Lady Wyverne's Daughter.

CHAPTER XI.

On her wedding eve she would be engrossed with her. She called herself weak and fanciful, but there was the ever-haunting dread, "Suppose anything should happen!" It would kill her now. She could not bear to think of it. With care and caution by constantly watching her sister, she could avert anything that seemed dangerous; and again in the hour of her triumph she wished, but wished vainly, that she had done nothing that could cause her to fear.

She had purposely invited Evelyn Leigh to be one of her bridesmaids, thinking that she would engross Agatha's attention. They were to reach Lynnewald three days before the wedding, and on the day appointed, she awaited their coming anxiously. She dreaded the first look at her sister's face. If it should be pale and sad, if those gentle eyes were that pained wondering expression that she remembered so well, what should she do? Mrs. Lynne wondered why that beautiful Southern face looked so pale and agitated as the carriage stopped at the hall-door. For one moment, at the sound of Agatha's voice, a mist swam before her eyes, and she could see nothing; then it cleared away, and she saw before her the same sweet face with its delicate color. There was no trace of sorrow on those calm features, no cloud of grief in those dove-like, tender eyes. Her sister looked a little thinner and more thoughtful; the child-like gaiety had gone; but it was not a sad face upon which Inez gazed with curious, wistful eyes.

The relief was great, for the fear had been great. Agatha did not quite understand why, when her sister came under her, she felt two burning tears upon her face; even Evelyn thought how tenderly the bride loved her sister.

"There is but one danger more," said Inez to herself that evening, "and that is, Philip's first meeting with her."

The whole country-side was ringing with the coming marriage. No one could be more popular than the young Lord of Lynnewald, no one admired more than his beautiful young bride. The county papers were in ecstasies; they discussed the magnificent preparations at the Hall, the number of bridesmaids, the superb wedding presents, the arrangements for the marriage, and the ball to be given in the evening. They likewise informed the public that immediately after the ceremony the happy pair would leave for Ross-y-Glynn, a small estate in North Wales, belonging to Lord Lynne. After the honeymoon they were to proceed to London, where Lady Lynne was to be presented at the drawing-room announced for the twenty-fourth of June.

The morning of the nineteenth arrived bright and beautiful—a cloud in the sky; Nature seemed to have donned her fairest robes, the soft spring air bore the perfumes of flowers and the music of birds.

"If to-morrow is as bright as to-day," said Mrs. Lynne to Inez, "you will have a glorious wedding-day."

The magnificent bridal costume, ordered expressly from Paris, had arrived, perfect, even to the last detail. The bridesmaid costumes were all ready; the wedding-cake, which was really a work of art, had arrived, the wedding breakfast was laid out in the long dining-room and a more magnificent display had never been seen in Lynnewald. The four young ladies who were to join Agatha and Evelyn were staying at the Hall, and every one seemed devoted to the queen of the festival, the beautiful bride elect.

"What time do you think Philip will really arrive?" asked Inez of Mrs. Lynne.

"About six, I think. I have ordered dinner for seven," was the reply, and the lady smiled to herself as she looked at the wistful young face. No one noticed how unequal were the bride's spirits,—one moment flushed and laughing, looking like the queen of mirth and revelry; then pale and silent, with shadowed eyes.

"Courage," she said to herself—"one trial more, and then my triumph is complete." Yet, despite her bravery, her face and lips turned white when she heard the noise and confusion of her lover's arrival. She was in the drawing-room with Agatha, Evelyn, and Allen Leigh. Mrs. Lynne had gone to meet her son. Perhaps Inez never suffered greater suspense than in those few moments. Her eyes seemed magically attracted to Agatha's face. If she should faint when she saw Philip again, then he would question her, and the whole story must come to light; but Agatha showed no signs of fainting.

"That is my cousin," she said, when the sound of a gentleman's voice was heard. The color did not vary in her face, her lips did not quiver, nor did her voice tremble. She stood near the door when he entered, and his first words were addressed to her. Quite frankly and calmly Agatha held out her hand, and spoke a few words of kindly greeting to her cousin. Just as calmly Philip replied, and then passed on.

Inez sank back in her chair—the ordeal was over; they had met; and no sign showed that they had ever been more than friends. Lord Lynne thought her pale face and quivering lips were caused by her emotion at seeing him, and he loved her the better for it. But she had yet another ordeal to pass through, even more terrible.

When dinner was over, they adjourned to the large drawing-room. The party was a large one; besides the six assembled bridesmaids, there was Allan Leigh, who on the morrow was to associate as "best man," and several other gentlemen, wedding guests. The evening was warm, and the large French windows were opened to admit the sweet, soft breeze. Lord Lynne had established himself by the side of his fair fiancée. Agatha and Allan were perhaps the merriest couple in the room. Suddenly some thought seemed to strike Lord Lynne, and, turning to Agatha, he said, in a low voice, "I have something very particular to say to you. Will you come into the conservatory with me for a minute? I will not detain you long."

A clear conscience is the happiest and greatest blessing that man or woman can enjoy. There are no words in which the feelings of that beautiful girl can be described. A death-like pallor stole over her face; her dark eyes had a wild, perplexed look. She did not speak nor move, but sat like an image of despair.

"It is all over," she cried, in the depth of her heart; "there is sure to be some explanation between them, and I am lost."

The white hands were tightly clinched, and she listened in sickening suspense for the voice of her sister or lover. Minute after minute passed, and still they came not, and despair took the place of hope in her heart. At length, after what seemed to her hours of torture, she saw Agatha slowly approaching her.

"Inez," said her sister, bending over her, "Philip wants to speak to you; come with me."

The last hope died in that proud, passionate heart. She rose haughtily, and walked with the dignity of a queen through the long drawing-room.

"I have fought my fight," she said to herself, "and have failed. Still, I know how to bear defeat."

But when she reached the conservatory, instead of the pale, stern face she expected to see, Philip stood before her smiling and bright, as he had been when he quitted her, and in his hand he held a large jewel case. In one moment, with her quick unerring instinct, she divined that she had been mistaken—that she was still safe.

"I am afraid I am a very awkward lover," said Lord Lynne, with a smile. "I wanted to offer you my wedding gift, Inez, and I have been obliged to consult Agatha as to whether I should do it now or not. She thinks, perhaps, you will like to wear my gift to-morrow, so I offer it to you this evening."

COLUMBUS RUBBER BOOTS

Channel Crossed in Plane of 13 H.P.

Georges Barbot, the French aviator, set up a new record in aeronautics by crossing and recrossing the English Channel on a tiny motor-assisted glider. He crossed from St. Inglevert, on the French coast, and descended at Lympne. He then flew back to St. Inglevert, where he landed safely. This is the first time the Channel has been crossed by a machine depending in part on wind current.

By his success Barbot wins a prize of 25,000 francs offered by the press for the first aviator to fly the Channel and back again on a machine of not more than 15 horse-power. Leaving St. Inglevert at 8:30 o'clock, Barbot landed at Lympne at 7:31 o'clock. After a short stay at a British air-drome he left again on the return flight to France. This he accomplished in 44 minutes. His outward journey from point to point was exactly twenty miles as the crow flies, but having been taken slightly out of his course, Barbot actually flew slightly over 70 miles between France and England.

So light is the machine in which he travelled, that the aviator, wishing to move it out of the way, picked up the tail and pushed it along the ground to the desired position. Barbot was particularly pleased with his little engine, which was running well when he came in. Experts said that had the engine stopped during the flight the aviator would have found it very difficult to restart and would probably have had to rely solely upon air currents to reach a place of safety.

Barbot's machine is a monoplane of 15 horse-power. The quantity of petrol he was allowed to consume by the rules of the competition to strictly limited being sufficient for little more than actual climbing.

Fads and Fashions.

A line of buttonholes and hanging buttons gives the required note of side trimming to a chemise frock of black moire.

A slightly draped coat of blue cloth fastens at the side, has a short cape in the back and is lavishly trimmed with badges.

Women's umbrellas are no longer partial to the baskette ring. Only novel rings are seen, and the side strap of leather is much more in evidence.

