PINE LAWN ARCHITECT REFUSES TO PAY

Juvenile Delinquents Act May Be Proclaimed

CITY TO DECIDE LAW TO OPERATE IN NEW COURT

Council Insists Magistrate Graydon Be Retained as Judge.

EXPECT OPPOSITION

Provincial Authorities Arrange For Conference Regarding Innovation.

London will decide this week whether it shall proclaim the juvenile delinquents' act, effective in connection with the juvenile court just established, it was announced at the city hall Thursday.

Application has been made to this effect, it is explained, and the provincial authorities are arranging a conference in the city for this week.

Members of the council declined to state their opinion whether they will favor the proclamation of the act, and it is clearly indicated that there will be some difference of opinion expressed at the scheduled gathering.

The council insists, it is recorded, that Police Magistrate A. M. H. Graydon be retained as juvenile court judge, and once the act is proclaimed, it would then be possible, the administrators point out, for the provincial authorities, if they choose, to appoint another person of their own choice.
It appears that this is the only point upon which any difficulty will be encountered. The administrators declare that Magistrate Graydon must be judge, and they are prepared, they intimate, to continue the fight along this line.

125 ESCAPE DEATH IN NEW YORK FIRE

Vets. and Girls Flee as the Flames Devour Institute of Photography.

Special to The Advertiser.
New York, Nov. 2.—Twenty-five girls and nearly 100 disabled war veterans fled to safety down the fire escape as flames destroyed the New York Institute of Photography Building.

Three alarms were turned in as the fire swept through the building, imperiling hundreds of lives. The exercise men were government vocational students. The girls, who were sent to the ground by some of the veterans, were at work on the fifth floor of the building.

Several firemen were overcome as the blaze spread and thick clouds of black smoke filled the hallways during a prolonged search for persons who might have been overcome.

EX-CONVICTS LAUD FORMER JAILER

Although some time has passed since High Constable Ben Waterworth escorted prisoners from Middlesex jail to Kingston penitentiary, ex-convicts still come to him and thank him for the courteous treatment they received at his hands when they were on their way to serve their terms.

During his 27 years as deputy sheriff,
Mr. Waterworth made 167 trips to and from the penitentiary—a matter of several hundred thousand miles—escorting 245 prisoners who had been sentenced in London, and never lost a man.

BLAME TINO FOR GREEK ARMY ROUT

Athens, Nov. 2.—Former King Constantine will be charged with the responsibility for the recent defeat of Greek forces in Asia Minor, and will be given an opportunity to come to Greece to prove his innocence, according to the newspaper Vima.

It seems certain, however, that Constantine will not return to Greece.

UPHOLD AMENDMENT TO SPEECH FROM THRONE

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 2.—The provincial government was sustained on the first division of the current session of the legislature last night, when an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne was rejected by a vote of 25 to 19.

LENROOT AVERS SEAWAYS SCHEME WILL BE REALITY

Holland, Mich., Nov. 2.—The St. Lawrence waterway project will soon be a reality, Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin declared in an address at a Republican rally here last night. Were the sea route open now, he said, farmers would be receiving 10 cents more a bushel for their grain than they are now realizing.

GROWS CAUSTIC ON DEBT ISSUE

Lord Birkenhead Makes Bitter Speech on Behalf of Lloyd George.

Bristol, Nov. 2.—Associated Press.
—The subject of Great Britain's debt to the United States, and the money due to Great Britain from other countries, was discussed briefly by Lord Birkenhead, the former lord chancellor, while speaking here today in place of Mr. Lloyd George, whose indisposition prevented him from appearing.

"Apparently the happy prospect with which we are confronted is that we are to pay everyone everything we owe, and that no one is to pay us anything that they owe us," he remarked caustically. Some people, he declared, Lord Birkenhead, said the entente cordiale was being endangered by Great Britain, saying she was going to pay her debts, and he did not see why she should forgive all those who owe her money.

"We do not think America is in danger of quarrelling with her good friend, Great Britain, when she posibly reminds us that we owe her a considerable sum of money, and I don't see why other nations should be so very sensitive on matters of business," he added. Lord Birkenhead paid tribute to the work of Lord Balfour at the Washington conference last night.

"Lord Balfour," he added ironically, "is one clever man, whom this country no longer needs."
The former lord chancellor said he did not see why the scene of an extension of Washington conference to the field armaments and aerial preparations.

Mowat, at ten o'clock this morning,

Jury farmer, on May 3, execution to take place on Monday, January 15.
Jury returned verdict of guilty of murder at 11:20 last night.

HOLD MAN FOR KIDNAPPING AS GIRL NEARS DEATH

MICHIGAN AROUSED.

MUSKOGON, Mich., Nov. 2.—While death in a farmhouse at Dublin, Mich., Grand Rapids was being held at the county jail here under heavy guard as the man who kidnapped the child last Sunday, drove with her to the jailhouse, the sheriff's office.

Wilson confessed, the sheriff's officers declared, that he abducted the child. A formal charge of kidnapping was lodged against him.
Word from Dublin this morning was that Rosalie, widely known here as the swimming girl, through her expert exhibitions at a local beach last summer, might not recover. She was in a semi-conscious state and suffering from a high fever, as a result of exposure in the forests, where she was found by a farmer, her clothing torn to shreds and her body scratched and bruised by the underbrush.

In his statement to the authorities
Wilson was quoted as saying he enticed the child into his automobile as she was leaving a church here Sisters. A crowd gathered this morning, then started for Dublin, near that town, the reported statement said. Rosalie became alarmed and Jackpine swamp of Manistee County, Wilson said he left her near a farmhouse, and then returned to Grand Rapids.

The prisoner said he was intoxicated when he took her into his machine, and was unable to explain his action.
Feeling run high in Muskegon when it became known today that Wilson was being held here, and numerous deputy sheriffs and police reserves were called out to guard against disorders. A strong cordon was thrown around the jail, and citizens were not permitted to congregate in the streets for blocks around the building.

Wilson is 41 years of age, and has been married twice. Officers said he has a police record here, and had served a term at Jackson Prison.

CALLS FRENCH REAL CRUX OF BRITISH POLICY

Bonar Law Thinks France
Keystone of Britain's Foreign Relations.

TELLS WOMEN VOTERS

Would Urge United States to Join the League of Nations.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Premier Bonar Law, addressing a meeting for women voters in the Drury Lane Theatre today, declared at the start he was not going to talk to them as women, but "as citizens of this country, who have an equal interest in all that has happened."

"I have always believed," he continued, "that there is no woman's question worth anything that isn't a man's question as well."

At another point in his speech he declared that women have a tendency to be conservative, "not in a political sense, but to be cautious, and that is what we want in the government of this country."

The prime minister reiterated that his policy was one of tranquility and stability.

Explains Policy.

"As regards foreign policy," he added, "I venture to express the hope that America may gradually take an interest in the League of Nations in some form or another, and may gradually feel that it is her duty to help in the chaos in which the war left the world."

"Our relations with France must be the keystone of our foreign policy," the prime minister declared.
"As to the position in the Near East," the premier went on, "what I hope for from the conference is that there may be a settlement which will give peace in that part of the world, and which will enable us to bring our troops back and cease spending money in those distant regions."

"As to the home policy," continued
Mr. Bonar Law, "the most important thing is to cut down expenditures.
Without that there can be no reduction in taxation."

Maintain Navy.

"We must maintain our naval position," the premier declared later on.
"We must retain forces adequate for the security of the Empire."

Mr. Bonar Law said Lord Balfour had asserted that the coalition had been won by the navy. That was not a true picture of the situation, he added. "The real cause of that change," he added, "is that the people of this country everywhere felt that Mr. Lloyd George's rule was not a true picture of the situation, and cannot tell where we will be tomorrow."

The former prime minister is a man of tremendous energy and endurance. Mr. Bonar Law said in further reference to this subject:
"Whenever any big question or emergency arose, he would take the lead with it. That is not my idea of fulfilling these important functions.
My idea is that of a man at the head of a big business, who allows the work to be done by others, and gives turn to Page 13, Column 8.

Dies On Visit to Home After 24 Years Absence in Yukon

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—After an absence from his home town of Dawson City, Yukon, William Irish, aged 65 years, returned to Aylmer, Quebec, only three weeks ago and died early today.
Mr. Irish left Aylmer when more than 40 years old to try his hand at mining in the North country.

LIBERALS SWEEP POLLS AT ELECTIONS IN CUBA

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 2.—Liberal candidates swept the field in the partial elections held throughout the island yesterday, according to incomplete official returns received today by the central election board and the newspapers.
Apparently the Liberals have elected their candidates for the governors of the six Cuban provinces, and the majority of Havana. Their representation in the Lower House of Congress was increased so largely that the administration majority may be annulled.

CHARGES RANGERS "USELESS"; RAN AWAY FROM FIRE

RESTRICTIONS AND PERMITS BURDENSOME.

NEW LISKEARD, Ont., Nov. 2.—Sweeping assertions that fire rangers were useless and that they had "run away" from fires were made by E. Sackrider, township clerk of Hudson, before the fire probe here yesterday afternoon.

His chief objection to these men was that their restrictions and permits were burdensome and he even went so far as to tell the fire marshal that two years ago rangers had issued permits without preliminary investigation.
"That appeared somewhat of a farce," Fire Marshal Heaton suggested. "Yes," was the instant reply.

During the afternoon session it appeared that the fire which damaged the town originated in the vicinity of the Wicket and Chester farms, about three miles to the northwest, while the general trend of the evidence throughout the day pointed to the fact that the fire which approached this district was the culmination of settlers' burnings.

Mr. Sackrider also was the first witness to express disapproval of the mooted plan to appoint officials in every township for the guarding of incipient blazes and of the installation of fire fighting apparatus at strategic points because he said he could not see the value of this apparatus without water.

HARDING CELEBRATES.

Washington, Nov. 2.—President Harding celebrated the 57th anniversary of his birth today.
All day long telegraph wires at the White House ticked, and messenger boys arrived carrying messages of birthday greetings, many of them from rulers and leaders of other countries. The president put in a regular day at work.

LONDON WOMAN HELD FOR FRAUD

Mrs. Rowatt Masquerades in Cornwall As Wealthy
"Patricia O'Connell."

Special to The Advertiser.
Montreal, Nov. 2.—A London, Ont., woman, who has been masquerading as "Patricia O'Connell," a wealthy Irish widow, and attempting to obtain loans and credit on that statement, has been arrested at Cornwall, and is now in jail there awaiting trial on a charge of obtaining board and lodging at the new Windsor Hotel by fraud.

She told a traveler she arrived from England Saturday, and was to have met her husband in Cornwall, but on her arrival she could not find him nor the £200 she had given him before she had left England.

She asked for her husband in Toronto, where she said, she had friends. At the hotel she registered as "Miss J.
Shaughnessy, England, and said she expected her fiancé from Ottawa to-come in a day or two to marry her.
Chief Patterson of Cornwall had read of the attempt made by "Patricia O'Connell" to cash a $25,000 check in a Montreal bank, and asked her about it. She admitted the pseudonym, and said she was Rose Nolan of Norfolk, England, and that she married a man named Rowatt in London, but that he deserted her a year ago.

RUMOR FINN TO BE CHOICE AT HALIFAX

Liberals Expect Candidate Will Be Elected by Acclamation.

Special to The Advertiser.
Halifax, N. S., Nov. 2.—It is understood that Hon. Robert E. Finn, a member of the Murray Government, without portfolio, will be the choice of the Liberal convention when it meets next week to choose a candidate to contest the county in the forthcoming election.

It is quite possible Mr. Finn will go in by acclamation, not because he has no political rivals, but because they have decided to concentrate on the provincial election which, it is more than likely, will be held before many months, as Premier Murray is anxious to go into retirement.

Mr. Finn has been a representative in the local house for years. It is understood he was to have been taken into the local cabinet last fall, but the government could not fulfill its obligations. He will, therefore, receive the hearty support of Mr. Murray and his cabinet in the convention.

The other name mentioned is that of J. J. Power, K.C., a brilliant lawyer, now an alderman of this city.
Mayor John Murphy has been looked upon along as a possible candidate in the event of the constituency becoming vacant, but his name will not come before the convention.

EXPECT NO INVESTIGATION INTO MONTANA SLAYING

Havre, Mont., Nov. 2.—Unless "unexpected developments" occur in the case of the shooting here Friday morning, the extent of the constituency investigation will be the obsequies of the Rev. Leonard J. Christler and Mrs. Margaret Carleton, no further action in the case is probable, city and county authorities say. The body of Mrs. Carleton was taken by her parents to Helena today for burial.

WANT SCHOOL LOCATION MADE ELECTION ISSUE

East London Residents Desire Action On Site Controversy.

CALL MASS MEETING

Will Urge Property at Oliver and Trafalgar Streets Be Abandoned.

Holding that they are "entirely dissatisfied" with present conditions and embittered over what they term as "unnecessary delay," certain residents of Southeast London are preparing, it was learned Thursday, to make an election issue of the "Oliver and Dakin street issue."

Members of the board of education have been informed that a mass meeting has been called for the taxpayers of the district to be attended by the construction of a new public school and a strong demand will be made that the trustees abandon their contemplated site at the corner of Oliver and Trafalgar streets.

The problem involving increased public school accommodation for Southeast London has long been in the public eye. As early as the fall of 1921 were plans submitted by the school architect for the school and a site had been purchased at the corner of Dakin and Price streets, since become famous throughout the community as the "Dakin street location."

When the school board moved earlier in 1922, however, to seek from the city council sanction of a deputation for the purpose, stern opposition was registered and Mayor Cameron Wilson and the majority of his colleagues undertook a lively interest in the contest, considering the site in question as being entirely unsuited for the designed purpose. They cited several reasons.

As a result, the trustees, against the wishes of their inspectors, agreed, after a long and grueling struggle, to abandon this proposal and cast about for another location.

The Oliver and Trafalgar street property was next selected, and met with the approval of the mayor and council.
While a hitch occurred in the negotiations a few weeks ago, plans were pressed in the meanwhile and tenders have already been sought.
Now come the taxpayers of southeast London to declare that the site is not a desirable one, and that the polls next December is decidedly problematic.

