WEAK GAME OF LACROSSE

Disappointing Exhibition with the Team of Young Lads From Brantford

Listless Playing and Juvenile Opponents
Cause Criticism—Chatham
Team Needs an Awakening

The game between Chatham and Brantford yesterday resulted in a tie, each team scoring four goals. It was not a very large crowd which attended the game, and it is, probably, to the advantage of the Chatham team that more of the admirers of the game did not turn out, as the great majority of those who did attend were not enthusiastic over the brand of lacrosse put up.

To begin with, Elliot and Ross were delayed in arriving on the grounds, consequently the game did not start until 3.15, and then Ross was not on the line-up, whereas the scheduled time was 2.30. It would be so refreshing if these games could start on time. The game was listless on both sides, with spasmodic bursts of speed at intervals. Brantford appeared much younger and lighter than Chatham, but when they woke up to the realization of the fact that it was lacrosse they were playing, they were speedy and effective. Chatham was lacking in the quick, snappy play which puts the fans on their feet, yelling, Grace, Marron and Quessall, however, shone luminously. Grace was everywhere and stick work brought the fans to their feet. Marron works hard and is not afraid to drill in on the flags—the only kind of work that counts. He is a star and a "shooting" star at that. Quessall was the big man of the defence. He has the happy faculty of intercepting passes and rushing the ball back to the enemy's goal before their home men have a chance to fall back. The weakest spot in the home team is goal. Nearly every shot on the goal resulted in a score. Local enthusiasts will hear with pleasure that a dicker is being made for the goal-tender of last year's Orillia team.

Before J. W. Young kept the game as clean as possible, his work being much appreciated by the spectators.

First Quarter.
The play started off with a rush by Grace and some shooting on the Brantford flags. Picketing saved the home goal once or twice, but Brantford scored in about seven minutes on a shot that should never have gone by Grace and Marron were playing the game, and only good goal-keeping saved the Chatham goal from their rushes. At last Stewart tied the score just at the close of the quarter.

Second Quarter.
Quessall started during the first part, saving scores several times. Elliot was given an ovation when he appeared. Leavenworth made the score 2-1 near the end of the quarter.

Third Quarter.
Grace and Moffatt were sent to the fence for taking liberties with the rules. In their absence Stewart scored—score 3-1 for Chatham. Brantford reduced this to 3-2 in a few moments. While Stewart was off, Brantford tied on a long shot.

Fourth Quarter.
The ball travelled up and down the field until Stewart got it and passed to Grace, who, catching it on the run in front of the goal, made the prettiest score of the day—score 4-3 in favor of Chatham. Leavenworth and Slattery, the Brantford goal-tender, gave a fluster exhibition, for the one prize of admission, on a long rush Brantford tied the score by a quick shot from the side of the goal. The time was out short to allow Brantford to catch their train.

WELCOMING ADDRESSES

International Sunday School
Keynote Is Brotherhood.

Delegates Welcomed to Canada by the Lieutenant-Governor, His Worship
Mayor Urquhart, Speaker Hon. J.
W. St. John and Rev. Canon Cody.
—International Barriers Removed and Only Principles Remaining.

Toronto, June 24.—All the incoming trains and stagecoaches brought their numbers of Sunday school delegates, and by noon yesterday it was estimated that almost all of the 3,000 accredited delegates to the Sunday school convention of the International Convention, State and Province on the continent has its Sunday school interests represented at this meeting.

The Entertainment Committee were on hand at Massey Hall and by systematic handling of the crowd on the part of the Reception Committee's chairman, Rev. W. E. Hassard, were able to send every one to his temporary home.

Convention Opened.
The convention opened yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Metropolitan Church. Rev. B. B. Tyler, president of the International Convention, pastor of Broadway Disciples Church, Denver, Col., made his annual address, and was followed by an hour's preparation service, led by Rev. Floyd W. Tompkins, D. D., pastor of Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia.

Addresses of Welcome.
Last night at Massey Hall addresses of welcome were delivered to the delegates by His Honor, W. M. McKinnon, Mayor Urquhart. They expressed briefly their pleasure at the presence of the Sunday school workers of the continent in this city of churches and the duty of co-operation.

The first response was made by Rev. Alan Hussen, an old Toronto boy, and now pastor of the First Congregational Church, Brockton, Mass. He spoke at length of the Anglo-Saxon brotherhood which could conquer the world, and upon which from its very power lay the duty of Christianizing the world.

The second reply was by Rev. Carey Bonner of London, England. He spoke very briefly of the duty of saving the children if the nations were to be saved.

Advocates Church Schools.
It was a message of prophecy, a message of advice and a message of hope that Bishop Vincent thereafter gave to the delegates. He prophesied the loss of civilization and the loss of the "church school" Church school, he called it, because it could not be called a Sunday school. It worked not only on Sunday, but all throughout the week. The church school was the best of education and the best of conversation, where the children were taught by men and women of a strong personality of the Bible with its stirring metaphors and its great lessons. This Bishop said resolved with prolonged cheer. He was introduced by Prof. Marshall, who called for the Chatham salute to the Sunday school veterans, an hour every day. The 4,000 delegates and visitors in the hall was standing. The next the whole auditorium was a billowy sea of pocket handkerchiefs, a deluge of white that seemed to fill the hall. It was one of the prettiest sights ever seen in Toronto.

In Metropolitan Church.
The keynote of the large gathering that assembled in Metropolitan Church in the evening was brotherhood and international unity. After the opening exercises Rev. W. F. Frixall called upon Hon. J. W. St. John to extend a welcome.

The speaker of the Legislature was greeted with hearty applause as he rose to do the chairman's bidding. He was pleased, he said, to welcome the visitors because all were children of the same ancestry. The work of the delegates was for the cause of Christianity, the greatest power on earth. He was glad that while Canada and the United States might vie with one another there was a greater wealth in the integrity and good citizenship of the people of Canada and the United States. The speaker looked into the future and saw the removal of international barriers when no other principle would be known than that of brotherhood.

Canon Cody was glad to welcome the visitors under the old banner of brotherhood and he was also glad that the delegates came from the land over which waved Old Glory, a land that was rapidly advancing towards a like standard. Canada should exert an influence to draw the motherland to its long lost daughter. What the convention was bringing about was more than a mere exchange of international courtesies. It was a meeting together for a great work in the cause of humanity. They were all dealing with the great problem of winning and holding the young.

New Spanish Cabinet.
Madrid, June 24.—King Alfonso yesterday approved the new Cabinet, as follows: Premier, Gen. Montero Rios; Minister of Interior, Senor Garcia Prieto; Minister of Foreign Affairs, Senor Sanchez Roman; Minister of Finance, Senor Urdaz; Minister of War, Gen. Weyler; Minister of Marine, Senor Villanueva; Minister of Agriculture, Senor Romero; Minister of Justice, Senor Gonzalez Pena; Minister of Public Instruction, Senor Mellado.

His Head Cut Off.
Ottawa, June 24.—Michael J. Shea of Vinon, formerly of Culmuth Island, Quebec, was a horrible death while working in Kelly's saw mill. He slipped and got caught in the circular saw while it was running. His head and one arm were cut off.

BORDEN'S AMENDMENT

To Readjust the Divisions of Alberta Rejected.

Leader of the Opposition, However,
Riddled the Test of the Population
By the Census of 1901, But Premier Laurier Still Maintained That the Government Plan Is Based on a Fair Calculation.

Ottawa, June 24.—Most of the day in the House was spent in a discussion of the Alberta autonomy bill. The alternative proposition offered by R. L. Borden with respect to delimiting the constituencies which will elect the new Legislature was rejected, the Government having evidently determined to make no concessions.

Speaker Sullivan announced that he had received the certificate of the election of Hon. Charles Hyman. The announcement was received with Liberal cheers.

Mr. Oliver in response to a question by Mr. Foster, said that orders had been issued that no more locations should be allowed on scrip until the charges made in connection with the matter had been investigated.

Mr. Borden offered the amendment of which notice had been given. It called for the allotting of members of the provincial Legislature, six each, to the Federal electoral districts of Strathcona, Edmonton and Calgary, five to the Federal district of Alberta, one to Medicine Hat, and one to Athabasca. This proposal he defended by citing an array of figures, showing that it was a fair division, whether judged by the standard of votes polled at the last election or by the number of names on the voters' lists.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier declined to admit the relevancy of the figures which had been quoted. Then he proceeded to give some of his own, based upon the census of 1901, to show that the divisions proposed by the bill were quite fair. According to his view, the census, the number of postoffices and the school districts showed that there are more people in the northern part of the Province than in the southern.

Mr. Borden riddled the test of the population by the census of 1901 allowing the new Provinces twenty-five members of a population of 550,000. The Government established a unit of 10,000 per member. Yet it was proposed to give two members to the portion of Athabasca, the highest estimate of whose population was 5,000. As to Mr. Oliver's contention, that the Legislature of the Territories should have been asked to pronounce upon the distribution proposed in the bill, Mr. Borden pointed out that the Northwest legislature had only two years ago readjusted the boundaries of its constituencies, and upon lines totally different from those now proposed.

