CRIPPLE OFFERS LEG TO HELP VICTIMS OF FIRE

Is Willing to Aid Skin Grafting Necessary to Save Several Lives at Buffalo.

[Canadian Press.]

Buffalo, N. Y., June 2.-In a letter to Mayor Fuhrmann, Charles F. Golner, of Wheeling, W. Va., a cripple offers to part with his left leg to aid the victims of the Husted elevator fire upon whose bodies large quantities of skin must soon be grafted. Golner says in his letter:

"My left limb has been of no service to me since it was crushed a number of years ago, though the skin, according to a specialist, is in a perfectly healthy condition. I would gladly give it to the Husted mill sufferers with the understanding that the expense of the operation be borne by those engaged in relief and rescue

When he explained to Magistrate Juda that he left there over a week ago with a roll of $700, the court arrived at the conclusion that it was just a plain, ordinary spree which would only be terminated when the money was all gone. Accordingly he informed Bishop that he was going to take the money and send it to the latter's wife. This proposal was met with strenuous objection from the prisoner. He would go right back and take the money home, he said. The court gave him an opportunity to carry out his promise, and an officer was sent to the station with him to buy his ticket and see him off.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 2. NEW ONTARIO AGAIN STRICKEN. For the second time in two years, Northern Ontario has been scourged by forest fires. Present reports indicate that the loss towns of Cochrane and South Porcupine, which were swept away in 1911, have been saved. Cochrane was then a "shack" town; today it has rows of brick buildings, permanent pavements, sewers, electric lighting and waterworks. These new communities have a phoenix-like facility for rising from their ashes. The effects of the great fire of 1911 were evident a year later

But much of the burned timber stood on non-arable soil, and the Jap differentiate him from the yelmany millions of stored lumber were also destroyed. It may be found, too, that many settlers have lost their effects, if not their lives.

The problem of fire protection is the most serious one in that north country. In a dry spell the dropping of a lighted cigarette, a spark from a locomotive, a neglected camp fire, may send a torrent of flame over thousands of square miles, and consume millions of dollars of the capital of the Province. The corps of fire rangers in this terirtory do much valuable preventive work, but they cannot cope with a fire which has gained headway when the of Chinese dress may have reflected forest is like tinder. The clearing of upon their geographical neighbors in the land by fires and settlement re- spite of Japanese readiness to don the duces the danger to the people in the country, but outside the settled and arable areas the flames carry nothing but loss. Fortunately the Government reserve, with its incalculable tinue unabated? There is no such diwealth of pine, has been spared. The viding line, either physical or mental, settlement and development will not be stayed, and lessons have been taught which will be useful in reducing the risks of the future.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Ever and anon there comes an outburst of high sounding words from some Conservative paper or orator on the great sin of the Senate in obstructing the will of the people on the naval question. One would think, to hear them complain, that for the Senate to oppose the majority in the House of Commons was unprecedented. Their memories are so convenient that they cannot go back sixteen years or so, when there was a Liberal majority in the House, and a Conservative majority in the Senate If the voice of the people's representatives in the House of Commons is Ladies make pets of dark-faced Hindu really the voice of the people, then the Conservative senators set the pre-

But this is beside the question. What is the voice of the people on the naval question? We should like to be sure. It has never been expressed. The Liberals believe that it is in favor of a Canadian navy; and they are willing to have the question asked. and answered. The Conservatives profess to believe that it would be in favor of a policy of naval contribution; but they are not willing to have the question asked, for fear the answer might not be what they want. If there is doubt as to what the voice of the people may be the Conservative leaders can get the answer just as soon as they like. Why do they not? Mr. Borden pledged himself that if Parliament did not pass his naval bill he would appeal to the people. Parliament did not pass it. Where is that appeal? To say that it would be useless to ask the will of the people, because even if it were in favor of Mr. Borden's contribution policy, Sir Wilfrid in the House, and the Liberals in the Senate, would still continue to block it, is all nonsense; and they know it. No one really believes that the Liberals, either in the clear that such a condition can be eas-House or the Senate, would deliberately obstruct a measure upon which judice might be overcome, caution and the people had voted favorably. They the motive of self-preservation would would doubtless express their opinion still remain on the Caucasian side, about it; but they would not go further. Sir George Ross, speaking for the Liberal senators, has said in effect that he only wants to know what the people want. If they want a naval contribution, he may not approve of the policy, but he will not interfere with its adoption. And Mr. Borden and his associates know this just as well as Sir Wilfrid and Sir

