MAY DAY BRINGS STRIKES IN THE UNITED STATES; PITTSBURG STREET RAILWAY MEN OUT

2000 Machinists of Youngstown Also Out--Marine Traffic at New York Affected--Building Trades Also go on Strike.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, May 1.—Owing to the unusual ferment in labor circles, union leaders predict that the May Day parade here this afternoon will be one of the most notable labor demonstrations New York has ever seen. Estimates of the number of men and women in line ran as high as 100,000. After the parade there will be a great mass meeting in Union Square and smaller meetings in between 30 and 40 halls throughout the city.

The nucleus of the parade will be the Garment Workers, 60,000 of whom have been locked out in a contest with the manufacturers over the closed shop question. To prevent disturbances unusual precautions have been taken by the city authorities.

STREET CAR MEN OUT.
Pittsburg, May 1.—A strike of street car men here began shortly after midnight. Operations were completely suspended on all lines of the Pittsburgh Railway Co. in Pittsburgh and vicinity and the Washington and Charlevoix interurban lines, as well as the Beaver Valley and Washington local lines, and an increase in pay from 45 to 55 cents an hour.

MACHINISTS OUT.
Youngstown, O., May 1.—About 2,000 machinists employed at the various industrial plants of the city did not report for work this morning and a number of these plants are operated in a crippled condition, several being entirely closed. As a result of meetings held all day Sunday and far into the night there is possibility that the number of idle men will be greatly augmented before the day is over. There is no disorder.

MARINE STRIKE.

New York, May 1.—The marine traffic of this port was seriously affected to-day by a strike of the engineers and firemen on the vessels of the lighterage class. Hundreds of tugboats and other towing craft were idle at their piers and the congestion of freight, involving delays of cargoes or steamships and railways, presented a serious problem.

BUILDING LABORERS

Syracuse, N. Y., May 1.—A strike of the building laborers of the city was begun this morning. The men demand 30 cents an hour. They have been receiving 28. The plasterers and teamsters employed by the city have presented demands which have been refused, and they are expected to go out. Local machinists and molders have been out two weeks in a strike for an eight hour work day.

CARPENTERS OUT.

Akron, O., May 1.—Several hundred carpenters were on strike here to-day, following a vote to walkout taken yesterday. The strikers ask an eight hour day instead of the former nine hour work period, and an increase in pay from 45 to 55 cents an hour.

Efforts were made to-day to end the strike of machinists at the Whitman and Barnes Company, where 500 employees are idle. This concern manufactures machinery for the rubber factories here. The machinists ask shorter hours and higher pay.

Steamer Sunk.

London, May 1.—The British Steamship City of Lucknow, 3,669 tons gross, and owned in Glasgow, has been sunk.

Killed in Action.

Winnipeg, Man., May 1.—Serg. W. T. Crummy, son of Dr. Eber Crummy, the principal of Wesleyan College has been killed in action.

REBELS OF RANK AND FILE FOLLOW THEIR LEADERS AND HAVE LAID DOWN THEIR ARMS

Nearly 500 of Them Who Had Fought Since Monday Marched Out From Their Retreats and Gave Themselves Up.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Dublin, Sunday evening, April 30, via London, May 1.—Rebels of the rank and file followed the example of their leaders this morning and confessed the cause of the Irish republic was lost by laying down their arms at the foot of the Parnell monument in Sackville street and surrendering to British troops. About 450 of them, who had fought since Monday in this central area marched out from their strongholds under the white flag and gave themselves up. A few irreconcilables continued sniping from lairs difficult to locate, on roofs or among rafters of buildings nearby.

Soon afterwards a rebel lieutenant, wearing a heather green uniform and carrying a white flag, came in with a guard of ten men from the adjoining county of Meath, to learn the truth about rumors of a general surrender. The party marched off to the castle and learned from J. H. Pearce, who was named provisional president of the Irish Republic, that the movement had collapsed and was advised to resist no longer. The lieutenant and his escort then started out to parley with the outlaws in the country districts, in an effort to induce them to lay down their arms.

James Connolly, one of the leaders of the uprising, is said by government officials, to be a prisoner, wounded, in the Castle.

THIGH BROKEN

London, May 1.—The bullet, which struck James Connolly, one of the rebel leaders, passed through a thigh bone and broke it says a telegram to the Central News from Dublin. Connolly was in the general post office when wounded.

REDMOND AGAIN SPEAKS OUT

New York, May 1.—J. C. Walsh, editor of "Ireland," received a cable message yesterday from John E. Redmond, in which the Irish Nationalist leader reiterated his statement that the Dublin insurrection was organized in America as well as Ireland by "the irreconcilable enemies of Home Rule" and begs "our people not to be disturbed by the futile and miserable attempt to destroy Ireland, for it has definitely, finally failed."

The message in part is as follows: "The attempt to torpedo Home Rule and the Irish party has failed. Damage has been done, but the ship has not been sunk. The whole thing has been organized by those in Ireland and in America, who have always been the open and irreconcilable enemies of Home Rule and of the Irish party. Though the hand

Berlin Claim a Large Transport Sunk by a Sub Near Saloniki

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Berlin, May 1 (by wireless to Sayville)—It is reported from Saloniki that a German submarine has torpedoed a large transport.

It is said the transport was torpedoed off Kara Burun, 10 miles east of Saloniki. This is the second instance in which a transport is reported to have been torpedoed near Saloniki.

This report is contained in a despatch from Zurich, which credits this news to the Greek newspaper Nea Alithia of Saloniki.

RUSHING THEM ALL TO PRISON

Holyhead, via London, May 1.—A boat load of 250 Sinn Feiners arrived at Holyhead this morning. They were prisoners taken in the Dublin fighting. There were no wounded among them. Practically all of them were young men and boys. They were immediately put aboard trains for prisons in the interior of England.

BRITISH LOSSES IN MESOPOTAMIA

Constantinople Claims That During March and April They Were 20,000.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Berlin, May 1 (by wireless to Sayville)—The number of casualties sustained by the British forces in Mesopotamia during March and April is given as 20,000 in a Constantinople despatch to the Overseas News Agency.

"The booty captured at Kut-el-Amara has not yet been reckoned," the news agency adds. "Among the prisoners are four generals, 240 British officers and 270 Indian officers. The Turkish commander in chief, Hali Fasha, permitted General Townshend (the British commander) to retain his sword."

"When the news of the capture of Kut-el-Amara was received in Constantinople flags were flown. It was

THE SURRENDER

Kingston, Ireland, April 30, via London, May 1.—The proclamation issued by "Provisional President" Pearce advising the surrender of all the rebels follows:

"In order to prevent the further slaughter of unarmed people, and in the hope of saving the lives of our followers, who are surrounded and hopelessly outnumbered, the members of the Provisional Government at headquarters have agreed to unconditional surrender and the commanders of all the units of the Republican forces will order their followers to lay down their arms."

Daylight Saving.

The Hague, April 30.—Via London, May 1.—All clocks throughout Holland will be set forward one hour at midnight to-night, in consequence of the adoption of the daylight saving bill by both houses of parliament.

WITH THE SOLDIERS

NOTES OF THE C.M.R.
Recruiting still progresses favorably with the Mounted Rifles here, owing to the canvassing campaign which is being thoroughly carried out by Sergt-Major Mayott, Q.M.-Sergt Flummer and others. John D. Sloan, aged 19, farmer, English, Shellard's Lane is the latest recruit.

NOTES OF THE 125TH.
Officer of the day, Capt. Cockshutt, next for duty, Capt. Wallace, subaltern of the day, Lieut. Stratford. A class of two N.C.O.'s and 20 men left this morning to attend a week's course in bombing at Hamilton.

Sergt. Stanley and Pte. S. Mears left this morning for a course of instruction in armorer's duties at Old Fort, Toronto.

The local military authorities desire to emphasize the fact that soldiers who go to work on farms are not to be overworked, as has been the tendency of some farmers, it is stated. The men are willing to work but they must not be made to slave, is the consensus of military opinion here, and it is stated that unless fair treatment is given to all, the men will be withdrawn from the farms.

From what can be learned in advance to-night's big assault at arms and sporting rally to be given by the 125th Battalion in the Opera House promises to be one of the best of its kind ever staged in the city. Elaborate preparations of all kinds are being made for the big event, and a record attendance is both desired and expected.

NOTES OF THE 215TH.
Lieut. Wood, Sergt. Monkman and Corp. Mellor of Paris left this morning for a course in bombing at Old Fort, Toronto.

