If the potato keeps gaining in importance, it will soon be wrapped in tissue paper and sold, like the orange, at 5 and 10 cents a piece. Very few tubers, we venture to say, are used to plug the spout of a coal oil can, as was the custom in the days when they were plentiful and cheap.

FARMERS have been making good use of the fine seedling wheat of the last two weeks and most of them have finished the work. Unseasonable cold weather has kept back the growth of the grass, and in many cases cattle have been turned out to pasture earlier than otherwise would have been the case, owing to the scarcity of feed.

SUMMER MILLINERY now on display.—A. BROWN & Co.

WHAT a jolly thing it is to plant a garden and how it does reward us for our trouble. Just looking at the watering can or a rake gives one a thrill these days, and the smell of the soft, damp earth fairly pulls one out of doors. Have you made up your garden beds and planted your first spring seeds?

AN Orilla Grocer, says the Packet, has a striking object lesson in one of his windows. Three potatoes are shown, which at the present price, are worth ten cents. These are flanked by bushels of beans, at ten cents a pound, and the economy of using the latter as a substitute argued. Potatoes now are a luxury, and comparatively few families can really afford to buy them.

In that time such important undertakings as the rebuilding of the church, the building of the Guild Hall, and the installation of the magnificent organ have taken place. Mr. Thompson brought to his service as minister not only a Christian devotion to his work, but as well culture and geniality," says the Welland Telegraph.

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, May 13, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holbrook when their daughter, Eva Blanche, was united in wedlock with Mr. James Wesley Strevel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Strevel, Dresden, Ont.

Promptly at three o'clock, to the strains of "Lohengrin" played by Miss Irene Nurse of Oil Springs, niece of the groom, the bride entered the drawingroom on the arm of her father and took her place beside the groom under an arch of evergreen and ferns with floral decorations.

Where Rev. S. J. T. Fortner, pastor of Brooke Methodist circuit, performed the ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of georgette over ivory satin with bead trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and orchids. She wore the accustomed veil of silk embroidered net and orange blossoms, and her only ornament was the groom's gift, a gold, hand-engraved bar pin.

After the ceremony while the usual good wishes and congratulations were being extended Miss Nurse played Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and during the signing of the register Mrs. Clifford Sisson, accompanied by Mrs. Jordan Griffith, sang "O Perfect Love."

A delectable wedding supper was served in the dining-room which was decorated with white carnations and ribbon.

The groom's gifts to Mrs. Sisson and Mrs. Griffith were gold brooches set with rubies; to Miss Nurse, a cameo pendant; to Mr. Kenneth Holbrook, who, with the bride, acted as witness, a tie pin; and to the bride's mother a cameo brooch.

Guests were present from Arkona, Petrolia, Dresden, Oil Springs and Edy's Mills.

DR. REID THROWN FROM BUGGY

An accident happened to Dr. Wm. Reid of Wyoming on Friday last that will deprive him of the use of his right arm for some little time. While driving out to visit a patient on the London Road the horn on an approaching auto startled the horse which became restive. A small bit strap broke which further excited the animal with the result that it became unmanageable and ultimately collided with a woodpile and threw the doctor out of the rig. The accident occurred just after entering the lane leading to Mrs. Jos. McCormick's house whether the doctor was going to visit her son Kenneth. The doctor was insensible when picked up. Dr. Brown of Camlachie was summoned and had Dr. Reid removed to the Sarnia Hospital where it was found he was suffering from a dislocated elbow and some minor injuries. After receiving surgical attention he came to Watford with his sister, Miss May, who had hastened to Sarnia on hearing of the accident. He is now nursing the injured arm at the home of his mother on Erie street.

LAMBTON RURAL DEANERY

A meeting of the Rural Deanery of Lambton was held in Christ Church, Petrolia, on Tuesday, May 4th. After the usual morning's service at 11 o'clock the chapter met for business. Rev. Mr. Shore was elected to the rank of Rural Dean and Rev. Mr. Dymont was elected Secretary-Treasurer. It was with much regret that Canon Davis, according to the diocesan constitution had to resign from his office as Rural Dean which position he had held for twenty-seven years, and after complimentary speeches on all sides, it was moved by Canon Hill, and seconded by Rev. F. G. Newton, that some recognition in the near future should be made Canon Davis' official service to the Deanery in his charge.

After luncheon the Chapter met for work when most interesting papers were read on confirmation, family religion, service, women's auxiliary and life in the Solomon Islands. A most successful day came to a close when all the delegates returned home pleased and satisfied with the hospitality afforded them by the different members of Christ Church.