They will have to be filled before are distribution bill by-elections at once We will admit that the vote of two or three constituencies would not be decisive; it might not even be a safe indication of the sentiment of the whole Dominion. But, still it would give some of the people a chance to say what they thought; why not let them say it? The only inference is that the Government does not want to know what the people wish, for fear that the Government wish and the popular wish may not agree

RACE AND PREJUDICE.

An interesting point in the Jap-American quarrel is the claim advanced by the Japanese to belong to he white rather than to the yellow races. Once the details of a racial question begin to be studied, all manner of complications appear.

The Japanese, like most nations, are a mixed people. They have little or no of life and property has not been so Chinese blood. strictly speaking, great in the present conflagration as though the kindred strain of the Tarin the former one. The important tris strong in them. The oblong, deep sunken eyes, the flat, thick nose, the coarse black hair, all bespeak the Tartar. If the skin is sometimes less tawny than would be the average among unmixed, continental Mongols. perhaps the parasol contributes more to that than any infusion of other blood. For the elements blending with the Tartar in Japan appear to have derived from the Malayan archipelago southward, where the people are rather brown than yellow. The small stature of the Japanese suggests

Some writers have argued that the adaptability and restless ambition of low races. But the Athenians of ancient Greece were as different in character from the stolid Boeotian or the iron-tempered Spartan. Serious ethnologists will not question that the Japanese are in the main Mongolian, with a blend rather of brown than of

It may be argued that the race feeling against the Japanese is partly artificial or temporary. The American uneasiness on the big negro question may have contributed to an ill-will towards a people less vitally removed from the Caucasians. The strangeness European garb.

But with the advance of the Chinese and their adoption of our clothes, will the cry against the yellow man conbetween white and vellow as between white and black, especially when all alike dress as Paris dictates, when they come to live in closer business and social intercourse, and catch one another's expression of countenance, when they all play baseball, cricket and football together. For example, the Hungarian, an Asiatic, in Europe, is not particularly guage. Yet at one time he was the unassimilable scourge of Central Europe, long rejecting its civilization and re-

The North American Indian, probably close akin to the Jap, is cedent which their Liberal successors rather a favorite when clean, civilized, Lost a Picnic by and dressed up. If he plays baseball and football he is a hero. Perhaps the victories of Chinese and Japanese at Olympic games, when they come, as St. Andrew's School Outing Will they will, may do something to make us forget a prejudice as to color artificially associated with the consciousness of the black man's inferiority. But, on the other hand, it was indeed centuries before the Hungarian became a European, and in times less critical and nervous than ours. So it might be a very long time before the Japanese, if admitted on the Pacific coast, could or would amalgamate socially and politically with the whites. In the meantime much arrogance would be endured on both sides and dangers incurred, to say the least.

The Jap is apparently contemptuous of the Caucasian. Full of national pride smokestack, and it has not been dehe does not seek citizenship in a foreign land, and is apparently an insoluble element. The Jap is a fanatic, wherever he is, for homeland, ancestors, and emperor. Not only economically, but politically and socially, he is a menace by his numbers and cohesion to the sparsely settled parts of Western Canada and the United States, if he should be freely admitted. It is not ily or quickly overcome. If race pre-