STORM WREAKS HAVOC TO FISHERS

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
Paris, Nov. 2.—More than 200 fishing boats were driven ashore by a violent sea in a terrific tempest sweeping the coasts of France, Spain and Portugal, according to dispatches here today. Heavy loss of life is expected.

RUMOR FINDLAY TO BE NAMED.

David Findlay, a prominent businessman of Carleton Place, has been offered the nomination of Liberal standard-bearer in the coming by-election in Lanark County. The Liberal convention is to be held at Perth on Nov. 9.

RUSSIANS TO CELEBRATE FIFTH SOVIET ANNIVERSARY

PEOPLE FORCED TO DECORATE.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—The fifth anniversary of the revolution which swept the Soviets into power will be celebrated throughout Russia on week on a large scale, and with greater splendor, than anything of the kind yet attempted by the Bolsheviks.

Next Tuesday the fifth anniversary of the day the Bolsheviks captured the leaders of the Kerensky regime in the winter palace demonstrations will be held in every city and town in Soviet Russia. Orders have been issued that every house and building must fly a red flag at least a yard long to avoid arrest and a payment of heavy fines. A commission assigned the task of drumming up enthusiasm among the people is busy carrying out its mission. All soviet buildings and squares will be decorated lavishly. All work, except that of an essential public nature, will cease next Tuesday, for November 7 is the most solemn of all the Communist holidays.

The Soviet Congress, or Third International, which is held annually in conjunction with the anniversary of the revolution opens Sunday in Petrograd. After a two-day session there, the delegates will move on to Moscow in special trains to join the celebration of the Soviet triumph.
There will be speech-making and monster parades in all the large cities of the country, and the theatres in Moscow will present special performances for the delegates to the congress and their friends. The congress will continue its sessions in Moscow for a week.

While the delegates are there ground will be broken for a new park, to be known as Lenin Square, and a cornerstone will be laid for a monument to be erected on the spot where an attempt was made to assassinate the Soviet premier.

CHIEF DESKAHAH.

CHESWICKEN, Ont., Nov. 2.—
Deskahah, chief of the Six Nation's Indian tribe, again comes into prominence, with the determination of Hon. Chas. Stewart, superintendent-general of Indian affairs, to visit the Six Nations Reserve on Thanksgiving Day to straighten out some difficulties which have arisen.

SIFT QUARREL OVER SABBATH

Hon. Charles Stewart to Visit Indians on the Brant Reserve.

Special to The Advertiser.
Oshawa, Six Nations Indian Reserve, Ont., Nov. 2.—Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior at Ottawa, and superintendent-general of Indian affairs, is expected to visit the Six Nations Indians Thanksgiving Day in an attempt to straighten out some of the difficulties which have arisen since his last visit.

Rival groups on the reserve are said to be at loggerheads over the question of the status of the Six Nations, and the form of government which should be in vogue on the reserve, and Sunday observance. All these matters, it is expected, will be dealt with by the minister, if he accepted.

Some of the Indians are obeying the law on Sunday observance, but others, being pagans, are playing lacrosse and doing other things on the Sabbath, much to the annoyance of the Christians, who were successful in having the law passed.

DEPUTY MINISTER BELL GOES SOUTH

Major G. A. Bell, C.M.G., deputy-minister of railways and canals, was expected to leave for California
this morning en route for California.
Major Bell was accompanied by his wife, who has been seriously ill for some time, having been in a hospital for seven months, and his young son.
The long trip is being made in the hope that the really cold weather the climate may be of benefit to Mrs. Bell's health.

BOSTON SUFFERS COAL SHORTAGE

Boston, Nov. 2.—The shortage of anthracite coal here is unprecedented, said a statement issued yesterday by the Boston emergency fuel committee. Householders were told that much of the coal they expected to burn this winter could not be mined in time to reach them before spring.
"So far no inconvenience has resulted," the statement continued, but during the really cold weather the situation will grow steadily worse.

sylvania Railroad Commission, and chairman of the Railway Executives Commission, was found dead today in a private car of Senator Ross of Pennsylvania, in Broad street station. Mr.
Cuyler was in Rochester, N.Y., yesterday, and was apparently in good health.

DEFEAT PLAN TO VOTE ON 2 SITES

Members of Finance Committee Oppose Suggestion of Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles.

A proposal that the ratemakers be allowed to express an alternative opinion respecting the city hall site went down to defeat at Wednesday's session of the finance committee of the city council, despite an eloquent appeal for the Federal Square by Lieutenant-Colonel W. G. Coles.

Mayor Cameron Wilson and Ald. O. I. Cunningham led in open support of the bylaw already approved by the city council, that the taxpayers be asked to approve of the sale of the Federal Square and the subsequent construction of new administration buildings on the present site.

Aldermen Dr. Holmes and F. R. Watkinson adhered to the opinion that the electors should be afforded an opportunity to state whether they still desired the hall on the McCormick site.

The question was informally discussed following the departure of Colonel Coles, and it was decided to leave the issue as already directed. "In status quo" as it were, commented Mayor Wilson, as the discussion closed.

In his preliminary remarks Colonel Coles expressed pleasure that the mayor and council of 1922 has seen fit to take action.

Wants Matter Settled.
"I fail to see, however," he declared, "where you have received the encouragement to suggest the building on the Spencer block. Of course everyone is welcome to this opinion, but in all fairness to the electors I believe that they are entitled to an alternative opinion."

"I would then be quite satisfied if they chose at a referendum to build on this site. If this scheme is again defeated, however, it will mean that this question will be shelved again for another year. Let it be settled now once and for all. The Spencer site has already been defeated. I hold that London is the finest city on the continent, and its citizens should have a city hall that they can be proud of, and not a building that is nothing less than a disgrace."

Ald. Dr. Cunningham took issue with Col. Coles upon the point that although a vote had already been taken upon the issue, the people had approved of the city hall on the federal square and not on the McCormick site.

Explains Agreement.
Ald. Watkinson held that the people understood that the corner of Wellington and Dundas streets was intended.

Ald. Cunningham still maintained, however, that the vote had been cancelled, but the clerk explained that the agreement stated implicitly that the property was to be secured for city hall purposes.

Ald. Cunningham held, further,

Three Serious Accidents Occur in One Day in Town of Tillsonburg

Special to The Advertiser.
TILLSONBURG, Nov. 1.—The first of the month seems to have been responsible for several accidents in the Pan Dried town today. Shortly after 4:30 this afternoon a car owned by Ira Corlies of Avon, and driven by Gordon Cole, turned completely upside down on Broadway, and the occupants had a miraculous escape from instant death. As soon as the car could be removed by passersby the injured occupants were taken to the emergency hospital. Mrs. Gordon Cole sustained a compound fracture of the right arm, which penetrated the flesh, as well as several severe cuts and bruises, but will recover. The 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Cole sustained a broken arm, and was badly bruised and lacerated about the body. Mrs. Steinhold and Mr. Corlies escaped with very painful cuts and bruises, while the driver was uninjured. They were carrying a suitcase on the running board, and the case on the running board, and the case on the running board.

that the present was an inopportune time for an expenditure of $1,000,000 for a hall on the federal square.

Col. Coles promptly took issue upon this point, stating that an erroneous report had been spread abroad that he proposed the construction of a castle on the square. No sum in excess of $500,000 had ever been mentioned, he said, adding that the city would be subjected to an additional expense of perhaps $35,000 or $40,000 for temporary quarters while building was in progress on the present location.

Disapproves Plan.
He was also of opinion that if the councilors with a mandate from the people did place offices on the Spencer block with the hope that they could be sold ten years hence, the result would not be satisfactory. The hall would remain there for many more years than ten, he believed.

Ald. Dr. Holmes favored strongly an alternative vote or a separate vote, adhering to the belief that the bulk of the people desired it. The members of this mind were in the minority when the issue was finally considered.

As a member of the city hall committee of 1912, when the square was purchased from the McCormick Company, Col. Coles has since been recognized as the "father" of the scheme, and is evidently not content to witness its utter abandonment without a struggle.

Tenders for the city's new registry office were opened but not considered. All bids were submitted to the building inspector, who wished time for a final report.

It was intimated that certain of the tenders set a higher figure than proposed for the construction of the new edifice. The council has estimated roughly $50,000 and some of the figures submitted are said to exceed this amount by several thousands.

It is just possible that it may be imperative to again tender for the contract.

The ancient Egyptians of all classes shaved their heads and wore wigs. Thunder fish, inhabitants of the River Nile, give a sharp electric shock.

driver, reaching over to move it back, buckled the car causing the front axle to snap in two pieces. The car was badly wrecked.

Miss Nettie White, a young pupil, sustained severe injuries to her hip and wrist, when she fell a distance of about eight feet off a teeterboard at the school. After first aid was rendered the injured child was removed to the emergency hospital.

Dick Carroll, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll, had a narrow escape from instant death today. While riding on the running-board of a car he fell off near the Arlington Hotel, his right leg going through the spokes of the rear wheel. He was removed to the emergency hospital, where the X-ray revealed a severe break and wound directly back of the knee, and a very precarious place to set the bone. The bone will have to heal about seven days, when another operation will be necessary to straighten the bone.

LAI'D TO REST WITH MILITARY HONORS

Funeral of Dr. John J. Jacques Is Held From Father's Home in Simcoe.

Special to The Advertiser.
SIMCOE, Nov. 1.—A large military funeral took place here this afternoon, when the remains of the late Dr. John J. Jacques, V.S., who was killed on the highway near Jarvis early Sunday morning, were laid to rest at Oakwood Cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. A. B. Farney from the home of deceased's father, Wm. Jacques, Norfolk street, The 1st Norfolk Rifles, Lieut.-Col. A. Winter, O.C., took charge at the graveside.

At yesterday afternoon's inquest at Hagersville to investigate the cause of the death of Dr. Jacques the jury placed the blame on the removal by a dangerous person of the red danger lights, which hung on the barrier in front of the gully earlier in the evening. Deceased's son, Carl Jacques, who was in the accident, delivered a thrilling account of the tragedy, stating that he only escaped from beneath the car with a final superhuman effort. The contractors, G. H. Blackburn Company of Toronto, were freed of all blame on the evidence of witnesses, who testified that the red lights had been placed in a correct position previous to their mysterious removal. The lamp was found at the Garnet bridge between Jarvis and Hagersville, nearly ten miles from the scene of the accident.

BELIEVE MAN MET WITH FOUL PLAY
Leaving behind a bank account of more than $2,000, tools valued at $700 and a wardrobe, John Moler left the Empire Hotel here to attend a wedding in Toronto on August 26, and has not been seen since. He had about $400 on his person. Friends are alarmed because of his long absence and are inclined to believe he met with foul play.

Moler, who had been employed by the Webster Construction Company for the past four years, obtained leave of absence for a week-end in August to attend the wedding of a friend from his home village in Poland. When his friend, whose wedding he was supposed to attend telephoned and asked about his whereabouts, the suspicions of his friends here were aroused.

LONDON POSTOFFICE STAMP VENDOR QUILTS

Miss L. G. Raymond, stamp vendor at the local postoffice, tendered her resignation, taking effect Oct. 31, and was not in her accustomed place Wednesday.

For some years Miss Raymond has filled the position with every satisfaction, and both the local postal authorities and the thousands who knew her are sorry to see her go. Miss Raymond took the position immediately after the death of her brother, who formerly held that position. For some years Miss Raymond has had an assistant at all times, and two assistants during rush hours, and both of these have resigned with her.

Members of the local staff are carrying on with the work until a successor to Miss Raymond is appointed by the postal department at Ottawa.

POSSE LOCATES KIDNAPPED GIRL

Exhausted Child, 12 Years Old, Found Eighty Miles From Home.

DUBLIN, Michigan, Nov. 1.—Exhausted from exposure and lack of food, Rosalie Shanty, 12-year-old Muskegon girl who was kidnapped Sunday, was able to give only an incoherent account of her experiences when found near here—80 miles from home—today.

The girl after describing to the best of her ability the man who abducted her after she had attended church, was put to sleep at the farm home of Pete Sink. The girl's body was bruised and gave evidence that she had been harshly treated.

Obituaries

PHILIP MACKENZIE.

The late Mr. Mackenzie, who for many years resided in the city, passed away yesterday at the Mitchell Private Sanatorium at Killworth. He was one of this city's pioneers. Many of London's oldest citizens will remember the Mackenzie estate on Ridout street, south of Grand avenue.

Mr. Mackenzie, in the earlier days, was prominent in financial circles here. For a number of years he was closely associated with the Huron & Erie Mortgage Corporation and the Canada Trust Company, being one of the original charter shareholders of the Huron & Erie, which received its charter from the government in March, 1864.

It is a noteworthy coincidence that his name was the twenty-fifth and last on the corporation's original constitution and until his death was the sole surviving charter shareholder of the Huron & Erie.

The sympathy of the citizens of London will be extended to the members of the late Mr. Mackenzie's family. Judge Peter E. Mackenzie of Saskatoon is a son. Mrs. Darnell and Mrs. S. Hallam of Port Arthur and Miss Mary Mackenzie are daughters. Judge P. E. Mackenzie practiced law in this city about fifteen years ago, having been a partner with T. J. Murphy, K. C., in the firm of Murphy and Mackenzie.

Waterloo Police Search For Boys Destroying Electric Bulbs.

Special to The Advertiser.
WATERLOO, Nov. 1.—Waterloo police and special deputies are on the watch for a gang of youngsters who have been destroying the electric bulbs in Waterloo Park. The youngsters are using slingshots and pebbles in their campaign of destruction, and already half the light bulbs on the main drive have been destroyed.

The police expect to apprehend the gang when a number of Waterloo parents will be expected to make good the damages to the park.

HALLOWEEN ACTIVITIES CAUSE PROPERTY DAMAGE

Ingenious Pranks of Masqueraders Prove Costly to Citizens.

Considerable damage was done to property in the city Halloween night, as the result of the activities of mischievous boys, and not a few older males.

In South London several residents discovered Wednesday morning that their doorways had been burned or stolen. One citizen had a good mattress which had been left out in the yard burned.

Trespass and other signs were torn loose and destroyed, and quite a number of chicken houses and dog kennels were either upset or removed far from their accustomed places. One sign which had long been fastened on the Traction bridge, warning cyclists they must not ride on the structure, was smashed.

Hanging baskets, gates and other property, which could be moved were found on telephone poles by some of their owners today. Other less fortunate citizens are still mourning the loss of their belongings.