"29" Experience as The Maker "to Canada" "29" Years

Aeroplanes to be Used.

TO BRING VOTERS TO THE POLLS IN THE ONTARIO ELECTIONS. TORONTO, May 16.—For the first time in the history of the world, so far as known, the airplane is to be brought into use as a conveyance to bring voters to the polls at the coming Ontario elections on June 25.

The far distant polling station at Moose factory is to usher in this new world record. It is understood that Premier Drury and members of his Cabinet yesterday broached negotiations for the engagement of an airplane and of an experienced pilot to go to the northern constituency for the purpose of carrying the electors to the polls.

This move on the part of the Government, it is stated, is not made with a view to applying of creating a precedent, but was the result of some bright person's suggestion for meeting a difficult situation. What roads there are in the extreme north of the riding are now impassable and are not expected to be in passable condition when election day comes around.

Traffic Scores "Rip Van Winkle."

A full-length mirror fastened to the front of one's closet door is not only a great convenience, but also increases the apparent size of the room.

WOMEN'S STYLES BEWILDER CON-VICT FREED AFTER 36 YEARS.

A man whose association with the world of every-day life ceased 36 years ago has just been released from prison in England. He lives in the world of yesterday. His twilight existence has lasted 16 years, longer than Rip Van Winkle's, and his sudden descent into the maelstrom of modern life is more violent. He was sentenced 36 years ago to be detained at "her majesty's pleasure."

"His mind is wonderfully quick," said Brigadier Puden, head of the Salvation Army social work in Lancashire, but traffic and women's dress bewildered him. He is so afraid of the speed of modern motor vehicles and tramway cars that he is almost afraid to venture into the street.

When this Rip Van Winkle left the world behind him there were no gramophones, the telephone was in its infancy, X-rays, the cinema, wireless and aeroplanes were not yet invented, the poles were still undiscovered and the great war was but a hazy dream of mad war lords.

Magic Cooking.

"Say Jimmie; may I have the use of your fire for a few minutes. Mine has gone out and I do not want to kindle it again, and I have beans to bake." Such was my request to my next door neighbor one scorching hot day in August when we were camping at Mo. Jimmie was resting on the settee and had on a roasting fire. "Why sure, ma'am. I'll be keepin' up a fire as I don't feel a bit well and you can cook whatever you wish ma'am."

"Well, I replied, I only want to set the cooker and a couple of irons on for a few minutes. Thank you Jimmie, I'll be back shortly." When I left Jimmie was heaping on more wood to show his willingness and pleasure to do that act of kindness. When I returned in about 15 minutes time to remove the pot of beans, Jimmie expostulated, "Burr ma'am! they're not cooked. You don't need make a fire! they can stay there all day." Thank you, Jimmie, but this is all I need and they will be ready for supper, and I hurried into my own quarters and put them into the fireless cooker. A few minutes then a knock at the door. Jimmie came in, looked around, saw a fire, a very cool room, no sign of heat or cooking. "Whatever has she done with the pot?" Then with a very puzzled expression on his face he said, "Please ma'am. I don't understand how you can cook beans without a fire!" I said "I'm going out now berry picking and fishing with the children and at supper time I'll send you in some beans, and if they're not cooked you can tell me so." Jimmie went off but not convinced, and when I sent him in some he admitted they were as well cooked as if he had done them himself, and then I showed him what I had done, but I don't believe Jimmie understands yet what magic cooked them. A few days after I was asked for a donation for the annual Garden Party. Another hot day, so I had the good fortune to turn out of the fireless cooker one of the lightest and most delicious cakes I ever made. Since then many, many cakes of various kinds, among them a sixteen pound, four tier wedding cake besides innumerable Xmas and birthday cakes, have been baked in it. The cooker bread is most eagerly sought for. It is especially good for cooking roasts of any kind. During Child Welfare Week I will be delighted to show fathers and mothers the magic that puzzled Jimmie.—M.J.C.

The costumes, which include pleated skirt and jacket, use a lighter tone in the embroidery on jacket. The effect is strangely rich.

London to Open World's Largest Aquarium in June.

LONDON, April 23rd, (A.P.)—England is soon to have the biggest aquarium in Europe, if not in the world. It is located at the Mappin Terraces in London and will be completed in June. It is to cost about a million dollars. More than 100,000 gallons of water will be required to fill the tanks, which will contain fish and water fauna from all parts of the world. Natural sea water will be used. This will be brought from the North Sea up the Thames and taken to the zoological gardens in barges.

Canada Seeks to Forestall Fuel Shortage Next Winter.

Ottawa, Ont.—Federal and provincial governments of Canada are trying to find a way to meet next winter's fuel demands without leaving the country wholly dependent upon the United States, having in mind the threat of embargo last fall when American communities were suffering from a shortage.

Canada has vast stores of both soft and hard coal, but transportation difficulties will prevent their development so long as the Pennsylvania-West Virginia hard coal fields continue to produce and there is no check on exports. Testimony before a Senate committee indicates that Nova Scotia can meet all demands for soft coal. The search for substitute for Pennsylvania anthracite has not been successful.

The richest hard coal field known in Canada is in Alberta. It is far removed from transportation lines and, as one expert said, "It might as well be in China." About 200,000,000 tons of fair quality anthracite could be produced there by strip mining, and sub-surface mining, it was said, would bring out billions of tons. The deposit is in the Hay and Smoky Valleys of Alberta.

Fewer Crimes in England During Past Ten Years.

LONDON, May 2nd, (A.P.)—Less drunkenness, more burglars arrested, a big drop in minor cases, more suicides, 35 double tragedies, the British prisons not so full, are some of the outstanding features of the crime statistics for 1921, which have just been made public.

During 1921 cases of drunkenness totalled 81,383, against 98,606 in 1920 and 204,033 in 1913. Offences of violence declined to 966 in 1921 from 1,107 in the previous year. The decrease in the number of cases for offences of a less serious character, says the report, confirms the impression that poverty and distress were potent influences in determining the number of crimes and offences during the year.

Prison returns show the number of convicted prisoners received during 1921 totalled 46,871 against 166,283 in 1913.

Predicts Coal and Iron Mining Five Miles at Sea.

Sydney, N.S.—Engineers in time will be able to take coal and iron ore from under the sea at distances of five miles or more from shore, according to F. W. Gray, an executive of the British Empire Steel Corporation. Workings already extend two and a quarter miles to sea at Sydney mines, and 70 per cent. of the coal produced in Nova Scotia comes from beneath the ocean.

The cost of bringing deposits to the surface rather than failure of the seams, will place a limit on submarine mining operations, Mr. Gray thinks. Although coal is being taken from under the sea at several points in Great Britain, Australia, Japan and China, the Nova Scotia coal areas and the iron mines at Wabana, Newfoundland, are the scenes of the largest undersea mining workings in the world. According to Mr. Gray, they are capable of indefinite expansion, some of the Wabana seams being 35 feet thick.

Inundation is the greatest danger added to the usual hazards of land operations. Engineering skill, however, has reduced the number of these accidents, the chief of which occurred at the Takashima colliery in Japan, where many lives were lost and on the Cumberland coast in England in 1914, where 36 men were drowned.

Grafting Process Transfers Perfume to Odorless Plants.

PARIS, May 2, (A.P.)—Prof. Daniel of Rennes appears to have discovered a process which will cause to come true Shakespeare's verse: "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

By taking two plants of the same species and grafting one on the other, notably a wormwood on a chrysanthemum, he found that not only the grafted wormwood developed remarkably, but its flowers gave off a perfume much more powerful than that of the original plant. Moreover, the chrysanthemum had given to the wormwood flower something of its own scent. Professor Daniel collected the seeds of the grafted wormwood and the following year obtained from them some very fine plants.

Some perfumed flowers were grafted on plants that heretofore had no scent at all and the result has been that the product of the grafting smells like the original.

"Steamers" Claims Against Germany.

CANADA STEAMSHIPS CLAIMS $3,600,000 FOR WAR LOSSES—HEARING SET FOR JUNE SEVENTEENTH.

