A woman came up to the daying teller's window at a bank the other day with a cheque for fifty dollars which she wished to cash. The teller glanced at the cheque, and, fingering the bills, asked in his pleasant tones: "What denomination, madam?" "Lutheran" replied the woman; "what are you?"

The editor of the Dancing Times says the waltz is coming back. This may be alright for the youngsters but those who indulged in the giddy whirl when it was in vogue before are now too short of wind to enjoy it. Some of us might manage the stately minuet, after a fashion, but that is too slow for these strenuous days.

The Prince of Wales is descended from one of the Tudor Kings (Henry VII.) and from but one of the Stuart Kings (James I.) He is descended from all of the British sovereigns of the House of Hanover, except George IV. and William IV. The prince's great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, was the last of the Hanoverian line.

"I'm bothered fierce with rats," said Mrs. Casey, the owner of the boarding-house, as she talked over the back fence with her neighbor. "Did yez buy any of them rat biscuits for them?" suggested Mrs. Kelly. "Now, Mrs. Kelly, what kind of a house do you think I'm running?" Sure, if the bastes can't eat what the rest of us do, they kin go hungry."

At the Rexall convention at Boston which Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McLaren attended recently one of the features was a New England clam-bake, at which about 3,000 Rexall representatives were feasted. A pile of stones is first heated and then covered with seaweed in which the clams are baked. It took a week to heat enough stones to bake sufficient clams to feed the huge crowd of epicureans.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education held last Friday a resolution was passed requesting the municipal council to take the necessary steps to dissolve the Board and substitute separate Boards for high and public school purposes. After several years under the present system this action is deemed necessary for the efficiency and economical management of the schools. It was a mistake in the first place to create a Board of Education to take the place of Public School and High School Boards in a town the size of Watford. The single board has been found a failure in other small towns. With separate Boards more attention will be given by each Board to the management of their respective schools, and probably the deep interest that existed in educational matters before the change will be revived.

The Western Fair opens on Monday. The normal schools will open on Tuesday, Sept. 29th.

A FEW words mumbled by a minister constitute a marriage. A few words mumbled by a sleeping husband constitute a divorce.

LABOR DAY passed very quietly in town. The weather was fine and warm enough for pleasure and nearly everyone who owns a car went away for the day.

THE war tax habit is contagious. Everywhere, now, it's so much for this, and that, and a little bit more. But the other day in a criminal court the acme of taxing was achieved when the court sentenced a man to two years and ten days. "What's the ten days for?" demanded the prisoner. "War tax," snapped his honor, as he called the next case.

THERE is reason to believe that in the sale of matches an unreasonable profit is exacted by manufacturers, jobbers and retailers. There is a federal tax of 5c a box on all matches, and this tax is paid at the factory by the manufacturer. In selling to the jobber the producing firm adds together the cost of production and the tax and adds a percentage for profit. The consumer pays a profit of 36-41 per cent. on the tax as well as on the matches. Is this fair or even justifiable?

THE TAX RATE

At the council meeting Monday night the rate of taxation for the village for 1919 was levied as follows:

War and County Rate	7 5/10 mills
Village Rate	11 2/10 "
Sidewalk Debenture	6/10 "
Wire Works Debenture	1 8/10 "
Public Library	4/10 "
High School Maintenance	12 "
Public "	5 5/10 "
Total	39 "

The total is only one-half mill more than last year which is not an unreasonable increase considering the rapid advance in valuations during the past year.

The village rate is slightly less than last year and the county and war rate over a mill less than 1918. The increase is caused by the public school maintenance which is 2 1/2 mills greater than last year or a fraction less than a third of the total rate.

Showler—Lucas

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Lucas, Sutorville, was the scene of a happy event on Wednesday, Aug. 27th, at three o'clock when their daughter, Ada, was united in marriage to Capt. Ernest E. Showler by the rector, Rev. S. P. Irwin, B. A.

The bride who was given away by her father entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Sadie McEchern, niece of the groom, and looked charming in a gown of white tulle and georgette with white bead trimming and wearing a veil of net embroidered in silk and held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid, Miss Eva Johnston, wore a pink dress and carried a bouquet and ran away with a load of hay and white sweet peas. Mr. Serle Lucas, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen. After the ceremony the guests numbering about fifty repaired to the dining room which was tastefully decorated in pink and white, where a dainty dinner was served. War-Time Husbands at Sixteen and Ninety

Some curious facts are revealed in the Registrar-General's report of births, marriages and deaths in 1917. Whereas most of the marriages used to take place in July, August and September, the favorite months now are October, November and December. Widows remarried in great numbers. Although young war-widows affected the figures, it is clear that the war was not wholly responsible, for the total began to increase in 1912. Widowers, too, show an increasing tendency to take second wives.

