"AS A MAN SOWS."

BY HELEN WALLACE Author of "THE GREATEST OF THESE," "THEIR HEARTS' DESIRE, ETC.

(Continued) CHAPTER XVI. A COUNTERSTROKE. "Basil what happened yesterday evening after I left the tapestry room?" asked Lady Stormont, anxiously, as Conyers entered her morning room, to which she had summoned him as soon as breakfast was over.

The morning room was bright and pleasant, its well-filled book shelves and well-used writing table, with its orderly piles of letters, reports, papers, and the samples of art work and carvings for schools and classes, bearing witness to the full, busy life which large-minded, large-hearted women lead nowadays. It was on the sunny side of the house, and overlooked the Italian garden, where the formal beds were a gorgeous tapestry of late autumn flowers—the year's last blaze of splendor, which the first nip of frost would quench in blackness.

"What I hope won't happen again," said Conyers hotly, pausing in the deep window recess and staring moodily out. "But what was it?" repeated Lady Stormont more urgently, the old lines which in the last two weeks had sunk out of sight, now appearing in her forehead—her mouth and eyes like invisible handwriting starting to light again.

ASSERTS SOUL IS MATERIAL. It Can Be Weighed. A Boston man says the Soul can be weighed. He knows this because he has tested a lot of cases before and after death. The weight this investigator gives for an average human soul is two ounces. This is the sort of folk science that some men give us. It is more to the point to tell us how to maintain a healthy body—how to get well if sick, and how to be able to do good work and keep everlastingly at it.

Daily Fashion Hint for Times Readers.

THE HIGH ROUND CROWN AGAIN THE FASHION. Crowns are higher again this season than they have been for several years, and the round crown is very much in evidence, especially so in hats with wide brims. It is very often concealed by the abundance of trimming which is set on the front or at the side, and consequently it is not as trying as where the whole crown is visible, high crowns not being universally becoming. This model is a soft white French felt trimmed with velvet ribbon in a castor shade in a huge rosette on the under brim, where this portion of the hat turns up rather sharply, and around the base of the crown in the form of a ruche. A huge bird with white body spreads its brooding wings over the crown and left brim, and the long yellow beak points down over the narrow front brim. This hat is to be worn with a semi-dressy, tailored gown in the same castor shade with trimmings of white broadcloth embroidered in brown and gold threads.

WISE PARENTS. Guard Their Children's Health by Giving Them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The health of the growing boy or girl should be carefully guarded. During the growing time there is a danger of the blood becoming poisoned and the health seriously impaired. The blood should be kept pure and the child will grow strong, healthy and active. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic for the young. They never fail to bring color to the pale cheeks and strength to the growing body. To a reporter of L'Avantur du Nord, Mr. Jos. Provost, of St. Canute, Que., tells how these pills saved his daughter Marie from a life of misery. He is thirteen, was very weak. She was so ill that I feared she was going into consumption. Though I tried remedies after remedies she remained in this weak state for several months and I began to think she never would get better. I read of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had been in a case of anæmia, so got some for her. Soon she began to improve; her appetite returned; she grew strong; color came into her cheeks and today she is as healthy as any young girl could be. I am sure that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE A HELPLESS INVALID. He Returns to Canada With Left Side Paralyzed and Cannot Walk Without Assistance. Montreal, Aug. 16.—Hon. Edward Blake has returned to Canada, not in the fullness of his vigor and activity but in an invalid condition who cannot move without assistance. Attached to a special C. P. R. train which arrived at the Windsor station this afternoon bringing the saloon passengers of the Empress of Britain was the private car Alberta. In it traveled Mr. Blake and his party and a Creelman, C. P. R. solicitor, and his family. After the other passengers had alighted the Alberta was switched on to another track at a side platform, and your correspondent was admitted to the car and was received by Samuel C. Blake, the son of the distinguished statesman.