The re-opening of the Walnut Methodist Church was a very successful event. The edifice was taxed beyond its capacity. In the evening many found it impossible to get within the doors. Rev. E. W. Knowles, M. A., Ph. D., preached morning and evening. His sermons which were of high merit, being entertaining and instructive, were greatly appreciated by the congregations. Dr. Knowles can hardly be met of a larger audience when he comes among us. The choir rendered very appropriate singing and music, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. The church presents in the interior an attraction and comfort seldom found in rural districts.

On Monday evening an entertainment was held. The supper served in the basement was bountiful in the extreme, and presented an array of good things such as are, in these days, only found on kings' tables. After supper a splendid program was presented to a large audience. The door receipts amounted to nearly one hundred dollars.

Thos. Armstrong, one of Plympton's prosperous farmers, passed away at his home Monday morning, April 19th. $4 Saved Two Fingers

The fingers were those of Mr. J. W. Beaudry, of 539 Craig St. E., Montreal. He says, "A falling beam badly smashed my hand. Two fingers were so severely crushed that the doctors said they would have to be amputated. Naturally I didn't want this, so decided to try Zam-Buk first. I applied Zam-Buk daily, and by the time I had used $4 worth, the injury was completely healed. My fingers were saved!"

Just another illustration of the healing power of Zam-Buk. Accidents will happen. It may be your turn next. Better get a box and keep it handy. Accidents are less frequent than skin diseases, and remember this—

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, skin diseases, and piles, as for cuts, burns, bruises. All druggists and stores 50c. box, or 3 for $1.25. Refuse substitutes.

Herbert Girling a Great Explorer

REV. HERBERT GIRLING, Anglican missionary to the Copper Eskimos of Coronation Gulf, passed away on Wednesday evening, February 11, 1920, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. B. Hoare, 303 Bell street, Ottawa, from pneumonia, preceded apparently by an attack of influenza.

The late Rev. Herbert Girling was born in England on January 26, 1890. He was thus just 30 years of age. His father, Mr. William Girling, lives at 251 Ilkeston road, Old Radford, Nottingham. Herbert was working in connection with the Church Army when he joined one of the parties of volunteers organized by Archdeacon Lloyd under the Colonial and Continental Church Society and entered Emmanuel College, Saskatoon, ten years ago to train for the ministry. During this period of five or six years, in vacations, he took up active missionary work, especially among the Crees of the Pas district. So readily did he acquire the language that last summer on the boats coming up from the Arctic coast some of the Cree boatmen told Mr. Hoare that Mr. Girling (who was traveling with him) could speak Cree like one of themselves. He responded to the urgent appeal of Bishop Lucas, of Mackenzie River, for missionaries to the Eskimos, and in 1914 went into the north, where he was associated with Archdeacon Whittaker, Rev. W. H. Fry, Rev. E. Hester and Messrs. W. D. Young, G. E. Merritt and W. H. B. Hoare.

It would take a volume adequately to tell of his work on the Arctic coast. Suffice it to say that he took an active part in the great venture to reach the Copper Eskimos of Coronation Gulf district, sometimes misnamed the Blonde Eskimos. He was never very robust, but was able to accomplish many arduous journeys in winter and summer. On one occasion he and an Eskimo companion found themselves with scarcely more than a day's food, 125 miles away from a camp which they must reach. The road lay across a barren rocky peninsula, and they knew the risk of being caught in a storm, and they traveled the 125 miles in two days.

He was truly one of Canada's great explorers, having traversed thousands of miles over the barren lands around Coronation Gulf. This region is situated in a remote part of the North American continent, midway between the mouth of the Mackenzie river and Hudson Bay. He penetrated to the undiscovered depths of Victoria Land and into Prince Albert Sound, and made many arduous journeys along the northern fringe of the continent. He made wearisome journeys tramping overland with pack dogs and in small boats along the coast by summer, taking the trail with dog sledge and snowshoes in the long winter months, living in snow houses, at times visiting the Eskimos camped out on the ice miles away from land, whether they had come in search of the Arctic seal and polar bear.

Coronation Gulf sprang into prominence a few years ago when Radford and Street were murdered by the Eskimos in Bathurst Inlet. One of these murderers was engaged as a guide by Mr. Girling, and in this respect his work was live after him. He will be sadly missed by his fellow missionaries and by a host of friends. Outside of a small circle, very few realized the importance, as pioneers and national builders, of men like Herbert Girling, who go quietly year after year, without the blare of trumpets, receiving none of the world's plaudits, whose sole reward is the sense and satisfaction of doing the duty ready to hand—faithful unto death. It is a remarkable fact that the death of Mr. Girling is the first to occur among the missionaries to the Eskimos of the Canadian Arctic coast since the establishment of the mission twenty-eight years ago, and to the writer it is indeed strange that this faithful worker of the north should die, not on the frontier, but in the capital of the Dominion.

