RUSSIAN REVOLUTION BEGINS; 11 KILLED, 100 HURT BY BOMBS

Parliament Defies Govt., Demands Its Resignation and Seizes Supreme Power.

Government Must Either Resign and Make Way for Constitutional Ministry or Dismiss Parliament, Which Will Mean Civil War—Czar Must Choose Between Constitution and the Loss of His Crown and His Head and with flaming words orator after orator declared the government's programme inadmissible and said that the ministry must give way to a cabinet in which the people had confidence.

Podolsky announced that the government's reply had dashed to the ground all his hope of working in harmony with the administration.

M. Kovalesky enacted the role of Mirabeau, practically paraphrasing the Frenchman's words: "We are here by the will of the people, and nothing but bayonets can dispose us," while half a dozen peasant members hurled defiance at the ministry.

Even Count Hender, the leader of the right, deserted the government's side, saying that inasmuch as the government had refused to redress its promise to repeat the exceptional law, his vote also was for censure.

The resolution of censure was adopted, provided that the house shall proceed with the order of the day, Monday, thus adroitly placing upon the shoulders of the government the responsibility of making the next move.

For the moment, as indicated by a communication issued by the official agency at midnight, the ministry is hesitating, being ready neither to resign itself or disengage itself from its position, nor to continue its rule.

The Associated Press in authoritative fashion informed that the rumors of dissolution of parliament are untrue.

PARLIAMENT ASSUMES CONTROL

ST. PETERSBURG, May 28, 10.10 a.m.—With breathless anxiety society is awaiting the government's response to the bold action of the lower house of parliament Saturday, which in censuring the ministry and demanding its resignation, virtually has taken the step which the French states general did when it transformed itself into a national convention. By flouting the fundamental laws and practically declaring itself independent of the czar, the government, though inclined to prefer its usual policy of importation and compromise, can hardly avoid meeting parliament as a body which has been elected by the people and which has the right to demand a responsible ministry. It has become in the eyes of the law a revolutionary body and from that position there seems no retreat.

The news of the action of the house came like an electric shock, the people generally being as greatly surprised as the bureaucracy at the promptness with which the whole of the government's policy was absolutely scorned. Both sides recognize the acuteness and seriousness of the moment, but panic is in the government and not the popular camp.

Premier Gornykh went to Peterhof immediately after the adjournment of Saturday's session to confer with the emperor, and yesterday denoted agitated conferences between the ministerial leaders. The constitutional democratic chiefs are displaying calmness in the face of the crisis. They declare that having delivered their reply they propose to go calmly ahead with the work before them, forcing the government to take the initiative. The strength of their position lies in the conviction that the Russian nation, and especially the peasantry, who are sure to be disappointed at the least concerning the expropriation of land, is behind parliament in its rejection of the government's policy as utterly unacceptable.

THE CZAR'S PERIL

"The government, if it dares to fight," said M. Kokoshkine, one of the constitutional democratic members of the house, "can disperse the parliament; but the victory of the bureaucracy would only be temporary. It would inevitably be followed shortly by a bloody revolution which would not leave a stick of the present government standing. The emperor must take his own part."

GENERAL NEWS OF GREAT BRITAIN

Happenings of Special Interest to America.

Paul Lambeth a Famous English Journalist of London Writes of the Mother Land.

(Special to the Sun.) BY PAUL LAMBETH (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)

LONDON, May 28.—The real facts about the recent scare caused by the rumor that King Edward had died suddenly in Paris have only just leaked out. Many persons, of course, jumped to the conclusion that the rumor was spread by people interested in sending the price of government stock down on the stock exchange, but the actual facts are as follows:

The business man named Joseph King, who is fairly well known in Parisian London business circles, dropped dead in the French capital from heart failure. His friends at once wired his majesty in London the words, "King Edward has died in Paris." A lady clerk who opened the telegram at once told every one in the office that the King was dead.

The rumor spread in an incredibly short time, and in a few minutes the stock market was in a panic. The business was almost a panic in the newspaper offices and a distinct slump on the exchange.

These facts were gathered at the earnest request of the King himself, who was very much distressed about the matter, and insisted on knowing how the report had arisen.

There was an amusing scene at the Opera House Covent Garden the other day during one of the early evening performances which began at 8 o'clock and ended at 11—later. The majority of people do not know what to wear on these occasions, and when the result is chaos.

Mrs. George Cornwallis West (formerly Lady Randolph Churchill), her matter, she quite decided about the matter. She walked into the stalls wearing an enormous coat with feathers and perched at the fashionable angle of forty-five degrees. At the back of the hat she attached to it a bunch of false curls to match her dark hair—also in the fashion.