At midnight a division was taken on Mr. Borden's amendment, and it was rejected. Mr. Borden said he had some other amendments to offer. He also notified the Minister of the Interior that he wanted further information about school attendance and some other matters relating to population.

Lewis is acting for the plaintiff and J. G. Kerr for the defendant.

OVER THE NEW ELECTRIC ROAD

Planet Representative Goes
Over the Route and Notes
the Rapid Progress Being Made

Many Advantages Noted—Farmers
Generously Donate Right of Way.

A Planet reporter took a trip over the route of the electric road. As the citizens of Chatham probably know the line runs out St. Clair street, keeping to the middle of the road until the second concession is reached. The line then crosses the ditch and runs along the farms on the Dover side of the town line, keeping close to the fence. Near the third concession, on the Paxton farm, there is a curve, the road then running along the third concession. At the farm of Geo. Twell, between the town line and the Baldoon on the third, the line crosses the third concession and, cutting across Mr. Twell's farm reaches the Baldoon near the farm of Frank Mount. Along the Baldoon, hugging the fence, the road runs until about 15 miles but, then it cuts across to Wallaceburg.

From the Third street bridge outwards for ten miles the scene is a very busy one. At the wharf was the steamer, Clark of New York, from which was being unloaded a cargo of cedar ties, which teams were hauling out and dropping along the line. Other teams were carrying loads of steel rails—ten rails to a load, each rail weighing six hundred pounds, i. e. three tons a trip. Still others were hauling poles on which are to be run the power wires. All these building materials are very expensive, the ties being especially so, it costing about a thousand dollars per mile for these alone.

The work of grading has not started until the Baldoon is reached, but from there out for about nine miles the grading is completed—a strip varying from twenty to twenty-eight feet being blazed straight through next to and inside the fence. The company erects a line separating their right of way from the farmers' land. The road ditch affords sufficient protection on the other side.

About nine miles out the Italian's camp is pitched at present—two large sleeping tents and a cooking shanty. As the work moves on so do the tents. Those along the route with teams to spare are receiving a rich harvest, $3.50 per day being paid for a man and team. The plows come first and break the soil at the side of the track; after these come the Italians throwing the loosened earth to the right where the track is to be. Then come the scrapers leveling the ditch and the track. The work is arduous on those hot days, as is shown by the fact that several teams have to leave the job a few days ago, bleeding at the nose on account of the heat.

That the residents along the route expect the road to benefit them greatly had enhanced the value of the farms is shown by the fact that they have donated the strips of their land used by the company for its right of way, receiving no pay, except in a few exceptional cases where a man is damaged by reason of the road rendering part of his land useless for cultivation. The line passes very close to some of the houses—so close to the new St. Andrew's church that one could easily step from a car right onto the church steps.

The road's charter allows it to build to Lake Erie. It is expected that the branch from Wallaceburg will be running by October 1st, and the remaining line to the lake will then be rapidly pushed. It is the intention, if possible, to establish a pavilion and pleasure park on the lake shore, so that making Chatham it will be able in hot weather to lie themselves to the invigorating breezes of the lake. That the road will be of incalculable benefit to both those along and in the vicinity of its route as well as to the Maple City is beyond a doubt. The facility it affords for moving produce and the ease with which one might be whisked into Chatham, especially when roads are impassable, must appeal to the farmer, while the influx of freight and the distinction it must lend the city ought to appeal to the city dweller.

Moreover, the new power house and offices of the company, on the corner of King and Third Sts., will be a very handsome structure. The first story is to be of concrete blocks, the right being the venting rooms and, to the left, the offices of the company. Back of these will be the power house. The chimney will be over 130 feet high, made of steel ribs, around which concrete is built—the first of these chimneys to be built in Canada.

Mrs. A. J. Bedford returned home from St. Joseph's Hospital, London, on Saturday, where she was staying with her sister, Mrs. White, who has been very ill there for three months, under the care of Dr. Meek, of that city, and though at one time her life was despaired of, we are pleased to report to Mrs. Bedford's friends that her sister was able to be taken to her home in St. Thomas some days ago, and they have every hope of a speedy recovery to perfect health.

BABY COVERED WITH HUMOUR

Ears Looked as if They Would Drop Off—Body Entirely Covered with Sores—Three Doctors Could Not Cure—Child Grew Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA IN TWO WEEKS

Mrs. George J. Steele, of 707 Coburn
St., Akron, Ohio, tells the following story of another of those remarkable cures of torturing skin disorders made by Cuticura after physicians and all else had failed: "I feel it my duty to parents of other Cuticura has done for my little daughter. A humour broke out all over her body, and we used everything recommended, but without results. Three doctors claimed they could help her,
but the humours continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, her little face was being eaten away, and her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the box of Cuticura Soap and the box of Cuticura Ointment, the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a newborn baby. I would not be without it again if it cost a fortune instead of the small sum it did cost me to cure my baby after spending much money on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever."

SLEEP FOR BABIES

Rest for Tired, Fretted Mothers in Cuticura.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anoint-ings with Cuticura Ointment, the cure for skin eruptions, and of emollients. A single set of Cuticura Soap and Ointment is often sufficient to cure the most distressing cases.

Old Trees.

An old yew tree stands in the churchyard at Fortingly, in Pethshire, which De Candolle, nearly a century ago, proved to the satisfaction of botanists to be twenty-five centuries old, and other is still standing at Hoxton, in Buckinghamshire, which is 3,240 years old.
De Candolle arrived at an apparently correct estimate of the enormous age of these trees by the simple thing of the growth of the trunk, and it is known to-day to all the yew, like most other trees, adds one line about the tenth of an inch to its circumference each year. But the old yew tree in the world to-day, so far as known, is a yew tree in Chapultepec, Mexico, which is 6,260 years old—New York Tribune.

WORK-WORN MEN

CAN OBTAIN NEW HEALTH AND STRENGTH THROUGH DR.
WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Mr. Edgar Martel, 98 St. Peter street, Quebec, is one of the thousands of workmen throughout Canada who cheerfully admit that they are kept in health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To a reporter who had an interview with him, Mr. Martel said: "The present condition of my health contrasts strikingly with what it was nine months ago. Then I felt that I was almost at death's door, while now I am strong and well. This change is entirely due to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am a workingman, and I little wonder that after years of diligent toil my system was gradually run down. My blood got so thin as to water, and I grew so poorly that the least exertion would leave me weak and trembling. I consulted a doctor who said that I was run down, and through hard work, but his medicine did not help me any. A few weeks later I was forced to quit work, and shortly after that had to remain in bed most of the time. One day a fellow workman called to see me, and induced me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before the second box was finished I had a better appetite, and relished my meals, and with this came new strength. In a few weeks I was able to go out again, and in about six weeks from the time I began using the pills I was able to return to work, my health completely restored and my strength as vigorous as ever it had been. I attribute my complete recovery entirely to Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills, and I think every hard working man would be better for using a box of these pills occasionally."

Mr. Martel's advice should be taken by every workman. The only way to have health and strength is to keep the blood rich and pure, and the only way to get rich strength-producing blood is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because they actually make new blood. Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills make tired, weak-out men and women vigorous and strong. Send for a medicine dealer, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NINETEEN DEAD.

Dozen Slightly Injured Is Casualty List
of 20th Century Wreck.

Cleveland, June 23.—Nineteen dead and a dozen slightly injured last night comprised the revised casualty list made by the wrecking Wednesday night at Mentor, Ohio, of the east-bound 20th Century Limited, the Lake Shore Railroad's 18-hour train, which ran far to an open switch, crushed the Mentor Depot and partly burned it up, scorching several of the mangled corpses.

The 20th Century agent of the New York and Erie Railroad, according to announcement from New York, will hereafter return to a 20-hour schedule.
Until the new schedule can be arranged the 20th Century Limited will leave New York at 2:30 p. m. and Chicago at 2:30 p. m. and Chicago at 2:30
p. m. as at present, but will run on a twenty-hour schedule, arriving at either terminal two hours later than at present.

May Have Been a Boy.

It is possible that investigation today will develop that a boy meddled with the switch, and caused the wreck.
Wm. Usher, ticket agent of the New York and Erie Railroad, reached the wreck 20 minutes after it occurred. On the 20th Century Limited, the boy said
he had been down to shut a switch.
The men went on to the wreck and found the switch open and locked.
The men are of the opinion the boy thought there was a freight ahead of the 20th Century and opened the switch to let it through to take a siding.
The switch was thrown open and locked, and the switch light distinguished by some person. A careful examination of the switch yesterday showed that it was in perfect condition. Detectives are working on the case.

Speed Not Contributory.

W. H. Marshall, general manager of the Lake Shore, says the speed of the train was not a contributory cause to the wreck.

Coroner York of Lake County announced last evening that an inquest would begin next Monday in Painesville.

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow.
Quarterly Review.

Golden Text—But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through His name.—John 22, 31.

To conduct a quarterly review requires the very best of teaching ability. The golden text gives the key-note for a review of the lessons, as twelve wonderful proofs that Jesus was the Messiah, the Son of God; for this purpose the Holy Spirit inspired the beloved disciple to write them, and that we might have eternal life. If the purpose of God's grace fails on behalf of any of us, it is useless and worse than useless to have spent time and thought upon them; for we shall all be condemned or justified according as we have rejected or accepted God's enlightening truth concerning His beloved Son.