MONTREAL—The claims of the Canada Steamships Lines for war losses on its ships are largely a reiteration of the original claims made in 1919. The company claims $3,601,639 from Germany on account of the loss of ships. This is about $30 a share on the common stock but shareholders must remember that the procedure for collecting claims from Germany is long and basing one's judgment on the experience of other collectors, not always successful. The amount claimed is the difference between the value of vessels sunk by mines, submarines and other enemy agents of destruction and the amount the company collected from insurance companies. The submarine warfare started so suddenly the company did not have all its ships fully insured against war contingencies from the beginning.

Ancient Egyptian Kings Buried in French Shrine.

PARIS, April 19.—(A. P.)—Recent investigation has disclosed the novel fact that a number of Egyptian royal dead are interred under the famous Bastille, shrine of France's freedom. It appears that Champollion, the noted French archaeologist and inventor of the key to Egyptian hieroglyphs, years ago sent a number of mummies from Egypt to the Louvre. Egyptology was then in its infancy, and doubtless sufficient precautions had not been taken to retain the mummies in their original state. When the royal remains arrived in Paris it was found impossible to place them in the museums, as had been intended, and in 1830 they were buried in the Gardens of the Louvre. Then followed the stormy days at the end of July, when the population of Paris rose in protest against the Medicine Stains.

Bed linen will often become stained with medicine during illness. These marks will frequently not yield to ordinary washing and should always receive special treatment. It is a good plan before the linen is washed to put a pasted form of fuller's earth and household ammonia on to the stains. The paste should be left on until the preparation has dried and can then be raised off in cold water. If the first attempt is not entirely successful the process can be repeated.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR BURNS & SCALDS.

Trade Within the Empire

The new campaign recently inaugurated in the Mother Country for the encouragement of increased trade within the Empire should not be allowed to go unnoticed by the Exporters and Importers of Newfoundland. Trade is one of the principal bonds that keeps the Empire units knit together, and it is incumbent on us as the oldest colony of Great Britain to co-operate as zealously in this movement as our circumstances and our natural resources will permit. It is quite noticeable that since 1914 our import trade from Great Britain has declined in an alarming degree in favor of the United States, especially in dry goods and machinery, hardware, etc. There was some justification for this during the war years, but there is no valid reason for it now especially when we can get goods that are more reliable from the Mother Country. The British Government has taken steps to bring about the fullest possible extension of trade within the Empire, and to establish more intimate co-operation with the authorities of all the overseas units of the Empire, and it is up to Newfoundland to show her readiness to co-operate in this movement. The Board of Trade in London is viewing with alarm the attempt of the United States to capture the trade of Canada and Newfoundland, and very rightly takes the position that as far as practicable the products of the Empire should be priced being equal preferred to those of foreign countries. A special study will be made this year by the London Board of Trade of the conditions of the Dominion markets of the Empire which, they hope, will greatly increase the trade. For this purpose information offices will be opened in Vancouver and Winnipeg on this side of the Atlantic in order to ascertain what Canada has to sell and what she wants to buy, and find out if import and export business cannot be carried on within the Empire in future with mutual advantage. Our own Board of Trade in St. John's would do well to take cognizance of this movement with a view to finding out whether we in return for increasing our dry goods and hardware trade with Great Britain cannot be able to sell more of our own products in the Mother country and to Canada. It is only necessary to suggest seal-skins, fanned fish, cod oil, lead and silver, copper, iron ore, salt, bulk codfish, pickled herring, canned salmon and lobsters and smoked cold storage fish and cod liver oil. Great Britain imports and makes use of millions of dollars worth of all these products, and if we once establish a claim on the obligation of more of her dry goods, etc., under the compact of trade within the Empire we have no doubt that a well paying market will be found in the Mother Country for all the above named products that we have to dispose of.

Griffith Public Own Picture Critic.

The Griffith public is its own dramatic critic. When Mr. Griffith's latest picture sensation first was shown in New York City, the reactions of the crowds that daily filled the theatre were more carefully studied than even producers of the "speakers" are in the habit of doing, with the result that Mr. Griffith's dramatic epic was edited and enlarged according to the consensus of the theatre-goers.

D. W. Griffith was the first director to submit picture plays to prolonged and severe try-outs. His example in that respect has been imitated. But probably no other picture man in the world has gone to the labor, time and expense of keeping on with production after the play is an established Broadway success.

In the second half of "Orphans of the Storm," which really is founded on that famous stage classic, "The Two Orphans" and which under a United Artists Corporation release is at the Majestic Theatre to-day, Mr. Griffith within ten days changed the action vitally, all due to his study of audience sympathies. The tragedy of Pierre Frochard was removed and the story of the crippled received a new and happy ending. This new version was put in tentatively. Audience response was so favorable that it is now a fixture.

The length of the great climax was cut slightly without eliminating any of the high points that touch the feelings or create suspense. This again was based on broad study of what the average spectator can pleasantly endure. Whenever the saturation point was reached, the incident was cut out or the succeeding incident (if of a similar character) was omitted.

Wireless Station For Gold Fields.

A marconi station having a radius of 100 miles will be erected at Star Bay Gold Fields in the course of the next few weeks. The apparatus has been ordered from Montreal and as soon as navigation on the coast opens Mr. J. J. Collins, superintendent here, goes down to supervise its erection. The station will give communication with Grady.

Poultry Notes.

INSECT ENEMIES OF FOWLS.
With the coming of warmer weather a strict watch should be kept on all adult fowls as well as growing chickens, to see that they are free from external parasites.

There are several distinct varieties of insects which are parasitic on poultry, some living on the skin and some under it, while others stay on the birds only long enough to draw the latter's nourishment.

The presence of these parasites is injurious to the health and well-being of birds. Adults cannot lay as many eggs, and chickens cannot grow as quickly or so large as when free from their presence.

There are four common types of parasites—lice, depilating mites, scalying mites, and red mites—and of these the commonest are lice, which are to be found swarming all over the body, and if present in great numbers cause general debility and result in lessened if not entirely checked egg production.

The Dust Bath.
As lice breathe through pores in the sides of their bodies they can be killed by stopping up these pores with dust or a fine powder. As a rule healthy birds will thus keep themselves reasonably free from lice, if provided with the opportunity of taking a dust bath—the natural remedy against these pests.

A little dry scrub or very finely sifted ashes will make a most effective dusting material. This, if placed in the poultry house or under cover, where it will keep dry and the sun can reach it, will be much used and appreciated by the birds, and there need be no fear of those birds suffering from the attacks of lice to any serious extent.

The addition of a little insect powder of sulphur to the dust bath will make it even more effective. Some birds, however, particularly when they are in poor health, neglect this natural method of ridding themselves of these parasites and it is therefore advisable to go through the whole flock, periodically and give each bird a dusting with some reliable insect powder.

Applying the Powder.
The best way to apply the powder is to sprinkle it from a metal box fitted with a perforated cover, holding the birds by the feet over a sheet of paper to prevent waste, and working the powder well into the feathers with the fingers.

This should be repeated in the course of eight or ten days, to catch the young lice which may have hatched out since the time of the previous dusting. In applying the powder particular attention should be paid to those regions most generally infested—round the vent, about the thighs, and under the wings.

Another and even more efficient remedy for lice is the application of a little blue mercurial ointment, rubbed on the flesh just below the vent. A quantity about the size of a pea is enough, and one application usually suffices.

The depilating mite is to be found at the root of the feathers (usually about the head and neck), which they damage by eating and so cause the feathers to fall out. The treatment is simple, and consists of merely rubbing a little carbolised vaseline on the infested parts.

Nearly Half of Philippine Children Now Go to School.

MANILA, April 25.—The Philippine Islands have a total of 8,174 schools, public and private, with an approximate enrollment of 1,400,000, according to the bureau of education and the superintendent of private schools. It is estimated that the Philippines have a population of 2,500,000 children of school age.

Public schools alone number 7,641 and attendance reached a total of 1,094,472 during the last year while private schools number 532 and have an enrollment of 344,528.

Eighty-five per cent. of the private schools in the Philippines are religious institutions, and only 15 per cent. secular. Seventy-seven per cent. of the religious private schools are Catholic, while the remaining eight per cent. are Protestant.