Eating Carelessly

frequently causes stomach troubles, but careful eating will never right them. When your stomach is out of condition, it needs help that no food can supply. It must be thoroughly cleansed, settled and strengthened. Food never does this.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

are the greatest stomach medicine human skill ever compounded. Don't attempt to cure your stomach by dieting. You will half starve and get little benefit. Give Beecham's Pills a chance and you will again know the pleasures of a sound digestion. Appetite will return and the stomach again work without any discomfort. The skin will clear, the face plump out, while people will remark "How well you're looking." These are facts, not fancies. Prove it yourself. HARRIMAN CHERFUL

A man heavily interested in the Harlan man properties is authority for the statement that nothing of an unfavorable nature, so far as the Union Pacific and Mr. Harriman himself are concerned, will result from any attempt to force the latter to answer certain questions in connection with the investigation of the Harriman lines, made some months ago. The whole story has been told, so far as it applies to the Union Pacific and Mr. Harriman, according to this authority.

THOROUGHLY INFORMED AS TO THAT.

(Chicago Tribune.) "Is anything known concerning the exact location of Babylon?" asked the teacher at the night school. "You bet!" said the shaggy haired pupil. "Babylon is on Spoon River, down in Fulton county. I've fished there hundreds of times. You can't fool me on Babylon."

DO YOUR LOOKS QUITE SATISFY YOU?

Is your color fresh and rosy? Does the glow of health shine out in your cheeks? Do your eyes glisten with health, or are they dull, dark, circled and tired? Also—your bloodless face indicates trouble. Your watery blood mingles with the blood that makes your skin so murky, and they put new life into the stomach, brace up digestion and make you eat sufficient food to get a blood supply ahead. Good blood always means more strength and vigor—that's why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are so successful in building up weak, thin folks. You'll feel better at once, your looks will improve and that half dead, lay-by feeling will depart, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills enliven and fortify every ailing organ in the body. Ask your friends, your neighbors—most anyone can tell you of the enormous good done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, but beware of any substitute.

WHERE DOES THE PAPER GO?

The first question asked by a general advertiser. The Telegraph and Times reach that class of people who subscribe and agree to pay for the reading privilege. These papers go first hand from the publishers by carrier and not through street boys to be left in office or store by purchaser after reading. Common sense teaches that every paper passed into homes direct will be read. The Telegraph and Times are home papers. Do they contain your advertisement?

Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion.

No graft! No deals!

"The Thistle, Shamrock, Rose entwine, The Maple Leaf forever."

IMPORTANT CONVENTION

The leading event of interest in the city next week will be the annual meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade.

The subjects to be discussed are of great interest and the deliberations must prove to be of much value to the commercial and general interests of the province.

It has frequently been pointed out, but may well be emphasized over and over again, that the maritime provinces, having so many common interests, should be joined together to improve their views, and a better knowledge of their advantages and value as a part of the confederation, upon the rest of the Dominion.

A GRACIOUS ACT

No act of their excellencies the governor-general and Lady Grey during their stay in St. John should be more appreciated than their visit to the children's playground, and it is a source of universal regret that there should have been any misunderstanding such as that which deprived the children of the privilege of hearing a few kind words from their lips.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE

The Hon. Edward Blake returns to Canada broken in health and with the consciousness that his influence in the British parliament was hampered by his associations. His temperament was utterly unlike that of the fiery and aggressive members of the Nationalist party, and he most frequently found himself out of sympathy with them.

The introduction of the religious issue in the Belfast strike riots makes the affair more despicable.

GETTING AFTER THE BANKS

Mr. Robert A. Pringle, member for Stormont, informs the Montreal Star that at the next session of parliament he will move for some amendments to the Banking Act.

"The fact is, as our law now stands our banks are in a position to create a stringency in the money market and charge borrowers any rate they may deem fit."

"Now here we have in round figures about $90,000,000, or nearly the total paid up capital of the banks."

"The government is paying to people outside of Canada more for money borrowed than they are paying to the people of Canada who have very large deposits with them."

HUMAN CONSIDERATIONS

"Save the child, for in the child is the hope of the nation."

This is the concluding sentence of the essay by Miss Marshall Saunders, of Halifax, which last year won the prize of three hundred dollars awarded by the American Humane Education Society.

The subject was the best plan for preventing the growth of crime. Long before that Miss Saunders had won a prize from the same society for her story, Beautiful Joe, which has since been translated into Swedish, German and Japanese, and has had a sale of more than half a million copies.