The Battalion, some 200 strong paraded to the Central school this morning, headed by the Bugle Band.

A case of caps has been received in the quartermaster's department. With Rev. Mr. Fyde in the chair, and Mr. W. S. Brewster and Corp. Clarke as speakers, a most successful meeting was held in Burford last evening, a very large audience being on hand. Corp. Clarke, a returned soldier, brought from his comrades in the trenches an appeal for more men. Moving pictures were shown by Mr. Goodwin of the Y.M.C.A. and a thoroughly successful evening was spent.

Five men signed on over the week end as a result of the recruiting campaign which is being carried on, and which will be continued this week. That a fine class of men are being secured to "Hunt the Hun" with "Harry" is generally conceded. During the week end Mr. Isaac Hewitson signed up. He has served as superin-endent of Sydenham St. Sunday school for four years and is at present the valued teacher of the Young Ladies Organized Class, as well as being a talented local preacher. Sergt-Major Taylor, who is also connected with the same church, was for some time an officer in the Salvation Army, and just previous to coming to the city, had charge of the army work in Dawson City, Yukon. He has travelled extensively.

Mrs. Steele was an active member of Zion Church, and was much interested in the work of the Ladies' Aid, the Missionary Society and other departments. Alexandra Congregation Wishes Mr. McClintock Good Wishes on His Four Months' Absence

In the morning anthem by the choir, the solo part was taken by Miss Josephine Waldron. During the evening service, a solo, "Jesus Lover of my Soul," sung by Mrs. Chamberlain, was greatly enjoyed. In the anthem, "Rock of Ages," the trio part was sung by the Messrs Marlette, Heath and Waldron. Large congregations were present for both services, being the last conducted by the Rev. D. T. McClintock, who is leaving for a four months sojourn in Fernie, B.C. for mission work. Splendid sermons were delivered by the pastor, but not in the nature of a farewell, as Mr. McClintock expects to resume his pastorate work early in September; although special mention was made by the pastor as to his appreciation of kindnesses shown him by the congregation during his six years ministry, and his affection for his people. God be with you was sung as a prayer at the conclusion of the service, after which the congregation remained and the following resolution was presented:

"The members and adherents of Alexandra church desire to convey to the Rev. D. T. and Mrs. McClintock, their very deep appreciation of the valuable services rendered by them to this congregation during the past six years. We recognize that the progress of the church during this time has been largely due to their untiring zeal and unswerving efforts on behalf of every good work for the benefit of this church and the cause of Christ in this city. That while we are sorry to part with Mr. and Mrs. McClintock for the four months they are to be absent, we hope the mission field in which Mr. McClintock will have charge, will be greatly blessed, and in wishing them God-speed, we hope they will return to take up their work there greatly benefited and renewed in body and spirit."

Rev. D. T. McClintock and family will leave on Wednesday morning at 11:30 via T. H. & B. for Fernie, B.C.

The Situation.

The capitulation of General Townshend and his troops at Kut-el-Amara is the second job which John Bull has sustained at the hands of the Turks during present hostilities, the first, of course, having occurred in connection with the enforced withdrawal from the Dardanelles. In both instances the operations were undertaken without proper consideration. With regard to Townshend, it is known that he called attention to the possible disaster which would result if he attempted to reach Bagdad with the forces at his disposal, but Sir John Nixon insisted on the move, with the result that he has become involved in disaster, while Townshend emerges with added lustre to his foresight and his mastery resource and courage still more firmly established under most trying conditions. His retreat to Kut-el-Amara, although vastly outnumbered by the enemy, was a wonderful piece of work, and he successfully repulsed fierce attacks after he was cooped up in the camp named with such effectiveness that the sons of Islam finally contented themselves with waiting until the inevitable end arrived of the exhaustion of provisions. Townshend is regarded as one of the ablest generals in the British service. The extent of his force numerically has never yet been officially given, but it is said that he only had 14,000 men originally, and it is on record that he had at least an "army corps of two divisions," or, in plain English, 40,000 men. The surrender in itself will rankle, but in addition there is the undoubtedly bad effect which the event will exercise throughout the East.

IN THE MATTER OF IMPORTING GERMAN GOODS

Objection Made by Citizen to Alleged Enemy Trading.

WHAT CUSTOMS LAW SAYS

In a communication to the City Clerk, Mr. Stephen Cayless draws the attention of the council to the fact that the Huns have friends in Brantford. At the Grand Trunk railway on Thursday last, he states that he saw goods bearing the inscription "Made in Austria" and the name of Benj. Jno. Kohn, New York, and also the name of a leading furniture store on Colborne St. of this city. Mr. Cayless expresses the opinion that this reflects upon the patriotism of some of the people of this city, as the goods in question came by rail and through the customs. Upon taking up this matter with the Customs authorities, the Courier was informed that the probability was in this case that the goods imported were in valid possession of a citizen of the United States before the war broke out. In that case, there would be no objection to the goods being imported. The Customs authorities always looked very carefully into such imports, and unless satisfied such was the case, would refuse to clear them. So the probability is that the purchase money for these goods goes to an American firm which owned them outright, and had them in its possession before August, 1914. Chicago announces that it can accommodate 5,000 at its bathing beaches this summer. Senator Hastings exposed a plot to poison the minds of Congress by deluge of form telegrams. President Wilson is expected to withdraw the nomination of C. R. Wagner for postmaster of New York. To take care of an old horse for the rest of his life, a $14-a-week Hoboken barber is left $62,000 by his aunt. The City Commissioners of Pasaic, N. J., have passed an ordinance prohibiting the serving of free lunch in a saloon. Dr. J. William White, famous surgeon, teacher and writer, died in Philadelphia.

HELD SERVICE ON O. S. B. GROUNDS

Brant Battalion Yesterday Morning Held Outdoor Worship.

The first open air divine service of the season was held yesterday morning, when the 125th Battalion paraded to the School for the Blind, where a drum head service was held on the cricket field, through the permission of Principal Gardiner. With a fine day and a large attendance, everything favored the service, which was thoroughly appreciated by all. Rev. Capt. Lovell spoke on the text found in Romans 1, 16, defining religion as it really is, an element which shapes a man's character, a power inside him which remodels and gives him strength to do right. A large attendance of civilians was also on hand at the grounds, while crowds lined the streets along which the battalion marched. Excellent music was furnished by the battalion band.

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL MET THIS MORNING

Communications occupied the whole of this morning's session of the township council, those received being as follows: From the Provincial Treasurer's department, acknowledging receipt of $3 for the Red Cross Society, and asking whether this is for the Canadian or British Red Cross; from George Satton, asking for redress against the flooding of his property at 16 Dryden street; from City Engineer Jones, asking whether the township would meet the board of works of the city council and discuss matters with them; from the Toronto Hospital for the Incurable, acknowledging receipt of $40; from Mr. J. H. Fisher, concerning the Municipal Railway Bill; from the Ontario Forest Department, stating that the trees asked for by the council were being sent; from Mr. M. N. Todd, of the L. E. and N. concerning washouts at Brittain and Dutton bridges; from the Dominion Power and Transmission Company, fixing a price of $7,000 on the line desired by the township; from the Pedlar Co., Ltd., of Oshawa, stating that the council's order had been shipped; from Mr. C. S. Shure, calling attention to the condition of Lock's road; from Mrs. Haymer, Echo Place, concerning the creation of an outlet on the crossing of the Locks and the road; from Mrs. Isaac Kinross and Mrs. Daniel Glasspole, making application for a cinder path in front of their houses, and from the Bellview Improvement Association, giving a report of their meeting of Jan. 26. These communications are being disposed of this afternoon.

THE TWO ORPHANS.

Adapted and Produced by Herbert Brenon. Henrietta (Theda Bara) and Louise (Jean Sothorn) are the two orphans. Henrietta is vividly beautiful, and Louise, while equally fair to look upon, blind. On the death of their parents in a French province, they were sent to Paris, where an uncle has promised to provide for them. On their arrival in the capital, Henrietta, who has attracted the eye of the rascally Marquis De Presles, is abducted by his orders. Louise falls into the hands of Mother Frochard, a professional beggar. Mother Frochard has two sons, Jacques, a swaggering, handsome dandy, too proud to work, and Pierre, a hunchback, who earns an honest living as a knife grinder. In the squalid cellar that the Frochards call home Louise is terrified by the unwelcome attentions paid to her by Jacques. Pierre, on the other hand, does all in his power to protect the blind girl. Meanwhile Henrietta has been taken to the Marquis' chateau. Frightened by her experiences and half mad with apprehension, she appeals to the assembled guests, one of whom, Chevalier De Fautrey, rescues her after a duel with De Presles. Won by Henrietta's appealing beauty, the Chevalier wishes to marry her. His father indignantly refuses his consent and causes the girl to be sentenced to prison and exile. How she escapes this fate and with her blind sister finds the way to peace and happiness, makes a story of compelling charm and thrilling interest. "The Two Orphans" well deserves the term "photoplay supreme." Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

AT THE APOLLO.

