Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XXVII.
Philip let himself into the flat, shut the door with a little slam behind him and went on into the drawing-room. A maid was coming out of the room as he entered, and he spoke to her casually—
"Your mistress in? Oh, there you are."
He had seen Eva standing by the fire reading a letter. He closed the door behind him and went forward.
"I'm sorry," he said formally. "But I shan't be able to take you to the theatre to-night after all—I forgot I had an engagement."
She looked up from the letter she was reading.
"Oh, very well—it doesn't matter," and her eyes fell again.
Philip kicked the fire into a blaze. It was a chill October day, and outside a hoarse wind was whistling up and down the streets and round the houses.
Eva and Philip had been in town a fortnight, and already to both of them it seemed an eternity.
To Eva the departure from the Highway House had been the final snapping of the thread of hope to which she had clung so desperately. Ever since that last night when Philip had ignored her note, nothing seemed to have mattered.
They had come to London, and they had been about together a great deal more than they had ever done at Apsley. But it had all been purely for outside effect, at home the same old relationship continued, and Eva was forced to acknowledge to herself that things were gradually getting easier to bear.

She no longer cried herself to sleep at night; no longer was so conscious of the intolerable heartache. It was there, all the same, but other things were beginning to smother it and to deaden the pain. There was so much to do and see in London—and there was Calligan?
Eva made no attempt to disguise to herself what difference he made in her life. There was something about his personality that made it impossible to be dismal when he was about; there was something in his open admiration of her that increased her self-respect. Philip might think nothing of her, but at least there was somebody who did.
She was no longer even actively conscious of deliberately trying to rouse Philip's jealousy. She had begun to believe apathetically that he had never really been jealous at all—that it had only been a sort of dog-in-the-manger snarl, of which he had long since been cured.
She went on reading the letter. It was from Peter, and he suggested coming to town to stay with them for a week. Kitty was in town already, it appeared, with friends.
"Apsley seems to be the limit this season," so he wrote. "You've no idea how I miss you, old girl. Hope you are well and happy."
She made a little wry face over this last line. Happy! She had given up expecting to be happy.
She sighed as she folded the letter and put it away. She looked at Philip. "Peter suggests coming to stay with us," she said.
No answer.
"Have you any objections?"
"H!" He looked up, his eyes rather hard beneath their dark brows. "The flat is yours. Ask whoever you like to stay here, of course."
"Very well." She turned away and sat down at her writing desk. "I may as well write at once, then; it will be nice to see Peter again."
"You talk as if you've been parted for years," said Philip dryly.
He watched her as she sat there, and the hardness slowly died from his face leaving it rather sad.
"I may as well give those tickets away for to-night," he said proudly. "It's a pity to waste them."
Eva's rapidly flying pen stopped. She looked up. "Oh, but I can go. I've nothing else to do."
"You can't go alone."
"I can get somebody to come with me."
She was writing again rapidly now. "Where are you going?" she asked presently.
"I promised a man at the club to dine with him."
"I see."
Everybody came before her—even some man at the club whose name she had not troubled to mention.
She finished her letter, stamped and addressed it, and rose.
"We shall both be late, then," she said lightly. "I will tell them not to wait up."
She went away to her room. She

The Kidneys
The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.
Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.
In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.
Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:
"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally sold of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Catarrh with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

had not the smallest intention of going to the theatre without Philip, but neither had she the smallest intention of allowing him to know it. She looked at the clock—nearly six! She had counted on this evening with Philip. She had been hardly anywhere alone with him since they left Apsley. There had always been a crowd of people, strangers for whom she cared nothing.
To-night would have been happiness of a sort to her, even if it spelled boredom to him.
She stayed in her room till she knew that Philip had left the flat. When she was sure he had gone she went across to the study, where he spent most of his time when he was in.
The new carpet was down and the room looked snug and cosy. There was a fire burning and a pair of Philip's slippers lying on the rug where he had kicked them off.
Eva sat down on the arm of a big leather chair and stared at the flames. She wondered why she did not feel more unhappy—she could only suppose that she was getting used to it—that this was the much-talked-of "settling down" which she had always instinctively dreaded.
She liked this room—there was something very masculine about it—a great deal of Philip's personality seemed to have crept into it during the short period that he had occupied it.
A bell pinged through the silence—Eva heard the maid cross the hall, and heard a man's voice at the door.
In another moment Calligan was in the room.
He was in evening dress, and carried his hat—
"I've caught you, then! Good luck! Are you going anywhere to-night?" She shook her head.
"We were—but Philip had an engagement, so . . ."
He broke in eagerly.
"Then you'll come with me—I wanted you both, but as Philip's out—his voice was dry; he paused for a moment—"you'll come, won't you?"
Eva laughed.
"Where am I going to?" she asked.
"You haven't mentioned a place yet," Calligan laughed too; he put his hat down and came forward into the firelight.
"I've got a box for the show at the S—Theatre. Boxes don't often come my way, but a man I know sent it along an hour ago. There wasn't much time, so I dressed first and chanced to look about getting you to come—you and Philip."
The last words sounded like an after-thought.
"You are coming, aren't you?" he asked again.
Eva roused herself with an effort; she did not particularly care about going, and it seemed better than an evening spent alone.
"I shall keep you half an hour while I dress," she warned him. "And dinner—what about dinner?"
"There'll be time to get some first," she laughed.
"We'll have dinner here," she said, decidedly. "I'll tell them."
She went away before he could argue, and Calligan slipped off his coat and sat down in Philip's chair.

FALSE ECONOMY.

It is often remarked by customers, "I must try and make my old clothes do for the winter." Perhaps the winter may mean very much longer. To protect your body against our cold winds you want warm woollens. An investment in a good Suit or Overcoat may save you months of illness. Durable material, cut and moulded to your figure by expert workmanship in the garment at MAUNDER'S. Samples and self-measuring cards sent to your address.

The Landlord Was Impressed.
Viscount Lancelotti, the future husband of Princess Mary, tells an amusing story concerning an Englishman who was staying at a swaggar hotel in Berlin.
He had secured comfortable rooms, but the landlord informed him one day that he must give them up in favour of a fresh arrival, the Elector—that is to say, the Governor—of some petty German State with an unpronounceable name.
"Nonsense!" said the Englishman. "You do not know who I am, and I will add my title."
The book was brought, and in a bold hand he wrote after his name, "Elector of Middlesex."
He was allowed to keep his rooms.

Fashion Plates.
A UNIQUE STYLE.