Other minor damage, such as the staining of doors and windows with vegetable matter, rotten eggs and soap was reported.

FAMOUS SINGER TO APPEAR IN LONDON

Frieda Hempel Will Give Concert at Winter Gardens November 16.

The coming of Frieda Hempel to sing in the Winter Gardens here on Thursday, Nov. 16, marks one of the biggest musical events of the city's history, and comes as a delightful second treat from the Cortese Brothers who were instrumental in getting for London the Galli Curci engagement of last year.

Frieda Hempel has been for seven years leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, having sung opposite Caruso and other distinguished artists. Her lyric soprano voice of marvelous quality made the world hail her as a second Jenny Lind.

Frieda Hempel has just completed a triumphant season in London, England, coming direct to Canada for her first engagement at Montreal. Later she appears in Massey Hall, Toronto, and then in London on the 16th of this month, when she will render her famous Jenny Lind program.

To give the people of London some idea of the distinguished part which she has played in the world of music, she has been leading soprano with the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York; the Chicago Opera Company; the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, England; Beecham Opera, London; Royal Opera, Berlin; Grand Opera, Paris; Grand Opera, Stockholm; Grand Opera, Warsaw; Royal Opera, Budapest and Royal Opera, Brussels.

Chicago Physician Believes It Possible To Cure Insanity by Gland Treatment

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Dr. William Held, lecturer before the Illinois Post Graduate Medical School clinic, announced today that he had offered to treat 100 soldiers suffering from shell shock by making harmonious the functioning of the ductless glands, from which he believes a toxic condition has resulted.

"What we have to do is to determine by blood tests the deficiency or excess of glandular activity and then restore the harmony by injection of suitable extracts," he said. "This dispels the mental cloud."

Dr. Held said his offer had been made to President Harding and the Veterans' Bureau, and that Director Forbes had expressed his thanks, but said that he did not want any experiments made upon the soldiers.

Dr. Held said he had replied that he would not experiment, but would employ methods resulting from twenty-six years of what he believed had been a successful effort to cure epilepsy and certain forms of insanity.

"Out of 400 cases of epilepsy, I can say that 18 per cent have been cured," Dr. Held said. "Even cases in asylums and others on the way to asylums have been cured. As a result I can say that insanity, whether due to epilepsy, shell shock or whatever cause, is no longer to be looked upon as well nigh incurable."

Other Chicago physicians expressed interest in Dr. Held's method and said the theory was in line with medical developments, but that so far as their records went they had no knowledge of cures in such cases.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes!

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

If You Buy the Right Electric Bulbs 'Burned Out' Lamps Won't Bother You

In London you get for a cent as much electricity as they pay 10 to 12 cents for in most of the big American cities.

So American Lamp makers, and Japanese Lamp makers, catering to American trade, make Electric Lamps designed to bring the limit of illumination from every unit of power that passes through the meter. Like a man who lives hard, those lamps die young. Usually they are made to work about 700 hours before in New York, Chicago and Hopkintonville "burning out" lamps is the lesser of two evils.

But here in Ontario, where hydro is cheaper than coal oil, lamps are worth saving. Hydro-Electric Power Commission engineers in Hydro's own laboratories designed a lamp that gives the Hydro user highest efficiency at lowest cost. Hydro Quality Lamps carefully balance power consumption cost and lamp renewal cost and the result is the lamp with the 1,500-HOUR GUARANTEE.

A Hydro Quality 1500-Hour Lamp at 35 cents outlasts two American or Japanese-made 700-hour lamps that cost you 60 cents or more. If it doesn't, you can have a new one FREE.

ENGLISH MUNICIPAL VOTE HARD ON LABOR

PARTY FUNDS IN BRITAIN KNOWN ONLY TO A FEW

And Money Is Not So Plentiful
For Elections As It Used To Be.

COUNT VOTES FASTER
Likely That Entire Results Will Be Known Day After Voting.

London, Nov. 2.—(Associated Press Cable).—This year the suspense over the result of the elections will be over quickly as compared with the old pre-war days. All of the ballots will be cast this time on one day, Nov. 15, and almost the entire membership of the new Parliament will be known by the night of the 16th. Previous to the 1918 elections, the voting and counting always had been spread over several days, and when the fights were close, there was always a long period of uncertainty and anxiety for the party leaders. One reason for the old system was that those who maintain residences in more than one constituency had a vote in each such district. But now, under a newer election law, a man has only one vote irrespective of the number of places he can call home.

Voting is sure to be slower this year, because of the increased number of electors due to woman suffrage. If there is a landslide, the votes in the boroughs, which will probably be known in the early hours of the morning after election day, should give a reliable indication of the general result throughout the country. Because of the fact that the returns will not roll in heavily until long after midnight, the newspapers in the big cities will be under heavy pressure to get their country editions on regular night trains.

There are 261 borough constituencies and 339 county constituencies. In addition to the universities of the United Kingdom elect 11 members and Ulster elects 13. London is divided into 61 boroughs, and there are 182 boroughs in other large cities and towns of England. The few remaining boroughs are scattered through Scotland and Wales. Of the county constituencies 277 are English, 38 are Scotch and 44 are Welsh. Some of the boroughs return two members to Parliament.

Few Rich Runnings.
One of the remarkable features of the coming election is the comparatively small proportion of well-known or wealthy men who are aspirants for office. Money is one of the main reasons of the 80 members of the last Commons who are voluntarily retiring, the majority giving the explanation that they cannot afford public life, as the salary is only £400, and there are no perquisites in the way of provision for secretaries, railway fare or allowances for stationery. A seat in Parliament is more of a financial liability than an asset.

Party managers are finding it hard to discover candidates who are ready to contribute liberally to the expense of their own campaign. Nowadays some of the methods of showering money and keeping a check book adequate to meet the customary party call. Incomes of £5,000 are far fewer in these times of business depression and war taxation than they were before the war. Accordingly, the party machines must dip into their accumulated funds to help the candidates along.

It used to be considered that an M. P. needed an income of at least £5,000 to keep up his end, live comfortably and up to the dignity of his position and keep a check book adequate to meet the customary party call. Incomes of £5,000 are far fewer in these times of business depression and war taxation than they were before the war. Accordingly, the party machines must dip into their accumulated funds to help the candidates along.

Market Clerk Enlightens Farmers Regarding Rumor of City Ordinance.

A rumor has been prevalent of late among the farmers of the London district that there is a city ordinance prohibiting the use of touring cars for the transportation of farm produce to the local market.

There is no such ordinance, declares the market clerk, and agriculturists are free to use touring cars, wheelbarrows, airplanes or anything else on wheels for this particular purpose.

They are not required, as some have supposed, to procure truck licenses for their cars if used in this capacity.

Toronto Fire Chief Tells London Aldermen of Need for Greatest Efficiency.

London would be well advised to exercise every care that its fire-fighting facilities are kept up to requirements, urges Acting Mayor H. Childs, chairman of the finance committee.

"We should always be prepared to handle any fire that may break out," the acting mayor Thursday, incidentally pointing out that expenditures in this respect are to be regarded by thoughtful persons as a real good investment for any community with an eye toward the future.

Apologues of the same situation, the chairman relates that while in Toronto recently he found occasion to confer with the fire chief and similar authorities of that center upon local conditions, and the opinion was expressed by them, he says, that the closing of Fire Hall No. 4 in the north end of the city, was an act of judgment.

"They deemed that this was a wise move," he says, "and pointed out that it is far the best thing to have, say three fire halls, well equipped and adequately manned, than to have five or six that are not up to reasonable requirements in respect to staff and equipment."

The acting mayor urges that as soon as possible the city install two more motor pumps similar to the one that will be placed in the central fire station. He suggests one for centrally severed their connection, and sit as independents.

The following table shows the present constitution of the House:

A point to be borne in mind is that in the next House of Commons instead of there being 106 Irish members, there will be but the 13 from Ulster. The strength of the new House will, therefore, be 615, the seats being divided as follows:

MUNICIPAL VOTE GOES HARD AGAINST LABOR

English Elections Held on Wednesday, Thought by Some To Indicate Feeling in the Voting of Nov. 15.

London, Nov. 2.—The returns from the London municipal elections, although they came in slowly during the day, showed a continuance of the Labor losses in various districts. Of the 19 boroughs which had reported up to 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Laborites had lost 192 seats, and had captured only 5 new ones. The most notable losses reported today were 21 seats in Paddington, 10 in Hammersmith, and 8 in Chelsea. In the borough of Poplar, where the extremely high taxes have caused so much commotion, the Labor loss was only 3 seats, however, the Laborites returning 36 of the 42 members in the council.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press cable).—Stunned by the downfall of their candidates in the municipal elections throughout England yesterday, the Laborites intensified their political campaign today with the hope of making a better showing in the general election of parliament, November 15.

In yesterday's balloting the Laborites lost 149 seats, which they had previously held in London, and about 160 seats which they had occupied in 80 boroughs outside the capital, for the most part in such large cities as Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, Derby, Nottingham, Plymouth, Southampton and Portsmouth.

Although nominally considered purely municipal issues, the local contests, such as those yesterday, are generally regarded and sometimes are, an index to existing political feeling. This time the races were watched with intense curiosity as a possible forecast of Labor's chances in the coming general election.

While it undoubtedly would be rash to assume that Labor is doomed to the same fate at the parliamentary polls as it suffered yesterday, nevertheless the outcome of the local elections has certainly made Labor's prospects for parliament very discouraging. In some instances Laborite representation was completely wiped out in the municipal elections, but at other polls Labor held its own and even made a few gains.

London was intensely hostile to Labor. The general feeling in the capital was manifested by the way the voters flocked to the polls, despite the raw wind and furious rain. Ordinarily the voters in London stay indoors for the most part when municipal elections fall on such a day. This time, however, the local political fights seem to stir the elector mightily.

Some observers profess to see a renewal of harmony between Lloyd George and his former colleagues in the statement made yesterday by Sir Robert S. Horne, who although he was one of the most faithful followers of the little Welshman, informed a Glasgow audience he was still a Unionist, and that, if elected, he would sit on the Unionist side of the House and give his general support to Prime Minister Bonar Law. The illness of Lloyd George attracts much attention. His cold and throat trouble is said by some to really be a symptom of rundown health due to fatigue. That he is tired was obvious to those who saw him during his recent visit to Scotland.

U. F. A. Official Paper Denies Movement for Fusion in West.

Calgary, Nov. 2.—Denunciation of the suggested fusion of Progressives and Liberals in federal politics is contained in the recent issue of the U. F. A. official organ of the movement in Alberta, and publication generally accepted as the mouthpiece of W. H. Wood, president of the organization.

"The time has come," says the U. F. A., "when these principles (referring to those connected with the fusion negotiations) must be declared themselves publicly, plainly and without equivocation."

The editorial continues: "Neither fusion nor the creation of a new centralized party machine has been demanded by the people. No elected member, so long as he continues to be a representative of the organized farmers, is entitled to commit himself to complete a reversal of the plan of the democratic action he was elected to maintain, as the adoption of either these proposals would involve."

Government Flees as Troops Retreat Before Insurgents.

Special Cable To The Advertiser.

Athens, Nov. 2.—A revolution has broken out in Albania, and the government has fled from Tirana and taken refuge in Valona, according to reports from Florida today. Troops of the Albanian government are reported to be retreating before the insurgents.

The reported revolt in Albania was believed connected with the accession of Benito Mussolini to power in Italy. Trouble between Italy and Albania, which had been the subject of diplomatic negotiations for several years, may be further aggravated, it was declared, by the strong Nationalistic attitude of the Fascists.

Amery says: "Coalition has fallen, but not unwept, unmoored or unhurt. During the last fortnight leading members have been very busy sinning its praises, paying tribute to each other's commanding intellect, and bemoaning the fate of the nation, deprived of such stars, and left to wander in the dim illumination of a second-class brain."

Amery's charge that Amery opposed naval economies in private meetings, Amery retorts: "Churchill must be suffering a complete lapse of memory. He has had an operation of late, and perhaps a portion of his memory has been excised along with his appendix."

CAN'T AFFORD POLITICS

Members Not Able To Fork Out Money Now as They Used To in 1918.

London, Nov. 2.—Lloyd George is suffering ill-luck, voice trouble limiting his speaking hours at a time. Chief Lieut. Churchill is also disabled. Outside of Scotland and a few English localities, Conservatives are refusing co-operation with the National Liberals. Lloyd George has threatened to spread the war into Conservative constituencies, if Conservatives oppose National Liberals.

Conservatives have defied him, and are attacking 34 National Liberal seats, including Hamar Greenwood's, and four other Liberal ex-ministers. The Georgians have not yet made reprisals, though they have not much time left, Saturday being nomination day.

Tories are taunting that Lloyd George has a sore throat, and his reserve candidates have cold feet.

National Liberal funds are large. They have just taken from the civil service A. W. Cope, preliminary negotiator of the Irish peace, paying him £9,000 down, and £2,500 per annum, as party organizer, but the richest party cannot fight a large number of seats, unless the candidates are willing to bear a considerable proportion of the expenses. In 1918 there were plenty of candidates, Liberal and Conservative, willing to pay £1,000 toward their election expenses, and £300 year for upkeep of the party organization. The result was a parliament of rich men, giving rise to Keynes' famous description of the last House of Commons as "Hardfaced men, who made money out of the war."

But taxation and trade depression have diminished the supply of such candidates, and even the Conservatives are having to dig more from the central war chest, instead of from candidates.

Hard Hitting Now.

Ex-ministers, even of the same party are not sparing each other's feelings. Boswell replies to Birkhead's boasts of the brilliance of the last cabinet by saying it was the brilliant members who brought us within an ace of war with Turkey, and the same brilliant members conceived the master stroke of an immediate general election, to avoid meeting the National Unionist challenge. Brilliant strokes have been repelled on the authors, concluded Boswell, "today we have the sad spectacle of Lord Birkhead bewailing in public that he is no longer lord chancellor."

Amery says: "Coalition has fallen, but not unwept, unmoored or unhurt. During the last fortnight leading members have been very busy sinning its praises, paying tribute to each other's commanding intellect, and bemoaning the fate of the nation, deprived of such stars, and left to wander in the dim illumination of a second-class brain."