A particularly pathetic incident in connection with his death is the fact that Mr. Girling was to have been married soon to Miss Lilla Stokes, of Sheewood Rise, Nottingham. After Mr. Girling came from the north last autumn for a much needed furlough, he paid a short visit to his friends in England, from thence he was called back to Canada to take part in the Forward Movement Campaign. A few weeks ago he underwent an operation on his throat, but had recovered sufficiently to resume his duties. His addresses were always a source of inspiration. He accompanied Bishop Lucas to Ottawa to give information before the royal commission regarding the introduction of reindeer into Northern Canada. On reaching Ottawa he felt ill and asked Mr. Hoare if he might go home with him rather than to the hospital. He was put to bed at once and seven days later he passed away.

Small but Potent.—Parnelle's Vegetable Pills are small, but they are effective in action. Their fine qualities as a corrector of stomach troubles are known to thousands and they are in constant demand everywhere by those who know what a safe and simple remedy they are. They need no introduction to those acquainted with them, but to those who may not know them they are presented as the best preparation on the market for disorders of the stomach.

"Fellows like we, who drive most all the time every day, and who must keep down operating costs to make a profit, see the big advantage of Imperial Polarine and Imperial Premier Gasoline. The more you use the car the more highly you will think of Imperial products."

Imperial Polarine Pays Because It Saves

ANY motorist, who keeps a record of his car expenses, can quickly satisfy himself that Imperial Polarine pays because it saves—because it saves not only gasoline, new piston-rings, spark plugs and other repairs, but also depreciation.

Imperial Polarine makes a good car better, keeps the motor in perfect tune, thoroughly lubricated against excessive wear and break-downs. It provides an unbreakable oil film which lubricates every friction surface—makes a perfect piston-ring seal and saves wear on moving parts.

What grade is best suited for your car? Do you know? Look for the Imperial Polarine Chart of Recommendations, on display wherever Imperial Polarine is sold, and learn the grade specified—use this grade exclusively and get the utmost service.

Paint to-day Walk on to-morrow

Isn't it true that you would paint your floors oftener if you didn't have to keep the house upset so long waiting for the paint to dry?

Wouldn't you do it oftener if you could paint one half of the floor one day, then move the furniture over from the other half and paint that the next day?

Well, that's just what you can do with Lowe's Hard Drying Floor Paint. This fact, together with the way it stands wear and tear is the reason it is used so much on restaurant floors and ship decks.

CHOOSING LUBRICANTS

Practical Advice Regarding Use of Machine Oils.

They Should Possess the Qualities of Adhesion and Cohesion—Mineral, Vegetable and Fish Oils All In Use—Planting Potatoes for Seed.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

WHILE possibly every care and attention is given to the mechanism of farm machinery, few, if any, give consideration to the quality of the lubricants used.

The efficiency of any power is seriously affected by poor or improper lubrication of surfaces in frictional contact, indeed, it is estimated at about 50 per cent. of the available amount of energy in useful work.

The object of lubrication is not only to reduce friction, but also to carry away whatever excess of heat may be generated, for a certain amount of work will produce a given quantity of heat, but the carrying away of the heat is only an incidental condition, for heating of the bearing should not arise.

Oils for lubricating purposes should possess two qualities—that of cohesion and adhesion. Their cohesive properties lie in the character of their molecules to cling to each other, and their adhesive quality to stick to anything else. The union of these two properties make up what is known as viscosity, that is the body of the lubricant. This in a greater degree than any other factor determines the lubricating value of the oils. While viscosity of an oil determines its value as a lubricant, fluidity indicates its adaptability to any one particular machine. It is because of the struggle between viscosity and fluidity that the same oil will not do for the heavy engine shaft, and for light weight machinery. Each requires an oil with just sufficient "body" to carry the load without being squeezed out of the bearing. Beyond this condition the more fluid and easier moving the oil the better.

A thick lubricating film of good resisting body is needed for the line shaft of an ocean liner, but a drop of the same oil would put a watch out of commission.

Practically all the lubricants now in use are of the mineral oil foundation treated to free them from acid, and to improve their suitability for special purposes. Sperm oil is specially good for high speed light machinery; for heavy bearings castor oil, but both are expensive. For great pressure at slow speed lard, tallow, and other solid lubricants are suitable. If pressure is great, and speed high, castor, sperm, and heavy mineral oils are used. For low pressure at high speed, olive, sperm, rape and refined petroleum give satisfaction.

Vegetable and fish oils are drying oils, that is, they oxidize rapidly, causing gumming or clogging of the bearings to which they are applied. A mineral oil does not oxidize, neither does an animal oil. But mineral oils have a low flash point; that is, they fire at a low temperature. Animal oils develop fatty acids; these corrode and pit the metal they are used to lubricate.

