

THE PRICE OF FREEDOM

"If we sacrifice all we own and like for our native land, if our preparations are marked by a grim resolution and prompt readiness in every sphere, then victory is assured. Upon our answer rests the liberties of Europe for many generations."-- LLOYD GEORGE, MINISTER OF MUNITIONS

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS WITH GRIM EMPHASIS ON GREAT STRUGGLE

On Britain Rests the Burden Now; Only an Urgent Loyal, United Response Needed.

London, Sept. 13.—That the central powers still have an overwhelming superiority in all the material and equipment of war and that the allies to win must put forth all their strength is the statement made by Lloyd George, Minister of Munitions, in the preface of a book containing his speeches since the outbreak of the war entitled "Through Terror to Triumph."

GERMAN MILITARY ATTACHE MUST LEAVE AT ONCE

Guilty of Improprity in Attempting to Transport Official Reports.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The departure from the United States of Capt. Franz von Papen, military attache of the German Embassy, will probably be arranged here in a few days. This was indicated yesterday.

GROWING CONCERN FELT AT WASHINGTON OVER THE CENTRAL POWER'S REPLY

Washington, Sept. 13.—Count von Bernstorff, optimistic despite growing concern here over relations between the United States and the central powers, was back in Washington today for a conference with Secretary of State Lansing on the situation developed by the sinking of the Arabic. The ambassador, it was understood, would begin an informal discussion with Mr. Lansing which would be supplementary to the German note on the Arabic, with the hope of opening the way to negotiations for an amicable settlement.

Petrograd Will Not Fall This Year; Ruszky

London, Sept. 13.—The Austro-German armies on the eastern front, still striving for definite results, are making progress everywhere except along the Galician frontier, where the Russians report a further success.

HOSTILITY GROWS TOWARDS GERMAN-TURKO ALLIANCE

Djemal Pasha, Former Minister of Marine, is Suspected Leader.

Rome, via Paris, Sept. 13.—The attitude of Djemal Pasha, former minister of Marine, is giving the Turkish committee of Union and Progress, much anxiety. The Tribune says it has learned from sources of information in the Balkans. He is reported to be in Arabia in constant contact with Shieks and Emirs hostile to the committee while Arab preachers are trying to foment rebellion among the inhabitants.

A complete disagreement between Djemal Pasha and Enver Pasha, minister of war, as well as Taat Bey, was reported early this month. It was intimated that the former minister of marine was suspected of preparing a "coup d'etat" against the committee of Union and Progress.

King Bestows Medals on Canadian Officers

London, Sept. 13.—The following Canadian officers were received by the King at Windsor on Saturday: Brig.-Gen. Turner, V.C., First Brigade, Order of the Bath; Lieut.-Col. Lomms, 13th Battalion; Lieut.-Col. MacBrien, First Division staff; and Lieut.-Col. Hughes, Second Division Staff, Distinguished Service Order.

SIR JOHN FRENCH STUDIES SOLDIERS ON BATTLEFIELD

AUSTRIA WILL RECALL DUMBA FROM STATES

No Successor to be Appointed in the Meantime, It Is Felt.

Rome, Sept. 13.—Your correspondent learns from a source that Austria has decided to acquiesce in the American demand for Dr. Dumba's recall. It is believed that no successor will be appointed for some time, but that the change of attitude will be entrusted with the Austrian Embassy in Washington.

Men are Eager For Battle; Makes Motor Dash From Headquarters to Inspect Troops.

British Headquarters, Aug 27.—The only man of the hundreds of thousands at the British front who wears the crossed batons of a field marshal on his shoulders appeared in the opening in the shrubbery which bordered the field where a machine gun battery of the new army was waiting for orders to move.

TURKS BADLY DECIMATED THROUGH FIGHTING; ARMENIAN PEOPLE SUFFERING MARTYDOM

American Ambassador Nearly Powerless to Prevent Any Massacring of Christians—Armenian Girl Students Fall Into Turkish Hands.

Athens, Sunday, Sept. 12.—Via Paris, Sept. 13.—An American citizen of standing in Athens, has received advices from Constantinople, which he says are trustworthy, to the effect that the situation of the Turkish army and government is unfavorable. According to this information the position of the Turkish forces defending the Dardanelles is precarious. It is said the Turkish front, thinned by the heavy losses which the fighting has entailed on both sides, is finding it increasingly difficult to hold the lines against the French and British.

Turkey's position at sea is described as disadvantageous. The former German Cruisers Goeben and Breslau, renamed the Sultan Zelem and Medulla, are said to have been incapacitated while the Russian fleet preys upon Turkish shipping.

ARMENIANS MARTYRED The American informant states the Armenians are being shipped to concentration camps at various points being driven afoot or forwarded in box cars. He adds that the earlier massacres of Christians in Asia Minor are being duplicated in the present instance, and that in some cases only a comparatively small part of the expelled Armenians reach the concentration camps alive. Henry Morgenthau, United States ambassador at Constantinople has exerted every effort to protect the Armenians, but apparently his endeavors have been unavailing. It is stated that American women who attempted to go with the refugees to look out for Armenian children were turned back and that a number of young Armenian girls who were students at the American college at Constantinople fell into the hands of the Turks.

No Decision Reached. Washington, Sept. 13.—Secretary of State Lansing announced today, after a conference with President Wilson, that no decision had yet been reached by the United States on Germany's proposal to arbitrate the Arabic case.

BERLIN PRESS STIFFENS OVER YANKEE NOTE

Berlin, via London, Sept. 13.—The tone of the German note on the Arabic case and the attitude in Government circles, regarding the destruction of the Hesperian, point to a determination to make no further concessions to the United States, if not to an actual stiffening of policy on the submarine question. Publication of the Arabic note, although evoking virtually no comment in the German press, indubitably has caused a feeling of uneasiness here over the probable attitude of the United States. The note in itself appears to be highly satisfactory to the public generally, but the constant inquiries received at the office of the Associated Press for news or predictions upon the American attitude, is only one indication of apprehension that the Arabic note and the Hesperian case may result in a renewal of the tension, which was believed to have relaxed with Ambassador von Bernstorff's communication to Washington of the instructions given submarine commanders.

SEVERE REPRISALS URGED AGAINST GERMANY BY PRESS

LONDON, Sept. 13.—A demand is made by the Globe for effective measures of reprisal for the Zeppelin raids. "It is useless to disguise the fact that nothing big or strong will be done unless the Government is aroused to action by public opinion," the Globe says. It urges that a public meeting be held to force the Government's hand, and calls attention to the fact that property valued at millions of pounds, owned by Germans, is now in the hands of a public trustee.

ANOTHER AERIAL RAID MADE

London, Sept. 13.—Another Zeppelin raid was made over the east coast of England last night. There were no casualties. The attack is described in the following official statement: "The east coast was again visited by hostile air craft last night (the 12th). Bombs were dropped but there was no casualties, the only damage reported is that some telegraph wires are down and some glass is broken."

ANOTHER ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY MEN TO-DAY FOR THE NIAGARA TRAINING CAMP

"Cheerful Smilers", Who Looked Fit; Speeches Made by W. F. Cockshutt, M. P., Mayor Spence, W. G. Raymond, and J. H. Fisher.

"This company will be known as the Cheerful Company—the company with the bright and happy faces," said Mr. W. G. Raymond this morning in bidding farewell at the armories to the Dufferin Rifles setting out for Niagara. In spite of the threatening weather, which later turned bright and very warm, crowds of people were on hand early at the armories eager to make the most of the last opportunity of saying good-bye.

THREE CHEERS FOR SPEAKERS. "Good-bye, boys, let us see you again soon with those German scalps we're waiting for," was the parting injunction of Mr. Cockshutt. Then the ladies of the Patriotic League presented each man with a parcel containing socks and handkerchiefs, after which three hearty cheers were given for the speakers and three more for the ladies.

warm blooded, frankly spoken little Irish girl with a wide-haired Irish mother known as Michael. The play revolves around Peg's escapades, the revelation of the Chichester's contempt for the girl and the greed for her money.

VICTORIA ORDER OF NURSES HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The Victorian Order of Nurses held their regular meeting on Thursday morning when Miss Stuart gave the report for July and August. One hundred and sixteen new cases had been nursed during the two months; operations eleven, surgical cases, six-teen.

Two deaths occurred among these one hundred and fifty babies. The cause being: tubercular meningitis and one from chronic indigestion. In most places I have been well received. I told them I had been appointed by the Social Service League to look after the babies for the three hot months, and if their babies did not thrive they were to send for me.