FUN AND FROLIC GALORE

The picnic of the Dundas Centre Methodist Epworth League to the summer residence of John White, fourth concession of London Township, yesterday afternon was not one of the mere "successful picnics." It was more than that. Leaguers to the number of 60 and more drove out in busses to the beautiful grounds at "Edgewood," and there an afternoon and evening was spent in a nanner that spelled successful picnic in apitals and left a whole lot over. There have been more elaborate enter-

Interesting Sports. Under W. Wendell Holmes, a program f sports that were as interesting as they vere keenly contested, was staged. Everything went with the customar; eague swing, and everyone enjoyed the Supper was followed by another sport' session, while the distribution of prizes completed the day's fun. Before the leaguers left for their trip to the city three rousing cheers were given to their host, Mr. White, and to heir president, W. Wendell Holmes.

Some Knockers.
The only "knockers" of the day were the young women who participated in the nall-driving contest. The way the nails were hammered in bespeaks a great opportunity for women carpenters should the female get the vote and really enter into the industrial field with mere men. Miss Marion Higgins wen out in the final nail-driving contest from Misses Templeman, Jones, Reid and Mrs. Kings. wood, who had each won their respec tive "heats."

In the clothespin contest the team captained by Charles Wortman outdistanced its rivals, under Captain Roy Kingswood. The soda biscuit contest was won by Miss Templeman and Ed. Tufts. Miss Wilma Legg and Charles Wortman took first honors in the pig race, while Miss Jessie Clark and Bert Hannah carried off the prize in the necktie race.

When the marshmallow race was atempted, Charles Wortman was the first o chew the marshmallow that had been attached to the end of two feet of string. The girl ball heavers lined up like this-Miss Martin, Miss Lottie Vining, Miss Gladys Reid, when the ball-throwing ontest was staged.

Miss Lottie Vining's tug-of-war artists won from those under Miss Clarke in two straight pulls. The wheelbarrow race went to W. W. Holmes and Miss Clark, Charles Wortman and Miss Annie Clarke, Ed. Tufts and Miss Temple-

I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but my husband thought I had better write to you and I did so, stating my symptoms. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. ## SOME REASONS WHY EVERY CITY SHOULD APPOINT POLICEWOMEN

Written for The Advertiser by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, of New York.

The idea of women on the police force, like everything else under the sun, is far from being absolutely new. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, has been advocating it for more than 20 years.

And did you know that women have been actually serving as police officers for some time, with marked

In all the Pacific coast states women are acting in this capacity-Los Angeles, I believe, being the first city to adopt the plan by appointing Mrs. Alice Stebbin Wells to a position on the force, and her record is a splendid one. Her work, as I understand it, has been chiefly among children, and has been of a protective and rescue character. She is a woman of wealth, of high social position and unusual educational attainments. and originated this idea in home city after a num_ ber of years devoted to active work in the social settle-

Miss Mary Bartelme, a well woman lawyer, was for sixteen years guardian of Cook County, Illinois, where she was constantly confronted with such problems as only great city like Chicago offers. So effective was her work in this field that it led to her appointment as deputy judge of the juvenile court of

A woman's court has just been established in Chicago, and Miss Bartelme has been appointed judge of that department. Her cases are limited to wayward girls, women probation officers act as bailiffs, a woman is clerk o the court, and not a man is admitted. The principal ob ject of these women is to help those girls "who have neve had a chance."

The appointment of women police officers is becoming a world-wide movement, and in many countries of Europe laws are being enacted admitting women to this department of municipal work We, too, must adopt it if we are to remedy our moral

LONDON GOT AN EVEN BREAK WITH PETES ON HOLIDAY

Won the Morning Game in Tenth After Great Rally in Ninth Inning-Heck Was Beaten in Afternoon Affair on Three Hits-Hilliard Gets Long Homer.

[BY JINX.]

If pitching counted for anything London should have lost the morning game on the holiday and won the afternoon game, but it was just the reverse. In the dawn spasm the locals beat the Petes in one of the prettiest grandstand finishes seen at Tecumseh Park in years, while in the twilight session Bobby Heck was beaten by the visitors on three hits, and incidentally London suffered the first shutout that has been administered to it this season. The score of the morning game was 9 to 8, while the afternoon contest was a 3 to 0 affair.

