It appears from the statement of Capt. Gates that he purchased the oil in Buffalo for Port Burwell, and from Euffalo he proceeded to Erie, Pa., for a load of coal for Port Collorne. On his arrival there he reported the oil to the collector, getting permission to make the entry at Port Burwell. Arriving there he landed the oil and disposed of the harrels to two merchants, entirely forgetting to make the entry.

than to have a few hundred dollars added to the civic revenue. The old company offers to sell ten tickets for 25 cents, during four months in the year, on a system which STATE SOCIALISM IN BRITAIN Joseph Chamberlain is playing hob with is admittedly more costly to operate than would be an electric railway. Why should it not be made a stipulation in the new contract that ten tickets should be sold for the old Conservative doctrines. Instead of contending for the keeping under of the masses, as would be expected of a statesman seeking to work with 25 cents all the year round? This arrangement would be fairer to citizens generally, and would be an especial boon to the staid old defenders of privilege who have hitherto ruled in the Tory fold, Mr. and would be an especial boon to the wage-earners, of which the greater Chamberlain insists that a movement in favor of State Socialism is necessary for re wage-carners, or which the greater proportion of our population is made up. The aldermen should not miss the opportunity to do a stroke of business calculated not only to please their constituents but to benefit even the contracting company. favor of State Socialism is necessary for the welfare of the people. This departure meets with much opposition from the squirearchy, who for so long had it all their own way in making the laws of the country. But Mr. Chamberlain insists that his programme of reforms must be faced if the compact into which he has entered is to be maintained. It is true that in his Nineteenth Century declarations he disclaims the name of Socialist, and declares that it is no more applicable to him than it is to the great majority of Englishmen. He THE RIGHT TO TAX.

A Government has no right to tax the whole hedy of the people for the benefit of a few private individuals. At least that was the opinion given at the polls last week by the people of the United States.—
[Canada Presbyterian.

It is the opinion which an ungerry-mandered electorate would gladly give in is no more applicable to him than it is to the great majority of Englishmen. He insists that every man who favors the English factory legislation is a State Socialist, and so is every supporter of the Poor Law, of free education, of the Artisans' Dwelling Act, or of the Vaccination Law. There is force in this view, but there has always been a wide disagreement among public men as to the length to which State Socialism should be carried. All men are Socialism should be carried. All men are State Socialists up to a certain point, inasmuch as there are certain things that everyone concedes the State can do better for the community than individuals can do for themselves. But there are those who held, further, shat the State should not do anything that individuals can de equally as well or better. Mr. Chamberlain may be put down as a State Socialist in every sense of the term. His programme contemplates an eight-hour day for miners, the earlier closing of shops, tribunals of arbitration in trade disputes, compensations for injuries received by

There is not one of these innovations the expediency of which is not whereantly disputed by persons intimately. innovations the expediency of which is not vehemently disputed by persons intimately acquainted with the facts; nevertheless, Mr. Chamberlain would invoke State inter-vention in each instance because some plausible arguments may be advanced in its There cannot be a doubt that this pro

But Mr. Chamberlain doubtless counts upon offsetting defects from his standard by the adhesion to him of many Socialistic work. Liberal party. How far he will be successful in this project remains to be seen. There is no guarantee that the Liberals may not present a programme for the approval of the workers that is much more radical in the workers that is much more radiced in its nature than even Mr. Chamberlain's Socialistic programme. The Liberals constitute the majority of the London County Council, and that body has shown itself to be ready to go much further in a Socialist direction than their opponents, the Condirection than their opponents, the Con-servative members. Gladstone and Morley have, it must be remembered, spoken have, it must be remembered, spoken against a compulsory eight-hour day, believing that the employes and employers should themselves settle that matter, as they have settled the question of shorter hours in every trade; but it is known that the majority of the Liberal leaders are not averse to granting any reasonable con-

The programme which Mr. Chamberland has mapped out for the guidance of his friends is chiefly interesting as a reminder of the great advance in radical ideas which has taken place in Britain since the workers were admitted to the franchise. At one time the defenders of class privilege tried to suppress democratic aspirations by bayonets and by Acts of Parliament. Now they try to preserve a few of the remaining abness by presenting a programme of egislation that would make the old-time defenders of class laws turn in their graves if they could read it.

