Wonderful Demonstration in British House of Commons To-day When Home Rule Bill Went on Statute Book--Redmond a Hero.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 18--12.22 p.m. King George's signature was today attached to the home rule bill, which thus gains the statute scene of enthusiasm, unusual in the staid legislative chambers of Westminster. Palace were enacted to-day when the two houses of parliament were prorogued. While King George was absent inspecting the troops, his speech was read in the House of Lords by Viscount Haldane, the lord chancellor and in the House of Commons by John H. Whitley, the deputy speaker. When the announcement was made in the House of Lords that the royal assent had been given to the Irish Home Rule and the Welsh church disestablishment emergency measures, cheers were given for the passing of the Irish and the Welsh bills. On the announcement of the passing of the Irish home rule bill in the House of Commons, the Nationalist and Liberals broke into loud cheers which were repeated again and again. Will Crooks, the Labor leader, asked if it was in order to sing "God Save the King." Without waiting for permission he started the first verse himself and then broke down with emotion. The anthem was taken up by the spectators in the gallery as well as by members and the singing was heard in the palace yard. As the members filed out of the chamber, Mr. Crooks cried out: "God Save Ireland." John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, replied: "God save England." Parliament will sit again October 27. Mr. Redmond, who was the recipient of many congratulations in the lobbies of the house, after the adjournment, left later in the day for Ireland, where he will take part in the recruiting campaign.

$ 100,000 OR BUST
IS CAMPAIGN MOTTO
FOR THREE DAYS

The live wire business men who are behind the whirlwind campaign for the Brantford Patriotic Fund have raised the limit. At first it was proposed to raise $50,000, but it has been decided that no less than $100,000 will suffice. The campaign will be a three-day affair, and will start on Wednesday next. And it will be some start! On the night before a monster mass meeting will be held at the Drill Hall, where a promenade band concert by three bands will be a feature. Preceding the mass meeting at the Drill Hall will be a parade of all the live wire teams and their captains, who are going to lay off work for three days to get the money. In the parade will be the bands, boy scouts and all the military, if possible. The campaign plans have been changed to some extent. The number of teams is changed from 12 to 15. This was in order to make room for some of the very best men in the city who were overlooked in the original draft, and also to increase the efficiency of the canvass. Another important change is lengthening the period of payment from one year to 18 months. Those who subscribe, however, will not be debarred from paying cash, but the idea is to make it easy as possible for those who are more than willing but embarrassed to some extent to lend ready financial help. The campaign is bound to succeed. It has been superbly planned, and will be conducted with such energy, zeal and enthusiasm which will spell success writ large. "$100,000 or Bust" is the motto for next week.

ANXIOUS ABOUT PROPERTY
PARIS, Sept. 18--There has been some speculation here as to what has become of the interests of the Germans, who have left to rejoin the army, possessed in houses of commerce in Paris. Yesterday the question came before a civil court in the form of a request from Germans fighting in the ranks of the invading army for the appointment of judicial administrators to assure the direction of their affairs. These requests were referred to Judge Regnault, but the opinion is held in legal circles that no action will be taken regarding them.

"THE DAY"

[The author of this magnificent poem, which first appeared in the Daily Mail of London, England, is Mr. Henry Chappell, a railway porter at Bath. Mr. Chappell is known to his comrades as the "Bath Railway Poet." A poem such as this lifts him to the rank of a national poet.]

You boasted the Day, and you toasted the Day,
And now the Day has come.
Blasphemer, braggart and coward all,
Little you reck of the numbing ball,
The blasting shell, or the "white arms" fall,
As they speed poor humans home.

You spied for the Day, you lied for the Day,
And woke the Day's red spleen.
Monster, who asked God's aid Divine,
Then strewed His seas with the ghastly mine;
Not all the waters of the Rhine
Can wash thy foul hands clean.

You dreamed for the Day, you schemed for the Day;
Watch how the Day will go.
Slayer of age and youth and prime (Defenceless slain for never a crime),
Thou art steeped in blood as a hog in slime,
False friend and cowardly foe.

You have sown for the Day, you have grown for the Day,
Yours is the harvest red,
Can you hear the groans and the awful cries?
Can you see the heap of slain that lies,
And sightless turns to the flame-split skies
The glassy eyes of the dead?

You have wronged for the Day, you have longed for the Day,
That lit the awful flame:
'Tis nothing to you that hill and plain
Yield sheaves of dead amid the grain;
That widows mourn for their loved ones slain,
And mothers curse thy name.

But after the Day there's a price to pay
For the sleepers under the sod,
And He you have mocked for many a day--
Listen, and hear what He has to say:
'Vengeance is mine, I will repay.'
What can you say to God?

REPULSE ENEMY'S ATTACK

Official Announcement Made in Paris This Afternoon.

PARIS, Sept. 18--3.09 p.m.—The allies have progressed somewhat on their western wing and are repulsing a vigorous German offensive movement, according to an official announcement made this afternoon by the French war department.

The communication follows: "The battle continued during the day of September 17 along the front from the River Oise to the Weveve, without any important changes in the situation at any point. "First: On our left wing, on the heights to the north of the River Aisne, we have made slight progress against certain points. Three offensive counter attacks undertaken by the Germans against the English army failed. From Craonne to Rheims we ourselves repulsed some very violent counter attacks, executed during the night. The enemy tried in vain to take the offensive against Rheims. "Second—On the centre, from Rheims to the Argonne, the enemy has reinforced himself by constructing important fortifications, and has adopted a purely defensive attitude. To the east of the Argonne, in the Woerveve district, the situation is unchanged. "On our right wing, in Lorraine and the Vosges, the enemy occupied positions organized on a defensive basis in the vicinity of the frontier."

Two car loads of supplies, the gift of the Red Cross Society, leave Toronto for Valenciennes.

Late Despatch This Afternoon From London-- German Right Wing Retires Somewhat--Three Supreme Struggles Taking Place.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 18--1.40 p.m.—As has been the case heretofore when the struggle along the vast battle line in France has been most acute the public in England as well as in France and Germany has been forced to content itself with the most meagre news of the progress of the operations. Experience has shown that extended statements are issued only after the retirement of the temporary defeat of one army or the other.

The information this morning sets forth laconically that the battle is raging with great fierceness along the whole front which extends, roughly speaking from the River Oise, near Noyon, to the German fortress of Metz, but barring a slight retirement of the German right wing at certain points, no decided advantage is credited to either side. Presumably the efforts of the allies have been divided into three supreme struggles; first, to dislodge the Germans from the heights of the Aisne; second to break through the fourth and fifth German armies at the centre and third, to outflank the German right under General Von Kluck. The position of the fourth and fifth German armies is considered not so strong as the remainder of the line, while if the flanking movement is successful the railroad lines on which the Germans depend so greatly would be cut. While the next move of either army is a matter of the merest speculation, the press of London dwells to-day upon the possibility that the Germans are striving only to hold the strong positions they now have assumed with the view of keeping the allies at bay and thus affording Emperor William opportunity to rush more troops to his eastern frontier.

On the other hand it would be no surprise if the Germans, now reinforced, should attempt another aggressive movement similar to the one which the allies inaugurated so successfully after the invaders had exhausted themselves in the avalanche like rush towards Paris.

Figures have been compiled here, according to which the German losses are estimated at 3,200 daily for the last fortnight. This totals more than 44,000 since September 4. As the losses of the allies are known to have been tremendous, and adding the terrible losses suffered by the Austrians in Galicia, some idea may be gained of the extraordinary sacrifices of men during these first few weeks of the world's greatest war. No confirmation has been received here of the reported Serbian evacuation of Semlin, nor

SIR JOHN FRENCH
KNOWS EVERY NOOK
OF FIGHTING GROUND

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
NEW YORK, Sept. 18--According to a London cable to the Tribune, Mrs. Charlotte Despard, interviewed to-day about her brother-in-chief of the British forces fighting in France, said: "My brother will be one of the happiest men in the field. The war game is his one passion. He loved it when he was a boy. Battles and preaching were his only hobbies. "Napoleon was, and is still his hero. But it is Napoleon the soldier, not Napoleon, the politician. Indeed, Sir John holds very strongly that a soldier should stick to his sword. "That is one of his first axioms in life. My brother has made Napoleon his hero because the Corsican was the greatest tactician the world has ever known."