The Apollo Theatre, Colborne St., has recently changed hands, Mrs. Chilton having disposed of her interests to Mr. A. J. Bloor, from Ingersoll. Mr. Bloor is arranging for an entirely new picture service, and promises some interesting features each week. Commencing Monday, May 1st, with a strong five-act drama entitled "Fatherhood," he is arranging for new features that are sure to be popular. Wednesday and Thursday, the ever-popular Diamond from the Sky serial will be shown, and on Friday and Saturday next week, Mr. Bloor is arranging for particularly good films.

Confesses to Murder.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Vancouver, B. C., May 1.—Mary Cole confessed last night she killed Rosie Wilson, aged 35, with an axe. Both women are Indians, and quarrelled over a trivial matter.

Threatened Trouble.

By Special Wire to the Courier. St. Catharines, Ont., May 1.—Fearing trouble from the striking Italians on the canal at Thorold, Mayor Battle of Thorold asked for troops this morning, and a company of the 176th was despatched to the scene.

REBELS

Germany was in the whole thing, it was not so much sympathy for Germany as hatred of Home Rule and of us which were at the bottom of the movement. It was even an attempt to hit us than to hit England.

The whole disgraceful plot is viewed with execration by the Irish people. It was almost entirely a Dublin movement, particularly the Sinn Fein cranks and German agents there, partly of the remnants of that mass of discontent and angry, which was left by the disastrous sinking of the Titanic in a few small towns there were attempts at disturbance which were easily suppressed, but Ireland as a whole has remained perfectly tranquil.

As to the opinion of the Irish race I have received communications from all parts of the world declaring vehement condemnation by Irishmen of this insane and wicked attempt to destroy Ireland's hopes, just at the moment when after centuries of vain struggle they were about to be fully realized. I beg our people in America not to be unduly disturbed by this "tut-tut" and miserable attempt to destroy Ireland. It has failed, definitely, finally failed.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

New York, May 1.—Several thousand men and women of Irish birth or sympathies, who attended mass meetings here last night under the auspices of the United Irish societies, passed resolutions of sympathy for the Dublin revolutionists and thanked Germany for extending to Ireland as they do to the present situation, will permit the same kind of aid as was rendered the infant American republic by France.

The hope was expressed that Germany's assistance would become an enticement to the audience, while "be recognized as a belligerent and an ally of the central powers, her civil and military rights asserted and a place secured for her in the congress of nations which will settle the terms of peace."

Mention of the names of John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists and Sir Edward Carson brought forth many hisses from the audience, while reference to Sir Roger Casement caused cheering that lasted for more than half an hour.

SCENE OF DESTRUCTION.

Dublin, May 1.—A correspondent of the Associated Press visited the entire area of the disturbance to-day. The desolation and destruction showed how severe was the fighting while it lasted. Any effort to describe the ruined center of the disturbance can give only a general idea of the havoc which, however, looks more extensive than it actually is, owing to the amount of debris.

Passing down from headquarters near the entrance to Phoenix Park on North Circular road to the Four Courts district, one found that every window of the law courts had been shattered. The rebels had held the building in force for a week. Valuable law reference books and furniture were utilized to barricade windows, and through the interstices between the bulky volumes and sniped without cessation, day and night, and were fired on in turn until they were compelled to evacuate the premises.

Houses all round were dented with bullet marks. Some of the streets were barricaded with thick oaken planks which were marked with bullet holes. Over Wine Tavern bridge there were similar scenes.

Down Cork hill and King Edward streets strong guards of troops were still in evidence and every passerby is challenged.

The city hall had been occupied for several days by the rebels, and even still evidence of their shooting at intervals. As the correspondent approached the Castle a party of more than 100 captured members of the Sinn Fein, marched by under escort towards the Richmond jail, where more than 700 are now held. Many of the men were in green uniforms. One wore the uniform of the Irish volunteers and others were in civilian clothes.

Numbers of them were wounded and suffering, but most of them held up their heads defiantly. The soldiers escorting them were men who had fought through the uprising and were even more bitter against their rebellious fellow countrymen than the troops brought over from England. This feeling seems to be shared by most of the population of Dublin.

St. Stephen's Green, where the rebels entrenched themselves as soon as the movement was begun on Monday, was almost deserted. Around Trinity College and the old Irish parliament quiet reigned. The officers' training corps, quartered in the college, had done much to suppress the uprising. Great damage was done in Sackville street and adjacent thoroughfares, such as Middle Abbey, Abbey Mary, and Henry street. Only a few girders and window frames of some houses remain. Along the east side of Sackville St., from Henry street to O'Connell bridge, the buildings were battered beyond recognition. The post office is merely a smouldering fragment of work. The stone Young Men's Christian Association building on the same side of the way, was perforated by eight shells, the other side of the street and the Blind Institution by two. Bodies of slain rebels were being carried away in groups by soldiers, many of them having been shot several times. The carcasses of two horses lay in the centre of the street. When the authorities gave orders that the people were to be allowed to enter the streets to-day, some of the poor began looting. This was stopped other in His day. But the test of Christian love is not the challenge to the gospel of christian brotherhood was never more pronounced than to-day. There was the international tragedy across the sea. The church was divided and prejudiced. There was war in the industrial world.

What was the cure of the war between capital and labor, asked Mr. Brown. The gospel of brotherhood practised by employer and employee alike. The church must stop emphasizing the saving of the soul to the exclusion of such teachings. Men should be fitted for this life, not so much for heaven.

Mr. Brown then discussed the method by which Christian brotherhood hopes to conquer. Its motive was love, its standard of greatness, service. Jesus set over as this motive, love, against power and self interest. Germany to-day was the incarnation of the gospel of materialism. Its motive was power, its first concern, self interest. No matter what happened to other nations, Germany would not turn aside. Christ set His face against such teachings. He lived out the idea of love. He taught it to His disciples until it became a part of them.

Christ made service the standard of greatness. Apply that principle to modern society and what changes it would make in the world, declared the speaker.

But you say this is a dream, the dream of a preacher, concluded the pastor. It was the dream of his master, Jesus Christ. This dream would be a glorious reality when the truth of His balance and avert serious trouble, our soldier tried to turn in the garage, not noticing a car which was ready to come out. In the mix-up, the Private's car was badly damaged, while the sole occupant of the other car was thrown out and somewhat badly shaken up. No great damage was done the garage car.

Music and Drama

"OMAR THE TENTMAKER." Most of the action takes place in semi-obscure, with the waning rays of the setting sun or the pale magic of moonshine to cast an unreal glamour upon it. Over all is the mysticism of the immortal East, and the romance of the hot passions, the bitter bigotry and the calm philosophy of that Persia which we know principally as the time of Omar Khayyam, maker of quatrains, wise man and winebibber. Using for a basis the slender stock of facts that have come down to us about this Persian scientist and skeptic, Mr. Tully has built with amazing wizardry a play with numerous elements of interest—romance with dramatic tension for the ordinary playgoer; poetic philosophy of the characteristic Khayyam sort, woven into the play's fabric; pictures of a forgotten period that lift the veil of time; contact with the Europe of the Crusades through the introduction of the Christian slave; mysticism reminiscent of "Peter Gynn" in the showing of Omar as a disembodied spirit, and again in a visualization of his favorite metaphor of the Great Potter. These and other elements have been bound into a play that, despite its diffuse effects, holds one absorbed and wondering till the very end. Guy Bates Post, romantic actor of distinction, is still the star, and still differentiates with graphic art the two Omars of the play—the ardent young scapegrace of brilliant promise, and the middleaged philosopher who loves his wine, his wisdom, his memories and his foster children. In the moonlight of the epilogue, we see too the octogenarian Omar and his life-long love, Mr. Post's impersonation compels ungrudging admiration for its pictorial quality, if not for its clearness. The quatrains fall musically from his lips, but there are times when he permits the oriental allusions with which the lines are packed to come forth rather obscurely. Thus it is not always easy to understand him.

Mrs. Harry Sanders and family left this morning for Norwich, where they will in future reside. Mr. Sanders having opened up a law office there some weeks ago.