3666

3666-2828. The graceful draping of this model is not the only attractive feature. The sleeveless long shouder blouse and jumper portions are unique and very attractive. As here shown, broadened chiffon and velvet are combined. One could use serge and taffeta, or Canton crepe and figured silk together.
The blouse 3666 is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The Skirt 3628, is cut in 6 Sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure. To make this smart gown for a medium size will require 4 1/2 yards of 40 inch material, or if made as illustrated, 1 1/2 yard of figured material and 3/4 yards of plain material, 40 inch wide. The width of the skirt at the foot is a little over 2 yards.
This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

AN EXQUISITE STYLE.

3639. For afternoon or dinner parties, this model is "just the thing to wear." It has new and pleasing lines, and not the least among its features is the uneven hem effect, produced by the inserted panels at the sides of front and back. In crepe de chine and satin, crepe de metser and georgette either in matched shades or contrasting colors, this style will be very attractive. One could also have soft tricotines or serge, taffeta or velveteen with satin.
The Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 5 yards of 40 inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is a little more than 3 yards.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

Ulster Boundary Cause of Irish Trouble.

Italian Cabinet Resigns for Lack of Support—Rosalind Unable to Tow Thyra—I. R. A. Officers Arrest Newspaper Correspondent.

ULSTER BOUNDARY.
DUBLIN, Feb. 2. The situation has arisen over the boundary question between Ulster and the rest of Ireland, it was officially announced today, as a result of to-day's conference between Sir James Craig and Michael Collins.

ITALIAN CABINET RESIGNS.
ROME, Feb. 2. The cabinet of Premier Bonomi resigned today, because certain political groups on which it counted for support had passed over to the opposition. Many deputies are disappointed because the Italian delegation in the four-power Pacific conference was further disappointed because Italy was not included in the Anglo-French drift arranged at the recent meeting of the Supreme Council in Cannes, which has not been consummated.

WILL BE REPATRIATED.
MOSCOW, Feb. 2. The foreign minister Chicherin cordially welcomed the note from the government of France, declares the government's action in applying credits necessary for the repatriation of Russian soldiers now in France, at last removes this question of dispute between Russia and France. The minister says the French prisoners in Russian camps will be speedily repatriated through Poland. All Russian prisoners and camps have been ordered by wireless to present a list of all imprisoned foreigners.

FATAL MINE EXPLOSION.
GATES, Pa., Feb. 2. The bodies of sixteen miners have been recovered from the mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, following an explosion. Thirteen others are thought to have perished.

ROSAIND UNABLE TO TOW THYRA.
HALIFAX, Feb. 2. The Swedish steamer Thyra, rudderless over 200 miles southwest of Cape Race, is well supplied with fuel and food and is in no danger, according to the Red Cross liner Rosalind, which arrived here this morning after attempting for thirty hours to tow the thyra to port. The Rosalind was forced to give up the tow when her fuel oil became depleted. The Rosalind from St. John's to Halifax and New York, came up with the Thyra at 10.30 Sunday night. During the next day four lines and the chain hawser parted in a northeast gale. The tow was abandoned at four o'clock Tuesday morning. The steamer Eastern Cross, bound eastward, was unable to help the Thyra and proceeded. The steamer Sable I, from Halifax to Louisburg and St. John's, Nfld., is understood to be proceeding to the Thyra.

SEEKS TO COMBINE BIG UNIONS.
INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 2. A renewal of efforts to form an alliance of coal miners and railroad workers, the two largest groups in the United States, was sought yesterday by John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, for the avowed purpose of bringing two million workers together in "resistance to proposed attacks on wage scales." Mr. Lewis placed the membership of the Miners' Union at 500,000, and of the Railroad Unions at 1,500,000 to 1,750,000.

FREEMAN'S JOURNAL CORRESPONDENT UNDER ARREST.
BELFAST, Feb. 2. Michael Tobin, correspondent of the Dublin Freeman's Journal, was arrested today by officers of the Irish Republican Army in Westport County for reporting a sermon by Archbishop Gilmartin denouncing the recent outrages in Belfast. Tobin, who is a prominent newspaper man, has been ordered to Dublin.

INVENT AIRPLANE COMPASS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. Experts of the Bureau of Standards have invented what is believed to be the first completely satisfactory airplane compass. The value of the instrument was said to be its ability to respond instantly to quick turns or evolutions of the plane.

OUTDOOR SKATING CHAMPION.
SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Feb. 2. William Steinmetz, of Chicago, won the International outdoor skating championship, scoring a total of 100 points in three days, the meet ending today. Charles Jewtre, Lake Placid, scored 70 points, and Charles Gorman, St. John, N.B., 60.

OPTIMIST'S CREW ON TANKER.
BOSTON, Feb. 2. Tanker Ampelco, from New York to Antwerp, was the vessel which rescued the six man crew of the crippled Newfoundland schooner Optimist in mid-ocean on January 30th, according to radio advices received here today. The Optimist was bound from Cadiz to St. John's, Nfld.

EXPLOSION ON EMPRESS OF SCOTLAND.
NEW YORK, Feb. 2. An explosion took place in the engine room of the Empress of Scotland, the largest of Canadian Pacific liners, early this morning, scorching Chief Superintendent Engineer, Admiral G. W. Rome; Chief Engineer, R. C. Hughes; Third Engineer, E. Redmond; and five local men employees of the Todd Engineering Company. The five local men and the third engineer were removed to hospital. No damage of any kind was done to engine room. The explosion was caused by the backfiring of an auxiliary oil burner which was being cleaned at the time.

A Great Russian Czar.
Peter the Great, who died on January 28, 1725, was born in 1672 and became Czar in 1682 but a revolution resulted in his elder brother Ivan and himself ruling jointly under Princess Sophia, their elder sister. In 1689, however, Peter took the reins of government into his own hands, and shortly afterwards went to war with Turkey, whom he defeated. He then travelled in Europe for two years, and visited Holland and England, where he learned shipbuilding. As a result of this visit Peter realized the advantages of European civilization, and on his return to Russia he built the city of St. Petersburg, to take the place of Moscow as the capital, thus indicating his desire to make Russia a Western instead of an Eastern nation. In 1688 he crushed a revolution of his soldiers, destroyed the power of the nobles, and brought the Church under his own control. Four years later Charles of Sweden attacked Russia, but was defeated by Peter in the decisive battle of Poltava. In 1719 Charles again opened hostilities against Russia, but Peter carried all before him, and in the Peace which followed he obtained Ingria, Esthonia, Sironica, and part of Karelia, and restored Finland to Sweden. In this way Russia ousted Sweden from her position of supremacy on the Baltic and took her place. Peter was cruel and savage by nature, as is shown in the execution of his son Alexis, and in other frequent acts of ferocity. Nevertheless, owing to her great capacity, Russia made enormous strides during his reign.

OFFICERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

It was apparent from the reports presented at last night's meeting of the Officers Mess of the C.L.B. Cadets that the Battalion is making very satisfactory progress. During the week, the Old Comrades held a Bridge in the C.C.C. Hall. The event proved a great success and Mrs. W. B. Fraser and her willing helpers are deserving of every praise on this account. At the annual meeting of the Officers' Mess, Lieut. Colonel R. F. Goodridge presided. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Mess President, Capt. H. A. Outerbridge; Vice President, Capt. G. House; Secretary, Lieut. M. Taylor. The financial report for the past year was submitted by Paymaster Lieut. Lewis and showed that the Brigade was in a flourishing condition. The Brigade Week celebrations were responsible to a great extent for this very satisfactory condition. Lieut. Lewis also presented the report of the savings bank. A very large number of lads have taken advantage of this branch of Brigade work and the total amount on deposit is well over $4000. This is chiefly invested in Victory Bonds. Interest is paid at the rate of 3 per cent per annum. A special bonus of 1 per cent has been declared this year as an added inducement to lads to invest. Before the meeting adjourned, votes of thanks were passed to the retiring officers, and to Lieut. Lewis who has rendered invaluable aid as Paymaster.

The Band proposes to hold a Band Concert again this Easter and are practising hard under the direction of Capt. Morris. The following Band promotions have been announced:—Staff Sergt. Vavasour to the Assistant Bandmaster, Sergts. E. Adams and A. Peet to be Staff Sergts., Privates Saunders, H. Snow, J. Snow, and H. Pippy have been awarded Good Conduct Stripes. The present shows promise of being a successful one for the C.L.B. in Newfoundland.

Important matters connected with pensions and the welfare of ex-forester men in general will also be considered.

The Eternal Triangle.
Yesterday evening two women created a scene at the foot of Lime Street over a husband. Some bad language was used and a police officer had all he could do to keep the women from pummeling each other. The trouble arose over one of the women accusing the other of alienating her husband's affections.

Masquerade Dance.
Last night a masquerade dance was held in the Empire Hall, by the pupils of Miss Lamb's dancing class. Music was furnished by the B.I.S. Orchestra, and supper was served at 11.30. During the interval Miss Mary McCarthy rendered two songs. The affair closed at an early hour this morning.

Economic Crises.

As if in denial of the statements of a contemporary busily engaged in an attempt to make other people believe that everything in the Colony is rosy and there is no destitution, a correspondent to that same journal gives it the retort discourteous, and with a wealth of verbiage and camouflaged phraseology, which it is regrettable the erudite editor did not perceive in its true meaning conclusively proves that there are economic crises existing in certain sections of the island about which the representatives apparently know little and care less. It is somewhat illuminating to read in the columns of the one and only organ and mouthpiece of the Government that there is much destitution prevalent in the district represented by the Honorable the Minister of Justice. But truth like murder will out. It will be interesting to know just what the member for Fortune Bay will do under the circumstances detailed by a correspondent from Bay D'Espoir, who declares that there is privation and lack of employment in that particular portion of the district. We have all along suspected that such was the case, and to this condition the infamous Fish Regulations of 1919-20 and part of '21 contributed. Because of the improper and altogether illegal restrictions imposed on the people of the South West Coast in the spring of 1920, regarding the exportation of new fish, large supplying and shipping firms came down with a crash, and dragged with themselves smaller dealers and suppliers, who could not escape their financial obligations due the former. Thus the travail that has come upon the West Coast. Representatives elected with tremendous majorities by the people in 1919, these same people relying on their specious election promises to safeguard their interests in every way, had not the courage to stand for the protection of their constituents when the shadow of the North was cast over the districts of the West. Deaf and blind to all that was being attempted they neither saw nor heard. Salary and position closed both eyes and ears, and the gold of high sessional indemnity poured into their mouths, effectually stopped their speech. As Marc Antony said of Brutus, "They are honorable men," yet not so much in doing their duty by their districts as in looking after themselves. And so because of their crass neglect and stultification of principle, the people who delighted to do them honor are to-day suffering such privation as seldom falls to the lot of humanity. Yet not one word is being openly said by the gentlemen, who craved and won their suffrages, toward securing even temporary relief. Other districts, seemingly, are being looked after and catered to by the Government at the request of their representatives, but the invertebrates who sit in the House of Assembly for the three Southern districts, which Elected Liberal-Reform candidate:

have neither speech nor hearing in the matter complained of in their own newspaper. Economic crises do not appeal to them, and their people might go to the bow-wows or starve for all they appear to care.

The barque Diana, Capt. Fox, sailed for Gibraltar with a fish cargo. S.S. Silva, Capt. Clarke, arrived in port from Halifax, after a stormy passage, the ship having to shelter at Ferryland. The night boatmen moved into their new quarters on the Queen's wharf. A conflagration in the town of Waterbury, Conn. caused damage estimated at $2,000,000. Mexico, San Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica signed a peace treaty providing compulsory arbitration in all disputes between these Republics.

CITY CLUB DECREASING MASON'S LEAD—W. R. WARREN MAKES RECORD BREAK FOR TOURNEY.
A substantial reduction in the lead held by the Masons in the Inter-Club Billiard Tourney, was made by the City Club players last night. Of the three games played, two were won by the City Club and the third which was the first was lost by only one point. The record break was made by a City Club player, Hon. W. R. Warren, who obtained a pretty played 67. With five games yet to be played, Masons have a lead of 97 points. In the opening game W. F. Joyce (Masonic) defeated J. Strang (City), by a margin of one point. Both players kept together practically throughout. Finally, when the score stood at 249 all, Joyce finished with a cannon which gave him the victory. The breaks were:— Joyce—29, 34, 17, 14, 16, 21. Strang—10, 12, 16, 15, 12, 10, 12, 11.

In the second game, W. R. Warren (City) not only defeated his opponent, J. Edwards (Masonic), but succeeded in making a break of 67, the biggest for the series. Both players kept well together until when Warren's score was 175, he made the big break which placed him in the winning list. The breaks were:— Edwards—18, 24, 22, 12, 31, 16. Warren—27, 17, 13, 21, 17, 12, 67. H. Dickenson (City) defeated S. C. Thompson (Masonic) in the third and final game for the night. The players tied at 185, when Dickenson forged ahead, winning by 38 points. The score was Dickenson 250, Thompson 212. The breaks were:— Thompson—30, 11, 23, 11, 18, 13, 10. Dickenson—38, 20, 39, 14, 20, 12, 23, 16, 10, 10. The players in to-night's games are:— MASONIC CITY J. Crawford S. J. Foote A. H. Greaves A. Hayward W. J. Martin C. Taylor

HOLD FOURTH ANNUAL REUNION.