For a long time some enthusiastic German ladies, in the row behind, who had come without hats in high spirits, tried to be patient, but at length they resorted to a hostile demonstration, and called upon Mrs. West in one loud voice to remove her headgear.

For a long time Mrs. West preserved a dignified calm, but at length she, too, lost patience, and, turning round, icily remarked: "When the lights go out I may possibly oblige you; but not before." She had remembered the bunch of curls. But she took of her hat in the dark part.

MORE MURDERS.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 27.—M. Shatalov, warden of the city prison here, was shot four times today, and mortally wounded by an 18 year old youth, who was executing a social-revolutionist sentence in revenge for Shatalov's bad treatment of political prisoners. The assassin, whose name is Skutimkin, killed the warden and tried to stop him, but afterwards was arrested.

ELEVEN KILLED IN SEBASTOPOL.

SEBASTOPOL, May 27.—Several bombs were thrown here today while a review of troops was being held at the Te Deum in celebration of the anniversary of the emperor's coronation. Three persons were killed and several wounded. Among the wounded were the commander of the fortress, General Nagulov, who received slight hurts, and the chief of police, who was gravely injured. Other high dignitaries escaped. Vice-Admiral Choukine, commander of the Black Sea fleet, who is a special favorite of the emperor, was not present. Two of the bomb throwers were arrested.

RECENT DEATHS.

DAVID LAMORAUX.

The death of David B. Lamoraux, of King street, Carleton, removed one of the oldest and best known residents of the west side. Mr. Lamoraux was 90 years of age, and could remember the time when Fort La Tour stood on the site now known as the "Old Fort." He was of Loyalist descent, both his father and grandfather having been among the Loyalists. He was one of the oldest members of Ludlow street Baptist church. Mr. Lamoraux is survived by a widow and one son, Andrew D. O. of Carleton, and five daughters, Mrs. Olive, Alberts; Mrs. John Thomas, Moncton; Mrs. Mary Rolston, Carleton, and Mrs. W. L. Stevens, Brunswick, Me.

MRS. JOHN ESTABROOKS.

SACKVILLE, May 27.—The death of Mrs. John Estabrooks, Salem street, occurred on Wednesday evening after a short but painful illness which was patiently borne. Mrs. Estabrooks' maiden name was Bulmer. She was a woman of sterling character, and her death is sincerely regretted not only by her immediate family but by a wide circle of friends. She is survived by a husband and three daughters, Mrs. John M. Oulton, Sackville; Miss Lena, in the west; and Miss Sadie at home. Mrs. Donald Ellis, Carleton, is a step-daughter. Funeral takes place this afternoon.

DEAN PARTRIDGE'S WILL.

FREDERICTON, N. B., May 28.—The will of the late Dean Partridge was probated this morning. Estate consists of $2,700 entirely personal, and is left to the widow. Under the will Mrs. Partridge and the late R. B. Winslow are the executors.

Among the comparatively new American hostesses who will entertain this season are Mrs. Francis J. Leggett, of New-York; and Mrs. Charles Wheeler, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Lakretz has the same house which she took last year in Bruton street, and intends giving a cotillion later on. Mrs. Wheeler has not quite decided on a house, but it will be somewhere in Mayfair. Her daughter is married to Count Pappenheim and lives in the Isle of Wight. Mrs. Wheeler intends to have her daughter with her most of the time.

Nearly every American hostess of note is "lying in wait" for Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who is expected to reach Dorchester House, the American Ambassador's house, in Park Lane, on June 2.

TROUBLE IN MONCTON

NEWSPAPER CIRCLES

MONCTON, May 28.—Lively times are promised in provincial newspaper circles. It is certain well founded rumors which are rife in Moncton amount to anything, and it is quite likely that they will.

It is understood here that four distinct actions for alleged libel will be taken by I. C. R. employees at Moncton against the Montreal Star, its managing editor and those responsible for contributing to or promoting the publication of articles attacking these four persons. It is further understood that a deputy returning officer at the last general elections in Westmorland county has instructed that proceedings be taken against the Montreal Star, its managing editor and its Moncton correspondent, for having published an indefensible character against him when acting in such capacity.

It is reliably stated as well that an application is about to be made to the supreme court in connection with the recent assault case at Dorchester for a rule calling upon the editor of the Moncton Times and his reporter to show cause why they should not be committed for contempt of court for having, it is alleged, unfairly commented upon the case during the progress of the trial. It is also understood that an action is being taken against the Times for having recently described an I. C. R. employe as a spotter on the trains.