Adulterants of various kinds are added to oils and greases to give them "body." Gum, soap, lime, resin, tar, soda and free acids all have their own distinct purpose to serve. Simple tests may be applied to lubricants for quality and viscosity. To test for acid saturate a bit of cotton waste with the suspected oil, and lay it open upon the surface of polished steel or brass for twenty-four hours. If steel shows even a slight corrosion or, if the brass turns green, free acid is present. To test for gummy adulterants place a drop of oil upon a piece of glass inclined at such an angle as to permit it to flow gently down. If any gum, resins or other viscosity producing elements are present, they will be apparent by the color of the oil streak, as the adulterants deposit themselves upon the glass in the form of sediment.

A good quality of lubricant will not break down, when rubbed between the finger tips, as quickly, as a poor one.

It would be economy in three ways at least to use two different kinds of oil; economy of power, of machine wear, and of oil, and in addition there would be greater efficiency.—Ino. Evans, O. A. College, Quebec.

Planting Potatoes for Seed.

This refers entirely to the production of seed potatoes; not those intended for human consumption. The growing of seed potatoes is better divided into two sections, the early and the late. For growing early potatoes of the Irish Cobler variety the seed should be selected true to type and free as possible from any of the various diseases which affect the potato plant or tuber. These should be from 8 to 12 ounces in weight and cut up into pieces 2 ounces in weight with two eyes to the piece. They are planted about the 10th of June and are given every possible cultivation with the soil in a state of high fertility; better having been covered soil well fertilized with barnyard manure to which has been added a considerable quantity of commercial fertilizer, about 500 lbs. per acre. Thorough spraying to control leaf diseases and the Colorado beetle should be given throughout the season. For the late seed the Green Mountain or Adair New Year is used. The planting is generally done about June 15 to June 20 under similar conditions to the former. In all cases it is necessary to select a soil that does not dry out during the summer time, as potatoes for seed should not be subjected to a check at any time during their growing period.

An abundance of water is absolutely essential for thrive.

If Miller's Worm Powders needed the support of testimonials they could be got by the thousands from mothers who know the great virtue of this excellent medicine. But the powders will speak for themselves and in such a way that there can be no question of them. They act speedily and thoroughly, and the child to whom they are administered will show improvement from the first dose.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Railway passenger agents report that traffic to the Northwest is exceptionally heavy this spring.

There have been 20,000 prosecutions for profiteering in Great Britain. Yet profiteering is not peculiar to that country.

In the case of not a few newspapers, the crushing cost of newspaper forces them either to merge or to submerge.

The boycott against potatoes organized by housewives may be a crime under the law to prevent restraint on trade, but you cannot imprison the better half of a nation.

It is not work that kills men, it is worry. Work is health; you can hardly put more on a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys the machine, but the friction.

A pessimist is the kind of chap who closes one eye, wrinkles his face and says it can't be done. An optimist smiles and assures you it can be done but graciously allows George to do it. But a peptomist takes off his coat, rolls up his sleeves and proceeds to put it across.

An eloquent sign of the times is the growing practice of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce extending to include rural as well as urban members. In a general way, it is in somewhat belated recognition of the fact that town and country have many important material interests in common.

It is understood that July 27 is the date which has been fixed tentatively for the taking of the liquor referendum in Ontario. It has been announced that the cost of taking the vote will be approximately $300,000. This will be paid by the Dominion Government.

It is an undoubted truth that the less one has to do, the less time one finds to do it in. One yawn, one procrastinates, one can do it when one will, and, therefore, one seldom does it at all; whereas, those who have a great deal of business must, to use a vulgar expression, buckle to it—and then they always find time to get it done.

Good roads are more essential to the farmer than to the city dweller. They enable the farmer to market his produce at less cost in less time. Furthermore, they effect a direct saving in the upkeep of horses, wagons and other vehicles. Every man in the country districts should be a booster for good roads and most of them now are.—Acton Free Press.

Goderich Signal says:—Brussels young people debated the question whether the world is growing better or not, and decided that it is improving. We agree with them. Except for backward weather, and Bolsheviks, and profiteers, and strikes, and the coal shortage, and the high cost of living, and grabbing landlords, and the after-effects of war, and the Irish question, and a few other things, this is a pretty good old world.

A discovery is reported in Pennsylvania, which, if confirmed, will make diamond and gold mines, oil wells and potato pits look cheap and commonplace. A rock is said to have been found, a grain of which dropped in a glass of water produces a beverage that cannot be detected from a popular Scotch liquid. Scores of expert assayers are flocking to the scene and thirsty thousands are waiting their report with bated breath.