The members of the Newfoundland Commercial Travellers Association celebrated their fourth Annual Reunion by the giving of a dinner in Grenfell Hall last night. The use of which was kindly given by Mr. A. E. Holmes, Superintendent, together with access to the kitchens and pantries of the institution. The catering was done by the proprietor of the Green Lantern and his capable aides, who were swift, silent and ready in service. The Hall was nicely decorated for the occasion, the principal tables being placed in the form of a horseshoe. Restaurant tables were used in the general scheme, seating from four to eight persons. The guest of honor was Sir Richard A. Squires, K.C.M.G., Prime Minister, others including Messrs. L. E. Outerbridge, E. A. Bowring, W. H. Cave, C. E. Hunt, W. J. Higgins, A. Soper, L. Shannon, W. G. Parsons, H. Holst, Harold Bishop, C. R. Duder, W. G. Goelling, J. J. MacKay, Karl Trappnell, W. White, F. F. Pittman, B. MacInerney, (Royal Bank) J. A. Young (Bank of Nova Scotia) H. H. Vavasour, D. McFarlane (Lloyds) H. W. Jackman, C. T. James (Telegram) R. T. Joy (Advocate). Mr. R. G. Ross made a capital chairman, and the order maintained throughout was splendid. Those present represented all the phases of commercial life in the country and in consequence the speeches, as were to be expected were of very high order and exceedingly optimistic in tone. The programme as set forth below was interspersed with songs and recitations, the delight of travelers and guests being manifested by applause and calls for encores, which were given. Altogether it was a night to be remembered and too much praise cannot be accorded the Social Committee of which Mr. C. McNulty is Convenor, assisted by Messrs. W. H. G. Burns, C. C. Stranger, R. E. Innes, Fred Reid, H. J. Howlett, C. T. Scott, E. J. Johnston and A. E. Chow—Secretary. The officers are Hon. President, A. W. Miller, (who was present) President R. G. Ross (Chairman) Vice President C. McNulty, Sec.—Treas., A. E. Chown, the Board of Management, being the officers—ex-officio, Messrs. S. Elliott and C. C. Stranger. The Green Lantern provided a menu which was as delicious in form as the viands were appetizing in preparation and all, thoroughly appreciated and discussed gastronomically the various dishes, viz:—

BELOW LEVEL OF HILLS. Coming down the valley to Petty Harbour, the aeroplane was down so low that the hills on either side towered above it. After leaving their messages in the settlement, the aviators flew out to sea and came back at an altitude of 100 feet. On the return journey papers were dropped over the Waterford Bridge was made at a height varying from 300 to 400 feet.

PAPERS FOR STEAMER. Climbing to 2000 feet, the machine next made in the direction of Cape Spear, and coming down over the steamer Glenoe which then became jammed in the ice for some time, papers were again dropped. The aeroplane skimmed over the topmast of the steamer at an extremely low altitude. The papers fell near the ship. An officer of the Glenoe told the Telegram to-day that three bundles of papers fell from the plane. One came close to the rail and another came down on the ice, fifty feet from the ship. The third could not be found. There were half a dozen papers in each bundle. The officers and passengers of the Glenoe greatly appreciate Major Cotton's thoughtfulness.

FOG IN DISTANCE. After leaving Cape Spear, the aeroplane flew in towards town and after circling over the city, sometimes as low as twenty feet above the buildings, it returned to the pond and made a splendid landing. Major Cotton said that dirty looking weather was to be seen in the direction of Cape Race. The statement made yesterday in connection with the flight to Trepassay, was without authority. Major Cotton does not yet know how long he will remain in St. John's. The plane for the Westland machine are coming on the Sable Island.

Papers Dropped on Steamer.

Aeroplane Flies to Petty Harb—News-papers and Messages Dropped—Flying at Low Altitude. Flying as low as twenty feet above the steamer's masts, the Martinsyde aeroplane, piloted by Major Cotton, yesterday, dropped bundles of newspapers over the steamer Glenoe, ice-bound off Cape Spear.

FLIGHT TO PETTY HARBOUR. The machine left the hangar at 3.30 p.m. yesterday, Capt. V. S. Bennett and a mechanic accompanying Major Cotton. Conditions were ideal for flying, and the temperature was 40 degrees on the ground and 18 degrees at an altitude of 1000 feet. The plane flew down along the road to the Goulds, dropping papers to the people in the wayside cottages. Reaching Brimcocks, more papers were dropped, and the machine then turned to Petty Harbour where papers and messages were thrown to the people below.

Interesting Address.

LADIES' NIGHT AT LLEWELLYN CLUB—MR. A. B. MORINE SPEAKS ON "CANADIAN ELECTIONS AND THE WOMEN'S PART."

"Canadian Elections and the Women's Part" was the subject of an interesting and instructive address which Mr. A. B. Morine delivered before the Llewellyn Club last night. The occasion was Ladies' Night. Mr. Morine first gave a brief outline of Canada's political history, naming the various leaders, among whom were Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. These two he thought were Canada's greatest political leaders, though Sir Charles Tupper was on the whole, probably the greatest Canadian. Referring to the Women's part, Mr. Morine said that in the States women had voted as women, while in Canada the mothers, sisters, wives and daughters of the soldiers who were enfranchised and last year all of the women, voted, not as women but as citizens, without relation to sex, and there they proved themselves, as he believed they would, if given a vote in Newfoundland, a helpmeet to the men. Mr. Morine in conclusion assured his hearers that if ever he were elected to the House of Assembly, the women could count on his support, in enabling them to secure the franchise. The occasion was one of the most enjoyable in the history of the Llewellyn Club and the Hall was filled to capacity. An excellent concert followed Mr. Morine's address. The following contributed songs:—Miss Major, Rev. E. C. Earp, C. Fitzgerald, T. Seymour, H. F. Glass, R. Steele and Rev. C. A. Moulton, and recitations were given by Mrs. H. Outerbridge, Mr. T. H. O'Neill and Mr. T. P. Halley. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Before adjournment, a hearty vote of thanks was on motion of Mr. L. Colley, seconded by Councillor R. Dowden, accorded Mr. Morine and all who assisted in the concert. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

Seaman Drowned. Messrs. Fred H. Ellis & Co. have received a message advising them that a sailor named Dave had been drowned from the schooner Inspiration, whilst on the passage from this port to Lisbon. The unfortunate man is Job Dave better known as Joseph. He belongs to St. John's and is married, a wife and six children survive him. The oldest is Wm. aged 17 and the youngest is a girl aged 4. The Inspiration left here on Jan. 14 and arrived at her destination on the 28th making a splendid run across. To the family of the deceased the Telegram extends sympathy. The sad duty of informing the widow devolved upon Rev. Mr. Nicholas of St. Michael's Church.