STOLE ONE FROM PETES.

It is funny how baseball luck goes. In the morning the Petes. had the game sewed up and apparently packed on ice when London came to bat in the last half of the ninth, with the score 8 to 3 against the locals. But then old man baseball luck cut into the proceedings and before the inning was over the aspect of things had changed considerably. London had batted in five runs and tied the score. In the tenth, the Petes could not score, but it was the easiest thing in the world for London to do, and the winning run came in the tenth with only one man gone HECK LOST IN AFTERNOON.

And then we revert to the afternoon affair. Bobby Heck, our best little twirler, goes and against the Petes and holds them to three hits, while a big lanky left-hander named Cresswell is combed for eight bingles by the locals. Result—Peterboro wins by 3 to 0, the three Peterboro hits being worth more than the whole eight London wallops. Can you beat it? But it is all in the game, and if things broke as they should London would probably have dropped all three games to the Rowan outfit.

A Glorious Ninth. There was nothing much to that morning game except the ninth inning, so we intend to skip lightly over what happened up till then. Fitzpatrick started on the mound for London, but as usual, he lasted only a short time and that period was much too long. In the second inning, three hits mixed with a couple of errors gave the Petes five runs and his lead looked big enough to overcome any London rally. In the third two more timely bingles gave the visitors another run, but in London's half the Deneau delegation got two and made the score six to two. Along in the sixth, a couple of hits and an error combined for another London run, but in the eighth, the Petes added two more when Husky Hillard, the big centrefielder of the White Caps, made the longest hit seen at Tecumseh Park this year and likely the longest hit ever made on the local ball lot, when he rapped the pill clean over the double deck signs in deep left-centre, for Chaput on second and Brant's boot of Bierbauer's grounder put him on third. He scored on Stewart's single to left. A peep at the box score shows that every member of the London club with the exception of Heck and Reidy took part in the game. Deneau followed Fitzpatrick on the mound, and later when Chaput ran for Matteson, Rube went in and caught and Chaput pitched. Mr. Deneau played a prominent part in the proceedings, taking

The second game was witnessed by a crowd of 1,598 people according to the official figures. Everybody wanted to see Heck pitch, and they did. Followers of the trotter and pacer | lee, Ottawa, Ont. turned out en masse at Queen's Park yesterday afternoon to attend the opening day program of the London Turf Association's four day meet. The fields this year are much larger and more classy than in years past, with the result that neck and neck finishes that brought the large crowd to its feet were the features of nearly eevry race. It is the talk among horsemen attending this year's meet that any driver who wins the lion's share of a purse will have to go some for it.

Alfrite C. Wins 2:11 Pace.

The feature race of the day was the 2:11 class pacing stake, valued at $1,000. This event went six heats before Judge Lowrie was able to an-nounce Alfrite C. winner of the purse. Alfrite C. acted bad in the first three heats, finishing away down among the also-rans, but in the last three heats he came into his own, sticking his nose Purdy, Va. out in front and winning in a style that brought the crowd to its feet. The other winners of heats were Hal Direct, the first; Nettie Ethon, the ond; Bonnie Cope, the third.

Direct Medium Won 2:30 Trot.

Direct Medium, a bad actor, had things all his own way in the 2:30 trot, and won the first two heats with ease, but on account of his insisting to run instead of trot he was set back and those who had hocked the family clock and shot the wad on this horse bemoaned their loss. Miss Brownlee finishing third in the first heat, came to life in the last three heats, winning them hands down A Bad Spill.

Ten horses started in the 2:19 pace, and on the back stretch they bunched, with the result that a number of the drivers with sulkies were piled up on the track. For a minute it looked as if a couple of them were seriously injured. A crowd made a rush for the spot, but discovered beyond a few bruises none of the drivers were hurt. Captain Larabie finally captured the winner's end of this purse, landing position No. 1 in the last three heats. Billie Burke Won Steeplechase.