Miss Birdie Evans left to-day on an extended trip to Edmonton and other points of interest. Mrs. Sanders and family left this morning for Norwich, where they will in future reside. Mr. Sanders having opened up a law office there some weeks ago.

Louise Graissler illuminates the opposite part with her expressive diction and interesting personality. She duplicates his feat of growing old in one evening. Mabel Emerson is pretty and girlish as Omar's daughter, while John Gribner well conveys intense feeling and undying loyalty as the Bedouin foster son. William K. Randall paints the crafty and cruel governor in vivid colors, while Gerald Pring as the beneficent vizier is his antithesis. Milano Tilden does a picturesque bit as the Christian slave, and the numerous small parts are for the most part well bestowed. "Omar the Tentmaker," comes to the Grand on the 19th of May.

Both again worship the same girl—daughter of the old sweetheart of both—one with a father's deep affection, the other because she is her mother's counterpart. The district attorney bitterly attacks the railroad in the courts. His former chum threatens to expose him as a murderer. And now—imagine the girl on a train approaching a bridge which cannot possibly stand its weight. Both men know this. Both are rushing madly by automobile and motor boat to intercept it. You see all this. See the girl's sweet face at the window of the flying train—feel the swaying of the automobile as it skids desperately around sharp turns—and the bounding of the motor boat slashing through rough waters. Both men and the train come crashing into the picture at the same instant—too late!

For a moment that seems an eternity, you feel yourself sitting almost under the tottering trestle as the enormous engine—a mass of whirling steel—leaps thundering and quivering into the empty air and falls shrieking to the swirling river. The big coaches crumple like cardboard before your eyes and pile themselves up on the wreck—their passengers floundering and struggling in the debris. Again you see the girl— Again her father— Again—THE MAN—The car of Juggernaut rolls on. But who are the victims? Come and see this tremendous spectacle. That it was Vitaphone by Ralph W. REV. MR. HILLIS AT PARK BAPTIST

Former Brant County Man Preached Fine Sermon.

Yesterday at Park Baptist Church, Rev. T. E. Richards, pastor of Riverside Baptist, preached in the morning a good practical sermon adapted to the times and conditions of the present, from Jeremiah, 18: 7-10. The rev. gentleman took the ground that all nations had sinned to be repented of, and as with the nations so it was with the individual, and the only remedy was the sincere repentance and a turning back to God.

In the evening, Rev. C. E. Hillis, of Rahoka, Miss., preached a stirring sermon. Mr. Hillis is an old Brant County boy, being born in the county over 40 years ago, and has lived in the United States for a number of years. Since his graduation from the University and his ordination into the ministry, he has held several very important pastorates, and is now engaged in the work of an evangelist, in which he has been very successful. His sermon last evening was a very strong defence of the Bible—the old bible and the whole bible from Genesis to Revelation. He stood firmly by its truths and doctrines, and declared that the evil of this age was found in the neglect of the Bible and its teachings. Taking his text from Ps. 19: 7, and Matt. 24: 35, he gave a very earnest and thoughtful sermon.

The members of the church and congregation are hoping to have Pastor Wrighton soon again with them, and are glad to know that he is recovering rapidly from his illness.

The congregation feel deeply grateful to Mr. Goodwin of the Y. M. C. A., who took the service a week ago last Sunday morning, and to Mr. Geo. Kippax who took it in the evening. Both gave most excellent discourses.

That a mother may chastise her thirteen-year-old daughter for telling lies, even with a cane, two of three judges in the Special Sessions in New York decided.

John Barotti, of Yonkers, N. Y., a candidate for naturalization, told Justice Platt that the United States was ruled by "King Wilson." Later he corrected his answer and was made a citizen.

Leafs Lose Three to Newark Indians

Newark, N. J., May 1.—Three out of three was all Toronto dropped in the opening series of the International League campaign which ended yesterday, the final game being tucked away by Tenney's gang 6 to 3. Manager Birmingham read the riot act to his misbehaving baseball help before the game. Also, he raked over his infield shifting Elacburne to third base and detailing Martin to the shortstop post. All his proved of no avail. The Leafs outbatted the locals, if that is any cause for satisfaction, but the game went the way of the two preceding contests.

FORMER BRANTFORD PASTOR SPOKE AT RECRUITING MEETING LAST NIGHT

Capt. T. W. Patterson, Now of Toronto, Delivered Fine Address.

EMPHASIZED NEED FOR MORE MEN

Tribute and Thanks Paid by Audience to the Band of the 84th.

"There is no spot outside the British dominions to-day where recruiting meetings are held; though we search the world over, there is no institution more characteristic of our Anglo-Saxon empire than these same recruiting meetings, which are at once our pride and glory, yet a danger to our cause. It is the most laughable institution in the world from the Teutonic point of view."

Such was but one of many eloquent and forceful points, scored at last night's recruiting meeting by Capt. J. R. Patterson of Toronto, who delivered an address well worthy of ranking with any yet heard in Brantford, where no small number of eloquent speakers have been heard in the past few months. Capt. Patterson some few years ago was pastor of Wellington St. Church here.

Besides Capt. Patterson, the chief speaker of the evening, an inspiring address in characteristic style was delivered by Rev. David Alexander of Immanuel Baptist church, who occupied the chair.

Music by the band and the usual programme of moving pictures, comprising one of the ever popular Strand War Series and a stirring film drama, "The Victoria Cross," served to open the evening, and by the time the curtain rose and the speaker, a number of prominent men of the city took their seats upon the platform, the theatre was practically filled with a large number of both sexes. Seated upon the stage were: Capt. Patterson, Chairman Rev. David Alexander, Lt.-Col. Cutcliffe, Rev. Capt. A. E. Lavell, Mr. J. J. Hurley, Capt. E. H. Corey, Mr. W. G. Oxtoby, Lt. G. A. Duncan, Lt. G. E. Sweet.

MR. ALEXANDER. Following a number of excellent selections by the band of the 84th Battalion came the chairman's address by Rev. Mr. Alexander, who in a stirring speech emphasized the rejuvenation and reorganization of humanity which must follow the war. The British Empire was passing through a time of tribulation; in the providences of God, we had been cast into the melting pot, and it was for us to determine how we would come out. The letter class of men and women, needed could not be produced through wealth, culture, socialism or militarism. Our faith in many things we had previously believed, trustworthy had been shaken by the war; the moral foundations of Europe had been broken down. There must be, the speaker pointed out, a reconstruction, a rejuvenation of mankind; the question which we now faced, was what type of humanity would be produced. Only as men feared God and sought to do His will, could a nation prosper, only by righteousness could a nation be exalted. If the present war did not arouse in us a realization of the need for the creation of a better type of humanity, then, indeed, it was a gigantic failure and a colossal misfortune. Great possibilities of sacrifice had been opened up by the war, Rev. Mr. Alexander went on to point out the splendid sacrifices the colleges and universities of Canada, were making in giving the flower of their manhood; all classes, rich and poor, had done well, declared the speaker, yet the need remained for them to do better yet. The expression of universal sacrifice. "And I firmly believe" declared Mr. Alexander, "that through tears of blood our cause will eventually triumph."

A vocal solo was rendered at this juncture by Miss Marjorie Sweet, who sang, "Here We Are Again," in a most acceptable manner, receiving much applause.

Rev. Capt. Patterson was then called upon for his address.

REV. CAPT. PATTERSON. It was only very recently the speaker consented to speak at recruiting meetings; not, in fact, until all eligible members of his family had donned the khaki. Now, however it was a pleasure to speak once more in Brantford, touching upon the peculiar Britishness of recruiting meetings, the speaker went on to tell of the thorough and deliberate way in which Germany had prepared, and organized for the present war. The enemy had accomplished a great deal at the outset of the war, Capt. Patterson admitted, yet he expressed surprise that with their system of organization, they had not achieved more. He told of the manner in which Austrians and Germans had striven to speak with those of the British Empire, and how the call was answered to a man; how money was hoarded in the banks; how women took the places of men in all branches of work. "Nowhere under the sun, save in the British Empire," declared the speaker "is there a nation, a people which makes war as we. This has been our right and our glory, yet it is at the same time our danger; it has been in the past and it is still." For over 100 years we had not gone right to the heart of the British Empire; we had had the fruits of war without its labors. Now all that was changed. The text "Business as Usual" said Capt. Patterson, "would refuse to be must disabuse our minds of the notion that we could wage war against one of the world's strongest nations and at the same time carry on business as usual. This slogan, which perhaps helped us for a time, we must now banish forever, or for the duration of the war. England was not conducting war to-day as she had in the past, declared the speaker; a great change had come over her. Women and girls were everywhere replacing men in work at home. To that point which England had reached a year ago, the demand upon Canada for 500,000 men was bringing us to-day; if business be carried on as usual, that half million would never be obtained. Conscription might be avoided in three ways. We might give up the fight, and allow Germany to overrun the world; we might lean back and allow Australia, and England, allow the rest of the Empire, to do our fighting for us. "Or we may grid up our own loins," exclaimed the speaker, "and prepare the most strenuous actions in our manner of living, and by raising a sufficient volunteer army, obviate the need of conscription in a trice."

