If you should never worry about a misfortune until it actually happens, you would be far more cheerful than you are. We borrow trouble as naturally as we would like to borrow money.

The time is short. This gives value to life. It gives emphasis to prayer. They pray the best who pray and watch; they watch the best who watch and pray. So says the poet. Faithful servants keep their ceaseless vigils.

White lace stockings are worn over those of tinted silk to match the dress with rich evening toilets.

Woven laces are now used for lawns and muslins, also for sheer wool goods, and are not considered shams.

A very large Alsatian bow of dark red plush, held by a gilt ornament, is worn in the hair with morning toilets. To a "country subscriber" Harper's Bazar says: "It is very bad style for a young lady to wear a great deal of jewelry. Gold chains are not worn around Natures, of course, differ widely, and there are some who, (probably in consc quence of having been accustomed from their earliest years to regard black as the emblem of death and sadness) find some amount of relief and comfort in wearing mourning when a friend dies and feel a satisfaction in marking the especial event with especial garments. But all are not of the same way of thinking, and there are men whose inclinations are just the reverse. The sort of self-consciousness and strangeness o feeling which usually accompany brand new clothes are distasteful to them in a time of trouble, and they wish only to go about in whatever they are in the The glorified spirit of the infant is as habit of wearing, without any fuss or a star to guide the mother to its own alteration. Sorrow may be none the less true and deep because it shrinks from ostentatious parade,-from wearing the heart on the sleeve, for daws to peck at; it may feel that the inadequacy of outward signs to give it expression makes any attempt at doing so a mere mockery, and may prefer to conceal it self, as far as possible, under its wonted exterior. How can real grief be represented fittingly by crape and hat-band's ? And if no real grief exist, then the whole affair is nothing but a miserable exhibition of humbug and hypocrisy,-an appeal to the world for sympathy, and commiseration upon false pretences What sort of sorrow is felt by relatives who say, "Oh! we must put the children into mourning for Uncle So-and-so,he's left us something in his will"; or else, "I shan't trouble about black for Cousin Such-an-one, -he's left me nothing"; as the case may be? It would be surely more honest for such pretended mourners as these to assume signs of rejoicing or woe, according as they do or do not find themselves the possessors of Perfect purity of intention is the highest spiritual state, a state which probably, the holiest man has never reached, but to which all children of God are in different measures approximating. School Holfdays.

We have heard many opinions expressed by teachers as to the interprewith teachers did not distinctly state the number of weeks, six could be taken. In S. S. No 9, Brooke, popularly known as the tea-kettle section, where the somewhat notorious Stonehouse investi-gation took place last fall, the contract, irawn up after the usual form, made no definite stipulation as to duration of holidays. Miss Hastings, the teacher, was notified by the trustees to commence her school at the expiration of four weeks from the commencement of the holidays, but having the impression that six could be taken, she dismissed her scholars with the statement that school would not re-open until the 18th of August. The trustee at once determined to make a test case of the affair if necessary, and sending the agreement to the Minister of Education, they asked for his opinion. The reply, which has been laid before us, distinctly states, that unless the agreement with teachers contains a special clause naming the number of holidays, the trustees have power to open the school on Aug. 3rd. Miss Hastings, very wisely, complied with the request of the trustees and with the request of the trustees and with the request of the trustees, and her school is now open. We refer especially to this case, because it seems to settle a disputed point between many teachers and trustees. - Ex.

MURDER AT OTTAWA.

An Old Man Beaten to Death on His Wed

One of the most horrible murders known in the annals of Ottawa's history was committed on Thursday morning in Mount Sherwood, a southern suburb of the city. The tragedy was enacted about two o'clock in the morning, but nothing was known of the bloody work until about seven, when THE DISFIGURED RODY was discovered on the roadside, just outside the city limits, by a farmer on his way to market. The particulars are as follows: For some time past James Wetherall, aged 70 years, a widower, and Margaret Dougherty, a widow, aged 50, had been keeping company with each other, the outcome of the intimacy being a matrimonial union, which was legalized on Wednesday night at the residence of a Mrs. Cooper, where the widow had been visiting, by the Rev. Mr. White, Presbyterian minister at Rochesterville. When it was ascertained the small boys of the place gathered to the gether, and, armed with pots, pans, thorns, etc., catculated to produce discordant sounds, began to demonstrate. They kept up a perfect pandemonium; for several hours, after which the leader confronted the aged bridegroom and devented the conforted the aged bridegroom and devented the conforted the aged bridegroom and devented to produced at the land at a certain Indeature of Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, octained in a certain Indeature of Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, which will be produced at the time of sale, which will be produced at the time of sale, which will be produced at the time of sale, which will be produced at the time of sale certain Indeature of Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, which will be produced at the time of sale certain Indeature of Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, which will be said to the time of sale control of the privation, and the sale of t opened at $1.20\frac{1}{2}; October corn at 59\frac{1}{2}c.; September pork, $17.78c.; September lard, $11.67\frac{1}{2}.

