France and unable to speak French, has a right to be served by someone knowing his language. Several of the principal hotels and restaurants in Paris are owned by Germans. They commenced first of all by investing capital in these enterprises; other of their countrymen followed their example, and by and by they acquired the entire property. There is no doubt that if Frenchmen had a better business instinct, and worked as hard as the Germans the result would be different. Why do not Frenchmen learn German as Germans do French and English? Behind the vast army of German waiters, restaurateurs and hotel keepers is to be found another Teuton army of business employes and bankers. Those stationed here send for their brothers and their cousins, any other relation who is seeking employment, and so all of them make money out of the Frenchman; unfortunately they are not made of the same enterprising metal, so are made to suffer through their own inebriety.—St. J. Globe.

Hindu Shoots Seven.

M. Husain, a Hindu, supposed to be a former British soldier, 25 years of age, ran amuck Tuesday afternoon in Chicago and before he was overpowered by the police, shot seven persons with a magazine rifle, creating a panic among hundreds of pedestrians. Three of those shot were seriously wounded. A number of those shot were grazed by flying bullets, but did not suffer physical injury.

Husain appeared in Washington street dressed in a khaki uniform. He carried a magazine rifle, 1888 model, 43 calibre, of a Belgian manufacture. He sauntered around to the entrance of the Opera House where he took a position almost under the portico.

The thousands of soldiers in the city in connection with the military tournament has made the uniform familiar on the streets for a week past and hence the swarthy-faced man holding a rifle attracted no attention.

Without a word of warning Husain raised his gun and rapidly made what appeared to be an arc of fire. A trail of crippled men, women and children was left in the wake of that swiftly moving arc of fire, and before the restraining hands of nearby policemen were laid up on him the man had wrought a work of destruction that has not been seen in the Loop district of Chicago in years.

When the Hindu was finally beaten in to submission the police had a hard battle keeping the infuriated crowds from attacking Husain. In his possession were found two letters, mostly unintelligible, one addressed to President Taft, and the other to the British consul in Chicago. Physicians who examined him declared that the man was suffering from parricosis. He fired bullets of soft nose steel that spread on entering.

Interrogated by Inspector Hunt, Husain said he had been in Chicago three months.

Held Court in Car.

The recent instance of a judge and the officers of the court proceeding to a plot of ground to try a case upon the spot is by no means the first instance of its kind. Cases have been heard in all sorts of queer places.

A few months ago a witness who was very ill had to be examined, so a magistrate and the parties interested went to his private house, which was converted into a police court for the time being, the matter being satisfactory settled.

On one occasion a urgent application was made to a judge just as he was about to set out for the assizes. It was imperative that he should not miss his train. The upshot of the matter was that a first class compartment was reserved for the party and before the judge arrived at his destination the matter, which had been argued en route, was disposed of.

Woman Faints as "Dead" Man Talks.

(New York Herald)
Mrs. L. McCauley, who has a boarding house at No. 856 Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn, is recovering slowly from a shock she received Wednesday when on going to the door in answer to the bell she beheld Barney Farley, who on Monday was reported drowned.

It was dark, and as Farley stepped in to the vestibule and said, "It's only me, Mrs. McCauley; don't be alarmed," the land-lady swooned, and Farley hastened to arouse the other boarders.

Mrs. McCauley was carried to the parlor. When she was revived she looked about in fear and begged the boarders to remain with her. "It was the ghost of Barney Farley," she told them. "His clothes were dripping wet. He looked so terrifying and says, 'Don't be afraid, it's only me, Mrs. McCauley,' and I was that amazed that I couldn't speak, and then all became dark."

Just then Farley entered with a change of clothing and smoking a cigar. The boarders gathered around him and piled him with questions. He told them that he

Election Card

St. Stephen, N. B., Aug. 22 1911.
The Electors of The County of Charlotte.

Gentlemen:—
I have been chosen, by a very large and representative convention of the Liberal Party of Charlotte County, as the Candidate to solicit your support in the approaching election, in behalf of the policy of that Party and the Reciprocity Agreement now before the people for their decision.

During the three years I have had the honor of being your Federal representative. I have labored diligently for the interest of Charlotte County in legislation, public works and betterments, that would be helpful to the business, safety and comforts of our people.