The public school system, in which English is taught, includes 24,875 teachers, 341 of whom are Americans.

Engineer's Unique Discovery.

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—(By Canadian Press)—While searching for natural cement beds at the foot of Mount Colipa, James Philomen, a mining engineer, unearthed relics of a 4,000-year-old city, according to a statement made by him. "Protruding from the layers of lava, beneath which is the city, Mr. Philomen declares is the top of an ancient pyra-

Household Notes.

Core and carefully stew whole apples, cool, place on lettuce leaves and garnish with small pieces of apple jelly flavored with red peppermint candies.

If you wish apple pie to be especially crisp and flaky, pour the cooked apples and syrup under the crust by means of a funnel after the pie is baked.

To make Russian dressing especially delicious add a little Parmesan cheese, capers, Worcestershire sauce, horseradish, chopped stuffed or green olives.

If your family is fond of cake invest in a good mechanical cake mixer, as thoroughness in the mixing of the ingredients is of greatest importance.

Pear salad is attractive garnished with strips of pimento and serve with French dressing into which four tablespoonsful of heavy cream have been beaten.

When mixing a cake do not beat the egg whites too long before it is used, or the liquid will settle to the bottom of the bowl, leaving the whip top delicate.

To one pint of grape juice add one cupful of water, the juice of a lemon, and a few gratings of orange. Chill. This well deserves the name of amber nectar.

Especially small matters are often of great importance; for instance, the height of the chair at the sewing machine and the stool at the kitchen sink.

A slanting board placed along one side of your closet from the floor to the top of the baseboard with a ledge to catch the heels of your shoes is a great convenience.

Very often these simple but wholesome desserts such as tapioca, bread, rice and cracker puddings are not liked because they are carelessly flavored or blended.

When putting a mixture in baking powder cans to freeze, put oil paper over the tops of the cans before putting on the lids, to prevent any salt water leaking in.

Prepare a thickened sauce of butter, flour and milk, season with a little anchovy paste, add cooked, sliced potatoes, cover with a crust and bake.
To make muffins that have a delightfully "nutty" flavor, mix together two cupfuls of sour milk, one cupful of soda, one cup of baking powder, two cupfuls of melted butter and one cupful of steel-cut oatmeal, one-half cupful each of bran and flour.

HENRY BLAIR

and the World Court

Washington, May 22.—(By Canada Press.)—Lord Robert Cecil gives a very complimentary article on our late High Commissioner for Newfoundland in London in appreciation of the good work that Sir Edgar Bowring has done during his tenure of office since 1918. The sentiments expressed by the Mail will be, we feel confident, be endorsed by every one in Newfoundland irrespective of class or creed. Sir Edgar has done most valuable work whilst in London in an honorary capacity in the interests of Newfoundland and the Empire. His resignation will be keenly regretted by a large number of people both friends and strangers who have admired his work as High Commissioner in which office he has won the personal esteem of all who have come in contact with him. He comes of a family which has long and honorably been associated with the life of Britain's oldest colony, as it was in 1811 that the founder of the family went to Newfoundland from Exeter. The retiring High Commissioner has been magnificent in his support of national and charitable causes, and many of the public institutions in the city of St. John's owe their existence very largely to his financial support. He took a prominent part in the raising of the Royal Nfld. Regiment and in the work of the Newfoundland War Contingent Association. Only recently he gave to the city of St. John's a public Park which now bears his name, and as a memorial to the Newfoundlanders who gave their lives in the Great War he has presented to the Park a magnificent bronze statue representing the "Bombing Newfoundland." He is President and Managing Director of Bowring Bros. Ltd., steamship owners and agents. He was knighted in 1915. Pending the appointment of a successor Mr. Victor Gordon, Secretary to the High Commissioner, will undertake the duties of the office. It is regrettable to us all that Sir Edgar is retiring and all Newfoundlanders appreciate his good work for the additional reason that he performed the duties of the office gratuitously. As Mr. Gordon is now filling the office since Sir Edgar's resignation it must be assumed that he is capable of doing the duties incidental to the office of High Commissioner all the time. It is pertinent then to ask why not appoint him permanently? In the present financial condition of the Colony curtailment of expenditure is absolutely necessary, and we have no doubt that such a course on the part of the Government would mean the saving of $5000 annually. Mr. Gordon is, no doubt, better qualified to perform the duties of the office than any new man that the Government could select. It is the practical worker that the office requires, and an appointment over him would be a mere ornament and an expensive one at that, which in our present condition we can ill afford.

Unique Attraction at Guide's Entertainment.

The whole entertainment on Empire Day for the Girl Guides promises well, and if the organizer and her many friends see the Majestic Theatre filled at the matinee and at the evening performance, they will feel recompensed for all their hard work. Thanks to the kind thought of His Excellency the Governor, they are able to add one more attraction to the programme, and that a unique one. For the first time in history King George and Queen Mary have sent a spoken message to the children of the Empire, and the record conveying it has been lent by his Excellency in order that the children at both performances may hear this thrilling call given in their Majesties' own voices.

Inter-Club Tournament

The second game in the billiard tournament between the Guards and C.E.L. clubs took place last night and resulted in a win for the Guards by 48 points. The players were L. Bartlett (C. E. I.) and H. Angel (Guards). The breaks were:— Angel (900)—12, 10, 10, 49. Bartlett (540)—12, 11, 12, 47. The second game was between Maddick (Guards) and F. Wills (C. E. I.) and was won by Maddick by 12 points. The breaks were as follows:— Maddick (900)—11, 11, 12, 16, 86 Wills (287)—11, 11, 18, 11—51. The result of the games so far leaves Guards 64 points ahead. The players to-night will be 7.30 Newbury (Guards) vs. James (C.E.L.); 9.00 Thistle (Guards) vs. Dr. Carnell (C.E.L.).

Personal.

Const. A. Conway arrived from the West Coast on yesterday's express and will be stationed in the city in future.

Mrs. Gordon Lester, Mount Pearl, will be prepared to serve the public with Teas and Afternoon Teas beginning Empire Day, May 24th. Everything served homemade.—May 23, 11.

Major Cotton Gone to New York.

Major Cotton, who flew back from Stag Bay a few days ago, left hurriedly by yesterday's express for N. Y. via North Sydney and St. John, N.B. Major Cotton's mission is kept in the dark for the present, but it is understood to be in connection with information gleaned from his visit to the Gold Fields. Much interest is being centered in the two photographs of Stag Bay taken by Major Cotton which are now on exhibition in the window of Messrs. Dicks & Company's Bookstore, Water St.

REMARKABLE CURES BY INSULIN

NEW YORK, May 22.—Remarkable progress has been made during the past year in use of insulin treatment for diabetes and over three thousand patients in United States alone are being helped by it, according to Dr. P. G. Banting, its discoverer, speaking yesterday before the hundred and seventeenth annual convention of the New York State Medical Association. Insulin is now being used in all parts of the world but it is not yet possible to say whether its cure is permanent.

CHINESE THREAT FAILS.

SHANGHAI, May 22.—Messengers from the Suchow bandits reported to-day that they had not carried out the dire threat to kill three Anglo-American captives if demands are not met by Tuesday.

KING FOLLOWS PRECEDENT.

LONDON, May 22.—Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is the British Prime Minister in succession to Andrew Bonar Law. Having followed the constitutional practice and ascertained the views of the Conservative Leaders, through medium of his Secretary, Lord Stanforthham. The King came to town to-day and without further delay offered the Premiership to Mr. Baldwin, who accepted. That a man comparatively new to politics thus comes to the first position in the Nation's Council, passing over well tried and experienced statesmen like Marquis Curzon and the Earl of Balford, indicates the change which has taken place on the political stage with the rise for the first time in the country's history of the Labor Party to the position of his Majesty's Opposition in Parliament.

Officers Elected.