The youngest bachelor to marry was fifteen, and the youngest spinster fourteen. No fewer than twenty-nine males married at the age of sixteen, and 389 at the age of seventeen, two of the latter marrying widows. Twenty-six spinsters married at the age of fifteen, one of them to a widower; 187 women were sixteen when they married and of 1,200 marrying at seventeen years, fifteen married widowers.

The earliest second marriage of males was at the age of nineteen, and three widows remarried at the age of eighteen. Of thirty-nine men marrying when they were turned eighty only one, aged eighty-one, had never tasted the joys of matrimonial bliss previously, the rest being widowers; but out of nine women marrying beyond that age two were spinsters. The oldest man to be married was a widower of ninety-two, and the two oldest women were aged eighty-five, one a widow and one a spinster.—Tit-Bits.

When It All Started

When Adam met Eve he was bashful and shy,
And he stammered and blushed every time she came nigh.
Till at last he grew bold and began to pay court,
(You may put all your trust in this faithful report).
And he murmured to her on an evening serene,
"You're the prettiest girl that I ever have seen!"
And that's how that started.

When Eve, with a beautiful blush on her face,
Yielded shyly and sweetly to Adam's embrace,
And put up her red lips for the true lover's pact
(You may set all this down as an absolute fact),
She inquired, while he breathed the fond names on his list:
"Have you said that to all the girls you have kissed?"
And that's how that started.

When Adam asked Eve if she would be his bride,
She looked up and looked down, and she sighed and sighed,
And she let him take hold of her lily-white hand
(This is history now, as you must understand),
Then she said, in a voice that was dulcetly low:
"I must take time to think. 'Tis so sudden, you know!"
And that's how that started.

When they had been married a few years or so,
Then Adam told Eve: "We're invited to go
To a dinner and dance with some friends down in Nod."
(This is truly authentic, although it sounds odd).
Eve replied with a sad and sorrowful air:
"I can't go. Don't you see I have nothing to wear?"
And that's how that started.

It would help matters somewhat if more people had the darkey's luck. He says he was married three years and had six children. He was married in Huntsville, and the first year his wife presented him with a beautiful baby boy. He then moved to Fort William and Port Arthur, the "Twin Cities," and she presented him with twin boys. Then he moved to Three Rivers, and there came into their lives triplets, three sweet little girls; but he says he'll never take a job at the Thousand Islands.

You Must Cure Yourself.
I do not care how many licensed physicians there are in the world; I do not care how many drugs and how many drug stores there may be in the town; I care not how many schools of medicine there may be. I say unto all you persons who are sick and ill that you will never be cured by licensed medicine. The doctors never will and never can cure you. Drugs never cure. You must cure yourself. And if you have not the will power and the courage to reform the conduct that made you ill you are already a goner. Nothing can aid you, not even nature. "Medicus sanat; natura curat." This is the Latin of the medical schools. The doctor sanitates, but nature alone can cure. And nothing in nature can cure you but your own conduct—by reformation, by resorting to the right food and the right drink.
It is up to you whether you are to be an invalid all your life or a well man—a well woman.
It is a question of personal morals, individual ethics.—C. F. in Los Angeles Times.

Abolish Fahrenheit?
There is a growing crusade against the Fahrenheit thermometer used in all English speaking countries, and the plea is made that the Centigrade thermometer be employed in its place. The Centigrade is used for nearly all scientific purposes and is decidedly superior to the Fahrenheit, but the latter is in familiar use among the great mass of people who use heat measuring instruments.
Practically all English speaking people use the Fahrenheit scale, even with all its inconveniences, and people who imagine that they can effect a change by an act of congress reckon without authority. Nothing is more difficult than to change the established habits of a people, a truth which will slowly dawn upon the enthusiast who undertakes to change the meteorology of a nation.—Locomotive Engineering.

Canada's Wounded	149,709
Canada's National Debt	$1,670,263,691
Soldiers' Annual Pensions	$35,000,000

THE WORLD is staggering with debt. Some of the leading countries are verging on bankruptcy.

Five years ago Canada had never dreamed of the financial burden she carries to-day.

Canada entered the Great War with a National Debt of $337,000,000, or $42 per head of population. Canada emerges with a National Debt to date of $1,670,263,691, which is expected to approximate $2,000,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year—or about $250 for every man, woman and child in the country. Interest charges alone will eat up nearly one-half our present national revenue, and soldiers' pensions will have to be provided as well.

Can Ontario Afford to Spend $36,000,000 a Year on Booze?