Should I again be honored by you on Sept. 21st next by being elected your representative to the Federal Parliament, I shall use every effort to advance your interests as well as those of the Province and the Dominion at large. In thorough accord with the Government, who will rule the next Parliament, I feel I can assist greatly the many interests of the people of Charlotte County if elected their representative.

I believe very strongly in the great good that will come to our County and the whole of Canada by the adoption of the Reciprocity Agreement, which is the great and sole issue before the people in this election.

Both parties have tried to get fair reciprocal trade relations with the United States for many years, and it is now our chance, if we so elect, to profit by this agreement. Any tariff put upon the products of the soil and sea, give not the slightest gain or assistance to the farmer or fisherman. It lessens the great value of his labor, in the home market, and bars him largely from getting into a foreign market. Not tariffs, but larger markets are what the farmers, lumbermen and fishermen need for their best prosperity. Under the proposed Reciprocity Agreement one of the very best and largest markets will be opened to us. Our farms and homes will increase largely in value and our present prosperity greatly enhanced. The heritage of fair and just trade taken from the farmers, the lumbermen and the fishermen by hostile tariffs will be returned to them by the adoption of this Reciprocity Agreement.

I desire, dear sirs, above all things, to be your chosen member to assist in Parliament, in obtaining this great boon for you.

I am, Yours sincerely,
WILLIAM F. TODD.

had been almost drowned. After falling overboard into the East River he was carried by the tide for half a mile and was picked by a freighter of the Standard Oil Company and spent the night on board.

That was all there was to it, and he said he was sorry that the police had reported to Mrs. McCauley that he had been drowned.

On July 29 the metal workers in Thuringia demanded increased wages and that in cases of differences between employers and individual workmen, the employers should deal with the trade union and not directly with the individual. The employers agreed to increase wages but later locked out 9,000 men when the union refused to withdraw its latter proposal.

At Leipzig about 400 metal workers went on strike for a general increase in wages and reduction in the hours of labor. The employers locked out 600 and later increased the number to 10,000, about 60 per cent. of the number employed by members of the Employers' Association. The number of locked out men has been increased by the lock outs at Dresden and Chemnitz.

Pockets in Hats

Amusement was caused in a Paris tea room recently when a smart woman calmly put her hand up to her elaborately trimmed hat and from the midst of the lace and flowers decorating it drew out a small purse and paid her bill. Later she took a handkerchief and a cigarette case also from the recesses of her millinery, for she was wearing one of the new hats with pockets which threaten to become popular enough to oust the handbag in

Notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of the terms of the power of sale contained in a mortgage made by Alvin S. Murphy of the one part, and Irwin E. Gilmor of the other part, bearing date the third day of May, A. D. 1909, and duly recorded in the Records of Charlotte county, in Book No. 40, at pages 343 to 346, there will, default having been made in the payment of moneys secured by said mortgage, be sold at private sale at the residence of the said Irwin E. Gilmor at Bonny River, County of Charlotte, Province of New Brunswick, on Thursday the 21st day of Sept. A. D. 1911, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Land described in said mortgage as follows: "All that certain lot of land situated in Pleasant Ridge in said Parish of Dumbarton, County and Province aforesaid, bounded and described as follows:—to-wit: Bounded on the west by Bonny Brook, so called, on the north by land owned by John New, on the east by the Boundary line of the granted land on the east of Pleasant Ridge, on the south by and owned by the heirs of one Robert McCowan. Containing 175 acres more or less." Together with the buildings thereon and the privileges thereto belonging.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

A good many people who expect the local paper to boom the town and work for all interests concerned do not appear to feel that the paper must have their patronage to do it. A paper with no subscription wouldn't last long and if one copy is made to do the work of three or four, among the bon-cœurs it cannot be expected to hold its enthusiasm for the public good. Failures in Canada during the month of August show an increase over the same month last year. The number was 136, with the assets of $1,171,991, compared with 113 in August 1910, with the assets of $478,421 and liabilities of $984,548. In the United States there was a slight falling off in failures, but the liabilities are heavier.

SWALLOW'S NEST OF BANK-NOTE

Also How a Mouse Stole $40 Worth of Noes to Make a Home.

