Secret Evidence Re Loss of Lusitania is Given to Public

Captain Turner Admitted Violating Admiralty Instructions

THOUGHT HE WAS DOING RIGHT

Drove Slower Than Ordered, Did Not Zig-Zag at Full Speed and Went Nearer Headlands Than He Was Told

London, Nov. 4.—A parliamentary paper, made public today, containing secret evidence in the inquiry into the sinking of the Cunard liner Lusitania shows that Captain W. T. Turner, of the Lusitania, admitted that he disobeyed the instructions of the admiralty in steering only at the rate of eighteen knots an hour.

The captain testified, however, that had he gone faster the Lusitania would have reached the bar at Liverpool before the vessel could cross it, owing to tidal conditions.

Captain Turner also testified that he had not steered a zig-zag course at full speed, as the admiralty had ordered, because he thought this order applied only when a submarine had been sighted.

It was contended by Captain Turner that, although he had been warned by the admiralty to avoid the headlands, he was justified in coming within ten miles of Old Head of Kinsale, near where the Lusitania was torpedoed, in order to fix his position. If he had remained longer out of sight of land, he declared, the weather might have become foggy and he would have been worse off.

Captain Turner said he thought the course he steered was far enough from land, if he was not exactly in mid-channel. He was trying his best, he said, to follow the admiralty's instructions, but his ship was to find land. Had he run into a fog without doing this, he asserted, he might have run ashore.

A despatch from London on July 17, 1915, said the court of inquiry into the sinking of the Lusitania found that the liner had been lost as the result of an act of a German submarine, which not only intended to destroy the ship, but planned to blot out the lives of its passengers. The decision was that Captain Turner and the Cunard line from all blame and commended the discipline of the crew.

The only secret evidence known to have been taken by the board of inquiry was on the first day of its session, when the proceedings were interrupted by a telegram to the court to inquire regarding certain instructions sent by wireless by the admiralty to Captain Turner. The parliamentary paper made public in London probably has reference to this secret evidence.

The evidence shows that the admiralty instructed Captain Turner to keep in mid-channel and avoid the headlands, because submarines appeared to be operating chiefly off the prominent headlands. Captain Turner said he thought ten miles was giving the headlands a sufficiently wide berth. He admitted that he kept a long distance off Fastnet in order to avoid submarines. Later Captain Turner, pressed under cross-examination, said he was steering a course that would have taken him close to the Conningbeg Lightship, and was not in mid-channel, because he understood there were submarines in mid-channel.

Asked why he had not said this before, the captain replied: "I forgot it." Captain Turner's testimony was given June 15 and June 18, 1915.

THE SUGAR TRADE

The Halifax Echo says:—The Norwegian steamers Vika and Grove have been chartered to carry sugar from St. John, N. B., to Copenhagen. The steamer Lake Elmer has also received a similar charter.

A steamer finished loading at the Atlantic Refineries wharf yesterday and another took her place. The third berth there when the end of the week. The three will carry, it is said, 180,000 bags of sugar.

It is also said that refined sugar has lately been exported from St. John to Cuba.

(Special to Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Considerable agitation has been created over the reported intention of Mr. Williams, United States Federal administrator, to commandeer some 15,000,000 pounds of raw sugar in ships at New York, owned by the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery of Montreal, alleging that it was being offered at four and a half cents a pound above the legal price.

The St. Lawrence people say that there has been some misunderstanding, as all the sugar is destined for the Canadian market. They were in communication with the Canadian trade commission here yesterday and say that they had offered a small quantity of raw sugar in New York, but did so with the consent of the United States Sugar Equalization Board, to which the transaction had been submitted. The sugar was all destined for Canada but had been held up at New York.

The trade commission point out that neither Canada nor the United States is now at war and there would be no justification for the action attributed to the food administrator. The sugar is badly needed here and the trade commission has wired the food administrator that Canada expects to be protected against any delay in the forwarding of it.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

The condition of Joseph McConnell and Harry Howard was reported at the General Public Hospital this afternoon to be about the same, still very serious.

Solve Problems Of World By Work

Clemenceau's Speech at Strasbourg Marks Opening of Elections Campaign and His Own Farewell

Strasbourg, Alsace, Nov. 5.—The solution of the many problems of the world now facing may be summarized in the single word "work," Premier Clemenceau declared in his keynote speech for the government party in the parliamentary elections campaign, delivered here yesterday.

The speech also was the farewell message of the aged prime minister on the eve of the retirement from political life which he contemplates.

His address, he declared, was not a message meant for France alone, but was an appeal to the entire world to renew its labors as they had been performed before the war and produce for the world's needs.

Clemenceau briefly reviewed the treaty of Versailles, and said that although France had been apparently parsimoniously treated as to reparations, he hoped confidently that the Allies had not abandoned France. He said that England and America had not bargained for their blood and would not grudge financial help to France.

CANNOT GET AIRSHIP HERE IN LOAN CAMPAIGN

Lorne Ward New Leads City With Landsdowne and Kings in Contest For Second Place

Subscriptions for the Victory Loan up to Monday night show that Lorne Ward is leading the city in the number of bonds sold, with Landsdowne and Kings in close contest for second place. Despite the weather of today more enthusiasm was noted the last few days and it is expected that this will be a record for the campaign.

An effort to secure an aeroplane to aid in advertising the campaign has been unsuccessful. The central committee were in correspondence with the DeVere school at Truro, but no plane was available for this city. It had been planned to have a big mass meeting in the city with a plane soaring overhead distributing leaflets and campaign literature, as well as prize envelopes containing an initial subscription on bonds. This plan will now have to be abandoned.

The members of the selling staffs and committees will be present this evening at 6:15 at a dinner in Bond's, at which plans for the final stage of the campaign will be discussed.

Up to Monday night the results by wards with the results for the corresponding period last year were:

Ward	1918	1919
Guys	$ 38,800	$23,100
Brooks	34,050	22,250
Sydney	49,000	20,900

Queens	239,600	21,100
Kings	133,600	61,100
Wellington	72,100	39,550
Prince	87,000	39,800
Lorne	82,900	25,600

Landsdowne	147,350	60,900
Beaconsfield	33,800	18,100
County	59,700	18,650

Through the province returns show many sales. Buctouche, Kent, N. B., yesterday doubled its objective and received the Prince of Wales' flag with four crests.

The province total is $3,278,500; city total last night, $1,245,950.

HEAR THEIR RATES ARE GOING UP

G. T. R. Employees in Toronto Perturbed Over Notice

Toronto, Nov. 5.—The employees of the G. T. R. in this city, especially those who are members of the superannuation and provident fund association, are perturbed over a notice that their rates will be increased. Each member has received a circular advising him that from January 1, 1920, the method of computing the retiring allowance will be changed, and that the contributions to the fund will be increased from 1 1/2 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent. They cannot understand this and are asking the officials in Montreal.

General Strike at Huera. Huera, Spain, Nov. 4.—A general strike has been declared here. Rioting has occurred at the mines.

EIGHT HOUR DAY FIGHT IS BEGUN AT WASHINGTON

Likely a Long Drawn Out Controversy on Question

Submitting Proposal

Barnes, British Government Delegate, Supported by Italian Government Representative, Draper, For Canadian Workers, Starts Revolt

Washington, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—The fight on the eight-hour day has begun. The first rounds indicate that some time will probably be required to settle the international labor conference proposals. It came before the conference in submission of the proposed amendments to the DeVere week. Mr. Barnes, British government delegate and member of the British war cabinet, pleaded for the convention and was supported by Mayor Desjardins, government delegate from Italy.

"We cannot do less at the conference," Mr. Barnes argued, "than adopt a coalition for a shorter working day. To do less than this would be to break faith with labor." He would have certain amendments to the convention submitted later but the British government had every desire to fulfill all its obligations. Greater production was needed but it would not be obtained by denunciations. The only way to get it was "better organization of industry, by humanizing the conditions of the convention and that its application to the tropical and other countries referred to in Article 405 of the peace treaty be referred in the special committee which shall report to the conference."

Labor Revolt.

Then came a labor revolt. Mr. Draper, Canadian workers' delegate, led with a query as to how far acceptance of the motion would bind delegates to the 48-hour week. Could amendments, for or against, be subsequently submitted.

The chairman thought that acceptance of the motion did not tie the delegates down to a specific hour, but that it was better to have a forty-eight hour week or an eight hour day, that it opens the door for allowing certain industries to work nine, ten, eleven or twelve hours a day, it makes no difference so long as the forty-eight hours a week has been worked. I don't think that is a good proposition and of course I would like to hear some further explanation before I cast my vote."

"If," said Mr. Jombaux, French workers' delegate, "adoption of the resolution proposed by Mr. Barnes binds us down to the forty-eight hour week, the majority of the workers' delegates cannot accept it. He agreed that it was better to adjourn to enable the proposals to be studied."

E. R. Parsons, Canadian employers' delegate thought that the second part of the Barnes motion should be considered first. He would in the first instance refer to a special committee the question of the application of the eight-hour day to the tropical and other countries to which special reference was made in the peace treaty. Upon receipt of the committee's report, the conference could then proceed to discuss the entire question of the eight hour day.

A bewildering series of overlapping motions led to tangles. M. Guerin, French employers' delegate, expressed himself as perfectly willing to move that the whole Barnes motion should be referred to a special committee. Eventually the debate was adjourned till tomorrow afternoon, with the Barnes motion still before the conference. In the meantime delegates of the three groups will confer on their attitude.

Two charges were laid on the morning of the special meeting of the executive committee of the Navy League held on September 18 in London. This meeting was called to discuss a resolution standing in the name of P. J. Hanlon, reading:

"That in the view of the Navy League such a step, having regard to the incalculable services of the British fleet to humanity and the untarnished record of the British navy, would be a serious blow to the prestige of the British Empire among the nations of the world."

"And that, therefore, the parliament and people of the British Empire shall, if necessary, be appealed to by the Navy League to maintain in the future the full authority of the Admiralty as a distinct department in imperial defence and in the maintenance of British international unity and integrity."

After full discussion, the resolution, which was seconded by Admiral Sir Hon. Sir E. B. Prendergast, G. C. B., C. C. M. The empire depends on the sea and as years ago the Navy League insisted on a strong fleet, so now they will continue their efforts to see that the sea power of Great Britain shall not be allowed to go down.

HER THROAT CUT AND RAZOR BY HER SIDE

Believed Montreal Woman Suicide Because Her Son Got Into Delinquents' Court

Montreal, Nov. 5.—The unidentified body of a woman was found yesterday afternoon in a vacant lot at the corner of Papineau avenue and St. Joseph Boulevard, with her throat slashed and a handkerchief stuffed into her mouth. A razor was by her side. The body was found in a paper with the telephone number of the juvenile delinquents' court on it.

An official of the court, called to the morgue, said that he remembered seeing the woman, who had accompanied her son, arrested on a charge and brought before the court, but could not remember the boy's name.

It is thought that depression at the arrest of her son may have led to her suicide.

MILITARY MATTERS

It was announced at local military headquarters this morning that Lieutenant Colonel H. C. Sparling, D.S.O., reported for duty in this district as general staff officer yesterday. Lieutenant Colonel Sparling was sent by militia headquarters in Ottawa, from an outside district to fill this position.