The opening of the city league, scheduled to take place this afternoon, was spoiled on account of rain. This is the first time that the opening of the league has met with unfavorable weather.

CHATHAM NEWS

CHATHAM, May 28.—The Central Telephone Co. has a crew of forty men stringing wires from Bathurst to Newcastle. This company will have, when this section of their line is finished, a very complete service for the north shore counties. The poles have already been placed in position, and on Saturday the crew of men were started from the Bathurst end, working towards Newcastle.

A. W. Wilbur returned from a trip to Shipigan on Saturday.

A man by the name of James Boudreau went to the Bank of Nova Scotia at Campbellton the other day and drew out $100. He afterwards fell in with two men and after having knocked around in their company for a couple of hours discovered that his money was gone. So far he has not located the strangers.

The A. O. H. dance at Newcastle on Wednesday night was attended by a large number of people, who went up river in the R. R. Call.

J. T. Windsor, a prominent resident of New Mills, Restigouche, passed away last week, leaving a wife and two small children. The deceased conducted a large wholesale business in accordance with the policy inaugurated by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. to reduce the provincial staff, it has been decided to close the Chatham office on June 4th. Assistant Superintendent Edgett has been transferred to Moncton, and from that town he will manage the Chatham and Newcastle agencies.

have enriched the Spanish language!" "Lalor, have you no fear of capture?" Lalor could not withhold the question.

"Ah, no, my dear friend, none," the thin class-like fingers were spread to the breeze, "none whatever. I shall die at my own time and in my own fashion."

"The young author sighed. He had grown almost attached to the strange inhuman outlaw, and he could not now know, could be touched to such a fate."

"Why do you sigh?" Don Q. asked in his courteous way.

"Fardon me," exclaimed the young man, "but who of us can say that luck will forever be on his side? You are here alone. Those who are with you have called on you to die."

"The young author sighed. He had grown almost attached to the strange inhuman outlaw, and he could not now know, could be touched to such a fate."

DEATHS OF SCOTIA MEN.

Drank Too Much Liquor

Winter was breaking and the plains were already gay with flowers, when Garth Lalor returned to the Boca de Lobo as Don Q.'s guest. An invitation from so uncommon a source might not have been accepted by every one with the eagerness shown by Garth Lalor.

Don Q. wrote that he had need of a friend, and Lalor responded by setting out at once, for he had long ago grown to like Don Q. for many of the remarkable points in his strange character.

Lalor, as will doubtless be remembered, had accompanied Don Q. on that terrific tour of justice, during which summary vengeance was dealt out to a certain Gen. Don Basilio; and the brigand's conduct had inspired Lalor with an unmitigated respect for him and faith in his promises.

He had already spent nearly a month with the famous sequesterador, but during the last couple of weeks, his host of the sterna had remained plunged in a mood of melancholy, shot and illumined by flashes of cold rage.

One morning he sat on the terrace sunning himself in the brilliant sun. Don Q. joined him. Chilly as usual, the chief wrapped in his cloak, his sombrero pulled low over his brows, sat for a few moments in silence, then he disengaged one meagre hand, and pointing downward at the men gathered in groups in the valley below, he told a story in his sibilant voice.

"One of these wolves, these mountain apes," he began surlily, "has dared to play a little game in imitation of me."

"Of me, in short, who would expect the result one would expect from such a rascally, as regards the content of himself, it matters not at all. But he has injured me in a degree so monstrous that his blood alone cannot wash out his crime."

"One Pablo has captured and held ransom a lady of wealthy though not noble family. It came to my knowledge as all events ultimately come, and I descended the mountains and caught the fellow near the mountain chief went on. "Perhaps, señor, you did me the honor to miss me at the desamino yesterday?" I returned, bringing both Pablo and his captive with me. The señorita had been frightened, even maltreated."

Don Q. his eyes on the content of his malevolence that Lalor involuntarily rejoiced that it was not directed against himself. "Then I considered what I should do."

"The outcome of these terrible misdeeds appeared to be a letter that Don Q. now unfolded before the young Englishman.

to walk ten paces forward—the ninth step including a fall of 400 feet. This little promenade, when explained by Lalor to the person of whom there was in question, caused a highly unpleasant quarter of an hour. I can promise you, señor, as regards the content of myself, it matters not at all. But he has injured me in a degree so monstrous that his blood alone cannot wash out his crime."

"In a moment a group of men, halting with their reluctant captives, appeared climbing the path. In front of them walked a handsome girl of perhaps 20 years of age. She had the graceful gait of her nation, and the tremble palmar, and the appeal in her beautiful eyes seemed to touch the chilled heart of the chief.