"In one curious way his Napoleon cult has been unexpectedly useful. In pursuing his hero worship, he has traced every hillside and hedge row of the country over which he is now fighting. He knew the Belgian theatre of war by heart, through the Waterloo campaign before he ever landed there. "War is the game the general loves best. It is the game he has spent his life in learning. He thinks it the greatest game of all, and when he is in action he is the happiest warrior in the world." Mrs. Despard is almost as notable a figure in England as her distinguished brother. She is a vehement militant suffragette, and has hungered in jail "for the cause" of the Women's Freedom League, of which she is an active member.

DUFFERIN CHAPTER GAVE MOST ENJOYABLE CONCERT AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE LAST EVENING

Large Attendance and Triumph Was Scored by the Artists—Miss Melita Raymond Was in Splendid Voice—The Program.

An air of loyalty, an air of enthusiasm and a great wave of patriotism influenced hundreds of citizens of Brantford last night when they gathered at the Grand Opera House last night to attend the patriotic concert given under the auspices of the Dufferin Rifles chapter of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire. The theatre was well filled and the result will be felt in a generous contribution to the coffers of this most worthy cause. No expense was attached to the effort in any way, which were not defrayed by the donors, the theatre was freely given, the artists gave gladly of their services, while all other incidentals were omitted and thus the receipts will be materially substantiated.

It would have required no wave of patriotism however, to have attracted a large audience with the quality of the entertainment given. Those contributing were Miss Melita Raymond, Miss Marjorie Jones, Mr. Leonard, Bishop and Capt. Henry McLean, while the Dufferin Rifles band has never been heard to greater advantage. Airs, excellently adapted to the occasion were played with a spirit which brooked no master and Bandmaster Frank C. Johnson and his instrumentalists were more heartily received than is the lot of many similar aggregations.

The accompanists of the evening Mr. F. C. Thomas and Mr. D. L. Wright were in brilliant vein, both being quite happy in their numbers, rising to the highest plane that they admitted. Of the artists themselves much could be said but it is sufficient to say they excelled themselves. Again, Miss Melita Raymond added fresh laurels to her crown with her extraordinarily beautiful and generally artistically manipulated soprano voice. She received a great ovation and number of beautiful bouquets. Her entire responses were exceedingly charming. Unquestionably Miss Marjorie Jones was great. She is an extremely fine technical performer and is fully mistress of detail. Her arpeggios were beautiful in her playing and was done with a bewildering sense of brilliancy and security. Encores were demanded and the performer retired with flattering applause and was the recipient of many floral tributes. Mr. Leonard Bishop demonstrated to the rapt audience that he is the possessor of a splendidly modulated peace of Europe for the last forty-five years; would be no more. We must leave this matter in the hands of men like Asquith and Kitchener, who know infinitely better than we, how to deal with such a menace.

With this, the speaker concluded with the reminder that while it was very easy to start upon such a subject, it was exceedingly difficult to stop.

Nuptial Notes

On Wednesday afternoon, Rev. A. E. Lavell officiated at the very pretty wedding of Miss Dolly M. Smith and Mr. Albert T. Ite of the Wm. Patterson Co. of this city. The ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. T. S. W. G. Raymond, who served a dainty repast to the guests. The bride was the recipient of numerous gifts, among which was a brass jardiniere from the adult members of the Dufferin Rifles Church, Mr. and Mrs. Ite will reside at 38 Palace St.

Music and Drama

At the Grand Theatre this week, and a splendid house was present last night. The title of the program is "Fun in a Candy Store" by the five Dumbars. The stage effects for this mirth-provoking comedy are splendid, and the act includes singing, dancing and comedy stunts, all of a superb character. It is putting it mildly to say that the Dumbars brought down the house. In the matter of enthusiastic favors the other acts were also well favored. Pike and Calain, comedy entertainers, are good while the Olympic trio on the parallel bar is exceedingly clever. The feature photo plays are up to the high standard set by the Grand Theatre, the motto of which house is "Business as Usual."

W. G. T. U. Holds Annual Meeting

The yearly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of Wellington St. Church, with a large number present. The most important part of the program was the election of officers. After the usual opening exercises the business in connection with Willard Hall was discussed and Mrs. Read reported matters of the year's work were given by the different officers. Mrs. J. R. Kerr reported for evangelistic work. Literature, including Bibles and tracts, had been distributed. Mrs. J. R. Kerr reported over 50 bouquets of flowers sent to the sick and 311 to the luncheon camp. Mrs. J. R. Kerr reported the work done among the juveniles. The L. T. L. have over 40 members; held ten meetings for the year; have distributed a large quantity of literature, 60 tracts, 700 copies of clothing. Mrs. Chrysler spoke 21 times on the "Brooklyn Convention," also in the public schools at St. Albans, Vermont, and at Sabbath Schools, Mission Bands, boys' clubs, young people's societies. Mrs. Winters had distributed over one thousand leaflets in the stations. Mrs. Read reported mothers' meetings held in Burford, Paris and other towns. She has also spoken on temperance work in several of the Women's Institutes.

THE SITUATION

Still the great battle wages and will, without doubt, for some time, with varying fortunes, until an end is reached. The Germans are reported to have given way at certain points but not to any extent, and it is going to prove an inch-by-inch piece of business. Lord Kitchener made an important statement in the House of Lords yesterday. Like all his pronouncements, it was terse and brief. He intimated that within a few weeks some 200,000 British had been landed on the shores of France and emphasized the fact that more and more must be poured in. In this regard, he said:—

"A country which prides itself on outdoor sport as does Britain should have no difficulty in finding men capable of making officers. The territorial are making great strides in efficiency, and before long will be able to take their part in the campaign. Meanwhile, reserve units are being sent to augment the expeditionary force, and their places are being filled by territorials. While Britain has good ground for quiet confidence, it should be borne in mind that the struggle is bound to be a long one, and it behooves us to develop armed forces to carry on and bring the mighty conflict to a successful conclusion. It will be necessary, in order to keep the army at its full strength, to maintain a steady flow of reinforcements."

Lord Kitchener also paid a richly-deserved tribute to Sir John French when he pointed out that, in his despatches from the front, that splendid general had omitted one aspect of the situation, "the consummate skill and calm courage of the commander himself."

"Thanks to his superb leadership," continued the War Secretary, "the British army has been able at all times to fight a fight that has thrown terror into the enemy. Nothing has been wanting. His every move has shown that he has foreseen what was to come, and he has so distributed his forces that the strongest German blows have spent their weight without bringing the disaster their authors had planned."

Without any doubt, though small in numbers, the British forces have been all the time in the thick of the fighting and their steady example and prowess have exercised a moral worth beyond the realm of computation.

The present situation is that of an immense battle—the greatest in all history. Waterloo was fought in a comparatively small and restricted area. This giant struggle is along a "far-flung battle line" of over one hundred miles, with many hundreds of thousands of heavily armed troops as the participants. Should news come of reverse experiences for the allies, that should neither create alarm nor surprise.

WHY IS BRITAIN AT WAR?