Lieut. Colonel A. G. Lawson of Halifax, reported for duty on Monday in this district as commanding Royal Canadian Engineers, in place of Captain E. A. Bennett, who has gone to Halifax on duty.

It was also announced in military circles this morning that the clearing services will establish an office in this port when navigation opens at this port.

As Hiram Sees It

"I see," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to the Times reporter, "some people is agin pullin' down the old court house an' puttin' up the right sort of a buildin'. That reminds me of Silie Jones, when we wanted a new school house in the Settlement. He was agin it. He said it 'ud be disrespectful to the people that built the old school house, an' all that went to school there for two or three generations. He wanted to add a piece on an' preserve the style. He was great on style 'n' cost 'em. Well, sir, we didn't pay no attention to Silie. We said we wanted a school house—a barn. So we tore the old one down an' built a new one—right up to date. We've been proud of it ever since. Even Silie brings about it—'an' about what an ornate place it is—'an' he got so down-trodden. But if he'd had his way we'd still be fifty years behind the times. Some folks is built that way. If I had an addin' machine I'd try some day to find out how many 'em there is in St. John. I know the court house wouldn't hold 'em."

"I gather," said the reporter, "that you have had your ear to the ground lately."

"Yes, sir," said Hiram—"whenever I hear so few funerals when so many mourners is goin' about the streets. I slapped a feller on the back yesterday an' he said 'you feller is gettin' down'—I orto be arrested for suggesting such a thing in St. John. A man come down from Moncton the other day as full of funerals as I ever see. I seen him talked to stay longer but after he'd been in St. John a while he couldn't stand it. He ast me when was the matter with St. John. When I told him the people missed the old court house he said he thought it must be somethin' out o' the ordinary that made 'em so sad. Myself, I had built the C. P. R. the way St. John wants to get its new streets an' school houses an' city hall—the bulfones an' 'ud still be roamin' 'round from old Port Garry to the Rocky Mountains. They would—by Hen!"

Massachusetts Victory Election Feature; Ohio Gives Wets Drubbing

Head Coolidge For The White House

Triumph in Massachusetts Starts Boom For Governor as U. S. President

(Special to Times.)

Boston, Mass., Nov. 5.—Coolidge for president—that is all the talk now among Republicans in the state since his triumph over Long yesterday by the greatest majority in twenty-three years, 124,274.

The Republican governor has made himself a national figure and all the leaders of both sides in interviews today concede that the attitude of the governor towards the police deserters split victory on his side.

The Boston Post, the chief democratic organ of New England, advocated the return of Coolidge and today declared this election is a clear cut victory for law and order and a rebuke to the vicious appeals of Long. He lost his home town, Framingham, also Weymouth, where he started business, and Belchertown, where he resided for a time.

In his remarkable showing Coolidge redeemed Cambridge for the Republicans, made Chelsea Republican for the first time since 1897 and brought over Holyoke, a rockribbed democratic city. What is more his influence elected many Republican candidates in doubtful fields and he swept the rest of the ticket with him.

These are some of the reasons why they are hailing Coolidge as a presidential timber. In the last ten years Massachusetts has been made a debatable state but before that the Republican leaders never looked to it for a presidential vote. Now it is different.

LOCAL NEWS

BAERHAM FIGHTS

It was suggested that Sergeant-Detective John T. Power, with 250 lbs. of weight, apparently voted by the majority to support the action of the legislature in ratifying the federal prohibition amendment, to kill a proposal for the manufacture and sale of beer containing as high as 2.75 per cent alcohol, and to put into effect the Crabb prohibition enforcement bill passed by the legislature last spring. All the prohibition proposals were initiated by the wets.

THE BOY PROBLEM.

Six boys were before the police magistrate in Fredericton on Monday. Three were sent to the Industrial Home for five years, and two others, only ten years old, were sent to the Children's Home until it is decided what to do with them. The sixth was remanded for further hearing.

BURIED TODAY.

The funeral of Harvey Alton Thompson took place this afternoon from the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thompson, Roversay, to St. Paul's church there. Service was conducted by Rev. Canon A. W. Daniel and interment took place in Fernhill.

A HAPPY EVENING

A happy time was enjoyed last evening at the home of Miss Gertrude Steele, Canon street, when she entertained friends at an old-time hall-of-war party. Much pleasure was provided in music and old-time games. George Harrison carried off the men's prize, while that for the ladies went to Miss Annie Flynn. The gathering broke up with the singing of the national anthem and O! Canada.

WEST SIDE FIRE

The west side fire department was called out about eleven o'clock this morning to deal with a fire in the lock-up in the city hall building. The blaze was extinguished before any serious damage was done. The fire started in a room in the stove was very low. No one was in the room at the time, and the alarm was given by a man who was passing and saw smoke issuing from the window.

MUST NOT FLY THE WHITE ENSIGN

The Lords of The Admiralty, London, have issued an order under date of October 2, that the naval flag or white ensign must not be used either ashore or afloat by any private person, but must be flown only on His Majesty's ships, naval establishments or naval barracks. This means, therefore, that any one using this flag is liable to a penalty, as it is and has always been a distinctive naval flag. The Union Jack can, of course, be flown by any one on shore.

WILLIAMSON-BEARLE

A very pretty wedding of much interest took place this morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Earle, 401 Union street, when their daughter, Abbey Mae, was united in marriage to George Gamble Williamson, son of Mrs. David Hargrove, West St. John, by the Rev. E. G. Dakin.

The bride, who was becomingly attired in a dress of blue georgette and carried a bridal bouquet of American beauty roses, was given away by her father, while Miss Leota Griffin, cousin of the bride, acted as flower girl. The bride and groom stood beneath a beautiful arch of foliage and roses. The bride's traveling suit was of taupe with hat and furs to match. They were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts including cut glass and silver. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson left on an extended tour through New Brunswick and Nova Scotia after which they will reside at 38 Victoria street.

Plurality of Coolidge is Very Near to 125,000

OHIO VOTE IS FOR "DRY"

Massachusetts Governor Carries Ticket With Him—Republican Gain Several Seats in New York Assembly—A Defeat for Tammany

The more complete returns today on the off year election yesterday in several states did not change the outcome in any important respect. The smashing victory of Calvin Coolidge, Republican, in Massachusetts elected as governor by the largest vote ever polled by a governor in that state, shared honors with an almost equally decisive "dry" victory in Ohio as the most striking result of the voting.

As a possible indication of the drift of popular sentiment, preparatory to the national elections next year, yesterday's results were being closely scrutinized by party leaders. Kentucky was swept into the Republican fold in the governorship fight, but today's returns made it certain that New Jersey had reverted to the Democratic column. Maryland, the only other state in which there was a serious contest for the governorship, was still in doubt, with the Democratic candidate leading.

Ohio Dry.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Ohio yesterday voted to remain in the "dry" column by a majority which may reach three times the size of that which it voted dry a year ago, according to incomplete returns early today. Partial returns from half the counties indicated a dry majority of about 75,000 on all four prohibition proposals. In addition to defeating the proposed repeal of statewide prohibition, Ohio yesterday apparently voted by the majority to support the action of the legislature in ratifying the federal prohibition amendment, to kill a proposal for the manufacture and sale of beer containing as high as 2.75 per cent alcohol, and to put into effect the Crabb prohibition enforcement bill passed by the legislature last spring. All the prohibition proposals were initiated by the wets.

Edwards in New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 5.—Edward L. Edwards, Democrat, was elected yesterday for New Jersey, was elected yesterday by a plurality of approximately 12,000. He is pledged to oppose ratification of the prohibition amendment and to fight "by all lawful means" enforcement of anti-liquor laws. He has promised his support to women's suffrage against him for that party elected fifteen of the twenty-one senators and thirty-three of the sixty assemblymen. The only Republican gain in the upper house was the election of a candidate to fill a seat vacated by the resignation of John P. Doherty, but they won three new places in the assembly.

THE COURT HOUSE.

Commissioner Fisher said this morning that the resolution which was passed at last night's meeting in city hall was not as published this morning, but read as follows: "That the court house walls be preserved and that we suggest the employment of an architect to report on the reconstruction of the court house to be obtained on that site and the available land for all of the courts sitting in St. John, the law library and, if possible, a hall for public gatherings; (2), on using the building for a hall for public gatherings and same court accommodation as heretofore."

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

ALL NEW AND GOOD AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Five Bright Vaudeville Acts And "Thunder Mountain" Serial Entertain Well

The change of programme in the Opera House last evening attracted the usual large number of patrons. The bill was one of the most popular presented for some time and all went away with a smile, indicating that they had enjoyed the performance.

The five acts were all good and were well received. This was especially true to the Old Homestead Quartette, who made a decided hit.

The motion picture serial "Perils of Thunder Mountain" is becoming more popular and the new episode is replete with thrilling scenes. Following the picture Barrette appeared in an aerial act, which is above the ordinary.

Gwen and Clark followed with a comedy skit which proved quite popular. The comic songs of the male member evoked much merriment and the applause of the two brought forth hearty applause and laughter.

The Old Homestead male quartette followed with an assortment of old time and modern songs, which won well merited applause. All four are good singers and their harmony was good.

Gertrude Dudley & Company then appeared in a musical act. The male member is an exceptionally good singer and a clever pianist and his partner has a voice far above the ordinary.

Ball Brothers, in an acrobatic comedy act, had the audience laughing from the time they appeared on the stage until the curtain was run down. It is an act which must be seen to be enjoyed, as it consists of acrobatic antics which are quite unusual.

The orchestra was not present last evening. Music for the motion picture was from an Edison Diamond disk and the pianist accompanied the various vaudeville acts.

GERALDINE FARRAR AT THE IMPERIAL

Eminent Star in Another of Her Gripping Pictures

"Shadows," Geraldine Farrar's new Goldwyn Picture, now on at the Imperial, abounds in moments of dramatic intensity. This almost goes without saying for it is well known that the international celebrity demands that her roles be exacting and pitched in a high key.

Goldwyn's executives have seen to it that all their star's requirements are satisfied. In "Shadows," the adored wife of a man of wealth. She is in the bright mid-day of her popularity and charm when the first shadow appears on her horizon.

A stranger comes to her husband with the hope of engaging him in a financial coup and this man imagines he sees in Muriel a vague memory of some kind. He is not wrong and when he obtains information which identifies her one of the strongest moments in the play occurs.

It is thought about by a telephone call. Just two words serve to electrify Muriel. Incidentally, the inset affords Geraldine Farrar a chance to illuminate a gripping moment.

"Hello—GORA!" That is all the voice says, but it is enough to set Muriel's mind working and to bring the past before her in all its bitter truth.

What that past is and how innocent of blame is the young martyr comes out in the ensuing scenes. The plot may be said to hinge upon those two words whispered over the wire. Imperial Theatre tonight!

At a meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses last evening at the residence of Mrs. George Smith, Hon. J. G. Forbes, the president, was in the chair. Mrs. J. C. Hamington, chief superintendent of the order in Canada, reported on the inspection in this city.

We thought that nobody could make Mince Meat like mother—then. But mother no longer has to make her own Mince Meat. She uses BOWES. She knows it is made with the same painstaking care and cleanliness, the same choice ingredients, as she used to use. And it pays her in time, labor and money saved to buy BOWES Mince Meat.