Let us believe with simple honest faith what we have been studying; and act accordingly. We thus make these lessons our very own, by a spiritual experience; for Jesus Christ is risen and because He lives we shall live also.

A few months ago earth seemed dead under the snow, spring came and the sun called to the flowers and they answered in the woods and in the fields; the time of the singing of the birds has come. There is also a resurrection for our hearts, when opened to God's truth and love, and then flowers will bloom and birds sing, and desert-hearted men and women will know and rejoice as they trust him that He is the resurrection and the life, not only of our bodies, later on, from the grave, but of our lives here and now from a death of sin and selfishness.

Teachers, do you really know what it means to walk in newness of life? And do you really think others do to the same? It is something like getting out after a long illness into the glorious air and a new-spring June day, and you gather strength for and in service, looking forward to the heavenly hills and the love and rest of an eternal home, where He has gone to prepare a place for you.

THE BEST FRIENDS OF PE-RU-NA ARE THE MOTHERS OF CHILDREN

When Sickness Comes to the Little Ones
It is the Mother Who Chiefly Suffers.

She suffers even more than the child who happens to be sick. Her sympathy is deeper than that of any other member of the family. The mothers look forward with dread to the torrid heat of summer, thinking of their children and the many liabilities to disease that are before them. Spring and summer are sure to bring ailments, especially among the little folks.

It does not take a mother very long to discover that Peru-na is the best friend she has in times of illness among the children.

The doctors may come and go with their different theories and constant change of remedies. The doctor of years ago gave entirely different remedies than he does today. Each year finds some change in his prescriptions and in the drugs he relies upon.

A Multitude of Mothers Have discovered that Peru-na is the stand-by, and that in all the ailments of spring and summer to which the children are subjected, Peru-na is the remedy that will most quickly relieve.

Whether it is spring fever or stomach derangement, whether it is indigestion or bowel disease, a catarrhal congestion of the mucous surfaces is the cause. Peru-na quickly relieves this condition of the mucous membranes. Its operation is prompt, the children do not dislike to take the medicine, it has no deleterious effects in any part of the body.

It simply removes the cause of the disagreeable symptoms and restores the health. Peru-na is not a physic. Peru-na is not a narcotic. Peru-na does not produce any drug habit, however long it may be taken. Peru-na is not a stimulant.

Peru-na is a specific remedy for all catarrhal ailments of winter and summer, acute or chronic. The mothers all over the United States are the best friends that Peru-na has.

The Mothers Hold Peru-na in High Esteem. Not only because it has cured them of their various ailments, but because it always rescues the children from the throes and grasp of catarrhal diseases.

We have in our files hundreds of testimonials from mothers whose children have been cured by Peru-na. However, the large majority of mothers who use Peru-na, we never hear from.

But we do hear from a great number of mothers who are so overjoyed at some special good they have received from Peru-na that they cannot restrain their enthusiasm. They are anxious to share these benefits with other mothers.

"I was about two years ago suffering from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes E. E. Record, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not for a long time bear any solid food in my stomach; felt sick and depressed. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced I have in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

The Benefit Which the Children of the United States Have Received From Pe-ru-na Can Never Be Put Into Words.

The chronic ailments it has prevented, the suffering it has mitigated, will never be fully recorded. But at least this much can be said that the coming generation owes a great debt to Peru-na, for it is in the tender years of youth that slight ailments are liable to develop into lasting diseases, thus blighting the whole career of the individual.

The mothers who are bringing up their children to-day to believe in Peru-na are doing a great work for humanity. These children brought up to believe in Peru-na from the start, will, when they become heads of families themselves, use Peru-na with unquestioning faith.

Peru-na Protects the Entire Household. As soon as the value of Peru-na is appreciated by every household, both as a preventive and cure, tens of thousands of lives will be saved, and hundreds of thousands of chronic, lingering cases of catarrh will be prevented.

Self-laudation has the merit of not being hurtful in its influence.

Our afflictions are our life. We live by them; they supply our very warmth.
Be great in act as you have been in thought. Suit the action to the word, and the word to the action.

Mrs. Thresa Rooke, 228 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill., Treasurer Ladies' of the Maccabees, writes:

"In our home Peru-na is the only medicine we have. Grandmother, mother, father and child, all have used Peru-na. It is our great remedy for catarrh of the stomach and head, colds, and female complaints of which it has cured me. We find it of great value when my husband becomes worn out or catches cold. A couple of doses cure him."

"If the baby has colic, or any stomach disorders, a dose or two cures her. I consider Peru-na finer than any doctor's medicine that I have ever tried, and I know that as long as we have it in the house, we will all be able to keep in good health."—Thresa Rooke.

No Doctor Required.
Mr. Edward Otto, 227 De Soto street, St. Paul, Minn., writes:

"I cannot say enough for Peru-na. It has done great work in my family, especially for my oldest boy. We had doctor with three or four different doctors and they did not seem to do him any good. We gave up hopes of cure, and so did they, but we pulled him through on Peru-na."

"We had several doctors and they said they could do no more for him so we tried Peru-na as a last resort, and that did the work. Since then we keep it in the house all the time, and no doctor is required."—Edward Otto.

Peru-na Contains No Narcotics. One reason why Peru-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peru-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peru-na has been used off and on for twenty years.

Such a thing could not be possible if Peru-na contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

KENT BRIDGE.
The choir of Knox church furnished the music at the Bethel anniversary on Sunday morning. Miss Josie Baker, of Thameville, spent Saturday and Sunday with the Misses Gregory.

Miss Newkirk, of Wallaceburg, is the guest of Miss Kate Hughes. Miss Blatchford, of Thameville, spent Sunday with Mrs. W. J. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Gregory very pleasantly entertained the members of Knox church choir last Friday evening. A pleasant event took place on Wednesday, June 14th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Merritt, Louisville, it being the marriage of their daughter, Lula, to Mr. Geo. J. Allison, of Kent Bridge. Only the immediate relatives were present, but all friends join in wishing them a happy and prosperous future.

Mr. G. H. Farmer, New Martinsville, W. Va., writes:

"Our little son, Harry, is well and healthy now and we think if we do as you directed us, he will keep his health and grow strong."

"We know that our little son's life was saved by your wonderful medicine, Peru-na, and we shall always praise Peru-na and use it in our family when needed."

"Should we have any more catarrhal trouble in our family, we shall always write to you for treatment."—G. H. Farmer.

Mr. Howard Andrew Sterner, Muddy Creek, Pa., writes:

"I have Peru-na in my house all the time and won't be without it. It's good for children when they take a cold or croup. It cured my baby boy of croup."

"I have introduced Peru-na into six families since I received your last letter, and four have seen relief already."—Howard Andrew Sterner.

Kent Bridge at the latter's grounds on Thursday and report a fast game.

NORTHWOOD.
The Northwood Methodist church now presents a very fine appearance. The veneering corresponds well with the newly finished inside, which was completed a little over a year ago.

On May 24th the corner stones were laid by the following persons: Mrs. Henry Stephens, of Chatham; Mrs. S. H. Knight, Miss Essie Hale, and Miss Belle Gossnell, of Northwood, each of whom were presented with a nicely engraved silver trowel by the following persons: Mrs. H. Adrian, Mrs. Ida Fenover, Mrs. S. Newcombe, and Miss G. Osterhout respectively.

The "reverend gentlemen" present were Rev. R. J. Garbut, chairman of Chatham District; Rev. E. F. Armstrong, of Tupperville; W. J. Waddell, of Harwich Circuit; J. A. McKelvey, of Louisville, and A. S. Whitehall, pastor. In all receipts for the day amounted to $200. On June 11th J. A. McKelvey officially dedicated the church. Rev. G. W. Brown, former pastor, delivered two very able and appropriate addresses. The pastor assisted in both services.

On Monday evening a high class concert was given. The special talent of the evening was Mr. Albert Greenlaw, the noted basso of Sarina, and Miss Mabel Trebbcock, a talented elocutionist of London. Every number on the program was of a high order and was greatly appreciated by all who had the pleasure of attending. Especially was this so with regard to Mr. Greenlaw's rendition of "Deep in the mine and the Crucifixion." Mr. Greenlaw possesses a rich, full voice of good range and perfect control. Total receipts, $600.

Northwood oil wells are again to be operated and promise good success. The Northwood boys have secured a good gold for sport and certainly expect to have a lively time this summer.

Peru-na Should Be Kept In Every Household Where There Are Little Children.

Peru-na should be kept in the house all the time. Don't wait until the child is sick, then send to a drug store. But, have Peru-na on hand—accept no substitute.

Children are especially liable to acute catarrh. Indeed, most of the affections of childhood are catarrh. All forms of sore throat, quinsy, croup, hoarseness, laryngitis, etc., are but different phases of catarrh.

Mrs. Amelia Sailer, Mansaba, Wis., writes:

"I have used Peru-na for a number of years. It cured me of chronic catarrh which I suffered with from infancy. When my three children were born they all had catarrh, but I have given them Peru-na and find it very effective in ridding them of this horrible trouble. I find that it is also good to give them as a tonic and a preventative of colds and colic."