Most mothers expressed their appreciation of the privilege and their willingness to avail themselves of it. The foreign mothers were most anxious to follow out by suggestions. There are many houses without screens at doors or windows. In one or two places I have taken mosquito netting over the windows and told them that I wanted this done at all windows.

I have been very busy the last month answering calls from doctors and mothers, showing that people are beginning to know what I am here for.

I have done some Social Service work, such as giving clothing and shoes for a poor woman whose husband drinks and is unkind to her and her children; also distributed some reading matter.

I sincerely hope that my work has not been and will not be fruitless. (Signed) Ellen E. Johnson. V. O. N.

W. G. HOUGHTING. The funeral of Mr. W. G. Houghting took place on Saturday afternoon, from his late residence on North Park street. The Rev. Mr. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church conducted a deeply impressive service, both at the home and the graveside, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Chapman of Terrace Hill. The large attendance and the profusion of floral tributes showed the esteem in which the late Mr. Houghting was held by the community. The pallbearers were the six sons of the deceased. The floral tributes included: Pillow, wife and daughters; wreath, sons; sprays, grandchildren; wreath, Works; Hand Adding and Stationary Machine Telephone Co.; Gates Ajar; Community Lodge, L.O.L., 2425; cross, St. Andrew's Choir; sprays, Miss Annie Sherwood, Miss Nesbit, Mr. J. R. Sedgwick, Mrs. A. Sedgwick and family, the Misses Weyms, Mr. and Mrs. G. Alderson, Mr. and Mrs. John McKay, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Mr. Henry Smith, Miss Phyle, Mr. J. R. WEDDING BELLS

The home of Mr and Mrs Alfred Townsend of East Oakland was the scene of a pretty but very quiet wedding on Saturday Sept. 11th, when their second daughter, Mildred Vera, was united in marriage to Ellwood Anders, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. North Anders of Oakland. The bride looked very pretty in a dress of white embroidered voile and wore the customary veil and orange blossoms. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Springer of Oakland, the young couple left for a wedding tour to Detroit and on their return will make their home at Oakland.

London, Sept. 13.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Amsterdam, says: "Emperor William has dismissed General von Kluege, commander of the Eighth division who were held responsible for Austro-German check by the Russians on the Serch River in East Galicia."

Obituary

MURDOCK ROSS

The many friends of Murdoch Ross will be grieved to learn of his sudden death on Saturday morning at 101 Park Avenue. He was fifty years of age and was born in Edinburgh, Scotland. Since he came out here five or six years ago, he has made a host of friends. He was a member of the Sons of Scotland, and an earnest and constant member of Alexandra Presbyterian church. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence to Mt. Hope cemetery.

BALE

The death occurred yesterday afternoon of Miss Florence Bale, in her 32nd year. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon from the late residence, 195 1/2 Terrace Hill St. to Greenwood cemetery.

GOWERS

On Sunday afternoon there died in Windsor a former resident of Brantford of Mr. Arthur Gowers. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Salisbury Lodge, S. E. of which in the late Mr Gowers was a member. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery on arrival of the body on the 1.57 G. T. R. train Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. ANN FITZPATRICK

One of the oldest residents of the city passed away on Saturday night in the person of Mrs. Ann Fitzpatrick. The deceased had been failing for some time, but was able to be about actively until two weeks ago. She had lived here for the past 28 years, coming here from Chicago, where her husband died. The late Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Rose Coakley and the late Mrs. William J. Brown, were sisters. The deceased is survived by one son, John, and several children of her deceased son, Thomas Fitzpatrick, who live in Chicago. The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning from St. Mary's church.

TORONTO, A STORM CENTRE

By Special Wire to the Courier. Toronto, Sept. 13.—Beginning at four o'clock Sunday forenoon a succession of electric storms held Toronto in their grip for nearly twelve hours. The heavy rain of Sunday morning was duplicated frequently during the night. The weather bureau reports that the rainfall for the day was 2.2 inches. Each return of the storm or appearance of a new storm, whichever it might be, seemed to display increased violence. The lightning flashes became more brilliant and the crashes of thunder louder and more startling. The final appearance about 3 a.m. which lasted for over half an hour was the most impressive of all. It was accompanied by a deluge of rain and occasional flashes of darkness punctuated the almost continuous flare. A large barn on the lake shore road was struck by lightning, and burned to the ground. Several other fires were caused. A cause took place in other parts of the country. The Mimico section of the Toronto and York Radial Railway was badly disrupted. A washout on the Grand Trunk at the Hamber River, immediately west of Toronto, gave a lot of trouble. The Hot Weather Test makes people believe that the summer is over. Many find that their strength and endurance, which have been the blood, are now fresh and they overcome that tired feeling.

Women's Institute

The Moyle-Tranquility Women's Institute enjoyed a rare treat at their September meeting Wednesday, Sept. 9th, when they met at the home of Mr. A. G. H. McCormick of Paris, as guests of his daughter, Mrs. E. Sowden. An excellent programme was rendered, the president, Mrs. G. F. Wood in the chair. Mrs. A. W. Crawford gave a very interesting paper on butts; Mr. R. Schuler, District Representative gave an instructive address on "Fleet Enemies." Mrs. Saverre of Brantford delighted every one with her waltzes, and Miss Lena Kenny sang a solo very sweetly. Mrs. F. Telfer, President of Paris Institute, and Mrs. W. Bayless, President of Grand Trunk Institute, each addressed the meeting. The hostess then served dainty refreshments after which Mr. McCormick conducted the ladies through his gardens, laden with a wealth of flowers, giving instructions as to their production and care and generously donating each with bouquets of asters, gladioli and dahlias. It was decided to have a sale of home-made cooking in a booth at Paris Fair in aid of the Red Cross work. The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Gregory.

SOCK SHOWER and Talent Tea, on Friday, Sept. 24th, at 3.30 at the residence of Mrs. Mostyn Cutcliffe, Dufferin Avenue, under the auspices of the Dufferin Rifles, Chapter, I. O. D. E. Everybody welcome.

Dead at Bologna.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Bologna, Italy, via Paris, Sept. 13.—Donna Laura Minghetti, widow of Marco Minghetti, successor of Cavour as prime minister of Italy, is dead at her home here. She was the mother of Princess von Buelow, wife of the German ambassador to Italy until the latter country entered the war and also of Prince Di Camporede by her first husband.

CONSIDERS TAKING OF PETROGRAD IS IMPOSSIBLE

General Ruszky Declares Capital City Cannot Be Taken.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Sept. 13.—General Ruszky, commander of the Russian northern armies, in an interview with the Times correspondent, attached to his headquarters, declared he considered the capture of Petrograd impossible, because the military situation of Russia with relation to ammunition, rifles and fresh troops, is slowly but surely improving. In addition to this, he pointed out that between the present front and Petrograd the ground offers endless difficulties to a German advance quite apart from the fact that the approaching winter will hinder the digging of ditches.

"Russia, in fact, has gained an opportunity to take breath," he said, and having continued the campaign through the winter, will begin the war afresh in the spring with new armies and new objects of operations."

DEAD BODIES OF CHILDREN IN HOSPITAL

London, Sept. 13.—An official statement issued yesterday says that another raid by Zeppelins on the east coast was attempted last night. Bombs were dropped by the aerial visitors, the statement says, but there were no casualties and no damage was caused. A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Amsterdam says that some of the German newspapers say that Count Zeppelin personally directed the recent Zeppelin attack on London from the airship base at Emden, but others declare that he flew toward England with the airships.

An Amsterdam despatch was issued in Berlin yesterday regarding last night's air raid on London:

"During the night the London docks and their environs were successfully bombarded."

The Archdeacon of London, preaching in St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday, referred to the recent Zeppelin raid on London.

"I tell you that battle has changed into murder. Speaking with all the restraint that is due from every preacher, I tell you that the present and with the knowledge and consent of the censor, I tell you that to one hospital alone were taken the dead bodies of little children of 18, 10, 7 and 5 years, and of one little baby, so that the nursery became a slaughter-house. Of the Imperial murderer who allowed it, if he did not order it, all we can say is in the words of the Psalmist, the most avenging punishment given to a man—I will set before thee the things that thou hast done."

A PEACH OF AN ESSAY

(By Peter McArthur)

Did you ever notice that when we want to praise anything with unusual emphasis we call it something else? For instance, if we wish to praise a book or a picture we say, "It is a gem." We do this because a gem is the most precious thing that we can possess—the only concrete example of "infinite riches in a little room." To be a gem a thing must have the finest natural qualities, enriched and perfected by art, and when we say that a thing is a gem we mean that it is the perfection of its kind, a finished product about which no further or higher praise is possible.