Amery's charge that Amery opposed naval economies in private meetings, Amery retorts: "Churchill must be suffering a complete lapse of memory. He has had an operation of late, and perhaps a portion of his memory has been excised along with his appendix."

FISH DEALERS SAY "ALDERMEN DON'T LEGISLATE MUCH"

CALL ON FINANCE COMMITTEE.

"ALDERMEN don't legislate much. That task is left mostly for legislators who are permanent fixtures," according to a couple of local fish dealers who dropped in upon the members of the finance committee Wednesday night to "talk over municipal affairs," and incidentally to urge that the city dispend with the services of a municipal fish market.

While the members of the deputations dwelt at some considerable length upon the fishing industry in all its phases, they were quite frank in their opinion of London aldermen. Delegates arrived early, and a good portion of the evening was devoted to an impromptu debate upon municipal ownership, the price and quality of fish, and the general intelligence and ability of city aldermen, while other matters of lesser importance were touched on, from time to time.

The visitors informed the members that it was practically a waste of time and effort to compete with a municipal fish stall that possessed "all the pull," and they promised that a wholesale fish market would be established in London in short order, should the city go out of the fish business.

Wholesalers would not come to London under present conditions, they asserted. Mayor Wilson took direct issue with the remarks, held that no argument had been advanced, and contended that the city was selling fish cheaper than the others. It was all a question of price and competition," he said.

The debate warmed up considerably, and both factions asserted confidently at frequent intervals that "they knew what they were talking about." At one juncture the complainants "drew blood" when they charged that discrimination had been shown, as the market clerk assumed a prominent position to direct prospective fish customers toward the fish stall, shouting: "This way for fish."

Ald. H. B. Ashplant thought that the point was well taken, if it could be sustained, that "London was the only city transacting a fish business in open defiance of the provincial law."

Mayor Wilson disputed this hotly, exclaiming: "You are merely lecturing the old argument against municipal ownership, and this town is strong for that."

One of the visitors retorted that all the councillors ever did was to give questions their "serious consideration." This sally aroused Ald. Cunningham, who opined that it was

Prisoner in Police Court Able to Answer That Question Right Straight Off.

Constable Matthew Easton arrested Richard Haines, who had a bottle of rubbing alcohol in his possession on Wednesday night. Haines was charged with having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling. He was also charged with being intoxicated. To both charges he pleaded not guilty.

The prisoner explained he had been ill in bed for two weeks, and had gone to the drug store and purchased the alcohol to rub on his limbs which were swollen. He was returning home when arrested.

Easton, Motorcycle Officer Ernest Haines and Sergeant Roy Morrell all swore Haines was very drunk. When asked if he wished to give evidence, Haines replied that it was of no use, for he would have a small chance, "against all them."

Magistrate Graydon did not convict on the more serious charge, and instructed Chief Birrell to ascertain whether the rubbing alcohol which was being sold over the counter in drug stores could be used as a beverage.

Haines volunteered that it could not, stating it was rank poison, and that he at least would not attempt to imbibe any of it. He was fined $10 and costs, with the option of ten days in jail for being intoxicated.

Inspector V. K. Greer Addresses Convention of London Teachers' Institute.

CONTINUITY ESSENTIAL

G. A. Wheable Advises Speeding Up For Earlier Matriculation.

Urgent need of greater continuity in public school work and greater elasticity in special subjects were impressed upon the convention of the London Teachers' Institute, which assembled in the Normal School Thursday morning, by School Inspector V. K. Greer.

Junior Inspector G. A. Wheable, whose address followed that of Mr. Greer, voiced a plea for "speeding up" in the work of the curriculum, suggesting that the teachers themselves, subject the course to severe criticism to eliminate all "deadwood," with the end that pupils might complete the entrance work at twelve years of age, thus giving them time to obtain full matriculation before the age of 16, the time of school attendance necessitated by the adolescent age.

The convention opened with what was considered a fine attendance. The president, J. H. Newhouse was in the chair, and opening devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. T. J. Cosby Morris of Askin Street Methodist Church, whose brief, though valuable, address served as a prelude to the business of the session.

Inspector Greer's address dealt largely with ways and means of inducing greater continuity of school life, viewing with great favor a scheme whereby teachers should go from class to class with the pupils as far as could be made possible.

It is the intention of the teachers to visit and inspect the Rotary schools of Windsor during their Friday session, and the inspector asked that their visit be made with an unbiased mind, ready to perceive failings as well as virtues in the system.

Obtain Continuity.

"I am sure," he said, "that we may obtain continuity in our school system without using rotary or any other spectacular system."

"I do not wish to be guilty of saying that the rural schools are better than those of the city, but they have a decided advantage in the continuity of their system, whereas our city schools fall down on their method of connecting up the different grades term after term."

"I consider it advisable to have our teachers go from grade to grade more than in the past, particularly in the higher grades. Let the teacher follow her class, and keep track of the mental and physical characteristics, home life and associations of each pupil."

"There is another point to be stressed in the fact that a teacher teaching one grade year after year is apt to get rusty and allow her work to become weaker on that account."

Idea Successful.
"In our art and music we already have a certain amount of continuity by our special teachers and directors, and also in the manual training and household classes, but the same idea might be carried out in other subjects in certain other branches of study."

Junior Inspector Wheable's address dealt more particularly with the need of co-operation and interchange of ideas and new systems tried and found successful.

"Obviously that does not mean," he said, "that pupils be taken over the same ground at the same rate, but rather that we eliminate all out-of-date branches of study, concentrating especially in the third and fourth grades in speed and practice work in order to get a good groundwork for the problems of the higher grades."

"How is it," he asked, "that our program we find no place for discussion or presentation of new ideas? If an inclined to make a suggestion, teachers are allowing themselves to get into a rut, to become self-satisfied. We can't grow professionally unless we have co-operation and interchange of ideas and new systems tried and found successful."

Eliminate Deadwood.
"Don't forget to eliminate the deadwood, and allow your scheme to make the course fit the needs of the individual pupil. The idea of sticking closely to the course prescribed and neglecting the individual characteristics of the pupil has proved a serious mistake in the past, and is a practice which all educationalists, while admitting that some outline of study is necessary, are anxious to avoid."

Rev. T. D. McCullough asked the convention to bring its influence to bear upon the establishment of a juvenile court in London, outlining as necessities to a properly established court a separate building from that in which adults are tried, the proclamations of the juvenile delinquents' act, and the proposal of capable probation officers to follow up the work of the magistrate.

Blue and White Seconds Suffer Second Defeat At Hands of Guelph Terriers

O.R.F.U. SQUAD TO RESUME GRINDS FOR SARNIA TILT

Aggies' Defeat of Varsity Gives Western's Morale Boost For Saturday's Game Here.

GGIES' second defeat of Varsity yesterday has raised Western's morale to the shooting point in view of their own victory over Aggies right on their own gridiron, and they will be actually pained if they fail to repeat the Aggie dose against Varsity Saturday over at Tecumseh Park.

They were out again last night, hard at work. They are just as concerned over the defeat Saturday as if it meant the group, and there's a sort of Sicilian pep to their work these days.

The O. R. F. U. club, which definitely postponed their game scheduled for Petrolia today, will get out again tonight for a hard workout in preparation for the first meeting with Bad Karn's Sarnians at the border on Thanksgiving Day. At this point in the season, it will mean a big loss to the team, but it was rumored around last night that Bill Fitzgerald would probably make the trip to Sarnia Monday, just for old-time's sake, and renew acquaintances and play havoc with the Sarnia line and a few little things like that. However, that hasn't been confirmed. Another rumor also is that Coach Rowan may throw off the coaching responsibilities Monday and at the same time don a uniform to help his crew out. This is also unconfirmed, but nice to speculate on anyway.

The casualties will return to duty tonight, and a full turnout is expected, so that two hard grinds may be got in before Monday.

Meanwhile, while the O. R. F. U. and Western squads are booked for workouts, all the others have intensive programs. Elks will be invited to meet the Collegiate Firsts in several practice tilts to prepare them for the sudden-death game with the winners of the St. Thomas-Sarnia C. I. home-and-home series. Whether the Central Collegiate stands a chance against either of the other teams will be established by these practice tilts, as Elks certainly outplayed the Sarnians in their clash here last Saturday.

Elks are considering several exhibition games, and may tackle St. Albans, the last Toronto crew who are slated for another championship, according to their boosters in the Queen City.

PETROLIA PLEASED.

PETROLIA, Nov. 1.—The Petrolia management of the intermediate rugby team received word today of the postponement of the game to be played in Petrolia today. This was due to the fact that the locals, as many of the players have been out on account of injuries received in the London game last Saturday.

The Petrolia Hard Oils have been down to hard grinding, and the appearance of the team is expected to be improved.

Central Seconds Overwhelm Chatham Collegiate Squad With 28-0 Verdict

The London Collegiate Seconds ran away from the Chatham High School team yesterday in a one-sided game of football, the final score being 28-0, with London on the long end of the stick.

The local boys showed far more class than the Maple Leaf outfit and ran them ragged all through the conflict. The Chatham boys broke through the London line very few times, while the L. C. I. lads worked all their plays to perfection and made yards at will.

Sessions, McDougall and Newell did stellar work for the local squad, and the long-range kicking of the first-mentioned was a feature of the game.

London made their first touchdown four miles after play started, with McDougall taking the ball across. Then see-saw business ensued, and the L. C. I. at last made two points with a rouse and kick to the deadline.

In the second quarter London added another five counters to their mounting lead, with McDougall again going through for a touchdown.

At this stage London was stopping all the Chatham boys, and before the quarter was over had made another touchdown.

No scoring was done in the third quarter, but the locals were on the aggressive throughout and finally won their final touchdown 2-yard line, where they had a good chance to go across, but were penalized 15 yards for off-side.

In the last quarter Sessions pulled off a thirty-yard run through the whole Chatham line, and the game was over before he was stopped.

Darkness was setting in rapidly as the game went on, and the spectators helped the boys out by turning on the headlights of their automobiles. The L. C. I. kept working down to the enemy goal line after a succession of fruitful line plunges and put the finishing over for their final victory.

The teams:

Chatham: Centre—McCallum; Guards—Jones, Briscoe, Jones, Briscoe; Ends—Doddman, Jones, Briscoe; Tails—Bell, Wilkison; Halves—H. Johnston, Taylor; Quarter—McDermott; Fullback—Dennis; Linebackers—Johnston and Coker.

ALLEGES GIANTS BELONG TO UNION

Baseball Fraternity's Head Repeats His Assertion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—With the charge that the baseball players' union was trying to use John McGraw's name to boost its organization, James Tierney, secretary of the National Baseball Fraternity, today repeated his assertion that the players' union was a mere "club" and not a union.

It wouldn't be at all surprising if Pitcher Herbie Pennock of the Boston Sox were to be the only Red Sox player who appeals to the New York Times.

For two years, or ever since the Yankees' season, the New York Times has been without the services of a left-handed pitcher. When the deal with Washington was made it was hoped that "Lefty" O'Doul would come to the Yankees.

There is a strong likelihood that several changes will be made in the Yankees' line-up with one or two pitchers are liable to be sent elsewhere. If such is the case, Pennock will be the only left-handed pitcher in the Yankees' line-up.

The New York Times has wanted him for several years, and the Red Sox seemed to be destined to fight for the cellar championship again in 1923.

London Meets Winner of Sarnia C. I. - St. Thomas C. I. Two-Game Series

Some Bowlers Will Use Snowshoes To Bowl.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 1.—Bowling at this time of year is a fair arrangement, and gives London a much better chance than any other arrangement would. Sarnia and St. Thomas have played together several years, and the strain of a series will not tell on them as it would on the London team.

The team that leaves this district is practically a sure thing to win the London team.

Central Collegiate's "fourth" team plays De la Salle this afternoon at Tecumseh Park. This will be for the "mosquito" title of the city. Central still has another team. These are the "Fifties," who still have to make their debut. Rodda is captain of the Central "fourths."

Woodstock C. I. seconds will play Central thirds here next Tuesday if the game can be arranged.

Freel has been elected captain of the "Thirds."

Woodstock Collegiate firsts and St. Thomas seconds meet November 10.

Economy Hints

See how the WANTS can help you save.

It's an old saying, "A penny saved is a penny earned."

In turning articles into cash, finding a ready market for real estate, securing tenants, gaining employment, restoring lost articles—in every act of buying, selling, renting, exchanging, hiring—the wants prove an economy—a means of saving.

The Wants save time, too, and a saving of energy is as thrifty as saving money.

4 in the first of the home-and-home school championships. They are group winners. A London referee, probably Physical Director Blake of Central, will officiate at both games.

The Kingston Standard soberly announced that the Queen's players were allowed one cigarette each after the Varsity victory. If they beat Varsity at Kingston a week Saturday they will probably get a whole package of Bull Durham.

Lou E. Marsh says: "Up around the Tiger hair they think 'Jax' Marriot's Bengals are going to create as much trouble at Varsity stadium Saturday as a crocodile in a children's nursery. They honestly think they are going to trim Argos to a peak at the end of the champions' record of straight victories."

Isn't that the kitten's cuffs? "Jax" Marriot's Bengals are going to create as much trouble at Varsity stadium Saturday as a crocodile in a children's nursery. They honestly think they are going to trim Argos to a peak at the end of the champions' record of straight victories."

Manager Harris Ardile of the Scullers figures that the Tigers have about as much chance as a corpse at an inquest. He didn't quite put it that way, but that is what he meant—and he will surely be happy to see the Tigers something like 30-0.

Ardile's dignity was dented up in Hamilton when a full back private of the Hamilton Handcut Hussars invited him to move off the field during a dispute in the Argo-Tiger game and treated him to a running start for the side line benches.

If the Hamilton chief had extended the invitation in formal language the peppy Argo manager would not have felt hurt, but when an ordinary everyday cop handed him the grand bounce his "rad" boiled over, and the old bus hasn't cooled out yet.

An Argo landslide Saturday will be the real amica for Ardile's lacerated feelings.

Neither Varsity team will play Saturday, but both will play on Monday—the O.R.F.U. team against the Rowing Club of Hamilton and the Intercollegiate team here in an exhibition game with Tigers.

The Hamilton Herald says: If Argos and Queens meet in the final for the dominion championship "Bob Thomas, the Queens' outside wing star, says he will stop Lionel Conacher, Argos' star."