A pair of swallows of Fibrebrand, in the Tyrol, have stolen a number of ten-kroner bank-notes to line their nest. The parent birds discovered that the new notes were just the shade of blue to match their eggs, the Fibrebrand being tough but flexible, and exactly the material they needed. The nest of twenty-kroner notes was discovered when the swallows had abandoned it and it fell to the ground. This feat has been equaled by that of an enterprising mouse in London, which abstracted a number of twenty-kroner notes to the value of $40, of a delicate reddish-brown shade, from the cash drawer of a butcher, and, tearing them to pieces, adapted them to the purpose of making a nest for her family of seven. The butcher in his search for the notes suspected and traced the mouse, and found the nest under the eaves of the house. The mouse was placed in a cage and returned to its home to the bank, where they were placed together. The butcher recovered $42.50, the bank crediting $2.50 for "material loss" caused by the mouse's theft.

THE HOUSE FLY

The Most Pesty Insect Known.

This fly, called "Typhoid Fly" on account of its being seen as a carrier of typhoid germs, is one of the most pestiferous insects which we have to contend with. It also carries the germs of tuberculosis and other diseases, and is a menace to the health of the family. It breeds in fresh horse-manure, and other filth, hence, where these are more numerous, the swarms of the fly are more numerous. The extent of its annoyance is due to the fact that it is very voracious, feeding on the blood of its victims. It is also very annoying on account of its noisy buzz, and its habit of landing on the face and eyes. It is also very annoying on account of its habit of landing on the face and eyes. It is also very annoying on account of its habit of landing on the face and eyes.

Ontario's Dairy Industry

Ontario's dairy industry was valued in 1910 at $21,000,000, with 87 creameries and 1,100 cheese factories, and a total production of 1,100,000,000 lbs. of cream and 1,100,000,000 lbs. of cheese.

REMOVAL OF BIRTHMARKS

Carbonic Acid Snow Treatment Proving Generally Successful.

In less than a year the carbonic acid snow treatment for birthmarks, warts, and other skin blemishes, first introduced at Charing Cross Hospital, has gained an accepted place in medical therapeutics.

The early experiments with the remedy, described in three columns last June, have been so successful in suitable cases that it is practically every hospital in the country, as well as thousands of general practitioners and skin specialists, is making use of the new medication.

The snow is prepared by allowing a thin spray of carbonic acid gas, liquefied under pressure, to escape into a very fine powdered snow at a temperature of about 100 degrees below zero. The snow is then solidified into a fine powder by being tightly packed into a hard rubber cylinder with a plunger.

Treatment consists of pressing this intensely cold pencil of carbonic acid snow for a few seconds against the blemish, wart or rodent ulcer to be removed. The resulting intense cold freezes the part, setting up severe local inflammation, which leads to a breaking down and absorption of the frozen tissue. There is very little pain and the wound heals naturally in a few days, leaving the skin practically normal.

LOCALS

Did you see the bargain at Bassens? Great selling out Bargain Sale.

The St. Stephen business college begins next Monday, Sept. 11th, after the summer vacation.

On Saturday of last week the ball team suffered their second defeat of the season. They went to St. Stephen on the excursion playing with St. Stephen league team that afternoon the game resulted in a score of 8-1 in favor of the Thistles.

For Monday Labor Day the baseball team had made arrangements with the Creche of Lords Cove to come up and play, they were expected to arrive by motor boat about noon, 1 P.M., arriving and still no team, telephone communication was got by the management and they were told the team had not started and were not going. This is about as mean and contemptible a trick as any party of young men could be guilty of, and they should be thoroughly ashamed of themselves. If they had telephoned even the night before, some other arrangements might have been made.

One of the most successful entertainments for some time held in the town was the annual Chicken supper held by the Ladies of the Catholic Church in Drageogian Hall on Monday evening. They had provided lots of the good things for the inner man and were not disappointed in obtaining a large attendance as many who got to the hall shortly after six were unable to find accommodation at the tables till after 8 o'clock.

The gross receipts amounted to over $300. After the supper many enjoyed themselves tripping the light fantastic till the wee sma hours of the morning.