CROWDED CHURCH HEARD CARDINAL

Belgian Prelate Told to Congregate at Notre Dame Anecdotes of War

Praised Our Soldiers—Blessing of War, Said Cardinal, Was That it Had Drawn People Near God.

(Montreal Gazette.) The great popular reception to His Eminence Cardinal Mercier at Notre Dame church last night was in striking contrast with all the enthusiastic demonstrations that have marked the week.

Not any less cordial and respectful, but absolutely noiseless, void of cheers and applause, it was a tribute of sympathy to the great man personifying a country in deep mourning, and that tribute was paid to his dead countrymen and his still bleeding country.

The only salute was a volley of the chimes of Notre Dame and the grave voice of the grand organ. The large nave and the galleries of the big church were nearly filled to capacity.

On his arrival at the seminary, his eminence was received by Rev. Father Labelle, superior of St. Sulpice, and Rev. Father Perrin, parish priest of Notre Dame, after which the cardinal, escorted by the clergy, walked to the sanctuary of the church.

Mgr. Gauthier presented an address in the name of the archdiocese of Montreal, stating that, to his great regret, His Grace Mgr. Bruchesi, owing to sickness, could not speak for his flock on this occasion.

Mgr. Gauthier recalled the days when he was a student at the University of Louvain, of which Mgr. Mercier was the then rector. He also told of the admiration of the people of Montreal for the noble conduct of Belgium during the great war, and especially the conduct of its prime minister, Cardinal Mercier.

For his reply, his eminence ascended to the pulpit. "Never in my life," said he, "have I felt so deeply moved, as never have I seen such a large audience—so sympathetic a crowd. I have but one regret and it is that you remembered me, detained by sickness, cannot be with you tonight. I had the pleasure of seeing him this afternoon and I promised to tell you his regard for not being at your head on this occasion. He told me of the pleasure he had felt at reading the appeals of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales for union and harmony between races.

"I spent a very happy day, during which I came in contact with your leading classes, and they impressed me so favorably that I was anxious to meet you tonight and tell you a few of our experiences during the great war."

Save His Duty. He then said that God had conferred a favor on himself and his people by compelling them to draw closer to divinity. Belgium was ravaged, pillaged, crushed and burnt down and the people had suffered to such an extent that there were signs that the younger generation of the day would be victims of tuberculosis. But, he continued, God had done them the favor of understanding from the beginning of the German occupation that right was on the Belgian side. "I saw clearly," said he, "where my duty lay. Natural law as well as international treaties ordered us to defend our neutrality, and as we are before all a people anxious for freedom, we did not hesitate. It was not only King Albert or his parliament who told the Germans that they would not pass, it was the whole Belgian people, and I helped my people to understand what was their duty, whatever the consequences might be. We had the right to count on divine help and we had it. The hour finally came when victory was ours. You have taken a large share in our sorrows and you have also your share of the glory. I must congratulate you on the valiance of your soldiers and thank you for your generosity towards my distressed country."

One blessing of the war, he said, was that his people were drawn nearer to God, and he told many anecdotes of how prolonged suffering had transformed ordinary people into saints. We said his eminence had taught the people how to get rid of superfluous things and all the sacrifices consented made every one's soul freer and nearer to God. He gave many examples of sacrifice and abnegation.

The cardinal concluded by saying that

Camden, N. J., Nov. 3—Camden's municipal workhouse has been closed by prohibition. Known as the paper pickery and as an institution for the utilization of human derelicts, the workhouse since 1913 has been operated by habitual drunkards committed there by the police magistrates. Waste paper gathered by the highway department has been hauled by the prisoners, and the city has been obtaining a yearly profit of $4,000 over the operating expenses and the cost of boarding the inmates.

In addition, all the brooms for the street sweeping machines and the hand-brooms used by the street cleaners were made by the prisoners at a nominal cost. Only three workmen have been at the workhouse for the last week. Their sentences were completed some time ago, but they preferred to remain because they had no place to go.

"This industry can't operate without help," said Street Commissioner Sayre today, as the last of the baled paper was carted away. The workhouse will be used as a warehouse.

Canadian Pacific Railway Company Gives Hearty Support to Victory Loan

President E. W. Beatty makes Statement Regarding Big Subscription Just Announced by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Showing that the Company Will Stick by Canada on the Loan.

DESPITE the fact that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is opposed to the new Government's Grand Trunk Railway, it has been announced through Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, chairman of the board of directors that it will support the Victory Loan to the extent of a subscription for $20,000,000 as against $17,000,000 last year.

The attitude of the C. P. R. on the Victory Loan is clearly stated by Mr. E. W. Beatty, the president. He quotes the statement of the minister of finance regarding the use to which the money derived from the loan will be put, which gives assurance that it is for the purpose of repaying money which is owed, paying just debts to the soldiers, supporting Canada's credits and furthering the trade and commercial expansion of the dominion. The still further assurance that none of the money from the Victory Loan will be used for the acquisition of the G. T. R. or the payment of any indebtedness incurred thereby adds to Mr. Beatty's reasons for believing that the Victory Loan should be heartily supported.

He states as follows:—
I have embraced, with a great deal of pleasure, the opportunity of speaking on this Loan, especially in view of the fact that elements have entered into it which render a frank discussion advisable even though my own position in it may be regarded as somewhat delicate and even invidious.

I have read the comprehensive statement made by the Minister of Finance as to the objects of the Loan, and the support of all Canadians who have the welfare of the Country at heart and regard the sustaining of its credit as of vital consequence.

The Minister of Finance and myself are not entire strangers—I knew him first as Corporation Counsel for the City of Toronto and I admired him as an adroit Counsel and a sound lawyer. I knew him again as Chairman of the Railway Board, and I marvelled at times at his utter disregard of legal principles. I know him now as Minister of Finance whose first work is the successful prosecution of this Loan, but who has, I think, a very sincere appreciation of the necessity for national economy and prudence in official expenditure for the next few years if Canada is to reach the high plane of prosperity to which it is entitled.

I have also known the Minister in roles which did not secure my unqualified commendation—he was a fine lawyer, an able judge, and will be, I feel sure, a national asset as Finance Minister, but his literary efforts are not all that I could wish. Some time ago when he was a little younger, and therefore more prone to make mistakes—he wrote a book; he wrote the book as Chairman of the Royal Commission, appointed to enquire into the Railway situation in Canada, and the book was called, and will go down into history as "The Drayton-Acworth Report." I read all of it with a great deal of interest and some of it with a great deal of appreciation. In it he said some very nice things about the C. P. R. and then he suggested that the Government of Canada might own all the other railways and operate them under a system which he outlined. I have always wondered how a man could be so right and so wrong in the same book. In consequence of this—what the Minister no doubt regarded as his magnanimous support of the acquired and still others are desirous to be acquired and the support of those advocating these acquisitions has already been found in this Transportation Epistle known as "The Drayton-Acworth Report."

The Minister is expected to us all to give our whole-hearted support to this Loan, and the purpose of this statement is to frankly explain to you what the position of the Company I have the honor to represent will be.

The Government have recently advised Parliament and the people of their intention to acquire the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railways. Their proposals have come before the people at the same time that the support of the people to the Victory Loan is being strongly urged. There exists in Canada a feeling among a great many people that the proposed action is unnecessary and unwise and will impose upon the people a burden which could be avoided.

In this connection and as one of the grounds on which Parliament is urged to support the proposals, it is said that if they are not confirmed and the roads are not acquired by the Government they will—use the expressive phraseology of the Minister of Railways—"be gobbled up by the C. P. R."

While I can imagine several things worse than that, it is only right that I should point out to you that there exist certain objections to this course which render the possibility of it ever taking place almost ridiculously remote. In the first place I may be pardoned for calling your attention to the fact that there exists by Statute an absolute prohibition against any arrangement by way of amalgamation or joining of earnings between the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk or any branch lines of the Grand Trunk or leased by it or under its control. In the second place the Grand Trunk duplicates, in many respects, the existing facilities of the Canadian Pacific, which would render its acquisition both unnecessary and unwise. In the third place, the Grand Trunk cannot be divorced from the Grand Trunk Pacific with its enormous liabilities—liabilities which I imagine no Corporation in Canada would think of assuming even though they were able to do so—and, lastly, the acquisition of the Grand Trunk or any portion of it has never been suggested to the Canadian Pacific or by the Canadian Pacific and has never been considered or contemplated in any way or by any means direct or indirect.

The suggestion is the old familiar bogey which has been raised on previous occasions and which is only raised in furtherance of the time-honored practice of the purchase of property, namely, that of securing an imaginary second purchaser in order to make the purchase more attractive to those who have of the Canadian Pacific the position of every other taxpayer in Canada, the position of looking with grave apprehension upon the assumption of these enormous obligations under a system of administration which we do not believe to be effective. From a purely competitive transportation standpoint the Company has not yet reached the stage when it can contemplate with serious apprehension the assumption of enormous liabilities by its competitors.

It is perhaps not necessary for me to explain my own views on the subject of Government ownership and operation of Railways, but it is I think desirable that I should explain to you why I can hold one view on this subject and an independent view on the subject of the Victory Loan. You are familiar with the objects of the Loan—they are stated officially to be "To pay indebtedness incurred and to meet expenditures to be made in connection with demobilization including the authorized War Service Gratuity to our soldiers and settlement, loans and other purposes connected with their re-establishment into civil life, for the Capital outlay for ship-building and other national undertakings and for the establishment of any necessary credits for the purchase of grain, foodstuffs, timber and other products and will be spent wholly in Canada." This official statement is further supplemented by the Minister's own statement that no portion of these moneys will be diverted to the acquisition of the Grand Trunk or the payment of such obligations as will be incurred by such acquisition; other words, this Loan is in its essence a loan to support Canada's credit, to repay the moneys which it owes, (largely Loan to our people) to pay its just debts to its soldiers and to further its trade and commercial expansion. Any one or all of these reasons is sufficient to warrant the support of the Loan. This is not a Loan to any Government of Canada but a Loan for Canada initiated by the Government of the day. There is a distinction in my mind between the support of Government and the support of our own country, and if this money is required for the latter purpose—and it is irrefutable that this is the case—then no support which would otherwise be given to it should I think be withheld because of a difference of opinion in respect of proposed railway politics.

The Canadian Pacific is a Canadian enterprise, its prosperity depends upon the prosperity of Canada. At no time before the War or since the War has it I think been suggested that the Company did not realize and fulfill to the best of its ability the obligations which it owed this country, and so I am at liberty to say to you that, notwithstanding my inability to support a railway which I consider unjustified and unwarranted (and I think I am perfectly in a position to appreciate some of the objections to such a policy) I happen in a position to appreciate some of the objections to such a policy) of subscription of the Company to the Loan, will be exactly the same as it would have been had not this question of the future of other railways been interjected into the campaign at this time.

POINCARÉ'S HOME IN RUINS.—The President and Mrs. Poincaré—The President and Mrs. Poincaré, after the laying of the corner stone of the Franco-American monument commemorating the American victory at St. Mihiel, came on to this little Meuse village early in October. They desired to visit their summer home, but found their cottage in ruins, the garden littered with fragments of shells and containing the unexploded "duds" buried deep in the soft clay.

The president's villa was under constant fire from the Germans from October 8, 1914, until September, 1918, and while it is completely wrecked, the four walls remain standing. All the trees surrounding the house have been cut down by shots.