"In fact, I consider it a household blessing. I would not know how to raise my children without it. I am pleased to give it my recommendation."—Amelia Sailer.

MITCHELL'S BAY.
A great number from this bay attended the picnic held at Baldon on Thursday afternoon of last week. At the picnic our football team played a friendly game with Oungah, defeating them by a score of 4-1. In the recent tornado Oliver Brown had the misfortune of getting his barn on the 12th concession blown down. The wind carried the roof for several hundred yards.

ZONE CENTRE

Arthur Munro, from London, visiting at Charles Ebor's this week. Miss McCulloch spent over Sunday with Miss Winnett in Bothwell.

Mr. McFadden, from Dresden, is making an extended visit with his daughter, Mrs. Robert Tong.

Miss Lillie Lindsay is spending the summer with relatives in London. The grim messenger "death" has called away another highly esteemed resident of Zone in the person of Charles W. Taylor, son of Mr. John Taylor, who passed away on Sunday last, in the bloom of life, at the age of 35 years and six days.

Mr. Taylor had been ailing for some months, but his most intimate relatives were not cognizant that the malady was of such a serious nature. A very impressive service was held in the Zone Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon, and the remains were interred in the Bothwell cemetery.

A pleasant event took place on Wednesday, June 14th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Merritt, Louisville, it being the marriage of their daughter, Lula, to Mr. Geo. J. Allison, of Kent Bridge. Only the immediate relatives were present, but all friends join in wishing them a happy and prosperous future.

Did you hear about the football match between Chatham and Louisaville at the village on Tuesday last? Well, the score was 3-2 in favor of the former. "Percy" played a very good game considering the conflicting disadvantages. The little boys on the Louisaville left were in their element and proved rather aggressive. Louis, kindly tell us when you play the return, for we should like to witness it.

Mr. Strain, who had the contract of building Mr. P. Agn's large barn, finished last week. The new building with its metallic roof is very conspicuous.

Mr. Herb Side, of Chatham, photographed the school on Tuesday. The views show evidence of Herb's success as an amateur, for they are well done.

Quart. Frider, of Darrell, joined Capt. McGregor on Sunday for divine worship in Chatham.

A number of the boys witnessed the football match of Louisaville vs.

terred in the Bothwell cemetery. Deceased was an honest and enterprising citizen, being owner of a fine farm and saw mill. In religion he was a Latter Day Saint, and positively a Reformer. A widow and one child survive him.

LITTLE GIRL INJURED

While driving home from Tilbury last evening Mr. and Mrs. S. Barfoot and daughter met with a somewhat serious experience. Passing the farm of Daniel Payne in Raleigh the horse in some way too fright and began to kick. Mr. Barfoot was under the necessity of leaving the excited animal back to town. The little girl's injuries while painful are not serious.

CALLED OFF

F. E. Williams, of Detroit, was in the city on Thursday last endeavoring to untangle the complications that have arisen over the purchase of a site by the Dominion Bank. As a result Mayor Cowan last night telegraphed the Dominion Bank that the negotiations between the city and it were at an end.

Ald. Westman, when it was explained to him that the purchase of the Williams property was all but closed when he proposed the renting of the front of the market square, was a site for the bank, went to the Mayor and withdrew his proposal and the Mayor sent the telegram just mentioned. Therefore, the Williams property, opposite the market square, will be the site of the bank.

Quarantined for Smallpox.
Ottawa, June 24.—In a wire from Dr. Hodge, Toronto, Provincial Health Officer, ten men of the 87th Regiment at camp at Rockcliffe, were sent to Porter's Island yesterday. It seems two members of the 800 company were exposed to smallpox contagion before coming to camp, and they are all associated with them had to be isolated. The men are perfectly healthy and show no signs of the disease.

Strength increases by striving. Feed more gentleness, be gentle. To learn patience, practice patience. Find truth by being true in trifles, and for experience learn in nature's school.

KILLED COSSACKS

Almost a Civil War in Polish City—2000 Killed and Wounded.

(Special to The Planet).
Lodz, Russian Poland, June 24.—Yesterday, "Black Friday," in Lodz surpassed all the horrors of "Red Sunday" in St. Petersburg. While it is not yet possible to ascertain the exact number of the victims, estimates place the killed and wounded as high as 2,000.

Lodz, June 24.—At dawn Friday commenced a day of terror. The city was given up to bloodshed. Anarchy and fierce street fighting prevailed all day.

The troubles here were initiated by the social democrats and Jewish band. They determined to avenge their 22 comrades killed in the rioting on Wednesday, and the 100 who were wounded at the same time. Thursday, the feast of Corpus Christi, passed off quietly, but during the night workmen attacked the patrols. In this fighting two officers and seven Cossacks were killed. One of the latter was shot by a girl of 13 years.

All the shops, stores and factories are closed and business is at a complete deadlock. The rioters this morning attempted to set fire to the government offices, but were scattered by a strong force of troops.

ENDORSED AGREEMENT

The City and County committees met yesterday and after careful deliberation the agreement between the two municipalities for the leasing of the city's share in Harrison Hall was endorsed and assented to by both parties.

MAY GO TO JUDGE

The representatives of the Chatham and Ridgeway Collegiate Institutes met with the County Council yesterday to discuss and decide upon the basis of offer for county pupils. An agreement was arrived at with Ridgeway for $45.24 per pupil per annum, but the Chatham case was left in abeyance. It is feared the settlement of this case will have to be referred to the judge.

GARP DESTROY BASS

Reports received at the Fisheries Department at the Parliament Buildings show that the carp are becoming numerous in Lake Huron. They are making serious ravages on the bass and other valuable fish. There appears to be a danger that these famous fishing grounds will be depleted. Mail and Empire.

PLEASANT TRIP

The Holy Trinity Sunday School excursion, yesterday afternoon was a very pleasant affair and thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd who took advantage of this opportunity to experience a delightful sail to the lighthouse on the steamer City of Chatham.

The weather was everything that could be desired, and financially and otherwise the excursion was a huge success. Among those who assisted in the management of the affair yesterday were—Misses Northwood, Hattie Northwood, Bertha Northwood, Edith Bakkerby, Flossie Butler and Olive Edmondson and Messrs. Will Stevens and Will Tackaberry.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

The Ladies Aid Society of the Park street Methodist church are an enterprising and energetic band of workers, as shown by the splendid success which attended their ice cream social held at the parlourage last evening. Notwithstanding the counter attractions there was an excellent attendance and the neat sum of $25 was realized, which will be devoted to the excellent work the ladies are doing in the church.

After the social part of the evening the following program was recited, presided over by Rev. Mr. Cobbleck.

MUCH ANXIETY.

Over the Voluminous French Note to Berlin—War Not Considered Necessary At This Juncture.

Berlin, June 24.—The French note on the subject of the proposed Moroccan conference was handed to the Foreign Office yesterday morning. Owing to its great length the note had to be sent by mail to Berlin instead of by telegraph. The Foreign Office, while declining to discuss the points of the note in detail, admits that it leaves the situation where it was before. The points of disagreement between Germany and France have not been removed. It is expected that the negotiations will continue for a long time before results are reached. Germany's answers to Premier Rouvier has not yet been considered.

Paris, June 24.—In spite of the reassuring tone of the official communication issued after the Cabinet council public uneasiness has accentuated. This produced a panicky sentiment on the bourse, where heavy offers of rentes sent down prices to the unusual figure of 97.90.

Ominous signs.
Parliamentary circles also continued to show a feeling of nervousness and apprehension. This was increased by the publication in the sensational afternoon papers of maps showing the dispositions of the French and German military forces along the frontier, accompanied by interviews setting forth the gloominess of the situation and the belief that Germany's reply to the French note would increase the difficulties of the Government.

Berlin Disappointed.
Berlin, June 24.—The evening newspapers frankly express their disappointment with the French note. Much had been staked upon Premier Rouvier's cautious wish to come to an understanding with Germany, but the vassalische Zeitung, discussing the note, says that Rouvier is continuing Delcasse's policy without M. Delcasse.

The National Zeitung, in an evidently inspired statement, calls attention to the warlike aspect which the British press attempts to give to the situation, whereas Germany does not believe that the present complications are such as to justify thoughts of war.

CITIZEN'S CALL UNHEEDED.

If Police Had Answered Fieldhouse Might Have Been Saved.

Hamilton, June 24.—To the negligence of the police, the death of Fieldhouse is chargeable. According to the story told by J. A. Williamson, Mr. Williamson keeps a grocery store at the corner of Barton and Bay streets, and he says that he saw Fieldhouse and his friends leaving the hotel on the opposite corner about 11 o'clock. When he saw the other men who took part in the row among themselves with boards, he called up the police and asked them to send the patrol wagon and officers down at once. If they had responded promptly the trouble would probably have been averted or Fieldhouse rescued in time to save him from death, but no attention was paid to the call.

The police think they will be able to show that Fieldhouse was carried into the home of Nelson, and it is even whispered that he was being unconscious in that house when the policeman on the beat finally arrived on the scene.

PRICE WAS $225,000.

Largest Mining Deal in the History of Canada Consummated.