Officials of the board of census and statistics for Canada are inclined to believe there are eight and three-quarter million people in the country at the present time. They admit, however, that it is merely a calculation and that the figure may prove to be considerably higher. When the census of the three prairie provinces was taken in 1916 officials looked for an increase of 16 per cent for the five years but it proved to be 26 per cent. Abnormal conditions during the past few years has made it hard to estimate the population.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT INWOOD

Fire of an unknown origin broke out in the garage and electric light plant at Inwood on Friday night last and the structures were completely destroyed. When the fire was first discovered, about 11.30, it had gained great headway and as the building was of frame construction it was quickly consumed by the flames. The light plant was in a room off the garage and it is also totally destroyed. In the garage were three Ford cars, together with other engines and machines which were in for repair and it was impossible to get them out of the building. We understand there was some insurance on the plant and building, but above that Mr. Johnston's loss will be in the neighborhood of $2,500, while to the village in the loss of their lighting plant, about $2,000. The blacksmith shop alongside was also badly scorched, one end especially being very badly burned. Had it not been for the fact that a large number of farmers were in town that night at a meeting of the U.F.O., Inwood might not have been standing today. The wind was in a right direction to wipe out the street, and it required no little effort on the part of hundreds of men to keep it under control.—Free Press.

BLACKHEAD IN TURKEYS.

No Cure for Ailment Caused by Parasite.

Blackhead in turkeys is caused by a parasite and is characterized by great sores in the caeca (blind intestines) and liver. This microscopic parasite causes irritations, destruction of the tissues, and nearly always the death of the affected turkeys.

The characteristic symptoms of the disease are as follows: The loss of appetite and tendency of affected birds to stand apart from the rest of the flock in common. When the intestines are severely affected the birds have diarrhoea and the droppings are liquid and stained orange yellow; this is a characteristic symptom. Diseased birds are frequently found dead under the roosts.

The only sure means of diagnosis, however, is by post-mortem examination of a bird that has recently died. The bird should be cut open to expose the internal organs, and the liver and caeca examined. The presence of large sores in the substance of the liver and the caecal walls is sufficient evidence for a diagnosis. The caecal sores may vary from a single point to a large scab covering nearly all the lining of both caeca. The liver is very much enlarged and the sores on it are two-fifths to three-fifths of an inch in diameter.

At the present time there is no known cure for this disease and the only means by which it can be controlled is by preventive measures. On farms where an outbreak has occurred, all the turkeys which have not come down with the disease should be marketed for meat and not sold for breeding. Nor should eggs from an infected flock be used for hatching. It would be well not to attempt to restock a farm with turkeys for several months; and not until a thorough disinfection of the premises has been made, by exposing the ground to the hot summer sun and by liberal use of freshly slaked lime in the poultry houses, roosting places, and feeding pens.

A fresh start may be made by hatching turkey eggs under hens, or by obtaining fresh breeding stock from a non-infected district.

It is recommended that turkey raising be conducted on dry, sandy, well-drained lands, since blackhead seems to be prevented in large part by dryness of the surroundings.

Selecting Fowl.

By this time it should be fairly well decided what birds are to be used in the breeding pens.

In the main, dependance should be placed on hens, but it is always well to use some of the best pullets, as by so doing a year's time is very often saved.

As none but the best pullets should have been carried over the second season there should be very little culling of the hens required. However there are always a few that have not kept in prime breeding condition, some may have put on too much fat—others may have shown a tendency to colds or others undesirable qualities. These should not be put into the breeding pens.

The hens intended for breeding should be carried through the winter in a normal condition without forcing or stimulation of any kind, so that they come to the breeding season full of vim and vigor. To obtain and retain this condition, green feed should be plentifully supplied. Chopped clover, sprouted oats or mangels are all good.

The pullets used should be early hatched, vigorous and well matured. To these select females should be mated either vigorous cock birds that have already been proven as breeders or strong, vigorous, well-matured cockerels that are not only the sons of high-producing hens but the brothers of pullets that have shown by their performance that they carry the quality for high production.

Do not make the matings too large. A good, vigorous cockerel of the general purpose type on free range may successfully look after 15 or 20 or even more females, but the same bird in confinement might "fall down" lamentably with more than half that number.

Do not expect a cock to attend to the number of females that a cockerel would and if you are looking for early chickens use cockerels at the head of the breeding pens as they are much more reliable early in the season.—George Robertson, Assistant Dominion Poultry Husbandman.

ISLAND ONLY A MIRAGE.

Arctic Explorers Floated Directly Through Location.

Keenan Land, which is charted on maps of the Arctic region, it now appears, is no land at all, but just deep sea. According to the testimony of Storker Storkersen, second in command of Vilhjalmur Stefansson's Arctic expedition, organized by the Canadian Government, this so-called "land" is non-existent, the whalers who thought they had discovered it some fifty years ago having seen an illusive Arctic mirage.

