Foreman, motorman of the trolley train that crashed into another section bearing Pennsylvania and New Jersey excursionists from Niagara Falls to Buffalo, en route to their homes, was still unconscious at a hospital and may die. Peter Smith, Jarvis and Peppall Placed on Trial Before Chief Justice Meredith.

JURORS CHALLENGED

W. N. Tilley, One of Crown Counsel, Outlines Transactions Leading to Charge.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 20.—The trial of Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer for Ontario; Amilias Jarvis, Sen., Amilias Jarvis, Jun., and Harry Peppall, partner in the Jarvis firm, on charges of conspiring to defraud the province in connection with the purchase of bonds, was started this morning before Chief Justice R. M. Meredith in the fall assizes. The four men were asked to stand up, and they pleaded in firm voices, "Not guilty" to the lengthy charges as read by the clerk. The selection of a jury occupied three-quarters of an hour, and 23 jurors were challenged before the twelve men of the jury were selected.

His lordship overruled the objection taken by L. P. Helmuth, K.C., counsel for Jarvis, Sen., but speaking for all the accused that they could not be tried on charges of conspiracy as well as actual commission of the wrong they were alleged to have done.

He thought one of the charges should be dropped. His lordship said that the case rose out of the Jarvis charges, but if found guilty punished only on one.

The 39 jurors challenged were on behalf of the following: Peppall, 3; Jarvis, Jun., 10; Jarvis, Sen., 11; Smith, 6; crown, 2. Bail was renewed in each case. Hon. Peter Smith was committed to the House of Correction on a charge of $5,000 each. Counsel in the case are: Mr. Herbert Lennox for Smith; L. F. Helmuth for Jarvis, Jun.; R. H. Greer for Jarvis, Sen., and Arthur Peppall for Peppall. W. N. Tilley, MacGregor, Young, J. C. McKee for the crown.

Tilley Reviews Case.
Mr. Tilley reviewing the case to the jury took about 20 minutes. He said that the case rose out of the Jarvis firm in 1920 and had to do with bonds worth about $3,500,000 issued by the Ontario government. There were bonds outstanding in England and the government sought to redeem them.

The government took advantage of the good financial conditions existing at the time," said Mr. Tilley. In connection with the project the Jarvis firm was concerned in was a reputable firm of brokers. The three parties in the firm were the two Jarvisses and Harry Peppall. Andrew Peppall is mentioned in the indictment but he is not now on trial here. The firm carried on negotiations with Mr. Smith, and the government.

First Witness Called.
The profit money remained in New York until Mr. Jarvis sent bonds to take its place and the actual money placed to his personal credit there. The remainder was left with Lloyd's bank in England. The province paid the full maximum specified for their bonds.

They were all negotiable securities. The coupons on these bonds, we intend to prove, were cashed in part and in large part, by Peter Smith. We have traced these coupons into his bank account at Stratford. That is what the crown says the transaction was—that the spread between what was paid for the bonds actually and what the province paid eventually was split between the men charged. You, the jury, must decide who were the parties to this, and I think you will have no difficulty in finding that all the accused were parties."

The case resumed this afternoon.

PETER SMITH, provincial treasurer in the Drury administration, whose trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the sale of duty-free succession bonds is now in progress. Smith pleaded "not guilty" this morning.

OFFICIALS OF BANK FACE NEW CHARGE

Crown Will Proceed With New Indictments Against Officials.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 20.—New indictments, the nature of which is at present unknown, will be laid before the grand jury in connection with the charges against directors and officials of the Home Bank of Canada. This was announced today by D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special prosecutor for the Ontario government, when the cases already listed were brought before Chief Justice R. M. Meredith in the assizes. On account of the new indictments, Mr. McCarthy announced that there would be no prosecution at present on the conspiracy charges.

There is still another count, that of circulating a false prospectus, to be proceeded with at the assizes. There are also cases pending at the county court on charges of making false returns to the government under the bank act.

This morning at the assizes, N. W. Rowell, K.C., counsel for the defendants, asked in vain for the details of the new charges. Mr. McCarthy said he was acting under instructions of the attorney-general.

Cheating the Voters

Two-question street railway ballot should be refused tonight—city's wisest course under existing conditions is "stand pat" by bylaw 916 and await the company's move—no ballot necessary.

Tonight the city council will consider for approval a two-question ballot on the street railway situation.

These two questions give the public choice between (a) purchasing the railway at the company's offer of $1,295,000, plus extras, and (b) granting the company a new long-term franchise with the condition that the city may purchase at the end of any one year.

This is the ballot, with a slight variation in the second question, against which The Advertiser gave warning two weeks ago, when information of its probable introduction was secured.

The Advertiser repeats that warning. A ballot containing only the above two questions is cheating the voters by confining decision to the two courses most desired by the company.

Question one is permitting the company to set its own price, and no member of the council has any accurate idea as to whether that price is fair or not.

Question two is an absurd contradiction. A fifteen-year franchise with an annual purchase privilege is simply a one-year franchise. The only effect of the fifteen-year label is to create the possibility of prolonging through fifteen years the present muddle with steadily increasing complications.

Two other courses are open to the city. One is purchase by arbitration; the second is to abide by the present agreement. Both of these are preferable to the questions on the proposed ballot. If the council, in its present "must-do-something-but-don't-know-what" frame of mind, insists on forcing a vote this year, these other two courses must be included in the ballot.

From the point of view of the city, and without unfairness to the company, The Advertiser emphatically believes that the proper course lies in a choice between arbitration and the present agreement, the two courses excluded by the proposed ballot.

Arbitration is quite likely to be the final solution, and, provided the city and the company can agree to a definite limitation of its costs and time, The Advertiser believes it may prove to be the best solution for all concerned.

But arbitration does not appear to be the proper course at the present time.

In the first place the city has nothing to gain and possibly something to lose by hurried purchase. There is no urgency, from the city's point of view, in the existing circumstances.

In the second place the public is not sufficiently interested at the present moment to justify purchase under any conditions. Public ownership of the street railway, however it be accomplished, requires the awakened interest and moral support of every ratepayer. Such interest and such support is not evidenced in the present lethargy of the average ratepayer. He has had an overdose of complicated wranglings. He is under the opiate of confusion and noise.

The remaining course is to abide by the present agreement, bylaw 916, and under all the existing circumstances, The Advertiser believes it to be the wisest course for the city.

In other words, the city should "stand pat" and wait for the company to make the next move.

To "stand pat" means that next March the present franchise will be renewed automatically for five years with fares reduced from five cents to the old scale of seven and nine tickets for 25 cents.

The city will retain exactly the same opportunities to purchase, either by arbitration or bargaining, which it has now. There is a possibility of encountering temporary discomforts and inconvenience in interrupted or reduced service, but the city can lose nothing so far as the ultimate outcome is concerned.

What will happen in the "stand pat" course is a matter of speculation, but the possibilities should be faced. The company may refuse to operate under reduced fares, or it may cut wages and service and by thus precipitating a strike, force the city either to call in the railway board to operate the road or to provide a substitute bus system.

If the company should take such drastic measures as these the outcome might be arbitration proceedings, but arbitration then would be supported by a public alive to the necessities of the moment and eager to enforce the city's interests.

The best course for the city today is to stand pat, and the council should realize it.

To follow this course no ballot and no vote is necessary, and the council tonight should tear up the ridiculous two-question proposal and resolve to sit tight and keep quiet.

Decrease in income voters is stated to be the result of further exemptions of classification to avoid duplication.

FOX FAILS IN EFFORT TO SUICIDE

Dashes Head Against Wall of His Cell—Fears Punishment.

TAKEN TO KINGSTON

Both Prisoners Removed to the Penitentiary Early This Morning.

In terror of his prospect of his penitentiary term and the accompanying sentence of 20 lashes in the flogging machine at Kingston, Thomas Fox, yesterday afternoon, battered his head against the stone wall of his cell at the county jail and was found later inert on the floor either unconscious or feigning it.

Jail attacks immediately called the jail physician, Dr. James Wilson, who attended the man and treated a small scalp wound which resulted from the act. It is said, however, that Fox's pulse and the pupils of his eyes did not entirely substantiate the first belief that he had in fact been knocked out.

Since the judge passed sentence upon him Saturday morning, Fox had been in a state bordering on collapse. The prospect of fourteen years' imprisonment, but did not strike terror to his heart as did the flogging. For a time he simulated insanity in a last minute effort to show that he was not responsible for his act in attacking the west London girl last summer. When jail guards took his behavior with a grain of salt and left him for a time, he drew back to the furthest corner of his cell and breaking into a run dashed his bare head against the wall.

Sansone Perturbed.

Sansone took the sentence with a good deal of perturbation also. In his case it is claimed that he did not mind the two year term as much as the prospect of the lash.

Both men were taken to Kingston by Governor Byron Dawson this morning to commence their sentence at the penitentiary.

Police officials describe the flogging machine as an instrument of real torture. It is claimed that the man to be flogged is placed in a star-shaped position against a barrel shaped support, his feet strapped to the floor and his hands extended to the limit of his reach. The electrically driven blows with a thick strap perforated with holes which actually draws the blood. The blows fall in varying positions over the man's back, seldom overlapping.

Holds Pulse.

The prison surgeon holds the prisoner's pulse while the process is carried out and stops the machine when the prisoner is threatened with collapse. It is claimed that very few men are ever able to stand ten lashes at a time, and that it takes a powerful man to remain conscious through seven.

There is the reason for the division of the 24 lashes in a flogging in groups of ten.

Governor Dawson and his party left for Kingston at 5:30 this morning. Mr. Justice Riddell did not specify the number of lashes or Sansone in sentencing him Saturday morning, his lordship fixed the number as ten in his written judgment.

QUEBEC ANGLICAN MINISTERS CONDEMN GOVERNMENT SALE

Find Bootlegging Rampant and Blind Pigs Are On Increase—Fear Drinking in Homes Has Injurious Effect On Morals of Young Generation.

APPALLING AMOUNT OF BEER CONSUMED

ARTICLE 20.
I sought out an Anglican clergyman in a workman's district to see what he would say about government control. His name was Rev. Mr. Mason, and his charge is the Church of the Redeemer, in Cote St. Paul.

There was no difficulty persuading Mr. Mason to talk about government control. He does not like it. He says that after seeing it in operation he is against it. In his locality he is sure there are more blind pigs selling after hours and on Sunday than there were under prohibition.

"The bootleggers are buying their supplies from the government," declared this Anglican clergyman. "The government is getting its profit on the sales made and apparently is not interested in the suppression of the illicit sale. Conditions are very bad."

"Certainly workmen want liquor on Sunday and will pay any price to get it when they want it. They are being held up by the blind pigs. These men are the type who can least afford to drink, and their families are suffering."

"A bad feature of the government control system is that it affords the government a great chance to reward political hangers-on. The government liquor stores are overstaffed. I don't know whether the beer being sold is stronger than the 4 per cent the law allows, but I do know that lots of men are getting drunk on it."

"Drinking seems to be increasing rapidly. In the last six months I have seen more drunken men than I used to see two or three years ago under the old law."

Strong Drink in Taverns.
Brigadier McMillan of the Salvation Army, who for four or five years had charge of the army's police control work in Montreal, had not a good word to say for government control. He said it was a most unsatisfactory system.

"You can get spirituous liquors as well as beer in almost any tavern you go into," declared the brigadier. "From the number of drunks you see on the streets you wouldn't think we had government control at all. One day there were 99 drunks in the police court, and almost any day you can find 30 or 40."

A large contracting firm told me that there was little difference in the efficiency of labor in Quebec and Ontario. Rough labor in Quebec was perhaps a little more unreliable owing to liquor. Ontario labor was more generally "white," more intelligent and less likely to disobey a law than was the case in Quebec. For that reason the government sale of Quebec might suit Quebec where it would be undesirable in Ontario.

