WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 10, 1872

SOUTH WELLINGTON. Meeting of Reformers.

MR. STIRTON RE-NOMINATED.

A tolerably fair attendance of Reformers from the Town and the various Townships now comprising the South Riding of Wellington assembled in the Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The somewhat thin attendance was easily accounted for, as having been hastened on by the recent forcing weather much sooner than was anticipated, and the crop being, at that rate, remarkably light, farmers were naturally very anxious to secure what they had already sown, and secondly because those of the farmers who are Reformers feel so confident that no political controversy is on the " tapis " that would absolutely necessitate their attendance at such a gathering as that of yesterday.

George Elliott, Esq., President of the North Riding Association took the chair, and Mr. H. E. Swinford was appointed Secretary to the meeting. The Chairman having briefly stated the object of the meeting especially complimented the Government on their apparent great desire for equalizing the representation of Wellington and other portions of the Province, when the real fact was, that they left untouched such glaring anomalies in representation as the old decayed boroughs of Niagara and Cornwall, and violated the principle of representation by populating by giving such an undue preponderance of members to Manitoba and British Columbia. In the redistribution of Wellington, although far from approving of the motives which induced it, still they gladly welcomed back Eramosa and Erin to their old connection with the South Riding, and suggested in this connection that the best thing the meeting should do was to appoint a Vice-President from Eramosa and Erin, respectively, to represent these Townships in the Riding Association.

Mr. W. Phin then moved, seconded by Mr. John Johnston, that Mr. Lazarus Parkinson be Vice-President from Eramosa. Carried. Mr. Munn moved, seconded by Mr. Patrick Molloy (Guelph Township) that Mr. Edward Johnston (Deputy Reeve) be the Vice-President from Erin. Carried. The President then read a letter from Mr. Alex. Taylor, Secretary of the Centre Riding Reform Association stating that a deputation from the Centre Riding on important political business connected with that Riding, had met at the residence of these gentlemen appeared at the meeting. Mr. R. Melvin then came forward and after heartily welcoming back their old Township friends as co-workers in the Reform cause of the South Riding and from whom they ought never to have separated, he read a letter from Mr. Alex. Taylor, Secretary of the Centre Riding Reform Association stating that a deputation from the Centre Riding on important political business connected with that Riding, had met at the residence of these gentlemen appeared at the meeting.