Cyril Flanagan, star halfback with McGill Intercollegiate senior football squads during the past four seasons, has played his last scheduled Intercollegiate football game. Flanagan received a painful injury to his ankle in the Queen's game over two weeks ago. He had practically recovered from the injury when he was hit again, with the result that he will not be available for the game against Queens on Saturday.

Several of the stars developed by the Varsity O. R. F. U. team may get a chance to get in the game for the intercollegiate team in the return game with Kingston on Saturday. Bob Ferguson, who has been playing in sensational form on the line, is sure to find a place, either at outside or flying wing and is being groomed for that position.

"Bonnie" McPherson, the center half and drop-kicker, is also likely to play since Kingston game on the back division. McPherson is a good line-plunger as well as a fine punter. Coach Maynard has not definitely decided on his plans as yet, but these players are being tried out in practice to see how they fit in with the rest of the team.

South African grasses, used for paper, and known as tamboukie, papyrus and doko, yield about six tons an acre and vary from five to sixteen feet in height.

Giants' Third Sacker and His Wife Like Motoring When There Isn't Any Baseball To Be Played

GROH OWNS HIS OWN OVERALLS, AND LIKES TO WEAR THEM.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 1.—If Ohio ever loses the beautiful woman champion recently won by Miss Campbell of Columbus, the Buckeye State can get it back by entering Mrs. Heinie Groh, native of Cincinnati, the Giants' star third sacker's wife.

She's more than beautiful for she is endowed with all the wifely virtues that a serious-minded ball player like Groh needs to back him up.

Groh is no temperamental impressario. On the contrary he possesses an amount of good nature and an exceedingly likable personality.

But he takes baseball seriously. A hitless day gets clear under his hide, and the end of the season dings him with nerves keyed up to the last notch.

Like most baseball stars' families, the Grohs occupy a furnished apartment in New York during the season.

Automobiling is their principal recreation. In the off hours this summer they have visited most of the points of interest around New York.

Groh's car is not the kind that requires much repair work, but he owns the car on the road last season.

Live in the Suburbs.

Winter finds the Grohs in Cincinnati, where they live in a suburb with Mrs. Groh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bender.

Heinie manages to get quite a lot of hunting and fishing in New Rochelle, N. Y., where he owns a bowling alley.

Here Are Bonehead Plays of Series,
But Question of Real Goat Is Open

WHO is the goat of the world series? The "goat title" must be conferred on the Yankees collectively. Never in the history of the world series has a pennant-winning ball club displayed such an immense crop of costly ivory.

The Yankees started doing the wrong thing in the first game of the series and never let up.

Here is the crop of ivory, domestic and imported, as harvested game by game:

First Game.

One of the fundamental theories of baseball is that if you are one or more runs behind in the ninth inning you first play for a tie, and, having tied the game, set out to win it.

In the ninth inning of the first game the Yankees found themselves trailing 3 to 2. Pipp, the first man up, hit safely. Obviously, the correct thing to do was to tie the score.

Proper baseball on the part of Bob Meusel called for him to bunt. Instead he flashed the hit and run, sent a line fly to Frisch, and Pipp was easily doubled off first base. The Yanks' last chance was erased by bad baseball.

In the second game Wally Schang's failure to slide laid himself open to censure.

With two out and Schang on second, Bush hit a slow roller down the third base line. Groh handled the ball just in front of the bag. Realizing he had little chance to get Bush at first, and knowing Schang was on his way to third, he made a blind swing backward with the ball and touched Schang out about six inches from the bag.

Correct play called for Schang to slide. Had he done so there would have been no chance to make a play on him, and the Yanks would have had runners on first and third, instead of the side retired.

Joe Bush, after pitching perfectly for seven innings, had a bad eighth inning in which the Giants made three runs. With a knowledge that the Giants are fast-ball hitters, he grooved his last ball, instead of working the corners, as he did throughout the rest of the game. The Giants made three hits on the three pitched balls.

Second Game.

Irish Meusel of the Giants is known as a batter with a weakness on a curve ball, low and on the outside.

Bob Shawkey, after fooling Meusel badly on two low curves, happened to get a curve higher and on the inside. Meusel pulled it into the left field bleachers for a home run. Two were on at the time.

That error, which was physical rather than mental, kept Shawkey from scoring a slugging hit. He had to be content with a ten-inning tie.

Third Game.

Witt, after reaching first base, allowed Catcher Smith of the Giants to snap a throw to first and get him flat-footed. It was a demoralizing play.

In the next inning the Giants made a couple of runs.

Pitchers, as a rule, are weak hitters. Despite this, it has long been an accepted rule in baseball that a pitcher should never throw a slow ball to another pitcher at bat.

Wally Groh, who usually pitches carefully and most intelligently, threw a floater to Pitcher Scott of the Giants. He singled to center and started a rally that gave the Giants two runs and the game.

In the same inning, with Scott on third and Bancroft on first, Groh tapped to Hoyt, who forced Scott back to third. Dugan, on receiving the ball, gave chase to Scott, and before he was touched out the other runners had moved to second and third, and were in a position to score. It was a reprieve of Heinie Zimmerman's play on Eddie Collins, except that Dugan got his man out, and the Yankees were allowed the baserunners to advance the limit. Both scored.

Fourth Game.

One thing every ball player is expected to do is run out his hit. The failure of Bob Meusel to do that little thing was one of the most costly blunders of the series.

Meusel hit sharply to Groh, and when he saw him handle the ball cleanly stopped almost dead. Groh made a very bad throw, which eluded First Baseman Kelly. Meusel made a fresh start, but lost a close decision. He would have beaten the play ten feet had he run it out. Ward followed with a home run that would have tied the score.

In the first and ninth innings of the fourth game the Yankees made the same mistake, and each time it proved very costly.

With a runner on first, Pipp in the first inning and Schang in the ninth hit safely to center, sending the runner to third. In each case, with the play in front of them, they elected to try for second, and were easy outs.

With a runner on first, Pipp in the first inning and Schang in the ninth hit safely to center, sending the runner to third. In each case, with the play in front of them, they elected to try for second, and were easy outs.

Meusel hit sharply to Pipp, who moved coast at least one run, just the margin the Yanks lost by.

In the ninth inning Pipp led off with a double. The Yankees were trailing by a run. Proper baseball called for a sacrifice by Meusel, getting Pipp to third, where he would be in a position to score. Meusel first tried a bunt that went foul. He hit the next ball sharply on the ground to Groh. It would have been wisdom to have remained at second, but Pipp started for third, and was retired, while Meusel only reached first.

Fifth Game.

With the score a tie at 2 to 2, and runners on first and second, Bush singled to right center. Ward, who was on second, easily scored on the play, putting the Yanks in front.

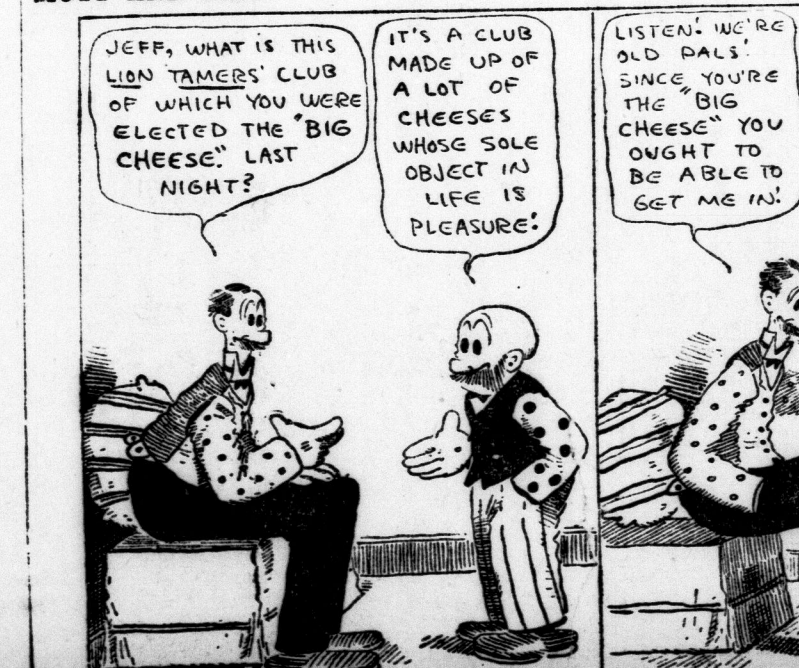

Scott, who went from first to third, overran the bag, and Bancroft, who took the throw from the outfield, caught him off third by a fast throw. He tried to score, but was out at the plate.

Instead of having runners on first and third and only one out, the Yanks had a man on second only. Bush having reached there while Scott was being retired, and two men out. Stupid baserunning again ruined the Yanks' golden chance.

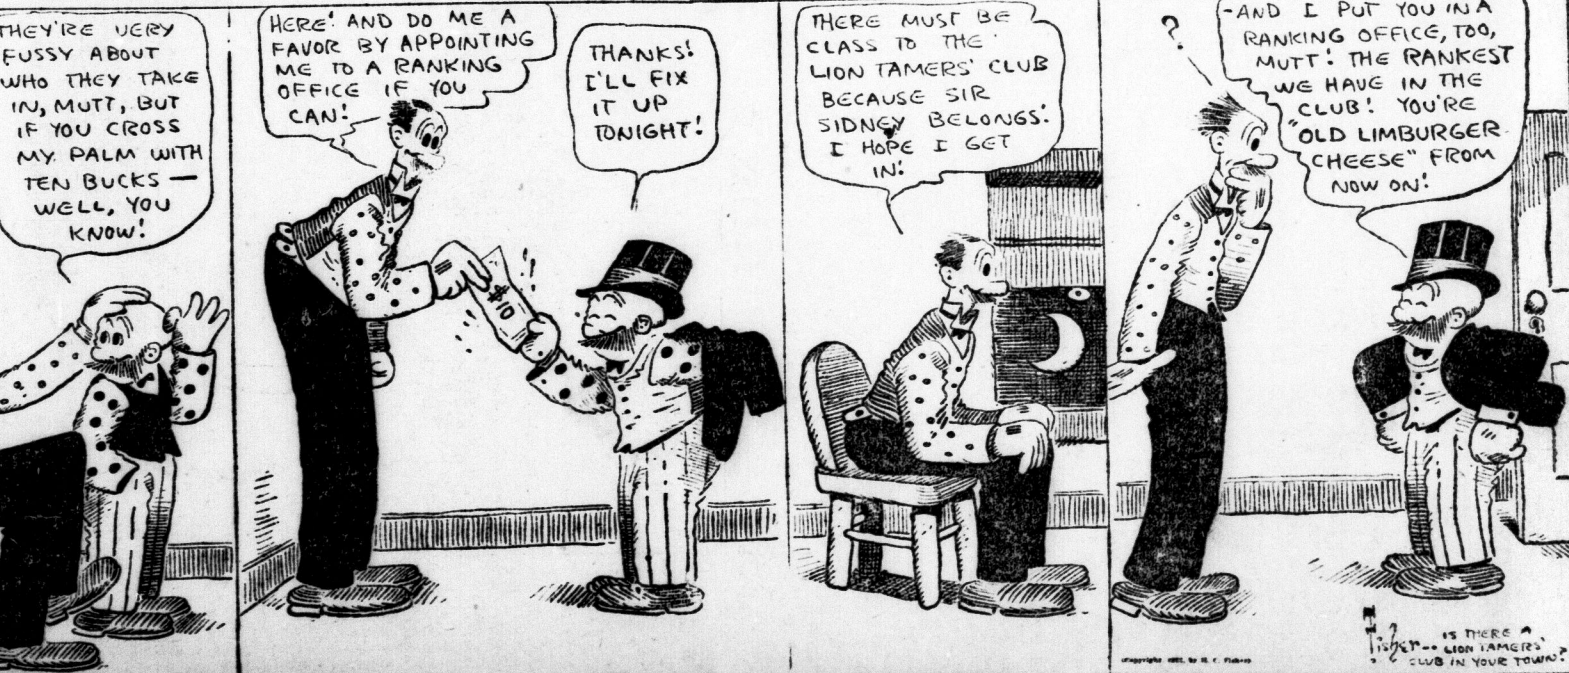

Because of his failure to hit, "Babe" Ruth naturally gets into the goat class. He was the big disappointment of the series.

However, the goat title of the 1922 series belongs to the Yankees collectively. It would be unfair to single out any individual for that unenviable distinction.

CHARGE BOYS WITH

Judge Traverses Actions Against Youths in Brantford Juvenile Court.

Special to The Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 1.—A busy session in the juvenile court was presided over by Judge Hardy Tuesday at the courthouse. Two groups of boys, nine altogether, were up on two charges of breaking windows. Both cases were adjourned to secure more evidence.

The three children of Harry Dent were made wards of the Soldiers' Aid Commission of Ontario. They will be cared for by the Children's Aid Society until other arrangements are made for their future.

Four brothers were made wards of the Children's Aid Society of Brantford. These boys were kept by the society and the mother assisted in many ways, hoping that the father would be apprehended and made to assume his responsibilities, but after over a year's wait, which cost the society over $650 for maintenance, the children were provided with homes under the care of the society.

Another case was of a child from the county, where both parents are in the Ontario Hospital for the Insane at Hamilton, and near relatives are caring for her. This will continue, but under the supervision of the society.

Mr. Kaye of the soldiers' aid commission was in the city yesterday at the juvenile court asking for the custody of three children that are at present not being cared for by the parents. In company with Mr. Axford, a trip to Scotland was made and a young lad located. Two lads cars in 1921.

Radio Radiations

THE world is getting wiser, due to radio.

Never before in the history of the world has knowledge been disseminated so widely and bits of information picked up so fast.

Universities have adopted the radiophone as a means of spreading their educational facilities. Lectures are being sent out daily from all parts of the country to all who care to listen in. Music, both jazz and classic, is being broadcast. Bed-time talks for children, health hints, book reviews, plays and, in fact, any subjects that lend themselves easily to broadcasting are being delivered to the people with radio sets without cost.

It is the greatest era of free learning the world has ever experienced.

Geography.

Even beyond the education spread directly through the radio microphone there are means of helping the radio fans and his friends increase their worldly knowledge. There is, for instance, geography.