IN England, national politics enter into municipal contests more than is the case in Canada. For this reason, it is noteworthy that in Liverpool, for the first time since 1840, the Liberal's have a majority in the 1840, the Liberal's have a majority in the 1840, the Liberal's have a majority in the souncil, and can elect not only the mayor for the coming nunicipal year, but also fill of the coming nunicipal year, but also fill

It is a fact well established by students of heredity that children are apt to inherit not only the physical, mental and moral traits of their parents, but to be influenced by their age as well. Children born of very young tathers and mothers never attain so vigorous a growth of mind or body as those of older men and women, while children of old people are born old. One of the most surprising cases in medical history is that of Marguerite Cribsowna, who died in 1763, aged 108 years. When 94 years of age she was married to a man aged 105. Three children came of this union, but they had gray hair, no teeth, were stooped, yellow and wrinkled, decrepit in movement, and could only eat bread and vegetables. Mrs. Sarah M. GUELPH, Nov. 16.—The article purporting to give an account of the wonderful discovery of a compound, and which makes 150 per cent. more butter, also an account of its use by Australian dairymen, having been copied so largely by the Canadian press, we were called upon to report upon the merits of "Black Pepsin," so called. Accordingly I sent 38 cents in American stamps to the Concord Chemical Company, New York, and in a few days received a reddish looking powder, sufficient, it said, to use in churning two gallons of cream. In the letter were two circulars signed by the Cloud-Harlin Company, Toronto. One of these was headed "A Fortune to Farmers," and went on to show how quickly a farmer might become rich by the use of "Black Pepsin" in the dairy, and that $32 per day could be made by agents selling the compound.

Papal Legatee to Washington.

New York, Nov. 17.—The advisability of placing at Washington a duly accredited representative of the Vatican may be dealt with at the conference now in session here. For many years American statesmen have disagreed upon the question of the Government recognizing the authority of a papal rancio. It has been held that if the Presicent should receive as one of his diplomatic family a representative of the Pope such stion might be construed as a recognition of the Pope's claim of temporal sovereignty. There is a likelihood that following the discussion of the matter by the archibishops, Mgr. Satolli may be induced to bring it to a crisis by reporting to the Vatican that steps should be taken locking to the appointment of a papal legatest to Washington. the compound.

The other circular gave directions for the use of "Black Pepsin" in churning. Said directions are copyrighted by the Cloud-Harlin Company, and retail for $2.50 each. Each box of pepsin sells for $2.50 and will make 500 punds of butter. I may say that I wrote Cloud, Harlin & Co., Toronto, on Nov. 5, asking for further particulars and more pepsin, but at this writing (Nov. 14), I have received no word from them.

(Nov. 14), I have received no word from them.

The directions on the envelope for dissolving the powder were as follows: Melt sufficient butter to make two teaspoonfuls butter oil, then add to the butter oil the contents of this envelope, and keep hot till all is dissolved. When dissolved it is ready for use. This sample is sufficient for churning two gallons. Use according to directions for making butter with Black Pepsin. It will require three or four churnings to get the best results, but this sample will give you a good idea."

VOTERS' LIST REVISION. On Monday forenoon, at 10 o'clock, the ourt for the revision of the Ontario voters' list will be held at the Court House.

Unless otherwise notified, every person who has applied to have his name put on the list by the agents of the Liberal party must attend in person and answer the simple questions necessary to guaranteeing him manhood suffrage.

The Liberals have not applied to have any names removed from the list, knowing that a bad vote can be attacked at the polls, and being unwilling to compel any citizen, whose qualification is in doubt, to go to the court to defend his vote.

On the part of the Conservative Association, many good votes are assailed. Those who have been supbœnaed must attend, however inconvenient, or run the risk of losing their franchise. The intention of the court is to take up the application to add first, beginning with the names put in by both parties for No. 1 division of No. 1 ward, and so on till the list is exhausted.

As there is a possibility that a by election may take place on these lists, every citizen affected should strive to be on hand when his name is called. By-and

VOTERS' LIST REVISION. On Monday forenoon, at 10 o'clock, th court for the revision of the Ontario voters list will be held at the Court House. Unless otherwise notified, every person who has applied to have his name put or the list by the agents of the Liberal party must attend in person and answer the simple questions necessary to guaranteeing him manhood suffrage. The Liberals have not applied to have any names removed from the list, knowing that a bad vote can be attacked at the polls, and being unwilling to compel any citizen, whose qualification is in doubt, to go to the court to defend his vote.

On the part of the Conservative Associa tion, many good votes are assailed. Those who have been supbœnaed must attend however inconvenient, or run the risk of losing their franchise.

The intention of the court is to take up the application to add first, beginning with the names put in by both parties for No. 1 division of No. 1 ward, and so on til the list is exhausted.

As there is a possibility that a bye election may take place on these lists, every citizen affected should strive to be on hand when his name is called. By-andbye, through registration, these proceedings will be rendered unnecessary.