Toronto, June 24.—The largest mining deal in the history of Canada was consummated yesterday when the control of the War Eagle, Centre Star and St. Eugene mines in British Columbia passed from the hands of the Gooderham-Blackstock syndicate to a group of capitalists which is largely representative of the railway and smelting interests of the west. The price paid was $225,000.

Cottagers' Complaint Heard.
Peterboro, June 24.—The high level of water at present in Stony Lake has, it is claimed, caused considerable damage to property of cottagers there, and they sent a protest to the Government. J. H. McClellan, the superintendent of the Trent Canal, has received word from Ottawa to have the evil remedied at once.

Oscar Will Not Resign.
Stockholm, June 24.—There is no foundation for the rumors circulating at Copenhagen and elsewhere of the probability of King Oscar abdicating in favor of the Crown Prince in consequence of the dissatisfaction of some factions with the Government's pacific attitude in the crisis.

Canada's Natal Day Banquet.
London, June 24.—The Dominion Day banquet promises to be the biggest ever held in London. There are already 400 tickets sold, and Lord Strathcona has invited the members of the Canadian manufacturers' party to be his guests. The banquet is to be held at the Hotel Cecil.

Resignation Is Denied.
London, June 24.—When questioned in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the statement that Lieutenant Sir Neville Gerald Lytton had resigned as the result of the South African stores scandal, War Secretary Arnold-Forster denied the report.

Falls Into Sulphuric Acid.
London, June 24.—William T. S. Lobb, foreman of the Canada Chemical Co., fell into a vat of sulphuric acid, and physicians held out but small hopes for recovery. Lobb was working at the tank when he slipped and was fearfully burned.

Wooden Steamers Collide.
Detroit, June 24.—The wooden steamers, City of Rome and Linden, collided early yesterday in the St. Clair River, opposite Tashmoo Park, and both were sunk. Two members of the crew of the Linden, the cook and his wife, were drowned.

Governor of Hawaii Resigns.

Black with a handsome Fleming painting of a scene upon the river, at the spot where Capt. Black, with his colleagues, discovered and raised the old sunken American gunboat, captured by the British in the war of 1812—an exceedingly appropriate and valuable memento of the occasion. Capt. Black made a feeling response, acknowledging the kind expressions and beautiful gift of his friends, and a delightful impromptu gathering was thus brought to a close.

The Mainspring of the body

Health Depends On The Blood—and "Fruit-a-tives" Insure Pure, Rich Blood.

Correct time hinges on the mainspring of your watch. Gold cases and jeweled monograms look handsome—but it is the homely old steel mainspring that sends you to work on time, and prevents you from missing the train.

Blood is the body's mainspring. People lose arms and legs—eyes and ears—even the entire stomach. But you've got to have good red blood, to have good health. Fruit-a-tives give it to you.

Just see how necessary the blood is. Every organ in the body depends on the blood for its nourishment. It supplies gastric juice to the stomach, to assist digestion. After food is properly digested, it takes up nourishment from the intestines and builds up flesh and strength. Prick the skin at any point, and blood will flow.

But—if the bowels don't move regularly, they keep food there until it decays—ferments. Instead of blood taking up nourishment, it carries this decaying matter—poison—all over the body.

The stomach wants clean gastric juice and gets poison—

—indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn, coated tongue.

The kidneys want pure blood to help them, and get poison—

—pain in the back and then kidney disease.

The muscles want nourishment so they can grow strong. They get poison instead——rheumatism and sciatica.

The blood makes a vain effort to get rid of the poison and carries it to the skin—

—pimples, blotches, sallow complexion.

Fruit-a-tives clean the stomach, and make sure that food is digested properly. They go after the lazy liver—and stop those "bilious attacks." They tone

Fruit-a-tives

Purify the blood because they first of all cure CONSTIPATION, which is at the root of the trouble.

"I find Fruit-a-tives to be the best medicine I have ever taken for my trouble. I have been a sufferer from Constipation for five years and until I used Fruit-a-tives, could not get going. I find the Fruit-a-tives pleasant to take, and I find that every two nights is sufficient now to make my bowels move regularly each day. All my visitors now hear about my new cure for Constipation."

Mrs. L. KENDRY, Treherne, Manitoba.

up the bowels—strengthen and invigorate them so they move regularly every day. They keep the kidneys working properly. With all the impurities of the body gotten rid of as Nature intends, there's none left to taint the blood.

That is the Fruit-a-tives way of cleansing and purifying the blood—and it is the only way to get the pure, rich blood that every man and woman and child must have to be well and keep well.

—if you have not your healthy color

—if pimples and blotches mar the complexion

—if the skin is sallow

—if the head aches

—if the tongue is coated and breath bad

—if the stomach is all upset

—and especially if Constipation is becoming chronic, start NOW on Fruit-a-tives.

One box of Fruit-a-tives will show you how easily and quickly these troubles can be cured, now that you know the right remedy to take. Your druggist has them.

COLOR ON WALLS.

Influence of Certain Hues—Some Agreeable Schemes.

It is not generally known how great is the influence of light and color on the human system or that certain colors are beneficial and others pernicious and irritating in their effects on the nerves, says the Ladies' World. A room is made beautiful and restful by a judicious and artistic scheme of coloring, and such results are often attained by smooth surfaces on which a beautiful color is laid than where wall papers are used. One reason for this is that there are so few really artistic papers. The patterns are either small and disconnected, and therefore spotty, or else they are too large, straggling and too pronounced in coloring. Note the papers of this season especially—huge poppies, heroic sized roses, each individual flower pretty enough in itself—but who desires hundreds and thousands of repeats staring at one all over one's walls? A smooth, clean color on the wall is a relief. Then, too, it is more sanitary and cleaner. The stenciled friezes are so pleasing, and the design may show more than one color on a ground differing from the main wall.

Light Giving Colors.

Light giving colors are the most healthful, and these include all the yellows and all the colors in degree which have yellow in their composition. Yellow has many beautiful shades; indeed, the choice is very wide. Yellow especially suits rooms of northern exposure or northwestern or northeastern, in these rooms making a perpetual sunshine and illuminating for a dark hall. The wall in a hall, especially a narrow one, may well have a daisy of golden brown or bronze brown, the wall above a rich full yellow, and the frieze show both colors.

A kitchen done in pure white, varnished and laid off with lines to give the effect of tiles and the tiles in turn stenciled in white, will give the effect of an old Dutch interior. A housewife who has time and manual skill can do this herself and have a lovely kitchen.

Pleasing Shades.

Clear green walls are very pleasing for a sitting room in which pictures figure conspicuously. This green also harmonizes with the wood of furnishings.

Red—that is, pure red—is a color that should very seldom if ever be used for living rooms and never for bedrooms. It is irritating to persons with sensitive nerves. It may answer for a large hall provided it is a modified red—say, old red, terra cotta red, pom-pellian red or pomegranate red.

There are some lovely grays—grays formed by the combination of certain colors—but the gray made by black and white should be avoided. It's cold and depressing, ugly and unwholesome.

The Quarrel Room.

In one of Kipling's railroad stories the manager of a great freight terminal was described as moving tranquilly about, humming the words of an old hymn which told of green fields and murmuring brooks, while trains rolled in and out a hundred tracks subject to his direction. Trainsmen besieged him for orders and explanations and swearing truckmen crowded around him for orders and privileges. He was the blessed calm of a May morning amid distractions and responsibilities which would drive some men mad. He was a man of self control.

We need some of us, more of the railroad manager's calm in the life of the home. The table of all places, should be free from contention and fret. The stomach of the angry person, the worried or the unhappy, does not perform its work well. The person who is possessed of a "grudge" should be obliged to take his meals alone until his malady is cured.

Why not, in every home, a quarrel room, set apart for those to go who are ill natured and a severe penance demanded from each and every one found "grouchy" outside of it? And for the settlement of family disputes? The walls should be padded—no windows or frail furniture, and, of course, no bric-a-brac. Some comfortable but stationary chairs like those in a dentist's office would make the room both safe and habitable.—Good Housekeeping.

Boiled Cream Dressing.
Many families do not like olive oil, and for those who do not eat salads on this account, boiled cream dressing made as follows will be found delicious: Add a tablespoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt, a fourth of a teaspoonful of white pepper, a teaspoonful of mustard to half a cupful of vinegar; place in a granite ware basin over the fire, and when hot beat in a cupful of cream or milk, two eggs, a tablespoonful of butter; let become cold.

A Dressmaker's Way.

I learned from a dressmaker how to form the popular silk and satin girdles, says a Good Housekeeping correspondent. Instead of taking a straight bias piece the desired width, as many do, the girdle should be formed by hollowing out the front and cutting it a little higher in the back, as the dotted lines in the diagram indicate. Draw the fullness or extra width down to the right width for the girdle and fasten to the little pieces of featherbone indicated in the diagram. Thus shaped the girdle will conform to the waist much better.

Felt Weak and Nervous.

Had Faint and Dizzy Spells.

These symptoms arise from a weak condition of the heart and nerves. Wherever there are sickly people with weak hearts and deranged nerves,

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

will be found an effective remedy. Through the medium of the nervous system, they impart a strengthening and restorative influence to every organ and muscle of the body.

They restore enfeebled, prostrated, exhausted, deranged, or overworked men and women to perfect constitutional power.