A successful meeting of the Governor St. Boy Scouts was held last evening in the Institute Rooms, Methodist College Hall, when the officers for the coming season were elected. It is understood that a Junior League will be formed this season and the Gower St. Boys hope to send in a team. The election of officers resulted as follows:—Manager, W. Driscoll; Captain, J. R. Mayo; Vice-Captain, A. Stacey; Secretary, J. Herder; Delegate, A. Horwood.

EASTER ISLAND STILL THERE.
SANTIAGO, Chile, May 23.—Recurrent rumors that Easter Island had been swallowed up by the sea during the intense Chilean earthquakes last November, have been proved unfounded by the schooner Falcon, which arrived here yesterday from the island, reporting that all was well. The island is used by the Chilean Government as a penal colony and has a population of about twelve hundred.

150 CHINESE MISSING.
LOS ANGELES, May 23.—A special despatch from Mexico states that a hundred and fifty Chinese are missing after a fire there late yesterday and last night, which had caused damage amounting to five million dollars and was still burning.

RUSSO-ENGLISH SITUATION.
LONDON, May 23.—Whether the Anglo-Russian trade agreement had weathered the storm aroused by the British ultimatum to Soviets is expected to be known to-day, when Leonard Krassin heads the note containing Moscow's latest decision to British Foreign Minister. The general feeling in England is that rupture is unavoidable.

LADY CONSTANCE LYTON DEAD.
LONDON, May 23.—The death is announced of Lady Constance Lytton, daughter of the first Earl of Lytton, and notable militant suffragist. She was born in 1859. She was imprisoned four times for her militant activities.

At the C.L.B.C. Headquarters last night the presentation of the Outerbridge Shield, which was won by No. 2 Section of F. Company, took place before a large gathering of friends of the Brigade. Among those present were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardyce. His Excellency was accompanied by Major Wilberforce Bell, A.D.C. Capt. Johnson of S. S. Oxonia was also present. After the presentation of the Outerbridge Shield the Governor inspected the Brigade and addressed the lads in very complimentary terms. Lt.-Col. Walter Rendell suitably replied. Following a distribution of medals, chevrons and good conduct stripes, Sir William and party accompanied by Lt.-Col. Rendell and Capt. Outerbridge inspected the building and its various offices. The evening concluded with the Banks of Newfoundland and the National Anthem by the Band. To-morrow, Empire Day the usual Thursday night parade will be held.

The St. Barbe Count.

COLLECTING THE BALLOT BOXES
The count in the St. Barbe election may not be looked for yet and it may possibly be a week more before the result of an election, held on May 3, will be made known. Returning Officer Wilton is due at Bonne Bay this evening, but a lot of the boxes have not been forwarded there yet. Those from White Bay will be transferred to Lewisporte, being brought along by the Portia. The ship was at Griquet last evening and should be at Lewisporte late to-morrow if the sea conditions permit. The ballot boxes, after reaching Lewisporte will be taken across country by train to Bay of Islands. From that place they will have to be again covered by water to Bonne Bay.

Berlin Estimates World Population at 1,804,187,631.

BERLIN, May 21.—(A. P.)—Scattered over the face of the earth is a total population of 1,804,187,631, only seven per cent of which is in cities of more than 100,000 inhabitants, according to statistics compiled here and based largely on 1922 census reports. Only 30 of the 70 nations listed have cities of or above the 100,000 class, which is the lowest counted within the classification of "large cities."

Approximately 40,000,000 of the globe's inhabitants live in the 18 centers having a million residents or more each. About 90,000,000 live in the smaller large cities, of which there are only 393 in the whole world. The average large city is said to number some 320,000 souls. From these figures, it is stated, every forty-fifth human resides in cities housing millions, while every fourteenth finds his home in a large city of some sort.

New York is given as the largest city in the world, with a population of 5,620,048. London is second with 4,483,249, and Berlin third with 3,803,770.

Europe leads the continents in point of population. It has six cities in the million class, London, Berlin, Paris, Glasgow, Vienna, and Moscow, and 193 with more than 100,000 inhabitants. Of the European countries, England has 53 large cities, Germany 48, Italy 16, France 15, and Russia 15.

It is considered surprising that Asia has more large cities than North America. Six of the 92 Asiatic cities house more than a million apiece. These are Shanghai, Hankau, Calcutta, Bombay, Tokio, and Osaka. British-India is credited with 80 large cities; China has 20, so far as available records show, and Japan's number 19, including three in her foreign possessions.

North America follows Asia with 79 large cities. Four of these, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Mexico City, are placed in the million class. Of the nations on that continent, the United States leads with 68 large cities, 13 of which record more than a half-million inhabitants.

Twenty-four large cities are located in South America, Brazil having 13. Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro are the only million-resident centers.

Australia counts eight large cities, none of which runs up to a million.

To Give Lecture at Kilbride.

The Newfoundland Poultry Association will continue the series of lectures on Poultry Culture begun last week, on Wednesday night next when some prominent members will speak before the Kilbride Club. The matter of making arrangements is in the hands of Mr. A. J. Bury, Secretary of the Agriculture Department.

Spring models in gloves are most novel. Striped linings are noticed among chambray-like gloves—the cuff turns back and shows this smart novelty.

MINARD'S LINDENT FOR BURNS AND SCALDS.

Bowling Entertained.

Bowling, who is retiring from the High Commissioner's office, was entertained at the Newfoundland Club at Victoria, Northumberland, N.S., on May 23rd.

Mr. Bowling, a former Premier of the province, was the guest of honor at the dinner. In proposing a toast to the armistice that he had signed, which he only accepted with a heavy heart, he expressed his understanding that it should be a day of any kind.

He referred to the paper published in Newfoundland by the Newfoundland Northcliffe on land and sea, and said that he was glad to see the wolf and the deer, and that he was glad to see the mines, fisheries, and agriculture of Newfoundland.

Business in Newfoundland.

REPRESENTATION OF FACTURERS NECESSARY IN ORDERING TO CANADA.

Efforts are being made to get British exporters to do business in Newfoundland by the paying of more attention to the important market by Canadian exporters, according to the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

Particular attention is being given to the fact that Canadian banks, and other institutions are generally expressing the belief that representation is necessary to hold her own in this market. The appointment of an agent does not work out satisfactorily in the majority of cases, as the agent generally handles United Kingdom lines as well.

A selling salesman in St. John's is exhibiting his samples from store to store and getting the next steamer is doomed to failure. Time is necessary to be obtained. If, however, a suitable line is obtained, a good result may be obtained. It will be in obtaining an initial order may lead to considerable business in the event of delivery prompt and goods supplied to sample.

Travelers showing their John's are required to pay a tax of $10 during the six months period July to January, while appearing in court, a little effect. It is the practice of buyers of Newfoundland business houses to send the United Kingdom and other lines annually. Great care is taken by Canadian firms in that they postages on their Newfoundland letter rate 4 for the first ounce and 3 cents additional ounce—are added to their correspondents not be subjected to the annoyance of having surcharges to pay.

Something Different.

Never forget that beautiful evening. It was so different from any I ever before. I wonder what it was?"

It was the Three Flowers perfume. I can now be obtained down here. You know Hudnut's is the name there. I am so glad that it can be had here now. For it is to be had in Perfume, but in face powders and Talcum.

MOTHER.
Once there was a little boy very much like me. Always into mischief and as willful as could be. Stamped his foot and said, "I won't," but he didn't know. That his little wayward tricks hurt his mother so. But no matter what he'd done, she'd forgive him when he climbed in her lap and said: "I won't do that again."

Once he slapped her! Yes, he did. Said it is to pay! Rained his little hand and struck in a bitter way.

Too young then to understand all the tears that came. Little boys have much to learn—Time much teach them shame. All this little fellow knew of his mother then was she smiled to hear him say: "I won't do that again."

Now his youth seems far away, old and grown to be. Much of pain and grief and shame he can turn and see. But the mother love was staunch, and the man has learned. Always in her mother breast the light of hope has burned.

Always there forgiveness waits. She will trust him when he comes back and whispers low: "I won't do that again."

You can never wear it out. Mother love is strong. It will live through sin and shame, hurt and cruel wrong. Even though the world revile and your friendship die. Though your hands be black with sin, she will heed your cry.