It is estimated that the Germans spent 1,000,000 francs ($138,000) worth of shells, in their effort to demolish the president's summer home. The property is worth 80,000 francs.

FAVOR PRESERVATION OF COURT HOUSE WALLS

Suggestion That Architect Report on Accommodation That Can Be Provided

A committee of citizens, called to discuss the question of the erection of a new city hall and other public buildings, met in the mayor's office last evening and decided that it would be in the interest of the community to have the walls of the old court house preserved. A resolution setting forth the ideas of the committee is to be presented to the building committee of the Municipal Council at its next meeting.

Those present last night were: Commissioner Thornton (chairman), Premier Foster, Mayor Hayes, Commissioner Fisher, J. B. M. Baxter, K.C., Edward Bates, W. Frank Hatheway, C. H. Peterson, G. Ernest Fairweather, George E. Barbour and M. E. Agar.

There was a general discussion regarding the disposal of the old court house. It was thought that something more elaborate should be provided, but it was decided that this would not be an opportune time for the erection of a larger building on account of the great expense which would be involved.

Tenders have already been called for the tearing down of the old court house walls, but the following resolution will be presented to the Municipal Council building committee before the tenders are opened:

"That the court house walls be preserved and that we suggest the employment of an architect to report, first on the accommodation, which can be obtained on that site and the available room for the courts sitting in St. John, the law library, and, if possible, a hall for public gatherings and the same court accommodations as heretofore."

FORWARD—OR BACKWARD?

Once the old court house is patched up again, good-bye to the project of straightening King Street East. Good-bye also to the project of a municipal building worthy of a city of fifty or sixty thousand people.

Is that what the people really want? Not when they have given the subject serious thought, and thought it through to the end. The tax bugbear is overworked. A small civic debt, for a city with such streets and public buildings as St. John possesses is a badge of shame rather than of honor. This city will never progress until its people disregard the timid folk, take occasion by the hand and go forward. There is no reason why the city should not incur a long term debt for public services which will help to make it grow, and which will save a later generation from making the expenditure on its own account. The calamity howler is not a good asset. The chief reason St. John does not expand more rapidly is that the citizens, while boasting of its advantages and its assured future, lack the courage to go ahead and help to realize that of which they speak with so much confidence. It is not true that St. John cannot at the same time afford a proper municipal building, good streets, hospitals and school buildings. This is not an impoverished city. The moment the people wake up, adopt a bold and progressive policy and get into the limelight, the city will begin to attract other people of enterprise and to expand. There can be nothing more depressing than to find citizens, who have attained wealth as individuals in a city, proclaiming the doctrine of despair in regard to what the city as a whole may be able to accomplish. There should be an end of it and in its place should arise a spirit of confidence and courage worthy of a progressive people. The challenge has come in this affair of the old court house. Are we to go forward as a city—or backward?

A BLIND LEADER.

"By adopting prohibition," says Mr. Samuel Gompers, "we have chanced the wrecking of the social and economic fabric of the nation." Judging from some further remarks by Mr. Gompers he thinks the only safe workman is one who drinks, and that when he cannot drink he becomes restive and discontented and unsettled. This is an extraordinary estimate of the workman by one who aims to lead them, and one which the vast majority of them will resent and repudiate. If it were true that the drink habit had so fastened itself upon these men as to produce anything approaching the result described by Mr. Gompers, the case for prohibition would need no further argument. Cannot Mr. Gompers handle sober men as easily as those who have absorbed a given quantity of alcoholic stimulants? Are their wives and children to suffer in order that they may be contented and easily led? The workman for whom there is hope is he who thinks and acts in soberness. It is universally known that where liquor has been free of access during strikes or disturbances of any kind the results have been such as to cause regret. Unwise leadership has been responsible for far more trouble for workmen and others than prohibition. The only way to bring up generations without a taste for alcohol is to prevent its use. Mr. Gompers in this matter is a blind leader, who cannot be convinced by the evidence of his own senses.

The Prince of Wales, in his speech in Toronto yesterday, gave proof not only of the excellent training he has received but of an admirable conception of his duties and responsibilities as the heir to the throne. He has the broad outlook of the imperial statesman to whom the Empire appears as a union of autonomous free states, with common interests and ideals. He sees that in their continued unity and co-operation lies the hope of the future. The Prince speaks with a high sense of personal appreciation of the qualities he should himself manifest, and it may truly be said that the Canadian people, as his Canadian tour draws near to a close, have no fear that he will ever fall when put to the test; for not as a Prince but rather as a splendid specimen of young British manhood, clear of brain and pure of mind, has he appealed to them.

THE OPPOSITION CONVENTION.

The people of New Brunswick will be much more interested in the leadership of the provincial Conservative party than in any policy the party may adopt. They will want to know not only who the nominal leader is to be, but who will be the real power behind the throne. A policy may be good, but to gain support, the party leadership and control must command public confidence. It must be confessed that the public are not reassured when they look over the names of those who are the active promoters of tomorrow's convention. Their record in power is such as to warrant suspicion that the adoption of any policy under their leadership would merely be a means to the end that they and their friends might renew such activities as marked the crown lands policy, the Valley Roadway policy and the patriotic potato deal under the old government. So long as any of those who were active in those transactions, or tried to conceal them from the people, are accepted in an advisory capacity and given an influential place in the party councils, the public will have no use for the party. Carleton and Victoria counties have made this fact sufficiently plain to impress even the casual observer; and the citizen who takes an interest in politics and in the welfare of the province is still more firmly convinced that a thorough house-cleaning should be the first business of the convention. The Foster government, from the purely political standpoint, could ask no easier task than to overcome an opposition in which members and upholders of the old administration would be the leading spirits nominally or otherwise. This province has had a taste of careful and conscientious administration of its affairs. There have been errors, no doubt. No government is perfect in wisdom. It may fairly be said, however, that to the extent of its ability and with a real desire to promote the public welfare the Foster administration has made a good and a clean record, in very striking contrast to that of its predecessor. It is with full knowledge of this depressing fact that the opposition convention meets.

The re-election of Gov. Coolidge in Massachusetts by a sweeping majority shows that the people were with him in his action regarding the strike of policemen. The result is doubtless also an indication that the people at large are disposed to assert themselves more vigorously in regard to strikes which seriously involve public interests.

Hats off to East St. John. While the city has been talking it has been working, and adding in a most substantial way to the number of its new dwellings. Neither the cost of labor nor of materials has prevented the growth of this thriving suburban area. The Times-Star did the story yesterday. It is a very inspiring one.

The Grand Trunk bill now goes to the Senate.

THE CRISIS.

The crisis of a year ago looks flabby, now its days are over; but, oh, what fits we used to throw, when that cheap crisis had the floor! We viewed that crisis with alarm, it was a frightful thing to see, it could not fail to wound and harm the bulwarks of our liberty. It crissed around a day or two, and then abjectly looped the loops; another crisis loomed in view and called for walls and maulin whoops. I've seen a hundred crises come and rear themselves on end and go; I've seen my neighbors stricken dumb by threats of coming down and woe. And still our country jogs along, and finds release from every plight; and if a dozen things are wrong, about a million things are right. Whenever a crisis blows its trump, the rabbit-hearted tear their hair, and say we're headed for four dumps, in haste—but I refuse to scare. I've heard the cry of "Wolf" so long, I look on wolves as hop-joint brutes; no crisis can disturb the song of sane and joyous souled gulls. Bring on your crises one by one, or trot them forth in groups of eight and ten; the optimist will take his gun, and make the blamed things pull their freight.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

Dominion Happenings of Other Days

THE STORY OF COAL OIL.

Once the only method of lighting the homes of the people of Canada was by means of the tallow candle; coal oil, gas and the electric light were of more modern days. In Canada some of the greatest oil wells ever discovered were found in the Petrolia district as early as 1861, while a few years later Essex county and Petrolia became famed as centres of great oil wealth. The first wells were dug around Oil Springs in 1861, the supply being found at a depth of about forty feet. This, however, was merely surplus oil that had found its way to the surface. When drilling began it was found that the real home of the fluid was at a depth ranging from 240 to 450 feet below. There it lay in great quantities.

The famous Black and Matheson well flowed at the rate of 7,500 barrels a day for a time and there were many other wells. So great was the flow at the first that millions of barrels were wasted and flowed down the creeks. Five or six million barrels are estimated to have run into the Black Creek during the summer of 1861 alone. After the first rush the supply pumped annually has been about 1,000,000 barrels a year for a few years.

For a long time the refining of the crude oil was carried on largely in Petrolia, but in later years the work has been done in Sarnia, sixteen miles away. Pipe lines take the crude oil there to the refineries. Since the discovery of the wealth in the earth in that district the drillers have drifted to all parts of the world. It was men from the Petrolia district who drilled the wells in Austria, South Africa, Borneo and Sumatra.

JOE AND I

(Rev. George Scott)
No matter what the weather may be
I am out where the winds blow glad and free,
With Joe on the steep hill side.

We travel afoot and we make good cheer,
No ladders are we I trow,
So whether the skies be cloudy or clear,
We keep our hearts in a glow.

Joe's only a dog, but I know him right
He's honest and true and good,
One look in his eyes you can surely tell
He's one of the brotherhood.

When I fetch my hat from the well known peg,
And take my staff in my hand,
He wags his tail and stands up to beg
For well he can understand.

And if he could talk he would say to me,
How well I know his mood,
Let's go where the moose and the deer
are,
Deep down in the ancient wood.

When I think of the miles we two have tramped,
In the long-forgotten summer days,
And the brimming rivers by which
Near the dear old logging ways.

And the squirrels that leaped in madness,
And the porcupines he tread,
As he raced through the woods with
been delight
And the rushing whirlwinds speed.

Or in the winter days with my haversack
Through the frost bound solitudes,
We followed the trail of the lumberjack
To the deep New Brunswick woods.

Ah many a day we have seen old friend,
Of life that was strong and pure,
Though I darsay some could not comprehend
Such love as ours can endure.

They will have their say, they are wise
I know,
And I but a rough old man,
But you take it from me that I and Joe
Will travel as long as we can.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

(New York Evening Post.)

The international popularity of the late Ella Wheeler Wilcox has been a fact more significant than is her verse, though some of her poems have enough excellence to have found their way into standard anthologies and one couplet is known to everybody. What was there in her voluminous sentimentality to catch the applause of millions? Nature in Wisconsin on a literary fare including periodicals like the New York Ledger and Godey's, and books like Mary J. Holmes' and Ouida's, she early began an energetic bombardment of magazines with verse; she had many printed; and she finally made a collection of a foolish publisher rejected as immoral. A Milwaukee newspaper man who proclaimed that Chicago was shocked by a Badger girl, whose verses out-Swinburne Swinburne, and aroused other papers to feature the incident, made the writer's fame in a day. Late in life Mrs. Wilcox regretted that she had ever published "Poems of Passion." But there were qualities in her writing that maintained and enlarged her hold upon a public thus caught by a sensational debut. To explain them would be to explain Hall Caine or Harold Bell Wright.

THE SPY THAT FAILED.

(New York Times.)

