As the soft light of dawn penetrated into the room, the Pontiff whispered to his devoted physician that he desired the shutters of the windows to be opened, saying: "I wish to see once more, perhaps for the last time, the rays of the sun."

Pope Leo awoke wet with perspiration, feeble to the extreme, and his voice hardly audible. The fits of coughing had brought pains in his chest and shoulders; and, thinking his end was now near, he said to Dr. Lapponi, "Tell me when the time really comes."

The doctor assured His Holiness that he believed the danger of his immediate passage away was averted for the night and for to-day. Count Camillo Pecci, the Pope's nephew, whom the dying Pontiff kept by his bedside yesterday, was so exhausted late last night by his emotions that he had to be taken from his uncle's room, completely worn out. A few moments before, as he stood bowed beside the bed, Pope Leo laid his hand on his head with paternal affection, saying "Take courage." Shortly after 10 o'clock at night

JOAN OF ARC.

Pere Coubs, S.J., who since the expulsion of the famous Society from Paris is doing a good deal of lecturing, has delivered a most important address before a Catholic Association on Joan of Arc, whose canonization he considers to be certain. The eloquent Jesuit was recently attacked in connection with the subject of Joan of Arc by the anti-Clerical papers. and he was reminded that Cauchon, Bishop of Beauvais, and the others who condemned or assisted in the condemnation of the Maid of Orleans were Churchmen. Pere Coube denied that Cauchon and the Rouen judges were proper representatives of the Church. Members of the University of Paris, they opposed the Holy See in everything, and joined that institution in toadying to England, whose domination over France they desired. In his address on an old topic, the inent Jesuit did not forget newer matters. He was "up-to-date," to peror's naval schemes. use a popular phrase, and had some caustic references to certain prefates. priests and ex-priests of the present day who would initiate Cauchon and his compeers. In one fine passage the eloquent speaker said: "Patriotism, the soul of the country, does great things, but where has it originated and inspired the redeeming, the liberating, initiative of Joan of Arc? In Poland, in Ireland, in La Vendee, in the Transvaal, how many matrons and maidens were witnesses of sorrows which ought to have filled them with that peculiar hallucination, that of the patriotic kind, which nerved the arm of Joan of Arc. Those countries had not, however, the consolation and the pride of possessing a heroine like Joan of Arc, who is France's own, for 'non fecit taliter

A PRACTICE PRODUCTIVE OF SERIOUS RESULTS.

Women who get in the habit of closing the bureau drawer by a pressure of the knee, says a doctor, do not realize the harm that may result from this practice. I have known many serious cases of water of the knee that were caused in this way. The force required to shut a drawer in this way is slight, and one scarcely notices the contact of the knee with the drawer. But the knee joint is a delicate structure, and a bruise may easily be caused that will lead ultimately to very serious consequences. I have had many patients who from indulging in this habit have brought on illnesses that lasted from one month to six. So my advice to all women is to lean over and shut the drawer. It is better, although it may seem more troublesome at the minute. The leaning over, instead of being a disadvantage, is really an excellent means of exercise, and no way of closing a drawer is so dangerous as to push it with the knee.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

Good housekeeping is absolutely essential to secure a well ordered and happy home. Housekeeping must be acquired by practice, study and experiment, but the young and inexperi. enced housekeeper generally reaches success only through great tribulation. It ought to be absorbed in girlhood, by easy lessons, taken, between school studies, If girls were taught to take as much genuine pride in dusting a room well, hanging a curtain gracefully, or broiling a steak to a nicety as they feel when they have mastered one of Mozart's, or Beethoven's grand symphonies, there would be fewer complaining husbands and unhappy wives.

The great lessons to learn is that work well done is robbed of its curse. The woman who is satisfied only with the highest perfection in her work, drops the drudge and becomes the art- (Amelia Miller in The Pilgrim for ist. Children's grace and ease in society, her wit, her ornamental accomplishments, but all in perfection will not atone for an ill-ordered kitchen, indigestible bread, muddy coffee, tough meats, unpalata-ble vegetables; soggy pastry and the whole train of horrors that result from bad housekeeoing. On the other hand, success wins gratitude and attachment in the home circle and adds luster to the most brilliant intellectual accomplishments.

WARN WEATHER DELICACIES.

