BULGARIA IS IN BELLOUSE MOOD

Attitude Does Not Make For Balkan Peace

CONCENTRATING TROOPS

Plan to Cut Communications Between Greeks and Servians—Note to Greece of Same Tenor as That Sent Serbia

(Canadian Press)

New York, June 21—A cable despatch from Athens says: Despite Russia's efforts for peace, little hope is entertained in political circles here, for a friendly understanding among the allies regarding the new frontiers, owing to Bulgaria's irreconcilable attitude.

Bulgaria has almost completed her concentration of troops in Macedonia, 70,000 facing the Greeks, between Pravista and Angitia, and between Belran and Kilgija, with the object of cutting the communications between the Greek and Servian armies by seizing the Uskup and Solonica railway at Gheorghel.

The main Bulgarian army concentrated against the Servians between Eshlip and Kuchinga has ten divisions of 20,000 men each, being spread along the Serbo-Bulgarian boundary between Kostendil and Silivritza and Vidin in order to defend Sofia.

The troops facing the Servians are under the command of General Sava, whose headquarters are at Sofia, which is also the headquarters of General Ivanoff, who is commanding the troops which will operate against the Greeks in case of war.

London, June 21—Bulgaria, in a note sent to Greece, has assumed the same attitude that she took in her voluminous note addressed to the Servian government on Thursday. The note says Bulgaria declines to cease the concentration of her troops on the Greek lines or to demobilize their forces unless Greece consents to a joint occupation of disputed territory.

According to reports current at Salonika, Bulgaria will require another ten days to complete the concentration of her forces against Serbia and Greece. Numerous small skirmishes between the opposing armies are reported.

New York, June 21—A cable to the Tribune from London says: Unless Bulgaria and Serbia can be induced to take up a less uncompromising attitude or the powers act promptly and effectively to bring about a renewal of war in the Balkans still seems probable. A state of absolute deadlock prevails and all Europe is anxiously awaiting the next move. Vienna thinks war is almost certain and Bulgaria is undoubtedly in a much stronger military position now than before.

WIFE AWAY, PICTURE MAN ALSO MISSING

Montreal, June 21—About a month ago the pretty blonde wife of Frank W. Foster, left her home ostensibly to visit her sister in Troy, N. Y., of which place she was a native. About the same time there left the city J. Hillary Martin, also known as "Jack" Martin, a moving picture show lecturer.

Now, Mr. Foster is searching for his wife and for Mr. Martin, while the immigration authorities of Canada and the United States are equally anxious to locate him. Mr. Foster wants his wife and the immigration authorities want to talk to Mr. Martin about some pictures which he is said to have shown in Montreal, and is believed to have with him in the United States, entitled, "The White Slave Traffic Exposed."

It was on or about May 17, according to police statements today, that Mrs. Foster told her husband that she was going to visit her sister in Troy, N. Y., which was her home city.

Previous friendship between Mrs. Foster and Martin, so the police say, led Foster to the reluctant conclusion that there was more than the merely incidental in the simultaneous departure.

Private inquiries confirmed the suspicion that Mrs. Foster and Mr. Martin had agreed to join fate and fortune. The sorrowing husband learned that the pair had located at Detroit, and he called on the police to aid him.

The local men got into touch with Detroit, and detectives there went to the house where a pair answering the description were staying. They learned that the supposed "Jack" Martin was accompanied by a blonde lady, answering Foster's description of his wife in every way, and possessed of many diamonds. Both Martin and she were out. They were not located.

JUDGE PAROLE INNOCENT MAN

Has Served Two Years for Robbery He Did Not Commit

Topoka, Kas., June 21—George Horton, sent to the state penitentiary in 1910, charged with the robbery of a jewelry store in Medicine Lodge, Kas., has served nearly two years for a crime he did not commit, according to facts brought out when Governor Hodge announced the granting of a permanent parole to Horton.

Horton's conviction was based mainly upon the fact that a bloodstain placed upon the trail, directed suspicion to him. Horton's friends were able to present evidence to the governor that the young man had no connection with the robbery. The stolen jewelry, valued at $250, was found hidden under a Medicine Lodge hotel, and it was shown that it had been placed there after Horton had been sent to prison.

DECLINE TO DISMISS THE POLICE COMMISSIONER

Waldo to Remain Head of The New York Force — Politics Alleged

CONCENTRATING TROOPS

Plan to Cut Communications Between Greeks and Servians—Note to Greece of Same Tenor as That Sent Serbia

(Canadian Press)

New York, June 21—The Board of Aldermen has rejected by a vote of 45 to 29 its political police investigation committee's report that recommended, among other things, the removal of Police Commissioner Waldo from office. The report was a majority one prepared after an enquiry made subsequent to the murder of Herman Rosenthal, a gambler, by gunmen hired by former Police Lieut. Charles Becker.

The refusal to adopt the report followed a wordy wrangle, in which it was freely charged by Tammany Democrats and by Fusionists that politics was largely behind both the preparation of the document and the opposition to its acceptance.

Two boys named Caples and Hayes appeared before Magistrate Ritchie in the police court this morning charged with hitting a horse on the road near Treatwell lake on June 8, and were remanded.

W. B. Daley, Howard Sudsbar and James Carbery, told of seeing the boys together with three others driving a horse up and down the road and beating it. They put it in a barn, S. M. Wetmore, secretary of the S. P. C., who was in court and commended the actions of the men in taking the horse from the boys. The names of the other three boys were learned and they will be asked to appear in the evidence.

William Guthrie, charged with being drunk and disorderly in the Courtyard Construction Co. camp at East St. John, was fined $8 or 30 days on the drunkenness charge and remanded on the other.

Arthur West, fined for drunkenness yesterday morning, got out of jail by paying his fine and was picked up in a doorway in West St. John and instead of being fined $8 or two months in jail.

Thomas Evans, arrested yesterday on a warrant for non-support of his wife, pleaded not guilty and was remanded.

Harry Short came to court to answer a charge of disturbing the peace in Brussels street, but as the witnesses were not present, he was allowed to go. He will be asked to appear on Monday.

MCPHEE AGAINST JOE TARBELL THIS AFTERNOON

Leaders and Fighting Tail-Enders To Meet — Hanley Goes to Highlanders

This afternoon's game on the Marathon grounds should prove a lively contest. Tarbell will be in the box for the Marathons, while McPhee, who pitched such a strong game against the locals in Bangor when last here, will toss them up for the visitors. The locals are in the up grade and may be depended on to fight hard to wipe out McPhee's last defeat.

Jim Hanley, captain and pitcher of the Manhattan College team, has been signed today to pitch for the New York Highlanders, a southpaw who watched last they should be overcome by the temptation to secure another advertisement for "the cases."

INVENTS BURGLAR ALARM

Will Render Safebolts Temporarily Blind and Unconscious

Buffalo, June 21—A brand new burglar alarm and a safeguard against thieves, was demonstrated to a few officials at the Court House here by a Buffalo woman, and those who witnessed the demonstration were convinced that the woman chemist has a preparation worth serious consideration. The woman declares that if her compound is used in a safe, the first person to open the safe with an explosive will be subjected to temporary blindness and will have to leave the room where the safe is located.

Marconi Matter Useless as Election Material

LOYD GEORGE STRENGTHENED

Queen Mary Disturbed Over The Ascot Incident—The Suffragette Who Dropped From Tree at Feet of King and Queen as They Walked in Buckingham Palace Grounds

(Times' Special Cable)

London, June 21—Both parties profess themselves satisfied with the result of the Marconi debate but there is very little evidence of this satisfaction extending beyond the walls of parliament. Mr. Balfour, with instinctive genius for leadership, saw that the country wanted the matter lifted out of the party point of view. Had his lead been accepted a unanimous finding on the lines of the Addins amendment would have been the ending of the scandal. It is clear enough from the study of the speeches that Addins' formula was the adequate summing up of the opinion of the house.

The curious subterranean divisions of the Tory party are responsible for the Marconi scandal. The "die hard" element which has led the party into still its recent misadventures apparently is still in control and cherishes the hope that the Marconi matter will be useful as an electioneering cry, but it is very doubtful whether, when the time comes, the echoes of this stale scandal will have even platform value. The whole transaction has been so minutely sifted by the press that the "die hard" element are likely to be influenced further.

In the long run Lloyd George's position in the country will be strengthened instead of damaged if his opponents reveal a desire to drive him from public life. The woman declares that if her compound is used in a safe, the first person to open the safe with an explosive will be subjected to temporary blindness and will have to leave the room where the safe is located.

The fluid is a combination of three powerful drugs, and is contained in a small, thin vial, with a sealed cork. The vial is placed anywhere in the room, and is so small that it takes up little room. When the safe door is forced open with an explosive, the vial breaks, a quantity of the chemicals splatters about and nauseating fumes are produced. If the thief remains in the room, in a few seconds he would be unconscious and would be in a state of coma for several hours.

The blindness is only temporary, but is sufficient to prevent the thief from taking the contents of the safe.

Jewelers of Fresno Say Sample Shows The Real Thing—Great Mass Found in Digging Well—Weights Twenty Tons

(Canadian Press)

Fresno, Calif., June 21—Fred Williams, farmer near Bakerfield, brought to Fresno yesterday, for assaying, a chunk from a meteor which he says he found on his ranch at a depth of sixteen feet, while digging a well. A chunk has the appearance of solid gold.

Williams was unable to find an assayer, but took the sample to local jewelers, who pronounced it crystallized gold. Williams says the mass must weigh at least twenty tons.

San Francisco, June 21—M. A. Martin, assayer of the United States mint here, when asked for his opinion concerning the report from Fresno about the finding of gold from a meteor, said that gold is sometimes found in crystal form, especially in the mines of Australia. Gold has never been found in a meteor, however, as far as he knows.

If Williams' discovery is not exaggerated, he is worth about $100,000,000 more than he was worth before his find.

Commissioner McLellan Gives Important Notice of Motion For Monday

At the meeting of the city commission on June 20, Commissioner H. R. McLellan was given notice that at the council meeting on Monday he would move that in future all city business should be done in public meetings of the commission and not in private meetings of the commission.

DID NOT GET MUCH TO CHEER THEM FROM THE MARINE MINISTER

No Very Definite Hopes of Government Action Regarding Pressing Harbor Developments

No very definite hopes of any action on the part of the government were held out by the minister of marine and fisheries at his conference with the city commissioners yesterday when matters were discussed.

The lack of progress in preparing terminals for the entry of the G. T. P. into this city was taken up and the net result was a suggestion that the city should ask the railway company what they intend to do about it on their own account.

Another important matter, that of providing grain conveyors to enable the steamers to take their grain cargoes without the necessity of several shifts from one wharf to another at considerable expense of time and money was dismissed with the assurance that the C. P. R. would look after the grain.

An appropriation was made last session for a beginning on the work of extending the breakwater from Negro Head to Partridge Island and the minister intimated that this work might be undertaken this summer.