lack of a Conservative nature. He had now represented the Riding for 15 years, a long period taking into consideration the usually short political life of Canadian politicians; he had great difficulty in finding in the present Parliament 20 members of the Parliament of 1871. When he first entered Parliamentary life in '57 he did so with great misgivings as to his competency to adequately represent them, but he was willing to try, and during the whole of that period from then till now he has been honest and straightforward in his conduct and that was all that his political friends in the Riding expected from David Stirton. The present House of Commons afforded a much wider field and ampler scope for the abilities of the statesman, and if he had failed to carry out his views, he would have been held by a majority of the constituency it was, because, he was free to confess, those views were in a minority in the present House of Commons. But they were not to be discouraged on this account; great and important changes had often been effected by small minorities. Keeping their views constantly before the public, advocating them with zeal and earnestness, and persevering until success finally crowned their efforts. From the very first he felt that the men who were most at the head of affairs would be as bad after Confederation as they were before. We were constantly told to let by-gones be by-gones the Macdonald-Carter party had a "clean slate" to commence with, and upon that was it blundered now with bungling, violation of the constitution and the spilling of our best blood. Most of his hearers, doubtless, had read the really splendid speeches of Messrs. Blake and Macleod recently delivered, in which they had so ably exposed the present Administration and had so justly rebuked their charges with unassailable facts as to defuse a successful criticism thereon by their opponents. It had been said in 1867 with reference to the present Government that he was thereby allying himself with disloyalty as represented by Joe Howe then in ultra violent opposition to the Government, but he repudiated any such charge for he opposed the Government on principle. But what became of Joe Howe's violent opposition? The "distinguished statesman" John A. paid a visit to Nova Scotia, and works a charm on the most violent of his opponents. Mr. Howe shortly after becomes a Cabinet Minister and Mr. McLellan an Intercolonial Railway Commissioner, and subsequently Nova Scotia which should be inviolate, $2,000,000 over and above what they were entitled to and over and above what even Dr. Tupper had again and again declared was the right and just apportionment of the claims of Nova Scotia. What was the real secret of this violation of the constitution in granting this additional subsidy to Nova Scotia? It lay in this, Nova Scotia unlike Ontario, had no system of municipal government, and would therefore have to fall back on provincial taxation to provide the necessary means for the erection and repairs of roads and bridges, and the Dominion Government aware of this and in order to quench the would be rebellion, granted them this additional $2,000,000, and the "distinguished statesman" now boasts that Nova Scotia is paid. Yes, indeed, paid, but how? and of this additional subsidy, let it ever be remembered that Ontario pays 4 9ths of the amount. The whole thing was a gross blunder as well as a glaring piece of corruption, because if she had not left to her own enterprise, she would have had municipal institutions long ago, and a dangerous trifling with and violation of the constitution would have been avoided. Nova Scotia having been so successful, in inspiring New Brunswick with the notion of "better terms," a demand for which had already been presented to the Government, but which the distinguished statesman with his usual ingenuity had managed to keep dodging until after the Parliament adjourned, so that even now the New Brunswickers are in utter darkness as to whether better terms are to be granted them. Then it will be found that Quebec will speedily follow suit, and thus a general game of "grab" will be instituted, and one that a corrupt government likes to see indulged in, because it is likely to give them a more prolonged lease of power. It ought not to be tolerated for a moment that so valuable a document as the Constitution of the Country should or could be tampered, because the inevitable consequence is that the tamperers do not stop until they benefit a particular section at the expense of the whole. Indeed that was the great object of Sir Geo. Cartier in the route selected for the Intercolonial, a route so utterly barren for hundreds of miles that the country in the vicinity of the railway would not yield sustenance enough to support those engaged in the business of the line, with no local traffic, must be dependent entirely upon foreign traffic, and which traffic must be greatly diminished by the railway running in each direction. In opposition to the proposed blocking up of the road altogether with snow during winter. The consequence of all this is that a new railway has been projected from Riviere du Loup to St. John, N.B., which will be the shorter route from Ontario to the ocean, and all our money on the Intercolonial will be so much thrown away. It was well known that Mr. St. John would become the established gauge of the country, and the Opposition vainly endeavored to get the Government to make the Intercolonial of this width, but the Government persistently opposed it, although it was once within two or three of being carried in Parliament, notwithstanding the mighty influence of the "distinguished statesman" and Sir George Cartier. And what was the great reason advanced for not adopting the gauge? Why, that the Grand Trunk was built on the old gauge, and it was requisite that the Intercolonial should be so also, and thereby utterly ignoring what must sooner or later occur, viz. the change of all American railways to the 4 ft. 8 in. gauge. The Government took the alarm, however, in the matter of the Pacific Railway, and that important line is to be built on the narrow gauge. The Government seemed determined to be as expensive and extravagant as they possibly could in the construction of the Intercolonial, they invested in steel rails, an absurd extravagance, because the traffic will even in the best of times be small, and the extreme probability is that during considerable periods of the winter the line will be altogether blocked with snow. The consequence of all these unnecessary extragances and blunders will be that the Intercolonial will ultimately cost the country when completed some $25,000,000. One great argument used in favor of the selection of the present route was that we thereby obtained the Imperial guarantee; but what was really the meaning of the guarantee? Simply this, that with it we are enabled to borrow money some 2 1/2 per cent. cheaper than without, but it would have been far more economical for us to have had no Imperial guarantee at all, an selected independently for ourselves the best and cheapest, and shortest route to the ocean. Another great argument in favor of the present selected route was, that being so far inland, it would be safe from the military attacks of our American cousins in time of war. As if, indeed, we had quite forgotten the midnight excursions of Brigadier Stuart during the American war, who, with his followers thought nothing of riding 50 miles through the night in order to tear up railways, &c. How much more readily then could this be effected when only 25 miles of distance intervenes? Besides, to show how utterly untenable such an argument is, we have only for a moment to recollect the location of the Grand Trunk from Quebec westwards, and it seems highly indelicate and preposterous that, whilst safety is presumed to reign on the Intercolonial as far as Quebec, yet from that point westwards there is none. Turning now to another phase of the Governmental misdeeds, Mr. Stirton referred to the gross and systematic successful endeavours of the Government in prostituting and debasing public men, who from one cause or another were opposed to them, or whose support it was considered desirable to make more secure by Parliamentary purchase. He likened them to a caruncle fastened to the bottom of a ship until it gradually eats a hole large enough to sink her. Of this type was the great Coderid Col. Grey, who sitting as an M. P. could not draw an annual salary as Coderid of the militia office he had been appointed by Sir John A., but whom that "distinguished statesman" so adroitly dodged it as to pay some thousand dollars per annum by monthly instalments to the utter abnegation of the spirit if not the letter of the law. But the great Coderid tried another dodge, and a very disreputable one it was, namely to charge mileage, although the gentleman has never had the pleasure of revisiting his constituency since he was first appointed as Coderid. Every M. P. knows that in this matter of mileage, each member requires $6 make a solemn declaration amounting to an oath, and to violate that is perjury, and Col. Gray only ceased to draw pay for mileage when threatened to be prosecuted for perjury. And the only reason advanced for so doing was "that the claims of the House under such circumstances was an open question, an opinion in which he was fortified even by so eminent a lawyer as Mr. Hilyard Cameron. Such was the style of men that the "distinguished statesman" delighted in gathering around him. Then take the case of Mr. McLellan, a man of powerful influence and in violent and bitter opposition to the Government on the Confederation question, we find him vacating his seat in the Senate and accepts the bribe of a Railway Commissioner as the price of his abnegation to the present Government. There were about 30 of these sort of gentlemen in the present House of Commons; who whilst professing to represent the people merely represented themselves. Then again it is not only the duty of Parliament to defend its rights, but also to exercise its privileges and not hand them over to a set of irresponsible men, as has been done by the present Parliament in the matter of the Pacific Railway at the urgent solicitation of Sir George E. Cartier. There was great danger in placing in the hands of Government such irresponsible control over so many millions of acres of land and dollars. It was a clear case of abnegating proper Parliamentary functions which was evidently reprehensible.