PREVIOUS to the Ontario Temperance Act the drink bill of the Province approximated $36,000,000 per year, an amount about equal to Ontario's share of the Annual interest on our National Debt. In the face of our financial responsibilities alone, is this the time to repeal the Ontario Temperance Act or relax a single one of its restrictions upon waste of money and man power? To every question on the Referendum Ballot vote—

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

No Repeal—No Government beer shops—No intoxicating beer in Standard Hotel bars—No Government beer and whiskey shops. Be sure you are on the voters' list. Be sure you mark your ballot four times—X—X—X—in the column headed No.

THIS IS THE SAFE WAY TO DO YOUR WASHING

Many housewives prefer to keep the washing in the home. This is the safe and sanitary way. Clothes sent out to be washed are mixed with everybody's, and come in contact with contaminated linen. Also by keeping the washing in the home you can supervise it closely and often prevent the ruin of some delicate garment. Clothes last much longer when washed in the home.

With a Time Saver Electric Washer you can easily get all the washing done in your own home. It saves three whole hours on wash day and makes the day an easy one. Both washer and wringer are driven by electric power and run for 2c an hour. It is moderate in price. It pays back its cost in a year in the saving of laundry bills or washer woman's wages. We have a machine in the store for you. Let us demonstrate it in your home. Phone or call.

WATFORD

Through the Looking Glass

By EVELYN NESBIT

When a man offers you the world with a fence around it, there may be a string tied to it. Watch out for the string.

It is foolish for a young girl to marry a man for the things he promises to give her after the knot is tied. So easy is the business of making promises that all young swains are prone to paint the future in brilliant colors. And the young girl nibbles and bites. Then she regrets it—when it is too late.

Don't marry in the hope that you may ride in a golden automobile, or that you may have ice cream for dessert every day. Those are not the things that count. Don't marry for the sake of living in a hubby-to-be's fine five-story house, or for the sake of becoming part owner in his prosperous business. Watch out for the string.

Hubby-to-be may offer you his fine house as a home before you are married, but afterward he may expect you to run it for him as a boarding house. Hubby-to-be may offer you before you are married a partnership in his fine, prosperous business, but afterward he may expect you to sink your precious savings into it and lose them all.

Watch out for the string when you marry a man for the material good you may expect to get out of the match. If you have your eyes open beforehand you may learn that marriage founded on dollars and cents is a delusion and a snare. The woman who marries for the sake of having the world with a fence around it generally loses in the end.

The Gay Floral Toque.

Once again we have floral toques in our midst. This is the best of good news, for the floral toque in early spring, is a thing of beauty and a real joy to eyes wearied by the sight of gray, rather dreary, days and evenings. And then the floral toque is almost universally becoming. The leading milliners in Paris are showing these toques in several different forms; but personally I award the palm for beauty to the close-fitting Russian turban shape which I have sketched.

On a young and pretty girl, or woman, this is an ideal toque for early spring wear. It may be covered with any small flat flower, but roses, violets, hyacinths or scarlet japonica blossoms are perhaps the best of all. The model was covered with dull pink Banksta roses, and very lovely it was. Quite plain and simple, but full of rich and varied color, for the little roses were shaded—here and there dark.

This style of toque must be pressed close down on the head so that the hair at the back is almost covered. No fringe shows on the forehead, but coquettish curls are allowed to straggle forward over the ears. A toque of this kind made entirely of dark purple violets would be lovely; or of Parma violets mixed with dull blue hyacinths; or again with moss roses and soft green rose leaves.

For Correct Combination.

The correct thing to combine with such a toque as this is a large square throw-over veil made of taupe gray Russian net, with the border embroidered in silver threads. These taupe-colored veils are extremely becoming to bright complexions. They look remarkably smart when worn with an all-black hat or toque.

Floral toque covered with dull pink Banksta roses. A thing of beauty and a great relief from the dark gray days.

Jet and Velvet Hats for Late Winter.

For late winter wear there are some very attractive little hats of jet and velvet. The jet sequins are spangled all over with velvet, which is then coated into a becoming little hat with a puffed crown and a narrow brim. Some of these hats are cut with mitered crown, like a bishop's cap.

VERY NEAT DUVETYN COAT

Simplicity in lines is the keynote of this attractive brown duvetyne coat. Practically the only deviation is found in the four little box plaits. There are self-piped button holes and fancy black and green buttons to match.

Nature and the Indian

The Indian never liked work but he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible so that she could do the work and let him hunt, therefore he dug up some root for her, for that was their great remedy for female weakness.

Dr. Pierce uses the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription" skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective.