Fredrickton Police Make Liquor Seizure — An Offer From Ontario

Fredrickton, N. B., June 21—James Sproule, son of Fred M. Sproule, residing in Kings, and Miss May Hilliard, daughter of the late postmaster Hilliard, will be married this evening.

The police last night raided a saloon in King street, kept by Daniel Wall and confiscated several hundred dollars worth of liquor.

A Fredrickton merchant, who does not want his name made public, has received a tempting offer to manage a large manufacturing concern in Ontario. H. G. Kitchen has subscribed $500 to a fund to defray the cost of proposed improvements to the interior of the Brunswick street Baptist church.

(Aunt Sally in Woman's Healin)
M. W. says: "My neck is so discolored from wearing big, collars I cannot dress décollete. What do you advise?" The treatment recommended to "Annie" will doubtless overcome this condition.
A. F. G. asks: "What should I do for crow's-feet and wrinkles at the mouth corners?" A 7 1/2 oz. wash lotion made by dissolving 1/2 oz. powdered salicylic acid in 1/2 pt. witch hazel. This is immediately effective in any wrinkled condition. Use daily for awhile and results will astonish you.
Annie: A simple way to keep your skin smooth, soft and white is to apply ordinary mercurized wax before retiring, washing it off in the morning. This keeps the face free from the particles of lifeless cuticle which constantly appear. The wax absorbs these worn-out particles, so the younger, fresher, healthier skin is always in view. An ounce of mercurized wax may be had at small cost at any drug store. Use like cold cream.

HOW MRS. BROWN SUFFERED. During Change of Life—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman.

Jola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 309 N. Walnut St., Jola, Kan.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WALKS IN ON HIS OWN WAKE

New York, June 20.—When James Kelly returned to his home, 618 John street, Kearny, N.J., after a few days' absence on a painting job, for which he had a contract, he found his sister, Mrs. Catherine O'Brien, his brothers, Robert and Patrick, and a score of neighbors and friends sitting in the front parlor around a coffin. His kin were weeping.

Mr. Kelly, on the threshold, looked in amazement at the scene. He could not think of any relative who had died in the few days he had been away and he was at a loss to understand why the mourners had assembled.

Just then his sister glanced up and saw him in the doorway.

"Jim!" she shrieked and fainted. The other mourners, started by her cry and fall, sprang up and looked around.

"Why, there's Jim!" they cried. Patrick and Robert leaped forward and shook hands feverishly.

"Jim," they asked, "are you sure you're not a ghost?"

"As sure as I can be of anything in this life," replied Jim, smiling. "What's all the trouble? Why the casket—Who's dead?"

Then they told him. James Kelly, of Harrison, N.J., the best lover in Kearny, had dropped dead the day before from sunstroke in Newark. His death was recorded in the newspapers, and when Mrs. O'Brien read the item she was filled with fear that the sun's victim was her brother and that the papers had made an error in spelling his name.

Mrs. O'Brien hurried to St. Michael's Hospital in Newark, where Kelly's body lay. She identified him as her brother, and directed an undertaker to remove the body to Kearny.

Mooney placed the corpse on the door, had the body embalmed, and the neighbors were invited in for a last, sad view.

"But," said a neighbor, "if your painting job had lasted a day longer you'd have come home to find yourself buried!"

HON. WM. PUGSLEY TO BUILD MODERN APARTMENT HOUSE

Plans for the erection of a thoroughly up-to-date apartment house on the vacant lot on the corner of Germain and Princess streets are nearing completion.

The land was purchased recently by Hon. William Pugsley as a site for a garage but it was decided that the property was too valuable to be used for this purpose. Since then Dr. Pugsley has been making arrangements for the erection of an apartment house which will fill a pressing need in this city.

For some time negotiations have been under way looking to the organizing of a company having this object in view and it will not be long before the undertaking will assume practicable shape. Plans have already been drawn for a building of seven stories, occupying a space 100 feet by 80 feet and to contain forty-five apartments with the most modern conveniences. The building is to be of fireproof construction and if the plans are carried through it will compare favorably with the most ornate of the large apartment houses in Ottawa and Montreal.

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 21, 1913. The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

Telephone—Private exchange connecting all departments, Main 2117. Subscription prices—Delivered by carrier $2.00 per year, by mail $2.50 per year in advance. The Times has the largest afternoon circulation in the Maritime Provinces.

Special Representatives—Frank B. Northrup, Brunswick Building, New York; Advertising Building, Chicago. British and European representatives—The Glasgow Publishing Syndicate, Grand Trunk Building, Trafalgar Square, England, where copies of this journal may be seen and to which subscribers intending to visit England may have their mail addressed.

WHAT IS THE ANSWER? The public is not getting much information about the Grand Trunk Pacific's entrance to St. John, about the source of the Valley Railway from Gasquetown to this city, or about the completion of terminal facilities here for handling the new traffic to come so soon as the G. T. P. is hauling trains to Atlantic winter tide-water.

It is of no use to say that they cannot build terminals in Halifax any sooner than they can be built here. That is not at all the point. Unless action is prompt action—replaces the present do-nothing policy the freight will not go to either Halifax or St. John; it will go to Portland and to Boston, where the terminals are ready and the haul is short.

This is June, and nearly the end of June. The city fathers are still conferring with the government and with the C. P. R. about grain conveyors to be used next winter on the West Side, and so far as the public knows, it is not yet settled whether the city, the government or the C. P. R. is to build or pay for them.

This sort of delay may prove costly. It is an added source of uneasiness at the very time St. John is asking, thus far without success, for definite news about the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Valley Railway. This is the winter port of Canada. It is going to be satisfied with the treatment usually handed out by governments and corporations to branch-line towns?

THE SAME OLD STORY A western university has just concluded an investigation of the causes leading to the general movement of young people of both sexes from the farms to the cities. The investigation was made by two college professors who are inclined to place the blame on the low wages offered to farm laborers. Their report says:

"But there are some boys who stay in the country. In fact, the majority of them do, also the cities would soon be overrun. In the study of the shift of population from rural districts to urban centers the fact is generally ignored that there has come about a gradual but radical change in industrial progress during the past seventy-five years. The doing of things with machinery that were seventy-five years ago done by hand has created the big factories and the big factories in turn have made the cities. Farming also is now done largely by machinery, but the city demand for the man skilled in the handling of machinery is much more urgent and offers higher pay than is offered on the farm. When the pay averages as high on the farms there will be a more general reciprocity in population between the city and the country."

So far as this province is concerned there should not now be much complaint about the wages paid on the farms. Taking into consideration the higher cost of living in the cities and towns, the average man can earn as much in the country as he can in the city and the rural communities do not offer nearly so many ways for him to spend his money foolishly. It is the same old story that has been often repeated in connection with similar investigations. The boys and girls get a glimpse of the big towns and are dazzled with the life and movement. The farm thereafter seems dull to them, and sooner or later, they look for a permanent engagement in the city.

It would not be surprising if, after all, the real development of farming on strictly business lines is brought about by men from the cities who long for that quiet and freedom that only the country can give.

CANADA'S VOICE FOR PEACE It is useless to talk about the beauties of peace while making large and steady preparation for war, in the view of the peace advocates, and one can see the force of their argument without being ready, necessarily, to urge one nation to disarm while the others are still strengthening the striking power of their armies and navies. The Canadian Courier says this plain editorial word on the subject as it affects Canada:

"Should Canada send a message to the world such as this:—'We are warlike descendants of a warlike race, and we intend to take our part in the making of armaments? Or should we say:—'We believe that the world has gone crazy on the building of big navies, and while we shall prepare to protect our own, we shall not join the world-wide craze?'"

"In his speech in the House of Commons in May, Hon. W. A. Chazotte made a notable speech against war and preparations for war. This was favorably commented upon by many journals. One paragraph may be quoted.

BIRTHDAYS OF NOTABILITIES

SATURDAY, JUNE 21 Rev. Robert Campbell, ex-moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, celebrates his seventy-eighth birthday today. He is pastor emeritus of St. Gabriel's church, Montreal, and has had a long and distinguished career in the ministry.

SUNDAY, JUNE 22 This is the birthday of W. D. Matthews, a Toronto financier. He was born sixty-three years ago in Burford, Ont., and entered the grain business as a young man. He is director of many companies, including the C. P. R.

LIGHTER VEIN It was at a fashionable wedding in Savannah. The bridegroom had no visible means of support save his father, who was rich; but when he repeated that portion of the service he said boldly:

"With all my worldly goods I thee endow!" Whereupon the father said in a stage whisper that could be heard all over the church: "Heavens! There goes his bicycle!"

During the South African war letters sent home by British soldiers had to pass through the hands of a censor. A certain private had sent four or five letters home, and portions had been obliterated by the censor and were therefore illegible on their arrival at their destination. He decided to even accounts with the censor, and at the foot of the next letter he wrote: "Please look under the stamp."

A man attached to the U. S. embassy in London tells this story of Sabbath breaking north of the Tweed. One brassy Scot was hammering away at the bottom of his wheel-barrow when his wife came to the door. "Mon! Mon!" she exclaimed, "you're making much clatter. What will the neighbors say?"

THE GENTLE HINT Mrs. Boreman had dropped in "just for a minute," and the minute had extended already to an hour and a half. This was displeasing to Thomas, who sat and thought things. "Dear little chap," gushed Mrs. Boreman. "What are you thinking about so deeply, my little man?" "I was thinking," said Thomas promptly, "if it wasn't about time for you to go."

HEAT AND TEMPERATURE There is a positive difference between heat and temperature which many engineers fail to recognize. In raising water to the boiling point a certain volume of heat is expended, which may be identified by the thermometer; but after the boiling point, 212 deg. Fahr., is reached, 966.6 heat-units must be put into the water to convert it into steam, and the temperature of the steam will remain the same as that of the water when boiling began. That 966.6 is known as the latent heat of steam, and is the heat expended in tearing the atoms of heat asunder in the process of steam generation.

FULL APPRAISAL OF ASTOR ESTATE

Gross Value Has Been Fixed at $87,218,791

LARGE INHERITANCE TAX

Statement of the Astor Jewelry Included—Sunburst Worth $78,000; Necklace, $60,000; and Earrings $12,000—On Honeymoon Bought Gems Worth $70,000

John V. Cogsey, the inheritance tax appraiser has recently affixed his signature to the completed appraisal of the estate of Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished on April 15, 1912, in the wreck of the Titanic. The appraisal fixes the gross value of Colonel Astor's estate at $87,218,791.05, of which $68,124,821 was real estate and $19,093,970.05 was personal property. The appraiser's figures indicate that the net estate is $68,811,228.93.

The report shows that the $787,897.35 trust fund created as the anti-nuptial endowment of Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, Col. Astor's first wife, is taxed as a direct legacy to William Vincent Astor, her son. The reason for this, it appears, was that the trust was for Col. Astor's life, or during her widowhood. She was not his widow, however, in the eyes of the law, when he died, as he had a second wife, Mrs. Madeline Talmage Force Astor.