Canon Flanagan's Views.
Canon Flanagan, an Anglican minister, who has grown up with his district, thought that decent people who had voted for government control were much dissatisfied with its workings in Quebec.

"The government seems to be out to make revenue," he said. "The number of government stores is out of all proportion to the necessities of the case. And they plant down a store before anyone knows anything about it in the most autocratic way and it is very hard to get things changed, although we succeeded in one instance."

"At border points the conditions are abnormal. In small towns there the receipts are fabulous. There is direct traffic across the border which the government seems to encourage for the sake of profit. The government is directly involved in the center of the bootlegging trade, thus creating a real moral issue."

"The idea of government control was to be the restriction of the traffic within normal limits in practice it is working out as a business proposition. There is supposed to be a limit of one bottle of hard stuff for each person. But as many as seven men in costly touring cars visit a series of stores and fill the car with rumrunning or bootlegging purposes."

Canon Flanagan said that, bad as things were, conditions were better than they were under the open bar. There was not much intoxication in his middle class district, although he heard reports of heavy drinking elsewhere. He thought it was clear beer stronger than four per cent was being sold.

Beer Drinking Appalling.
Rev. James Fee, who has charge of All Saints' church, and is chairman of the social service committee of the Anglican church, took exception to the arbitrary power of the government control board to locate liquor stores where it pleased without notice or redress. He objected to the bootlegging which was going on and feared that the control board lent itself to it.

"There is less drinking on the part of my own people than under license," said Mr. Fee, "but some of the clergy tell a different story. An appalling amount of beer is being drunk. One brewery announced a day for five beer and all the bums and low characters in the city were there. What I particularly dislike about the government control system is its sale of beer by the bottle in the groceries. That is a vicious feature."

aps the Moral Sense.
Rev. Dean Sanders was another Anglican clergyman who had definite convictions about the sale of liquor. "The liquor trade means broken hearts, broken pockets and broken homes," he said. "Give me prohibition unless there is something better. Government control is worse; as bad, possibly, as license, for it saps the moral sense of government and people."

"The police do not arrest the drunks unless they are disorderly lying on the ground outside the church, where a ball game was in progress. They came over, dragged the men to a distance and left them there."

"The present system develops drinking in the homes. It is educating this generation to drink. The government farms out the traffic to a commission. The commission goes out for business and acts in an automatic manner. If a store manager does not make a profit, the place is closed. There is no control of the character people expect. The character of a constable was once drawn to five men who went to one government store and bought again and again. The officer only shrugged his shoulders."

Renounced Government Control.
R. L. Werry, a newspaperman, is one temperance worker who was enamored of government control until he experienced its operations. He is now one of its most persistent opponents. He thinks present conditions are worse than those under license. He says the taverns are demoralizing the young men and that the economic effects are serious. The sale of liquor makes the social evil worse. Prostitution could not be controlled while liquor was legally obtainable. The sale of beer by groceries Mr. Werry declares to be bad for the children in the homes which order it.

BISHOP DEDICATES CHURCH MEMORIAL

Window Unveiled in Memory of the Late Rev. Canon
William Craig.

David Williams, bishop of Huron, dedicated a memorial window in the church of St. John the Evangelist yesterday at the morning service. The window, which is in the north wall of the church, is placed in memory of Rev. Canon William Craig, rector of the church from 1910 to 1913.

In an elaborate service, which preceded the unveiling and dedication, the children of the Sunday school took a prominent part. Ushered into the church by a troop of Boy Scouts, the children filed into the church and occupied the two front rows of pews.

Col. C. E. H. Fisher, one of the oldest members of the church, performed the unveiling, drawing back the flags hiding the window, and the bishop having dedicated it, preached a forceful sermon on the training and upbringing of children.

He regretted that the home had so largely abrogated in favor of the Sunday school in late years, and maintained that the home was still the chief feature in the training of the young child's mind and in the formation of character. He suggested that some means might be introduced which would enable the churches to give more time to the work of the Sunday schools.

In the matter of missionary work, the bishop believed that more attention might profitably be given to the needs of the children at home. He thought the use of the word missionary might apply with equal strength at home as abroad.

The memorial window depicts Christ as the infant Saviour. The moment when He was presented in the temple at Jerusalem in the arms of Simeon, and appropriately enough is a story of child life in memory of a man whose life was known as a story of child life.

STRONG APPEALS MADE FOR O. T. A.

Edward E. Reid and George
A. Stanley Speak at Askin Street Church.

Edward E. Reid, general manager of the London Life insurance company, London, and George A. Stanley of Lucan, speaking at the evening service in the Askin street Methodist church last night, issued a last appeal to the members of the congregation for a solid vote in support of the O. T. A. next Thursday.

Both speakers declared the eyes of the temperance world were upon Ontario in this plebiscite and that he vote in the cause of temperance would prove a splendid moral support for the cause everywhere.

Mr. Reid, with the authority of an insurance man and with the statistics of the business in his hands, warned young men especially against the shortage of life which must inevitably follow the use of alcohol.

Quotes Figures.
Quoting from figures supplied by one of the largest life insurance companies in New York Mr. Reid stated that a man's life would become shorter and shorter in direct ratio to the amount of alcohol he used. For every hundred deaths recorded by the company among total abstainers, there were 124 among the rare drinkers, 143 among the temperate drinkers, and 213 among what the company labelled moderate drinkers.

He also remarked for the benefit of those young men who felt inclined to try drink for a bit, and then give it up, that an insurance company rated their life risk exactly the same as the risks in the other categories of drinkers, according to the amount consumed.

Only Two Questions.
George Stanley declared that there were only two questions facing the voter, the support of the O. T. A. and the government sale of liquor for beverage purposes in sealed packages. He said there were no new features in this vote as compared with the last vote on the question of the use of liquor by the people of Ontario.

He said that 97 per cent of all his bad debts in a business life of forty-three years had been because the money had been spent over a bar. In the matter of government control he stated that since May 1 of this year, when the Alberta government control law went into effect, 239 hotels had been licensed to sell liquor by the glass, and were maintaining rooms in which liquor was sold either to men or women, and at which the drinkers sat down at tables, in place of standing at a bar as in the old days.

Chuey, the victim of the Tong war, was shot four times. One bullet penetrated his temple, another pierced his heart. His body was a target for two other shells. The first shot entered his head at the rear. As he swung around, his assailants fired several times, three times with effect. A lone passerby and police that at least a dozen shots rang out.

FIRE DOES DAMAGE IN CIGAR FACTORY

Loss of $10,000 in Plant of William Ward & Sons,
King Street.

A blaze in the cigar factory of William Ward & Sons, Limited, King street, yesterday afternoon did damage estimated at $10,000.

The flames started in the shipping room on the first floor, and shot up the elevator shaft to the upper floors and destroyed part of the roof.

Many cases of cigars were in the shipping room ready for shipment, and these were totally destroyed by smoke and water. Other tobacco in the building was destroyed by the smoke.

The ceiling of the second floor was partially destroyed, and the elevator shaft was considerably damaged.

A great deal of trouble was encountered by the fire-fighters because of volumes of pungent smoke issuing from the building.

Chief Aitken stated that the fire must have been burning some time before it was noticed as the flames had reached the second floor before an alarm was turned in.

Mr. Ward stated that to the best of his knowledge no one had been in the building since Saturday afternoon.

Adjoining buildings were not damaged as the flames were confined to the inside of the building. Smoke penetrated into the knitting company that occupies the building in the rear, but this did not cause any damage.

No one was injured.

O. T. A. DEBATE FEATURES CAMPAIGN IN OXFORD

Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock, Oct. 19.—One of the interesting events of the plebiscite campaign in Oxford county took place at Woodstock last night, when a debate was staged with Rev. Donald MacIntyre of Ingersoll, speaking on behalf of the O. T. A., and Harry Sanders, a Woodstock lawyer, supporting government control. During the course of the debate, Mr. Sanders was heckled by a member of the audience. While Mr. MacIntyre was speaking, Mr. Sanders objected to some of his remarks, and when ordered by the chairman to sit down, he appealed against this ruling to the meeting. Mr. Sanders' appeal was upheld. The meeting hall was packed to capacity. Beachville hall was packed to capacity, and keen interest was shown in the debate.

MINISTER URGES O. T. A. BE RETAINED

Rev. W. L. Armitage, Rector of St. James Church, Outlines Stand.

MORAL ISSUE

Rev. W. L. Armitage, rector of St. James', London, South, explained his reasons at the evening service on Sunday for supporting the O. T. A. in the coming plebiscite. At the same time he urged the people of his congregation to vote to sustain the act on Thursday.

Mr. Armitage said: "I am quite conscious of the great division of opinion, even in the congregation and among the best people, yet I feel the responsibility placed upon me as leader amongst you that I am bound to express myself on any great public question in which some have been seeking information and guidance. Consequently I crave your patience to state my own position."

"It is no doubt a moral question, because the morals of the people will be affected by the decision. No one can do otherwise than fairly admit that conditions today, while unsatisfactory to everyone, are also much better than in the days of the open bar. The young cannot remember these things. We older people who began our lives last century, knowing conditions through which we have passed, must say that I do not want those conditions to return. As to conditions today, socially and morally, I simply say this: Ask those directly interested, namely, workers, teachers in Sunday schools and day schools and inspectors of public schools—they all have their hands upon the pulse of the social and moral life of the country, and these persons unanimously say conditions are immensely better. You have nearly 90 per cent of the inspectors of Ontario—12 per cent did not reply and 3 per cent were adverse—but over 80 per cent are on record as absolutely convinced of the improved conditions of the children under their inspection throughout the province."

Is Not Satisfactory.

"Government control we have now, and it is not so very satisfactory to everyone. It is absolutely in the hands of the government, and they are not making a success of it. This is, in my mind, there is no such thing and never has been, as government control of liquor traffic. It is a lawless thing, always has been, and I suppose always will be. What the new law would be no one can tell. Mrs. Hume Elliot last Sunday professed to be a law-abiding citizen, but members have said that or that would be, but that is not the mind of the government as a whole. We know this: That the government control in some provinces, and while some things are said that are not very pleasant about observation or non-observance of the law and conditions there, especially in British Columbia, I saw more drunkenness in five hours in Vancouver than in five hours in London—worse conditions than I had in London. On Sunday, at any rate. You may say that was a year ago, and things are changed, but was it not strange our government should say it is not a government control as in British Columbia or Quebec? To whom? I presume as citizens any man, be he law-abiding or not, who is engaged in business or profit, be he foreigner who cares not for our laws he can have it. A sealed package may mean the same that will go to an ordinary pocket. Nobody knows, nothing has been declared. The more that will be sold, the more profit to the government. Brewers of other provinces and lawn wine producers in France are said to be assisting financially. Where is it going? A Kitchener brewery has notified its tenants, many of them, that they are to vacate, apparently expecting to start up business again. Note that breweries and distilleries have been reduced by half. Where is it going? In a sealed package it can go to two places, the home or the automobile, both very undesirable for all concerned."

Denies O. T. A. Responsible.

"The Ontario act has been said to be responsible for the conditions today. I contend it is not, but the result of those who do not observe it. "Drinking and drunkenness among young boys and girls is greatly exaggerated, I am certain. We have over 100 young men and women in our organized work, and they would turn such a thing. That there is such a thing we do not deny, but it comes under the head of those living a fast life."

A nation that is great is not made by its banks or resources, but by the character of its people, and I defy anyone to show where the liquor traffic has ever developed the best or highest character."

REV. C. MACKINNON SPEAKS ON SUNDAY

St. Andrew's Congregation Hears Moderator of Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Clarence MacKinnon, D.D., moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada, delivered an appeal for the development of personal and individual Christianity at the morning service of St. Andrew's church.