In reference to the Washington Treaty no one dreamed of the Imperial guarantee. At Washington we find our distinguished statesman was silent. After his return on discovering the reality of public sentiment, we find the Government fighting and contending with the Imperial Government, that the Treaty is most "repugnant" to the people of Canada, and then shortly after we further find this same Government coolly proposing to throw overboard this "repugnance" on condition that the Imperial Government would endorse the Dominion note for $4,000,000 to construct the Pacific Railway. This proposition, evidently, rather astonished the Home Government who thought they would try a haggling game and on their side proposed $2,500,000 which was accepted by our distinguished friend. Then came the Premier's memorable speech, the most winning but quite worthy of the man. Every other paragraph almost was an apology for the Treaty, mixed up with an assumed dread of war from our powerful neighbors if the Treaty was rejected. Now, it was well known that the Americans never disputed our position with regard to our Fishery rights, and yet we were to be swallowed up for defending what was admittedly our own. The Americans proposed at the sittings of the Conference, to admit fish free, salt free, coal free, and lumber on easy terms, and yet the distinguished statesman was never known to tell the Commissioners to accept these proposals as being in themselves a most valuable concession to Canadian trade and industry. He had read recently an account, in Fraser's Magazine, of the High Joint Commission, and our "High Joint" was described there as "convivial" statesman, and no wonder the cute Yankees had got the better of him. In voting against the Treaty he had been accused of disloyalty, but he had voted in this matter in company with Mr. McKenzie Bowell and one of his brother Orange M. P's. from Hastings, and as Orangemen were noted for what might respectfully be termed their super-loyalty, the charge of disloyalty could not properly be raised in this matter with any degree of justice. In regard to the Re-distribution Bill, it was found after the change of Government in Ontario, that it was highly necessary for the interests of the party that the great master dodger should come up to Toronto to repair the blunders committed by his predecessor in Fraser's Magazine, and a new paper was thereupon started which threw any amount of "smut" upon respectable persons, but which designation could not be applied to those who threw it. In regard to Wellington, Mr. G. A. Drew was the cause of the re-distribution; Peel was thrown off the north in order to make that gentleman's election perfectly secure, perhaps, however, as he earnestly hoped, the result would be somewhat different to what was vainly imagined. Mr. Drew was pretty independent for four sessions, voting frequently with the Opposition on important questions, but in the fifth session, he regularly "aved in" and became one of the most subservient followers of John A. party to serve his own ends. Referring to the Election Law, Mr. Stirton said, as the Law now stood all officials such as Sheriffs, Registrars, &c. are eligible as candidates for a seat in the Dominion Parliament. As an instance, we may expect to see Mr. White opposed in Hinton by Sheriff McKindisay. Just fancy a Sheriff canvassing a county with his pockets full of writs. Were freedom of independence can the voter possibly exercise under such coercive circumstances. The Hon. Mr. Blake vainly endeavored to amend this in consequence of a Government majority, invariably voting it down. We had not the polling confined to one day, but did not succeed in obtaining these elections being held simultaneously even in one Province. Had it been so, much good would have been effected by so desirable a change.