Jack Smallman's steeplechaser Billie Burke took the lead and won the London Hunt Club's steeplechase with ease. He was never in danger from start to finish. J. D. Lowry, acting in the capacity of starting judge, gave satisfaction to all. His work was the best seen in

CHAPTER XIII. Wherein Lady Hermions "Avis for the Best."

A dejected and die veled super-clerk was called on to face a new crisis soon after he had apparently got rid of most after he had apparently got rid of most of the persons concerned in the pandemonium which had raged for hours around that refuge of middle-class decorum and respectability, the Central Hotel in Twenty-seventh street.

As he was wont to explain in later days of blessed peacefulness:

"The queerest part of the whole business was that I never had the slightest hotion as to what was going to nappen next. Everything occurred like a flash of lightning, and imitated lightning by never striking twice in the same place."

It was not to be expected that a man of the Earl of Valletort's social standing and experience would allow himself to be brow-beaten by a police official and an and experience would allow himself to be brow-beaten by a police official and an uncertain miscellany of people like Devar and the members of the Curtis family. When the cool night air had tempered his indignation, and he was removed from the electrical atmosphere created by his son-in-law's positive disdain and Steingall's negative indifference, he began to survey the situation. Though not wholly a stranger in New York, he was far from being versed in the technicalities of legal and police methods, so he bethought him of securing skilled advice. The hour was late, but the fact merely presented a difficulty which was not insuperable to a person of even average intelligence. He person of even average intelligence. He turned into an imposing looking hotel on Broadway, produced his card, and asked

An affable clerk hurried forward, think-An anable clerk nurried forward, think-ing that his house was about to earn new laurels; if somewhat surprised by the Earl's explanation that he was in need of a lawyer of repute, and had applied to the proprietor of an important hotel as one most likely to further the quest, he responded with prompt civility. he responded with prompt civility.

Within five minutes the Earl was closeted with Mr. Otto Schmidt in the latter's private sitting-room. The lawyer was a short man, who bore a ren physical resemblance to an egg. Head, totund body, and immensely fat legs tapering to very small feet, formed a complete oval, while his ivory-tinted skin, and a curious crease running round forehead and ears beneath a scalp wholly devoid of hair, suggested that the egg had been boiled, and the top cut off and

But he showed presently that the ovum was sound in quality. He listened in absolute silence until his lordship had told absolute silence until his lordship had told his story. All things considered, the recital was essentially true.

There were suppressions of fact, such as the lack of any mention of collusion between the distraught father and Count Ladislas Vassilan on the one hand and Jean de Courtois on the other, and there were wholly unwarrantable imputations against Curtis's character and attributes, but, on the whole, Mr. Schmidt was able, in his own phrase, "to size up the position" with fair accuracy.

Like every other man of common sense who became acquainted with the night's doings in a connected narrative, he began by expressing his astonishment.

"I have had some singular cases to

"I have had some singular cases to handle during a long and varied professional career," he said, and eyelids almost devoid of lashes dropped for an instant over a pair of dark order. instant over a pair of dark and curiously piercing eyes, "but I have never heard of anything quite like this. You say the name of the detective who gave you the account of the murder, and of the connection of this John Delancy Curtis with the strings of the str it. is Steingall?

Again the eyelids fell, and, as Mr. Schmidt's face was also devoid of eye-brows, and was colorless in its pallor, a chin which merged in folds of soft flesh where his neck ought to be, his features at such a moment assumed the disagree able aspect of a death mask, though this impression vanished when those brilliant eyes peered forth from their bulbous

"But I know Steingall," he said. "He is at the head of the New York Detective Bureau, a man of the highest reputation, Bureau, a man of the highest reputation, and one who commands confidence in the courts, not to speak of his department."

"He struck me as an able man, but I am quite sure he has failed to appreciate the share this fellow, Curtis, has borne in the affair," said the Earl testily.