Col. Astor held at the time of his death, the report shows, a claim of $110,080 against Charles W. Morse, arising from a guarantee by Morse to hold Colonel Astor free from liability on stock of a telephone company during its transfer. Morse was in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary when Colonel Astor died.

$3,150,000 Paid on Tax
Colonel Astor's estate paid on October 11, 1912, the sum of $3,150,000 into the state treasury in payment on the inheritance tax due on his estate. This is the largest payment ever made in this or any other state as an inheritance tax. The payment was made to secure the rebate of 5 per cent allowed for payment of the tax within six months after death.

Whether this preliminary payment of tax will cover the amount of tax to be fixed by the courts will depend on the outcome of an appeal by the State Controller now pending in the Court of Appeals. The state will be attempting to have it held that an entirely new method of computation of tax was provided by the amendment of the inheritance tax law of 1911, and, if he succeeds, some hundreds of thousands of dollars will be added to the tax. The Surrogate will be compelled to fix the tax under the present precedents, and an appeal will be taken as a matter of form as soon as the taxing order is entered.

Mrs. Madeline Talmage Force Astor's anti-nuptial fund of $1,111,111 is not taxable since it was made over to her outright with power of disposition during Colonel Astor's life. The larger trust fund it was calculated that she had a taxable interest of $1,094,199, and that Vincent Astor's interest, based on his expectation of outliving her, was $284,040. Her interest in her life estate is $8,000,000, left to her by Colonel Astor's will until her death, and her interest was estimated to be worth $989,145, and Vincent Astor's interest therein was estimated at $992,712. The value of her life estate in the property at 840 Fifth avenue was estimated at $1,974,870. The property interest of $2,475,000, with a remainder interest to Vincent Astor of $476,846. In the contents of the house valued at $629,449, her life estate was calculated to be worth $592,201, and Vincent Astor's remainder interest $121,198.

The expired $787,897.35 anti-nuptial trust funds for Mrs. Ava Willing Astor the testimony shows, included the Westminster Apartments, appraised at $300,000, and a mortgage of $100,000 given by Henry P. Whitney.

The larger anti-nuptial fund for Mrs.

THE SECRET OF GOOD HEALTH

Keep the Blood Rich and Pure with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The condition of the blood makes all the difference between health and sickness. Impure blood and strong healthy nerves and muscles, never go together. If the blood is thin every part of the body becomes weak. The stomach fails in strength and the appetite becomes poor. The body does not obtain enough nourishment from the food, and soon the nerves begin to complain and the person becomes irritable, despondent, worn out and nervous. For a time there may be no actual sickness, only a run-down, weak condition, but there is no defence against disease and from such a condition spring disorders such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, and even paralysis itself.

People with impure, thin blood should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Every dose helps to make new, rich blood, and new blood means health and strength. They stop the progress of disease, and red cheeks, good appetite, new strength, declare the general improvement in the health. There is an example, Miss Helen Maude McQuoid, Harrison, Ont., says: "I feel it my duty to add my voice to the many now recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For years I was a sufferer with back-aches, rheumatism and nervousness. I was so bad at times that I was confined to my bed. I felt sleepy and heavy after my meals, and had flashes of light before my eyes, and a difficulty in collecting my thoughts. After using several remedies without benefit I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and used ten or twelve boxes in all. They gave me the best health I have enjoyed for years, and I have not since had the least return of the trouble."

You can get the Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MANCHESTER ROBERTSON ALLISON, LIMITED.

Madeline Talmage Force Astor, created August 29, 1911, contains realty at 22-26 West Third Street, appraised at $497,500; 28-30 West Third Street, appraised at $87,500, and New York City corporate stock of a par value of $800,000.

A Remarkable Appraisal

One of the remarkable documents in the appraisal is the report of Robert E. Dowling, who appraised the downtown Broadway, and Fifth Avenue property of the estate. This is heavily burdened, and contains a complete description of every feature of the land and buildings appraised.

Representatives of the Astor estate said that while the estate had always kept complete accounts of all the estate's property, no such detailed account of it had ever been put together as the appraisals by the four experts who prepared the tables of the Manhattan and Bronx property.

Among the interesting items in the report were statements concerning the Astor jewelry. It appeared that Colonel Astor, when he went on his honeymoon trip in the fall of 1911, bought his wife jewelry from Cartier in Paris to the value of $89,772. This was not paid for at the time and was listed among the debts of his estate, as was explained in hearings before Appraiser Cogsey by Nicholas Blodde, Colonel Astor's business agent and one of the executors of his will. The other Astor jewelry, most of which was held at the offices of the estate, was appraised at $161,929. The principal items were a diamond sunburst $78,000, a necklace of diamonds, $80,000, and diamond earrings worth $12,000.

DUKE OF NORFOLK'S FORTUNE; OWNS VAST TRACTS OF LAND

Estimated He is Worth $20,000,000—Owner of Three London Streets

(Boston Post)

Although the Duke of Norfolk's holdings of land are not to be compared in extent with those of the dukes of Sutherland and Buccleuch, they are among the most valuable in the United Kingdom. Included in the 49,868 acres which he possesses are three whole streets in London, Arundel, Surrey and Norfolk. As these thoroughfares are in the heart of the metropolis, their value is enormous. Other tremendously valuable acres of the duke are in Sussex, Derbyshire and York counties.

Like other dukes, His Grace of Norfolk has been greatly disturbed over Lloyd George's land tax and he created a world-wide sensation not long ago by offering for sale an almost priceless painting by Holbein, which had been loaned many years by the family to the National Gallery. His wealth is estimated as at least $20,000,000.

In many ways the Duke of Norfolk is one of the most distinguished of the British nobility. He is a devoted Catholic and in 1887 served as a special envoy to the Pope. He is the premier duke of Great Britain, and as earl marshal held a conspicuous place at the coronations of Edward VII and George V.

No other of the twenty-six dukedoms now held in Great Britain goes so far back as that of Norfolk, which was created in 1488. Long before that the Howard family, of which the present duke is a descendant, was powerful in England, and held large acreages of land, acquired through royal grants or by marriages to heiresses.

The first Earl of Norfolk was a certain Ralph de Guader, who crossed to England with William the Conqueror, and who forfeited his estates when he revolted against the king in 1073. The family of Bigod held the earldom until 1332, when a younger son of Edward I was made sixth earl. His granddaughter was created Duchess of Norfolk in 1397. Thomas Mowbray, the first duke, was given the great estates of the Earl of Arundel when he fell that nobleman's conspiracy against the king. When he died in 1399 he left land to his descendants in nearly every English county. His last months are commemorated in Shakespeare's "Richard III."

Between his accession to the title and 1488 the dukedom became twice extinct. In 1488 the Howard family first came into possession of the title, which is held to date from this year. John Howard, the first duke of this line, was so created by Richard III and was a relative by marriage of the family which had previously held the dukedom.

The third duke of the Howard family was a considerable figure in English history. He led the van of the British army at the battle of Flodden and was a bitter opponent of Cardinal Wolsey. Two of his nieces, Anne Boleyn and Catherine Howard, were successively married to Henry VIII and beheaded by that capricious monarch. The fourth duke was a supporter of Mary, Queen of Scots. At one time it was confidently believed that he would marry Mary, but he was arrested by Elizabeth and beheaded. The dukedom was lost by attainer, but was restored in 1660.

The present holder of the title was born in 1847 and succeeded his father in 1900. He was postmaster-general of Great Britain from 1885 to 1900, was the first lord mayor of Sheffield, and

JACK TWIN IN A DEFL TO ALL WHITE HOPES

(Bangor Commercial, June 16) Stand up, all you "white hopes" and listen to the voice of an old master, Jack "Twin" Sullivan, the bald-headed battler, who has perfected the greatest defense known to modern pugilism, has buckled on his armor and struck out for the path that leads to trouble.

New York, June 21—A London cable says: Lively scenes marked the summer graduation ceremony at Glasgow University yesterday. Principal Sir Donald MacAlister was accompanied by Lord Provost Stevenson, whose recent attitude toward Lord Roberts' campaign has been causing feeling among the students.

When the civic chief appeared he was greeted with cries of "Put out the provost." Several professors left the platform to restore order, but the students, armed themselves with water siphons and easily succeeded in routing the professors.

THE DALTON-HOWATT SILVER BLACK FOX COMPANY LIMITED

Head Office at Coleman, P. E. I.

CAPITAL STOCK

The Company is Capitalized at $165,000.00 Divided into 1650 Shares of $100 Each

THE FOXES

We have six pairs of Silver Black Foxes, four pairs of which are breeders and two pairs pups including the choicest selection of the Dalton-Raynor-Lewis Strain. The stock needs no further comment as they are the world's best.

AN UP-TO-DATE RANCH

Our caretaker and manager, T. Major Howatt of Coleman, P. E. I., who is one of the most successful and experienced fox breeders on P. E. I., has entered into an agreement to deed to the Dalton-Howatt Silver Black Fox Company four acres of land together with an up-to-date ranch. In point of location this ranch is second to none.

ESTIMATED PROFITS

All expense, such as cost of land and ranch as well as the care and feeding of foxes have been provided for by the organizer. This guarantees that every dollar received by the Company from the sale of foxes or otherwise goes directly into the pockets of the stockholders as profits. On this basis an exceptionally large dividend is assured. The foxes consist largely of breeders which this year have shown themselves very prolific. They only need to do as well next year to insure a dividend of at least 100 per cent., and as foxes breed best after their second year, these breeders next year should reach their most prolific age. While a profit of 100 per cent. is a very large one—in the black fox business, under up-to-date and scientific management, it is not at all uncommon and has been declared to our personal knowledge by some companies this year.

Now then, what are you doing with your savings? Have you been satisfied with 3 per cent? Are you satisfied now with 3 per cent when you know that you can make from 50 to 150 per cent?

Fill out the accompanying application form today while stock is still available.

MISS ANGLIN LIKELY TO BE SEEN HERE

Transcontinental Tour to Begin in Victoria, B. C., and End in Halifax

Miss Margaret Anglin, who is said to have cherished for many years an ambition to make a transcontinental tour of her native country, has completed arrangements to fulfill this ambition and will tour Canada from the Pacific to the Atlantic during the coming season.

The famous Canadian actress and an organization of notable Shakespearian actors will begin their tour in Victoria, B. C., during the early part of the coming season, and from thence her itinerary will include the more important cities in British Columbia and the northwest provinces, and eastward through Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Miss Anglin's plan to give elaborate scenic productions of her Shakespearian repertoire which includes "As You Like It," "The Taming of the Shrew," "Twelfth Night" and "Antony and Cleopatra."

Immediately after the termination of her Canadian transcontinental tour in Halifax, Miss Anglin will play extended engagements in Boston and New York.