Municipal ownership in Fort William, Fort Arthur and Edmonton is a success. The official statement is set forth in another part of today's Times.

IN AUGUST

When the dim twilight hides the distant hills, And fragrant hay-scents linger on the air; When weary mortals cease from toil and care, And Philomel breaks forth in pensive trills; When the low west its gold of sunset spills O'er sea and land, when, lo! from none knows where, The circling mist comes fitting here and there; While gathering mist the silent valley fills; Then evening throes a spell o'er lovers' eyes, And when faces like the angels' shine; While whispers sweet, shy looks, and gentle sighs Tell of a love whose birth is half-divine; And every sylvan nook and scented lane Becomes, unless Eden once again, —Sam Wood, in "Chambers's Journal."

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT

William O'Brien of Bathurst Had His Arm Torn Off in a Saw Mill

Moncton, N. B., Aug. 16—A shocking accident occurred at Beresford, near Bathurst, this morning, by which William O'Brien of Bathurst, lost an arm but saved his life by his great nerve and strength. O'Brien was working in his saw mill when his right arm was caught by a belt. Quickly the arm was drawn around a pulley and there seemed no possible way of O'Brien saving his life with the deadly machinery drawing him to certain death.

O'Brien, who is a powerful man, resided with all his strength, with the result that he saved his life at the expense of his right arm, which was literally torn from its socket at the shoulder.

The remarkable nerve displayed by O'Brien was wonderful. At Beresford he was able to walk about the train and alighted from the train at Bathurst without assistance, although in greatest agony. O'Brien is about 35 or 40 years of age, married and resides in Bathurst. He is associated with Albert Stewart running a lumber mill at Beresford. At last accounts the patient was doing well.

Much sympathy will be expressed for Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Sheehan on the death of their infant daughter, who passed away at Middleton (N. S.) yesterday. The little one was just seven months old and, being a little ailing, was taken by Mrs. Sheehan Wednesday last to Middleton for change of air. Some improvement was noticeable at first but the child became rapidly worse on Thursday, suffering from acute congestion of the lungs, and died the following morning. Mrs. Sheehan returned to St. John yesterday with the casket.

The gun detachments of No. 2 Company 3rd Regiment C. E., which will leave for Petewawa on Monday evening, will assemble at the Carleton drill shed at 5 p. m. of that day and not as previously ordered. There are a few vacancies on the team and men desiring to go should make application at once.

Any citizens who have tennis rackets, base balls or bats, croquet sets or other games suitable for playgrounds will confer a favor on the playgrounds committee of the Woman's Council, also on the children by sending them to the Victoria grounds.

Two new clerks, Wm. Dowd of Moncton, and G. E. Nugent of St. Martins have gone on duty in the railway mail department of the post office. C. E. O'Reilly of the mail service, who was injured in the collision at Brookfield (N. S.), in February, has recovered sufficiently to do light work in the superintendent's office.

City's Celebration in Earl Grey's Honor Closed in Blaze of Glory at Rockwood Park--Fully 20,000 People in Attendance--Pleasant Visit to Ellinor Home Farm.

The visit of their Excellencies the Governor General and Countess Grey to St. John, was brought to a close last evening and terminated in what may fittingly be called a blaze of glory, with a magnificent fireworks display in Rockwood Park, which was witnessed, it is estimated, by between 20,000 and 30,000 people--the largest crowd ever gathered together in one place in this city.

The visit of Earl Grey to Nauwigewauk in the afternoon was an interesting event in every way. Large numbers from the city and the country villages attended and gave his excellency a hearty welcome. His general manners greatly impressed those with whom he came in contact.

At noon the Lieut. Governor and his party were the guests of His Excellency at luncheon in the Royal Hotel. The Governor General, accompanied by Lieut. Governor Tweedie, Mrs. Tweedie and Mayor and Mrs. Sears and others who were on the Elaine on Thursday.

Probably no incident in the Governor General's visit to New Brunswick gave his excellency and Countess Grey more genuine pleasure than the hour and a half spent yesterday afternoon at the Ellinor Home Farm, established by Mrs. Cloe for immigrant children near the village of Nauwigewauk.