But calling a thing a "gem" is only one metaphor. There are many others, but in all cases the word we use instead of what we mean denotes the existence of some quality in the thing described that is only reached in the thing we name in its stead. This suggests a method of determining the things in Nature and art that are perfect, for only the perfect things are used as metaphors. Their perfections may vary but in every case a perfection is indicated.

Among our fruits there are two that are used as metaphors oftener than any other and by that fact we may judge of their surpassing quality. One is used in public life and the other in everyday life. In public life the man who secures a high position, a favor or a contract that will enrich him, is said to have got "a plum." This suggests that he has got something that all men earnestly desire, something so packed full of richness and all goodness that it can only be described by calling it a plum—the fruit of which a celebrated horticulturist, E. P. Powell, says that "it contains more richness than any other fruit." It is rich in color, flavor and odor and as satisfying to the palate as it is to the eye. It is for this reason that it has gained its political significance as a metaphor. A thing that is most perfect and rich of its kind it suggests to the greedy politicians what they most desire and one of them who has been so fortunate as to secure a plum never wants anything else all his life but more plums. And the plums, when they are ripe are entirely worthy of the high regard they receive from housewives as well as politicians.

Our other metaphorical fruit is the peach. Just listen to some youth saying of a beautiful girl that "she is a peach" and even if you have never tasted a peach you would know that it must be sweet, beautiful and exquisite, just as we all know that it is. The peach is the one thing that we can use without offence as a metaphor for a beautiful girl and there is nothing more alluring and perfect that we can use as a metaphor for a peach. To say that a peach is a peach is the highest praise we can bestow on it unless we say that it is "a Canadian peach" for our "made in Canada" peaches are admitted to surpass all other peaches as much as they surpass all other fruits. Canadians have a right to be proud of them and to be fond of them and the housewife who picks up a plentiful supply of them is the one who is most certain to be regarded by her husband and her children as "A Peach."

The retirement through ill-health, after 27 years' service, is announced of Inspector Arney of the Surrey Constabulary.

Murderites on Warpath.

Rome, Via Paris, Sept. 13.—A Scutari despatch to The Giornale d'Italia says Essad, former provisional president of Albania, is marching successfully against the Murdites, meeting with slight resistance. The Murdites are reported to have sent an envoy to him to treat for peace. It is supposed Essad intends soon to proclaim himself supreme chief of Albania.

Belgians Active.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Havre, France, Sept. 13, 9 a.m.—The following official statement regarding the operations of the Belgian army was issued to-day:

"There was a light bombardment along the entire front. Our artillery dispersed German workers near Milestone No. 12 on the Yser and near Diegrachten."

The Situation.

Hon. Lloyd-George, in the preface to a book containing his speeches since the outbreak of hostilities, makes the statement that Germany and her allies still have "an overwhelming superiority in all the material and equipment of war," and he impressively brings home the fact that Great Britain and her associates will need to still further bend every effort in order to bridge this disparity.

Notes and Comments.

That Sunday rain was just another little reminder lest we forget. France now proposes to recruit from her colonies, and thus expects to secure about 700,000 more men. Zeppelin activities are at top notch just now, probably because the stormy weather period will soon once more reign over the Channel.

The Late Sir William Van Horne.

The death of Sir William Van Horne removes a notable figure from Canadian public life, although he was born in the United States and achieved positions in the railway world there before coming to the Dominion. From the position of telegraph operator which he secured when he was fourteen years of age, he worked his way up, step by step, without any pull and on the basis of sheer ability.

AT THE STATION.

There was little delay at the station. The train was standing waiting and three rear cars were reserved for the soldiers, who marched up the back of the station directly to them. There were the last hurried and touching good-byes, handshakes, tears and cheers, with the band playing, "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "We're Here Because We're Here," "Auld Lang Syne." As the train pulled slowly out, the band struck up the National Anthem and with that tune and the last outburst of cheering, the soldiers set out for camp.

A GOOD PRESENT.

Before the soldiers left for camp this morning, T. J. Fair and Company presented them with 350 cigars which works out to about two apiece. The men wish to express their sincere thanks for this splendid gift.

As to Bulgaria.

The course of Bulgaria looms up in large proportions in connection with the present hostilities, mainly because it is situated on a large part of the northern boundary of Turkey, with ports on the Black Sea. She could help to give a smashing blow at the land of the Sultan in connection with the Dardanelles operations. The country is small in size, with an area of only 42,000 square miles and a population of a little over 5,000,000. Ser-shown that the might of this military clique has exceeded the gloomiest prognostications provides an additional argument for its destruction. MUST UTILIZE RESOURCES. "Nor have the untoward incidents of the war weakened my faith in ultimate victory always provided that the nations put forth the whole of their strength ere it is too late. Anything less must lead to defeat. The allied countries have an overwhelming preponderance in the raw material that goes to the making of the equipment of armies, whether in iron, money or metal and machinery, but this material has to be mobilized and utilized.

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID SICKNESS

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions, and are responsible for the readiness with which many people contract disease. For forty years Hood's Sarsaparilla has been more successful than any other medicine in expelling humors and removing their inward and outward effects. Get Hood's. No other medicine acts like it.

SIR J. FRENCH

he said, and returned to his car, which was to take him on to inspect some other formation. "Any idea that the commander-in-chief spends all his time over a map with a telephone at his elbow," the staff officer explained, "is quite erroneous. He is always on the go." The automobile enables him to get over a lot of ground in a day. Sometimes the inspections are quite formal. Different battalions of a brigade drawn up in files, the commanding officers know of his approach when they see the flag of his car fluttering along the road. On these occasions he usually makes a little speech. Once he addressed a battalion he passed it by and went closer to the men standing in the field with their rigid columns around him. After that, platforms went out of fashion.

Mr. Lloyd George says that he is recalling unpleasant facts to steel his countrymen to put forth their strength to meet the situation. There has been a great awakening, he says, and prodigious efforts are being made to equip the armies, but adds the Minister, nothing but our best can pull us through. He asks: "Are we straining every nerve to make up for lost time? Are we getting all the men we shall want to put into the firing line next year to enable us even to hold our own? Do we have every man who can help, whether by fighting or providing material, understand clearly that ruin awaits remission?"

"How many people in this country fully apprehend to its full significance the Russian retreat? For over 12 months Russia, despite deficiencies in equipment, has absorbed the energies of half the German and four-fifths of the Austrian forces. Is it realized that for the time being Russia has made her contribution to the struggle for European freedom and that we cannot for months to come expect the same active help from the Russian armies we have hitherto received? Who is to take Russia's place while those Russian armies are re-equipping? Who is to bear the weight which has hitherto fallen on Russian shoulders?"

France cannot be expected to sustain much heavier burdens than those she now bears with a quiet courage which has astonished and moved the world. Italy is putting her strength into the fight. There is only Britain left. Is Britain prepared to fill up the gap that will be created when Russia retires to the rear? Is she fully prepared to cope with all the possibilities of the next few months in the west? Upon that answer will depend the liberties of Europe for many generations.

ALL RESTS WITH BRITAIN.

"A shrewd and sagacious observer told me the other day that, in his judgment the course pursued by this country during the next three months would decide the fate of the world. If we are allowed to equip our factories and workshops with adequate labor to supply our armies, because we must not transgress regulations applicable to normal conditions, we must maintain what restricts the output of essential war material; if the nation hesitates when the need is clear to take the necessary steps to call forth its manhood to defend its own life and existence; if vital decisions are postponed until too late; if we neglect to make ready for all probable eventualities; if, in fact, we give ground for the accusation that we are walking into disaster as we are walking along the ordinary paths of peace without an enemy in sight, then I can see no hope.

Attempt at Suicide.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—A spectacular attempt at committing suicide was made in broad daylight and on a public thoroughfare yesterday by a Chinaman, who attempted to end his life by hanging himself to an electric light pole at the corner of St. Urbain and Lagache streets. The attempt was frustrated by Constable Berlangette, who reached the Chinaman as he was dangling from the end of a twelve foot rope, but managed to cut him down and lower him from the pole before he had succeeded in strangling himself. Constable Berlangette, before entering the police force, was a lineman, and it was his ability to climb the pole that saved the Chinaman's life.

COST OF LIVING.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—The Department of Labor Index Number for August is announced as 147.6, which is .5 higher than in July, and 11.3 higher than for August last year. This month's index number is the highest yet.

SIR WM. VAN HORNE, NOTED RAILROADER DIES AT MONTREAL

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Sir Wm. Van Horne, ex-chairman of the board of directors of the C. P. R. and previously president and general manager of the Grand Trunk, died Saturday morning at Royal Victoria Hospital following an operation on August 22 for the removal of abdominal abscess.