A Treat for Music Lovers

On many occasions the public appear to enjoy entertainments where music of a high order is offered them. Another such event awaits music lovers on Monday, Feb. 6th in the Methodist College Hall. Miss T. Power, one of our most talented musicians, will be heard in some of the best known pianoforte pieces by Chopin, Liszt, Mozart and Brahms, also performing some charming violin pieces. We often hear it deplored that the efforts of local talent receive but little encouragement. This gives us an opportunity of showing our appreciation of this branch of endeavour. If the public do not patronize an event of this sort, how are they to know what has been accomplished by one, or may be accomplished by many of their number? Anyone attending Miss Power's Recital will see what an ardent student of music may attain. Such a Recital as this should be most advantageous to students as such events are all too few in our midst. Miss Power is a teacher of great ability and aims to impart her own ideals and standards to those with whose tuition she is entrusted. This Recital is made further attractive by vocal solos by Mrs. F. J. King, Misses Ryan, Krensing, Mrs. Karl Trappnell, Recitations by Miss Fraser and Mr. T. H. O'Neill. Accompanists, Messrs. F. J. King, G. Christian.

Educational Grants Debated by Institute.

SHOULD THEY BE GIVEN ON ATTENDANCE BASIS, OR PER CAPITA BASIS?

General discontent with the present educational system in Newfoundland was voiced at last night's session of the Methodist College Literary Institute, when the subject of the Government grant was up for discussion. "That the government grant for educational purposes be made on the basis of school attendance rather than on the per capita basis," was the resolution of the evening. The vote was in favor of the resolution. The speakers of the sides were: affirmative, J. R. Curtis, C. F. James and W. L. Alexander; and for the negative, J. C. Poindexter, A. E. Hayward and, substitute, R. Hearder. Besides these the following speakers from the floor took part in the debate: W. H. Peters, C. H. Johnson, Fred Moore, E. Barrow, C. A. E. Farkins, Alan Moore, E. Symonds, Joseph Moore, J. Bowden and J. R. Smallwood. Under the present system, the affirmative pointed out, the government granted a certain sum as an educational grant. This was something like $300,000 a year. This sum was split up according to the denominations, and the denominations in turn split up among their school-boards. The denominational department of education split up its share of the grant according to a per capita basis. The government determined the amount which it granted to each denomination, according to the number of heads in that denomination. In other words, the grant was given on a per capita basis. The affirmative argued that to give it on an attendance basis—that is, according to the number of children actually attending school, would be to provide an incentive to get greater attendances. Each denomination would then have the year to get its children to school. Each locality also would have the same incentive. Each school-board, and each teacher would have the incentive to increase attendances. The affirmative instances cases of influx of effort in population, making the granting of the grant very unequal and unfair. In places like Bell Island, Grand Falls, Tilt Cove, etc., there was a moving population. The grant is taken only every ten years, and the grant for each school is determined for ten years in advance. If at that time the attendance should decrease to half, the grant would be the same. If the attendance should increase to double, the grant would remain the same, until the next census was taken. In this way there might be schools of different denominations running side by side on different terms. The negative contended that there is no need to increase attendance at schools, and gave figures to show that the attendance up to the age of twelve years was up to the standard. In Newfoundland, however, attendances in the negative believed that to increase the attendance basis would be to penalize the teacher for teaching for which they were not responsible. If parents did not send their children to school, was the fault of the parents, not the teachers. The negative said that the salaries paid teachers was already small enough, and it would be manifestly unfair to decrease it any more. The negative believed that the present system was the best. The negative believed heartily in compulsory education. The sentiment of the evening was generally in favor of the grant and compulsory education for the country, and on all hands were congratulations of the present system.

WHAT ARE WE MORE AFRAID OF THAN DEATH?

It seems to me that most young and middle-aged people are more afraid of old age than they are of death. The fact was born in upon me very strongly a few weeks ago when newspapers all over the country chronicled the fact that the famous beauty and society woman, Mrs. Gould fell dead at the country club while playing golf. The comment everywhere among my friends was this: "What a beautiful way to die. No sickness, no weakness, no old age. How lucky she was!"

How Lucky She Was!

Over and over again that last note was repeated. She died while she could still do things and enjoy life—how lucky she was to escape old age!

Why do we dread old age so? Are there no things worth doing that one can do when one has passed the active years? What is it we are so terribly afraid of in old age?

To answer my last question first, I have an idea that one thing we greatly fear is not being needed. We have all seen older people whom nobody needed. They were treated kindly but they knew that they were not necessary to anyone.

It seems to me that the surest specific against this kind of loneliness is to become necessary to yourself. Maybe that is an awkward way of putting what I want to say. What I mean is this—to cultivate resources within yourself which will make you such a good companion for yourself that you will not be entirely dependent on the companionship of others.

There Can Be Fun in Looking On.

It is inevitable that as one grows older one must do more looking on Kilbride Amusement Club Dinner.

The annual dinner of the Kilbride Amusement Club took place Tuesday night at the Club Rooms and was largely attended by the members, their wives and lady friends. Among the guests were the Rev. J. J. Rawlins, P.P., Mr. George LeMessurier and Mr. J. J. Doyle. After ample justice being done the splendid menu provided by the Ladies' Committee, Mr. F. Densmore in a brief and pleasing speech welcomed the Rev. Fr. Rawlins and other guests, paying tribute to the great interest the Rev. gentleman had taken in the Club since his appointment to Kilbride, and he then called on President Tracey to perform a very pleasing duty, i.e., the reading of an address and presentation of an ebony silver mounted walking stick to their parish priest. Fr. Rawlins thought taken by surprise, thanked the members for their kind references to his part of the social life of the parish, and also for their handsome gift. He also paid tribute to the many friends of the club for the kind assistance they had given him on many occasions in the church work and other matters since his appointment to the parish. Speeches were also made by Mr. G. LeMessurier and Mr. J. J. Doyle, and a vote of thanks tendered the Ladies' Committee whose kindly interest made the event such a success. An impromptu concert and dance was then held by the younger members, whilst the older folks enjoyed the social game of auction.

The affair was kept up till 2:30 a.m., when with the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne, all dispersed, voting the annual reunion of 1922 the best yet held in Kilbride.

ADDRESS.
To the Very Rev. J. J. Rawlins, P.P., Kilbride.

Kilbride, Jan. 31, 1922.

Very Rev. and Dear Father,—We avail of the opportunity, which your visit to our club this evening affords us, to tender to you our appreciation of the great interest you have always shown in our social welfare. That interest, which is second only to that great zeal you manifest for our spiritual concerns, has endeared you to us as a Father and a friend. Our Club, which had its beginning some years ago, under the patronage of the late Venerable Dean Born of sacred memory, then under the wise guidance of His Lordship Bishop Renouf, now of St. George's, and further encouraged by the zealous and estimable Fr. Coady, is now strong in its hopes under your kind patronage. We know that our best interests, temporal as well as spiritual, can be served most satisfactorily when we are all united in the bonds of goodfellowship. It was to promote these ideals that our Club was formed, and it is encouraging to know that our little gatherings have your blessing and goodwill, and we trust that we shall ever justify the kindly interest you have always manifested towards us. It is our ambition ever to illustrate in our lives these ideals of Catholicism and citizenship, that you and your illustrious predecessors have so ably set before us by word and example as a pledge of our goodwill, and as a token of our esteem, we ask you, Rev. Father, to accept the accompanying small gift, and we beg to respectfully subscribe ourselves on behalf of the Kilbride Amusement Club.