APPEAL TO PARENTS. To the parents and others who were responsible for holding back eligible men, the speaker made a forceful appeal to refrain from this. "The light that never was on land or sea," he declared, "was the light which glowed in the eye of a mother whose son donned the khaki."

"The young people's church unions have gone down recently," Capt. Patterson admitted "expressing thankfulness for the past." But the status of the young man has gone up. War will make men and break men, and not the least of the risks taken is the moral risk. But by God's grace, no one need go down." Had we realized in the beginning what we now realize, we might have been avoided. Conscription might not become necessary, yet the men who had saved the day for Britain, for Europe, were conscripts in the British army had helped, but the conscripts of Belgium and of France, had borne the brunt of the earliest fighting.

Capt. Patterson brought his address to a close by quoting words used recently by Mr. Justice Riddell of Toronto. "Lay your excuse before God; if it is right, then all is well; if it is not right, hasten to make it so by enlisting at once."

Upon the request of the chairman, Mr. J. H. Spence, on behalf of the Brant Recruiting League, tendered a vote of thanks to the band of the 84th battalion upon this, possibly its last appearance in the city. He paid tribute to the excellent music supplied by it upon all occasions, and to the excellent conduct of the battalion as a whole, a battalion of which the city was just as proud, as of the 125th and the 215th. Mr. Spence then called upon the audience to respond by applauding, which was done right royally. The singing of the National Anthem then served to bring the meeting to a close.

Bauseusing a pen picture of the popular military leader. "Hindenburg's entire figure," he writes, "from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet, measures a trifle over six feet. He holds himself with soldierly erectness, but his head is usually bent forward, a habit which one always notices in big men accustomed to speak with those of lesser stature. He gives you the impression of a knight in armor. His deep voice, and his remarks, often whimsical, but never injurious or ironical, are full of kindness and friendliness. "If you look at Hindenburg closely, you will notice a furrow over the nose drawn between the swellings of the brow. This furrow has been gravely by the gigantic responsibilities of the present war. You get the impression of strain and even suffering, an impression somehow heightened by the yellow color of the skin. "The Field Marshal is lean. Photographs had led me to expect a fat man. But he is actually thin, and this thinness increases the impression of energy in the face and is certainly preferable from the artist's point of view."

CANADIAN EYE-WITNESS TELLS OF BRAVERY OF A BRIGADE OF MEN FIGHTING AT ST. ELOI

Nova Scotia Battalion Especially Chosen Out—Many Instances of Gallantry by Soldiers—Were Under Heavy Fire.

CLERGYMAN LEAD DEFENDERS

Ottawa May 1.—The heroic defence of the St. Eloi positions by one of the Canadian infantry brigades is recorded in the weekly communiqué of the Canadian general representative at the front. The splendid part played by a Nova Scotia battalion, and many individual instances of gallant and conspicuous service are given in the despatch, which follows:

Canadian General Headquarters in France, via London, April 30.—During the week the main efforts of the enemy on the Canadian front were once again centred on our St. Eloi positions. For seven days one of our brigades held this section. It was an eventful experience for the men concerned. On the second night four separate bombing attacks were made by the Germans on advanced posts of a Nova Scotia battalion. In each instance the enemy was repulsed by detachments under Lieuts. W. A. Cameron and L. S. Johnston.

On the same night another of our posts, under command of Lt. G. C. Farrish, was heavily bombarded with grenades. After daylight a German bombing party advanced against this position under cover of intense artillery fire. When well clear of its trenches it was greeted with rapid machine gun and rifle and returned hurriedly, leaving a number of dead or wounded on the field.

BOMB ATTACKS BEATEN OFF.

On the next three nights further bombing attacks were delivered by the enemy and beaten off. A party of Germans succeeded in getting into one of the disused trenches on the front of a New Brunswick battalion. A patrol consisting of Lieut. Mowatt and Ptes. Ramsay, Kennedy and Chatterton stumbled on the enemy. Private Bamsey, who was leading as guide, was suddenly hit on the head and fell. Almost at the same instant the explosion of a bomb wounded Lieut. Mowatt in the feet, while another bomb hit Private Kennedy in the chest, but fortunately failed to explode. Private Chatterton, who alone of the patrol was unscathed, returned to our lines for help. Sergt. Henderson started out at once with reinforcements, when the enemy retired and our wounded were brought in.

Throughout its turn of duty in the front trenches this brigade was repeatedly subjected to heavy bombardments, both by day and night. In spite of fierce retaliation by our artillery the German guns flung thousands of shells against the narrow frontage opposite St. Eloi, still further churning the soaking earth and adding to the difficulties of movement.

Our military observers estimated that at one time German shells fell at the rate of twenty-five rounds per minute. At night a succession of enemy flares dispersed the darkness and hostile machine guns and rifles swept the ground between the trenches. Nevertheless, neither nature nor the enemy fire could curb the enterprise of our men. Trenches were dug, parapets raised, patrols sent out and many useful reconnaissances made. Two nights in succession Major J. A. Ross of the Victoria Rifles, left our trenches to reconnoitre the enemy's positions. On the first occasion he was accompanied by Lieut. C. G. Greenfields and on the second by Lieut. Victor Ducloux, officers of his battalion. Lieut. Greenfields at the outbreak of war enlisted in the French Foreign Legion, having secured a transfer to this battalion. He was wounded last Autumn, but rejoined his unit on April 1st.

On another night an excellent reconnaissance was carried out by Lieut. Ducloux, accompanied by Lieut. Ross Robertson, Lieut. Charles Duphin took out patrols on three successive nights, securing useful information as to the enemy's dispositions. Separate reconnaissances by parties under Captain Stairs and Lieutenants Smith and McNeil, of a Nova Scotia battalion, yielded good results. Lance-Corporal W. Hobbay went out in front of our trenches while a hostile attack was in progress in order to observe and report on the movements of the enemy. Lieutenant S. A. Vernon, intelligence officer of the Canadian corps, and Lieut. A. L. Walker, of the brigade staff, made a close inspection of the enemy's forward positions.

SERG T. NAYLOR'S HEROISM

In the fighting at St. Eloi many brave deeds were performed by officers and men of this brigade. Three weeks ago when the Germans launched their overwhelming attack against the craters, Sergeant H. S. Naylor, a Toronto man who enlisted in a machine gun crew in a detached post when the enemy advanced. The trench had been practically obliterated by the enemy's bombardment and the gun jammed with mud. Heavy fire from three sides was soon directed on the small party, but the sergeant saw a point where it could be cleaned and again put into action. From this position fire was once more directed on the enemy, checking his advance, but finally the gun became so badly clogged that it could not be righted. A new gun was then secured and managed by the remnants of the detachment under Sergt. Naylor. On the following day this gun was also put out of action, being repeatedly struck by shell fragments and choked with mud splashed on to it by exploding shells. While it was being cleaned and repaired the emplacement was converted into a temporary dressing station for the wounded. Later the gun was fired with good effect from an improvised shelter, but this position was also struck by a shell and the gun buried. Once again Sergt. Naylor succeeded in repairing the weapon. Through four days and nights of strenuous exertions Sergt. Naylor remained in the front lines working or repairing his gun. When eventually he left to rejoin his unit he had with him only two of his original detachment. Private Arundell and Lance-Corporal Rose and both these men were so exhausted that they required medical treatment.

In more recent fighting Captain H. D. Kingston, of a Montreal battalion, although wounded in the head, refused to leave his post, and remained on duty with his unit. In the same battalion, Lance-Corporal H. E. Gillespie several times carried messages to advanced points, and Lance-Corporal Hobbay established communication with one of our listening posts under violent fire. Privates J. E. Gillard and E. J. White, stretcher-bearer, tended to the injured with the greatest indifference to personal danger. Private Gillard was mortally wounded while so employed.

BRAVERY OF CLERGYMAN.