A story told at one of the many Roosevelt memorial meetings may or may not have seen the light of print. It is worth reviving this week of weeks. The story goes that very shortly after the German invasion of Belgium—some time during that dread August or early September, 1914, the Kaiser, knowing the Kaiser's influence with his fellow countrymen, sent a special emissary, clothed in the authority of one who must, at all costs, succeed in Germany to Sagamore Hill. Arrived there, the Kaiser's special emissary, in dazzling military regalia, together with a retinue of bowed low. "His Majesty the Kaiser bids me remind your excellency," said the emissary to Colonel Roosevelt, "how the Kaiser is well and wishes you to come back as his guest in Germany. How greatly he enjoyed entertaining you at that time and how, in a few years to come, when the exigencies of this war so cruelly forced upon us, have been overcome, his majesty hopes again to welcome and entertain you in a yet more hospitable manner." In reply, Colonel Roosevelt did not, the story goes, click his heels together. Instead, he clicked his heels together and said "You go back and tell his Majesty the Kaiser that I have not forgotten that he entertained me in Germany. But tell him also that the Kaiser's emissary, the King and Queen of Belgium likewise entertained me." It is pretty certain that that emissary got no iron cross.

MAINE'S POTATO WEALTH.

(Cor. Bangor Commercial)

This is one of the greatest potato seasons in years in Aroostook. The yield was large and never was there a better season for the harvesting of the tubers. The potato government reports that the state of Maine will produce 22,000,000 bushels of potatoes this season and Aroostook men who are in a position to know about it say that the county will ship in the vicinity of 17,000,000 bushels. The largest production in Aroostook was about 20,000,000 bushels of marketable potatoes.

New York Butchers Struck For Drivers—Latter Wouldn't Join Walkout

New York, Nov. 5.—Demands that provision drivers receive from $102 to $246.50 a week were among those made by 500 inside butchers in what was denounced by Adolph Gobel as the first step in a "Bolshevik" movement to take over his plant in Brooklyn. Mr. Gobel, who announced he had closed his doors temporarily after the butchers had gone on strike, said he was informed by an insider that the union planned, after accomplishing their purpose, a series of strikes, to allow him six per cent. on his investment and divide all profits over that amount among themselves.

This strike was said by Mr. Gobel to be primarily an effort to force drivers and outside salesmen to join the union. The drivers, according to Mr. Gobel, recognized the demands made for them as excessive and refused to join the strikers. They now receive $49 to $80 a week.

year ago and after a few weeks' stay, journeyed on to his home in Scotland, finding it difficult to carry out his original intention of returning to this country, owing to the confusion of shipping. Of late he has been supplying the Zion Baptist church at Bolton, England, and will probably remain with the church until spring or until a permanent pastor is settled. Then it is possible he may return to Canada, though he has received an invitation to relieve the pastor of one of the most important Baptist churches in Australia.

Pastor and Mrs. H. G. Mellick, of O'Leary, P. E. I., have been spending a month's vacation in Nova Scotia. They report having had a very warm welcome. After an absence of three years they visited in Lunenburg and while they expressed a wish to be quiet while there the people would not have it so. A public reception was tendered them there and at Inglisville. They speak in high appreciation of the kindness of Pastor and Mrs. Beals, who took pleasure in making their visit happy. They viewed the tablet placed in the church to the memory of their son, who was killed in the war. Mrs. Mellick attended the women's convention at Wolfville, and Mr. Mellick attended the convention at Woodstock.

A goodly number of old Acadia students will remember "Eddie" Borden, of the class of '92. He was, if we mistake not, the first colored graduate of Acadia. His home was at Truro. After leaving Acadia he studied theology at Chicago, and subsequently spent two years at Gottingen and Berlin, Germany. He afterward held the chair of Ancient Languages, German, and Homiletics at Centenary City College, Macon, Georgia. He is now pastor of a church at Beaumont, Texas, one of the largest in the state. He is chairman of the National (necro) Baptist convention, which is undertaking the task of raising twenty-five million dollars in the next ten years for the extension of the work of that convention. 'Way back in your grandmother's girlhood days, broom-sweeping, with its dust, backaches and drudgery, was one of the hardest and most dreaded duties of housekeeping and, with all the toil, the carpets and rugs became worn and shabby sooner than in these days of easier, better sweeping with the

It was reported at the observatory, Douglas Avenue, today that a cold wave which has been felt in the west coast since this way and had reached Ontario yesterday. Indications are that it will be colder here tomorrow. This morning's storm was quite severe along the coast and through the interior where there was quite a fall of heavy wet snow. REES-HINES.
A wedding of much interest was solemnized at Douglas Avenue Christian church on Monday evening, Nov. 3, when Miss Sadie Hines and C. E. Lloyd Rees of this city were united in marriage. The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. C. B. Appel. Mrs. H. Hines attended the bride. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty repast was served. Immediate relatives and friends, the presents, which were numerous and costly, testified to the popularity of both. Mr. and Mrs. Rees will reside at 104 Lansdowne Avenue.

DIVIDE PROVINCE INTO AREAS UNDER PROHIBITION ACT

Chief Inspector Wilson Suggests Appointments of Assistant Chiefs—St. John Vacancy Not Yet Filled

In order to do away with a great deal of overlapping in the administration of the prohibition act in the province and to make the act more easily and more satisfactorily carried out, Rev. W. D. Wilson, chief inspector, has suggested to the provincial government that the province be divided into sub-districts, each under an assistant chief inspector who would be directly responsible to the chief inspector. Each of these assistants would look after the various inspectors in his own district, allotting to each the area in which he would function and generally supervising the work. At the present time all the inspectors, even in the most outlying and inaccessible districts, are directly responsible to the chief and he called upon at times to visit these places when necessity demands. The new plan suggested is intended to have the assistants carry out this work, except where the presence of the chief inspector is desirable.

No appointment has been made yet to replace Inspector Linton, whose term of duty expired the first of the month.

COMMISSIONER THORNTON MAKES SUGGESTION FOR PLACE FOR ATHLETICS

Feeling that the time is ripe for the taking up actively of the matter of the needs of the city in the shape of accommodation for the promotion of athletics and sport in general, Commissioner John Thornton is working on a scheme for the city in the shape of a ground and in order to start the ball rolling has subscribed $10 to a fund, should it be decided to raise one for the purpose.

Although the commissioner feels that the plans which he has taken up will not meet with the final approval of all concerned, he brings forward the project in order to have the matter taken up by the public. Recent events have impressed the necessity for some provision for the promotion of sports in the city, where facilities are sadly lacking.

The scheme provides for the laying out of a quarter-mile track, baseball diamond, football field and other accommodations at the Gilbert's Lane entrance to Rockwood Park. The grounds would be known as the St. John Soldiers' Memorial Athletic Grounds, would be owned by the city and on completion administered by a commission, known as the St. John Soldiers' Memorial Commission. A suggested composition of the commission is: President, the mayor; treasurer, a member of the common council; secretary, to be appointed by the commission, and two other citizens to be appointed by the mayor, the grounds to be operated under the supervision of a manager appointed by and responsible to the commission.

In addition to the laying out of the grounds for the various branches of sports it is proposed to erect on the grounds a stadium to meet the requirements of the promotion of sports with modern conveniences.

That the expense of maintenance to be shared by the city and the various athletic institutions using the grounds, is a suggestion.

Perhaps the most debated question in the whole scheme will be the matter of the initial cost of the institution, which Commissioner Thornton places roughly at $25,000. He has suggested that all athletic societies and clubs, fraternal organizations, etc., be invited to co-operate with the commission in a drive to attain this object.

Commissioner Thornton's plan is not that adopted in other cities, which themselves provide recreation grounds and control and conduct them. They are for the benefit of all the people and it is held that the general assessment should provide for them, just as it does for other public services.

STEARNS GIVEN HEARING TODAY IN POLICE COURT

Care in Which Disappearance of Stolen Checks Figures

SOME EVIDENCE HEARD

Purchase of Watch and Receipt of $26 Cash in Change Reported; Also Cashing of Check in Bank—Repudiation of Signatures

A case against W. B. Stearns, charged with forgery, was taken up in the police court this morning. He is a returned soldier who went overseas came back and received his discharge. A short time afterwards he enlisted as W. B. Smith with the Canadian Engineers and served with them for some time, after which he received his discharge and was taken on the strength of the Canadian army pay corps.

On the morning of Aug. 18 he was to work but in the afternoon he did not show up and in the morning it was discovered that twenty-eight blank war gratuity checks were missing. The authorities sent descriptions of the man to all parts of Canada and the United States and a short time ago he was arrested in Sudbury, Ont., and brought here to stand trial.

At the preliminary examination this morning, Captain James T. Scarfe, officer in charge of the pay office, told of engaging the accused on April 15, 1918, as a clerk and said he worked until Aug. 18, when he was present in the morning but was absent in the afternoon and had been since that time. He also said that he had seen several of the missing checks.

Sergeant H. B. Wetmore corroborated the evidence of this witness and added that it was the duty of the accused to enter checks issued on the war gratuity list also on the mailing list. A rubber stamp with "St. John, N. B." on it was affixed by the accused on the checks.

Lieut. C. F. West told of missing twenty-eight checks on the morning of Aug. 19. He said part of his duty was to countersign the checks unless he was otherwise occupied and if so another officer countersigned them. The witness looked at some of the checks and said that the signature purporting to be his was not his. He also said that he was familiar with the signature of Capt. C. Bennett, and that on the check the signature purporting to be his was also forged.

Sergeant W. J. Blackwell, orderly room sergeant in the office of the assistant provost marshal, Capt. R. H. L. Godday, said that he was detailed by the assistant provost marshal to go to Sudbury with a warrant and bring the accused back, which he did. He handed him over to the chief of police here. While in Sudbury he said he saw a check which was also similar to those issued in this district for war gratuity. While coming down here by train, in the presence of an inspector from Ottawa, the witness and the defendant told that he took the checks and spent the money, yet he would not have done so except that he was in financial difficulties at the time. He said he was going to plead guilty and save the court as much trouble as he could. The witness said he seemed to regret what he had done.

H. V. MacGillivray, a watchmaker in W. Tremaine Gard's jewelry store, said that the accused bought a watch and there on Aug. 18 and that he paid $44 for it, giving a war gratuity check for $70 for which the witness gave him change for $26. The endorsement on the check was "W. B. Smith" and his discharge certificate also bore the name of "W. B. Smith." The watch was identified in court.

Ralph T. Sharpe, a clerk in the Provincial Bank in Charlotte street, told of cashing a war gratuity check for $70, which had an endorsement on it "W. B. Smith," and that his discharge certificate also had the same name and that the regimental number on the check and on the certificate were the same. The accused was identified as resembling the man who purported to be W. B. Smith. It was learned from the military authorities that his real name was W. B. Stearns. The case was postponed until this afternoon at 2 o'clock. W. B. Scott acted on behalf of the military authorities, but the accused stood undefended.

Two men, charged with drunkenness, pleaded guilty and were fined $8 each or two months in jail. They said lemon extract was their beverage. The magistrate warned all stores and places of business that if they sold the large bottles of lemon extract they would be apprehended and prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

GHOST PARTY.
The lights were dim, and you could not tell a person from Adam—or Eve, as the case might be, for all were masked and carried an air of mystery. It was a splendid gathering. This was not the first meeting of St. Luke's A. Y. P. A., nor yet the last, but it was the most successful. Game, checks and refreshments afforded amusement for about sixty young people. The event took place last evening.