He roared with conspicuous elation of movement, and sweat his hat to the ground.

"The girl grew whiter as he gazed at the baldheaded vulture aspect of Don Q. She turned to Lalor, and reading in his glance, she begged him to plead for her.

"There will be no need, señorita," replied Lalor, halting Spanish, "Don Q. is your best friend."

"I beg you, señorita, to accept my most humble apologies for the indignity you have suffered. As regards the content of myself, it matters not at all. But he has injured me in a degree so monstrous that his blood alone cannot wash out his crime."

THE SEMI-WEEKLY SUN.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MAY 30, 1908.

THE NEW I. C. R.

Hon. Mr. Emmons has made a notable convert. The Toronto Globe which heretofore has persistently refused to take any stock in the declarations of the Minister of Railways that he was planning the Intercolonial Railway on a business basis and would make it pay, and has continually advocated management by a commission, now retracts and makes handsome apology.

It has taken a good deal to banish the Globe's doubt. That journal has always made light of Mr. Emmons's promises of reform and his predictions of success and even when the returns month by month since last August showed steady substitution of surpluses for deficits, it refused to believe. What converted it was Mr. Fielding's announcement in his budget speech that for the first ten months of the present fiscal year—months which last year piled up a deficit of nearly two millions—the deficit was only a little over one hundred thousand dollars, which amount the minister of finance was hopeful would be completely wiped out before the year ended.

In proclaiming its new conviction that Mr. Emmons is the right man in the right place and that his policy is in the best interests of the people's road, the Globe honestly admits its previous doubt. "In dealing with the problem of the Intercolonial," it says, "we in no respect obscured the fact that none of Mr. Emmons's predecessors had succeeded in making any real and permanent improvement. Some of them showed creditable efficiency in the service and an uncommonly large deficit; others reduced the deficit, but gave an utterly inefficient service; he was asked to so reorganize the administration and to develop the business as to make the railway meet the working expenses of an efficient service in both freight and passenger departments. We were quite prepared to find that the reorganization of the enterprise would be a work of time.

"Having spoken thus plainly and with appreciation of the facts of the situation," it continues, "it is the more gratifying to note the success which the Hon. Mr. Emmons and his colleagues, who were held to account for their part in the failure, are now able to show. In his budget speech Mr. Fielding announced that for the first ten months of the present fiscal year the revenue was only $115,708 short of the prospect is good for the wiping out of this diminished deficit before the end of June. This change in the financial showing has been effected by a courageous dealing with the affairs of the road. Courage was required as well as ability and knowledge, and for this credit is due not only to the minister of railways himself, but also to Mr. Emmons who was first to declare to the deputy minister, Mr. Butler.

But still the Globe contends that the problem of the Intercolonial is not yet solved. "It is a much larger problem," it says, "than one year's effort could solve. Sir Charles Tupper made a great ado about his success in wiping out the deficit, but his achievement was the biggest business blunder in the whole history of the enterprise. Mr. Emmons will not care for that sort of solution. Not for one year, but for year in and year out the expenses for the operation and upkeep of the road should be met out of the revenue.

And that is precisely what Mr. Emmons is going to do. The Globe to the contrary, he has discovered the solution of the problem; and, difficult as the problem seemed, it is a very simple solution. It is just the application to government business of the everyday principles and procedure of ordinary private business; just the elimination of graft and pull; just the institution of energy and honesty and common-sense. What he would have done as president of a private railroad, he has done as minister of railways, only instead of looking after the interests of a few shareholders he has been working for the Canadian people. The Intercolonial is a good road with a good and growing traffic, and it has now the only other element needed to bring success—good management.

THE REVOLUTION.

The Russian revolution has begun, and in a manner ominously similar to the great overturn in France. Parliament has formulated and presented its demands. The government has refused to grant them, Parliament has voted its want of confidence in the government and has demanded the resignation of Premier Goremykin with his Cabinet.

Parliament has also declared its intention of going ahead with the country's business as though the government and the fundamental law were non-existent. In other words, parliament has openly declared itself the supreme power, just as the French states general, convened by Louis XVI, did when it made itself the national convention.

This is revolution—nothing less. Whether it shall be another red revolution depends now upon the Cesar and his government. If Goremykin and his colleagues bow to the storm and resign, making way for a constitutional ministry, the great reform will have been accomplished. If they hold to their places they must dismiss parliament; there is no room for both. And the dismissal of parliament at this time means civil war, and only God knows how much of bloodshed and horror before the people triumph.