The second set piece, Beaver, lent to the splendor and after a half to three quarters of an hour, a third set piece, a perfect beauty, announced "Good night."

The decorations at the pavilion were very fine. Over the door was a large illuminated sign with the word "Welcome" and on either side were pictures of the excellencies, also illuminated.

An interesting incident in the park was the presentation of fine bouquets from the gardens to Lady Evelyn and Lady Sybil Grey. They were very much delighted.

Before leaving for Rockwood Park his excellency called H. A. Deharty, one of the proprietors of the Royal Hotel, to his apartments and warmly complimented him on the care with which arrangements had been made for the comfort of his party during their visit.

Among those present were: His Lordship Bishop Richardson, Senator Ellis, Mrs. Robert Thomson, Mrs. Percy Thomson, Mrs. Clinch, Mrs. and Mrs. Donville, Mrs. John McAvity, Mrs. Ryan, Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Daniel, Dr. Wetmore, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Schofield, Dr. D. D. Walker, Dr. Kinney, G. Fred Fisher, Mrs. F. W. Humphrey, Mrs. J. M. Scovil, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell, Mrs. D. A. Pugsley, Mrs. J. D. M. Keator, Miss Fairweather, Matthew Lodge (Moncton), Miss Brock, Miss Nan Brock, Miss Barlow, Mrs. A. M. King (Arlington Heights), Mrs. G. E. King (Cambridge, Mass.), Mrs. C. A. Payne, Rev. H. F. E. Whalley, Miss Whalley, Dr. and Mrs. Abbott (Andover, Mass.), Miss Clark, Mrs. Frank Young, Mrs. Calhoun, Miss Ayer, Mrs. and Miss McFarlane (Moncton), Mrs. Stewart (Ottawa), Miss F. Gilbert, the Misses Cartman, Miss Covert (New York), Miss Hayward, the Misses Armstrong, Miss Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hill, Miss Hannah Hill, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Fiveling, Mr. and Mrs. John Wanamaker, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wanamaker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wanamaker, George Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Green, Mrs. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie, J. G. A. Henderson (London, Eng.).

Mrs. J. S. Armstrong and Miss Helen Thompson presided at the tea table. Awaiting him at the home his excellency found the following cablegram from Mrs. Cloe, sent yesterday: "Welcome to the farm. I hope it will be the foundation of a great national work. Signed, Cloe."

The celebration in Rockwood Park last night in honor of Earl Grey was a fitting close to the reception tendered his excellency by this city, and the occasion is one long to be remembered as probably never has such a concourse of people been seen here.

Estimates place the number at from 20,000 to 30,000. The fireworks display was the finest, without doubt, ever attempted here. Looking from the pavilion the scene was a grand one. Surging thousands lined the shores of Lady Lake and were on every point of vantage in the surrounding hills, in fact it seemed to be one huge mass of humanity.

People commenced to gather soon after the supper hour and for some hours Haymarket square cars were completely jammed. It was one steady stream right up to the time of his excellency's arrival about 9:30 o'clock, until the park seemed to be choked with the enormous crowd.

The Grand Band discoursed sweet music during the interval before the governor-general's arrival and a line of finely illuminated boats encircled the lake. The arrangements for the fireworks were excellent and by their aid everybody had a chance to see a large mass of people in the centre of the lake and from this the fireworks were handled, then there were two flights opposite the pavilion for special set pieces.

Queer Animals of the PACIFIC SLOPE

BY CHARLES F. HOLDER

HOODED OWL

The stroller over the mountains, valleys or meads of the Pacific Slope soon notices that the animals he meets differ decidedly from those of the Atlantic Slope and are often characteristic. This is particularly true of the fishes, a number, as the black sea bass, the yellow tail, sheepshead, whitefish and others, being found along the Pacific Coast exclusively. I have walked and ridden over a goodly portion of Southern California on both sides of the range, and have never seen but one or two rattlesnakes, yet they are found here, particularly in the mountains and in some places too common for comfort up in the range, often of large size or not far from where the great ocean waves have formed.

