While working about the house her dress caught fire and she started to run across the street to Herbert Foster's house, but she fell on the exhausted condition before reaching the door, and before the fire could be extinguished almost every article of her clothing was burned off her body. CORBETT WANTS NO PART OF JOHNSON

Chicago, May 27.—Jas. J. Corbett has given the following answer to Jack Johnson who has announced his desire to box "I have no desire or intention to fight Johnson. He is in better hands than I am. I have undertaken to restore the honor to the white race. When I announced that I was willing to fight Johnson it was far from my desire to get back into the fighting game. I felt merely that some one had to challenge the black man who had a chance of a defeat in him. Now that Jeffries has agreed to meet him there is no occasion for me to give any attention to Johnson."

PARTIAL VICTORY FOR COUNT BONI

Paris, May 27.—The decision of the superior court of Count Boni de Castellane's appeal of the case brought by him for the custody of his children was handed down today, is a partial victory for the Count. The court has decided in favor of the lower court giving the mother the custody of the children but it set forth that the father alone had the right to choose their instructor and designer of the college in which they are to be educated. Furthermore Prince Helde de Sagan is specifically excluded from the list of persons authorized to visit the children and the Count's contention that the influence of the Prince is pernicious is thus in effect sustained. The costs of the appeal are divided.

The feelings of age, however, compelled her to forego a public observance of her anniversary. "True for you," he agreed. "It's a question that his rascally machinations should have been the means of my meeting you. And that reminds me, I must pay you back the thousand dollars he charged you for the introduction."

"I think it's been worth that to me, dear," she whispered, and he slipped an arm around her waist while he led her through the swing-door into the bank. His former acquaintance there greeted him with great deference.

"Yes, we received all your letters, Mr. New—Mr. Quintance," said he, having been presented to Mrs. Quintance and as soon as he could bring himself to give over his bowing before her beauty, escape from his obvious enchantment to the dry details of business again. "The bank is perfectly satisfied, and your old account will be transferred to the new one at once. Will you please record your usual signature here."

"Stephen Quintance." Quite so, I thank you. No, not at all—it's a pleasure to be only too pleased. You sign here, Mrs. Quintance, just under your husband's name. Mr. Quintance's cheque on ourselves for a thousand dollars is in my pocket. Quite so, I thank you."

He handed the blushing bride her own private pass-book and a slim folio containing check-books and a fountain pen. He delightedly when Quintance thought himself the diamonds. These were promptly produced and delivered into his own hands.

She looked down, entranced, at the lambent, rose-colored ribbons, one in each pink palm.

"Oh, Stephen!" she cried in a low and tremulous voice, "I have a deposit for me." "They're far too pleased," he replied. "You should have married a princess!"

"He has," ejaculated the bride, before he could retract himself, and drew back in direct confusion. Quintance grinned most amiably in his direction.

"Here, give them to me," he requested, and tucked them into one of his waist-coat-pockets. "Well, thank you to Tiffany in the morning and have them sent, and meantime we must get something to eat, somewhere—"

He regarded his wife for a moment with smiling abashment, and then said, "Wait here half a minute," said he. "I'll be back before you can miss me."

"Keep my wife in a deposit for me," he called to the banker as he hurried off to carry out the fortuitous inspiration which had come to him.

"We want something to eat, somewhere, not too dull," he remarked to himself as he made for the telephone booth. "And we can't do better than dip into Martin's, eh?"

"By the way, Mr. New—Mr. Quintance, we have some letters for you," the banker informed him blandly when he returned. "I had almost forgotten, but here they are."

"Thanks," said Quintance, stuffing them hastily into a coat-pocket. "Much obliged to you. Good night. Come on Dagmar. It's dinnertime."

She had the man of money good-bye, and was handed into a cab at the door by her most impetuous husband.

"Martin's," said he to the cabbie, and they were whirled off down the avenue through a snow-shower which made their shelter the snugger within.