Lieut. E. J. Brooks, of a Nova Scotia battalion, a clergyman before the war, held a crater with a small party for 48 hours and repulsed two German attacks. At the end of his turn of duty he went back over a zone swept by the enemy's fire and assisted in the rescue of wounded men.

In the same regiment, Lieut. P. V. Holder, a student from Lunenburg, N.S., the youngest subaltern in his battalion, went out beyond the parapet of a detached post and shot two Germans. Later, under heavy fire, he succeeded in securing articles of identification from their bodies. Private L. G. Blenkhorn, another student from Canning, N.S., volunteered to carry messages between exposed positions. In one instance he traveled over half a mile under intense fire, the trip taking two hours to perform. Private J. T. Thompson of Granby, Que., was badly wounded while carrying a despatch. Realizing that he could not reach his destination, he scored to take cover, but turned back in face of the enemy's fire and contrived to reach his starting point where he reported to his officer. Sergeant Thompson returned wounded. Private A. F. Angovino, Middleboro, N.S., immediately volunteered to attempt the journey, and came through the hostile fusillade unhurt.

For three nights in succession Captain H. Meredith was out five hours at a stretch under violent fire, placing wire entanglements.

Subsequently to the relief of the brigade the enemy attacked our line in several places. Simultaneously assaults were also delivered on British positions with varying results. On our front the attacks were preceded by intense bombardments. Opposite one of our craters the enemy advanced post manned with two of our garrison of one of our Montreal battalions. Through shell fire or bombs the majority of the garrison soon became casualties, and the Germans were able to enter and seize the post. The alarm was given and aided by information brought in by two wounded men of the garrison, a counter-attack was quickly organized. The advanced post was reoccupied by our men. The body of a German officer remained in our hands.

At another point one of our posts was driven in by a bombing attack. A counter-attack dislodged the enemy and forced him back.

BURIED IN CLAMMY MUD

Exceptionally heavy artillery fire was directed on two old craters occupied by our garrisons. One of our Vancouver battalions. So intense and prolonged was the bombardment that many of the garrison were killed and the craters were completely destroyed. Men and rifles were buried, dug out and buried again in the clammy mud. Soon there was no cover even for the wounded. When the bombardment ceased a strong party of Germans advanced. Waist deep in mud, the few survivors of our garrisons could offer little resistance. Hardly one of their rifles could be got to fire; their machine guns, with the exception of one, were buried and even that gun was useless. The nearest crater to the enemy was on the right, with its garrison commanded by Lieut. Biggs. When resistance was given to be hopeless the few unwounded were ordered to make for the crater on the left. The Germans turned a machine gun on those who made the attempt and the resistance was soon broken. Lieut. Biggs and one of two others who were unable to escape in time from the crater were quickly overpowered by the enemy. In the left-hand crater the foreign policy is displeasing to this or that European belligerent, then the United States is no longer a Nation. If a presidential election can be decided by voters whose hearts and sympathies are all divided, how can we expect to win on the other side of the Atlantic? It makes relatively little difference which European tribe governs the territory that calls itself the United States of America.

This country once fought a great Civil War to determine whether the Union should be divided or remain undivided. Yet, fifty years after the close of that war we have developed a new form of secession more infamous than the old secession. The old secession at least clung to the soil. It was pro-South, not pro-German or pro-French or pro-Austrian. It fought under its own flag. That flag was its flag, not a foreign flag.

The professional Germans in the United States have shaped an issue for the American people cannot evade. Every vote cast against Woodrow Wilson in the November election will be a vote for Germany no matter who casts the vote or for what candidate it is cast.

What the German propagandist is seeking is not so much an immediate victory for itself as a defeat for the President. If it can beat Woodrow Wilson by supporting Theodore Roosevelt or Charles T. Hughes, or Elihu Root or anybody else, it will be satisfied, for it will have served its warning to every President to come that a similar fate awaits him if he defies German authority.

ONLY FIVE LEFT, TWO WOUNDED

Only five were now left able to walk, and two of these were wounded. Seeing that further resistance was impossible, the men decided to retreat. Following his men, he crawled away from the crater, pursued by the shrapnel and machine gun fire of the enemy. Two more of the men were soon hit, but the party, finding cover in the remains of a disused trench, stayed there until darkness enabled them to regain our trenches. Only one man was unscathed.

During the bombardment, through the attack and subsequent retreat, Sergt. H. Bostel had rendered gallant service to his officer. A counter-attack was prepared, but owing to the darkness of the night and the difficulty of movement, it was not launched. Instead, Major Tait took out a patrol of two officers and a few men in the direction of the craters. Somewhat unexpectedly these were reached and found to be unoccupied. The Germans had evidently deemed them untenable, for the crater lips had been flattened out by the bombardment and the interiors presented nothing but a mass of slimy mud, in which there floated the bodies of many dead. At the approach of dawn Major Tait withdrew his patrol to a point where it could be seen from a distance and remained out there all day watching for developments on the part of the enemy. At nightfall Lieut. Tait again went up to the craters with a patrol and searched the ground for wounded. None were found. A hospital patrol of five was sent, but on observing our men retreated hurriedly to its trenches.

Pro-German Vote in U.S. Out Against Wilson

From the New York World.

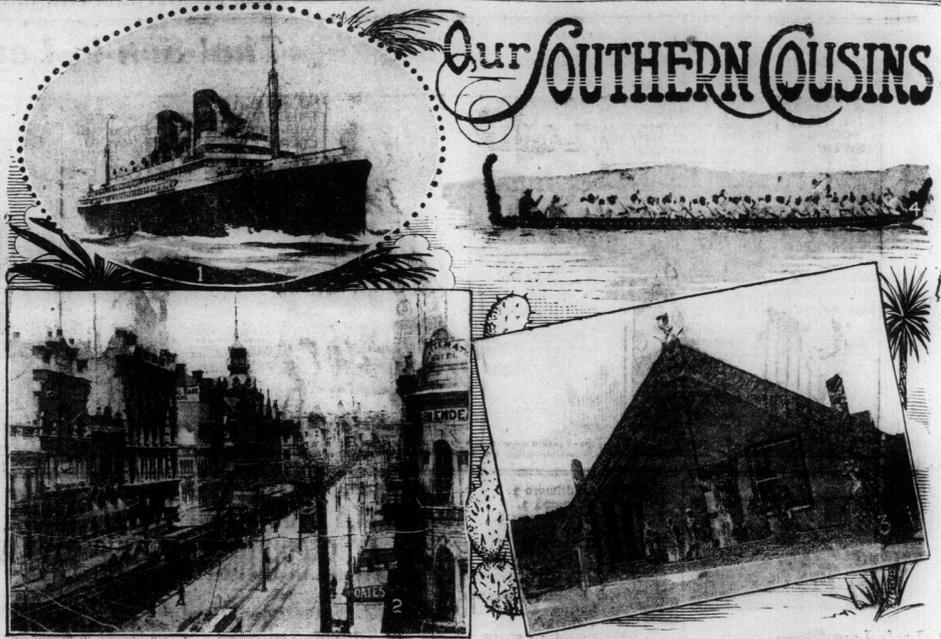

Is the United States a nation? Or is it only a congeries of European tribesmen?

That is the only issue in the Presidential campaign. All other questions are of minor importance, whether they relate to prosperity or poverty, preparedness or unpreparedness, war or peace.

If a President of the United States can be defeated for re-election because his foreign policy is displeasing to this or that European belligerent, then the United States is no longer a Nation. If a presidential election can be decided by voters whose hearts and sympathies are all divided, how can we expect to win on the other side of the Atlantic? It makes relatively little difference which European tribe governs the territory that calls itself the United States of America.

BEING 1,200 miles from Australia—her nearest relative—New Zealand is probably the most isolated civilized region in the world, and for the reason that most of those who live there are of the same race as ourselves. New Zealand is made up of a group of islands, comprising in all about 14,751 square miles. The coast lines are very flat generally, and the total circumference of the three main islands is 4,330 miles. The interior of New Zealand is interspersed with hills, valleys and plains, all of remarkable beauty. It has been said that both the scenery and climate of those fair lands resemble those of Italy and Sicily. There is always ample rain, but never superabundance of it; azure is the favorite color worn by the sky, and the islands are like emerald and golden gems set in the silver form of the Pacific.

