Justice of Peace Praises Dr. Chase's Ointment

After Nine Years of Agony He Escaped an Operation by Using This Great Healing Agent.

As a means of healing sores and wounds that defied ordinary treatment, Dr. Chase's Ointment is known far and wide as a positive cure for hemorrhoids and piles. Whatever uncertainty there may be about the results obtained by the use of medicines taken internally, there can be no question of the healing of the skin when Dr. Chase's Ointment is applied. You can actually see with your own eyes just what takes place. The sore parts are cleaned, and gradually the new skin is formed and the sore becomes smaller and smaller until it has completely disappeared.

Mr. A. Heath, J. P., P. O. Box 100, writes: "Nine years ago I was taken with an ailment and cannot begin to describe what I have suffered from. Both of whom said I would have to undergo an operation to be cured. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment, it has rendered an operation unnecessary, and has completely cured me. I cannot say enough in praise of this wonderful ointment which cured me after nine years of agony." Dr. Chase's Ointment, 50c a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

MR. HEATH.

Afterglow.

(By William Wilfred Campbell)
After the clangor of battle
There comes a moment of rest,
And the simple hopes and the simple joys
And the simple thoughts are best.
After the victor's pean,
There comes a lull that must come to all
Before the set of the sun.
Then what is the happiest memory
Is it the foe's defeat?
Is it the splendid prize of a world
That thunders by at your feet?
No, say to the life you've spent
In the service of your race,
A simple love and a simple trust,
And a simple duty done,
Are truer trophies to light to death
Than a whole world's victories won.

The Waste of Manhood.

The bitter price of war is the sacrifice of human life. The waste of manhood in the present war will affect all the nations considerable time afterwards. France will probably suffer most, and Russia will be the first to recover.

Writing upon this matter in the "Evening News," London, Professor F. C. S. Schiller, of Oxford, says: "In France where the population was stationary before the war, the probability is that for some time at least it will show an actual decline, because of the low birth rate. The average of the French people is high, and that means less chance of keeping down the rate of mortality after the war. Russia has such a high birth rate that her recovery will be rapid. Germany, which only lost 50,000 men in the war of 1870, has sustained enormous losses, and since 1902 the German birth rate has shown a decline, the effects of which must begin soon to be felt. In England the rate of increase of the population has declined since 1880, but the limitation of families has not gone on to any extent as in France."

So far as England is concerned the chief effect of the war will be the depletion of the manhood of the middle classes, because of the selective death-rate among officers. "But I am not with those," says Professor Schiller, "who fear for the future of the race and contend that the future generations will be the children of stay-at-home mothers and slacker fathers. English mothers out of account, and though the men of the upper classes are being killed the women are not. Our army being a picked army we are losing rather better men on the average than the other combatant nations. We shall not, on the other hand, lose so many. The average number of children in the best families is two, whereas the average family of the casual laborer is seven. You want an average of four in a family to keep up the proportion of a particular class. It is incorrect to assume that a family of two will replace the father and mother, since allowance has to be made for non-marrying members of these families and wastage from early deaths."

But to those who are alarmed about the future, Professor Schiller points out that the elimination of the best fighting stock is no new phenomenon. The upper classes have always died out. There are probably other reasons for that, but excessive war is the top, and then proceed to go on fighting until they are all gone. That has happened all through history. It happened in England during the Wars of the Roses, which practically wiped out the last of the Norman nobility in the Middle Ages also many of the best intellects of the nation declined parental responsibilities—they sought the study or the cloister. There is one very important difference from the biological standpoint between this war and previous wars; the losses of women and children will not be as great. Disease is so much under control that the mortality among non-combatants will reach nothing like the same proportion as in the wars of past generations.

A Yankee Opinion.

A leading American newspaper, the Chicago Daily News, contains the following:
"And Britain—never forget it—was not compelled to go to the aid of France. Come what might, the best that ever Britain promised France were six divisions—120,000 men. She was not in honor bound to send a single soldier more, she could have stayed out of the war. Disgraced she might have been—as Britons think, must have been—if she had left Belgium and France and European liberty to their doom. But she could have done this. Few nations are without historical pages they faint would obliterate. Britain was not attacked—France and Russia were attacked. Britain might have awaited the onset—as America is awaiting the onset. Britain might have stood clear, might have husbanded her resources of men and money, might have loomed over the stricken adversaries in the end and claimed the hegemony of Europe for herself."

Why Boys Leave School.

On the other hand, the majority of employers who have work to offer want them until they are at least 16 years old, and many not until they are 18. The amount of money which boys up to those ages can earn is certainly not in any degree an equivalent for the education which they should obtain in the two or four year period of the children is that they hate school and want to part. What does this mean? What part of school life do they hate and what part of school life do they crave?