Dr. MacKinnon, taking his text from Colossians, chapter 1, verse 27, and the words "Christ in You—the Hope of Glory," compared the attitude of the Jesuit priests in Canada 200 years ago with the outlook of the church today in the manner of extending salvation to those outside the church.

Salvation today was a matter of personal conviction, and not some form applied by an intermediary. While granting a need of praise to the Jesuit for his splendid courage and faith, he asked the modern Protestant with his belief in the spiritual side of salvation to put at least as much genuine effort and courage into the work of helping others.

He suggested that if the man of today would take day in the life today would take day in the life of Christ and model his daily personal contacts from it, that the cause of the church would be advanced, and the gospel of Christianity would be preached best and carry the most conviction.

Dr. MacKinnon said the whole church in Canada was indebted to Rev. D. C. MacGregor, minister of St. Andrew's church, "on account of the things he stands for," and hoped the young men of the congregation would support the O. T. A. in the plebiscite, as part of their belief in the teachings of their church.

CITY CHURCHES

DR. MORGAN COMING.

One of the most interesting meetings of the week will be that held in St. Andrew's church on Saturday morning next, at 11 o'clock when Dr. Campbell Morgan, distinguished divine, who conducted epoch-making services in St. Andrew's church last October, will be the speaker.

SOCIAL PROGRESSIVE CLUB.

At a recent meeting of the social progressive club held at the home of Mrs. N. Armstrong, Drexley avenue, the election of officers for the coming year was held, resulting as follows: President, Mrs. D. B. Richardson; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. J. Jenkins, Mrs. B. Brown; secretary, Mrs. L. W. Johnston; assistant secretary, Mrs. R. W. Johnston; critic, Mrs. N. Armstrong; assistant critic, Miss L. Johnston.

ST. ANDREW'S Y. P.

The young people of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held their social hour last night after the evening service. The B. S. C. had charge of the devotional period, after which talks were given by Miss Hutton and Miss Hoggan on the "Plebiscite." Dr. D. C. MacGregor also spoke on the O. T. A. question. Mr. Christiani and Miss Reta Lowry rendered pleasing solos, accompanied by Mrs. Robson, and the boys' club were in charge of the light refreshments which were served at the conclusion of the hour, which was greatly enjoyed by those present.

HARDY ONES TRY DIP IN COOL LAKE WATER

Port Stanley was a soothing scene for many city people who visited the now quiet resort on Sunday afternoon.

The variegated colors of autumn foliage lent an air of loveliness to the sparkling waters of Lake Erie, which lay calm and subdued, not a ripple breaking the silence.

Several rather warm-blooded followers of Neptune were bold enough to take a little dip in the cool waters before departing for the city, but the majority were content to stay on shore and watch their friends frolicking in the lagoon-like lake.

Firemen Have Narrow Escape

Stone Steps Collapse at Ward & Sons.

A score of firemen, fighting the blaze yesterday afternoon at the cigar factory of William Ward & Sons, narrowly escaped serious injury when stone steps leading to the second story of the building gave way beneath them. Others standing below managed to dodge the heavy boulders as they fell to the ground.

The firemen had used the steps to enter the second story of the intense building. Affected by the intense heat, the stone and cement of the stairway cracked when a cold stream of water was played upon it. The top part of the stairway gave way a moment after firemen entered the building. Several were standing on the steps as the cement broke, but managed to safely reach the ground before the whole stairway caved in.

DOCTOR IS PAID SUM OF $28,500

Case of Smith Against Saunders Is Settled Out of Court.

The supreme court action of Dr. C. O. Smith, former general manager of the W. E. Saunders, wholesale drug company, against Mr. Saunders and the company, has been settled out of court for $28,500.

The original action was for $19,488 due on a promissory note, but other actions were pending, and in making a settlement these affairs were taken into consideration.

According to the settlement, $10,500 is to be paid Dr. Smith in cash, the balance of $18,000 being secured by notes of the W. E. Saunders, signed by W. E. Saunders, Emma L. Saunders, and Muriel R. Featherstone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saunders. The last note is payable on Oct. 18, 1925.

In return, the Saunders, as to the premises, 184-186 King street, the present home of the drug company, it is understood that Dr. Smith paid $55,000 for the premises, paying $10,500 cash, leaving a mortgage of $44,500.

Dr. Smith, who holds minority stock in the drug company, still maintains a sharehold, with protecting clauses in the agreement. Ivey, Elliott & Gillanders acted for Dr. Smith, and G. A. P. Brickenden & Co., for Mr. Saunders.

The case was to have been tried by Mr. Justice Riddell this week, but counsel advised a delay until Friday that a settlement was pending.

SILK TRAIN SPEEDS THROUGH LONDON

Precious Cargo Carried by C. N. Special Worth Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars.

With hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of precious silks from the Orient aboard, a special train of the Canadian National Railways passed through London at 12:45 o'clock this morning.

The silk train left San Francisco four days ago on the Santa Fe Railway. It was turned over to the Canadian National at Chicago. The running time is 40 miles per hour, which includes stops. The time made from Sarnia to Buffalo was four and a half hours.

The reason for the high rate of speed of this train, which runs well up to 75 miles an hour in spots is the high value of the silks. The amounts of money involved are in the millions and the interest on the products mounts during the time the merchandise is on the road. The shippers, therefore, see that it gets a fast run from the Pacific coast to New York.

Railway competition has been keen on silk train business. When the boys living on St. Julien street, whom it is said, are guilty of breaking street lights at the corner of Hamilton road and East street and also on Hume street.

The public utilities commission has suffered so extensively in this regard that it is now considering the possibility of taking drastic steps to put a stop to the practice.

A feature of the hydro show in the commission's office and show room at Dundas and Wellington streets this week will be a number of damaged street lights, showing the extent to which the commission suffers because of the depredations of mischievous persons.

CHANCELLOR WOULD BOOST PAPAL RULE IN AUSTRIA

Vienna, Oct. 20.—Chancellor Seipel has caused considerable comment and commotion, especially in educational circles, by broaching the question of enforcing the canon law in questions of education in Austria.

Commenting on the speech the archbishop of Vienna, ruled by the archbishop of Vienna.

HYDRO LIGHT VANDALS WILL BE PROSECUTED

Information will be laid in police court this week against a number of boys living on St. Julien street, whom it is said, are guilty of breaking street lights at the corner of Hamilton road and East street and also on Hume street.

Other Helpful Suggestions.

In severely infested areas dent corn should be preferred to flint, because it has a deeper furrow, and the stem an does not break down or dry out so easily.

A trap crop in a normal year gives good results. It consists of about a dozen rows of flint, sown and planted in a convenient place about ten days earlier than the usual date for sowing the main crop. In this case should then be planted a week or more later than the usual time.

If the trap crop grows well it will attract the most of the insects and the main crop will be saved. If the trap crop grows well it will attract the most of the insects and the main crop will be saved.

SEVEN DRUNK.

Seven men, arrested by the police over the week end, paid fines amounting to $70 in police court this morning on charges of being intoxicated. In every case but one a plea of guilty was made.

WRONG ADDRESS GIVEN FOR SUNDAY GAMBLERS

Seven young men, fined in police court for gambling on the Sabbath, were reported by an unfortunate error, as being found at 242 Dundas street. The gambling took place in a building more than a block away from the gambling premises at 242 Dundas street had no connection with the case in any way.

COMBODINE WAR GROWING INTENSE

Federal and Provincial Governments Co-operate to Eradicate Devastating Pest.

METHODS DIFFER

Every effort is being made by government officials, both federal and provincial, to eradicate the corn borer from Ontario fields. Special instructions of a helpful nature are being sent out to every farmer in Western Ontario June in every part.

Control measures differ to some extent in the various counties. R. A. Finn of the local branch of the department of agriculture states:

The following bulletin has been issued for Middlesex by L. Caesar of the O. A. C., and H. G. Crawford of Ottawa.

There is no doubt that the European corn borer is here to stay; that it is increasing rapidly; and that, if control measures are not adopted immediately, especially in the worst infested counties it will ruin the corn industry in a very few years, in some counties perhaps in two years.

Up to the present there has been no united effort made to combat it in any county; even in Elgin not more than 50 per cent of the farmers have adopted control measures but what these careful men did has helped a great deal to prevent the increase being much more rapid than it otherwise would have been, but full control cannot be looked for until every corn grower is doing his part.

In any county but Essex and Kent the borer should be almost as easy to control as the potato beetle, and the cost little or no greater. Once farmers begin to practice the necessary measures they will readily continue to do so each year; for they will find that these are not so burdensome and that they will pay well.

Control Measures.

Control measures are based upon the fact that the borers winter over and remain until June in any part of the corn plant above ground, that is, in the stubble, stalks, pieces of stalks and even the cobs. Some are also in stout weeds among the corn, but seldom seen in weeds elsewhere. Control, therefore, consists in killing the borers in the above places before June. If left later than this they will change their habits and will fly around and lay eggs in the new crop.

Killing may be accomplished by a number of means:

1. By feeding to live stock as many of the corn plants they will eat.

2. By burning unconsumed stalks, parts of stalks and cobs.

3. By plowing down all corn stubble and other corn remnants and weeds left in the corn field.

4. By cutting the corn stubble with a silage chopper, or by using a silage shredder, which will cut the stalks into small pieces, and will break up the silage into small pieces, and will break up the silage into small pieces.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE NO. 6

Here's a fairly hard nut to crack, but remember the rubs and you will find the solution for this one as you have for others. The more you try the better you will like The Advertiser's daily cross word puzzle.

"One cross word leads to another" is the slogan of this game, and the key to its solution. All the words in these puzzles, across and up and down, horizontal and vertical, interlock. When you find a word crosswise, it helps you at the same time to determine the other up-and-down words.

Cross-word puzzles form ingenious patterns. You will be fascinated in working them out.

The directions for working out the puzzle are printed below.

Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the first letter of a word.

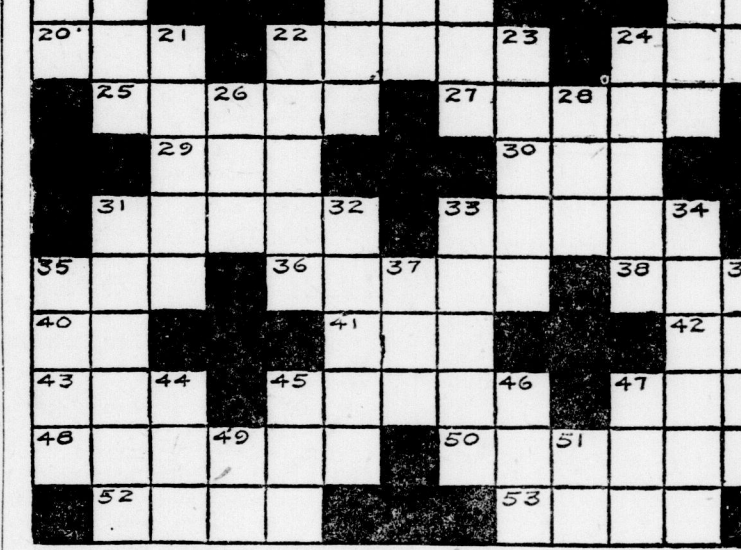

Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical), according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock.

Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table.

Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white spaces allotted to it.

Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.

HOWLETT SAYS DIVINE PLAN IS IN THE BIBLE

New York Lecturer of Bible Students Speaks in Hyman Hall.

That the Bible is not merely a book of general principles, but a revelation of the divine plan for man, was the declaration made by H. Howlett, New York lecturer of the Bible students' association, speaking in Hyman Hall last night.

"Men of the world and newspaper editors," he said, "are constantly saying that our system is a failure. Mr. Howlett asserted: 'They see it from the political and social viewpoint, while we look at it from the religious angle.'"