Miss Maggie L. Cleveland, Baywater, N.B., tells how she was cured in the following words:—

"I was sick for the past year, and became thoroughly run down. I had faint and dizzy spells, and felt weak and nervous all the time. I tried numerous remedies, but could get no help. I then read in the paper about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and got a box of them. Before I had used one-half the box I began to get better, so got another one, and by the time the two were finished I was as well as ever."

Washington's Watch.

The Christian Watchman relates the following striking anecdote of Washington in illustration of the practical good sense which he manifested in everything. The incident speaks volumes upon the character of the Father of His Country: "His personal friend, Governor Morris, was about going to Europe, and Washington, along with several letters of introduction, gave him his watch, to buy him at Paris a fat gold watch, not the watch of a fool or of a man who desires to make a show, but of which the interior construction shall be extremely well cared for and the exterior air very simple. What a mind of wisdom do these words suggest about men as well as watches, the interior well cared for and the exterior air very simple! Boys, remember Washington's watch and be just like it yourselves!"

5c SAVING REVELATION

By Virginia Leila Wentz

Copyright, 1905, by Virginia Leila Wentz

The day had been hard, bright and cold. Out in Central park there was the jangle of sleighbells in the air—people, for the most part, making for home, because the strong wind which had suddenly swept up the city streets was now driving a daisy herd of snowflakes before it.

Women sitting in their sleighs, under the full stare of the setting sun, did not feel their rugs and furs and whiff too heavy. Down in the city's narrow streets and wind swept tenements the poor drew their shawls and coat collars higher round gray, plucked faces.

Helena Christy had to hold her tongue on both hands. Her cheeks and lips were as red as June roses. Some chiffon ribbons blew out from under her furs and flapped across her companion's face. They had the faint scent of some flower or other. Whatever it was, it was the scent he loved best in the world.

But if either the woman or the perfume awakened any sentiment in him the expression of the Hon. Kelsie Siddons did not show it. His handsome, manly face wore the aspect of stern restraint habitual to him.

As he leaned against the sleigh cushions and beheld the dimpling perspective of electric light pricking itself out down the snowy drive, caught sight of the blue mounted police on their mettlesome steeds and recognized familiar faces in the long procession of sleighs and carriages rolling northward, he was conscious of only one thing—he set out on this drive with the fixed purpose of asking the woman beside him to become his wife. And her home lay just at the lower end of the park.

He was a man who never went back on his fixed purposes.

As they were turning out of the park on Fifty-ninth street Helena was saying: "The woman who is worth while never undervalues the offer of marriage from any man. Be he much or little, it is the greatest compliment he can pay her. Coming from you, my friend, such a compliment is the more to be valued. But I cannot marry you."

The man did not answer at once. Neither did the expression of his face seem to change. He tucked the lap robe around her a little more securely.

"Do you know," he remarked when he had finished with the fur robe, "I'd like to trespass a little further some time and ask permission to discuss the matter with you?"

"As I said," came back Helena's voice lightly as she undid his work of robe tucking. "In asking me to marry you you paid me a great compliment. In exchange, I dare say, I owe you permission to indulge your hobby for argument and discussion. Come in now, won't you, and have some tea with me? I want you no amount of argument can profit either of us; but still, come."

Within, behind heavily curtained windows, in sharp contrast to the biting cold without, were sweet warmth, soft rugs, draped screens, shaded lamps, all the dainty plenishings of a modern boudoir. In the faint growing dusk the firelight gleamed on the little silver kettle beginning to steam at the spout; on the Dresden and old Worcester ware on the ebony tea table; on the woman who had drawn a low cushioned chair close beside it.

"The situation is like this," the man was saying in rather much the same tone of voice he would have used in arguing an important case before the supreme court. "You are thirty—or is it thirty-one? You have a reputation as a brilliant, beautiful woman and all that. You can, I am aware, marry any one of three or four men who can offer quite as much as I, but modesty was never a characteristic of mine. And I can give you almost anything you wish that costs money. I stand well in my profession—close to the top of it, in fact. I am not yet forty. On the whole, a marriage between us might be what is termed a very suitable match."

The woman smiled openly. "Does the proposition here close its defense?" Her father also had been a judge. "Sugar and cream? Yes? Well, here!" She deftly poured out the fragrant drink.

As the man reached for his cup he looked at her a trifle perplexed. "Are you offended?" he asked. "I've made an offer of marriage in a perfectly businesslike way, having heard you often declare that a marriage contract is like any other contract and should be entered into only when both parties are aware of what they are doing and are rid of glamour."

His companion paid him the tribute of a lingering glance in which a question mark was barely perceptible. In the shadows he could no longer see her face—only the white parting of her burnished hair where the firelight shone. In a second she was slipping her tea nonchalantly enough and had recovered her veil of light rallery.

"Offended? Oh, certainly not. But the defense will submit an argument. The matter would be, as you say, a suitable one—that do you French call it?—marriage de convenance."

As for the three or four men to whom you refer, I cannot answer. I've noticed, however, that the number of my proposals is falling off lately. I attribute the fact to advancing age. You were not wrong when you said I was thirty-one. The defense will close the argument by saying that she has determined to become an old maid!"

The Hon. Kelsie Siddons was leaning forward, his strong, muscular hands clasped loosely before him, a whimsical smile on his lips.

"Oh, you will never die an old maid! I will answer for that!" The smile vanished. He resumed his stolid manner. "But your refusal of me is final. I take it?"

"Do I seem to be melting?" Helena inquired with a touch of defiance which comforted him with the tumultuous beating of her heart and a most annoying feeling of tremulousness about her lips.

The man rose and went to the window. Far off, across the park, arose the big hotels on the plaza, their lofty outlines seen obscurely through the snowdrift. The lights of swiftly moving sleighs and carriages down below glimmered faintly, and above all, through the air, came the unearthly voice that is never silent, though it may speak in various moods—the voice that molds into itself the cry of human joy, the wail of human sorrow, the roar and crush and rush of the million mindless things that man has made to serve his ends—the voice of the great city.

"I think," he said at last, and his voice seemed to Helena to sound far away, "that I forgot to mention one thing in my proposal to you. I should have told you, perhaps, that I love you, that I've loved you since the day when we first met, that I'd rather have your love than the power of a king or the wealth of a Croesus, that I should count it fine and wonderful beyond all imagining—a moment to die for—loved me, I've waited all these years to be in a position to offer you the things which I was bold enough to mention as rendering me eligible for your hand."

His voice had become provokingly low and husky. Now he turned to her almost fiercely.

"You who are so collected and calm, what can you know of love and passion? Now I realize that I've told all these things in vain—no, not wholly vainly, for I'm going to kiss you once—here, now—if it means the worst!"

He caught her to him and raised kisses upon her—her lips, her eyes, her brow. When he released her it was with the full consciousness that he had committed an unforgivable wrong. He stepped backward until he was between them a broad strip of fire lit rug.

But the woman held out her arms to him, and the lashes of her eyes were wet.

"Sweetheart," she whispered as she crossed her slim hands behind his dark head and drew it down to her level, "why didn't you tell me that you loved me at first? That was the saving revelation!"

Human Ear Waggers.

There is no doubt that at one period every one could move the "Irishman," or external ear, at will. The muscles for the purpose are found in man, as in the horse and the donkey, although disuse has caused them to become inactive.

The Australian aborigines, the Papuans, and other savages, whose acuteness of hearing excels ours, can, all of them, control the movement of the pinnae completely. So can certain peculiarly constituted individuals among civilized races. Although where these organs are usually exhibited as "freaks" at shows and the like.

J. Muller, the German scientist, by will effort and practice continued over many years actually succeeded in regaining the power of moving his ears freely and quickly. It is, moreover, not beyond probability that the progress of inventions, such as that of wireless telegraphy, may lead to the development in man of the pinnae ear was, possibly with the assistance of mechanical additions to accentuate its effect.

A Queer Express.

Not many years ago, on the highroads of Wittenberg, in Germany, travelers frequently met an old woman trudging slowly along, pushing before her a light wheelbarrow loaded with bundles and parcels. The old woman was at least sixty, but she was so cheerful and uncomplaining that the people had no hesitation in employing her. She had many knickknacks and parcels to carry to and from the city, to which three or four times a week she pushed her cart, which she called the "Wittenberg express." This plucky old woman walked with her express wheelbarrow at least ten miles each trip, and her earnings, a small fee for each parcel, served to support herself and her two invalid daughters, who could do only a little sewing. The old woman would allow no one to pity her. She liked the work, she said, and was only sorry that as she grew older she could not make such frequent trips, for her earnings were helping herself and her children.—St. Nicholas.

Where Women Touch Their Hats.

Many years ago kissing was the most common mode of salutation in England, while shaking the hand was considered an evidence of the closest intimacy. Strangers would be kissed where to shake their hands would have been thought a most unwarrantable familiarity. It is, however, doubtful if in any part of the British Isles women touched their hats, as do the women of Cortina, a little town perched on a lofty peak of the Dolomite Alps. The women of this quaint town touch their hats like men on meeting an acquaintance and remove them on entering a church, placing them on the ledges in front of their seats. On leaving the building they take their hats in their hands and do not replace them until well past the church door.—London Chronicle.