Geography cannot be broadcast by radiophone because maps are needed. But radio fans have learned more of the geography of their country through the radiophone than they have ever accumulated heretofore. They know locations, they know distances, and they can tell directions of points from their own stations.

The knowledge is gained through curiosity and the instinct of contest among the fans. Thus a radio fan finds himself tuned in on a certain broadcasting station. Looking up his list he finds out where it is. Out of curiosity he takes his map and measures the distance and makes a note of it.

The record becomes a factor in his endeavor to show the highest distance covered in radio reception. This contest is going on at present in all parts of the continent. In fact, radio amateurs are trying to gain the honor of receiving messages from Europe and other continents.

CHAPTER II.

GUIDED BY Quintana's directions, the three had made a wide detour to the east, steering by compass for the cross-roads beyond Star Pond.

In a dense growth of cedars, on a little ridge traversing wet land, Quintana halted to listen.

Sard and Sanchez, supposing him to be at their heels, continued on, pushing their way blindly through the cedars, clinging to the hard ridge in terror of sink-holes. But their progress was very slow; and they were still in sight, fighting a painful path amid the evergreens, when Quintana suddenly squatted close to the moist earth behind a juniper bush.

At first, except for the thrashing of Sard and Sanchez through the massed obstructions ahead, there was not a sound in the woods.

But, presently, came a soft, swift rhythm like the pace of a forest creature in haste—a discreetly hurrying tread which was more a series of light earth-shocks than sound.

Quintana, kneeling on one knee, lifted his pistol. He already felt the slight vibration of the ground on the hard ridge. The cedars were moving just beyond him now. He waited until, through the parted foliage, a face appeared.

The loud report of his pistol struck Sard with the horror of paralysis. Sanchez faced about with one spring, snarling, a weapon in either hand.

In the terrible silence they could hear something heavy floundering in the bushes, choking, moaning, thudding on the ground.

Sanchez began to creep back; Sard, more dead than alive, crawled at his heels. Presently they saw Quintana, waist deep in juniper, looking down at something.

And when they drew closer they saw Georgiades lying on his back under a cedar, the whole front of his shirt from chest to belly a sopping mess of blood.

There seemed no need of explanation. The dead Greek lay there where he had not been expected, and his two pistols lay beside him where they had fallen.

Sanchez looked stealthily at Quintana, who said softly:

"Bien sure. . . . In his left side pocket, I believe."

Sanchez laid a cool hand on the dead man's heart; then, satisfied, rummaged until he found Georgiades' share of the loot.

Sard, hurriedly displaying a pair of clean but shaky hands, made the division.

AFTER an all-night sleep beside the treasure spot Jack rose with the sun and set to work again. He had been afraid to leave the place for fear someone would come and steal the hidden treasure while he was away.

When the three men had silently pocketed what was allotted to each, Quintana pushed curiously at the dead man with the toe of his shoe. "Peste!" he remarked. "I had a diamond in my pistol barrel. Now it is within the interior of this gentleman. . . . He turned to Sanchez: I sell him to you. One sapphire. Yes?"

Sanchez shook his head with a slight sneer: "We wait—if you want your diamond, mon capitaine."

Quintana hesitated, then made a grimace and shook his head.

"No," he said, "he has swallowed."

Let him digest. Alons! March!"

But after they had gone on—two hundred yards, perhaps—Sanchez stopped.

"Well?" inquired Quintana. Then, with a sneer: "I now recollect that once you have been a butcher in Madrid. . . . Suit your taste, I am Sanchez."

Sard gazed at Sanchez out of sickened eyes.

He kept away from me until you've washed yourself," he burst out, revolted. "Don't you come near me till you're clean!"

Quintana laughed and seated himself. Sanchez, with a hang-dog glance at him, turned and sneaked back on the trail they had traversed. Before he was out of sight Sard saw him fish out a Spanish knife from his hip pocket and unclasp it.

Sanchez made no effort to find them. They had been gone half an hour before he had finished the business that had turned him back.

As he stood there, examining his clothing, and washing what he could of the ominous stains from sleeve and shoe, very far away to the north he heard a curious noise—a faint sound such as he never before had heard.

If it were a voice of any sort there was nothing human about it.

Probably some sort of unknown bird. . . . Perhaps a cat of prey.

That was natural, considering the attraction that Georgiades would have for such creatures. . . . If it were a bird it must be a large one, he thought.

There was a certain volume to the cry. . . . Perhaps it was a beast, after all. . . . Some unknown beast of the forest. . . . Sanchez was suddenly afraid.

Scarcely knowing what he was doing he began to run along the edge of the bog.

He was tired, or thought he was, but the alarming sounds were filling his ears now; the entire forest seemed full of them, echoing in all directions, coming in upon him from everywhere, so that he knew not in which direction to run.

The next instant he fell headlong over a ledge, struck water, felt himself whirled around in the icy, rushing current, rolled over, tumbled through rapids, blinded, deafened, choked, swept helplessly in a vast green wall of water toward something that thundered in his brain an instant, then dashed it into roaring chaos.

Half a mile down the turbulent outlet of Star Pond—where a great sheet of green water pours thirty feet into the tossing foam below—and spinning, dipping, diving bobbing up like a lost dog after the drive, the body of Senor Sanchez danced all alone in the wilderness, spilling from soggy pockets diamonds, sapphires, rubies, emeralds, into crystal caves where only the shadows of slim trout stirred.

Very far away to the eastward Quintana stood listening, clutching Sard by one sleeve to silence him.

Presently he said: "My friend, somebody is hunting with houn's in this forest."

Quintana faced him abruptly—with a terrifying smile and glimmer of white teeth—and shoved a pistol into the fold of fat beneath Sard's double chin:

"You hear those dogs? Yes? Ver' well; I also. Run, now, I say to you run ver' quick. He! Hou! Allez vous en! Beat eet!"

He struck Sard a stinging blow on his fleshy ear with the pistol barrel, and Sard gave a muffled shriek which was more like the squeak of a frightened animal.

"Quintana—" he sobbed. Then Quintana's eyes blazed murder: and Sard turned and ran lumbering through the thicket like a stampeded ox, crashing on amid withered brake, white birch scrub and briar, not knowing whether he was headed, crazed with terror.

Sard could not run very far. He could scarcely stand when he pulled up and clung to the trunk of a tree.

NOT long after he turned to digging again, Jack was surprised to see men and boys coming on the scene with shovels. "Looks like everybody was going to dig here," thought Jack. And he was not far wrong.

SOON the newcomers were hard at work. Jack surely had competition now in his treasure hunt. The kind-hearted old officer who had tried to help him had unthinkingly caused a lot of new trouble. Continued.

Collars Start To Run Wild

THE new fashions for the youngest set are distinguished this season by all sorts and shapes of collars.

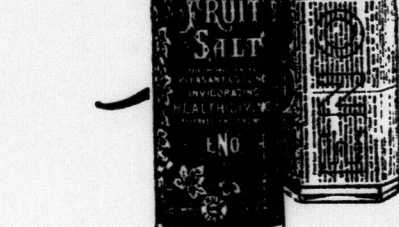

The neckline of a dress no longer stops at the yoke, but ends just as prettily as it pleases in the most becoming of collars.

For children there are the demure Quakerish collars, the Puritanical docus and the light, fluffy Berthas.

But greater in style than all these is the collar trimmed with fabric laced and interlaced in pretty designs.

Yet even the sheerest of collars can have a practical side, for what mother wouldn't take the opportunity to freshen up her daughter's last year dress by adding to it a collar of this year's fashion

CURRIE ATTACKS EDUCATION PLAN
OF PRESENT DAYPrincipal of McGill University
Addresses Large Gathering At Ottawa.POINTS OUT DANGERS

Declares Tendency To Emphasize Utilitarian and Overlook Classical Side.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—(By Canadian Press.)—That the tendency to emphasize the utilitarian side of education almost exclusively, and to the detriment of the classical side of the country's educational system, was one of the great dangers of today, was the assertion made today by Sir Arthur W. Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., principal of McGill University, in his address before the Canadian Educational Association tonight.

Sir Arthur was speaking on some of the weaknesses of present day educational tendencies, and with a richness of illustrative material drawn from the master minds of English literature, and the statements of many of the world's great educationists of the past, as well as the present, he enlarged on the thought that education was not its highest or best when it simply prepared the student to make a livelihood, or to make money for himself.

"Fifty years ago," said Sir Arthur, "it would have been absurd to bring a charge of utilitarianism against the schools or education system of the country. There was then an almost rigid adherence to the exclusively classical idea of education. This idea was attacked by such leaders as Herbert Spencer, who deplored the fact that the ornamental over-rode the practical in the system of that day. The educational system changed under these attacks to the practical studies of modern life."

The tendency has now swung to the other extreme, Sir Arthur affirmed, and there is danger today of laying the emphasis too strongly on the kind of education that will increase the skill of the pupils along technical lines, and solely applying itself to the child's ability to earn a living.

There is reason to view with alarm the lengths to which the exponents of the practical side of education, so-called, will proceed, he said, in holding out monetary advantages as an inducement to the boy or girl to secure an education.

The investigation of what the department of education might do to provide aids for the teaching of Canadian geography was the first to be considered at the afternoon session. The debate was led by Principal A. C. Casselman of the North Bay Normal School and F. A. Jones of the Normal School, Ottawa.

Dr. Jones urged that the geographical information in the hands of the various government departments should be placed in the hands of the teachers in the provinces, so as to bring the stock of knowledge on the subject of geography up to date. This information, contained in numerous pamphlets published from time to time, he suggested, might be given in the form of a handbook issued at stated times.

He also urged that more pictures be put into the text books used in the public schools. The teaching of geography should not end up with the learning of the lesson, Dr. Jones declared. The pupil should be taught to do a great deal of research work for himself afterwards.

GEDDES ADVISES CANADA'S YOUTH REMAIN HERE

British Ambassador To U. S. Addresses Students At Ridley College.

POINTS OUT DUTIES

Urges Young Men To Tackle Dominion's Problems of Reconstruction.

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 1.—That young Canadians should stay in their own country was the advice urged upon students of Ridley College by Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, in an address at noon today, delivered during the course of a visit to his son, who attends that institution.

"At the present time in the world," he said, "there is a great difficulty in all countries in keeping all sections of the people prosperous. This difficulty is less marked in Canada than in any other British dominion, and less throughout the empire than in the rest of the world. You young men have got to bring the world back," said Sir Auckland after a reference to the destruction wrought by the war.

He asked the student body, "Are you going to follow the spirit of the men who fought and laid down their lives in the war, or are you going off somewhere else?"

Duties of Schools. They were the children of a race and the children of a great community, with duties to all members of that community. He hoped that the future would not show the young men of Canada leaving their native land when there was so much restoration and development work to be done. The real responsibility of the future rested on Ridley and other schools of the Dominion in this respect.

Canada, continued the speaker, was far behind what she would have been if her sons had stood beside her so valiantly in peace as they had done in war. It was one of the serious problems of the British empire at the present time, and it was greatly to be deplored that so many Canadians gave their mental energies and their physical strength to the upholding of other countries.

"There is something in the British Empire which no other country in the world has even commenced to show," said Sir Auckland in conclusion. "No human organization has ever been built up on this earth which has done so much good for mankind, with many mistakes it is true. Canada is one of the British dominions and you are inheritors and will soon be the guardians of the empire of the great British trust. Out of the war there should come a realization that your country demands service and has a right to that service, not only in war time, but in peace times.

Leaves For Washington. One of Canada's greatest problems is the result of so many of her sons going away. Hand down your traditions and assume the responsibility of your whole working lives to restore some of the great loss in the war, and the sacrifice made and you too will pay in part the price which was paid to maintain the freedom, the dignity and the glory of the British Empire."

Sir Auckland and party left at 8 o'clock tonight for Washington.

YOUTH 17 SLAYS GIRL, THEN SELF

Jealous Boy Waits in Ambush—Shoots Former Sweetheart and Chum.

MESICK, Mich., Nov. 1.—Springing from ambush on a lonely road north of Mesick, Ray Judd, 17 years old, former star athlete at the Mesick high school, last night shot and killed his former sweetheart, Loretta Redman, 16 years old, and probably fatally wounded her chum, Nettie White, 16, with whom she was driving to the White home in a buggy.

With a third charge from his shotgun, Judd then killed himself. Jealousy is believed to have prompted the tragedy. Earlier in the evening, the girls, accompanied by two boy students, had gone to the high school to attend a lecture. In the corridor Judd accosted Miss Redman.

"Are you going with me any more?" he demanded. "No," replied the girl. Judd did not remain for the lecture. After the lecture the girls started for the White home with their escorts. A half a mile beyond the town the girls dismissed their escorts, who lived on a cross-road, saying they were not afraid to drive the rest of the way, a mile and a half, alone.

As the girls approached the White home, Judd, bearing a shotgun, leaped into the road and stopped the horse. He tried to enter the buggy, but was pushed aside by one of the girls, while the other whipped up the horse.

Two shots followed in quick succession. Each girl was struck in the back. Miss Redman was killed instantly. Her companion, though dazed and weakening from the loss of blood, drove rapidly to the barnyard of the White home.

WOODSTOCK FIRE FIGHTER BURNED

George Hayes Injured While Attempting To Put Out Chimney Blaze.

Special To The Advertiser. Woodstock, Nov. 1.—George Hayes, a Woodstock fireman, was badly burned about the neck and hands in a fire on Hounsfield street this morning. The fire was confined to the chimney of a residence, and when Hayes was in the act of shooting a chemical extinguisher up the chimney, the flames back-fired and caused serious injuries.

Woodstock this year has an enviable fire record, the total fire loss for the ten months being only $460, which is said to be a record for Canadian cities the same size. The attorney-general's department has decided to make no further appeal in the case of E. A. Rea, the Woodstock druggist who was convicted in police court on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor and whose conviction was quashed on appeal by Judge Wallace. James Hales, director of prosecutions under the case and had no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that it was not a case for further appeal.

A new high record for the customs office of Woodstock was established during the month of October when the total collections, $38,072.04, were the highest for any single month since the office was established. The month's total was almost double that of October, 1921, when the collections were $19,765.80. The whole of the increase is accounted for by an increase in the sales tax, which this year amounted to $26,002 for the month, compared with $7,931 for the same month last year. The sales tax paid by local manufacturers was almost exactly double the amount paid for the month of September, showing that trade has taken a great jump upwards.