Women who are worn out, who suffer from pain at regular or irregular intervals, who are nervous or dizzy at times, should take that reliable, temperance, herbal tonic which a doctor in active practice prescribed many years ago. Now sold by druggists, in tablets and liquid, as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

WOODROCK, Ont.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Medicines. I had nervous prostration and was completely 'down and out.' I was so bad the doctors considered mine a hopeless case. I was much discouraged and was ready to give up when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines put me on my feet again and gave me the only real relief. Being a nurse I have recommended Dr. Pierce's Medicines to many, especially the 'Favorite Prescription.' I know of many a young mother to whom I have recommended 'Favorite Prescription' that has been wonderfully helped."

"I am glad to lend my name in connection with Dr. Pierce's Medicines, knowing how good they are."—Miss A. L. MILLER, 616 John Street.

MARRIED

In Parkhill, on Tuesday, August 19, 1919, by Rev. T. T. George, Margaret James, formerly of Strathroy, to Hugh D. Johnson inspector of public schools, Strathroy.

In London, on August 21, by the Rev. H. T. Ferguson, Mrs. Mary Luman, of Caradoc, to Colin McKeigan, Strathroy.

DIED

In Warwick, on Sunday, August 24th, Mary Ann McLachlan, aged 56 years.

In Adelaide, on Aug. 20, 1919, Ann Jane Harris, relict of the late Wm. Dowding, aged 79 years, 7 Months and 29 days.

The death took place on Wednesday, August 13th, at 673 McGee street, Winnipeg, of Anne Denning, daughter of the late Matthew Denning, Kerwood, and wife of William Lightfoot. She had been ailing some time from the effects of the flu. She leaves beside her sorrowing husband and two children, Clarence and Freda, three brothers and two sisters: Arthur and Robert, of Kerwood; Cecil, of Cairngorm; Essie, of Caradoc, and Menica, of Druitwood, New Ontario.

War and Human Nature.

Referring to the oft repeated claim that there can be no such thing as universal peace, because war is a phase of human nature—that men always have and always will fight, Dr. Frank Crane thus speaks: "War, human nature! Yes, as leprosy is human nature, or tuberculosis, or epilepsy, or homicidal madness! As demons in hell, in human shape, are human beings." The idea that men of sense will justify war because it is human nature would fit them for the lunatic asylum. And then the doctor goes on to say: "Give human nature a chance. Let the people manage their governments and war will speedily cease forever."

And that's true too. It is despicable the way some people will blame human nature for war. By that argument every crime could be justified. — Ohio State Journal.

Garden Soil.

Test your garden soil for acidity. Procure a dime's worth of blue litmus paper at a drug store. Make a slit or incision in the damp soil, put in paper two-thirds its length and leave it for a half hour. If the change of color is to red or deep pink your soil needs heavy liming. If there is no change of color liming will be of little value.

If garden soil is heavy, or "hungry"—that is, harsh and lacking in humus—give it plenty of well rotted stable manure. Nothing could be better. If the soil is in excellent physical condition bonemeal with the addition of a little potash will supply the plant food necessary for any ordinary crop of plants or mere annual growth.

Winnipeg is without a rival in Canada for divorce proceedings. It is announced that over 1,100 divorce applications have been filed for hearing when the Court of King's bench opens in that city for the fall sittings. Six judges will be occupied hearing the cases. In the majority of cases the divorce applications are being made by soldiers, who have returned to find their wives have been unfaithful.

Has Labored Long for Prohibition

THE weight of seventy-six years of the most strenuous living and most able activity have left Joseph Gibson of Ingersoll not a worn out old man whose life has all been spent, but rather a man full of "ginger" and imbued with a spirit that readily makes him one of the youngest in spirit of any company he cares to enter.

It should hardly be necessary to say that Joseph Gibson's great cause all through life has been that of temperance. For nearly sixty years he has been pounding old John Barleycorn with both fists from the platform, from the pulpit, on the street and through the mails. He has chased old King John to his lair on many occasions, and for this reason alone is known from coast to coast and even well within the interior of the land of Uncle Sam.

Born in a little cabin used as a wayside inn on the west coast of England, in the year 1842, and having left that country with his parents for Canada at the age of nine years, he can almost be termed a Canadian all through. He is at heart, and that is really the part that counts. He is Canadian at heart, yet with the warmest possible love and devotion for the land of his birth and the place of his people. The family came to a little hamlet near Ingersoll, then called Manchester, and now known as Salford. There they stayed for a short time before going to a farm in Zorra. They came from there to Ingersoll one year later, and the boy bustled himself as best he could about the home, while his family engaged in the blacksmithing and wagon manufacturing business.

In 1870 the young lad went to work in the implement foundry of Noxon Brothers at Ingersoll, first as a laborer and later as a mechanic.