ON FOOT.

On achin feet I pace the street, and I find the labor shocking; with fear and dread I look ahead—I'll spend the long years walking. Some other man will drive my van and kick up dust and gravel; some other cuss will tool my bus, while on my legs I travel. No more, alas, I'll press the gas and keep the speed cops busy; the sheriff came and played his game, and took away my Lizzie. In times remote I bought that boat and I could well afford it; I had the mon my toll had won, and I had learned to board it. But every cent and ropeck went to keep my bus a-chooing; day after day I went my way, with creditors pursuing. The motor boob must buy a tub, a spark plug or a casing; for some blamed part to store or mart he is forever racing. My good long green bought gasoline and tires and oil and greases; I grind my teeth—I can't bequeath two nickels to my niece. A few brief years of gas and gears, and down the road I stand. Oh, other fays may go their ways in limousines quite gaudy, while up the street on ringbanded feet I drag my weary body. Oh, other rubes may purchase tubes and tires that do no skidding, while I get there on Shanks' old mare, at yonder sheriff's bidding.

TO BE A YOUNGSTER IN THE SPRING.
The kids are playing marbles in the street.
A ball game's in full swing across the way.
Outside I hear the sound of eager feet.
The air is filled with shouts of noisy play.
A kite is riding bravely in the sky,
The tops are spinning yonder in a ring.
But all these pleasures now have passed me by—
It's great to be a youngster in the spring!

A youngster and his dog go racing past.
I smile and stand to watch them till they're gone;
I fancy winter's grip is slipping fast.
I hear a little fellow shout: "scrub one!"
Across the street a boy has climbed
Another group makes merry with a swing.
Where's the real happiness I see—
It's great to be a youngster in the spring!

I'd like to be among them spinning tops.
I envy him to-day who flies a kite.
I'd like to pitch the outshoots and the drops,
Or climb a tree with all the old de-ight.
Now overcast the skies are shining blue.
And every day new joys to youth will bring.
But I have earned what once I never knew—
It's great to be a youngster in the spring!

QUIT TOBACCO
So easy to drop Cigarette, Cigar, or Chewing habit
No-To-Bac has helped thousands to break the costly, nerve-shattering tobacco habit. Whenever you have a longing for a smoke or chew, just place a harmless No-To-Bac tablet in your mouth instead. All desire stops. Shortly the habit is completely broken, and you are better off mentally, physically, financially. It's so easy, so simple. Get a box of No-To-Bac and if it doesn't release you from all craving for tobacco in any form, your druggist will refund your money without question.

Record Losses by Fire.
There does not seem to be any doubt in the minds of close observers that in respect of fire losses the year 1921 will prove the most destructive on record for this continent. It is estimated by the Journal of Commerce, New York, that for the first eleven months of this year the loss is $308,747,000 for Canada, and the United States, as compared with $280,358,023 in 1920 and $241,634,370 over the same period in 1919.

The fire loss in November in Canada and the U.S. reached almost the figures charged against October, notwithstanding deflation in values. The month's losses aggregated $26,178,000, as compared with $29,093,350 in November last year and $25,450,800 in the same month of 1919. The continued high burning rate when considered in relation to the restricted value basis has attracted much attention from those who make a study of fire losses and their causes.

Habit
Nujol will give you the healthiest habit in the world. Without forcing or irritating, Nujol softens the food waste. The many tiny muscles in the intestines can then easily remove it regularly. Absolutely harmless—try it.

Whose Funeral?
St. Bartholomew's Lodge, Society United Fishermen's Harbor, Breton, will no doubt be delighted to read an account of this church parade and procession as published in the Advocate of February 1st under the caption of "S.U.F. Funeral at Harbor Breton." As no mention of a funeral appears in the contribution, may it be modestly suggested to the contributor, artists who made such a braid, that he take an extra look at his copy next time. A function may be a funeral, but funeral is not always a function. Attention of the dear editor is called to this.

MACHINIST SEES FIRST WELL DAY FOR FIVE YEARS

Morford Declares Tanlac Ended His Troubles And Built Him Up Twelve Pounds.

"It only took two bottles of Tanlac to bring my appetite back in full force, and now my troubles are all in the past," said F. W. Morford, well known machinist with the Westinghouse Electric Co., residing at 81 Jackson St., West Hamilton, Ont.

"For five years I had an awful time with stomach trouble and indigestion. I had my appetite whither, and everything I ate soured on my stomach and caused terrible gnawing pains and bloating. At times the gas on my stomach was so bad I pressed up into my chest until it almost cut off my breath. I lay awake rolling and tossing many a night, hardly sleeping any, and one time I got so bad I had to give up my work and stay at home for two whole months. Mornings I felt more full and then on going to bed, and I frequently had headaches so bad I thought my head would split open. I got so dizzy I couldn't stand up, and I went down in weight from a hundred and fifty-five to only a hundred and twenty-eight pounds. I also had rheumatism in my right arm which was so bad I couldn't lie on that side at night.

But my stomach commenced to improve almost from the time I started on Tanlac, and I gained steadily and rapidly. I have picked up twelve pounds in weight now, sleep like a top every night, and am eating like a horse. In fact I am a well man, and I am only too glad to recommend Tanlac to anyone suffering like I was. Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

An Open Letter to the Housewives of St. John's.

Dear Madam:—
Of course all members of your family like Beans, and perhaps you would serve the canned variety more often if you could be absolutely certain they were prepared with the same regard for cleanliness you would observe in your own home.

Let me tell you the story of Libby's Beans as I saw them packed in our mammoth plant at Chatham, Ont., a few weeks ago:—

The Beans used are Canadian grown, unequalled for flavor and appearance, and until ready for processing are stored in light, dry chambers into which no rust nor mildew can penetrate. From this room they are carried through chutes to long endless belts, lined on both sides by girls in white uniforms, who pick out by hand all broken and spotted beans, or foreign substance of any kind. The beans are then thoroughly washed in running water to remove all dust, etc., after which they enter the first cooker and remain there for twenty minutes in live steam, which swells and prepares them for the final cooking.

From this they pass through automatic filling machines which deposit one pound of beans in each can, together with just the proper quantity of Libby's celebrated Tomato Sauce to give them the delightful "tang" you like.