"You don't mind, do you dear?" he asked as they drew up at their destination. "Not with you, Stephen," she replied happily, "and to-night. But we mustn't be very late or Fanchette will think we are lost. And—we must really be less extravagant after this, mustn't we?"

"We will," he assented, laughing, and led her in.

A waiter sprang toward them as they crossed the threshold of the same room in which they had met, unknown to each other and under such widely different auspices, a few short months before.

"The same table, sir?" he suggested breathlessly, and urged them with eager hands in the direction of his own domain. Quintance regarded him quizzically.

"I did the waiting the last time I was here," he remarked, "and your shiftlessness very nearly cost me my train."

"Yes, sir? I'm very sorry, sir," said the man, satisfied that all would go well. "But you did catch it, sir, in the end, didn't you?"

Quintance frowned and smiled and sat down, understanding the double intent of the question accompanied by an ingratiating smirk. And it happened that he no longer sat opposite an empty chair and

THE INCROYABLE FOKE BONNET.

From the Directorate era is borrowed this quaint hat which, for all its odd shape, is becoming to a pretty face. The hat is of white chip and the sharply sloping brim hangs the hair closely all around. Velvet ribbon gives a natter blue shade encircles the crown, and just at one side of the front is the piece of resistance of the hat—the costly and beautiful white aigrette, which gives this simple little poke bonnet great elegance. The arrangement of the ribbon in loops is practically novel and pretty.

BRITISH COLUMBIA DELEGATES WANT ORANGEMEN IN POLITICS

Proposal Presented to Grand Orange Lodge of British America at its Session Held Yesterday—Would Have Parliamentary Candidates Subscribe to Definite Political Platform.

Peterboro, Ont., May 26.—The greater part of the address of Dr. Sproule, M. P., sovereign grand master of the Orange order, today was devoted to the doing of the Roman Catholic church in Britain. The attempt to change the phraseology of the coronation oath was roundly denounced, as were proposals to enable Roman Catholics to hold the offices of lord chancellor and lord lieutenant of Ireland. The Orangemen of Canada were advised to join in sending to the king a modest petition against the proposals but the house of lords is the main hope of Dr. Sproule to prevent the passage of bills introduced into Ontario legislature by Roman Catholics to hold the offices of lord chancellor and lord lieutenant of Ireland. FOR WOMEN WHO ARE DISCOURAGED

Because of Lingering Weakness and Nervous Derangements There is New Hope and Cure.

The Letter Quoted Voices the Experience of Thousands of Women Who Have Found Health and Joy in the Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The Christian Scientists are undoubtedly right. To ask for a cure of nervous derangement is to ask for a cure of the body both in health and disposition. If you give up hope, leave off treatment and fall into despondency, there is little reason to expect that good health will force itself upon you.

You must do your part if you are going to get strong and well. You must make up your mind and then select rational treatment.

If your system is weak and run down, your blood thin and watery and your nervous system exhausted, choose a treatment such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which has never been equaled as a means of building up health, strength and vigor.

The Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is particularly successful in the cure of ailments and derangements from which women suffer. It is attested by such letters as the following from Mrs. D. D. Burger, Heather River, Ala., which refers to her niece, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, who had great weakness, nervous derangement and indigestion. In fact she was down in every way and had just lost all hope of ever getting well again. She had been in poor health for over four years and for the best of her first child. The perusal of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has given her a new lease of life and she is now well and happy as ever. She has never had a headache since she began to use the same preparation.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, by dealers or by direct mail, Chase & Co., Toronto.

He was formerly clerk in the Hotel Brunswick and was a son of Geo. C. Tighe, of Parraboro, and brother of Jas. Tighe, also a former clerk at the Brunswick here. The body will be taken to Parraboro tomorrow for interment.