HIS ability soon got him into the office. After a short time of this he entered the grocery and provision business, also in Ingersoll. About the time he was being widely recognized as an able platform speaker in the cause of temperance, although only twenty-three years of age. In those days, the liquor men had chosen as their champion a wonderfully clever and finished platform speaker in the person of E. King Dodds. For three years Mr. Gibson was literally always to be found upon the heels of Dodds. He followed the man to his meetings, and many were the verbal wars waged from the platforms. In those three years, young Gibson missed only one of Dodds' meetings. Mr. Gibson had been the favorite of the temperance men, and his success during those three years was the joy of the temperance minds.

Gibson's energies did not end with the temperance cause, nor were they all given to that end. He was a force in the Methodist Church, as he is today, and from those days he has never missed a convention or an assembly. He was once sent to London, England, in the year 1901 to attend a great world-wide council of the Methodist Church, which is held every ten years. He has been active in all the branches of the church work—in the bookroom, in the pulpit, and wherever else he could fit in.

He was once defeated in a contest for the House of Commons at the time of the National Policy. He was defeated, however, with the realization that he had polled the largest vote that a Conservative had ever polled in his riding up to that time.

He loves baseball and cricket, especially the former, because of the fact that he at one time pitched for the champion team of Canada, called the All Canadians. Referring to baseball, Mr. Gibson says the pitcher is still called a pitcher, although in reality he throws the ball in the game of to-day. In his day, it was underhand pitching and nothing else. The rules of the game, as far as the pitcher's end of it was concerned, were very austere, and a man had to have his mind with him all the time.

Joseph Gibson, despite all these activities, is to-day postmaster at Ingersoll, and has held that position since 1882. He has held it despite the coming and going of Governments, and has held it despite the coming and going of his own ambitions. He goes down to the office bright and early each morning and he has his share of the active work to do. This he does with all his characteristic "pep" and hustle, and when his time comes and the work is finished, he goes into his private office to read his correspondence from all parts of the continent and on many subjects.

His home life is all that it should be. He is happiest when there, although he expresses thoughts of longing when he looks over the places where his six sons saw the days of boyhood and grew up and then left him. One of these is Lieut.-Col. Thomas Gibson, now Deputy Minister of Militia overseas. All the sons are married and away from the parental roof. With his wife and daughter he is happy, however, and looks each day for the sunrise of life that his energy and his love of nature bring him. He has too few Sundays at home, however, as he is nearly always away in the cause of the Dominion Alliance, of which he once headed the Ontario branch.

CHAPTER XI. The Death Sentence.

A FEW moments before the appointed time on the following morning a strong guard of Zat Arras' officers appeared at our quarters to conduct us to the great hall of the temple.

In two we entered the chamber and marched down the broad aisle of hope, as it is called, to the platform in the center of the hall. Before and behind us marched armed guards, while three solid ranks of Zodangan soldiery lined either side of the aisle from the entrance to the rostrum.

As we reached the raised inclosure I saw our judges. As is the custom upon Barsoom, there were thirty-one, supposedly selected by lot from men of the noble class, for nobles were on trial.

But to my amazement I saw no single friendly face among them. Practically all were Zodangans, and it was I to whom Zodanga owed her defeat at the hands of the green hordes and her subsequent vassalage to Helium.

There could be little justice here for John Carter or his son or for the great Thark who had commanded the savage tribesmen who overran Zodanga's broad avenues, looting, burning and murdering.

About us the vast circular coliseum was packed to its fullest capacity. All classes were represented—all ages and both sexes. As we entered the hall the hum of subdued conversation ceased until as we halted upon the platform or throne of righteousness the silence of death enveloped the spectators.

The judges were seated in a great circle about the periphery of the circular platform. We were assigned seats with our backs toward a small platform in the exact center of the larger one.

This placed us facing the judges and the audience. Upon the smaller platform each would take his place while his case was being heard.

Zat Arras himself sat in the golden chair of the presiding magistrate. As we were seated and our guards retired to the foot of the stairway leading to the platform he arose and called my name.

"John Carter," he cried, "take your place upon the pedestal of truth to be judged impartially according to your acts and here to know the reward you have earned thereby."

Then, turning to and fro toward the audience, he narrated the acts upon the value of which my reward was to be determined.

"Know you, O judges and people of Helium," he said, "that John Carter, one time Prince of Helium, has returned, by his own statement, from the valley Dor and even from the temple of Issus itself."

"That, in the presence of many men of Helium, he has blasphemed against the sacred Iss, and against the valley Dor, and the lost sea of Korus, and the holy therns themselves, and even against Issus, goddess of death and life eternal."

"And know you further by witness of thine own eyes that see him here now upon the pedestal of truth that he has indeed returned from these sacred precincts in the face of our ancient customs and in violation of the sanctity of our ancient religion."

"He who be once dead may not live again. He who attempts it must be made dead forever. Judges, your duty lies plain before you—there can be no testimony in contravention of truth. What reward shall be meted to John Carter in accordance with the acts he has committed?"