Still she'll love you and forgive, as she did back then. When you look at her and say: "I won't do that again."

Hunt for a British Heavy-Weight.

TEX O'ROURKE'S MISSION TO ENGLAND.—SPORTING U.S. MOVE.

Mr. Tex O'Rourke, the American boxing trainer, is on his way to England in the White Star liner Homeric, to try to find and train an English opponent for Jack Dempsey, the world's heavy-weight champion.

The keenest interest has been aroused here by the announcement of the departure for London of Mr. Tex O'Rourke, who trained Jess Willard for his winning fight against Jack Johnson for the world's heavy-weight championship. O'Rourke has been commissioned by a number of Englishmen and Americans to comb the British Isles for promising heavy-weight championship material. Their idea is that just as America has availed itself in golf and rowing of British trainers, so Great Britain, if she is ever to regain the heavy-weight championship, must adopt the tactics of American boxers.

American Methods.
The long succession of defeats suffered by British heavy-weights they attribute to the fact that our candidates, while admirably trained in scientific sparring, have been deficient in the aggressive methods which in heavy-weight championship contests have been unbrokenly successful in America for nearly 50 years.

In America O'Rourke is regarded as probably the best pugilistic trainer in the world. They say that he has an almost uncanny faculty for judging the exact worth and ability of a boxer, and an unrivalled gift for training him when found. O'Rourke and his backers are firmly convinced that in the course of a few months he will discover in Great Britain a man with the physique and with the "pep and punch" which will enable him, after a period of intensive training by American methods in and out of the ring to give a good account of himself even against Dempsey.

His belief is that this man will probably be found outside professional boxing circles. He says that his selection of a candidate will be made without any of the secretiveness usually surrounding professional boxing campaigns.

O'Rourke has been for three years secretary of the National Boxing Association, and has been largely responsible for the rules under which boxing is regulated in America. His last visit to England was two years ago, when he selected representatives of the Army and Navy to go to the United States to box Americans of similar classes. In these bouts the British boxers selected by him were all victorious. In addition to Jess Willard and many middle and light-weights, O'Rourke has trained Fred Fulton, Al Palmer, Carl Morris, Jack Dillon, Gunboat Smith.

O'Rourke's own promising career as a heavy-weight boxer was cut short by an accident to one of his eyes when training.

Novelties in Bibbons.

A most attractive ribbon is patterned to represent interwoven, variously coloured, narrow strands.

Many of the new ribbons have decorative edges. An original finish is obtainable with silk-banded scalloping and with a fine silk embroidery resembling crochet. Scalloped ribbons are to be had in a wide range of widths. The narrowest is useful for millinery.

"Sunset" taffetas ribbons are dyed in graduated glowing colours—as the name suggests.

A novelty consists of closely arranged silken threads upon a firm foundation, resulting in a loose, rather "ruined" surface.

Every housewife likes to have Sunday as free from kitchen work as possible. Many courses of the dinner can be prepared the day before, such as soup, which can be kept cold and reheated just before serving; the roast meat, which can be served cold or hot; the materials for the salad, and the gelatin or cornstarch dessert.

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

THE LIQUOR COMMISSION.
Le Seclé: The greatest benefit conferred by the Commission is, perhaps, the popularization of wines and their gradual substitution for stronger liquors. To-day the produce of the grape is more in favor than ever before in the province and in the near future it will sell at a price moderate enough for anybody to buy. Wine is innocuous and can be recommended to all. The Government has made and will continue to make every effort to facilitate its distribution and thus resist with an excellent substitute the abuse of alcohol.

FUTILE MARATHONS.
London Daily Express: After the perambulators, the non-stop dancers, again. Miss Alma Cummings has been dancing since Christmas Day, 1922, and has worn out several hundredweight of slippers and orchestras, several millions of needles, and four thousand saxophones, by occasionally eating peanuts. We are not quite sure of our facts, but that's near enough. We now suggest that the perambulators and the Cummings and the whole lot of us enter a competition for getting on with the job without any more of this infernal nonsense.

Nationalization of U. S. Railroads

TO BE PROJECTED INTO 1924 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.
WASHINGTON, May 22.—(By Canadian Press)—The question of nationalization of the railroads may be projected into the 1924 presidential campaign in much more vigorous and pronounced fashion than has been generally foreseen. Friends of William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, say that in making his campaign for the democratic presidential nomination Mr. McAdoo is likely to come out for public ownership and operation of the railroads. It appears that Mr. McAdoo has prepared a statement of his views which he has submitted to some of his close advisers before setting it forth. While he has not come out flatly for nationalization of the roads, he inclines that way. Those who have seen his statement say that Mr. McAdoo makes it plain that he sees failure of other plans proposed for solving the transportation difficulty and thus virtually arrives at nationalization as the only solution.

McAdoo May Run.
If Mr. McAdoo should go into the race on a programme of government ownership, his friends believe he would have powerful support from labor and from the farmers who are complaining of high rates and car shortages. With a nationalization of railroads plank and a strong dry pronouncement, they think Mr. McAdoo could win the democratic nomination and that he would stand a good show of being elected if nominated. In any event, the disclosure that Mr. McAdoo is, as his friends assert, giving serious consideration to supporting public ownership and operation of the roads, has caused much comment in Washington. Opinions differ widely as to whether public sentiment in the U.S. is ripe for nationalization, though it is conceded that high rates and difficulties in getting cars have caused many voters to be converted to public ownership in recent months.

Patented Rubberized Roofing

Cheaper Than Common Felt

This Rubber Roofing sold last year at $4.75 per roll, but as some of the rolls were slightly damaged we bought it cheap and we are selling it at only $3.00 per roll.

With each roll you buy we give you enough nails and cement to put the roofing onto your roof.

Houses covered with this Patent Rubber Roofing pay less insurance tax than roofs covered with common felt, and in addition to saving on insurance you save $1.75 per roll.

YOU CAN PICK OUT GOOD ROLLS IF YOU COME QUICKLY

Patent Rubberized Roofing doesn't need tar or other coating until it has been one year on your roof.

A recipe for a delicious frozen cheese salad is as follows: Run thru the chopper one pound of cheese, one cupful of nuts, one small canful of pimentones and fold into one pint of stiffly beaten cream. Fill baking powder cans with the mixture, pack in salt and ice and serve on lettuce.

A very wholesome breakfast cereal is made by together equal quantities of rolled oats with a small amount of farina and the requisite water. Plumped raisins and dried fruit.

Our Majesties Are Welcomed in Italy.

The Majesties King George and Queen Mary of Great Britain, and their daughter, Princess Victoria Eugenie, arrived in Rome for a week's visit to the King and Queen of Italy, King Victor Emmanuel, Queen Elena, Crown Prince Humbert and Princesses Margherita and Princesse Marie Louise, at the station. Also in the welcoming party were members of the Cabinet, headed by Premier Mussolini; General Diaz; Admiral de Revel; the president of the Senate and Chamber, and the ambassador of the British Embassy.

The station was profusely decorated with flowers and plants, and the flags of Great Britain and Italy, while a crimson carpet had been laid from the train to the waiting room. Members of the Fascist National Militia lined the station, and an infantry company, in hand, rendered military honours.

King George appeared in full dress as the royal carriages stopped. He quickly stepped down, and was greeted by the King and Queen of Italy, King Victor Emmanuel, and the Italian sovereigns warmly. King Victor Emmanuel, accompanied by the leading members of the Fascist party to the British royal party which King George reviewed. The band played the British National Anthem.

The station to the Quirinal Palace, the streets and public squares were crowded with applauding people. The buildings along the route were decorated with flags and flowers. The Commission, royal commissioner of the municipality, met the sovereigns at the historical gala carriage. The royal cortege, followed by enthusiastic Fascist youth, bearing plates and helmets, presented a brilliant and impressive spectacle.

The train bearing King George and Queen Mary passed through the streets of Rome. The sovereigns were up to admit the sovereigns of flowering plants from the Riviera with which the train was decorated. They also carried baskets of fruit intended for the breakfast table of the King and Queen.