The Moncton Orangemen are making preparations to run an excursion to St. John July 12 to take part in the provincial Orange demonstration. TOOK GRAVE CHANCE TO AVOID ARREST

John Tigrual of Campbellton Went Through a Three Story Window to Escape the Police

Campbellton, N. B., May 26.—After a spirited chase, during which he climbed out on the veranda of a three story building and slid and fell a distance of forty feet, John Tigrual was arrested here today by Chief Crawford and Policeman Yerxa on the charge of stealing a gold watch from John Ayles, one of the bosses of the Shives Lumber Company's lumber drive, where a heavy man had been working. The watch, which was valued at $40, was found on him.

A report of the robbery reached Chief Crawford today and, going in search of his man accompanied by Policeman Yerxa, he located him in Gray's restaurant. Tigrual was the officers of the law on the top of the three story building. His pursuers were close on his heels and, to avoid arrest, he climbed out of a window, dashed across a veranda and started to climb down. Sliding part of the way he finally fell and, landing apparently unhurt, made for the ferry boat which carries him across the river to the Quebec shore. Before he could make good his escape, he was overtaken and captured by Chief Crawford and Policeman Yerxa. Prisoner will also have to face a charge of forging Ayles' name to an order for $22 on the Shives Lumber Company.

Robert Macrae, who was arrested by Chief Crawford yesterday on a charge of robbing a bank, was taken to the police station and held in the lock-up. Chief Crawford and his men have several times been in the vicinity of the town in reaping the benefit, especially at time of year, of efficient police protection.

PRINCE RUPERT LOTS BROUGHT BIG PRICES

First Day's Sale of Townsite Lots Realized $500,000

Vancouver, May 26.—The first day's auction of Prince Rupert townsite lots was a great success, the total value being nearly $500,000.

Two thousand people attended the sale and bidding was keen. In no case was a property withdrawn because of failure to reach the reserve price, and in many cases prices went far above what was anticipated. This was especially the case in the business section, when the choicest corner brought $10,000.

Buffalo Cashier

Buffalo, N. Y., May 26.—Jared C. Weed, cashier of the county treasurer's office, was arrested today in his home on a charge of grand larceny of funds of the county. The arrest of Weed was made on charges preferred by County Treasurer Fix, following investigation which Mr. Fix declares he and his deputy have been conducting into the accounts of the men. The investigation was finished last evening. Mr. Fix says, and on checking up, it was found the total stealings since 1900, two years after Weed's appointment, were $36,550.18, ranging from a few hundred dollars to several thousand a year.

The County Treasurer Fix charges that another employee who is not at present in the city is implicated. Mr. Fix also asserts that cash and securities sufficient to secure the county have been turned over to him. Treasurer Fix also asserted that he has a confession from each of the men as to their speculations and these confessions and the restoration of the funds were procured without any promise of immunity from prosecution.

The money stolen was all from back tax receipts.

FRENCH FISHERMEN HAD TERRIBLE TIME

Five Days in an Open Boat Before They Were Almost Starved They Were Rescued

North Sydney, May 26.—Louis Robert and Guillaume Troquer, two French fishermen, reached here after a thrilling experience of five days and nights in an open boat on the Atlantic.

The two men were members of the crew of the schooner P. F. Q., and while attending their trawls off Cape North on May 14 a heavy fog set in and they were unable to locate their vessel. To make matters worse, a heavy wind sprang up which drove them far away from their anchor. With a few hard biscuits and a small pan of water in their dory, the lay in being picked up by some passing vessel, as their food supply was not sufficient to last more than a day.

Keeping a sharp lookout they watched day and night, taking turns about at the oars, without sight or sound of any living thing. They kept rowing for five days and nights, all the while suffering intensely from the cold and exposure. The last three days, without food, their sufferings were intensified by the pangs of hunger and with their energies almost spent, they fought until the fifth night after leaving the vessel, when sight of a distant light revived their dying hopes of succor and they mainly paddled on until they reached Cape Dauphin, when their terrible ordeal was over.

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Purifiers regulate the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva, and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Sawler, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Purifiers and I think it is the best medicine there is for that complaint."