Former Governor Buried.

Paris, Sept. 13.—The funeral was held today of William Sprague, former governor of Rhode Island and United States Senator, who died at his residence here on Saturday. The body was taken to the mortuary chapel of the American Church of the Holy Trinity, where it will remain until forwarded to Rhode Island.

AT THE STATION.

There was little delay at the station. The train was standing waiting and three rear cars were reserved for the soldiers, who marched up the back of the station directly to them. There were the last hurried and touching good-byes, handshakes, tears and cheers, with the band playing, "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "We're Here Because We're Here," "Auld Lang Syne." As the train pulled slowly out, the band struck up the National Anthem and with that tune and the last outburst of cheering, the soldiers set out for camp.

A GOOD PRESENT.

Before the soldiers left for camp this morning, T. J. Fair and Company presented them with 350 cigars which works out to about two apiece. The men wish to express their sincere thanks for this splendid gift.

LET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID SICKNESS

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions, and are responsible for the readiness with which many people contract disease. For forty years Hood's Sarsaparilla has been more successful than any other medicine in expelling humors and removing their inward and outward effects. Get Hood's. No other medicine acts like it.

he said, and returned to his car, which was to take him on to inspect some other formation. "Any idea that the commander-in-chief spends all his time over a map with a telephone at his elbow," the staff officer explained, "is quite erroneous. He is always on the go." The automobile enables him to get over a lot of ground in a day. Sometimes the inspections are quite formal. Different battalions of a brigade drawn up in files, the commanding officers know of his approach when they see the flag of his car fluttering along the road. On these occasions he usually makes a little speech. Once he addressed a battalion he passed it by and went closer to the men standing in the field with their rigid columns around him. After that, platforms went out of fashion.

Mr. Lloyd George says that he is recalling unpleasant facts to steel his countrymen to put forth their strength to meet the situation. There has been a great awakening, he says, and prodigious efforts are being made to equip the armies, but adds the Minister, nothing but our best can pull us through. He asks: "Are we straining every nerve to make up for lost time? Are we getting all the men we shall want to put into the firing line next year to enable us even to hold our own? Do we have every man who can help, whether by fighting or providing material, understand clearly that ruin awaits remission?"

"How many people in this country fully apprehend to its full significance the Russian retreat? For over 12 months Russia, despite deficiencies in equipment, has absorbed the energies of half the German and four-fifths of the Austrian forces. Is it realized that for the time being Russia has made her contribution to the struggle for European freedom and that we cannot for months to come expect the same active help from the Russian armies we have hitherto received? Who is to take Russia's place while those Russian armies are re-equipping? Who is to bear the weight which has hitherto fallen on Russian shoulders?"

Attempt at Suicide.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—A spectacular attempt at committing suicide was made in broad daylight and on a public thoroughfare yesterday by a Chinaman, who attempted to end his life by hanging himself to an electric light pole at the corner of St. Urbain and Lagache streets. The attempt was frustrated by Constable Berlangette, who reached the Chinaman as he was dangling from the end of a twelve foot rope, but managed to cut him down and lower him from the pole before he had succeeded in strangling himself. Constable Berlangette, before entering the police force, was a lineman, and it was his ability to climb the pole that saved the Chinaman's life.

CITY COUNCIL

The city council will meet this evening in the city hall at 8 o'clock. Considerable routine work will be dealt with.

A SHORT RUN

A car was received at the central fire station about 7:45 last evening, and two trucks were despatched to Grant street. However, on arrival the firemen found that the fire had been extinguished by a Mr. Osborne, who resided next door to the house where the fire had started. It was a very small blaze, and through his promptness, Mr. Osborne had no difficulty in extinguishing it.

BIG ESTATE

The will of the late W. H. Rowley of Ottawa, well known in Brantford, and brother of H. H. Rowley, formerly manager of the British Bank here, disposes of an estate of $697,823. The estate consists principally of assets in many provinces, but chiefly in the province of Quebec, in which province Mr. Rowley had large stock and bond holdings, principally with the Eddy Company. Nearly all the property and collateral of the estate goes directly to Mrs. Rowley and two infant sons, John William Rowley and Rodger Rowley.

IT MOVED ALRIGHT

The mysterious aeroplane which has worried Brantford several times this summer, was again in evidence Saturday night. About 8:30 p.m. the crowd at the corner of Colborne and Market street caught sight of a light in the sky, which showed brightly and dimly in turns, at times disappearing. The word passed around that it was an aeroplane and all Colborne street stopped to look at it. The light moved up towards Lorne Lridge, floating at a great height apparently over the canal, and finally disappeared. Much speculation was caused concerning it, the opinion of most being that it was a flying-machine from either the aviation school at Toronto or from the Toronto Exhibition.

GOING TO FRONT

Word has been received from Victoria that Major Ab. Christie, bank manager there, is going to the front. He was for some years in this city on the office staff of the Waterous Engine Works Co., and resided with his uncle, Mr. J. Y. Morton, Dufferin avenue. He was through the Northwest rebellion in which he got wounded, and was one of the first to offer his services for the Boer war earning by his courage the coveted "D. S. O." His many friends here felt sure that sooner or later he would feel once more the call of country and his services for the Boer war earned him the coveted "D. S. O." He will have the proud approval and hearty wishes of scores of Brantford friends.

LT. EMMONS WINS

The annual match for the Dufferin Medal, the trophy most prized among the marksmen of the 38th, was shot off on Saturday afternoon at the Hawk ranges, and the scoring was very good considering the fact that none of the contestants had any opportunity for outdoor practice this year. The conditions for this match are a sighter and ten shots at 500 yards with a possible score of 50. Seventeen of the twenty eligible were present, the winner being Lieut. A. C. Emmons with a score of 47. Sergt. L. McIntyre was runner-up with 44. The prizes won in the indoor shooting, etc., will be distributed at the weekly parade on Monday, 20th inst.

IN POLICE CIRCLES

In the police court this morning, Joseph Hartley was fined $5.00 and costs, or three months, for supplying liquor to an Indian. The charge was against himself, Samuel Johnston, was fined $25 and costs or 30 days for having liquor in his possession. Both A. McKee and Miles Lacey were fined $3 or 30 days for being drunk. A charge of assault against Thos. Robinson was withdrawn.

LAST SERMON

Rev. C. E. Jenkins spoke last evening for the last time in St. Jude's church. The congregation was never before larger, and every one listened intently to his sermon, based on the scriptural text, "Trust in the Lord." The speaker's audience was very loath to hear the conclusion announced, and would have sat for hours drinking in their favorite pastor's earnest words.

SEVERAL PALS MADE GIFTS TO SOLDIERS

A pleasant event was celebrated at the Kitchen Overall Company's headquarters when the following address and presentation took place. Gunnar Harris was, of course, delighted, and responded heartily. The address was as follows:

Mr. Elmer Harris, City: Dear "Pat"—We, the employees of the Kitchen Overall & Shirt Co., Limited, have assembled here to do honor and to say farewell to one who has heartily responded to his country's call. While we regret that it is necessary for you to sever your connections temporarily with us, we are more than pleased to be called upon to give one of our employes a hearty send-off, who has volunteered to re-present us in the gigantic struggle now taking place, to maintain the freedom of our country.

You are the second oldest employe of this company, and have fulfilled your duty well, and we take great pleasure in assuring you that your position will be open for you on your return. As a further token of our appreciation and good wishes, we present to you this wrist watch, razor and cheque, which we hope will always remind you of your friends and fellow employes. Wishing you a safe and speedy return, we are, Yours very truly, Signed on behalf of the firm and employes, Kitchen Overall & Shirt Company.

MR. EDWARD BOWDLER. Mr. Edward Bowdler, who was foreman of the carpenter department of the Pratt & Letchworth Company, recently retired from the staff. ERNEIE WALSH. A very pleasing presentation, one of many which has marked the departure of the Dufferin Rifles, took place Saturday night on the green of the Dufferin Rifles bowling club. Mr. Ernie Walsh, the departing member, and Mr. J. S. Dowling, president of the club, played a 10-end game, which Mr. Walsh won, 2 up.

Then Mr. Dowling, on behalf of the club, presented Mr. Walsh with a wrist watch, which was fastened on by Mr. J. B. Wilson. Mr. Walsh made a fitting reply, and after speeches from representatives from the other clubs, the meeting dispersed by singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and "Auld Lang Syne," the latter being sung while the members formed a circle on the green.