Summer Complaints Kill Little Ones.

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours they will be beyond cure. These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to the well child and will promptly cure these troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they are absolutely safe. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

8 Boxes Cured Psoriasis.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes: "Three doctors described my trouble as psoriasis, and one said I could never be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment and an entirely cured—not a sign of it to be seen. I can hardly praise this Ointment enough."

Whoooping Cough.

Mrs. Charles Lovell, Agassiz, B. C., writes: "Seven of our nine children had whooping cough the same winter and we attribute their cure to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We always have it in the house, and recommend it as the king of all medicines. I was formerly a sufferer of prostrating piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Sergeant—By there! Where are you going?

The Absent Minded Beggar (who climbed out of the trench)—"Oly Jim here. When that 'bloomin' shell whizzed over 'ead I thought it was 12 o'clock!"

Men and Parties.

There are men who hold aloof from politics and boast that they are not affiliated with either of the Canadian parties. They assume a lofty air and point to the politeness of many of the party squabbles. "Who are we to have a part in such things," they ask, with more or less of patronizing scorn. Their attitude is not the most praiseworthy in the world. Who needs to be told that there are many petty and unworthy squabbles in Canadian party politics? That partisanship frequently runs mad among the politicians and the people? That electoral corruption has disgraced both parties, and the country, on different occasions? No man of superior vision is required to make plain the regrettable features of Canadian political warfare.

But improvement in Canadian conditions will not be brought about by men who stand afar off scolding. It is no sign of mental or moral superiority in any man that he will have no part in the political activities of the country. On the contrary, it is a sign that he is lacking in proper appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. Such a man may attract attention in a small circle at campaign times, and fool those who are easily impressed by an egotistical assumption of unusual qualities, but that is all.

The 'independent' is an excellent man. The voters who will oppose the party which they have formerly supported when the time comes that they believe the party is wrong in its attitude upon any important question or is allowing dangerous elements to control it are the salvation of parties and do their country good service. But the man who will not do his share of work for a party which he believes is right, and refrains from activity simply because he must maintain his post is one who will not 'descend' from his imaginary pinnacle to a shikier catering to his self conceit.

"A CAT IN GLOVES CATCHES NO MICE"

The merchant who fails to advertise is like the cat that puts on mittens. He not only fails to use his natural opportunities, but he really invites attention to the fact that he is not progressive. People like to deal with wide awake merchants. They think, and properly so, that the merchant who is advanced enough to advertise is the one who will give them the best service.

Miss Souleby has not a particle of tact. What has she done now? The other evening when M. Jaggies, who is notorious for not paying his debts, asked her to sing she went to the piano and sang "Trust Him Not."

One Spoonful Gives Astonishing Results.

Wolffville residents are astonished at the QUICK results from the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler's Lika. This remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels and is so THOROUGH a bowel cleanser that it is used successfully in appendicitis. ONE SPOONFUL of Adler's Lika relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it, the masses rumble and pass out. Sold by A. V. RAND.

The doctor's phone rang.

"Who is it? What is it? Where is it?" he shouted, as he took the receiver down.
"Please come at once, doctor!" piped a small voice. "It's Tommy Brown speaking."
"Who's ill at your house?" asked the doctor.
"Everybody, 'ceptin' me. I was Naughty, so mother wouldn't let me have any of the lovely mushrooms father picked yesterday!"

"So you ain't got to be mah son-in-law, is yo?" inquired old Brother Buckaroo.

Teacher Corrected.

The teacher wondered whether 'know edge' or the meaning of the word 'pessimist' had survived in the children's minds since the lesson of the day before. She wrote on the board: "A certain man is extremely doubtful as to whether England or Germany will win the war."
"Now, children," she said, "how would you describe that man?" The brightest and best of the bunch shot out his hand. "You've written 'certain,' teacher, and it ought to be 'uncertain!'"

There are hundreds of young men in Nova Scotia possessing vigorous health, and with no incubrances, who might fairly be expected to volunteer in this war, and yet who are holding back. We do not think it is wise or true to say that they are cowards. In many cases they have not volunteered because their sense of public duty is undeveloped. It should be the immediate task of Canadian statesmen in every province of Canada to develop that sense of public duty among the young men of Canada and to make them realize the gravity of the issue in this greatest of all wars.

To meet a renewed German offensive in the West reports from Northern France state that the French have been supplied with a new weapon of defence which is expected to achieve astounding results. No hint of what this weapon is has been allowed to filter through. It is described as an 'important new weapon of defence, which is expected to play an important part in the coming fighting.'