Under the above heading the following very interesting article appears in the National Drug News from the pen of Mr. D. W. Bole, President of the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited:—

"Why is Britain at war at the present time? Our leaders in both the Imperial and Canadian Parliaments tell us it is not for love of war, or lust of conquest, or territorial greed. In Great Britain the people are happy and prosperous, and less than any other country in Europe is the gulf between reaction and progress; there is, therefore, no domestic reason for war. While England is bound by treaty to respect the neutrality of Belgium, she is not bound by treaty to defend it; she is not bound by anything that is signed, sealed and delivered to help France; she has no direct interest in the quarrel between Austria and Serbia, yet when English diplomacy failed to combine hostilities to these two countries, war involving Great Britain and the Empire, was as inevitable as it was honorable and necessary."

England was a party to the creation of the new Kingdom of Belgium in 1831, and was, therefore, morally obligated to assist her to maintain her independence, especially against a nation bound by treaty to respect it. This is apart from England's traditional policy of encouragement and help to weak nations fighting for liberty and a free Government. How much little Belgium has deserved English support, was demonstrated during the month of August. For three previous weeks she stemmed the tide of an army intended to crush Europe; then when the military strategy of the Allies required it she sacrificed her beautiful Capital as a pawn in the game of war. Such valor and self-abnegation are rare in history."

Then with respect to France, the good feeling which has existed for some years between the two nations developed into an understanding which, to an honorable nation, was as binding as a treaty. So confident were the two nations of each other's support, that England, surrendered, in a great measure to the safe-keeping of the French fleet, her interest in the Mediterranean, while France trusted her western and northern shores to the friendly vigilance of the British fleet. If England had been the first to feel the stroke of the enemy, no British soldier would have been.

In these circumstances, both with regard to Belgium and France, Great Britain is at a disadvantage. If she had made herself a party to the shameful bargain proposed by Germany, she would never have recovered from the shame. Now, as to the question of the necessity of war for the protection of her material interests, a glance at the map of Europe will answer. Great Britain's total annual trade is nearly seven billion dollars, one-third of which is with continental Europe. The open door to this vast European trade is through Holland and Belgium. If England had remained neutral, and France found herself unable to drive the Germans back into their own country, these doors would have been closed. In addition to this blow at England's trade and prestige, Germany would have dominated Europe and whipped into her ranks all the weaker nations as Napoleon did hundreds of years ago. Thus fortified Germany would regard her bargain with England as lightly as she regarded her treaty with Belgium, and in the event of a conflict, which, if complied with, would mean an end to the British Empire.

But the Kaiser reckoned without his host—Britain did not barter her right to defend her honor or her interests. Her people at home, and throughout the Empire, closed ranks and stood as one man ready to assist the Kaiser's consequences of war rather than that the flag should suffer dishonor, or that it should be lowered in the markets of the world. Great Britain, the little island nation, no larger than one of our own larger provinces, whose ports and markets are free to the whole world, whose army and navy are manned without a single conscript, and whose government is as free and democratic as her Republican ally, is fighting for the principle of honor between nations and that British pride, independence and enterprise the world over, shall not pale before the unbridled lust of a military autocrat. To Canadians this is an inspiring spectacle.

It is to maintain her place in the Empire and to share with the Mother Country the burdens of this war of civilization, that Canada offers in this crisis, so ungrudgingly, the flower of her young manhood and the first fruits of her industry."

The Courier has not come across a more cogent presentation of the case than that given above by Mr. Bole.

A UNITED STATES TRIBUTE

The New York Herald of recent date featured the following criticism of the present European war by "An American" military officer:— "It is Chancellerville all over again, only increased ten-fold in importance. Such was the opinion of more than one military man here yesterday of the crushing defeat suffered by the German army."

When the redoubtable Stonewall Jackson bore down on Hooker's exposed right flank at Chancellerville, he did exactly what the allied forces have effected on the Marne, and as a curious coincidence it was Howard's German corps, the Eleventh, which Jackson crumpled up like so much matchwood. At no time in the history of the Army of the Potomac were the Union forces so near to complete annihilation as when Jackson's great flank movement was consummated. "Cut them off from the United States food" were the last coherent words of the great Confederate as he lay wounded unto death; in other words, get in behind, cut off their retreat and destroy the line of connections.

What a similarity there is in all this to what the British and French are doing right now on General von Kluck's flank!

Can the British get behind the Germans—can they head them off? That is the question. If they can, there will be but one result, complete annihilation of Von Kluck's army or abject surrender.

In General French, the allies possess one of the greatest cavalry leaders of the present day. Few men have had the opportunity to handle large bodies of mounted troops to such a degree as French and his wonderful work in South Africa in completely encircling the Boers shows that he uses cavalry after the same manner as Sheridan did in our civil war. Being strongly reinforced. It took no shrewd guess to be aware of this when the allies assumed the offensive on September 7, and now the official reports confirm it. With French are fresh troops—not the same who were hurled back from Belgium in that first mile retreat, but regiments which are recently arrived from England, and more are coming with each succeeding day.

The British cavalry is hanging on to Von Kluck's flank, pushing the German commander has serious doubt of reaching the Argon, where he may hope to get in touch with the Crown Prince. He may try, the despatches in mind that the British have been strongly reinforced. It took no shrewd guess to be aware of this when the allies assumed the offensive on September 7, and now the official reports confirm it. With French are fresh troops—not the same who were hurled back from Belgium in that first mile retreat, but regiments which are recently arrived from England, and more are coming with each succeeding day.

With French are fresh troops—not the same who were hurled back from Belgium in that first mile retreat, but regiments which are recently arrived from England, and more are coming with each succeeding day.

General Phil Sheridan, just from the fierce fighting of our civil war, accompanied the German troops in their victorious campaign of 1870. Sheridan marvelled at the lack of employment of cavalry in force on the flanks. To his trained mind the Germans were wholly ignorant of this role of mounted troops. It was Sheridan who organized the cavalry of the Union army in one great corps, and it was this corps of Sheridan's which worked the Confederate lines below Petersburg and compelled Lee to evacuate Richmond. Sheridan characterized the shutting up of French armies in Sedan and Metz as criminal, and he summed up his entire observations in the German campaign by saying, in effect, that Americans had little to learn from Germans in the active employment of troops in the field. He especially called attention to the German lack of recourse to rifle pits or other localities of cover, which the American soldiers on both sides in the civil war became adept in creating.

The mistakes of the French in 1870 are not being repeated in the present campaign. They have not allowed themselves to be tempted to take cover behind great fortresses, but unflinchingly they have kept the field, and despite their heavy losses in the retrograde movement from Belgium, they have maintained their lines intact.

The British military schools of Woolwich and Sandhurst have for years laid immense stress on the lessons of the American civil war, and the works of Colonel Henderson, of Sandhurst, on Jackson's operations to take books in those great institutions.

The shortcomings which Sheridan pointed out in the German military operations of 1870, are not only existing, but with the difference that in 1870 there was no present day efficient French-British force to take advantage of these shortcomings. The army of Von Kluck directly across the allies' front, namely from the north to the southeast of Paris, there was afforded just the opportunity for a great leader, trained in cavalry work in heavy masses, was quick to perceive and which was instantly seized.

In that movement across the allied front Von Kluck's right flank was thrown right up in the air. Think of what Sheridan, "John Stuart," or Wheeler would have done with such a chance before him! What they would have done is exactly what French has done, and it only remains to be seen how much of any of his force Von Kluck can save.

The great German attack on Paris has more than failed. The fate of the German empire itself may even now be regarded as in jeopardy."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Kitchener is the greatest military tactician since Von Moltke, and French one of the greatest cavalry leaders of all time.

The Crown Prince has been telegraphing for woolen socks for his men. Later on it is blooming sock-lager that he and his dad will get.

The brutal and the murderous conduct of the Kaiser's troops shows just what the rest of the world might expect if that Hohenzollern outfit came out on top.