Mr. Stirton then again briefly thanked the audience for their courtesy, attention and friendliness and retired amid loud and hearty applause.

Mr. Guthrie thought that the time had now arrived when the meeting should give some expression of its wish as to the future representation of the Riding, and would therefore propose that Mr. Stirton, who had already represented them for 15 years, should do so again for another 5 years, and if necessary 5 more. (Cheers.) The only charge that had, for want of a better, been brought against Mr. Stirton was that he was a "silent member" in the House, but from the specimen of his powers of speech with which they had just been favored, it was very evident that if he was "silent" he need not be so from necessity. He had heard speeches from the "distinguished statesman" and others of like repute, and all he could say was that to him the difference between them and that of Mr. Stirton was very insignificant. What they wanted was men of sterling principle and honesty and who would fairly represent their views. He fully expected that in all the three Ridings of this County, Reformers would be returned. In the redistribution Bill of 1867, John A.'s great professed desire was to have the commercial element represented, and therefore Eramosa and Erin were excluded from the South Riding of that date. What has become of that important element now? He (Mr. Guthrie) much regretted the absence of the Hon. Mr. Blake, on account of ill health, from the political field during these eventful contests now about to occur, and in recollection of his able and eloquent speeches, his glowing manifestations of public opinion, and the display of such marked abilities, would be sure to nerve the electors in his absence. He was a man of whom they all had heard, and in point of intellect, great of mind and true patriotism, was far ahead of the "distinguished statesman," the leader of the Government. Mr. Guthrie concluded by moving that Mr. Stirton be requested to allow himself to be nominated as the candidate of the Reform Party for the representation of the South Riding of Wellington at the approaching General Election.

Mr. Munn, of Erin, seconded, and the resolution was put and carried amid loud cheers.

Mr. Guthrie, as one of the mentioned possible ambitious ones, distinctly repudiated any wish or desire for Parliament honours, and much regretted that Mr. McMillan should have started the subject at all.

Mr. J. P. McMillan, barrister, &c. of Guelph, who asked if the resolution was carried, was then, by courtesy of the meeting, allowed to speak to it. He was proceeding with a political autobiography when the impatience of several electors demanded that Mr. McMillan should come to the point. Mr. McMillan then asked if it was the wish of the Reformers that Mr. Stirton should represent this Riding till his death? (Cries of "Yes, until we turn him out.") He wished to know, if such was the case, what were the worthy eligible men of the Riding, such as Messrs. Cartier, Whitlaw, Masie, Laidlaw, &c., to do if their ambition prompted them in a Parliamentary direction? What would have become of the Hon. Peter Gow if Confederation had not taken place? He would have been obliged to remain out of parliamentary life.

Mr. Stirton being called, frankly accepted the offer made in the resolution, and desired it to be understood that he was a candidate for the honor of representing the South Riding in the next Parliament. It was well known that he had no desire to thrust himself upon the constituency, but he could not be blamed for accepting the honor when proffered to him, especially as it was backed up by friends from all parts of the riding. His object in Parliamentary life was not one of the public character, and if the Riding would bring forward a better candidate than he pretended to be, he would willingly step aside and work heartily for his success. (Loud cheers.)

On motion of Mr. Whitlaw, seconded by Mr. W. Benham, jr., a hearty vote of thanks was awarded the chairman, who cordially responded; and alluding to Mr. McMillan's remarks said that in private life one did not usually discharge an able, faithful and conscientious servant, but rather gave them every encouragement to remain, and so should it be with public servants.

The meeting then broke up, after giving three rousing cheers for Mr. Stirton and Her gracious Majesty the Queen.

THE REFORM MEETING OF YESTERDAY.—Our attention has been called to a paragraph in the weekly Herald of the 9th inst., with the truly sensational heading "Packed Meeting," and an "Independent Reformer hissed down!" It is scarcely conceivable that such mendacity existed in the conductors of the Guelph Herald. The two statements referred to are simply monstrous falsehoods; and that the supposed author must know that the latter is so at all events. We are credibly informed that he was heard to have sneeringly said in reference to Mr. J. McMillan's speech, "What a d—d farce!" The force of unscrupulous mendacity can no further go.