For the people will win, must win. All previous attempts at revolt have been scattered, sporadic, abortive. This is official and general. Parliament has undoubtedly the confidence and, in this action, the hearty sympathy of the vast majority of all the Russians. The refusal of the government to grant the desired amnesty for political offenders will intensify ten-fold the hatred of the cities and towns, and its failure to accept parliament's suggestion for the settlement of the agrarian problem or to offer any definite solution of its own will settle definitely the attitude of the peasantry, who form the great mass of the people, and who have, as a class, been indifferent to all this revolutionary clamor, and, as a rule, loyal to the Cesar. But the settlement of this land problem means bread to those who are starving, and bread is dearer even than liberty.

That is why the agrarian question is the greatest issue in Russia today. We do not hear so much of it as of the matters that interest the shouters in the cities, because the peasants are inarticulate. But they are deadly in earnest. When Cesar Alexander liberated the serfs, each freedman got a grant of land to be paid for in instalments. But the grants were not large, and except in the most fertile districts could produce barely enough for subsistence even then. Since then families have increased vastly. The land held by the peasants is incapable of supporting those dependent upon it, much less of producing revenue sufficient to pay off past indebtedness. So the cry of the peasants is "More land." Parliament recommended this to be satisfied by a distribution of crown and church lands, and, later, the wholesale expropriation of private landed estates, on a plan something like the Irish Land Act which has worked so well. But the government has refused to consider it. Had the Cesar made this concession and pacified the peasants he might have been able to defy and eventually defeat the others. Now he has all against him save those to whom the present regime means roubles and gold lace. The army, they declare, is loyal; but no army ever was loyal in such a situation.

The days are big with tremendous happenings. Russia has slipped its chains. Unless its nominal rulers submit quietly and make the best bargain they may, we shall see, perhaps today or tomorrow or next week, the greatest national upheaval that history has yet recorded.

NATIONALIZATION AND PRESENT NEEDS.

"The common council," says the Globe, "has not yet made a move towards the nationalization of the port." Delegates from the common council have been assured by the minister of public works that the government has not yet even considered the national port proposition. He was confident the policy would some day be adopted, but he said, it would take time.

take at this moment. But there are other matters connected with this harbor which demand immediate attention. Chief of these is the definite settlement of the berth question for next winter. Nearly every existing Sand Point berth needs some excavation, and if this port is to be in a position to cope with the seasonal traffic at least one big new berth must be provided. The settlement of present difficulties regarding the proposed extension of the pier and the procuring of timber for that extension are far more important than discussions on nationalization just now, though of course in any action that may be taken the larger issue must not be lost sight of.

Stewart, and was unanimously decided to admit press representatives at all future deliberations of the board. Application had been made by J. Fred Benson, editor and proprietor of the Commercial, to have a representative at the meetings in the interest of the public, and this was granted by the vote. D. G. Smith, late of the Chatham Advance, had formerly contended for the right of admittance to the board meetings with much warmth, but the trustees remained obdurate.

TRAVELLED 2,000 MILES ON A RAFT OF STAVES

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 26.—A sensational story of the sea is related by the officers of the German steamer Witliad, which has arrived at Sydney from the islands of the Bismarck Archipelago.

A few weeks ago six French convicts from New Caledonia were discovered on a remote portion of the islands of New Britain in a deplorable condition, and on being questioned it was ascertained that they, with ten others, had escaped from Noumea nearly twelve months ago.

They constructed several rude rafts from staves of beer barrels, and rigged their frail craft with sails of the search of civilization, and eventually they were found and brought to Herbertshöhe.

A WONDERFUL POTATO!

MOST ENORMOUS CROPPER. PERFECTLY BLIGHT PROOF.

Double the crop off the same ground, and every one a sound one. Introduced in England in 1865 at $100 per 14 lbs., three months later its blight proof and enormous cropping features caused the greatest sensation, resulting in record prices of all time, as high as $125 per lb. being paid, and $250 for one tuber.

"Even so recently as September last, when Mr. G. Massey sold 14 lbs. of Eldorados for $20 ($100) people were amazed and incredulous; yet three months later the same gentleman received a cheque for $1,400 ($7000) for 14 lbs. of the same variety."—Free Press (England), Jan. 19th, 1904.

"The yield of the Eldorado potato, the kind that brought the record price, is reported to run from 150 to 300 lbs. from one lb. of seed tubers."—Rural New York, Jan. 14, 1905.

Introduced here by us in 1905 at $12 per lb., Eldorado is repeating on a smaller scale the sensation it created in England, making the record prices of all time for the U. S. and Canada. April 30 to S. J. Conolly, Fishers, N. Y., 2 bbls. (280 lbs) of Eldorados for $300. April 25th last, to Mr. P. S. Beherill, Jarvis Street, Toronto, 40 lbs. for $40. A great many sales of 30 to 50 lbs. made to the leading seed potato growers, Experimental Farms, etc., in Canada and the U. S. These are aware of the history of the truly wonderful potato.