CHANCELLOR JONES' ADDRESS AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Orator in Praise of the Founders of the U. N. B. Delivered at Fredericton This Afternoon Was an Eloquent and Scholarly Effort—A Great Institution Built Upon Small Beginnings—What is Needed for the Future

Fredericton, May 27.—(Special).—At the enocenia exercises in the University of New Brunswick this afternoon Chancellor C. C. Jones delivered the following eloquent address in praise of the founders of the University.

The life of this University is practically coincident with that of the Province of New Brunswick. The same set of influences had much to do with the origin of both. The early history of the country is indeed somewhat obscure. Small fishing stations and trading posts were doubtless established very soon after the discovery of the continent.

Not until 1763 was any real attempt at settlement made. In that year, Lawrence, Governor at Halifax, made proclamation in the New England colonies of liberal grants of land to all who were willing to take up their abode in the country across the bay.

The year 1783, marked the coming of the United Empire Loyalists. The story of their coming has been told so often that it is unnecessary to repeat it here. Nine thousand of these splendid people settled along the valley of the St. John nearly two thousand around the Bay of Fundy.

So in 1784 began the Province of New Brunswick. The paramount influence of the new population may be gathered from the fact that in the first assembly out of a total of 26 members, 23 were Loyalists. Most of these were men who had been graduates of Harvard, Yale and King's College, New York, and Columbia University.

for a life of usefulness and culture and also, if he is of a practical turn, equally able to write a correct and intelligible memorandum for greater attention to modern languages and to give fair prominence to the study of German, which is now almost entirely neglected.

The University has contributed very largely to the teaching corps of the province. A very large proportion of the leading teachers are graduates of the University. The University is itself a part of the provincial scheme of public instruction.

Another need for instruction in the important subject of history, of which we may justly be proud. It is important that the future leaders of the province should be familiar with the details of its history.

While this provision would meet in a large measure the demand for sound agricultural education, it might be better to let her die in peace. After the doctor had given her Dr. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

When the penitive sparrow carols Its first modest matin song, And within the garbige barrels, Years the grey cur, lean and long.

RELIGIOUS QUARRELS

The question raised in the Orange order by the resolution from British Columbia members, favoring a definite political platform, will be productive of much discussion throughout the country, especially when taken in connection with the warlike address of Grand Master Sproule. The motion from British Columbia will not prevail, but it serves to indicate an increasing tension along religious lines in this country, which those who are not extremists on either side regret to see. Archbishop Brochet warns the faithful against all secret orders. Grand Master Sproule replies with a warning of Rome. On both sides bitter feelings are aroused. Such a state of affairs is much to be deplored. Fortunately Canada is a busy young country, with something more important to consider than ancient quarrels over matters which only the narrow extremists on either side deem worthy of dispute to day, in the face of the wider knowledge that is open to every man who cares—rather dares—to do his own thinking.

A LABOR PARTY

The Labor Party is at present in power in the Australian Commonwealth. Mr. Fisher, the leader of that party, is the premier. In November of last year the Deskin government was defeated in the house, and Mr. Fisher was called upon to form a cabinet. The Deskin government had passed a tariff measure which granted protection to manufacturers, but also guaranteed fair and reasonable wages to employees. After the act was passed the courts declared it to be unconstitutional, on the ground that an act to enforce wages conditions infringed upon the sovereign rights of the separate states of the Commonwealth. Premier Deskin thereupon brought in an amendment to the constitution giving the federal parliament certain restricted powers as to employment and wages, and vesting the balance in the Inter-State Commission. The Labor Party opposed the amendment and demanded that absolute power should be vested in regard to industrial matters. As a result of this attitude of the Labor Party, which held the balance of power in the house, the Deskin government was defeated and Mr. Fisher became premier. Since November last, therefore, the Labor Party has ruled Australia. Indeed the conditions were such before that date that Premier Deskin was only able to retain power by consent of that party, and he is said to have been well-pleased that the crisis came and the Labor men were brought face to face with responsibility for the conduct of affairs. It was stated at the time of Mr. Deskin's defeat that the new regime would be short-lived, and interesting information that all the other parties have come together under his leadership, and will present a united front in opposition to the Labor cabinet, in the endeavor to compass its defeat.