PERSONAL.—We notice that Mr. Joseph H. Hocking has become sole proprietor of the Guelph Advertiser.

Ms. John O'Donovan has been nominated for the Eastern Division of Toronto.

Mr. Sturton's Re-Nomination.

As was generally expected and, we may add, almost as universally wished for, amongst Reformers at least, Mr. Sturton had the unanimous choice of the Reform meeting held on Tuesday in Guelph. More cordial unanimity or hearty expressions of approval could scarcely have been desired than was manifested throughout the proceedings as regards Mr. Sturton's attitude for the position or the unremitting attention to and faithful discharge of the duties pertaining to the important office which in successive Parliaments it has been his good fortune to hold. Strong in the affections and good opinions of his constituents, Mr. Sturton challenges the most hostile criticism, and it is no premeditated or intended insult to our Conservative friends in the Riding to say that we believe that opposition to Mr. Sturton's return is wholly and perfectly useless.

Meeting of Presbytery.

The Presbytery met in this town on Tuesday, at one o'clock. Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Rothsay, was chosen moderator for the ensuing year. Mr. Goodwillie having passed, in a satisfactory manner, the prescribed trials, his ordination was appointed to take place in Hespeler over the congregation of Doon and Hespeler on Tuesday, 23rd July, at 1.30 p. m. Mr. William Kay underwent his trials for license and he was in due form, after having answered the questions of the formula, and then suitably addressed by the moderator, and after solemn prayer, licensed, in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, and by the authority of the Presbytery, to preach the gospel. The committee appointed to visit Hawkeville reported, recommending that the congregation there be allowed to mortgage their property for a term of five years, and that the Presbytery pay the interest on the sum, $600, for that time. It was agreed to receive the report, adopt its recommendation, but at the same time strongly urge the congregation to do all in their power in the meantime towards the redemption of the principal of the debt. The committee appointed to arrange a plan of Presbyterial visitation reported; the report was received and authorized to be printed and a copy sent to each minister and ruling elder in the bounds. Mr. Smellie reported that the congregation at Arthur had given a unanimous call to Mr. McLaren to be their minister and Mr. Millien reported that the congregation of South Lather and Ananias had unanimously called Mr. Duncan Davidson. The conference on the state of religion appointed to be held at this meeting was postponed till next ordinary meeting, which is to be held in St. James' Church, Guelph, on the first Tuesday of September, at one o'clock in the afternoon. Certain items of Home Mission business were then taken up and disposed of. A petition and subscription list were read from Moorefield and certain persons on the 8th con: of Peel, asking a supply of sermons, to be continued at the last and begun at the latter. A committee was appointed to visit Peel, inquire into the religious wants and prospects of the locality and report at the next ordinary meeting, and the Clerk was authorized to send what supply he can in the meantime to Moorefield. A reference was taken up from the Session of First Congregation, Guelph, suggesting means by which the stipend of ministers below $900 might be raised to that amount. It was resolved that the Clerk be instructed to inquire of Sessions of such congregations as are not paying $600 if any assistance from other congregations is required to enable them to raise the sum, and to request an answer before the next meeting of Presbytery, as the whole subject will then come up for consideration. Mr. Millie-mis, convener, was appointed to prepare a scheme of missionary meetings and report at the meeting to be held in Hespeler on the 23rd. Mr. Little stated that his congregation had resolved to increase his stipend to $1000 a year. On motion it was agreed that the salary of the Clerk be at the rate of $120. Those of the commissioners from the Presbytery to the General Assembly reported that they had fulfilled the trust committed to them. The Clerk was authorized to give subjects of discourse to the theological students in the Presbytery, and to arrange for the examination of those, three in number, about to enter Knox College. Other business not of general interest.

From Manitoba.

Four young Canadians, settlers on the river Seine, about six miles from here, have been driven from their claims by French land. The Crown Land Agent pronounces the locality free for settlement; but says he can afford no protection to the settlers. Yellow Quill, the Indian Chief, whose land drove the surveyors from work a few days ago, has been here and had an interview with the Lieutenant-Governor. An arrangement has been arrived at, and the surveyors are to return to work. The steamer Selkirk arrived yesterday with 21 passengers and a small load of freight. Dr. Lynch was one of the passengers. A band of horse thieves are operating in the Province. About 30 horses have been stolen recently. The Metis declare Reil a probable candidate for Provencher, for the House of Commons. The population of Winnipeg, exclusive of Fort Gary, is 773.