One lb. planted now, within two years, will yield enough to plant all the acreage you want. Every lb. planteds worth $10. Plant now, next year sell seed to your friends.

One lb. planted by us 20th June last raised 140 lbs. that year. Crops of 800 to 1200 bushels per acre common.

Pure Seed Eldorados $1 per lb. Sold only by us in Canada. Send for list, containing history, photos of potatoes, checks paid, extracts $1 papers etc. Also 28 other kinds.

Everyone of average intelligence knows something of the immense value of Cod Liver Oil and Iron as remedial agents. were given to ten patients and the result was a net increase in weight of ninety-five pounds; we are aware that we are asking a great deal; nevertheless we are prepared to prove that this is an absolute fact, by evidence that no reasonable person can reject. Moreover, this is no isolated instance, but only one of many equally remarkable.

There is no surer indication of approaching disease than a considerable loss of weight and even where this is not the case, a man whose weight is not up to the average is always in danger of contracting any of the germ diseases which are unfortunately so prevalent. On the other hand, while his weight is well maintained, a man is practically proof against attack, and if disease is already present, the fact that the weight is being increased is proof positive that the disease is being overcome.

The desirability of maintaining the weight should therefore be apparent. In view of this we can confidently recommend "FERROL" as the surest, speediest and most effective medicine by which the weight may be maintained or restored.

WAR PARTY TRYING TO RULE GERMANY

Efforts Being Made to Gain Supreme Control.

These Politicians Hope to Make Their Country the Greatest in the World—
First Step is a Larger Navy.

BERLIN, May 26.—Sensational revelations of secret influence at work at the German Court are made by the "Deutsche Tageszeitung" and one or two other leading Conservative newspapers.

A powerful group of German nobles and high officers of the army and navy, who may be briefly termed the "war party," have recently redoubled their efforts to acquire predominant influence at court, and thereby over the home and foreign policy of the German Government.

They aim at getting rid of Prince Buelow and the new Foreign Secretary, Herr von Tschirschky. Having removed from power these two statesmen, both of whom exercise a moderating influence, the war party hope to initiate an energetic aggressive policy.

They are pan-Germans, and believe that Germany shall become the supreme power in the world. Their first object as a means to this end is a rapid increase in the strength of the German fleet.

The dangerous character of their intrigues may be gathered from the fact that the "Deutsche Tageszeitung," which is itself a strictly Conservative journal in favor of a big navy and a strong foreign policy, denounces them as a public danger.

ZULU REBELLION IS FIZZLING OUT

Shell Fire Has Frightened the Natives

And Only the Younger Men are Now in the Field—A Loyal Chief's Kraal Looted by the Rebels.

DURBAN, May 26.—Bambaata, Duniyana and N'Dabalinga, Sigamandi's principal sons, are each in command of the Impis, and each has a separate camp near Cetewayo's grave, where they have erected temporary huts.

The shell fire has had a marked moral effect in frightening the wavering rebels, and the older men are now remonstrating with the young bloods. Recent reports show that Sigamandi was very sanguine of obtaining Diniwuli's assistance, but now several of Sigamandi's head men are urging him to abandon Bambaata.

The rebels were all "doctored" before the fight hence the desperate character of their charge, as they believed themselves invulnerable. The heavy losses they sustained have greatly undermined the prestige of the witch doctors who accompany Bambaata, and on whom the rebel leader has hitherto thrown great reliance.

The rebels have looted the kraal of the loyal native chief, Zulwani. A column is out to punish the rebels. A skirmish with them took place, resulting in the recapture of the cattle of the loyal chief and the burning of various kraals of the rebels.

"PECULIAR PEOPLE" LET THE CHILD DIE

Verdict of Manslaughter Against an Englishman

Whose Daughter Had Pneumonia and Who Failed to Send for a Physician.

LONDON, May 26.—A verdict of "manslaughter" has just been returned at the Lambeth coroner's court against John Cook, a member of the sect known as the "Peculiar People." He allowed his child, Dorothy May Cook, seven years old, to die without medical attendance.

Some remarkable evidence was given by the father and other members of the sect as to their ideas of the proper method of dealing with illness. Cook appeared in court carrying a Testament, and when the coroner asked him what his belief was concerning the treatment of illness, he held it up and said:

"Our belief in regard to the treatment of illness is according to this book. If any one is afflicted we call in the elder. There must be laying on of hands; anointing with oil, and the prayer of faith to save the sick, and the Lord shall raise them up if it is His will."