"It is a surface teaching of the Bible that God's kingdom will follow the breakdown of Christendom," he said. "The Bible teaches that the final conflict between truth and error, take place. Because

POLITICAL POT NOW SIMMERING

Mayor Wenige Nears Third Term, With Few Opponents in Sight.

ALL COMPLIMENTARY

London's political pot, with municipal nominations only three weeks distant, is simmering slowly. Plenty of rumors abound to city hall circles of prospective mayoralty candidates to oppose the present mayor, but each and all have been labelled "complimentary."

Nearing the close of his second term as mayor, George Wenige is offering himself once more for the post of chief magistrate—at the distance no opposition is in sight. When he secured an acclamation last December four of the other six nominees were declared to be enemies of the projects of Mayor Wenige during his first year of office. Two other names mentioned were merely complimentary nominations. Wenige was the one nominee to qualify, and he secured an acclamation.

Looking for Material.

During recent months lovers of an election "fight" have been looking around for possible mayoralty material and have brought forth a number of suggestions only to have their favorites decline a few days later.

In council circles, Ald. L. H. Douglas and Ald. Jack Green, committee chairmen, have not definitely declined themselves. From statements gleaned from them, it would not be apparent that they will oppose the present mayor in an election contest. Ald. Edwin Smith, who was a school trustee for eight years, has been spoken of as having mayoralty aspirations, but he says "Not this year."

The Labor party met Friday night and decided to hold a special meeting to discuss municipal elections next Friday. The labor men are known to be grooming several strong candidates for the aldermanic field in ward three. They want Ald. Frank McKay to go to the post as a mayoralty nominee, but Ald. McKay says he will not be in the field, as he believes it doubtful if he could find time to give the proper attention to municipal affairs as mayor.

Business Candidates Lacking.

Business interests have named no favorite for the mayoralty race, though several influential sessions have been held recently. S. F. Lawson, trustee of the board of education, has been asked by a number of friends to seek mayoralty honors, but he told The Advertiser today that he had no such intention.

"If I am a candidate for office again, it will be as a school trustee," he told a reporter.

"I have been asked by many friends, but I don't think I can consider it at all."

C. OF C. DIRECTORS RAP FORM OF L. S. R. BALLOT

Will Carry Protest to Council Meeting Tonight—Beck's Advice Sought.

The directors of the London chamber of commerce will tonight in a body endeavor to persuade the city officials to postpone a vote of the citizens on the purchase of the London street railway.

The directors at a meeting on Saturday decided that the questions to be submitted to the voters are inadequate, and a motion to attend the meeting tonight found hearty approval.

It was also decided to ask Sir Adam Beck to attend the city council meeting, so that his opinion might be secured as to the wisdom of submitting a vote to the citizens at this time.

"SIS" WOULD CURE BROTHER OF SHEIK HAIR HABIT

A local druggist who thought he had seen every conceivable kind of vile medicine mixed during his long career in the dispensing department received a shock on Saturday night when a young woman stepped up to the counter and asked him for five ounces of bay rum and a bottle of mullage to mix with it. The same bottle and labelled hair tonic.

The bewildered druggist said he could not do anything like that. Whereupon the sweet young thing explained. Her brother, a high school boy, has Valentino tendencies. To satisfy his appetite for creams and lotions, powders and brilliants he has invaded the privacy of his sister's boudoir and helped himself to her toilet preparations.

"A dangerous disease requires drastic measures," said the girl. "He must be cured. One good dose of the medicine I will leave on my dresser will cure him. He will help himself generously to the tonic, and half tonic he shall have. Give me the bay rum and the mullage in separate bottles. I'll mix them myself."

RECEIVE MINIATURE.

Alex. Watson will this week be presented informally with a miniature cup of the Middlesex Motors trophy as the Thames valley golf course, which he won a few weeks ago. The trophy, emblematic of the individual championship of the course, is a perpetual and hence the winner each year will be the victor with a miniature of the cup itself.

Why I Shall Vote O.T.A.

JOHN H. CHAPMAN,
Head of J. H. Chapman &
Co., drygoods, of London.

"I am in favor of the Ontario temperance act and will vote for it."

"After the passing of the O. T. A. people bought more goods than before; a certain class of people had more money than they had had previous to its passing."

"In time the act will be better enforced. I believe that it would be a calamitous thing if the act is defeated."

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Oct. 20.—Ten aliens, first quota of hundreds to be sent to the United States, were deported by federal immigration inspectors, were brought to Ellis Island in chains yesterday. They will be deported on the first ships bound for their European homes.

Smuggling across the Canadian border has increased rapidly, according to inspectors. W. M. Mahon, who is in charge of the prisoners.

KILLING OF SHEEP AROUSES OWNERS

Canines With Penchant For Fleecy Animals Cause Thousands of Dollars Damage.

London township farmers are again up in arms as a result of damage done by sheep-killing dogs.

Two sheep and a lamb, valued at $60 were found killed on the farm of Arthur T. Rowell concession 5, London township on October 10, while another sheep belonging to Mr. Rowell was killed on Saturday, valued at $40.

During the spring and early summer months sheep were killed in London township worth thousands of dollars. The township council offered large rewards for the dogs responsible and were forced to part with much good money to the owners of the sheep, many being of pure bred stock.

Alarmed farmers patrolled the roads and fields day and night with the result that several hundred stray canines were put out of the way via the bullet route.

Mr. Heighway has been retained as valuator in the Rowell case and it is more than likely that the farmers will again take to midnight prowling in an effort to locate the dogs with a fondness for sheep.

YOUNG INDIAN APPEARS FOR TRIAL IN DECEMBER

Morris Fisher, a young Indian from the Muncie reserve, was committed for trial Saturday morning by County Magistrate Hawkshaw on a charge of a grave offence against an Indian girl under the age of 14.

Fisher will be tried by the next court of competent jurisdiction, which happens to be the December county court sittings.

This morning relatives were at the court house, in an endeavor to secure bail. This could not be arranged by Fisher's father, who was out of the city.

Fisher was prosecuted on Saturday by Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd.

DEPUTY MAGISTRATE HURT IN FALL AT HIS HOME

Deputy Magistrate F. W. Gladman, 434 St. George street, sustained a broken wrist and dislocated elbow in a fall downstairs at his home on Saturday. This morning his condition was reported to be greatly improved, and the break, according to his physician, is not serious, although he will be confined to his home for some time.

Hubby Can Worry Week's Toll Is Ten Petite Matrons Who Are Com- pelled to Pursue Studies.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—All married girls in Chicago under sixteen are to be compelled to attend public school, says W. L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education. While Mr. Bodine admits that he dislikes to have to force husbands to get their wives off to school every day, he says the man who marries a wife of school age is the one who is responsible for her attendance.

"The law," Mr. Bodine explains, "provides that every person having custody of a child between the ages of seven and sixteen is accountable for the child's regular attendance at school. He holds that when a man takes the custody of a bride under sixteen he is the 'person' responsible. Ten brides of fourteen and fifteen years were last week compelled to give up housework and return to school."

POLES BEING REMOVED FROM DOWNTOWN AREA

C. N. and C. P. Telegraph
Co. Workers Have Task
Nearly Completed.

The task of taking down the C. N. R. and C. P. R. telegraph poles and wires along Richmond, Dundas and Wellington streets is about completed.

The actual cutting down of the poles aroused considerable interest upon the part of the pedestrian public, some 100 or more people always being on hand to see the work.

In all the C. P. R. company cut down about 30 poles between its downtown offices and the station, the route being via Richmond, Dundas and Wellington streets.

The C. N. R. company is cutting down seven or eight poles along Richmond street, from the downtown office to the rear of the station on York street.

With the removal of the telegraph poles and wires, there remain on the Richmond streets only the street railway wires and the street light standards. It is the plan of the commission to in time combine, if possible, the street lights on the poles supplying power for the street railway.

SKULL IS FRACTURED OF DUTTON FARMER

Angus McCallum, of Dutton, was brought to Victoria hospital shortly after noon today suffering from a severely fractured skull. He was struck on the head from a flying piece broken from the cutting box of a threshing machine on his farm this morning.

The injured man was brought to the London hospital by Galbraith and A. Turner of Dutton. A. Turner Denbigh Rankin performed an operation shortly after 2 o'clock.

Mr. McCallum had a severe fracture on the right side of his skull, physicians stated. His condition is considered very serious, and immediately upon his arrival at the hospital an operation was found to be imperative.

COMMISSION WILL TALK REPORT OF MANAGER

The regular meeting of the public utilities commission, postponed from last Thursday to enable the members of the commission to attend the ceremonies at the University of Western Ontario, will be held next Thursday afternoon.

The commission will consider the report of Manager E. V. Buchanan concerning the individual employees by the commission who reside outside the city limits. There are five of such employees, two girls and three married men, all of whom, however, resided within the city limits at the time they were taken on the staff. Just what action the commission will take with regard to the matter is largely speculative.

AUTO BADLY SMASHED IN MORNING COLLISION

A motor car, driven by John Dodge, 61 Grand avenue, was badly smashed when it came into collision with a street car at Pall Mall and Adelaide streets shortly before nine o'clock this morning.

RAILWAY POLICE OPENED TODAY

Returning Officer Scores Report That Workers Are Denied Vote.

Marking the commencement on the 1924 vote of the Ontario temperance act, London's advance poll for railway workers was opened at 9 o'clock this morning. The polling station, located at 779 Dundas street, was in charge of Deputy Returning Officer Thomas C. Bartlett. As nearly as could be learned, no workers had appeared up to press time.

The railwaymen's poll will be open today, tomorrow and Wednesday. The R. O. will be at the polling station from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 at night. Railway workers, ready to take an affidavit that their work would take them out of the city on election day, Oct. 23, are permitted to vote on any of these days.

Fitzgerald Scores Reports.

Reports that railway workers were being denied a vote were scored by W. C. Fitzgerald, returning officer for London.

"They have four chances to vote," he declared. "In some cases it is a physical impossibility to give the railroaders a vote. Some train crew leave the city early in the morning and do not return until after the polls are closed at night. We are powerless to do anything in their case."

The advance poll will close finally at 9 o'clock on Wednesday night. Mr. Bartlett will open a box of ballots, making any inspection of the ballots. The box will be opened at the polling station on Thursday night at 9 o'clock. The polls in the city are closed and the ballots will be counted and returns announced.

Officers Already Busy.

With the necessity of providing facilities for 35,000 voters on Thursday, the duties of the deputy returning officer and his assistants were busy on Saturday about 50 of the D. R. O.'s secured their ballot boxes, locks, keys, ballots and voters' lists. Others were securing equipment today.

At eleven polling stations, possibilities of a heavy vote have necessitated the installation of two booths in each. Where there are more than 500 voters due at any one polling station, those whose names range from A to M are in one room, while those whose names commence with letters from N to Z vote in another. This is the case at polling subdivisions 4, 15, 18, 30, 38, 44, 72, 74, 78, and 86.

ROW NOW LOOMS OVER L. S. R. VOTE

Whispers of Opposition Grow—
Council To Talk Matter
Tonight.

City councillors will tonight tackle the two-class ballot of No. 1, commencing with the street railway question. Indications are that the vote favor existed a short time ago for taking a referendum on the purchase of the street railway.

According to reliable sources, the vote will be waged to oppose sending a bylaw on to the ratepayers in December.

According to the Beck act, passed in the legislature six years ago, a vote of the people must be taken before a new agreement can be authorized. The London street railway company's franchise would be extended for a period of not more than fifteen years under an agreement.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT PREPARES FOR CHRISTMAS

The postal department is preparing for Christmas. Although it is a full two months until the big rush, the department has started to provide mail bags for the gifts that go by mail.

There is a shortage of all kinds of mail bags throughout the postal service. These include newspaper and parcel post bags, and the authorities are marshalling their forces to locate them and get them ready for the Christmas season.