ABOUT PAVEMENTS

There can be no valid objection to members of the city council going to New England cities at their own expense, and perhaps it would even be profitable for the city to pay the expenses of a delegation to go there and make a study of pavements. It would be highly improper for them to go at the expense of a company which has paving material to sell. It is encouraging, however, to learn that the aldermen are beginning to think about pavements even if they have thought on the subject before without practical results. It is a problem of some magnitude, and it is hoped that if St. John and Fredericton aldermen do go to Boston and other towns, their return will not cause such a state of the public mind in relation to pavements as has been developed in Victoria, B. C., and is thus described by the Colonist of that city:— "The citizens of this good town have learned several things during the past few weeks about pavements. Whether or not they are any the wiser is an open question. They have learned that every pavement is no good at all; that no city after using any particular kind of paving would think of using it again, and a lot of other things like that. One alderman ventured to suggest a meeting of the city fathers that possibly the experience of other cities on this interesting question might prove of some value; and we confess to have been to some extent of that opinion. But we know better now. Every city that has tried any kind of pavement has found it a fraud, a delusion and a snare, that is if the proprietors of other patent pavements are to be believed. It looks as if the only thing to do is to shut our eyes and pick out the first kind that comes to hand, trust to Providence and go ahead and lay it down."

REMINDS US OF L'ETONG

There is a new candidate for the honor of being the great national port of Canada on the Pacific coast. We have heard of Vancouver, Victoria and Prince Rupert, but a writer in last week's Canadian Courier nominates Quatsino as the coming successful rival of all of these. "There is a little bay, a bay with very few settlers about it, a bay offering excellent harborage, directly across Vancouver Island from Vancouver city. This bay is Quatsino, and just as sure as this machine I am writing on answers my fingers, surely will this be the national port of the Pacific ocean. From one to two days will be saved, fogs and islands avoided, coal and iron and copper, fire and cedar, marble and limestone, clay and agricultural soil, gigantic fisheries, all right at its doors. The agitation of Victoria for a bridge at the Narrows opens the door to Quatsino's opportunity. Build that bridge, and in a few hours the G. P. R. train will be across the island and unloading their freight at Quatsino." We may infer from this prospectus that Quatsino is a sort of L'Etang of the Pacific.

GUILTY MR. YOUNG

In a letter to the Moncton Times, Hon. H. F. McLeod, replying to the charge that a violator of the Scott Act was appointed a teacher of school books, throws the blame on Mr. Young, one of the members for York, and then attempts to excuse him as follows:— "It is simply absurd to anyone knowing the facts and the situation to say that he, the vendor, kept liquor for sale in his shop where the school books were. As a matter of fact he never kept liquor for sale at all. What he unfortunately has done is this: Several times when there has been a dance or some picnic up there he has had some liquor for sale, but never in his store, so that there is absolutely no truth in the statement that the children had toy school books in a place where liquor was sold. However, Mr. Young was no even aware that he had ever sold liquor, and as soon as it came to his knowledge he had his vendership cancelled."

Touching the recent speech of Rev. Dr. Johnson of Montreal in this city, on the subject of Oriental immigration, a British Columbia exchange says:—"The Rev. Robert Johnson, of the American Presbyterian church of Montreal, would throw Canada open to Japanese, Chinese and Hindus. If his plan were adopted, he would find his occupation gone except as a missionary to the people who would throng the country and drive the white population elsewhere. Why do people express opinions upon subjects which they cannot possibly understand? No man who knows what such a policy as Mr. Johnson advocates would mean to the country, would entertain it for a single moment."

The board of conciliation has proved its usefulness in the dispute between the Dominion Textile Co. of Montreal and its employees. After the strike a year ago employees returned to work at reduced wages, with the promise that the old schedule would be restored when trade conditions improved. The employees have lately been demanding the increase. A board of conciliation looked into the matter, went thoroughly into the company's affairs, discovered that there had been no increase, but rather a diminution of earnings, and therefore the company was in no better position than in May last to pay higher wages. Had there been no such enquiry serious trouble might have resulted.