GOPHER SNAKE SWALLOWING RATTLESNAKE

ground squirrel and rabbits. The gopher snake is, at least in my experience, as harmless as a chicken. I have handled large ones and never was attacked by them or struck at; of course there is no venom in the bite. The gopher snake is one of the first to appear in the early spring of California, coming out of its partial hibernation and gliding along in search of game of any kind. In the accompanying illustration its cannibalistic nature is shown. A large specimen nearly six feet in length has deliberately swallowed a garter snake about a third as large. In every vacant lot in Southern California will be found the mischievous gopher that tunnels the ground in every direction, and into the subterranean dens the snake boldly goes, and despite the fact that the gopher has vice-like teeth and is a vicious fighter, succeeds in overpowering it. Among the quaint birds of the country you first observe the roadrunner pacing along the road ahead of your horse and insisting upon its rights to the road until you are almost upon it, then flying heavily into the bush to alight and run the San Joaquin Valley would possibly have been given years ago, as the jack rabbit increases with such rapidity as to become a menace to the people. There are few more clever animals to be found than the lowland wolves. A friend of mine from the slope of a hill or mountain on the edge of the Mojave desert saw a pack of coyotes running down a hillside, and he followed them for several hundred feet and ran down the valley, and where a jack was started they so arranged it that the victim was in the centre of the leaders of the line. When a leader became weary at the next coyote behind him came to the front and he dropped behind; so there was always a comparatively fresh wolf or two continually in the lead, and they soon ran the jack down and wrangled over the spoils. I frequently hear wolves howling at night across the Arroyo Seco, not a stone's throw from Pasadena, a town of twenty-five thousand souls or more; and one poor insignificant coyote will make so much noise that the uninitiated listener might easily conclude that a band of wolves was in the vicinity. In the valleys, as the San Gabriel one, is impressed with the numbers of birds, especially in winter, and in March and April they are so vociferous that every house from the humblest shanty to the palace has an early morning carnival of song. This is particularly true of the hawk, song sparrow, mocking bird and house finch, which are about in great numbers, filling the air with melody, while the wonderful story of bird migration, One cannot walk over the country without noticing the great numbers of lizards which abound everywhere. Perhaps the most common is the blue-breasted lizard which is omnipresent in dead trees, rocks and fences, and when molested often rises quickly upward and settles down displaying the brilliant blue of throwing off its tail, which it does with a patch on its breast. The most interesting feature of these little creatures is its habit of the greatest ease when caught, the tail squirming on the ground, to attract attention, while the body escapes. Anyone who delves in the canons, turning over rocks and stones, will see the blue-tailed lizard, or Western Sisk, a beautiful lizard with a long tail of the deepest and most beautiful blue. So quick is this little creature that it is only caught with the greatest difficulty, and then almost invariably tosses off the tail. Along any sandy road will be found the so-called horned toad, really a lizard, a spiny, yellow and black, flat little fellow that is neither hard nor wild, yet scurries away at a marvelous pace and when trapped tries to shuffle into the sand, covering itself very successfully. When attacked they often shoot or discharge from the eyes a bloody secretion which carries from one to several feet and is, I know, very disagreeable to dogs. The horned lizard is perfectly harmless, as are all the tribe with the possible exception of the heloderma, about which there is much difference of opinion; one side stating that the Gila monster of Arizona is more poisonous than an ordinary snake. This may be true of some, but the writer also knows of others who have been almost killed by the bite of the lizard, and that it kills small animals is well known. Despite the doubt one had best leave this lizard and the rattlesnake to themselves. They both doubtless fill some important niche in the economy of nature. One does not kill all dogs because occasionally dogs bite and kill people, neither should all rattlers and Gila monsters be killed in the open country away from towns. Among the larger animals the mountain lion attracts the most attention by the stroller through the forest. A wild variety is occasionally heard at night and laid to the panther, or mountain lion, or puma, as it is variously called. At rare intervals one takes a coil or a young burro or rids a ranch and once a big lion came down through the town of Pasadena, walked down by the mission of San Gabriel and crossed to the mission hills a few miles beyond and reached the country about Santiago mountains.