SAYS HE COULD SMELL IT THEN.
While giving evidence in a case against Thomas Ramsey, charged with having liquor in his possession illegally, Inspector McAlinh said that he had a cold and could not swear that the jugs in question contained liquor, but in addition, he told the court that when he went to the office in Prince William street the heat cleared his head and he could detect the smell of liquor.

TAKEN IN CHARGE.
Eric Elieff, a Bulgarian, went to the police station last night for protection and was allowed to go this morning as there was no charge against him. A man was reported to be acting strangely this morning in Waterloo street and was arrested and found to be the man who had been at the police station for protection last night. His case will come before the court later.

MEETING POSTPONED.
The meeting of the provincial government which was scheduled for today has been postponed until Tuesday of next week. The meeting will take place in Fredericton. It is expected the position of district medical health officer for the southern district, recently given up by Dr. J. F. L. Brown, will be filled.

AMENDMENTS, ONE ON OTHER, VOTED DOWN

Grand Trunk Bill Passed in Commons

SMALLEST MAJORITY 26

Government Alarmed Over Growth of Opposition to The Measure in The Senate, But Defeat in Entirety is Not Likely

(Special to Times.) Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Several amendments to the Grand Trunk bill were proposed before it finally got through the house last night. Mr. Fielding's, which created the most lengthy discussion, was that the matter should be referred to a commission for further information and consideration. This was lost by a government majority of forty-one on a straight party vote, the cross benches voting with the government. Hon. MacKenzie King then moved that the agreement be submitted to parliament before final ratification. This was also lost on a vote of ninety to fifty-five. Johnson of Last Mountain, of the cross benches, and Foster of East York (government) voted for the amendment.

A. Campbell of Nelson moved an amendment from the bill which moved that all the stocks should be arbitrated, saying the road and rolling stock were in bad condition. He said all doubtful matters should be submitted to arbitration, which would be fair for both sides. The immediate effect of the amendment would be that the value of the $2,500,000 worth of 4 per cent guaranteed stock should also be submitted to arbitration. There was considerable discussion on this taken part in by Messrs. Fielding, Cahill, Meighen, Nesbitt and the mover. The amendment was lost by a vote of eighty-three to fifty-seven. The following members of the cross benches supported it—Knox, Douglas, Johnson, McHarg, Burnham and Campbell. Foster (York) recovered from his temporary fit of independence and voted for the motion again. Mr. Denis then arose at 12.30 to propose another amendment to the effect that the award would have to be ratified by parliament.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The Grand Trunk bill was given its third reading early this morning after six amendments had been defeated. Amendments by Messrs. Fielding, King, Denis, Campbell and Parent were all voted down and further delay for consideration refused. The smallest majority was on the Campbell amendment, which was carried by only twenty-six votes. On this amendment, Messrs. Meighen, Johnston, Knox, Burnham and Campbell voted against the bill, the government, and L. A. Lapointe, of Montreal, with the government, declaring that this was "only a sugar coat" to the bill. The Denis amendment was defeated by eighty-five to fifty-three. This was followed by an amendment from George Parent, of Quebec, by which the bill was to be amended in the same way as the American lines. It had the same fate as the others.

On the Parent amendment, Pardo, McClos, Kennedy and Fuller, Ontario Liberals, voted with the government. The Parent amendment was defeated, eighty-seven to forty-three. The Meighen motion was moved by James Robb, chief opposition whip. Third reading carried by eighty-four to fifty-three. A bill goes to the senate today. Fear for Fate in Senate.

(Special to Times.) Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The opposition to the Grand Trunk bill in the senate has grown to such an extent that the government is now seriously alarmed as to its fate there. It is reported that nine Conservatives have agreed to stand together against the bill, the names mentioned being White, Fowler, MacLennan, Ross, Foster, Stanton, Gordon, Nichols, Murphy or Bradbury. Hon. Meighen is said to be very bitter over the action of the Conservative senators, intimating that the government will have means of reprisal. It is charged that the government majority is that a large number of union employees would be under government ownership, and able to exercise a powerful political influence in the way of advancing wage scales.

The hope of the government is that when it comes to the scratch there will be defections from the ranks of the senators, the men on whom they still build being Stanton, Nichols, Murphy and Bradbury.

GOVERNMENT WILL HOLD TO POSITION

Will Not Vacate Injunction in Matter of Salt Coal Strike

Washington, Nov. 5.—The government cannot accept the proposal of organized labor to end the coal strike by vacating the injunction against the officials of the United Mine Workers of America. Assistant Attorney-General Ames announced today that the government would not abandon its position, because the strike was in violation of law.

This means a long fight in the coal fields, while withdrawal of the injunction would have opened the way for settlement of the strike within forty-eight hours, according to Edgar Walker, executive representative of the United Mine Workers of America.

Living cheaper in Moncton than here (Moncton Transcript.) According to the Dominion Labor Gazette Moncton is a cheaper city to live in than St. John in many respects. The last issue of the Gazette gives a table of retail prices in both cities, a table quoted for what they are worth. They are supposed to be the prices prevailing at the middle of September, but it does not follow they are in all cases correct. Sirloin steak was quoted at 40 cents in Moncton and at 45 in St. John. Beef ribs roasts prime, was quoted at 28 cents in Moncton and 33 cents in St. John. Fresh fish was quoted at 12-35 in Moncton, and at 15-40 in St. John. New laid eggs were 60 cents in Moncton and 70 in St. John. Storage eggs, were 35 in Moncton and 65 in St. John. Creamery butter was 62 cents in Moncton and 70 in St. John. Plain white bread was quoted at 8c in Moncton and 10c in St. John. Fresh fish was 13 cents in Moncton and 15 in St. John. Canned corn was 20 cents in Moncton and 22 in St. John. Coffee medium was 55 cents in Moncton and 60 in St. John. Sugar, 200 lbs. was 12 cents in Moncton and 13 cents in St. John. Starb was 15 cents in Moncton and 16 in St. John. Coal, bituminous, domestic, per ton of 2,000 lbs. was quoted at $8.50-$10.00 in Moncton, and at $11.00-$13.25 in St. John. Hardwood was $10 in Moncton and $15 in St. John. The figure in St. John papers would indicate that the rent for a 6 room house with sanitary conveniences in Moncton at $24.30, in St. John at $18. But the advertisements in St. John papers would indicate that the rent for a 6 room house with sanitary conveniences in Moncton at $24.30, in St. John at $18. GRAND TRUNK BILL IN SENATE; BORDEN LETTER SUPPORTS IT

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Debate on the second reading of the Grand Trunk bill, which was given third reading in the commons was proceeded with in the senate this morning. Sir James Loughhead read a letter from Sir Robert Borden dealing with a rumor that Sir James said, had been circulated that the prime minister was not in sympathy with the measure. Sir Robert described this rumor as being "entirely unfounded." Sir Robert urged the senate to support the bill. Senator Dandurand said it had been suggested that Sir James was supporting the bill "with a faint heart."

The government leader retorted with warmth that those who had this view would change their minds before he got through.

BATTEN URGES BAPTISTS TO SPUR PROGRESS. Baptist churches throughout the country were urged to spur money offered by profiteers, "the meanest kind of thieves" in a statement issued in New York on Sunday night by Rev. Dr. Samuel Zane Batten, secretary of National Service Education for the American Baptist public conference.

"Every Baptist church should know whether any of its members are engaged in this nefarious business of profiteering," said Dr. Batten, "and spur the dirty money of these people. No self-respecting church would tolerate in its fellowship a person known to be guilty of highway robbery or horse stealing, and the sin of profiteering is meaner, blacker and more sinful than either of these. The church must make the will of God very plain on this subject."

REDS SAY THEY ARE ON EVE OF VICTORY

London, Nov. 5.—An announcement by Russian Soviet army officials says "We have received fresh reinforcements. Yudenich can get none. The remnants of his army are breaking up. They are surrounded by our troops. From Luga our troops are irresistibly advancing on Yudenich's rear. On the other fronts the situation is favorable to us. We are on the eve of a victorious termination of the war."

Helmsing, Nov. 4.—A newspaper here says it understands 20,000 volunteers have secretly enlisted in Finland to join in the attack on Petrograd. It says the men will be supplied with arms and equipment either by the Allies or General Yudenich, and urges the government to take preventive steps.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S NEW M. P. IN THE HOUSE

Cadwell, From Gallery, Watches Proceedings—May Take Seat Today

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Ernest Lapointe, Liberal leader for Quebec, who was elected for Quebec East at the recent by-election, will take his seat in the House of Commons today. James Caldwell and J. W. Kennedy, the new United Farmer representatives for Carleton-Victoria and Gleggarry-Stormont, respectively, may also take their seats today. Mr. Lapointe made his appearance in the galleries last night and was cheered by Liberal members on the floor. Mr. Caldwell during the afternoon was a spectator from the speaker's gallery and watched with deep interest taking of the division on the Fielding amendment to the Grand Trunk bill.

MASSACHUSETTS' VICTORY. (Continued from page 1) Boston, Nov. 5.—Governor Calvin Coolidge, Republican, who made support of law and order the sole issue of his campaign, was re-elected yesterday by a plurality of 124,173 over Richard S. Long, Democratic candidate. The revised vote of the state complete follows: Coolidge, 317,847; Long, 193,674.

The vote given Governor Coolidge was the largest ever cast for governor in this state, although his plurality has been exceeded. Long opposed Governor Coolidge last year and was defeated by a plurality of 17,636.

The entire Republican state ticket was elected by large margins. Although the Democrats gained four seats in the house of representatives, the Republicans gained three in the senate and will have their usual large majority in both branches. The house will have 176 Republicans, 62 Democrats and two Independents, and the senate thirty-three Republicans and seven Democrats.

New York, Nov. 5.—Indications early today were that the Republicans had gained several seats in the New York state assembly as a result of the election yesterday. Their representation has been increased by five with no losses available on ten doubtful districts in Kings county, Brooklyn.

The strength of the Socialists at the next session remains in doubt. They elected one of their candidates in Bronx county but lost the 17th New York district. The result in the 23rd district in Kings, which was represented by a Socialist last year, remains in doubt.

Both the women who served at the last session were defeated by men for re-election, but two other representatives of the fair sex will sit at the next session. They will be Dr. Elizabeth Van R. Gillette of the 2nd Schenectady district, a Democrat, who won from a man her office here last year, and Margaret L. Smith, who scored a victory over Martin J. Hely, Democratic incumbent in the 19th New York district.

One of the interesting characters at the next session will be Lieut.-Col. Theodore Roosevelt who was elected from the Oyster Bay district by a large majority over P. E. Raff of the A. E. F. He will begin his political career exactly as did his father. It is interesting to note that a son was born to him yesterday.

The Republicans were successful in most of the up-state municipal elections. The only second class cities which elected Democratic mayors were Schenectady where George H. Lunn was returned to the office he had held as a Socialist on two previous occasions and Troy, where James W. Fleming, a former state conservation missioner, was successful.

Tammany Beaten. Tammany Hall apparently went down to defeat in the municipal election. All three of its candidates for the Supreme Court Bench seem to have lost. With returns lacking from 223 districts out of 948 in the first judicial district, which includes the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, Justice Joseph Newburger, who was denied a re-nomination by the Democrats and then placed in the hands of the Republicans, had 125,713 votes while Irwin Untermyer, his opponent, had 83,071. Major P. J. McCook, the other anti-Tammany candidate, had 107,227 against Justice R. L. Luce's 94,193.