The Liberal party held a grand rally in Court's hall on Monday evening which was very largely attended, the hall filled to its utmost capacity was finely decorated with flags, festoons, mottoes, flowers, etc., presented a fine appearance when filled by the large audience.

Senator Gilmer presided and in short addresses introduced the speakers, W. F. Todd M. P., and Liberal candidate for the county, being the first who closely held the attention of his audience and was frequently applauded when making his points.

Senator King of Chipman N. B. was next introduced. The Senator who said he laid no claim to oratory is a pleasant speaker and spoke favorably on the many good points of reciprocity in natural products taking much of his powder from the enemies magazines, and during his speech was frequently applauded.

A large number from all the nearby places arrived in town on Monday to spend the day or part of it in the Granite Town and enjoy the different entertainments of the day, many of course bent on taking in the ball game as the principal attraction all of whom were disappointed in their afternoon's enjoyment owing to the contemptible course of the Crescents in not fulfilling their agreement.

The St. George Brass Band furnished a nice selection of music on the stand which was listened to by quite a large number. About 3 o'clock Dawes Gilmer announced that there would be a game of ball on the ground and asked those interested to follow the band.

About 4 o'clock two nines of the town and some visitors lined up, Woodcock and Gale battery for one and Johnson and H. Gilmer for the other with James Emery as Umpire after 2 or 3 innings Gale had a finger badly hurt and took 1st base while Vernon McNeil took his place behind the bat.

The game generally was marked by loose and careless play, but with the Umpire's odd decisions served to white away a couple of hours pleasantly.

About the middle of the game Mr. Emery made his little speech announcing that the boys had done what they could under the circumstances and now asked those present to give them a helping hand in a financial way as this was the last day of the season, he then passed around the hat while H. McGowan umpired for an inning when Mr. Emery again took his position behind the pitcher and a couple more innings were played.

The Conservative party will hold their rally in Court's Hall to night, H. A. Powell the local candidate will address the meeting.

Dr. W. W. White was called in consultation on Edw. Gilman, Monday, and if the patient's condition will warrant it, it is likely his leg may be amputated.

Obituary

One of the best known and most popular business men of the town passed away on Wednesday morning in the person of Alex. Milne.

Mr. Milne had been a resident of the town for many years, coming here from Scotland among the first of the Granite workers where the business was first started here, to work for the Bay of Fundy Co. and when that concern went out of business, he and three of the workmen rented the plant starting for themselves in a small way under the name of Milne, Conitts & Co. which later was made a stock Co. as it is now.

Mr. Milne who was respected and liked by all who for his genial and friendly disposition, has been sailing for some time and early last winter was taken bad and has not since left the house but once or twice for a short drive in the early summer.

He leaves a wife, one daughter Mrs. Wm. Mersereau at home and one son Gideon of Hartford, Conn. to mourn their loss.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 p.m. from his late residence, and will be under the management of the Masonic Lodge of which he was a valued member.

Mrs. Henrietta Bonness, widow of the late John Bonness, passed away at her home in Milltown, Me., Aug. 22nd, after an illness of several months. Deceased was born in Boacoe, N. B. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. B. L. Cunningham of Chamcook, a brother, Wellington Han son of Boacoe and three sons and two daughters, James Bonness, Milltown, N. B., Thomas Bonness, Milltown, Maine, Manley Bonness, Minneapolis, Minn., Miss Dora Bonness, Milltown, Me., and Mrs. Willis Clark, Malden, Mass., who have the sympathy of all in their great loss.—Advertiser.

The Canadian "Yellows"

(Cedar Rapids Gazette.)

It seems that Canada has its yellow newspapers the same as has the United States. The Dominion's yellows are raising the annexation bugaboo in the hope of defeating reciprocity. But it is gratifying to note that the annexation bugaboo is not frightening many Canadians.

6 Year Old Girl Cured of Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Alex. Moore of James St., Oxford, N. B., says: "Booth's Kidney Pills cured our little daughter Christian, age six years, of many symptoms of kidney weakness. She complained of a sore back, the kidney secretions were frequent and uncontrollable, especially at night. Her stomach was weak and her appetite poor. This caused her to have frequent headaches, and the least exertion would tire her. We had tried many remedies, but she did not improve. Finally we learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and procured a box. In a short time she was well and does not now complain about her back, the kidney secretions have become normal, and she plays around the house with no apparent fatigue. We always recommend Booth's Kidney Pills."