"Death!" shouted one of the judges. And then a man sprang to his feet in the audience and, raising his hand on high, cried, "Justice, justice, justice!" It was Kantos Kan, and as all eyes turned toward him he leaped past the Zodangan soldiery and sprang upon the platform.

"What manner of justice is this?" he cried to Zat Arras. "The defendant has not been heard, nor has he had an opportunity to call others in his behalf. In the name of the people of Helium, I demand fair and impartial treatment for the Prince of Helium."

A great cry rose from the audience then, "Justice, justice, justice!" And Zat Arras dared not deny them.

"Speak, then," he snarled, turning to me. "But blaspheme not against the things that are sacred upon Barsoom."

"Men of Helium," I cried, turning to the spectators and speaking over the heads of my judges, "how can John Carter expect justice from the men of Zodanga? He cannot, nor does he ask it."

"It is to the men of Helium that he states his case, nor does he appeal for mercy to any. It is not in his own cause that he speaks now; it is in yours, in the cause of your wives and daughters and of wives and daughters yet unborn."

"It is to save them from the unthinkable atrocious indignities that I have seen heaped upon the fair women of Barsoom in the place men call the temple of Issus. It is to save them from the plant men, from the fangs of the white apes of Dor, from the cruelty of the holy therns, from all that the cold, dead Iss carries them to from homes of love and happiness."

"Sits there any man here who does not know the history of John Carter—how he came among you from another world and rose from a prisoner among the green men, through torture and persecution, to a place high among the highest of Barsoom?"

"Nor ever did you know John Carter to lie in his own behalf, nor to say aught that might harm the people of Barsoom, or to speak lightly of the strange religion which he respected without understanding."

"There be no man here, or elsewhere upon Barsoom today, who does not owe his life directly to a single act of mine, in which I sacrificed myself and the happiness of my princes that you might live."

"And so, men of Helium, I think that I have the right to demand that I be heard, that I be believed and that you let me serve you and save you from the false hereafter of Dor and Issus, as I saved you from the real death the other day."

"It is to you of Helium that I speak now. When I am done let the men of Zodanga have their will with me. Zat Arras has taken my sword from me, so the men of Zodanga no longer fear me. Will you listen?"

"Speak, John Carter, prince of Helium," cried a noble from the audience, and the multitude echoed his permission, until the building rocked with the noise of their demonstration.

Zat Arras knew better than to interfere with such a sentiment as was expressed that day in the temple of Hevard, and so for two hours I talked with the people of Helium.

But when I had finished Zat Arras rose and, turning to the judges, said in a low tone: "My nobles, you have heard John Carter's plea. Every opportunity has been given him to prove his innocence if he be not guilty, but instead he has but utilized the time in further blasphemy. What, gentlemen, is your verdict?"

"Death to the blasphemer!" cried one, springing to his feet, and in an instant the entire thirty-one judges were on their feet with upraised swords in token of the unanimity of their verdict.

If the people did not hear Zat Arras' charge they certainly did hear the verdict of the tribunal. A sullen murmur rose louder and louder above the packed coliseum, and then Kantos Kan, who had not left the platform since first he had taken his place near me, raised his hand for silence. When he could be heard he spoke to the people in a cool and level voice.

"You have heard the fate that the men of Zodanga would mete to Helium's noblest hero. It may be the duty of the men of Helium to accept "Death!" shouted one of the judges. The verdict as final. Let each man act according to his own heart. Here is the answer of Kantos Kan to Zat Arras and his judges."

And with that he unbuckled his scabbard and threw his sword at my feet. In an instant soldiers and citizens, officers and nobles, were crowding past the soldiers of Zodanga and forcing their way to the throne of righteousness. A hundred men surged upon the platform, and a hundred blades rattled and clanked to the floor at my feet.

Zat Arras and his officers were furious, but they were helpless. One by one I raised the swords to my lips and buckled them again upon their owners. "Come," said Kantos Kan, "we will escort John Carter and his party to his own prison. They formed about us and started toward the stairs leading to the aisle of hope.

"Stop!" cried Zat Arras. "Soldiers of Helium, let no prisoner leave the throne of righteousness."

The soldiery from Zodanga were the only organized body of Heliumetic troops within the temple, so Zat Arras was confident that his orders would be obeyed, but I do not think that he looked for the opposition that was raised the moment the soldiers advanced toward the throne.

From every quarter of the coliseum swords flashed and men rushed threateningly upon the Zodangans. So one raised a cry: "Tardos Mors is dead! A thousand years to John Carter, jeddak of Helium!"