William Randolph Hearst, the Kaiser of yellow journalists, has started an agitation in the States for Uncle Sam to help stop the war as "the greatest power in the world." Off the track, there, William! The name of the gentleman entitled to that unquestioned honor is one John Bull. Even the trade routes used by Uncle Sam are being kept safe and open by him, while at the same time he is mainly helping to attend to that job in Europe.

FIERCE BATTLE

(Continued from Page 1) have the brief despatches bringing this rumor told whether their retirement was due to strategic reasons or a result of the onslaughts of the Austrians, aided by their battleships which are reported to have bombarded both Berlin and Belgrade. All Serbian advices insist that the Serbs are continuing their vigorous forward movement.

The preliminary talk of peace seems to be resented by the British public. While the pact recently signed by the allies insures concerted action in the direction of peace on their part, all despatches from Washington relative to the attitude on peace of Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German chancellor as conveyed through the American ambassador at Berlin together with despatches from Rome saying that Austria-Hungary desires peace, have aroused considerable discussion here, and editorial articles already have appeared saying that peace on any terms is out of the question until what is styled "the menace of German militarism" is crushed.

The early impatience of the British public for news from the front, seems now to be more or less reconciled to the necessity of waiting for the official bulletins as given out by the press bureau. Despatches received here from Berlin say that the German public has been without actual news of the situation in the western area of the war for two weeks.

There is nothing to-day to indicate a change in the situation in the eastern zone. Probably the armies of Austria are still trying to penetrate at Cracow, while the Russian army under General Rennenkampf is holding the Germans at bay along the frontier of Poland.

While public opinion and the press in Italy and Roumania are apparently still in the dark as to the course these nations will pursue, as the struggle continues, a semi-official assurance came from Denmark to-day, from the newspaper, Politiken, that that country will remain firm in its neutrality. Mr. Politiken says: "Nothing can induce us to change the policy of neutrality which Denmark has declared she will follow."

The German cruiser Emden sank five British steamers off the coast of India.

PARIS DARK RE BATTLE

It is Only Known That Germans Have Fallen Back on Left.

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

PARIS, Sept. 18.—6.24 a. m.—The great battle of Aisne continues. All that is known officially of its progress is that the Germans are yielding slightly at some points on the left. Though the communication of this fact was given out officially by the French yesterday, it evidently refers to the situation on Tuesday, since it accords with the British press statement of Wednesday.

The many wounded prisoners coming in from the front indicate that the allies have made the Germans give ground, the latter leaving their wounded behind. The army of Crown Prince Frederick William has finally turned on its pursuers at Montfaucon, to the northwest of Verdun, encouraged no doubt by advances of reinforcements coming from the Rhine garrisons, and the line of defence is now clearly established from Noyon, 67 miles northeast of Paris, to Montfaucon.

In addition to the difficulty of reorganizing their forces to withstand the attack on the new line the Germans are no doubt troubled about their rear. The resumption of activity by the Belgians means more than its troops have had time to rest, and no doubt there is good foundation for the many rumors that King Albert's forces have been reinforced, though from where is only a matter of conjecture.

Some experts still think that the safety of the crown prince's army, which had great difficulty in disengaging itself from the defiles of the forest of Argonne and is not yet according to opinion here, by any means safe. The prolonged rains also make it necessary to have more time in which to get the artillery out of the chaly mud of northern and eastern Champagne.

BOYS' FIGHTING.

LONDON, Sept. 18, 9.15 a. m.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Bordeaux asserts that boys less than 16 years old are fighting in the German ranks. The correspondent declares he saw one wounded in the Bordeaux hospital, whose age was years and nine months and who told him that all students at school over fifteen years had been mobilized and placed in different regiments.

BATTLE OF AISNE

Great Work by French and British, But Germans Are Strong.

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Describing the battle along the Aisne, a Soissons despatch to The Express says: "French picked troops with heavy guns are endeavoring to outflank the German position. A French officer said that the position of the allies was exceedingly good, and that the enemy, consisting of three army corps, were in a practically hopeless position until they found a way to escape to the northeast. But he admitted that the German position was actually a strong defensive one. "The spirit of the men is excellent, despite the heavy rains, continual marching and the heavy shelling."

HAD GREAT EFFECT

BONDON, Sept. 18.—Telegraphing from Soissons the correspondent of The Express says, the effect of General French's address to his troops recently when he rode along the whole front, was excellent. Words from a silent general have a double value. The troops appreciated deeply his praise and encouragement. It was a striking spectacle—thousands of men, careless of danger, standing in attention before their trusted leader—then at the Germans again."

GENERAL KILLED

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A Bordeaux despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, states that the battle continues with great fierceness along the whole front. The death is announced of General Bataille, who was killed in action.

A RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 18.—It is announced that the Russian troops in the pursuit of the enemy have met all along the battle front with important successes against the Austrians and have occupied Sandomic. They took by assault an important position near Kreschoff and crossed the San River, pressing the routed Austrians hard. In the Laverovo district they captured convoys of ammunition from the sixth and fourteenth Austrian army corps, taking more than thirty guns, 5,000 prisoners and an enormous quantity of munitions of war. In East Prussia only insignificant fighting has occurred.

NEWS FROM VALCARTIER

Some interesting and humorous sidelights from Valcartier are published below. The writer is a man of many and varied experiences now with the Brantford contingent. He has soldiered—wandered over this continent—been newspaper man in the West, also worked on a cattle ranch. He sees things with eye of a humorist, tells them with the polish of a cynic.

Cold at Valcartier—and Hot. Tuesday—There was a thick white frost on the ground this morning when we turned out, but after breakfast the sun came out fiercely hot, but it is getting cold again this evening and gives promise of another frost to-night.

Fake Victory Comment. The news of the midnight celebrations in Brantford soon spread through the lines of the 38th. What a pudding-headed trick to do. I am glad the Courier kept out of it.

Grateful for 'Housewives.' The housewives and belts, etc., received from the ladies have proved very acceptable. You know Tommy, on active service, is always getting little cuts and bruises, and losing buttons, busting braces, etc., and the contents of the housewives come in as handy as a 'real' wife—(or nearly so).

Corpl. Jubber—Artist and Chef. Corporal Jubber, in his spare time, acts as company barber—he gives the boys a proper military cut too, makes one mighty sweep with the clippers from the nape of the neck to the edge of the eyebrows—sort of whizz! whizz! four times and 'next please!' His two trusty assistant cooks are Tommy Rose and Tommy Lockyer—both ex-service men.

Ladies Are 'Curiosities.' Lady visitors are rare curiosities in Valcartier and if by chance a lady should pass through the lines, she is generally welcomed by heads stuck out of the openings in tents, sometimes a head and arm, the hand holding a wedge of bread and jam, or face appears half lathered with shaving soap.

Massey Harris Gift. There has been quite a bit of excitement down here—two representatives of the Massey-Harris Co. came down and presented all the employees with a cheque for $50—married and single. Can you give some of the other rich firms a sly hint?

Angels Could Do No More. The Duffs continue their fine work on the ranges—also at football.

BACK FROM CAMP. Several Brantford Soldiers Were Unable to Go to the Front.

Seven men of the Brantford contingent at Valcartier returned to the city this morning, having failed to pass the medical inspection at the camp. They were composed of five Dragoons and two Dufferin Rifles men. They left the camp headquarters on Wednesday noon and did not arrive here until this morning. The names of those returned are: Dufferin volunteers—Harry Pratt and Chapman; Dragoons—Earl King, Vansickle, Clark and Clawsey. Although rejected these men have not been taken off the strength of the regiment and are subject to orders until they are released.

The returned boys express themselves as highly satisfied with all down at the camp and only wish they were able to proceed further. They bring back the news that the Dragoons had the highest shooting average of any company in Valcartier.

MUSIC AND DRAMA. At the Apollo.