Montreal News.—The United States has come perilously near the line where the resources of diplomacy are exhausted and where action must take the place of words. War is abhorrent to the American people as it is to most democracies. But at the present moment it looks as if the United States could avoid war only at a sacrifice of national dignity which would be more abhorrent than war.

"Thump rattly-bang" went the piano.

"What are you trying to play, Jane?" called out her father from the next room. "It's an exercise from my new instruction book 'First Steps in Music,'" she answered.
"Well, I know you were playing with your feet," he said grimly. "But don't stop so heavily on the keys—it disturbs my thoughts."

Scientific men have noted that the heavy and constant cannonading in the European battle-fields has not produced rain, so the old 'rain makers' expert business is gone. In some places in Europe, where the cannonading was the most severe, there has been almost a drought.

"LITTLE PIGEONS CARRY GREAT MESSAGES"

Before the days of the telegraph, Carrier pigeons were often used both in war and peace; hence the proverb. Little want ads are like the pigeons and often carry money making and money saving items. Read them carefully. There may be something you want that may be obtained most advantageously. If you have something to sell, try the pulling power of a little want ad, yourself.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JULY 24, 1915.

The Horseless Carriage.

The inventor is a sanguine person. Without his hope in the outcome of his efforts and faith in the principles he applies there would be lacking the incentive to that persistent labor which characterizes the production of something new in the world of mechanics. But did the maker of the first automobile, with all the inventor's belief in the child of his brain and hands, ever dream that the horseless carriage would attain the place it occupies in the world of 1915? Hardly so.

We are led into this train of thought by the publication of some figures of the numbers of automobiles in use in the United States at a recent reckoning. The astounding total is 1,923,951. Make allowance for the time that has since passed and say a round two millions.

Of the number, 1,801,851 were pleasure cars, leaving something below 200,000 for business, hospital, civil and other uses besides gratification of one's wishes for amusement. The figures given are of those actually registered and licensed and in use. And there are many other countries besides the United States.

Predictions that the new travel mode would not become popular soon were proven incorrect and the automobile is here to stay until something better supersedes it. Of course there have been marked improvements over the first model while, with enlarged production—also increasing competition—has come reduction in price, a very salient factor in the popularizing of anything.

In the war the gasoline driven car has proven an important part of army equipment, notably in the humanitarian task of the Red Cross and field hospitals, while it also is a speedy agent in the carrying of despatches and in the movement of officers on important missions.

Truly the inventor's reading of the crystal must have disclosed to him a wide field in which this output of his skilled hands would find use if he foresaw even a small portion of the success that was to attend upon his work.

The New Methodist Pastor.

On Sunday last Rev. Mr. Arnitage, the new pastor of the Wolfville Methodist church, began his pastorate here. He is evidently a young man of fine ability and his sermons were well received and much appreciated by large congregations.

At the morning service his text was "to worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness," with special emphasis on the phrase, "beauty of holiness." Genuine goodness in a human character is the most beautiful object in the world, and the truest worship of God is expressed in a pure, unselfish life. Some types of holy people are repulsive enough, harsh and unsympathetic, hypocritical and over-pious, but the type of holiness manifested by Jesus, by Henry Drummond and others wins our love and devotion.

In the evening the subject was "The Church and Her Mission," and the sermon was a most earnest and practical one and very fitting to the occasion. The speaker said that it was most appropriate at the commencement of his ministry here to ask certain questions. What is the business of the Christian Church? Why all this organization, this expenditure of means and energy? The Church has done great things for humanity, and is a mighty factor today in the progress of the race. The Christian Church is the society of those persons who acknowledge Jesus as Lord and King, and are pledged to his service. It was founded by Jesus to establish the Kingdom of God on earth. Thus the Church is not an end in itself, its business is not merely to maintain its membership and sustain its finances. These and other matters are subordinate and incidental to the great task of Christianizing human society, the community and all its relations, to make effective the application of Christ's principles to all phases of life and action, preaching, praying, giving—all the activities of the church—and to have as their object the making of Christians, and the regeneration of the race. The Church must sin by its work and influence to make business and industry and politics clean and Christian.

(Question) Why are you in the church? Some good Christian people sing with earnestness Wesley's words:

'A charge to keep I have,
A God to glorify,
A never dying soul to save
And fit it for the sky;
They forget that without a stop he goes on to say:

'To serve the present age
My calling is to fulfill
May it all my powers engage
To do my Master's will.