As represented on the chart of the Arctic region, Keenan Land apparently is about fifty square miles in extent, but, while drifting on a huge ice floe and buffeted by variable winds, Storkersen and his comrades floated directly through the space whereon the mythical Keenan Land was supposed to be. "Evidently," said the explorer, "it was only a mirage, for instead of land there we found very deep water. We made soundings of 3,000 metres without finding bottom."

So Keenan Land must be banished from the maps, along with that other mythical place, Crocker Land, which Peary thought he had sighted in the north years ago, but which upon investigation by Donald MacMillan proved also to be merely a mirage, an illusion of the Far North which often baffles explorers and navigators in those frigid seas.

Storkersen and his associates were adrift eight months on their ice floe, which was about fifteen miles long by seven wide. Finally the ocean froze, permitting them to make a dash to the mainland across the virgin ice. During the time they were marooned on the huge raft of ice they made many soundings. "The greatest depths we found," said Storkersen, "were 4,500 metres, or about three miles. Because of the fact that we lost much of our sounding wire, most of our recorded soundings were 3,000 metres and no bottom."

Altogether, Storkersen says, he explored a region of about 45,000 miles while cruising on the giant ice cake, making, all told, for the Canadian government Arctic expedition a record of exploration covering approximately 250,000 square miles. After drifting at the caprice of the shifting winds for six months the explorers found themselves fifty-five miles from their starting point on the Northern Alaska coast, north by east. "The drift of the ice," said Storkersen, "is governed by the direction of the wind, as proven by our adventure on the ice floe."

"Our object was to determine the currents in Beaufort Sea, to take a line of soundings and to try to discover uncharted land, if any existed. I consider that man hapless who conducts an uneventful expedition, because an adventurous trip is often a sign of incompetence. We had no thrills and we made our journey in comparative comfort and without hardship."

Romance In History.

It was in June, 1671, that the French took over the northern portion of the Province of Ontario. Most Canadians are still interested in the exploits of the coureur des bois and in the adventures of Perrot, the most picturesque figure in the ceremony of June, 1671, when the Deputy Governor, "in the name of the High King, Most Powerful, and Most Redoubtable Louis XIV. of name, most Christian King of France and Navarre," took possession of "Ste. Marie du Sault, as also Lakes Huron and Superior, the Island of Manitoulin, and of all the lands, rivers, lakes, and streams contiguous to and adjacent here as well discovered or to be discovered which are bounded on the one side by the sea of the north and on the other side by the sea of the south—in its whole length and breadth."

The Most High, Most Powerful, and Most Redoubtable Louis and his successors held the lands about the lakes for less than a century after their annexation, but among the men who carried the badge of Canada on the fields of France these last five years were hundreds who could have traced their descent directly from the hawk-eyed coureur des bois who stood about Perrot on the day when a great province was added to New France.

Incubators Versus Hens.

With an incubator one can hatch chickens early and in big lots. Instead of waiting for the mother hen to take a notion to set, one can take an incubator, load it with eggs, adjust the heat regulator, fire up the lamp and, figuratively speaking, move up the calendar 60 or 90 days—and keep Mrs. Biddy going full steam ahead producing eggs.

Operation of Disk Ploughs.

A sharp disk plough insures good work in hard soils and rolls better. Self-lift disk ploughs save labor and do better work. For work in the orchard, disk ploughs should have a narrow carriage, and the operating levers should be low so as not to catch the limbs of the trees.

Parting with the best females in the herd is like killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

The Most Artistic Roof

is the one that completely harmonizes with the design and finishing of the house. For this reason there is a steadily increasing demand for Brantford Asphalt Slates for the modern style of homes.

Brantford Asphalt Slates have a surface of crushed slate embedded into our asphalt coating, the base of the roofing being felt saturated with asphalt. They are cut the size of shingles, and their beautiful soft colors of reddish brown and dark green give a roof a most artistic appearance. The colors are the natural shades of the slate as it comes out of the quarries. Brantford Asphalt Slates are, therefore, unfadeable—never require painting.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are accurate in size and pliable, which makes them very easily handled and quickly laid, saving time and labor, and therefore costing less to lay.

Brantford Asphalt Slates make an artistic, durable and economical roof. Booklet describing them mailed on request.

Middle Aged Women

Women should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, shortness of breath, excessive nervousness, irritability, and the blues—which indicate the approach of the inevitable "Change" that comes to all women nearing middle age. We have published volumes of proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest aid women can have during this trying period.

Read About These Two Women:
 Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run-down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I felt better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. Gordon, 222 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Urbana, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to the annoying symptoms I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life."—Mrs. FRANK HANSON, 3436 South Orchard Street, Urbana, Ill.