Booth's Kidney Pills carry a guarantee that if you derive no benefit your money will be refunded. Booth's Kidney Pills are a specific for all diseases of the kidneys and bladder. Sold by all druggists, 50c. box, or postpaid from the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Sold and guaranteed by J. Sutton Clark.

Sneeze Elows Man Overboard At Sea

Few persons will dispute that the sneeze of a hippopotamus is something terrifying. In Max Harwest, fourth cook on board the steamship President Grant for Monday, August 14, which records how he was sneezed overboard and picked up after the vessel had been driven in a complete circle by her captain, H. Magin. Harwest's fall into the broad Atlantic was essentially his own fault. He was detailed to feed the larger animals in a huge consignment of animals for the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens, among which was a full grown hippopotamus. During the first part of the voyage Harwest, who is a lover of animals, fed his way up to the awkward affections of the big beast by offering her delicious bits of food hippopotamus had never known in their wildest dreams.

On that eventful Monday, however, Harwest was careless and threw into the cage trimmings from a famous cheese which will empty a subway car faster than a wild man with a blue hole. As the hippopotamus smelled he sneezed. Harwest was near the side of the vessel just where there was a break in the rail and the sneeze blew him overboard.

After the vessel Grant had doubled on her course Harwest was hauled aboard one of the lifeboats. When taken on board the steamship he fainted. After that the hippopotamus went back to a hay diet and Harwest fed her from the end of a long shovel.—Ex.

Ancient Civilization of Asia Minor to be Studied

Hittites a Powerful Nation, Which Was on Terms of Equality With Babylon and Egypt. London, Aug. 20.—Widespread interest will be felt in a new scheme for a study of the ancient civilization of Asia Minor. It has been decided to organize a Hittite excavations fund, and a strong committee has been formed for the purpose. In a preliminary statement the committee points out that the links connecting the old civilizations of the East with the culture and civilizations of Greece and the Aegean must be sought by scientific research in Asia Minor and the adjoining lands.

Few people to day probably have much more knowledge of the Hittites than is contained in Biblical references to them as hovering on the political horizon of the children of Israel. It was not until about 30 years ago that the first light of modern scientific investigation was thrown on the history of this long lost race. Prof. Sayce and Dr. Wright then from the monuments discovered the existence of an old power that had been lost to historical memory, and recent investigation has shown that these scholars were right.

The Hittites are recognized as a number of kindred peoples settled in the habitable valleys of northern Syria and the Taurus and on the plateau of Asia Minor. Before 2,000 B. C. they were already in conflict with Babylon, and offshoots of them were established in southern Syria on the frontiers of Egypt.

In the 14th and 13th centuries B. C. the Hittites were masters of Asia Minor, and contested with Egypt, then at the height of her power, the possession of Syria. Their king fought a great battle with Ramesses II. or at least equal terms.

Numbers of the state archives of the Hittites written on tablets of clay have been discovered in the ruins of their ancient buildings. Unfortunately it has so far been found impossible to decipher the Hittite script but much may be learned of the race from the writings that refer to foreign affairs, these being expressed in the Assyrian language. From such documents it is clear that the Hittite kings treated on terms of practical equality with the courts of Babylon and Egypt, while the princes of northern Syria and Mesopotamia were their vassals. They remained the chief power in eastern Asia Minor till well into the first millennium, B. C.

From the postoffice steps Freeman Davis watched Professor Lane cross the road and enter the wheelwright's shop on the opposite side.

"Goes in and out free as you or me," Mr. Davis remarked to Jabez Sewall, "and nobody knows how many letters he's entitled to write after his name."

Jabez nodded. "But what I can't understand is how he come by all his smartness."

"I know, none of his forbes ever amounted to much in a literary way." "What you talkin' about?" Mr. Davis demanded warmly. "You know as well as I do that his father could spell Nebuchadnezzar quicker'n any other boy in school!"—"Youth's Companion."

Partnership Mr. Lotely Married—But, dearest, I thought we had planned to go to the opera this evening? Mrs. Ditto—Yes, love, but I have changed our mind.—Ex.