A true, good Christian is a good citizen, and is deeply concerned in the moral and social welfare of the whole community.

(Question to non-church members) Why are you not in the Church? You can find room for criticism, no doubt, but why not come in and contribute of your time and energy to the effort of the church to lift humanity?

He pleaded for a spirit of earnest cooperation in the work he had been invited to do, and told the members of his congregation that he stood ready to help all in their moral and religious life.

Why not take a trip to see this beautiful country which surrounds us? J. EDGAR WHITTAKER is prepared to give you first class automobile service. PHONE NO. 35 for my price, it is reasonable. 35 if

Our Common Schools.

Almost half a century ago—before the Dominion of Canada came into existence—Premier Tupper gave Nova Scotia the priceless boon of a common school system. During the last thirty-three years, the administration of that system has been exclusively in the hands of the Liberal government, under the successive Premierships of Hon. Mr. Phips, Hon. W. S. Fielding, and Hon. G. H. Murray. This long period has witnessed practically no amendment or modification of Dr. Tupper's "Free School Act," no adaptation of its provisions to changing conditions as the years have passed, no intelligent effort to modernize our system of public instruction, or to note and correct the weaknesses that the experience of five decades has disclosed in its operation. The talent Dr. Tupper handed over to his Liberal successors, has been wrapped by them in a napkin, and buried in the earth! They have been content to mark time! Their thoughts have not broadened with the process of the suns, and our common schools are not one whit better than they were a quarter of a century ago. Business and professional men are often heard to declare that the education of practical common school education are less efficiently imparted in our public schools today than they were a generation ago!

In the last twenty-five years the cost of living has practically doubled. Yet the common school teacher does not receive one dollar more in the way of government grant than he did in the early eighties of the last century. The inevitable consequence has been the practical disappearance of male teachers from the rural school service, the degrading of teaching from the dignity of a profession to that of the most temporary sort of stepping stone, and the relegating of nine tenths of the rural educational work to inexperienced girls in their teens. We are sometimes reminded of the commonplace, but often disregarded truth, that "you cannot get something for nothing." Certain it is that Nova Scotia cannot get the sort of educational work that a modern, progressive British state should provide in its schools, without paying something like an adequate price for it.

To the criticism that the teachers are underpaid, and that their salaries have remained stationary throughout a period that has seen the cost of living increase two-fold, Premier Murray urges the defence of an empty treasury. He says the salaries of teachers have not been increased, because the revenues of the province have not been such as to warrant an increase. Let us examine the defence, and see what there is in it. In the first place it should be noted that, during the past twenty-five years, the revenue of Nova Scotia has more than doubled! What has become of the increased provincial income? The salary of Premier Murray and every one of his fellow ministers has been advanced. The seasonal indemnities of the members of the Assembly and of the Council have been practically doubled. These increases have been defender on the ground of the increased cost of living, and have kept pretty even pace with the growth of the provincial income. Why then have the school teachers been rigidly held down to the allowance meted out to their predecessors of three decades ago?

If there is not sufficient money to pay the rural school teacher a living wage why waste over $40,000 a year to educate a score of would be engineers in the so called Technical College at Halifax? If funds are not available to pay more than a "donkey-driver's" pittance to those charged with the education of Nova Scotia boys and girls, why spend $30,000 a year to keep twenty irresponsible pensioners of the government, known as "Legislative Councilors," as ever present reminders of family compact days? Are these tawdry institutions of more moment to Premier Murray than the education of the sons and daughters of the farmers of Nova Scotia, in an age when the standard of attainment in every avocation of life are higher and more exacting than ever in the past? The policy of drift in educational matters has not only lessened the efficiency of our rural schools, but it has fastened on Nova Scotia the disgrace of schoolless districts, where from January to December the children of the rate payers are absolutely denied the right of public school instruction! In the heritage of undischarged duties that Mr. Murray will bequeath to Mr. Tupper, within the next twelve months, the need of educational reform will occupy a commanding position at the head of the list!

One of the noblest strains of modern war poetry we have seen is Lowell's ode for the commemoration of Harvard University when 95 young graduates had just fallen in the fight for freedom:

'I with uncovered head salute the sacred dead
Who went, and who returns not—say not so!
'Tis not the grapes of Cassan that repay,
But the high faith that failed not by the way.
'Virtue leads paths that end not in the grave.
No hero of endless night exiles the brave;
And to the sinner's mind
We rather send the dead that stayed behind.'

Nova Scotia's Greatest Need!