ACCIDENT AT GRAND TRUNK

Fireman Jules Martele Meets With Nasty Mishap. Jules Martele, fireman on the Grand Trunk yard engine met with a very serious mishap at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

He got off the engine at the Charlotte crossing and did not notice No. 7 passenger train coming in from Toronto. Fortunately the engine only brushed against his side, but he was hurled alongside the track with great force. Dr. Digby was summoned and he was removed to the hospital where it was found that he had received severe contusions along the lower portion of his back, and right side and also scalp wounds. Unless complications set in, his recovery is probable. Martele has a wife and one child.

MUCH ANXIETY SHOWN OVER SANTA ANNA

On Fire Four Days Out From New York City. By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Sept. 13.—The Steamship Santa Anna, bound from New York to Marseilles and Naples with some 1,600 Italian reservecorp soldiers, was able to-day in the Atlantic thirty or four days sail from the nearest port. A wireless message that reached the station at Cape Race late last night brought the first news of her plight. It gave her position as latitude 40.23 north; longitude 47.30 west, or about 960 miles southeast of Halifax. Efforts by the agents of the Fabre Line to which the steamer belongs, to obtain further information, had failed during the early morning, and grave fears were entertained here for the safety of the vessel and her passengers.

When the Santa Anna sailed from New York on Sept. 8, she carried a cargo consisting chiefly of foodstuffs. According to her owners here there were no arms or ammunition aboard. The Italians gathered from every part of the United States and returning home to join the army were in the steerage. Comparatively few passengers were carried in the first and second cabin. The crew numbered about 100.

SEVERAL CASES LATELY. Several of our vessels have been set on fire recently, said Howard E. Jones, of the firm of James E. Elwell, agents for the Fabre Line. "We have had the vessels under the closest kind of watch while in port, and no Germans or Austrians were permitted on the pier. We examined every piece of freight offered as cargo to guard against bombs and incendiary machines."

It was said to-day that the sailing of the Santa Anna from this port was delayed 24 hours to permit a thorough search, because the suspicions of her officers had been aroused by rumors that a bomb had been placed aboard.

SEND RELIEF SHIP. The message from the Cape Race wireless station, as received here via Halifax was flashed aboard on the Atlantic, and without doubt was picked up by vessels within easy sail of the steamer in distress.

It was understood here to-day, however, that the Canadian Government was preparing to send a relief ship from Halifax; unless word was received to-day that aid had reached the Santa Anna from some other source. As the steamship was on the southern route for the Mediterranean she was far from the more travelled path further north used by vessels plugging between New York and Great Britain. She was due at Naples, her first port, on September 18 or 19.

NIGHT WATCHERS, OLDEST SOCIETY YET FOUNDED Composed of Those Unable to Sleep Because of Worry Over Friends.

London, Sept. 13.—The Christian, a religious journal, says the newest and oldest of all missionary societies in the world is the League of Night Watchers. Because of worry over fate of friends in the trenches and on the battlefields, vast numbers of English people found it impossible to sleep at night. Some of them discovered that knowledge that others similarly afflicted were praying or perhaps merely thinking of them helped them to pass the hours and bring cheer.

Means were taken to let each other know names, circumstances and worries, and now the league numbers thousands, and is growing rapidly. The leaders held a convention recently at which a welcome committee for work to help soldiers, tribulations that the formation of plans for relief might divert attention and induce sleep. It was decided also to form two branches, one composed of members who cannot sleep because of war worries, the other of those who must not sleep because of duty as nurses, guardsmen, physicians or military officers.

Struck by a Yard Engine

Jacob Green, an Indian, who resides on Pearl street, met with a severe mishap this morning. He was crossing the Grand Trunk tracks between Sydenham street and the freight buildings, when he was struck by the yard engine. He was picked up and taken in the ambulance to the hospital where examination showed that apparently no bones were broken, although he had been badly cut and bruised and shaken up. Mr. Green lost one eye and an arm and a portion of one foot in a previous accident many years ago.

London, Aug. 26.—(Correspondence)—The hull along the British front in France during the last few weeks has enabled many of the senior officers of the Canadian contingent to obtain a few days' leave from the trenches. They are all glad of a brief respite from the strain under which they always work, even when the situation is quiet. Among those who have visited London lately are Lieut.-Col. Rennie of the 3rd battalion, Lieut.-Col. W. R. Marshall of the 15th battalion, Lieut.-Col. A. T. Shillington, No. 2 Stationary Hospital, Major Steacey, senior chaplain of the 1st division, Major Almond chaplain to the artillery, Lieut.-Col. David Waterson, 1st Ontario battalion, and a number of other well-known men. The men at the front, state officers who have just returned, are in good spirits, but are growing rather tired of the inaction of routine trench work. Most of the battalions are fully up to strength and the whole division has been reorganized since the last severe engagement. Over there they expect the second division any time and seem quite confident that it is going to France and not to the Dardanelles, as some of the second division men themselves are inclined to believe. deed, the veterans of the first contingent count on getting a good long rest behind the lines soon after the second division reaches France. They believe the second contingent will relieve them. BOMBING THE GERMANS. A number of Canadian officers in the first contingent have become adept in the art of bombing the enemy and the life of the Germans holding the line opposite the Canadians is anything but pleasant. It is a point of honor to return to the Germans everything they give in double measure and in the case of bombs this is literally carried out whenever possible. Contrivances of every description imaginable are used to hurl explosives into the German lines and some of them, particularly a short trench mortar are capable of shooting from 12 to 24 bombs a minute. The Canadians are also using the trench catapult with success and are said to be able to hurl hand grenades with deadly precision when near enough to the German trenches. Some of these hand grenades, by the way, are on exhibition here and are most interesting. They consist of a cone of scrap iron, with a hole through it. In one end is a stick from 12 to 18 inches long, in the centre is a charge of high explosive and in the other end is a detonator to fire the charge. A long strip of cloth is attached to one stick to keep the grenade straight when going through the air. This type of grenade is most effective up to a range of about 200 yards.

Ever Hear of Eye Sunburn?

Protection of the eyes from sun-glass is even more necessary than wearing a hat to prevent sunstroke. You are indebted to the great scientist, Sir William Crookes, of his discovery of a wonderful new glass for spectacle lenses that makes it possible to filter the harmful heat and chemical rays from sunlight without perceptibly dimming the light or changing the colors.

I can duplicate your prescription in this glass which will adequately protect your eyes no matter how much they are exposed to strong sun or electric light.

Gibbons Outpoints Packey, But Neither is Damaged

Largest Crowd That Ever Witnessed a Fight in the United States Sees St. Paul Phantom Win Over the Chicago Lad in Ten-Round Battle at Brighton Beach, New York.

Ringside, Brighton Beach, New York, Sept. 13.—Before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a boxing match in this country, Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, outpointed Packey McFarland, of Chicago in a 10-round no-decision contest here Saturday night. The bout, which brought together two of the cleverest boxers in the ring to-day, was hard fought from start to finish, but Gibbons scored the more frequent and more effective blows.

McFarland showed that his long absence from the ring had dulled his speed and power to snap punches to vulnerable points of his opponent's head and body. McFarland showed flashes of his old rapid-fire left, but the leads were little more than snaps and did not check Gibbons in his more effective assaults.

PACKEY NERVOUS

McFarland appeared nervous when he entered the ring and was not as finely conditioned as his opponent. The St. Paul phantom immediately took his aggressive and showed that he intended to make a fight of it instead of a sparing exhibition. There was power behind almost every blow that he landed and he found little difficulty in beating the stocky little boxer to the punch. For the first four rounds Gibbons was always in the lead, playing alternately for the head and body.

In the fifth, McFarland took the aggressive and being thoroughly warmed up fought desperately to stem the tide of defeat. Gibbons met him half way, however, and the best Chicago boxer could get was an even break in this round. Mike increased his speed in the sixth and scored the majority of effective blows. McFarland made a strong play for Gibbons' body, but the latter covered so well that few of them reached their objective. Packey cut loose in the seventh and rained a shower of blows to Gibbons' face, one of which split the left eyebrow.

McFarland tried to outfight Gibbons in the next round, but although the latter was beginning to weaken he staggered Packey with several blows to the head and still maintained his lead.

COMES UP SMILING

McFarland came up with a smile in the eighth and fought with his old confidence. He outboxed and out-punched Gibbons and continued his advantage in the final round, being strong at the finish and master of his opponent. The long lead that Gibbons had gained in the earlier rounds however was too great to be overcome and the consensus of opinion was strongly in favor of the St. Paul boxer, as the winner on points of the largest purse ever offered for so short a and a decisionless bout.

A throng, which was estimated at 45,000, witnessed the contest almost entirely filling the immense arena which originally enclosed a third of a mile motor cycle track.