IN FAIRVILLE, TOO

Thursday Half Holiday Movement Spreads From Carleton

The idea of having a weekly half-holiday in Carleton amongst the merchants doing business in that place met with general favor, and those interested in the promotion of the scheme report finding practically all dealers in favor of the closing on Thursday afternoon.

The matter is now being talked of as possible of introduction into Fairville, and a petition is being prepared which will probably be circulated there to see if the half-holiday may be introduced.

One of those connected with the Carleton movement said that if the Thursday half-holiday was found to work successfully this year, it was likely that Saturday would be tried next summer, as some dealers had seemed to favor Saturday rather than Thursday.

NEW BRUNSWICKER GIVES UP IMPORTANT POST WITH CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY

A. R. Creelman Resigns as General Counsel and Will be Succeeded by E. W. Beatty

A Montreal despatch says:—The resignation of Adam R. Creelman, K.C., as general counsel of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is announced in a circular issued from the office of the president. He will be succeeded by Edward W. Beatty, general solicitor of the company. The change will go into effect on July 1.

Mr. Creelman will retain his position on the board of directors. He will continue his connection with the legal department under the title of honorary advisory counsel. He will, however, retire from active work in the legal field.

Mr. Creelman, who has been connected with the C. P. R. for some twelve years, is one of many well-known lawyers of this city who claim the maritime provinces for his home. Born in Richibucto, N. B., and educated in that town, and at the Presbyterian academy in Chatham, N. B., he early moved to Ontario. He practiced his profession in Toronto for some years until his duties in connection with the C. P. R. brought him to Montreal.

NEW FREEMAN SUPPORTS MR. MULLIN FOR JUDGESHIP

Reference to Catholics and Public Positions is Made

In favoring the appointment of Daniel Mullin, K.C., to the supreme court bench for New Brunswick, the New Freeman today says:—

Mr. Mullin will undoubtedly have the unanimous support of one of the largest and most influential portions of the population of this province, and other things being equal our leading Catholic people should see that Mr. Mullin's religion is no bar to his well-deserved promotion. If our present leaders of the day fancy that, under the slightest pretext, they can ignore the just claims of our nominees for public office then we must advise them that they are playing a losing game. A new era seems to be dawning for the Catholic people in these provinces, when it is hoped that by united and determined action they shall come into their own. We are out for the "square deal" and we expect to receive the same consideration that we are prepared to give to others."

TRUANCY IS ON THE DECREASE

So Says Mr. McMann In School Report

WHY MANY STAY AWAY

Sickness Chief Reason — Nearly One Hundred Kept Home For Want of Proper Clothing—Some Under Age at Work

Some interesting information is contained in the report of the trust officer, J. Boyd McMann, for the period from June 30, 1910, to June 30, 1912, which has just been published. Although consisting chiefly of statistics which are generally supposed to be rather dry reading, Mr. McMann's report gives a glimpse of inside conditions in the lives of many of the children attending the public school, which are worthy of attention.

During the period covered in the report 1,635 children were reported for irregular attendance, and an investigation was made in each case.

Of this number 280 were kept at home on account of sickness. This would not include many other cases in which children were kept from school by sickness when the circumstances were known to the teachers. It may be supposed that the number would be increased by medical inspection of the pupils to say nothing of the children who require medical attention but who are not kept from school on that account.

The next largest class of absentees included those who are kept home on account of "temporary necessity" and the form which necessarily takes is indicated in the cases ninety-eight others who were kept home for want of clothes.

While there are many charitable organizations in this city this would seem to indicate that many opportunities for giving practical help are being overlooked.

The absentees found to be truants and returned to the schools numbered 143. The reasons why they absented themselves from their classes are not given and, while the boys themselves may be to blame, there are critics who suggest that improvements in the school system might make the schools appear so desirable to the pupils that there would be few voluntary truants.

Forty-three pupils who were reported to the trust officer were reported to be employed contrary to the law. The problem of child labor is not as serious in St. John as in many other places, but it would seem that it requires watching.

There were forty-one truants over the age of fourteen years.

Twenty-five truants were excused for the following reasons:—One furnished no excuse, one was ill, one was two returned to school; two girls were placed in the Municipal Home; two were brought in by Judge Forbes' court; one was past the age of fourteen years; one was working to get clothes; and one left the city.

Twenty-five truants were taken before Hon. R. J. Ritchie's court, out of which number, sixteen were cautioned and let go on promise from them and their parents that they would attend school.

Three incorrigible truants appeared before Judge Forbes, who sentenced them to the Boys' Industrial Home, the parents consenting.

In concluding his report the trust officer says:—"In addition to the irregular attendance of pupils on account of sickness and want of clothing, I find a general neglect on the part of some parents to keep their children at school, but truancy is on the decrease."

THE ARTILLERY BAND AND THE CONCERTS

To the Editor of the Times:—

Sir:—Will you allow me space in your columns to refute a statement which appeared in the press, presumably emanating from the city commissioners, to the effect that the band of the 3rd Regiment Canadian Artillery had refused to partake of the grant for band concerts on King Square and that other bands had asked for a higher figure? This statement is, to say the least, altogether misleading and certainly unfair to the members of the band, as the commissioners are well aware that it is solely a question of price and not any unwillingness whatever, which prevents the band and the city from coming to an agreement.

Two years ago the band quoted their charge for concerts, giving the city the benefit of the lowest figure, which they did not see fit to accept, and since the members could see no good reason why the city should not be in as good a position to pay, at least the same figure that a private citizen would do, if engaging the band, the matter rested there.

It was simply a business matter from start to finish, and stands now, as it did at that time, and it is extremely unfair to publish the bald statement that the band had "refused to play."

Let us rather say that it should read that the city "refused to pay." It is alleged that, last year, after the price to bands had been decided upon, a secret agreement was made between one, if not two, of the bands, and a prominent city official, whereby these organizations should receive a further remuneration for their services.

Now, Mr. Editor, allow me to express the strongest conviction, that this is, of all policies, the very worst, as all agreements should certainly be straightforward and above board, in order to be honest with all alike, and if this allegation were true, it is indeed most unwelcome.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space and will conclude with the hope that the citizens will view the band's position in the proper light.

Hugh Jennings Has His Eye on North End Ball Player Goes to Lowell to See Tom Daly at Work and Seems Pleased - Main Street Church Picnic Today - General News

The prediction by sporting writers who have watched his progress on the diamond during the last few years, that Tom Daly, formerly of North End, will, if he continues to follow the game, certainly be some day seen in the lineup of the major leagues, is now generally regarded as correct, by followers of sport about Boston. Young Daly has been catching remarkable ball with the Lowell Club this year, and no less a personage than Hugh Jennings is interested in his work. The Boston Post says he journeyed out to Lowell this week to watch him play. The Post says that for several hours without accomplishing anything, Jennings is after a young catcher, and Duffy, it is understood, offered to trade Catcher Hayden for a pitcher and another player on the Detroit roster. Jennings, however, refrains to entertain his proposition, as he has his eye on Tom Daly of the Lowell club, to watch whose work he made a special trip to Lawrence yesterday. Last night the Tiger leader admitted he had been favorably impressed with the showing of the former Binder star, but said he would not call him to Detroit for the present.

Quite a number of people went out this morning on the annual Sunday school picnic conducted by the Main Street Baptist church to Rothesay. The first train leaving carried children from the school with some of the adult members of the congregation to look after them while there. This afternoon many more are expected to leave for the picnic grounds. The weather opened doubtfully this morning, but indications were that it would turn fine.

Father carefully gazed at his last shilling. "Money has wings, and house rents make it fly," he said. "Yes," said his fifteen-year-old Boy Scout son, "and some houses have wings, for I have seen many a house fly." "You're smarter than your old dad, maybe, my son; but I always thought that no part of a house except the chimney flew!"

serious situation which has arisen in regard to the treatment of the port from a branch line only. "It seems to be the determination of the government not to treat St. John as a main line terminal of the I. C. R., but rather as being situated on a branch line, looking on the main line as being from Montreal to Halifax. Last night many complaints about the inconvenience to which travelers coming from Montreal to St. John by the Ocean Line were treated by reason of there being no connection at Moncton. "I came home from Montreal by the Limited yesterday, and had a personal experience of the unfairness with which passengers destined for St. John and intervening points between St. John and Moncton are treated. I and a number of other St. John passengers on arriving at Moncton were obliged to wait over two or three hours and to take the local train for St. John, arriving at 9:30 o'clock. A Conservative Failing. "This is going back to the condition of affairs before the Liberal party came into power in 1896. The I. C. R. authorities at that time regarded the I. C. R. from Moncton to St. John as a branch line, but when Mr. Blair became minister of railways he and his successors in the Liberal government adopted a different policy, regarding St. John as much on the same level as Halifax, and under their management the train service to the cities was based on the recognition of this principle. WOULD SPRING OUT OF HER BED. She Was So Nervous. Diseases of the nervous system are very common. All the organs of the body may be sound while the nerve centres may be affected. Many women become run down and worn out by household cares and duties never ending, and sooner or later find themselves with shattered nerves and weak hearts. On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, do not wait until your case becomes hopeless. Get a remedy which will at once quiet the nerves, strengthen the heart, and build up the whole system. Avail yourself of a perfect cure by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Mrs. E. Beers, Upper Main Street, N.B., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for over three months. I was so nervous I would imagine everything, and would spring out of my bed at night. I tried the doctors, but they did me no good. My brother advised me to take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and I can give them the greatest thanks, as they completely cured me." MORNING LOCALS

The Summer School at Rothesay has been cancelled owing to unforeseen circumstances arising at the college. Definite word was received last evening that an agreement had been made which will clear R. D. Isaacs of the cases against him in Boston and he will be brought here for trial in about two weeks for the charges made against him by Messrs. Mills and McArthur. Thomas Gorman, who retired from the chairmanship of the Board of Health this week, advocates frequent inspection at unexpected intervals of all farms which supply dairy products to the city. It is expected that in the future young doctors will take the new Dominion examinations qualifying them for practice all over Canada instead of the provincial examinations.

The Lancaster Sewerage Board has awarded the contracts for the sewerage extension to James Robertson Co., who will supply the pipes and to Murray Long for the construction work. The undertaking will cost about $200,000 and is to be completed by November. The New Brunswick Public Utilities Commission reached a decision in appeal of the Rothesay subscribers yesterday afternoon but the announcement of the result has not been made. Rev. J. L. Dawson will be stationed this year at Mount Stewart, P. E. I., instead of at Baie Verte. His place here will be taken by Rev. C. K. Hudson. These changes were made yesterday by the Interim stationing committee. Joseph Wedge, who is wanted in Campbellton on a charge of theft, and who escaped from Chief Hughes by jumping from the Calvin Austin, about two months ago, was captured on a vessel at the North Wharf by Deputy Chief Jenkins and Detective Killen. Chief Hughes will probably come here today to take the man to Campbellton. The High School Alumni are making an effort to increase their membership. They are thinking of bringing the great English poet, Alfred Noyes, here this fall and they are also contemplating the purchase of a new piano for the high school hall.