The bags will be sent to London, St. John, Vancouver, Toronto and other points for sorting and repair.

The driver of the car picked up the lad and carried him to his grandfather's house, where he has been staying. His condition was reported this afternoon to be favorable.

KING OF THE CORN FLAKES PAYS VISIT TO LONDON PLANT

W. K. Kellogg Meets Officials To Decide on Manufacture of New Flakes.

TELLS OF SUCCESS
Declares Advertising With the Proper Product, Spell Success.

It pays to advertise. At least it has paid W. K. Kellogg, president of the Kellogg Cornflake Company of Battle Creek, Mich.

Mr. Kellogg, known as the cornflake king of the Pacific coast, arrived in London yesterday afternoon to inspect his large Canadian plant here and make arrangements for the manufacture of new varieties of wheat or bran flakes. He came in his immense "apartment" touring car known as "The Ark"—a mammoth travelling automobile containing beds, shower baths and all the appliances and comforts of a modern house.

Mr. Kellogg's car is another reflection of his advertising genius. It was built primarily for convenience, but its advertising value has not been lost sight of. "That's Kellogg's car," a publicity slogan of this city declared the most important single creative contribution made by Christianity to China was the development of human personality on the part of the great Chinese Christians.

"Whatever may be said in this country and in all the land on this matter, the fact remains that Christianity is the experience of the Chinese today is that Christianity works and is a practicability in the every day life. It has been a great help to the Chinese in these post-war days as to the usefulness, if you care to put it that way, of Christianity. It is not only a religion, but a practicalism that Christianity does not work in China today it is recognized that it does."

On the other hand western civilization has no possible chance today to recommend Christianity to China. The young people of this city declared that the most important single creative contribution made by Christianity to China was the development of human personality on the part of the great Chinese Christians.

With a small capital the toasted cornflake product was put on the market in 1878. Since that time Kellogg's products, toasted cornflakes, toasted bran and kumbers are known the world over. And Mr. Kellogg attributes the whole of his success to advertising.

Started Advertising.

The toasted cornflakes were first manufactured at a profit of $1 per case. Although Mr. Kellogg was advised by his brother to be content with a dollar profit on each case, he decided that all profit would be spent on an advertising project. A few thousand dollars was first invested in advertising, and it was not long before the campaign brought results. Orders came so fast that the then small Kellogg concern was unable to take care of them.

At that time, as soon as the Kellogg company commenced to grow competition sprung up everywhere. More money was spent on advertising, and the Kellogg company has since a total of twenty-seven million dollars has been spent solely in the advertising of Kellogg products.

Mr. Kellogg pointed out this morning that the extensive advertising which his firm had done had reduced the price of toasted cornflakes by 50 per cent. He said that the Kellogg company first sold a package for 15 cents a package twice as large and for half the price is now placed on the market. Advertising has only one result, he said, and that is to reduce the price of the product.

Mr. Kellogg is 64 years of age. He has been in the Kellogg business since he was 15. He has just recently completed a trip to Europe and the Scandinavian countries, and intends in the very near future to make a journey to South America. It is his ambition to see the world.

Built His Ark.

His love for travel prompted him to have "The Ark," the huge motor car, built in London. It weighs 11,000 pounds, and is furnished with electric fans, a radio and telephone set, a shower bath, a kitchenette, a pullman folding table, beds and folding chairs. The car carries a family of six and a kitchenette. The speed of the car is from 30 to 35 miles per hour. A 16-foot folding boat, together with a gasoline motor, goes with the car. The car is supplied with a special combination electric toaster, boiler and egg poacher.

Mr. Kellogg will remain in London to complete his duties. His son, who has now complete charge of the Kellogg organization, will arrive in the city tomorrow to accompany his father to Toronto. It is Mr. Kellogg's intention to visit every capital in every state of America and the larger cities of Canada in the near future in his special touring car.

AGED WOMAN RECOVERS HER HAT UNSCATHED

At exactly 10:16 o'clock this morning on the southwest corner of Dundas and Richmond street, a sudden puff of wind heretofore gray-haired lady of her hat.

The chapeau, a striking combination of velvet and feathers, executed in purple and white, bounded teasingly across Richmond street, directly in the path of an oncoming southbound street car.

The purple creation half bounced and half rolled underneath the car between the catcher on the front and the two front wheels and careened unscathed almost to the other side of the street, where it was recovered by a gallant male and restored to the "beheaded" lady.

DOWNTOWN TRANSFORMERS NOW BEING REMOVED

The public utilities commission is today taking down the transformers and poles at the corner of Carling and Richmond streets.

The "conglomeration" consists of seven transformers, platform and a mass of overhead wires. Through nearly two months ago the transformer system for the downtown area was transferred to an underground system at the corner of Richmond and Carling streets. The commission has not been able up to the present time to remove the old, unsightly equipment at the corner of Carling street.

CHINA ADVANCES IN CHRISTIANITY

Rev. J. D. MacRae, Dean of Theological College, Shanghai, Tells of Situation.

Rev. J. D. SOUTHERN ROUTE BOOSTERS BUSY

New Organization Urging More Definite Activity by Municipalities.

MEETING PLANNED

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Oct. 19.—The newly-elected officers of the recently formed organization furthering the interests of the southern route of the provincial highway system are exerting every effort to make the meeting at Simcoe on Wednesday next a success. Delegations will visit several municipalities during the coming week to urge them to get behind the organization and endeavor to secure a larger percentage of the American tourist traffic for the 1925 season.

Ald. J. T. Webster, a chief mover in the campaign and who has been advocating some such organization for the past four or five years, states that he does not think people along the route really understand how much traffic they were losing through their own indifference. Arrangements are being made for the unveiling of the historic monuments at Burwell's Park and Promenade on Friday of this week at 2:30 and on Friday of this week at 2:30 and 3:30 o'clock. The monuments have been erected by the Elgin historical society, the one at Burwell's Corner marking the site of the old Middlesex registry office, and the other at Promenade commemorating the first Congoleum church of Canada. A regatta picnic at Selkirk, Payne's Mills, following the ceremony will complete the day, and close the monument program of the society for the year.

Bees Start Funerals. Had tourists been entering the city at eight o'clock this morning, the southern Ontario route of the provincial highway might have got a bad name. A party by the name of Jones, living on Balachava street, was bringing some hives of bees to the city. As he drove up the Talbot street hill, two of the hives dropped to the ground and were at once obscured from view by a cloud of angry bees, eagerly licking up the honey which oozed from the broken and crushed combs. Constable Joe Howard was despatched to the scene, but found that handcuffs, pistol and baton were of no avail. Motorists made a detour on entering the city by a circuitous route. The bees were finally corralled by Mr. Armstrong of the street railway department, and are now in his possession.

Official Visit. Col. Royal Burritt, D.S.O., Winnipeg, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, was in the city Saturday and met with Grand Secretary J. A. Killingsworth to discuss grand lodge affairs. Monday night Col. Burritt will pay an official visit to the local lodge of Dora Jean Putnam, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Putnam, 24 East avenue, was married to Harold C. Daniels of Aylmer, N.Y., Rev. J. M. MacGillivray officiating. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Vera Brewer of London. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. After a brief wedding trip to Detroit they will return to this city for a few days before leaving for their home in Oakfield, N.Y.

Charlotte Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson, 43 Locust street, and Charles F. Gray, son of Mrs. M. Gray, Wellington street, were married at the Trinity Anglican church yesterday by Canon J. W. J. Andrew. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gray will reside in Detroit. The death of Miss Jennie Maxwell, sister of Police Magistrate Maxwell, took place this morning after a lengthy illness. Miss Maxwell was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, coming to this country with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. James Maxwell in 1854. They took up residence south of the city in 1858, and twenty years ago Miss Maxwell came to live with her brother in the city. She was a regular attendant at the Knox Presbyterian church, and took an active part in the work of the foreign missionary society. Survivors are her brother, C. F. Maxwell, a nephew, A. E. Maxwell, city, and a niece, Miss Isabel Maxwell.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 o'clock from the residence of C. F. Maxwell to the family plot in the St. Thomas cemetery. Rev. J. M. MacGillivray will officiate.

BOY IS KILLED BY AUTO, DRIVER FLEES, IS CAUGHT

Canadian Press Despatch.

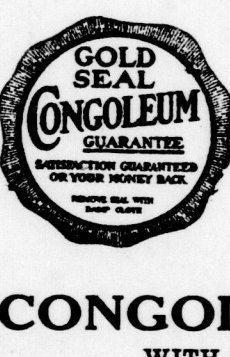

Niagara Falls, Oct. 19.—Alfonso Picot, aged 13 years, is dead, and Edward F. Moore did not stop, but investigation by the police led to his arrest shortly afterwards.

Undertaker Much Too Busy To Keep Magistrate's Date

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Oct. 19.—Fearing that they were being trailed by thugs, a Londoner giving his name as Holland, and claiming undertaking as his profession, appeared before Magistrate Maxwell in police court on a charge of exceeding the speed limits on the Port Stanley highway. Special Constable Baker, who happened to be in the pursuing car, told a different story. He admitted that Holland turned out to let him pass, but declared that Holland was going about 40 miles an hour.

"I can't go that fast in my car," protested Holland. "It's a 1916 model Ford, and it won't go faster than about 35 miles an hour. I'll give that car to you if you can go 40 miles an hour with it," he continued, turning to Constable Baker, who declined to take up the offer. Magistrate Maxwell decided to give both sides an opportunity of testifying under oath, and adjourned the case till Thursday. He suggested Tuesday, but Holland said he could not attend that day, as he had three funerals.

IS LOOKING FOR CRITICISM ABOUT CLOTHES OF MEN

Julia Hoyt Wonders How Often They Come In For Examination.

THAT CRAVAT

Says Man Ranks His Entree Into Society by His All-Important Cravat.

By JULIA HOYT.

Men are generally pretty frank, if not brutal, in saying what they think of women's dress, but we rarely, if ever, hear an opinion from the women on men's dress.

It is true that since the early nineteenth century men's dress has not varied much, yet there are so-called well and badly dressed men. Also every now and then we have had to bear such burdens as the vogue among some of feeling toward a woman wearing low turned-down collars in the street in summer.

But generally speaking their clothes do not vary much from year to year. In fact, too little attention is paid to this question. A man seems to feel that though the outer shell is a most important factor in his opinion of and feeling toward a woman, it should have little or no influence on her opinion or feelings toward him.

I happened to run across an excerpt from a London paper of 1823, which shows the high value placed at the time on man's appearance. This happens to speak only of the cravat, but it is amusing to read today:

The All Important Cravat.

"When a man of rank makes his entree into a circle distinguished for taste and elegance, and the usual compliments have passed on both sides, he will discover that his coat will attract only a small degree of attention, but that the most critical and scrutinizing examination will be made of his cravat."

"Should this, unfortunately, not be correctly and elegantly put on, no further notice will be taken of him. His reception will in future be cold, and no one will move on his entrance; but if his cravat is savanant and elegantly formed, everyone will rise to receive him with the most distinguished marks of respect, will cheerfully resign their seats to him and the delightful eyes of all will be fixed on that part of his person which separates the shoulders from the chin. . . . Let him speak downright nonsense, he will be applauded to the skies. . . ."

Shows Sad Picture.

The sad picture given by the JUDGE HELEN MACGILL, of the juvenile court, Vancouver, who addressed a meeting of the Women's Canadian club this afternoon.

author of the man whose cravat is not correctly tied is the following: "He will be considered as an ignorant pretender, and will be compelled to suffer the impertinence of the fop, who will treat him with disdain, merely because his cravat is not correctly disposed. He will, moreover, be obliged to bear in silence and to approve (under pain of being considered unacquainted with the common rules of politeness) all the remarks which he will thus subject himself to, occasionally relieved by hearing a whisper of the cannot event put on a cravat properly."