Red Rose Tea

Is entirely free from that bitter, herby taste which is so often complained of in other Teas.

It has what might be called a fruity taste, a rich, ripe flavor that is very pleasant to the palate.

If you try a package you are likely to be another one of the many who advertise Red Rose Tea by telling their friends how good it is.

Regular Irregularities.

In the days when Lord Castlereagh was plundering Ireland he once reproached himself aloud for never having tried to remedy the damp and marshy state of the Phoenix Park in Dublin.

Said an Irishman standing by:—"Faix, it's because your Excellency has been too much engaged in draining the rest of the kingdom."

When W. O'Brien made that to even more purpose than British exactions in the bad old times.

A strong lass from a cabin having gone to England, made her appearance in a very short time, so the wife of her mother's landlord said to her:—"Why, Biddy, I thought you were going to service."

"Ah! I can't be always rubbing and scrubbing and polishing. Ah! what good is it at all? And as to cooking, I hate it. It disgusts me to be after spoiling good food, and messing it up to the taste of the quality."

When W. O'Brien wrote his old comedy, Cross Purposes, he made one of his characters remark to another:—"You are as regular in your irregularities as ever."

Stranger must take of the Irish to-day, genial and hospitable to an unparalleled degree, delightful to converse with, moral beyond any race in Europe despite overcrowding and the absence of even the most elementary sanitation in many cabins, the race is still as irresponsible as when Lever wrote his rollicking tales. Irish girls are even more charming than were their mothers. Irishmen make the bravest soldiers in the world. The sense of fun is more irrepressible than ever. The one thing lacking is a certain aptitude for making the most thrifty use of life, and perhaps it is the absence of this which causes the Irish to be so dearly loved, and gives their beautiful land an indescribable and unique charm.—Home Gordon.

For Every Woman According to Her Needs

Scotch plaid is good with dark skirts

Young girls' skirts should be carefully bored

Shaped flounces are best for short petticoats

The fullest of them all

PARIS is wearing skirts that touch, and having to hold them up, it's a bit tiresome for the long freedom of these years of short skirts, but we'll probably follow her lead before many more pass.

But let that evil day come when we haven't strength of mind enough to fight fashion! There's a compensation to Paris, at least—and it has come in the shape of stunning new petticoats. If skirts are to be long enough to require holding up, then the petticoat will show, and right there is where Mademoiselle Paris congratulates herself. As a consequence, hosts of new petticoats have been made, fluffier and prettier than ever.

While we, as yet, haven't adapted the longer skirt (except for more formal occasions), we're "all for" the petticoat!

And they're stunning! The stronger colors that have made themselves dominant at home in dresses are re-echoed in petticoats, until some daring styles are seen.

Black has its following, stronger than any color, and brown and green and blue are almost as popular, with a glimpse of scarlet from under the hem of an occasional skirt. Red is especially good with pongee—natural colored, of course—but is worn with every other color under the sun, besides.

The gray plaid petticoats are back—gray or sober. Some stunning ones are made of the rich dark green and blue plaids that are almost as subdued as black, yet are full of the character of color.

The usual plaid petticoat—by the way, it's only for wear with dark skirts and walking suits—is gay. Red and blue and green are generously mixed up, with a dash of yellow by way of accentuating the color scheme. It does it!

Trimings Are Lavish

The soft finish characteristic of all the new dress silks is evident in petticoats as well, some of the loveliest being made of china silk, to make them especially soft.

Some parts of all of the petticoats fit smoothly, and the lower have such fullness as possible crowded into them to hold out the extra fullness in the new dress skirts.

Flukes, ruffles, pleating and gathering are used in every way that will add to the fluff; great points are cut in full flounces to allow for pleating to be set in flounce twice as full.

And trimmings are lavish. On the darker skirts every bit of self-trimming, just puffings and billings and tiny ornamental ruffles of the same silk. But of white taffeta and china silk, and, of course, on the fanciest of the finger petticoats, lace insertion and frills run riot.

Most of the insertion used is fairly narrow, but the edging is wide and usually of the softest sort of lace, put on as full as possible.

Some of the loveliest of the finger petticoats haven't the least scrap of lace about them, and are made instead with a flounce of several deep ruffles, trimmed with the simplicity of the ideal baby dress—with tiny hand-made scallops and prim little dots.

For the simple gowns they're really in better taste than the bunching together of great piles of lace.

A Great Need

Short petticoats have their set styles, as well as the long ones. They must fit even more snugly over the hips, and the flounce (which is about half of the skirt) must be shaped—not pulled on—or the outer petticoat and outside skirt will show the ugly bunching through.

Some of these short skirts are so carefully made that there is practically no fullness to be disposed of at the back; and what there is is got rid of in two tiny pleats. Often they have no bands at all, but are finished off smoothly and fastened by fasteners of buttons and with French loops.

Young girls' petticoats should be as carefully made as the "full-grown" petticoats. The modern young girl has her skirt well cut and wears her clothes with a style that is delightfully girlish. And she's mighty particular about the set of her petticoat so that all unnecessary wrinkles are kept from spoiling the set of her skirt.

Splendid little petticoats come ready made, which small women are wearing almost as much as she. They're only possible with short skirts, for the longest one is only thirty-six inches.

The work-day petticoats are taking on new beauty as well as the finer ones of silk. Mohair—and nothing wears like mohair—is treated to effective flounces of plaid silk; and instead of the plain tucked white skirt that we've been wearing for a couple of years with morning suits, skirts trimmed with embroidery are worn.

And where the typical Parisian is most particular, rarely wearing the same piece two days in succession, and never wearing anything that is not the very whitest and cleanest possible.

PREPARING FOR GIRL GRADUATE'S GREAT DAY

WHILE the girl graduate is deep in getting plenty of grandiose dresses into her wardrobe, and almost as busy planning a fetching combination of frills and flounces, her friends are reminding themselves of presents.

The most personal sort of gifts are permissible at Commencement time—except for men to give. They are restricted to the flowers which heap the platform in such bewildering profusion, and which, luckily for the man who's the recipient of a number of invitations—are at the expense of their prices.

But by way of evening up, wonderful baskets and boxes are devised to send those flowers to, and are the most tempting things in the world.

Find out, if you can, her favorite flower, and let her know you remembered it. The bit of sentiment adds just one more pleasure to that of receiving them.

Roses, perhaps, make the best "showing," and no girl's aversion to having her bouquets loom up in size and number. Violets, although almost a too sober sort of flower for a gala day, are almost worshipped these last few years, until it's a bit of a feat to like them best.

A trick the florists have learned to accomplish with the aid of wire is the making of full bouquets of the short-stemmed flowers. Fancies, which were impossible except in buttonhole size, wire into the most beautiful shower bouquets, the wire stems being concealed under bits of green, and, perhaps, under a ribbon as well.

Some of us are old-fashioned enough in our tastes to prefer flowers without ribbons, disliking the artificial touch to a natural beauty. But not so the girl graduate! She's out for all the frills going.

As to the personal gifts, they are legion, and the most welcome of all will be things to wear, from the ring she's set her heart on for a family present down to the very little things.

Bits of handwork—corset covers, chemises and the rare little collar and cuff sets that betray the quality of work so definitely—she'll be wild about.

Of course, she'll get books, and profess to take a deep interest in them—perhaps, with her thanks, come to you her plans for "solid reading," and the like. But don't send books if you can't help it. Send bits of frivolity. In spite of all her good intentions, it's the first time she has ever felt that the world of education might be left behind her, if she chooses. She's secretly reveling in being a butterfly, if only for a very brief time. Help her fun along. The serious side will take care of itself.

Little pins—the kind we used to call clip pins—are used for every sort of thing, from pinning her stock straight to any one of a hundred uses. She never has enough of them.

New ones have come, enameled like peacock feathers, and at the same time, elegant and represented. Some are even jeweled, but the jewels seem a wee bit out of place.

Bracelets are coming into favor again, brought in by the short sleeves, and some lovely new ones are waiting to be worn, for the luck of the first wearing.

Commencement Day.

But the shops are full of new, beautiful ideas for her.

While you're thinking of Commencement presents, give a thought to the girl who's poor. She's sure to be in the class sure to have to swallow some feeling of envy over the other girls' dresses and perhaps not getting a single gift, or a flower.

Look her up before you can, and give her some bit of money to help her out with her plainer dress; or surprise her with the flowers she longed for, but didn't dare expect.

A giftless Commencement Day would be a pretty sad memory.

PROFIT BY GOOD WEATHER

WITH April over, the weather's sufficiently made up its mind to be settled, and there's no excuse left for the sluggards who don't get out and take advantage of it.

The best way to do it is by walking. Most of us aren't energetic enough in spirit to plod along without casting envious glances at a swift horse or an automobile. But, in reality, when you've done a lot of walking, you become hardened to it, and soon learn to love the very effort of it.

There's no exercise like it from a health standpoint—none which you're less likely to overdo yourself practicing. And you get on intimate terms with nature in a way that the latest, dreamiest driving along shady lanes will never lead you to.

Many Come Ready Made

What we women need more than anything else is systematic walking—not done with the idea of covering a certain number of miles, but with leisurely enjoyment of the sights and surroundings.