"Do you call in doctors?" "We do not. Our faith is in the Lord." Cook then explained that although the "Peculiar People" do not believe in doctors, and object to poisons, they give the sick every nourishment possible, keep the sick room at an even temperature and that in his child's case a steam kettle was used.

"We do our part, and the Lord will do His," he said. Faith and physic don't mix.

When his child became ill the elder, James Whalley, was called in, he said. Whalley laid hands on the child in the name of the Lord, appointed her, and held two prayer meetings for her.

"Had you any means to pay for a doctor?" the coroner asked.

"That was not really the question," Cook replied. "I have not much means, but if I had a belief in a doctor I should have had him."

Grace Cook, the child's mother, said that she agreed with her husband's religion and approved of the treatment of the child.

James Whalley, the elder, said he was a packer by trade, and described his

BIG AFRICAN APE ESCAPED FROM CAGE

It Was Being Brought to England on a Steamer

After Much Difficulty the Animal Was Secured and Killed by a Dose of Opium.

LONDON, May 26.—On board the Union-Castle liner Comrie Castle, which has just arrived at Plymouth was a fine collection of wild animals captured in Africa by Mr. Windhorn, a German dealer. Mr. Windhorn had a very narrow escape of serious injury when the vessel had been to sea about a week.

Among the collection of seven baboons was a large ape of the Sphinx species. These animals were kept in large iron cages in the fore-hold, along side five wolves, an African hornbill, three Stanley (or Paradise) cranes and eight thorn ibisards. By some means the ape succeeded in forcing the bars of its cage, and when Mr. Windhorn and the attendants went to see the animals one morning they discovered the wild brute gambling about the hold.

In the endeavor to get the ape back to its cage Mr. Windhorn was severely bitten by the animal. He slipped, and whilst on the floor the animal sprang upon him, tore his left hand, and bit him on the right foot. Other means of capture having failed, a large grating was secured over the hatchway leading to the hold, and on this some apples and oranges were placed, so that the animal, in order to reach them, had to stretch his powerful arms through the bars. After a little time the ape made a grab at the apples with both hands. Whilst in this position both his hands were lashed together. The animal continued in such a wild state that the use of drugs was resorted to. But neither these nor the liberal supply of whiskey produced the desired effect. Enough opium was then administered to kill ten men. The drug was put in a bottle of lemonade, which the ape consumed at one gulp. The animal lived five days. Its head was cut off in order to recover the insurance, and the carcass was consigned to the deep.

SLANDEROUS STATEMENTS ABOUT SOUTH AFRICA

Are Bitterly Resented by Some People of That Colony—The Dutch Movement.

DURBAN, May 26.—A large section of public opinion here is growing bitter against what are described as the slanders uttered at home regarding the colony. It is declared that the Cape, the Transvaal, and Natal have in turn been grossly maligned. The Mercury says: "Since the Radicals have been throughout South Africa has perceptibly strengthened. Although they may not have intended it, the traducers of the colonies are hastening the federation of South Africa. This federation will form a united people, unitedly loyal to the Empire, whereas those who have wantonly strained its loyalty will have sunk into the political obscurity from which they have temporarily emerged."

The same newspaper, referring to ex-President Steyn's speech, says that it is a travesty of history so conceived as to stir up racial hatred while professing to depreciate it. The Dutch, it says, are aiming to restore the position which existed before the war, with Mr. Steyn as their head.

WOMEN'S DRESSES MUST HAVE NO TRAINS

And a Hot Discussion Has Aroused Over It—Dress Reformers Favor the Law—Police Instructed to Act.

BERLIN, May 26.—The Nordhausen Town Council has leapt into sudden notoriety by passing a municipal by-law prohibiting women from wearing dresses with trains within the boundaries of the town.

Another by-law requires the police to enforce the prohibition with great stringency, and to arrest all offending women, who will be punished by fines not exceeding 25. Repeated offences against the by-law may be punished with imprisonment.

The energetic action of the council raised a heated controversy. Some maintain that the prohibition is illegal, and measures are to be taken immediately to tests the rights of the council to interfere with individual liberty to this extent.

THE NEW VICTORIA STATION IN LONDON

LONDON, May 26.—The new Victoria Station, which will be opened formally on June 1, will be one of the finest and largest railway termini in London.

The platforms of the new Victoria will extend to Elizabeth Bridge, and altogether will measure more than two miles, and there will be nine miles of rails under the station roof, which covers an area of 400,000 square feet.