ON THE MOUNTAINS of the SEA

BY CHARLES F. HOLDER

INDIAN HEAD FISH

Nearly all the shore-loving animals are mountaineers, living on the slopes of huge mountains, represented by the islands and continents which rise ten or more miles from the greatest depths to their loftiest altitudes in the rare air of the upper atmosphere. Some forms live at the base of these great mountains, in regions of aqueous water, where the temperature is just above freezing; others live in moderate climates; and by far the greater number live at the summit, at the water's edge, where the temperature is just below freezing.

PARROT FISH

Here is a wealth of submarine verdure thrives, transforming the bottom of the ocean into a strange and beautiful garden, a region of delights, down into which the dweller on land may glance into the "deep unathomed caves" that oceans bear, and obtain a more or less accurate idea of the ways and habits of various animals that make up oceanic communities.

GLANT HEAD FISH

Nearly the entire Pacific coast is fringed by a band of coral or olive in hue and tint, that rises from fairly deep water and sends its enormous leaves out in every direction the tidal currents indicate. At very low tide these splendid fronds lie on the surface, are caught by the wind and lifted above it, flashing brilliant tints of amber and old gold against the blue of the ocean that appears here and there like the tessellated pavement of some fine mosaic.

CORALS AND SEA ANEMONES

Each one has a different color, and gleams and flashes like a gem of the purest water; not in phosphorescent light, but in direct, visible at their best when the sun is overhead and sends down shafts of light that illumine the nooks and corners of the mountain sides of the sea. Here is the rattle of the fishes, a highway along which white sea bass float, a short time ago I looked down through the window of a glass bottom boat into the kelp beds and saw scores of these mighty game fishes, all over four feet and weighing at least fifty pounds each. Their bodies were blue, and as they moved slowly among the long fluted leaves the sight was one long to be remembered.

WALKING FISH

Near by but rarely entering the forest is the yellowtail or amber fish, garbed in silver, its back green, its fins yellow, and a streak of yellow running down its sides from head to tail. This is the game fish of the people; sometimes running in schools, and always to be found along the kelp beds with the barracuda and flying fish. If the surface lovers on the slopes of the mountains of the sea are interesting, what shall we say to the herds of bottom dwellers which creep in from the deep ocean and live and hide at various altitudes? The bottom is often a mass of kelp and covered inshore with countless varieties of weed, and in drifting along one is constantly regaled with new forms, startling colors ranging from the vivid translucent green of groves of Ulva to the iridescent eyes peering about—the very spirit of aggressiveness. In the crevices are starfishes of many shapes and tints. One is a foot across, red and white splashed and dotted with big tubercles, a dazzling and conspicuous object. Here an octopus is pulling its ungainly form in and out, emitting a black cloud of smoke when startled, or suddenly disappearing before your eyes by its marvelous, indeed uncanny method of changing color or adapting its tint to that of its immediate surroundings. One is seen sitting partly upon its eggs, which hang from the side of a moss-covered rock, objects of the greatest solicitude.

If we are very fortunate in this journey of the eyes, we may see its cousin, the paper nautilus, moving along, its delicate shell or egg capsule over it. Now it will leave it for a moment and crawl away into some crevice, return and swim off by the forceful rush of water from its siphon. On the sides of the rock is the huge key-hole limpet, four inches in length, a mound of velvety black with tints of yellow. Near by is the splendid Haliotis, the ear-shell or abalone, whose rich iridescent shells flicker and gleam among the weed. Every nook and corner of this mountain slope is occupied by shells, shells or animals of some kind; some at the roots of the pseudo forests; some in the branches; others swimming above them, or like the Pyrosoma, poised in the leafy halls and coverts; others again in the open swimming fearlessly along the highway of the fishes.

Here the sea lions bark and roll and chase the radiant rock bass into the kelp, or lie at the surface, passing the time in games; and in secluded spots, perchance the sea otter may be seen riding the great swells as they come seething in on the windward shores, lifting the great masses of weed, tossing them hither and yon.

Their excellencies had on Wednesday expressed a desire to see Miss Mabel Peters, chief of the playgrounds committee, and yesterday morning she called at the Royal and was most cordially received. Earl and Countess Grey showing the deepest interest in the playgrounds. They asked many questions and expressed great regret that the Centennial and Winter street grounds had been closed before their arrival in St. John.