LOCAL COUNCIL JOINS IN WAR ON DRUG EVIL

Indorses Canadian Club Resolutions—Calls On Affiliated Societies For Support.

MRS. WRIGHT REPORTS

Citizenship Committee Disbanded For Present—Council As Whole To Act.

Power to the arm of the London Women's Canadian Club in waging warfare against the illicit drug traffic in the Dominion was given by the Local Council of Women at the meeting held Wednesday afternoon in "Lenmore," the King street residence of the Y. W. C. A.

After hearing the resolution which the Canadian Club adopted Tuesday, and is forwarding in the form of a petition to Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, asking effective legislation to cope with the rapidly growing menace, the council indorsed this by a standing vote. It was further decided to urge the many affiliated societies to sign the petition which will go forward to Ottawa.

Mrs. F. W. Hughes, president of the Women's Canadian Club, submitted the resolution. Its indorsement by the local council was moved by Mrs. Hughes and seconded by Mrs. Gemmell.

At the conclusion of a comprehensive report of the annual meeting of the National Council held in Port Arthur last year, Mrs. Gordon Wright pointed out that the action of the London Local Council was in line with a suggestion from the National to the local councils, that they do their part to combat the insidious advances of the drug habit.

Mrs. Wright further stated that she would see that the action adopted by the Canadian Club was taken up at the meeting convening shortly, of the Dominion W. C. T. U., expressing her view that uniformity in resolutions sent to the government was most desirable. Further, she hoped that the government would be deluged with these from all parts of Canada.

Act For Citizenship Committee.
The question of the citizenship committee, an outstanding one of the agenda, was solved by the decision to disband it for the present, the Local Council to perform its functions until occasion arises for the separate committee to render special service.

A bequest of $200 from Mrs. H. A. Boomer, the former beloved president, was acknowledged by a standing vote of appreciation. On motion of Miss Macdonald, seconded by Miss Stella Macklin, it was decided, in accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Boomer, to use it as a nucleus of a contingent fund, to be added to from time to time.

Mrs. Gordon Wright reported that $150 had come in from local councils scattered throughout Canada, and National Council officials, who were personal friends of Mrs. Boomer, as contribution towards endowment in her memory in the War Memorial Children's Hospital. In this matter, Mrs. Wright reminded the memorial partakes of a national character, in honor of an outstanding citizen of the Dominion as well as of London. Mrs. Sanford, former national president, had given $50; Miss Carmichael, president this year, $50; Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen, Ontario provincial president, $15; Mrs. O. C. Edwards, $5; Welland and Renfrew Local Councils, $5 each; Cronyn Memorial, $5; Mrs. Gahan and Miss Macklin, $5 each. Pledges of assistance had been given by Halifax, Moose Jaw, Peter-

Cynthia Grey Cook Book Launched With Calamity Anne in Command

Dear Miss Grey.—My gracious! There I went an' stumbled over that 'er doornut agin. Ain't it a corker how my toes just won't keep from gettin' 'nuder mats, an' straws, an' cracks an' things. Yep, it's me! didn't you know? Phew! Ain't she some hot? I'm greatly afeared I'm going to trickle away in little streamlets of "presperet." You see I "sweeper" so freely an' so much. Glad to see you an' the Boxites are in favor of Cook Book skakine, an' I am sure willun to dew 'smuch of the wurk as possibull—"complate" it. (Is that what you noospaper folks say?) Sumpin' like that, eh?

Now for a fugh sentences with a curlymeque at the end. I will The Advertiser print it, or dew they dew only noospaper printin'?

2. If they will dew it cud you give us an estimate of cost of printin' of say a book 6 1/2 by 9 1/2 inches, with sum 75 pages?

3. A fund must be started to cover the expense of printin'. Will you keep account of it an' forward recipes (say weekly) to me, or shall I akount fer it all?

After we have our necessary number of recipes—let us have a "dive" amon' the C. G. crew to get "ad-verts" to help defray expenses, and, of course, a nickel dime or quarter will not be scorned if sent with recipes. Shall we aim at 500 copies an' strive to make it 1,000?

Now, folks, I'm ready if you are, an' we don't want our books printed till we can pay entire akount (if possible) an' 'en hev sale of books a klere profit. Huh?

Don't flood us with cake recipes, but let us hev some of soups, fish, meats, vegetables, pickles, salads (including dressings), cheese and eggs, bread and muffins, puddings (and sauces), pies, cakes, small cakes, jams and marmalades, candy, beverages, miscellaneous, household hints for removing stains, etc.

Now—sumin start the bal arollin'! boro, West Algoma, McLeod, Alberta local councils, and Mrs. Willoughby Cummings and Mrs. Murray, friends in the National Council of Mrs. Boomer.

Local "Leagues of Nations."
In her report of the proceedings of the National Council annual meeting Mrs. Wright drew attention to the outstanding work of the council in various provinces, the crusade against the drug evil in British Columbia, the "Vocation Week," established in Alberta, to assist boys and girls in choosing vocations for which they were adapted.

Emphasis was placed on a recommendation to each local council from the national, based on the report of Mrs. Clements of Brandon, urging the formation of a League of Nations' committee in each local council to work for permanent peace. According to Mrs. Clements, eight such local leagues had been formed in Canada, to promote the establishment of permanent world peace.

Another recommendation brought by Mrs. Wright was that each local council pay its part in dealing with the problem of immigration. Each local council, she stated, was urged, as a result of representations made by a deputation of soldiers to the national, to appoint a committee to see that the needy dependents of soldiers were assisted in each community and that any injustice to them be righted.

Local councils were further urged to encourage education along the lines of art, through assistance with art exhibitions at country fairs.

Mrs. E. B. Smith, the president, drew attention to the work by blind operators, in connection with an exhibition of work done by the blind during this week at Gray's Limited.

RUFFLES AGAIN.

Small ruffles, suggestive of femininity and frivolity, are used effectively on party frocks of georgette and taffeta for the sub deb. Frequently they offer the only attempt at decoration.

KINTORE INSTITUTE AIDS NEEDY NORTH

Sends $600 Worth of Goods To Cobalt—Plans Hospital Endowment.

At the recent monthly meeting of Kintore Women's Institute a committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. (Dr.) Macdonald, Mrs. A. Chalmers and Mrs. Arnold Hogg, to interview the people of Lakeside and Thameston with regard to canvassing East Nissouri to enlist support in endowing a cot or room in the War Memorial Children's Hospital.

A letter of thanks was read from Cochrane, Ontario, for help in the way of clothing sent, and also a letter of acknowledgment of money sent to Woodstock Children's Shelter to help equip the Women's Institute ward.

Goods brought in, amounting in value to upwards of $600, were packed to be forwarded to the fire relief committee at Cobalt.

An excellent paper was read by Miss Margaret Calder on the subject, "Am I My Brother's Keeper," and the roll call was answered by "My Pet Proverb."

The ladies taking the meeting Nov. 29, are Mrs. (Dr.) Macdonald, Mrs. Joseph Skelton, Mrs. Haines and Miss Annie McKay.

WITH THE BRIDES

LOFT—HASKETT.
A quiet wedding took place at the Methodist parsonage, Ilderton, on Tuesday, Oct. 31, when Merrill F. Loft and Miss Neva I. Haskett were united in marriage by the Rev. W. J. Vance.

The bride was given her wedding gown by Mrs. Douglas, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The evening before about 40 happy guests met at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Haskett of Ilderton, and gave her a shower of midnight blue tricotine and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The house throughout was artistically decorated with clusters of chrysanthemums and gay autumn foliage. The ceremony was performed in the living-room by Rev. J. T. Cosby Moles, pastor of Akin Street Methodist Church. Mrs. George Hepburn, sister-in-law of the bride, played the nuptial music.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a smart frock of cocoa colored French crepe, heavily beaded, a black picture hat with cascade of ermine, and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

A buffet luncheon was served in the dining-room, the young couple leaving afterwards for a honeymoon trip to Toronto and eastern cities. For traveling the bride donned a modish navy blue suit, gray hat with French flowers and brown box shoes.

SHANNON—HASKIRK.
The marriage took place Wednesday, Oct. 25, at noon, at the Presbyterian manse, Seaford, of Mrs. Margaret Haskirk to Solomon Shannon of McKillop. Rev. J. A. Ferguson, pastor of Duff's Church, performed the ceremony. Following the ceremony the wedding party motored to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hudson, Edmondville, where dinner was served. The bride wore a smart suit of navy tricotine with a cloak and hat of the same shade. Her hat was trimmed with gray ostrich tips.

Mrs. Shannon left on a honeymoon which will be spent in Toronto, Niagara Falls and Norwich, and upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm in McKillop. The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial check.

FOR PALM BEACH.
It is said that the favorite Palm Beach frock of this season will be the straightline frock of white crepe chine embroidered with a monogram. Such gowns are being prepared in quantities.

A jolly Halloween party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips, 30 Muir street, when they entertained in honor of their daughter, Miss Helen. A number of guests enjoyed an evening of Halloween games.

The annual Halloween dance given by the St. Joseph's Hospital was a delightful affair of Tuesday evening. Dancing was enjoyed in the assembly hall, which was gayly decorated. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Robinson assisted in welcoming the guests.

Mrs. W. D. Mills was a tea hostess recently, entertaining at her home in Queen's avenue in honor of Miss Elsie MacQueen, a bride-elect of next week. Attractive handkerchiefs were given the guest of honor in a Halloween pumpkin, presented by Billy Mills, young son of the hostess.

Group 4, Ladies' Aid committee, First Methodist Church, held their weekly sewing meeting at the residence of Mrs. Lorne Spry, on Wellington street, Tuesday afternoon. About twenty members were present. Among pieces of fancy work many favors were made for Christmas parties.

A number of slides shown in Massey Hall at the Girls' Work Board convention in Toronto will be a feature Friday evening of the program of the Campers' reunion party, at "Lenmore," the King street residence of the Y. W. C. A. These include views at Port Bruce camp where many London girls enjoyed happy outings this year.

A charming and well-attended event of Wednesday afternoon was the bridge and euchre given at the Blue Dragon tea room under the auspices of the Overseas Chapter I. O. D. E. Mrs. A. H. Clinger received the guests, assisted by the conveters, Mrs. Harry Hopper and Mrs. C. J. Winkling. Thirty-three tables were in play and a large number of guests dropped in at the tea hour.

The residents of the Wellington street Y. W. C. A. enjoyed a happy Halloween party Tuesday evening. The guests, numbering sixty, were attired in attractive and original costumes, and games, contests and a sing-song were included in the program. Dimmed lights, jack-o'-lanterns, black witches and cats lent an atmosphere of mystery to the party. Later in the evening a dainty supper was served.

The Trafalgar Chapter, I. O. D. E., arranged a charming tea at Smallman & Ingram's recently in honor of Mrs. Lena Atkins of Jacksonville, Florida, an interesting visitor in London. Mrs. Emery's aunt, Mrs. M. J. Atkins, was formerly the regent of the chapter, and Mrs. Emery has always taken a keen interest in the work. A graceful tribute to the guest of honor was the presentation of a cluster of chrysanthemums.

The members of the Girls' Canadian Club made merry Wednesday evening, when they held a jolly Halloween party at "Lenmore." The party gave the new members a splendid opportunity of becoming acquainted with the older members of the club. The room was gay with jack-o'-lanterns and black cats, and the bright costumes of the girls added to the festivity of the scene. A grand march opened the evening, followed by games and dancing. A supper consisting of Halloween goodies were served.

MOORE CENTER W. I.

Mrs. Starr was hostess for the October meeting of Moore Center Women's Institute when roll call was answered with Halloween suggestions. After appointing Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Miller delegates to the London convention, a social time was spent over refreshments. The topic for the day was, "The Place and Power of Young Womanhood of Today," and was given by Mrs. Curran. It was arranged to pack a box for Northern Ontario in answer to the appeal for help. Twenty-five dollars was also donated by the branch for supplies. The next meeting will be on Nov. 2 and will take the form of a quilting bee at Mrs. E. Eyre's.

Bring Count Tolstoi Before Christmas

Meeting Saturday at 2:15 o'clock in the home of Mrs. A. B. Greer, the Women's Canadian Club executive will make arrangements in connection with the visit to the city either Monday, Dec. 18 or Tuesday, Dec. 19, of Count Ilya Tolstoi, son of Count Leo Tolstoi, who is making a lecture tour in the United States and Canada. In a letter received this week by the corresponding secretary of the club, the clever son of a father ranking among the famous figures of world history, states that he will be in Western Ontario from Dec. 18 to 23. Owing to the magnitude of the attraction, the public will be afforded an opportunity of participating.

A member of the Canadian Club executive who heard Count Tolstoi last year in New York, states he is an impressive man physically, and has a remarkable command of English.

December is to be a busy month for the Canadian Club, with a lecture from Miss Drew of Oxford University, and a lecture recital by F. W. Hayden of Toronto.

Tuesday evening next the executive will act as hostesses at the banquet to Western Ontario Women's Institute delegates at Smallman & Ingram's, and on Tuesday, 14th, will entertain London writers at a banquet from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock, a postponed Canadian Book Week tribute.

RUMMAGE SALE WAXES HIGH BROW

The rummage sale is really in society. No longer is it regarded as a cheap expedient for making money when all other forms of effort are out of the question. Gradually it has won its way into favor in churches, charitable and patriotic circles. And now it has broken into the realm of pure intellect.

The proceeds of a rummage sale to be held Sunday morning, Nov. 5, at 629 Dundas street, by the Western University Alumnae Association, will go towards a new scholarship in history which the alumnae is founding. Those who are fortunate enough to profit in the years to come will owe a chance to advance in the road to knowledge to the longer useful books, hoards no longer useful boots, furnishings, bonnets and knick-knacks, but passes them along where they will be of service.

RIBBON HATS.
Ribbon trimmed hats were never more popular than now. Satin, moire, picot-edged, double-faced and brocade ribbons are used to fashion the soft little hats that are so becoming. If the hat itself is of velvet or silk it is quite likely to have a large ribbon bow for trimming.

A Correct Corset-Foundation

—is essential to Modish Dressing

The best of dressmakers admit that they can never make a gown look its best over a poor corset-foundation. Proper corset-fitting always determines the ultimate just ensemble. How necessary, then, to select just the right corset before choosing your frocks or consulting your dressmaker!