The commencement exercises of the Froebel Training school for Kindergarten teachers were held in St. David's church school room last evening. An excellent programme was given by the young ladies and addresses were made by Rev. F. S. Porter and Rev. J. L. Dawson. Diplomas were presented by Rev. C. MacD. Carson to Miss Mabel Sandall, Miss Annie Johnson, Miss Julia Pirie, Miss Ruth Manks, Miss Janet Freese and Miss Edith Emerson.

DONALD'S OPINION Donald was an old Scots beadle who officiated in a Highland kilt when the minister, never a bright star at any time, believed in giving full value for the money, as it were, in his discourses. One stranger once asked him his opinion of the sermon. "Ah, weel," replied Donald, "you'll no get me to say anything against them, for they're a' vera guid, but I'll just remark this much—the beadle's eye over far frae the end, an' it would greatly improve the force o' it if he left out 'a' that cam' in atween."

SCOTCH EDUCATION The education system of Scotland was cited as a model for reform in the English system at the annual meeting in London of the National Education Association. Lord Sheffield said they should look north of the Tweed for inspiration in dealing with education. He pointed out that the Scotch elementary school system comprehends 184 higher-grade schools, with over 24,000 pupils in average attendance. The same proportion would give England and Wales more than 180,000 pupils in higher elementary schools. But in 1910-11 there were only forty-seven such schools, with 8802 pupils on the roll, or less than a twentieth of the Scotch proportion. A lesson might also be taken from Scotland in regard to the quality of the staff and the training of teachers. In Scotland the great mass of the assistants were certificated, whereas in England the staff is largely made up of cheaper and less efficient material. If the government would even now copy the example of Scotland, give them popular schools with a liberal curriculum, aided by liberal grants, they might make great progress, while waiting for more comprehensive legislation. The selecting of a suitable wedding present is quite easy if you go the right way about it. As a rule the things that are useful are the most acceptable. ST. JOHN SHOULD DEMAND START ON COURTENAY BAY TERMINALS Duty of Government to Provide Terminal Railway and Wharves For Lease to Company—Acquire Right to Operate Eastern Division—Hon. Wm. Pugsley Indicates Present Needs

In view of the uneasiness felt by all who are interested in the welfare of the city as to the coming of the Grand Trunk Pacific business to St. John immediately upon the completion of the road, The Telegraph yesterday asked the opinion of Hon. William Pugsley, representative of the city in the house of commons, and who as minister of public works, was responsible for the development of Courtenay Bay and had much to do with the preliminary arrangements with the Grand Trunk Pacific. "I quite agree," said Dr. Pugsley, "that the time has come when the people of St. John should awake and demand that steps be taken to secure an early start on the G. T. P. terminals at Courtenay Bay. So far as I can see, the fault does not lie with the company, but with the government. The late administration had a clear and definite understanding with the management of the Grand Trunk Pacific that one of the terminals of the road would be St. John, and with that object in view a large area of land was acquired by the company at the head of Courtenay Bay. Kept Company In Dark. "Since the new government came into power, however, there has been a great deal of uncertainty as to what their intention is with respect to the operation of the eastern division of the Transcontinental. The grades of the road have been changed to make it less efficient, as appeared in the official return at the last session of parliament, and instead of the government arranging with the company for the latter to operate the New Brunswick portion and other sections pending the completion of the whole line, as they are authorized to do in the contract, the government apparently has refused to take this step, and is operating the railway itself. Company Unsettled. "Under these circumstances I can very well understand the state of uncertainty which would exist in the minds of the president and directors of the company as to the future arrangements in regard to the operation of the line to maritime province ports. The way to settle the matter, however, is for the government to at once turn over the completed section of the Transcontinental through New Brunswick to the Grand Trunk Pacific for operation on just and equitable terms, and also to come to a clear and definite understanding with the

THE STAGE AND ITS PEOPLE; MANY WELL REMEMBERED

Sorry Mr. McDonald Is Leaving Opera House

Has Made Many Friends Here—Jessie Bonstelle's Toronto Season Ends—Margaret Anglin at Housekeeping—The Late Della Fox

DANIEL H. McDONALD

The announcement that D. H. McDonald, who has been manager of the Opera House in this city for about a year and a half, was about to leave in a few days for Sydney, C. B., has caused him to be the recipient of hearty good wishes. Mr. McDonald is a native of this city, but has spent much of late years away from his home town. He had good theatrical experience in early life, having been engaged in this connection in Chicago and other American centres, and also having managed the theatrical interests of F. G. Spencer in Yarmouth. Since coming to St. John he has been responsible in bringing several of the big attractions this way and has made a success of his management of the Opera House. That he may be greeted with even greater success in Sydney is the hope of his many friends here though they regret losing himself and Mrs. McDonald. They will leave for Sydney early in the week. Bruce McRae, well known here as a Harkins' player, appeared in the play, "Newly Married," at Atlantic City, N. J., this week. John Westley is also in the cast. Adelaide French, who played here in "The Third Degree," and other plays, and Sydney Ellis have obtained the western road rights to "What Happened to Mary?" and she show will go to the scenic coast next season with Miss French in the Mary role. Jessie Bonstelle The Jessie Bonstelle stock company, in Toronto, closes its ten weeks' stock engagement this week and moves on to Detroit for a stay. Since the opening there the company has played to almost capacity continually. T. Daniel Frawley is back with the Henry W. Savage forces, after a vacation. Under the order of the Toronto court overruling the police court which fined all the players who appeared with Carlotta Nilsson in Deborah at its original production in that city, and permitted a censored version to be produced, the play was put on at the Princess Theatre. The Toronto News describes the event as follows: "The Princess Theatre was packed to the roof last night when Deborah was played. The upper gallery presented a sea of faces in marked contrast to the deserted appearance it had when Deborah first made her bow before a Toronto audience. The majority of the audience had come to listen to the reason that the play sets out to teach, the major portion was there for the purpose of finding what there was in the play to bring forth the severe strictures that it had received from the pulpit and the bench. "As presented last night, the play was the censored version in which Mr. Howland's lines could be dimly discerned which they had been subjected to make them possible of presentation before a Toronto audience. It is safe to say that many in the audience were more bored than instructed by the performance, if Bernard Shaw's best had been rendered sufficiently meaningless for local presentation, it is possible that half the audience would be asleep. "The much-discussed second act, when Deborah's cousin has a splendidly written love scene with her fiancé, was remorselessly cut. Miss Nilsson was robbed of her big opportunity, the agony before the return of the man, when she speaks the lines that give the keynote of the whole play. These have been taken out by the censor and considerable of the action of the play is left to the imagination of the audience. "The play had a sympathetic reception, and at the end, Mr. Howland was brought before the curtain in response to the appeal of the audience. "The author made very little reference, however, to the recent events, contenting himself with simply thanking the audience for the reception they had accorded the play and expressing his feeling that the reception, together with the vindication of the play by the judges, was a justification for the writing of Deborah."

Harkins' People A critic reviewing in "Variety," the following to say of two former Harkins' players in St. John: "Doth know Emma Dunn? Or James H. Bradbury? Or George Backus? They are together in a sketch at the Fifth Avenue this week, called "Making Good," written by John Stokes. Go on and book it. It's a regular act with the best cast ever assembled on a vaudeville stage. Think of it! Emma Dunn, James H. Bradbury and George Backus in one sketch in vaudeville! What was that sketch last week that got $500? Can't think of it now. Never mind, it's past anyway, but just wanted to remark that that piece was worth $500, give Miss Dunn the theatre."

George Washington to be done in vaudeville; that is, Joseph Kilgour fondly remembered in St. John, succeeds in visualizing and realizing Washington as successfully as he did in the play "Captain Barrington" last season. At any rate, Frank Thompson, manager of the Palace, New York, thinks he can, for he has commissioned James Horan to write a playlet around the character of Washington, in which he will launch Kilgour in vaudeville next season. The playlet will show Washington as the soldier rather than as the statesman in order to give opportunities for action, besides depicting his patience and fortitude in the face of difficulties. Rose King, co-star with Mr. Lynch, of the King-Lynch Players, who were here for two weeks a couple of seasons ago, bid good bye to her Manchester friends this week. Miss King has gone to Worcester, Mass., where she will remain several days visiting friends. Miss King's plans regarding her reappearance in Manchester next year are not yet definitely settled. After a short stay in Worcester Miss King will go to New York, where she will have several conferences planned. Then she will go to her home in the west for an extended rest. Fifty-six priests, attached to the various parishes of Montreal, reinforced by nearly one hundred laymen, signed a petition asking the Board of Control to appoint a theatrical censor. Louise Randolph, who was here some years ago with Bert Haverley and is a leading woman with the Broadway Players in Springfield, Mass., has accepted for production a dramatic play in three acts by a famous Spanish dramatist. It may be tried out in Springfield before it is placed in rehearsal for regular production in the fall. Margaret Anglin A writer in the New York Mirror has the following: "Margaret Anglin has been realizing a life wish. We may not if we be purists in speech class it as an ambition. She has always wanted time to do a little housekeeping. Her house at 67 East Ninety-third street, she has furnished to her own taste, and surveying it and drawing a breath of content before her labors of preparation for five productions next season, she has said: "I think I have not done so very badly. Do you?" The house is characteristic of Miss Anglin's quiet, scholarly tastes. A note that is striking and unique is a Chinese dining-room. The portieres, upholstery of the high-backed, richly carved dining chairs, and the curtains at the windows are of Chinese embroideries in black and blue. Tall vases on the mantle carry out the design and tell their story of ancient romance. "But any latent desire Miss Anglin may have entertained to invade the kitchen was discouraged by its two regular occupants, Sarah and Minna. Sarah is a very good cook and Minna is a very good cut. Both are of the opinion that Miss Anglin has left cook and cut in happy and undisturbed possession. "Leaving which homely details and rising into the realms of art permit me to report what Husband Howard Hall is to no pains to conceal, his belief in the supremacy of Margaret Anglin as an actress of versatility. "There may be an actress or two who can play Electra as well as Miss Anglin. There may be one or more who can play Rosalind as well, or Lady Macbeth and the rest, but I affirm without fear of successful contradiction that no actress can play all five as well as Margaret Anglin can."