In each can is placed a hand cut cube of choicest pig pork, and the cans are then capped and proceed to large retorts where for two hours the beans are cooked in live steam.

After the beans are properly cooked, the cans are passed through a water bath to test for leaks, then to the labelling machines to receive the well known white and blue label, after which they are cased and are ready for shipment to the six Libby branches served by this factory.

Except for the hand picking operation before washing, Libby's Beans are not touched by human fingers during the entire process, and every machine used is carefully cleaned and sterilized when the day's pack is finished.

Libby's Beans are thoroughly cooked, but not crushed in the process, and when you open the can you find nearly every bean in perfect shape.

Order one can from your grocer and serve for tea to-night, and I think you will agree with me that Libby's Beans are without an equal.

Sincerely yours,
E. G. PITMAN

THE LITTLE RIVER COAL MINING CO., LTD., OF ST. GEORGE'S NEWFOUNDLAND.

Incorporated 1921.
Authorized Capital, $5,000,000.

Registered Office at St. George's Field.
Branch Office at Sydney, C.B.

This Company has been organized and capitalized for the purpose of developing a mining property already acquired. The property is situated at Little River eight miles north of Port aux Basques in the St. George's Coal Fields District. The location is one of the finest in Newfoundland for a town. It is near the Grand River Valley, where the tourists from nearly all over the world in summer spend their vacation fishing in Grand and Little Rivers. No money has to be expended on clearing the property, for where the shaft will be sunk it is one level stretch of land for a mile without a rock or a tree and especially adapted for construction work. It contains over three square miles and extends from the railroad to the seashore. When shipping piers are completed we can ship either by rail or water, as the water is sixty feet deep and shipping can be carried on all the year round. The distance from sixty feet of water to where the shaft will be sunk is in the vicinity of one thousand feet. Steamers now sailing to Straits of Belle Isle will save over 200 miles by bunkering at our piers and the bunkering trade amounts to a large item. Coal is to-day one of the most important of minerals without which all industry stands still.

Newfoundland imports annually over 400,000 tons of coal, most of which comes from Cape Breton. Now the Newfoundland market can be better met and more cheaply supplied by the Little River Coal Mining Co., Ltd., as soon as it starts operations. Arrangements are now being made to purchase machinery and operations will begin as soon as possible; the necessary tests are now being arranged for.

Mining experts such as H. Norman M.E., of Toronto, and Mr. McQuarrie Geologist, who worked on the property seven years from three to seven ft. The possibilities of this Company are unusually great. The strong and increasing demands for the product, and especially in Newfoundland where coal is selling to-day at such a high figure, is good evidence of very large returns to the investor. An investment in this Company should have the consideration of every man and woman who has the welfare of Newfoundland at heart and is interested in keeping our men at home, should fill in the application below and forward it on to the address given on this page.

It is bituminous coal and the assay shows a better quality than either Cape Breton or Crows Nest. The assay was made by Thomas Hays & Sons of Toronto and is as follows:—

Newfoundland Cape Breton Crows Nest

Moisture at 212° F. 2.80%	38.35%	29.00%
Volatilized Hydro Carbon . . . 31.80%	48.45%	68.85%
Fixed Carbon 63.00%	5.40%	3.63%
Ash 2.40%	4.42%	75%
Sulphur 1.21%

The stock is divided into shares of $10.00 each, bears 8 per cent. accumulative dividend and is non-assessable.

Address all communication to H. OLLERHEAD, The Balsam Hotel, Barnes Road, St. John's, Nfld.

P.S.—Mr. H. Ollerhead, the general manager, would be pleased to have an interview with any person interested, and can be found at the Balsam Hotel, feb. 21, w.f.

Co-Operative Marketing vs. Nationalization.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The advocates of "Nationalization" have said that the proposed "National Board of Marketing" would not be concerned with the catching of fish, but with its export and sale. Merchants would supply, as usual, and would collect the fish, but the Board would take the fish from the merchants at prices fixed by the Board, and would compel the merchants to pay the fishermen fixed prices from twenty to thirty cents a quintal lower than the prices paid to the merchant; that is to say, the supplying merchants of the Colony would be expected to undertake all the risks of their very precarious business for a margin of thirty cents per quintal on the fish collected by them. Out of such margins they would have to provide for all the losses made by supplying, and for all the overhead expenses of their large establishments. Can any sane man at all familiar with the affairs of this Colony believe for a moment that under any such system the supply business of this country could be carried on for a single season. If it were possible to finance the fishing business of the country on a cash basis, it might not ultimately be a tragedy that supplying should be ended; but it is possible, that the supplying business would be ended by the adoption of any such basis as is here proposed and would be destroyed by such a system as is certain as that the night follows the day. But let us examine a little more closely into the machinery which would have to be adopted, apparently, to carry out any such scheme. The merchants, for instance, would have to know at the beginning of the fishery season the prices which they would receive for fish at the close of the season in order that they might estimate the volume of the supplies which they could afford to give to fishermen, and the amount of expense which they might reasonably incur on the basis of the profit allowed. The fishermen would have to know in advance the price per quintal which they would receive from the merchants, in order that they might decide whether they cared to undertake the risks of the voyage. At the beginning of every season, therefore, the Board would have to announce the prices which it would give when the fish came into the local markets. This would be from three to nine months before the Board could sell all the season's fish, and during that period, the markets could be affected by war, pestilence and famine, and by the many other things that affect financial questions. The consequence would be that the Board might in any year find that it had agreed to pay far too much, or far too little, for the fish. If too much, then the loss would fall upon the taxpayers, generally. If too little, then the profit would be robbed from the fish catchers. If the Board's profits in any year were put into a surplus fund, to be distributed in later years, it is obvious that the fund would be created by men who would not necessarily share in the later distribution. If, on the other hand, the Board made heavy losses, and exhausted any surplus fund, the general taxpayers of the Colony, many of whom would have no direct relation with the fisheries, would be called upon to make up the deficit, and thus "Peter would be robbed to pay Paul." The proposal that a Board appointed by this Colony could safely fix in advance the prices of fish to be sold abroad is based upon the mistaken assumption that prices abroad can be controlled by supplies from this country. Advocates of "Nationalization" say that "prices are fixed by supply and demand, and if you regulate the supply to meet the demand, you regulate the price," but these advocates do not take into consideration the fact that this country cannot regulate a supply which comes into foreign markets in very large measure from other countries, over whose produce we have no control, and who, quite certainly, would not enter into any agreement with us for a control intended to give our fish a better place in foreign markets in competition with theirs than it would otherwise possess.

THE PROBLEM OF CULL.