EDEN MILLS RAPE CASE.—We learn that the amount of reward now offered for the apprehension and conviction of the scoundrel E. Kemp is $150, namely a guarantee of $50 from Messrs. George Eastbrook and John Ramsay on behalf of the Nassageweya Council, and the same amount on behalf of the Eramosa Council, guaranteed by Messrs. John Rea and Wm. Duffield. Mr. Bardwell himself offers a reward of $50. We are informed that a great portion of the Herald's notice of the case in Monday's issue is sensational, not designed so, we believe on the part of our contemporary. Those interested will please not forget the picnic to-morrow at Mr. Guthrie's grounds.

Report of the Inspector of the Public Schools of the Town of Guelph for the Second Quarter, 1872.

Sixty-eight were present in Miss McLagan's room in the Central School building at the time of my visit. In this room there are two black-boards, a map of the Eastern and Western Hemispheres on one sheet, the ten commandments, order and classification of studies, duties of pupils and masters, object lessons and sheet lessons on general geography. Visitors' and class books are kept. The register, I may say, was perfect. Conduct of the children reflects great credit on the teacher's powers of government—the great secret being, that she keeps them constantly employed, not only when in the class but also at their seats. She has taught them the first two commandments, and is carrying them on to the others, ages generally 5 and 6, but some are 10 and 11, and there was one 13. Singing is practised. Scriptures read in the morning. School is opened and closed with prayer, and the children have been taught to repeat the Lord's prayer. Two classes were examined in reading—both in first book,—Miss McLagan being confined to this in her department, and an object lesson was given.

Forty-five were present in Miss Henderson's room. A class of 26 was heard reading and spelling, and was afterwards exercised in mental arithmetic. A lesson in geography and one on object lessons were also given. Mode of examination individual, sometimes a question is addressed to the whole class. The scriptures are read and the exercises each day begun and closed with prayer. Class and visitors' books are kept. Register not at all as it should be. Entries which should have been made have been omitted, and numbers inaccurately copied from one page to another. No attention has been paid to instructions given at other visits as to the manner in which the register should be kept. There is no time-table, although I have, on former occasions, more than once, insisted upon its being prepared and exhibited. In fact the teacher seems bent so upon her own way that she will not teach in accordance with another. This state of matters must not be allowed to continue. The Scriptures are read, and prayer is offered to God morning and afternoon, at the assembly and dismissal of the school. The commandments are taught. The room is supplied with the following school requisites: map of Hemispheres, two black boards, sheet lessons of geography, object lessons, ten commandments, duties of masters and pupils, order and classification of studies.

In Miss Goodlove's department there were 50 present. A grammar class of 24 was examined on the definitions and then asked to point out the parts of speech in a sentence in the preface to the grammar. About one hour was devoted to this lesson. A class in arithmetic, being sums in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, was next examined. The junior reading class, 23, was heard reading words and then spelling single words and words in clauses, and next adding, dividing and subtracting and "writing simple sentences." In the geography class there were 22, and these were taken on some of the definitions, and were next asked to name out of the map oceans, zones, &c., which they did very smartly and correctly. Some of the copy-books were pretty good, others bad. In my opinion the children should have copies given them in a larger hand. The register was properly kept. The individual mode of teaching is followed.

In the room there are two black-boards, the ten commandments, which are taught once, sometimes twice a week. Order and classification of studies, duties of masters and pupils, sheet lessons on geography, object lessons, maps of Africa, North America, Canada and the world, visitors' book and class book. Ages generally from 6 to 10. Weekly reports and honor cards are issued. In Miss Holywood's room there were 21 present. The children were with and part of the day. 48 were in the first grammar class. These were examined as far as page 22 in the elementary grammar, and then taken on a sentence which they were required to analyze and parse, distinguishing and pointing out the different parts of the sentence. In 15's they acquitted themselves very well. Several copy-books neatly written. An hour was spent on the third book reading class. Instead of the examination of the two classes just named occupied the entire forenoon, the copy-books having been inspected during the recess. The greater part of the afternoon was given to the fourth book reading class and to arithmetic. The ten commandments were read and explained. The copy-books are issued. Visitors' and class books are kept. The room is supplied with two black-boards, ten commandments, order and classification of studies, duties of pupils and masters, maps of Asia, Europe, America, Africa and of each Hemisphere, but there is no map of Canada, a want which should be supplied. Ages of pupils 7 to 15.