Gibbons was favorite in the wagering at odds ranging from 8 to 5 and 2 to 1, and while no larger sums were staked there were hundreds of small bets, so great was the interest in the difference of opinion regarding the outcome of the bout. A cluster of 40-odd powerful arc lights shed a clear light over the ring and permitted the taking of moving pictures.

The official announcer introduced an innovation when he fired several shots from a pistol in order to silence the vast throng before attempting to make announcements regarding the weight and condition of the bout.

COBB TAKES BIG SLUMP

COBB TAKES BIG SLUMP

By Special Wire to The Courier.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Ty Cobb has again fallen into a batting slump, but despite a drop of five points below his mark of last week, the Detroit star still is leading the American League with an average of .370 according to averages published here on Saturday. Cobb maintains his speed on the bases, however, and is leading the league with 82 stolen bases. He also has strengthened his margin as the leading run getter, having scored 130.

Crawford, Cobb's team mate, drove Ty from the top of the total base column with a total of 249 bases, 12 more than Cobb's mark.

Other batters hitting in the .300 class are:

Jackson, Chicago	.327
E. Collins, Chicago	.318
Fournier, Chicago	.314
McInnis, Philadelphia	.314
Massey, New York	.310
Speaker, Boston	.307
Crawford, Detroit	.318
Veach, Detroit	.313
Strunk, Philadelphia	.303

Captain Doyle has again battled himself into the lead in the National League. The New Yorker has an average of .327. Following him are:

Luderus, Philadelphia	.325
Long, St. Louis	.325
Daubert, Brooklyn	.309
Snyder, St. Louis	.308
Merkle, New York	.304
Hinchman, Pittsburg	.304
Griffiths, Cincinnati	.293
Groh, Cincinnati	.294
Fisher, Chicago	.293
Collins, Pittsburg	.293
Robertson, New York	.292

Kauff, of Brooklyn, leads the Federal League batters with an average of .350.

The ten leading batters in the International League are:

Gilhooley, Buffalo	.339
Barney, Jersey City	.333
Rath, Toronto	.326
Channell, Buffalo	.316
Shorten, Providence	.312
Kraft, Harrisburg	.312
Shean, Providence	.310
Witter, Harrisburg	.310
Jones, Buffalo	.307

Providence and Buffalo are tied in club batting with .273. Whiteman, Montreal leads in runs scored with 100; in total bases with 339 and in home runs with 13. Gilhooley leads in stolen bases with 49.

The leading pitchers are:

Dowd, Montreal, won 14, lost 5.
Oeschber, Providence, won 19, lost 7.

NIGHT BASEBALL

New York, Sept. 13.—Night baseball is to be introduced in Brooklyn on September 29, when the Buffalo and Brooklyn clubs of the Federal League will begin a series with the aid of strong electric lights, it is announced by the club. Robert B. Ward, president of the club, has had Washington Park equipped with five steel towers eighty feet high and claims that a new style of electric lamps will do away with troublesome shadows.

ANOTHER RECORD GOES

Cleveland, Sept. 13.—C. K. G. Billings' William, 1.58 1-2, the world's champion pacer, shattered another world's record Saturday morning at the North Randall race track. Driven to a wagon by Trainer Doc Fanner, he paced a mile in 2:03 1/4. This is a fourth of a second faster than the previous mark. It was the first time William had been driven to a wagon. He negotiated the first half mile in :59 1/2 and the last quarter in 29 1/2. The mile was paced during the weekly matinee of the Gentlemen's Driving Club.

BROOKLYN WON SUNDAY

St. Louis, Sept. 13.—Brooklyn defeated St. Louis 4 to 2 here Saturday and stepped into second place, Chicago having beaten Boston. Ames, after holding the visitors to three scattered hits in five innings, weakened in the sixth. Thereafter hits by Daubert and Myers drove in four runs. Score: R.H.E. Brooklyn 4, St. Louis 2.

WHILE BRAVES LOST

St. Louis, Sept. 13.—Brooklyn defeated St. Louis 4 to 2 here Saturday and stepped into second place, Chicago having beaten Boston. Ames, after holding the visitors to three scattered hits in five innings, weakened in the sixth. Thereafter hits by Daubert and Myers drove in four runs. Score: R.H.E. Brooklyn 4, St. Louis 2.

At Cincinnati—New York and Cincinnati divided a double header here Sunday, the visitors winning the first game 17 to 5, and the locals capturing the second 5 to 1.

Tony pitched a good ball in the second game, allowing only three hits, while Perritt was hit hard. In the first game Cincinnati used four pitchers, but were unable to stop the Giants' batting line.

First game: R.H.E. New York 17, Cincinnati 5. Second game: R.H.E. New York 5, Cincinnati 1.

At Chicago—Too many bases on balls cost Boston Sunday's game, which went to Chicago 6 to 3. Nehf walked four men and three of them scored later when the locals hit opportunely. Score: R.H.E. Boston 3, Chicago 6.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

LEAFS WON TWO FROM SKEETERS

First Game Was a Slugfest and Second a Pitchers' Battle.

Toronto, Sept. 13.—The Leafs grabbed both ends of the double-header Saturday from the Skeeters, the first by the one-sided score of 12 to 1, while the second was won by the locals by 1 to 0. This double wins gives the Leafs eight of the nine League affairs on the week, which is certainly a great showing. They won three out of four from Buffalo, took three straight from Harrisburg and grabbed the first pair from Jersey City not counting the Patriotic Contest which they won at Ottawa. Tigue and Herbert were on the mound for the locals, the former having an easy time in winning his game, while Herbert let the visitors down with two hits and beat Crutcher in a pitcher's battle. Williams won two home runs in the first game, which was a slugfest.

This is the closing week of the International League, with the Leafs winning two games in six days. The Skeeters will finish their series with a double header this afternoon, while Richmond come here to-morrow to play another double header, with single games on Wednesday and Thursday. Captain Doyle has again battled himself into the lead in the National League. The New Yorker has an average of .327. Following him are:

Sporting Comment

With forty candidates out Friday night and 25 out Saturday afternoon, the local Collegiate team does not look as if it would suffer from lack of material. This is by no means Rugby temperature, nevertheless all the students turn out faithfully in the sweltering weather anxious to get themselves into condition. With such enthusiasm and such numbers, the championship stands a good chance to return to Brantford.

The first gasp of the great western tour of the leaders in the National League is over and Philadelphia still holds its own. The Quakers won on Saturday, while the other teams split even. Philadelphia has a 30 point lead, and despite the hard sledding before them look as if they will hold it. Detroit's chances are getting dimmer and dimmer, as Boston refuses to lose. The Tigers finish the week in Boston, and that will tell the tale.

There is a great race in the Federal League, but the most noticeable thing about the lunch-counter circuit is the sudden spurt of Buffalo. A month ago Buffalo was way down, hopelessly in the mire, to-day they are only 50 points behind the leaders and coming like a house a-fire. The rush of the Boston Braves or the late lamented Brantford Red Sox had nothing to do with it. There is a tidy race on in the International also, between Buffalo and Providence. Buffalo finishes at home, while Providence ends the season at Buffalo and Toronto. Only about 20 points separate the leaders and the Rhode Island champions, although in the lead, will have a hard time repeating. The leader wins up on Saturday.

The result of Saturday's games saw the Grays and Bisons, the leaders, win two games, but rain prevented the Grays playing yesterday at Montreal, which means a double header to-day against the Royals. The Grays then shift to Buffalo, where they play two games to-morrow. Single games between the leaders are scheduled on Wednesday and Thursday, but there may be some postponed games to play off, thus giving Providence a rocky road this week, and, as Onslow, first baseman of the champions, sprained his ankle, Saturday at Montreal, their chances for the pennant suffered a blow. By Rochester breaking even with Richmond the Leafs are now in fourth place, and only four points behind Montreal.

First game: R.H.E. Toronto 12, Buffalo 1. Second game: R.H.E. Toronto 1, Buffalo 0.

When It Remarks Upon Removal of Dumba—Will Have Effect.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris, Sept. 11.—The French press views with considerable satisfaction the action of the United States in calling upon Austria-Hungary to remove Dr. Dumba as ambassador at Washington. "The die is cast and Washington now is passing from diplomatic controversy to the publication of 'Petit Parisien.'" The note is courteous in style, but at the same time imperative. Whatever Austria's response the energetic act will have its effect upon the world.

Alfred Capus says in the Figaro: "Nothing marks better the universal moral discredit to which our enemies have fallen than the note pointing out that Dumba no longer is acceptable. Certainly it is not a declaration of war, but it is a declaration of incompatibility."