If you are interested in the war you should not miss paying a visit to the Apollo Theatre this week. There is on show at this theatre some of the finest and latest up-to-date war pictures that it is possible to obtain. They are up-to-date and shows the armies of the rival countries in action. The immense columns of men engaged in this mighty conflict is hardly realized until photographic brings them up before us. Emperor William is seen in all his pompous dignity and his troops are seen in action. An artillery attack is taken, and the Serbian attack upon the Austrians is also viewed. Although it is seen during the various army is also put upon the screen. It is a truly wonderful production.

Manager Moulle obtained the film immediately upon its arrival in this country for Brantford, and he intends to continue the series of which this production is the third. There is a good list of other splendid films.

A NOBLE CAUSE WILL NOT BE LOST SAYS KING GEORGE

LONDON, Sept. 18, 12.40 p.m.—Parliament was prorogued to-day until October 27.

When the deputy speaker announced the formal prorogation Will Crooks, the Labor leader, arose and asked if it was in order to sing "God Save the King." The anthem was then sung, the members rising in body. At its close the Commons filed slowly out.

In his speech from the throne proroguing parliament, King George spoke to-day as follows: "My Lords and Gentlemen: I address you in circumstances that call for action rather than for speech. After every endeavor had been made by my government to preserve the peace of the world I was compelled, in the assertion of treaty obligations and for the protection of the public law of Europe and the vital interests of my Empire, to go to war.

"My navy and my army have with unceasing vigilance, courage and skill sustained in association with our gallant and faithful allies, a just and righteous cause. From every part of my Empire there has been a spontaneous and enthusiastic rally to our common flag.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons, I thank you for the liberality with which you have met a great emergency. My lords and gentlemen we are fighting for a worthy purpose and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved.

"I rely with confidence upon the loyal and united efforts of all my subjects and I pray that Almighty God may give us his liberally set at naught and for GREAT BRITAIN'S NEW WAR HERO.

GENERAL SIR H. L. L. SMITH-DORRIEN.

All England is to-day acclaiming this new war hero. That the present offensive movement of the allies is made possible is admittedly due to his efforts. With his small corps he for two days withstood an overwhelming force of Germans, making possible the saving of the entire left wing of the allied army. General Smith-Dorrien has distinguished himself in many other battles fought under the British flag. He is fifty-six years old and is the son of an army officer.

"Rule Britannia" BURFORD FAIR

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A Times' correspondent in France describes an incident at Havre when the United States cruiser Tennessee lay in the harbor and a British transport, the decks of which were thronged with soldiers, passed her. The American cruiser dipped the Stars and Stripes, and suddenly the British Tommies broke into "Rule Britannia."

"Then" says the correspondent, "an amazing thing happened. I heard and was thrilled by it. The bronzed American sailors took up the rolling chorus—"Rule, Britannia, Britannia rules the waves, Britons never, never, never shall be slaves."

"It was the most brotherly act I have ever witnessed." Nearly 70,000 citizens of Toronto have joined rifle clubs and are learning to shoot.

People hereabouts are commencing to count the days to the great Southern Fair at Burford. That great annual gathering of city and country folk, has become a recognized institution. It constitutes an aggregation of fine exhibits, attractive special features and a chance to meet everybody you know or ought to know in this section of the hemisphere.

The dates are Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6 and 7. On the second day there will be a special train for the accommodation of Brantfordites, leaving the market St. station at 1 p.m., and Colborne St. station at 1.10 p.m. The 38th Battalion band will also be in attendance.

THE PROBS

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—Fine weather prevails throughout the Dominion except in British Columbia, while a gale is blowing on the east coast of Newfoundland.

Forecast: Moderate winds, mostly north to northeast, fine to-day and on Saturday with stationary or a little lower temperature.

With the City Police

Magistrate Livingston got through the police court business in expeditious manner this morning.

William Williamson, who resisted arrest and caused P. C. Tyrrell some trouble last night, was fined $3 and costs on a disorderly charge.

No charge of conversion was proved against Joseph Hall, and the charge against him was dismissed.

James Coleman and Howard Penell paid up the usual fee for running upon the sidewalks, and Frank Smith was dismissed upon a charge of thieving from a potato lotter.

Makes Appeal to Americans for Assistance

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NEM YORK, Sept. 18.—Madame Vandervelde, wife of the Belgian minister of state, reached New York to-day aboard the Celtic, with an appeal to the men and women of this country for aid for the people of Belgium, whose homes have been laid waste by war.

Madame Vandervelde, wife of the Belgian minister of state, has come to the United States from Antwerp to appeal to the generosity of the great American people on behalf of her countrymen—men and women—whose land has been ravished by the horrors of war through no fault of their own, and thousands of whom are now destitute.

Thousands have lost all they had, land houses, farms, money, and the very things which they got their daily bread. Thousands are even without clothing and have become wanderers and outcasts at the gates of the earth.

Madame Vandervelde wishes to tell what she has seen herself—the stream of refugees leaving Malines during the bombardment, the murdered babies of Zeppelins, and the story of the burning of Louvain. She wishes to tell also of the sublime courage of the Belgians.

A few hours before she left Antwerp, King Albert of Belgium sent his secretary to Madame Vandervelde with her good luck, and to tell her that the king approves her intention of appealing for help to the people of America. She brought with her the following letter from Queen Elizabeth:

"Her majesty, the queen, wishes to tell you that she approves the project of putting before public opinion in England and the United States the sufferings which the German invasion has inflicted upon our peaceful people. Five of our provinces are devastated and thousands of families driven out of their houses are at this moment without homes. It is deserving well of one's country and of humanity to try to help them. Best wishes of the Queen accompany you to these countries which she loves to give help to those in distress."

TOOK THEM PRISONERS. NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The Dutch steamer Commewijne, from Carthage and other ports in the South and Central America, was stopped and searched off Ambrose Channel lightship this forenoon by the British cruiser Lancaster. Twenty-seven men and six women were taken on board and transferred to the cruiser. Those arrested were discharged employees of the Hamburg-American line steamers Albingia, Mecklenburg and Virginia, which are interned at Carthage. The prisoners were informed that they would probably be sent to detention camps in Canada.

TRADE GETS BETTER OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—Advices to the Department of Labor show that Canada is enjoying a timely area of industrial peace, there being no labor disputes of note, and no boards of conciliation sitting. The whole trade situation is daily becoming brighter, and statistics for the past month when they become available, will, it is expected, show surprising improvement in conditions.

IN BRIEF

[By Special Wire to the Courier] It was announced officially in Paris at three o'clock this afternoon that the allies had progressed somewhat. The western wing was declared to have repulsed a vigorous German offensive attack.

In proroguing parliament today, King George said he was compelled to go to war for the protection of the public law of Europe and the vital interests of the Empire, and that fighting for a worthy purpose, Great Britain would not lay down her arms until that purpose had been fully accomplished.

Austrian army reports that the Servians have evacuated Semlin, the town which they seized when they began their invasion of Hungary. Servian reports are to the effect that their successes continue.

The Austrian armies, following their disastrous clash with the Russians in Galicia, are believed to be attempting to reform at Gracova where the Germans are reported as trying to push their way into Russian Poland.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 18, 10.10 a.m.—As far as the public knows the great artillery duel along the line of the River Aisne continues to be a draw. In the pause of the thunder of the huge guns, the infantry and cavalry units scattered along the line of battle are being held in readiness for a counter-offensive action.

An official statement written by a staff officer who has been on the scene of the operations and which is authorized by the British War Office gives details of the actions closing with the crossing of the Aisne, but only the most meagre communications have been issued concerning the fighting of the last two days.

Roughly speaking the line of the advance of the allies is traced by six rivers, four of which have already been crossed. The crossing of the Marne, marking the assumption of the aggressive part by the allies, was purely a rear guard action in which General von Kluck managed to keep the German right from being outflanked. So far as the British were concerned the passage of the Ourcq was not contested. The Vesle River was only slightly defended by the Germans, while as is now well known, the resistance of the German forces at the Aisne was still is of the most stubborn character on both the French and British fronts.