I quote the foregoing passage because I found it exceedingly quaint and, needless to say, not because I advocate such a degree of importance being given to the dress of either man or woman. But I think it would be interesting to hear the views of some women and girls as to what they do consider constitutes a well-dressed man.

What do they particularly notice—or do they notice men's clothes at all? Do women rarely express themselves on men's clothes because they have no opinions, think them unimportant, or is it because they feel they must take criticism on this subject from the man but fear to return it? I would be glad to hear from my readers on these different subjects.

A pretty shower was arranged by Miss Nellie Barr at her home in Maitland street, when she entertained in honor of her friend, Miss Mabel Fletcher, whose marriage takes place quietly the latter part of the month. The guests, who were the members of the '22 class of St. Joseph's hospital graduates, presented Miss Fletcher with a case of flat silver and other gifts, which she received while sitting under a huge bell containing confetti, hung in the archway. The evening was spent in games and dancing, and light refreshments were served near the conclusion of it.

The H. G. L. club held the October meeting at the home of Miss Ethel Foy, 30 Flinton avenue. The meeting was of special interest as the club members had gathered to say good-bye to Miss Gladys Hodgins, a very popular member, and a bride of early November. After the usual business was disposed of, a jolly time was spent in games. Each girl presented a remembrance to the club. At the conclusion of the evening, supper was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Willa Westman.

The Smallman and Ingram tea-room was the scene of a very successful bridge and euchre held there Saturday in aid of the women's auxiliary of the Victoria hospital board. Following a delightful afternoon at cards, tea was served. Mrs. MacDongall was the winner of the euchre prize, and Mrs. Colin Smith of the bridge prize. The committee in charge of the event included Mrs. P. J. Greenaway, Mrs. Donald Graham, Mrs. A. T. Edwards and Mrs. Alfred Drew. A special guest of the occasion was Mrs. Campbell, of St.

house, and it is expected that a number of ladies who have not entered the competitions will go out for tea and be present at this event. Following a morning on the links a club luncheon will be held and in the club trophies won by both men and ladies will be presented later in the season.

An interesting visitor in the city is Mrs. H. C. Parker of Toronto. Mrs. Parker, who is a guest with Miss Clara Brenton has been closely associated with juvenile court work and was instrumental in organizing the business girls' club there. She is also a writer of some distinction and will be a special guest at the supper party which is being given tonight by the London women's press club in honor of Judge Helen Gregory MacGill of Vancouver. Another guest on this occasion will be Mrs. Peter MacArthur of Appin, wife of the distinguished Canadian writer.

THE GABLE.

The little ivied gable of the library building near Quivering, polished tier on tier of little heart-shaped leaves Have reached its tip and edged its waiting eaves.

From my window I have watched the tendrils creep With intention fine and deep, For laughing storm-winds sweep Had dared them have their way Making beauty by a given Autumn day.

And now a vein of Burgundy is deepened in the sun, Through the green web run, As if achievement won, Glowed in lovely dreaming leaves On the softened tip and o'er the patient eaves.

The members of the executive of the Women's Canadian club entertained at a luncheon party at the Blue Dragon tea room at noon today in honor of the distinguished speaker of the afternoon meeting, Judge Helen Gregory MacGill of the Vancouver juvenile court. Other special guests of the occasion were Mrs. Campbell of St. John, N.B., who came to Ontario for the meetings of the National Council of Women and is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. W. No Control—Just Plain Selling.

Ontario has not been slow to see the meaning of government "control." It means government "selling," and nothing less. That word "control" is one of the most dangerous elements introduced in this campaign—it gives a sense of security that is not justified by actual practice. It sounds strong in promise, but the record of provinces that have tried it show it to be weak in performance.

British Columbia has 70 stores selling beer, whiskey, and all manner of drink. A customer can buy all he wants. Robert McPherson, police commissioner of Vancouver, says: "There's no control about it. You can buy all you want. Go to a government liquor store and you can get $100 worth or more. It's not government control, but government sale."

By the time Alberta had government selling for four months, the following facilities had been provided for selling liquor:

Taverns, beer by glass	259
Clubs	45
Canteens	10
Government stores	26

Total 340

If Ontario, according to population, went into the business on the same scale we would have 1,700 of these drink depots in this province. The so-called "control" is taking the form of an extensive selling campaign.

The Ottawa Journal has had a representative in Quebec studying the effect of government selling there, that province having 2,200 places where liquor is sold. If anyone has any doubt about the extent of the business that has been built up there, it will be dispelled by the report furnished to the Journal:

"On Monday, September 15, I made a thorough inspection of the Quebec government control liquor warehouse and wine cellar. The Quebec board officials were courteous itself, and gave me all the information and facilities I sought. There were convincing signs that the government is selling liquor on a tremendous scale. The old jail in the east end of the city, near the waterfront, which had been taken over, had already been greatly enlarged, following three years of government control, and the foundations are being put in for a monster addition. In the courtyard, cases of liquor are piled up in huge mounds 25 feet high. The breweries in towns also are expanding.

"The government control board has assembled at this one point $6,000,000 worth of liquor of 800 different varieties. That is enough to supply $12 or $15 worth to every family in the province. All the burglary and fire protective devices that man can devise have been installed to guard this treasure.

"From this I passed to the wine cellar, where I saw innumerable barrels and larger, of French, Spanish and Portuguese wines which were waiting to be transferred to vats of 600 gallons. The government control board is having new wine vats built of 2,000 gallons capacity. The bulk of the wine is French. The courtyard held 3,000 barrels of liquor in addition to the cases.

"I was shown 60,000 bottles of sherries, all labeled and sealed, in their cases, ready to go out.

"Passing to the part of the plant known as the federal bonded warehouse, I gave the once-over to 600,000 bottles of whiskeys or spirituous liquors, on which the government control board owes the domain $1,000,000 in duty. Then I saw a lot of heavy steel drums containing alcohol, and sacks containing corks from Portugal.

"Another department is devoted to liquor that has been bottled in bond. Here there were 480,000 bottles. Elsewhere were receptacles, each containing 400 gallons of Scotch whiskeys and great copper vats holding 1,250 gallons of brandy, transferred to the vats from barrels. This was overproof liquor that has to be reduced to a drinkable strength."

Can any reasonable man, even the most ardent supporter of government selling, come forward and explain why the word "control" should ever be dragged into such surroundings? There is no control about it. It is a great, powerful system, financed by the money of people who may be opposed to it, for the purpose of selling just as much liquor as the appetites and purchasing power of the people can consume.

The people of Ontario are awake as to what this means. They are no longer lulled into a sense of false security by that word control. And once they have taken a trip with the representative of the Ottawa Journal through premises where millions of dollars worth of intoxicants are stored they will have further evidence of the variety that cannot be answered or set aside. Ontario does not want its government in this multi-million liquor business, and the way to stop it is a straight vote for a continuance of a strengthened O. T. A.

Why Trotsky Wants An Army.

Minister of War Trotsky says Russia will have to keep a great army until France, Britain and United States have "expelled the bourgeoisie."

He says it is necessary to take 600,000 men from useful occupation and place them in the army, so that the government of Russia may be free from attack.

Trotsky's statements are all too general. If he fears attack, which nation is likely to make the attack? Both France and Britain sit in the League of Nations—they are bound by the provisions of that body. They have no reason or no desire to attack Russia. United States shows no disposition to participate in European affairs. There is nothing to offer in the way of evidence that she contemplates attacking Russia.

The truth is that Trotsky is as much afraid of his own people as any outside force. The Russians are not by any means a free people; they have not found full scope for the expression of their desires, or for the unrestricted use of the ballot as citizens here know it. With these elements lacking he must govern by force at times, and in order to have that force available he must have an army, even though Russia cannot afford it. His attempt to blame the army on outside dangers is not going to deceive any person.

"I've Got To Have One, Too."

Now that the big Zep went safely to United States, France considers she must have one, too. Strange what a great deal of trouble has started from this old tap root. "I've got to have one, too."

One nation decides it must have a great army; others look on and the germs come over and take root, and in a short time all the neighbors have gone in for armies.

Some years ago one set of diplomats decided that a protective tariff was the only industrial salvation for their country. They would buy at home and sell abroad; a fine idea provided all the other nations sit still and let it work out that way. But the thing hadn't got more than a good start when another nation said, "I've got to have one, too." So now we all have them.

And that's what is taking place today. U. S. has its big Zep, and France wants one, too. It's an international disease that spreads faster than measles in a one-room schoolhouse.

The Effect of British Elections.

It seldom happens that elections in any two countries follow so closely as those of Britain and United States, with less than a week separating them.

It is not outside the range of possibility that the British election may have some effect on that in United States. If Ramsay MacDonald and his Labor government come back with an increased following, it will be taken as evidence that the Labor party, in the section of it that gives expression to political activity, is not a spent force, but is still in the ascendancy. This should strengthen the ranks of La Follette, for he is drawing on many of the big labor unions for his support, just as the MacDonald government in Britain.

On the other hand, should disaster overtake the Labor candidates in Britain, causing them to come back in greater minority than at present, it will add strength to the old parties in United States, because it would indicate a swing away from Labor and a come-back for old-line politics.

The parallel, of course, cannot walk on all fours, but it has possibilities that cannot be overlooked.

Stovepipe Time

Along about this time of year there's always fifteen jobs to do, again, the winter settin' in for handy folks like me and you. Into the broken window panes we stuff therein the cast-off shirt, and round the kitchen base we pile great mounds of faded sod and dirt.

And then when all them things is done there be one job to which I'm drove, a-cleanin' out the sooty pipes what's hitched onto the kitchen stove. And if that job we'll pause a spell until we're cool within the head, and prune from out this simple yarn the heated words and phrases said.

It ain't no trick at all to go and take the things down length by length, it only needs a kitchen chair and plus a little of brute strength. But after they is all cleaned out it's then, me boy, me face the chore, of stickin' them pipes up again just how they was stuck up before.

I stick the first one on the stove, the thing seems simple, plain as mud, but when I jam in number two they both come down with crashin' thud. 'Tis then I jam in one again, and say some things unto that tin, and try to take up number two and put the third one straight with him. The kitchen table holds one foot, the other's on the pantry shelf, the folks they keep a-warnin' me as how I'm apt to kill myself.

At last them three is sittin' tight, I take an elbow in my paw, and wipe the sweat from off my brow and mow the soot from off my jaw. I mind the job I had before when I went through this spell last fall, a-tryin' to make them pipes perform and hit the pipe hole in the wall.

I get that elbow in just so and some one holds it with a broom, me figurin' that the way we're doin' we'll have the job cleaned up right soon.

'Tis then I find that four won't fit, and some one hollers out to me, as that I've gone and put in four instead of using number three. And then the devil comes to me I holler back, in fact, I roar, if they was knowin' now so much, they should have spoke up long before.

So down she comes, I start again, I jam in two and three and four, when number one she jumps the job and goes a-tumblin' on the floor. Then some one's sure to laugh out loud which riles my blood and fans my ire. I'm thinkin' new wild things to say, my eyes is bulgin' out with fire.

I put the kitchen table out, a slab of skin comes off my thumb, I'm yearnin' for the time to come when this here kitchen pipe is done.

I mind how Bruce's spider died, just how he fired the fightin' men, and so I clamber to the roof and try and place them pipes again.

At last I get the things in place and blind 'em with ten feet of wire, then calmly tell the folks to stop and belch away their kitchen fire. Yet I would like to find the man who first invented kitchen pipe, I'd smite him with a crowbar first, then swat him with an egg what's ripe.—ARK.

On Expressing One's Personality.

Said a society woman the other day: "I was handicapped at the start by having neither wealth nor beauty, so I endeavored to express my personality in my surroundings and in my dress."