The energetic action of the council raised a heated controversy. Some maintain that the prohibition is illegal, and measures are to be taken immediately to tests the rights of the council to interfere with individual liberty to this extent.

One eminent authority states that the town cannot prevent women from wearing trains, but only from dragging them along the ground. Trains are thus permissible if women will lift their dresses properly as they walk.

Advocates of female dress-reform bestow unlimited praise on the Nordhausen Council for its courageous action, and urge other municipal authorities to follow its example. They declare that the train is a public nuisance, and a danger to public health, and as women refuse to abolish it voluntarily, the intervention of the public authorities to compel them must be warmly welcomed.

The platforms of the new Victoria will extend to Elizabeth Bridge, and altogether will measure more than two miles, and there will be nine miles of rails under the station roof, which covers an area of 400,000 square feet.

The alterations are not yet complete and at the outset only Platforms 8 and 9 will be used, but congestion of traffic owing to lack of platform accommodation will be prevented by an ingenious method devised by Mr. C. I. Morgan, the London, Brighton, and South Coast Company's chief engineer.

Three lines of rails have been laid between each platform between Euston and Elizabeth Bridges, so that trains, after they have discharged their passengers, are enabled to run ahead and allow another train to come to the platform.

Grosvenor Bridge Station, standing on the bridge crossing the Thames, is now the widest railway bridge in the world. Including the metals of the South-Eastern and Chatham Company, it now carries nine sets of complete running roads.

The Grosvenor Hotel annexes the site, which when completed will make the hotel the largest in London, is built on the ends of 586 pitchpine piles, which have been driven down fifty feet in the blue London clay and covered over with thousands of tons of concrete. The ground floor of the hotel will be occupied by waiting rooms, the booking halls, and refreshment rooms.

WOMEN ARE FORGETTING ANCIENT SUPERSTITIONS

Opals are No Longer Considered Unlucky, and Thirteen is a Happy Number.

PARIS, May 26.—There are signs that certain long-established superstitions are losing their hold on women. The dainty but unlucky May blossom is to be found on most of the spring millinery. Peacock's feathers, which spell disaster last season, now gracefully wave above the smart French sash hat.

"Opals are becoming more popular every year," a jeweller remarked this week. "Some of my customers who would have turned pale two seasons ago at the idea of wearing the unlucky jewel, are investing in sets of this beautiful stone, which tones admirably with any costume."

"A young lady chose her engagement ring at this counter last week because it was set with thirteen diamonds."

FAVORS COMPULSORY MILITARY EDUCATION

Col. Kitchener Urges New Zealand to Adopt the Plan Advocated by Lord Roberts.

WELLINGTON, May 26.—Colonel Kitchener, who is here on a holiday, urges New Zealand to arrange a modified scheme of compulsory military education and this to set an example that the Mother Country would shortly be ashamed to follow. He states that all soldiers, from Lord Roberts downwards, are striving to push this fact into the minds of an ignorant public with little success. The volunteers, though excellent as far as they go, probably do more harm than good by lulling the public into a state of false security. Were Germany or some other European power to establish sea pre-emption, the New Zealand coal fields would prove a rich and easy prey.

Vienna Doctor Pays Heavy Damages for Giving a Patient Too Strong a Dose.

VIENNA, May 26.—Dr. Holanoch, of the Vienna General Hospital has had to pay $7,500 for giving a patient an overdose of Rontgen rays.

Herr Haas, of Vienna, consulted the specialist, Prof. Lang, about a skin disease on his back in 1902, and was sent by him for treatment to Dr. Holanoch, who is the chief of the Rontgen department in the hospital. Herr Haas was so badly burned that he nearly lost his life, and had to be in bed for nearly a year. He brought an action against both the doctors, submitting that the effects of the Rontgen rays was not sufficiently understood in 1902 to justify their use for medical purposes. The court acquitted Prof. Lang.

A DOG CONDEMNED TO DEATH FOR MURDER

Geneva Jury Ordered the Animal Shot—Its Q'ners Also Found Guilty.

GENEVA, May 26.—Two men named Schorner have been sentenced for imprisonment for life, and their dog to be shot, by the Court at Dolomont, in the Canton of Soleure.

They were charged with the murder of a wealthy farmer named Merger. The dog had torn the throat of the farmer, who was also wounded severely by a knife.

The two men pleaded that the murder was committed by the dog, and much of a time of the trial was occupied in hearing evidence for and against the animal.

When the maximum penalty allowed by Swiss law was passed on the Schorners, they burst into tears. The dog, which was muzzled, fought savagely as it was removed from the court to be shot.