Creamed Sweetbreads Sweetbreads are not as generally used as they should be, and at this season of the year when the appetite needs tempting with delicate dishes, some day try this recipe for creamed sweetbreads, instead of the usual roast. For a family of four, parboil two pair of sweetbreads for fifteen or twenty minutes and then separate into small pieces. Smooth two tablespoonfuls of flour with the same amount of melted (not browned) butter, add a cupful of milk or cream, season with salt and pepper, let it boil, then add the sweetbreads and serve very hot. Cooked Meats-Aside from the wellknown pork and beans and cornbeef of army fame, there is a large variety of canned meats little known that are invaluable to the housewife during warm weather. If purchased from a reliable dealer and turned on an earthen dish to air two or three hours before serving, key will be found desirable adjuncts to the daily cuisine. One can get cooked roast beef and mutton, chicken, turkey, lamb and beef tongue, tripe, veal loaf and chicken tamale, and by removing from the tin, placing in an earthen dish to steam, the hot meat can be ready for dinner by the time the vegetables are cooked, thus doing away with the hot fire necessary for roast-in or boiling meat. Chicken tamale is a Mexican dish greatly relished by people who like highly seasoned food. Tomato Fritters-They are appetizng made from canned tomatoes when the season is so late fresh ones are expensive. Strain one quart of tonatoes, reserving the liquor, as the basis of tomato sauce for another day. Add one egg well beaten and sufficient flour (with which a scant teaspoonful of soda has been sifted) to make a batter the consistency of griddle cakes. Drop a spoonful at a time in very hot lard, and fry a delicate brown on both sides, serving immediately.

"My Nerves Would Twitch and Jerk"

A Severe Case of Nervous Exhaustion Cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Lena Heibert, Lowe Farm, Manitoba, writes: "I had suffered for two years with dizzy spells, pains in the back, cold hands and feet, nervousness, jerking of the limbs, sore tongue, soreness of arms and shoulders, and general exhaustion. About seven months ago I became so nervous that I could not rest or sleep, and could not do the least bit of work without suffering deadfully from pains in the back. I could hardly walk, could eat very little, and felt that people were always watching my body twitch.

"I tried several medicines with little effect, and was a mere skeleton of Chase's Nerve Food, and began using it. I have used in all fourteen boxes of this preparation, and it has built me up until I an now strong and well again. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a world of good, and I feel that I cannot recommend it too highly to persons who suffer as I have.' Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a signature of Dr. A. W. John O'Conner, Esq., Toronto: & DEAR SIR-I am deeply grateful to the friend that suggested to me, when I was a cripple from Rheumatism, Benedictine Salve. I have at intervals during the last ten years been afflicted with muscular rheumations. I have experimented with every available remedy and have consulted I might say, every physician of repute, without perceivable fit. When I was advised to use your Benedictine Salve, I was a helpless cripple. In less than 48 hours I was in a position to resume my wesk, that of a tinsmith. A work that requires a certain amount of bodily activity. I am thankful to my friend who advised me and I am more than gratified to be able to furnish you with this testimonial as to the cacy of Benedictine Salve. Yours truly, GEO. FOGG. John O'Connor, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR-It is with pleasure I write this word of testimony to the marvellous merits of Benedictine Salve as a certain cure for Rheumatism. There is such a multitude of alleged Rheumatic cures advertised that one is inclined to be skeptical of the merits of any new preparation, I was induced to give Benedictine Salve a trial and must say that after suffering for eight years from Rheumatism it has, I believe, effected as absolute and permanent cure. It is perhaps needless to say that in the last eight years I have consulted a number of doctors and have tried a large number of other medicines advertised, without receiving any bene Yours respectfully, MRS. John O'Conner, Esq., 199 King I was a sufferer for four months from acute rheumatism in my lets arm; my physician called regularly and prescribed for it, but gave me no relief. My brother, who appeared to have faith in your Benedictine Salve, gave enough of it to apply twice to my arm. I used it first on a Thursday night, and applied it again on Friday night. This was in the latter part of November. Since then (over two months) I have not had a trace of rheumatism. I feel that you are entitled to this testimonial as to the efficacy of Benedictine Salve in removing rheumatic pains. Yours sincerely, M. A. COWAN.

THE STRICKEN POPE.

THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1903.

Though canards have often been spread across the world anticipating the death of Leo XIII., there can be little room for doubting that at the present hour one of the greatest pontiffs, certainly the most august figure which contemporary history shall be called upon to describe, lies in a condition of dangerous illness. The taw of nature cannot very long defer the passing from the scene of the Grand Old Man of the Vatican. the radiance of whose holy life will endure as a heritage to the Church militant. The conditions of the strife between the Church and irreligion have been slightly changed during the regnal span through which Leo has been providentially sustained until he surpasses even Peter's years. A quarter of a century ago the alarmed Catholies of Germany were rallying their strength for self-protection; to-day it is from France the bugle call is heard. It was a German Archbisop who placed the Fisherman's Ring upon the finger of Pope Leo. That might have been accepted as a sign of his confidence in Germany and the German Catholics. His confidence in France has been more explicitly declared on many occasions during the past year;