New Zealand is a productive country; the finest sheep and cattle are reared on the rich pastures, and oats, barley and maize are grown in abundance. Along the hillside there are rich forests, and tracts of elevated ground that are too rocky to produce vegetation that is of commercial value never fall to grow plants that are plentiful to the sight of man; no less than 140 species of wild fern are to be found in New Zealand, and many of these are 40 feet in height. There are volcanoes on some of the mountains, and down the sides of others noisy rivers take their rapid courses. Parrots chatter merrily on the tree tops, and pigeons coo in the recesses of the woods. These are practically the only native birds. Native animals are also few, but European birds and animals, and even fish, have been introduced with success. Gold, coal, copper and sulphur are the chief of the New Zealand minerals. Gold was first discovered in 1852, and since that time something like $30,000,000 worth was found. Auckland is the principal gold-mining area. The Canadian Australasian Line has a regular service of fine passenger steamers between Auckland, New Zealand, and Vancouver.

At present the population of New Zealand is something like 1,000,000 people, and nearly all are of British extraction. Still there are 45,000 colored folk. The early inhabitants of the country were the Maori tribes; they came there in their war canoes in the fourteenth century. In 1642 the islands were discovered by Abel Jansz, a Dutch sailor, and Captain Cook visited the place in 1770. It appears that when the famous captain returned to England he gave the English people a wrong impression of the place; he reported that the islands did not seem to be of much value, also that the Maori people would be a formidable race to attempt to conquer. Anyway, for 70 years after Captain Cook's visit the British Government did not think it worth the trouble to annex the present proud possession. It was in 1840 that the Union Jack was first hoisted on the shores. At that time the Maori folks numbered 55,000. The decline in the race since then is due to disease and to war, for both have played a big part in the history of the Maori. Before the British came these people warred amongst themselves, and later they warred against the British. Up to 1870 they knew nothing about pottery or metal, and until that period their battle instruments were their fists, clubs and stones—they were even unaware of the existence of bows and arrows. For themselves this was all the better, for immediately after the introduction of guns and swords amongst them fully one-fourth of them became no more. As time progressed those of the Maori who were left progressed also, and between 1830 and 1840 many of them became Christian. Now the Maori children go to school side by side with children of our Southern cousins. Maori representatives take their part in the government of their country. Some of the Maori people are skilled at wood-crafting and carving; they are an imaginative race, and have delighted in poetry and tales to recite and tell. Their homes are pretty and their home life simple.

New Zealand has many things in common with Canada; she is a new country rapidly developing, she is rich, she is patriotic, she has sent thousands of brave soldiers to fight for the Empire in this great war. In New Zealand there are more men than women, and it is quite likely that after the war she will be a resort for some of the superfluous dials of the Old Country, who, unable to have the opportunity of blessing some man at home, will seek the chance of blessing themselves this was all the better, for one abroad.

GOT NO COMMISSION ON CANADIAN ORDER

Ottawa, May 1.—Col. John Wesley Allison, who has been in attendance at the sittings of the Meredith-Duff Commission since they began last Saturday morning in the witness box before Sir Charles Davidson, the Royal Commissioner appointed to enquire into various Canadian purchases of war supplies. Col. Allison, who was accompanied by his counsel, Geo. F. Henderson, K.C., was called to give further testimony with regard to the purchase of revolvers and automatic pistols from the Colt's Arm Company in 1914. On a previous occasion he had told the commission that he had not profited, by way of commission, from the transaction between the Colt's Company and the Government. Subsequently, Mr. Samuel Stone, of the Colt's Co., testified that that corporation paid sums of money to Allison from time to time.

Col. Allison gave his explanation in the witness box yesterday, under examination by Capt. John Thompson, K.C., counsel for the commission. He said that he had acted as intermediary in the transportation of pistols bought by the government at a time when there was doubt as to whether or not the United States government would regard sales of weapons by an American concern to a belligerent nation as a breach of neutrality.

HAD REFUSED COMMISSION.

He had received the pistols and revolvers at Waddington, N.Y., and them conveyed to Morrisburg, and thence forwarded to the officials of the Canadian Government. He had said that time made it clear that he would accept no commission for his services. Subsequently he had become a sort of broker for the Colt's Company, authorized to negotiate sales of arms to the Governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia. No specific arrangement had been made as to the remuneration he was to receive, but later he had been offered $35,000 or $45,000 by the company. He declined to take the whole of this amount but had accepted in the neighborhood of $12,000. Col. Allison said that he had taken the smaller sum because he had wanted it to be clearly understood that no part of the payment applied to the Canadian purchases. He had arrived at the amount which he would accept by consideration of his expenses on a trip to Europe, in which he was engaged in business, not for the Colt's Company alone, but for other large interests.

Government Urges Economy in Paper, and Itself is Wasteful.

London, May 1.—Newspapers which have been hard hit by the government restriction on the importation of paper and pulp, are calling attention to certain departments of the government where they claim there is enormous waste of paper.

Probably the country needs no reminder of the fact," remarks the Daily Mail, "that in the extravagant use of paper the state is in a very exposed glass house." The paper titan takes up various departments to show that tons of paper are wasted every year in the production of government publications.

"Huge blue books," it adds, "are produced at enormous expense. The Royal Commission on the Treatment of Sewage, which sat for years, furnished blue books which weighed forty pounds, contained 5,293 pages, and cost about nine pounds ($45) a page.

"It is clear that the government has only to set their own house in order to secure a very real saving in the consumption of paper."

How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that those who wear eyeglasses do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Dissolve one Bon-Opto tablet in a glass of water. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results. Thousands who wear glasses who have been told that they have astigmatism, myopia, and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may as well strengthen your eyes at once as to never have required them. If they are cared for, they will last a long time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eye-glasses are only life-crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the eye-increasing weakness of vision will not be better seen if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong magnetic eyesight. The Valmas Eye Co., of Toronto, will fill the above prescription by mail, if your druggist cannot.

Production and Thrift

CANADA'S CALL FOR SERVICE AT HOME

Produce More and Save More The Empire needs food. If you are not in the fighting line you may be in the producing line. Labour is limited—all the more reason to do more than ever before. Grow food for the men who are fighting for you. The Allies need all the food that you can produce. Every little helps. You are responsible for your own work. If you cannot produce as much as you would like, produce all you can. Work with the right spirit. Put fighting energy into your effort and produce now when it counts. The more you produce the more you can save. Producing and saving are war-service.

Make Your Labour Efficient In war-time do not waste time and energy on unimportant and unprofitable work. Economize labour. Put off unproductive work till after the war, and, if possible, help in producing something needed now. Let us not waste labour. Canada needs it all. If possible help to feed the Allies. Make your backyard a productive garden. Cultivate it with a will. Make your labour count for as much as possible.

Do Not Waste Materials There should be no waste in war-time. Canada could pay the annual interest on her war expenditure out of what we waste on our farms or in our factories, in production. The way for a nation to save is for every individual to save. France is strong to-day because of thrift in time of peace. The men and women of Great Britain are not only "doing" but are learning to "do without."

Spend Your Money Wisely Practise economy in the home by eliminating luxuries. Wasting our dollars here weakens our strength at the front. Your savings will help Canada to finance the war. Save your money for the next Dominion War issue. There can be no better investment.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

A feud has existed between Colonel Arthur Stanley and his cousin, Judge Lamar Stanley, ever an heirloom, the diamond from the sky, found in a fallen meteor by an American.

CHAPTER XVII. The Passing of Hagar. We all deal with destiny, wittingly or not. He who has been Arthur Stanley and John Powell, alike wretched and profligate and yet fondly beloved, had mounted the stairway of the wind and ridden upon the wings of the morning, without fear and without hope.

come back to her shed of the hunk of sin and selfishness. And so when he opened his eyes he looked into Esther's, and they both read what their lips could not utter—forgiveness, love and happiness.

"Arthur, my dear son, is here!" Hagar murmured.

Present in the face of death, Hagar also knew that the hunk of evil had fallen from Arthur and that the wings of the morning had wafted clean strength to his soul.

He leaned his head against that loving, tired breast and knew—full, deep and satisfying—that a mother's prayer was indeed a charm against harm, above all diamonds.

After Hagar had been laid to rest the gypsies, led by Arthur, now calling himself by the name of Harding, journeyed on back to fair Virginia to their mountain rendezvous in the Blue Ridge.

ton? Have they not everything their hearts have long desired? They have the wealth of John Powell, for Blair was next of kin when it was proved the supposedly dead John Powell was Arthur Stanley, fugitive. They have the diamond from the sky and the Stanley earldom, for to these things long desired Blair also is heir as next of kin.