If the allies hold the beach across the Aisne, which they gained despite the heavy artillery fire from concealed German batteries on the heights of the river, two more rivers, the Allette and the Oise (remain to be crossed. The country between the Aisne and the Allette is ideal for defensive purposes and if the German rear guard action on the German territory for a long time. On the other hand if the Germans resume the offensive the country now occupied by them affords an excellent operating base.

It is clear from reports coming in from the allies that the victory in the Battle of the Marne and the assumption of the offensive had a tremendous morale effect on the Franco-British armies.

Berlin acknowledges that while General von Hindenburg's brilliant and daring movement across the border lake was successful in driving back General Rennenkampf's forces, the Russians were not completely outflanked and the previous East Prussian victory against the Russians was not duplicated as the Russian general retired in good order, saving his artillery.

There is a lull in the operations in Galicia, where the victorious Russian armies evidently are moving in an effort to cut off the retreat of the Austrians towards Cracow.

We are so pleased to think that the American visitors are leaving Berlin," the letter reads, "and they will be able to tell the world how England has wronged us. The people of the Fatherland are greatly grieved to think that the English race should stoop below the human with such people as the Japanese, to say nothing of the Slavs."

The add that their house is turned into a refuge and daily they are called upon to feed and shelter large numbers of teachers and clerics from Berlin who are feeling the effects of the war very bitterly. The casualty lists are being published in Berlin at the time the letter was written, August 25th, and the young ladies state that its length is surprising to all.

Getting Order For Brantford

The Adams Wagon Company recently received the third order for wagons from the military authorities at Ottawa, and the Slingby people have received two orders for blankets—one for the navy and the other for the army.

These were obtained upon the representation of Mr. W. F. Cocksbutt, M.P. He is also trying to secure orders for other Brantford concerns making any class of article needed, and he hopes to be successful.

ALL CALLED OUT.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—German military authorities occupying the territory around Kalisz, in Russian Poland, have called to the colors all the German inhabitants there between the ages of 16 and 45, according to a despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Petrograd. Many of the German subjects fled. Some of these were caught and 20 were hanged.

Paris Takes Measures to Prevent Automobiles Leaving
the City.

[By Special Wire to The Courier.]

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Beginning today no automobiles will be allowed to leave Paris except military ambulances and cars carrying officials and journalists bound to and from Bordeaux. It is thought this action may be due to the use of automobiles by spies.

Two cars, one black and one green have been speeding around the outskirts of Paris defying the challenges of sentinels. Both automobiles were driven by chauffeurs wearing French uniforms and carrying passengers in plain clothes, who in some cases have returned the fire directed at them by sentinels. There seems to be no doubt that the cars were used by spies to locate positions of troops in the vicinity of Paris.
Two more Germans, a woman and her daughter, suspected of spying, were driven from Saint-Michel-Sur-Orge, amid the hootings of the populace yesterday.

Voluminous correspondence with German officers have been seized.
Paris newspapers contain complaints from different quarters
against the leniency of the government toward German subjects
leaving Paris for provincial points
some of whom have since disappeared and it is thought likely they have resumed their vocation of spying.

The Ontario association of Architects elected officers for the ensuing year at Toronto.

rived here to-day from Maubeuge,

The Duchess was in Namur during its bombardment and she reports that she treated mostly Belgian and French wounded. The Duchess said the conduct of the Germans was correct and towards herself and party it was even considerate. She refused to make a detailed statement until she reaches England, where she will go in a day or two.

We Want You to See the
New Fall Styles Shown
Here To-morrow

YOUNG MEN, and men who stay young, have come to regard the styles shown here as being assuredly correct—and rightly so. There is a freshness about them that is easily recognizable, that has given them their undisputed leadership each season for a quarter century.

This is so because their conception is the work of an acknowledged style-artist, a man young enough to appreciate what young men want, and with the exquisite skill to put those desires into realization.

One of the main elements of good style is precision. The cut of the lapel, the front, the cuff, each of these must be chosen unerringly, for it is the little things that distinguish the initiated real style from the one that only approaches the original in beauty.

A visit here will disclose the truth of this. You will find here the largest selection, you will find superior workmanship and finish, pure wool, and, lastly, you will find style of such smartness and emphatic correctness as you can find nowhere but in such clothes as in "Our Good Clothes." Priced at

BERLIN GETS REPORT
OF EASTERN BATTLES
AGAINST RUSSIANS

Crown Prince Telegraphs Home For Supplies for His Troops--In East Prussia German Army is Now on the Defensive.

[By Special Wire to The Courier.]

BERLIN, via Rotterdam, Sept. 17.—
via London Sept. 18.—Crown Prince Frederick William to-day telegraphed to the Zeitung "Am Mittag" as follows:

"Please collect and forward as early as possible woolen underwear and socks for my soldiers.
Greetings.
(Sgd)—Wilhelm, crown prince."

It was only a few days ago that the crown prince telegraphed to a Berlin newspaper asking it to collect and forward tobacco to cigars for his soldiers.
The healing of the wound of Prince Joachim, the youngest son of Emperor William is progressing normally, but it will possibly be several weeks before he is wholly restored, according to an announcement at the imperial court to-day.

No news from official sources
for publication has been received since the midnight bulletin whose reports of attacks and counter-attacks indicate that the battle is still progressing. Otherwise there is little illuminating news for the German public and not the slightest hint of the movements or positions of the German army for the last ten days has been disclosed by the military authorities, who are determined to veil
the situation in absolutely mystery until a decision is reached.
They decline to discuss the statements made in French and English despatches.

The wording of the latest German bulletin may perhaps be interpreted as indicating that the front has been relaxed, and a number of stories are coming through from which it is possible to draw a general picture of the operations against General Rennenkamp's Russian army.

From Sept. 7 to 13 the Russians took a strong position on the line from Angerburg to Ger-dauen, Allenburg and Wehlau, the left wing resting on the Mazurian Lakes, and the right wing protected in the rear and flank
by the forest of Frisching, whose pathless woods and swamps furnished an almost impregnable position. The Russians devoted great efforts to entrenching their position and brought up besides their heavy artillery. Russian cavalry scouted far to the west and south but otherwise the army undertook no offensive operations in the days following the battle of Tannenberg.

The enemy's forces, according to the German official account,
were composed of the second,
third, fourth and twentieth corps,
two reserve divisions and five cavalry divisions.

General Hindenburg, the German commander, meanwhile was assembling every available man, depriving the fortress of their garrisons and calling in all but a bare regiment of the force protecting the southern frontier in the vicinity of Soldau, adding them to reinforcements received from the west. General Hindenburg again resorted to the customary outflanking movement,

and since the Russian right protected by the forest and marches seems to have been adapted the daring strategy of sending the flanking force to the lake region to the south the same character of movement by which the Russian Narw army was trapped and captured a short time before, and which in case of failure might have been equally disastrous for the Germans.

The strategy however succeeded, although General Rennen-kamp offered a desperate resistance to the frontal attacks. After three days fighting the Russians were forced back slightly in the centre. When the flank movement of the Germans was discovered already threatening the flank
a counter movement was launched against it with a new army collected at Lyck, including the 2nd corps and the third Siberian corps just arriving from Irkutsk, and the balance of the Narw army, but the counter attacks failed, and on Sept. 10, the Russians began to fall back on their main position, retreating in good order and well covered.

The Russian artillery in the right wing appears to have made a good retreat, owing to a timely start, while the left wing was hard pressed from the enveloping movement of the German army.
From here the Russians retreated across the border in two columns while the others went in a northeasterly direction, pursued by the Germans who advanced far from the border.