A meeting of upward of two hundred representatives of both sexes of various Jewish societies met at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago last week and organized a "vigilance association," to keep watch for coarse caricatures of the Jew on the stage and to protest against them. The keynote of the meeting was that only through concerted effort and the medium of such an organization as that perfected could the gross caricatures of the Hebrew race on the American stage be abolished. "Donna and Mrs. Brian returned to New York after their European trip on the White Star liner Baltic. They are very enthusiastic about the new musical comedy, The Marriage Market, which Mr. Brian brought with him and which he will produce in September. He commented on the present London craze for

William Elliott, Walter Hale, and Dustin Farnum, the latter formerly with W. S. Harkins, who called for Havre recently on La Provence, are partners in a new motion picture enterprise, which begins its career immediately upon their arrival in Europe. They will be met by an expert film operator, who will work with them in the production of an innovation in motion pictures. Mr. Elliott, who acts as manager of the new company, would not discuss his plans in detail, but said his company had no connection with any of the principal film concerns, and that the production was entirely new and original lines. After a trip through eastern and European countries that ended some time ago, he returned to New York last week, with many pictures to his credit. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Ranous, G. F. Mullins, scenario writer; Stephen Smith, business manager; Harry L. Keeps, camera man.

Escape Death Penalty HARRIS, June 20.—The trial of the three Graves brothers, charged with the murder of Kenneth Lee, in June of last year, was concluded at Bridgetown (N. S.), today, and the jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter. They were convicted of murder last year and sentenced to death, but their counsel succeeded in securing a second trial for them. They will be sentenced tomorrow.

School for Burglars New York, June 20.—Isador Hader, professor of burglary, made a confession this afternoon to Judge Swan. In the back of a pool room on the lower east side, Hader said for several years he has held daily classes in stealing. His pupils and alumni, of whom he mentioned many by name, have stolen half a million dollars worth of horses and merchandise, he estimates. Also, he says, they paid central office detectives, plain clothes men and uniformed police thousands of dollars to avoid arrest.

GOOD BILL SEES THE WEEK END AT GEM

Arthur Johnson and Other Favorites; Varied Programme and Good Music

The Gem Theatre had a splendid week-end offering, a bill of three pleasing pictures, with late rag-time hits by Jarid Morrissey, who is making a big success of his stay at this house, and also with new pieces by the orchestra. Henry Millard, in the Kaleid southern production "Don Miguel," gave a capable performance and was ably assisted by the others in the cast. The story made a strong appeal at each show yesterday.

Arthur Johnson, always a favorite at the Gem, was here again as the Quaker blacksmith in a dainty Lubin romance, "Friend John," and its simplicity, coupled with the prettiness of thought and capable enactment, was most refreshing. Two more favorites of the Vitagraph Co., Harry Morey and Edith Storey, were seen in a side-ticking comedy success, "A Forgotten Latch-key," and they certainly provided amusement for those present. The piece is very comical and the Vitagraph Co. gets out of it all the fun possible.

SOCIETY AT ASCOT The opening of the royal race meet at Ascot Heath did not reveal any freak frocks. The dresses were mostly of soft, faded colors, and black and white, though there were striking exhibitions. King George and Queen Mary drove in a coach with positions in the quaint Ascot liveries of blue and gold with jockey caps over their powdered wigs. The king wore a grey cutaway suit and a white high hat. The queen wore a gown of pale blue of various shades, and most of the women members of the royal family favored this color. One exception was Princess Patricia of Connaught, who wore a frock of white muslin.

The broiling sun broke out numerous rainfalls and some of these were remarkable. They were striped and in pagoda shapes.

In view of last year's scandal involving the sale of tickets to aspiring social climbers and the fear of some sort of outbreak by the militant suffragettes, every person admitted to the enclosure had to pass the scrutiny of several of the lord chamberlain's officials, as well as numerous Scotland Yard detectives.

Deep Cuts in U. S. Tariff Washington, June 20.—Important reductions in the Underwood tariff bill rates on iron, steel and other metal products, the addition of cattle, wheat, pig iron, Angola wool, and many other articles to the free list, and an increase in rates on many classes of cotton goods, and some silk products, were the chief features of the revised tariff bill as it is to confront a business appointment today by Chairman Simmons of the finance committee.

Barrie to Issue So His Plays in Book

Long Time Before New Baro Be Persuaded to do so, But Now Signed—The London S. Its People

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, June 7.—Perhaps the choicest locked store of pleasant reading in modern English literature can be found in the plays of Sir James Matthew Barrie, baronet, yet heretofore that wayward little Scotsman has flatly refused to permit any of his plays to be published in book form, except by way of gift books. This author is a millionaire today, chiefly through Charles Frohman's co-operation, and Frohman got it into his head, after having spent many thousands of dollars in fighting for the copyright of "The Little Minister," that any sort of publication of a Barrie play in book form endangered the rights of the said Barrie play in stage form.

Mr. Barrie, who is the most staunch and loyal of friends, was not going to bring happiness to His Majesty's, and consequently refused all sorts of tempting offers to make books of his plays.

At last, however, Mr. Barrie—somehow comes hard to write "Sir James"—has signed a contract with a publishing house to permit the publication of "Rosalind" in book form and has agreed that if this does not damage him, some of his other plays may come out in the same fashion. But it is expressly stipulated that "Rosalind" may not be published until that play has been performed in America, and apparently that may not happen until Maude Adams gets ready to play it sometime next spring.

The new baronet secludes himself in a flat underneath that occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pennell, and across the street from Bernard Shaw's abode in Adelphi Terrace. It is over a steam-heating line office, and at the entrance on the ground floor there is the usual tablet of marble slabs indicating the names of the tenants; but the slab for the third floor is a blank. If you go up to the elevator and get off at the third floor you are confronted by a blank door, with no name on it, and behind it an equally blank servant who looks surprised and pained if you ask to see Mr. Barrie, and relents only if you say you have an appointment.

Within all its unostentatious comfort—many bookcases, and such aroma of Arcadia mixture. The shy, nervous little man who receives you is a bit offish maybe, at first; but kindly immediately afterward if he finds that you have any valid excuse for intruding upon him. He hates business—says it upsets him for the rest of the day if he is to confront a business appointment—yet if business has to be done he comes to the point quickly and shrewdly.

I fear me that Sir Herbert is in possession of another "lemon" and this belief is strengthened by the announcement of the next production, at His Majesty's, which is to be nothing more nor less than Louis N. Parker's biblical play, "Joseph and His Brethren." This, it seems, is the first play dealing with Bible incidents that the lord chamberlain ever has consented to license, and it is said to have been read and approved by various high dignitaries of the church here. It will not follow "The Perfect Gentleman" and "Ariadne in Naxos," however, whatever may be the fate of that melange, but will be the opening production of Tree's autumn season.

Great interest has been aroused in Rome by the excavation of the villa of the poet Horace, in an excellent state of preservation.

Keep Your Food Clean, Cool and Sanitary. There is no economy in buying a mere cooling box, at any price; for it only runs up big ice bills, and is more than likely to breed disease germs, which result from dampness and mold, making your food worse than useless;—unfit to eat. McClary's Genuine Porcelain Lined Refrigerator has stood the test; it is cheapest and best in the end. It effects the greatest possible saving in ice, owing to the specially prepared mineral wool between its walls, and a scientifically arranged air circulation which preserves a low, even temperature, making dampness and mold impossible, and keeping your edibles cool, fresh and clean, wholly free from germ life. The white Porcelain Lining can be washed like a piece of china. The shelves, which are heavily retined, are readily removable, the bottom one being in two parts. we received intimation that a big manufacturer had decided on discontinuing the carrying of made-up stock. This idea has been adopted by all large manufacturers. We immediately sent a couple of our buyers to take an inventory and submit a figure for the lot. We were not particularly anxious to buy unless we could do so at a very low price, as our own stock was more than usually heavy. We were surprised to receive a wire announcing the acceptance of our offer. Only a stern determination on the part of the manufacturer to carry out his scheme of no more made-up stock, together with the fact that but few concerns were capable of handling such an immensity of shoes, enabled us to buy such a tremendous bargain. We unhesitatingly affirm that never before in our long business career have bargains such as these been offered the people of St. John and vicinity.

10,000 pairs of shoes for men, women, boys and girls bought at our own price and now offered at less than a third of actual cost. There's been all kinds of sales --- reduction sales and what not --- but there's never been shoes sold as cheaply as we're going to sell them during the life of this sale.

We got this lot at prices so low that we were actually amazed. When you come you will also be surprised. It was our intention to bring this sale later on in the season but as many of our people will be going to the country as soon as school closes, we determined on giving them a chance to obtain some of the bargains

WORK OF WEALTHY GERMAN

His Method of Eliminating Causes of Strife and How it Has Worked Out Among His 13,000 Men—Others Follow His Example

(Times' Special Correspondence)

Berlin, June 7.—German manufacturers will soon be face to face with one of the most important turning points in the history of this country's industrialism.

It is approved, the great factories of Germany will enter upon one of the most momentous and interesting experiments in the annals of industrialism.

The constitutional factory is the latest vision of Europe's industrial reformers.

The notion of the constitutional factory and the phrase itself first came to the brain of Herr Heinrich Freese, when pondering on the question of the constitutionalism has solved the secular opposition between rulers and the ruled.

Herr Freese has the means of putting his theories to the test. He is a wealthy man, the largest German manufacturer of Venetian blinds and wood panels, and the employer of 13,000 men in his factories at Hamburg, Breslau, and Niederschoenhauzen.

Herr Freese declares that the vic of the present relation between employers and employed is that the employer is still practically an autocrat.

Employers' Parliament

Herr Freese declares that the analogy between the state and the factory must be carried out in all respects.

Herr Freese declares that he makes no attempt to deny the natural conflict of interests between employer and employed.

Herr Freese "granted" a constitution to his Breslau factory in 1884 by giving the decision on certain matters to a committee partly elected by workers and partly nominated by himself.

Brilliant Assemblage at Anniversary in the Savoy, London — Lord Curzon Disputes Statement That Poverty Helps to Masterpieces

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, June 4.—Something like 125 years ago, when George III. was on the throne, a worthy old gentleman who had been a fellow of his college, a bursar of Lincoln's Inn, and rector of a parish in Surrey, died on the poor side of the debtors' prison in London.

It was his odd fancy that what England needed from him was a really scholarly translation of Plato, and so he gave the philosopher's writings into four quarto volumes.

I could not help thinking of him a few nights ago, I sat, by rare favor, rubbing elbows with the literary elite at the Savoy Hotel, at the 123rd anniversary dinner of the Royal Literary Fund, for it was all through the misfortunes of Floyer Sydenham that this fund, which has saved many a hungry author from starving his wife, originally came into being.

A Brilliant Assemblage

This gathering at the Savoy was truly a brilliant one. The chair was taken by Lord Curzon, ex-Viceroy of India, and the speakers including Viscount Morley, the distinguished author of "The Life of Gladstone," best known in the world of letters as plain "John." One duchess, two earls, and half a dozen plain lords and ladies likewise graced the gathering which was under the patronage of the king himself, but these were interesting to the giants of the literary world.

The purpose of the annual dinner of the Royal Literary Fund at which Henry James spoke last year, is to raise money for the fund, and Lord Curzon was able to announce that the sum realized this year, as he put it, "outrageous and unshameless begging," was $15,250, including a subscription of fifty guineas from the king.