Mrs. Serie stopped, for the footsteps were cose and she strove to thrust the forks into her pocket, but they got entantled with her dress, and would not go in. She was fain to make the best of it, and held them out before her, very consciously wishing Mr. Serie at York.
"Mrs. Serie—Lord Temple."
A tall, slender young man of distinguished bearing entered, a very aristociat. His face was pale, and his features were almost delicately beautiful, his hair was dark and his eyes were gray.

"What apology must I make for intruding upon you in this unceremonious manner," he said, in a voice as pleasing as his air was frank. "Mr. Serle has been so kind as to say he will give me a bed to-night."
"I am most happy to see your lordship. I hope you will be able to make yourself at home with us; we are only plain people," home with us; we are only plain people, was Mrs. Serie's confused reply, as she escaped from the room with the refractory forks.

"No." she replied. "I am Miss Danesbury."
Charlotte Serle came in, and was soon followed by Louisa; for Louisa had declined her mamma's suggestion of coming in with the dessert. The viscount scanned the dresses of the three and suspected company. The next to appear was Mr. Serle, in orthodox dinner costume. Lord Temple locked down at his own frock-coat, and drew Mr, Serle outside the door.
"Have you visitors to-day?"
"Only a few, my lord."
"Then what am I to do? I am in morning dress. You said you should be quite on famille."
"Your lordship's dress is all-sufficient. We do not stand upon ceremony in our house, or our visitors either. They will not look at your coat, my lord, after they hear your name."

Mr. Serle spoke the last sentence in a jok-" she replied. "I am Miss Danesos. Philip Danesbury's nieces arrived, y and Anna Heber, the one grown up, other several years younger. They refined, gentle, good girls; Mrs. Philip sebury hai said 'admirable,' and she not said too much. Their beauty was least part of them, though that was and their caim, open expressive counness were an index to the well-discipning within. They were the well-discipned daughters of a sincere minister of ion. Dinesbury House fell in love them at first sight, with the exception is mistress.

It is ready."

"Who is that gentleman?" inquired Isabel Danesbury.

"Bon't know him from Adam," was the response of Charlotte Serle.

"He is a stranger," resumed Isabel, "for he addressed me as Miss Serle."

"I never saw him before. He has on a curious dress if he is to come to dinner. But he is evidently a gentleman."

"It is some grand client of papa's," interposed Louise Serle. "Mamma came to me, all in a flurry, when was in the nursery having my hair done, and wanted me not to go down to dinner. The idea! Some important client had dropped in, she said, and papa had asked him to dinner, and she did not like to have the table in a squeeze, and would not sit down thirteen. I told her there would be no squeezing at all, but plenty of room, and thirteen was as lucky as twelve. So I finished dreesing and came down."

"Iliked his appearance very much," remarked Isabel.

"What is his name, Louey," asked Charlotte.

"I forcet. He is out of the common way.

"What is its listing, and the common way.

"I forget. He is out of the common way.
A duke, or a prince, or something; at any rate, a nobleman."
Charlotte laughed. "Lousa is rather given to romancing, Isabel. We never have noblemen here."

As she was speaking, Mr. St. George entered. A little man with a thin face, and keen, expressive dark eyes.

"Walter," said his bride-elect, "who is this client who came so unexpecedly to dine with us!"

"Viscount Temple."

"A viscount! Loudy's tale was not all romance, then."

"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspesia."—Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's Vegerantle Discovery having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now 79 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well-known in this section of Canada, having lived here 57 years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your Vegezable Discovery, which has done such wonders in my case."

New York, Nov. 17.—Grover, David B. and Harrison Struempfler are triplets.
They were born Monday. Their fond daddy is a loyal Demecrat. His wife is a Republican. That is why one of the triplets was named Harrison. Struempfler is the proprietor of the Twenty-Eighth Ward Hotel, Brooklyn. He was born in Brooklyn 37 years ago. His wife was born in the same town two years later. The triplets were born half an hour apart. Each of them weighed eight pounds. Mr. Struempfler weighs 120 pounds. He is five feet tall. Mrs. Struempfler weighs 200 pounds.

Mr. Serie spoke the last sentence in a joking tone; but he was always obsequious to rank: to be so was innate with him.

"Well—if Mrs. Serie will excuse it. I must wash my hands, and be obliged to you for combs and brushes, and such things. There is no time to send to my house."

"I will show your lordship to your room. It is ready."

"Whe is that gentleman?" inquired Isabel Danesbury.

"Don't know him from Adam," was the response of Charlotte Serie.
"He is a stranger," reaumed Isabel, "for he addressed me as Miss Serie. "He has on a curious dress if he is to come to dinner. But he is evidently a gentleman."

"It is some grand client of papa's," interposed Louise Serie. "Mamy sensible people express astonishment when told that bronchial consumption is a common disease.