Germany's note on the sinking of the Arabic reached Paris by way of Geneva too late for the publication of comment in most of the morning papers.

FINED HEAVILY FOR CONTEMPT OF THE COURT

Hamburg Steamship Company Refused to Answer Judge in Damage Suit.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Sept. 13.—A fine of $500 for contempt of court was imposed on the Hamburg-American Steamship Co. by Judge Veeder of the Federal court in Brooklyn for refusal to answer questions in a suit for damages brought by the owners of two other steamship companies.

Two of the questions which the Hamburg-American Line declined to answer were: "Did the Hamburg-American Line load and dispatch from this and other ports of the United States colliers with cargoes destined for German cruisers in the Atlantic?" "Did Captain Boy-Ed, naval attaché of the German embassy direct the super-cargoes of these colliers, themselves German naval reservists to divert the vessels from their stated courses, so as to meet with the German ships of war?"

The bulk of the seed grain was purchased by the Government at a comparatively moderate price, and the farmers got it at the price the Government paid for it plus expense of handling. A great many demands came in very late, and as these were found on investigation to be for the most part deserving, some grain had to be bought at the advanced price that prevailed in the spring. But in the main the Government was fortunate in making its purchases early.

For many months it looked as if an excellent price was to await the marketing of the 1915 crop. This, however, does not now seem so probable. The large acreage in other countries, and particularly the exceptionally good crop prospects in the United States, with the depressed condition of exchange and shortage of ocean tonnage have had the effect of greatly reducing the quotations for wheat, barley and oats. The Minister of the Interior has had this consideration under review, and it has also been impressed upon him that this year the Western farmers have a great many of last year's obligations still to take care of—last year's interest on mortgages, and in many cases indebtedness to local merchants. As a consequence even with the present excellent crop conditions it will not be in every case an easy matter to finance unusual obligations this year. Having regard to and having fully considered all the circumstances now prevailing, the Minister has decided to ask for payment this year of one-half only of the seed grain and fodder advances together with interest. As for the advances

Over 100,000 members of the Ancient Order of Foresters are now serving the colors.

CANADA AT WAR

GOVERNMENT WILL COLLECT ONLY HALF OF SEED GRAIN ADVANCES

Remainder of Loans Will Be Left Over Until Next Year.

THE Honorable Dr. Roche, Minister of the Interior, whose Department has had charge of the distribution of seed grain and relief in Western Canada throughout the past year, and the taking of security therefor, has had under consideration the question of collections to be made this fall.

The advances commenced early last winter, and were made necessary by the extreme misfortune which Western Canada suffered from the drought in 1914. It was hoped at the time that the amount required would not be unduly large, as the outbreak of war was making extraordinary demands upon the financial resources of the Dominion. The amount has, however, reached very large limits. There has been advanced up to July 31 for seed grain $8,534,018.37, and for other goods by way of relief and fodder for animals $4,075,420.89, making a total of $12,609,439.21. Assistance was given, of course, by reason of a temporary misfortune, and

Aside from the question of ocean tonnage and exchange there should be no difficulty in moving the Canadian crop, although it may take longer than usual. Certainly there should be no difficulty in financing the movement. The banks are more liquid than they have been for years. In addition they have a reserve their emergency circulation and the facilities afforded under the Finance Act of 1914 by which they can obtain advances in Dominion notes against grain bills and other securities. So far as concerns credits to farmers, two recent amendments to the Bank Act introduced by Hon. W. T. White, are important. Under one a bank may take security upon grain remaining in the farmers' possession, and under the other the bank may take security upon a crop for seed grain advances.

HESTER, AND A LEGACY

"Not seriously. I told myself often that I must marry a girl with money, but I don't think I should have been quite cad enough to do it for that reason alone."

Another silence, during which the Towers lodge came in sight, and they reached the little gate that led into the grounds and through a side shrubbery.

"Well, Trix?" he said. She looked up.

"You don't love me—I knew that all along—and I am thankful that you are truthful on that point. I suppose there is some one else you care for?"

"Yes, there is some one else I love, and have loved for years, but it's no go. She doesn't care for me at all, and I wouldn't marry her if she did."

"You wouldn't marry her? Why not?"—in surprise.

"Because I'm not sure enough of myself, and I'd die rather than bring trouble on her."

"Yet you'd risk bringing trouble on me?"

"You are different. She's a baby of a thing, and it would kill her. You are strong—stronger than I am, and if you were once my friend—you'd give me the sort of help I need."

"You don't hold out much inducement to any woman, but to accept you," she exclaimed bitterly.

"No! I'm putting things in a bad light, I know. I don't expect you to accept me. I only tell you what I want."

"And you want me?"

"Yes—badly. There is not the smallest shadow of doubt but that I shall go to the dogs without you."

"And with me, what then?"

"Why, then I believe you will find your bad bargain turn out better than you think, for if you love me you will be able to do what you like with me."

They had reached the thick part of the shrubbery by now, and without more ado he put his arm around her waist and kissed her.

"Come, dear, say 'Yes,'" he said persuasively.

The tears came into her eyes, and she hid her face for a moment on his shoulder.

"It is very weak of me, and I dare say it will turn out very badly for us both, but I will take the risk. I love you, you see, which makes such a difference."

And so this very one-sided bargain was concluded. When the engagement was made known to the neighborhood was extreme, but of all the people who were most astonished at the engagement, perhaps none more so than Harry and Trix themselves.

CHAPTER XXI.

Mrs. Cox's sale of work was to extend over two days in the third week in June, and all concerned at the bazaar were glad that the weather was perfect for an out-of-door fete.

The day before the bazaar was to open the scene in the park near the lake was a busy one. Carpenters were at work on a stage for the tableaux vivants, the stalls were being arranged, gardeners were bringing trucks loaded with flowering plants for their decoration.

During the afternoon Lady Lynn came down to the scene of action and looked on at the busybodies through her long-handled eyeglasses. Mrs. Cox, in a violet silk dress, with her face crimson with heat, would gladly have embraced this opportunity of improving her acquaintance with her ladyship, but found her advances repelled with polite decision, which was foolish, Mrs. Cox thought, considering the nearness of the relationship that was so soon to be theirs.

Since Trix's engagement to Harry Vereker she had felt no doubts whatever as to the Lynn family coming in, and had settled in her own mind that the two girls should be married on the same day and have such a joint wedding that the county had never seen invited in to lunch at the Chase, and after lunch Lord Lynn offered his services in their behalf. Tea also was served with Violet Langworthy, and Lily Cox and Lord Lynn both felt that the day was a red-letter one.

On leaving the drawing-room after tea Miss Langworthy was seized with an overwhelming desire to look at the "lovely conservatory," and turned appealing eyes on the son of the house. Lord Lynn naturally volunteered to show it to her, and their progress through it was a slow one, as she had a separate enthusiasm for every bud and flower she came across.

It seemed so dreadful, she thought, that all these lovely flowers should be cut for the sale—so sad to think of their drooping and fading in the heat! How cruel it seemed! Were they indeed all going to be sacrificed? Even that exquisite rose—touching it with a taper finger as she spoke. She adored roses, and nothing gave her quite such an exquisite pleasure as their scent, their shape, and their rich and delicate coloring.

What could Lord Lynn mean to do by cutting it for her, when cut, what could possibly be her greater astonishment? She had of course never dreamed of his doing such a thing, or she wouldn't have uttered a word! No, she couldn't think of cutting it, but since she pressed it so urgently and had actually cut it for her, she supposed she must.

And she did, with becoming blushes and soft smiles and repeated thanks. It was at this moment that Lady Lynn passed through the far end of the conservatory with one or two visitors. Her keen eyes caught the tableau at once, and, though she could not hear the words that were passing between them, she interpreted the meaning of their attitude well enough. She was presently beseeching him to accept a flower, she was hesitating with blushes. It was all clear enough, but Lady Lynn made no sign of the anger that filled her heart, and, passing on, spoke in praise of a new and rare orchid that had lately been added to her stock.

An hour later Hester found her alone in the morning-room, sitting unemployed and so still that it struck her she must be dead. The beautiful blinds had been lowered to keep out the sun, and the room was in semi-darkness.

"Are you not feeling well?" she asked, going over to her.

"I am perfectly well," Lady Lynn replied sharply, and her hands, which before had been lying on her lap, were suddenly raised and brought down with violence on the arms of her chair. "I will never again allow myself to be trifled with by strangers!" she exclaimed in a loud, almost discordant voice. "They are people of an inferior rank—pushing, impertinent, and upstart! It shall never happen again."

"It will be all over in two days," said Hester soothingly.