Some gentlemen declared Lord Curzon "require no help. Some gentlemen upon help. Others prefer the gutter from which no food, human or divine, can lift them.

Poverty and Masterpieces

Lord Curzon has not the fame, neither as an orator or a literary man, of Lord Rosebery yet as chairman of the Literary Fund dinner he did not hesitate to challenge a recent assertion of the "Public Orators" with regard to literature, jumping on it with no lack of emphasis and to the obvious delight of his audience.

"I believe that is an absolute fallacy," said Lord Curzon, "which finds no support either in recorded history or in inherent probability. I decline to admit that there is any stimulus in poverty or any inspiration in squalor. Byron was a genius, although he was a peer, Burns was a genius, although he was a ploughman, but Burns' genius was due to his being a ploughman but not because he was a ploughman, but because he was a genius. I would carry my argument a little further, and I would ask you when in the history of literature has poverty assisted in developing literary genius? Chaucer was a rather impetuous person, but his best work was done when

IN THE DAYS WHEN BRIGHT WAS MINISTER

Veteran Parliamentarian in Reminiscences of this Great British Statesman—His Wonderful Speech And His Later Chat With Disraeli

(By T. P. O'CONNOR, M. P.)

London, June 20.—Though I saw a good deal of John Bright at various stages of his career—I have often told my first sight of him when he was a young reporter, nineteen years of age, I listened to his speech at Limerick in 1867, and I learned that I had got near to him. I was for many years a member of the House of Commons with him, and I never got near him either in the sense of acquaintance or of understanding of his character.

It was perhaps largely because I was too much in awe of him as a young reporter, that I never got near him either in the sense of acquaintance or of understanding of his character.

I look back with a certain sadness to the day on which I met him for the first time, and yet they teach me a good deal both in self-realization and in the realization of others and of politics.

The Outer and Inner Man

In reading the very excellent biography of John Bright, which has just been published by G. M. Trevelyan, one of the most gifted of the younger generation of English historians, I find he was in good circumstances. Chatterton did not write better because he was penniless and starving, and died in debt for more than £2,000, but his best work was written when he was in comfortable circumstances. Balzac was poor, but his work was not less good because he was poor.

"I ask you to take the cases of Shakespeare, Milton, Addison, Swift, Pope, Dryden, Burke, Macaulay, Shelley, Gibbon, Wordsworth, Tennyson. Of none of these can it be said that 'chill penury repressed their noble rage and froze the genial current of their soul.' None of these men were poor in the sense that Burns was poor. Most of them were fairly well off. Some of them were exceedingly well off, while a limited number of them belonged to the classes.

"But go a little further afield and look at the great literary men of foreign countries. I think I remember from my school days what Horace said about being driven by poverty to write poetry. Bright was poor, but he did not write poetry. Both Horace and Virgil dipped into these influences that they achieved their most remarkable productions. Take Dante and Goethe. It cannot be said that either of them produced under the spur of poverty.

however, that there is a very clear explanation of why I, as well as everybody else, find it a little difficult to understand John Bright altogether. I understand John Bright altogether. I understand John Bright altogether.

One of his sisters, writing of him to a relative, says: "You must not judge the terrible bitterness of those old times, and yet they teach me a good deal both in self-realization and in the realization of others and of politics."

In the first place I ought to mention as an extraordinary instance of how little the orator is able to appreciate his own work—I have known speakers who sat down after a brilliant effort which everybody praised, thinking that they had made a ghastly failure—only to find that they had made a success.

Elizabeth Priestman was reared in a home where intellectual activity existed with such a family John Bright's bluntness and directness of speech stood out in marked contrast, but his own opinions, sympathies and where the strongest opinions were urged in the gentlest tones.

Deep in Bright's heart there lies always something unseemly, something reserved and solitary. Although he was a popular hero and a man so sociable that he never traveled by train but he drew into conversation his change carriage companions, though he was always happy and tender and talkative when wife and child or friend were near, and formidable not through his silence, but through his sayings, yet the presence of an inner life of deep feeling and meditation could be felt as the moving power in all he did.

Having thus given faintly the outer and inner John Bright, let me dwell on the inner man as the one that is really important. And here it will be seen that he was a man of extraordinary sweetness and tenderness of feeling. With all his fierce hatred of systems and sometimes even of the embodiment of a bluntness in his galter and apron seemed to have produced in him an opus of bottom indulgent, charitable and tender hearted.

And I must not end here, for I turn to the film again and see another John Bright, quite different from the tremendous orator and the harsh critic. He is in the silence of his bedroom writing his journal for the day and in the solitude of his soul and this is his comment on his own dazzling and almost unapproachable first speech. The first of his fellow members and this is his own comment—"I have thought about this very much, how much there is food for vanity and self-love, and how a foolish word may be created by it."

is a wondrous saying and it is at the same time a key to Bright's innermost personality. This proud, self-confident, harsh man, as he appeared to be and often was, had in him an essential core of modesty and of spiritual asceticism, which could belong only to a very fine and also to a modest and gentle nature.

He was a social man—one must always remember in forming any estimate of this extraordinary man. And that is to remember in forming any estimate of this extraordinary man.

His Courtship

You will see that when he came courting the beautiful girl who became his wife and who, like himself, belonged to the Quaker community, his own sisters were a little nervous as to the effect he would produce on the very gentle and self-restrained people whom he was to meet.

PRINCE ARTHUR GUEST OF HONOR

Son of Duke of Connaught Favorite in Society

THE NEW AMBASSADOR

Mr. Page Has Made Good Impression and All Are Anxious For Arrival of His Wife—News of Canadians in London

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, June 7.—Prince Arthur of Connaught was the guest of honor the other day at a great ball which Lady Leith of Fyvie and her daughter, Mrs. Rowley Burn, gave. He danced three times with Miss Lorna Burn. The prince delights in the new steps and trips some of them gaily, notably the "tomb" and "two step" which are quite permissible and on all the programmes. He never sits out a dance and has not a scrap of the fastidiousness of many of the dancing men in society.

Lady Leith is far more ambitious about her granddaughters' future than she has set her heart on Miss Burns making a very brilliant alliance. She has had already many desirable "offers" but "Granny" says nothing good enough has yet come along and Miss Lorna, being a girl who is not in the least keen on matrimony, is just as well pleased. Full of life and "go," she would like to "do nothing"—be a Suffragist even, but must not. Some time ago when walking in the park by the Serpentine she pulled out the park by the Serpentine she pulled out the park by the Serpentine she pulled out a crowd of nursery maids screaming while she was making her way.

Some of the younger matrons in society have what seem to us extraordinary ideas about bringing up their children. They train them more severely than even those terrors of early Victorian mothers of whom one reads. The Duchess of Manchester adores her young family yet she is ever holding a swig of some wine which she never relaxes and she is thinking all the time of some new way in which to try them. Some time ago she gave permission, the Duchess of Chaulnes sent the youngsters a huge box of fine French chocolates. It was intended for the school-room, but the Duchess of Manchester gave instructions that no child was to touch the sweets unless she gave permission. For miles, what they endured while looking at the delectables no words can express. It was a heavenly kept obedience. This according to their mother, is the kind of thing which makes heroes of men. She means to give a credit to her and to his wife and who, like himself, belong to the Quaker community, his own sisters were a little nervous as to the effect he would produce on the very gentle and self-restrained people whom he was to meet.

The New Ambassador

Doctor Page, the new ambassador to the United States, is under the impression that scarcely anyone in London recognizes him as a man of fashion. One of his first acts was to give a party at the Embassy which has a great charm for him and he has been seen several times on the side by side with the Queen.

Children like him and they are generally good judges. Lady Granard's little girls were very friendly with him. Being the typical American man he misses Mrs. Page and is counting the hours until she can get home.

Lady Kirkpatrick, whose health is greatly benefited by her stay in the south of France, has been seen in society a great deal of late. Everyone is glad to welcome her, and a visit to her house and a conversation on the political history of Canada, is a great treat.

Deep in Bright's heart there lies always something unseemly, something reserved and solitary. Although he was a popular hero and a man so sociable that he never traveled by train but he drew into conversation his change carriage companions, though he was always happy and tender and talkative when wife and child or friend were near, and formidable not through his silence, but through his sayings, yet the presence of an inner life of deep feeling and meditation could be felt as the moving power in all he did.

The Facts About Lloyd George's Great Project

SOME SUGGESTED CHANGES

Matters That Have Come Out in The Working Which Will Be Rectified — The Doctors and The People Alike Benefit

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, June 12.—Maybe the most significant and internationally interesting bit of legislation in the last decade in England—the compulsory sickness insurance law—is now beginning to show results, some of them wholly unexpected and some of them better than was generally hoped for.

In the case of the very poorly paid workers, the employer's contribution is smaller and the employer's greater, but the total charge throughout is eighteen cents. In return for this the state undertakes to provide free doctoring and medicine in case of sickness and to pay the insured person $2.50 a week in case of men, and little less than $2 in the case of women during illness.

The British dominions beyond the sea are watching the working of the law with the keenest interest, and if it succeeds anything like as well as its author, Lloyd George dreamed, no doubt it will be tried on millions of other folk in the next few years.

Its Reception

The immediate effect of the law was a muddle of appalling proportions, such as is perhaps inevitable with any big scheme which is entirely new and in the working of which there is no experience available. This muddle is now being followed by a general irritation, reflected in the recent parliamentary bye-election at Newmarket, which was fought out almost exclusively on the issue of the law, and which resulted in an overwhelming defeat for the government candidate.

But we English do not take comfort from new procedures. It irritates and confuses us not to be running on smooth, well-worn tracks; so the present irritation over compulsory insurance does not necessarily mean that the law is not going to stand. In fact, Mr. Asquith has announced that it will be practically amended in the light of the experience of its first six months' working.

It must be remembered, too, that the opposition has come from the most vocal and noisy class in the community—the middle class employers, who write to newspapers, the big manufacturers who lecture their employes on the necessity to properly conduct their "tax" of six cents a week which they have to pay—and at first the doctors, on whom, of course, depended the successful working of the act.

There is not the slightest doubt that Lloyd George made a tactical mistake in his handling of the doctors. The English medical man is a very pompous person, full of dignity of his profession, and he is difficult to handle. He has been brigaded into what is practically a state medical service. He would not have said a word if he had been allowed to arrange the details himself, but Lloyd George went ahead and produced his bill without consulting the doctors and then adopted the "take it or leave it" attitude.

The doctors declared that they would "leave it." The pay offered was not high enough, the control of lay officials was degrading, the work could not be done and so on. The British Medical Association organized a boycott of the law and until within a few weeks of its coming into operation, practically every doctor in the kingdom was pledged not to take service under it. There were long and tedious negotiations, however, and eventually the doctors agreed to work it. They obtained substantial concessions. They now receive $160 a year for each patient on their lists, which is about sixty cents a week, which was being given by private arrangements from their club and society practice, and they get extra allowances for maternity work, operations, etc. They also obtained increased representation on the local governing committees.