In Mr. Ferguson's room there were 41 present on the day of examination. Inspected the register and found it nearly all complete. In many of Europe, one of the Eastern and Western Hemispheres on one sheet, one of Ontario, Johnston's series of small maps in case, two black boards, sheets containing order and classification of studies, duties of pupils and masters and ten commandments are in the school. Except opened with prayer, sometimes with singing, but the Scriptures are not read any time of the day; the commandments are not taught, and prayer is not engaged in at the close of the day's labors, 7 to 14. The individual mode of examination is the one followed, but sometimes a question is put to the whole class, or to a whole school. Weekly reports and honor cards are issued. Visitors' and class books are kept. The room is supplied with two black-boards, ten commandments, order and classification of studies, duties of pupils and masters, maps of Asia, Europe, America, Africa and of each Hemisphere, but there is no map of Canada, a want which should be supplied. Ages of pupils 5 to 15.

In the Third Reading Book class there were 23 present, whose order, spelling and reading were all correct. They were then examined on the multiplication table, 7th and 8th lines, and mentally on questions involving addition and subtraction. In the first grammar class there were 30 who had studied as far as page 6, and who were kept under examination for an hour. In the Fourth Book, a book which ought not to be used in this room, there were 25 present who read first the lesson for the day and were then taken back on one read something previously. Their reading was good, and so was their spelling, which was partly by class and partly by individual. Large words taken from the reading book. The class in Geography, comprising 17, was taken in practically the definitions, and a class of 8 was taken to a map of the world, and requested to point out countries and islands, capitals, &c.

Mr. Cullen's room contains the following requisites:—Maps of Asia, Africa, Europe and Hemispheres; rules and regulations prescribed by the Board; duties of pupils and masters; order and classification of studies; ten commandments; visitors' book. The school is opened and closed with prayer, but the Scriptures are not read. Commandments are recited every Friday afternoon, in its entries. Individual mode of examination is adopted, pupils change places when corrected and lessons are prepared at home. Singing is practised once a week. Weekly reports and honor cards are issued. In the senior History class there were 12 present, who read first in their usual course and were then taken on a lesson which they had not read for some time. They were then called on to read and substitute other words for certain ones which had been marked, an exercise which is very beneficial to the scholars and in which they acquitted themselves well. They then spelled words and gave their meanings, after which clauses were read out to them, and they were required to spell each word composing them. In the second History class there were 12 present, each of whom read twice round, talking more than a sentence each time. The next read a word each and so passed round the class. They then spelled words, giving their meanings, which they are required to write out at home, then clauses of sentences and then words selected from lesson books. In the Fourth Book class there were 10, who read three round, spelled and gave the meaning of words, and then spelled words containing a number of syllables. After this they were exercised in Mental Arithmetic, adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing, next on tables of weights and measures, and next on Arabic and Roman notation. Before dismissal at mid-day, the whole school was drilled in gymnastics.

Sir G. E. Cartier is said to be laid aside by dropsy. We are requested to state that the Primitive Methodist Festival is indefinitely postponed, in consequence of the difficulty of obtaining fruit.

The Foster Brother;

OR—
The Orphan of the Wreck.

CHAPTER VII.

KENNETH MAINTAINS HIS RIGHT—THE MYSTERIOUS VISITOR AT THE LUNATIC.

Time wore on, and at the end of three or four months they found there was likelihood of being deprived of George. All their inquiries proved futile to discover his relations or throw light on his parentage. The owners of the Eglantine could find no trace of a lady and a child having sailed as passengers in the vessel. George Morrar was the only name entered in the books, and those who were connected with the loading and departure of the vessel were not cognizant of any others having gone on board before she quitted Kingston harbor. Neither did it appear that the captain or any other of the ship's officer had a wife and child with them in the ship. In fact the matter was shrouded in utter mystery, and there was no prospect that time would make the mystery plainer, for the only one who could give information in the matter was still a mindless maniac. Kenneth and Lucy were glad of this—truly and sincerely glad. Day by day George had twined himself closer and closer round their hearts, till they loved him with a love which parting would have turned into the keenest grief. Lucy even dreaded the hour when the result of the inquiries made in Jamaica would reach them, lest the result might be that the child was to be taken away by his father's or his mother's relatives; and when the letter came which told how vain these inquiries had been, she caught George to her bosom in a transport of joy, and looking up to Kenneth with a flushed and happy face, she exclaimed that he was their own now, and from that hour he should be called George MORRAR BRUCE.