Blake waited cautiously to strike, and Abe Bloom had been in too many shady transactions to be in any position to make an open demand on Blair for the diamond, which had been promised him in the bargain for his silence.

So Blair and Vivian journeyed to London and were received, with some ill grace, by Marmaduke Smythe, for a lifetime solicitor and family lawyer to the earls of Stanley.

But Marmaduke Smythe did his duty as he saw it. He had all the credentials, and in due time Blair was inducted into the house of lords. This brief and somewhat hald ceremony was not at all satisfying to the luxury and display loving Vivian.

It was the first bitterness to Vivian, who had imagined an occasion of great splendor. Blair wore an ordinary morning suit under his robes, for it was the custom, Smythe had assured them, and when one is a peer one must do everything according to custom.

Then when Vivian and Blair were to be presented at court, which meant something more satisfying in costume and ceremony, King Edward VII. died and King George V. reigned in his stead. There was the usual period of mourning and no royal drawing room until after the coronation.

"The coronation! That was worth the waiting, for it meant the only occasion a peer and his noble lady may wear their coronets and the more graceful and beautiful coronation robes.

Here, too, the diamond from the sky could be worn, literally, as the adventurer, Sir Arthur Stanley, who found Hagar hand in hand while Arthur pledged his vows again to be whole of heart and body as the dead would wish.

Esther and Arthur at the Portals of Stanley Hall.

it in a meteor three centuries before, had desired, "When a descendant of my body shall be called to the English earldom of the Stanleys!"

So while Vivian and Blair are busy with court tailors and court dressmakers and are feverishly preparing for the glories they are to be part of, and while day by day the suspicion and distrust between them and Marmaduke Smythe grow in intensity, let us return to America and to the gypsy folk.

The gypsies had reached Virginia and the neighborhood of Fairfax. The caravan moved on under the leadership of Quabba.

KUT-EL-AMARA HAS SURRENDERED; STARVED OUT AFTER FIVE MONTHS SIEGE

About 9,000 Troops Were Forced to Haul Down the Flag, Although Turkey Claims Over 13,000-One of the Very Few Times a British Force Has Capitulated-Relief Force Only 20 Miles Away, But It Could Not Break Through.

London, May 1.-After holding out for nearly five months the British army under Major-General Charles V. Townshend, which had been besieged by Turkish armies at Kut-el-Amara, has been compelled to surrender because of the exhaustion of supplies.

In the official announcement of the surrender which was issued yesterday afternoon, it is stated that Major-General Townshend's army consisted of only 2,970 British troops and 6,000 Indian troops.

Before doing so the Mesopotamian campaign the fighting has been heavy and the losses most severe. On April 14 it was admitted that the Tigris army up to that time had lost 8,100 men, and that there had been several important battles between the Turks and the relief expedition.

The surrender of a British army is an event of very rare occurrence. Much sorrow was caused in London by the announcement.

The following official announcement was made: "After a resistance protracted for 143 days and conducted with a gallantry and fortitude that will be forever memorable, General Townshend has been compelled by the final exhaustion of his supplies to surrender."

Up to the last General Townshend kept alive the hope that he would be relieved. King George sent a message of encouragement to him a month ago, and in a message sent on April 7, the general said he expected to be relieved shortly. He assured the British expedition that he would hold out to the limit of endurance, but the recent reverses suffered by the army which was attempting to rescue him apparently made the situation a hopeless one.

The Mesopotamia campaign has been one of the most difficult the British army has undertaken during the war. The torrid climate and lack of water, together with the difficulties of transport made great calls on the endurance of the troops. Moreover the positions held by the Turks below Kut-el-Amara, entrenched and strongly fortified, were formidable. The original expedition was composed in part of Indian troops, but the relief force for the most part was made up of men from England and the colonies.

13,300 SAY TURKS London, May 1.-A Constantinople despatch received by the Berlin, says that the Vice-Chief Commander of the Turkish army announced that the British garrison at Kut-el-Amara under General Townshend had surrendered unconditionally, numbered 13,300 men.

Although the British report puts the size of the surrendered garrison at 8,970 men, it refers to the Indian troops "and their followers." This may account for the additional 4,300 reported from Constantinople and the seeming discrepancy between the British and the Turkish official reports of the surrender.

The capitulation at Kut-el-Amara is the first instance in the present war, and one of the few occasions in more than a century of wars, in which a British garrison besieged by the enemy has been forced to surrender. The British forces surrendered to the Turks in ineffectual attempts had been made to rush supplies of food to their camp.

General Townshend probably was driven to surrender to avoid starvation of his forces. A recent official Turkish communication said that the position of the British at Kut-el-Amara was critical, and that they were expected to receive small supplies of food by aeroplane. An official statement yesterday from London showed that a last effort to send supplies to the garrison had failed. It was announced that a ship laden with supplies had been grounded about four miles east of the city.

RELIEF NEAR. Less than a score of miles away, on the banks of the Tigris below the city, is a relief army, which for months had been attempting to reach the besieged forces of General Townshend.

This force, encountered comparatively little opposition in the early stages of the march up the river, but as it drew nearer Kut-el-Amara it was opposed by formidable bodies of Turks, who were massed on both sides of the Tigris below the invested town. Several striking victories for the relief force were announced, but their last effort to have been countered by the Turks so successfully that the advance has been stopped. The Turks, taking the offensive, pushed back the British and inflicted large losses on them.

A few weeks ago several victories of the British have been reported in England that the mission would succeed. Of late however, the Turks' resistance has increased, and, aided by floods they have been able to take the land in this section is fertile, and with proper cultivation and care should bear a big crop.

The city of Brest-Litovsk itself still remains the next thing to a city of the dead. Five sixths of the houses of its houses are nothing but gaping walls, within which stand only the remains of the remarkable Russian army. Each ruined house has been thoroughly gone over. The debris has been removed or neatly piled up and each object not utterly destroyed by fire and which is still usable in one way or another, has been rescued.

The forts, which the Russians blew up with dynamite, and which were valued at three hundred million francs (approximately $60,000,000) are still heaps of cement and stone, broken and crumbling. There is no activity discernible that would indicate that the Germans are attempting to restore the fortifications for their own purpose.

JOSHUA SANFORD DONS THE KHAKI

Principal in Remarkable Rescue Fourteen Years Ago.

Galt, May 1.-Among the latest recruits added to the strength of the 11th Battalion is Joshua Sanford, the Brantford mill digger, who, in June 1902, was imprisoned in a well on the Skelly farm, three miles east of Paris. This incident, with Sanford being recognized and declared to be one of the most remarkable escapes in history.

Sanford was working in the well when the brick crib work gave way and the earth caved in. Seventy feet down the shaft the brick work formed an arch and provided breathing space for the entombed man, who was able to notify rescuers that he was alive by tapping on a tubing in the shaft. A hundred men worked night and day sinking another well alongside that in which Sanford was imprisoned. After a couple of days' work however, a second cave-in occurred, and it was then thought that Sanford was killed for sure, but a couple of hours later, however, a faint tapping was again heard, and the work of rescue was resumed with greater determination than ever. Finally after Sanford had been a prisoner for 100 hours he was rescued, and was little the worse for his experience, although weak and sore. With careful attention he soon completely recovered. Thousands of people daily flocked to the Skelly farm at the time. Sanford's experience was printed broadcast in magazines and papers and now he is about to get into khaki to "do his bit."

GERMANS IN BREST-LITOVSK Carefully Look Over City, But Do Not Restore Forts. GIVING JEWS A CHANCE Send Them on Farms to See If They Can Raise Food.

Brest-Litovsk, Russia, May 1.-Correspondence of the Associated Press.-For almost the first time in history, the Jews of this district have an opportunity to show whether or not they can become agriculturists.

When the Russians evacuated this district and set it on fire, they took with them many thousands of the Jewish population. Great numbers died, others kept on ahead of the retreating Russians, and still others hid in the woods and then, penniless and hungry, returned to Brest-Litovsk again.

For a time the Germans attempted to house them in the ruined city. But they have all now been sent out to abandoned farms, where their work is regularly inspected by German officials. Every possible assistance is given them in the hope that they may raise good crops and do their share towards helping out the need in Poland. The land in this section is fertile, and with proper cultivation and care should bear a big crop.

The city of Brest-Litovsk itself still remains the next thing to a city of the dead. Five sixths of the houses of its houses are nothing but gaping walls, within which stand only the remains of the remarkable Russian army. Each ruined house has been thoroughly gone over. The debris has been removed or neatly piled up and each object not utterly destroyed by fire and which is still usable in one way or another, has been rescued.