As I heard that and saw the ugly attitude of the men of Helium toward the soldiers of Zat Arras, I knew that only a miracle would avert a clash that would end in civil war. "Hold!" I cried, leaping to the pedestal of truth once more. "Let no man move till I am done. A single sword thrust here today may plunge Helium into a bitter and bloody war, the results of which none can foresee. It will turn brother against brother and father against son."

"No man's life is worth that sacrifice. Rather would I submit to the biased judgment of Zat Arras than be the cause of civil strife in Helium."

"Let us each give in a point to the other, and let this entire matter rest until Tardos Mors returns, or Mors Kajak, his son. If neither be back at the end of a year a second trial may be held—the thing has a precedent."

"Hold! Let no man move till I am done."

Then, turning to Zat Arras, I said in a low voice: "Unless you be a bigger fool than I take you to be, you will grasp the chance I am offering you ere it is too late. Once that multitude of swords below is drawn against your soldiery no man upon Barsoom—not even Tardos Mors himself—can avert the consequences. What say you? Speak quickly."

The jed of Zodangan Helium raised his voice to the angry sea beneath us. "Stay your hands, men of Helium," he shouted, his voice trembling with rage. "The sentence of the court is passed, but the day of retribution has not been set."

"I, Zat Arras, jed of Zodanga, appreciating the royal connections of the prisoner and his past services to Helium and Barsoom, grant a respite of one year, or until the return of Mors Kajak or Tardos Mors to Helium. Disperse quietly to your houses. Go!"

No one moved; instead they stood in tense silence with their eyes fastened upon me, as though waiting for a signal to attack.

FOR SPRAINS AND BRUISES.—There is nothing better for sprains and contusions than Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It will reduce the swelling that follows a sprain, will cool the inflamed flesh and draw the pain as if by magic. It will take the ache out of a bruise and prevent the flesh from discoloring. It seems as if there was magic in it, so speedily does the injury disappear under treatment.

DON'T JUMP TO CONCLUSIONS.

What is the difference between remedy and cure? Any disease which is liable to recur cannot be indefinitely "cured." You may dispel the germs from the system—but that is simply remedying it.

A man suffers for years with Rheumatism. After trying numerous treatments without success, he takes Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, and is restored to perfect health again.

A year or so later Rheumatic symptoms appear again. What does he immediately conclude? That it is his old trouble returned; that the medicine he took had only a temporary effect; that he will never again be well. This impression is the one we wish to eradicate—because it is entirely false. Whenever Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules are given a fair trial they remedy Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuritis, Neuralgia, or any of their kindred diseases.

T.R.C.'s won't make you immune from the above diseases. They will remedy them and drive them from your system, but whenever you feel an attack coming on, start using T.R.C.'s again.

Sole Agents for Watford, J. W. McLaren, druggist, the Rexall Store, or if you live out of town mail $1.04 to the above address or to Templeton Limited, 142 King street west, Toronto, and capsules will be sent postpaid.

Popular Song Is Set on

Its Legs by Organization, Artifice and Manifold Talk

THE songs we hear whistled by the street-boy, or the ballads hummed by wealthy girls in the drawing-room, seem to have arrived quite naturally at their popularity, don't they?

As a matter of fact, each song, before it appears in the music-sellers' window, has probably had a career full of incident, says Answers.

The public wants new songs, and requires them of a certain type; but for the rest its mind is largely made up for it by the music publishers, who cater for the public's need, and who, in their turn, depend on the work of the composer and the author.

The author writes songs and lyrics which the composer sets to music. Both these craftsmen are aware that for the general public they have mainly to provide tuneful music and words that make a direct appeal.

With their knowledge of what has sold, the path of the lyricist and composer is fairly clear. They know the publisher will accept songs of the right nature. The procedure is as follows:—

The lyricist writes his poem and sends it to a composer who sets to music that type of lyric, be it a song of love or humor, a barrack-room or seafaring ballad. If the composer deems the offered words suitable he weaves his melody round the words, and pays the lyricist a set sum of money for it.

Often certain lyricists and composers suit each other, and work together. In other cases, where an author is well-known and standardized, the composer may approach him first.

The composer, possessing now the theme for his song, "sets" it. He proceeds with the completed work to a publishing firm which caters for that class of song. The publisher's office is probably one of a suite of offices, or a room behind a music shop. Here the composer sits down to the piano, and plays over the tune to the publisher's editor.

This gentleman, having been seeking "popular hits" for years, has developed an acute instinct for the right thing. If the song appeals to him as likely to make a hit and be a quick seller, he occasionally buys the sole rights of the song. But more often, as its popularity is still to make, he either pays a certain sum, with royalties to follow, or works solely on royalties. By royalties, the composer receives so much on all songs sold.

The songs accepted, it is printed and published. One would think the music publisher's work now ended; but it has merely begun. The serious business of booming the song is the most strenuous part of his duty.