The Ash-"fielders" wanted to play until the match was decided, but the Wawanosh club determined to leave it off for another day. But by resorting to children's tactics, viz., "calling names" the Wawanoshers were induced to take off their coats and continue the game. They played another innings apiece and scored thre runs each, leaving the game still a tie. Ashfield insisted on having another trial, but about that time Wawansh experience a gnawing sensation in their

By the appearance of last The a sentable form," which consequently keeps me hopping around like a "toad on a fiddle." By the appearance of last Saturday night, I predicted for Sunuay a wet day and so my first impulse upon awaking in the morning was to consult awaking in the morning was to consult the political articles in the Globe. But Mrs. Conrad told me the morning was fine, and advised me to attend to my religious duties, and show unbelievers that I could for one day in the week at least attend to matters of more importance to my future happiness than reading political newspapers. Accordingly, I took her advice, dressed myself in my best Sunday toggery, and strolled through our beautiful little village. The sun shone in the office of the Peace and others extend the office of the Peace and others exte bright, the balmy breeze was enjoyable, the roads were clean and almost dry. The people were hastening to attend church, reminding sinners that there are places of worship open for them to hear the word of salvation. I thought, as I walked along that summer morning, how many persons have gone through a long life without seeking intelligent answers in regard to the wonders of nature, and what rational being can contemplate all these marvels above, beneath, and around us and not be awed by a sense of a Supreme and Almighty intelligence. If we consider the works of nature and art, as they are qualified to entertain the imagination, we shall find the latter very defective in comparison with the former. The one may be as beautiful and delicate as the other, but can never show itself so magnificent in the design. There is something more bold and masterly in the rough careless strokes of nature than in the nice touches and embellishments of art. Look upon the rainbow; does it not contribute to nature's magnificence? is it not beautiful in its brightness? It encompasses the heavens with a glorious circle, and the hand of the Most High hath bended it. If our young men of the village would only pay more atten-tion to this beautiful study would they not only enrich their minds more than EVERYTHING NEW any other subject they could take up, but they would always have then, some interesting and instructive matter to converse on when together, instead of holding such (excuse me) idiotic conversations as they mostly do when grouped together at one of the street corners. Don't think for a moment that by the above statement I wish to cast a slur upon our young men. No; far from it, for as a general rule I am proud of our boys, proud of their moral and upright character, proud of their steady church.

As a child might ask for a toy—

Demanding what other have died to win With the reckless dash of a boy? You have written my lesson on duty out, Man-like you have questioned me Now stand at the bar of my woman's soul,

Until I have questioned thee: You require your mutton shall always be hot, And your shirt shall always be whole; I'require your heart to be true as God's stars, And as pure as heaven your soul.

You require a cook for your mutton and beef; I require a far better thing; A seamstress you're wanting for stockings and

A king for a beautiful realm, called Home, A man that the maker, God, Shall look upon as he did at first. And say, "It is very good." I am fair and young, but the rose will fade From my soft young cheek some day— Will you love me then 'mid falling leaves, As you did 'mid the bloom of May?

Is pour heart an ocean so strong and deep, I may launch my all on its tide? A loving weman finds heaven or hell On the day she is made a bride.

I require all things that are grand and true-All things that a man should be; If you give this all I would stake my life

If you cannot do this, a laundress and cook You can hire, with little to pay; But a woman's heart and a woman's life Are not to be won that way.

"Tooral, looral, fa, la, la," etc.-The seeming nonsense choruses of many old nants of the songs sung by the ancient Britons in the celebration of their sunworship "Fa, la, la," is written in Welsh, "fal la"-fal meaning a circle or sun, and la a day, and both words expressing the completion of a day. As circles, like those still discernible at Stonehenge and on the Sussex Downs, they chanted their meaningful chorus, "Fal-la-fal-la;" as the god they worshipped sank behind the western hills. So, "Down, down, derry-down," in the original is "Dun, dun, dearagan dun;" and it means "To the hill, to the oak, to the hill," and was therefore a call to worship. The old Puritan poet, George Withers, used another of these Druidical choruses in one of his pleasant dit-

CURRANT PRESERVES .- To each pound of fruit add one pound of good white sugar, and set it on the stove. Let it come to a boil; skim out the currants and boil the syrup down till it will make jelly; put back the fruit and dip into bowls. When cold, paste paper wet with white of eggs over the top and set

FEATHERS. - To utalize the feathers of chickens, ducks and turkeys, generally thrown aside as refuse, trim the plume from the stump, inclose them in a tight bag, rub the whole as if washing clothes, and you will secure a perfectly uniform shade. You'see—and light down, excellent for quilting And the ovster coverlets and for other purposes.

BEEF STEW. - Select from the cheapest cut of beef about three pounds of the lean, put into an iron pot; cover it with water, and add one quart of sliced to-matoes and one half pint of sliced okra, three onions, cut fine, and half a dozen ears of corn, cut from the cob. Let the whole stew gently for three hours, or until the vegetables make a jelly with the meat. Season with salt and pepper be-fore removing from the fire. If desired, add two ounces of butter.

To PRESERVE PLUMS. - Look them over and pick out all that are imperfect and unsound, Make a syrup of clean brown sugar and clarify it. When perfectly clear and boiling hot, pour it over the plums. Let them remain in the syrup two days; then drain it off, make born to creep. it boiling hot, skin it and pour it over again.