All the local civil and military authorities were present at the station to offer homage and welcome to the royal guests.

King George and Queen Mary had breakfast aboard their train near Pisa, and much enjoyed their first glimpse of Italy. On one side of their car they saw the towering Apennines with the morning sun falling on the great gashes formed by the famous marble quarries of Carrara. The train also passed Viareggio, near which spot the poet Shelley was drowned.

Coming into Pisa, Queen Mary was much interested at seeing the famous leaning tower and the ancient Romanesque Cathedral. The station was gaily decorated with bunting and flowers, and the civil and military authorities were drawn up on the platform where the royal train stopped. The sovereigns appeared at the windows of their carriage and bowed to the crowd.

Visited the Vatican.

Pope Pius received King George and Queen Mary in solemn audience in the Apostolic Palace of the Vatican the following day.

Their Majesties were accompanied by the Hon. Theophilus Russell, British Minister to the Holy See, and by their suite. They drove into the Vatican through the Gate of the Mint and upon arriving in the courtyard of St. Samaso were accorded military honours by the Palatine Guards and a detachment of Pontifical Gendarmes.

Prince Ruspoli, Grand Master of the Holy Hospice, in his picturesque costume of black velvet and ruff, opened the door of the machine bearing the King and Queen and as the sovereigns stepped forth, they were welcomed in the name of the Pontiff by Mr. de Samper, Papal Major Domo. The Royal cortege, comprising high prelates and prominent personages of the Papal Court, then formed, escorting their Majesties up the staircase into the Clementine hall.

King George was in full dress uniform, Queen Mary wore the customary black dress and veil, and the sovereigns stepped onto the 24 Swiss guards presented arms as the remainder of the Papal Court came forward to receive the Royal visitors, and the party then proceeded through the rooms of the palace towards the Papal apartment.

Greeted by Pontiff.

Only King George, Queen Mary, and Mr. Russell entered the private library of the Pontiff, where the audience took place.

As the door opened, Pius XI. walked to meet the British sovereigns, holding out his hand to them in cordial greeting. The Pontiff was gowned entirely in white, wearing on his head a white zucchetto. The audience lasted nearly half an hour. At its conclusion members of the English suite of the King were introduced and presented by him to the Pope.

Immediately after the audience Their Majesties descended to the apartment of Cardinal Gasparri, paying to the Papal Secretary of State the usual visit. They then went to the Quirinal Palace, the temporary residence of Mr. Russell, whose Cardinal Gasparri immediately returned the call, remaining for the luncheon which Mr. Russell gave in honor of the sovereigns. To this affair were invited the various members of the Roman aristocracy connected with the papal court.

King George and Queen Mary of Great Britain passed through Modena, France, on their way to Rome, where they are the guests of the Italian sovereigns at the Quirinal Palace. The station was decorated with British, French and Italian flags and a beautiful bouquet of Alpine flowers from the surrounding mountains of Savoy, from the Mayor of Modena, together with some lovely spring blossoms from the Italian Colony there were handed to Queen Mary.

French and Italian officials were present at the station, and Count Carlo Macchi di Cellere, Master of Ceremonies at the Italian Court, welcomed the royal visitors in the name of the King and Queen of Italy.

Their Majesties' special cars were detached from the French train and attached to the Italian royal train, which had been sent to the frontier to meet them. The engine was driven by the chief engineer of the Italian railways, and was decorated with British and Italian flags.

Arrived at Turin.

The King and Queen of Great Britain arrived at Turin on the way to Rome about midnight. The Prefect, the Mayor, the head of the police, the Commander of the Army Corps and other civil and military authorities were at the station, but the English sovereigns did not appear as they had evidently retired. A member of the King's suite thanked the authorities for their attentions.

The Beauty of Health.

Newspapers and magazines are devoting columns to magic or overnight beautifiers. There is a beauty in health that is far more attractive to men than mere regularity of features or a "made-up" complexion. Health should be the first essential of women who want to win and hold admiration, respect and love. At the first indication of ill health as indicated by dark circles under the eyes, a sallow complexion, headaches, backache, pain in the side, nervousness, irritability and melancholia, women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the standard remedy for women's ills, which has been proven to help 48 out of every 100 women who try it.

X-Ray to Detect Age.

X-ray photographs which can be used to detect defects in airplane wood also have been accepted in a law court as proof of a man's age. The case in question was heard before the subordinate judge of Allahabad who had to decide whether one of the contestants parties was under or over 21 years of age. Diagrams of the elbow joints and knee joints were produced, and two X-ray experts gave evidence that the plates showed that ossification of the inner and outer cartilages had taken place and that they had joined the shafts of the bones. This, it was stated, took place between the ages of 14 and 18, and the experts placed the age of the person concerned as more than 18 and less than 19½ years. Another claim made for X-rays is that by exposing to their light a good modern violin it will acquire the characteristic tone of a genuine Stradivarius, the action of the rays in a few hours ageing the wood by about 60 years.

Speech Restored by Wireless.

A young woman, deaf and dumb from birth, the first patient to undergo treatment by a new wireless invention, articulated several words in the presence of a crowded audience at the Royal Medical College, Epsom.

Wireless, having brought hearing to the deaf, is now bringing speech to the dumb. This latest wonder is made possible by the invention of Mr. J. W. Theobald, a Sunbury garage owner, and receives a lesson in phonetics with the sounds magnified till they are deafening to normal ears.

Dr. Thompson prophesies that his first patient will soon be able to converse freely. A curious unexpected result has been that her deafness is also tending to disappear.

Miss Mary Halley has arranged a delightful programme for the kiddies in the C.C.C. Hall on Friday. Concert will begin at 7 o'clock—May 23.

A Wistful Girl's Timid Smile

Relative beauty, dainty grace and lithe figure stirred the pulse of a rich noble whose hirelings stole her away from her blind sister and took her to his midnight fete. A handsome young aristocrat lost his heart, avenged her with his sword, took her to safety. She met another—a leader of the People. He, too, loved her. The fatal duel in the midst of the gorgeous splendors of a royal orgy as thousands of the starving rabble clamored at the palace gates, the love of the young aristocrat for the country-bred Henriette, and the love she inspired in the heart of Danton, leader of the uprising against the French Monarchy—these things, each punctuated by a kiss, formed a chain of circumstances that quickened the seditious People into open and armed rebellion—that brought the Fall of the Bastille—the "Feast of Reason" when all Paris went mad—the "Dance of the Carmagnole" when woman led the wild revelry. Then came the Commune—the Reign of Terror—the Guillotine—the downfall of Danton, leader—the sentence of death—the reprieve—Peace! And so, all because of Love, a King was deposed, a great monarchy fell, a great republic came into being.

Come and Go Islands.

Strange Freaks of Nature.

The most remarkable feat of an island suddenly making its appearance on the surface of the ocean has just been reported from Saigon, in South China. This new addition to the world's collection of islands is the result of a volcanic eruption, and measures four hundred yards in diameter.

Although an occurrence of this nature seems uncanny, it is not the only case on record of islands with peculiar habits. In the State of Michigan there is one which every summer comes to the surface of Lake Orion and every winter returns to the depths from which it came.

So regular are the appearances and disappearances of this island that the actual date of its arrival and departure can almost be foretold.

Floats Like a Boat.
All efforts to control its movements have failed. On one occasion a party of farmers attempted to sink it once and for ever by loading it up with large quantities of massive stones, in the hope that when it took its annual dive it would be unable to rise again. When the appointed time for the island's reappearance became due, however, up it came as usual, but the stones were all gone.

owe their origin to volcanic disturbances.

Another curious instance is that of an island on Henry's Lake, in the Rocky Mountains. This freak of Nature floats about on the surface of the water like a boat. A willow thicket thrives in the centre, interspersed with small aspens and dwarf pines, which patch the breeze and act as sails, by means of which the island is carried from place to place. One evening it may be within a stone's throw of the shore. Next morning it may be five miles away.

Rugby Football First Played 100 Years Ago.

Rugby—One hundred years ago, the "Rugby" game of football was evolved during the course of a game at Rugby School, which has just erected a tablet to commemorate the event. The inscription reads:

"This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who with a line disregarded for the rules of football, as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game. A.D. 1823."