American Woman Now a Princess

IT is rather tough luck that at a time when blood royal is in a slump as a result of the war an American woman should be the first of her sisterhood to become a real princess. There have been American and even Canadian princesses before, but usually of an Austrian or Hungarian strain, and in those countries a prince may turn out to be a grade lower than a baron. This time there is no question about the rank, and Miss Nonnie May Stewart becomes a member of the royal family of Greece, her husband being Prince Christopher, brother of the deposed Constantine and uncle of the reigning monarch, Alexander. One determined to marry into a royal family might have made a better selection than that of Greece. Of course, the Windsors would be the great catch, but so far as we are aware, and to say it in all kindness, the former Cleveland girl would be more suitable as a mother than as a wife for any available British prince. In fact, this is her third matrimonial experiment; and it may be that it was the second that made the third possible.

The laws of Greece concerning royalty are more democratic than those of most countries. Morganatic marriages are not recognized. The American girl, who was, is no third rate princess. Her rank is that of royalty. She becomes thus a cousin of King George, and of Queen Victoria of Spain, and even a sister-in-law of the former Kaiser, and through her husband's mother a relation of the Romanoffs. Before her marriage, the bride, then Mrs. Leeds, entered the Greek church and was welcomed as Princess Anastasia. But it is as Mrs. Leeds that she will likely be remembered, for she is a woman of strong character and has made much newspaper copy in the past. Before her marriage to William Bateson Leeds, called the "Tin Plate King" of the United States, she had been married to George H. Worthington, of Cleveland. When Mr. Leeds died his widow was left a very rich woman, and her fortune to-day is estimated at $14,000,000. She has seen much of European society, and from time to time her name has been coupled with the name of many a titled fortune hunter, none of them, of course, having the rank of her new husband. To recall them now would be ungenerous.

In 1911 Mrs. Leeds burst into front page newspaper celebrity when from her apartments in a New York hotel she announced that she was about to follow the example of William Waldorf Astor and shake the dust of her native land from her feet. She had one son, William Leeds, and she said that she was about to take up her residence in England so that the boy could be properly educated. "William will grow up rich," she said. "I don't think wealthy young American men are precisely a credit to society. Their idleness makes them dissipated. Young Englishmen are different. They have a lot of healthy amusement and grow up clean, healthy and strong. Then, too, at an English school, no one will toady to an Englishman because he is wealthy. I will take the difference to them, they will respect him for what he is not for what his father earned for him. He will learn that over-drinking is not tolerated in good society, as I fear it sometimes is here." Mrs. Leeds' other reason for going abroad was not more flattering to American pride. She said that conversation in the United States was just one scandal after another. In England people talked of things that could better stand talking about—art, music, literature.

So Mrs. Leeds departed to England and her son William was sent to an English public school with what results it is too early to say. She visited Paris each year and there her gowns and jewels created a sensation. It is none too early to remark that Mrs. Leeds was famous for her beauty, and that, according to the French painter, Helleu, she had 98 points out of the hundred constituting feminine perfection. What two points she was shy on were not mentioned. In 1912 she gave a ball that caused a tremendous sensation. There were 150 guests. The cotillon favors were, for the women, hats by the leading Paris milliners, and for the men specially prepared cameras and gold match boxes. Even Paris gasped, for at no private ball had such costly souvenirs previously been distributed. At the ball itself there was an even greater sensation when Mrs. Leeds entered, her gown covered by a million dollars' worth of emeralds. It seems probable that she is the only woman who ever wore a million dollars' worth of emeralds at one time.

Once before her jewels had brought her into prominence. The occasion was in 190 when a Paris jeweler arrived in New York with a bag of pearls for Mrs. Leeds, invoiced at $220,000. He was about to pay the ten per cent. duty when some official said that Mrs. Leeds had agreed to purchase the pearls for $340,000, and that a duty of $110,000 should therefore be paid. The jeweler paid under protest, but later action to recover, and after several years of litigation, the excess was refunded. In 1910 Mrs. Leeds, then living in the United States, had a quarrel with her stepmother and her stepsister, which resulted in Mrs. Stewart being forcibly ejected by a constable from the Leeds home in Montclair. Mrs. Leeds said that the extravagance of her stepmother had reduced her father to penury. Mrs. Stewart retorted that Mrs. Leeds' father had treated her cruelly. The incident proved that Mrs. Leeds was a woman of strong personality when she had a duty to perform, as was proved later on when she wore a million dollars' worth of emeralds.

Women and Asthma.—Women are numbered among the sufferers from asthma by the countless thousands. In every climate they will be found, helpless in the grip of this relentless disease unless they have availed themselves of the proper remedy. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, despite its assurance of benefit, costs so little that it is within reach of all. It is the national remedy for asthma, far removed from the class of doubtful and experimental preparations. Your dealer can supply it.

A Strange Romance.