Briefly, the publisher has to advertise his song, as any other wares are advertised.

One method is by inserting in newspapers and trade periodicals an advertisement, which takes the form of the opening musical bars of the verse or refrain, together with the words of the lyric.

Another way is to send out lists, similarly made up, of the publisher's latest songs.

A good firm, in more elaborate style, will arrange, at one of the principal London concert-rooms, a series of concerts. A tour on the same lines is arranged for the provinces, and the chief towns of Great Britain are visited. For these concerts, well-known singers of each voice, the front rank of the profession, are approached by the publisher.

If these artists accept the engagement, it is understood that they sing songs published by the firm feeling them, and they are expected to introduce into their repertoire one or two of the new publications.

In the case of a firm publishing more popular songs and music hall "stuff," the pull of such songs has already been tested to a certain extent in the following fashion.

For a suitable consideration, or with the idea of trying over a "find" for his own turns, a singer has introduced them on the stage as his encore or third song. By the applause gained the singing quickly gauges the commercial value of the effort.

If it shows signs of gaining public favor, the publisher pushes the song to the utmost. During the seaside season, he will get it similarly introduced at pierrot shows.

But the greatest opportunity arrives with the pantomime months. The publisher will then approach the pantomime producers, and arrange with them for a scene of the song to be made. Thus, a song of which the theme is, say, poppies, will be staged with a cornfield or hedge-row background, and the singer and chorus will be dressed in the colors or semblance of the flower.

And so, as a result of organization, artifice, and manifold toil, the popular song is set on its legs, and started for a long run.

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation:

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

An old man from the country would not believe that he could hear his wife talk a distance of 15 miles by telephone. His wife went to a neighboring city one day and the old man went down town just to satisfy himself by experimenting with the telephone. He went to the exchange office and told them that he wanted to talk to his wife. They explained how to operate the phone and the old man walked boldly up and exclaimed, "Hello Jane!" At that instant lightning struck the line and knocked the old man flat on the floor. As he scrambled to his feet he excitedly cried: "That is Jane, by gosh!"

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The High School opened Tuesday morning for the session of 1919-20 with nearly 100 students in attendance, some 36 or more registering for the first time, thus overtaking the First Form classroom. At 10 o'clock the students and teachers assembled in Room 3 and the session opened with the singing of the National Anthem and an invocation, followed by announcements by the staff and short addresses by Miss McCaw, Miss Mitchell and Mr. R. A. Ballantyne, M. A. Mr. Ballantyne comes to Watford with the highest credentials. He is a Stratford man, trained in the Stratford Collegiate Institute and in Toronto University. In University he had a brilliant career, graduating in honor physics and mathematics, after which he entered the graduate school and won his M. A. degree in astro-physics. Since, he has graduated from the Faculty of Education in Toronto. Already, he has won the staff and students. Watford extends to him her heartiest welcome.

Ripening Tomatoes

Tomatoes gathered before ripe and set in a sunny place will ripen in time. They will ripen just as quickly and much more thoroughly, if placed in a dark place instead. Tomatoes ripened in the sun ripen on the surface first and a hard core is often the result. Tomatoes ripened in the dark appear to ripen from the centre outwards, and even when the outer surface is still partly green will reveal a thoroughly ripe interior of delicious flavor. Ripening in the hot sun hardens the skin, and, if left too long softening and withering of the surface takes place. In a dark place the ripening takes place without injury, and the fruit will be as firm as if ripened on the vine. The man who picked unripe tomatoes, wrapped each one in brown paper and set them in the oven of the coal range, which, of course, is not in use at this season, had far better luck in ripening them than had a neighbor, who placed the fruit he picked on the fence ledge in full glare of the sun.

How to Kill Smut in Wheat

Smut is a fungus disease, which can be prevented by treating the seed with Formalin Solution as follows:—

One pint of Formalin in forty gallons of water, and allow grain to soak for twenty minutes.

It is estimated that the average annual loss with oats and wheat in Ontario due to smut is $2,444,000. In view of this it would certainly pay to take time to treat the seed.

WHY BEAUTY FADES

A Condition Due Entirely to Poor Watery Blood.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes thin, pale, haggard and angular. She not only tires out easily but suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite. This condition will go from bad to worse, until perhaps fatal consumption sets in, if prompt steps are not taken to increase and enrich the blood supply. To make the rich red blood that brings the glow of health, no medicine yet discovered can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If given a fair trial their use brings rosy cheeks, bright eyes, a good appetite and good spirits. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of pale, languid girls active and strong. On the first sign of poor, thin blood mothers should insist upon their daughters taking a fair course of these pills. They will not only restore health, but will save further doctor bills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