(From The Sydney Post.)
There is quite an urgent need of a political clean up in Nova Scotia as it is said, "Long tenure of office has brought about its inevitable consequences—jobbery and corruption in every branch of the public service!" For many long years these elements have been predominant in our public high way service. Corruption and inefficiency, working hand in hand, have reduced the provincial highways to their present discreditable condition. A Royal Commission of Judges has discovered "grave indiscretions" in the Attorney General's quest for personal gain, and has made the withering comment that his conduct in the Mills deal placed him in a position in which at a later date his personal interests might conflict with his public duty. The supreme court has found that the government of Nova Scotia, in its own wrong, paid out $48,000 of the public funds to an individual, who was no more entitled to receive it than the man on the street. The Privy Council has said that if similar malfeasance had been committed by a private individual, he would be obliged to purge his contempt, and make good the wrongful payment.

The Nova Scotia government is afflicted with the very disease that brought the Manitoba government to an inglorious end. The cause of the disease, in Mr. Murray's words, "is long tenure of office." Its symptoms are administrative laxity and incompetence, hostility to reform, and the arrogance of politicians who have some to think that they have a prescription right to rule. When once this distemper has set in, there is no way of arresting its course, or shaking its ravages. It is an incurable ailment in the individual, to which it bears close and striking analogy.

There is no greater affliction that an overtake a Province than to be muddled and handicapped with a time-rotten and incurably reactionary government. Our neglected highways, our vacant schools, our underpaid teachers, our overpaid and useless Legislative Councilors, and our inequitable system of representation in the Assembly, are standing examples of the efficiency and unprogressiveness of a government that has already lingered far too many years on the political stage. The quality of the personnel of the heads of the Provincial departments has steadily deteriorated under Mr. Murray's long and barren regime. The Hon. Christopher Chisholm has been replaced, as Minister of Works and Mines, by Hon. E. H. Armstrong, a quiet unassuming, gentlemanly politician from remote Yarmouth, who is quite as capable of navigating zeppelins, as of directing the mining interests of the Province. The attorney-generalship, administered in the past by such jurists as Messrs. Longley, Drysdale and Phips, has fallen into the hands of the "gravelly imputation" Mr. Daniels. The situation is surely such as to call for a general revival of interest, on the part of the people of Nova Scotia, in the Provincial political situation!

Fortunately there are strong indications that such a revival is about to make itself felt. The results of the by-elections in Digby, Lunenburg, Antigonish and Victoria, furnish unmistakable proof of popular dissatisfaction with the reactionary government Mr. Murray has been giving the Province. The advice tendered Premier Murray by the Liberal Eastern Chronicle to jettison Mr. Daniels from the Executive, shows that the friends of the local government are strongly convinced of the need of administrative reform. Another independent Liberal paper, the Port Hood Gleaner, one of the most ably edited weeklies in the province, urges the crying need of reform in the administration of public instruction and in the public highways service. Automobile associations are uniting with the residents of the rural districts in the demand for better roads. The objects which all in these newly awakened forces have in view can only be accomplished by the election of able, stronger and more progressive representatives to the Assembly. They will be attained when the present government, long since become a spent force, and now little else than an echo of the past, is replaced by a new, capable, vigorous administration, with the initiative energy to lift the province out of the time-worn rut in which it has been travelling and to place it in line with the most progressive sister-provinces of the Dominion.

The Cup Of Tea.

With the increase in the price of tea we have heard many people and grocers especially express the idea that the increased price would cause a revolution in the tea market. The Maritime Merchant, which thinks that tea could go to 60 cents a pound and still not be a very great burden. The Merchant says that consumers have been accustomed for such a long time to getting their tea at the same price from season to season that the recent advance has seemed a great deal, but is really not very much. A statement has been made that 200 cups of tea can be made from a pound of 40 cent tea. This is equal to a cost of 1/2 cent per cup. But suppose this estimate were too great; tea would still be a very cheap beverage. Cut it in half and the cost is still only 1/4 cent per cup, which is far from being an expensive drink. The comparison with bread, for example, is quite favorable. The price of a loaf from city bakers today is 8 cents and there are, say, sixteen slices in a loaf, which would make the cost per slice exactly 1/2 cent. But one does not drink a cup of tea for every slice of bread he eats, so that the relative advance as compared with the most common of foods is very trifling.

Opera House Activities.

Commencing tonight, and on every Friday and Saturday night for the next fifteen weeks, will be shown an installment of a new one reel thrilling serial, under the general title of "Road O' Strife." The particular episode for tonight and tomorrow night will be "The House of Secrets"; it contains many dramatic climaxes and a novel form of subtleties. Do not miss this first episode or those to follow.

On Tuesday night will be shown the usual two reel episode from the "Kalem Girl Detective." If you are missing these interesting pictures you are making a mistake.