Nemo Wonderlift Corsets give you the slim, straight lines which are the best foundation for fashionable frocks and trim. In fact, they give you more than this, for every Wonderlift Corset has a concealed adjustable band of semi-elastic webbing—the Wonderlift Bandler—which lifts up and holds in proper position the abdominal muscles and organs. Thus health and comfort are assured—while you obtain the good figure and erect carriage so essential to smart appearance.

SLAIN PASTOR'S WIDOW DENIES WOMAN'S STORY

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall Interrogated by Army of Reporters.

SHEDS BUT LITTLE LIGHT

New Brunswick, N. J., Woman Breaks Silence Maintained For Seven Weeks.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 1.—“What comment could I make? Of course, that was not so, and that is all.”

With these words, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall opened today her first interview, an interview planned by her counsel in connection with the Hall-Mills murder mystery.

For the first time since she was widowed by the slaying of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, Mrs. Hall has emerged from the seclusion she has maintained for seven weeks, meeting a small army of newspaper writers in her home, and subjecting herself to an hour's bombardment of questions.

At the end she retired as she had entered the room, wan but composed. She had shed no light on the mystery. Hers was a negative story. It amplified but did not materially alter the statements previously made on her behalf by counsel and friends.

Repeats Statements. Briefly, it was that Dr. Hall had started out to his doom, saying he was going on an errand of mercy to discuss with Mrs. Mills a hospital bill which he was paying with church funds; that he was slain by a person, and for a motive of which she had not the slightest conjecture; and that her memory of him is unimpaired by the scandal in which his name has been involved.

“Have you any comment to make, Mrs. Hall,” the spokesman began, “on that part of Mrs. Gibson's story (Mrs. Jane Gibson, the so-called eyewitness of the slaying), in which she says you were present on the Phillips farm on the night of Sept. 14?” Mrs. Hall replied: “What comment could I make? Of course, that was not so, and that is all.”

“You were not there?”

Refuses to Answer. For an hour then one reporter after another volleyed questions at her. Three or four times she took refuge behind the reply, “I cannot remember,” and on three questions she refused point blank to answer. But throughout the interview she maintained that she always had believed and still believed in the faithfulness of her husband to his marriage vows.

The three questions Mrs. Hall refused to answer were:

First, a request for her estimate of the character of the woman slain with her husband.

Second, whether or not she believed in divorce, and would have sought a divorce if she had known of intimacy between Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

And, third, where Mr. Hall got half of the $20,000 in securities found in his safety deposit vault, and with which he was reported to have planned an elopement to the Orient with Mrs. Mills.

Her lawyer later explained that she refused to discuss the origin of the funds because she herself had given them to him, and she felt delicate in going into a personal matter.

The perfume was added, the police declare, to act as a deodorizer so that the ladies would not know that their dancing partners had been drinking.

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement
Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: “Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?”

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100. Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.,
Cobourg, Ont. and Lynn, Mass.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

SPECIAL OFFICERS CALLED TO COURT

Four Dismissed O.T.A. Agents
Must Face Charges Laid Under Act.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Following an investigation which was held today into the incident of drunkenness and gun-play which his four special officers had staged at Birchcliff, General Victor Williams, commissioner of the provincial police, announced at the Parliament Buildings that the four men had been dismissed from the service. It was also stated that of the men would be required to appear tomorrow morning in police court to answer to charges of drinking in an illegal place. Their names, it was learned, were M. McLaughlin, G. A. Wright, W. E. Partridge and J. P. Parish.

The version of the affair which General Williams received was to the effect that the four officers had entered the Scarboro township water-works property on Saturday night and demanded sleeping accommodation. This being refused to them they threatened the caretaker, it is said, with a gun and were only expelled when assistance arrived from No. 10 police station.

FINDS BODY OF MAN WHO TOOK OWN LIFE

SUDBURY, Nov. 1.—What appears to have been a deliberate case of suicide about 18 months ago has come to light when a farmer named Hampton discovered the skeleton of a man in the bush near Long Lake. The provincial police believe it is the body of John Tutin, a widower, who previously lived at Copper Cliff. Tutin at the time was despondent and had come out from Copper Cliff to the Long Lake section looking for work. He had only 80 cents to his name at the time. The 80 cents was found in one of the pockets of his clothing.

The skeleton was found with the head suspended from a small poplar tree by a shoestring. The body was prone on the ground, indicating that Tutin had lain down and committed his rash act by slow strangulation.

A Practical Prescription For Sour, Acid Stomach

Nine-tenths of all cases of stomach trouble nowadays are caused by too much acid. In the beginning the stomach itself is not diseased, but if this acid condition is allowed to continue, the acid is very likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce gastritis with stomach ulcers. This may render radical surgical operation necessary even to prolong life. Therefore, an "acid stomach" is really a dangerous condition and should be treated seriously. The excess acid or stomach hyperacidity can easily be neutralized by Bismarck Magnesia taken in teaspoonful doses in a glass of water after each meal. Larger quantities may be used if necessary as it is absolutely harmless. Be sure to ask your druggist for the pure Bismarck Magnesia, especially prepared for this purpose. Adv.

1,350 ASPIRE TO OFFICE IN FOUR-CORNERED FIGHT

Candidates Being Entered Daily by All Parties For General Election.

LLOYD GEORGE IS SICK

Former Premier Expected To Announce Intentions To Wage Open Warfare.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(By Canadian Press.)—With Mr. Lloyd George confined to his home with a sore throat, his anticipated declaration of open warfare at the polls with the Conservatives and "die-hards" was withheld tonight. But his campaign headquarters were feverishly organizing the ranks, and a dramatic announcement is expected hourly. It is claimed that by Saturday the list of regular candidates will be close to 200, while if the Tories continue to force a fight in the accepted coalition constituencies the Lloyd Georgians will retaliate by nominating 150 emergency candidates.

They are hesitating till the last minute to do this, because of fear of splitting the vote in such a way as to enable Labor to get in control. The former prime minister's adherents say that the Tories, blinded by party fever, are running for a fall.

The four-cornered fight has grown more intense, with 1,350 candidates provisionally adopted already. These are divided as follows: 461 Conservatives, 400 Labor, 320 Independent Liberals and 169 National Liberals. It is more than likely that there will be more before Saturday, as the breach is widening between the Nationals and the Conservatives.

Law To Fight Back.
The real fireworks of the campaign are expected this week-end. Prime Minister Bonar Law has promised to adopt a fighting attitude in his forthcoming speech, in order to reply to Mr. Lloyd George's sharp censure of his ministry. The former's supporters say he will take his coat off.

Ordered to remain indoors by Lord Dawson, the King's physician, Mr. Lloyd George has been forced to cancel his Bristol and Bath speeches tomorrow and Lord Birkenhead will speak in his place. He hopes, however, to keep his engagement to speak here on Saturday, when a great rally has been arranged with Austen Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead on the platform. Herbert H. Asquith claims immense gains in both Lloyd Georgian and Bonar Law's camps, because they are unable to reach an understanding.

Neither the Conservatives, nor the Nationals wish to spread the conflict between them, but various attacks by local Conservative organizations acting on their own responsibility are causing growing irritation, and the Conservative organization has not seen it to interfere. Indications are, however, that negotiations are going on quietly with the Tories, because it is said the new cabinet fears Labor may gain at the expense of the Conservative majority. If the cabinet leaders fail to withhold the hand of the die-hards the Lloyd Georgians will throw down the gauntlet and stake on the next House of Commons.

Birkenhead's Opinion.
Lord Birkenhead said in an interview today: "The whole situation has disclosed the weakness in our representative system. If this were a presidential election and the candidates were Messrs. Bonar Law, Asquith, Lloyd George and Henderson, the Labor leader, there cannot be the slightest doubt that Lloyd George would be returned by an overwhelming majority. His difficulty is that he cannot obtain the value of his

Soon To Assume Duties As Head of C. N. R. System

SIR HENRY THORNTON.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—Sir Henry Thornton, the new president of the Canadian National Railways, will sail on the Olympic on November 22, and will take up his new duties as head of the national railways in Canada upon his arrival in the Dominion. The former general manager of the Great Eastern System has been feted since his return from Canada to wind up his business in England, preparatory to taking over his new duties, individuals and organizations vying with one another in giving him a good send-off.

Sir Henry's social engagements are keeping him pleasantly busy before he leaves for the new scene of his labors.

"Apparently the Conservative wire-pullers are encouraging us to take on many comparatively inexperienced candidates in the hope that their failure at the polls will end in Lloyd George being marooned and helpless in the next parliament."

LIBERALS SUPPORT HENDERSON.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, is receiving Liberal support in his fight for re-election in Wigan against a Unionist candidate, J. H. Whitley, the speaker of the House of Commons, is not likely to be opposed in Halifax where he is running again, although local laborites are said to have been itching to break the unwritten law against opposing the speaker of the House of Commons.

Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, the new minister of health, is having opposition in Taunton from a gentleman farmer standing as a Liberal, "who believes that agriculture would be better represented by a resident farmer than by a gentleman whose energies would be absorbed in a public department."

William Wardley, the first Labor lord mayor of Sheffield, is likely to oppose the Independent Liberal newcomer in the Hallam division of Sheffield, also Sir Frederick Sykes, Bonar Law's son-in-law, who seeks to succeed Douglas Vickers in that constituency. Mr. Vickers is chairman of the great armament firm in Sheffield.

WILL NOT PUBLISH VOTE OF RAILMEN

R. T. Tallon States Employees' Ballot On Strike To Be Kept Secret.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—(By Canadian Press.)—R. T. Tallon, president of division No. 4, railway employees' department, American Federation of Labor, announced this afternoon that the result of the ballot to ascertain whether the Canadian railway shopmen wish to strike or to negotiate will not be made public.

The call for another general ballot was made several weeks ago, the time limit expiring today. The officials of the division were kept busy all day counting ballots at their headquarters in this city.

"We are expecting to hear from the railway authorities as regard resuming of negotiations," said Mr. Tallon, "and in a week's time or so we shall know more definitely how matters stand."

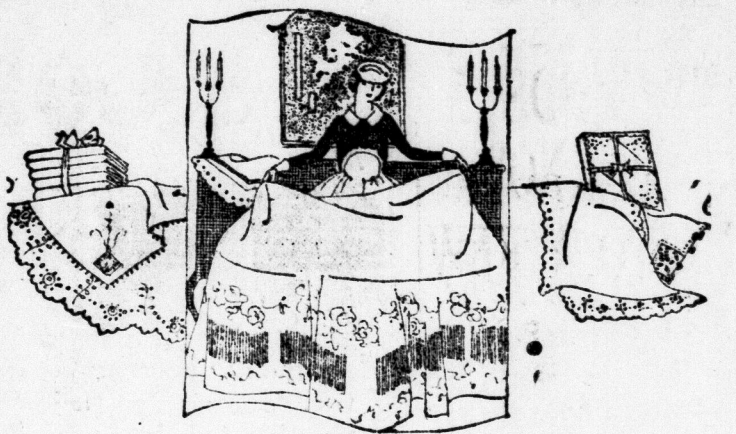

GASSED OVERSEAS SHELL SHOCKED AND RHEUMATISM

Mr. F. M. Blaquiere, Morinville, Alta., writes:—"After three years service overseas I returned to Canada almost a complete wreck. I had been gassed, and was suffering from shell shock and rheumatism, and was so tired many medicines and doctors, but none of them did me any good for any length of time. I got so bad, in the fall of 1919, my hands were so shaky I could scarcely hold anything, and it seemed as if I had a steel band pressing on my head. The least exertion would almost drive me into fits, and my whole system seemed to be in disorder. I had cramps in my legs nearly every night, and hot and cold chills running up and down my back nearly all the time. One day I decided to try Milburr's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after I had taken six boxes I began to feel better. I kept on using them and after a while I was completely relieved."

BRANTFORD CASE EXCITES INTEREST

Imposes Costs of Action On Man Convicted of Having Punch Board.

Special to The Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 1.—A heavy docket faced Magistrate John R. Blake in police court this morning. Hiram Hill, charged with theft by Gordon J. Smith, was given three months to make restitution for the stolen goods to the soldiers' settlement board.

An unusual case, and one of great interest, was that of the charge against George Stronachy, Occum, of having a punch-board in his possession for the disposal of goods, contrary to section 236, subsection E, criminal code. In view of the fact that this was the first case of its kind locally, Magistrate Blake registered a conviction against the defendant, but allowed him to go on payment of costs. The magistrate stated that any more cases of a similar nature brought up for disposal in court would be severely dealt with.

The case of Mrs. Zutowski, charged with selling liquor, was adjourned till Friday, and the charge of having liquor in an unauthorized place

Wages Life and Death Fight With Pack of Wolves in Lonely Northern Swamp

SUDBURY, Nov. 1.—While hunting in McCarthy Township last week, John Surget of Sudbury had a life and death fight with a pack of wolves.

About 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Surget wounded a fine big buck which bolted into a swamp after being shot. He trailed it for about two hours without success, and was retracing his steps towards camp. Once or twice, he said, he thought he was being trailed by a wolf, for he heard the twigs snapping at intervals. He sat down on a log to light a cigarette, when a big female wolf crossed in front of him. Apparently she was teaching her young to hunt, as they were trailing her.

Against Abe Howarth was further laid over. Amie Hussan and Epham Easmail, charged with disorderly conduct last Sunday, were assessed $25 and costs each. Mrs. Maude Crouch charged Angelina Kitchen with common assault. Mrs. Kitchen was fined $10 and costs and bound over to keep the peace in the future. An abusive and insulting language charge was dismissed.

WINNIPEG CONFIRMS MURDER.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1.—A druggist was murdered in Winnipeg last November, and local police are now checking up on the reported confes-

tion of H. H. King, a prisoner in the Guelph Reformatory, that he had murdered a druggist.

Abe Davis, a local drug clerk, died Nov. 25, 1921, five days after he had been wounded by a man who robbed the drug store of his employer on Notre Dame avenue. Harry Hrozok, an eccentric barber, was arrested after he had taken a great interest in the case and tried on a murder charge, but was acquitted.

Owing to the dry, cold atmosphere, not a single infectious disease is known in Greenland.