"I adopted a certain color and kept to it, making it my own, as you will doubtless have noticed. My hats, my gowns, and every detail of my toilette to the smallest accessories, was carried out in a restful, peace-giving shade of pastel gray. I have defined my whole personality with it. The pastel shades of my drawing-room give the air of almost cloistered peace. Now I am known as the lady of repose."

This lady confessed to Lady Diana Manners, who adds that while most women are content to go with the crowd and follow where others lead, it is best to be individual.

Be in the fashion, yes, she says, if you are not you will be old-fashioned and dowdy, but fashion must be adapted to suit yourself.

She adds that she is a firm believer in individuality in clothes and that in many cases she makes her own gowns. She thinks that every woman should try to design at least one dress for herself.

"Since I was a child I have made nearly all my own dresses, from the designing, cutting-out and fitting, to the actual stitching. I even made my own wedding gown, and I do not think many women can boast of having done this. I did this because I wanted my personality to rise above mere fashion."

One's personality does not depend upon beauty of face nor shapeliness of form; it depends upon one's self.

Recently an actress in London advertised herself as the plainest woman in the world and the worst singer. She achieved a success, however, because she was entirely herself, had a distinct personality and expressed it.

It will be found that the women who have most influence in the world have not been those gifted with beauty of face and form, but those who have been enabled to express themselves in dress and otherwise.

To be sure there is such a thing as carrying individuality too far, and of expression to the point of exaggeration, but there is also such a thing as carrying conformity too far. Just what is the golden mean, every woman must find out for herself.

To the Editor

Sane, Sober and Safe.

Ontario Must Speak on the 23rd of October and Tell the World of a Wise Decision.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I received a little paper yesterday filled with inventions of the Moderation League. I read their arguments carefully, but failed to find one that would hold water. They all held whiskey, but not one would hold water. I placed the little paper called the "Moderationist" on the shelf with the rest of my "fiction."

I like to keep everything in its proper class. They might have pulled some wool over my eyes, but The London Advertiser has kept me well posted on the true facts, and so the wool did not stick. Every argument they put forth had been refuted beforehand.

Let us take just one example of their wise, or otherwise, reasoning. They make a great ado about "taking away one's personal liberty." They claim that we should not pass laws that took away one's freedom of choice to eat and drink what he likes. Let us see the logical results of their contention. We should not prohibit people from making and drinking whiskey as they please. We should not prohibit the drunkards made thereby from speeding on our roads to their hearts' content. We should give them liberty to smash into other people's cars as they like and kill as many people as they choose until they themselves smash into a tree or crash down a precipice, when their personal liberty comes to an end.

No. The rest of humanity have rights also, and when self-indulgence threatens the good of the whole, curtailment and prohibition are not only right but a duty. Yes, I believe that we are carrying out a divine law of God in striving to be, in a helpful sense, our "brother's keeper."

Right here I want to commend The Advertiser for their noble work during the present campaign. And you never had a more holy cause to uphold. Verily, you will have your reward. Not only is the good of Ontario at stake, but the eyes of the other provinces will be eagerly directed to Ontario on the 23rd, so will the eyes of the United States and of England and France and of all Europe.

May we be able to broadcast this glorious message to all quarters of the earth after the polls close on the 23rd: "Ontario emerged from the conflict, sane, sober and safe."

LEAGUE NEEDS AID OF UNITED STATES

PACIFIC QUESTION

Associated Press Despatch.

Geneva, Oct. 19.—In their preliminary study of the protocol for the Pacific settlement of international disputes which was recently adopted here, the experts of the League of Nations are said to be reaching the conclusion that without the beneficent neutrality of the United States it will be difficult to organize sanctions against any aggressor state.

The correspondent of a press agency learns that this preliminary study has demonstrated forcibly the nature of the problem of arranging any effective system of sanctions with the United States not adhering to the protocol. Among the many examples which might be cited, two are brought forward. They are those where the signatories to the protocol shall endeavor to bring pressure against an aggressor state by cutting off all loans and all supplies of war materials. It is pointed out that in such a contingency an aggressor always could have the resort of applying to the United States for help.

League experts are seeking to work out an elastic series of sanctions which can be applied progressively.

The first stage would be the cutting off of consular and diplomatic relations with a state which had been declared an aggressor. The ensuing steps would be unanimous stopping of the flotation of loans; the severing of financial and economic relations, and the institution of a Pacific blockade, including suppression of the provision of raw materials, with a gradual tightening and extension of the blockade in proportion to the need of strengthening pressure against a country which appears to be going to war.

SQUIRES LAYS CHARGE AGAINST NEWSPAPERS

Newfoundland Journalists Are Charged With Contempt of Court.

St. Johns, Nfld., Oct. 19.—An order requiring proprietors of two newspapers in this city to appear in court next Wednesday in connection with contempt of court proceedings was granted yesterday by the supreme court.

The order was sought by counsel for Sir Richard Squires on October 15, because of comment published in the two newspapers on the action of the grand jury last week in finding no bill against the former premier who was charged with larceny of government funds.

Like other people of action nowadays you carry a note book. It contains notes on personal and business matters, many of them are extremely important. Their loss would mean much to you—to replace them would entail time and worry—if they proved irreplaceable, it might mean a financial loss.

Pencilled memoranda are out of date—they are unsafe—they will get blurred and illegible in the best of note books.

Be modern. Buy a good fountain pen. It is an everyday necessity. It will make all your notes easy to write and easy to read.

Waterman's Ideals are making safe indelible records in millions of note books every day.

Many Uses For Electric Cleaners

Many women with small apartments do not know what a work-lightener an electric cleaner is because they have not been "sold" on all its varying uses. The general idea seems to be that a vacuum cleaner is principally, if not wholly, for the purpose of cleaning carpets, floors and rugs.

One young matron, undoubtedly reasoning along these lines, remarked to her father that she would rather be given a floor lamp than an electric cleaner, because, in her very small apartment she "had only two rugs." Which is at least partial proof that most women are unaware of all the things an electric cleaner can accomplish. The innumerable small jobs that are so vitally important in daily house-cleaning, such as drawing dust from every inch and crevice of the furniture; cleaning bed springs, mattresses, hangings and covers; in short, getting dirt and dust from every secret hiding-place that neither duster nor broom can penetrate—these jobs are the ones that make an electric cleaner indispensable, no matter what the size of your establishment.

Every atom of dust and dirt is drawn up into the bag by pressure of the electric current, and retained there, rather than, as in the old method of house-cleaning, being merely scattered from one place of concealment to another.

The vacuum cleaner proves an easy, dirtless and quick method of giving any room a thorough cleaning, and as its power can be tempered to the most delicate furnishings, cleaning your hangings by this process adds not only to their appearance, but to the length of their life.

HYDRO SHOP ELECTRICAL SHOW ALL THIS WEEK

Special Premiums To Be Given By Hydro Shop To Purchasers of the Equipment Being Shown

Vacuum Cleaners, Cases of Soap, Kitchen Utensils, Etc., To Be On Premium List; Special Sale of Electric Light Bulbs and Introduction of New Kitchen Unit.

London's hydro shop is staging an electrical show in the spacious show-rooms at the corner of Wellington and Dundas streets all this week. The affair promises to be one of the finest which has been arranged in the district. Details of the program to be carried out show that the exhibition and demonstrations will attract enthusiastic crowds and will supply much information on the care and proper treatment of electrical appliances.

The hydro shop electrical show will be open each day until 10 p.m. This will afford every citizen of the district an opportunity of visiting the exhibition, which will be entirely free of charge.

Specialties are to be featured throughout the week. These include stoves, washers, ironers and vacuum cleaners. Free demonstrations are to be carried out daily with McClary electric stoves. Visitors are invited to sample the biscuits, tea or coffee which will be made.

During the show special premiums are to be offered in connection with sales. For instance, to the purchaser of a Rotarex washer a Rotarex electric vacuum cleaner will be given free. Those who purchase an Easy, Thor or Coffield washer will be presented with a case of soap, which will include Lux and Rinso.

With each purchase of a McClary or Moffat electric range will be given a beautiful set of enamel kitchen-ware. There is, furthermore, to be a special sale of electric light bulbs and a new kitchen unit for providing better illumination in the kitchen will be introduced. This is a splendid fixture, which will be installed in any kitchen with a ceiling outlet for $6, a substantial reduction on the regular price, which is from $10 to $12.

While the show is being held, any of the special machines being featured will be placed in the home for an initial deposit of $10 and the balance in small monthly installments covering a year.

Citizens of London and district should make it a point to visit the hydro shop electric show this week. They will find something which will be to their advantage.

Obituary

FREDERICK A. PACE.

The death of Frederick Arthur Pace occurred Friday night at Byron Sanatorium, in his 68th year.

Mr. Pace was formerly a resident of Toronto, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Pace; three sons, Harry and Arthur Pace of Toronto, and William. One daughter, Mrs. Charlie O'Dell of Lambeth, also survives.

Mr. Pace was an honored member of St. George's Masonic Lodge, No. 42, A. F. and A. M., of this city, and his death is greatly mourned by his Masonic brothers.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. O'Dell, of Lambeth, to Woodland Cemetery, where interment will take place, Rev. T. A. Steaman officiating.

Placing Your Electric Labor-Saving Devices

It would be difficult to estimate the great number of men who conduct their business on the "half a loaf is better than none" principle. Likewise, however, there are housewives who, through a wrong conception of thrift, carry on the work of their households handicapped at every turn.

Many of us seem not to see far enough ahead to obtain the most from everything we purchase in the way of electrical appliances. Some of it is undoubtedly due to our anxiety to have as many of these aids to lighten our tasks as we can afford without ever taking into consideration that their possession does not of itself guarantee their full usefulness. They are under any circumstance very helpful, but the maximum convenience can be obtained only when they are supplemented by proper connections, and the appliances are placed in the most convenient of places.

The electric washer's place is next to the wash tubs and as close to them as it is possible to have it. Although many housewives use the siphon hose to fill and empty their washers, I have found it cheaper and more convenient to run water into whether it is purchased or not." Such is indeed the case with the proper connection of the electric washer. A woman spends many times the energy and time hauling water to and from the washer, or in using the siphon hose wastes great quantities of water which mount up at the end of the year.

The electric ironer should be placed where the operator will have plenty of light and room to work in comfort—not merely where its connection to an electrical convenience outlet and gas supply (if it is a gas heated ironer) is easier to make. The same thing applies to the electric iron, dish washer and kitchen utility motor.

A housewife's time is worth money as is the time of any workman, and her wasted energy will rob her of years of activity.

GREISMAN IS AWARDED $19,000 FIRE DAMAGES

An error was made in stating the amount which was awarded to Louis Greisman of the Royal Millinery and Ladies' Wear Co., 246 Dundas street. It was reported that the amount awarded to Mr. Greisman was $3,000, whereas the amount was $19,000 and costs, the total of the adjustment loss claimed by the plaintiff.

IRONING ELECTRICALLY

What would you think of a man who, without any previous experience, attempted to operate an automobile? Not much. Neither should I, yet there are many women, myself included, who have passed through the unique experience of trying to operate an electric ironer without direction—and attempt men's shirts and ruffled dainties such as the demonstrator was able to do, without first learning how to iron properly plain pieces. Most of us, seeing what little effort the demonstrators display ironing these pieces, naturally assume it is mere play. We completely overlook the fact that the demonstrator's art is her livelihood and that her skill is the product of patient practice.

The strangest part of it all is that never would we attempt to iron such pieces by hand without having had considerable experience. Yet we expect miracles from the electric ironer. That is, we seem to expect it to work without human intelligence to guide it. The ironer stands ready to perform any duty, provided it is aided by having intelligent hands feed the goods into it properly.

The wonder of the electric ironer is not its ability to perform miracles—that is to do our ironing while we look on—but the fact that it does this work.

Many businessmen seek added capital or partners through Advertiser Classified "Want" Ads to increase the scope of their business.