We have renewed, at the request of a large number of our patrons, our contract with "The Famous Players Film Service Co." for the usual Monday night big feature, which in every way have proved popular with the general public.

The five reel feature for next Monday night is entitled "Young Romance," and from advance information we believe it will prove more than satisfying.

Some of the coming features will include "David Harum," on Monday, Aug. 2nd, and "The Virginian," on Aug. 23rd; the two features being picturized from the more than well known books of that name, and under no circumstances should you miss being present on these nights.

Amongst other coming features we may mention "The Warrens of Virginia," "A Gentleman of Leisure," "The Dancing Girl" and "The Governor's Lady." These are all winners and should assure large audiences.

Clever Wolfville Girl.

The many friends of Miss Beatrice Adams, daughter of Rev. H. F. Adams, who formerly resided here, will be interested to learn of her brilliant career as a student.

Miss Adams was formerly a pupil of Wolfville public school and afterwards studied five months in Grade IX of Wolfville High School. She then removed to New York city. Upon presenting certificates of work done at Wolfville High School she was admitted to the great "Wadleigh High School" of three thousand girls. She completed the four years' course of this high school in three and a half years, passing the Regent's examinations. In September, 1911, she entered Vassar College and on the 9th of June, 1915, she was graduated B. A. with honors and Phi Beta Kappa. Her splendid standing gained her eight hundred dollars in scholarships during the four years at Vassar, and now at 22 years of age, she has also won two hundred dollar scholarship at Bryn Mawr College, which she will enter in September for post graduate work leading to the degree of Ph. D.

The foregoing facts were communicated by her father in a letter recently received by Principal Ford, in which Mr. Adams warmly thanked Mr. Ford for the thorough preparation and high inspiration received at Wolfville High School.

A quantity of Household Furniture will be disposed of at private sale at 'Sunny Brae.'

Mrs. Williams Pulifer, of Summerside, met with a very serious accident on Wednesday, which may cause the loss of her sight. It appears that some time ago a number of railway torpedoes were left at Mrs. Pulifer's home by a man who was boarding there. Mrs. Pulifer came across one of them and not knowing what it was, pounded it with a hammer while examining it. The result was that the torpedo exploded inflicting very serious injury. Drs. Elliott and DeWitt were called in and the injured lady was brought to Wolfville and taken by Dr. Elliott to Halifax for treatment, on the Bluenose.

The Camp Meeting at Berwick, N. S., will open this year on August 3rd at 7:30, p. m., and continue for a week, closing on the evening of the 11th. The Evangelist will be Rev. C. A. The many friends of Mr. Arthur Parker, son of Mr. W. F. Parker, were very sorry last week to learn of the serious injury, which he sustained as the result of an accident at Dartmouth, where he had been visiting. He was riding on his motorcycle when he collided with a team and was badly hurt. One leg was broken and he was badly shaken up. He was taken to Halifax to the Victoria General Hospital, where we are glad to learn he is now making satisfactory progress. It is hoped that the injury may not be of a permanent nature.

A 25 cent tin of water glass will preserve 24 dozen eggs for one year. Now is the time to lay them down. Sold by A. V. RAND.

In the Halifax Recorder's notes from its files of twenty five years ago it publishes under date of July 18th, 1890, the following:

It is a cricket match played at Wolfville this afternoon between Halifax and Wolfville teams, the former won, the score being 40 to 38. The players were:

Halifax-Walsh, Burns, Crighton, Murray, Smith, Irwin, Butler, Munroe, Walsh, Potter, Sowers.

Wolfville-Miller, Wallace, Calkin, Webster, Neary, G. Munroe, Sawyer, D. Munroe, W. Brown, F. Brown, Dodd.

The death of Mrs. Alma A. Smith took place on Wednesday of this week after a painful illness of about six months. Mrs. Smith came to Wolfville three years ago and has resided with her daughter, Mrs. Dexter and Mrs. Burgess. She was seventy-four years of age and was much respected by all who knew her. She leaves also a son, Mr. Samuel Smith, of Amherst, who was with her at her death. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, and the remains were taken to Cheverie, Hants county, her old home, for interment. Mrs. M. C. Higgins, a former pastor, conducted the service and accompanied the remains to their last resting place.