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR COLIC'S

Provinces to Take Precautions.

TRAINED POLICE TO GUARD AGAINST SUMMER BANDITRY.

May 19—(Canadian Press) Measures designed to prevent a repetition of last year's banditry when banks, stores and offices were entered, many thousands of dollars stolen, and towns were terrorised by gunmen, have been taken by the provincial police of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Picked for the purpose of border patrol duty, a force of men will guard the international boundary day and night during the coming summer. The prairie provinces have reinforced their patrols, and they will co-operate with each other in preventing lawlessness along the boundary. Motor cars, equipped with searchlights and machine guns, are being used along the southern border of Manitoba. Commissioner H. J. G. of the provincial police, announced recently. Each car will be piloted by an expert driver and a crack shot and by a mechanic with practical experience in the war. The men will be well-armed with shotguns, Lewis machine guns and tear bombs. In the motor cars, motor cycles and side cars also will be used against possible raiders. In Alberta, machine guns are mounted on the bars of the machines, fixed to the motor cycle may be steered by a stock of the guns. Tests have been made by a motor cycle machine in the Alberta provincial police in 12 hits being registered by shots fired while the machine was travelling at 60 miles an hour.

FIRST: QUESTION AFTER-WARDS.

When checking automobiles used, and when drivers do not stop, shots will be fired over the car. If it does not then the half-police will open fire. These instructions seem to have been issued in Manitoba," stated Commissioner Martin in announcing the new patrol work for the summer. The situation requires drastic measures. Manitoba has a long and peaceful border, peculiarly adapted for a happy hunting-ground for the south to rush in from the quick and clean getaway. Information of persons who attempt to ignore police signs is to be considered that each motor cycle on patrol has the same gun equipment and that the use of a speeding car when necessary is but a matter of experimental practice on the part of the provincial police last fall. The gun firing at targets from a motor cycle at high speed, gave very good results. "Since last fall the provincial police have organized a service system along the border for the purpose of preventing the use of integrated sides, in an attempt will be made to keep a close watch on all the danger zone. The probability that members of the bandit party will not be quite so numerous this year as the fleets of motor cars owned by rum runners has been reduced. Since the use of motor cars in the province has practically been eliminated since the beginning of the year, last year it was found that bootleggers and bank robbers were directed from their hide-outs in a town close to the border on the United States side.

Bravest Men in Britain.

A PEEP AT THE WORK OF THE PILOTS.

It is an exaggeration to say that the pilot service of this country is one of the mainstays of Britain's mercantile Marine, for without the assistance of these skillful seamen the great liners and the cargo-carrying vessels upon which our prosperity depends would be unable to go into or out of port.

Like the marauding marine itself, the pilot service has grown from a body of daring adventurers into a band of highly trained and organized men. To-day, from Plymouth to the Clyde, and from the Thames to the Forth, never a ship arrives or departs but is guided by the pilot on board.

Guiding Ships to Safety.

What exactly are the pilot's duties? The superintendent of pilots is best informed as to the movement of vessels, and as soon as he hears that one is expected or is standing off the entrance to the river or harbour, a pilot is sent out.

To-day pilot-boats are steam driven, and on the Mersey, for instance, these vessels are frequently to be seen steaming out to the Bar off New Brighton to meet and escort into anchorage some giant liner from America or other foreign land.

On the Clyde the pilot takes over control at Greenock and guides the vessel for the twenty miles up river to Glasgow; on the Tyne the pilot's work begins outside the river off South Shields; while on the Thames the larger vessels are escorted from mid-Channel.

Hazardous as the pilot's work is to-day, the conditions have improved considerably since the times when small fishing-boats were used, and the men were at sea sometimes for days in their tiny craft, often undergoing thrilling adventures.

Some exciting accounts of the old days, especially on the East Coast, were told to the T-B. man by Mr. John Cree, one of the oldest pilots on the Tyne, where he has served for over thirty-five years.

"When I first started," Mr. Cree declared, "we had to go to sea in cobbles, small sailing vessels still to be seen on the East Coast. When it was calm, we had to row, and sometimes we would be away for days at a time looking for a vessel to pilot. At that time a pilot would take any ship he could get.

Curious, Isn't it?

It costs 26 pounds a week for a staff to beat the carpets and mats in Parliament.

From the date of the Armistice until the beginning of the present year approximately 400 British soldiers on the Rhine married German women.

The cost of gathering waste paper and refuse deposited by visitors in London parks is 400 pounds a month in summer and 90 pounds a month in winter.

When a fire occurs in Chile the owner or occupant of the burned building is arrested and made to prove that he is not guilty of having caused the fire.

Butterflies, which are very prolific in Australia, are suffocated in thousands by the aborigines, and, separated from their wings, pressed into cakes and eaten.

Fish are often found with fish-hooks inside their bodies, the record being a cod caught in May, 1893, off Flamborough Head, with fifty-nine fish-hooks in its inside.

During the past financial year, the Post Office carried nearly 120,000,000 parcels. Claims for compensation were met in respect of about 15,000 parcels, or one in every 12,000.

Insurance premiums collected in weekly payments amounted to 27,000,000 in 1922; lapsed policies of this grade of insurance cause the forfeiture of about 5,000,000 pounds a year.

Taxation per head of the population of the United Kingdom is £15 12s. in France, £11 8s.; and America, £5 5s. annually, reckoning the franc and the dollar at their normal value.

Immigration Question Puzzling U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(By Canadian Press)—Restriction of immigration into the United States promises to become one of the leading issues before Congress when it meets again. On the surface of things, it does not appear probable that the immigration laws will be made less strict than they are, although the present restrictions are having effects which will inevitably increase the agitation for more liberal policies. One of the latest phases of the operations of the 5 per cent. law on which comment is being made is that it has served to decrease unemployment and increase wages in such fashion that a large amount of Canadian labor is being attracted to the United States. Canadian artisans are said to be obtaining employment in large numbers on this side of the border, with the result there is already some complaint in Canada. Recently there have appeared reports that negroes in the southern states are moving north, out of the cotton and tobacco fields, in large numbers, drawn by promises of work at good pay. These reports have not, however, set forth the real reason for this movement. Persons familiar with conditions in the South say it is due to the immigration laws and the curtailment of the available labor supply in this country, especially in the northern industrial states. Critics of the immigration laws by such means as Judge Gary, head of the Steel Corporation, and other great corporation heads, will not move Congress to amend the laws and let in more immigrants. But the movement of negroes out of the cotton fields, if it continues, may result in a complete change of programme. It is an interesting fact that southern men in Congress have been most pronounced in urging drastic restriction of immigration. But if the South's labor supply is cut off seriously as a result of it, one may expect an about face. It is by no means inconceivable that the vote in Congress from the South will before long be added to the vote of members from the great manufacturing and industrial states in such a way as to form a relaxation of the immigration restrictions. The votes to relax the immigration laws cannot be counted now but a shortage of labor in the cotton and tobacco regions may speedily alter the outlook.

New President for Canadian Club.

New York, May 22.—(By Canadian Press)—Leslie Sutherland, who was elected president of the Canadian Club of New York at the recent annual meeting, is a native of New Glasgow, N.S. Mr. Sutherland, however, has resided in New York for many years and is a well known figure in business and political circles, being vice-president of the Third Avenue Railway Company and of nine street railway companies. During his political career, Mr. Sutherland was twice mayor of Yonkers, S. Bradley Gandy, of Toronto, Ont., was elected first vice-president, while another native of Ontario, Herbert S. Duncombe, originally a citizen of Simcoe, was elected second vice-president. The position of third vice-president was entrusted to Dr. George B. Palmer, formerly a citizen of Dorchester, N.S., but now practicing in New York. Raymond C. Brown, who came to New York from St. Catharines, Ont., was elected treasurer, while the secretary is Dr. Charles F. Jones, of Montclair, New Jersey, formerly of Kingston, Ont. E. P. Hungertford, of the New York branch of the Bank of Montreal, was elected trustee.