The German Government has appointed Count Von Merveldt as governor of the Russian province of Suwalki and other points occupied by them.

The University of Koenigsberg conferred upon General Von Hindenberg honorary doctor's degrees from all four of the departments of philosophy, theology,
law and medicine.

The Berliner Tageblatt prints
the following regarding the operations in the west:
"We are standing on the defensive on a 125 mile battle line, and because we have been spoiled by a rapid series of victories many are unable to realize that a defence under certain circumstances is as justified as an offensive."
"We have learned a little concerning the situation, but we can point to some successes, such as the repulse of the French night attacks."

The abandonment of our original positions between Paris and Verdun, for strategic reasons, is in itself nothing momentous. In many days of battle and shifting positions, final results alone are important.
Captain Schieckert, the correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, describes the action in East Prussia on September 10 as follows:
"Our heavy howitzer batteries
located on extreme right wing,
bombarded the entrenchments and bombproofs of the Russian infantry with terrible effect, and from this position we could watch the progress of the battle steady-ly and easily with field glasses,
but we too caught the notes of the battle music."
"The battle salvos of the Russians came in ever shortening intervals, and between rolled the infantry fire, now in volleys and then irregularly. Meanwhile the hard rattle of the machine guns on the edge of the forest had a deafening effect, adding long runs of notes to the concert."

"The Russian shrapnel meanwhile burst too high or too low near our batteries, but the Russians after a while got the range and over our batteries soon flew fragments of the iron shower bath intended for us. Soon our batteries increased their fire until the heavens seemed afire, while on the horizon the villages broke out in flames."
"At 1.45 in the afternoon the Russian shrapnel fire reached its maximum violence, and then followed a cessation of all fire for ten minutes, and then again the fire was opened. At 2.15 the Russian fire stopped with our men advancing as rapidly as possible and a little while afterwards the effect of our flank movement
behind Loetzen made itself felt."

LONGED FOR PARIS
German Soldier Lost Sight of Both Eyes Before He Expired.

[By Special Wire to The Courier.]

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Among the wounded prisoners in the hospital at Saint Mandrier is the Count of Ho-enthal and Bergen, a lieutenant in the Saxon cavalry of the Imperial Guard, and a son of the Saxon Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was made a prisoner at Fontenoy-Mousson.
At the hospital at Compiegne a non-commissioned officer named Puttkammer, the son of a German statesman, died after several days in agony.
He was wounded in both eyes by fragments of shells, one arm was crushed,
and there were also bayonet wounds
in his thigh. Von Puttkammer begged the surgeons to save his sight, as he wanted to go to Paris with the rest of the troops.

under date of September 17 that bombs were dropped toward the smoke curled up.

SIR J. M. BARRIE

Arrived in New York To-day, and Talks of the Big War.

[By Special Wire to The Courier.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The Cunard liner Lusitania from Liverpool,
reached her pier here early to-day.
Prominent among the 1,502 passengers were Sir James M. Barrie, author and playwright, and A. E. M. Masson, the English novelist. Speaking of the war, Sir James M. Barrie said:
"The real ultimate cause of the war is militarism. The nations have been arming themselves and a loaded gun always goes off sooner or later. In my opinion the war will last a long time. The issue involved is as clear as the cause which brought it about—it is whether soldiers or citizens are to rule in Europe."
"So far as England is concerned,
the most striking feature of the war
is the way in which the young men of Britain are enlisting."
"One hears the Kaiser generally blamed for the war. This is somewhat less than fair. The Kaiser was a young man in 1870 when the war spirit was very strong, and he is merely the product of a system."
"It is too early to talk of peace negotiations. No peace would be lasting nor would it produce the results which we all hope for unless one side is thoroughly beaten."

THE LESSON LEARNT BY FRANCE IN 1870

Does Not Use Her Cavalry Indiscriminately Now, While Germany is Very Reckless.

Major Darnley Stuart-Stephens, prompted by the news of the engagement in which British cavalry figured prominently, recalls in the "Daily Despatch" some famous cavalry charges. Reports that have reached London through semi-official channels (the Belgian between a brigade of British cavalry with a similar force of the enemy's mounted arm, the British horsemen "rode down" the Kaiser's troopers, and had all the best of the fight.

It will probably be found when the details of this satisfactory encounter are revealed that our regiments engaged were heavy cavalry. "The Thunder Ride" From what has transpired up to the present respecting the conduct of the German cavalry when opposed to the French mounted troops, it would appear that the former are scarcely living up to the traditions of Mars-la-Tour. That was the memorable occasion, it may be recalled, when at the commencement of the series of Gravelotte battles, General von Bredow's brigade charged the head of a French column of infantry, penetrated right through a brigade of French cavalry and by doing so led to a complete dislocation of a French movement which was in progress, and had for its object the detention of a German army marching with the Prussian King's group of army corps. This exploit is known in military history as "The Thunder Ride," and was effected at a greater cost than that suffered by the Light Brigade at Balaclava.

French Have Learnt Their Lesson In that same war the superb heavy cavalry of the French was uselessly sacrificed at Reichshoven, and again on that terrible day of Sedan, the French cavalry consisting of a complete division under General Marguerite, was hurled on an unbroken line of German infantry, supported by 8 batteries of field artillery, with the result that this huge force of horse—a fiery wave of Gallic valor—was practically destroyed. Barely had the charge been sounded when the general commanding the division was killed and his place was taken by the famous general, the Marquis de Gallifet.

German Recklessness In the "terrible year" (1870) German cavalry showed many object lessons in the effective use of that arm while our friends the French made a terrible hash of things when their cavalry came into action. At the moment of contact between the two armies the French cavalry have been used with prudence. The French generals have not been tempted to throw away unnecessarily a horse or his rider, while on every occasion, as shown by what news has reached us, German cavalry have been used with the most wanton recklessness. And, as I have pointed out, when the English mounted troops come in number of distinctly unpleasant surprises, one of which appears to have already taken place.

It is a comforting feature of the present situation that our English cavalry force is largely in excess of the standard proportion of the arm, that would form part of the expeditionary army. Two of the three French army corps are weak in this arm owing to certain reasons which I cannot at present divulge. And I believe the general officers of these two bodies of the French extreme left are freely borrowing our squadrons.

Irish Horses Bought by Enemy A vast number of Irish mounts were purchased, irrespective of price, by the spring by German agents. These horses have been reserved for the cavalry regiments which are attached to the headquarters staff of the Kaiser. If these horses had been carrying the dragoons who were ridden over a few hours ago there might have been a different story to tell. From what I hear from French officers at the front the German horse flesh of the Liege army of invasion has been ridden to a standstill. Of course, there is an extraordinary difference in the conditions under which the French and English cavalry are living and that of the enemy. The German cavalry have been brought from the remote interior of Germany.

Owing to the tremendous congestion of the railway system the troops proceeded at a slow pace. When the cavalry were detained at Havelot, horses and men were in the reverse of good form. Ever since they have been operating in an unfriendly country, where the exasperated population have destroyed every ounce of fodder.

Fed in France on Generous Scale. On the other hand, our cavalry has been ferried across in the pink of condition after very few hours of shipboard about three and a half hours, and they have since been living in a friendly country, where the population seek to combine in feeding on the most generous scale their four-legged as well as two-legged guests. The provision for the cavalry along the frontier has been carried out on an enormous scale. Taking these factors into account, I would be inclined to discount at this juncture the value of the Kaiser's squadron by, say, 40 per cent, as compared with ours.

While events have been moving to the great battle in Belgium, which seems to have now begun in earnest, Austria has been severely mauled by Serbia, so that she cannot hope to maintain successful resistance against her Slav enemies, and Russia's occupation of Vienna is only a matter of a few weeks. Austria is but acting down to her military reputation.