By-Product of the War.
Russia furnished one of the surprises. What it was assumed it would take long to do, was done with great loss of time. What was expected in months came in days. Those who were supposed to have known most about what was likely to happen, seem to have known the least. All the experts were astonished. No explanation having been forthcoming, it is to be presumed that they have not yet recovered from their amazement. They have had time enough to think it over.
Perhaps they need help. In a contribution to the current issue of the "Outlook," George Kennan takes vodka as his text. He admits that the per capita consumption of alcohol is larger in other countries than it is in Russia, but explains that the Russians could buy no less than a bottle at a time and could not drink on the premises where he made his purchase. So, he took it home and made short work of it.
He drinks from a pint to a quart whenever he drinks at all, and consequently becomes drunk, loses control

"MAKE HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES"
You can judge the wide-awake merchant by his advertising. He makes hay while the sun shines, taking advantage of every season or change in fashion to bring to your attention the things required at the moment, at the same time giving reasons to show why he is best able to serve you. You will find it to your interests to deal with such merchants.
Mead's Liniment Cures Distemper

of his facilities, and sooner or later, in one of his periodical speeches, beats his wife, sells his property at half price, sets fire to an enemy's house, or commits some crime which brings ruin upon him and his family.

When the war broke out the sale of vodka was stopped. There was nothing nominal about the prohibition—it prohibited. There is a reason. Control of the sources of supply as well as of the facilities for distribution being controlled by the Government, its fiat took immediate and complete effect. There was a resort to wood alcohol and denatured alcohol, as substitutes, but no vodka was to be had at any price. A Russian review, "Vestnik Evropa," gives this account of the effects.

"All Russia is filled with enthusiasm and gratitude. As if by the waving of a magic wand, drunkenness, debauchery, wild cries, disputing and fighting have ceased in the streets of both villages and towns. Factories and workshops are filling their orders with promptness and accuracy. In households long accustomed to poverty, strife, drunken quarrels and blows there are now peace and quiet. The peasant families are even making pecuniary savings, which, although small, are as welcome as they are unexpected. The very face of Russia, long disfigured by alcoholic excess, seems to have been transformed and ennobled."

These and other results of the enforcement of the Little Father's edict prompt Mr. Kennan to ask: If the Russian armies in Germany and Austria are fighting more effectively now than in any previous campaign, may it not be because they are led by a better class of officers, and because the soldiers know it? It is an interesting question, being neither important nor irrelevant nor inadmissible. The answer to it might assist the experts who were and are perplexed. It may enable them to understand why, in the time it took to mobilize Russia was not far behind Germany and why the Little Father's troops have proved to be such a deadly adversary. There is little in vodka which is compatible with victory. (Brooklyn, N. Y.) Eagle.

CARE OF LINOLEUM

How to Buy, Lay, Treat and Preserve Floorcloth

It would be hard to find a house in which there is no linoleum. Some housewives have learned the art of keeping it in order, and thus greatly extending its life, and some haven't. Here are some hints to be called the "laws of linoleum."

Buy the best, for it is by far the cheapest in the end. It is the most unwise and uneconomical purchase you can make—that of "cheap" linoleum.

Choose linoleum with a pattern that goes right through. Then, even if the wear on it is not uniform, the pattern remains, and the wear is unnoticeable. Don't, if your furniture is good but not new, make it look shabby by buying gaudy linoleum.

A quiet dark oak brown is the best to look at, and the best to wear too. A black-and-white pattern lights up a dark hall wonderfully, in a light room, a self-colored dark green or very dark red will tone down the excess of light.

For "arrachado" the strips between a carpet and the walls, very careful selection is necessary, or the carpet and the line will clash. A surround should be of the same color as the ground color of the carpet. Then you get harmony and harmony, quite apart from its effect on the eye, has a wonderful effect on temper and irritability.

If you are going to lay your own linoleum, you will need a short, sharp knife with a thick, unbreakable blade. A table knife will not do, nor will scissors. To cut the edges straight, use a flat, straight-edged piece of board, of sufficient width for you to kneel on to keep it quite steady. If there are awkward angles and turns to be fitted, cut these out first in brown paper. Then damp the paper, which will make it cling to the linoleum, and carefully cut the linoleum.

Linoleum should never be placed directly on a floor. A thin felt should be laid as a foundation for the linoleum, and any warped boards planed down. Thick brown paper would do in lieu of the felt, although it is not so good.

Linoleum should never be washed with water. It rots it. A flannel dipped in paraffin is the proper way to clean dirty linoleum. It freshens the colors, and the paraffin acts as a preservative.

Marks on linoleum can be removed by briskly rubbing them with a paste made of fuller's earth and milk. Wash this off with milk and dry thoroughly. Then you can polish with any good floor polish, or apply a coat of brown hard spirit varnish. This applied at night is dry in the morning.