The problem of cull is inseparably connected with the problem of marketing. We shall never obtain the best possible price abroad until we ship the best possible fish. We shall never obtain the best possible fish unless we adopt a system by which the fish catcher is directly and intimately interested in the price paid by the ultimate consumer. Under a system where the fish catcher sells to the fish merchant, getting his price once for all, he is chiefly interested in selling at the best price the worst fish he can put off, because, roughly speaking, the worse the fish, the less the labor has been in preparing it. In order that the fish catcher shall be directly and intimately interested in better cure, a system ought to be adopted under which he will himself be the exporter, whose profits shall depend upon the price paid by the consumer who purchases from him, that is to say, a system by which the catcher is, in effect, the exporter, who sells at the price paid by the purchaser abroad. "Nationalization" proposes no such system. Under it, the fish catcher would have no profit in the fish after he sold to the local merchant. The local merchant would have no profit in the fish after he sold to the Board. The Board would be the loser by bad fish, and ultimately it would fall upon the general taxpayer of the Colony in the same way as all the extravagance and waste of the present government fall upon the general taxpayer, with little regard by the latter to the lack of economy in public affairs.

A GULF OF GRAFT.

The purchase at home and sale abroad of all the fish of the Colony by a National Board of Marketing would open a very real gulf of graft, into which the whole Colony would ultimately fall. The proceedings of a Board answerable directly to the people would be bad enough in all conscience, because of the corrupt influences which would be exerted, but infinitely worse would be the proceedings of a Board not answerable to the people, or practically to anybody else. An irremovable Board, above control, would have the power to buy from its friends, to sell to its friends, to employ its relatives and supporters, to refuse employment to its opponents, to do every bad, dishonest and improper thing which could be conceived of, and even if it did not do these things, or did not do them in as large a measure as it would be suspected of, almost universal suspicion that the methods of the Board were thoroughly bad would soon promote revolution. The proposal that the control of a business, which amounts practically to the whole material affairs of the Colony, should be placed in the hands of any Board, removable or irremovable, appointed or elected, is based upon the idea that such a Board would be all wise, all honest, all sufficient, would make no mistakes, no losses, and would be successful and satisfactory to everybody from the beginning to the end. No such Board could be selected here or elsewhere. No such results could follow this side of Paradise. The creation of such a Board is inconsistent with every other idea of freedom of trade and freedom of conscience, and the right of the people to do as they like with their own. A better system of marketing the fish of the Colony than now exists is essential but in order that such a system shall be efficient and satisfactory, it is fundamental that it should rest upon the free will of the people who are directly concerned in fishing; that it should be appointed by them, and that the gains and the losses should be theirs, and their's alone. "Nationalization" is not such a system, but "profit-sharing Co-operative marketing" is, and the two are directly opposed to each other.

Not Turned.
With its usual craze for sensationalism the Advocate in referring to the Inter-Club Billiard tourney, features in double column Wednesday's games know that Billiard Tables are never Turned in Billiard Bout. The scribe who contributes this column does not know that Billiard Hables are never turned, though sometimes the cloth may be. In the present instance the tables have been changed, as agreed, this being the second round of the match. Oh, you Advocate Sporting Editor!

NOTICE!
Effective January 15th, there will be certain changes of schedule in train services on the Canadian National Railways.

Battles on the Seashore.

Life is lavishly abundant on the seashore, writes Leo Walmesley in a London paper.

From high-water mark to low you will find not a square foot of rock, sand, or mud unpopulated. One hundred animals to the square yard, or 300 millions to the square mile, is but a modest census. I know rocks which support 4 animals to the square inch, or more than 15,000 millions to the square mile.

For this reason the struggle for existence is intense and unceasing. Not one animal is there whose life history is not one continuous fight against death or to cause death to some other animal.

"Making room" on the seashore is a problem economically solved. If you are a seashore animal and there is not sufficient seashore to supply you with food and the necessities of life, you either kill and eat your neighbors or your neighbors kindly do the same to you. The system is primitive but sound.

It follows that all seashore animals must be well-trained soldiers, skilled in the arts of defence and offence. We find that their methods of warfare are not dissimilar from our own.

Take, for example, the limpet, a soft-bodied snail. It is a plant eater; so, from the military point of view, its chief concern is defence. Among its enemies must be reckoned sea-birds, big fish, crabs, dog-whelks. Its stout, tent-shaped shell is specially evolved to resist the attacks of all these. It is actually a fort—a tank, in fact, for it can move.

But no fort or tank designed by man or beast is impregnable. Often the hard shells of limpets are drilled by dog-whelks, often they are "rushed" by shore-crabs.

The shore-crab does practice offence. He is well armed, of course, but he is, above all, a tactician. His shell is so marked and colored that when he lies "doggo" among the weed he is—well, weed, and nothing else! He lies in ambush while the limpet unsticks his foot from the rock; then he rushes forward and puts a big club beneath shell and rock and neatly turns his victim over on to its back. Even while the shore-crab is practising camouflage for the undoing of some poor limpet, he may himself fall victim to a cleverer camouflage artist than himself—the sea anemone, whose deadly tentacles are a very cunning imitation of a piece of seaweed. He struggles, but a bombardment of poison darts anaesthetizes him, and he is drawn swiftly into the anemone's capacious maw.

Later in the day that same anemone may be attacked and eaten by a sea slug, an animal which to all outward appearances has no enemy.

The dog-whelks which attack limpets are themselves eaten by starfish; adult starfish have few enemies, but their young, which are free-swimming, perish by the billion to make food for fishes.

The daily casualty list of one square mile of the seashore must run into millions, yet the number of any particular species never perceptibly diminishes or increases. Nature sees that the balance is well kept.

PROFIT-TAKING!

We persistently suggested the purchase of Atchison Railway at $85 and Union Pacific at $104. The former is now $99 and the latter $130. We urged clients to buy American Woolen at $60, now selling at $81, and Studebaker all the way from $45 to $65, now selling at $90 and very likely to sell soon at $100. Both Middle States Oil and Boston-Montana Copper are now very low and we suggest buying for the inevitable price advance.

WHAT A. C. HAYES SAYS ABOUT DR. KINSMAN'S HEART TABLETS & DYSPEPSIA POWDERS, ETC.

"I suffered for six or eight years with my heart, and many times it was so I could not lie down at all, and the only way I could get rest was to lie on my left side for three or four years, and when I was able to walk at all, would have to stop many times and hold my hand against my heart, and wait until it would start to beat again, as it seemed to stop, and I felt as if I would suffocate every minute. Since taking your Heart Tablets and Dyspepsia Powders I have never felt any of the symptoms, and can rest as well on my left side as my right. I am sure they saved my life, as I could not have stood it much longer. I thank God that I was able to hear of your Tablets and Powders, and hope that every sufferer will have an opportunity to use them, as they are worth their weight in gold. My friends ask how I cured myself, for I am now a new man."