Kenneth smiled his cordial assent, for he too was glad that it had turned out so. Thus the little orphan of the wreck was brought into the shelter and sanctity of a happy home, where he should never know the loss he had sustained, and could love and be loved with all the intensity of true and holy affection.

It was a beautiful sight to see the relations established between the two children—George and Carry. How fond they were of each other—how they would play together for hours in perfect happiness and content—how George would sit with his little arm round Carry, lest she should fall, and exercise a thoughtfulness most wonderful in one so young, to keep his little playmate from harm, and supplying all her childish wants—refusing even to quarrel with her when the imperious little lady went into the capricious moods of infancy, and grew unreasonable in her exactions. Many a happy hour did Kenneth and Lucy enjoy in watching the children at play, and it was with no ordinary emotion that they beheld the strong affection which was growing between them.

And so we leave Mossgrove and its inmates for a season—the course of our story being destined to lead us among other people. We leave them, however, in circumstances of quiet felicity—a bright sunshine filling their dwelling and penetrating their hearts with a satisfying happiness. We may just add, ere bidding them adieu for a season, that Kenneth's great picture had made him famous. No sooner had it begun to be exhibited in Edinburgh than it drew marked attention—yes, it produced a sensation, and was praised and admired to a high degree. Several wealthy men desired to purchase it, and large sums were offered for it, but Kenneth would not dispose of it at any price. The event which it at once commemorated and portrayed made it a sacred possession of the household—too sacred and tender in its associations to be given up to strangers. So at the end of the season it was brought home to Mossgrove, and hung on the wall of their sitting room, and Kenneth and Lucy never gazed at it without being reminded of that awful night of storm and devastation.

THIS MORNING'S DESPACHES

Livingstone Married to an African Princess.

Two Men Lynched in Ohio.

New York, July 10.—A London letter says that Livingstone is married to an African princess, and does not care to return.

Baltimore, July 10.—The Democratic Committee on resolutions met to night, and the Cincinnati platform was adopted without any modification whatever. All the States for the platform excepting Delaware, Georgia, Mississippi and Oregon.

Cincinnati, July 10.—The mob who lynched the men at China yesterday numbered 3,000. On leaving the jail the men were placed in a wagon, and the mob moved off for Kemmer farm, in sight of where the poor girl had been murdered. Here they halted under a sappling, a rude gallows was erected, and the bodies were fitted about the necks of the prisoners. At this juncture Elias Sacon, brother of the murdered girl, pleaded for the life of Jacob Kemmer, aged 17, expressing his belief that he was innocent. This appeal was received with sympathy and young Kemmer was set free. A mob of 3,000 men was much broken down, but McLeod maintained the same sterile indifference he had shown from the first. He stoutly denied that he had ever seen the girl, and accounted for the blood on his clothes by bleeding from the nose. He took the testimony kindly, and called upon God to attest his innocence. He implored them to have mercy on his poor mother and sisters, and asked God to forgive them all. The two were then hung till they were dead.

HORRIBLE CATASTROPHE.—The new coal mines, two miles north of Lima, in the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, took fire about three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. There were twenty men and one boy in the mine when the fire began. Eleven escaped. Nine men and the boy were smothered to death.

NO intelligent mind can fail to observe how the various and ever varying wants of the community are attended to by the enterprising merchants of Guelph. Instanting Hardware, in Mr. Horsman's Establishment, so noted for many years as the Emporium of everything in his line of business, it is somewhat astonishing to take a comprehensive view of the variety of his stock: Guns, Pistols, Ammunition, Fishing Tackle, House Furnishings, Floor Oil Cloths, Mats, Ivory Table Cutlery, Plated Ware, Bird Cages, Flower Baskets, Smoothing Irons, Tea Trays, Wringers, Mangles, Lamps, Mechanics' tools. Besides the great assortment of Farming Implements, Scythes, Snaths, Rakes, Forks, Hoes, Building and General Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Oils, Paints, Colors, Varnishes. One gets from this a slight idea of what it is to carry on with enterprising spirit a large Wholesale & Retail Hardware Establishment. Every want for House, Farm, Trade or Manufacture can be supplied Wholesale and retail at Mr. Horsman's. See advertisement.