In the second judicial district, which includes the boroughs of Brooklyn and Richmond, with 294 districts lacking out of 954, Aaron L. Squires, Republican, had 124,554 and George J. S. Dowling, Democrat, 110,321.

The indications were that Robert L. Moran, Tammany candidate for president of the board of aldermen, the only office for which the entire city voted, had been defeated by Representative P. H. Laguardia, his Republican opponent, by a narrow majority. The vote in 2,310 districts out of 2,507 was: Laguardia, 361,441; Moran, 339,700.

The Socialist vote was heavier in the Bronx than in any of the other boroughs. Brooklyn was carried by the Republicans. Representative R. L. Haskell, Republican, was elected a county judge in Brooklyn.

Returns received from New York State early last night showed no change in the political complexion of the assembly. The Republicans had gained one district in Bunnasser and lost one in Schenectady. Speaker T. C. Sweet was re-elected from Oswego county.

Roosevelt's Son Elected. Lieut.-Colonel Theodore Roosevelt began his political career as did his famous father by being elected to the assembly. He was a candidate in the Second District of Nassau County and was opposed by Elias Raff, a private in the American Expeditionary Forces. Lieut.-Colonel Roosevelt carried Raff's home town by 192. Roosevelt was greatly elated over his victory, which he regarded as specially significant because he became the father of a son yesterday afternoon.

DECLARES MARINE CENTRE PASSING TO UNITED STATES

Former Correspondent in Berlin Angers Halifax People by Remarks

WARNS AGAINST GERMAN WILES

Says German Military Machine Has Been Beaten But German Worker is Not Beaten and He is Preparing to Win a Commercial War.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 5.—F. W. Wille, formerly Berlin correspondent of the London Daily Mail, who was a passenger on the Mauretania last night for Southampton, addressed the Halifax Rotary Club yesterday. He said he was preaching the doctrine of an Anglo-Saxon entente, and he did it strongly, but in the course of his speech he alienated the regard of two British seamen who were in the company by saying that the financial supremacy was passing from London to New York and that the supremacy of Great Britain in the merchant marine was moving in the same direction.

The captain of the steamer Wabana cried out "No" to the first assertion and to the second he shouted "not on your life." The chief officer of the Schem did the same thing.

The crowd then took up the protest in regard to the shipping and there were cries of "No, No" from all over the dining room, more than half the company joining in the protest. Mr. Wille did not persist in his assertion, but turned it off with a laugh by saying that objects to what he had stated must have inside information.

Later Mr. Wille said he wanted to warn Halifax against seeking German goods. The German military machine has been beaten, he said, but the German worker, with his patience, skill and persistence, is not beaten and he was preparing to win in the commercial war that is to come, and he wanted to say that the German worker is insidiously working to create international discord. The German, he added, was unregenerate and unrepentant, and that until he became sorry for his barbaric war and his cruel cruelty, every citizen in the United States and in Canada should consider it a felony to buy a single dollar's worth of goods from a German.

This fully conciliated the company and they wound up by giving three cheers for Mr. Wille.

STOCKS SOARED AT OPENING OF MARKET

New York, Nov. 5.—Speculative interests registered their approval of yesterday's general election by a violent bidding up of prices at the opening of today's stock market. Steels and equipments were once more the outstanding features. Rails and shippings were also firm and strong.

The rise invited considerable realizing for profits, causing temporary reaction of two to four points. Another factor which prompted caution on the part of traders was the new high of 406 1/2. Call loans opened at ten per cent.

This action, it was believed, would tend to stiffen money rates. Equipments, especially American Cars and Baldwin locomotives, led the irregular rally of the second hour, the former at an extreme rise of six and a half points. Rails and metals also shared liberally in the recovery, but General Motors again assumed leadership on its rebound of eight and a half points, with a new high of 406 1/2. Call loans opened at ten per cent.

ST. JOHN CONTRACTORS AND WORKMEN THERE (Moncton Transcript.) Workmen have been busily engaged in laying in a water main in Oak street, Louis and Thomas Stevens, of St. John, have this contract, as well as those in North street, where a sewer is to be laid; and in Victoria street, where a small section of sewer is to be placed.

George E. Kane, St. John, has the contract for the trunk sewer. The majority of the workmen on these jobs are from the Loyalist city, being mostly of a foreign element, with a few local workmen engaged. The main was laid in Oak street as the city lacked the pipe to do the same work in North street, and while awaiting pipe and fixtures he will finish the smaller jobs. One of the city officials speaking to The Transcript, stated that workmen were very scarce in the city at the present time, and difficulty would have been experienced, no doubt, by the contractors if they had not brought workmen from outside.

HARBOR COMMISSION. A correspondent writes:—The government does not guarantee the future development of the harbor. Read the Act under which the government proposes to take the harbor.

Under harbor commission the vessels and cargoes coming to and leaving St. John will have to pay 8 1/2 per cent interest on the government elevator on Prince Wm street, the Long Wharf, Berths 7, 14, 15 and 16 and the salaries and expenses and the commissioners in addition to what they are now paying. Read the Act under which the government proposes to take the harbor.

Mrs. Gay—"Ah, the poor girl must be studying too hard, don't you think?"

REBELLION IN STOMACH

"Pape's Diapesin" at once ends Indigestion and Sour, Acid Stomach

Lumps of undigested food cause pain. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just eat has fermented and turned sour; head-dizzy and aches; belch gases and acid; and eructate undigested food—just take a tablet or two of Pape's Diapesin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the pain, acidity, indigestion and distress. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless stomach antacid is Pape's Diapesin, which costs so little at drug stores.

Credits Must Be Established for Sale of Surplus Products.

Success of Victory Loan 1915 Will Insure Steady Markets for Farmers.

It takes some six bushels of wheat to feed the average person in Canada annually. Roughly, therefore, the eight million people here consume about 50,000,000 bushels each year. But even in a poor year the crop is some five times that amount, and the surplus must be sold if the prosperity of the Dominion is dependent to a considerable extent upon the sale of her surplus grain. The necessity of the money being forthcoming is patent.

IT DOESN'T HURT

With fingers! Corns lift out and costs only few cents

Pain? No, not one bit! Just drop a little Frezzone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift that bothersome corn right off. Yes, magic! Costs only a few cents.

Try Frezzone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Frezzone is the mysterious ether discovery of a Cincinnati genius.

Dandruff Surely Destroys the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to liquid artons apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, if you have dandruff, your hair will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single hair and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

"Returned Citizens' Party."

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—Capt. J. W. Wilton, M. P. for Assiniboia, has predicted and endorsed the formation of a "Returned Citizens' Political Party" as the final resort of returned soldiers to obtain what they considered they are entitled to, if, as he said, "the parties of groups which are subsequently to govern this country will not recognize the justice of the soldiers' claims and give them a square deal."

JELLY FISH CAN STING

It is Feared By Bathers in the Waters of the South.

(New York Times.) Although the jellyfish has long been a subject for mirth and jest he is at times more aggressive and formidable than most persons imagine. There are various kinds of jellyfish in local waters, and swimmers who have encountered them know they are most disagreeable companions. They protect themselves with long tentacles which are not unlike long, thin strips of paper, and by means of these tentacles they sting their enemies. Bathers at times have been greatly annoyed by these innocent looking jellyfish which, skimming the surface of the water, resemble a marine flower. When these tentacles or feelers brush against the flesh of a swimmer they cause a burning sensation. Although the sting is slight it leaves a red welt on the flesh which sometimes pains and itches for hours.

One of these local jellyfish compares in strength of their sting with the southern Portuguese jellyfish known as the Man-of-War. This jellyfish, Dr. John T. War progress in its aid across the Gulf Stream. Each Portuguese Man-of-War, as a matter of fact, is made up of a number of small animals of the jellyfish order, which have in common an iridescent colored bubble-like float which rests on the surface of the water. The float in turn is furnished with a fin or sail and in a good breeze the Man-of-War progresses in its aid across the wind rather than directly before it. The little animals which hang suspended from the float are not alike. Some are specialized in having in common and are so effective that if two or three of them be drawn across a man's arm they are capable of almost paralyzing it for a short time.

One of the most interesting things about this Portuguese jellyfish is a small species of fish conspicuously speckled on its body, known as the Man-of-War fish. These little fishes are not immune from the sting, and they strike occasionally against the tentacles and are killed. But in general they seem quite safe and unharmed. Up to about five years ago there had been no record of this little fish coming to the island of St. John. A representative of the American Museum who visited the island was sure they must occur because the Man-of-War drifted so frequently upon the island shore. He therefore made a special trip to a point on the shore at which the current was known to come in from the open sea. After watching for a while a Man-of-War jellyfish was seen approaching the coast on the sea's surface. With a net he swam out and scooped in the jellyfish, and sure enough when he brought it to land there was a little man-of-war fish which had accompanied it.

In universities the jellyfish is used in a study of zoology as an example of co-operation among several individuals for the common good. The technical name for the Portuguese jellyfish is Nemopsis. It is a feature of the tropics. His companion, the man-of-war fish, is two or three inches in length. The float of the jellyfish is about the size of a man's fist. Last summer a great number of jellyfish made their appearance in bays on the Rhode Island coast. They became so annoying that at times bathers refused to go into the water. A New Yorker who had never encountered a jellyfish laughed at the fears of his companions, and despite the presence of these animals went in the water, where he departed himself freely among them. He was stung many times, but told his companions who watched him

PRINCE IN FAREWELL SPEECH TO CANADIANS

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Facing the biggest audience which he has yet addressed in Canada, the Prince of Wales today spoke of Canada and his impressions of the Canadian people of the empire and lastly of himself, before a huge gathering of business and public men in the Massey Hall here today. This is considered his valedictory to Canada. The great building was packed with members of the Canadian and empire clubs, which combined today to invite the prince to meet and address them on the occasion of his informal second visit to Toronto.

The prince told of the new empire which had arisen from the war in which the dominions were no longer colonies, but sister nations of the British nation. He believed himself as belonging no more to Great Britain than to Canada or any other colony, and when he goes next week to the United States he would regard himself as a Canadian as much as he would as an Englishman making a visit. The war had shown that the free British nations could combine without loss of freedom in defence of common interests and ideals and now that peace had come the empire must show unity and co-operation just the same, for these characteristics were still necessary.

AN INSIDE BATH MAKES YOU LOOK AND FEEL FRESH

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, declaring this is of vast importance to attaining cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the alimentary canal before eating more food.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who have bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to show the value of inside bathing.

months. Dr. Rees said that it was a fact that in the United States there was a divorce for every eleven marriages. He went on to show how the age was also pre-eminent in opportunity, as witnessed in the forward movement of the cause of temperance.

Three weaknesses he pointed out were lack of prayer, lack of Bible study and lack of personal evangelism in the church. He said that the church had assumed that the people outside were not interested in its activities, while as a matter of fact they were discussing its indifference and failure to speak with them regarding becoming Christians.

The senior mission band of the Central Baptist church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Samuel Allison in Carleton street last night. Excellent reports were received from Mrs. J. H. Employers Must Co-operate

VICTORY LOAN workers are face to face with the fact that, rightly or wrongly, this year, individual investors are not moved to the same extent by the sentimental patriotic appeal which sold so many bonds in previous years.