Good for the Doctors

As a matter of fact, the insurance act has turned out an excellent thing for the doctors, and the first result apparent is a rush of new medical students. All the medical schools report an increase of anywhere from 10 to 60 per cent, and before the act the number of students was steadily falling off. It is estimated that each doctor can give adequate treatment to about 2,000 insured patients—of course, he sees only a few of them each year. A 200 simple sum in arithmetic shows that this means an average income of $3,200 a year per doctor, say nothing of his earnings from his private practice among patients who pay the $15 a week. Considering that the average income of English doctors before the act was less than $1,500 a year, doctors have not done so badly for themselves. (Continued on page 13, first column.)

MARKED GOOD FROM THE INSURANCE ACT

Then there was the great "anti-tenant" war. Led by the Duchess of Bedford, and a score of two countesses and lesser female nobilities, the mistress of the country declared that they would not pay what they were pleased to call the "tax" on their servants.

There has been a good deal of muddle, too, over the consumption sanatorium benefit. This was promised to one, but obviously sanatoria do not grow in the fields like mushrooms and their building and equipment will take time.

From the political point of view the government has suffered most from the insurance act in the country districts. The English agricultural laborer is an uncommonly healthy person, and also an uncommonly healthy person.

Special agricultural constituency a radical majority of more than 80 was converted into a Tory majority of 800. When all is said and done, however, things are settling down and the law is doing an immense amount of good.

Some idea of the shortage of doctors may be gained from the fact that in London a few weeks ago a number of doctors were found with 6,000 patients on their lists, and others with 5,000 and 4,000.

Trade unions have received the same privileges and there has been a rush to join both classes of organization. This is done for by bureaucrats who would draw up by yards and yards of red tape.

There is also a good deal of muddle, too, over the consumption sanatorium benefit. This was promised to one, but obviously sanatoria do not grow in the fields like mushrooms.

Gen. Horace Porter once told the following: In the mountains of New Hampshire I met one of the colored troops driving a stage on a country route, and asked him his name.

laborer by reducing his contribution or varying his benefit. It is suggested that he might be allowed the choice of a superannuation allowance or an earlier old age pension.

At any rate, the insurance act, so far as it has gone, is distinctly promising. It is doing an immense amount of good, and, with judicious amendment, should do much more.

There is also a good deal of muddle, too, over the consumption sanatorium benefit. This was promised to one, but obviously sanatoria do not grow in the fields like mushrooms.

From the political point of view the government has suffered most from the insurance act in the country districts. The English agricultural laborer is an uncommonly healthy person.

MARATHONS WIN EASILY FROM BANGOR

score Was 8 to 4—Lots of Hitting on Both Sides—St. Croix Defeats Fredericton 11 to 10

N. B.-Maine League Standing

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost, P.C. Rows include St. John, St. Croix, Fredericton, Bangor.

The Marathons took another from Bangor yesterday afternoon, 8 to 4. The game was all the Greys' and, except in the ninth inning, Dederich, who was on the mound, did not have to exert himself. He was touched for 11 hits, but the Marathons got 15 hits of Wallace's delivery.

Almost everyone on the local team had a safe wallop yesterday. Black had four and O'Brien, Ramsay, Riley and Dederich had two each.

The Marathons made the first score in the first. A pass and two singles filled the bases, and after fanning one, Dederich walked another, forcing the run. He struck out the next two men. Bangor got one more in the eighth, and in the ninth four hits tallied two runs. With two out and two on bases, Bangor sent in a pinch hitter but he failed to deliver.

The Greys scored in the third, fourth, fifth and eighth on a number of nice clean hits. The score:

today's games. Thirty-one hits in the Calais game and twenty-six here, grand total, fifty-seven safe swats.

The Marathons' team batting average yesterday was more than .400. Black, O'Brien, Riley, Dederich and Ramsay all helped considerably.

Eddie Ramsay made his debut yesterday and played a good steady game on second base.

Shanksy can certainly cover the initial bag in fine style. His work has commended by the fans yesterday.

We now have a good start towards the head of the class, but we are being closely watched.

One more today with Bangor. St. Croix, 11; Fredericton, 10

In a game marked by many interesting features, St. Croix won from Fredericton at Calais yesterday, 11 to 10. St. Croix followed hit with hit, batting three Fredericton pitchers out of the box, and winning the game in the ninth of the fourth twiler.

Fredericton started the scoring by tallying twice in the first and by the end of the sixth had nine runs chalked up against the St. Croix's. It was in this inning that the Pets started their merry-go-round. Conley and Callahan were safe on errors; a sacrifice advanced them one and Conley scored on Murphy's bunt. Flynn cleaned the bases with a home run, and Fryer was thrown out and Ganley got on base, but was caught stealing. This left the score 9 to 2.

St. Croix settled down and scored four runs in the sixth and one in the seventh. Fredericton also got one in the seventh and the St. Croix tied the score by making two in the eighth. Fredericton had used up their three pitchers, Flynn, Edwards and Ahearn, and to try to save the day, F. J. Duggan came in from the field, but the winning run was made by the Borderites. The score:

The Montreal Royals. Cunningham, second baseman, and Averett, pitcher, both are away from the Royals. The former has been sold to Birmingham, who fancied him over so strongly that they paid a pretty price for the size of the town. Averett goes to New London, in the Connecticut League.

The only buy which has reached close to completion recently, that of Klepper, pitcher, offered by the New York Americans, has fallen through. President Lichtenhein has been looking him over, and has declined the offer. The play is now booked for California.

The Royals are, however, well below the players' limit, and some very interesting purchases are expected soon.

Gansel Had Knocked Thrown Out. Baltimore, Md., June 19.—Manager Gansel, of Rochester, created a scene yesterday's ball game, when he gave a fifty cents and then ordered his ejection from the grounds. The fans here are working overtime with the "hammer" and the Orioles players have registered a kick to Manager Dunn about the knuckers in the stand.

to shutouts. Sifen, Collins and Gregs have put over that kind on him. Jeff Tereau is getting to be one of our most prominent wall-poppers, but the efforts expended thereon don't seem to do his pitching any good.—New York Sun.

The Athletics. Frank Hough "the Old Sport" of Philadelphia believes that the Athletics infield is the greatest that baseball has ever developed. Here is what he says of it.

"I am prepared to declare that not only has the present Athletic infield something on the old Chicago machine but it has something on any infield that preceded it in the history of organized baseball, taking into consideration batting, fielding, base running, mental alertness, the facility of dovetailing one with another and the willingness to pull together for the good of the team as a whole."

"There have been better first basemen than McInnis—Chase, when in his prime, for instance; better second basemen than Collins—Lajoie, for example; better shortstops than Barry—Jennings, and one better third baseman than Baker—Jimmy Collins will do for illustration. But, taking them collectively, there were never four men on one team at the same time who could quite equal in their combined worth the present Athletic infield of McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker."

"And we are not forgetting Anson, Pfeiffer, Williamson and Burns of Chicago; St. John, Farver and Henry of Providence; Bruders, Richardson (or Dimp) Rowe and White of Detroit; Comiskey, Robinson, Gleason and Latham of St. Louis and the others who made history long before Ira Thomas thought of leaving home."

MOTOR BOATING. Form A. P. B. A. Branch. A division of the American Power Boat Association was formed in St. John yesterday afternoon when delegates from the motor boat and yacht clubs of the city met in the room of the Royal Kennebec Yacht Club.

In future all races here will be conducted under the auspices of the new association and the measurement of all boats as given by this body will be recognized as official throughout America.

The name under which the organization will operate here will be the Eastern Canadian Division of the American Power Boat Association and will have jurisdiction over the Bay of Fundy, all harbors and rivers opening into it.

The following were elected: President, Commodore S. P. Gerow, of St. John; Vice-President, C. H. West, of the R. K. Y. C.; secretary-treasurer, A. B. Crookshank, St. John; members, A. O. Crookshank, F. L. Corey, Wm. G. Rothwell.

The following clubs comprising the division: The St. John Power Boat Club, the Kennebec Yacht Club, the Kennebec Rowing Club, the Renforth Outing Association, and the Westfield Outing Association, representing a total membership of over 1400.

The advent of the new division in power boat racing will prove a great benefit to those interested as the races held under its supervision will be handled by officials absolutely disinterested, and it will tend to make the work of sailing and racing committees of the various clubs much lighter than it has been in the past.

Trask Cup Race Today. The St. John Power Boat Club will hold their race for the Trask cup this afternoon on the Kennebec. The race is open to all comers and already five entries have been received.

AQUATLO. Bermuda Race. New York, June 21.—The motor boat Barbara II, crossed the finish line at Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, at 8:28 last evening, the first to finish in the race from Bermuda. The Barbara II, and Tucson started at 8 p.m. on June 17, the Dream, winner of the Philadelphia-Bermuda race, left at 4:30 p.m. on June 18.

At Henley. Henley-on-Thames, June 19.—Against a fairly strong stream and a head wind the Argonaut eight rowed the full course last evening in seven minutes fifty-four seconds. The half time was three minutes, fifty-three seconds. Wilson rowed in place of Kent, who coxed.

Later Leander and New College, under rather better conditions, rowed the course in seven minutes thirty-seven seconds. Butler did the half course in four minutes, eighteen minutes, against a strong stream.

The eight had a good two-minute row, striking thirty-seven and a half a mile. In the spur of twenty strokes the pace was faster than yesterday.

KENNEL. Alexander B. Wright of Roxbury is mourning the loss of one of the finest dogs in that part of the country. On Wednesday his champion Queen Bess, a valuable Gordon setter, got in the way of an automobile in Massachusetts ave. and was killed.

Queen Bess was bred from imported stock and had won many prizes at shows, her best year being in 1911 when she captured 28 firsts.

There are 40 or more dogs descended from her going to shows now, and getting their share of the prizes. They are owned in various parts of this and other states and their owners will regret to learn of the taking off of Queen Bess.

open the congress, at its first general session in the Royal Albert Hall on August 6.

The programme is remarkable in its range and comprehensiveness, and it deals with many matters that have a lay as well as merely professional interest. The proceedings of the twenty-three sections into which the congress will be divided will practically cover the whole field of medical and surgical science and, apart from the exclusively scientific interest of innumerable "ologies," will also be concerned with the historical side of the healing art.

The section on Tropical Medicine and Hygiene will discuss plague, beriberi, and relapsing fever; and that on Forensic Medicine will deal with such topics of general interest as the psychology of crime, the cause and prevention of crime, and the habitual inebriate in relation to civil and criminal response.

During the congress a special meeting of medical Freemasons will be held under Pro. Grand Master Amphill. The assembly will be with pleasure excursions to Bath, Oxford, Cambridge, and Ford-on-Avon.

It is anticipated that the congress will be a most successful one, and that it will do much to advance the science and practice of medicine in all parts of the world.