Twenty-one years ago Israel Galipeau left Hull to seek his fortune in the wilds of Michigan. A few months after he left his wife learned that he had been dangerously injured and subsequently died. During the last two decades she had been mourning his loss and was supporting herself by conducting a boarding house in Hull. But Galipeau, who had lost his memory for many years, is not dead, and has been re-united with his wife. It appears that he had received a blow on the head that blotted out his past, and it was not until he was confronted with old incidents that his memory returned.

Mrs. Galipeau found her husband under most remarkable conditions. Some time ago she was struck by an automobile owned by Charles Bellemere, of Hull, and she started an action for damages against the autoist. It appears that she sustained severe internal and external injuries and asked for $2,160. As there had been no legal proof of Galipeau's death, the action was contested on those grounds. Mr. J. A. Parent, K.C., who appeared for Mrs. Galipeau, decided to make a search of records in Michigan in the hope of getting proof of the death.

Galipeau, it appears, settled near Gladstone, Michigan, and the assistance of the sheriff at that place was sought. Old musty records failed to bring out the information desired, and then a combing of the lumber industries in the state commenced. The result was that Galipeau was found and eventually came to Hull and was identified by the interested parties.

He was apprised of the fact that his wife's action for damages was held up because his permission had not been given. Galipeau gave assent to the suit and returned to Gladstone to settle up some business. It is understood that he will take his wife to Michigan.

For Asthma and Catarrh.—It is one of the chief recommendations of Dr. Thomson's Electric Oil that it can be used internally with as much success as it can outwardly. Sufferers from asthma and catarrh will find that the Oil when used according to directions will give immediate relief. Many sufferers from these ailments have found relief in the Oil and have sent testimonials.

Reformer subscribers in arrears should protect themselves by paying up promptly. When the price of the paper was raised from $1.00 to $1.50, three months notice was given. 'Twill be but one week this time. We think it fair to be frank now, so that no one will have reason for complaint a little later on.

Suspended Sentence for Jamieson

Sarnia, May 6.--With Col. Fisher of the postoffice department, London, prosecuting, Burton Edwards of Watford, an ex-rural mail carrier, now being held for sentence in connection with forgery charges, was to-day committed for trial by Police Magistrate Jarvis on a charge of alleged theft from his majesty's mails.

Sarnia, May 10.--In the case of Wilfred Jamieson, found guilty of counselling Burton Edwards, ex-rural mail carrier of Watford, in the forgery of names to express money orders totaling $65, sentence was suspended this afternoon by Judge E. Taylor, by consent of crown counsel, and upon his own recognizance of $500.

Burton Edwards, who is awaiting trial on a charge of theft from his majesty's mails, was the chief witness. He told that when the two men were in Petrolia that they had run short of money and Jamieson suggested the cashing of the money orders. They went to the Bank of Nova Scotia and cashed the orders, forging the name of Thomas Brush, of Warwick.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of childhood and the child suffering from it cannot thrive. To keep the children well the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. To do this nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative; are absolutely safe and never fail to relieve constipation and indigestion; colds and simple fever. Concerning them Mrs. Jules Faugereau, Nominating, Que., writes:--"My baby was terribly constipated and suffered day and night, I was advised to give him Baby's Own Tablets and from the first they helped him and now at the age of thirteen months he is a big healthy, happy boy." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EARLY SYMPTOMS OF BLOODLESSNESS

Shown by Pallor of the Face and Lips--How to Obtain New Blood.

Anaemia, or lack of blood is so gradual in its approach that it is often well developed before the patient is sufficiently alarmed to consult a doctor or take proper treatment to restore the blood to a healthy condition.

The earliest symptom of anaemia is loss of color, especially in the lips, gums and membranes lining the eyelids. Then comes shortness of breath on slight exertion, such as going up stairs, palpitation of heart, increased pallor of the face and lips. If this thinning of the blood is not corrected it will proceed rapidly until a complete breakdown in health follows, when there may be disorders of the stomach, headaches, backaches, dizziness and fainting spells. The most effective and prompt way to increase and enrich the blood at a time like this is through the fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have restored to good health thousands of weak, anemic people, among them Miss Mae Johnston, of Port Arthur, Ont., who says:--"Between the ages of sixteen and eighteen I worked in a telephone office, and it was very trying on the nerves and health. I became bloodless, and so pale that friends often said I looked convulsive. One night I had to be taken home from the office, and the doctor was called in who told me I must not go back for a time. Sometimes I would faint, and to walk upstairs would leave me utterly breathless. As I did not appear to be getting any better one of my girl friends, whose mother had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with great benefit, advised me to try these. I took the pills very faithfully for some time, with the result that they restored me to good health, and now when anyone tells me they feel weak or run down I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as I feel so thankful for the help they gave me."

If you have any of the symptoms described by Miss Johnston try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Eat nourishing food, exercise a little in the open air daily and watch the color return to cheeks and lips. You can run no risk in giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial as they can not injure the most delicate system. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