British Columbia is advertising its charms as a resort for the hunter of big game, and expects an influx of sportsmen. Moose, bear and other game that delights the heart of the Rooseveltian hunter are said to be plentiful, and in short British Columbia appears to be the New Brunswick of the Pacific coast.

DR. J. R. INCH TO RESIGN OFFICE

Report That Superintendent of Education Will Retire Next Week—Sixty Years in Educational Work Here.

A well founded report was circulated in the city last evening to the effect that Dr. J. R. Inch, superintendent of education in New Brunswick, would resign in his resignation to the next meeting of the local government, to be held on Tuesday next. Dr. Inch has been a prominent educationalist for years and for nearly fifty years has had to do in one capacity or another with education in New Brunswick. In his last annual report he fore- shadowed his resignation. His health has not been of the best lately but all will not be done in the rest from his labors he has had full recuperation.

In connection with the appointment of a successor, Inspector W. S. Carter, of St. John; Inspector George W. Menessee, of Fredericton; High school principal, James R. Inch, M. A., LL. D., was born in Peterborough, Ontario, in 1838. His parents, Nathaniel and Anne Armstrong, emigrated from Ennisville (Ire.) to this country in 1824. He was educated at the district school and Gagetown High school. After attending training school in this city he received a first class teachers' license in 1859. Four years later he accepted a position in Mt. Allison Academy and when Mt. Allison College was organized with university powers in 1859 Dr. Inch entered in Mt. Allison and took his degree of B. A. in 1864 and M. A. three years later.

In 1864 he took charge of the ladies' academy, which position he retained for fourteen years, during which time the institution, largely through his efforts, was placed on a sound basis. In 1878 Dr. Inch was called to the presidency of the N. B. B. but previous to that date his alma mater had made him LL. D. In 1891 he succeeded Dr. Crockett as superintendent of education.

In 1884 he married Mary Alice Dunn, of Newswick, York county. They had one daughter, who married Prof. Sidney Hunter, of Mount Allison University. Dr. Inch has been an experienced and able educationalist who has been able to confer many important services on the institutions with which he was connected. He was on the school system of New Brunswick.

LIQUOR CASES WILL BE HEARD TOMORROW

In the police court yesterday afternoon, the cases against four saloon keepers for infraction of the new amendment to the liquor license act relating to screens came up for hearing. The information, which had been laid by Inspector J. B. Jones, named Peter Mahony, Wm. J. Savage and George Garnett, of Main street, and Thos. O'Brien, of Mill street, as defendants.

When the matter was called J. B. M. Baxter, who appeared for the defence, addressing Judge Ritchie, said he understood that the cases had been brought in order to get an interpretation of the law. Personally he did not think this was necessary as the act was clear enough in the matter. He thought there must be a misunderstanding on the part of the defendants and suggested that the case might be postponed till he had an opportunity to go around to their places and explain the situation.

MEDALS PRESENTED

Victors in the La Tour Road Race Receive the Trophies They Won—Every Day Club Members Win all Three

A feature of the concert held under the auspices of the La Tour section, Temple of Honor, in the City Hall, West End, last evening, was the presentation of the medals to the winners of the La Tour road race held on May 18.—The concert was organized by the Jones-Crawford orchestra and was well attended. The medals were presented to the boys by Hon. Robert Maxwell. All three medals went to members of the Every Day Club. W. H. Smith won the gold medal for first place, donated by C. M. Brown on behalf of the Maple Leaf Club of Carleton. E. A. Belding won the silver medal for second place, donated by R. H. Parsons and R. E. Pendleton won the silver medal for third place, donated by J. H. Belyea.

In presenting the medals Hon. Mr. Maxwell spoke of the place of athletics in the business life and encouraged the winners to keep on with their success.