Canada's war job is not completed and the obligation to re-establish the soldier is as binding as was the necessity for supporting him in the trenches. But not everyone can realize this. For many the sentimental appeal faded out when the foe laid down his arms. Results to date show the purchasing public is limited as compared with the number of applications received in other years.

Someone must get busy and get busy quickly if St. John and New Brunswick are going "over the top." It is up to the business man to see that the loan is taken up as a patriotic duty and as a good business proposition. The commercial community must absorb a very large share of the $9,000,000 allotted to New Brunswick. This can be done only by every business man buying to the limit and by

Financing His Employees

Several firms have already worked out a plan by which their employees may purchase bonds to the full extent of their capacity and have payments met out of their wages over a period of ten or twelve months. Such action is strongly recommended and the extra effort may mean the German gun for that employer's particular district. The Banks stand ready to assist. This is worth trying.

DECIDED TURN IN FAVOR OF PROHIBITION

Prospects For Making South Africa Dry

Reports Said to Show Uselessness of Trying to Deal With Liquor Problem There by Partially Restrictive Measures

London, Nov. 3.—Thomas Searle, president of the South African Temperance Alliance, contributes an interesting article on the prohibition movement in South Africa to the October issue of The International Record. Affairs in South Africa, he states, have taken a decided turn in favor of prohibition. In recent years the evils associated with the drink traffic—especially in the wine and Dutch Reformed Church, on account of the support it derives from the industry, was inclined to stand aloof—have become so great that the church has been obliged to take action.

Committees of Inquiry. In the course of his article, Mrs. Searle says: "During the last session of the South African Parliament, in 1918, two select committees were appointed by that body. One, to inquire into the drunkenness prevalent in the western districts (the wine and brandy districts), and the other to inquire into the working of the Transvaal liquor laws. Under the Act of Union, by which, in 1910, the four provinces—of Cape Colony, Orange Free State, Transvaal, and Natal, became the 'Union of South Africa,' provision was made that until the Union Parliament passed consolidating laws the laws in force in each of the provinces should continue to be the law in those provinces.

Thus it is that in each of these four provinces there is a different liquor law. In the Transvaal there are the gold mines, the chief labor of which is drawn from the native races, and there are about a quarter of a million of these people working there. The law of the province is total prohibition for all 'colored' and native people. But a large illicit liquor traffic is carried on, and many of the poorer classes of Europeans, chiefly Dutch, have taken to this nefarious business. The result is that very drastic laws have been passed against the traffic, but so remunerative is it that notwithstanding heavy fines and long terms of imprisonment, the traffic still flourishes.

"It was to inquire into this matter that the select committee referred to was appointed. The chairman of the committee was Mr. Rooth, a prominent supporter of the South African Political Party, which now holds the reins of government. This select committee reported, by a majority of one, that as total prohibition for natives in the Transvaal had broken down (so it said), as was shown by the large number of convictions for illicit sale, it would be better for the government itself to open cauldrons for the sale of European beer and 'nes of 'approved alcoholic strength' to these people.

Flies Before Prohibition. "The state of affairs in the mines before the total prohibition law was enacted was terrible, and drunken orgies, and consequent crime, were a very great evil. It has been proved that natives, as a rule, cannot drink in moderation, and they very soon get a craving for strong spirituous liquors. Knowing this, and the terrible state of affairs that existed before total prohibition to these people was enacted, the report of the committee above referred to—known as the 'Rooth Committee'—thoroughly roused the temperance people, and a large section of other people not actively engaged in temperance work, and made them raise their voices in protest against the dangerous proposition. Public meetings were held throughout the length and breadth of the Union. The Dutch Reformed Church, too, took action, and practically unanimously at the meetings of the presbyteries passed resolutions condemning the proposal. Nothing had ever so consolidated the temperance forces.

"Notwithstanding these protests and the very clear expression of opinion by the public, Mr. Rooth in the session of parliament which is still sitting, proposed that the recommendation of his committee should be adopted. The ministry in power, themselves, were divided on the subject, and it was made known that the matter would not be made a party issue. Thus in all the political parties there were those in favor of, and those against the proposals. It soon became apparent, however, that the proposals, if the matter came to a vote, would not get the majority support, although the issue would be fairly close. The result is that the debate has been adjourned from time to time, and no vote is likely ever to be taken.

Prohibition the Ideal. "The session is drawing to a close, and it does not seem likely that anything more will be heard of the matter before it closes. The danger is not, however, passed. Some of the members of the government strongly favor the proposals. Two political parties, chiefly representing the Dutch people, namely, the South African Party and the Nationalist Party, are both anxious to have the support of the wine and brandy farmers. Consequently both of them to some extent allow this consideration to influence them in favor of the proposals. So that it is quite possible that in the next session of parliament the matter may be again brought forward. Therefore the agitation against the proposals is being continued, and eventually it is hoped they will be defeated.

"The reports of the committee proving so conclusively the hopelessness of trying to deal with the liquor evil by merely partial restrictive measures, have convinced a large body of people outside of those usually known as temperance reformers of the necessity for total prohibition, and they are prepared to support it. The Dutch Reformed Church of the Transvaal has definitely declared that it looks upon total prohibition as the ideal at which they should aim, and they have appointed a committee to inquire into the effects of prohibition in America and elsewhere, and to act as a vigilance committee on behalf of the church. It is hoped that the synods of the churches in the other provinces will take similar action. When once the Dutch Reformed Church will untiedly and actively take up the cudgels on behalf of prohibition we may then consider the matter as practically settled."

They dream of the education they are going to give their son and vision him some day as a clergyman, a famous lawyer, an eminent physician, a prominent financier, or a captain of industry. But to make these dreams come true—or even partly true—requires foresight, planning and money. To provide the money what plan so wise as to buy Victory Bonds for each child? Change is Desired in Home-Run Rule. Batsmen Now Denied Credit Under Certain Conditions—Herrman Admits Mistake.

New York, Nov. 4.—Ban Johnson's call for a meeting of the Rules Committee of the two leagues should result in much good. There are many minor points in scoring and playing rules which might be changed.

It might be added that in nineteen out of twenty cases the club winning in nine games also would win under the seven-game arrangement.

It would be poor policy to weaken one's own club. However, most of the club owners in the two leagues are against these deliveries, and the opponents are scattered.

BIG FOOTBALL GAMES COMING

Beginning Next Saturday Feature Events Will Be Staged.

(New York Times.) The harvest season of football is at hand. The eleven of the colleges and universities are about to reap what they have sown.

At most of the so-called larger institutions one or two games are the objectives each year. Victory in their feature games discounts anything that may have transpired previously during the campaign on the chalk-lined turf.

The time has arrived when these teams are to be put to their "real tests." Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, West Point, and Annapolis are on the eve of those games which, to them and to their thousands of supporters, mean more than anything else in a football way.

On Nov. 22 Harvard and Yale meet at Cambridge. On Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, at Philadelphia, those ancient rivalries, Pennsylvania and Cornell, will play.

the contest between the Army and Navy at the Polo Grounds. Thus, beginning next Saturday and continuing for the remainder of the season, each week will be featured by one of those football fetes without which no season seems complete.

DAINGEROUS.

To the Editor of the Times, Sir,—Should there not be devised some way of protecting little children, not from mechanical dangers, but from the inhumanity of man?

Yesterday, on her way to school, my little girl of eleven narrowly escaped very serious injury. A man rushing out of an alley off Main street, ran into the child with such force that she was thrown violently sideways to the ground and became unconscious.

I think the incident deserves publicity. It may give the man who did the act food for thought. It should warn others to avoid pushing at right angles to public street, and thus help safeguard the children.

ESTABLISHING STANDARDS FOR CHILD WELFARE

An Embodiment of Expert Opinion on The Needs and Rights on Childhood

What does the American child need for growth and development consistent with his dignity as a future American citizen? At first attempt to give an authoritative and comprehensive answer to the question is found in a set of "standards for child welfare" released last week by the children's bureau of the United States department of labor. These standards are the outgrowth of a series of conferences held last spring under the auspices of the children's bureau in nine of the principal cities of the country, with men and women of national and international reputation in matters affecting childhood taking part. Tentative standards were adopted by the first conference, held in Washington, D. C., and submitted to each of the other conferences. The criticisms and suggestions made at the regional conferences have been thoroughly considered by an advisory committee named by the Washington conference to put the standards into final shape. The standards as they now stand may accordingly be taken as an embodiment of the best expert opinion on the needs and rights of childhood.

While they are presented "only as minimum standards and not as in any way limiting the degree of protection which an advanced state might desire to give its children," they offer an ideal that is considerably in advance of present-day provisions for child welfare. Among other things, they recognize that the protection of the child must begin with the protection of the mother and demand that care during pregnancy and confinement and instruction in the hygiene of maternity, infancy, and childhood be made available for all mothers through such agencies as prenatal clinics, maternity hospitals, maternity care in the home, children's health centres, and the provision of systems of public health nursing adequate to reach every mother and child. They emphasize especially the need for a family income adequate to enable mothers of young children to stay in the home, instead of going out to work with consequent neglect of home and family. For school children, they set an ideal of more and better schools, vocational guidance and training, school lunches and medical supervision. The standards applicable to working children, if universally in force, would effectively put an end to child-labor in country and city. They include a minimum working age of sixteen years, part-time compulsory continuation schools for working children between sixteen and eighteen years of age, and public responsibility for the health and general welfare of the working child. The provision of more abundant recreational facilities, with proper supervision, is also named as an essential, and a more general acceptance by the state of responsibility for the care and training of "special" children—defective, dependent and delinquents—is urged. The introduction to the standards recognizes the child welfare in the last analysis is largely dependent upon certain social and economic factors and urges an adequate wage for the father, wholesome living conditions, and the abolition of racial discrimination as fundamental to the realization of any child welfare programme.

IN EIGHT MINUTES SIX NEGROES GET DEATH VERDICT

Helena, Ark., Nov. 3.—Rapid progress marked the trials today of cases growing out of the recent race disturbances south of this city, one negro being convicted of first degree murder after eight minutes' deliberation by a circuit court jury, and five others suffering a verdict of guilty to a similar charge, all at the same time, after the juryman had been out seven minutes. The verdict means electrocution for the six negroes. In the first of the two cases tried today, that of Frank Hicks, several witnesses for the state testified that they saw Hicks fire the shots on the morning of October 1, which resulted in the death of Clinton Lee, an ex-soldier of this city. The defense announced it had no witness. Argument was waived, the jury was instructed and in eight minutes a verdict was returned. Defendants in the second case were Frank Moore, Ed. Hicks, J. E. Knox, Paul Hall and Ed. Coleman, charged jointly with the murder of Lee. Witnesses for the state testified that Moore,

Knox and Hicks acted as leaders in the incident, arguments for a verdict of second degree murder were presented by counsel appointed for the defense, instructions were given the jury and the verdict of first degree murder was returned in seven minutes. Indictments have been brought against 122 persons, mostly negroes, as a result of the disorders. Will Go Over Top. Moncton, N. B., Nov. 4.—That Westmorland county will more than reach its objective in the Victory Loan, is the emphatic statement of the officials in charge of the county organization. Moncton city is now well up to the $400,000 mark. USE The Want Ad Way