"It seems to me that your daughter, Lady Hermione, could not posibly have been what is commonly described as 'in love' with de Courtois? Stupid as the comment may appear, I must search for a motive." motive.

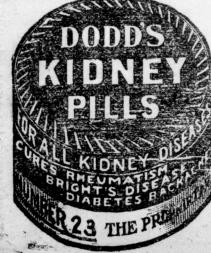

My good sir, the notion is preposterous I—I have reason to believe that she in tended this marriage to serve as a shield or cloak, for her own purposes, which were, I regret to say, largely inspired by a stubborn resolve not to marry a man who is suitable as a husband in every way—by birth, social position, and distinguished prospects."

"Her own purposes What does that

"Her own purposes. What does that It requires 3% yards of 44-inch matermean exactly?" mean exactly:

"It means that she was contracting a marriage as a matter of form. Don't you see that this consideration, and this to any address on receipt of 10c, in the state of the sta alone, made it possible for an impertinent outsider like Curtis to offer his services as de Courtois's substitute, while my PATTERN DEPA misguided daughter was equally prepared

The eyelids shut tightly once more, and the Earl, feeling rather irritated and disturbed by this unpleasing habit, shifted his chair noisily. He found, however, that

TROOPS CALLED OUT PROTECT GOLD MINES

Strike Threatens to Tie-Up the Whole South African Mining Industry.

[Canadian Press.]

Johannesburg, South Africa, July 2 .-A strike has broken out in the Rand district which threatens to tie up the entire gold mining industry of South Africa. The dispute arose out of a imple question about working hours n a new Kleinfontain main, and from there gradually spread over the whole until the situation became so serious that British troops were called out to protect property.

The original strikers were placated y the owners of the mines conceding their demands in regard to working hours, but then another dispute arose because the owners refused to replace those men who had worked during the strike and would not recognize the labor union.

At first the men employed at a few solated mines struck in sympathy, but these were followed by others, and mine after mine was affected. Today's and reports from the reef show that the situation has become very grave. The leaders of the unions have called a general strike, and the men have promsed to respond. The closing also of some coal mines has aggravated the ituation, and the railway employes threaten to come out, while the elecricians appear inclined to shut down the power stations, which have therefore been occupied by the military.

At Porcupine the wind dropped and gave the men who were fighting the be big, and will undoubtedly greatly approaching flames a chance to stay reduce the capacity of the mill for them off and partially master them.
At Cochrane hope of saving the town had been almost abandoned when what seemed like a providential torrent of rain fell for a period of ten minutes, and gave the citizens who were struggling in a sweltering sun and almost blinded by the clouds of smoke a respite and a chance to start in with renewed vigor. In Great Danger.

Starting southwest of Cochrane the fire swept in towards the old Toronto and Northern Ontario station, and for hours it and the big lum-ber mill of McKnight & McKinwas in danger of taking fire any moment. A gale of about miles an hour was blowing, and the sparks were beginning to fly to-wards the thousands of feet of lumber piled in McKinnon's yard, when the wind veered and began to blow north. With it the fire swung around, and burned west of the town. It was raging for over half a mile, when the downpour commenced Spread Rapidly.

The wind was sweeping it closer bounding to go was a $3,000 farm-house on a clearing just outside the town, owned by John Christiason, a pioneer settler. In the feet keenly. Some definite informa-tion will probably be obtained from neer settler. In the face of the blinding heat, men tried in vain to stay the progress of the flames. The wind was beginning to shower the sparks in the extreme western section of the town, which is almost en-tirely frame, and the people there gave up hope and began to pack their belongings. Some started out to save their household effects, and others stood on the roofs and kept streams and buckets of water poured on the starks. General appeals were made for help, and one of the first compining to respond was the Grand Trunk Pacific, which placed a couple engines at the disposal of the people to haul water as near as possible to the fire. Those who went through the terrible experience of the 1911 fire said the town was doomed The heat and smoke became so intense that they were driving the men back foot by foot. People in the town were requested to give up using the hose and buckets, so that every ounce of water pressure might be obtained to kep the bush in check, although it was realized that the burning of any of the buildings in the west of the town would likely have resulted in a repetition of 1911.