On being told of the Victoria grounds Earl Grey stated his desire to visit them on his return from Nauwigewauk, and thought Miss Peters so understood him. The party therefore went to the grounds expecting to meet Miss Peters again and see the children at their play. Unhappily Miss Peters did not so understand him, and had returned by train to Westfield. When the party arrived, therefore, the children had left the grounds, and only Miss Robertson, one of the teachers, was present. It was a great disappointment all round, for nothing would have been more delightful to teachers and children than to have had the honor and privilege of seeing the distinguished visitors, who had hurried from the depot to the grounds to express their personal sympathy with supervised playgrounds for children.

POLITICAL TALK FROM VARIOUS SOURCES

a portfolio. It is believed to be settled that either Mr. Campbell of Centre York nor Mr. Sutherland of North Essex will receive a portfolio. Many federal Liberals favor the appointment of Mr. Graham in the conviction that he will strengthen the party at Ottawa, and that inasmuch as his chances are hopeless at the next provincial election, it is of far greater importance to hold power at Ottawa and to improve the position of the federal Liberals in Ontario. If the prime minister should decide against Mr. Graham or Mr. Graham should refuse to enter the government, Mr. Pardee of West Lambton will be chosen. Mr. Hyman will not re-enter the government, and it is not at all likely that he will seek re-election in London. If a department of labor should be created, Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King will be the minister in charge. In any event he will contest a constituency at the next general election, and if he does well on the stump, and in parliament he will find his way to a portfolio easy and rapid.

(Toronto World)

Hon. R. F. Sutherland, speaker of the house of commons, when seen by a World reporter at the King Edward last night smiled at the prognosis published in the News respecting the reorganization of his cabinet. He declined to commit himself and praised Mr. Pardee and Mr. Campbell. But—

SOME LIBERAL RUMORS

A Halifax letter to the Montreal Herald (Liberal) says there is a dispute between Messrs. Bell and Tanner in Picton county, and the Sir Hubert Lupton may run there. This correspondent further says—

H. Cahon, solicitor for the Mexican Power Company, it is said, has offered to "take" a constituency. He was defeated by Hance Logan in Cumberland. W. B. Ross, who was a Liberal until shortly before the last Dominion election, is spoken of as a possible candidate for Annapolis Conservatives, while Geo. E. Corbett, who recently acquired considerable wealth through an iron mine transaction, is said to want to run in that constituency.

"Dr. Weldon will again be asked to oppose Mr. Fielding in Queens-Shelburne and Mr. B. L. Bonden's friends say he will stand for a Nova Scotia riding, possibly Halifax. The intimation is that he will run for both Carleton and Halifax. His running mate in Halifax will likely be Joseph Kenny, barrister, son of Thomas E. Kenny."

ACADIANS WANT CANDIDATE.

Chatham, N. B., Aug. 16—About fifty persons representing the French centres of the county were present at a meeting held last night in Masonic hall to celebrate the Acadian day and to take steps towards choosing a representative candidate at the next local election. Reuben Babinac presided.

Romain Savoy, of River DeCaches, was the first speaker, taking for his subject the necessity of having a French member in the local legislature.

D. T. Robichaud, editor of La Justice, Newcastle, reviewed the history of the Acadians, his object being to give a stronger idea of the progress his people had achieved. Referring to the loyalty of the French, he said that it was their duty as British subjects and Christians to treat their English brethren respectfully, but the Acadians should never consider themselves an inferior race. Let us consider ourselves, he said, as intelligent and as true British subjects as the English who surround us and they will learn to know us better and appreciate us.

Referring to a candidate of their nationality, he urged that steps be taken to nominate a representative at once. He felt sure that the majority appreciate the tolerance of Acadians in counties where they are the dominant party.

Other speakers were J. Ken Breaux, Peter Archer, F. C. Maillet, J. F. Bourque, J. Boudreau and others.

A committee was appointed to meet on Sept. 2 to nominate a French candidate. After the meeting a very enjoyable celebration was held at Babinac Hotel. Speeches were delivered on the Acadians' national day and supper was served at midnight.