"But not the effects. In two days much may happen. Has not Harry Vereker given himself to a girl of the most plebeian order? What are men of position thinking about? They must be mad—mad!"

She was trembling with suppressed anger and indignation; her stern face was moved by a strong emotion; she spoke as she would never have done in Hester's presence had she been calmer.

"Why, then I believe you will find your bad bargain turn out better than you think, for if you love me you will be able to do what you like with me."

They had reached the thick part of the shrubbery by now, and without more ado he put his arm around her waist and kissed her.

"Come, dear, say 'Yes,'" he said persuasively.

The tears came into her eyes, and she hid her face for a moment on his shoulder.

"It is very weak of me, and I dare say it will turn out very badly for us both, but I will take the risk. I love you, you see, which makes such a difference."

And so this very one-sided bargain was concluded. When the engagement was made known to the neighborhood was extreme, but of all the people who were most astonished at the engagement, perhaps none more so than Harry and Trix themselves.

During the afternoon Lady Lynn came down to the scene of action and looked on at the busybodies through her long-handled eyeglasses. Mrs. Cox, in a violet silk dress, with her face crimson with heat, would gladly have embraced this opportunity of improving her acquaintance with her ladyship, but found her advances repelled with polite decision, which was foolish, Mrs. Cox thought, considering the nearness of the relationship that was so soon to be theirs.

Since Trix's engagement to Harry Vereker she had felt no doubts whatever as to the Lynn family coming in, and had settled in her own mind that the two girls should be married on the same day and have such a joint wedding that the county had never seen invited in to lunch at the Chase, and after lunch Lord Lynn offered his services in their behalf. Tea also was served with Violet Langworthy, and Lily Cox and Lord Lynn both felt that the day was a red-letter one.

On leaving the drawing-room after tea Miss Langworthy was seized with an overwhelming desire to look at the "lovely conservatory," and turned appealing eyes on the son of the house. Lord Lynn naturally volunteered to show it to her, and their progress through it was a slow one, as she had a separate enthusiasm for every bud and flower she came across.

It seemed so dreadful, she thought, that all these lovely flowers should be cut for the sale—so sad to think of their drooping and fading in the heat! How cruel it seemed! Were they indeed all going to be sacrificed? Even that exquisite rose—touching it with a taper finger as she spoke. She adored roses, and nothing gave her quite such an exquisite pleasure as their scent, their shape, and their rich and delicate coloring.

What could Lord Lynn mean to do by cutting it for her, when cut, what could possibly be her greater astonishment? She had of course never dreamed of his doing such a thing, or she wouldn't have uttered a word! No, she couldn't think of cutting it, but since she pressed it so urgently and had actually cut it for her, she supposed she must.

And she did, with becoming blushes and soft smiles and repeated thanks. It was at this moment that Lady Lynn passed through the far end of the conservatory with one or two visitors. Her keen eyes caught the tableau at once, and, though she could not hear the words that were passing between them, she interpreted the meaning of their attitude well enough. She was presently beseeching him to accept a flower, she was hesitating with blushes. It was all clear enough, but Lady Lynn made no sign of the anger that filled her heart, and, passing on, spoke in praise of a new and rare orchid that had lately been added to her stock.

An hour later Hester found her alone in the morning-room, sitting unemployed and so still that it struck her she must be dead. The beautiful blinds had been lowered to keep out the sun, and the room was in semi-darkness.

"Are you not feeling well?" she asked, going over to her.

"I am perfectly well," Lady Lynn replied sharply, and her hands, which before had been lying on her lap, were suddenly raised and brought down with violence on the arms of her chair. "I will never again allow myself to be trifled with by strangers!" she exclaimed in a loud, almost discordant voice. "They are people of an inferior rank—pushing, impertinent, and upstart! It shall never happen again."

"It will be all over in two days," said Hester soothingly.

"But not the effects. In two days much may happen. Has not Harry Vereker given himself to a girl of the most plebeian order? What are men of position thinking about? They must be mad—mad!"

She was trembling with suppressed anger and indignation; her stern face was moved by a strong emotion; she spoke as she would never have done in Hester's presence had she been calmer.

"Why, then I believe you will find your bad bargain turn out better than you think, for if you love me you will be able to do what you like with me."

They had reached the thick part of the shrubbery by now, and without more ado he put his arm around her waist and kissed her.

"Come, dear, say 'Yes,'" he said persuasively.

The tears came into her eyes, and she hid her face for a moment on his shoulder.

"It is very weak of me, and I dare say it will turn out very badly for us both, but I will take the risk. I love you, you see, which makes such a difference."

And so this very one-sided bargain was concluded. When the engagement was made known to the neighborhood was extreme, but of all the people who were most astonished at the engagement, perhaps none more so than Harry and Trix themselves.

held two? No, she would not, thank you! She could see the moonlight from the shore, and she hadn't the slightest desire to try the little boats. Would she come and sit with him for a minute in the—

In the midst of his sentence she turned away, offering help to a lady who was fanning round her stall, and from that moment her attention was entirely occupied by the lady in question, and her back was turned on him resolutely. It was an act of deliberate rudeness, but he never knew how much it cost her to do it.

At the end of the day Hester went to bed worn in body and mind, feeling as though another day such as that had been would kill her.

It was on the next day in the afternoon, that the gentlemen's lower-stall was to open, and great was the excitement it caused. Lily Cox, dressed as Polly, in short skirts of many colors, and hung at every point with jingling bells, was in her element in charge of it, and brisk was the trade she drove among the men who crowded round it. There was only one drop of bitterness in her cup of happiness, and that lay in the fact that the afternoon was waning, and Lord Lynn had not yet come to buy a buttonhole. She saw him standing about and talking to first one person and then another, investing in pincushions and first screens, and worsted slippers and all the other specialties of the city with which one is afflicted at bazaars, but still his coat remained undecorated and he did not approach her stall.

It was apparent that Lord Lynn was shy and needed encouragement—she would give it to him.

As he stood near the stall, talking to a group of ladies, she called to him.

"Lord Lynn," she cried, "if you don't make haste there will be nothing left! I have been selling like mad, and all the best are gone! Aren't you going to buy a buttonhole?"

He stood before the stall and looked over its moss-covered surface at the few remaining flowers, with apparent dissatisfaction.

"Yes, I suppose I must have to," he said, "but as you say there is nothing left, then, then—triumphantly producing a rare orchid from some secret store beneath the stall. 'I kept it for you—I kept it on purpose for you, wasn't it? Give me of me? And aren't you grateful to me?'"

He professed gratitude, and asked her what he might have the privilege of paying the rare orchid having been obtained by the way from his own hothouse. She named a high price, which was immediately forthcoming, and the flower was handed over.

"You must make some lady pin it on for you—that is the rule," she said. "Do tell me whom you are going to ask! I won't tell, I promise!"—and she looked up at him with a coquettish turn of the head that set all the bells on her cap jingling.

"I don't suppose I shall ask anybody," he said indifferently. "That sort of thing is not much in my line. I only bought it for the good of the bazaar, you know."

"Now I tell that really unkind. Besides, you've got to keep to the rules—we sha'n't let him off, shall we, mamma?"

Mrs. Cox, who was sitting behind the stall fanning her purple face with an impromptu fan, came to the rescue. "You pin it for him, Lily," she said. "You've had so much practice already with the way all the gentlemen have been plaguing you do their duty, expect you've got the proper knack."

"Shall I?" said Lily, looking up at him with another jingling of bells. "There isn't it awfully good of me? I haven't offered to do as much for anybody else."

She put out her hand to take the flower, but Lord Lynn kept it in his, and, drawing himself up, he said quietly:

"You are extremely kind, but I am not sure that there is not a lady I mean to ask if one must indeed keep to the rules."

"Oh, there is some one, is there?" said Lily blankly. "Then, turning back to her stall, 'Miss Langworthy, I suppose?'"

"No! I was thinking of my mother," he said, with a smile, as he moved away.

"Yes, no doubt it is Lady Lynn, my dear," said Mrs. Cox consoingly to her daughter, as soon as he was out of hearing. "He's just the sort of man to go and do a thing like that."

"No, it isn't. It's that designing Violet Langworthy," returned Lily viciously. "He's awfully gone on her. You know how he behaved at the Do-very-curl ball. We heard of it from every one."

"She hasn't any money," urged Mrs. Cox, "and he must marry money."

"Well, whether he marries her or not, he's going to ask her to pin in that orchid!" exclaimed Lily. "I hate that girl!"

"Let her pin in the orchid, as long as he doesn't marry her, my dear," said her practical mother. "It's the marrying that matters—not the orchid."