Rain Saves the Town.

Notwithstanding that there are more clearings than two years ago, and that the business section is built up with more brick structures than then, the outskirts are still of frame, and would have proved kindling wood for the flames. Before the rain came McDougall & Mc-Cluskey, the contractors, who are diverting the main line of the T. and N. O to the new union station in the heart of the town, packed up a steam shovel they had at work, and, with a gang of men were going to attempt to are going all round Hearst, and grave cut a ditch between the bush to the fears are expressed for its safety. It is and the town. Just as their shovel reached the end of the steel the rain commenced. It was followed a cessation of the wind, but no chances were taken, and fire-fighters, without a thought of fool, stuck gamely to their task. The wind died down until 5 o'clock, but then it started blowing at a velocity of 23 miles an hour and the smoke commenced to float over the town for the second time, but the rain and thousands of gallons of water weich had been coured from the streams kept it low.

A few frantic individuals began a small rush on the banks when the fire looked at its worst about 2 o'clock, but it did not amount to much, A 6 o'clock, although the town was out of danger, it was decided to keep 20 men on the scene with a hose. Would you obtain for us correct statistics as to the number of convicted law-breakers in our own and the Dominion, specifying their sex? We are anxious to learn which sex can the more justly claim to be law abiding citizens.

What effect, if any, has their having been in prison upon the right of men criminals to vote? Is it true that they are as free to use the franchise after the prison doors are open as before they were closed upon them, or is the withdrawal of their right to vote ever made part of their sentence? We venture to think that in the in.

terests of our country some such law would be very helpful in weeding out evil-doers from the voting lists, somewhat upon the plan of the placing of the names of persistent drunkards upon the Indian list. Again, might it not be possible, seeing that the cost of maintaining criminals is so heavy charge upon the community, to find a fairer division of taxation by which' the sex which contributes the lesser! number of law-breakers should only be called upon to take a lesser share in their upkeep? At present, as the law stands, it presses very heavily upon the woman wage-earner, who has neither voice nor vote in the making of the laws, which nevertheless she does her best to obey

We should be thankful for any light you may be so good as to throw not only upon the subject of our questions, but upon the somewhat anomalous it better that she did not walk about position in which by reason of our sex we, in common with other Canadian women, find ourselves placed. and environs were exhausted today after a night of sultry oppressiveness, hoping for rain and cooler weather predicted for this afternon. The mercury stood at 81 at midnight, a drop of 9 degrees from yesterday's maximum, but began to mount again shortly after sunrise. Unable to sleep on account of the

which empty into the East River.
Policeman Wm. J. Cowden, who heard the man's cries, ran up and found him struggling in the muck against being drawn into the intake with the tide. The officer stripped off his uniform and plunged into the loathsome water, where he, too, fought the current, so swift that both men were in danger of being sucked into the sewer. A second officer threw Thousands Went In Swimming to Escape the Terrific Heat.

BOATS WERE CROWDED

[Special to The Advertiser.] Port Stanley, July 2.-Some neusand people found their way to Port Stanley yesterday via the trac-tion line and Pere Marquette besides members who drove or motored from arious directions,

The Casino and the other buildings vere crowded with people. Swimming was a favorite pastime for a multitude of people, little and big, who wished to escape from the heat. The picnic grounds were well pat cnized all afternoon and evening. The big side-wheeler of the C. and B. Line, State of Ohio, ran two twohour trips on the lake. The boat was crowded. The small steamer Glen Erie was also very busy taking care of the demands made on it.