The Maple Leaf Club of Carleton claims a share in the athletic boom launched there and in evidence of this the part taken in the recent race is noted.

CASES IN THE CITY COURT

In the city court this morning a St. Patrick street grocer and a woman who conducts a rival store for a bill amounting to $13.83 contracted four years ago. The defendant considered that her husband should be responsible for the payment but the plaintiff contended that the defendant personally consented to be responsible when she opened the account. The defendant stated that her husband was a drunkard and as he failed to even contribute little to the maintenance of her and their three children she separated from him and drove him on the street. However he won the distinction of laboring for three consecutive days. Three years ago her brother financed her advent into the grocery trade and she asserts that the purpose of the plaintiff is to eliminate her from his opposition. After a lengthy discussion an amicable settlement was effected.

A painter sued a Syrian for $3.50 for painting furniture but the foreigner contended that the plaintiff substituted a different color of paint than that selected and there remained three chairs and a bed to paint. The painter claims that the latter was not in the contract. The husband of the painter was the same as that agreed upon. The Syrian was ordered to pay the bill.

CHANCELLOR JONES' ADDRESS (Continued from Page 3) Industrial and professional life of the nation. To the colleges and universities of the east the call has come with particular force. Our forefathers have laid wide places for opportunity. There is some indication that our public men and men of means are not unwilling to aid in the extension of these opportunities. Our young men are abundantly demonstrating their willingness to accept them and their ability to profit by them. They are taking the most direct and the most practical steps to secure the national life and are filling them in a manner to win well merited approval. There is scarcely a place for fear that our colleges are educating our young men away from the eastern provinces. Can we not afford a material for the future leaders of our young nation? This is scarcely an opportune time to exaggerate the provincial and ignore the national. The answer of the young men themselves is clear and is being manifested by the increasing attendance at all of our colleges. The University has surely demonstrated its usefulness in this connection. We at present supply a minister of the crown and a prominent leader of the opposition at Ottawa. We furnish chief justices for two provinces and the lieutenant governor of another. The premier and two members of his cabinet in our own provinces are also our graduates. In educational and professional activities the record is equally as good.

An Institution of Broad Ideals The Maritime Provinces should be to Canada what the New England States have been to the United States. There the colleges of the east have given many great men to the life of the country. The president and one other member of his cabinet are Yale men. Two of his cabinet are Harvard men and a fifth is a graduate of Williams. At least one-half of the cabinet are thus from New England colleges. And this is not an unusual record in that country. Surely nothing can give the New England States greater prestige or be to them a source of greater pride than this. And it is doubtless in a large measure due to their excellent provision for college and university education. The men of the Maritime Provinces have demonstrated their capacity for as great a service in this respect. Surely this is a thought to free the minds and quicken the ambition of our self-reliant young men. No young man of energy and ambition can afford to neglect the opportunity for a good college education. The University of New Brunswick can show in its list of successful graduates the advantages of its particular course of training. Our country needs scores of public and professional men of just the type furnished by an institution of broad ideals such as this. The need of the hour is for men well educated and well trained, men capable of weighing great questions with deliberation and fine judgment, men with their impulses well under the dominion of their reason and their will. It is to the credit of the eastern colleges that they are able to furnish many such men, and it is the good fortune of our young men that the doors of the colleges stand open to receive them without distinction of race, rank or creed to be trained for lives of usefulness and service.

We have before us in the graduating class of today a body of young men and women who illustrate the type of personality referred to as well as any similar group I have ever known. During your period of training here you have brought out distinctly well. Be true to your best ideals of life and service, be true to your historic institution which today sends you on your way to the battle of the morrow.

"The best is yet to be. The last of life for which the first was made; Our times are in His hand Who saith, 'A whole I planned, Youth shows but half; trust God; see all, nor be afraid!'"

J. Fraser Gregory's new automobile arrived on the train from Toronto this morning. It is a Surrey type Russell model and will make a valuable addition to the N. B. A. A.