WHY SOME PEOPLE ARE "FRIGHTENED TO DEATH"

YOUR nervous system is the vital force of your body; the force that gives energy to every organ and every muscle. So great is the power of the nerves that a tremendous shock, such as fear, may cause death.

A lesser nerve shock will blanch the cheeks, make the knees tremble, cause the heart to beat wildly or almost paralyze breathing.

To sustain our vitality we must nourish the nervous system. When we restore lost nerve power we find ourselves filled with new strength.

Nervous, exhausted men and women can quickly regain their nerve power. As they rebuild their nerves they soon see the signs of returning vitality.

Wincarnis gives to the nerves the very elements they must have to be nourished back to energy. For fifty years this nerve restorative and strength giver has rejuvenated those who were weak, thin, pale and so easily discouraged that life seemed scarcely to hold any real happiness. If you are lacking in vital nerve force, go to your druggist today and begin the safe Wincarnis treatment. A sixteen-ounce bottle, which is a four-teen-day Wincarnis treatment, is sold for $1.50 by all leading druggists. Wincarnis is so effective that only three table-spoonsful a day need be taken. Try Wincarnis and see the difference just a few days will bring.

MONTREAL GREETED PRINCE OF WALES

Official and Popular Welcome Extended Him To the Throne.

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, Oct. 19.—His royal highness the Prince of Wales received both an official and a popular welcome on his arrival in Montreal this evening. Representatives of the province, the city and the local military headquarters extended the official greetings at Bonaventure station, but as soon as the prince came into sight of the assembled crowds there was a spontaneous shout, followed by continuous cheers, during his passage to the street.

The special train on the Canadian National railways rolled into the station at 8 p.m. His royal highness exchanged greetings with Sir Henry Thornton, K.B.E., president of the Canadian National Railways, who at a late hour was host at a dinner to the prince in the Mount Royal club. Lieutenant-Governor Perceval offered the greetings of the province, and Premier Taschereau and Mayor Duquette added their official welcome. The long line of constables had a busy time holding the weight of the crowd, but they withstood the pressure, and maintained a clear way for the royal visitor and the accompanying dignitaries.

As the prince was driven up Windsor street preceded by a squadron of police motorcyclists, the people on the sidewalks cheered, and as the cars drew away with St. George's church the strains of "God Save the King" broke out from the chimes. Just before his hotel was reached there was a momentary halt, and the crowd was quick to recognize his royal highness by a cheer and the raising of men's hats. The prince acknowledged the salutation by raising his hat and bowing.

FINAL TRIBUTE IS PAID GREAT FRENCH AUTHOR

Anatole France, Beloved by Nation, Is Laid in Last Resting Place.

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, Oct. 19.—Anatole France—poet, novelist and critic, beloved by the nation—was buried yesterday afternoon with all the honors that the capital of the republic, of which he was a citizen, could bestow. President Dumergue, Premier Herriot, the presidents of the senate and chamber and members of the French Academy gathered about the writer's bier. The casket, completely covered with flowers, was placed on a stand in front of the modest and ancient little bookshop in the Quai Malaquais, on the left bank of the Seine, where France was born some 80 years ago.

In the funeral procession from the bookshop the great men of the nation walked bareheaded behind the bier until the French Academy building was reached. They then entered carriages and followed the cortege to Neuilly cemetery.

Speeches were made by Gabriel Hanotaux, member of the academy; Leon Blum, leader of the Socialist party; M. Painleve, president of the chamber, and many others, mostly politicians belonging to the Left group. The addresses lasted three hours.

More than 30,000 people watched the ceremony from bridges and the banks of the Seine, while huge crowds lined the Champs Elysee and Avenue Neuilly as the cortege passed.

FARMER SUCCEUMBS TO MOTOR ACCIDENT

John McGee, Arthur Township, Was Struck by Auto Last Tuesday.

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, Oct. 19.—As a result of injuries sustained when he was struck by a motor car above Arthur, on the Owen Sound highway, last Tuesday, John McGee, 50 years old, Arthur township farmer, died at St. Joseph's hospital here late last night. The car which struck him was driven by William Pfaff, proprietor of a pool-room in Mount Forest, who was on his way home from Kitchener at the time the accident happened.

McGee was standing on the road-way beside a threshing outfit. Pfaff, noticing the red lights on the rear of the machine, swerved to avoid it, and crashed into the unfortunate man. An inquest will be held next Friday. The late Mr. McGee was a respected resident of Arthur township, where he was born 50 years ago, and where he farmed practically all his life. He retired in 1918 and took up his residence with his brother, Daniel, Arthur township. Another brother, James, and a sister, Kate, survive. He was a member of Guelph council, No. 1,597, Knights of Columbus, and a member of the Holy Name society of Kenilworth.

HON. J. PELLETIER DIES FROM STROKE

Agent-General For Quebec in United Kingdom Stricken Suddenly.

Canadian Press Despatch. Quebec, Oct. 19.—Entering his daughter-in-law's residence shortly after 8 o'clock tonight, Hon. Jean Marie Joseph Pantaleon Pelletier, agent-general for the province of Quebec in the United Kingdom, suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died instantly.

Hon. Dr. Pelletier, who was home on a vacation from his official duties, had just crossed the threshold of the house when he fell to the floor. Medical assistance was at once summoned, but life was pronounced extinct when the doctors arrived. An inquest will be held tomorrow morning by Coroner Jolicoeur.

Jean Marie Joseph Pantaleon Pelletier, M.D., was born at River Quille on June 17, 1860, the son of Joseph and Henriette (Martin) Pelletier, and was educated at the college of Ste. Anne de La Poutriere and Laval University, Quebec, graduating from the latter institution in April, 1887.

Locating in East Sherbrooke, Dr. Pelletier worked up a large practice, and was also active in military circles. Dr. Pelletier was elected to the provincial legislature as member for East Sherbrooke in 1885, and was made president of the executive council in 1896.

A staunch Liberal, he represented Sherbrooke in the local house for several years and was finally named as speaker of the legislative assembly, occupying that position until he was appointed agent-general for the province of Quebec in Great Britain in 1911. This post he held until the time of his death.

He late Dr. Pelletier was a brother to Hon. L. P. Pelletier, one-time lieutenant-governor of the province.

Snowfall Hits City of Quebec

Canadian Press Despatch. Quebec, Oct. 19.—The winter season was officially ushered in at 8 o'clock this morning with a real old-fashioned snowstorm, which kept up for about an hour and a half, but later turned to a disagreeable rain, which quickly obliterated all traces of the snow. Shortly before 11 o'clock the snow again commenced, with the promise of further showers throughout the day. This is the earliest snow experienced here for a number of years.

YOUTH IS MURDERED IN BOOTLEGGERS' FEUD

Detroit Shot While Entering Automobile—Italian Gunmen Are Sought.

Special to The Advertiser.

Detroit, Oct. 19.—Andrew Walk, 23, was shot this afternoon while sitting in his automobile on Larned street. Police believe he was the victim of a bootleggers' war. They are scouring the Italian quarter armed with a number of names, said to have been found in Walk's pockets. Walk had just reached his auto, and prepared to start it, when two armed men dashed out of a laneway and fired a fusillade of shots, eight of which lodged about his head and neck. The assailants darted into the laneway and made their escape.

In Walk's car were found a number of empty envelopes, which had been through the mails, addressed to J. P. Oulette, Tecumseh, Ontario, while a number of receipts, apparently those of an automobile salesman, bearing the same name, added another mysterious touch to the case.

More people will be in this store because of better light.

THE manager of a prominent departmental store says: "Two years ago, we were using 100 watt B lamps to light our shop windows. A test showed that our windows were stopping 35% of the people who passed. Then our store was destroyed by fire, and in our new store (built on the same premises), we installed modern lighting equipment, and used 200 watt Edison Mazda C lamps.

Since then, repeated tests have shown that more than 65% of the passers-by stopped at our windows. And the right lighting, properly arranged in the interior of our store, has been largely responsible for the greatly increased volume of actual sales."

Make This Test.

BEGINNING to-night, count how many people pass your store, and what percentage of them stop to look at your displays. Then install Edison Mazda Lamps of larger size, and see how many more stop. Ask your lighting company or an Edison Mazda Lamp Agent to help you conduct the test, and show you the standard window and store lighting equipment for your type and size of store.

LONDONERS WILL HEAR

RECORD OF HOSPITAL

Account of Service of No. 10
Stationary Units in France
To Be Given.

The record of No. 10 Stationary hospital in France will be told by its commanding officer, Lieut.-Col.
Dr. Edwin Seaborn, at the medical school auditorium on Tuesday evening of this week, under the auspices of the London and Middlesex historical society.

As No. 10 stationary hospital unit was largely recruited from among the students and staff of Western university, the recital of its record during the war will make a very fitting follow-up to the festivities of the last week in connection with the opening of the new arts buildings.

No one is better qualified than Dr.
Seaborn to narrate the work of the unit in which so many Londoners have a special interest, and it is hoped many former members of the unit may be on hand on this occasion.

This is the first meeting of the London and Middlesex historical society for this year, and the president, Major T. J. Murphy and his officers ordinally invite the public to attend his meeting. There is no charge for admission.

FORGOT THE BYLAW.

Although one local bicyclist claimed he had forgotten the bylaw against riding on the sidewalk because he had been out of the city for the past year, he was forced to pay his fine of $2 and costs when he made his excuse before Magistrate Graydon in police court this morning.

"It hardly seems possible that you could forget such a thing as that,"
Magistrate Graydon told the youth.

"You're charged with being disorderly, with interfering with the duties of the police."

"I did nothing," Runiski said in hurry.

"It will be $10 and costs or ten days in jail," his worship informed the man.

Runiski, steadfast in his belief that he had done no wrong, refused to pay his fine and accepted the jail term rather than admit his guilt. His pal, Peter Kruk, pleaded guilty to the intoxication charge and obtained his freedom upon payment of his fine.

MAINTAINS INNOCENCE

AND TAKES JAIL TERM

"Good Samaritan" Fails to See Any Reason For Arrest.

Fred Runiski believes he is a very much abused man. He now has to spend the forthcoming ten days in jail, and for no other reason than he acted as the good Samaritan towards a pal.

But the police have a different story to tell. Last night, acting upon a complaint received at the police station, officers attempted to arrest
Peter Kruk, who, it was claimed, was intoxicated. The constables found Kruk leaning upon the arm of Runiski, who refused to hand over his friend to the police.

"The men were swearing and creating a general disturbance," one of the officers told Magistrate Graydon in police court this morning.
"Kruk was drunk and Runiski had been drinking."

"I no drunk," Runiski interrupted when he heard the policeman giving evidence against him.

"You're not charged with being drunk," Magistrate Graydon replied.
"You're charged with being disorderly, with interfering with the duties of the police."

"I did nothing," Runiski said in
hurry.

Inspector Lutton will visit all these merchants and warn them before action will be taken, so that no excuse will be accepted.

eliminate it.

CAR STOLEN.
R. H. Elworthy of Exeter reported to the police last night that a five-passenger touring car owned by him had been stolen on York street near the corner of Richmond street. The car bore license number 170-539.

INSPECTOR KEEPS WATCH

FOR LAW INFRACTIONS

A. A. Lutton, inspector of weights and measures, stated this morning that no further information had been gained on grocers and others who are using wrong measures to determine the weight of produce.

Inspector Lutton said that he did not have time on Saturday to visit the local market, but intended making this a weekly call, for in this place, he stated, some of the measures used are all but ruined and the scales are bent in the weight is not exact.

City dealers who are selling oysters, pickles and ice cream also will be visited and their measures tested.
If they are not accurate legal action will probably ensue.

Inspector Lutton will visit all these merchants and warn them before action will be taken, so that no excuse
will be accepted.