For a polish that is also the best preservative, there is nothing to beat beeswax and turpentine. Here is a recipe for making your own: Two ounces each of scraped beeswax and yellow soap, one ounce of white wax, one pint of turpentine, and three quarters of a pint of water. Melt with extreme care in a jar in the oven and mix well.

Economy of Gas
If you want to get your money's worth when using the oven of the gas range arrange a combination of articles to cook at one time. When you wish to roast a small piece of meat (four or five pounds) you have room for at least two other dishes and shelf space for baking potatoes around the small roasting pan. Dried fruit, already soaked, is delicious baked. The combination when baking might be roasted meat, potatoes, bread, dried prunes or apricots, or baked apple or brown betty.

SOME WOMEN WORK AT STRANGE TRADES

Hundreds in England in the Coal Mining Industry—Others at Hardest Kind of Manual Labor

The enterprise of the modern woman is strikingly illustrated by the facts and figures contained in the tenth volume of the British Census recently issued after three years' preparation. For the period of ten years covered there was quite a rush of women to various fields of masculine employment. For instance the number of women law clerks increased from 367 to 2,159. In the same period the number of women doctors increased from 212 to 495, while in commerce the number of women employed had risen from 59,944 to 261,847.

Altogether there are 4,830,734 women in England and Wales engaged in "gainful occupations," to quote the official term. The greater part of these, 1,260,673, are domestic servants, the cotton industry providing the next highest number of women workers, namely, 372,854, while 323,769 are employed in the coal mines. In the coal mines clerks employed all over the country, 117,067 are women.

It will probably surprise many people to learn that 3,186 women are employed in the coal mining industry, 2,953 in the building trade, 7,170 in the railways, and 7,281 in the engineering, machine making, iron-founding, and boiler-making trades. On the other hand, women laundry workers are rapidly being displaced by men and machinery, owing to the decline of the small hand laundries and private laundry work.

The census reveals some interesting facts about the curious occupations of women. It appears that there are three women ministers of religion, three grocers, one coachman, one coal heaver—a woman over sixty-five, one millwright, one slaughterer, sixty-five electricians, 204 seamstresses, four swordmakers, two watchmakers, three shipwrights, five tramway makers, and nine sea pilots, while there is also one woman working as a plumber.

THE CHILD'S HEALTH

Diphtheria Should be Guarded Against—Watch For Throat Trouble

The chief thing to remember in dealing with diphtheria is that it is highly contagious. Diphtheria is caused by a specific germ which is propagated in the human body or its excretions. The poison may be communicated directly or indirectly from one person to another.

There are various ways in which it may be transmitted. It may originate in sputa, air, water, milk, food or clothing may be the medium. As a rule diphtheria attacks the throat only. It may spread to the mouth and nasal passages.

The earlier symptoms include sore throat, headache, dry hot skin, feverishness, pain, tenderness and swelling at the angle of the jaw. Sometimes, added to this, there are excretions from the nose.

Owing to the fact that it is difficult to distinguish between a mild case of diphtheria and laryngitis, pharyngitis or a severe tonsillitis, it is important to have an early diagnosis and report of the disease. For the same reason it is very wise when your child complains of any of the symptoms mentioned to call in a physician. Early treatment, as well as early recognition of this disease, is all important.

The diphtheria patient should be kept in a room where there is only such furniture as is necessary for his comfort. He should not be allowed to handle books or toys. These which he handled prior to the time it was determined that he had the disease should be burned.

Only the persons in direct charge of the patient should be permitted in the room. Disinfectants ordered by the physician should be rigidly used. One final word of warning—the poison of diphtheria may be carried long distances in articles which have been allowed to lay in a room where a patient has been.

Baked Custard
Beat 4 eggs very light with 24 cup of sugar. Add 1 quart of milk, pinch of salt and any desired flavoring. Pour into pudding pan. Set pan in skillet of warm water and set in oven. Bake slowly until when knife is thrust into centre it comes out free from the sides of the custard. Take from oven at once, and set pudding pan into dish of cold water to stop the cooking.

WENTZELLS Spring and Summer Catalogue is ready
That's the best news careful housekeepers have had for many a long day. Recognizing the efforts of the "Big Store" to serve the interests of the people, particularly at the present time, such an overwhelming demand was received for our last catalogue—Fall and Winter—that we ran short of them considerably earlier in the season than usual. The result was that for a short time last year we have been unable to supply copies to the hundreds of new names requesting it. However, the new catalogue is ready. If it is possible, it is more complete than ever. A bigger range is listed and the greatest care has been taken in the pricing. If your name is not on our mailing list, and if you desire a copy just cut out, fill in and mail the coupon below.