Napoleon's Opinion of Austria. The legend of Austria's fortune in the field is that of disaster following disaster. Napoleon held the Austrian Army in contempt. The great captain said to one of his favorite marshals, Lannes: "What else could be expected of these Austrians, when their marshals are selected by reason of their fathers and mothers. My marshals I select for their qualities as soldiers irrespective of their origin."

In this respect it may also be remembered that Napoleon selected his marshals for their long noses. The climax of stupidity was attained at Austerlitz by the Austrian commanders when half of the Hapsburg Emperor's legions were committed to that most perilous manoeuvre, a flank march at short distance across the enemy's territory. Directly the movement commenced Napoleon took a big pinch of snuff, made a mighty flourish with his handkerchief, and remarked to the chief of his personal staff: "Now I have them."

Record a Ghastly Foilure. In 1859, another Napoleon, the third of the dynasty, looked on at Solferino and Magenta while his Franco-Irish Marshall, MacMahon and Marshal Canrobert soundly thrashed the Austrians with, of course, Italian aid. In 1864, in that outrageous Schleswig-Holstein piece of Prussian brigandage, the Austrian army at the storming of Deppen was used with criminal incompetence by a member of the Imperial house of Hapsburg, who was placed in command.

And two weeks later in the seven weeks' war, the huge Austrian army was defeated and put to rout—by the old King William's Prussians on this occasion—and it will be remembered the Austrians had on their side Bavarians, Wurtembergers, Saxons and Hanoverians. Yet the Prussians by a series of those masterly movements by that great father of Moslem strategy, Moltke, rolled up at Korugraetz, Francis Joseph's host. No great army in the world possesses such a record of ghastly failure as the army which has now lost the strength of an army corps when in conflict with the Serbians.

It does not seem to have yet been noticed by our press that the Austrian archaic bronze field guns are about the worst in Europe. They are outwanged in proportion of 6 to 10 by the Canet-Schneider, which is the pattern in use by the Serbian army; and in rapidity of fire is 6 to 1. It is therefore easy to understand how so remarkable a victory has been achieved by this little nation.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-Time Recipe That Anybody Can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull faded or straggled appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.

Among gifts to McMillan's Patriotic Fund were subscriptions by three Germans, "British at heart," amounting to $6,000. The Minister of Agriculture has been given power, to use at his discretion, to suspend or cancel patents held by citizens of hostile powers.

Kindly bear in mind that FREE TROUSERS given by us mean a great deal more than when they are given by other tailors who have more than one price. We believe that our endeavor to give greater value for the money during this War time, when many are advancing prices instead of lowering them, is appreciated by our patrons. We assure you that in giving the free trousers with each suit or overcoat we are practically giving away our profit. We believe, however, that it makes friends for this store and is an advertisement for our business, causing, as it does, many men to try our tailoring who afterwards become satisfied customers. The men of Brantford never had such an opportunity to dress well at a very small expense as they have now.

The final game for the John Hill Charity Cup to be played on Saturday at Agricultural Park between the Duffs and Tutela should be a hummer. Two of the best teams in the city clash for the honors and a good fast game may be expected. It is to be hoped the public will turn out in large numbers and support the good cause as the proceeds of the game are donated to the Tuberculosis Hospital. The game commences at 5.30 sharp and Mr. Goatley will referee. Tutela line up is as follows: Goal, C. Gore; backs, N. McLeod, F. Burns, H. Hinkley, E. Hamilton, E. Roberts, P. McLeod; forwards, S. Should Be a Good Game. One of the best football games which will be seen in the city for some time will take place at the Agricultural Park to-morrow when two of the best sporting teams in the city will compete in the John Hill Charity Cup. The Duff team has specially strengthened for the occasion; they will meet the Tutelas on almost equal terms. It will be remembered that Tutela just go through by an odd goal two weeks ago, and therefore, with their additional strength they will make the boys from Tutela go all the way. They have a chance of preventing the South west from obtaining the three league trophies, but they will certainly have to try hard to do it.

The kick-off has been set for 5.30 and a large crowd of fans are expected. The game is sure to be put up as both teams are eager for combat. The Duffs line up is as follows: Goal, Abbott; backs, J. Holland, W. Holland; halves, Harris, Williams, P. Richards; forwards, Uher, Archer, Poynter, Mercer, Alexander, Reserve, Philips.

All players and reserves are requested to be at the armories not later than 5 p.m.

Soft Ball

A series of good soft ball games are being played at the Agricultural Park almost every evening by the employees of the Ham and Nott Co. The various departments get together and provide a brand of ball that is surprising. Only last night the Refrigerator Dept. met defeat at the hands of the Bed-Dept. by the score of 7-6. Anderson, Lyle, Shepperson and Johnson feared for the winners. The batteries were: Kaufman and G. Wright for the Beds, and B. Wright and Hewitt for the Refrigerators. To-night the married men will be attacked at the same sport by the singles.

SHAM BATTLE WILL OCCUPY WHOLE FORCE

Tactical Exercises Are to be Practised on Large Scale—5th R. H. and 1st Royal Montreal Attacked, Camerons and Seaforths Defended.

VALCARTIER CAMP, Que., Sept. 18.—On Monday there is to be a sham battle in which the whole force will be engaged. Up to the present tactical exercises on a large scale have not been attempted, but the training work has now reached a stage where it is considered advisable to have more than 25,000 men engaged in one large scheme. Then there is to be another review on Sunday by H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, who will probably be accompanied by the Duchess and the Princess Patricia. This will be the first visit to the training camp of the Duchess and the Princess. Highlanders Had Happy Day. The Highland brigade was engaged in a sham battle yesterday, and the fighting became so fierce at one time that the men actually leathened one another. The manoeuvres were closely followed by the MMinister of Militia, Col. Meighen of Montreal commanded the attacking force, which was composed of the 5th Royal Highlanders and the 1st Royal Montreal Regiment, while the defending force under Col. Leckie of Vancouver, was composed of the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, the Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg, and the Seaforths Highlanders of Vancouver. Colonel Turner V.C., chief umpire with the attacking force, considered that the exercises had been well carried out, taking into account the restricted area in which the men had to work. The artillery had been compelled to come into action at rather short range, but they had kept well concealed, and had never been exposed to rifle fire, although they were quite within range of it. Part of the scheme of the defending forces involved their retirement, which was well covered, Col. Turner said by their artillery. The highlanders left camp at 7 o'clock in the morning, carrying sufficient food with them for the day. They returned in the evening tired but happy, every man singing as they marched back to camp. Distinguished Visitors to Camp. Among the distinguished visitors to the camp today was the Duke of Manchester, who is doing some work on this side of the Atlantic for the British Government. The Duke made a thorough inspection of the lines and appeared to be greatly impressed by what he saw. "It is simply wonderful," he said, "that I had seen any thing like this camp before. I was especially struck with the extraordinary physical fitness of the men and with their cheerful disposition." Hon. Martin Burrell and Mrs. Burrell, and Hon. J. D. and Mrs. Reid also visited the camp. Another visitor was Mr. John Maynard-Harlan of Chicago, V.C., chief umpire with the defending force, and was most inspiring. Col. Hughes Entertains. The Minister of Militia, Col. Sam Hughes, gave a dinner last evening at which the following were guests: Mrs. Sam Hughes, Mrs. Byron Green, Miss Hughes, Dr. James L. Hughes, Dr. and Mrs. Scott, Gen. James A. Drain of Washington, U.S.A., Mrs. Strathby and Mrs. Arthur Vankoughnet of Toronto, Mr. McTaggart, Revs. Mr. Morrow, Dr. Sanderson and Dr. McKay.

LESS MEAT BE BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT
Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers you.
Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.
The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

SOMETHING DOING
LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Ostend learns that important events are expected in North Belgium in the next few days, which he is not allowed to disclose.