Let those sights and sounds be real outdoor things. Go, Get away from city streets and houses, and do your tramping religiously in the outdoor world, where birds haven't forgotten how to sing.

Perhaps during the week you're engaged in business; perhaps it's impossible for you to do more than walk to and from your work, and that you do by way of getting the necessary exercise any other way. But do a bit more. If there's no time to get into the country but Sunday, make it part of your program for that day, to get your country walk in. Go to the city park, if you can't get any further away from civilization, but get as far away as you can, to notice a new flower or a new bird. Make the habit of observing as definite a part of your walk as the exercise—balance them to a nicety.

If you're not strong, don't let yourself be tempted to walk as far as some sturdier mortal can. You'll only make the very thought of walking wearisome, and the idea of repeating your walk unbearable. Walk a less distance than you feel equal to, and increase your walk gradually from day to day.

In some of the cities abroad, walking matches are held at stated times during the year, usually most of them in the fall, when the summer training shows its effect. Prizes are offered—good prizes—and the object is to promote the general interest in walking, especially among people who work. The regulations of some of the matches rule out everyone who isn't employed somewhere.

The famous matches of the working girls in France are splendid in the way they attract the girls, and the girls training all the year round, so as to have a better chance to win one of these prizes. Usually the first prize is a sum of money, made into a pretty thing by being placed in the latest, most fashionable purse.

The effect upon the health of the girls is marvelous. The object hasn't started a like movement. The object makes it worth working for, and there's no denying the fact that an object does stimulate daily practice wonderfully.

THE WOMAN WHO WORRIES

A WOMAN who never worries declares that there is nothing more than worry. The worrying woman does nobody any good. She simply invites the hand of Time, which writes plenty of wrinkles on her brow, around her eyes and mottles her face a yellow and gives a lack-luster eye that no artifice can brighten.

It is quite unnecessary to worry, and it is a total waste of energy which could be better employed in doing something useful. The man who wrote it must have been a man! "It is not work that kills," says something. He had a wife, or a sister, or a cousin, or an aunt who worried him by the hour, and so killed him by inches. That is the worst of a worrying woman. She not only worries, but she worries you.

You know a worrying woman the moment you see her. Her character is written in her face in wrinkles which you would think nothing short of a miracle would obliterate.

Downright ugliness is a heavy price to have to pay for the possession of a bad habit, but there it is. And not only does worry directly influence the complexion for evil; its more remote effects are no less potent in robbing the face of the liver and organs of digestion and the general public. Worry affects the entire nervous system, and through it the liver and organs of digestion and the heart. The things a woman thinks have more than anything else the power to make or mar her beauty; so let her beware of worrying over much, lest she lose the greatest of all gifts.

CHOOSING EMBROIDERIES FROM A PRACTICAL STANDPOINT

WITH all the exquisite embroideries that have already appeared, and those that are hobnobbing out by hundreds each day, it's hard for the most practical woman out not to lose her head over them, and buy them from their beauty points alone.

There are definite points to consider about every sort of embroidery before getting it. Those short, beautiful bits that look almost like handwork are all very well in their way; but most of them are impossible (or should be) for anything that will get hard wear. There are some of these sheer embroideries that are made with every thread doubly protected, so that the ugly, thick kinds can be occasionally thrust aside, even for the sturdier sort of things.

Since those wonderful machines were invented, common sense and beauty have seemed, in a measure, to join forces.

Innumerable Combinations

In choosing embroideries, look first at the material; some of the sheerest are less flimsy than the apparently sturdy. Look next at the edge; if the stitching is too shallow, it's likely to pull out soon. If the scallop is in deep points, it's bound to curl up at the first wearing.

Lace and embroidery combinations—the new combinations that the fashionable world is petting to death—are myriad, from the tiny, wavy edges, ending in a heading and finished with the sheerest bit of Valenciennes filled on to the edge, to the heavy kinds, with heavy linen-embroidered—for the foundation and the frailest, most perishable of pompadour laces for ornament.

Anything with a touch of pompadour lace about it does up abominably—except (there are always exceptions) where the dots and balls have some body to them. Then they can be pinched and patted into shape.

These sheer Swiss edges, combined with Valenciennes, make the prettiest, possible trimming for baby dresses, by the way.

Blind embroideries are always more durable than open, and are nearer to the exquisite French handwork that sets the pace all over the world. And in the entire series none is more interesting than those clever reproductions of Japanese work.

The loveliest are done on handkerchief linen in odd, striking patterns, and carry their artistry in every single one of the broad, flat stitches. Some have the delicate Japanese drawnwork skillfully introduced here and there, which is beautiful, but takes away a little from their practical worth.

It all depends upon what you're buying embroidery for what points are most necessary for you to consider. If it's for underclothes, look at the wearing qualities are all there—embroidery not too heavily done for the foundation to support; no cobby things with odd little threads that stretch and break easily; and a good, firm edge is necessary.

In insertions sometimes you find one outlined on both sides with a heavy heading, so perfectly finished that the

must remember

The woman who wants to succeed must remember such maxims as the following:

Work on the theory of enthusiasm concerning all afflictions. Cultivate the powers of concentration. Finish off little tasks as finished as great ones.

Kindness is a useful tool with which to work.

The value of pretty and becoming dress helps a woman wonderfully on the road to success.

The woman who wants to succeed must remember such maxims as the following: The theory of enthusiasm conquering all difficulties. Cultivate the powers of concentration. Finish off little tasks as finished ones. A useful tool with which to work. The road to success is in dress; helps a woman wonderfully on the road to success. It is the dress that takes every care of it if you are dressed in it. Spend no pains to recover it if lost temporarily. Do remember that your whole career is in your dress. Do not go wrong for a day now and then. Be as amiable and pleasant and considerate to others as you like them to be to you, and have all the credit for it. Be as agreeable to the women at home as to the business woman. After all there is only one standard for success.

Thirty thousand persons sitting down to dinner together is a spectacle the world has probably witnessed but once, and that was a short time ago in Paris.

TORTURE IN THE NAVY

In the old days of the United States many punishments involving physical torture were numerous, and were imposed for apparently trivial offenses. To President Lincoln's kindly interference is due the abolition of the "sawtooth," one of the most painful of all the devices used in the punishment of refractory soldiers.

When Lincoln visited Fort Monroe in 1863, his attention was called to a narrow door, bound with iron, the use of which he was anxious to learn.

the reply: "It is used for refrigerating sailboats. A man in there is treated to a big dose of steam heat and has very little ventilation. It brings him around pretty quickly."

Libboon, ever merciful, demanded that he be allowed to try the treatment to which thousands of Americans sailboats were subjected yearly.

PARSON BIRI

Among the feathered inhabitants of New Zealand there is a bird called the porpoise bird, or "tu". It is about the size and shape of a snipebird, but has a pair of delicate white tufts at its throat, and is a glossy black fresh olive-brown, which look almost like a greenish black. It is thought to grow so quickly to which it adapts, and besides these tricks it has a repertoire which is not equaled by any other feathered creature.

WOODLAND INDIANS

First among the trail signs that are used by Indians and white hunters and most likely to be of use to the traveler, says a writer in Country Life in America, are axo blazes on tree trunks. These may vary greatly with locality, but there is one everywhere in use with scarcely any variation. This is simply the white spot, knucked off by knife or axe, meaning "Here is the trail!" The Ojibwas and other woodland tribes use twigs for a great many things. The bent or broken twig like

One who has no speaking acquaintance with sea gulls would hardly dare to say that they do not suffer when the weather is bad, but it is impossible to read without a smile the quotations made by London A. A society has been formed there for the prevention of sickness among sea gulls, and for the purpose of bringing cheer and comfort to them.

ON A LONE TRAIL

ON A LONE TRAIL

A gruesome tale is told by the Alaskan Dispatch of the bringing of the body of the late mayor of Seattle from the interior of Alaska. The body, started alone from Fairbanks to drive the pallbearers to the grave, was rescued by a pack of wolves by the roadside. Two days out of Fairbanks he was crossing a lonely bit of country over which the trail made way through forests of spruce and fir. With the first signs of dawn of night there came a long, howling cry from the forest, and the wolves followed by another and another, each seemingly nearer and nearer, started on a lonely Alaskan trail, hundreds of miles from the nearest habitation, and with a burst of speed he fled, and with a burst of speed to civilization, leaving behind him a trail of blood.

What is more, it was the cry of this wolf.

A WOMAN HERMIT.

With only an old bacon box as her shelter, a woman has lived a hermitic life for more than two years in a lonely spot in Derbyshire, says the London Daily Chronicle. The other day the police visited her retreat, and compelled her to seek a new "home" elsewhere.

A USEFUL MAN

"I want to advertise for a man," said the lady, approaching the wretched advertisement column in the daily paper. "I want to get a man to do my housework, and I don't care for any conditions."

"I want to get a man to carry coal in the winter, keep up the fire, and do all the housework," she said, and then, musing, she added, "I want to sweep the front porch, wash the dishes, and all that kind of work. In short, I want a man to do all the things around the place and to be ready upon for any kind of hard work. He must be sober and reliable, of good appearance, not over thirty years of age, and I don't care for his color," she cannot keep trifling with advertisements.