Broker Shows How Harriman Most of the Towns Were Much One Hundred Little Kiddies Crowd Broke J. R. Keene and Associates.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, July 2.-Louis Cass edyard, Paul D. Cravath and Maxwell Evarts, New York lawyers, were the first to appear before the Senate Lobby Committee today, when it resumed inestigation of Robert Lovett's charges that unnamed men impersonating Congressmen had attempted to open relations with Wall street men to "grease the wheels in Washington." At the outset of the hearing today the committee determined to hold off ts inquiry into the recent sensational harges by Martin M. Mulhall, of the activities of the National Association of Manufacturers, and clear up the

The committee let the lawyers wait and began by calling David Lamar (correct), a Wall street operator mentioned in the testimony of Lovett and Edward Lauterbach. Lamar detailed some of his operations in Wall street and the source of his connection with Inion pacific affairs. Paid $58,000,000.

In 1897, Lamar said, Russell Sage uthorized him to proceed to compel the Union Pacific to pay the govern-ment $58,000,000 in bonds owing it. Lamar, with Senator Foraker, came to Washington and conferred with Presient McKinley.

"We were charged with being a pair f conscienceless blackmailers," said amar, "but that had no effect on us." When Sage retired from business in 1901 on Sage's recommendation, he became asociated with James R. Keene. Lamar said he warned Keene, when the latter was buying Union Pacific stock, that the railroad would ruin him to get revenge for Lamar's previous activity. He detailed how, when Keene and his asociates had $43,000,000 of Tuesday. ## PLAYGROUNDS ARE OPEN FOR SUMMER HOLIDAYS

Used Equipment at Victoria School Toda y.

This morning the children's public playground was opened by the Mothers' Club of Victoria school. The Playgrounds Association, not having enough money to finance the movement, the club took hold and raised some funds by a lawn social. Nearly a hundred children were in the grounds this morning and used the equipment placed there last summer The ladies want a croquet set to complete the list of amusement devices fo the children, and would be glad anyone having a discarded set would donate it to the club. The supervisors are Mr. Lorne McLeod, of the Y. M. C.

A., and Miss Bessie Harding. The officers of the club who are arranging this form of enjoyment for the kiddies are: Mrs. Harry White, president; Mrs. F. R. Hardie, vice-president, and Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick, secretary-treasurer. The playgrounds will be kept open every day during July and August.

INSURING GOOD DIGESTION

Importance of Preventing Food Fermentation in Stomach.

Good digestion usually means good health. So long as the stomach does its work properly disease can find no lodgement in the human system; the liver, kidneys and intestines will perform their work perfectly and remain in perfect health; but interfere with the proper digestion of food and an unending train of troubles is set in motion. About the only thing that will upset the stomach and interfere with digestion is an excess of acid, usually caused by food fermentation. Food fermentation is due to chemical action in the food itself. This fermentation causes the formation of gas, or wind, as well as acid, resulting in the unnatural distention of the stomach and the burning by the acid of the delicate lining of the stomach.

Medicines and tonics cannot relieve this condition—they usually make it worse. The fermentation and acids are to blame and these must be overcome and this condition—they usually make it worse. The fermentation and acids are to blame and these must be overcome and prevented by taking, after meals, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. Physicians recommend bisurated magnesia especially because it stops or prevents fermentation of food, and neutralizes the acid instantly, making it bland and harmless, without irritating the stomach in any way. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your chemist and try it the next time your food ferments and upsets your stomach. Note how quickly the acid is neutralized, and how soon you forget that you have such a thing as a stomach.

Food Needs For Summer

Call for easily-digested cereals, fruits, etc., and less of the heavy, hard-to-digest kind.

But the nourishment must be there!

Probably the most nourishing, most easily-digested cereal food known is

Grape-Nuts

Made from prime wheat and malted barley, it is ready to eat direct from the package; digests generally in about one hour, and contains the true brain and muscle-building materials placed in the field grains by Nature for man's use.

Grape-Nuts food has delicious taste, and is pure, wholesome and a "builder" in the truest sense of the wordan ideal summer dish that does not overheat the body.
